You are invited to participate in the College of Arts and Humanities Honors Program. The Arts and Humanities Honors Program will provide you the opportunity for advanced upper division interdisciplinary studies and interaction with a community of your intellectual peers in Arts and Humanities and related disciplines. The program consists of at least 10-12 units of coursework, beginning with the First Honors Seminar, AH 100 H (3 units), usually taken in the second semester of the junior year and followed by two courses in the major. A one-unit Honors Symposium, AH 101, will serve as a culmination experience for students to present and discuss their research/creative projects. The program will enable you to cross-traditional disciplinary boundaries through discussion with faculty and fellow students in different departments and to work closely with a faculty mentor of your choice towards the completion of an honors research or creative project.

Admission Requirements:

- Cumulative GPA of 3.5 (in last 60 units)
- Completed at least one semester in residence
- A maximum 1,000-word typed personal statement explaining why you want to participate in the honors program.
- A recent sample of your work such as a paper, portfolio, audio or video recording.
- A letter of recommendation from a Fresno State faculty member who can speak to your ability to succeed in the program.
