Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 54, "Christ Church Bells" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 128)
ADDITIONAL: Richard Clark, The Words of the Most Favourite Pieces Performed at The Glee Club, The Catch Club, and Other Public Societies (London, 1814 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 111, ("Hark! The bonny Christ-Church bells") (1 text)
Roud #1237

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth b.34(275) View 2 of 2, "Merry Christ-Church Bells" ("Hark! the bonny Christ-Church bells"), W. Ordoyno (Nottingham), no date

NOTES [121 words]: Bodleian Library does not date any of its W. Ordoyno broadsides but there is a reference at the Coddington History Group site of 1815 ("O - Oats to Oxley", p. 2).

Henry Aldrich, who wrote "Christ Church Bells," was dean of Christ Church College of Oxford University. He was a musician and amateur[?] architect. "The mighty Tom" is the nearly 17000 pound bell in the Christ Church College Tower. (sources: Leigh Hunt, Table-Talk (1879, London ("Digitized by Google")), p. 51; Thomas Dinham Atkinson, English Architecture (1904, London ("Digitized by Google")), p. 198; George Laurence Gomme, editor, Topographical History of Nottinghamshire, Oxfordshire, and Rutlandshire (1897, London ("Digitized by Google")), p. 56.) - BS

Last updated in version 2.6
Christ in the Garden

DESCRIPTION: The singer, wandering in a garden, meets a sorely troubled man. It proves to be Jesus. The singer kneels and begs forgiveness; Jesus grants it, and the singer goes out to spread the word.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads)

KEYWORDS: Jesus religious

FOUND IN: US(MW,NE)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 210-211, "Christ in the Garden" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 79-80, "Christ in the Garden" (1 short text)
- Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection, p. 64, "Christ in the Garden" (1 short text)

ST FO210 (Partial)

Roud #4682

NOTES [123 words]: This is rather a complicated mix of Biblical themes. Jesus's prayer before his arrest is said to have taken place in a garden in John 18:1, but Gethsemane is not called a garden in the other three gospels.

The mention of "blood, sweat, and tears" is unquestionably a reminiscence of Luke 22:43-44 -- verses which, however, are likely not part of Luke's original Greek; of the earliest seven Greek witnesses, six -- those known as P75 (1) A B T W -- omit, as do some later witnesses of great weight. The verses are found in the King James Bible, though, so English hymn-writers would certainly know them.

There is no known mention of visitors to Jesus in Gethsemane -- but, of course, the witnesses (Peter, James, John) were dozing off. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: F0210

Christ Made a Trance (God Made a Trance)

DESCRIPTION: "Christ made a trance one Sunday at noon, He made it with his hand." Alternate opening: "O God's in France all Sunday." The power of Christ, and the dangers of hell, are told; listeners are warned to keep the sabbath and to teach their children well.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 19908 (Leather-FolkLoreOfHerefordshire)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad Jesus carol

FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Leather-FolkLoreOfHerefordshire, p. 192, "Christ Made a Trance" (1 text, 2 tunes)
- ADDITIONAL: Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham_, Broadside, 1977, pp. 163-164, "God Made a Trance" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST Leath192 (Partial)

Roud #2112

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Moon Shines Bright" (The Bellman's Song)" (lyrics)

NOTES [48 words]: Nearly every word of this is paralleled in "The Moon Shines Bright" and its relatives -- except the first verse. Songs beginning "God/Christ made a trance" go here; those which open with "The Moon Shines Bright" file there. Now if only we could figure out the actual relationship.... - RBW

Last updated in version 3.1

File: Leath192

Christ Was a Weary Traveler

DESCRIPTION: "Christ was a weary trav'ler, He went from door to door, His occupation in life Was a-minist'ring to the poor." Jesus warns the disciples that his work is almost done, tells them what to do after his resurrection, and thanks God.
Christ Was Born in Bethlehem

DESCRIPTION: "Christ was born in Bethlehem (x3) and in a manger lay." In stanzas of eight lines (but only two distinct), the song lights on Jesus' birth, his ministry, his betrayal, death, the empty tomb, and Jesus's resurrection.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (OShaughnessy-MoreFolkSongsFromLincolnshire)
KEYWORDS: Jesus Bible Christmas
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond)) Australia US(Ap,SE) Canada(Mar,Newf)
REFERENCES (12 citations):
OShaughnessy-MoreFolkSongsFromLincolnshire 4, "Christ Was Born in Bethlehem" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkMusicInANewfoundlandOutport, p. 96, "Mary Lies Weeping" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 20-21, "Christ Was Born in Bethlehem" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 537, "Jesus Born in Bethlehem" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 537, "Jesus Born in Bethlehem" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, p. 191, "Christ Was Born in Bethlehem" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 210, "Christ was Born in Bethlehem" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 33, "Down Came an Angel" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wells-TheBalladTree, pp. 189-190, "Edna's Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 189-190, "Christ Was Born in Bethlehem" (1 text, 1 tune)
Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs, pp. 166-168, "Jesus Walked in Galilee" (1 text plus a fragment, 2 tunes)
ADDITIONAL: Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham_, Broadside, 1977, pp. 22-23, "The Gornal Nailmakers' Carol" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1122
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "We Won't Go Home Until Morning" (tune) and references there
cf. "Can't Cross Jordan" (floating lyrics)
cf. "He Arose from the Dead" (lyrics)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Christ Was Born in Bethlea
Jesus Borne in Bethlea
Jesus Born in Galilee
NOTES [162 words]: The Wells-TheBalladTree version of this, from Edna Felter, begins "Christ was born in Bethlehem, And Mary was his niece." This is probably just an error. But it might be a reference to various post-Biblical legends which made Mary of Bethany (and her siblings Martha and Lazarus) the children of a relative of Jesus. I've also seen the brothers James and John sons of Zebedee called the children of Mary the sister of Jesus (based on a complicated accounting of the women said to be at the foot of the cross); perhaps this might be a distortion of that. But, I repeat, the most likely explanation is just error.

William Reynolds, Companion to Baptist Hymnal, Broadman Press, 1976, p. 48, says that a song "Christ Was Born in Bethlehem" is sung to the tune of "Michael Row the Boat Ashore." Since I do not know if that song is this, I do not list the tune in the cross-references. The version of this song that I have heard (from Jean Ritchie) is not "Michael Row." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: MA189

Christ-Child's Lullaby, The
DESCRIPTION: Gaelic. A lullaby for the baby Jesus. The singer (presumably Mary) describes the child's beauty, admits her role in great events, and praises the "white sun of hope"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Kennedy-Fraser/MacLeod-SongsOfTheHebrides)
KEYWORDS: lullaby Jesus religious nonballad foreignlanguage
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Hebr))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Kennedy-Fraser/MacLeod-SongsOfTheHebrides I, pp. 28-30, "The Christ-Child's Lullaby (Taladh Chriosta)" (1 text+2 slightly different translations, 1 tune)
DT, CHRISTLU
NOTES [62 words]: It is not clear whether this is Scots or Irish Gaelic in origin. Kennedy-Fraser/MacLeod-SongsOfTheHebrides's version, from Eriskay with words from Allan Macdonald, is obviously Scots. The Digital Tradition version is said to be a translation by Seamus Ennis from Irish Gaelic.
The various translations have achieved some popularity in English based on the beautiful tune. - RBW
File: DTChrilu

Christian, Fight On, Your Time Ain't Long
DESCRIPTION: "Christian, fight on, your time ain't long (x2), I step in the water and the water was cold, It chilled my body but not my soul. Christian, fight on...." "I've been 'buked and I've been scored, I've been talked about sa sure as you're born."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Killion/Waller-ATreasuryOfGeorgiaFolklore)
KEYWORDS: religious fight nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Killion/Waller-ATreasuryOfGeorgiaFolklore, p. 254, "Christian, Fight On, Yo' Time Ain't Long" (1 text)
Roud #18162
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "You Fight On ("fight on" lyric)
NOTES [17 words]: Roud lumps this with "You Fight On," but other than the words "fight on," I don't see much in common. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.2
File: Kiwa254C

Christian's Automobile
DESCRIPTION: "Every child of God is running for Jesus Just to drive that automobile." "Prayer is your driver, Faith is your steering wheel." Check your brakes (wicked ways), ... Start your automobile ... I'm not worried about my parking space ... See my Savior.

AUTHOR: unknown
Christine Leroy [Laws H31]

DESCRIPTION: The dying singer tells how happy her marriage was -- until beautiful Christine Leroy showed up and stole her husband. Now "you can tell then they murdered me, brother; God forgive him [her husband] and Christine Leroy"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939

KEYWORDS: death infidelity husband wife

FOUND IN: US(Ap,So,MW)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Laws H31, "Christine Leroy"
Randolph 797, "Christine Leroy" (1 text plus an excerpt, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 509-511, "Christine Leroy" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 797A)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 48, pp. 82-83, "Christine Leroy" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 654, CRSLEROY*

Roud #2193

File: LH31

Christmas Day in the Workhouse

DESCRIPTION: "It was Christmas Day in the workhouse, That season of good cheer." The workhouse master wishes the inmates good cheer. They answer, "Balls." Offended, the master says he will cut off their pudding. One pauper tells him where to put the pudding

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang)

KEYWORDS: hardtimes food

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang, p. 64, "It Was Christmas Day in the Workhouse" (2 texts)
Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead, "Christmas Day in the Workhouse" (1 text)

Roud #10181

File: BrPa064A

Christmas Is Coming, the Goose Is Getting Fat

DESCRIPTION: "Christmas is coming, the goose is getting fat, Please put a penny in the old man's hat. If you haven't got a penny, a ha'penny will do. If you haven't got a ha'penny, then God bless you."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (Baring-Gould)

KEYWORDS: money bird food Christmas

FOUND IN: Britain(England) US New Zealand

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, pp. 61-62, "(Please to remember the fifth of November)" (1 text, plus another fragment that might be from another Guy Fawkes game and a partial regire of "Christmas Is Coming, The Goose Is Getting Fat")
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #419, p. 195, "(Christmas is coming, the geese are getting fat)"
Christmas Letter, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer weeps and asks daughter Kate to reread letters from grandchildren in America. "One by one the lot of them Sailed out across the great big sea," The grandchildren are named and recalled. "Somehow it makes me better Ah, each time I hear the news"

AUTHOR: Michael Scanlon? (source: Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan); Junior Creehan? (source: IROConway01)

EARLIEST DATE: 1974 (Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan)

KEYWORDS: emigration separation America Ireland moniker family

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan 28, "The Christmas Letter" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #5220

RECORDINGS:
Ollie Conway, "Kate A Stor" (on IROConway01)
Tom Lenihan, "The Christmas Letter" (on IRTLenihan01)

BROADSIDES:
This Blessed Christmas Day

NOTES [100 words]: Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan: A text from another singer, Martin Crehan, adds a verse that explains "... in the pleasant County Clare, Where there lived a widow lonely with her one daughter only Who stayed at home to care [for] her while the rest were gone away.... 'twas the eve of Christmas Day. They got letters, they got money, they felt lonely, somehow funny" - BS

For another song by Michael Scanlon, see "The Bold Fenian Men (I)." Zimmerman reports that that song was first printed in Chicago in 1864, so it is perhaps reasonable to see Scanlon writing about emigration. - RBW

File: RcChrLet

Christmas Now Is Drawing Near At Hand

DESCRIPTION: "Christmas is now drawing near at hand, Pray, says the Lord, and be at his command." Hearers are reminded that man is made of clay. They are told to get on their knees in the garden. Hearers are warned about fine clothes and other idle display

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (collected by Sharp from Prudence Handy, according to RAven)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad Christmas warning clothes

FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham_, Broadside, 1977, pp. 162-163, "Christmas Now Is Drawing Near at Hand" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #808

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Christmas Now Is Drawing Near Christmas Drawing Near at Hand

File: JRUI162
Christmas Rum

DESCRIPTION: Two underage boys are sentenced to fourteen days in jail for drinking Christmas rum. In jail they "worked from daylight until dark." Soon they'll be twenty-one and will be able to have "Christmas rum"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Peacock)

KEYWORDS: drink youth prisoner punishment

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peacock, pp. 869-870, "Christmas Rum" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #:9804

RECORDINGS:
Mrs Martha Osmond, "Christmas Rum" (on PeacockCDROM)

File: Pea869

---

Christmas Time in Ireland

DESCRIPTION: The singer remembers "Christmas time in Ireland far away" with feasting, fife and fiddle play, and dancing. There is sorrow for those in exile and hope "God might send them safely back some day"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)

KEYWORDS: exile reunion separation dancing fiddle food music party Ireland nonballad

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

Roud #:26203

RECORDINGS:
Mrs. Bulger, "Christmas Time in Ireland" (on MUNFLA-Leach)

File: ML3ChTII

---

Christopher Columbo

DESCRIPTION: Columbo, that navigating, masturbating son-of-a-bitch, sails the world round-o, master and crew engaging in a variety of sexual practices on land and sea.

AUTHOR: A (clean) version was copyrighted by Francis J. Bryant

EARLIEST DATE: 1893 and the Columbian Exposition in Chicago

KEYWORDS: bawdy sex humorous whore exploration

FOUND IN: Australia Canada US(MW,Ro,So,SW)

REFERENCES (9 citations):
Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips, pp. 55-58, "Christopher Columbus" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 308-315, "Christopher Columbo" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Randolph/Legman-RollMeInYourArms I, pp. 502-505, "Christopher Columbus" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead, pp 152-153, "Christoper Columbo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-AmericanSeaSongsAndChanteys, pp. 207-212, "Christofo Columbo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 18-22, "Christoforo Colombo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea, pp. 173-174, "Christopher Columbus" (1 text, 1 tune)
Niles/Moore-SongsMyMotherNeverTaughtMe, pp. 106-107, "Columbo" (1 text)
DT, COLOMBO COLUMB2*

Roud #:4843

RECORDINGS:
Anonymous singer, "Christopho Columbo" (on Unexp1)
Arkansas Charlie [pseud. for Charlie Craver], "Oh Christofo Columbo" (Brunswick 410, 1930)
Billy Jones, "Christofo Columbo" (CYL: Edison [BA] 5008, prob. 1925)
Billy Jones & Ernest Hare, "Christofo Columbo" (OKe 40397, 1925)
Andy Kirk & his Mighty Clouds of Joy, "Christopher Columbus" (Decca 729, 1936)
Old Ced Odom & Lil "Diamonds" Hardaway, "Fourteen Hundred and Ninety-Two (Christopho Columbo)" (Decca, uniss.; rec. 1936)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Good Ship Venus" (lyrics)
cf. "The Sailor in Nagasaki" (tune, according to Niles/Moore-SongsMyMotherNeverTaughtMe)

NOTES [171 words]: This song frequently borrows verses -- identifiable by their internal rhyme in the third line or "limerick form" -- from "The Good Ship Venus."

This would not pass muster as a history of Christopher Columbus' voyage of 1492. - EC

A distinct understatement.

Incidentally, it is not clear whether this was originally clean or dirty. The 1893 date cited above is for a clean version, of which John Garst writes, "We all know 'Christofo Columbo' as a bawdy ballad, but in the Robert W. Gordon papers at the University of Oregon there is a 'clean' version, 'Written and Composed by Francis J. Bryant,' 'Copyright, 1893, by M. Witmark and Sons. Entered at Stationers' Hall, London.... If you wonder how the chorus could be 'clean,' here it is:

He knew the earth was round, ho! that land it could be found, ho!
The geographic, hard and hoary navigator, gyratory Christofo Columbo."

Shay's clean version has the chorus

Oh, Christofo Columbo,
He thought the world was round-o;
That pioneering, buccaneering,
Son-of-a-gun, Columbo! - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: EM308

Christopher White [Child 108]

DESCRIPTION: A lady, mourning Christopher White's banishment, is wooed by the singer. She warns "If I prove false to Christopher White, Merchant, I cannot be true to thee," -- but marries him. While he is away she sends for Christopher; they go off, taking much wealth

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1750 (Percy folio)

KEYWORDS: love separation theft escape money

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Child 108, "Christopher White" (1 text)
Hales/Furnival-BishopPercysFolioManuscript, volume III, pp. 494-498, "Christop[h]er White" (1 text)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN2, "Abroad as I was walking, all by the Park-side"

Roud #3974

NOTES [48 words]: According to David C. Fowler, A Literary History of the Popular Ballad, Duke University Press, 1968, p. 158 n. 25, this is one of eighteen ballads in the Child collection found only in the Percy Folio. Bruce Olson seems to have thought there was another version, but I haven't seen it. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: C108

Chuck-Time on the Round-Up

DESCRIPTION: "It was chuck-time on the round-up, and we heard 'Old Doughy' shout, 'You had better come and get this or I'll throw the whole thing out.'" The cowboys scramble for food. They're proud of Doughy; "He's cooked for us for twenty years and never lost a man"

AUTHOR: Austin Corcoran (source: Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)

EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)

KEYWORDS: cook food cowboy

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 24-29, "Chuck-Time on the Round-Up" (1 text)

File: ThLo024
Chuck-Wagon Races
DESCRIPTION: "Come gather round the wagon, we'll sing a little song Of the wagon racing, it will not take us long, There's thrills and spills and doctor bills...." A description of the life of a wagon racer, and of many of the people in the wagon camp
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973
KEYWORDS: travel cowboy recitation
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 90, "Chuck-Wagon Races" (1 text)
File: 0hr090

Church Across the Way, The
DESCRIPTION: "On Easter Sunday morning when the sun was shining clear," the congregation was having an intense service while the preacher's brother Ned lay dying across the way. The dying man wishes he had never gone astray
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: death crime clergy Easter
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 825, "The Church Across the Way" (1 text)
Roud #7438
NOTES [18 words]: This piece can't seem to decide if it's a moralizing ballad or a tearjerker. I'd say it fails at both. - RBW
File: R825

Church Cove Song
DESCRIPTION: Some say Captain Kidd buried gold "galore" at Church Cove on the Southern Shore, which was guarded by "the ghost of a darkie." "A crew from Burin" found the gold but "got turned inside out from the fright." A witness's whiskers, once white, "turned foxy"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA/Leach)
KEYWORDS: gold ghost pirate hair
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #18203
RECORDINGS:
Vince Ledwell, "Church Cove Song" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
File: RcChCove

Church of God, The
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "The church of God that sounds so sweet, The church, the church of God (x2), that sounds so sweet." Verses: "Jesus told you once before Go in peace and sin no more" and other floating verses
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)
KEYWORDS: floatingverses nonballad religious Jesus
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 80, "De Church of God" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 199 in the 1874 edition)
Roud #15261
NOTES [35 words]: "Go in peace and sin no more" is probably an allusion to John 8:11 (a text not an original part of the Gospel of John, but you can't tell that from the King James Bible), although it
Church Without a Prophet, A

DESCRIPTION: "A church without a prophet is not the church for me; It has no head to lead it, in it I would not be. But I've a church not built by man...." "The God that others worship is not the God for me." "A church without apostles is not the church...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1877 (Sacred Hymns and Spiritual Songs, according to Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad patriotic discrimination

FOUND IN: US(Ro)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #205, "A Church Without a Prophet" (1 text)

NOTES [143 words]: Jewish tradition held that prophecy ended with the prophet Malachi, some time around 350 B.C.E. (although later authors such as Daniel continued to portray their works as prophecy). Christianity believed that prophecy revived with the coming of Jesus (the New Testament contains multiple references to prophecy, and Paul encourages it). But that sort of prophecy too died out and was discouraged. In recent centuries, many denominations, such as Pentecostals, have encouraged behaviors such as speaking in tongues that are linked to prophecy. But, as far as I know, only the Mormons make Prophet an official church status. Of course, the Mormons were the first denomination of the second millennium to conclude that they had more scriptures than just the Hebrew and Greek Testaments, and to produce scriptures not written in the vernacular of the time. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.8

File: Hubb205

---

Church's One Foundation, The

DESCRIPTION: "The Church's one foundation Is Jesus Christ her Lord, She is his new creation." The church draws people from everywhere. Jesus died for it. The singers hope to be taken to heaven

AUTHOR: Words: Samuel John Stone (1839-1900) / Music: Samuel Sebastian Wesley (1810-1876)

EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (The Parish School Hymnal); reportedly written1866

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 206-207, "The Church's One Foundation" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: Charles Johnson, One Hundred and One Famous Hymns (Hallberg, 1982), pp, 58-59, "The Church's One Foundation" (1 text, 1 tune)

*John Julian, editor, _A Dictionary of Hymnology_, 1892; second edition 1907 (I use the 1957 Dover edition in two volumes), pp. 1146-1147, "The Church's One Foundation" (1 text, with variant readings from two other versions)

Roud #5433

SAME TUNE:

We're Looking for the Kaiser (File: Tawn063)

NOTES [1198 words]: According to Johnson, this hymn was one of a series written by Samuel John Stone based (very loosely) on the Apostles' Creed. Morgan declares that Stone based it on the portion of the creed which reads, "I believe in the holy catholic church, the communion of saints...." (Julian, p. 1146, gives the source as the ninth article of the creed, and tells us that the hymn, written in 1866, was revised in 1868 and 1885, with the 1868 version being the most widespread).

It should be noted that the Apostles' Creed is not apostolic; Boer, p. 73, declares "it is called the Apostles' Creed because it faithfully sets forth the central teachings of the Apostles" -- but he... admits that it took at least three centuries to assemble. Most scholars would say it took even longer. Bettenson, p. 24, says that the oldest text of the final Latin form of the Apostle’s Creed exists in a document from c. 750. The earliest ancestor known to Bettenson is the creed of Marcellus of Ancyra, known as an Arian heretic; this version dates from c. 340. McKim, p. 305, Johnson, and Morgan all report that Stone did his writing in response to the works of John William Colenso (1814-1883), the Anglican Bishop of Natal from 1853 (at least, that's the date on p. 329 of LarousseDict, p. 98 of Douglas/Elwell/Toon, and p. 217 of Ellis; Carroll/Gardner, p. [47], says 1846); Julian, p. 1146, clarifies that "The impression made upon [Stone's] mind by Bishop Gray's (Capetown) noble defence of the Catholic Faith against the teaching of Bishop Colenso, was in chief the origin of this magnificent hymn." According to McKim, p. 305, the direct response to Colenso is in the third stanza.

If the name "Colenso" is vaguely familiar today, it is probably from Lewis Carroll. Before becoming a bishop, Colenso had written a popular set of books on mathematics. If you look at Henry Holiday's original illustration to "The Beaver's Lesson," chapter five of The Hunting of the Snark (p. [49] in Carroll/Gardner), you will observe that one of the books shown there is Colenso's Arithmetic.

Once he became a Bishop, Colenso turned the analytical skills which he had previously used for mathematics to examining the Bible. One of his missions was to the Zulus, whose language he learned (a very unusual act for an Englishman of the time); he published a grammar and dictionary of the language, and began to translate the Bible and the Book of Common Prayer into Zulu. This proved rather embarrassing, because the Zulu had a lot of tricky questions about his teaching (Carroll/Gardner, p. [47]). He began to analyze the Old Testament in mathematical and scientific terms (Ellis, p. 218). His results were published in The Pentateuch and the Book of Joshua Critically Examined (completed 1879, according to LarousseDict, p. 329). Carroll/Gardner, p. [47], says that Colenso "reduced to absurdity the literal interpretation of the Bible." Among his calculations was an estimate that, to make the Bible literally true, six men would have had a combined 2748 sons, and that priests would have been forced to consume 88 pigeons daily (Green, p. 281).

Morgan considers his views to be part of a "poisonous fog" generated by German theologians, and Ellis, while avoiding the gratuitous insult, agrees that he was largely inspired by Germans. Green, p. 281, although more sympathetic, admits that he found these books no more inspired than "Cicero, Lactantius, and the Sikh Gooros."

Colenso also championed the rights of the Blacks of South Africa (supposedly to the point of defending polygamy in his book Remarks on the Proper Treatment of Polygamy). WalkerEtAl, p 641, seems to associate Colenso with the "broad-church" movement (defined by Ellis as those who "believed the love of God was for all, not just for Christians"), with which WalkerEtAl also associates three of the greatest scholars of the nineteenth century, Brooke Foss Westcott, Joseph Barber Lightfoot, and Fenton John Anthony Hort. Almost every Bible translation published today is largely founded on the work of Westcott and Hort, and Lightfoot's influence on Biblical commentaries is immense. To be associated, even indirectly, with such great men is a strong testimony to the quality of Colenso's work.

So too is the list of subscribers to a fund which supported him: T. H. Huxley the evolutionary biologist, the brilliant naturalist Joseph D. Hooker, and the great geologist Charles Lyell, as well as writers including Trollope and Dickens; Tennyson also seems to have supported him. Still, Ellis, p. 217, says that Colenso "has been described as the sharpest prickle in the Anglican rose," who "preferred confrontation to compromise." So much so, in fact, that he forced the first great international Anglican gathering, the 1867 Lambeth Conference (Ellis, p. 218).

For the great crime of being 100% right, Colenso was found guilty of heresy in 1864, although he was reinstated by the Privy Council in 1865 (Douglas/Elwell/Toon, p. 98). Excommunicated by the Archbishop of Capetown in 1866, he was deposed from his bishopric in 1869 -- although Douglas/Elwell/Toon say that he managed to keep the income of the diocese until his death. Colenso is now largely forgotten (not even my several dictionaries of heresy mention him). There is an 1888 biography by George William Cox which was in print in 2016; I have not seen it. The song he inspired managed to make it into many hymnals, though it is not one of the more popular ones in tradition. To be sure, I can't see anything in the song that in any way relates to Colenso and his doctrines (and very little that really derives from the Apostle's Creed).

Colenso does have one other faint connection with folk music: He was one of the many guests who knew Lady Jane Franklin in the last years of her life, after Sir John Franklin's fate was known (McGoogan, p. 395). Julian, p. 1095, gives these facts about Samuel John Stone: "s[on] of the Rev. William Stone, M.A., was b[orn] at Whitmore, Staffordshire, April 25, 1839, and educated at the Charterhouse; and at Pembroke College, Oxford, B.A. 1862; and M.A. 1872. On taking Holy Orders he became Curate of Windsor in 1862, and of St. Paul's, Haggerston, 1870. In 1874 he succeeded his father at St. Paul's, Haggerston.” Thus, like many British clergymen, his career seems to have been secured largely by family and connections. Perhaps this makes it less surprising that he opposed ideas associated with evolution and science. At least he brought some originality to the post, although not enough to actually look at the data Colenso brought forward. Reynolds, p. 438, says he was involved in the 1909 edition of the famous collection Hymns Ancient and Modern.

Stone's hymns on the Apostle's Creed were published in 1866 in Lyra Fidelium; Twelve Hymns on the Twelve Articles of the Apostles' Creed (Stulken, p. 417). The tune "Aurelia" is also used, e.g., for "The voice that breathed o’er Eden" and "O Living Bread from Heaven" (Stulken, p. 281); Reynolds, p. 211, says it was written by Samuel S Wesley (the grandson of Charles Wesley) for the text "Jerusalem the Golden"; it was called "Aurelia" because "aurum" is the Latin word for gold.

- RBW

Bibliography

- LarousseDict, [Magnus Magnusson, general editor; Rosemary Goring, Assistant Editor], Larousse Biographical Dictionary, fifth edition published 1990 as the Cambridge Biographical Dictionary; I use the 1994 Larousse paperback edition

Last updated in version 5.1

File: Rd005433

Cielito Lindo

DESCRIPTION: Spanish: "Ese lunar que tienes, cielito lindo." Chorus: "Ay ay ay ay, canta y no llorares, Porque cantando se allegran, cielito lindo, los corazones." The singer tells the girl of his love and how Cupid's arrow struck his heart

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1919

KEYWORDS: love courting Mexico foreignlanguage

FOUND IN: Mexico

REFERENCES (5 citations):

Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 298-299, "Cielito Lindo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 23, "Cielito Lindo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 327, "Cielito Lindo" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, p. 172, "Cielito Lindo"
Cigar Song, The

DESCRIPTION: In each verse, the singer goes someplace "the other day," drinks something alcoholic "behind the bar," and smokes a more-or-less expensive cigar.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Blind Blake Higgs: see WIHIGGS01)

LONG DESCRIPTION: In each verse the singer went further from Nassau "the other day," the drink "behind the bar" was distinctive of the place (moonshine in Miami) and the cigar he was smoking was more expensive. In "New York the other day, I was drinking champagne behind the bar And I was smoking a two dollar cigar." But finally, in "Nassau the other day, I was drinking Sunbeam behind the bar And I was smoking a one cent cigar"

KEYWORDS: travel money drink humorous drugs

FOUND IN: West Indies (Bahamas)

RECORDINGS:
Blind Blake Higgs, "The Cigar Song" (on WIHIGGS01)

File: RcTCigSo

Cigarettes Will Spoil Yer Life

DESCRIPTION: "Cigarettes will spoil yer life, Ruin yer and kill yer baby, Poor little innocent child."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)

KEYWORDS: injury disease nonballad

FOUND IN: US (NE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 335, "Cigarettes Will Spoil Yer Life" (1 short text, 1 tune)

File: San335

Cinderella at a Ball

DESCRIPTION: Skipping rhyme/game. "Cinderella at a ball, Cinderella had a fall, When she fell she lost her shoe, Cinderella, Y-O-U."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: play party

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 105, "(Cinderella at a ball)" (1 text)

File: SuSm105B

Cinderella Dressed in Yellow

DESCRIPTION: "Cinderella, dressed in yellow, Went downtown to see her fellow. How many kisses did the get?" "Made a mistake, And kissed a snake, How many doctors did it take?"
"Dressed in red, Went downtown to buy some thread... A fellow... shot her dead"
Cindy (I)

DESCRIPTION: "You ought to see my Cindy. She lives 'way down south. She's so sweet the honeybees Swarm around her mouth. Get along, Cindy, Cindy...." Describes attempts to court Cindy, as well as her occasional extravagances. Many floating verses

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1915
KEYWORDS: love courting play party religious floating verses
FOUND IN: US(Ap, SE, So)
REFERENCES (20 citations):
Randolph 564, "Get Along Home, Cindy" (2 texts, 1 tune)
McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksong, pp. 136-139, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Arnold-FolkSongsOfAlabama, p. 114, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 404, "Cindy" (6 texts, mostly short, with the usual load of floating verses; some may be other songs with this chorus tacked on); also 163, "The Raccoon Has a Bushy Tail" (1 text plus 2 fragments; the "C" text has the chorus of "Cindy")
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 404, "Cindy" (3 texts plus text excerpts)
Lunsford/Stringfield-30And1FolkSongsFromSouthernMountains, pp. 42-43, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Jones-MinstrelOfTheAppalachians-Bascom-Lamar-Lunsford, pp. 230-231, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices, pp. 12-13, "Cindy in the Summertime" (1 text, 1 tune plus a mouthbow arrangement)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 178-179, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol4, pp. 24-26, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 172, "Liza Jane" (1 text, probably a version of "Po' Liza Jane" but with a "Cindy...Cindy Jane" chorus)
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #70, Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Abernethy-SinginTexas, p. 65, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 28, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FSNA 119, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolkslore, pp. 899-900, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, pp. 52-53, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Seegeer-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 61, "Cindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 35, "Cindy" (1 text)
DT, CIND

Roud #836

RECORDINGS:
Gene Austin, "Cindy" (c. 1927; on CrowTold01) (Victor 20873 [as by Bill Collins], 1927; this may be the same recording as the preceding)
Milton Brown & his Musical Brownies, "Get Along, Cindy" (Bluebird B-5654/Montgomery Ward M-4536, 1934)
Samantha Bumgarner & Eva Davis, "Cindy in the Meadows" (Columbia 167-D, 1924; Harmony 5097-H, n.d.; Diva 6010-G/Velvet Tone 7056-V, 1930)
W. E. Claunicht, "Cindy" (AFS, 1939; on LC02)
Vernon Dalhart, "Cindy" (Challenge 405, c. 1928)
Cindy (II) (Old Jude)

DESCRIPTION: Cantrefable; "Railroad, a plank road, river and canoe/If it hadn't have been for Dr. Grey they wouldn't have killed old Jude." Old Jude was Dr. Grey's pregnant slave; Grey beat her to make her name the father, a white Gentleman; she died from the beating

AUTHOR: unknown (possibly Dan Tate)

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1979 (collected from Dan Tate by Mike Yates)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Cantrefable; "Railroad, a plank road, river and canoe/If it hadn't have been for Doctor Grey they wouldn't have killed old Jude." In a spoken explanation, singer says Old Jude was Doctor Grey's slave; she was pregnant, and Doctor Grey beat her to get her to name the father; in the end she died from the beating. The singer says that Jude said the father was "a white man and a gentleman" and adds, "That's the way that slaves were treated by people in this country." Chorus is a standard chorus from "Cindy (I)."

KEYWORDS: accusation violence abuse crime homicide death pregnancy slavery father slave

Black(s)

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

RECORDINGS:

Dan Tate, "Cindy" (on OldTrad1, FarMtns1)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Jinny Go Round and Around" (floating lyrics)

NOTES [17 words]: This is one of the very few acknowledgments in White traditional music of the horrors of slavery. -PJS

Last updated in version 4.3
File: Rcc2olj

Circle Four in London

DESCRIPTION: "Circle four in London, And so I've heard then say, Right and left in London, And so I've heard them say," "Round the lady in London, And so..., Round the gent in London...." "Cut a figure eight in London...." "Twenty-five miles to sundown...."
Circuit Rider's Home

DESCRIPTION: "Well, you know I have no permanent address, This rodeo cowboy's on the roam... The highway is a circuit rider's home." The rider mentions towns he has visited and horses he has ridden, and admits to whispering to the ladies before heading down the road

AUTHOR: Johnny Baker
EARLIEST DATE: 1973
KEYWORDS: cowboy rambling
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 93, "Circuit Rider's Home" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: 0hr093

Citi Na gCumann (Kitty of Loves)

DESCRIPTION: Irish Gaelic: Singer comes to bargain with his love's parents over her dowry. They cannot agree; they've heard he's married. He denies it; he only trifles with young women. He asks her to elope with him, or to marry in secret, or to emigrate with him

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (recording, Maire O'Sullivan)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage courting dowry elopement love bargaining emigration father lover
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
DT, CITI/NA
RECORDINGS:
Maire O'Sullivan, "Citi Na gCumann" [incomplete] (on Lomax42, LomaxCD1742)
File: DTcitina

City Council

DESCRIPTION: "Wellington City Countil, W. C. C., Wellington City Council, you're not he." (Or "Auckland City Council, A. C. C.," or "Christchurch City Council, see, see, see," or presumably any other town)

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty political
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 95, "Wellington City Council," "(Christchurch City Council)" (2 texts)
File: SuSm095C

City of Boston (I)

DESCRIPTION: Singer hears a woman mourning for her husband, lost on steamship City of Boston, bound to Liverpool from Halifax. He was "a gallant sailor ... A kind and loving husband" with six children. "Many now in Liverpool with aching hearts like me"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA/Leach)
KEYWORDS: separation travel death drowning wreck children father husband mother wife
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 28, 1870 - City of Boston bound to Liverpool from New York via Boston and Halifax lost at sea with 207(??) dead (per Northern Shipwrecks Database)
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #18254
RECORDINGS:
Alexander March, "City of Boston" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "City of Boston (II)" (subject)
NOTES [118 words]: According to Robert C. Parsons, Cape Race: Stories from the Coast that Sank the Titanic, Flanker Press, 2011, pp. 111-113, the City of Boston was a liner belonging to the Inman Line, which named its ships "City of XXX," e.g. City of Boston, City of Philadelphia. Based on the picture on p. 112 of Parsons, she used both sail and steam. No trace was ever found of her; Parsons says that 177 were lost.

City of Boston (II)
DESCRIPTION: Father left "to cross the briny main, In the missing City of Boston." Child asks mother to stop crying: father "may arrive tomorrow." But he has dreamt he saw the City of Boston "sink beneath the briny wave And every soul... perish'd in watery grave"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 19C (Broadside, Bodleian, Bod8503 Firth c.12(77))
KEYWORDS: separation travel death drowning dream storm wreck children father husband mother wife
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 28, 1870 - City of Boston bound to Liverpool from New York via Boston and Halifax lost at sea with 207(??) dead (per Northern Shipwrecks Database)
FOUND IN: Roud #V3333
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Bod8503 Firth c.12(77), "Child's Dream; or The City of Boston" ("Mother, dear give over crying), unknown, 19C
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "City of Boston (I)" (subject)
NOTES [118 words]: According to Robert C. Parsons, Cape Race: Stories from the Coast that Sank the Titanic, Flanker Press, 2011, pp. 111-113, the City of Boston was a liner belonging to the Inman Line, which named its ships "City of XXX," e.g. City of Boston, City of Philadelphia. Based on the picture on p. 112 of Parsons, she used both sail and steam. No trace was ever found of her; Parsons says that 177 were lost.

City of Refuge
DESCRIPTION: "There is coming a time and it won't be long, You will attend to your business and let mine alone." "You better run." ("Run to the city of refuge.") "Paul and Silas bound in jail."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Earnest)
KEYWORDS: religious Bible
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 560, "City of Refuge" (1 fragment) Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 208-209, "City of Refuge" (1 fragment of the chorus, 1 tune (which includes the verse even though the informant did not remember the words))
ADDITIONAL: Joseph B. Earnest, _The Religious Development of the Negro in Virginia_ (Michie Company, Charlottesville, VA, 1914; available on Google Books), p. 154, "[The City of Refuge]" (1 excerpt)
Roud #11828
RECORDINGS:
Blind Willie Johnson, "I'm Gonna Run to the City of Refuge" (Columbia 14391-D, 1929; on BWJ01)
James Garfield Smalls, "You' Gotta Run, Run, Run" (on USSealsland03)
NOTES [106 words]: Brown's version is not at all clear why this should be considered a "City of Refuge" text; it never mentions those words, and is a fragment. But there isn't much else to go on.
The mention in song of "cities of refuge" is strange in any case: The cities of refuge were for "the manslayer who kills any person without intent" (Numbers 35:11).
Nor is there any mention of the cities of refuge ever actually being used; they are not mentioned outside Exodus-Deuteronomy, and the few Biblical instances of people wanting sanctuary involve the criminal fleeing into the temple and seizing the horns of the altar (e.g. Joab in 1 Kings 2:28) -
RBW
Last updated in version 3.0
File: Br3560

Civil War Song
DESCRIPTION: "You good folks don't scarcely know What we poor soldiers undergo... To defend our country from all harms." The singer described early drill, "lean and tough" beef, etc. The singer gives his name as A. T. Hyte, who wrote the song while on picket in winter AUTHOR: Credited in the lyrics to A. T. Hyte (Hiatt? Hite?)
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi)
KEYWORDS: hardtimes soldier food Civilwar
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 115, p. 257, "Civil War Song" (1 text)
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, pp. 4-5, "The Soldier's Fare" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4499
File: Hud115

Clady River Water Bailiffs, The
DESCRIPTION: The singer tells listeners where to go hunt salmon(-poachers). He praises the bailiffs who protect the streams, and describes how they watch the poachers. The bailiffs (?) will provide "dark and stormy weather" to any poachers on the water
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: fishing police
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHennisSongsOfThePeopleH764, p. 32, "The Clady River Water Bailiffs" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #13352
NOTES [36 words]: Said by Sam Henry to have been written by a policeman, and while it's hard to tell because the song is so vague, this seems likely enough; the piece appears to praise the police who catch illegal salmon-fishers. - RBW
File: HHH764

Clairons Sonnaient la Charge, Les (The Bugler Sounded the Charge)
DESCRIPTION: French. The bugler, an old warrior, sounds the charge. The zouaves go to face the enemy. The bugler leads the charge on the bayonets, always sounding, sounding.
NOTES [75 words]: The zouaves were, originally, French infantry composed of Algerians. They became famous, and the model for the British West India Regiment and US Civil War regiments [though the many "zouave" units in the Civil War were so-called simply because of their ornate uniforms -- which they generally abandoned in short order - RBW], fighting on the heights of Alma during the Crimean War. Source: The site for Coppen's (1st Battalion Louisiana) Zouaves - BS File: Pea992

Clancy's Prayer

DESCRIPTION: The speaker overhears Clancy praying, "May bad luck fall on one and all Who try to cut our wages." Clancy describes their misdeeds, accuses them of ruining New South Wales, and calls the devil down upon them.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1968 (Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia)
KEYWORDS: Devil labor-movement curse
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 254-255, "Clancy's Prayer" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fahey-Joe-Watson-AustralianTraditionalFolkSinger, [p. 15, page headed "CLANCY'S PRAYER"], "Clancy's Prayer" (1 text)
File: MA254

Clap Hands, Clap Hands

DESCRIPTION: "Clap hands, clap hands, Till father/mammie comes home; For father's got money/Mammie will bring something But mother's got none/Daddy will bring none"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Maclagan)
KEYWORDS: game baby father mother money
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,High)), Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Greig/Duncan8 1564, "Clap Your Handies" (1 text, 1 tune)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 200, "Clap hands, clap hands" (2 texts)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #602, p. 240, "(Clap hands, clap hands)"
Roud #12963
File: GrD81564

Clara Nolan's Ball

DESCRIPTION: "(You/We) are all invited and the band is engaged, We are going to have some fun, For Clara (Nolan) gives a ball The day she's twenty-one, With borrowed knives and tablecloths... Be sure and bring your chair along"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Stout-FolkloreFromIowa)
KEYWORDS: nonballad dancing
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 111, p. 140, "Clara Noland's Ball" (1 text)
Clare's Dragoons

DESCRIPTION: "When, on Ramillies' bloody field, The baffled French were forced to yield, The victor Saxon backward reeled Before the charge of Clare's dragoons." The Irish soldiers proclaim their prowess and wish they were fighting for Ireland

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1843 (a fragment quoted by Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion, p. 85, from Thomas Davis _The Spirit of the Nation_, p. 292; the 1843 date for _The Spirit of the Nation_ is from "Thomas Davis" on "Mallow 'The Crossroads of Munster'' site.)

KEYWORDS: war battle bragging Ireland

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1706 - Battle of Ramillies. Forces of the Grand Alliance under Marlborough heavily defeat the French

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Galvin-IrishSongsOfResistance, pp. 19-20, "Clare's Dragoons" (1 text, 1 tune)
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion, p. 85, "Clare's Dragoons" (1 fragment)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 140, "Clare's Dragoons" (1 text)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #317, p. 22, "Clare's Dragoons" (1 reference)
DT, CLAREDRG*

ADDITIONAL: Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 479-481, "Clare's Dragoons" (1 text)

Roud #V29379

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 18(86), "Clare's Dragoons", H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864; also 2806 c.8(203), "Lord Clare's Dragoon"

NOTES [141 words]: Thousands of Irishmen left home after the disasters of the Boyne and Aughrim. These "Wild Geese" often found employment as mercenaries. One such troop was "Clare's Dragoons," which fought for France during the War of the Spanish Succession (1701-1714). It doubtless gave the exiles some pleasure to fight with France against the Grand Alliance (Britain, Austria, and assorted lesser states).

Despite the boasting found in this song, the Irish did not significantly influence the outcome of Ramillies, which was an overwhelming Alliance victory.

Hoagland lists the song as by Thomas Davis, but all we can prove is that he published it. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: PGa019

Clarence McFaden (Teaching McFadden to Waltz)

DESCRIPTION: "Clarence McFaden he wanted to waltz, But his feet was not gaited that way." His teacher charges high because "your right foot is lazy, your left foot is crazy." He puts a girl on crutches, and kicks the floorboards from his bed

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan)

KEYWORDS: dancing humorous

FOUND IN: US(MW,Ro,SE) Canada(Newf) Ireland Australia

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Bennett/Downey-JeromeJustOneMoreSong 10, pp. 90-93, "Teaching McFadden to Waltz" (1 text)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 170, "Clarence McFaden" (1 text)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #170, "Clarence McFadden Learning to Waltz" (1 text, 1 tune)
Meredith/Tritton-DukeOfTheOutback, p. 50, "Teaching McFadden to Dance" (1 short text)

ST GC170 (Partial)

Roud #3707
Clarksdale Moan

DESCRIPTION: "Clarksdale, Mississippi always going to be my home." "I can have a good time there and not have one lousy dime." "Every day in the week I go down to Midtown Drugs, Get me a bottle o' snuff, and a bottle of Alcorub."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (StuffDreams1)
KEYWORDS: home drink drugs nonballad
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1919 - The Volstead Act establishes prohibition of "intoxicating liquors" to carry out the 18th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.
1933 - The 21st amendment to the U.S. Constitution ends prohibition.
FOUND IN:
BROADSIDES:
Son House, "Clarksdale Moan" (on StuffDreams1)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Got the Jake Leg Too" (Prohibition alcohol surrogates) and references there
NOTES [50 words]: Three line blues: the first line is repeated -- more or less -- and the last line completes the thought.
During prohibition rubbing alcohol was among the surrogates people drank as a replacement for illegal "intoxicating liquors." It was intended as a massage liniment and was never safe to drink. - BS

File: RcClarMo

Claude Allen [Laws E6]

DESCRIPTION: Claude Allen is placed on trial and, due to the Governor's indifference, is handed over for execution, leaving his mother and sweetheart to mourn

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: trial execution family mourning
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1912 - Trial of the Allen family. While in court, Sidney Allen shot the judge, and the rest of the family was soon shooting too. Sidney was sentenced to prison, but Claud and Floyd Allen were sentenced to death
FOUND IN: US(Ro,SE)
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Laws E6, "Claude Allen"
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 246, "Claud Allen" (2 texts plus mention of 2 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 236, "Claude Allen" (2 excerpts, 2 tunes)
Burt-AmericanMurderBallads, pp. 253-254, "(Claud Allen)" (1 text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 206-207, "Claude Allen" (1 text)
DT 771, CLAUDALN
Roud #2245
RECORDINGS:
Clarence Ashley & Doc Watson, "Claude Allen" (on Ashley02)
Hobart Smith, "Claude Allen" (on FOTM) (on LomaxCD1705)
Ernest V. Stoneman and His Blue Ridge Cornshuckers, "Claude Allen" (Victor, unissued, 1928)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Triplett Tragedy" (tune)

NOTES [120 words]: For a bit of background to this song, see the notes to "Sidney Allen." Although the whole tragedy occurred in the twentieth century, it appears very little is known of this family. Clarence Ashley said that he taught the ballad to Hobart Smith c. 1918, but that's a bit tenuous to assign an earliest date. - PJS

Even more curious are Burt-AmericanMurderBallads's notes. Her source was one Dragline Miller of Ely, Nevada, who from her description sounds to have been born in 1875 or earlier. He said he learned this "before" his prospecting days. Given that the shooting occurred in 1912, when Miller was at least 37, something odd is going on. Though the strongest likelihood is simply that Miller's memory was bad. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1
File: LE06

Claude's Wife

DESCRIPTION: Ethel is the singer. Poor Leon proposed to Ethel but she rejected him to marry wealthy Claude. Leon's mother cursed her. She has been married to Claude for 30 unhappy years. Leon dies on a battle field with Ethel's picture on his breast.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed)

KEYWORDS: courting love marriage rejection battle death money

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 173-175, "Claude's Wife" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6356

File: Ow1E173

Claudy Green

DESCRIPTION: The singer walks out to hear the birds sing and see the fish swim when he is distracted by a girl. He asks her if she is Diana or Venus, and says he will serve for fourteen years, as Jacob did, to win her. She rejects him and leaves

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Sam Henry collection)

KEYWORDS: love courting rejection beauty

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H115b, pp. 241-242, "Claudy Green" (1 text, 1 tune); H115a, p. 355, "Claudy Green" (1 text, 1 tune -- the same as the preceding)
Roud #9479

NOTES [56 words]: Finally a girl with the sense to turn down one of these brainless suitors! One wonders what the singer would have done if the girl had been Diana (mentioned in the a text though not the b), the eternally virgin huntress?
The story of Jacob serving for fourteen years to win the hands of Rachel and Leah is told in Genesis 29:15-30. - RBW

File: HHH115a

Clay Daubin, The (Pease Strae; Jock the New Laird Was New Wedded)

DESCRIPTION: "We went owre to Deavie' Clay Daubin, and faith, a rare caper we had." Various adventures: "For Jock the new laird was new wedded, His old sweetheart Jenny linked na'e, While some were all titter'n and flytin', The lads rubbed her down wi peas strea."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1808 (ANderson)

KEYWORDS: wedding rejection
The Clean Fireside, The

DESCRIPTION: "He's a bonnie, bonnie lad But he's owre far fae me"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)

KEYWORDS: separation

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan8 1797, "The Clean Fireside" (1 fragment)

Roud #12997

NOTES [107 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan8 fragment. The notes for the Greig/Duncan8 entry give no explanation for "A Clean Fireside" as the title. Perhaps the girl is keeping a clean spot by the fireside where he can sit on his return? - RBW

There is a poem by Robert Tennant with that title that is a cheery poem having nothing to do with separation. W.J. Mickle has a widely anthologized poem, "The Sailor's Wife," which includes the lines "Rise, lass, and mak a clean fireside" and "wha can tell how Colin fared When he was far awa?", but that is too much of a stretch even for me to connect with the Greig/Duncan8 fragment. - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD81797

The Clean Song, A

DESCRIPTION: "There was a young sailor who looked through a glass, And spied a fair mermaid with scales on her... Island." The crew catches the mermaid, but she escapes, leaving them with a disease. "This song may be dull but it's certainly clean."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1989 (Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea)

KEYWORDS: mermaid/man wordplay bawdy sailor disease humorous

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea, p. 169, "A Clean Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brand-BawdySeaSong 6, "A Clean Song" (1 text)

Roud #8354

NOTES [55 words]: This is one of those songs where the rhyme leads you to expect one word but supplies another, e.g.

[After] a while one man noticed some scabs
Soon they broke out with the pox and the... scratching.

I must confess that I can't figure out some of the missing words in this case. Which is perhaps a comment on just how bawdy it is. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: Kins169
Cleansing Fountain, The

DESCRIPTION: "Behold the lamb whose gracious blood Poured from his opening veins." "I do believe, I will believe, that Jesus died for me." "The dying thief beheld the lamb." "We, too, the cleansing power have known." "For him, then, let our songs ascend."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1879 (Journal of the Andrew Hicks)
KEYWORDS: death religious Jesus nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, p. 354, "The Cleansing Fountain" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [84 words]: There are many Biblical allusions in the version of this song printed by Huntington, although few direct quotes. The most obvious:
"The lamb" of God who takes away sins: John 1:29
"Opening veins": Jesus's side is pierced in John 19:34
"The dying thief": All three synoptic gospels mention others crucified with Jesus, but the repentant thief is found only in Luke 23:43
"Will cleanse our deepest stains": compare Rev. 7:14, "they have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb." - RBW

Clear Cauld Water, The

DESCRIPTION: "Farewell to whisky ... Now I wad leave ye a' for the clear cauld water." The singer bids farewell to gins shops, "a' drunken body," alewives, wine, porter, brandy, ruin, "filthy stews" and intemperance.

AUTHOR: Robert Gray Mason (source: Greig/Duncan3, correcting Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast's entry)
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: drink nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #175, p. 1, "The Clear Cauld Water" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 604, Greig/Duncan8 Addenda, "The Clear Cauld Water" (4 texts, 4 tunes)
Roud #6052
NOTES [31 words]: Greig/Duncan3: "George F Duncan states that the song was sung by Robert Mackie's grandfather, who died at great age, and must have sung it about the beginning of the nineteenth century." - BS

Clear the Track (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Ho, the car Emancipation Rides majestic through the nation, Bearing on its train the story, Liberty! a nation's glory." Those who oppose freedom for the slaves are warned that the train is coming and will accomplish its end

AUTHOR: Words: Jesse Hutchinson / Music: Dan Emmett
EARLIEST DATE: 1844 (sheet music)
KEYWORDS: freedom political slavery train
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 283-284, "Clear the Track" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber-SoldierSongsAndHomeFrontBalladsOfCivilWar, pp. 48-49, "Clear the Track" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, p. 87, "Get Off the Track" (1 text)
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 46, 48, "(Get Off the Track)" (1 excerpt plus a photo of part of the sheet music)
Foner-AmericanLaborSongsOfTheNineteenthCentury, p. 132, "Get Off the Track" (1 text)
Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 305, "Get Off the Track" (1 text plus a copy of the sheet music cover)
Emerson-StephenFosterAndCo, pp. 88-90, "Get Off the Track" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Pete Seeger, "Clear the Track" (on PeteSeeger28)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Old Dan Tucker" (tune)

SAME TUNE:
The Workingman's Train (Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, pp. 87-88)
Harry Clay and Frelinghuysen (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, pp. 308-309)

NOTES [128 words]: The sheet music dedicates this to Nathaniel P. Rogers "as a mark of esteem for his intrepidity in the cause of Human Rights." Intrepid he may have been; famous he was not. According to Jon W. Finson, _The Voices That Are Gone: Themes in Nineteenth-Century American Popular Song_, Oxford University Press, 1994, p. 122, this song was so controversial that it sometimes resulted in riots at Hutchinson Family concerts. Finson also notes (p. 123) that "The most remarkable feature of 'Get Off the Track,' though, was incidental to the abolitionist message intended by its author, and that was Jesse [Huthinson]'s representation of social progress through a metaphor of technological progress." A hint of this also shows up in another Hutchinson song, "Uncle Sam's Farm." - RBW

Clear the Track for the Maniac

DESCRIPTION: "Clear the track For the maniac."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: playparty

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 131, "(Clear the track)"

File: SuSm131G

Cleedie's House

DESCRIPTION: Cleedie's house stands like a mountain. The crows stop there as they go down to Mormond.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)

KEYWORDS: nonballad bird

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1647, "Cleedie's House" (1 text)
Roud #13051

File: GrD81647

Clefs de la Prison, Les

DESCRIPTION: French. Conversation between parents and son. "Cher mom! On vient m' donner les clefs." The boy says that they are giving him the keys to the jail -- as in, they are going to hang him. He regrets knowing that he will die. His parents must fetch his body

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (collected from Elida Hofpauir)

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage death prison execution mother father

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 191-193, "Les Clefs de la Prison" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: LoSi191
Clementine

DESCRIPTION: The singer reports on the death of his beloved Clementine, the daughter of a (Forty-Niner). One day, leading her ducklings to water, she trips and falls in. The singer, "no swimmer," helplessly watches her drown

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (sheet music for "Down by the River Lived a Maiden")

KEYWORDS: death drowning love

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (16 citations):
Jackson-PopularSongsOfNineteenthCenturyAmerica, pp. 148-151, "Oh My Darling Clementine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 34, "Clementine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, p. 68, "Mazurka: Clementine" (1 tune)
Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, p. 85, "Clementine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 27, "Clementine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 272, "Clementine" (1 text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 657, "Clementine" (1 text plus some excerpts)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 23-24, "Clementine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Emerson-StephenFosterAndCo, pp. 140-141, "Down by the River Lived a Maiden"; p. 142, "Oh My Darling Clementine" (2 texts)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #163, "Oh My Darling Clementine" (1 text)
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 82 "Clementine" (1 text, 1 tune)
MesseriListenToTheMockingbird, pp. 194-199, "Clementine" (2 texts)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 241, "Clementine" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 174-175, "Clementine"

ADDITIONAL: Henry Randall Waite, _College Songs: A Collection of New and Popular Songs of the American Colleges_, new and enlarged edition, Oliver Ditson & Co., 1887, pp. 16-17, "Oh My Darling Clementine" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST RJ19148 (Full)
Roud #9611

RECORDINGS:
Logan English, "Clementine" (on LEnglish02)
Bradley Kincaid, "Darlin' Clementine" (Decca W4271, 1934)
Pete Seeger, "Clementine" (on PeteSeeger24)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Old Gum-Diggers' Bar" (tune)

SAME TUNE:
The Old Gum-Diggers' Bar (File: BaRo146)

NOTES [328 words]: In some of the modern versions, the song ends when the singer kisses Clementine's younger sister and forgets Clementine. - (PJS)

The words to this piece were first published in 1863 under the title "Down by the River Lived a Maiden," credited to H. S. Thompson. This printing had a melody, but it was not the "standard" melody. According to Jon W. Finson, The Voices That Are Gone: Themes in Nineteenth-Century American Popular Song, Oxford University Press, 1994, p. 92, it was marked as a mazurka. The text was also rather different (in minstrel dialect); Norm Cohen gives the first verse as

"Down by the river there lived a maiden
In a cottage built just 7 x 9;
And all around this lubly bower
The beauteous sunflower blossoms twine.
Chorus: Oh my Clema, oh my Clema, Oh my darling Clementine,
Now you are gone and lost forever,
I'm dreadful sorry Clementine."
In 1864 the text appeared in "Billy Morris' Songs" in which Clementine appears as little short of a legendary monster; she is even reported to have grown wool.

In 1884 the piece reappeared, with the famous tune, this time credited to "Percy Montrose," under the title "Oh My Darling Clementine." This version of the song, as printed in College Songs in 1887, is identical with the version I learned in my youth; there is no question but that people were copying the "Montrose" version -- and learning it from print.

Messerli-ListenToTheMockingbird comes up with yet another claim of authorship: he says it's from 1885 and written by Barker Bradford. But this is not the usual text. Since Thompson (H. S. Thompson, the author of the well-known "Annie Lisle") certainly did not produce the common tune, and Montrose is otherwise unknown, the authorship of the song probably cannot be settled.

It is reported by reliable sources that this song was originally intended to be serious. No doubt a few thousand enterprising parodists would be amazed. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: RJ19148

Clerk Colvill [Child 42]

DESCRIPTION: (Clerk Colvill) is warned (by his mother/lover) not to be too free with women. He refuses the advice; "Did I neer see a fair woman, But I wad sin with her body?" A woman gives him a fatal headache and turns into a mermaid to avoid being killed by him

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1769 (Herd)

KEYWORDS: sex sin courting infidelity magic death

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (10 citations):

- Child 42, "Clerk Colvill" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
- Bronson 42, "Clerk Colvill" (1 version)
- Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 42, "Clerk Colvill" (1 version)
- Riewerts-BalladRepertoireOfAnnaGordon-MrsBrownOfFalkland, pp. 216-217, "Clark Colven" (1 text, plus a copy of the transcribed tune and a modern reprint for clarity; there are two tune reconstructions on pp. 293-294)
- Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 149-150, "Clerk Colville" (1 text)
- Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 29, "Clerk Colven" (1 text)
- Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 30, "Clerk Colvill" (1 text, which includes textual interpolations heretofore unpublished)
- Gummere-OldEnglishBallads, pp. 197-199+347-348, "Clerk Colven" (1 text)
- Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 39, "Clerk Colvill" (1 text)
- DT 42, CLRKCLVL
- Roud #147

NOTES [341 words]: A number of scholars (Coffin, Lloyd, Bronson) have speculated that "Clerk Colvill" is actually a fragment of a longer ballad, "George Collins," with "Lady Alice" [Child 85] forming the rest. See the discussion in the notes to "Lady Alice."

Bertrand Harris Bronson, The Ballad as Song (essays on ballads), University of California Press, 1969, p. 42, studying the text and tune of this, suggests that the tune collected from Mrs. Brown must have had an internal refrain, the text of which was not taken down. This apparently was a habit of the transcriber; he omitted the internal refrains of "Clerk Colvill," "Gil Brenton," and "Willie's Lady."

J. R. R. Tolkien fans may be interested to note that Tolkien's fascinating modern recreation of a Breton Lay, "The Lay of Aotrou and Itroun" (which I think his best writing other than The Lord of the Rings, although it did not reach book form until decades after his death) also involves commerce with a non-human magic-worker; Itroun is barren, so her husband Aotrou seeks out a "Corrigan" to find obtain a potion to make her fertile. The Corrigan agrees but says she will not name her price until the children are born. Once they are, she appears to Aotrou and demands that he make love to her. He refuses; she says that he will die shortly. He does, and Itroun dies soon after. It was suggested by Jessica Yates that Tolkien "wanted to write a version of the 'Clerk Colvill' story about a young man and a water nymph [and] was intrigued by the translations he found of the analogous Breton 'Lord Nunn' ballad [found in Child]." (See Christina Scull & Wayne G. Hammond, The J. R. R. Tolkien Companion and Guide: Reader's Guide, Houghton Mifflin, 2006, p. 487). This hypothesis does not seem to have attracted much support, but it is highly likely that Tolkien -- who knew a lot about folklore -- was aware of the Clerk Colville/Lady Alice story; he at various times used other Child ballads, and Tom Shippey believed that he knew Wimberley's Folklore in the English and Scottish Ballads, - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: C042

Clerk in ta Offish, Ta

DESCRIPTION: "Noo Rosie se'll be prood, and Rosie she'll be praw.. For ta praw, praw lad's come an' tookit her awa'; She's a praw lad, a clerk in an offish." The clerk's education, mathematical ability, and lack of ancestry are emphasized
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Ford)
KEYWORDS: worker humorous nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 283-284, "Ta Clerk in ta Offish" (1 text)
Roud #13099
NOTES [22 words]: Obviously a composed song, and a strange one at that -- the dialect appears to be Scots done with a "Dutch" (stage German) accent. - RBW
File: FVS283

Clerk Saunders [Child 69]

DESCRIPTION: (Clerk Sanders) and his lady are determined to be wed despite the opposition of her seven brothers. Despite great pains to conceal their acts, they are found abed together. The brothers stab him to death and leave him in bed for his lady to find
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1802 (Scott)
KEYWORDS: courting death homicide family
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (13 citations):
Child 69, "Clerk Saunders" (7 texts)
Bronson 69, "Clerk Saunders" (3 versions)
Bronson-Singing Tradition Of Child's Popular Ballads 69, "Clerk Saunders" (2 versions: #1, #2)
Chambers-Scottish Ballads, pp. 211-217, "Clerk Saunders" (1 text)
Lyle-Andrew-Crawfurd's Collection Volume 1 44, "The Ensign and the Lady Gay" (1 text)
Whitelaw-Book Of Scottish Ballads, pp. 69-73, "Clerk Saunders" (1 text plus 2 fragments)
Leach-The Ballad Book, pp. 234-236, "Clerk Saunders" (1 text)
Quiller-Couch-Oxford Book Of Ballads 27, "Clerk Saunders" (1 text)
Friedman-Viking/Penguin Book Of Folk Ballads, p. 94, "Clerk Saunders" (1 text)
Grigson-Penguin Book Of Ballads 30, "Clark Sanders" (1 text)
Hodgart-Faber Book Of Ballads, p. 56, "Clerk Saunders" (1 text)
Morgan-Medieval Ballads-Chivalry, Romance And Everyday Life, pp. 35-37, "Clerk Sanders" (1 text)
DT 69, CLERKSAN
Roud #3855
NOTES [206 words]: David C. Fowler, A Literary History of the Popular Ballad, Duke University Press, 1968, p. 193, suggests that "Clerk Saunders" [Child 69] and "Sweet William's Ghost" [Child 77] are fragments of a single long revenant ballad, pointing to one of David Herd's texts which contains both elements. But Child split them because both items exist separately (even Herd had versions which did not combine the two). At best, I think the matter remains open.
Fowler, p. 198, compares the plot to the story of Gareth and Lyonesse in Thomas Malory's Morte D'Arthur, in which the engaged-but-not-yet-married couple are attacked while secretly visiting -- only a partial parallel, however, since Gareth survives, and his attackers are not Lyonesse's brothers.
The various tricks the lovers use, e.g. of using the sword rather than her hands to open the door, and covering her eyes when he comes in so she can say she has not seen him, are reminiscent of a trick in many versions of the Tristan legend: Isolde, on trial, crosses a brook carried on the shoulders of a beggar (who is actually Tristan in disguise). She then declares her fidelity by vowing that no man has ever come between her legs except the man who carried her across the stream. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
File: C069

Clerk's Twa Sons o Owsenford, The [Child 72]

DESCRIPTION: The clerk's two sons go to (Paris/Blomsbury/Billsbury/Berwick) to study. They lay with the mayor's two daughters. The mayor condemns them to hang. The clerk comes to buy their freedom but the mayor refuses. He tells his wife they're at a higher school.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Bronson); 1829 (Chambers) [see Notes]

KEYWORDS: adultery trial punishment execution lie family children

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord))

REFERENCES (10 citations):
Child 72, "The Clerk's Twa Sons o Owsenford" (4 texts)
Bronson 72, "The Clerk's Twa Sons o Owsenford" (2 versions)
Chambers-ScottishBallads, pp. 306-311, "The Clerk's Twa Sons o' Owsenford" (1 text)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 237-238, "The Clerk's Twa Sons o Owsenford" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan8 1931, "Do Weel My Sons" (1 fragment)
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 53, "The Clerk's Twa Sons o Owsenford" (1 text)
Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 53, "The Clerk's Twa Sons o Owsenford" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 231-233, "The Clerk's Twa Sons o' Owsenford" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers, The Scottish Ballads (Edinburgh: William Tait, 1829 ("Digitized by Microsoft")), pp. 306-311, "The Clerk's Twa Sons o' Owsenford" (1 text)

NOTES [1307 words]: Bronson notes that both his tunes have texts mixed with "The Wife of Usher's Well." Since, however, both those texts appear to be composite, there is no proof that the two songs are related except that both involve sending children away for education (standard practice among the English nobility in the Middle Ages, even if "education" at the time meant training in weapons). - RBW

Chambers is the source for Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads.

Chambers (1829), footnote p. 306: "This singularly wild and beautiful old ballad is chiefly taken from the recitation of the editor's grandmother; (who learned it when a girl, nearly seventy years ago....); some additional stanzas and a few various readings, being adapted from a less perfect, and far less poetical copy, published in Mt Buchan's 'Ancient and Modern Ballads,' and from a fragment in the Border Minstrelsy, entitles 'The Wife of Usher's Well,' but which is evidently the same narrative."

Child 72A, writes Child, is from a manuscript of the text as sung by Chambers's grandmother, but "as sung [contrary to Chambers's statement], had a sequel of six stanzas, which is found separately [Child 79B] and seems to belong with another ballad, 'The Wife of Usher's Well.'" So we can take Chambers/Whitlaw-Ballads apart to see how it was constructed, how the Buchan and Scott texts are incorporated, and whether they belong to this ballad at all.

In the following analysis of Chambers, Kinloch A is Child 72A from Chambers' grandmother, Buchan is Child 72C, Scott is Child 79A, "The Wife of Usher's Well," and Kinloch B is Child 79B which is either from Chambers' grandmother (per Child) or an adaptation of Scott (per Chambers).

Chambers II.1-8: The clerk's two sons are sent to Parish for higher education and, within a year, they are sleeping with the mayor's daughters. [Kinloch A II.1-8 to Parish; Buchan II.1-4,17-20 to Billsbury]

Chambers II.9-12: The clerks learn, the ladies sing, and there's "mirth" in the ladies' chamber. [Buchan II.21-24]

Chambers II.13-20: The mayor hears that his daughters are sleeping with the clerk's sons and declares that he will hang them. [Kinloch A II.9-16; Buchan II.25-32.]

Chambers II.21-26: Word comes [no messenger is mentioned: see Buchan II.33-68] to the clerk that his sons are in prison; his wife instructs the clerk... [Kinloch A II.17-22]

Chambers II.27-30: ...to take gold and ransom at least one of the brothers. [Kinloch A II.23-26; Buchan II.77-80]

Chambers II.31-32: The clerk sets out that night [viz., the nightingale is singing]... [Buchan II.89-90]
Chambers l.33-34: ...and arrives at Parish.
Chambers l.35-38: The clerk rides around the prison and sees his sons at a window. [Buchan l.93-96]
Chambers l.39-42: The clerk asks his sons whether they are being bound for thievery or some other offense. [Kinloch A l.27-30]
Chambers l.43-46: The sons say they are not being bound for thievery but for love. [Kinloch A l.31-34; Buchan l.101-104]
Chambers l.47-50: The sons ask to be ransomed and the clerk says he will ransom them. [Buchan l.105-108]
Chambers l.51-54: The clerk meets the mayor and offers a ransom for his sons. [Kinloch A 35-38; Buchan l.109-110, 115-116]
Chambers l.55-56: or, the clerk asks whether his sons might be freed without ransom. [Kinloch A ll.39-40; Buchan l.117-118 asks for Christ's sake]
Chambers l.57-58: The mayor doesn't accept ransom. [Kinloch A l.41-42; Buchan l.119-120]
Chambers l.59-60: The mayor won't free the clerk's sons without ransom. [Kinloch A l.43-44]
Chambers l.61-64: When the mayor says the clerk's sons will hang the next morning the mayor's daughters speak to the mayor. [Kinloch A l.45-48; Buchan l.121-124]
Chambers l.65-66: The daughters cry. [Buchan l.125-126]
Chambers l.67-68: The daughters offer ransom. [Kinloch A l.48-50; Buchan l.127-128]
------------------ [Kinloch A l.51-58: The mayor rejects the daughters' request and says the clerk's sons will hang the next morning.]
Chambers l.69-98: The mayor whips his daughters and both he and the clerk would have them return to their bowers. Each son proposes marriage to a daughter and is accepted, while the mayor looks on. Unaffected [?], the mayor prepares to hang the clerk's sons, but has them remove their black hats so no one will know that clerks are being hanged. [Buchan l. 131-158] [To execute a clerk was for long illegal because of the benefit of clergy - RBW]
------------------ [Kinloch A ll.59-62: The clerk's sons are hanged and the mayor tells the clerk to go home.]
Chambers l.99-100: The clerks die in the morning and the mayor's daughters die at noon. [Buchan l.159-160]
Chambers l.101-102: The clerk goes home.
Chambers l.103-118: The clerk's wife, waiting for his return, asks the clerk about her sons. He says they are in a deeper place and higher school and won't return until Yule. She goes to bed, declaring she won't rise, eat or drink. [Kinloch A l.63-78; this is the end of Kinloch A]
Chambers l.119-122: At Yule (Christmas) the sons return wearing hats of bark. [Kinloch B l.1-4; Scott 17-20, at Martinmas (28 Nov)]
Chambers l.123-126: The bark of their hats is not earthly, but is from Paradise. [Scott l.21-24]
Chambers l.127-130: The clerk's wife would have fires lit and water brought for a feast since her sons are "well." [Kinloch B l.5-8; Scott l.25-28]
Chambers l.131-134: The clerk's wife tells everyone to eat and drink because her sons have returned forever.
Chambers l.135-146: The mother makes her sons' bed and covers them with her mantle. The cock crows and the older son tells the younger that they must leave. [Kinloch B l.9-16; Scott l.29-36]
Chambers l.143-146: The older brother warns that, if they delay, the grave worms will complain and they will be missed. [Scott l.41-44]
Chambers l.147-154: The younger brother would stay a while, else their mother will go mad. They hang up their mother's mantle and, while it hangs, they'll remain covered. [Kinloch B l.17-24; this is the end of Kinloch B]
Chambers's description -- "chiefly taken from the recitation of the editor's grandmother... some additional stanzas, and a few various readings, being adapted from a... copy, published in Mr Buchan's 'Ancient and Modern Ballads,' [Child 72C] and from a fragment in the Border Minstrelsy, entitled, 'The Wife of Usher's Well;' [Child 79A] but which is evidently the same narrative" [footnote, p. 306] is borne out by the analysis.
Chambers's assumption that Scott was "evidently the same narrative" was reasonable in light of Scott's own comment about his text: "a fragment never before published" and the disappearance of "The Wife of Usher's Well" in Scotland. However -- among our meager set of texts for "The Clerk's Twa Sons o' Owsenford" -- there is no text other than Scott derivatives that have the dead sons returning. Buchan l.161-166, for example, has the clerk and his wife die and go to heaven with their sons and the mayor's daughters while the mayor goes to hell.
On the other hand, it's not entirely out of the question that there was a text that would justify Chambers's assumption. There are foreshadowings of such a return in some versions. In Greig/Duncan8 their mother warns the sons - before they set out - to do well or they won't see her at Yule. Child 72B [Robertson] and 72C [Buchan] have the message that comes to the clerk and his wife include a fear that they will not see their sons at Yule. Finally, when the clerk returns home after his sons are hanged he says - Chambers, Kinloch A, and Child 72D [Motherwell] - that they won't return till Yule.

Finally, as a side note, only Buchan has the messenger sequence - a messenger is sought, found, instructed to run swim and jump the wall, follows those instructions, and delivers the message - so common in the tradition. Is this a Buchan addition? - BS

Last updated in version 4.0
File: C072

Clerks of Parch's Cove, The

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas early one bright morning in the merry month of May, We all went up to Warrenton to have a jolly play." The store owner goes to a funeral. In his absence, drunks call themselves store clerks and clean out the store at prices that bankrupt the owner

AUTHOR: Bill Gross, according to Arnold's informant Janie Barnard Couch

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama)

KEYWORDS: commerce funeral drink robbery

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, pp. 26-27, "The Clerks of Parch's Cove" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5112
File: Arno026

Click Go the Shears

DESCRIPTION: A description of shearing life: The race to shear the most sheep, the boss complaining of the quality, the constant clicking of the shears. The rules for shearing are briefly mentioned. Chorus: "Click, click, click, that's how the shears go...."

AUTHOR: unknown (music by Henry Clay Work: "Ring the Bell, Watchman")

EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (collected by John Meredith)

KEYWORDS: sheep work contest

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (9 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, p. 24, "Click, Click, That's How the Shears Go"; pp. 193-194, "Click Go the Shears" (2 texts, 2 tunes; the first of these does not use the standard Henry Clay Work tune)
Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 152-153, "Click Go the Shears" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fahey-PintPotAndBilly, pp. 56-57, "Click Go the Shears" (1 text, 1 tune)
Paterson/Fahey/Seal-OldBushSongs-CentenaryEdition, pp. 180-183, "Click Go the Shears" (1 text)
Ward-PenguinBookOfAustralianBallads, pp. 120-121, "Click Go the Shears" (1 text)
DT, CLKSHEAR*

Bill Beatty, _A Treasury of Australian Folk Tales & Traditions_, 1960 (I use the 1969 Walkabout Paperbacks edition), pp. 291-292, "Click Go the Shears" (1 text)
Matthew Richardson, _Once a Jolly Swagman: The Ballad of Waltzing Matilda_, Melbourne University Press, 2006, pp. 45-46, "Click Go the Shears" (1 text)
Roud #8398

RECORDINGS:
John Greenway, "Click Go the Shears" (on JGreenway01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ring the Bell, Watchman" (tune)

NOTES [327 words]: According to Richardson, p. 45, this is the "second most popular bush song" (presumably behind "Waltzing Matilda").

There is a fair amount of specialized vocabulary in this song:
A "blade-shearer" is one who shears with hand-shears, known as "blades" (NewZealandDictionary, pp. 21-22). "Blades" were eventually replaced by mechanical shearing machinery (Ramson, p. 62).
A "blow" is a shearing stroke, "especially as 'long blow'" (NewZealandDictionary, p. 23), although Ramson typically refers to "wide blows" and "wide blades". A "blue-bellied" ewe or "joe" has no wool on the belly and so can be sheared quickly. Some versions refer to the animal as "bare-bellied." The "board" is the technical name for the floor on which the sheep are shorn (Morris, p. 40, quoting the 1893 Melbourne Herald).

A "Colonial Experience man" was "a young man learning the squatting business" (Morris, p. 94) -- in essence, a young person from the city, or Britain, or somewhere, who didn't know the habits of the bush. Similar to "Jackaroo."

The "crutch" is "the hindquarters of a sheep" (Ramson, p. 184), giving rise to a verb, "to crutch," for shearing the wool in this area. A "Jackaroo" was "a name for a Colonial Experience... a young man fresh from England, leaning squatting... Compare the American 'tenderfoot' (Morris, p. 215).

The "ringer" was "the man who by his superior skill and experience 'tops the score' -- that is, shears the highest number of sheep per day" (Morris, p. 389, quoting the 1890 Argus). "Shouting" or a "Shouter": A "shout" was a free drink (Morris, p. 417), so "shouting" was offering free drinks, and a "shouter" was one who bought them.

"Tar" was like any tar in that it hardened and worked as a sealant, but it was not made from a petroleum product; the tar used on sheep was "made from fine resins and... used... for anointing cuts made in sheep's skin during shearing" (NewZealandDictionary, pp. 270-271, in the entry on "Stockholm tar")

- RBW

Bibliography

- Morris: Edward E. Morris, A Dictionary of Austral English, 1898 (I use the 1972 Sydney University Press with a new foreword but no new content)
- Richardson: Matthew Richardson, Once a Jolly Swagman: The Ballad of Waltzing Matilda, Melbourne University Press, 2006

Last updated in version 5.2
File: MA024

Cliffs of Baccalieu, The

DESCRIPTION: "We were homebound in October from the shores of Labrador) when a storm blows up, making visibility poor. The crew spots the deadly island of Baccalieu at the last moment and, with the ships lee rails going under, manages to turn to avoid the rocks"

AUTHOR: Jack Withers (1899-1964)

EARLIEST DATE: 1979 (recording, Ryan's Fancy, but definitely older, as it is found in the Leach archives); a post at Mudcat dates it 1934

KEYWORDS: ship escape storm

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- DT, BACALIEU
- "(no title)" (1 text)

NOTES [428 words]: Although apparently a composed song, it has become so well-known in Newfoundland that many sources (including the DT lyrics page, Stan Rogers, and Feltham) list it as traditional. At this point, I think it "is" traditional, even though it may well still be in copyright. According to Philip Hiscock's notes to this song in West, p. 54, it was written for a radio serial, "The Adventures of the Irene B. Mellon." Jack Withers wrote and directed the show; the song first appeared in April 1934, and obviously took off from there.

Another Hiscock article, "Folk Process In A Popular Medium: The 'Irene B. Mellon Radio Programme, 1934-1941," on pp. 177-190 of Thomas/Widdowson, discusses the program at length. "The 'Irene B. Mellon' was a serial programme, which is to say that the story continued from one episode to the next. It took place on board an old three-masted Newfoundland schooner with a crew of eight men and a stowaway little girl" (pp. 181-182) and had a complex series of adventures involving everything from gangsters to spies to U-boats. Jack Withers, in addition to writing the show, was the ship's captain (and his daughter Marie played the girl stowaway). The rest of the "crew" was mostly amateur musicians. The show was never recorded, but the large majority of the scripts survive (p. 182).

The show had a complicated history, being initially broadcast on upstart station VOGY. VONF, the "Voice of Newfoundland," soon swallowed VOGY, and the show was canceled, but revived on a new independent station, VOCM ("Voice of the Common Man"; pp. 182-183). The show finally went off the air in 1941; all of the performers had other jobs, and when the Americans arrived in Newfoundland (the main staging area for getting American supplied to Britain, and the base for anti-submarine patrols), they found it easier to support the war work, so there was no one to keep the show alive (p. 185). But it became a legend; people even believed the show and the ship were real, and took action to try to help the Mellon.

Interestingly, Hiscock says that this is the only song Jack Withers ever wrote! (p. 183). But several other songs which seem to have become traditional in Newfoundland originated on the program ("My Father's Old Sou'wester") or at least gained fame from it ("The Squid-Jiggin' Ground").

Baccalieu was a famous trouble spot and Newfoundland landmark; StoryKirwinWiddowson, p. 12, says that it was the standard point of navigation for many sailors -- so much so that it became a proverb: "wherever you are, steer northwest for Baccalieu." - RBW

Bibliography

- West: Eric West, Sing Around This One: Songs of Newfoundland & Labrador Vol. 2, Vinland Music, 1997

Last updated in version 5.2
File: DTbacali

Clifton Tragedy, The

DESCRIPTION: "A gray-haried mother knelt in prayer
Before the holy light And the image of Christ was there...." She prays to "He, who... changed a raging tempest To a calm...." But the storm raged on, and the Clifton sank. The crew begged for mercy on their souls

AUTHOR: probably Peter Gallagher

EARLIEST DATE: before 1952 (Helan Collar collection, included in the Walton collection)

KEYWORDS: ship sailor wreck death religious

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sep 21/22, 1924 - Loss of the _Clifton_

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 179-180, "The Clifton Tragedy" (1 text)

Roud #19835

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Seaman's Lament" (subject: The Clifton Wreck)
cf. "The Clifton's Crew" (subject: The Clifton Wreck)
cf. "The Clifton" (subject: The Clifton Wreck)

NOTES [338 words]: Bruce D. Berman's Encyclopedia of American Shipwrecks (Mariner's Press, 1972) says that the Clifton, built 1892, foundered on the night of September 21, 1924; Walton says September 22. I would assume this is the same night. Walton says she went down with all hands; Berman that there were 27 men lost.

David Ritchie, Shipwrecks: An Encyclopedia of the World's Worst Disasters at Sea, 1996 (I use the 1999 Checkmark paperback edition), pp. 46-47, has extensive notes on the Clifton mystery. It was a "pig boat" or "whaleback," a craft designed with a very rounded bow, stern, and sides. These were designed to roll through Great Lakes storms -- and in fact most of them had admirable safety records. But they were not especially easy to maneuver. The Clifton was worse than usual in this regard, because it had special loading equipment which made it very top-heavy.

The Clifton took on a load of crushed rock on September 20, 1924 at Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin, and headed for Detroit. A storm blew up during the voyage, but the boats which saw it on its journey reported no signs of trouble. Clifton was last seen by the tug Favorite off Forty Mile Point. When the boat failed to reach its destination, a search was started, by air and water. Although wreckage was found almost at once, it took some time before the Glencairn found debris which could definitely be associated with the Clifton. One of the things recovered was the ship's clock, which had stopped at about four o'clock; presumably that was when the boat went down.

It is unlikely that there was anything mechanically wrong with the Clifton, which had sound engines and had been recently inspected. The cause of her loss is unknown. The suspicion, though, is that it had something to do with the way her deck equipment or hatches were designed.

This may be the most explicitly Catholic song I have ever seen among sailors; the sailors pray less to God or Jesus than to Mary. Presumably Captain Emmett Gallagher and his family were Catholic.

- RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: QGM179

Clifton, The

DESCRIPTION: "Steaming out of the Straits of Mackinac, She blew her last salute, Five whistles told her company's name...." The Clifton sails for Detroit with a cargo of stone. A storm blows up without warning. The ships sinks without warning. The ships sinks with all hands

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1952 (Walton collection)
KEYWORDS: ship disaster death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sep 21/22, 1924 - Loss of the _Clifton_
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 184-185, "The Clifton" (1 defective text, source unknown)
Roud #19838
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Clifton Tragedy" (subject: The Clifton Wreck) and references and notes there
File: WGM184

Clifton's Crew, The

DESCRIPTION: "We have heard of many happenings since last year first began, With crimes and troubles caused by war and earthquakes in Japan," but the wreck of the Clifton brought sorrow hom. The singer lists some of the dead, and hopes for their salvation

AUTHOR: probably Pat Bonner
EARLIEST DATE: 2002 (Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, which does not list an informant)
KEYWORDS: ship wreck religious family
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sep 21/22, 1924 - Loss of the _Clifton_
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 181-184, "The Clifton's Crew" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #19837
RECORDINGS:
Patrick Bonner, "The Clifton's Crew" (1938; on WaltonSailors -- curiously, although recorded from the supposed author, the recording begins with the ninth verse of the printed text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Clifton Tragedy" (subject: The Clifton Wreck) and references and notes there
NOTES [64 words]: The notes in Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors note
Climbing High Mountains, Trying To Get Home
DESCRIPTION: "I am climbing high mountains, trying to get home" (2x), "I am climbing high mountains" (2x), "I am climbing high mountains trying to get home". "I am bearing my burdens...." "The road is rough and rocky...." "I will see my mother when I get home...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (USWMcTell01)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
Roud #12104
RECORDINGS:
Blind Willie McTell, "Climbing High Mountains, Tryin' To Get Home" (on USWMcTell01)

Climbing Up My Old Apple Tree
DESCRIPTION: Singer explains to Bridget why he is climbing the tree. "I'm not stealing apples, so I can explain. The wind blewed high and knocked 'em down. We're picking them up again!"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1974 (recording, Jasper Smith)
KEYWORDS: theft food humorous nonballad talltale
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
RECORDINGS:
Jasper Smith, "Climbing Up My Old Apple Tree" (on Voice14)

Climbing Up the Golden Stairs
DESCRIPTION: Advice for getting into heaven. The listener is warned against bribing Peter, and is told of the sights on the Golden Stairs. Chorus: "Then hear them bells a-ringing, 'Tis sweet I do declare, To hear the darkies singing, Climbing up the golden stairs."
AUTHOR: unknown (credited on Kanawha Singers recording to "Heiser")
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (recordings, Vernon Dalhart et al, Kanawha Singers)
KEYWORDS: religious music Bible clergy
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 301, "Climbin' Up the Golden Stairs" (1 text)
Roud #7779
RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart & Carson J. Robison w. Adelyne Hood, "Climbing up de Golden Stairs" (Conqueror 7176, 1928)
Frank Welling & John McGhee, "Climbing Up the Golden Stairs" (Champion 15567, 1928)
Kanawha Singers, "Climbing Up de Golden Stairs" (Brunswick 205, 1928)
[John Wallace "Babe"] Spangler & [Dave] Pearson, "Climbing Up the Golden Stairs" (OKeh, unissued, 1929)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ridin' on de Cable Car" (tune)
File: R301

Climbing Up the White House Stairs
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, the fourth of march is coming, And the cannons will be bummying, Climbing up..."
the White House Stairs. Cleveland will be there, to occupy the chair." The song lists various women "climbing up the white house stairs" to court the bachelor president

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)

KEYWORDS: political humorous marriage

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Sep 1874 - Birth to the widowed Maria Halpin of Oscar Folsom Cleveland, the illegitimate son of Grover Cleveland (making it obvious that Cleveland was interested in women)

Mar 4, 1885 - Cleveland, who was not married at the time, inaugurated president for the first time

Jun 2, 1886 - 49-year-old Cleveland marries 23-year-old Frances Folsom at the White House (not the first time a President had gotten married while in office -- John Tyler had done it -- but he was the first to get married in the White House)

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 136, "Climbing Up the White House Stairs" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11343

NOTES [508 words]: The existence of Grover Cleveland's illegitimate son was an issue in his presidential campaigns -- witness the anti-Cleveland jingle, "Ma! Ma! Where's my pa? Gone to the White House, ha! ha! ha!" (Henry F. Graff, Grover Cleveland [a volume in the American Presidents series edited by Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr.], Times Books, 2002, p. 64) -- so little wonder that someone thought he was looking to find a wife.

I'm not sure I would have wanted to be Cleveland's wife; apart from being quite overweight ("at least 250 pounds," according to Graff, p. 60), he had had the mother of that child put in an asylum (Graff, pp. 60-61). Graff thinks Maria Halpin, the mother of the child, was a loose woman who was put away because she was an alcoholic, but when "I" hear about a politician putting a woman away, I don't think "drunken woman," I think "concealing something worse that he did." Although, to be fair, the next source I checked, William A. DeGregorio, The Complete Book of U. S. Presidents, fourth edition, Barricade Books, 1993, p. 322, tells exactly the same story.

Later, Cleveland robbed the cradle, at age 49 marrying his 21-year-old ward Frances Folsom. According to Graff, p. 78:

"[I]t was long known to Cleveland's close associates that in 1875, in the course of managing the estate of his late law partner Oscar Folsom [who had also been associated with Maria Halpin -- she had named her child Oscar Folsom Cleveland], he had grown close to Mrs. Folsom, the widow, and to their daughter, Frances, then eleven years old. He became virtually her guardian. She knew him as 'Uncle Cleve.' Her name was actually Frank, because she had been named for an uncle, and that was how Cleveland always addressed her. She took the name Frances as she grew up, regarding it as more proper for a woman. In time the newspaper people would refer to her as 'Frankie,' an appellation she detested.

"Cleveland's relations with the Folsoms were so intimate that the gossipmongers were not sure whether his close friend was the widow or the daughter. When Frank was at Wells College in Aurora, New York, Cleveland obtained the mother's permission to correspond with her. In 1885 Cleveland and the pretty, spirited young woman became betrothed. The engagement had followed a series of letter exchanges in which the president proposed marriage. But mum was the word to the public."

The wedding was originally planned for the home of Frances's grandfather, but he died shortly before the marriage and the ceremony had to be shifted to the White House. It was an odd event; John Philip Sousa himself conducted the Marine Band -- but there were only 31 guests (Graff, p. 79). Fascinatingly, Frances did not promise to love, honor, and obey, but to "loev... honor, comfort, and keep" (Graff, p. 80).

If the papers had known about their courting, no doubt speculations like this song would not have come about. But Cleveland, although known for his rigid honesty, had a frigid relationship with the press and never let out any information he could conceal. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: Brne136

Climbing Up Zion's Hills

DESCRIPTION: "If you don't mind, fathers, You'll be too late (x3), If you don't mind, fathers, You'll be too late, A-climbing up Zion's hills." "Heaven bells are ringing, I'm a-going home." "Bless the Lord, I'm almost there." Similarly for mothers, brothers, children
Clime Beneath Whose Genial Sun

DESCRIPTION: "Clime beneath whose genial sun Kings were quelled and freedom won, Where the dust of Washington Sleeps in glory's bed," farmers took up the sword to defend their rights. Judah, Greece, Rome have fallen low, but America is free; bow to (its) God

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Heart-Songs)

KEYWORDS: religious freedom nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Heart-Songs, p. 53, "Clime Beneath Whose Genial Sun" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #V28705

NOTES [54 words]: Heart-Songs lists this as an "Old Scotch Folksong." This is absurd; folk songs don't use words like "genial" and "quell'd," and why would a Scottish folk song refer to George Washington? Probably they mean that the tune is traditional. But I'm indexing the song to make it clear... that it shouldn't have to be indexed! - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0

File: HeaS053

Clock, The

DESCRIPTION: At nine the clock said "quick, quick to bed" because "you'll never hae wealth, Gin ye dinna rise in the mornin'"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan3)

KEYWORDS: warning work nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan3 658, "The Clock" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

Roud #6085

NOTES [16 words]: Greig/Duncan3 notes that there is at least a second verse but only two lines are remembered. - BS

Last updated in version 2.4

File: GrD3658

Clones Murder, The

DESCRIPTION: John Flanagan was murdered after cashing a cheque for fifty pounds. His body was discovered in Clones town eight months later. The suspect is in Armagh gaol. "He who killed John Flanagan With revengence must repay." "God comfort his poor parents"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (IRHardySons)

KEYWORDS: homicide prison money

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
December 22, 1904 - Joseph Fee is executed for the April 16, 1903 murder of John Flanigan
Clonmel Flood, The
DESCRIPTION: Sprong, loaded with Indian ale, is caught in a heavy storm in the river Suir, grounds in Duckett Street, and floats in Church Lane. They dump ballast, including Kitty Conroy’s pig. They anchor at Hearn’s Hotel. The lifeboat crew bring whiskey and stout
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads)
KEYWORDS: river commerce ship storm humorous talltale sailor animal
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 17B, "The Clonmel Flood" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9776
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The E-ri-e" (theme) and references there
NOTES [8 words]: Clonmel, South Tipperary, is on the river Suir. - BS
File: OLcM017B

Closet Key, The
DESCRIPTION: "I done lost de closet key, In dem ladies' garden, I done lost de closet key In dem ladies' garden." "Help me find de closet key...." "I done found de closet key...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: playparty nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 139, "The Closet Key" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11593
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Do, Do, Pity My Case" (lyrics) and references there
File: ScaNF139

Cloudburst, The
DESCRIPTION: "...The worst tropical storm that ever was seen... struck with force on the mountainside." A little boy begs his parents to flee, but the house comes down around them. When neighbors seek the family, they learn that three of five children have died
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935
KEYWORDS: death storm children family disaster
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol2, pp. 92-93, "The Cloudburst" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST MN2092 (Partial)
Roud #4776
File: MN2092

Clouds they Look Black Love, The DESCRIPTION: "The clouds they look black love I'm afraid it will rain"
Cloughmills Fair

DESCRIPTION: The singer is wandering toward Ballylig when he meets a "charming fair one." He asks leave to court her; she tells him she is not interested. He asks if he may walk along with her. She consents; the road is free. Now they are meeting regularly

AUTHOR: Hugh McWilliams (source: Moulden-McWilliams)
EARLIEST DATE: 1831 (according to Moulden-McWilliams)
KEYWORDS: love courting beauty
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenry'sSongsOfThePeople H121, pp. 270-271, "Cloughmills Fair" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: John Moulden, Songs of Hugh McWilliams, Schoolmaster, 1831 (Portrush, 1993), p. 12, "I'll See You in the Fair"
Roud #6921
File: HHH121

Cloughwater/The Shamrock Shore

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls coming to Philadelphia in May (18)56. He was received by friends, and is "happy and contented," but thinks often of Ireland. He remembers home, friends, family. He hopes to earn enough money to return to Erin

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: emigration homesickness
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenry'sSongsOfThePeople H610, p. 208-209, "Cloughwater/The Shamrock Shore" (1 text, 1 tune)
Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 12, "Clough Water" (1 text, 1 tune); p. 274, "Cloughwater Or 'The Shamrock Shore'" (1 text, 1 tune in tonic sol-fa, a reprint of the original Sam Henry publication)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Scarborough Settler's Lament" (theme) and references there
File: HHH610

Clown's Courtship, The

DESCRIPTION: "Quoth John to Joan, wilt thou have me?" He promises cow, calf, house, rents, "Oh, say, Joan, will not that do? I cannot come every day to woo." He gives other reasons to accept him. Her answer is not recorded

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1877 (Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland)
KEYWORDS: love courting farming money home
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, p. 375, "The Clown's Courtship" (1 text)
Cluck Old Hen

DESCRIPTION: "Cluck old hen, cluck and squall, you ain't laid an egg since way last fall." The exploits (?) of the hen are listed: "She laid eggs for the railroadmen." "The old hen cackled, cackled in the lot. Next time she cackled, she cackled in the pot"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (recording, Fiddlin' John Carson)

KEYWORDS: bird humorous nonballad chickens

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,SE)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 120, "Cluck Old Hen" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 268, "My Old Hen's a Good Old Hen" (1 short text, 1 tune, probably this)
- Jones-MinstrelOfTheAppalachians-Bascom-Lamar-Lunsford, p. 244, "Cluck, Old Hen" (1 tune)
- McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksong, pp. 146-149, "Cluck Old Hen" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, CLUCKHEN*

ADDITIONAL: James P. Leary, Compiler and Annotator, _Wisconsin Folklore_ University of Wisconsin Press, 2009, article "Kentucky Folksong in Northern Wisconsin" by Asher E. Treat, p. 249, "My Old Hen's a Good Old Hen" (1 short text, 1 tune, sung by Pearl Jacobs Borusky)

ST Wa120 (Full)

Roud #4235

RECORDINGS:
- Clarence Ashley & Tex Isley, "Cluck Old Hen" (on Ashley01)
- Clarence Ashley, Clint Howard & Doc Watson, "Cluck Old Hen" [instrumental version] (WatsonAshley01)
- Banjo Bill Cornett, "Cluck Old Hen" (on MMOK, MMOKCD)
- Al Hopkins & his Buckle Busters, "Cluck Old Hen" ((Brunswick 175, 1927; on CrowTold02; Vocalion 5179 [as the Hill Billies], 1927; on LostProv)
- Vester Jones, "Cluck Old Hen" (on GraysonCarroll1)
- Wade Ward, "Cluck Old Hen" [instrumental] (on LomaxCD1702)
- Wade Ward & Bogtrotters, "Cluck Old Hen" (on Holcomb-Ward1) (AFS, 1937; on WWard1)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Hen Cackle" (lyrics)
- cf. "Henhouse Door (Who Broke the Lock?)" (floating verses)
- cf. "Higgledy Piggledy, My Black Hen" (floating verses)

File: Wa120

Cluster of Nuts, The

DESCRIPTION: Jack and his mistress bet ten guineas on the number of nuts in a cluster. He says twelve; she says eleven. One nut has no kernel; who wins? They leave it to his master to decide; he decides in Jack's favor. She pays the ten guineas.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan7)

KEYWORDS: adultery sex gambling husband wife servant trick

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Greig/Duncan7 1431, "The Cluster of Nits" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 132-133, "The Bunch of Nuts" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 139)
Roud #1261
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 16(50c), "Cluster of Nuts" ("As me and my mistress were riding down by the greenwood side"), unknown, no date; also Harding B 11(582), "Cluster of Nuts"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Proud Pedlar" (theme: cuckolded husband settles dispute/bet between his wife and her lover)
cf. "The Farm Servant (Rap-Tap-Tap)" (theme: servant describes sex with the master's wife in hidden terms)

NOTES [88 words]: Greig/Duncan7 quoting Mrs Gillespie's explanation to Duncan decodes the story as that the master leaves home with Jack in charge. The bet between Jack and the mistress of the house is how many times Jack will succeed having sex with her. In the morning they disagree on how the count should be made. That explains her answer to Jack's "I'll leave it to my master, when he comes home at night": "Why, you fool," says she, "would you let your master know?" Jack's description of the bet seems not to raise the master's suspicion. - BS

Last updated in version 2.6
File: GrD71431

Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker

DESCRIPTION: "A couple have just paid the price For living in fool's paradise, Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker Have finally paid for their sins." Clyde, "a cheat," escapes from prison and teams up with Parker, whom he teaches to smoke. They die in a shootout

AUTHOR: Joe Hoover, according to Cohen

EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (recording, Dwight Butcher, according to Cohen)

KEYWORDS: prison crime death police

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 23, 1934 - Deaths of Clyde Barrow (born 1910) and Bonnie Parker (born 1909) near Arcadia, Louisiana

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 530-531, "Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker" (1 text)
Roud #22311

RECORDINGS:
Joe Smith (pseud. for Dwight Butcher), "Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker" (Bluebird B5521, 1934)

File: CAFS2530

Coachman's Whip

DESCRIPTION: Singer takes a job with young lady who needs a coachman to "drive her in style." He drives her "ten times round the room"; she asks for a look at his whip. He takes her riding, but on the first turn breaks a spring; her maid takes the next ride

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Pinto & Rodway, from a Nottingham broadside)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer takes a job as coachman; his employer is a young lady who informs him that she needs a coachman to "drive her in style." He drives her "ten times round the room"; she takes him to the cellar and feeds him whisky, then asks for a look at his whip. After holding it, she says, smiling, that by the look and length of it they could go ten miles. He takes her riding, but on the first turn breaks a spring; she calls for her serving maid, saying that while her spring is being repaired "I'll let him drive you for a while"

KEYWORDS: sex work drink bawdy humorous servant

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South,West))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 172, "The Coachman's Whip" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, COACHMN*
Roud #862

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Chandler's Wife" (plot)
cf. "The Farm Servant (Rap-Tap-Tap)" (plot)
Coaker's Dream

DESCRIPTION: The singer dreams of William Coaker's death, rejection at Heaven, and acceptance and advancement in Hell. Coaker's plan to replace the Devil as boss is foiled; he is condemned to the furnace. The dreamer wakes before Coaker is demolished.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports; MUNFLA/Leach)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Coaker dies in the singer's dream. "Somehow underhanded" he got to Heaven, but is turned away by St. Peter. The Devil greets him: "I've been looking for you a long time." He talks the Devil into appointing him -- being the only Newfoundlander in Hell -- boss when the Devil leaves. When the Devil does go "out" Coaker runs an election to exile the Devil and make himself boss of Hell. Coaker loses. The Devil asks the crowd what is to be done, and they condemn Coaker to the furnace. He is headed into the furnace when the dreamer wakes.

KEYWORDS: rejection death dream humorous political Devil

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

1871-1938 - Life of William Ford Coaker

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 84-87, "Coaker's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #18204

RECORDINGS:

Frank Knox, "The Coaker Song" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Ned Rice, "Coaker's Dream" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

NOTES [3024 words]: Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports has a detailed review of William Ford Coaker's controversial life as a Newfoundland union organizer and politician from the turn of the century until the late 1930s. - BS

It was quite a career, and little wonder that no one trusted him at the end. The idea of something coming to him in a vision is perhaps not far-fetched. O'Flaherty, p. 249, says "He believed literally in the existence of an afterlife.... He claimed that living so long 'close to nature' cast him 'in a special mould,' which was not a word of a lie. This strange man had been active in district-level Liberal politics, and perhaps had even flirted with Tories, prior to 1908, but the 'Black Fall' of that year convinced him that a new politics was needed. He told the delegates in 1909 that 'something,' meaning divinity, 'inspired me to go ahead' with the 'mighty work' of forming the [Fishermen's Protective] Union."

Busch, p. 87, calls him "a strange, magnetic, gifted, melancholy, austere man, [who] had a greater vision in his mind than another craft union."

Coaker (1871-1938) was born in St. John's, Newfoundland, the son of carpenter, and left school young, in 1885 (DictNewfLabrador, p. 60; Hiller/Neary, p. 155; Major, p. 258, says he was thirteen; Noel, p. 78, says he was only eleven; Clarke, p. 260, says that he was between eleven and fourteen), although that still meant that he had a better education than most of his contemporaries. As early as 1884 had organized local fish handlers to strike for better wages. He drifted through several jobs, leaving St. John's at the age of sixteen (Noel, p. 78). His small business failed in the Newfoundland bank crash of 1894 (Cadigan, p. 178). He by then was involved in farming, on an isolated island, perhaps because he knew so little about fishing (Noel, p. 78; according to O'Flaherty, p. 248, "His farm appears to have been the only human activity on the island" -- and adds on p. 249 that "He seemed to relish the isolation of the island"). He also worked a great many odd jobs (Clarke, p. 261). Eventually he put together a real union, the Fisherman's Protective Union (FPU), in 1909 (Cadigan, p. 178). This even though he personally seems to have preferred the seclusion of the farm to living among or working with others (Noel, p. 78). But he started visiting small towns and meeting halls, walking or accepting wagon rides or even snowshoeing in the harsh Newfoundland winters (Noel, pp. 82-83).

The time was ripe for some sort of labor organization in Newfoundland. Newfoundland changed in the late nineteenth century in subtle but dramatic ways. "The principle hallmark of these alterations had been St John's rapid rise to ascendency over the island's commercial affairs, a process which went after Captain Abram Kean (for whom see "Captain Abram Kean"). Despite his terrible
After the 1914 Newfoundland Disaster (for which see "The Newfoundland Disaster (I)"), Coaker even though Coaker was entitled to the post (Noel, p. 118).
well, and so allowed the new Liberal leader, J. M. Kent, to fill the role of Leader of the Opposition, Interestingly, Coaker still had humility enough to realize that he did not know legislative procedure party (Busch, p. 88).
only to see the Liberals swamped, in no small part because the Liberals and FPU still didn't trust strategy (Hiller/Neary, p. 164) and allying with the Liberal party in 1913 (DictNewfLabrador, p. 61) -- the group to in many ways resemble the Orange Lodge, which was strong in Newfoundland Cadigan, p. 179; according to Noel, p. 82, his first speech on behalf of his Big Union was in an Orange Hall; Clarke, p. 263, has a photo of that Orange Hall and on p. 261 says he had actually founded an Orange Lodge earlier in his life). He didn't just set out to improve the fishermen's bargaining position; he wanted a complex system of government involvement and a union-based business, the Union Trading Company (Cadigan, p. 179 -- a plan for his union to buy products in bulk and distribute them to members at prices they couldn't get otherwise; Noel, p. 86). He also wanted more power for the outports, and "called for free and compulsory education, outpost night schools, non-denominational schools in settlements not large enough to support separate schools for the different religious sects, small town hospitals, and universal old age pensions" (Noel, p. 156) -- all except possibly the last now known to be definitely good things, but very expensive.
"Single-handedly, Coaker revolutionized the lives of Newfoundland's outport fishermen. He gave to members at prices they couldn't get otherwise; Noel, p. 86). He also wanted more power for the outports, and "called for free and compulsory education, outpost night schools, non-denominational schools in settlements not large enough to support separate schools for the different religious sects, small town hospitals, and universal old age pensions" (Noel, p. 156) -- all except possibly the last now known to be definitely good things, but very expensive.
"Single-handedly, Coaker revolutionized the lives of Newfoundland's outport fishermen. He gave to members at prices they couldn't get otherwise; Noel, p. 86). He also wanted more power for the outports, and "called for free and compulsory education, outpost night schools, non-denominational schools in settlements not large enough to support separate schools for the different religious sects, small town hospitals, and universal old age pensions" (Noel, p. 156) -- all except possibly the last now known to be definitely good things, but very expensive.
"Single-handedly, Coaker revolutionized the lives of Newfoundland's outport fishermen. He gave to members at prices they couldn't get otherwise; Noel, p. 86). He also wanted more power for the outports, and "called for free and compulsory education, outpost night schools, non-denominational schools in settlements not large enough to support separate schools for the different religious sects, small town hospitals, and universal old age pensions" (Noel, p. 156) -- all except possibly the last now known to be definitely good things, but very expensive.
"Single-handedly, Coaker revolutionized the lives of Newfoundland's outport fishermen. He gave mistakes which were largely responsible for the disaster, Kean utterly rejected any notion of blame, and quickly became involved in litigation with Coaker (for Kean's side, see Kean, pp. 31-37 or so). Kean really did bear a lot of blame, and Coaker was mostly right, but because Kean was considered so skilled a sealing captain, Kean was not dismissed and Coaker had to give in and make partial apologies. Coaker did manage to pass some minor reforms in 1914, at least (Busch, p. 88).

But then came World War I, forcing all parties in Newfoundland to work together (Noel, pp. 120-121). It was a disaster for Coaker and the FPU (and everyone else, of course, but in a different way). There should have been an election during the war, but (to vastly simplify) the government suspended the constitution and bought off some of the opposition by inducing the British government to give Prime Minister Morris (whom the FPU hated) a peerage and send him off to Britain, never to return (Noel, pp. 124-125).

Coaker also was forced to support conscription, against the wishes of his members (Long, p. 27; Noel, pp. 126-127; Harris, p. 78, says he didn't have to do so but apparently felt it his duty as part of a unity government). He also supported prohibition, and many people, especially Irish Catholics, never forgave him or the FPU for that, either (Noel, pp. 132-133). Worse, the Catholic Archbishop Howley hated the FPU, and for a time forbid Catholics to join on the grounds that it was a secret society; even after the FPU changed its rules, Howley had nothing good to say of them (Hiller/Neary, p. 163). Those facts also made an alliance with the regular craft unions impossible (Noel, p. 135). And even as he was supporting those unpopular decisions, the war period took some of the newness off the FPU, and gave the merchants time to learn how to deal with it -- especially since the parliamentary majority for practical purposes turned the conduct of the war over to the merchants of St. John's who were the enemies of the FPU (Noel, p. 121). Noel thinks that, if the war had not come, the FPU would have taken over the government in the next election. But "by 1919 the impetus was spent" (Noel, p. 116).

In the election of 1919, Coaker made an understandable but costly mistake. He allied the FPU to Richard Squires (Noel, p. 141; Hiller/Neary, p. 168), allowing Squires to lead the coalition ticket. The Liberal Reform/FPU forces won the election, taking 23 seats to 13 for the People's Party (Noel, p. 295), and Coaker became Minister of Marines and Fisheries (Noel, p. 291), but Squires was completely untrustworthy and associating with him didn't get Coaker what he wanted (Hiller/Neary, p. 169) and surely tarnished him badly. (Among other things, Squires increased Newfoundland's national debt by more than 40% in just four years; Noel, p. 152. He also took at least $63,000 in graft -- the equivalent of millions today -- Hiller/Neary, p. 181. Coaker apparently didn't trust Squires at all -- Squires had taken advantage of him over conscription -- but in the short term saw no other way to gain influence; Hiller/Neary, p. 182. When Squires's corruption came out, some suspected Coaker was also involved; although it was later shown that he clearly wasn't, his exoneration didn't help; Hiller/Neary, p. 190.)

The new power he had gained allowed Coaker to pass a series of reforms of fishing regulation, but bad timing caused them to fail -- and meant that he got the blame (Noel, pp. 145-147). Indeed, it arguably did permanent damage to the economics of the fishery, and it meant that many refused to trust him thereafter (Noel, p. 150). R. M. Elliott also suggests that the legislation was "not forceful enough" (Hiller/Neary, p. 183) -- the effect, presumably, of Coaker not being in position to really control the government. And some of his reforms were repealed in 1921 anyway (Major, p. 360). In 1923, Coaker decided he was tired of politics and wanted to return to organizing (Hiller/Neary, p. 169), but he couldn't seem to stick with his resolution, retiring and un-retiring several times (DictNewfLabrador, pp. 61-62). According to Hiller/Neary, p. 189, the instability caused by the Squires scandals contributed to this -- after Squires was forced out in 1923, the government needed Coaker, and he joined despite a lack of enthusiasm, but then the new premier Warren's government collapsed. Coaker was actually offered the chance to form a government after that, but refused (Hiller/Neary, p. 195) -- probably realizing that he could not form a stable coalition and would just come out looking bad. He had a point; the Hickman ministry that was eventually cobbled together lasted all of a month (Noel, p. 292; O'Flaherty, p. 324, implies that Coaker was the power behind the premier minister anyway).

Ironically, although the FPU emerged from the investigation of Squires with an entirely clean bill of moral health, it still suffered from association with Squires (who somehow escaped indictment) and all the shenanigans of the era; the opposition made the FPU the main focus of their campaign (Hiller/Neary, p. 195).

To add to his problems, Coaker could be accused of taking advantage of his power; in 1928, he bought a home in Jamaica, where he went in winter, allegedly to deal with a bronchial condition (Long, p. 58). These odd choices surely didn't help his cause; they just made him look bad. Noel's epitaph, on p. 216, is that he suffered a "sad and puzzling personal decline," which I think is true.
Yet he was also the man who predicted, in 1926, that "in my opinion the day is not far distant when the country will be forced to decide, probably with its back to the wall, whether it will be governed by a Commission elected by the people, by nominees of the British Government governing as a Crown Colony, or as a poverty-stricken Godforsaken Island administered as a province of Canada" (Hiller/Neary, p. 172). In effect, all three came true in one form or another in the next quarter century. If anyone else in Newfoundland had had such prophetic sense, the island might have been spared much agony.

"Ed Roberts... suggested that Newfoundland's political history... cannot be understood without examining the contribution of William Coaker.... In contrast to most labour figures of his time, Coaker was not a socialist, though some of his comrades in the FPU were. He had more in common with the farmer-progressive movements of Western Canada and their appeals for group government and direct democracy, as the course of his political ideas eventually demonstrated. Coaker's failure to achieve lasting benefits for the 'toiling masses' of the Newfoundland outports is usually cited as the last great effort to save the country before the onslaught of the Depression" (Long, p. 12).

A lot of Coaker's ideas were laudable, e.g. his demand for a standard system for grading the quality of fish (the old system let the buyers both grade the fish and set the prices; Noel, p. 98) and his demand for free public education (Noel, p. 99). A lot of them were utterly impractical, too -- e.g. an automatic forgiveness of debts after two years (Noel, p. 99) and an unfunded pension reform (Noel, pp. 99-100) -- and he gradually became more and more disillusioned. As Newfoundland -- which had been deeply in debt for most of his life, and had never really been properly governed -- slid into the Great Depression, the one-time radical leftist decided that Newfoundland's answer was fascism (Cadigan, pp. 203-204). He was quite open to the idea of Newfoundland giving up its Dominion status and again being ruled by a British commission -- which is what happened in 1934 (Cadigan, p. 208); indeed, it was a variation on a suggestion he had made in the 1920s, though he seems to have favored a larger, more local, time-limited commission (Hiller/Neary, p. 171). It was the only answer he saw to Newfoundland's toxic party (and religious) divisions (Long, p. 19, and indeed that entire chapter of his book).

Coaker frankly strikes me as a rebel-without-a-cause; he wanted change, he knew things had to change, but he had no idea how to change them. And so, as often as not, he made things worse. Still, Clarke, p. 269, cites historian Ian MacDonald to the effect that Coaker had made an indirect difference: He made Newfoundlanders believe in their ability to run their own affairs and to turn away from their governing elite, plus it gave the fishermen pride in their work and their role.

Major, p. 358 has a photo of Coaker, in a suit; Clarke, p. 267, has one which he dates to c. 1919. I must admit that this rather handsome, elaborately dressed man is not at all what I imagined a labor organizer would look like. On p. 361, Major has a photograph of his grave site, which he accurately describes as having a "pseudo-grandeur"; it's a big plot with a low wall and a stair on a low rise leading to the grave itself; it looks like someone wanted to build a palace and forgot the inner buildings.

I can't help notice an item that didn't become folklore, but has a folkloric feel to it. In 1919, as he entered the cabinet, a schooner President Coaker was built by supporters of the FPU. In 1923, it set out on a trip to South America. Somewhere on its return trip, probably early in 1924, it vanished (Parson, pp. 201-205).

Incidentally, not all popular poetry about Coaker was hostile, although I have yet to see anything else about him that went into tradition. But Noel, pp. 88-89, quotes a couple of pieces (the source being apparently the writings of Joseph Smallwood) that make him almost a prophet or deliverer:

We are coming Mr. Coaker...
We are ready and a-waiting, strong and solid, firm and bold,
To be led by you like Moses led the Israelites of old.
Harris, p. 74, has a verse, "We are coming, Mr. Coaker, and we're forty thousand strong." - RBW

Bibliography

- Cadigan: Sean T. Cadigan, Newfoundland and Labrador: A History, University of Toronto Press, 2009
- Harris: Michael Harris: Rare Ambition: The Crosbies of Newfoundland, Viking, 1992
Coal Black Rose

DESCRIPTION: Halyard shanty, Negro origin. "Oh, me Rosie, Coal Black Rose, Don't ye hear the banjo ping-a-pong-a-pong? Oh, me Rosie, Coal Black Rose." Verses mostly nonsense, with a fair amount of onomatopoeia, i.e. "ping-a-pong-a-pong," "dinging an' a dang," etc.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Bullen, Songs of Sea Labor)

KEYWORDS: shanty worksong

FOUND IN: West Indies

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, p. 364, "Coal Black Rose" (1 text, 1 tune) [AbEd, p. 274]
Roud #9128

File: Hugi364

Coal Creek Troubles

DESCRIPTION: "My song is founded on the truth, In poverty we stand. How hard the millionaire will crush Upon the laboring man." The governor of Tennessee sends convicts to work the mines of Coal Creek. The miners oppose, but the legislature will not help

AUTHOR: James W. Day ("Jilson Setters")?

EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (recording, Jilson Setters)

KEYWORDS: mining hardtimes strike political work chaingang

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1891-1892 -- Coal Creek War.

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, pp. 192-194, (no title) (1 text)
Green-OnlyAMiner-RecordedCoalMiningSongs, p. 155-157, "Coal Creek Troubles" (4 texts, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, p. 271, "Coal Creek Troubles" (1 text)
Foner-AmericanLaborSongsOfTheNineteenthCentury, p. 205, "Coal Creek Trouble" (1 text)
DT, COALCRK*

RECORDINGS:
Old Charlie, "Coal Creek Rebellion" (AFS 12012, 1940)
Mike Seeger, "Coal Creek Troubles" (on MSeeger02)
Jilson Setters, [pseud. for James W. Day] "Coal Creek Troubles" (AFS 1017, 1937) [Note: This was Thomas's source. - PJS]
G. D. Vowell, "Coal Creek War" (AFS 1381, 1937)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Pay Day at Coal Creek" (subject)
cf. "Buddy Won't You Roll Down the Line" (subject)
NOTES [203 words]: The Coal Creek War had a long and disturbing history. Conditions at Coal Creek were terrible, as the deaths in 1902 and 1911 disasters show. Beginning in 1877, the state of Tennessee chose to relieve its shortage of prisons by putting miners to work in the Coal Creek mines. Many died, but the owners didn't care; convicts were cheap. At the time, there were enough jobs at other mines, so the miners didn't care much either. In 1891, things turned ugly as the owners tried to deny the miners the right to choose their own check-weighmen. The miners struck; they were evicted from their homes and more convicts brought in. The miners peacefully freed the convicts and tried to convince governor "Buck" Buchanan to negotiate.
Buchanan made the worst possible choice: Force, but not sufficient force. He gathered a small escort of militia, came to Coal Creek, tried to argue with the miners, was refuted, then departed. He left the militia -- but they were only three companies, not enough to do any good. The miners forced them to surrender.
Buchanan sent more and more troops until the miners finally surrendered in October 1892. Buchanan failed of re-election, and eventually the convict labor system was abolished. - RBW

Coal Miner's Song, The
DESCRIPTION: "Working in the mines, boys, Mighty hard to stand; Lordy, lordy, these old mines Has killed many a man." The singer described the hard work, the bad food, the poverty, the waiting for the whistle, the "Mine boss at the office, Cutting down our pay."
AUTHOR: "Aunt Pricey Preston's Mose"?
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)
KEYWORDS: mining hardtimes money nonballad
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, p. 247, "The Coal Miner's Song" (1 text)
NOTES [58 words]: Though Thomas does not list a tune, and does list an author (sort of), this looks to me more traditional than many of the pieces in her book. At the very least, I am sure the tune is traditional.
It appears from her account that the author managed to bring his guitar to work with him in the mines, allowing him to sing it while there. Right. - RBW

Coal Owner and the Pitman's Wife, The DESCRIPTION: "A dialog I'll tell you as true as my life, Between a coal owner and a poor pitman's wife." The woman tells the owner she has come from Hell. They are turning out the poor to make room for "the rich wicked race." She tells him to treat his workers well
AUTHOR: William Hornsby?
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Lloyd, "Come All Ye Bold Miners")
KEYWORDS: dialog worker warning Hell
FOUND IN: Britain(England)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
MacColl-ShuttleAndCage-IndustrialFolkBallads, pp. 16-17, "The coal owner & the pitman's wife" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT. COALOWNR*
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Derry Down" (tune) and references there
NOTES [36 words]: The notes in the Digital Tradition say this came from an 1844 strike. It is sung to the Derry Down tune, though the version in MacColl-ShuttleAndCage-IndustrialFolkBallads isn't quite the Derry Down tune I know. - RBW
Coal Quay Market, The
DESCRIPTION: Singer buys an old flea-ridden chemise at Coal Quay. His wife won't have it. The lady that sold it to him won't take it back and beats him. "Pretty females": don't let a man interfere with your business; if you buy a chemise, buy a new one.
AUTHOR: Jimmy Crowley (source: OCanainn-SongsOfCork)
EARLIEST DATE: 1978 (OCanainn-SongsOfCork)
KEYWORDS: clothes humorous wife abuse
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCanainn-SongsOfCork, pp. 98-99, "The Coal Quay Market" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [58 words]: OCanainn-SongsOfCork: "This is one of Jimmy Crowley's best known songs and is very popular with Cork audiences, as it deals with the goings-on at one of the city's best known landmarks - the Coal Quay, between Castle Street and the river. It was traditionally a second-hand market, though you can now get both new and second-hand goods there." - BS
File: 0Can098

Coal Ship Song (I)
DESCRIPTION: "A Life on the Ocean Wave, the fellow that wrote that song, I'd like to shit on his grave... 'Cause he's never been to sea On a Sunday afternoon, And he's never coaled ship with his watch below, Or he'd bloody well change his tune."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)
KEYWORDS: sailor hardtimes scatological derivative
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 19, "Coal Ship Song (I)" (1 text, tune referenced)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "A Life on the Ocean Wave" (tune)
NOTES [14 words]: For the difficulties of coaling a ship, see the notes to "Coal Ship Song (III)." - RBW
Last updated in version 5.1
File: Tawn002

Coal Ship Song (II)
DESCRIPTION: "Coaling, coaling, coaling, Always bloody well coaling." The sailors may be called upon to load coal at any time on any day. "When the collier comes along, We'll sing this little song: Coaling, coaling, coalling... It's a good job we didn't join for ever"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)
KEYWORDS: sailor hardtimes work derivative
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 20, "Coal Ship Song (II)" (1 text, tune referenced)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Holy, Holy, Holy" (partial tune)
cf. "Loch Lomond" (partial tune)
NOTES [14 words]: For the difficulties of coaling a ship, see the notes to "Coal Ship Song (III)." - RBW
Last updated in version 5.1
File: Tawn003

Coal Ship Song (III)
DESCRIPTION: "In the good old cruiser Kent, in the good old cruser Kent, Coaling ship three times a week, Till all our energy's spent. We never was our coaling rig, And very good reason why, We'd be coaling ship again Before we could get them dry."
The other British ships, since she had sailed far away in pursuit of the German squadron (Yates, p. 218). One of the hits had taken out her wireless antenna, causing some anxiety on the part of the command. But the Germans had been away from port for a very long time, and could no longer compete with the British ships in speed. The British wanted to make sure they stopped the Germans. The German ships were lighter, slower, and not really armed for a direct action against the British fleet.

Admiral Sturdee, once his fleet was at sea, ordered all his ships to engage in a "General Chase," meaning that they were to go straight after the Germans (Yates, p. 194). There were two British cruisers named Kent, one for each World War, but because the ship in this context is the Kent from World War II, she was the First World War ship; the World War II cruiser was an oil-burner.

According to Wragg, p. 184, the Kent was a member of the ten-ship Monmouth class of 1903-1904. These were vessels of 9800 tons, with triple expansion rather than turbine engines, with a top speed of 23 knots. Their main armament was 14 six inch guns (most of them in side mountings that badly restricted their arcs of fire). Although still in service in World War I, I'd regard her as pretty close to obsolete. (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 58, calls Monmouth a "relic... saved from the breaker's yard by the outbreak of the war," meaning that the Kent was also near the end of her useful life. Indeed, her obsolescence had been shown dramatically on November 11, 1914 at the battle of Coronel, where the class leader Monmouth and the heavier but equally antique Good Hope had been sunk by the German Scharnhorst and Gneisenau under admiral Graf Maximilian von Spee (usually known just as Graf Spee) without doing any significant damage to the Germans (Beekman, pp. 26-29). This left the German vessels free to rampage the southern Pacific, and the south Atlantic, without British interference.

The British response was immediate and, probably, excessive. They sent two battlecruisers, Invincible and Inflexible, to deal with the pesky German heavy cruisers (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 60). One would surely have been enough; the British ships were heavier, better armed, and faster. But the British wanted to make sure they stopped the Germans. The Kent was one of the armored cruisers which joined the squadron, along with her sister ship Cornwall; Carnarvon, another heavy cruiser; and light cruisers Bristol and Glasgow (Yates, p. 191), the latter a survivor of Coronel. By wild coincidence, Graf Spee's ships approaching the Falklands even as the British force under Admiral Sturdee was coaling after their long trip; the Germans, who had no idea there were substantial British forces in the area, wanted to put the base out of service (Yates, p. 195).

Two German ships, Gneisenau and Nürnberg went to see what was present at Port Stanley on the morning on December 8, 1914. It took some time, after the German ships were spotted, to get the attention of the crew of the battlecruisers -- the coal dust made it hard for them to see signals (Yates, p. 197), but many of the smaller cruisers, including Kent, were ready to go. Kent, in fact, was on guard, and had to retreat before the German force (Yates, p. 199). One of the ships in the harbor, the old pre-dreadnought Canopus was able to open indirect fire -- and scare the Germans into retreating. Most authorities seem to think that this was fatal to the Germans; if they had blocked the harbor entrance, they might have had a chance against Sturdee's heavy fleet, but once they let the British out, they were doomed (Beekman, p. 29, etc.).

Admiral Sturdee, once his fleet was at sea, ordered all his ships to engage in a "General Chase," meaning that they were to go straight after the Germans (Yates, p. 200). It was the highlight of Kent's war. While the two battle cruisers dealt with Scharnhorst and Gneisenau Kent pursued and sank the Nürnberg (Farquharson-Roberts, pp. 60-61) -- an impressive feat, given that she was supposed to be slower than the German, and not really armed for the task. But the Germans had been away from port for a very long time, and could no longer make their theoretical top speed (Yates, p. 216), and the Kent's crew made extraordinary efforts to catch up. Both cruiser suffered multiple hits, but then the Nürnberg suffered a boiler explosion. and the Kent was able to destroy her (Yates, p. 207), though she suffered 38 hits and 16 casualties (Yates, p. 218). One of the hits had taken out her wireless antenna, causing some anxiety on the other British ships, since she had sailed far away in pursuit of the Nürnberg (Yates, p. 220). The Kent wasn't quite done with the German squadron. One cruiser, Dresden, had survived. She... fled back into the Pacific, but was found at Juan Fernández Island on March 14, 1915 by Kent and Glasgow. The Germans, unable to fight because they were out of supplies, scuttled the ship (Beekman, p. 32).
For more on Coronel, and especially on the Battle of the Falklands, see the notes to "The Noble Eighth of December." Another song about the events is "Battle of the Falkland Islands." - RBW

Bibliography

- Beekman: (no editor listed), Beekman History of the World Wars Library, Warships & Sea Battles of World War I, Beekman House, 1973

Last updated in version 5.1
File: Tawn004

Coalmine, The

DESCRIPTION: Some men go a Mallore hill to find coal. "In a month's time we'll all be millionaires." They spend a hot day digging but the only thing black they find is a dead crow. They test burn some lumps but it's not coal. "Let the coal and the mine go to hell"
 AUTHOR: Tom Molloy (source: McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen)
EARLIEST DATE: 1988 (McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen)
KEYWORDS: mining humorous moniker
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen 17, "The Coalmine" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: McB1017

Coast of Peru, The [Laws D26]

DESCRIPTION: (The captain promises the sailors that they will spot many whales off Peru.) A whaler spots a whale off the coast of Peru. The crew harpoons the whale and renders it. They look forward to seeing the girls at home
 AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1832 (Journal of William Silver of the Bengal)
KEYWORDS: sea whale whaler return
FOUND IN: US(MA) New Zealand
REFERENCES (15 citations):
Laws D26, "The Coast of Peru"
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 151-152, "The Coast of Peru" (1 text)
Huntington-TheSailor'sAndWhalemenSang, pp. 2-4, "The Coast of Peru" (1 text, 1 tune)
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsOfWhalemenSang, pp. 27-28, "Captain Bunker" (1 text, 1 tune)
Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, pp. 194-195, "Coast of Peru" (1 text, 1 tune)
Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips, pp. 222-223, "Coast of Peru" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, p. 194, "The Coast of Peru" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 185-186, "The Coast of Peru" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 91, "Coast of Peru" (1 text)
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, pp. 15-16, "New Zealand Whales" (1 text, 1 tune, localized to New Zealand instead of Peru but still clearly the same song)
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 36, "(New Zealand Whales)" (1 text)
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 15, "New Zealand Whales." (1 text, 1 tune)
(p. 8 in the 1972 edition)
Fahey-PintPotAndBilly, pp. 12-13, "New Zealand Whales" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 617, CSTPERU*

ADDITIONAL: Alfred M. Williams, _Studies in Folk-Song and Popular Poetry_, Houghton Mifflin, 1894, pp. 33-35, "The Coast of Peru" (1 text)
Coat That Was Buttoned Behind, The (An Irishman's Coat It Is Buttoned Before)

DESCRIPTION: Doolan arrives in New York and sees two men boxing, sparring without hitting; when he fights it's with his "shillaly." Bullies taunt him expecting him to run but "In less than two minutes I cleared the whole green"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Pastor)

KEYWORDS: fight violence sports humorous

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 89-91, "The Coat That Was Buttoned Behind (An Irishman's Coat It Is Buttoned Before)" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Tony Pastor, "Tony Pastor's New Irish Comic Songster" in Tony Pastor's Book of Six Hundred Comic Songs and Speeches (New York: Dick and Fitzgerald, 1867 ("Digitized by Google")), pp. 40-41, "An Irishman's Coat It Is Buttoned Before" ("Oh, my name is Mike Doolan - I've just come to town")

Roud #24895

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Duncan Campbell (Erin-Go-Bragh)" [Laws Q20] (theme of Irishman being abused and fighting back) and references there

NOTES [69 words]: The taunt is "Welcome, sweet Paddy, sweet Paddy from Cork. Now turn around, Paddy -- do just be so kind -- For I ne'er saw a coat that was buttoned behind.... Misther Pat, I would blacken your eye." That is, Paddy should be running away from this "big bully" so, if the bully sees his buttons they must surely be on the back of his coat. The song's title, not being part of the song, is Doolan's unspoken answer. - BS

Last updated in version 4.2

File: Guig089

Coatman's Saloon

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets a young lady. He invites her to Coatman's for ice cream. She orders a steak. She says "her husband had gone to war" but at the ferry her "husband" threatens to shoot him. "The story will be continued in the 'Guardian' next week"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland)

KEYWORDS: lie food humorous husband

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 98-99, "Coatman's Saloon" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #12450

File: Dib098
Coaxing Polly

DESCRIPTION: "The girls in the city, they are happy, The boys in the country, they are jolly" and the singer courts Coaxing Polly. She demands furniture and china and refuses to work. He sets out to leave. She gives in and they marry

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle)

KEYWORDS: bargaining courting rejection work dialog

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, pp. 26-27, "Coaxing Polly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7514
File: Boet027

Cobalt Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "For we'll sing a little song of Cobalt, If you don't live there it's your fault, Oh you Cobalt where the wintry breezes blow...." The singer describes various bad mining towns, concluding "It's hob-nail boots and a flannel shirt in Cobalt town for mine."

AUTHOR: L. F. Steenman

EARLIEST DATE: 1910

KEYWORDS: mining home nonballad

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1903 - Discovery of silver in Cobalt, Ontario

FOUND IN: Canada

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fowke/Mills/Blume-CanadasStoryInSong, pp. 195-197, "The Cobalt Song" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: FMB195

Cobbler (I), The

DESCRIPTION: The singer, cobbler (Dick Hobson), comes from a questionable family and leads a questionable life. The song may end with an account of how he became free of his "lumpy" wife: I dipped her three times in the river / and carelessly bade her goodnight"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1731 (ballad opera, "The Jovial Crew")

KEYWORDS: abandonment rambling bawdy

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,NE,Ro,So,SW) Britain(England,Scotland(Aber)) Ireland Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (17 citations):
Randolph 102, "Dick German the Cobbler" (1 text plus a fragment, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 133-135, "Dick German the Cobbler" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 102A)
Randolph/Legman-RollMeInYourArms I, ppp. 516-517, "Dick Darlin' the Cobbler" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Fubbard, #173, "Dick Darbin the Cobbler" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 176-177, "Hobson, the Cobbler" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 223-224, "Old Hewson, the Cobbler" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 180, "Rusty Old Rover" (1 fragment, probably this piece); also 181, "Me Father Is a Lawyer in England" (2 short texts, 2 tunes, both very mixed; "A" has the first verse of "Me Father Is a Lawyer in England;"); the second is "Me father is a hedger and ditcher, and the third and the chorus are from "The Cobbler"; the "B" text is also clearly mixed though the elements are less clear)
Greig/Duncan3 483, "Dick Dorbin the Cobbler" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 222, "Fagan the Cobbler" (1 text, 1 tune)
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 98, "My Name Is Bold Hewson the Cobbler" (1 text)
Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 111-113, "(My Name Is) Dick Darby, the Cobbler" (1 partial text, 1 tune)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 42, "My Father Was Hung for Sheep-Stealing" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 144-145, "Cobbler's Song" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #475, p. 32, "Dick Darlin' the Cobbler" (1 reference)
"Dick Darlin'" (1 text)
"Old Hewson the Cobbler" (1 tune with no text, but presumably a version of this)
DT, DICKDARB* DICKDAR2
Roud #872
RECORDINGS:
Johnny Cassidy, "Dick Daglen the Cobbler" (on IRCassidyFamily01)
Mrs. K. McCarthy, "Jack Johnston the Cobbler" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Lawrence Older, "Jed Hobson" (on LOlder01)
Wickets Richardson & chorus, "Fagan the Cobbler" (on FSB3)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 b.10(81), "Dick Darling the Cobbler" ("My name is Dick Darling the cobbler"), H. Such (London), 1849-1862; also Harding B 11(891), Harding B 20(38), "Dick Darling the Cobbler"
LOCSinging, sb10093b, "Dick Darlin' the Cobbler" ("Och! my name is Dick Darlin' the cobbler"), H. De Marsan (New York), 1864-1878
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "My God, How the Money Rolls In" cf. "Haben Aboo an' a Banner" (theme) and references there
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Dick Darby, the Cobbler
The Souter
NOTES [643 words]: Chappell/Wooldridge-OldEnglishPopularMusic report "The words of this song have not been recovered; but there can be little doubt that they were a political satire upon Colonel Hewson, who was one of Charles I's judges, and of those who signed his death-warrant. "John Hewson was originally a cobbler, and had but one eye. He took up arms on the side of the parliament.... He was knighted by Cromwell, and afterwards made one of his Lords. He quitted England immediately before the Restoration, and died at Amsterdam in 1662." The above may be taken with as many grains of salt as you desire.
This clearly circulated in both clean and dirty versions, and all shades in between (e.g. in the Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland version, the third line reads, "They call me an old fornicator," but the rest is clean).
For one of the more extreme versions, see "Haben a Boo and a Banner" (DT DICKDAR3).
William H. A. Williams, 'Twas Only an Irishman's Dream, University of Illinois Press, 1996, p. 124, reports a stage routine which sounds related: "A Pat Rooney songster published in 1878 carries a routine, attributed to Johnny Roach, entitled 'The Cobbler.' The song is about a cobbler tormented by a tyrannical wife, whom he eventually shoves into the river, after which he 'cautiously bid her good night!' The performer's monologue patters on in between the verses." Apparently there is much description of the fighting.- RBW
See Tim Coughlan, Now Shoon the Romano Gillie, (Cardiff,2001), #162, pp. 413-416, "My Manishi's Rumpy and Tumpy" [Scotto-Romani/Tinklers' Cant fragment from M'Cormick, The Tinkler-Gypsies (1906)]. - BS
The Bodleian and LOCSinging broadsides mix a story in with the verses. This might reflect the way broadside songs were frequently delivered in the streets and at fairs. Elbourne (Roger Elbourne, Music and Tradition in Early Industrial Lancashire 1780-1840 (Totowa, 1980), p. 73) notes: "In cities or towns the broadside was sold at stalls or fair booths, and by countless small shopkeepers. They were also hawked by street singers. The 'chaunter' sang and sold his songs through the streets of city, town and village, on street corners, at country fairgrounds, wakes or executions. A 'patterer' might provide a running commentary as each ballad unfolded. The 'pinner-up' festooned an expanse of wall or railings with ballads for public perusal."
The end of the last verse in the Bodleian and LOCSinging broadsides is about the singer's wife: "The old woman fell into the river, So politely I bid her good night."
There is different song (see broadside LOCSinging as102960) -- "Dick Heuston, the Cobbler" -- which begins pretty much the same way ("My name is Dick Heuston, the Cobbler, The people of London do tell -- They say I'm a very good workman, And that I do know very well") which does not mention the cobbler's family; as the song progresses he gets more and more drunk; the final verse repeats the first, but adds, "For I can (hic) work as well (hic) drunk as sober." I haven't found this song anywhere else yet. The closest to it is "Haben a Boo and a Banner," noted above. Also, see the note above about John Hewson.
Re earliest date: I don't find any song that mentions a cobbler in "The Jovial Crew" in what is supposedly a 1761 edition digitized by Google. In Air 30 in Act 2 (p. 31), Rachel sings, "My Daddy is gone to his Grave; My Mother lies under a Stone; And never a Penny I have, Alas! I am quite undone. My Lodging is in the cold Air, And Hunger is sharp and bites; A little Sir, good Sir, spare, To keep me warm o' Night." This seems a reach, but is the only song I found that mentions family. Broadside LOCSinging sb10093b: H. De Marsan dating per Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at FindArticles site. - BS

Cobbler (III), The
DESCRIPTION: "Walking up and down one day, I peeped in a window over the way. Pushing his needle through and through, There sat a cobbler making a shoe. Rap-a-tap-tap-tap, ticky-tacky-too, This is the way to make a shoe."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: work nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 149, "The Cobbler" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 149, "The Cobbler" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Roud #15884
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ticky-Tack-Too" ("Tic Tac Toe" lyric)
cf. "Rick Rick Toe" ("Tic Tac Toe" lyric)
cf. "Tic-Tac" ("Tic Tac Toe" lyric)
NOTES [28 words]: I have the funny feeling that this is a scrap of a bawdy song, along the lines of "The Shoemaker's Kiss," but the fragment in Brown is clean -- and entirely pointless. - RBW

Cobbler (IV), The
DESCRIPTION: The singer is a poor uneducated shoemaker "mong the lowly ... scarcely owner of a groat." "Contented if I'm healthy ... If I keep the ravening wolf from my door". Don't long for what you don't have. Be satisfied while "around us be the everlasting arms"
AUTHOR: William Reid (d. c. 1903) (source: Greig/Duncan3)
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: poverty nonballad religious
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 482, "The Cobbler" (1 text)
Roud #5975
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Cruiskeen Lawn" (tune, per Greig/Duncan3)
File: GrD3482

Cobbler, Cobbler, Where's My Shoe
DESCRIPTION: "Cobbler, cobbler, mend my shoe, Yes, good master, that I'll do; Here's my awl and wax and thread, And now your shoe is quite mended."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1807 (Original Ditties for the Nursery, according to Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes)
KEYWORDS: clothes playparty
FOUND IN: West Indies(Jamaica)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 103, "Cobbler, cobbler, mend my shoe" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #585, p. 235, "(Cobbler, cobbler, mend my shoe)"
Cobbler's Bill, The

DESCRIPTION: A cobbler shows his work -- "Here's cutting and contriving, Hammer, nails, and driving, Hemp, wax, and leather" -- and asks, "Madam, if you please, To pay me your fees, It's fourpence ha'penny all together"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames)

KEYWORDS: commerce work nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 304, "The Cobbler's Bill" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Mi 545)

Roud #1327

NOTES [14 words]: The current description includes all of the Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames text. - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: WT304B

Coble o Cargill, The [Child 242]

DESCRIPTION: Davie Drummond o Cargill has a bed waiting for him in Balathy, another in Kercock. But one of the women "bored the coble (boat) in seven pairts," and it sinks as he tries to cross the Tay. He regrets his death; the song ends with repetitions of same

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1827 (Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads)

KEYWORDS: jealousy death drowning infidelity homicide

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Child 242, "The Coble o Cargill" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 293-294, "The Weary Coble o' Cargill" (1 text)

Roud #4021

NOTES [70 words]: Child reports a legend that Drummond was killed because one of his lovers suspected infidelity when he failed to visit her when he had opportunity. But he points out that such legends often grew up about ballads. The song has very little plot, and that rather smothered in the repetitions at the end (of what sort of man Drummond was, and of how he drowned). It is not surprising that it did not flourish in tradition.

- RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

File: C242

Cocaine (The Furniture Man)

DESCRIPTION: "I've got a gal in the white folks' yard...she brings me meal, she brings me lard." Refrain: "Here comes Sal with her nose all sore/Doctor said she can't smell no more...." The furniture man looks for the singer's wife, repossesses all of his belongings

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Luke Jordan)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Confused, floating verses; "I've got a gal in the white folks' yard...she brings me meal, she brings me lard." Occasional refrain: "Here comes Sal with her nose all sore/Doctor said she couldn't smell no more...I'm simply wild about my good cocaine." The furniture man comes to singer's house looking for his wife, repossesses all of his belongings.

KEYWORDS: drugs hardtimes floatingverses

FOUND IN: US(Ap, SE)

RECORDINGS:
Luke Jordan, "Cocaine Blues" (Victor 21076, 1927)
Dick Justice, "Cocaine" (Brunswick 395, 1929; on RoughWays2)
Kentucky Ramblers, "Good Cocaine (Mama Don't Allow It)" (Broadway 8271, c. 1932; rec. 1930)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Cocaine Blues (I)" (subject) and references there
cf. "Ain't No Use Workin' So Hard" (lyrics)

NOTES [56 words]: This song clearly exists in both Anglo- and African-American traditions; just as clearly, Justice's performance was derived from Jordan's. The narrative is extremely confused, but (barely) sufficient to class it as a ballad. - PJS

For the effects of cocaine, and its history in the United States, see the notes to "Cocaine Blues (I)." - RBW

Last updated in version 3.6

File: RcCo

Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue
DESCRIPTION: "Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue, Strolling down the avenue two by two," decide that a shot will do them no harm. They try to find cocaine, though it is no longer sold in the stores. Now they are dead and buried; no one knows where they went.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (recording, anonymous singers)

KEYWORDS: drugs death

FOUND IN: Britain(England) Canada

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead, p. 115, "Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 150-151, "Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 75, "Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue" (1 text)

Roud #4790

RECORDINGS:
Anonymous singers, "Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue" (on Unexp1)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Cocaine Blues (I)" (subject) and references there

NOTES [105 words]: Cocaine was outlawed in the early part of this [the twentieth] century, which is probably why Bill and Sue couldn't get it at the drugstore. This is clearly related to the cross-referenced pieces, but it includes more narrative than "Cocaine Blues", and lacks the "drug-afflicted possessions" so characteristic of "Cocaine Lil". I call it a separate song. - PJS

This is clearly so; even if it arose from one of the other cocaine songs (all of which have a certain sameness), it has gone its own way. For the effects of cocaine, and its history in the United States (it was banned in 1914), see the notes to "Cocaine Blues (I)." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: FSWB075A

Cocaine Blues (I)
DESCRIPTION: "Yonder comes my baby all dressed in blue, Hey, baby, what you gonna do? Cocaine all around my brain." "Hey, baby, won't you come here quick, This old cocaine is makin' me sick," "'Yonder comes my baby all dressed in white, Hey... gonna stay all night?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1963 (recording, Dave Van Ronk. Van Ronk learned it from Rev. Gary Davis, who would record it in 1965. In turn Davis said he learned it in 1905)

KEYWORDS: drugs sex

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 76, "Cocaine Blues" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Cocaine Lil" (theme, lyrics)
cf. "Take a Whiff on Me" (lyrics, chorus)
cf. "Cocaine (The Furniture Man)" (subject)
cf. "Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue" (subject)

NOTES [185 words]: The assorted cocaine songs mostly are right about the effects of the drug. According to Esther Gwinnell and Christine Adamec, The Encyclopedia of Addictions and Addictive Behavior, Facts On File, 2006, pp. 63-67, cocaine can have the following effects:
* heart attack, respiratory failure, stroke, or seizures, which of course can lead to death (as in "Cocaine Lil")
* Loss of the sense of smell and a chronically inflamed and runny nose (as in "Cocaine (The Furniture Man)")
* abdominal pain and increased risk of many diseases, especially sexually transmitted diseases, which might explain the mention in this song of becoming sick. Cocaine is strongly addictive, and there are some who die of withdrawal, which might explain the ending of Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue."
Cocaine was first available in the United States in 1884, was found in Coca-Cola until 1906, was (mostly) banned by the Harrison Narcotic Act of 1914, and was placed on the list of controlled substances in 1970. This would explain the references in "Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue" to not being able to find the drug in drug stores. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4
File: FSWB076B

Cocaine Lil

DESCRIPTION: Cocaine Lil "lived in Cocaine town on Cocaine Hill, She had a cocaine dog and a cocaine cat..." and other equally drug-afflicted possessions. One night, after a party, she "took another sniff and it knocked her dead"; her tombstone testifies to her habit

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)
KEYWORDS: drugs death party burial
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 114, "Cocaine Lil and Morphine Sue" (1 text)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 206, "Cocaine Lil" (1 text, tune referenced) Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 153-154, "Cocaine Lil and Morphine Sue" (1 text)
DT, COKELIL
Roud #9543
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Willy the Weeper" (tune)
cf. "Cocaine Blues (I)" (subject) and references there
NOTES [18 words]: For the effects of cocaine, and its history in the United States, see the notes to "Cocaine Blues (I)." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4
File: PBB114

Cock a Doodle Doo

DESCRIPTION: "Cock a doodle doo! My dame has lost her shoe, My master's lost his fiddlestick, And knows not what to do." Occasionally continues, "Cock a doodle doo, What is my dame to do? Till Master finds his fiddling stick She'll dance without her shoe." Etc.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1765 (Mother Goose's Melody); the first two lines are in A Most Cruel and Bloody Murther of 1606
KEYWORDS: music fiddle clothes dancing
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Cock o' the Midden

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, I thocht when I wore the kilt, I could dance from Tay to Forth, Tranchlin' up an' doon the street, Whistlin' the Cock o' the North. But a' the youngsters shouted, 'Awa', man, wha' are you kiddin'? ... You're only the Cock o' the midden."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (MacColl-PersonalChoice)
KEYWORDS: humorous nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
MacColl-PersonalChoice, p 65, "Cock o' the Midden" (1 short text, 1 tune)
DT, COCKMDDN*

File: MaPCCoMi

Cock Your Beaver

DESCRIPTION: "When first my Jamie he came to the town, He had a blue bonnet, a hole in the crown, But now he has gotten a hat and a feather: Hey, Jamie lad, cock your beaver. Jamie now has "gold behind" and "gold afore," and is urged to show it proudly

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1821 (Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2); probably before 1776 (Herd)
KEYWORDS: clothes money

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2 64, "Cock Up Your Beaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 163, "Johnie Lad and His Braw Baiver" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, p. 219, "Cock Up Your Beaver" (1 text)
Montgomerie/Montgomerie-ScottishNurseryRhymes 112, "(When first my Jamie he came to the town)" (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers, The Popular Rhymes of Scotland (Edinburgh, 1870 ("Digitized by Google")), pp. 32-33, "Cock Your Beaver"

Roud #8257

NOTES [151 words]: A description for the Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2 text is: The singer says her brave Johnnie has traded his blue bonnet for a hat with a feather and a white rose on the band. He's gone south with Andrew Ferrara and "Donald the drover, and Duncan the caird, And Sawney the shaver, and Logie the laird." Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2 has no explanation except that it "is a clever old song" and "There are various sets of it sung in the country. Johnson, in his Museum, has made sure of leaving out all that may be misconstrued, by publishing only one verse to suit the air."

Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong has only two verses, the second of which is "Cock up your beaver, And cock it fu' sprush, We'll over the border and give them a brush; There's somebody there We'll teach better behaviour -- Hy, brave Johnnie lad, Cock up your beaver," which is very close to Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2.- BS

Last updated in version 3.2
File: MSNR112

Cock-a-doodle-doo

DESCRIPTION: Singer sees a man selling birds, he hands over his money and the seller hands him his cock; a young lady fears he will lose his cock; etc. "Cock-a-doodle-doo, It's nothing to do with you, It's a rare old cock and it's all I got

AUTHOR: unknown
Cock-Fight, The

DESCRIPTION: Description of a cock-fight, wherein the grey defeats the charcoal-black, to the delight of the singer.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (Kidson-TraditionalTunes)

KEYWORDS: fight bird gambling sports chickens

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))

REFERENCES:
1. VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, p. 27, "The Cock-Fight (The Bonny Grey)" (1 text, 1 tune)
2. Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 135-137, "The Holbeck Moor Cock-Fight" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
3. Pallmer-ECS, "#122, 'Wa'ney Cockfeightin' Sang" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham_, Broadside, 1977, p. 200-201, "The Lee Bridge Cocking" (1 text, 1 tune, which may be a different song but which shares some elements)

Roud #211

BROADSIDES:

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Wednesbury Cocking" (theme)
- cf. "The Follom Brown-Red" (theme)
- cf. "The Kildallan Brown Red" (theme)

NOTES: According to Roy Palmer, _The Folklore of Warwickshire_, Rowman and Littlefield, 1976, p. 117, cock-fighting became illegal in Britain in 1849, so there is a presumption (although obviously not a certainty) that this song is older than that. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.7

File: VWL027

Cockabendy

DESCRIPTION: "Cockabendy's lyin' sick Guess ye what'll mend him?" Twenty kisses. "Dinna gi'e the lasses drink, Dinna gi'e them brandy": give them cinammon sticks and lumps of sugar.

Cockabendy had a wife who did strange things.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1850 (Bulloch 1907)

KEYWORDS: courting sex bawdy humorous nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES:
1. Greig/Duncan8 1721, "Cockabendy" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
2. Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 30, "Uncle John(I)"; Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 30, p. 160, "(Cockie Bendie's lyin' sick)"; Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 31, "Uncle John(II)" (5 texts, although many of them are "Uncle John is Sick Abed")

ADDITIONAL: John Bulloch, editor,Scottish Notes and Queries (Aberdeen, 1905 ("Digitized by Google")), Vol. VI, 2nd Series, No. 8, February 1905, p. 125, "[Query j538. The Words of 'Cockabendy']"

Roud #13080

CROSS-REFERENCES:
Cocksies of Bungaree, The

DESCRIPTION: The unemployed worker takes a job clearing for a cocky at Bungaree. He finds that the working conditions are miserable, and the cocky expects him to be at work before dawn. (Within days the singer concludes that anything is better than this, and quits)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Gwenda Beed Davey and Graham Seal, _A Guide to Australian Folklore_, Kangaroo Press, 2003, p. 68, claim it can be traced back at least to the 1890s)

KEYWORDS: unemployment work farming Australia

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (4 citations):

Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 128-129, "The Cockies of Bungaree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manifold-PenguinAustralianSongbook, pp. 104-105, "The Cockies of Bungaree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Paterson/Fahey/Seal-OldBushSongs-CentenaryEdition, pp. 264-266, "Cocksies of Bungaree" (1 text)

DT, COCKBUNG* COCKBUN2*

Roud #20415

RECORDINGS:

John Greenway, "The Cockies of Bungaree" (on JGreenway01)
A. L. Lloyd, "The Cockies of Bungaree" (on Lloyd3, Lloyd08) (Lloyd4, Lloyd08)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Stringybark Cockatoo" (plot, lyrics)
cf. "Rhynie" (theme)

NOTES [351 words]: A "cocky," according to a folk etymology I saw somewhere, is a farmer who owns land so poor that it can't raise anything but cockatoos. This may be false. Morris, pp. 92-93, defines the term "Cockatoo": "A small farmer, called earlier in Tasmania a Cockatooer (q.v.). The name was originally given in contempt... but it is now used by the farmers themselves. Cocky is a common abbreviation.... After the gold fever, circa 1860, the selectors swarmed over the country and ate up the substance of the squatters; hence they were called Cockatoos. The word is also used adjectivally." (Morris also cites it as a verb, "To be a farmer.")

Morris, p. 93, cites many examples of how the term was originally understood; one from 1867 is typical: "These small farmers are called cockatoos in Australia by the squatters or sheep-farmers, who dislike them for buying up the best bits on their runs; and say that, like the cockatoos, the small freeholder alights on good ground, extracts all he can from it, and then flies away to 'fresh fields and pastures new'"

On the other hand, Learmonth, p. 120, offers "Cocky. A small farmer, often qualified, e.g. as in Cow Cockey for dairy farmers. Formerly cockatoo, the origin of this use is not certain; it may date from a convict term for a petty criminal, or refer to the birds of that name in a suggested likeness of habit, in that the smaller farmer, as opposed to the squatter, had to scratch for his livelihood."
Another explanation is that large numbers of cockatoos were attracted by grubs living in ring-barked trees."

Ramson offers "Chiefly used of a small farmer but now often applied to a substantial landowner or to the rural interest generally" -- and does not cite a usage earlier than 1873.

Some versions refer to the cocky's wife "whipping the cat." NewZealandDictionary, p. 313, defines "to whip the cat" as "to complain, to express useless regret, to 'cry over spilt milk.'"

Bungaree, a short way north of Melbourne, lies within a large area of such poor land. (Even in the settled parts of Australia, the majority of the land is very bad.) - RBW

Bibliography

- Edward E. Morris, A Dictionary of Austral English, 1898 (I use the 1972 Sydney University Press with a new foreword but no new content)

Last updated in version 5.2
File: FaE128

Cockledemoy (The French Invasion)

DESCRIPTION: A cock on a dung hill sees a bull he wants to kill. He raises a navy and impresses ducks for a crew. He would lead the attack but his hen fears he'd be killed. His courage fails and he stays home but sends the ducks to fight John Bull.

AUTHOR: William Ball (source: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)
EARLIEST DATE: "shortly after 1798" (according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)
KEYWORDS: war chickens animal humorous
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 31, "Cockledemoy" or "The French Invasion" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [232 words]: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815: "The Cock is France, or perhaps Napoleon, and the Bull is England." - BS

The meaning depends much on the exact dating of the song, I think. After General Hoche's invasion of Ireland failed (for which see, e.g., "The Shan Van Vogt"), Napoleon twice contemplated amphibious action against Britain. In 1798, he considered invading Ireland -- but instead went to Egypt, leaving only a few ships and soldiers to sail for Ireland; they arrived after the 1798 rebellion had failed and accomplished very little.

In 1804-1805, Napoleon went for bigger things: He was going to invade England itself, and built up his forces dramatically. But then he headed east to fight the Third Coalition, leaving his fleet to be beaten at Trafalgar.

Either dating fits the events in the song, obviously, but all those impressed ducks sound more like the inexperienced French navy of Trafalgar. The navy of 1798 wasn't any better, but it didn't send so many involuntary sailors to Ireland.

William Ball was a writer of humorous verse about Irish history; in this index, see "Cockledemoy (The French Invasion)," "Do as They Do in France," "The Dying Rebel," and "Faithless Boney (The Croppies' Complaint)" -- though he doesn't seem to have made much impression on the wider world of literature; I have been unable to find any of his writings in any of my literary references. - RBW

File: Moyl031

Cocky Doodle Doodle Doo (All Around the Kitchen)

DESCRIPTION: "All around the kitchen, cocky doodle doodle doo" (x2). "Now stop right still, cocky...." "Put your hand on your hop... Let your right foot slip.... Then do like this...."

AUTHOR: unknown
Cod Banging

DESCRIPTION: A fisherman remembers encountering a big barque and surviving the fight. Now the crowd meets them at Harwich pier to crack cod fish skulls. He concedes he may not have "got it complete 'Cause I've only been in the trade about a week"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (recording, Bob Hart)
KEYWORDS: battle fishing sea ship humorous talltale
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
Roud #1747
RECORDINGS:
Bob Hart, "Cod Banging" (on Voice02)
NOTES [10 words]: Harwich is an East Anglia port about 65 miles from London. - BS
File: RcCodBan

Cod Fish Song

DESCRIPTION: A man brings home a "cod fish," and places it in the chamberpot for safekeeping. When his wife goes to relieve herself, the codfish jumps up her "you-know-what." Husband and wife chase the fish around the room, and kill it with a broom.

AUTHOR: Oscar Brand has claimed a copyright on this version of "The Sea Crab."
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1955
KEYWORDS: animal bawdy humorous husband wife
FOUND IN: US(Ap) Britain(England(South)) Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 5-6, "Cod Fish Song" (1 text)
Copper-SongsAndSouthernBreezes, pp. 288-289, "Little Fisherman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #149
RECORDINGS:
Nora Cleary, "The Codfish" (on Voice07)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Sea Crab"
File: EM005

Cod Liver Oil

DESCRIPTION: Singer complains of having married a sickly wife. After he introduces her to cod liver oil, she goes wild for it, demanding it all the time. He warns young men to avoid sickly women, or they'll "end up a-swimmin' in cod liver oil!"

AUTHOR: possibly Johnny Burke (1851-1930)
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: disease marriage medicine humorous doctor
FOUND IN: US Ireland Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (11 citations):
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 155, "Cod Liver Oil Song" (1 text)
Peacock, pp. 48-49, "Cod-Liver Oil" (1 text, 1 tune)
Blondahl-NewfoundlandersSing, p. 28, "Cod-Liver Oil" (1 text, 1 tune)
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 30, "The Cod Liver Oil" (1 text, 1 tune)
Stewart/Belle-Stewart-QueenAmangTheHeather, pp. 77-78, "Cod Liver Oil" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 116-117, "Cod Liver Ile" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 169 "Cod Liver Oil" (1 text)
DT, CODLIVR*

ADDITIONAL: Johnny Burke, _Burke's Popular Songs_, self-published, 1929 (a PDF is available on the Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. [13], "If Your Wife Is Run Down, Give Her Cod Liver Oil" (1 text)

Johnny Burke (John White, Editor), _Burke's Ballads_, no printer listed, n.d. (PDF available on Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. 18, "If Your Wife Is Run Down, Give Her Cod Liver Oil" (1 text)

Johnny Burke (William J. Kirwin, editor), _John White's Collection of Johnny Burke Songs_, Harry Cuff Publications, St. John's, 1981, #61, pp. 97, "If Your Wife Is Run Down, Give Her Cod Liver Oil" (1 text)

Roud #4221

RECORDINGS:
Omar Blondahl, "Cod Liver Oil Song" (on NFOBlondahl02); "Cod Liver Oil" (on NFOBlondahl03)
Flanagan Brothers, "Cod Liver Oil" (Vocalion 84010, n.d.)
Jack Myrick, "Cod Liver Oil" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth b.34(89), "Dr. de Jongh's Cod Liver Oil," unknown, n.d.

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Fair Do" (tune)
cf. "The Quilty Burning" (tune)
cf. "The Half Crown" (tune)

SAME TUNE:
When Your Old Woman Takes a Cramp in Her Craw Give Her Cod Liver Oil (by Johnny Burke) (Johnny Burke (John White, Editor), _Burke's Ballads_, no printer listed, n.d. (PDF available on Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. 17) (Johnny Burke (William J. Kirwin, editor), _John White's Collection of Johnny Burke Songs_, Harry Cuff Publications, St. John's, 1981, #62, pp. 99-100) (Johnny Burke, _Burke's Popular Songs_, self-published, 1929 (a PDF is available on the Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. [8])
Three Bottles a Week (by Johnny Burke) (Johnny Burke (William J. Kirwin, editor), _John White's Collection of Johnny Burke Songs_, Harry Cuff Publications, St. John's, 1981, #65, pp. 103-104) (Johnny Burke, _Burke's Popular Songs_, self-published, 1929 (a PDF is available on the Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. [21]) (Johnny Burke (John White, Editor), _Burke's Ballads_, no printer listed, n.d. (PDF available on Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. 47)

NOTES [373 words]: Cod liver oil, which contains Vitamin D in quantity, was touted as a cure-all in the 19th and early 20th centuries -- indeed, it was still being given to gagging children when I was growing up in the 1950s. - PJS

The theme is not very different from that of "The Dumb Wife" [Laws Q5], in which a man, to his eventual sorrow, goes to a doctor -- sometimes named John -- to cure his otherwise perfect wife of her inability to speak.

Newfoundland authorship attribution is not always to be treated as gospel. Blondahl-NewfoundlandersSing notes "there are several popular versions of Cod-Liver Oil, the original to be credited to John Burke." Burke (1851-1930) is a very well known author of songs in Newfoundland. In Blondahl-NewfoundlandersSing's version the potion comes from "dear Doctor John" and not Doctor de [or D.E.] Jongh. If Burke is indeed the author his work must have traveled to Ireland. - BS

I am not confident of the attribution to Burke, even if he is not a bad possibility; Newfoundlanders were naturally very deeply concerned with cod, including its oil. And Burke's best work was humorous material of this sort. I also note that he produced a sequel or rewrite. He did that at least one other time as well (with "Trinity Cake").

Also, Burke might have had a motive: Gerald S. Doyle, of the Doyle songsters, processed and sold cod liver oil (DictNewfoundland, p. 87). So Doyle might have wanted to promote it -- or Burke might have wanted to spoof Doyle's business.

The Newfoundland versions seem to be Burke-based (e.g. Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland's text has the "doctor, Dear John" error), but Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland list a bunch of songsters that printed the song in the 1870s or so -- a time when Burke was alive but not yet well known as a writer. Curiously, I can find no hint that any of those four songsters ever existed.

Also curious is the fact that Newfoundlanders did not always refer to this product as "cod liver oil." Sometimes it was "cod blubber," although the exact scope of that term seems to have varied, or simply "cod oil" (StoryKirwinWiddowson, p. 105).

For a brief biography of Johnny Burke, see the notes to "The Kelligrew's Soiree." - RBW
Bibliography

Last updated in version 5.2
File: FSWB169A

Cody Stampede
DESCRIPTION: "The pains of old Wyoming are wild and wooly still, I'm tellin' you that hearts are true in the lad of Buff'lo Bill." The singer celebrates the festivities in the first days of July. The singer celebrates the people of Cody -- especially the girls
AUTHOR: claimed by Powder River Jack Lee EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (Powder River Jack & Kitty Lee Songbook)
KEYWORDS: cowboy home
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: Powder River Jack and Kitty Lee's _Songs of the Range: Cowboy Wails of Cattle Trails_, Chart Music, 1937, pp. 30-31, "Cody Stampede" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: PRJL030

Coe Creek Song
DESCRIPTION: "On Coe Creek three partners did dwell: Cool, Curtis, and Nye, we knew them right well." They own a sawmill. The singer lists all the crew who work in the mill -- and complains, when you ask for pay, the bosses give "an order on the company store"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps)
KEYWORDS: lumbering moniker
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 107, "Coe Creek Song" (1 text)
Roud #18182
File: BeLo107

Coffee Blues
DESCRIPTION: The singer just has to have that "loving spoonful." The singer on his way to bring back his woman, and the preacher in his pulpit, need that loving spoonful before they start. Whiskey and tea don't satisfy the singer like that loving spoonful.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1963 (MJHurt04)
KEYWORDS: nonballad drugs
FOUND IN:
Roud #20956
RECORDINGS:
Mississippi John Hurt, "Coffee Blues" (on MJHurt04)
NOTES [28 words]: Hurt introduces this song with praise for Maxwell House coffee which, he says, has printed on the can, "good to the last drop." "And if I can get just a spoonful...." - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: RcCoffBl
Coffee Grows (Four in the Middle)

DESCRIPTION: Playparty in two or three parts: "Coffee grows on white oak tree, The river flows with brandy o'er, Go choose someone to roam with you..." "Four in the middle, you can't get around..." (may have more verses) "Railroad, steamboat, river, and canal..."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (JAFL 27)

KEYWORDS: playparty courting nonballad love train drink

REFERENCES (12 citations):
- Wolford-ThePlayPartyInIndiana, pp. 33-35=Wolford/Richmond/Tillson-PlayPartyInIndiana, pp. 161-163, "Coffee Grows in a White Oak Tree" (1 text, 1 tune)
- List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 121-124, "Coffee Grows in a White Oak Tree" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Randolph 524, "Four in the Middle" (1 text plus 8 excerpts and/or fragments, 1 tune)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 78, "Coffee Grows on White Oak Trees" (7 texts plus 1 excerpt and mention of 1 more, but almost all mixed -- all except "H" have the "Coffee grows" stanza, but "A" also has verses from "Fly Around, My Pretty Little Miss"; "C" through "H" are mostly "Little Pink"; "B" is mixed with "Raccoon" or some such)
- Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #117, "Coffee Grows on White-Oak Trees" (1 short text, 1 tune)
- Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 154, p. 301, "Coffee Grows on White-Oak Trees" (1 short text); also 85, p. 212, "Going to the Mexican War" (1 fragment, with the "Knapsack on my Shoulder" text and also the "Coffee Grows" stanza)
- Hudson-FolkTunesFromMississippi 33, "Coffee Grows on White-Oak Trees" (1 short text, 1 tune)
- Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 105-106, "Hold My Mule" (1 text, 1 tune, which Scarborough implies is a "Jim Along, Josie" by-blow but which appears to be built on the "Four in the Middle" segment of this song)
- Abernethy-SinginTexas, p. 97, "Coffee Grows on White Oak Trees" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Spurgeon-WaltzTheHall-AmericanPlayParty, pp. 86-87, "Coffee Grows on White Oak Trees"; pp. 102-103, "Four in the Middle" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
- Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 31, "Coffee Grows on White Oak Trees" (1 text, 1 tune) DT, RAGECANL

Roud #735

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Bheir Me O" (melody has same first lines as "Coffee Grows")
- cf. "Fly Around, My Pretty Little Miss" (floating lyrics)
- cf. "Dance Josey" (floating lyrics)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Raging Canal

NOTES [24 words]: For a Texas by-blow of this, see "Dance Josey." Both are ring games, described by Abernethy-SinginTexas as being played at a "Josey party." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: R524

Coffin To Bind Me Down, The

DESCRIPTION: Response for every line is "The coffin to bind me down." Verse lines include: "a silver spade to dig my grave," "a golden chain to let me down," "a folding sheet upon my lips"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious death floatingverses

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Barton-OldPlantationHymns, pp. 22-23, "The Coffin To Bind Me Down" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: Bart022A

Cogie o' Yill, A

DESCRIPTION: "A cogie o' yill (ale), and a pickle ait meal, And a daintie wee drappie o' whiskey Was our forefathers' dose...." The singer praises the martial exploits of the Scots, and their diet, concluding, "Then hey for the whisky, and hey for the meal...."

AUTHOR: Andrew Sheriffs; tune by Robert Macintosh (d.1807) (source: Johnson-Stenhouse)

EARLIEST DATE: 1797 (according to Johnson-Stenhouse)

KEYWORDS: drink food patriotic Scotland nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #144, p. 1, "A Cogie o' Yill" (1 text)
- Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 329-330, "A Cogie o' Yill" (1 text)
- Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, pp. 262-263, "A Cogie o' Yill" (1 text)

Roud #6316

NOTES [113 words]: For a clearly related song -- one must be a derivative of the other -- see Broadside Bodleian, 2806 c.11(81), "The Scottish Coggie o' Brose" ("When our auld scottish lads, wi' their claymores an' plaid's"), unknown, no date. For this broadside, for example, the chorus is "Then hey for the coggie, and hey for the ale, And hey for the whisky, and hey for the meal; When mix'd a' thegither they do unco weel To mak' a chiel cheery and brisk aye."; the chorus from Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong is "Then hey for the whiskey, and hey for the meal, And hey for the cogie, and hey for the yill, Gin ye steer a' thegither they'll do unco weel, To keep a chiel cheery and brisk aye." - BS

Last updated in version 3.2

File: FBS329

---

Cohabs, The

DESCRIPTION: "Now, you cohabs, still dodging around, You'd better keep on underground, For if with #2 you're found, They'll put you into limbo." The song details the fate awaiting men discovered living with two or more wives (i.e. "cohabs," or "cohabitators")

AUTHOR: George Hicks? (Source: Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah's informant F. Y. Morse)

EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)

KEYWORDS: love wife prison crime humorous

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1890 - Mormon church abandons polygamy.

FOUND IN: US(Ro)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #222, "The Cohabs" (1 text)

Roud #10836

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- Put You Into Limbo

NOTES [40 words]: Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah appears to believe that this song dates from before 1890, when the Mormon Church abandoned polygamy. But, of course, some Mormons continued to secretly practice polygamy, so it is possible that it is newer. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.8

File: Hubb222

---

Cois Abhainn Na Sead

DESCRIPTION: Gaelic. The singer's lover is like the vision in an aisling. He wonders if he should continue to pursue her or leave the country.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage courting love beauty Ireland

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 40, "Cois Abhainn Na Sead" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
- Elizabeth Cronin, "Cois Abhainn Na Sead" (on IRECronin01)

NOTES [41 words]: The description follows the "English Summary" provided by OCroinin/Cronin-Cold Black River Stream, The

DESCRIPTION: A young man (Corkery) goes to work on McCormick's drive on the Black River even though his family begs him to stay at home. In the course of his work, he jumps from a log into the stream and, because he cannot swim, drowns

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Fowke)
KEYWORDS: logger death drowning
FOUND IN: Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fowke-LumberingSongsFromTheNorthernWoods #41, "The Cold Black River Stream" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #3679
File: FowL41

Cold Icy Hand

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Crying O Lord"(3x) "Death going to lay his cold icy hand on me" Verse: "Sinner, you better pray, ..., Or your soul be lost on judgement day...." "Sinner, be careful how you walk on the cross, ..., Your foot may slip and your soul be lost...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious death
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 8, "Cold Icy Hand" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #16659
NOTES [11 words]: The description is based on the Barton-OldPlantationHymns text. - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: Bart008

Cold Mountains

DESCRIPTION: "Cold mountains here are all around me, Cold waters gliding down the stream; Oft in my sleep I think I find her But when I wake it's all a dream." The singer seeks his love, who is gone or has rejected him or is left behind at home; he bids her farewell

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: love separation farewell
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3.277, "Cold Mountains" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5.277, "Cold Mountains" (2 tune plus text excerpta)
Roud #16858
RECORDINGS:
Texas Gladden, "Cold Mountains" (on USTGladden01)
File: Br3277
Cold Water Song

DESCRIPTION: "I asked a sweet robin one evening in May" what he sang about. "I am only a-singing the cold water song. Teetotal's the very first word of my lay ... All the birds to the cold water army belong"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick)
KEYWORDS: drink lullaby bird
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 82, "Cold Water Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST CrSNB082 (Partial)
Roud #2767
NOTES [36 words]: Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick states that this song has been collected twice in the Maritimes as a lullaby, which is an interesting end for an anti-alcohol song. Creighton thinks it comes from Britain. - BS
File: CrSNB082

Cole Younger [Laws E3]

DESCRIPTION: Cole Younger tells of his career as a robber, first with his brother Bob and then as part of the James Gang. His career ends when the gang tries to rob the bank in Northfield, MN. Though the Jameses escape, the robbery fails and Cole is captured

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Lomax, Cowboy Songs)
KEYWORDS: outlaw robbery prison punishment
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1876 - The raid by the James Gang and the Younger Brothers on the Northfield Bank
1903 - Cole Younger released from prison (despite being sentenced to life for murder)
1916 - Death of Cole Younger
FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,So,SW)
REFERENCES (19 citations):
Laws E3, "Cole Younger"
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 117-121, "Cole Younger" (1 text plus an excerpt, 1 tune)
Randolph 131, "Cole Younger" (3 texts plus an excerpt, 3 tunes)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 143-146, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 131A)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 166, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 80-81, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart1 19, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 38, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bethke-AdirondackVoices, pp. 115-116, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 182, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dunson/Raim/Asch-AnthologyOfAmericanFolkMusic, p. 46 "Bandit Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 94, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 59, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 40-41, "Cole Younger" (1 text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 456-457, "Cole Younger" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 188-190, "Cole Younger" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 204, "Cole Younger" (1 text)
DT 356, COLEYNGR
ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 20, #5 (1971), p, 9, "Cole Younger" (1 text, 1 tune, the Dock Boggs version)
Roud #2243
RECORDINGS:
Dock Boggs, "Cole Younger" (on Boggs2, BoggsCD1)
Edward L. Crain, "Bandit Cole Younger" ((Conqueror 8010 [poss. as Cowboy Ed Crain]/Broadway 4055 [as Cowboy Carson], 1932; rec. 1931) (Columbia 15710-D [as Edward L. Carin (The Texas Cowboy)], 1932; rec. 1931; on AAFM1, WhenlWas1)
Warde Ford, "Cole Younger" (AFS 4197 B2, 1938; tr.; in AMMEM/Cowell)
Oscar Gilbert, "Cole Younger" (on LomaxCD1705)
Glenn Ohrlin, "Cole Younger" (on Ohrlin01)
Marc Williams, "Cole Younger" (Brunswick 544, c. 1930)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Jesse James (I)" (characters)
cf. "Jesse James (III)" (characters and historical background)

NOTES [2840 words]: Henry Washington Younger was the father of quite a brood: Fourteen children in all (O'Neal, p. 346, etc.). Four of these children would eventually become outlaws: Thomas Coleman ("Cole"), the seventh child, 1844-1916; James ("Jim"), 1848-1902; John, 1851-1874; and Robert ("Bob"), 1853-1889.

Born in Cass County, Missouri; the Youngers came of a good family; both their father and their grandfather were referred to as judges (Yeatman, p. 115) -- though Croy, p. 4, notes that "judge" in this context does not mean what we think it does; it was more nearly equivalent to the modern term "Commissioner." Wellman, p. 56, says that people also called Henry Washington Younger "Colonel," but admits that the title was probably honorary. Despite being a slaveholder, he was a Unionist during the Civil War (Croy, p. 6), but even so, he was killed and his property heavily damaged by Union forces (Croy, p. 17; Wellman, pp. 56-58).

According to Yeatman, "If anyone ever had even a remote excuse for outlawry, or any claim to anything close to a Robin Hood title, [the Younger brothers] did." Croy, pp. 16-17, tells how the patriarch, Judge H. W. Younger, was robbed and killed during the war. (Hence, perhaps, the stanza in some versions, "And then we started for Texas, where brother Bob did say, That on fast horses we must ride in revenge of our father's day... And we'll fight them anti-guerillas until our dying day.")

Cole had seemingly been a good student in his early years, and not given to trouble (Croy, p. 5). But the conflict on the Kansas-Missouri border apparently changed him, and the Civil War in Missouri made it worse. He was the first of the family to join the Confederate forces; Croy, pp. 11-12, says he joined Sterling Price's militia on July 5, 1861 (for Price, see "Sterling Price"). He joined the Quantrell raiders (for whom see "Charlie Quantrell," etc.) somewhat later, perhaps October 1861 (Croy, p. 12) or early 1862 (Settle, p. 23); he presumably first met Frank James in that company. According to Croy, p. 12, he killed his first man on November 10, 1861.

Eventually a large part of the Quantrell force broke up to follow other leaders, of whom "Bloody Bill" Anderson was the most important. Finally, in August 1862, Cole joined the regular Confederate forces (Croy, p. 17), and was part of the rather silly Confederate probe into New Mexico; Cole ended the war in California (Settle, p. 26). By that time brother Jim had also become a guerrilla (Settle, p. 23).

It was some time in the mid-1860s that Cole Younger had whatever relationship he had with "Belle Starr" (Mira Belle Shirley). O'Neal and others say that they met in 1863, but Wellman, p. 75, dates their serious relationship to 1866. Croy, pp. 58-60, even describes some of their conversations of this period. What is certain is that the teenage Belle had a daughter, whom she called Pearl Younger. But what really happened is almost impossible to know -- the only real witnesses were Belle and Cole, and neither one had much reputation for truth-telling, and neither had much reason to be truthful in this case, either. All Settle will admit, e.g. (p. 212) is that Cole admitted to knowing Belle. Fortunately, the issue need not detain us.

After the war, Cole was the first of the brothers to be regarded as an outlaw, though there seems to be no absolute proof of his criminal behavior at the time. (Wellman, p. 65, says that the Youngers and the Jameses turned to robbery within seven months of the end of the war. But he offers no evidence of this. It sounds as if he has it from newspapers of 1874, which were blaming all available unsolved robberies on the James/Younger gang. Wellman on the same page says that the Jameses and Youngers were first cousins, which none of the more serious biographies support.) John Younger was the first to be directly involved with the law; he killed a Texas sheriff in 1871, and was killed in a shootout with the Pinkertons on March 17, 1874; two Pinkertons died in the process (Yeatman, p. 116). From then on, there is no question but that the surviving Youngers were bandits during their brief careers before the Northfield robbery -- though Wellmann, p. 99, describes them as acting like model citizens and singing in a Dallas church choir.

Although I know of no Minnesota version of this song, the Northfield Bank incident is one of the most celebrated events in Minnesota folklore, and is still commemorated today. Northfield, about forty miles south of the Twin Cities, was and remains a quiet college town; this is the Big Event in town history.

Although a few people claim there were nine outlaws (Huntington, p. 1, and Dellinger, pp. 90-116 prints a prat of an article by John Koblas that claims to be "Confessions of the Ninth Man"), the overwhelming weight of evidence indicates that eight men involved in the September 7, 1876...
By the time the gang fled town, two of them (Clell Miller and Bill Stiles, their primary guide) were wounded. O'Neal blaming his death specifically on Cole (p. 348); several other Northfield residents were under (English-language) orders to clear the street (Settle, p. 92; Huntington, p. 16), with A Swedish immigrant, Nicolas Gustavson, was killed outside the bank when he failed to get a fatal shot. To be sure, this was forty years later and Cole was dying -- and he wasn't inside. The robbers proceeded to fumble around, missing not only the safe but the money drawer; their identities; for years the Youngers and the Jameses had been very careful not to admit who they were.) Two robbers -- Cole Younger and Clell Miller -- stayed outside the door to stop anyone from putting up resistance.

They did not understand local conditions, though -- before the robbery, they apparently tried to bet the restaurant owner that Minnesota would vote Democratic in 1876 (Wellman, p. 101). In fact, Minnesota never voted Democratic until it voted for Franklin Roosevelt in 1932! (After which it flipped completely; from 1932 to 2004, it voted Democratic in every election except 1952, 1956, and 1972.) Somewhere in there, the bandits may have picked up a heavy load of booze as well (see Settle, p. 95, where Cole Younger describes how they got drunk). The robbers in the bank apparently smelled of alcohol, and they certainly were incompetent in their behavior -- it makes you wonder how they had managed to get away with so much in Missouri.

"We stationed out our pickets" and "We are the noted Younger boys": of the eight robbers, only three -- Yeatman thinks it was Charlie Pitts, Bob Younger, and one of the James Boys, and Huntington, p. 13, gives the same list -- went inside. (Brant, p. 178, lists the men inside as Bob Younger and Frank and Jesse James; this apparently came from an 1897 report by Cole Younger, but Brant does not give enough information to trace his source. Wellman suggest it was Pitts, Bob Younger, and Jesse James. Whoever it was that entered the bank, they certainly did not proclaim their identities; for years the Youngers and the Jameses had been very careful not to admit who they were.) Two robbers -- Cole Younger and Clell Miller -- stayed outside the door to stop anyone who might try to get in. Three more were posted at a greater distance.

Huntington, p. 17, reports that the bank was being reconstructed, so the employees were in "temporary quarters," more vulnerable than they would ordinarily have been. It did not prevent them from putting up resistance.

The first trouble came when one J. S. Allen tried to enter the bank. Miller stopped him from getting in -- but Allen managed to escape around the corner of the building and raised an alarm. Huntington, p. 25, notes that it was prairie chicken season, and many of the town's best hunters were out in the field, but within minutes, the townsfolk were arming themselves and fighting back; the whole robbery and gunfight, according to Huntington, p. 38, lasted but seven minutes. "The cashier being brave and bold denied our noted band; Jesse James fired the shot that killed that noble man" and "in vain we sought the money drawer while the battle raged outside": There were three employees in the bank when the robbers entered: teller Alonzo Bunker, acting cashier Joseph Lee Heywood, and assistant bookkeeper Frank J. Wilcox. They seem mostly to have played dumb -- e.g. claiming they couldn't unlock the safe (which apparently was literally true, since it was already unlocked). Cashier Heywood apparently smashed Frank James's arm in the safe (Brant, p. 179, but this from a source that, by its publication date alone, cannot have had reliable information) and then got drunk. The robbers proceeded to fumble around, missing not only the safe but the money drawer; their final take was reported to be $26.70. Bunker tried to flee and was shot in the shoulder.

Meanwhile, the townsfolk, having been warned, were starting to fight back. Few were armed, but enough managed to scrape up weapons that it was clear the robbers had to flee. As the inside crew left the bank, one of the robbers shot Heywood in the head after slashing his throat (Settle, p. 92; Huntington, p. 41, etc. does not mention the throat-slaughtering). It seems to have been generally assumed that Jesse was the guilty party; he was pretty definitely the most violent of the gang. There was no reliable eyewitness testimony; Huntington, p. 24, merely said it was one of the robbers, unidentified. On the other hand, Cole Younger -- the last survivor of the Northfield raid -- would report, two days before his death on March 21, 1916, that it was Frank James who fired the fatal shot. To be sure, this was forty years later and Cole was dying -- and he wasn't inside. A Swedish immigrant, Nicolas Gustavson, was killed outside the bank when he failed to understand (English-language) orders to clear the street (Settle, p. 92; Huntington, p. 16), with O'Neal blaming his death specifically on Cole (p. 348); several other Northfield residents were wounded.

By the time the gang fled town, two of them (Clell Miller and Bill Stiles, their primary guide) were... dead, and Cole Younger had a hip wound plus some minor injuries from buckshot, while Bob Younger had been hit in the arm, nearly disabling him. They had also lost some horses, which handicapped them significantly; they ended up stealing various animals, but at least one was a plow horse and not much help (Yeatman, p. 177; Huntington, pp. 48-49 describes two unusable horses they requisitioned). In addition, Bob Younger had lost so much blood that he fainted in Shieldsville; they had to stop to have him attended to (p. 178), costing them more time. They finally decided to proceed on foot.

On September 13, near Mankato, the gang split up -- O'Neal, p. 348, says that Jesse wanted to abandon or kill Bob Younger, who could not move quickly (cf. Settle, p. 95). The other Youngers, who had wounds of their own, refused, so instead of abandoning Bob, they split into two groups.
Charlie Pitts and the three Youngers formed one party; Frank and Jesse proceeded on their own.
(The hope may have been that the fast-moving Jameses would lead the authorities away from the slower Younger party. It worked for a time -- Huntington, pp. 60-61, says that everyone went off after the Jameses, and thought the whole gang had escaped when they vanished into South Dakota -- but only for a time.) A romantic youngster near Madelia, Minnesota encountered them, was sure he had seen the robbers, and hurried off to tell the authorities (Huntington, pp. 64-65)
On September 21, a posse caught up with the Younger party at Hanska Slough near Madelia (the fact that they had gotten only that far -- Madelia is only 25 miles from Mankato -- shows how lost and hungry and hurt they were). In the shootout, three members of the posse were very lightly injured (Huntington, pp. 70-71). But the robbers were hit hard. Pitts was killed; Jim Younger lost several teeth to a bullet (Croy, p. 129, say that a doctor, working on his facial wound, extracted a section of his jaw with two teeth attached; Settle, p. 163, notes that he would live mostly on liquids for the rest of his life), and Cole Younger added more buckshot wounds to his collection (according to O'Neal, p. 348, he had eleven wounds, Jim five, and Bob four). According to Yeatman, p. 182, Cole wanted to fight on, but Bob talked him out of it; in Huntington's account (p. 71), only Bob was even able to stand up to surrender.

They apparently became celebrity prisoners (Trenerry, p. 95), but that didn't keep them from being charged. According to Huntington, p. 77, all three were charged as accessories in the murder of Heywood, with attacking Bunker with intent to do great bodily harm, and with robbery of the Northfield Bank. Cole Younger was charged with the murder of Gustavson, and the others as accessories. I'm not sure that any of these could have been proved, but they obviously were guilty of shooting it out with the police, which was problem enough.

Minnesota, as of this writing, has managed to resist the urge to reinstate the death penalty for those too poor or too non-white to have fancy lawyers. In 1876, it "did" have the death penalty -- but under a law of 1868 it required that a jury apply the penalty, not a judge. This law had never been fully tested in the courts, but it was widely interpreted to mean that a defendant who pled guilty to murder could not be hanged (Trenerry, p. 100). So the Youngers, rather than risk the gallows, formally pled guilty to sundry charges on December 11 (Settle, p. 94; Yeatman, p. 191), and were sentenced to life imprisonment (Huntington, p. 78).

Cole and Bob Younger became model prisoners. Jim Younger, always moody and now suffering from a speech impediment and an inability to eat solid foods due to his wounds, was perhaps not quite such a good inmate. But many thought they had earned release, including two of Minnesota's most important political figures, Alexander Ramsey and Henry Sibley (Huntington, pp. xx-xi). Then Bob Younger died in prison of tuberculosis in 1889. That made the pressure even greater; a law known formally as the "Deming Bill" and informally as the "Younger Act" was passed allowing parole for those who were serving life sentences (Huntington, p. xxiii). Then Bob was given parole and set free in 1901, a quarter century after their sentencing.

Upon his release, Jim fell in love with a girl half his age, but his parole did not permit him to marry (Settle, pp. 162-163). Nor could he work most jobs, because his signature, as a convicted felon, did not carry legal weight (Huntington, p. xxv). The girl involved petitioned the governor that he be pardoned (Trenerry, pp. 104-105), but this was denied. Jim shot himself on October 19, 1902, declaring himself in his suicide note a Socialist and supporter of women's rights (Huntington, p. xxv).

In reaction to Jim's death, Cole -- who up to that point had been working as a tombstone salesman
-- was given a conditional pardon on the condition that he never return to Minnesota (Trenerry, p.
105); he went on to open a Wild West Show with Frank James. That was rather a disaster (see the notes to "Jesse James (III)" for a general history of the James family, including that show), and brought him some condemnation for taking such a large part (Huntington, p. xxvi), but Cole from 1905 to 1908 ran Cole Younger's Coliseum, which was a more sedate exhibition of guns, saddles, and other gear. He also wrote an autobiography (though this is widely regarded as being not very accurate). He finally died in 1916, the last survivor of the Northfield robbers.
A recent find of a prison journal from the period around 1880 (soon to be displayed by the Minnesota Historical Society) lists the brothers as frequently sick in prison, but Cole Younger did find a prison newsletter. The Stillwater area is still the home of one of Minnesota's leading prisons, too; I guess things don't change much in Minnesota. Though the town of Stillwater is now more noteworthy for its site on the St. Croix river, and the actual site of the old Stillwater prison was burned in 2002 in an act of vandalism.

It took the town of Northfield many years to decide that Jesse James and Cole Younger were part of its heritage. For many years it resisted attempts to put up a monument to the Great Robbery, preferring to point out its rich contribution to education (it is home to Carleton and St. Olaf Colleges, the former in particular noted for its extremely strict standards). Not until 1947 did the town start celebrating the anniversary of the robbery (Huntington, p. xxx) -- though now, sixty years later, it has become the biggest day in the town calendar. - RBW

Bibliography

- Brant: Marley Brant, Jesse James: The Man and the Myth, 1998. Despite its title, which might seem to indicate scholarly caution, this book strikes me as incredibly credulous, taking as certain many things where the sources conflict, and often relying on the less reliable sources. It also has a very clear sympathy with any Confederate Good Ol' Boys who just might be terrorists on the side. I have been cautious in using it except where it coincides with information in other books. (Frankly, I eventually started checking the index rather than finish reading the thing).
- Croy: Homer Croy, Cole Younger: Last of the Great Outlaws, 1956 (I use the 1999 Bison Books edition with an introduction by Richard E. Meyer). Told very informally (to put it mildly), but one of the few books about Younger that actually seems to have done some research.
- Dellinger: Harold Dellinger, editor, Jesse James: The Best Writings on the Notorious Outlaw and His Gang, Globe Pequot Press, 2007 (being a collection of excerpts, usually out of context, some from scholars, some completely unscholarly)
- O'Neal: Bill O'Neal, Encyclopedia of Western Gunfighters, 1979. A general work, and as with most such things it appears to have a few details wrong, but a handy source for general references.
- Huntington: George Huntington, Robber and Hero: The Story of the Northfield Bank Raid, Christian Way Co., 1895; reissued by the Minnesota Historical Society Press in 1986 with a new introduction by John McGuigan. Although this is considered a relatively sober and accurate account of the raid, with much information from those present, the 1986 introduction detailing the later careers of the Youngers is probably the best part. The text itself is much too hagiographic (of the people of Minnesota, not of the robbers) for me to trust it entirely.
- Settle: William A. Settle, Jr., Jesse James Was His Name, 1966 (I used the 1977 Bison edition) was one of the first serious James biographies. It is relatively short, but carefully documented, and pays more attention to the songs than the other James books I've seen.
- Trenerry: Walter N. Trenerry, Murder in Minnesota, Minnesota Historical Society, 1962 (I used the 1985 edition, which is not listed as revised, but I noticed a reference to 1980 in one of the appendices). This is mostly concerned with other Minnesota happenings, but it does have a chapter on the Northfield raid and the Youngers.
- Wellman: Paul I. Wellman, A Dynasty of Western Outlaws, 1961. This covers a series of outlaws starting with Quantrill's Raiders and ending with Pretty Boy Floyd, so it gives a lot of historical context -- but also is prone to believing any old crazy rumor.
- Yeatman: Ted P. Yeatman, Frank and Jesse James: The Story Behind the Legend, 2000 is among the newest and most authoritative books; although clearly intended for popular consumption, it is well-footnoted, very large, and new enough to include the results of DNA investigations.

Last updated in version 5.1
File: LE03

Coleraine Girl, The
DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls the beauty of Coleraine and the girl who lives there and sings in its valleys. He regrets leaving them behind; he would live there if he could. But he has found work with the fishing fleet (?), and must stay where he is to live
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: work homesickness separation
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrySongsOfThePeople H646, p. 209, "The Coleraine Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: HHH646

Coleraine Regatta

DESCRIPTION: The singer, and many others, set out for the races at Coleraine. The train ride witnesses wild partying. Before it's over, many are separated from those they traveled with. At the course, many things are for sale. The singer gets drunk and falls asleep
AUTHOR: James McCurry ?
EARLIEST DATE: 1924 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: racing train party drink
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrySongsOfThePeople H36, pp. 74-75, "Coleraine Regatta" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2968
File: HHH036

Colin and Lucy

DESCRIPTION: "Of Leinster, fam'd for maidens fair, Bright Lucy was the grace.... Till luckless love, and pining care, Impair'd her rosy hue." A bell rings, a raven crows in the night; it tells of Colin's marriage to another. She dies; he dies when he learns
AUTHOR: Thomas Tickell
EARLIEST DATE: 1716 (Rimbault)
KEYWORDS: love courting betrayal death marriage
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Percy/Wheatley-ReliquesOfAncientEnglishPoetry III, pp. 312-315, "Lucy and Colin" (1 text)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, p. 478, "Colin and Lucy" (source notes only)
Roud #13919
NOTES [38 words]: This, from all I can see, is just a cheap rewrite of the "Lady Margaret" theme. But Gardner and Chickering claim to have two copies from manuscript. So it's indexed, though I am far from confident of its traditional status. - RBW
File: GC478b

Colleen from Coolbaun, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer meets Mary Ann O'Donovan, "the colleen from Coolbaun." He proposes marriage to her father, listing his possessions. Her father rejects him as "a rover and a rake" but Mary Ann speaks in his behalf. Her father agrees but with a meager dowry.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (Voice01)
KEYWORDS: courting dowry marriage wedding drink father
FOUND IN: Ireland
Roud #9233
RECORDINGS:
Tommy McGrath, "The Colleen from Coolbaun" (on Voice01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Star of County Down" (tune, on Voice01) and references there NOTES [36 words]: Coolbaun is in County Cork. At the end of Tommy McGrath's version on Colleen from Coolbawn (Sweet Combeana)

DESCRIPTION: "One morning being fair I rode to take the air" down by the river, where the singer sees "my sweet Colleen reu." He describes the features of "sweet Combeana" at length. Now he has lost her, and roves about seeking her night and day, high and low

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1794 (Journal of the Polly)
KEYWORDS: love separation river beauty
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, p. 235, "An Old Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9233
File: HGam235

Colleen Rue, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer meets and praises Colleen Rue. She rejects his "dissimulation and invocation." He says if he were Hector, Paris, or Orpheus he'd "range through Asia, likewise Arabia, Pennsylavania" to see her face.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (IRPTunney03)
KEYWORDS: courting rejection beauty
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Tunney-StoneFiddle, p. 118, "The Colleen Rue" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 258-259, "Colleen Rue"
Roud #2365
RECORDINGS:
Paddy Tunney, "The Colleen Rue" (on IRPTunney03)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Colleen Ruadh
NOTES [108 words]: As in "Lough Erne Shore" and "Sheila Nee Iyer," there is no resolution for the Tunney-StoneFiddle version. - BS
A curious set of literary references, this. Orpheus of course went to Hell to bring back Euridice (and then lost her at the end); this very loosely inspired the ballad/romance "King Orfeo" [Child 19]. Paris (Alexander) was the Trojan prince who abandoned his first wife Oenone to hook up with Helen of Sparta (married name: Helen of Troy; for this see especially Ovid's Letter from "Oenone to Paris" in the Heroides). And Hector, while faithful to his wife as far as we can tell from the legends, was not a significant traveler. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.4
File: TSF118

Collier Lad, The (Lament for John Sneddon/Siddon)

DESCRIPTION: The singer tells her tale of grief: Her love, John (Sneddon), is a collier. She dreams a dream of his death. In the morning, she learns that he has died in a cave-in. They were soon to be married and to travel to America. But he will return no more

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: mining death love separation marriage emigration dream mourning
FOUND IN: Ireland Britain
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H110, p. 144, "A Collier Lad" (1 text, 1 tune)
Collier Laddie, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer (or someone) sees a bonnie lass, and steps up to court her. She rejects him; she loves a collier laddie. He goes to her father, offering land and wealth. She still says no. Years later, he turns up poor and begs at the door of girl and collier

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1827 (Lyle-Andrew-CrawfursCollectionVolume1)
KEYWORDS: love courting beauty rejection marriage begging
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #65, p. 1, "The Ploughman Laddie" (1 text plus 1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan5 991, "The Collier Laddie" (7 texts plus two fragments on pp. 607-608, 3 tunes)
Ord-BothySongsToAndBallads, pp. 40-42, "The Collier Laddie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 60, "Laird of Johnstone and Miss Jean Macdowall" (1 fragment)
MacColl-PersonalChoice, pp. 29-30, "The Collier Laddie" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, COLLAD COLLAD2*
Roud #3787
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "The Laird o' Drum" (tune, per Greig/Duncan5)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Bonnie Jeannie Gordon
The Ploughman's Lass
File: Ord040A

Collier's Bonnie Lassie, The

DESCRIPTION: "The collier has a daughter" of great beauty. "A laird he was that sought her, Rich baith in lands and money." (She declares that she is too young and black to love a laird, and that she will have a man "the colour o' my daddie")

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1803 (Scots Musical Museum, #47)
KEYWORDS: mining love rejection nobility
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
MacColl-ShuttleAndCage-IndustrialFolkBallads, p. 24, "The collier's bonnie lassie" (1 short text, 1 tune)
MacColl-PersonalChoice, , p. 57, "The collier's bonnie lassie" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #8410
NOTES [96 words]: There are several early printed texts of this (reportedly Herd, Thomson, Johnson, etc.). Comparing the Scots Musical Museum version with MacColl's version, I have to think they are recensionally different -- the Museum version is a very flowery description of how the laird courts the girl, with no real ending; the MacColl text has her reject him.
I suspect the Museum text is one of its rewrites (not by Burns), and a weak one. But it's possible that the folk process improved a weak song.
The tunes, apart from one measure in the middle, are note-for-note identical. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
Collier's Rant, The

DESCRIPTION: As the singer and his marra/marrer (workmate) go to work, they meet the devil; the singer knocks off his horns and feet. The lights go out, the workmate goes the wrong way, and "Old Nick got me marra and I got the tram." He regrets the loss of his friend.

AUTHOR: Tommy Armstrong ?
EARLIEST DATE: 1809 (Ritson)
LONG DESCRIPTION: As the singer and his marra/marrer/marrow (workmate) are going to work, they meet the devil; the singer knocks the devil's horns and feet off with his pick. He breaks his bottle and spills the drink; the lights go out, the workmate goes the wrong way, and "Old Nick got me marra and I got the tram." He regrets the loss of his friend. Cho: "Follow the horses, Johnnie me laddie...Hey, lad, lie away, me canny lad-o"
KEYWORDS: fight death mining work friend worker Devil
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 74-75, "The Collier's Rant" (1 text, 1 tune)
Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, pp. 10-11, "The Collier's Rant" (1 text, 1 tune)
MacColl-ShuttleAndCage-IndustrialFolkBallads, p. 15, "The Collier's Rant" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, COLRRANT
[Cuthbert Sharp], _The Bishoprick Garland, A Collection of Legends, Songs, Ballads, &c Belonging to the County of Durham_, 1834 (references are to the 1969 reprint), pp. 52-54, "The Collier's Rant" (1 text, 1 tune on p. 86)
Roud #1366
RECORDINGS:
Bob Davenport, "The Collier's Rant" (on IronMuse1)
Pete Elliott, "The Collier's Rant" (on Elliotts01)
NOTES [70 words]: Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs: "Words and tune from The Bishopprick Garland, p. 52." I don't find a tune there but it has an additional verse which, Sharpe writes, "does not appear to possess the same originality and antiquity with the foregoing."
Google Books has a no preview entry, apparently for a 1740 broadside, entitled "The Colliers Rant: a song," beginning "As me and my marrow was ganning to wark." - BS
Last updated in version 3.1

Colonel Ellsworth

DESCRIPTION: "It was in 1861 on the twenty-fourth of May... It was there that Colonel Ellsworth came to his untimely grave. He raises a New York Regiment and leads them to Alexandria. He tears down a flag and is shot by the owner, Jackson; the soldiers kill Jackson

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales)
KEYWORDS: death soldier punishment homicide
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1861 - Death of E. Elmer Ellsworth
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 354-355, "Colonel Ellsworth" (1 text)
Roud #6593
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ellsworth's Avengers" (subject of Elmer Ellsworth)
cf. "The Soldier's Funeral" (subject of Elmer Ellsworth)
NOTES [107 words]: This song is frankly too accurate to be traditional; clearly it is a poem written based on newspaper accounts after the event, and preserved in a broadside or something.
Elmer Elsworth was not the first Union soldier to die in the Civil War, but he was the first to get much newspaper attention. Invading the property of a Confederate sympathizer, he tore down a Confederate emblem -- probably an illegal act. The property owner killed Ellsworth -- and was promptly killed by one of Ellsworth's men. I'd say the "uncivilized" honors were pretty well balanced in this case.

For more about Ellsworth, see the notes to "The Soldier's Funeral." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.0
File: TNY354

Colonel Hay

DESCRIPTION: "He's a brave commander, Colonel Hay, An' I think it's him that we'll a' gang wi', He's enlistin' a body of fine young men, To fight the French." A good escape "if ye get a girl wi' child." He's a gentleman and has "plenty of everything you want"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1903 (Greig/Duncan1)

KEYWORDS: recruiting war Scotland France humorous nonballad soldier

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan1 75, "Colonel Hay" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
Roud #5796

NOTES [89 words]: Greig/Duncan1: "In 1794 Colonel Alexander Leith-Hay, who was also known simply as Colonel Hay, raised the 109th Regiment of Foot (The Aberdeenshire Regiment), and in 1798 Colonel Andrew Hay raised the Banffshire Fencibles which saw service in Gibraltar before being reduced in 1802. The song could refer to either of these men but perhaps the use of a tune with Banff connections may point to the second as the more likely. Of course, if the song had been composed in 1794 it might have been applied to the other colonel Hay in 1798." - BS

Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD1075

Colonel Sharp

DESCRIPTION: A girl tells her lover that she was seduced by Colonel Sharp. Both are humiliated; they agree Sharp must die. They pursue the colonel; the man kills Sharp. He is taken and condemned to die. The two kill themselves

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1915 (JAFL 28)

KEYWORDS: homicide seduction suicide punishment

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1824 - Murder of Colonel Sharp

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 790-792, "Colonel Sharp" (1 text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 247-248, "Colonel Sharp" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 38, #2 (1993), p, 33, "The Murder of Colonel Sharp" (1 text, 1 tune, the Douglas Wallin version)

Roud #4110

RECORDINGS:
Doug Wallin, "The Murder of Col. Sharp" (on FarMtns3)

NOTES [112 words]: This song is item dF38 in Laws's Appendix II.
Leach-TheBalladBook reports that this ballad is factually accurate except that the two lovers attempted suicide by poison rather than with a knife, and that the young man lived to be hung. The Sing Out! article adds information from the 1915 JAFL account, It says that the girl was Ann Cook and her fiancee was Jeroboam Beauchamp. Cook agreed to marry Beauchamp on the condition that he kill Sharp. They were married, and then Beauchamp set out to eliminate Sharp. According to that account, "He and his wife both tried to commit suicide by drinking poison and the wife died an hour after her husband had been executed." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3
File: L790
Colonel Shelby

DESCRIPTION: "Colonel Shelby, Colonel Shelby, I do not think it right For you to charge on Dardanelle At such a time of night. This old coat, I don't want it, I guess I'll have to run, I've not got sword or pistol Nor even a shotgun"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Randolph)

KEYWORDS: Civilwar soldier desertion

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 247, "Colonel Shelby" (1 text)

Roud #7713

NOTES [804 words]: Colonel (later Brigadier General) Joseph O. "Jo" Shelby (1830-1897) was one of those romantic figures so common in the Confederate cavalry. Born in Kentucky (CivilWarAlmanac, p. 375), and educated at Transylvania University before moving to Missouri to grow hemp (Shea, p. 89) and run the "Waverly Steam Rope Factory" (Gerteis, p. 41), he cut his teeth in the Kansas conflict (Foote, p. 784). He was a cousin of the political Blair family of Missouri, one of whom was Lincoln's postmaster general and another almost Lincoln's viceroy in Missouri, so his family hoped he would be Unionist. Indeed, he would eventually say that John Brown, i.e. the abolitionists, were right (Arthur, photo facing p. 143). But he quickly joined the secessionist forces (Gerteis, pp. 41-42). He first commanded cavalry under Sterling Price in Missouri, and served most of the war in the Trans-Mississippi, fighting at the battles of Wilson's Creek and Pea Ridge/Elkhorn Tavern as a junior officer (Shea, p. 89).

His unit proved exceptional enough that it came to be called "Shelby's Iron Brigade" (see the entry on "Shelby's Iron Brigade" in HTIECivilWar).

When the war ended, Shelby fled to Mexico rather than surrender. According to CivilWarAlmanac, he took about 600 troopers with him, and tried to prop up the French-backed government of the Emperor Maximilian. When Maximilian fell, Shelby returned to Missouri (1867). In an interesting folkloric note, he testified on behalf of Frank James when the latter was on trial for murder (Shea, p. 89) -- perhaps not so surprising, since both were raiders who fought in the Missouri area, ad Shelby is sometimes associated with Quantrill's Raiders, in which Frank James fought (see the notes to "Jesse James (III)" and "Charlie Quantrell").

Like so many cavalry officers, Shelby deliberately cut a dashing figure. This may have led to the disillusionment shown by his subordinate here.

Shelby seems to have inspired at least one other fragment of a song. Fred W. Allsopp's Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), p. 222, has a stanza "Jo Shelby's at your stable door, Hide your mule, hide your mule... There's something up and hell's to pay, When Shelby's on a raid...." This is said to be an addition to the Union song "Hide Your Mule," which does not seem to have entered tradition.

Dardanelle is near Russellville, Arkansas, a little north of the halfway point of a line between Fort Smith and Little Rock. It probably goes without saying that there was no major battle there. Phisterer reports two skirmishes there (p. 174: May 10, 1864, involving the 6th Kansas Cavalry; Jan. 14, 1865, involving the 2 Kansas Cavalry and some Iowa horsemen).

It's barely possible that one of these events is the fight mentioned, but they're both very minor and unlikely to inspire a song -- plus Shelby had been promoted by then. We know that it happened after Pea Ridge in March 1862, since Shelby was then still a captain (Shea, p. 112). My guess is that this refers to some event in the summer or fall of 1862. In June of that year, Shelby was a colonel organizing a cavalry brigade in northwestern Arkansas to take part in an invasion of Missouri. He fought at the battle of Prairie Grove, still in northwestern Arkansas, in late 1862 (for background on that battle, see the notes to "Prairie Grove"). By the middle of 1863, he was wounded in fighting in Helena, Arkansas, far east of Dardanelle, and he was promoted Brigadier General that fall.

The picture of unarmed Confederates is all too accurate. Price's Missouri militia was initially armed mostly with fowling pieces brought by the soldiers themselves, and the Confederates never did manage to build much of a munitions industry. To a great extent they had to depend on captured Federal weapons. And the earlier in the war, the poorer their equipment. (Even as late as Prairie Grove, lack of equipment was a major problem for them.) This adds to the impression that Randolph's fragment describes something that happened in 1862.

There are several biographies of Shelby, and histories of his wild career, including Arthur's. Unfortunately, there is reason to believe that these are completely unreliable. Arthur, p. 228, says that most of the information about Shelby comes from two books by John Newman Edwards,
Shelby and His Men (1867) and Shelby's Expedition to Mexico (1872). Arthur says that historians are forced to rely on these because most of Shelby's own records were destroyed by fire. And Edwards was one of Shelby's officers and knew him well (Edwards takes up almost a full page in Arthur's index). But he is also the person who gave us the Frank and Jesse James legend, making it up essentially out of whole cloth. I think we have to treat him -- and, hence, every work on Shelby -- as fundamentally unreliable. - RBW

Bibliography

- CivilWarAlmanac: [no author listed], The Civil War Almanac, World Almanac/Bison Books, 1983
- Phisterer: Frederick Phisterer, Campaigns of the Civil War: Statistical Record of the Armies of the United States, 1883 (I use the 2002 Castle Books reprint)

Colonial Courtship

DESCRIPTION: "The best of this colony is, The brides have no fine affectation." They don't faint from shock; they just drink brandy. So will their mothers. Girls don't consult their parents about whether to marry; they just want the ceremony to "be done quicker"

AUTHOR: Charles R. Thatcher (1831-1878)? (source: AndersonStory)

EARLIEST DATE: 1869 (Thatcher)

KEYWORDS: courting mother children marriage humorous

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Thatcher-ColonialMinstrel-Songsters, pp. 8-9, "Colonial Courtship, or Love on the Diggings" (1 text, from the "Colonial Minstrel")
- Anderson-StoryOfAustralianFolksong, pp. 63-65, "Colonial Courtship" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Anderson/Thatcher-GoldDiggersSongbook, pp. 67-68, "Colonial Courtship" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Drops of Brandy" (tune)
- cf. "The Lady and the Bullock Driver" (by Charles R. Thatcher) (tune) and references there

NOTES [29 words]: For brief background on Charles Thatcher's career, see the notes to "Where's Your License?" For an extensive collection of his songs, see Anderson-StoryOfAustralianFolksong.

- RBW

Colonial Experience

DESCRIPTION: The singer, newly arrived in Sydney, sees sights unlike any he's seen before. He also experiences firsthand the heat and drought, and has to work very hard. The mosquitoes and ants are always pestering him. It's an uncomfortable, laborious life

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Paterson, _Old Bush Songs_)

KEYWORDS: work Australia

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Anderson-StoryOfAustralianFolksong, pp. 159-161, "Colonial Experience" (1 text, 1 tune)
Colorado Trail, The

DESCRIPTION: "Eyes like the morning star, Cheeks like a rose, Laura was a pretty girl, God almighty knows. Weep, all ye little rains, Wail, winds, wail, All along, along, along The Colorado trail."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)

KEYWORDS: love beauty nonballad

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (6 citations):

Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 462, "The Colorado Trail" (1 text, 1 tune)
Tinsley-HeWasSinginThisSong, pp. 46-49, "The Colorado Trail" (1 text, 1 tune, including non-traditional lyrics)
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, p. 262, "The Colorado Trail" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 211, "Colorado Trail" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 45, "The Colorado Trail" (1 text)

DT, COLORADT*

Roud #6695

RECORDINGS:

Poplin Family, "Eyes Like Cherries" (on Poplin01, mixing verses of "The Colorado Trail," "Liza Up in a Simmon Tree," and others)
Pete Seeger, "Colorado Trail" (on PeteSeeger30)

NOTES [112 words]: Lee Hays added several verses to this beautiful little tune, and many singers have recorded them, or added others of their own. The only traditional lyrics, however, are those given above, taken from a horse wrangler who was hospitalized in Duluth, Minnesota and printed by Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag. And even those were slightly dubious until confirmed by the Poplin recording. - RBW

The Poplin recording has a chorus which is almost identical to the verse of "Colorado Trail," and to a verse from Bradley Kincaid's recording of "Liza Up in a Simmon Tree." The rest of the song, however, is completely different; I put it here because I couldn't find a better place. - PJS

Last updated in version 3.1

File: San462

Colour of Amber (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "The colour of amber was my true love's hair." "Many a time [his lips] they've been pressed to mine. I'd fish and catch him "with a line and hook" and never part. It's in vain. I'll never be a maid again.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1974 (recording, Mary Ann Haynes)

KEYWORDS: courting love betrayal hair floatingverses nonballad fishing lyric

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))

Roud #1716

RECORDINGS:

Mary Ann Haynes, "The Colour of Amber" (on Voice11)

NOTES [97 words]: "The Colour of Amber" is the reverse of "Black Is the Color" with the usual floating verse from the woman's point of view. It is tempting to lump this with, say, "Fair and Tender Ladies," but the amber and fishing verses make it stand aside for me. Yates, Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Notes - Volume 11" - 11.9.02, refers to John Ashton's Real Sailor Songs "The Sailor Boy" [Ashton/Sailor *63] as another version; that does have the amber verse but is a version of "The Sailor Boy"(I) [Laws K12]. "Fair and Tender Ladies" would be a closer match
Columbia the Free

DESCRIPTION: The singer was born in America. His "pack is all over American earth. My blood is as Irish as Irish can be." He is ashamed that the "tyrants" control "our poor plundered Ireland." He waits for the summons to return to Ireland with his rifle.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday)
KEYWORDS: emigration America Ireland nonballad patriotic
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday 2, pp. 2-3, 99, 155, "Columbia the Free" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2926

NOTES [116 words]: It is a curiosity that, in the late nineteenth century, the Irish in America were often more militant in favor of liberty than the Irish still at home. (Look at how many of the Fenian exploits were organized in America.) One can only speculate at the reasons: The Irish in America were not experiencing the slow liberalization that occurred in Ireland, they had more money and didn't have to scramble as hard for a living -- and, of course, their ancestors included most of the worst troublemakers who simply could not stomach British rule. For an example of such, see the notes to "Erin's Lovely Lee." The Fenians would eventually plan an invasion of Ireland; as usual, nothing much came of it. - RBW

File: MoMa002

Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean (Britannia, the Pride of the Ocean)

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, (Columbia/Britannia) the (gem/pride) of the ocean... Thy banners make tyranny tremble When borne by the red, white, and blue." The singer boasts of his nation's success in war and its liberty

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1844 (sheet music)
KEYWORDS: patriotic nonballad
FOUND IN: US Britain
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 310-311, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean" Heart-Songs, p. 469, "The Red, White and Blue" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 44, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" (1 text)
Colonial-Dames-AmericanWarSongs, pp. 61-62, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 176-177+, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean"
ADDITIONAL: Harry Dichter and Elliott Shapiro, _Early American Sheet Music: Its Lure and Its Lore, 1768-1889_, R. R. Bowker, 1941, p. 72, has a description of the sheet music
Roud #25988

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 26(565), "Red, White and Blue", J. Moore ["Poet's Box"] (Belfast), 1846-1852; also Firth b.25(217) View 2 of 2 [difficult to read], Harding B 15(255b)[some lines illegible], Harding B 11(3246), Harding B 11(3401), "[The] Red, White, and Blue"; Firth b.26(377), "Britannia! the Pride of the Ocean"; Harding B 11(396), "Nelsons Last Sigh" or "The Red White & Blue"
LOCSheets, sm1844 410890, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean", Osborn's Music Saloon (Philadelphia), 1844; also sm1846 411040, "Columbia the Land of the Brave" (tune)
LOCSinging, cw104810, "Red, White & Blue" ("Oh, Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean"), J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859; also sb40454a, "Red, White & Blue"; cw10102a, cw101030, cw101040, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean"
NLScotland, L.C.Fol.178.A.2(015), "Red, White, and Blue", 1849, McIntosh (Calton[Glasgow]); also L.C.1269(175a), "Britannia, the Pride of the Ocean"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Dixie, the Land of King Cotton" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
Jackson County (File: McIn022)
"Nobody Hurt" (Old Abe) ("Mr. Lincoln a great speech was making," by John Ross Dix) (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 110)
People's Campaign Song, No. 1. Lincoln & Hamlin ("Oh! Lincoln the hope of the nation") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 126)
Columbia the Land of the Brave (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 301)
The Gem of All Orders ("The Grange of the Gem of all orders") (by A. P. Knapp) (Albert P. Knapp, _Grange Songster_, 1915, p. 8)
The Red Guard ("Who will stand for the homes of our nation, The homes that were built by the brave") (by Kate Lunden Sunderlin) (Anna Adams Gordon, _Popular Campaign Songs_, National W.C.T.U. Publishing House, 1915, p. 18)
The Red, White and Black (by Ruth Lawrence) ("The Kaiser was counting his conquests") (Colonial-Dames-AmericanWarSongs, p. 181)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Red, White and Blue

NOTES [452 words]: Fuld reports considerable controversy about the origin of this song: It is probably not possible, at this time, to tell with certainty whether the original is the American "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" or the British "Britannia, the Pride of the Ocean."
The earliest printed version, called "Columbia the Land of the Brave," was printed in 1843 and credited to George Willig. In 1852, a copy of "Britannia the Gem of the Ocean" was filed at the British Museum; it credits the song to D[avid]. T. Shaw (who sang the American version, and who is also credited in a number of American broadsides listed on p. 133 of Edwin Wolf 2nd, American Song Sheets, Slip Ballads, and Political Broadsides 1850-1870, Library Company of Philadelphia, 1963 -- who lists 15 different broadsides of the American version). This version, however, was not filed in the stationer's register.
The song has also been credited to Stephen Joseph Meany (words) and Thomas E. Williams (music; died 1854) (cf. Spaeth, A History of Popular Music in America, p. 98, who dates their "Britannia" version to 1854), and to the performer Thomas A. Beckett (so Colonial-Dames-AmericanWarSongs, although it spells his name "Becket"), but substantiating evidence is lacking in both cases. (e.g. Heart-Songs lists the words by D. T. Shaw and music by Thomas A Becket -- note the lack of a period in the latter; apparently the editor thought they meant Henry II's archbishop!) If you want the full details, you'd best see both Spaeth and Fuld. - RBW
The 1844 sheet music, LOCSheet sm1844 410890 notes "A Popular Song as sung by Mr Blankman & Mr Shaw." The 1846 sheet music LOCsheet sm1846 411040, and broadside LOCSing cw101030 make David T. Shaw the writer.
The 1849 broadside NLScotland L.C.Fol.178.A.2(015) third verse refers to "the memory of Nelson" (1758-1805). The 1856 broadside NLScotland L.C.1269(175a) third verse refers to "the mem'ry of Napier": "This could be either Naval Commander Charles Napier (1786-1860) or more likely, as the tribute appears to be posthumous, General sir Charles Napier (1782-1853), who achieved significant military victories in the Indian sub-continent." Broadside Bodleian Harding B 26(565) refers to "the memory of heroes." Broadside Bodleian Firth b.25(217) View 2 of 2 appears to refer to Charlie Napier. The remaining Bodleian broadsides -- Harding B 15(255b), Harding B 11(3246), Harding B 11(3401), Firth b.26(377) and Harding B 11(396) -- refer to Nelson. The "Columbia" versions refer to "they."
Last updated in version 6.1
File: FSWB044

Columbus Stockade Blues

DESCRIPTION: "Way down in Columbus, Georgia, I want to go back to Tennessee. Way down in Columbus stockade, my friends all turned their backs on me. So you can go and leave me if you want to...." The singer laments his imprisonment and the loss of his love

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Tom Darby & Jimmie Tarlton)

KEYWORDS: prison separation chaingang

FOUND IN: US(SE,So)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
Warner-Traditional American Folk Songs From Anne And Frank Warner Col 137, "Way Down in Columbus, Georgia" (1 text, 1 tune)

Joyner-FolkSong In South Carolina, p. 102, "Columbus Stockade Blues" (1 text, 1 tune)

Cohen-American Folk Songs A Regional Encyclopedia 1, pp. 308-309, "Columbus Stockade Blues" (1 text)

Abernethy-Singin Texas, p. 53, "Columbus Stockade Blues" (1 text, 1 tune, linked with "Dear Companion (The Broken Heart; Go and Leave Me If You Wish To, Fond Affection)" and "Little Darling Pal of Mine")

Shay-Barroom Ballads/Pious Friends Drunken Companions, p. 173, "Once I Loved a Railroad Brakeman" (1 text, with the lyrics of "Dear Companion (The Broken Heart; Go and Leave Me If You Wish To, Fond Affection)" although I suspect the tune and chorus floated in from "Columbus Stockade Blues")

Silber/Silber-Folksingers Wordbook, p. 65, "Columbus Stockade Blues" (1 text)

DT, COLSTKD

Roud #7480

RECORDINGS:

Bud & Joe Billings [pseud. for Frank Luther & Carson Robison], "Columbus Stockade Blues" (Victor V40031, 1929)

Cliff Carlisle & Wilbur Ball, "Columbus Stockade Blues" (Superior 2749 [as Jim & Otto Fletcher], 1931; Champion 16364, c. 1932; Champion 45186, c. 1935; Montgomery Ward M-8012, 1939) (Banner 32470/Melotone M-12434/Oriole 8144/Perfect 12815/Romeo 5144 [all as "Columbus Stockade"], 1932; Edison Bell Winner [UK] W40, c. 1933; rec. 1931)

Tom Darby & Jimmie Tarlton, "Columbus Stockade Blues" (Columbia 15212-D, 1927)

Jimmie Davis, "Columbus Stockade Blues" (Decca 6083/Melotone [Canada] 45555, 1943; Decca 46137, 1949; rec. 1942)

Flannery Sisters, "Columbus Stockade" (Decca 5256, 1936)

J. E. Mainer Band, "Columbus Stockade" (on Lomax CD 1705)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Dear Companion (The Broken Heart; Go and Leave Me If You Wish To, Fond Affection)" (tune)

NOTES [110 words]: Apparently a rework of an English lost love song, "Go and Leave Me" [which we have indexed as "Dear Companion" - PJS]. Frank Proffitt heard it sung by Blacks on a chain gang, and it has become a staple of the bluegrass repertoire. Its English origin has been completely forgotten in these traditions, even though the original lost love song is said to be widely known in the British Isles.

Silber credits this to Woody Guthrie; while Guthrie may have played with it a bit, clearly he was not the sole author. - RBW

Given the various 78 recordings, Silber's clearly wrong.... I'd guess Carlisle's recording was the source of the song's popularity in bluegrass. - PJS

Last updated in version 4.5

Come a Rittum

DESCRIPTION: "Come, a rittam, chittum, chairum, Come, a ray, roe, raddy, O."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan8)

KEYWORDS: nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain (Scotland (Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan8 1786, "Come a Rittum" (1 fragment)

Roud #13528

NOTES [11 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan8 fragment. - BS

Last updated in version 3.5

Come A' Ye Buchan Laddies

DESCRIPTION: "... the news That's come frae Aberdeen. Hoo Tully's men ha'e gained the day, And Tully's lost it clean; Hoo stinkin' sowens [oatmeal husks] and buttermilk Ha'e forced his men awa"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan8)

KEYWORDS: nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain (Scotland (Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan8 1786, "Come A' Ye Buchan Laddies" (1 fragment)

Roud #13528

NOTES [11 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan8 fragment. - BS

Last updated in version 3.5
Come A' Ye Jolly Ploo'men Lads

DESCRIPTION: "O come a' ye jolly ploomen lads That works amang the grun'." The singer tells of his happy life and work. He attends a hiring fair, works six months in a bothy, and shocks the minister by singing out when he weds Mary-Anne

Come Aff an' Ye'll Win On Again

DESCRIPTION: "Come aff an' ye'll win on again Come aff an' ye'll win on again, An' I'll gie you a pint o' wine"

Come All Bold Britons

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you bold Britons, wherever you may dwell, Come listen unto me while a story I will tell," of how hard times are for farmers in Britain. The politicians must lower taxes and rates. All are one flesh and should have rights. God speed the plow.

Come All That Sail from Edgartown

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you that sail from Edgartown You very well do know When around Cape Horn that you are bound... You'll leave your heart's delight." The sailor sets out, thinking all the while of women, and hoping his beloved will be true while he is gone

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1844 (Journal of the Young Phoenix)
KEYWORDS: whaler love separation return
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
* Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 40-42, "Come All That Sail from Edgartown" (1 text, 1 tune)
  Roud #25990
  File: HGam040

Come All Ye Bold Young Countrymen

DESCRIPTION: "Come all ye bold countrymen A warning take by me"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (Kidson-TraditionalTunes)
KEYWORDS: warning
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
* Kidson-TraditionalTunes, p. 57, "Come All Ye Bold Young Countrymen" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
  Roud #1092
NOTES [12 words]: The current description is all of the Kidson-TraditionalTunes fragment. - BS
File: KiTu057

Come All Ye False Lovers

DESCRIPTION: "Come all ye false lovers That love all alike; Give love-ly attention, And my counsel take." The singer will wait for Johnny to return, however long it takes. He eventually arrives, and they are married.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1967
KEYWORDS: love separation return
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
* Combs/Wilgus-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernUnitedStates 135, pp. 147-148, "Come All Ye False Lovers" (1 text)
  Roud #4297
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "John (George) Riley (I)" [Laws N36] and references there
NOTES [71 words]: This piece is clearly composite; there are many floating lyrics, and it shifts from first to third person in the middle. It appears to be a pastiche of Riley ballads (though the theme of disguise has been lost), with the moral ("Beware of false lovers; (don't ever give up on your true love") at the beginning. Since it cannot be identified with any particular Riley ballad, I have perforce given it its own classification. - RBW
File: CW147

Come All Ye Jolly Hunters

DESCRIPTION: In 1958 Leonard Hynes and Walter Gale go hunting goose for Christmas. Dave Lomond, river guard, sees them and reports them. The Mounties come "to prosecute the murder of such a precious bird"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (Bennett/Downey-JeromeJustOneMoreSong)
KEYWORDS: crime poaching manhunt hunting humorous political bird police
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
* Bennett/Downey-JeromeJustOneMoreSong 17, pp. 120-122, "Come All Ye Jolly Hunters" (1 text)
Come All Ye Jolly Ice-Hunters

DESCRIPTION: "Come all ye jolly ice-hunters and listen to my song; I hope I won't offend you; I don't mean to keep you long." The sealer Daniel O'Connell leaves Tilton Harbour March 14, 1833. Captain William Burke gets the badly damaged ship through a storm

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: hunting sea ship storm
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 122, "Come All ye Jolly Ice-Hunters" (1 text)
Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff, p. 17, "Come All Ye Jolly Ice-Hunters" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST GrMa122 (Partial)
Roud #6345
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Wreck of the Steamship Ethie" (theme)
NOTES [293 words]: Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland notes, per G.S. Doyle that "This song was written in 1833. It is about the oldest song of a sealing nature now in existence." - BS
Roud at one time lumped this with "The Wreck of the Steamship Ethie." The two of course share plot components as well as some stylistic elements, but this one is apparently about a much older incident. Still, I have been cautious; I don't think we can trust Doyle's 1833 date for the song; it appears to be derived from a date found in Doyle's first stanza.
That being said, it is certainly an old sealing song, from before the era of steam sealers (the first steamer being employed in 1863, and sailing vessels having been effectively brushed aside by 1870; Levi George Chafe, Chafe's Sealing Book: A History of the Newfoundland Sealishery from the Earliest Available Records Down To and Including the Voyage of 1923, third edition, Trade Printers and Publishers, Ltd., 1923 (PDF scan available from Memorial University of Newfoundland), p. 89, shows that there was no captain named "Burke" in the steamer era, and p. 99 shows that there was no steamer Daniel O'Connell. The fact that there were only 28 sealers aboard her reinforces this conclusion; by the 1850s, the sealing trade had largely been taken over by brigs which carried a hundred or more sealers, and the steamers carried as many or more than that.
I haven't identified the Daniel O'Connell with certainty, but in 1835, a sealer Daniel O'Connell, commanded by John Shea, was based in St. John's. She was 75 tons and carried 18 men. (See Shannon Ryan, The Ice Hunters: A History of Newfoundland Sealing to 1914, Breakwater Books, 1994, p. 471.) I would assume it's the same ship, two years later. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: GrMa122

Come All Ye Jolly Tinner Boys

DESCRIPTION: "Come, all ye jolly Tinner boys, and listen to me... Consarning Boney Peartie, the schaames which he had maade To stop our tin and copper mines....." If he invades, he shall flee, or "Why forty thousand Cornish boys shall knawa the reason why"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (Deane/Shaw); usually said to be from c. 1807
LONG DESCRIPTION: "Come, all ye jolly Tinner boys, and listen to me... Consarning Boney Peartie, the schaames which he had maade To stop our tin and copper mines, and all our pilchard
Come All Ye Lonesome Cowboys

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you (lonesome/jolly) cowboys... Now I'm going to leave you, To never return again." He recalls the sad parting from his mother, and the girl who promised to marry him. After all his rambling, he is leaving the boys forever (dying? going home?)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Randolph; recordings, Frank Jenkins, Buell Kazee)

KEYWORDS: cowboy parting separation farewell

FOUND IN: US(Ap,So)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
- Randolph 180, "Come All Ye Lonesome Cowboys" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
- Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 43, pp. 76-66, "Come All Ye Lonesome Cowboys" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 58, "Come All Ye Western Cowboys" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 59, "Roving Cowboy" (1 text, 1 tune, Kazee's text, which is short)
- High-OldOldFolkSongs, p. 18, "A.. Ramblin Cow-Boy" (1 text)
- Roud #5482 and 11077

RECORDINGS:
- Texas Gladden, "Roving Cowboy" (on USTGladden01)
- Frank Jenkins, "Roving Cowboy" (c. 1927; on BefBlues2)
- Buell Kazee, "The Roving Cowboy" (Brunswick 156, 1927; Brunswick 436, 1930; Supertone S-2043, 1930; on KMM)
- Clay Walters, "Come All You Roving Cowboys" (AFS, c. 1937; on KMM)
- Jack Webb, "The Roving Cowboy" (Victor V-40285, 1930)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- The Jolly Cowboy

NOTES [108 words]: This is a definite problem piece. Roud splits it in two: #5482, which we might call "Come All You Lonesome Cowboys," (represented e.g. by the Randolph texts) and #11077, "Come All You Roving Cowboys" (represented by the Fife/Kazee text). The problem is the Clay Walters version, which is a mish-mash of everything including perhaps some "Texas Rangers" material. Paul Stamler couldn't decide what to do with it; neither could I. So I'm lumping two songs until we get some better samples. The same sort of mess describes the High-OldOldFolkSongs text -- but his transcriptions are often so strange that this might just be the way it was taken down. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: R189

Come All Ye Maidens in Town and City

DESCRIPTION: The singer grieves "all for the sake of a lovely sailor" [who, apparently, is dead]

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan6)

KEYWORDS: grief love death nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Greig/Duncan6 1246, "Come All Ye Maidens in Town and City" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roud #6784

File: GrD61246
Come All Ye Young Lovers So Pretty
DESCRIPTION: "My heart is as light as a feather, It's never been troubled with care"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation): Greig/Duncan8 1832, "Come All Ye Young Lovers So Pretty" (1 text)
Roud #13599
NOTES [37 words]: Greig/Duncan8: ".. November 1908. Learned ... sixty to seventy years ago." - BS
I have a feeling this might be a version of "Over the Mountain (I) (Allanah Is Waiting for Me)." But I have no evidence except the feeling. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD1832

Come All Ye Young Men That Want a Wife
DESCRIPTION: Advice for "all ye young men that want a wife. Choose "a proper wench and handsome," not a red-head, "fingers long and her middle small," "a nice little girl And one of a good behaviour." If she and her friends consent "ye are sure to marry"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Greig/Duncan4)
KEYWORDS: marriage nonballad beauty
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 918 "Come All Ye Young Men That Want a Wife," Greig/Duncan8 Addenda, "Come All Ye Young Men That Want a Wife" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #6236
File: GrD4918

Come All You Bold Fellows That Follow the Plow
DESCRIPTION: "Come all you bold fellows that follow the plough, Either hedging or ditching or milking the cow, The time has arrived and the Union flag waves." The singer calls the workers together; they will march and bless "our hero, the brave Joseph Arch"
AUTHOR: "Mr. Reader" (source: Palmer)
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Palmer-ThePainfulPlow)
KEYWORDS: farming work labor-movement
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation): Palmer-ThePainfulPlow, #18, "Come all you bold fellows that follow the plough" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: PaPa018

Come All You Fair and Tender Girls
DESCRIPTION: Willie courts the narrator, asks her to go with him. She consents, but when they are far from home, he sends her back, saying it's his nature to ramble
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (collected by Olive Dame Campbell, in Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians)
KEYWORDS: courting elopement abandonment
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 103, "Come All You Young and Handsome Girls" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 321-326, "Come All You Fair and Handsome Girls" (5 texts, with local titles "Come All You Fair and Handsome Girls," (no title), "Fair
Come All You Fair Maidens (I)

DESCRIPTION: A man complains to "fair maidens" that men are taken in by girls who "come dancing before you great favors to gain" until "you're not your own man... for selling your freedom to buy you a wife."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage warning dancing nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation): Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 107-108, "Come All You Fair Maidens" (1 text, 1 tune)

Come All You Friends and Neighbors

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you friends and neighbours, For you know that you are born to die, Come view my situation As helpless here I lie." The singer, in a "weakened condition," asks "never let me seek in vain." He hopes to be where "consumption And fever is no more."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: death religious disease
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation): Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 561, "Come All You Friends and Neighbors" (1 short text)

Come All You Handsome Jewels

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you handsome jewels, come sit you don by me, If ever I prove false or cruel to the girl that would marry me," the moon will melt, fire will freeze. Now he'll die for one who won't love him, leaving "poor Sally lamenting all on her native shore"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol2)
KEYWORDS: love courting separation bird death floatingverses
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
Come All You Jack-Pine Savages

DESCRIPTION: Singer describes a visit to "Dr. Jones" (probably not a real doctor). He has a toothache; "Dr. Jones" gives him six prescriptions, he eats sixteen potatoes and a couple of loaves of bread, and he's cured. He tells listeners to take ills to "Dr. Jones."

AUTHOR: Probably Dent Bailey

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)

KEYWORDS: disease medicine healing doctor

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 20, "Come All You Jack-Pine Savages" (1 text)
Roud #4064

NOTES [14 words]: As "Come All You Jack Pine Savages," this song is item dC43 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW

File: Be020

Come All You Jolly Cowboys

DESCRIPTION: The cowboy leaves home, mother, and sweetheart "to roam the prairie plain... to never return again." His love for his promised bride "has never died"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed)

KEYWORDS: love parting travel mother cowboy

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 55-56, "Come All You Jolly Cowboys" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5958

NOTES [62 words]: This looks like a revised sailor song. Here is the first couplet:
Come all you jolly cowboys, bound on a stormy land
I'll tell to you some trouble that's happened to me so I suppose the original first line ended "stormy sea." The story has been forgotten in Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed text so -- if I am right about this song's origin -- I cannot find an analogous sea song. - BS

Last updated in version 3.5

File: Ow2E055

Come All You Jolly Ploughboys

DESCRIPTION: The singer praises the plowman's work he does. Masons, shoemakers, blacksmiths and millers are useful; the miller's needs "the sacks o' corn the plooboy does supply."
If not for the soldier and plowman "what would our poor nation do"?

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan3)

KEYWORDS: farming worker nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 450, "Come, All Ye Jolly Plooboy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5958

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "We Poor Labouring Men" (theme, lyrics)
cf. "The Laddie That Handles the Ploo" (theme)
cf. "The Praise of Ploughmen" (theme)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Plooman

NOTES [43 words]: Greig/Duncan3: "'Learnt about thirty years [ago] from a Lumphanan shepherd. Noted 26th August 1908.'" - BS
This song and "We Poor Labouring Men" appear to be sisters; I've no idea which came first. This one was collected earlier, but is less well attested. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD3450

Come All You Jolly Ploughboys (Here's April, Here's May; The Two Brothers)

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you jolly ploughboys, Come help me to sing." "There once was two brothers... One was a shepherd, the other a planter of corn." "Here's April, here's May... It's a pleasure to see the corn grow." The singer praises ploughboys and their life

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Butterworth/Dawney-PloughboysGlory)
KEYWORDS: farming work nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Butterworth/Dawney-PloughboysGlory, p. 33, "Ploughboy's Glory" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-ThePainfulPlow, #22, "The Jolly Ploughboy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Copper-ASongForEverySeason, pp. 214-215, "Two Young Brethren" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #202
NOTES [60 words]: The notes in Butterworth/Dawney-PloughboysGlory link this with "The Painful Plow." But the only links I can see is that both are about plowing and have some Biblical references. In this case, the reference to "Two brothers... one was a shepherd, a tender of sheep, and the other was a planter of corn" is obviously to Cain and Abel, from chapter 4 of Genesis. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.0
File: BuDa033

Come All You Lads and Lasses

DESCRIPTION: The singer takes a prostitute to his room. He wakes to find her searching his room for money. He beats her, drives her away naked, and finds nine guineas and two five pound notes in the gown and coat she left behind.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle)
KEYWORDS: sex theft money clothes whore
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 22, "Come All You Lads and Lasses" (1 text)
Roud #1029
File: ReCi022

Come All You Poor Men of the North

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you poor men of the north... There is easier ways of gaining wealth... Go and dig the gold that lies in California." The singer describes California's wondrous climate and asks why poor can't have gold as well as rich

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)
KEYWORDS: travel nonballad gold
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 348-349, "Come All You Poor Men of the North" (1 text)
Roud #7772
NOTES [70 words]: Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety's informant claimed that California miners sang this piece. I find this close to unbelievable. (Of course, that might explain why no one else has recorded the piece in tradition: It bears no relationship to reality.) I'm almost tempted to suggest that it was written by a land speculator eager to latch onto stupid people's property by inducing them to head west. - RBW
File: Beld348

Come All You Roman Catholics
DESCRIPTION: Father McFadden is in Derry jail. Sub-inspector Martin had arrested him after Sunday Mass. "David ... by the Lord's command" killed Martin by sling shot "The people laughed and cheered" to see Martin taken away. "The Devil met him at the gates"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1979 (Turnney-StoneFiddle)
KEYWORDS: violence homicide prison clergy police Devil
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Turnney-StoneFiddle, pp. 13-14, "Come All You Roman Catholics" (1 text)
McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen 28, "Father McFadden" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9459
NOTES [128 words]: McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen: "[Father McFadden] formed local branches of the Land League in West Donegal."
See the reference to the 1888 imprisonment of Father McFadden of Donegal in Derry Prison "for an agrarian speech" (source: Chapters of Dublin History site, Letters and Leaders of my Day Chapter XXII "Parnellism and Crime" (1887-8), by T.M. Healy). The description there has no "David" and sling shot. Instead, thinking that Martin had struck McFadden with his drawn sword, the congregants rooted up the pailing from McFadden's garden and "battered in Martin's skull." Some of the attackers were arrested with McFadden. The story of the convictions, plea bargaining and sentencing is told there from the defense attorney's viewpoint. - BS
File: TSF013

Come All You Tonguers
DESCRIPTION: "Come all you tonguers and land-loving lubbers, Here's a job cutting in and boiling down blubbers." The singer declares, "Go hang the Agent!" because "I am paid in soap, and sugar, and rum" for all his hard word as the Agent and Company get rich
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1967 (Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ); reportedly collected by John Leebrick in the 1920s
KEYWORDS: worker hardtimes whaler money
FOUND IN: US(NE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, p. 14, "Come All You Tonguers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 16, "Come All You Tonguers" (1 text, 1 tune) (p. 9 in the 1972 edition)
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 49, "Come All You Tonguers" (1 text)
NOTES [79 words]: Bailey and Roth explain this as a song of the shore whalers of the 1820s and 1830s. These whalers worked close to shore, but it was apparently their payment method resembled a company store: They "were paid their wages in goods which were marked against their account," so it was hard for them to leave the job.
Like the better-known "Davy Lowston," although this is considered a New Zealand song, it was collected by John Leebrick, who did his work in the United States. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.4
File: BaRo014

Come All You Valiant Shepherds
DESCRIPTION: "Come all you valiant shepherds that's got a valiant heart, That goes out on a stormy night and never feels a smart." The singer tells of caring for his sheep on the hills in bad
Come All You Virginia Girls (Arkansas Boys; Texian Boys; Cousin Emmy's Blues; etc.)

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you (Virginia) girls and listen to my noise; Don't you court no West Virginia boys; If you do, your fortune will be Johnny cake and venison and sassafras tea."
Concerning the dangers of courting and marrying boys from (somewhere)

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1841 (sheet music)
KEYWORDS: courting hardtimes warning humorous
FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,NW,Ro,So)
REFERENCES (31 citations):
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 426-428, "Texan Boys" (1 text plus a fragment probably not part of this song)
Randolph 342, "The Arkansas Boys" (3 texts, 2 tunes);
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 277-278, "The Arkansas Boys" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 342A)
High-OldOldFolkSongs, pp. 12-13, "To Go Asparkling"; p. 28, "The Misouri Girls" (sic.) (2 texts)
McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksong, pp. 186-188, "The Arkansas Run" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 328, "The Carolina Crew" (1 fragment, thought by the editors to be this song); 336, "If You Want to Go A-Courting" (1 text, clearly mixed; the first three stanzas are this song, the next four something completely unrelated about a fight and a very bad meal)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 328, "The Carolina Crew" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Brwone 81, "Want to Go A-Courting" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 144, "Mississippi Girls" (1 text, 1 tune)
Abermethy-SinginTexas, pp. 3-4, "Texas Boys" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 110-112, "Come All You Mississippi Girls" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Sandburg-TheAmericanFolksongbag, pp. 128-129, "Hello, Girls"; "Kansas Boys" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 69, pp. 92-93, "A Married Woman's Lament" (3 fragments, with "A" and "B" probably being "I Wish I Were Single Again (II - Female)" and "C" being perhaps "Come All You Virginia Girls (Arkansas Boys; Texian Boys; Cousin Emmy's Blues; etc.)")
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 95, "The Hunter's Song" (1 fragment)
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, pp. 25-26, "Illinois Gals" (1 text); pp. 41-43, "If You Want to Go A-Courting" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 11, "When You Go A-Courting"; 12, "The Texian Boys" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 9, "Johnny Cake" (4 texts, 1 tune, though the "B" text is clearly "Little Fight in Mexico" and the "C" text is also quite distinct)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #227, "Don't Marry the Mormon Boys" (1 fragment)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 81, pp. 175-176, "Cheyenne Boys" (1 text)
Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 54-55, "Kansas Boys" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 58, "The Tucky Ho Crew" (1 text -- a very mixed version which is only partly this song, but the rest doesn't look like anything I know. It may be a conflation with an otherwise lost ballad)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol4, pp. 42-44, "West Virginia Boys" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolksongsFromSouthernAppalachians 75, "If You Want to Go A-courting" (4 texts, 4 tunes)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 189-191, "De Free Nigger" (1 text plus the first lines of many localizations of the song); p. 214, "West Virginia Gals" (1 text); pp. 361-362,
"Arkansas Sheik"; Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 583, "Cheyenne Boys"; pp. 635-636, "Alsea Girls" (1 text)
Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, pp. 26-27, "Kansas Boys" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 173, "Kansas Boys" (1 text)
DT, WHNCORT1* WHNCORT2* WHNCORT3* WHNCORT4* WHNCORT5*
ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), p. 207, "The Old Leather Bonnet" (1 text, fairly full but missing the opening verse)
Richard M. Dorson, _Buying the Wind: Regional Folklore in the United States_, University of Chicago Press, 1964, p. 530, "Don't You Marry the Mormon Boys" (1 short text, in which the girl finds that "Johnny cake and babies is all you'll see")
Suzi Jones, _Oregon Folklore_, University of Oregon/Oregon Arts Commission, 1977, p. 11, "Alsea Girls" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4275 and 2977
RECORDINGS:
Al Hopkins & his Buckle Busters, "West Virginia Gals" (Brunswick 318, 1929; rec. 1928)
Cousin Emmy, "Cousin Emmy's Blues" (also issued as "Come All You Virginia Gals") (Decca 24213, 1947)
Riley Puckett, "The Arkansas Sheik" (Columbia 15686-D, 1931; rec. 1928)
New Lost City Ramblers, "The Arkansas Sheik" (on NLCR14)
Pete Seeger, "Texian Boys" (on PeteSeeger07, PeteSeeger07a)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Go A Sparking" (theme, structure, tune)
SAME TUNE:
Ballad of Harriet Tubman (by Woody Guthrie) (Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, pp. 90-92)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
California Boys
East Virginia Girls
Missouri Boys
Hello Girls
Mississippi Gals
The Mormon Boys
Free Nigger (title used in the 1841 sheet music)
De Free Nigger
NOTES [180 words]: The Fifes offer deep psychological explanations for some parts of this piece. I incline to believe it means what it says.
The original publication appears to be the version printed by Cohen, "De Free Nigger." Happily, that version seems to be extinct in tradition. McNeil says that it did not list an author, which is probably just as well (although McNeil points out that this might mean that the publishers took it from tradition rather than it being a composed piece. The counter-argument is that there are no reports of it from tradition until John A. Lomax published his "Texian Boys" version).
Most versions of this are warnings to women; a few, like McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks's "If You Want to Go A-Courtin',", are either warnings to men or gender-neutral. Roud splits these; #4275 is the women's version and #2977 seems to be the men's. The distinction is probably formally valid; someone rewrote the song. But when fragments turn up, there is no way to classify them with one or the other. So I've lumped them, although it's a tricky decision. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: R342

Come All You Warriors

DESCRIPTION: Lay down your arms! Father Murphy will "cut down cruel Saxon persecution" He excels Caesar, Alexander and Arthur. His victories are listed until Enniscorthy. If the French had come we would have won. But we still have our pikes and guns.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1798 (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)
KEYWORDS: battle rebellion Ireland clergy patriotic
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Come All You Worthy Christian Men

DESCRIPTION: The singer warns Christians to behave properly, remembering Job and Lazarus. First verse: "Come all you worthy Christian men That dwell upon this land, Don't spend your time in rioting, Remember you're but man...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1867 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 13(263))
KEYWORDS: warning religious Bible
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 186, "One God Made Us All" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 216)
Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 91, "Come All You Worthy Christian Men" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 99, "Come All You Worthy Christian Men" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dearmer/VaughnWilliams/Shaw-OxfordBookOfCarols 60, "Job" (1 text, 4 tunes)
ADDITIONAL: Maud Karpeles, _Folk Songs of Europe_, Oak, 1956, 1964, p. 47, "Come All You Worthy Christian Men" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #815
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 13(263), "One God Has Made Us All" ("Come all you worthy Christians") , J. Harkness (Preston), 1840-1866; also Firth b.34(297a), Harding B 13(264), "One God Has Made Us All"; Johnson Ballads 2291, Johnson Ballads 2292, Harding B 13(265), "One God Made Us All"; Harding B 11(1883), Firth b.34(156), "Job, the Patient Man"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Rounding the Horn" (tune)
NOTES [95 words]: The story of Lazarus is a parable of Jesus, recounted in Luke 16:19-31 (the Lazarus of John 11, 12 is unrelated). Thus there never was an actual Lazarus who lay at a rich man's door; he was simply an example. The case of Job is, to say the least, more complicated. The Bible does indeed report that he was "the richest [man] in the east" (Job 1:3), that "he was brought to poverty" (Job 1:13-19), and that he "soon got rich again" (Job 42:10f.). But it can hardly be said that Job bore all this uncomplainingly; most of Job chapters 3-30 are devoted to his complaints! - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: ShH91

Come All You Young Ladies and Gentlemen

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you young ladies and gentlemen... Once I was young like you, and then I was happy and single, Till my mother advised me to wed." His wife burns his boots, abuses his cat, sells his belongings, won't feed him; he wishes she were dead
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Vaughan Williams collection)
KEYWORDS: marriage wife hardtimes abuse
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
Come All You Young Men
DESCRIPTION: "Come all you young men and listen unto me, Never hang your shirt on a green briar tree, The leaves they will wither and the branches decay, And the graybacks will hatch out and pack your shirt away." A series of humorous warnings
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: humorous parody clothes bug
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 418, "Come All You Young Men" (1 text plus 1 fragment, 2 tunes)
Roud #7684
NOTES [31 words]: This gives all the evidence of being a parody of one of the "rejected lover" type songs -- but there are other elements mixed in, so it's hard to say if there was only one source. - RBW
File: R418

Come All You Young of Wary Age
DESCRIPTION: "Come all you young of wary (every) age, Give hearing to my song." A young man sets out to visit a friend, but falls from his horse and dies. He was alone, so no other details are known. His family and neighbours grieve; his mother says "his work is done"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: horse death family funeral grief
FOUND IN: US(SE,So)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Randolph 705, "Come All You Young of Wary Age" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 285, "Man Killed by Falling From a Horse" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 285, "Man Killed By Falling from a Horse" (1 excerpt, 1 tune)
Roud #7373 and 6640
NOTES [50 words]: There was a note attached to Brown's transcript of this song saying that it happened in Richmond county, but given the song's appearance in Randolph (and it is certainly the same song) implies that this is just folklore. Particularly since Randolph's informant also claimed the event was local. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.7
File: R705

Come All Young People (The Dying Lovers)
DESCRIPTION: Listeners are called to hear the story of two lovers. He comes to her door, but her parents turn him away. She mourns, and no doctor can cure her. At last the parents let him come, but she dies for love and is buried. He then dies also
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: love separation death mourning doctor warning
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Come All Young People

NOTES [88 words]: The theme of this song, obviously, is commonplace, but the editors of the Brown collection cannot trace it to any particular song (they suspect broadside origin), and I am similarly unable to find a relative. (Roud lumps it with Laws P12, but Laws does “not” equate them.) The first stanza, for what it’s worth, runs:

Come all young people far and near,
A lamentation you shall hear
Of a young man and his true love
Whom he adored and sworn to love.

The song ends with the usual warning to parents against separating lovers. - RBW

File: BrII073

Come Along

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Come along, come along, I am sorry for to leave you, On the road to heaven come, Friends will you go." Verse: "I was but young when I begin, But now my race is nearly run"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus music

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 13, "Come Along" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: Bart013B

Come Along Brother

DESCRIPTION: See notes. Verses include "My brother, it's no particular place [here] for you ... Come along brother, go with me ... Come go with me to the House of God." "Pray my brother, you'll soon be free ... Pray with the Spirit of God in your soul"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories)

KEYWORDS: Bible floating verses nonballad religious

FOUND IN: West Indies(Bahamas)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories 32, "Com' Long, Brother" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [56 words]: The description is based on the Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories text. Verses are two or three lines, each followed by "I saw a city in my new." The description has some of the verses. A Bahamian (at least) floating verse is "Jacob's ladder must be long... The angels shout from heaven down" (see "I Never Saw a Man Speak Like This Man"). - BS

Last updated in version 4.2

File: Edwa032

Come Along Down

DESCRIPTION: "Come along down buddy... Drive 'em down big boy." "That's the blow... makes him go...." "Sally got great long bangs... Hangs way down...." "Who gonna curl them bangs... After I'm gone...." "One more time... That's all right."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (VaWork)

KEYWORDS: work nonballad worksong

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:
John Mantley and Group, "Come Along Down" (on VaWork)

NOTES [233 words]: Glenn Hinson, liner notes to VaWork, pp. 9, 29: "Certainly the more visible industries associated with Afro-American Work-SongsOf-Henry-Clay-Work have been outdoor occupations which require manual labor. Laying and straightening steel railroad tracks, loading and unloading heavy cargoes of seagoing ships, lifting and breaking stones in quarries, and building roads have all been associated with the rhythmic chants of Black workmen. One such class of occupational song which heretofore has never been documented consists of the 'horsing' chants of Afro-American boat caulkers, a hammer song tradition which disappeared in the late 1930's.... Comprised of a series of loosely structured quatrains, the song's lyrics are more directive than narrative, telling the hammerman when to strike.... This type of chant, with its multiple repetitions and fluid verse structure (using both the aaab and aabb line patterns), would have been sung by a single horsing team rather than in unison by several teams working on the same vessel." Hinson's notes explain "horsing" in some detail.

Last updated in version 4.2
File: RcCoAlDo

Come Along, Moses

DESCRIPTION: "Come along, (Moses/Aaron/judy), Don't get lost (x3) Come along, Moses, don't get lost. We are the (people/children) of God." "We have a just God to please our cause." "He sits in heaven and answers prayer." "Stretch out your rod and come across."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, p. 104, "Come Along, Moses" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #12060

NOTES [69 words]: When Moses met God at the burning bush, Moses's staff became an object of power (Exodus 4;2-3) -- e.g. he turned it into a snake before the Egyptians, though in that instance, it was Aaron, not Moses, who threw it down (Exodus 7:8-11). The confusion over who had the Super De Luxe Staff continues throughout the Pentateuch, but it is certainly Moses's staff which was used to part the Red Sea (Exodus 14:16). - RBW

Last updated in version 2.4
File: AwG104

Come And Do Your Picket, Boys (Bugle Call Lyric)

DESCRIPTION: "Come and do a picket, boys, come and do a guard, 'Tisn't very easy, boys, 'tisn't very hard."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang)

KEYWORDS: soldier

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang, p. 234, "(no title)" (1 short text)

Roud #11240

File: BrPa234B

Come And Go With Me

DESCRIPTION: "(If you want to get to heaven just come and go with me) (x3), Hallelujah Amen."

Other first lines include "Stop, listen, hear what Jesus says," "Jesus told the lame man 'Take up your bed and walk.,'" "Jesus told the blind man, 'Open your eyes and see."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Come and Go with Me to That Land

DESCRIPTION: "Come and go with me to that land (x3)... where I'm bound." "There ain't no moanin' in that land." "There ain't no bowin' in that land." "There ain't no kneelin' in that land." "There ain't no Jim Crow in that land."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (Creighton collection)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 74-75, "Nothing But Peace in the Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 371, "Come And Go With Me To That Land" (1 text)

DT, COMEGO
Roud #18072
NOTES [39 words]: The Creighton version of this is slightly different in form from the way I heard it from sixties pop groups. But it's unique, and very similar in thought, so I've put it here without much hesitation. Similarly the Landis version. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: FSWB371

Come and Jine

DESCRIPTION: "There are churches in our land Run by wicked, worldly men; They will stand and tell you, brother, Come and jine!" In those churches, you can smoke, drink, chew, even preach and fight, as long as you pay the preacher and don't have a real religion

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida)
KEYWORDS: religious drink drugs nonballad clergy

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #96, "Come and Jine" (1 text)
Roud #5057
File: Morr096

Come and Kiss Me, Robin

DESCRIPTION: "Come and kiss me, Robin, Come and kiss me now, Oh he came and kissed me, And he came and kissed me With my hands milking the cow!"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: love

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 785, "Come and Kiss Me, Robin" (1 fragment)
Roud #5521
NOTES [68 words]: Randolph speculates that this may be related to Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag's item "The Pretty Girl Milkin' the Cow." They're both fragments, so it's possible -- but I don't see any clear links.
Similarly, Roud links this with the fragment "John, Come Kiss Me Now" in Chappell/Wooldridge-OldEnglishPopularMusic I (pp. 268-269) and now in the index under that title. Possible, but I need a lot more evidence. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.5
File: R785

Come Ashore Jackie Tar
DESCRIPTION: "Come ashore, Jackie Tar, an' yer trousers on." "Kiss a bonnie lass." "Hae a biscuit" "hae a dram." "Captain Charles" or "boats o' Boddam come ashore." "Hear cannons roar on the coasts of Labrador" or "the Bay of Baltimore."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Greig/Duncan1)
KEYWORDS: nonballad sailor
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #73, p. 2, "Jacky Tar" (1 text)
  Greig/Duncan1 60, Greig/Duncan8 Addenda, "Come Ashore Jackie Tar" (3 texts)
Roud #5812
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Jacky Tar With His Trousers On" (some verses)
NOTES [46 words]: The GreigGreig/Duncan1 verses are pretty much disconnected from each other and probably float, though I haven't seen that.
Greig: ".. pretty much a vocalise, like the extemporised verses so often used for a dance when, in default of an instrument, the tune had to be sung." - BS
Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD1060

Come Away from that Old Man
DESCRIPTION: "Come away from that old man! He will kill you if he can. Come away, o-oh!"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: death age
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 208, "Come Away from that Old Man" (1 fragment)
NOTES [41 words]: This was given to Brown as a hog-call, but I have this feeling in my gut that this is a fragment of "Matty Groves" -- that these are the words Musgrave/Matty hears when Lord Arnold's horn sounds. But with only three lines, this can't be proved. - RBW
File: Br3208

Come Back Baby
DESCRIPTION: "Come back baby please don't go, Can't we talk it over one more time." "Don't break up my home, I'll miss you when you're gone, Can't we talk it over one more time." "This world wasn't built in one day, Can't we talk it over before you go away"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (recording, Walter Davis)
KEYWORDS: grief love parting nonballad lover
FOUND IN: US(SE)
RECORDINGS:
  Walter Davis, "Come Back Baby" (Bluebird B8510, 1940)
Come Back to Erin

DESCRIPTION: The singer's sweetheart has left Killarney for England. He seems surprised that "my heart sank when clouds came between us... Oh, may the angels, oh, waking and sleeping Watch o'er my bird in the land far away," Does she think of me?

AUTHOR: Charlotte Alington Barnard ("Claribel") (1830-1869)
EARLIEST DATE: before 1867 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(965))
KEYWORDS: courting emigration separation nonballad Ireland
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 79-80, "Come Back to Erin" (1 text)
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 103, "Come Back to Erin" (1 text)
Heart-Songs, pp. 438-439, "Come Back to Erin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #95, "Come Back to Erin" (1 text)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 26, "Come Back to Erin" (1 text)

Roud #13846

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(965), "Come Back to Erin", J. Harkness (Preston), 1840-1866; also Firth c.12(253), 2806 c.8(238), Harding B 15(49a), Johnson Ballads 1898, 2806 b.11(224), Firth c.12(253), "Come Back to Erin"; 2806 c.8(237), "Come Back to Erin, Mavourneen, Mavourneen"

NOTES [205 words]: According to Spaeth, p. 143, Claribel "managed to turn out both words and music of a great many ballads that found immediate favor on both sides of the Atlantic. Her first song to make it mark here was called Janet's Choice, appearing in London in 1860, although its American publication was delayed until 1871.... [She] made her most lasting impression with Come Back to Erin (1868), which is still heard with honest pleasure and often regarded as an Irish folk-song. Mrs. Barnard was a woman of some musical education, but depended chiefly on her intuitive expression of the sentimentality of her day."
I do not know how to reconcile Spaeth's statement that the song was published in 1868 with the broadside which seems to come from at least two years earlier. Williams, p. 41, also says "The song came out in 1866." Perhaps the broadside was pirated from one of Claribel's performances? For another song in the Index credited to Claribel, see "We'd Better Bide a Wee." Williams, p. 41, seems to consider this her biggest hit, followed by "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs" (which can be found in Heart-Songs, pp. 282-283). Heart-Songs, pp. 265-2676, includes "Take Back the Heart," so that presumably was also fairly popular. - RBW

Bibliography

• Spaeth: Sigmund Spaeth,A History of Popular Music in America, Random House, 1948
• Williams: Alfred M. Williams,Studies in Folk-Song and Popular Poetry, Houghton Mifflin, 1894

Come Back to Mother Again

DESCRIPTION: Father and son argue. Son crosses the sea. Father sends a letter saying that mother is sad and asks that he return. He reads the letter every night. He eventually returns to England and is reconciled with his family.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan5)
KEYWORDS: home reunion separation England father mother youth
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 1075, "Come Back to Mother Again" (1 text)

Roud #6762

File: GrD51075
Come Brave With Me the Sea, Love

DESCRIPTION: "Come, brave with me the sea, love, The empire of the free, love! There shalt thou dwell with me, love, My blessing and my pride." "Though f'r the earth may be, love, It is not like the sea, love, With me all dangers dare, love, And be a sailor's bride"

AUTHOR: Music: Vincenzo Bellini (1801-1835) (source: Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs)

EARLIEST DATE: 1834 (I Puritani, according to Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs)

KEYWORDS: sailor love courting ship

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs 41, "Come, Brave With Me the Sea, Love" (2 texts, 1 tune; with neither text being the Italian original; the tune is found with #39 in the first edition)
Roud #V41491
File: FrPi41

Come By Here

DESCRIPTION: 'Someone's sick; Lord, come by here (x3), Oh, Lord, won't you come by here." "Someone's dying; Lord, come by here." "Someone's in trouble...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang)

KEYWORDS: religious disease death

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 621, "O Lord, Won't You Come by Here?" (1 text)
Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang, pp. 308-309, "Come By Yuh" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11924

RECORDINGS:
Rosa and Joseph Murray, "Come on Buh Here Lawd" (on USSeaIsland03)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Kum By Yah" (form)

File: Br3621

Come Chise me Oot

DESCRIPTION: "Come chise me oot, come chise me in, Come chise me for a rabbit skin; Come chise me east, come chise me west, And give me the very one that I love best"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Greig/Duncan8)

KEYWORDS: courting nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #159, p. 2, ("Come chise me oot, come chise me in") (1 short text)
Greig/Duncan8 1574, "Come Chise me Oot" (1 short text)
Roud #13505

NOTES [9 words]: The current description is all of the Greig text. - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD81574

Come Down to Tennessee

DESCRIPTION: "Come down to Tennessee (Ride er ole grey horse). Yaller gal's de gal for me (Ride er ole grey horse). Kiss her under de mulberry tree (Ride er ole grey horse). Oh my, nigger, don't you see, Better come to Tennessee?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
Come Down with the Killock

DESCRIPTION: "Come down with the killock And out with the line; Of fish about here, boys, There is a good sign." The ship sails; it's "not like the fools Who are hunting for fat." The singer decides fishing is better than sealing: "Off to the ice Go fools in a rush."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Murphy, The Seal Fishery)
KEYWORDS: ship hunting fishing nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff, p. 26, "Come Down with the Killock" (1 text)
Roud #V44634
NOTES [299 words]: Sealing was almost like gambling: some years a ship and her sailors would make a (literal) killing, others they would come back with almost nothing. This was hard on both ship owners (who still had to pay the expenses of outfitting the ship) and sealers (who might not get paid anything and would have had to pay the expenses of getting to port; prior to 1902, the sealers also had to pay just to get on a ship; see the notes to "The Sealer's Strike of 1902 (The Sealers Gained the Strike)"). And sealers were at significant risk of death or injury; hunting seals ("hunting for fat"), although it was held in awe in Newfoundland, was frankly an occupation for those who liked to take silly risks.
Most would not have admitted that fact. The writer of this piece seems to have been an exception. He apparently preferred to go for cod (at that time, still a reliable harvest) rather than risk going bust as a sealer.
According to G. M. Story, W. J. Kirwin, and J. D. A. Widdowson, editors, _Dictionary of Newfoundland English_, second edition with supplement, Breakwater Pres, 1990, pp. 285-286, "killock" is a variant of "killick," an anchor with a stone supplying the weight. This became proverbial in several ways: "If you lose your killick, you'll find it in the fall [on your bill from the merchant]"; a woman who was pregnant "had a rock in her killick"; "killick-stones" were, of course, the stones placed in the wooden cage of a killick. In this case, it would seem, the singer is saying, "Lower the anchor so we can take the fish around here."
The word "killick" was also known in the Royal Navy; according to Ernle Bradford, _The Mighty Hood_, 1959 (I use the 1977 Coronet paperback), pp. 51-52, "a leading seaman [was] known as a 'killick' (little anchor) from the badge on his arm." - RBW

Come Down, Sinner

DESCRIPTION: "Come down (x3), sinner you're none too late (x2)." "Some seek the Lord but don't seek him right, Come down ..., Little at day and none at night, Come down,..." Pray hard, bow low, shout hard, mourn hard, leave Satan behind, "go in peace and sin no more"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Devil Jesus
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, pp. 132-133, "Come Down, Sinner" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 138 in the 1901 edition)
Roud #15247
File: Dett132
Come Go With Me
DESCRIPTION: "Old Satan is a busy old man, He roll stones in my way; Mass' Jesus is my bosom friend, He roll 'em out of my way, O come-e go with me (x3), A-walking in the heaven I roam." "I did not come here myself, my Lord, It was my Lord who brought me here...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, pp. 57-58, "Come Go With Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #12017
File: AWG057B

Come Hame to Yer Lingles
DESCRIPTION: Wife tells her drunk husband to come home from his Monday morning drinking among his cronies. She and the children are in tatters. He tells her to leave him and his friends in peace. She will follow him from inn to inn. He concedes; he must quit.
AUTHOR: Robert Tannahill (1774-1810) and Alexander Rodger (1784-1846) (source: Ramsay and Whitelaw)
EARLIEST DATE: 1838 (Alexander Rodger, _Poems and Songs_)
KEYWORDS: poverty drink dialog husband wife
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig/Duncan3 588, "Come Hame to Yer Lingles" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, p. 335, "Come Hame to Yer Lingles" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Alexander Rodger, Poems and Songs (Glasgow, 1838), pp. 103-104, "Come Hame to Your Lingels"
Phillip A Ramsay, The Poetical Works of Robert Tannahill (London, c.1838), pp. 89-90, "Come Hame To Your Lingels"
Roud #5892
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Jock Robb" (tune, per Greig/Duncan3)
cf. "O, Whistle and I'll Come to You, My Lad" (tune, per Whitelaw)
cf. "Farewell to Whisky (Johnny My Man)" (theme) NOTES [20 words]: Whitelaw: "The first verse of this song was a fragment by Tannahill; the rest has been happily added by Alex. Rodger" - BS
Last updated in version 3.2
File: GrD3588

Come Hither, Tom
DESCRIPTION: "Come hither, Tom, and make up three, And sing this catch with me; Though the tune be old, I dare be bold, Tis good, if we all agree ... Keep time upon his [Jack's] back .... listen to the bass For he will us disgrace ...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1790 (_Old Poor Robin An Almanac_)
KEYWORDS: music nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 300-301, "Come Hither, Tom" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 181)
ADDITIONAL: Robert Herrick [?; "Poor Robin"], Old Poor Robin An Almanack (London, 1790 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 6, ("Come hither, Tom, and make up three") (1 text) [Wikipedia article "Poor Robin's Almanack": "It was published from circa 1663 until 1828. The poet Robert Herrick is thought to have established it."]
Thomas Oliphant, La Musa Madrigalesca (London, 1837 ("Digitized by Google")),#333 p. 299, ("Come hither, Tom, and make up three") (1 text)
Roud #1336
Come Join the Huckleberry Picnic

DESCRIPTION: "When Angel Gabriel blows his horn, You've got to go just as sure as you're born, And when you die you'll find a place...." "Come join the huckleberry picnic... I'm one of the committee and invite you." People are warned to "come get religion"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1971 (Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle)

KEYWORDS: food religious Devil

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, pp. 76-77, "Come Join the Huckleberry Picnic" (1 text, 1 tune)

Last updated in version 4.3

File: Boet076

Come List to a Ranger (The Disheartened Ranger)

DESCRIPTION: "Come list to a ranger, you kind-hearted stranger... Who fought the Comanches away from your ranches And followed them far o'er the Western frontier." He complains of the hard conditions he suffered, and warns the listener to keep watch for Comanches

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Lomax, Cowboy Songs)

KEYWORDS: Indians(Am.) fight hardtimes

FOUND IN: US(So,SW)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Randolph 181, "Come List to a Ranger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 151, "The Disheartened Ranger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 7, pp. 55-57, "Texas Ranger's Lament" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, COMELIST*

Roud #5481

ALTERNATE TITLES: Disheartened RangerThe

NOTES [98 words]: The Texas Rangers were initially founded during the period of the Texas Rebellion, as the defense force of the new county. And Texas, from the moment it declared independence to the time it joined the United States, had budget problems. So it would be little surprise to find a particular soldier ill-paid.

Several of the versions, such as Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging's, seem to go back to this period; the Ranger declares that he is quitting and going back to the "States." Other versions just sound like standard soldier complaints. It's not really clear which is original. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.3

File: R181

Come Listen to Me, and Pray Give Attention

DESCRIPTION: The singer crossed the moor on the way home from the fair and saw an old woman sitting alone and milking her cow. She sang "the Marquis o' Doune" or some other song he doesn't remember.
Come On My Hearts of Tempered Steel
DESCRIPTION: "Come on my hearts of tempered steale (sic.) and leave your girls and farms... and hark away to arms." The recruiter (?) describes the soldiering life and declares that no foreigners will rule the Americas. They will live at ease when the war ends
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1781 (Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales)
KEYWORDS: soldier family separation patriotic
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thompson NewYork, pp. 336-337, "(no title)" (1 text)
File: TNY336

Come On Up to Bright Glory
DESCRIPTION: "You don't hear me prayin' here, you can't find me nowhere/Come on up to bright glory, I'll be waitin' up there." Other verses zip in "when I preach," "when I shout," etc.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (recording, Rich Amerson)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
Roud #10977
RECORDINGS:
Rich Amerson, "Come On Up to Bright Glory" (on NFMAla4)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "If You Miss Me at the Back of the Bus" (tune, structure)
SAME TUNE:
If You Miss Me at the Back of the Bus (RECORDING: Betty Mae Fikes, on VoicesCiv)
NOTES [36 words]: This is, of course, the song from which the freedom song "If You Miss Me at the Back of the Bus" was adapted; interestingly enough, the latter seems to have originated in Alabama, where this song was collected. - PJS
Last updated in version 3.5
File: RcC0UtBG

Come on, Boys, and Let's Go to Hunting
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Come on, boys, let's go to huntin', Dog in the Woods, and he done treed sump'n."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1940
KEYWORDS: hunting dog
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Botkin-TreasuryOfSouthernFolklore, p. 743, "Come on, Boys, and Let's Go to Hunting" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: BSoF743

Come Over and See Me Sometime
DESCRIPTION: Floating-verse song, known mostly by the chorus: "Won't you come over and see me sometime (x2). Eat your breakfast 'fore you start, take your dinner in your hand, and leave before it's suppertime."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: food nonballad floatingverses
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, p. 48, (no title) (1 fragment)
Roud #4947
RECORDINGS:
Morris Norton, "Oh, Come See Me When You Can" (on OldTrad1, FarMtns3)
File: ScaSC048

Come Raise Me in Your Arms, Dear Brother

DESCRIPTION: The singer has been mortally wounded in battle by his brother. The singer (apparently a Unionist) asks how his brother could oppose his father (also a Unionist). He asks his brother to bring the news to mother -- but not reveal who did the killing

AUTHOR: E. Bowers and P. B. Isaacs
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1928 (recording, James Ragan & Oliver Beck)
KEYWORDS: Civilwar battle death brother farewell
FOUND IN: US(SE,So)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Randolph 235, "Come Raise Me in Your Arms, Dear Brother" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 208-210, "Come Raise Me in Your Arms, Dear Brother" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 235)
High-OldOldFolkSongs, pp. 42-43, "Come Raise Me in Your Arms Dear Brother" (1 text)
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 214-215, "Write a Letter to Mother" (1 text)
Rorrer-RamblingBlues-LifeAndSongsOfCharliePoole, p. 91, "Write a Letter to My Mother" (1 text)
Roud #7708
RECORDINGS:
Charlie Poole and the North Carolina Ramblers, "Write a Letter to My Mother" (Columbia 15711-D, 1930)
James Ragan & Oliver Beck, "Write a Letter to My Mother" (Challenge 390, c. 1928)
File: R235

Come Thou Fount of Every Blessing (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Come thou fount of every blessing, Tune my heart to sing thy praise. Streams of mercy, never ceasing, Call for songs of loudest praise." "Teach me some melodious sonnet, Sung by flaming tongues above." etc.

AUTHOR: Words: Robert Robinson (1735-1790)
EARLIEST DATE: 1758 (see NOTES)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Warren-EveryTimeIFeelTheSpirit, pp. 207-298, "Come, Thou Fount" (1 text, 1 tune -- the tune being "Nettleton")
McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksong, pp. 115-117, "I Will Arise" (1 text, 1 tune, with the usual confusion of verses following the "Come Thou Fount" opening stanza)
Heart-Songs, p. 506, "Come, Thou Found of Every Blessing" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Charles Johnson, One Hundred and One Famous Hymns (Hallberg, 1982), pp. 66-67, "Come Thou Fount of Every Blessing" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #15066
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "We Will Walk Through the Streets of the City"
cf. "This Old World" (lyrics, tune)
cf. "Come, Ye Sinners" (lyrics, tune)
cf. "I'm a Soldier Bound for Glory" ("Ebenezer" lyric) NOTES [1224 words]: This text has been credited to Selina Hastings, countess of Huntingdon, but the strong evidence is that it is by by Robert Robinson (1735-1790; see Stulken, p. 517, and Reynolds, p. 53). Julian, p. 252, gives a very long discussion:

"As various and conflicting statements concerning this hymn abound, it will be necessary to trace, 1st its History, so far as known; and 2nd, to discuss the question of its Authorship.

1. Its History. This in detail is: --

"1. In a church book, kept by Robert Robinson (q.v.), of Cambridge, and in the possession of the Rev. William Robinson, his biographer, there is an entry in Robert Robinson's handwriting which reads:-- 'Mr. Wheatley of Norwich published a hymn beginning 'Come, Thou Fount of Every blessing' (1758)."

"2. Nothing has yet been found which can be identified as being issued by 'Mr. Wheatley of Norwich' in which this hymn can be found.

3. The earliest known text in print is in A Collection of Hymns used by the Church of Christ in Angel-Alley, Bishopsgate, 1759, now in the library of Drew Theological College, Madison, New Jersey, U.S.A. It is No. i, an in 4 st., beginning respectively:--

"St. i. 'Come, Thou Fount of every blessing.'

"St. ii. 'Here I raise my Eben-ezer.'

"St. iii. 'O, to grace how great a debtor.'

"St. iv. 'O, that day when free from sinning.'

4. This text was repeated in the Hearers of the Apostles Collection of Hymns, Nottingham, 1777; and in a Dublin Collection, 1785. Shortly afterward, however, it seems to have fallen out of use.

5. The second and well-known form of the hymn is the first three stanzas as given above is found in M. Madan's Ps[alms] & Hy[mns], 1760; G. Whitefield's Ps[alms] & Hymns, 14th ed., 1767; the Countess of Huntingdon's Coll., 1764...."

Julian then goes on to discuss whether Robinson or the Countess wrote it. The only evidence that Selina Huntindon did so is an early manuscript, not by the Countess, that attributes it to her. There is much more evidence that Robinson wrote it, including his own note cited above, although there is no autograph copy. Julian is therefore convinced that Robinson wrote it. And I see little grounds for argument.

Julian, p. 1557, mentions that other hymnals give this as "Father, Source of Every Blessing" and "Jesus, Source of Every Blessing.

Although it originated in the Anglican church, this is among the most popular of all shape note lyrics; in the Sacred Harp, for instance, we find it used with "Olney," "Family Circle," "Restoration," and "Warrenton" -- plus, with the first line "Come THY fount of every blessing," the tune "Rest for the Weary." In the Missouri Harmony, it has the tunes "Olney," "New Monmouth," and "Hallelujah." The standard tune seems to be "Olney," as found in Jackson's White Spirituals in the Southern Uplands, it occurs only with "Olney" (#40), as one of two possible texts for that tune. Nonetheless, the text travels a lot, and has acquired various tunes and choruses; see the cross-references.

If I understand Johnson correctly, he believes the original tune to have been "Nettleton," which he credits to John Wyeth (1770-1858), though "Nettleton" of course is also associated with the name of Asahel Nettleton (1783-1843), who published Village Hymns in 1824 (but, according to Julian, p. 794, cannot be proved to have written any hymns; Village Hymns is primarily if not entirely a compilation, and Reynolds, p. 54, says that it contains no tunes). This is the tune used in the Lutheran Hymnal, according to Stulken, p. 517. Reynolds, p. 53, seems to say that the Baptist Hymnal also uses "Nettleton." Heart-Songs does not name its tune but attributes it to John Wyeth (and the words to Robert Robinson).

Reynolds, pp. 53-54, thinks the chorus lyric "I am bound for the kingdom, won't you go to glory with me?" which sometimes floats into the "Come Thou Fount" text, comes from "Whither goest though, pilgrim stranger," found in the Baptist Songster of 1829; Reynolds prints a text. He seems to link it to the tune "Warrenton" (from the 1844 Sacred Harp).

Of author Robinson, Julian, p. 969 says that he was "b[orn] at Swaffham, in Norfolk, on Sept. 27, 1835 (usually misgiven [in] spite of his own authority, as Jan. 8), of lowly parentage. Whilst in his eighth year the family migrated to Scarning, in the same county. He lost his father a few years after this removal. His widowed mother was left in sore straits. The... boy (in his 15th year) was indentured in 1749 to a barber and hairdresser in London.... In 1752 came an epoch-making event. Out on a frolic one Sunday with like-minded companions, he joined with them in sportively rendering a fortune-telling old woman drunk and incapable, that they might hear and laugh at her predictions concerning them. The poor creature told Robinson that he would live to see his children and grand-children. This set him a-thinking, and he resolved more than ever to 'give himself to reading.' Coincidently he went to hear George Whitefield.... Robinson remained in London until 1758, attending assiduously on the ministry of Gill, Wesley, and other evangelical preachers. Early in this year he was invited as a Calvinistic Methodist to the oversight of a chapel at Mildenhall, Norfolk. Thence he removed within a year to Norwich, where he settled over an Independent congregation. In 1759, having been invited by a Baptist Church at Cambridge... he accepted the call... having been previously baptized by immersion." He was very popular with the congregation, and began his writing career in 1770. He retired in 1790, and died later in that year at Showell Green in Warwickshire.

The scriptural references are interesting. "Flaming tongues" is almost certainly related to the Pentecost incident of speaking in tongues (Acts 2:3).

The second verse says, "Here I'll raise my Ebenezer." There are three mentions of Ebenezer in 1 Samuel. In 4:1, the Israelites gather at Ebenezer to fight the Philistines -- and, as the following verses tell, are roundly defeated. The Ark of the Covenant is captured, and the Philistines take it from Ebenezer to Ashdod (5:1). Later, after an Israelite victory over the Philistines, Samuel sets up a stone near Ebenezer, which the Bible renders "stone of help" (7:12; McCarter, p. 146, notes that the root of "Ebenezer," and hence the meaning, is not entirely clear at this time, but "stone of the helper" and "stone of the warrior," which are both possible, would be good cultic terms for someone with Samuel's militant theology). Both sites could have suited Robinson's purpose: the battle in 1 Samuel 3 was a last stand by the Israelites, which fits someone "making [his] Ebenezer," and of course the symbolism of 7:12 is obvious.

It is not obvious that the two are the same place -- after all, the events in 4:1 and 5:1 take place BEFORE Samuel named his spot "Ebenezer." It is, of course, possible that 4:1 and 5:1 call the spot "Ebenezer" after the name Samuel later gave it -- in fact, since Ebenezer sounds rather deserted, it would seem likely. Except that the Philistines generally beat up on the Israelites until the time of Saul. Samuel seems to have been something of a Skanderbeg: He could protect the land the Israelites held, and maintain a scratchy independence, but he could not regain territory. Odds are that the two Ebenezers are distinct. - RBW

Bibliography

- Julian: John Julian, editor, A Dictionary of Hymnology, 1892; second edition 1907 (I use the 1957 Dover edition in two volumes)

Last updated in version 6.0
File: NEctfoeb

Come to Shuck Dat Corn Tonight

DESCRIPTION: "Come to shuck dat corn tonight, Come to shuck with all your might, Come for to shuck all in sight, Come to shuck dat corn tonight." "Come to shuck dat golden grain, Where dere's enough dere ain't no pain...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: work nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 198, "Come to Shuck Dat Corn Tonight" (1 short text)
File: Br3198

Come to the Bower (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Will you come to the bower I have shaded for you? I have decked it with roses all spangled with dew. Will you, will you, will you, will you come to my bower? (x2)." "The rose of my heart" can rest in the bower. They will promise never to part.

AUTHOR: Words: Thomas Moore (source: Abernethy)

EARLIEST DATE: 1994 (Abernethy)

KEYWORDS: love home flowers
Come to the Bower (II)

DESCRIPTION: Come to the land of the Irish heroes: O'Neill, O'Donnell, Lord Lucan, O'Connell, Brian and St Patrick. Visit Dublin and the battlefields. "Will you come and awake our lost land from its slumber and her fetters we will break ... come to the bower"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads)

KEYWORDS: Ireland nonballad patriotic

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- June 5, 1646 - Battle of Benburb. Owen Roe O'Neill defeats Robert Munroe
- June 5, 1798 - Battle of New Ross - Wexford rebels attack the small garrison (about 1400 men, many militia) at New Ross, but are repelled

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 96, "Come to the Bower" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, COBEOWR

Roud #3045

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Daniel O'Connell (I)" (subject: Daniel O'Connell) and references there

NOTES [182 words]: Among the historical characters mentioned in this song:
- O'Donnell - Probably "Red Hugh" O'Donnell, leader of the 1594 war against the English; for his career see, e.g., "O'Donnell Aboo (The Clanconnell War Song)."
- O'Neill - There were many O'Neills of significance for Irish history; the likeliest, given the context, is Hugh O'Neill, Earl of Tyrone, ally of Red Hugh O'Donnell (again, see the notes to "O'Donnell Aboo (The Clanconnell War Song)").
- O'Connell - Obviously Daniel O'Connell, the campaigner for Irish rights; there are at least two songs bearing his name, and many more which allude to him, e.g. "By Memory Inspired" and "A Nation Once Again."
- Brian - Brian Boru, winner of the Battle of Clontarf; see "Remember the Glories of Brian the Brave."
- Owen Roe - Owen Roe O'Neill (c. 1582-1649), nephew of Red Hugh O'Neill; he served for a time in the Netherlands, then fought against the English in Ireland in the 1640s, though he did not cooperate very well with other Nationalist leaders.

Munroe - Robert Munroe, a Scottish general who was defeated by Owen Roe O'Neill at Benburb. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.5

File: OLoc096

Come to the Cookhouse Door, Boys (Bugle Call Lyric)

DESCRIPTION: "Come to the cookhouse door, boys, Come to the cookhouse door. When you see the sergeant-cook smile, Come to the cookhouse door."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang)

KEYWORDS: soldier food cook

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang, p. 233, "(no title)" (1 short text)

Roud #11252

File: BrPa233A
Come to the Fair
DESCRIPTION: "The sun is a-shining to welcome the day" of the fair. The happy time is described. Listeners are encouraged: "Hey, ho, come to the fair."
AUTHOR: Words: Helen Taylor / Music: Easthope Martin
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (sheet music)
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, p. 178, "Come to the Fair"
NOTES [19 words]: Fuld notes that this is "[f]requently mistaken for a folksong"; it is on this basis that I include the piece. - RBW
File: Fuld178

Come to the Spare Crew
DESCRIPTION: "Come to the Spare Crew, make no delay, Come to the Spare Crew, two bob a day, Sitting on the messdeck, nothing else to do." "Joyful, joyful, will the Spare Crew be When the boats have all pushed off to sea." The regular crew don't want them
AUTHOR: unknown (music by George F. Root)
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)
KEYWORDS: sailor navy derivative
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 117, "Come to the Spare Crew" (1 text, tune referenced)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Come to the Savior" (tune)
File: Tawn088

Come Under My Plaidie
DESCRIPTION: Old Donald invites Marion in from the snow to sit with him. She says she is going to meet young Johnnie. Donald says Johnnie has nothing, but he can give her fine things. She goes with Donald. Johnnie overhears and heads home through the snow.
AUTHOR: Hector Macneill (1746-1818) (according to Whitelaw (see Note))
EARLIEST DATE: 1803 (Johnson, _Scots Musical Museum_, according to Whitelaw)
LONG DESCRIPTION: 62-year-old Donald the butcher invites Marion in from the cold blast and snow to sit with him under his plaidie where "there's room in't, dear lassie! believe me for twa." She says she is going to meet 30-year-old Johnnie who's young, bonny, and a fine dancer. Donald says Johnnie has nothing but he himself can give her fine clothes, house and flunkies. She follows her mother's advice and goes with Donald. Johnnie overhears the wedding date being set and heads home broken-hearted through the snow.
KEYWORDS: age courting rejection money storm
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, p. 32, "Come Under My Plaidie" (1 text)
Roud #8694
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 17(55b), "Come Under My Plaidie" ("Come under my plaidie, the night's gaun to fa"), The Poet's box (Glasgow), 1851; also Harding B 16(55c), Harding B 11(631), Firth b.26(196), Firth b.27(69), "Come Under My Plaidie"; Harding B 11(663), Harding B 26(102), "Come Under My Plaidy"
Murray, Mu23-y4:018, "Come Under My Plaidie" ("Come under my plaidie, the nights gaun to fa"), unknown, 19C
NLScotland, L.C.Fol.70(34b), "Come Under My Plaidie" ("Come under my plaidie, the nicht's gaun to fa"), unknown, c.1890
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Sequel to Come Under My Plaidie" (theme)
cf. "Johnny Macgill" (tune, according to Bodleian broadsides Harding B 17(55b) and Harding B 11(663))
Come Up and See My Garrett

DESCRIPTION: "Come up and see my garrittie, Come up and see it noo, Come up an' see my garrittie, It's a' painted blue. A crecked cup and a saucer, A chair without a lag, A hupy-backit dresser, An' an aud bowdy bed."

AUTHOR: unknown

KEYWORDS: home humorous

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #8, pp. 121-122, "Come Up an' See My Garrittie" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7285

File: RP008

Come Write Me Down (The Wedding Song)

DESCRIPTION: Man offers gold and pearls; woman refuses, saying she'll never be at any young man's call. He tells her t he'll find another. He picks up his hat to leave, but she changes her mind. They are married the next day; "she'll prove his comfort day and night"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1866 (Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin); c.1840 (broadside, 2806 c.16(240))

LONG DESCRIPTION: "Come write me down the powers above/That first created a man to love." Man offers gold and pearls; woman refuses, saying she'll never be at any young man's call. He tells her to "go your way, you scornful dame"; he'll find another. He picks up his hat to leave, but, as could be predicted, she changes her mind. They are married the next day; "she'll prove his comfort day and night"

KEYWORDS: courting love marriage wedding dialog lover

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber)) Canada(Newf) US(MW)

REFERENCES (10 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #159, p. 1, "My Joy and Comfort" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan5 980, "Look Ye Down, Ye Powers Above" (5 texts, 1 tune)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 126, "Come Write Me Down the Powers Above" (1 text, 1 tune)
Peacock, pp. 571-572, "Oh Write Me Down, Ye Powers Above" (1 text, 1 tune)
Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 9, "Pretty Polly" (1 text)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart1 10, "Polly Gathering Flowers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Copper-ASongForEverySeason, pp. 270-271, "Come Write Me Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Purslow-TheConstantLovers, p. 17, "Come, Write Me Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, COMWRIT1

ADDITIONAL: Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham_, Broadside, 1977, p. 153, "Powers Above" (1 text)

Roud #381

RECORDINGS:
Cecilia Costello, "Come Write Me Down the Powers Above" (on FSBFTX13)
Charlotte Decker, "Oh Write Me Down, Ye Powers Above" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 c.16(240), "The True Lovers" ("Look ye down, the powers of love"), W. and T. Fordyce (Newcastle), c.1840

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Corydon and Phoebe" (plot)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Oh Write Me Down, Ye Powers Above
The Scornful Dame
NOTES [115 words]: Like "Corydon and Phyllis," whose plot is virtually identical, this no doubt began life as a minstrel piece or "rural romance" broadside. But it's entered tradition, with over half-a-dozen collections cited by Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland. The song has long been associated with the Copper family of Rottingdean, Sussex, having been collected from them as early as 1899, but it is also found in Dorset, Hampshire, Devon -- and Newfoundland. It is distinguished from "Corydon and Phyllis" by the characteristic phrases quoted in the [long description]. - PJS

Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 32, "Purty Polly" is "the same as number 9, above" but does not repeat the text. - BS

Last updated in version 4.3

File: K126

Come Ye That Fear the Lord
DESCRIPTION: "Come ye that fear the Lord (x2), I have something for to say about the narrow way, For Christ the other day saved my soul (x2)." The singer recalls how Jesus came to free him, how others call him "undone," but how he looks forward to salvation
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 201-202, "Come Ye That Fear the Lord" (1 text)
Roud #16371
File: Fus201

Come, All Ye Good People, I Pray You Attend
DESCRIPTION: "Now to all ye young women, I do you advise": we are "as full of flattery as a cloud's full of rain ... much like a garden with weeds overgrown" and men grow tired of us as time passes. "... be modest and wise" and if he leaves you've done your best.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1860 (Greig/Duncan4)
KEYWORDS: courting nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 917, "Come, All Ye Good People, I Pray You Attend" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6235

NOTES [20 words]: Greig/Duncan4 quoting Duncan: "It is from a manuscript book, and is entitled 'A Song', and is dated May 5th, 1860." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD917

Come, Birdie, Come
DESCRIPTION: "Beautiful bird of spring has come, Seeking a place to build his home." The singer tells the bird, "Beautiful bird, come live with me," promising, "You shall be free." It will no longer need to roam. "You shall be all the world to me."
AUTHOR: C. A. White
EARLIEST DATE: 1870 (sheet music by White, Smith & Perry)
KEYWORDS: bird love home nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 102, "Come, Birdie, Come" (1 fragment)
Roud #7545

NOTES [34 words]: Roud seemingly lumps this with "The Little Girl and the Robin," but they are certainly separate; apart from everything else, "The Little Girl and the Robin" ends with the bird
Come, Butter, Come

DESCRIPTION: "Come, butter, come! De King and de Queen Is er-standin' at de gate, Er-waitin' for some butter An' a cake. Oh, come, butter, come!" A different version: "Come, butter come (x2), Peter stands at the gate, Waiting for a butter cake, Come, butter, come"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1656 (Ady's A Candle in the Dark, according to Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes)

KEYWORDS: worksong nonballad food royalty food work children animal nonsense

REFERENCES (8 citations):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 215, (no title) (1 short text); p. 287, (no title) (1 short text, from Brand's Antiquities)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 85, "Come, butter, come" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #491, p. 213, "(Come, butter, come)"
Ritchie-SingingFamilyOfTheCumberlands, pp. 23-24, "Churn, Churn, Make Some Butter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, p. 126, "(Churn, butter, churn, Come, butter, come)" (1 short text)
Killion/Waller-ATreasuryOfGeorgiaFolklore, p. 230, "Churning Song" (1 short text)

ADDITIONAL: Roy Palmer, _The Folklore of Warwickshire_, Rowman and Littlefield, 1976, p. 87, (no title) (a 1-verse fragment that might be this or just possibly "Churn, Churn, Make Some Butter")
Jacqueline Simpson, _The Folklore of Sussex_, B. T. Batsford, 1973, p. 58, "(Come, butter, come!)" (1 short text)
Roud #18167

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Snake Baked a Hoecake" (lyrics, some versions?)

NOTES [211 words]: The reference to Peter at the gate is sometimes interpreted as referring to Peter trying to get into heaven. But the logical assumption surely is that it is a reference to Acts chapter 12. Peter had been imprisoned by Herod Agrippa I, and was freed by an angel. He went to the home of Mary mother of John Mark, and knocked at the gate (12:13). The maid Rhoda was so shocked that she was very slow to answer.

Simpson, p. 58, says that this poem was used to invoke the aid of Dobbs, the helpful fairy/brownie.

- RBW

Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes: "Although this centuries-old charm was still in superstitious use at the time, it was set to music in 1798 as a 'Bagatelle for Juvenile Amusement.'"

BS

Earlier versions of the Index split Jean Ritchie's "Churn, Churn, Make Some Butter" into a separate piece. When the Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore text turned up, I decided to lump all the butter churning rhymes here, although I suspect some are at least partly independent. I would add that Roud places some butter churning lyrics -- including one version of Jean Ritchie's text -- with #3622 ("Snake Baked a Hoecake"), although several of Ritchie's other texts are filed here with #18167. I guess, even in song titles, butter doesn't always come easily. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2

File: ScNF215B

Come, Gang Awa' With Me

DESCRIPTION: "Oh come, my love, the moon shines bright Across the rippling sea... Come gang awa' with me. 'Tis many a night since last we met... Then say ere yonder stars shall set You'll gang awa' with me. "...I pledge myself to thee... Forever thine I'll be"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Randolph); probably from the 1860s

KEYWORDS: love courting travel

FOUND IN: US(Se)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 783, "Come, Gang Awa' With Me" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Come, Life, Shaker Life

DESCRIPTION: "Come, life, Shaker life, come, life eternal, Shake, shake out of me all that is carnal. I'll take nimble steps, I'll be a David, I'll show Michael twice how he behaved."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940

KEYWORDS: Bible religious nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 37, "Come, Life, Shaker Life" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Edward Deming Andrews, _The Gift to be Simple: Songs, Dances and Rituals of the American Shakers_, 1940 (references are to the 1962 Dover reprint), pp. 102-103, "Come Life, Shaker Life" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #6669

NOTES [133 words]: Although every text of this song I have seen refers to "Michael," the correct name is "Michal." Michal was the younger daughter of Saul, who loved and was married to David (1 Samuel 18:20f.) and saved him from her father (1 Sam. 19:11f.).

Later, however, when David had become king, David brought the Ark of the Covenant to Jerusalem. During its progress, "David danced before YHWH with all his might" (2 Sam. 6:14). And "Michal daughter of Saul looked out... and saw King David leaping and dancing... and she despised him in her heart" (2 Sam. 6:16).

David and Michal apparently were never reconciled; when she scolded him, David's response was that the girls would like what he was doing (! - 2 Sam. 6:22). "And Michal the daughter of Saul had no child until the day of her death" (2 Sam. 6:23). - RBW

Last updated in version 3.8

File: LoF037

Come, Love, Come, the Boat Lies Low

DESCRIPTION: "Come, love, come, and go with me, I'll take you down about Tennessee. Open up the window, oh love do, Listen to the music I'm playing for you, Come, love, come, the boat lies low,..." The girl is urged to float "on the Old Ben Joe"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (Wheeler)

KEYWORDS: love courting home river floating verses

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Wheeler-SteamboatinDays, pp. 90-91, "Come, Love, Come, the Boat Lies Low" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #10033

RECORDINGS:
Eleazar Tillet, "Come Love Come" (on USWarnerColl01) [a true mess; the first verse is "Nancy Till", the chorus is "Come, Love, Come, the Boat Lies Low," and it uses part of "De Boatman Dance" as a bridge.]

CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "Nancy Till" (chorus lyrics)
NOTES [85 words]: Another collection -- at least in Wheeler's version -- of mostly floating material. But the chorus and the mention of "Nancy Till" link it to that song. That this is related to "Nancy Till" is beyond question; the chorus is the same in both cases, and they're both courting songs. Roud splits Wheeler's version from the "Nancy Till" family. I'm not sure I would have, given classification issues, but in this case, I'm trying to align with his system. You should definitely check "Nancy Till" also, however. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.5
File: MWhee090

Come, My Lads, and Let's Be Jolly

DESCRIPTION: "Come my lads and let's be jolly, Drive away all melancholy." The singer prefers to follow Solomon in singing "praise and glory" over "evil-speaking and back-biting." There's no harm in eating, drinking, dancing, smoking, and keeping good company

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames)

KEYWORDS: dancing drink food nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 54-55, "Come, My Lads, and Let's Be Jolly" (1 text)
(also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 438)

Roud #1238

NOTES [40 words]: The lines "Whilst we live, let's be jolly, And drive away all melancholy" quoted in passing in "Our Club at Paris", Fraser's Magazine for the Town and Country (London, 1838 ("Digitized by Google") Vol. XVII, No. 100 (April 1838), p. 417. - BS

Last updated in version 2.6
File: WT055

Come, My Love (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Come my love and go with me (x3), And I will take good care of you." "You are too young, you are not fit (x3), You cannot leave your mother yet." "You're old enough, you're just about right (x3), I'll ask your mother Saturday night"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (Botkin, The American Play-Party Song)

KEYWORDS: playparty courting marriage mother

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Spurgeon-WaltzTheHall-AmericanPlayParty, pp. 88-89, "Come My Love" (1 text, 1 tune); cf. pp. 90-91, "Consolation Flowing Free" (1 text, 1 tune);
Roud #12430

NOTES [110 words]: Roud's #12430 is assigned primarily to pieces which open "Come my love and go with me And I will take good care of you"; #7394 is for pieces which open "Consolation flowing free, Come my love and go with me," But these are often clearly the same song: they have the "Come my love and go with me" line, the complaint about somebody being too young, and the conclusion that (s)he is old enough. But there are also much longer versions of both pieces. The confusion, I think, goes back to Botkin, who seems to have classified solely based on first lines. I'm far from sure they should be split, but I'm following this general practice. See both songs, though. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: Spurg088

Come, Rain, Come

DESCRIPTION: The singer hopes, "Come, rain, come, rain, come... To keep back the Yankees Until our ranks are filled up by recruits." The hungry singer complains, "I'm alone in my shanty, And rations they are scanty." He hopes for more and better food

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1943 (Brown)
NOTES [129 words]: Mud is, of course, the soldier's constant foe, but worse for the side on the offensive; hence the Confederates would appreciate bad weather more than the Unionists. There is no hint that this is a reference to the Army of the Potomac's "Mud March" of December 1862, but it would fit -- the weather stopped General Ambrose Burnside's advance cold. Neither side had very good rations; the transportation systems of the time just weren't up to it. But at least the Union troops usually had enough to eat. Not so the Confederates, who were constantly hungry, especially as the war dragged on (which resulted in the loss of much farming land, the ruin of still more land, and the breakdown of the southern railroads). The hunt for food described here is quite true-to-life. - RBW

Come, Ye Friends of a Social Life

DESCRIPTION: Friends, "foes to discord, care and strife," have "a glass of good strong beer" before death stops us from drinking more.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames)

KEYWORDS: death drink nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 52-53, "Come, Ye Friends of a Social Life" (1 text)
(also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 340)

Roud #1236

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Landlord, Fill the Flowing Bowl" (theme: drink and good fellowship)) and references there

NOTES [35 words]: Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 340 is assigned to both "Here's a Health to All Good Lasses" and "Come, Ye Friends of a Social Life"; 341 appears not to have been assigned. The editor has been notified (11/28/2009). - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: WT053

Come, Ye Sinners

DESCRIPTION: "Come ye sinners poor and needy, Weak and wounded, sick and sore, Jesus ready stands to save you, Full of pity, love and pow'r. He is able, he is willing, He is able, doubt no more."

AUTHOR: Lyrics: Joseph Hart

EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Randolph; dated to 1759 in the Sacred Harp)

KEYWORDS: religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(Ap,So)

REFERENCES (5 citations):

Randolph 623, "Come, Ye Sinners" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, p. 163, "I Will Arise and Go to Jesus" (1 text, 1 tune)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, p. 92, "I Will Arise and Go to Jesus" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, p. 201, "I Will Arise and Go to Jesus" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7555

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "This Old World" (lyrics, tune)
cf. "Come Thou Fount of Every Blessing (I)" (lyrics, tune)

NOTES [107 words]: Randolph states that this is sung to the tune of "Go Tell Aunt Rhody." There is a similarity, but it is not the same tune (for one thing, this has two parts).

In the Sacred Harp, this appears with the tune "Beach Spring," which isn't even close to "Aunt Rhody."
Morgan's version, apparently based on Joseph Hart's original, has the chorus "I will arise and go to Jesus, He will embrace me in his arms. In the arms of our dear savior, Oh, there are ten thousand charms," which is also associated with "This Old World" and "Come Thou Fount of Every Blessing."
The origin of this family of texts and tunes clearly needs more investigation. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.1
File: R623

Comet
DESCRIPTION: "Comet! It makes your teeth turn green. Comet! It tastes like gasoline. Comet
(it/will) make you vomit, So get some Comet and vomit today."
AUTHOR: unknown (music by Lieutenant F. J. Ricketts, also known as Kenneth J. Alford, 1881– 1945)
EARLIEST DATE: 1986
KEYWORDS: nonballad parody humorous
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 38, "Comet" (1 text, tune referenced)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Colonel Bogey March" (tune)
cf. "Hitler Has Only Got One Ball" (tune)
NOTES [27 words]: I make the assumption that, if I learned a kid's song from a source other than my parents or school, it qualifies as a folk song. This seems to fit that bill. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: PFCF038a

Comfort in Heaven
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "There's comfort in heaven and I feel it in my soul, O glory hallelujah, Glory in heaven and glory in my soul, O glory...." Verse: "Jerusalem is my happy home, Name ever dear to me, where shall my labors have an end? Thy joys when shall I see?"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 12, "Comfort in Heaven" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [253 words]: Barton-OldPlantationHymns's "Comfort in Heaven" illustrates the common practice of taking one verse, often the first, of a published hymn, and adding a chorus. Usually I would classify the resulting hymn as a variant of the published hymn. The Barton-OldPlantationHymns text is not that cut and dried, so I have left it to stand alone.
The Methodist Hymn Book (London: The Methodist Publishing House, 1933) has two related hymns. Hymn #655 p. 250, which it dates to the 16th or 17th century, begins "Jerusalem, my happy home, When shall I come to thee? When shall my sorrows have an end? Thy joys when shall I see?" [This is indexed as "Jerusalem, My Happy Home (Long Sought Home)" - RBW.] Hymn #650 pp. 247-248, attributed to Joseph Bromhead (1748-1826), begins "Jerusalem, my happy home, Name ever dear to me! When shall my labours have an end, In joy, and peace, and thee?" So Barton-OldPlantationHymn's text mixes lines from the first verse of both hymns.
Jackson's text is very close to hymn #655, omitting some verses and adding a chorus of "Home, sweet home, my long sought home, My home in heaven above" (George Pullen Jackson, Spiritual Folk-Songs of Early America (New York: J.J. Augustin, 1937 (republished by New York: Dover Publications, 1964)), #221 p. 220, "Long-Sought Home").
On the other hand, Sankey and Moody, a popular source for hymns, has hymn #650, with one verse omitted and no chorus added (Ira D. Sankey, Sacred Songs and Solos Twelve Hundred
Last updated in version 4.0
File: Bart012B
Comical Ditty, A (Arizona Boys and Girls)

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you good people, I pray you draw near... A comical ditty you shortly shall hear." The song notes how the boys dress up to court the ladies, and the girls dress up to court the men, but neither can get married of their own power

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1913 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)
KEYWORDS: courting poverty clothes family
FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,SE,So,SW)
REFERENCES (10 citations):
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, p. 430, "Comical Ditty" (1 text)
Randolph 461, "The Boys Around Here" (1 text, 1 tune)
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 131, "Boys in This Country Trying to Advance" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 142, "Arizona Boys and Girls" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 57, "A Comical Ditty" (1 text)
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, pp. 118-119, "Boys About Here" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 1-2, "The Arizona Boys and Girls" (1 text)
Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 20, pp. 133-135, "They're Down and They're Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 73, pp. 96-96, "A Comical Ditty" (1 text)
DT, COMDITTY
Roud #4868
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Putting on Airs" (theme)
cf. "A Restless Night" (lyrics)
cf. "The Hancock Boys" (theme)
NOTES [92 words]: Despite the title, this song does not strike me as in any way comic -- bitterly pathetic is more like it. Such slight humor as it has derives from its snarling sarcasm, but even this is too strong to be really effective.
I did not initially link the Randolph song with Cox's; they are shown with distinctly different metrical patterns, and Randolph's text isn't quite as sarcastic. But upon seeing more versions, it appears that they are just extremes of a constellation of forms.
A common tag line is "The boys around here, they think they are men." - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: JHCox057

Comin Ower the Tay Brig

DESCRIPTION: "Comin owee the Tay Brig tae bonnie Dundee, Oh the braes of Balgay and Law Hill grand tae see." The singer has traveled far but is always happy to return to Dundee. He hopes that all others who travel far will eventually wish to come home also

AUTHOR: Stuartie Foy (source: Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
EARLIEST DATE: 1986 (Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
KEYWORDS: travel home return nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 79, "Comin Ower the Tay Brig" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: Gath079

Comin' Back to Kansas

DESCRIPTION: "They are comin' back to Kansas, They are crossin' on the bridge, You can see their mover wagons...." Many people swore they would leave "this Kansas land infernal." But they had no luck elsewhere, either, so they are returning to Kansas

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore)
KEYWORDS: home emigration humorous
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, pp. 180-181, "Comin' Back to Kansas" (1 text, 1 tune)
Comin' frae Rora

DESCRIPTION: "Comin' frae Rora toon, There I met a bonnie lass And there I set her doon"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan5)
KEYWORDS: sex
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 972, "Comin' frae Rora" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #6742
NOTES [11 words]: The current description is based on the Greig/Duncan5 fragment. - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD5972

Comin' Thro' the Craigs o' Culter

DESCRIPTION: "Comin' thro, gaun thro', Comin thro' the Craigs o' Culter, Duncan met a bonny lass, And row'd his Hielan' plaid aboot her'
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan7)
KEYWORDS: sex
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1315, "Comin' Thro' the Craigs o' Culter" (1 fragment)
Roud #7207
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Haud Awa Frae Me, Donald" (tune, per Greig/Duncan7)
NOTES [11 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan7 fragment. - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD71315

Comin' Thro' the Hay

DESCRIPTION: Did you see "yellow coatie" coming through the hay, "drabbled" [smeared] all over?
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan7)
KEYWORDS: sex nonballad clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1416, "Comin' Thro' the Hay" (1 text)
Roud #7263
NOTES [11 words]: The happy ending to "Lassie wi' the Yellow Coatie," perhaps? - RBW
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD71416

Coming Around the Horn

DESCRIPTION: "Now, miners, if you listen, I'll tell you quite a tale." The singer goes around Cape Horn to California, and describes the seasickness, bad food, long calms, and other poor conditions. Arriving in California, he finds his money was left in the States
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1855 ("Put's Original California Songster")
KEYWORDS: ship travel hardtimes
FOUND IN: US
Coming Down the Flat

DESCRIPTION: "If a body meet a body coming down the flat, Should a body 'Joe' a body, for having on a hat? Some wear caps, some wise-awakes, but I prefer a hat, Yet everybody cries out 'Joe!' coming down the flat." About the types of hats Australians wear

AUTHOR: Charles R. Thatcher (1831-1878)?

EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel)

KEYWORDS: clothes parody Australia

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 96-97, "Coming Down the Flat" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Anderson-GoldrushSongster, pp. 44-45, "Coming Down the Flat" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, pp. 7-8, "Coming Down the Flat" (1 text, tune referenced)
- Anderson/Thatcher-GoldDiggersSongbook, pp. 11-12, "Coming down the Flat" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Coming Through the Rye" (tune & meter)

NOTES [29 words]: For brief background on Charles Thatcher's career, see the notes to "Where's Your License?" For an extensive collection of his songs, see Anderson-StoryOfAustralianFolksong.

Last updated in version 5.3

File: FaE096

Coming Round the Mountain (II -- Charming Betsey)

DESCRIPTION: "She'll be coming round the mountain, charming Betsey; She'll be coming round the mountain, Cora Lee; If I never see you any more, Pray God remember me." The song usually compares the homes, vehicles, etc. of the rich and poor

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1915 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: separation money nonballad

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
- Randolph 436, "Charming Betsey" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 335-336, "Charming Betsey" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 436)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 256, "All Around the Mountain, Charming Betsy" (2 short texts); also 17, "I Wouldn't Marry" (7 text (some short) plus 6 excerpts, 1 fragment, and mention of 5 more, of which "the "A" text appears to mix this with "I Won't Marry an Old Maid" and "Raccoon")
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 256, "All Around the Mountain, Charming Betsy" (3 tunes plus text excerpts)
- DT, COMRNMDM
- Roud #7052

RECORDINGS:
- Fiddlin' John Carson, "Charming Betsy" (OKeh 40363, 1925)
- Cleve Chaffin & the McClung Brothers, "Rock House Gamblers" (Paramount 3179, c. 1930; on RoughWays1)
- Georgia Organ Grinders, "Charming Betsy" (Columbia 15415-D, 1929)
- Davis & Nelson, "Charming Betsy"( Paramount 3227/Broadway 8177/QRS 9011, c. 1929)
- Land Norris, "Charming Betsy" (OKeh 45033, c. 1926; rec. 1925)
- Virgil Perkins & Jack Sims, "Goin' Around the Mountain" (on AmSkBa)
- Henry Thomas, "Charming Betsy" (Vocalion 1468, 1930 [rec. 1929]; on Cornshuckers2, StuffDreams2)
Coming Through the Rye

DESCRIPTION: "Gin a body meet a body comin' through the rye, Gin a body kiss a body, need a body cry?" The singer remarks that no one knows her swain, but notes that all the lads smile at her in the rye. She observes that she has a love whom she keeps secret

AUTHOR: unknown (adapted by Robert Burns)

EARLIEST DATE: 1796 (Stationer's Register)

KEYWORDS: love courting bawdy nonballad farming

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (7 citations):
- Greig/Duncan8 1860, "Comin' Through the Rye" (1 fragment)
- Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #369, p. 25, "Comin' Thro' the Rye" (1 reference)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 140, "Comin' Through the Rye" (1 text)
- Heart-Songs, p. 113, "Comin' Thro' the Rye" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 178-179, "Comin' Thro' the Rye"

ADDITIONAL: James Kinsley, editor, Burns: Complete Poems and Songs (shorter edition, Oxford, 1969) #560, pp. 664-665, "Comin thro; the rye" (1 text, 1 tunes, from 1796)

Roud #5512

RECORDINGS:
- Edith Helena, "Comin' Thro' the Rye" (Gramophone & Typewriter Co. 3348, n.d. but pre-1907)
- Nevada Vanderveer, "Comin' Through the Rye" (Bell 1117/Bell S-77, c. 1923)
- Ruth Vincent, "Comin' Thro' the Rye" (Columbia 30024, c. 1906)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Miller's Wedding" (tune, per Burns)

SAME TUNE:
- We Beat 'Em on the Marne (File: BrPa039A)
- Coming Down the Flat (by Charles R. Thatcher) (File: FaE096)
- Coming Through the Rye (Cold Cuts) (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 11; DT, COMTHRYE2)
- Comin' from the War ("If a body meet a body") (see Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 25)
- The Grundys ("If you nominate a woman, In the month of May," a song mocking the presidential candidacy of Victoria Woodhall in 1972) (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 453)
- The Saucy Little Turtle ("Down on the Mississippi River") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 193)
- Our Bonnie Lad ("Gie's song o' hearty greetin', For our bonnie lad") (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 129)
- If a body ask a body In her book to write; If a body refuse a body, Need a body fight? (J. S. Ogilvie, _One Thousand Popular Quotations Comprising the Choicest Thoughts and Sayings of Eminent Writers of All Ages, Together With Nearly Three Hundred Original and Choice Selections, Suitable for Writing in Autograph Albums_, J. S. Ogivie, Publisher (New York & Chicago), 1884 (available on Google Books), p. 115)
- The Power of Thought ("Not by cannon nor by saber, Not by flags unfurled, Shall we win the rights of labor") (Foner, p. 165)
- Comin' Thro' the Rye (populist campaign song) ("If a Jacob meet an Easu, Starving in the street") (by C. A. Sheffield) (Foner, p. 281)

NOTES [97 words]: Fuld observes that the earliest copies of this song (including the text known to Burns) were bawdy, and the Digital Tradition text is one of these.

The Burns version from the Scots Musical Museum opens with an eight-line stanza that is rarely if ever heard, followed by the familiar "Gin a body meet a body" stanzas.

There is a version of this in the Wilder family tradition (By the Shores of Silver Lake, chapter 15), but it looks imperfectly Scottish, as if learned from print. - RBW

The Digital Tradition version is Burns's. The Greig/Duncan8 fragment is that version's chorus. - BS Commissioning of HMS Hood, The

DESCRIPTION: "You ought to go to Rosyth And see them dock the Hood, Dockyard maties running round With bloody great lumps of wood." The officers are at their stations. The "Jaunty" (master-at-arms) has never seen a gun, "Rajah, Rajah of the UJC"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)
KEYWORDS: navy police
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1918 - Commissioning of H.M.S. Hood
FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 71, "The Commissioning of HMS 'Hood" (1 text)
NOTES [38 words]: For the story of the Hood, see the notes to "The Sinking of HMS Hood." But the Hood is mentioned only in line two of Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy's text; with the change of two lines, it could be about almost any ship. - RBW

Common Bill

DESCRIPTION: The singer says Bill "isn't charming," and is "altogether green." He courts her relentlessly, to her scorn. At last he says that he will kill himself if she does not wed him. Citing the Bible's injunction against killing, she consents

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage
FOUND IN: US(MW,NE,SE,So) Britain(England,Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (19 citations):
Greig/Duncan4 891, "I Will Tell You of a Fellow" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, pp. 52-53, "I'll Tell You of a Fellow" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph 119, "Common Bill" (2 texts)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 57, "Common Bill" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 178, "Common Bill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 66, p. 90, "Common Bill" (1 text)
Linscott-FolkSongsOfOldNewEngland, pp. 187-188, "Common Bill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 195, "Common Bill" (1 text plus 1 excerpt and mention of 3 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 195, "Common Bill" (4 excerpts, 4 tunes)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #199, "Common Bill" (1 text)
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 80, "Common Bill" (1 text plus an excerpt and mention of 3 more, 1 tune)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 57, pp. 173-174, "Common Bill" (1 text)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 308-310, "Common Bill" (2 texts, 1 tune on pp. 437-438)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 62-63, "Common Bill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 325-326, "Hardly Think I Will" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 76, "Silly Bill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 104, pp. 214-215, "I Will Tell You of a Fellow" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 172, "Common Bill" (1 text) RT, CMMNBILL*
Roud #442
RECORDINGS:
I. G. Greer w. Mrs. I. G. Greer, "Common Bill" (AFS; on LC14)
Arthur Fields, "Common Bill" (Grey Gull 4232/Radiex 4232, 1928)
Hill Billies, "Silly Bill" (OKeh 40294, 1925)
McGee Brothers, "Charming Bill" (Vocalion 5166, 1927)
Common Sailor, The
DESCRIPTION: "I am a man before the mast, I plough the trackless sea.... Common sailors we are called. Pray tell me the reason why, This sneering adjective unto us which you so often apply." The singer says that they let Britain rule the waves; they deserve respect
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1986 (Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)
KEYWORDS: sailor abuse work
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 130, "The Common Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #16880
File: PaSe130

Common Sailors
DESCRIPTION: "Don't you call us common men, We're as good as anybody that's on shore." We bring "silks and satins" for girls, cigars for "young gents," and no one appreciates us.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1976 (Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou)
KEYWORDS: commerce pride sailor
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 24, "Common Sailors" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: LeBe024

Company Cook, The
DESCRIPTION: "The company cook had a greasy look, A nasty galoot was he, His only shirt was stiff with dirt...." The cook is "an autocrat," but "the stuff we got to put in the pot Was too often fit for swill." One day he dies and is buried; they expect he is in hell
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934
KEYWORDS: cook death army
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 551-552, "The Company Cook" (1 text)
Roud #15544
NOTES [20 words]: Makes me think of "The Bastard King of England," but the dependence seems to be merely a matter of vague allusions. - RBW
File: LxA551

Compass and Square, The
DESCRIPTION: Scottish Freemasons meet "the blessings of freedom and plenty to share, and walk by the rules of the compass and square." Kings and prophets have been Freemasons. "The Great Architect ... Instructed our sires in the great building scheme"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious ritual
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Complainte de Springhill, La (The Lament of Springhill)

DESCRIPTION: French. February 21, 1891: In Nova Scotia you will never forget the underground devastation in the Springhill mine. We are told that one hundred and thirty appeared before God.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs)

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage grief death mining disaster

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Feb 21, 1891 - Springhill Disaster

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 183, "La Complainte de Springhill" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, SPRINGH3*

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Springhill Mine Disaster (1891)" (subject)

NOTES [89 words]: February 21, 1891: Springhill Coal Mine explosion kills 125 men. (Source: our roots/nos racines (Canada's local histories online) Story of the Springhill Colliery Explosion: comprising a full and authentic account of the great coal mining explosion at Springhill Mines, Nova Scotia, February 21st, 1891, including a history of Springhill and its collieries by R.A.H. Morrow.)

This was not the last disaster in the Springhill coal mines; Peggy Seeger and Ewan MacColl documented the 1958 tragedy in "Springhill Mine Disaster." - RBW

File: CrMa183

Complications of Life, The

DESCRIPTION: "This life here is a mixture of its troubles and its joys, All the way to ripe old age from tiny girls and boys; With many complications...." The singer tells of courting girls, of music, of toys, farm animals, a bad marriage, life's other trials

AUTHOR: probably assembled by John Daniel Vass

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (collected by Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains from John Daniel Vass)

KEYWORDS: hardtimes animal dog chickens mother humorous wife marriage separation army farming

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains, pp. 45-46, "The Complications of Life" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7328

File: Shel045

Comstocker Died in Virginia, The

DESCRIPTION: "The Comstocker died in Virginia, We buried him high on the hill He watches over old C Street...." The singer is urged to join the (drinking) celebration for the dead Comstocker, and to Comstock itself

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Who Shot Maggie in the Freckle, according to Cohen)

KEYWORDS: death burial drink

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Concerning Charlie Horse

DESCRIPTION: Nine men go to pull Charlie horse's drowned body from Angle Pond where he had fallen through the ice. The men braved hunger to do the job "with two stout dories and a couple of ropes" and "gave him a decent send-off." The crew are all named.

AUTHOR: Omar Blondahl
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (NFOBlondahl03)
KEYWORDS: burial drowning moniker horse
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Blondahl-NewfoundlandersSing, pp. 18-19, "Concerning Charlie Horse" (1 text, 1 tune)
RECORDINGS:
Omar Blondahl, "Concerning Charlie Horse" (on NFOBlondahl03)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Return of Charlie Horse" (subject)
"Another single paired 'Concerning Charlie Horse' and 'The Return of Charlie Horse,' two songs about a party involving the retrieval and burial of Charlie, the horse who fell through the ice of Angle Pond in Mahers near St. John's in the spring of 1956. 'Concerning Charlie Horse,' which Blondahl co-authored along with a local man, who along with Blondahl was one of ten named in the song, was a hit in St. John's and is a good example of a moniker song which achieved popularity in part because listeners could identify the names and nicknames of the men in it." - BS

Concerning One Summer in Bonay I Spent

DESCRIPTION: The singer -- and others from all over Newfoundland -- congregated in "Bonay" one summer for wood "rind" and fishing. The singer pokes fun at the girls that went along and at the men dressing up to meet them.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland, 2nd edition)
KEYWORDS: courting work fishing
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland, "Concerning One Summer in Bonay I Spent" (1 text, 1 tune): p. 33 in the 2nd edition, p. 21 in the 3rd, p. 20 in the 4th, p. 15 in the 5th
Blondahl-NewfoundlandersSing, p. 29, "Concerning One Summer in Bonay" (1 text, 1 tune)
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 92-94, "Concerning One Spring in Bonay" (1 text, 1 tune)
Mills-FavoriteSongsOfNewfoundland, pp. 46-47, "Concerning One Summer In Bonay I Spent" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7292
RECORDINGS:
Omar Blondahl, "Concerning One Summer in Bonay" (on NFOBlondahl03)
NOTES [153 words]: Doyle mentions that the song was written by a "simple fisherman" and that "Bonay" is in the Strait of Belle Isle which separates Newfoundland from Labrador. - SH
Peter Neary and Patrick O’Flaherty, Part of the Main: An Illustrated History of Newfoundland and Labrador, Breakwater Books, 1983, p. 125, mentions this song, and says that "Bonay" is shorthand for Bonne Esperance in Quebec. Despite being part of Canada rather than Newfoundland, it was one of the important centers of the Labrador fishery in the late nineteenth century. According to G. M. Story, W. J. Kirwin, and J. D. A. Widdowson, editors, Dictionary of Newfoundland English, second edition with supplement, Breakwater Press, 1990, p. 411, "rind" or "rhind" or "rine" is "The bark or cortex of a tree, specif a 6-ft (1.8 m) length of bark removed in one piece from a standing spruce or fir and used for various fisheries and building purposes." - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
Condemned Men for the Phoenix Park Murders, The

DESCRIPTION: "On the evidence of a notorious wretch Far worse than they have been, Those men they are condemned to die" "Counsels for the Crown ... have well succeeded in their plan ... For basely British gold" Carey is cursed as "the cause of all this woe"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1966 (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)
KEYWORDS: execution homicide trial Ireland political
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Chronology of the Phoenix Park murders (source: primarily Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion, pp. 62, 63, 281-286.)
May 6, 1882 - Chief Secretary Lord Frederick Cavendish and the Under Secretary Thomas Henry Burke are murdered by a group calling themselves "The Invincible Society."
January 1883 - twenty seven men are arrested.
James Carey, one of the leaders in the murders, turns Queen's evidence.
Six men are condemned to death, four are executed (Joseph Brady is hanged May 14, 1883; Daniel Curley is hanged on May 18, 1883), others are "sentenced to penal servitude," and Carey is freed and goes to South Africa.
July 29, 1883 - Patrick O'Donnell kills Carey on board the "Melrose Castle" sailing from Cape Town to Durban.
Dec 1883 - Patrick O'Donnell is convicted of the murder of James Carey and executed in London (per Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion, pp. 28,63, "Lines Written on the Condemned Men for the Phoenix Park Murders" (2 fragments)
Roud #V8800

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 26(364), "Lines Written on the Condemned Men for the Phoenix Park Murders" ("Miserable indeed must those poor men be"), unknown, n.d.

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Phoenix Park Tragedy" (subject: the Phoenix Park murders) and references there

NOTES [69 words]: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion p. 62: "The Phoenix Park murders and their judicial sequels struck the popular imagination and were a gold-mine for ballad-writers: some thirty songs were issued on this subject, which was the last great cause to be so extensively commented upon in broadside ballads."
Zimmermann pp. 28 and 63 are fragments; broadside Bodleian Harding B 26(364) is the basis for the description. - BS

Last updated in version 5.1

Coney Isle

DESCRIPTION: Verses that ought to be floating if they aren't already: "Some folks say that a preacher won't steal/l caught three in my corn field"; "Make that feather bed... Old man Brown gonna stay all night." Chorus: "I'm on my way, I'm going back to Coney Isle."

AUTHOR: Frank Hutchison
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Frank Hutchison)
KEYWORDS: humorous nonballad floatingverses

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRambleSongbook, p. 181, "Coney Isle" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
Lester "Pete" Bivins, "I'm Goin' Back to Coney Isle" (Bluebird B-6950/ Montgomery Ward M-7229, 1937)
Roscoe Holcomb, "Coney Isle" (on Holcomb1, MMOKCD)
Frank Hutchison, "Coney Isle" (OKeh 45083, 1927)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
Confederate "Yankee Doodle"

DESCRIPTION: "Yankee Doodle had a mind to whip the southern traitors Because they didn't choose to live on codfish and potatoes... And so to keep his courage up he took a drink of brandy."
The song notes that even the brandy didn't help at Bull Run

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1864 (Moore, Rebel Rhymes and Rhapsodies, according to Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar)

KEYWORDS: Civilwar battle parody derivative

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
July 21, 1861 - First battle of Bull Run fought between the Union army of McDowell and the Confederates under Johnston and Beauregard

FOUND IN: US(NE,So)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Huntington-FolksongsFromMarthasVineyard, p. 10, "(no title)" (1 text)
Randolph 249, "Confederate 'Yankee Doodle'" (1 text)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 521-525, "Yankee Doodle" (4 texts, 1 tune, of which the third is this version)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 122, pp. 262-263, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text)
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, p. 203, "Confederate Yankee Doodle" (1 text, tune referenced) DT, YNKDOOD2*

Roud #7715

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Yankee Doodle" (tune) and references there

File: R249

Congo Justina

DESCRIPTION: Who would marry Congo Justina? Her face is like a whale and she's just come from jail. The chorus is a dance instruction: "Leh go me hand / Leh me balance meself"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (WITrinidadVillage01)

KEYWORDS: marriage humorous nonballad

FOUND IN: West Indies(Trinidad)

RECORDINGS:

Victoria Phillip and Dixon [Ebenezer] Philip, "Congo Justina" (on WITrinidadVillage01)

File: RcCongJu

Connaught Man, the

DESCRIPTION: The singer rambles from Connaught to the big cities of Ulster. He has various confrontations with city slickers, assumes a pub will give him credit, and winds up in a fight. He lands in prison. Once released, he vows to roam no more

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (Sam Henry collection)

KEYWORDS: rambling prison home fight drink money

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Connal
DESCRIPTION: In Irish Gaelic; dialog; woman asks, "Who's that down there tapping the window?", "...kindling the fire?", "...drawing the blanket off me?", "...breaking down fences?". In every case the reply is "'It's I, myself', says Connla"
AUTHOR: unknown

Connaught Ranger, The
DESCRIPTION: Maguire is slighted by a lady from Lough Erin. Her father banishes her and she goes to England to find Maguire. They meet. She buys him a commission as captain for 500 pounds. They marry. "He raised his name, likewise his fame, which is Captain Maguire"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 19C (broadside, Bod17641 Harding B 26(103))
KEYWORDS: courting love marriage reunion separation travel money England Ireland father soldier
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #18199
RECORDINGS:
Mrs. O'Driscoll, "Captain John McGuire" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Bod17641 Harding B 26(103), "Connaught Ranger" ("You lovers all both great and small"), Haly (Cork), 19C; also Bod17880 Harding B 26(104), Bod8619 2806 b.9(225) "The Connaught Ranger"
File: BdConRan

Connecticut
DESCRIPTION: "What land is that so nicely bound By Massachusetts and the Sound, Rhode Island and New York around.... Connecticut." The state fought King George. The people are beautiful and well-fed, they are religious, and they can trace their ancestry far
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1848 (The National Songster)
KEYWORDS: patriotic nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 83-84, "Connecticut" (1 text)
File: CAFS083

Connecticut Peddler, The
DESCRIPTION: "I'm a peddler, I'm a peddler, I'm a peddler from Connecticut... And don't you want to buy?" He offers "many goods you never saw before," such as pins, "tracts upon popular sins," and many sorts of seeds.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1851 (sheet music published by Oliver Ditson, according to Douglas)
KEYWORDS: commerce money travel nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 317-320, "The Connecticut Peddler" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, p. 80, "The Connecticut Pedlar" (1 text)
Roud #15533
File: LxA317
Connlach Ghlas an Fhomhair (Green Harvest Stubble, The)

DESCRIPTION: Gaelic. Singer wishes he and his sweetheart were wed and on a ship sailing west. Everyone has other plans for her but he would oppose even the King of Spain. He sent her a letter to complain. "She promptly replied that her heart's love was truly mine"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1979 (Tunney-StoneFiddle)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage love nonballad emigration royalty
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Tunney-StoneFiddle, pp. 166-167, "Connlach Ghlas an Fhomhair" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Bell/O Conchubhair, Traditional Songs of the North of Ireland, pp. 113-114, "Coinligh Ghlas' An Fhomhair" ("Green Harvest Stubble") [Gaelic and English]
NOTES [160 words]: Tunney-StoneFiddle includes both the Gaelic and Paddy Tunney's English translation. However, I used Bell/O Conchubhair for the description because I thought I understood it better.
The text of the last verse, in both Gaelic and English, differ between Tunney-StoneFiddle and Bell/O Conchubhair. Tunney has the singer hear from gossips that she will wed soon; his advice is to delay "till Easter day When we'll be safe beyond their sight and wicked spite far, far away." - BS
The reference to the King of Spain is interesting. The Kings of Spain were the "Most Catholic Monarchs," and hence potentially the most likely to be helpful to the Catholics of Ireland, so opposing them would be particularly galling to a fervent Catholic -- but by the time emigration to America was common, Spain had fallen into extreme weakness and was no useful ally to anyone. Maybe the reference is just a leftover memory of the days of the Armada and the English/Spanish wars. - RBW

File: TSF166

Conroy's Camp

DESCRIPTION: (The company sets out for camp and) arrives at Waltham, where they stop to drink. The singer describes the several men in the crew.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1966 (Fowke)
KEYWORDS: travel drink logger moniker
FOUND IN: Canada(Que)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fowke-LumberingSongsFromTheNorthernWoods #46, "Conroy's Camp" (1 text, tune referenced) Roud #4558
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "How We Got Up to the Woods Last Year" (tune, lyrics, theme)
NOTES [36 words]: Like so many lumbering songs, this is a "moniker song" devoted mostly to listing the men in the crew-- though, in this case, it catalogs their behavior on their way to camp rather than their behavior in camp. - RBW

File: FowL46
Consolation Flowing Free

DESCRIPTION: "Consolation flowing free., Come my love and go with me. "You are too young, you are not fit (x3), You cannot leave your mother yet." "You're old enough, you're just about right (x3), I'll ask your mother next Saturday night."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1911 (Ames, according to Spurgeon-WaltzTheHall-AmericanPlayParty)
KEYWORDS: playparty courting marriage mother
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Spurgeon-WaltzTheHall-AmericanPlayParty, pp. 90-91, "Consolation Flowing Free" (1 text, 1 tune); cf. pp. 88-89, "Come My Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7934
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Come My Love (I)" (lyrics)
NOTES [110 words]: Roud's #12430 is assigned primarily to pieces which open "Come my love and go with me And I will take good care of you"; #7394 is for pieces which open "Consolation flowing free, Come my love and go with me." But these are often clearly the same song: they have the "Come my love and go with me" line, the complaint about somebody being too young, and the conclusion that (s)he is old enough. But there are also much longer versions of both pieces. The confusion, I think, goes back to Botkin, who seems to have classified solely based on first lines. I'm far from sure they should be split, but I'm following this general practice. See both songs, though. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: Spurg090

Constable of Dundee, The

DESCRIPTION: "Now fortune was false and betrayed a man, He was Constable of Dundee." His daughter loves a sailor, whom the Constable will not let her marry, especially after he is wrecked. But when the Constable loses his money, the sailor has money to save him

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1876 (Christie)
KEYWORDS: sailor love rejection rescue money
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 1, "The Constable of Dundee" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #8261
NOTES [52 words]: Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee's notes connect this to Alexander Carron (Scrymgeour), Constable of Dundee in 1298, a follower of William Wallace. I don't see why, though. Possibly there is some folklore about the song; it is said to have come from an eighty-year-old woman, so it may be somewhat confused. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.5
File: Gath001

Constant Farmer's Son, The [Laws M33]

DESCRIPTION: Her parents consent to let their daughter marry a farmer, but her brothers will not agree. The brothers take the farmer out and murder him, claiming he has fled with another girl. The daughter finds the body, has her brothers executed, and dies of grief

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1845 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(3995))
KEYWORDS: homicide family
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,South),Scotland(Aber)) US(Ap,MA,MW) Canada(Mar,Newf) Ireland
REFERENCES (17 citations):
Laws M33, "The Constant Farmer's Son"
Greig/Duncan2 221, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (2 fragments, 2 tunes)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Mi 632, "Merchant's Daughter" (1 text)
Broadwood-EnglishTraditionalSongsAndCarols, pp. 28-29, "The Merchant's Daughter or The Constant Farmer's Son (1 text, 1 tune)
OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart1 11, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #115, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 47, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H806, pp. 434-435, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text, 1 tune)
Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday 17, pp. 40-41, 108, 163, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 32, pp. 76-78, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol3, pp. 93-94, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 short text, 1 tune, probably this, although Bush lumps it with two other songs, pp. 89-90, "The Jealous Brothers"; pp. 90-91, "The Jealous Brothers II" which are clearly "The Bramble Briar (The Merchant's Daughter; In Bruton Town)" [Laws M32])
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 141-142, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 118, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 25, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text, 1 tune)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 26, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text)
DT 309. CONSTFRM (JEALBRO5 incorrectly listed as Laws M32)
ADDITIONAL: Harold Nestler, "Songs from the Hudson Valley" (article in New York Folklore Quarterly, Volume V, #2, Summer 1949), pp. 96-97 "The Constant Farmer's Son" (1 text)
Roud #675
RECORDINGS:
Josie Connors, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (on IRTravellers01)
Tom Lenihan, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (on IRClare01)
John Maguire, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (on IRJMaguire01)
James McDermott, "The Constant Farmer's Son" (on IRHardySons)
BROADSIDES:
CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [54 words]: At the end of Tom Lenihan's version on IRClare01, the brothers' bodies are given to doctors "for to practice by" but Mary's thoughts both night and day On her dead love did run; In the madhouse cell poor Mary dwells For her constant farmer's son." See the notes to "A Maid in Bedlam" for other women driven to the asylum. - BS
Last updated in version 6.0
File: LM33

Constant Lover, The

DESCRIPTION: "Although my parents me disdain, For loving of my own dear honey," the singer vows to be faithful. He lists all the things he would disdain were he allowed to woo the girl. He concludes that not even the honeycomb is as sweet as she

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Ord-BothySongsAndBallads)
KEYWORDS: love courting rejection
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, p. 86, "The Constant Lover" (1 text)
Roud #5564
NOTES [83 words]: This song, literary in a rather obnoxious way, mentions both King Caesar's rents (though the Roman Empire did not use landrents as such) and Hero and Leander. The latter story tells of the young man Leander who swam every night to meet his love Hero, but who one night became lost and drowned; when she found his body, she drowned herself. The story comes from an ancient Greek poem, but was more popular in recent times; Marlowe, Byron, and Chapman were among the many who wrote on the theme. - RBW

File: Ord086

Constant Lovers, The [Laws O41]

DESCRIPTION: The sailor promises to marry the girl after he makes one more trip. His mother threatens to disinherit him for this, but he points out that she had been a serving girl herself until his father had raised her. He promises to be faithful to the girl

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1825 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 28(166))

KEYWORDS: sailor travel mother promise

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar,Newf) Ireland Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (11 citations):

- Laws O41, "The Constant Lovers"
- Greig/Duncan6 1093, "Oh, Wait, My Mother, Ere I Tell You This" (1 fragment)
- Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO GI 110, "Sailor and the Farmer's Daughter" (1 text)
- Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #30, The Constant Lovers" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Purslow-TheConstantLovers, pp. 18-19, "The Contant Lovers" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H634, p. 472, "One Penny Portion" (1 text, 1 tune)
- OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 4, "One Penny Portion" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 95, "A Sailor Courted" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 49, "A Sailor Courted" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, pp. 44-45, "A Sailor Courted a Farmer's Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT 595, SAILCOUR
- Roud #993

RECORDINGS:
- John Thomas Powers, "A Sailor Courted a Farmer's Daughter" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
- Monica Rossiter, "The Farmer's Daughter" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

BROADSIDES:

File: L041

Constitution and the Guerriere (II), The

DESCRIPTION: "Britannia's gallant streamers Float proudly o'er the tide; And fairly wave Columbia's stripes...." Dacres and his hip meet Hull's, and signals for battle. But "Vain were the cheers of Britons," The Americans, tried on the "Moorish shore," is victorious

AUTHOR: Words: L. M. Sargent

EARLIEST DATE: 1812 (Boston Gazette, according to Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks)

KEYWORDS: sea war battle ship

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Aug 19, 1812 - the 44-gun Constitution defeats and captures the 38-gun Guerriere

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):

- Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, pp. 144-145, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text, from the Boston Gazette)
- Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, pp. 194-195, "Yankee Thunders"; "Constitution and Guerriere" (2 texts, 1 tune, both copies of War of 1812-era printings)
- Colonial-Dames-AmericanWarSongs, pp. 48-40, "Yankee Thunders" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ye Mariners of England" (tune)

NOTES [174 words]: Although quite possibly older than the traditional "Constitution and Guerriere" (Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks notes at least five publications in newspapers in September 1812, and two songsters in 1814-1815), there do not appear to be any traditional publications of this song -- probably because it's so wordy.
The song mentions three names: Dacres and Hull are the captains of the Guerriere and the Constitution, respectively. "Morris," not otherwise identified, is probably Charles Morris. of whom J. Franklin Jameson, _Dictionary of United States History_ 1492-1895, Puritan Press, 1894, says: Morris, Charles (1784-1856), Commodore, served in the war with Tripoli from 1801 to 1805. He was lieutenant of the "Constitution" in the engagement with the "Guerriere." He was chief of the Ordnance Bureau from 1851 to 1856.
It has several times been stated that the traditional Laws ballad about the Constitution and Guerriere goes back to an 1812 broadside. I suspect, however, that that may be a reference to this piece. - RBW
_Last updated in version 6.1_

File: Gray144

Constitution and the Guerriere, The [Laws A6]

DESCRIPTION: Captain Dacres of the Guerriere expects to defeat the Americans as easily as Britain has defeated the French. Captain [Isaac] Hull's Constitution, however, easily defeats the British ship

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1813 (LOCEphemera rbpe 1130150a)

KEYWORDS: sea war battle ship

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Aug 19, 1812 - the 44-gun Constitution defeats and captures the 38-gun Guerriere

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,MW) Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (19 citations):
Laws A6, "The Constitution and the Guerriere"
Thompson-APioneerSongster 49, "Constitution and Guerriere" (1 text)
Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, pp. 130-132, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text, 1 tune)
Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips, pp. 184-186, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan1 43, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (2 texts)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 291, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text)
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 108-110, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 507-509, "Constitution and Guerriere" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 21, "Yankee Doodle Dandy-O" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfNewEnglandFolklore, pp. 544-546, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-AmericanSeaSongsAndChanteys, pp. 161-164, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 60, "The Constitution and the Guerriere (Hull's Victory)" (1 text)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 30, pp. 54-55, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 75, pp. 97-98, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 159-161, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 286, "The Constitution and Guerriere" (1 text)
DT 362, CONSTGUR*

ADDITIONAL: Alfred M. Williams, _Studies in Folk-Song and Popular Poetry_, Houghton Mifflin, 1894, pp. 21-23, "The Constitution and the Guerriere" (1 text)

Roud #626

RECORDINGS:
Warde Ford, "Proud Dacus and Captain Hull (Captain Hull and proud Dacus)" [fragment] (AFS 4202 A4, 1938; tr.; in AMMEM/Cowell)

BROADSIDES:
LOCEphemera, rbpe 1130150a [some words illegible], "The Constitution and Guerriere" ("We often have been told"), John Lane (New York), 1813; also rbpe 22802500, "The Constitution and Guerriere" ("It ofttimes has been told") LOCSinging, as102370, "Constitution and Guerriere" ("I often have been told, that the British seamen bold"), L. Deming (Boston), no date

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Constitution and the Guerriere (II)" (subject)
cf. "Iron Merrimac" (subject)
cf. "Yankee Tars" (subject)

SAME TUNE:

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Captain Hill
Lo a Frigate

NOTES [1215 words]: Despite the alternate title "Yankee Doodle Dandy-O," this is obviously not to be confused with "Yankee Doodle." The tune is, in fact, related to "The Bonnie Lass of Fyvie-O (Pretty Peggy)"; some copies call it "The Landlady of France"; Williams says that "It is set to a very lively and emphatic air, called, indifferently, The Landlady of France and The Bandy-Legged Officer, from the coarsely comical words which George Colman the younger had written to it." [LOCEphemera rbpe 1130150a and rbpe 22802500 have the tune as "Landlady of France" - BS]

The United States declared war on Britain in 1812 due to British behavior at sea (impressing seamen off American ships -- for which see e.g. "The Chesapeake and the Shannon (I)" [Laws J20] -- and stopping American ships bound for the continent, among other things). Under ordinary circumstances, the Americans could not hope to beat Britain -- but, just as in the Revolutionary War, Britain had other things on its mind. In this case, Napoleon. Most of the British navy had to stay near France to combat the possibility of invasion. As a result, the Americans decided to send out their tiny navy -- only five frigates, though they were high-quality ships, and some smaller vessels -- to protect their merchant ships against such British ships as were operating out of Halifax and Newfoundland. In the end, most of the American fleet would end up bottled up in port. Before that could happen, though, the Constitution went out commerce-raiding (July 12, 1812). It very nearly ended up being a short trip. Despite their preoccupation with France, the British had one significant task force in the Americas, built about the ship of the line H.M.S. Africa (Borneman, p. 81; Hickey, pp. 93-94). That fleet came upon Constitution, but the wind died before they could engage, and the Constitution managed to get away by kedging her anchor plus putting as many men as possible in longboats to row her away (Fitz-Enz, pp. 11-14). Constitution made it to Boston, then set out again (Borneman, p. 84; Fitz-Enz, p. 14, comments on their survival against Africa, "Having outsailed or, to put it bluntly, outrowed the enemy, Captain Hull and his men were looking for a fight" Utt, p. 52, reports that Hull "stayed [in Boston] only a week to bring on board food, water, and new crewmen, shopping out on Sunday, 2 August). He sailed north past Halifax and took a few small prizes (Utt, p. 53), but nothing major until she met the Guerriere (the former French Guerrière) one of the ships from the Africa fleet now operating on her own.

The Guerriere freely went into battle with the Constitution, apparently in the belief that the Americans didn't know how to handle ships. Her Captain Dacres was even more aggressive than most (Fitz-Enz, p. 19). This was a bad move. Although the Constitution had only slightly more guns, it was a much better-built ship, and had been rebuilt just before hostilities had begun, and its weight of broadside was significantly larger; few frigates had long guns (that is, guns capable of firing a ball over long distances) heavier than an 18-pounder, but the Constitution had many 24-pounders -- a weight typical of ships of the line (Pratt, pp. 8, 36). Paine, p. 120, says, the Constitution initially had fully 30 of these ship-killers and 20 32-pounders carronades -- short-range guns designed to kill people more than ships). According to Mahon, p. 57, the Constitution had a broadside of 684 pounds, the British of 556 -- and the American ship had 456 crew to 272 on the British frigate. The British sailors probably were more experienced -- but they simply weren't very numerous.

The American ship-handling was in fact imperfect (Borneman, p. 86), which meant that the two ships actually came in contact for a time (Hull wanted to board, but there wasn't time for a boarding crew to cross; Utt, pp. 57-59). The Guerriere had already lost her mizzen by then, however, and soon after lost her other two masts; eventually she surrendered and proved so badly damaged that she had to be burned (Fitz-Enz, p. 23).

Supposedly Dacres and Hull remained friends for the rest of their lives, because Hull had arranged for his men to rescue Dacres's prize Bible, a family heirloom (Fitz-Enz, p. 23).

The Constitution would win additional battles in the War of 1812, but this was the only victory for skipper Isaac Hull (1773-1843), who afterward requested and was given a shore command (Mahon, p. 59).

The "Captain Hull" of the Warde Ford version is of course the aforementioned Isaac Hull (1773-1843), who commanded the Constitution during the battle. Supposedly he was so enthusiastic when his crew started firing at close range that he started jumping up and down and split his pants (Utt, p. 56).

"Dacus" is James R. Dacres (1788?-1853), the commander of the Guerriere. Lest he be thought incompetent, it should be noted that he obtained command at a very young age (note that he was still in his twenties!), and would later in the war capture the Leo. He was really more of a "test case" for the British belief that their seamanship (so demonstrated at Trafalgar) made them inherently better than the Americans. (Though he would later blame his defeat on the fact that his vessel was an inferior ship captured from the French; Borneman, p. 88).

Dacres was also gallant; ten of his sailors were impressed Americans, and he allowed them not to fight against their home nation even though he was short of crew (Utt, p. 55).

The "super frigates" did cause a significant reaction on the British side; in addition to the Constitution, the ship United States had easily dealt with the Macedonian (Hickey, pp. 94-96). The British questioned whether the American ships could really be called frigates rather than ships of the line (Hickey, p. 98), and caused the British to design heavy frigates of their own and to order their frigates to avoid American frigates if possible (Hickey, pp. 99). They also gave their light frigates orders to stay out of one-on-one engagements (Mahon, p. 59).

It's fortunate for the Americans that their ships were successful, because they weren't cheap. According to Heidler/Heidler, p. 196, the Constitution's "final price of $302,718.84 represented a 260 percent cost overrun from original appropriations."

The victory was very important in American politics. To that point, the Americans had done very badly in the war, being utterly defeated on the Canadian front (see, e.g., "Brave General Brock" [Laws A22] and "The Battle of Queenston Heights"). The Constitution's victory, while of no real significance, is credited with helping President James Madison to re-election in November 1812. It was a very close thing; had Pennsylvania gone for De Witt Clinton, Madison would have been turned out of office, and there was genuine concern that he "would" lose there (Hickey, p. 105). It has several times been stated that this song goes back to an 1812 broadside. At one time I listed 1812 as the earliest date for this song on that basis. But the only prints of that period which I have located are in fact copies of "The Constitution and Guerriere (II)." I have therefore changed the date to the earliest instance which I am sure is this ballad.. - RBW

Bibliography

- Fitz-Enz: Colonel David Fitz-Enz, Hacks, Sycophants, Adventurers, & Heroes: Madison's Commanders in the War of 1812, Taylor, 2012
- Mahon: John K. Mahon, The War of 1812, 1972 (I used the undated Da Capo paperback edition)

Last updated in version 5.0
File: LA06
Constoga on the Jordan Road

DESCRIPTION: "The devil and Goliath were playing seven up, All on account of half a dollar," but the Devil cheats. The Conestoga wagon will take riders to the other side of Jordan. Teamsters cuss but travel the road. The saints are on the other side of Jordan.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1949 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)

KEYWORDS: derivative travel devil humorous

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 249-250, "Constoga on the Jordan Road" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7741

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Jordan Am a Hard Road to Travel" (tune) and references there

File: KPL249

Contented Countryman, The

DESCRIPTION: "Who would like a jovial count-e-rie life? Happy am I with my home and wife." The singer describes how his life "just suits me": They call him poor, but he has the larks and the clear sky and a loving wife. He would not "change for a crown-ed king."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1900 (broadside, Bodleian Firth c.26(85))

KEYWORDS: home work farming nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,South))

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 245, "The Contented Countryman" (1 text, 1 tune)

Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 490, "Out With My Gun in the Morning" (1 text)

Roud #1847

RECORDINGS:

Jimmy Knights, "Out With My Gun in the Morning" (on Voice18)

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Firth c.26(85), "Out With My Gun in the Morning" ("I live a jovial country life"), T. Pearson (Manchester), 1850-1899; also 2806 c.16(112), "Out With My Gun in the Morning"

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Brisk and Bonny Lass (The Brisk and Bonny Lad)" (theme)

cf. "Country Life" (theme)

NOTES [39 words]: Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland lists several other collections of what he says are this song -- but given the generic nature of this song and Kennedy's willingness to lump, I can't bring myself to trust him without seeing them. - RbW

Last updated in version 2.6

File: K245

Conversation with Death (Oh Death)

DESCRIPTION: Death approaches the young person who is "unprepared for eternity." (S)he tries to buy Death off. It doesn't work. Death describes how it takes everyone and snuffs out their lives. The soon-to-be-dead person bids farewell

AUTHOR: almost certainly Lloyd Chandler

EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (recording, Vernon Dalhart)

KEYWORDS: death bargaining dialog Hell

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Randolph 663, "Conversation with Death" (1 text)

DT, OHDEATH*

Roud #4933

RECORDINGS:

Rich Amerson, "Death Have Mercy" (on NFMAla4)

Dock Boggs, "Oh Death" (on Boggs1, BoggsCD1)
Al Craver [pseudonym for Vernon Dalhart], "Conversation with Death" (Columbia 15585-D, 1930; rec. 1928)
Rev. Anderson Johnson, "Death in the Morning" (Glory 4015, rec. 1953; on Babylon)
Charlie Monroe's Boys, "Oh Death" (Bluebird B-8092, 1939)
Charley] Patton & [Bertha] Lee, "Oh Death" (Vocalion 02904, 1935; rec. 1934)
Dock Reed & Vera Hall Ward, "Death Is Awful" (on NFMAla5) (on ReedWard01)
Berzilla Wallin, "Conversation with Death" (on OldLove)

BROADSIDES:

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Death and the Lady" (theme)
cf. "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie" (tune of one version)
cf. "Oh Death (III)" (lyrics)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Death Is Awful

NOTES [167 words]: It is possible that this is a Holy Roller version of "Death and the Lady," but there are enough differences that I decided I had to separate them. There may be a "missing link" out there somewhere, though. - RBW
I think Boggs' version may well be the missing link you seek. A very similar version was recorded by the blues singer Charley Patton. Or it could be Vernon Dalhart's recording, but certainly the Boggs and Patton versions are fairly close to "Death and the Lady." - PJS

John Garst has this to add:
Carl Lindahl seems to have wrapped up Lloyd Chandler's authorship of "Conversation with Death." See http://tinyurl.com/tbdx-LChandler and works cited there.
Chandler's piece has become mixed with "Oh, Death" ("Death Have Mercy," etc.) which seems to be, in some versions, entirely different from "Conversation."
It seems clear to me that "Oh, Death" derives from the breadthside [Bodleian, Harding B 11(885)]. Both "Conversation" and "Oh, Death" differ considerably from "Death and the Lady." - JG

Last updated in version 2.5
File: R663

Convict and the Rose, The

DESCRIPTION: An innocent prisoner will be executed in the morning. He thinks about his sweetheart, who sent him a rose. "When I go at daylight's dawning Against my heart they'll find this rose"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (recording, Blue Sky Boys); in tradition, 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: love execution prison punishment trial death flowers nonballad lover
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #16149
RECORDINGS:
Blue Sky Boys, "The Convict and the Rose" (Bluebird B-8522, 1940)
Joe Sutton, "The Prisoner of Newfoundland" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
File: ML3CoatR

Convict Maid, The

DESCRIPTION: "You lads and lasses all attend to me While I relate my tale of misery; By hopeless love I was once betrayed, And now I am, alas, a convict maid." Her lover had her rob her master's store; now she is sentenced for seven years. She regrets her error
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1964
KEYWORDS: robbery transportation love punishment
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Convict of Clonmel, The

DESCRIPTION: A convict, sentenced to be hanged, thinks of his past, playing at hurley and dancing. "No boy of the village Was ever yet milder." Now his horse is loose, his hurley at home, his ball is played with and the girls are dancing. He will be forgotten.

AUTHOR: English words by J.J. Callanan

EARLIEST DATE: 1845 (Duffy)

KEYWORDS: crime execution prison sports dancing nonballad

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (5 citations):
- ADDITIONAL: Edward Hayes, _The Ballads of Ireland_ (Boston, 1859), Vol I, pp. 342-343, "The Convict of Clonmell"
- Kathleen Hoagland, editor, _One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry_ (New York, 1947), pp. 193-194, "The Convict of Clonmell" (1 text)
- Charles Gavan Duffy, editor, _The Ballad Poetry of Ireland_ (1845), pp. 117-118, "The Convict of Clonmel"

Roud #6993

RECORDINGS:
- Robert Cinnamond, "The Gaol of Clonmel" (on IRRCinnamond01) (fragment; only the first verse)
- Liam Clancy, "The Convict of Clonmel" (on IRLClancy01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Bold Thady Quill" (subject of hurling) and references there

NOTES [269 words]: Clonmel is in County Tipperary, Ireland.

Hayes, after saying simply that he does not know the hero of the song, has a long note explaining the popularity of hurling and defending the game from English detractors.

Hayes's note on this is an exact quote from Duffy, who may in turn be quoting Callanan. Duffy makes Callanan the translator from the Irish. - BS

According to _Granger's Index to Poetry_ (which cites this five times), the poem was not written by Callanan, but rather translated from an (unknown but modern) Irish source; this of course agrees with Duffy.

Hurling was said to be nearly extinct before being revived in 1870. Since it was played in only a few places before that, a good history of the sport might help us make a good guess as to the person referred to here. (Unless of course it's some petty criminal, but it doesn't sound that way.) The leaders of the 1848 rebellion were all spared the gallows, so it must refer to something earlier. Emmet's rebellion, maybe?

There is a certain amount of confusion about this author. Most sources list his name as James Joseph Callanan, but he is also sometimes listed under the name "Jeremiah" (and, yes, it is known that it is the same guy). Most sources agree that he was born in 1795, but his death date seemingly varies; Hoagland and MacDonagh/Robinson give 1829. He wrote some poetry of his own, but is probably best known for his translations from Gaelic. Works of his found in this index.

Convict Song, The

DESCRIPTION: A dying convict wonders if his family still thinks of him. He thinks of his brothers and sisters. He blames himself "for bad company have me done." He leaves a lock of his hair to be sent to his mother. Then he dies.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: prison death brother family mother sister prisoner
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #26266
RECORDINGS:
* Michael Deveraux, "The Convict Song" (on MUNFLA-Leach)

Convict's Child, The

DESCRIPTION: "The convict ship lay near the beach, The morn was drear and dark." One of the convicts is cradling an infant, his only child. The guards tear the baby from him. His wife wants to die but vows to live for the sake of the child

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1844 (Broadside Bodleian Harding B 15(61b), etc.; Anderson estimates his broadside as c. 1790
KEYWORDS: transportation separation father children wife
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Anderson-FarewellToOldEngland, pp. 65-66, "The Convict's Child"
Roud #V351
BROADSIDES:
* Bodleian, Harding B 15(61b), "Convict's Child," E. M. A. Hodges (London), 1844-1845; also

Convict's Return, The

DESCRIPTION: "It's just ten long years ago they dragged me from my wife...." Convicted of murder, the prisoner plans an escape, only to find his family and his strength gone. He is reprieved when his innocence is established; he happily goes home

AUTHOR: Leonard Nelson
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (recording, Jack Mahoney)
KEYWORDS: trial punishment reprieve freedom
FOUND IN: Australia US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 68-69, "The Convict's Return" (1 text, 1 tune)
RECORDINGS:
* Jack Mahoney, "The Convict's Return" (Columbia 15712-D, 1932; rec. 1931)

File: AnFa065, MA068
Coo-Coo (Peacock Song)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)
KEYWORDS: bird nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 237, "Coo-Coo (Peacock Song)" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #29314
NOTES [27 words]: Said to be the acceptance song sung by the peacock after it was elected to be queen of the birds. (One might point out, however, that peacocks are male...). - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: San237

Coochie Coo
DESCRIPTION: "I'll tell you about my love, She's my darling turtle dove, Mary Lize is her name,
But she gets there just the same. Oh, coochie, coochie, coochie coo... Cheeks so red and eyes so blue," "I met her at a ten cent show"; they wed; he dislikes mother-in-law
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric), with one copy from a manuscript dated 1907
KEYWORDS: love courting humorous mother beauty
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 87, "Coochie Coo" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #11321
NOTES [29 words]: Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric wonders if this is derived from Monroe H.
Rosenfeld's "Kutchy, Kutchy, Coo!" The phrase might be, but it appears to me that the song is different. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: Brne087

Cook and Shearer
DESCRIPTION: "By the wide Waimakariri, In the province of the plains... Lived the lady of this idyll," a very odd-looking station-cook. She has peculiar taste in food and a bad temper. "Murrumbidgee Bill" beats her in a shearing contest and so wins her hand
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1889 (Sydney Bulletin, according to Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)
KEYWORDS: cook courting racing sheep fight humorous
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, pp. 120-122, "Cook and Shearer" (1 text)
File: BaRo120

Cook and the Ladle, The
DESCRIPTION: "As I was a-walking up the stair Who did I meet but the cook and the ladle? ...
Tadle eedle ah lil dum dadie Tadle eedle ah lil dum dee"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: cook
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1781, "The Cook and the Ladle" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #12990
NOTES [55 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan8 fragment. - BS
I have a strange feeling that this is about George I and his mistress Ehrengard Melusine von der Schulenburg, known as "The Maypole" because she was so tall and skinny. "The Ladle" would also have been a good description. But this is most idle of speculations. - RBW

Cook of the Mess

DESCRIPTION: "I'm cook of the mess [i.e. not the cook but the rating who takes food to his mess], I'm full of zest, And for the lads I do my best, Then up on deck I do the rest, I'm having a busy day" (because he cares for food and dishes on top of his other duties)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)

KEYWORDS: cook food navy work

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 46, "Cook of the Mess" (1 short text)

File: Tawn029

Cook, The

DESCRIPTION: "Our cook is the king of the bully-beef Navy, He's cooked it with soup, he's cooked it with gravy... He's cooked it standing, he's cooked it lying, And if he had wings, he'd cook it flying... Our bloody cook is the king of all HM ships"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)

KEYWORDS: cook navy food nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 47, "The Cook" (1 text)

File: Tawn030

Cookery Maid, The

DESCRIPTION: "There was a young maiden to cooking school went, Even the cookery maid." Her plum puddings serve as rat poison, her griddle cakes are doormats. Finally she tries to make a pie. A burglar breaks in, tries to eat it, and is found dead the next day

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1988 (List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana)

KEYWORDS: cook thief theft death humorous food

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 221-223, "The Cookery Maid" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #3771

NOTES [39 words]: This sounds like a novelty song from an early hillbilly recording, but I haven't located it. It might even be funny if it weren't so insulting.

Roud for some reason lumps this with "The Bachelor's Lament (II)," but I don't see it. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: List221

Cooks of Torbay, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come all ye young fellows wherever ye be I'll sing ye a verse on the cooks of Torbay." The sealing ship Ellen goes up the Gulf. The captain gives the cook grief for only cooking two meals for the day. The insulted cook has his son make the meal

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)

KEYWORDS: hunting sea ship humorous cook

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
NOTES [227 words]: Torbay is about seven miles north of St John's. - BS
There aren't many dating hints in this song, but the ship's name Ellen is perhaps slightly indicative. There was no sealing steamer named Ellen (Chafe, pp. 98-105, has a comprehensive list). This implies a sailing ship, and almost certainly a date before 1900; indeed, a date before 1880 is likely. On the other hand, the list of ships in the index of Ryan (see "ships, sailing" in the Index) doesn't include an Ellen either. That's not proof -- there were so many sailing sealers that the records surely aren't complete. It does seem odd that the song is about a little-known ship, though.
The one other thing that occurs to me is that "Ellen" could be a mis-hearing of "Bella," as in the Bellaventure, which went to the ice 1909-1915 (Chafe, p. 98). This would explain all the little hints in the song that it is late. We know that the Bellaventure was also known as the "Belle" (see "Captains and Ships"; also "The Newfoundland Disaster (I)"). I frankly think that more likely than that this is a song about a forgotten ship. If so, it might be possible to figure out the year this song refers to by examining the Bellaventure's crew lists and the years she went to "the Gulf" (the St. Lawrence, mentioned in the second stanza) as opposed to "the Front" (the area northeast of Newfoundland). - RBW

Bibliography

Last updated in version 4.5
File: GrMa148

Coolie Is Nobody, A

DESCRIPTION: Alternate lines are a chorus, "Blow bully blow boy/blow bully boy blow." The shantyman sings "A coolie is nobody." "I never jumped your mommy ... They call me bully hangman ... I never hanged your mommy."

AUTHOR: unknown

KEYWORDS: sex bawdy shanty

FOUND IN: West Indies (Nevis)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Abrahams-DeepTheWaterShallowTheShore, pp. 52-53, "A Coolie Is Nobody" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [114 words]: In the West Indies a "coolie" is an East Indian. Abraham's comment -- "This song does not reflect a real social situation on Nevis, since there were only three East Indian families, none of whom were ever discussed in such stereotyped terms" -- suggests that the song comes from some other West Indian island. See, for example, references to "coolies" in "Fan Mi Solja Man" and "Nobody's Business" from Jamaica. Beckwith and Roberts have this in the Jamaican stone-passing game song, "Dicky Saloman": "Kill de Coolie man dead" [Martha Warren Beckwith and Helen Roberts, Folk-Games of Jamaica (Poughkeepsie: Vassar College, 1922 ("Digitized by Internet Archive")) #19.e , pp. 23-24]. - BS

Last updated in version 4.0
File: AWIS052

Coon from Tennessee (Till I Die)

DESCRIPTION: "There's a coon from/in/down Tennessee, Just as cute as he can be; He never goes to church...." Told to reform, he replies, "I'm gonna live anyhow till I die." No matter what they do to him or say about him, he will enjoy life

AUTHOR: unknown
Coon Song (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "As I walked out last Saturday night... I saw an old coon wag his tail. "Said I, Old coon, how're you today? Said he, Hurray for Henry Clay." "But since I heard of Henry Clay, the Tyler grippe has passed away. "I'll cast my vote for Henry Clay."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee), but surely dating to the election of 1844

KEYWORDS: political animal nonballad

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1824 - Clay's first campaign for President (in the first election where popular votes are recorded, Andrew Jackson is the clear winner in the voting, but no one wins in the Electoral College. John Quincy Adams is elected president by the House of Representatives, due mostly to backing from Clay)
- 1832 - Clay's second campaign for President. He is defeated by Andrew Jackson
- 1840 - election of the Whig William Henry Harrison, who dies shortly after his inauguration and is succeeded by Vice President John Tyler
- 1844 - Clay's third campaign for President, producing both "'The Mill-Boy of the Slashes," with its erroneous reference to Van Buren (who failed to earn the Democratic nomination) and "Old Hal o' the West." Clay is defeated by James K. Polk.
- 1852 - Death of Henry Clay

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 49, pp. 85-86, "The Coon Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11021

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Henry Clay Songs" (subject) and notes there

NOTES [683 words]: Wolfe, in editing Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee, was unable to locate a songster version of this, but it seems highly likely that it dates from the election of 1844. This is based on the reference to the "Tyler grippe." The Whigs in 1840 had decided not to nominate Henry Clay as their presidential candidate; although he had run as early as 1824 (DeGregorio, p. 97), he was, by 1840, a two-time loser. They instead chose William Henry Harrison, who had won fame (not entirely deserved) during the War of 1812 -- a result which infuriated Clay so much that he went on a drinking-and-cursing spree (Schlesinger, p. 290). In a typical ticket-balancing move, the Whigs chose John Tyler as Harrison's running mate. Harrison ran against incumbent Martin Van Buren, Andrew Jackson's hand-picked successor who had easily won in 1836 (DeGregorio, pp. 128-129).

Harrison was "born a Virginia aristocrat, [but he] watched without protest his transmutation into a plain man of the people, while his spacious house in Ohio was reshaped into a humble log cabin" (Schlesinger, p. 292).

There followed the "log cabin and hard cider" or "Tippicanoe and Tyler Too" campaign of 1840 -- for many years regarded as the most irrelevant and most vapid of all time. (Jameson, p. 294, declares it was "without precedent or successor. This was, of course, before Willie Horton and the campaigns of the late twentieth century.) The country was still suffering the after-effects of the Panic of 1837 (DeGregorio, p. 143), and incumbent Martin van Buren was widely disliked (although the Panic, insofar as it could be blamed on anyone, was the fault of Andrew Jackson). Harrison won easily, taking 53% of the popular vote and 234 electoral votes to Martin van Buren's 60..."
But Harrison was an old man (born 1773, making him the oldest man elected president to that time; DeGregorio, p. 145). And he was a windbag. He gave a long inaugural address in a cold rain, came down with pneumonia, and died on April 4, 1841. This left an interesting problem. Although the constitution provides for the Vice President to succeed if the President dies, it hadn't happened before. There were some attempts to shunt Tyler aside -- or at least have him declared "acting President" rather than the real thing (DeGregorio, p. 156). He finally became President -- but Vice Presidents had never been expected to succeed, and many of them were troublesome characters (Aaron Burr, anyone?). Tyler wasn't that bad -- but he had been a Democrat (Jameson, p. 667), and as President, he supported many Democratic causes. The furious Whigs regarded him as a traitor and never even considered re-nominating him. After leaving office, he was "Quite literally a man without a party" (DeGregorio, p. 158). When he died in 1862, it was as a member of the Confederate House of Representatives (DeGregorio, p. 158).

So both sides had to pick a candidate for the election of 1844. There was significant support among Democrats for ex-president Van Buren, who also had an excellent "machine" -- but also many enemies. And an ambitious ex-governor of Tennessee was campaigning hard to be Vice President (Siegenthaler, p. 74). This was James K. Polk. On the first presidential convention ballot, Van Buren led, followed by Lewis Cass; Polk did not earn a single vote (Siegenthaler, p. 83). Indeed, he didn't earn a vote until the eighth ballot (Siegenthaler, p. 84). But he had prepared his groundwork carefully, and when the delegates saw that Van Buren and Cass were in a deadlock, the turned en masse to Polk on the ninth ballot. He became the first "dark horse" nominee in Presidential history (DeGregorio, p. 167; Schlesinger, pp. 436-437; Siegenthaler, p. 84). The Whigs again nominated Clay (their pattern, one might sarcastically say, was to alternate between Clay and successful generals, and with Harrison dead and the Mexican War not yet fought, they didn't have any generals available). Despite this song, Polk won -- and started the Mexican War that produced the last successful Whig candidate, Zachary Taylor. - RBW

Bibliography

- Schlesinger: Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., The Age of Jackson, Little Brown, 1945

Coon-Can Game, The [Laws I4]

DESCRIPTION: The singer is so disturbed by his woman's unfaithfulness that he cannot even play cards. He takes a train, sees the woman, and shoots her. He is arrested, convicted, and left to lament his fate

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)

KEYWORDS: homicide train trial prison crime robbery prisoner

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (12 citations):
- Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 87-89, "The Coon-Can Game" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Smith-SouthCarolinaBallads, pp. 48-49, "The Game of Coon-Can" (1 text)
- Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 308-310, "As I Set Down to Play Tin-Can" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 310-311, "Coon Can (Poor Boy)" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Jackson-WakeUpDeadMan, pp. 61-66, "Poor Boy" (3 texts, 1 tune, but the "C" text is a different "Poor Boy" song)
- Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, pp. 116-118, "The Penitentiary Blues" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 179-181, "Po' Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Finger-FrontierBallads, pp. 75-77, "The Coon-Can Game" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 237-238, "Poor Boy in Jail" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 70, "Poor Boy" (1 text, which appears to be mostly this song but with an ending partly derived from "The Maid Freed from the Gallows")
DT 688, POORBOY
Roud #3263
RECORDINGS:
Dock Boggs, "Poor Boy in Jail" (on Boggs2, BoggsCD1)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [91 words]: This song should not be confused with the blues "Poor Boy, or Poor Boy Long Ways from Home"; the two songs are unrelated. Also, although [the version in the Folksinger's Wordbook] has picked up a pair of verses from "The Maid Freed from the Gallows", it's otherwise a completely separate song, and one unique in my experience. - PJS
The Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks also has verses from "The Maid Freed...", so this is evidently a common mixture. The tune, according to Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, has been repeatedly borrowed. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.4
File: LI04

Coonjine (Coonshine)

DESCRIPTION: "Coonjine (or "coonshine"), ladies, coonjine, Coonjine on the floor. O, my papa don't 'low me to coonshine, And my me don't 'low me to try. Git up in the morning 'fore day, Coonjine on teh sly."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1919 (Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5)
KEYWORDS: mother father
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 738, "Coonshine" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #17469
NOTES [36 words]: The current description is based on the Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 fragment. The "coonjine" is a dance, whereas "coonshine" is nothing that I know of, so I have adopted the "coonjine" title. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.1
File: BrS5738

Cooper Milton

DESCRIPTION: "It was on one Thursday morning, a while before noon, When John came in from work and said, 'You've met your doom.'" John kills his wife Flossie and her lover Cooper Milton. John is sentenced to 99 years in Nashville
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Burt-AmericanMurderBallads)
KEYWORDS: homicide infidelity husband wife children
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Burt-AmericanMurderBallads, p. 44, "(Cooper Milton)" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Jesse James (I)" [Laws E1] (lyrics)
NOTES [42 words]: This seems almost an anthology of killing songs, e.g. it refers to "Jesse James" in the line "Flossie leaves eight children to mourn for her life." But Burt-AmericanMurderBallads seems to think it's historical, though she cites no background facts. - RBW
File: Burt044

Cooper o' Dundee, The

DESCRIPTION: "Ye coopers and hoopers attend to my ditty, I sing o' a coope wha dwelt in Dundee." "This young man was baith am'rous and witty"; all the women ask him to repair their barrells. His business is large. He "sprung" a woman's "end-hoopin" and is banished

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1986 (Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
KEYWORDS: humorous wordplay sex exile punishment
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 29, "The Cooper o' Dundee" (1 text, tune referenced)
File: Gath029

Coortin' to Begin, The

DESCRIPTION: One night, the singer met a girl "I wished she were my bride." She goes to bed with him in an inn. He describes her beauty. The next day he leaves "some way to win his bread." Lasses, court "some sturdy boy ... that'll learn you The courtin to begin"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan4)
KEYWORDS: sex beauty separation
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 817, "The Coortin' to Begin" (5 texts, 3 tunes)
Roud #8212
NOTES [58 words]: The outcome (marriage?) is not clear (or am I just being obtuse). Bell Robertson, Greig's source, says that when she was a girl the Ross girls "could sing it all," though others knew only the verse to avoid old men in spite of love or money, and choose some beardless boy "that'll learn you The courtin to begin." Perhaps the outcome is irrelevant. - BS

Last updated in version 2.5
File: Gr4817

Copper and Silver

DESCRIPTION: A mother advises her son: "save just a copper each week." "Your copper my grow unto silver Your silver will grow unto gold"; "Don't never be bashful in taking a wife"; "Keep your head above water" for "when you have money your friends will come 'round"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: money nonballad gold friend mother wife youth
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #23891
RECORDINGS:
Frank Knox, "Copper and Silver" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
File: ML3CoASi

Copper River Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "Once in old Seattle I went upon a stroll, I spied an advertisement upon an urban pole." The singer joins an Alaska company. It is the worst job he ever had. The labor is hard, the setting primitive, and the mosquitos dreadful

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1969 (Roseland, Alaska Sourdough Ballads and Folk Songs, according to Cohen)
KEYWORDS: work hardtimes travel bug
FOUND IN: US(NW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 677, "The Copper River Song" (1 text)
File: CAFS2677

Copshawholm Fair

DESCRIPTION: In April people come from mountain and glen to Copshawholm Fair. There are pedlars, jugglers, and exotic foods. Hiring negotiations are described. When hiring is over there's fiddling and dancing, drinking and fighting.

AUTHOR: David Anderson EARLIEST DATE: 1868 (Yates, Musical Traditions site _Voice of the People suite_ "Notes - Volume 5" - 25.8.02)
KEYWORDS: fight work dancing drink food music nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North),Scotland(Bord))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 97-99, "Coupshawholme Fair" (1 text, 1 tune)
McMorland/Scott-HerdLaddieOTheGlen, pp. 34-36, 149, "Copshawholm Fair" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9139
RECORDINGS:
Bob Forrester, "Copshawholm Fair" (on Voice05)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "The Hiring Fairs of Ulster" (subject)
 cf. "The Feeing Time (I)" (subject) and references there cf. "The Wild Hills o' Wannie" (tune, according to Yates, Musical Traditions site _Voice of the People suite_ "Notes - Volume 5" - 25.8.02)
NOTES [12 words]: Hall, notes to Voice05: "'Copshawholm Fair' ... was last held in 1912." - BS

Last updated in version 3.2
File: RcCpswFr

Copy of Verses on Jefferys the Seaman, A

DESCRIPTION: "You captains and commanders both by land and sea, Oh do not be hard-hearted...." "Jefferys the seaman... Was left upon a dismal rock by his captain." He is stranded and miserable for eight days before being rescued. Now he is back in England

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Firth)
KEYWORDS: sailor abandonment rescue
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 84, "A Copy of Verses on Jefferys the Seaman" (1 text)
Roud #V8561
File: PaSe084

Corbitt's Barkentine

DESCRIPTION: On Aug. 30, 1883, the Corbitt begins her voyage. One of the crew moans about being assigned to such a vessel. The captain makes sure she sails with all possible speed.
Passing many ships, she reaches the Indies, Boston, and Nova Scotia

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1937
KEYWORDS: ship travel
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
c. 1875-1890 - Career of the fast triangle-trader "George E. Corbitt"
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 189-191, "Corbitt's Barkentine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4086
NOTES [8 words]: This song is item dD43 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW
File: Doe189

Cordial Advice to All Rash Young Men

DESCRIPTION: "You merchant men of Billingsgate, I wonder how you can thrive, You bargain with men for six months, and pay them but for five." Having suffered in many voyages, the singer declares, "I'll no more to Greenland sail, no, no, no."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1708 (Bodleian broadside Douce Ballads 1(37b))
KEYWORDS: ship travel hardtimes commerce
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 34, "Cordial Advice" (1 text)
Roud #V2112
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Douce Ballads 1(37b), "Cordial advice: to all rash young men, who think to advance their
File: PaSe034

Corinna, Corinna

DESCRIPTION: "Corinna, Corinna, where you been so long? (x2) Ain't had no lovin' since you've been gone." "Corinna, Corinna, where'd you stay last night? Your shoes ain't buttoned...." "I love Corinna, tell the world I do, And I hope someday babe, you'll love me too."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (recording, Blind Lemon Jefferson)
KEYWORDS: courting infidelity loneliness
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 312, "Corinna" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 76, "Corinna, Corinna" (1 text)
Roud #10030
RECORDINGS:
Alabama Washboard Stompers, "Corrine, Corrina" (Vocalion 1630, 1931)
Arthur (Brother-in-Law) Armstrong, "Corrina" (AAFS 3987 B1)
Ashley and Abernathy, "Corrina, Corrina" (Banner 32427/Oriole 8129/Romeo 5129/Perfect 12800, 1931; on GoingDown)
Blue Ridge Mountain Entertainers [Clarence Ashley, Gwen Foster, Clrence Greene, Walt Davis],
"Corrina, Corrina" (rec. 1931; on Ashley04)
Tom Bell, "Corinna" (AAFS 4068 B2)
Milton Brown & his Musical Brownies, "Where You Been So Long, Corrine?" (Bluebird
B-5808/Montgomery Ward M-4755, 1935; rec. 1934)
Cliff Bruner's Texas Wanderers, "Corrine Corrina" (Decca 5350, 1937)
Matt Caldwell, "Corinna" (AAFS 1421 B2)
Cab Calloway, "Corrine, Corrina" (Perfect 15551, 1932)
Bo Carter [pseud. for Bo Chatmon] [& Charlie McCoy], "Corinne, Corrina" (Brunswick 7080, 1929; Vocalion 02701, 1934)
Clint Howard et al, "Corrina, Corrina" (on Ashley03)
Mississippi John Hurt, "Corrina, Corrina" (on MJHurt04)
Frankie "Half Pint" Jaxon, "Corinna Blues" (Vocalion 1424, 1929)
Blind Lemon Jefferson, "Corrina Blues" (Paramount 12367, 1926; on Jefferson01, JeffersonCD01)
[as is typical of blues, this is not "pure" Corinna, but the last verse clearly comes from this song]
Bascom Lamar Lunsford, "Corinna" (AAFS 1797 A2)
Jonesie & James Mack & Nick Robinson, "Corinna" (AAFS 1047 A3)
Wingy Manone & his orchestra, "Corinne Corrina (Where You Been So Long)" (Bluebird
B-10289, 1939/Mongomery Ward M-8355, 1940)
Bob Nichols & Hugh Cross, "Corinne, Corrina" (Columbia 15480-D, 1929)
Leo Soileau and his Aces "Corrhe, Corrhe" (Decca 5101, 1935)
Lottie Stankey & Frank Starnes, "Corinna" (AAFS 3317 A1)
Tampa Red, "Corrine Blues" (RCA Victor 20-2432, 1947 -- presumably a reissue)
Taylor & Anderson, "Corrine, Corrine" (Supertone 9646, 1930)
Sonny Terry [pseud., Saunders Terrell], "Women's Blues (Corrina)" (on Terry01)
Saul Tippins, "Corinna" (AAFS 705 B)
Joe Turner, "Corrine Corrina" (Atlantic 1088, 1956)
Turner Brothers, "Connene, Corrina" [sic?] (Radio Artists 203, n.d.)
Mr. & Mrs. Crockett Ward, Fields & Frances Ward, "Corinna" (AAFS 4083 A3)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Alberta Blues" (derived song)
NOTES [65 words]: Lomax reports that this "also occurs as Alberta or Roberta." If so, they are not the songs usually found under these names [i.e. "Alberta, Let Your Hair Hang Low"]. - PJS, RBW
It should be noted that many do think them related, and Roud appears to lump them. But the form is simply too different in my book. The "Alberta Blues," however, is derived from this piece; see the notes there. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: LoF312

Cork Leg, The
DESCRIPTION: "A tale I will tell, without any flam -- In Holland dwelt Mynheer von Clam." Clam, wealthy and self-indulgent, kicks a begger and breaks his leg. A surgeon amputates. Clam has a replacement made -- which has a mind of its own and will not stop running
AUTHOR: Henry Glassford Bell
EARLIEST DATE: before 1839 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(3925))
KEYWORDS: humorous wordplay injury doctor technology
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland) Ireland
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 332-334, "The Cork Leg" (1 text)
Hayward-UlsterSongsAndBalladsOfTheTownAndCountry, pp. 47-48, "The Cork Leg" (1 text)
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, pp. 144-145, "The Cork Leg" (1 text, 1 tune)
New-Comic-Songster, p. 59, "The Cork Leg" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, CORKLEG*
Roud #4376
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(3925), "The Cork Leg" ("A tale I tell now without any flam"), J. Catnach (London), 1813-1838 : also Harding B 25(419), Firth c.26(295) [final lines illegible], Harding B 11(4289), Harding B 11(2604), Harding B 11(2605), "The Cork Leg"
Murray, Mu23-y4:039, "The Cork Leg," unknown, 19C
SAME TUNE:
Oil on the Brain ("A fellow came from the city of York," by B. C. L.) (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 114)
The Greenback Yankee Medley ("From my home in the hub of the old Bay State, My trip to New York pray just hear me relate") (Foner, p. 136)
The Row at the Waikato ("A panic's been raging up in town, News from the Waikato has just come down, That Te Kooti, a warrior of renown, Is going to do the settlers brown") (by Charles R. Thatcher) (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 146; for Te Kooti, see "Te Kooti")
NOTES [26 words]: I'm not sure of the source of the attribution to Henry Glassford Bell. New-Comic-Songster credits it to "J. Blewitt," but this might be the arrangement. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: FVS332

Cork Men and New York Men, The
DESCRIPTION: "Of the gallant Cork men Mixed with New York men. I'm sure their equal can never be found." They "boldly enter" (Ireland?) with arms, and John Bull pursues them, but are not caught. Their deeds are to be celebrated
AUTHOR: T. D. Sullivan (1827-1914)
EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (Galvin)
KEYWORDS: Ireland ship
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The British Man-of-War" (subject of certain texts)
NOTES [234 words]: It would appear (though the evidence is murky) that this refers to one of the less-disastrous exploits of the Fenians (who are most noted for their failed attempts to free Ireland by absurd methods such as invading Canada).
In 1867, at the time of the Fenian Rising in Ireland (for the context of which see, among other things, "James Stephens, the Gallant Fenian Boy" and "The Smashing of the Van (I)"), a call went out for ships to run guns from the United States to the rebels. Eventually the ship the Jacknell Packet, a brig of 200 tons, was acquired for the purpose (see Robert Kee, The Bold Fenian Men, being Volume II of The Green Flag, p. 43). The Fenians managed to come up with about 5000 firearms, three cannon, and 38 officers with commissions from the "Irish Republic."

On April 21, 1867, the ship's name was changed to Erin's Hope. She eventually reached Sligo Bay -- where the Fenian officer Richard O'Sullivan Burke (for whom see "Burke's Dream" [Laws J16]) told them there was no one to accept the weapons. The ship then blundered around Ireland looking for someone who wanted the guns. It never found such a place. A few of the men eventually went ashore, where many of them were arrested. The ship itself made it home -- but it accomplished nothing at all.

Sullivan is the author of a number of Irish patriotic poems, of which "God Save Ireland" is probably the best-known. - RBW

File: PGa089

Cork's Good Humoured Faces

DESCRIPTION: "For good-humoured faces, Cork once beat all places" but politics has soured them. With Olden's shaving soap "lathering chops, ill-blood stops" Peter of Russia smoothed his subjects' manners by having them shave. Even the devil was improved by a shave.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1839 (Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)

KEYWORDS: commerce humorous nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 165-167, "Cork's Good Humoured Faces" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Ballinafad" (tune, according to Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)

NOTES [114 words]: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland: "A specimen of the ingenious manner in which a witty manufacturer in Cork of an excellent shaving soap, and other articles, that really require no puffing, contrives to attract attention to his inventions." - BS

There were three Tsars Peter of Russia: Peter I "the Great" (16772-1725; co-tsar from 1682; sole tsar from 1696); his grandson Peter II (1715-1730; tsar from 1727); and another grandson or Peter I, Peter III (1728-1762; tsar briefly in 1762 before being eposed and murdered by his wife Catherine II "the Great"). Given the poor records of Peter II and Peter III, we must assume Peter I is meant -- the more so since he was a westernizer. - RBW

File: CrPS165

Cork's Own Town (I)

DESCRIPTION: "They may rail at the city where first I was born, But it's there they've the whisky, and butter and pork..." Cork's localities and specialties are described: Fishamble's food, Blackpool's leather, groves of Blarney's groves, Glenmire's shops ....

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1825 (_Cork Southern Reporter_, according to Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)

KEYWORDS: commerce drink food nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 158-164, "Cork's Own Town" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "They May Rail at This Life" (tune, according to Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)

cf. "Cork's Own Town (II)" (subject and some line fragments)

NOTES [211 words]: There's no question that "Cork's Own Town (I)" and "Cork's Own Town (II)" are related. They share a few slightly different lines. For example: "Cork's Own Town (I)," "Och! Fishamble's the Eden for you, love, and me!" is the last line of the first verse and "Cork is the Eden..." for the other verses; "Cork's Own Town (II)," "Aarrh! Cork is the Eden for you, love, and me!" is the last line of each verse.

"Cork's Own Town (I)," "If you want to behold the sublime and the beauteous, Put your toes in your brogues and see sweet Blarney Lane"; "Cork's Own Town (II)," "If you want to behold the sublime and the foolish Fix your toes in your brogues an[sic] walk down the Parade"
Nevertheless, while both catalog the Cork neighborhoods and attributes, they say different things about different neighborhoods. While neither is very serious "Cork's Own Town (II)" verges on parody.

Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland: "The Editor has no doubt that the authorship may be correctly assigned to the writer of 'O! Blarney Castle, my Darling', and the subsequent song entitled 'Darling Neddeen.' But, at 'O! Blarney Castle, my Darling' he 'has no doubt' that its author also wrote 'Saint Patrick's Arrival.' See that song if you are interested in Croker's speculations there." - BS

File: CrPS158

Cork's Own Town (II)

DESCRIPTION: Cork excels London, Paris, Milan, and Constantinople. Cork's localities and specialties are described: Victoria Park's trees, Fishamble-lane's food, Paradise for "the saint and the sinner," .... We have "the Polis to keep us from drinkin' and fightin"'

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 19C (broadside, Bodleian 2806 c.8(8))

KEYWORDS: commerce drink food derivative nonballad

FOUND IN:

Roud #V26513

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, 2806 c.8(8), "A new and favourite song on 'Cork's own town'" ("They may talk about London, Paris and Milan[sic] ..."), Haly (Cork), 19C

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Cork's Own Town (I)" (subject and some line fragments)

NOTES [61 words]: Broadside Bodleian 2806 c.8(8) is the basis for the description. One line should be useful in dating the text: "May the names of our Council and Mayor shine resplendent, In the Portable Gas of the new company." "Portable Gas" companies condensed oil gas into liquid; for example, London Portable Gas Company was chartered in 1827 (source: Privy Council Office site) - BS

Last updated in version 5.1

File: BdCoOwT2

Corn Pone

DESCRIPTION: "Corn pone, fat meat, All I ever gets to eat. Better, better than I ever gets at home." The prisoner describes clothes, ben, shackles -- all described as better than what he has at home. He tells his girl, "Chain gang good enough for me."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1953

KEYWORDS: chaingang prison work poverty hardtimes nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, pp. 111-112, "Corn Pone" (1 text)

File: Grnw111

Corn Rigs (Rigs o' Barley)

DESCRIPTION: "It fell upon a Lammas night, When corn rigs are bonie, Beneath the moon's unclouded light I held awa to Annie." The singer declares he will never forget that night, and describes how the two embraced

AUTHOR: Robert Burns

EARLIEST DATE: before 1784 (cf. Kinsley, Burns, Complete Poems & Songs)

KEYWORDS: courting nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

DT, CORNRIGS*

Roud #1024

BROADSIDES:

NLScotland, L.C.1270(001), "Amang the Rigs o' Barley," unknown, c. 1845
Corn Shucking Song
DESCRIPTION: "Cowboy on middle the island, ho, meleety, ho! (x2)" "Missus eat the green persimmon." "Mouth all drawed up in a pucker." "Stayed so till she went to supper."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1855 (Putnam's Monthly)
KEYWORDS: work nonballad food slave
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, p. 325, "Corn Shucking Song" (1 text)
File: DarNS325

Corn-Shucking Song (I)
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, de fus news ye know de day'll be a-breakin', Heydo! Ho O! Up 'n down de banjo, And de fire be a-burnin' an de ash cake a-bakin'." The hen (?) will crow, the boss will call everyone to work; the negro is advised to get to work
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: work food
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 202, "Corn-Shucking Song" (1 text)
File: Br3202

Corn-Shucking Song (II)
DESCRIPTION: "Come out here and shuck this corn, Oh! Oh! Oh!), Come out here and shuck this corn..." "Biggest Pile seen since I was born." "Massa's niggers am slick and fat, Shine just like a beaver had." "Jones's... am lean and poor...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1919 (Curtis-Burlin-NegroFolkSongs-TheHamptonSeries)
KEYWORDS: work hardtimes food
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Curtis-Burlin-NegroFolkSongs-TheHamptonSeries (III), pp. 111-119, "Corn-Shuckin' Song" (1 text with variants, 1 tune with variants)
Roud #16464
File: CuBu111

Corn-Stalk Fiddle
DESCRIPTION: "Corn-stalk fiddle and (buckeye/pea-vine/shoe-string) bow, Did you ever see the Devil, Uncle Joe." Or "...I'll stick by her wherever I go." Or "...I'll come back and be your beau."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1966 (Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2)
KEYWORDS: music devil floatingverses courting
FOUND IN: US(Ap,So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, p. 84, "Up Popped Joe" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Abernethy-SinginTexas, p. 61, "(Corn-stalk fiddle and a buckeye bow)" (1 short text); also pp. 83-84, "Little Brown Jug" (1 text, 1 tune that are clearly "Little Brown Jug," with supplementary dance verses that appear to derive from "Cotton-Eyed Joe" or "Corn-Stalk Fiddle" or some other very unstable text)
Roud #12439
Cornfield Holler
DESCRIPTION: "Sometimes I think my woman, she too sweet to die. Den sometimes I think she ought to be buried alive."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934
KEYWORDS: love nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, p. 191, "Cornfield Holler" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #15579
File: LxA191

Cornish Christmas Carol, A
DESCRIPTION: "Come, let us go in a childish way Wth our voices praising Christ today. To him just born, in the manger lay, We will raise our thanks to him for aye. Priase and honor be to Thee, Thou God's child from heavn' above, Halleluia (x3) we sing of love."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin)
KEYWORDS: religious Jesus Christmas
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 66, "A Cornish Christmas Carol" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #15665
NOTES [123 words]: The version in Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, which seems to be the only collection from tradition, gives no indication of why this is called a Cornish carol -- except for the word "Hallelujah," which is assimilated Hebrew, every word is in English, and there are no references to Cornwall. Informant John Persons apparently came from Cornwall, but there is nothing explicitly Cornish about his song. Since the song was collected in Wisconsin, I'm tempted to say that, in this case, "Cornish" should be understood at "place where they grow a lot of corn." The reference to going "in a childish way" is probably an allusion to Matthew 18:3 and parallels, where listeners are told that they must become like little children to be saved. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.6
File: Pet066

Cornish Girls
DESCRIPTION: "Come take a walk through Cornwall and there you will find The sweetest and the neatest girls, the best of womankind." They are pretty, decent, modest, slender-waisted. The singer wishes the Cornish girls success; none in England can match them
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1966 (Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall)
KEYWORDS: beauty nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall, p. 49, "Cornish Girls" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3319
File: Gund049A

Cornish Midsummer Bonfire Song
DESCRIPTION: "The bonny month of June is crowned With the sweet scarlet rose." The singer sees "fair maids" playing on the green. He asks them to "freely yield your charms." "All on the pleasant dewy mead They shared each other's charms" by the light of the moon.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1846 (Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland)
Corntime Pain

DESCRIPTION: Everyone knows, Corntime Pain is made to play scare crow.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1954 (Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville)

KEYWORDS: punishment farming nonballad Caribbean

FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville, p. 59, "Corntime Pain" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [92 words]: Elder-Charlottville: "A Tobago banter song about Corntime Pain who was made to play the role of bwa-bwa (bois-bois) i.e. scarecrow. The song is very Tobagonian and has not been heard anywhere in Trinidad. There seem to be hidden meanings in the reference to cheering for the wagon," Elder's reference to the wagon is to the chorus. "Cheers for da wagon" (3x) "Say Corntime Pain are bwa bwa"; the chorus may just be another U.S. import: a modification of the chorus to "Wait for the Wagon." The tune of the chorus is not too different from that song. - BS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: ElCh059

Corporal Casey

DESCRIPTION: The singer was happy but uneasy at home until enlisted by Corporal Casey. He treated the singer roughly but was soon killed in battle. "Thinks I, you are quiet, and I shall be aisy, So eight years I fought without Corporal Casey."

AUTHOR: George Colman?

EARLIEST DATE: before 1825 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 25(422))

KEYWORDS: army battle recruiting death humorous

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 21, "Corporal Casey" (1 text)

DT, (IRISHWSH*)

Roud #V15364

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 25(422), "Corporal Casey", Wm. Armstrong (Liverpool), 1820-1824; also Harding B 11(3683), Harding B 15(62b), Harding B 15(63a), "Corporal Casey"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Irish Washerwoman" (tune)
ciaf. "The Railroad Corral" (tune and references for the "Irish Washerwoman" tune)

SAME TUNE:
10th Regiment Song (Winstock-SongsAndMusicOfTheRedcoats, pp. 66-67)

File: 0Con021

Corporal, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, the General with his epaulets, A-leadin' the parade, The Colonel and the Adjutant... None of 'em look so fine As the newly-minted Corporal, A-comin' down the line." No dignitaries can compare with the corporal taking "The first rung on the ladder."

AUTHOR: unknown
Corpus Christi Carol, The

DESCRIPTION: We find ourselves looking into a bower in a high hall. In the bower lies a sorely wounded knight surrounded by odd symbols -- dogs licking the blood, a stone on which "Corpus Christi" is written, etc.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1537 (Richard Hill MS., Balliol Coll. Oxf. 354, folio 165b)

KEYWORDS: injury religious carol knight MiddleEnglish

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,North),Scotland) US(SW)

REFERENCES (26 citations):
- Greene-TheEarlyEnglishCarols, #322, pp. 221-322, "(no title)" (4 texts)
- Sidgwick/Chambers-EarlyEnglishLyrics XXXI, p. 148, "(no title)" (1 text)
- Hirsh-MedievalLyric-MiddleEnglishLyricsBalladsCarols #24, "(Lully, lulley, lully, lully)"; "(Down in yon forest)" (2 texts)
- Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #12, "Down In Yon Forest" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Rickert-AncientEnglishChristmasCarols, pp. 193-195, "Lully, lulley, lulley, lulley"; "All Bells in Paradise" (2 texts)
- Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 691-692, "Over Yonder's a Park (Corpus Christi)" (2 texts)
- Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 100, "The Falcon" (1 text)
- Dearmer/VaughnWilliams/Shaw-OxfordBookOfCarols 61, "Down in Yon Forest" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 38, "Corpus Christi" (1 text)
- Stevick-OneHundredMiddleEnglishLyrics 99, "(Lully, Lullay, Lully, Lullay)" (1 text)
- Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart2 41, "The Falcon" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Morgan-MedievalBallads-ChivalryRomanceAndEverydayLife, p. 125, "The Corpus Christi Carol" (1 text)
- Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 42-43, "All Bells in Paradise (Corpus Chisti)" (1 text)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 382, "Down In Yon Forest" (1 text)
- Brown/Robbins-IndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse, #1132
- DigitalIndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse #1820

ADDITIONAL: Roman Dyboski, _Songs, Carols, and Other Miscellaneous Poems from the Balliol Ms. 354, Richard Hill's Commonplace Book_, Kegan Paul, 1907 (there are now multiple print-on-demand reprints), #86, p. 103, "Lully, lulley, lulley, lulley, The fawcon hath born my mak away" (1 text)
- Richard Greene, editor, _A Selection of English Carols_, Clarendon Medieval and Tudor Series, Oxford/Clarendon Press, 1962, #67, pp. 128-130, "(Lully, lully, lully, lully), "(Over yonder's a park, which is newly begun), " "Down in yon forest there stands a hall), " "The heron flew east, the heron flew west)" (4 texts)
- Karin Boklund-Lagopolou, _I have a yong suster: Popular song and Middle English lyric_, Four Courts Press, 2002, pp. 227-228, "(Corpus Christi Carol)" (1 text)
- Karen Saupe, editor, _Middle English Marian Lyrics_, TEAMS (Consortium for the Teaching of the Middle Ages), Medieval Institute Publications, Western Michigan University, 1998, #82, pp. 155-156, "(Lulley, lulley, lully, lully)" (1 text)
- Walter de la Mare, _Come Hither_ , revised edition, 1928; #480, "Lully, Lulley" (1 text)
- Bob Stewart, _Where Is Saint George? Pagan Imagery in English Folksong_, revised edition, Blandford, 1988, pp. 122-123, "Down In Yon Forest" (2 texts, although the formatting implies that it is only one)
MANUSCRIPT: {MSRichardHill}, The Richard Hill Manuscript, Oxford, Balliol College MS. 354, folio 165
ST L691 (Full)
Roud #1523

NOTES [1950 words]: According to Greene, p. 230, "This carol has been subject to more discussion than any other in the whole canon." Stevens, p. 114, notes an odd similarity to the medieval romance of Yonec by Chretien de Troyes, observing "[The] heart... of Yonec [is that] which seems to survive in a well-loved folk-carol, the Corpus Christi carol. Among the shared images and motifs are the falcon, who 'bears away' someone else's 'make' (mate, sweetheart); the flight suggested by verse 1; the richly hung hall; the knight lying on his death-bed with bleeding wounds, the maiden weeping at his side...." The words 'Corpus Christi' have given commentators rich matter for speculation. If the carol has anything directly to do with Yonec, they could be a garbled remembrance of the 'sacramental test' which the bird-lover has to take." Stevens does not argue for actual dependence; he simply offers the comparison to show the richness of the folkloric roots of this song. "Corpus Christi" is Latin for "(the) body of Christ."
The feast of Corpus Christi (not necessarily connected with this ballad) occurs on Thursday of the week after Whitsuntide. According to Davies, p. 197, it is "The observance on the Thursday after Trinity Sunday of a commemoration of and thanksgiving for the eucharist. It was established by Rome in the thirteenth century, following the advocacy of Juliana of Liege, and became universal in the West in the fourteenth century, the service of the day being compiled by St. Thomas Aquinas who also wrote some of the hymns associated with the feast."
Davies adds, "The name of the feast, Corpus Christi, is perhaps too an unconscious reflection of the era in which it originated, for in the elevations of the eucharist and in the extra-liturgical cultus of the sacrament, it was always the bread (the body) that received much the greater emphasis, probably for the entirely practical reason that this is what could actually be held up for people to gaze upon [although I have also heard it explained on the basis of the cost of wine].... Its title in the modern Roman rite, Corpus et Sanguis, the body and blood, can probably be seen as a corrective to this."
Happe, p. 19, offers this history: "[Corpus Christi] was established at the Council of Vienne in 1311, and by 1318 it was widespread in Europe and Great Britain.... It occurred on the Thursday after Trinity Sunday, and quickly attracted the attention of craft guilds, as well as stimulating the establishment of guilds of Corpus Christi. It is notable that the Feast had no specific reference to the calendar of the church, unlike other Feasts which which by tradition had their own liturgical offices with quotations from scripture, appropriate music, and dramatic episodes."
Happe adds, "The fact that the Feast occurred in June meant that the day was long and it no doubt gave opportunity for elaboration of the public ceremonies, and there seems to have been something very deliberate about the establishment of the Feast which may have led to the concentration of dramatic episodes on that day."
Benet, p. 244, offers a slightly different dating, referring to the creation rather than the church-wide adoption of the holiday: "It was instituted by Urban IV in 1264, and was the regular time for the performance of religious dramas by the trade guilds. In England many of the Corpus Christi plays of York, Coventry, and Chester are still extant." This raises at least the possibility that the song derives from one of these pageants -- although it is hard to guess which one.

Most of the symbols in this song seem to come from pagan (or, at best, late Christian) myths, but in John 19:34 we read that, when Jesus's side was pierced, "immediately [there came out] water and blood." (Compare also 1 John 5:6-8.)

Many other speculations about this song have been proposed. One source (cited anonymously on p. 425 of Trapp), apparently following Greene (p. 230), argues that it has to do with Henry VIII abandoning Catherine of Aragon for Anne Boleyn (Saute, p. 267, quotes this interpretation although she does not stress it; Hirsch, p. 82, mentions it but considers it "unconvincing"). Parker, pp. 63-64, accepts and extends this idea, saying that the song is Catherine's lament and Anne Boleyn (who used a white falcon badge) the falcon, although he thinks the woman's "mak" is the eucharist (as opposed to it being Henry himself in Greene's version) and the hall is the Church. Parker, p. 64, observes that Hill was a good Catholic, who in 1535 had condemned Henry's assumption of supreme power over the English church; Parker suggests that the song is a code for
This might explain the chorus, but the verses? It seems more than somewhat farfetched, given that the latest dated entry in the Hill Manuscript are from 1536 and the songs thought to be much older. Henry VIII, after all, didn't get involved with Anne until the 1530s (Anne's daughter the future Elizabeth I was born in 1533, and Catherine of Aragon died 1536).

Another theory connects the song with the grail legend; this is particularly associated with the work of Annie Gilchrist (summarized by Fowler, p. 59). This makes somewhat more sense; the wounded knight is then the Fisher King, whose wounds would not heal until a hunter for the grail came. That, perhaps, ties into Celtic legend. In this hypothesis, the hall is the Grail Castle, and the weeping woman is not Mary (as in some of the later texts) or one of the women at the foot of the cross but the servant of the grail, and the stone by the bed is to hold the Eucharist. This would also explain the "purple and pall" reference in the song. Purple is of course the royal color; pall is a cover for objects in a church -- but specifically of the velvet or damask which covers the coffin of a dead man (Davies, p. 423). Gilchrist's idea that the hound licking the blood is Joseph of Arimathea strikes me as less convincing. Yet another theory connects it with the "body and blood" of Christ in the Eucharist; Stevens, p. 115, cites the liturgical words "Corpus domini aportot" -- "he brought our Lord's body." Fowler, pp. 60-61, thinks that instead the song is based on the common medieval image of Christ as a knight, and suggests the fine hall, the fine bed, and the hound come from the paraphernalia of knighthood: the "water and blood" is a reference to the crucifixion, and the "lullay" chorus with the birth of Jesus. In this, the maid by the bed is indeed the Virgin Mary (but Fowler claims the evidence of the later versions as support for this, even though it is not explicit in the earliest). He suggests on p. 62, "the Pietà in 'Corpus Christi' is envisioned prophetically by the Virgin, and the [lullay] refrain reminds us that all this takes place while she is rocking the child." He also suggests a link with "The Three Ravens [Child #26]" that I frankly don't comprehend.

The weakness of Fowler's hypothesis is that the ornate images of chivalric knights that he cites... come from sources like Malory, which also gave us the grail legend; most actual knights didn't live lives anything like that! So I don't think we can really separate the legends Fowler consults from those Gilchrist cites -- to me, the knight really does seem like the Fisher King, but the rest could be hauled in from anywhere. Also, the Bible does not portray Mary as a prophetess, although she meets prophets in Luke's account.

What seems pretty clear is that most of those who preserved the song over the years didn't know what it was originally about. Gilchrist (cf. Greene, p. 231) thought that the Hill MS. version, the oldest extant ("Lully, lulley, lully, lulley, The fawcon hath born my mak away. He bare hym up, he bare hym down...") originated in Glastonbury, although the Glastonbury thorn (see below) is not mentioned in that version. Greene adds a reference to "The Elfin Knight" [Child #2] and its mention of a thorn "that never bloomed blossom since [Adam/Christ/he] was born."

Unlike the Hill MS., many later versions speak of a thorn at the foot of the bed. This is presumably the Glastonbury Thorn, which has the peculiar property of blooming around Christmas; legend has it that it was descended from a sprout of Joseph of Arimathea's staff (for the folklore of its origin, see Briggs, p. 232). Hole, p. 52, summarizes the legend that Philip the Apostle had sent twelve missionaries under Joseph of Arimathea to Britain, and that they settled in Glastonbury; Lawton, pp. xxxix-xl, offers evidence that this legend was adopted some time between 1240 and the late fourteenth century). However, Lacy, p. 243, says that the first mention of the Glastonbury Thorn is from 1716. Thus it is likely that the omission of the thorn from the early texts is because the thorn was not then known.

Another alternative is that some of the material in this song has drifted in from other carols. Greene's #38, pp. 86-87, "ALLELuya, allelulia, Deo Patrie sit gloria," is a song primarily about the coming of the Magi, but there are substantial similarities to this song. Three verses begin, "Ther ys a blossom sprong of a thorn, To save mankynd, that was forlorne"; "There sprong a well at Mari's fote, That seemed this world to bote"; "From that well ther strake a streme, Owt of Egypt into Bedlam," Greene, p. 206, compares the blossom and thorn to the "Rod of Jesse" and "Root of Jesse."

This seems to be the hypothesis of Boklund-Lagopolou, pp. 230-231, regarding the Hill manuscript version: The original carol was secular but in general fit an allegorical religious pattern, so some anonymous writer added the "Corpus Christi" verse. The defect with this hypothesis is that it doesn't really explain the additional religious references in other texts.

The mention of the heron in the song is rather surprising. Biblical references to what is believed to be the heron call it an unclean bird (e.g. Leviticus 11:19). Folklore about herons seems to be limited (online sources say this is because it was often confused with cranes and pelicans), but what there is is not very positive. And in the Middle Ages it was considered a not very inspiring creature: "At a banquet [the exiled French noble] Robert [of Artois] goaded Edward [III] into rebellion [against the King of France] by presenting him publicly with a stuffed heron, a cowardly bird which, Robert sneered, 'always fled before hawks and, like the English, will not fight for its rights'" (Neillands, p. 75). On the other hand, Tresider, p. 92, mentions that it was associated with inquisitiveness, and a positive symbol in the Far East (hardly relevant to medieval England); the one thing that seems slightly relevant is that the heron was sometimes a symbol of "rising above the storms of life, as the heron surmounts rainclouds."

A facsimile of the Richard Hill manuscript is now available at the Balliol Library manuscripts resource at the Bodleian web site; go to http://tinyurl.com/tbdx-BalliolMSS and scroll down to MS. 354. This song is on folio 165. According to Greene, p. 22, this is one of only three carols found in manuscript before 1550 to have been found in oral tradition in modern times, the three being "The Boar's Head Carol," "The Corpus Christi Carol," and the obscure song "Christ Is Born of Maiden Fair." Of these, "Christ Is Born..." is, by Greene's admission, a vulgarization, and "The Corpus Christi Carol" has also wandered far; "The Boar's Head Carol" is almost unchanged, probably because it was regularly referred back to earlier sources. - RBW

Bibliography

- Benet: William Rose Benet, editor, The Reader's Encyclopedia, first edition, 1948 (I use the four-volume Crowell edition but usually check it against the single volume fourth edition edited by Bruce Murphy and published 1996 by Harper-Collins, but this entry was deleted)
- Boklund-Lagopolou: Karin Boklund-Lagopolou, I have a yong suster: Popular song and Middle English lyric, Four Courts Press, 2002
- Briggs: Katherine Briggs, British Folktales (originally published in 1970 as A Dictionary of British Folk-Tales), revised 1977 (I use the 1977 Pantheon paperback edition)
- Lawton: David A. Lawton, editor, Joseph of Arimathea (an edition of the Middle English romance of that name), Garland Medieval Texts, #5, 1983
- Neillands: Robin Neillands, The Hundred Years War, Routledge, 1990
- Saupe: Karen Saupe, editor, Middle English Marian Lyrics, TEAMS (Consortium for the Teaching of the Middle Ages), Medieval Institute Publications, Western Michigan University, 1998
- Stevens: John Stevens, Medieval Romance: Themes and Approaches, 1973 (I use the 1974 Norton paperback edition)

Last updated in version 5.3
File: L691
Corrido al Mineral de Bisbee

DESCRIPTION: Spanish: "Por cast un siglo aqui en Bisbee trabandose." After almost a century of operation, the mines of Bisbee close in June of 1975. The singer recalls the work done by fathers and grandfathers in Bisbee. The future of the residents is grim

AUTHOR: Victoria Garcia
EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (Bisbee Review, according to Cohen)
KEYWORDS: mining hardtimes foreignlanguage

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 540, "Corrido al Mineral de Bisbee" (1 text)

File: CAFS2540

Corrido de Joaquin Murieta

DESCRIPTION: Spanish. "Yo no soy americano pero comprendo el ingles." The singer tells of being orphaned. His brother and his wife were killed. He left home to search for wealth. Falsely accused, he fights back against oppressors. He admits to being Joaquin Murieta

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (recording, Sanchez and Linares, according to Cohen)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage outlaw homicide family wife police travel

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 645-646, "Corrido de Joaquin Murrieta" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Song of Joaquin (Wakken)" (subject)

NOTES [31 words]: For background on Joaquin Murieta (the generally-accepted spelling; Cohen spells it "Murrieta" in his song title but not in the text), see the notes to "The Song of Joaquin (Wakken)." - RBW

Last updated in version 2.7

File: CAFS2645

Corrido de la Quemazon de Bisbee, El

DESCRIPTION: Spanish, but the original perhaps lost. In 1907, half the town of Bisbee catches fire. Most residents of the segregated town flee madly. The water fails, so there is no way to control the blaze. The singer sings the song over a glass of beer

AUTHOR: Francisco Chavez
EARLIEST DATE: 1966 (Miller, Arizona, the Grand Canyon State, according to Cohen)
KEYWORDS: fire mining disaster drink foreignlanguage

REFERENCES:
1907 - the first Bisbee fire

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 536-527, "El Corrido de la Quemazon de Bisbe" (1 translation of an excerpt of the Spanish text)

File: CAFS2536

Corrido de Nogales, El

DESCRIPTION: Spanish: "Valientes nogalenses Hicieron su deber." The people of Nogales stand up to the invading gringos and fight. The singer accuses the American Blacks of attacking them. The singer praises the heroes of Nogales

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1999 (Cohen)
KEYWORDS: battle Mexico

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Corrosion Has Set In

DESCRIPTION: "Corrosion has set in, Dahn below, The plates are getting thin, Dahn below, There's a leak in the fore peak, And how those bulkheads creak, I hope we'll last the week, Dahn below." About the ship's weary state and the carpenter's work to keep her afloat

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy); probably in existence when HMS Cheviot was decommissioned in the early 1960s

KEYWORDS: ship sailor derivative work

FOUND IN: Britain

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, pp. 35-36, "Dahn Below" (1 text, tune referenced)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Dahn Below" (tune)

NOTES [403 words]: Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy lists the tune of this as "Dahn Below," but I've never heard of such a thing. It is a good fit for "Over There (I - The Praties They Grow Small)."

It apparently was known to the sailors of H.M.S. Cheviot on her last voyage. According to Whitley: M. J. Whitley, Destroyers of World War II: An International Encyclopedia, Naval Institute Press, 1988, pp. 136-138, Cheviot was a member of the Ch/Co/Cr class of destroyers, most of them laid down in 1943. Cheviot herself was laid down April 27, 1943, launched May 2, 1944, commissioned December 11, 1945, and sent to the breakers October 22, 1961. She obviously did not serve in World War II, and based on online mentions, it appears she never engaged in combat after the war either.

The Ch class were slightly modified versions of the Z class (the main updates being a different but not necessarily better gun and the elimination of half their torpedo tubes to let them carry more electronics), themselves ultimately dating back to the "S" class. This was a not-especially-good design that had been produced en masse because Britain needed destroyers to fight the U-boats. Of course, by the time Cheviot was finished, there were no more U-boats, and the ships were clearly out of date.

The designs of that period were not especially good; according to Richard Worth, Fleets of World War II, Da Capo, 2001, p. 113, "Structural collapse precipitated 41% of the losses among Britain's smaller warships [in World War II], most of them sinking in less than 10 minutes" -- a harsh indictment of the design and construction of the destroyers Britain was cranking out. Plus mass-produced ships tended to be somewhat imperfect just because they were built so quickly. The "Ch" class wasn't finished quickly, because of parts shortages, but the actual construction was often hasty. So, although I do not know, I would not be at all surprised to learn that the Cheviot was somewhat problematic when young, and aged fast. And the British had far too many cranky old ships after the war, which made it harder to maintain them, even though many were paid off as soon as the war was over (even ships built in 1939 were being sold off before 1950). The problems this song describes are characteristic of all old ships, but surely especially true of a mass-produced outdated design that had little service role in the 1950s Royal Navy. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: Tawn019

Corsair's Bride, The

DESCRIPTION: "For thee I left a father's arms, and many a kindred smile, Gay scenes that had a thousand charms, for this lone sea-girt isle" because the singer is "a ruthless Corsair's bride." She didn't dream what she was getting into, and is left weeping

AUTHOR: Music: Leander Zerbini

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1832 (sheet music, according to Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs)

KEYWORDS: pirate marriage love home exile

FOUND IN:
Corsair's Farewell, The

DESCRIPTION: "Goodbye, my loe, goodbye! Our bark is in the bay. And we must gain Isle Idra, Before blush of day. Nay! Weep not though I go." The singer asks for one kiss before going. He promises, "My blood red flag ere long Shall meet thy gaze again."

AUTHOR: George Linley (1798-1865) (source: Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs)
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1839 (source: Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs)
KEYWORDS: love separation pirate

Corunna's Lone Shore (Wandering Nellie)

DESCRIPTION: "Do you weed for the woes of poor wandering Nellie? I love you for that, but I love now no more. All I had long ago lies entomb'd with my Billy, Whose grave rises green on Corunna's lone shore." She describes his battle death, wishing to see his ghost

AUTHOR: Andrew Sharpe (1780-1815) (source: Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong)
EARLIEST DATE: 1843 (Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong)
KEYWORDS: love death soldier battle burial ghost separation mourning

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 16, 1809 - Battle of Corunna. Marshal Soult of France, who has pursued Sir John Moore's British force some 400 km. through the winter, at last attack the British force. The outnumbered English repel the French and are able to evacuate their army, but Moore and many others are slain

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 81-83, "Corunna's Lone Shore" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, pp. 320-321, "Corunna's Lone Shore" (1 text)
Roud #13114
RECORDINGS:
Denis McGrath, "Colonna's Lone Shore" (on ITMA/CapeShoreNL)

Corydon and Phoebe

DESCRIPTION: Corydon (Colin) asks Phoebe (Phyllis) why she flees. She is afraid for her reputation. He says they're not alone; she says she will die a virgin. He replies that he'd come to ask for her hand in marriage, but will seek another. She accepts his hand

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1755 (_The New Ballads sung by Mr Lowe and Miss Stevenson at Vauxhall_, included by Kidson)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Corydon (Colin) asks Phoebe (Phyllis) why she makes haste ahead of his pursuit. She replies that she's scarcely sixteen and afraid for her reputation. He points out that they're not alone, so her reputation's safe; she replies that flattery or no, she will die a virgin. He replies that he'd come to ask for her hand in marriage, but since she has slighted him, he's giving up and will seek another. She bids him stay, accepts his hand, and promises "the girl you thought cruel will always prove kind"

KEYWORDS: age hardheartedness courting love marriage virginity dialog lover

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,North,South)) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 125, "Colin and Phoebe" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 73-77, "Colin and Phoebe" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
Peacock, pp. 510-511, "Bold Escallion and Phoebe" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, C&PHOEBE
Roud #512
RECORDINGS:
Freeman Bennett, "Bold Escallion and Phoebe" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
Harry Cox, "Colin and Phoebe" (on HCox01) (on FSBFTX13)
Pop Maynard, "Colin and Phoebe" (on Voice06)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 28(77), "Colin and Phoebe" ("Well met, dearest Phoebe, O why in such haste"), W. Armstrong (Liverpool), 1820-1824; also Harding B 16(56a), Firth c.18(208), Firth c.18(209), Harding B 11(1182), Firth b.26(168), 2806 c.17(74), Harding B 15(48b), Firth b.25(75), Harding B 11(1376), Harding B 11(640), Harding B 11(639), Johnson Ballads 15, "Colin and Phoebe"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "Pastoral Elegy" (theme)
 cf. "Come Write Me Down (The Wedding Song)" (plot)
SAME TUNE:
Collinet & Phebe (Revolutionary War version) (Rabson-SongbookOfTheAmericanRevolution, pp. 40-41)
NOTES [285 words]: She offers the "I will never marry" ploy; he counters with the "I'll marry someone else" gambit. Check and mate.
No question that this is a piece with its origin in minstrelsy and "rural romance" broadsides. But Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland cites over half-a-dozen collections from folk tradition, including the indexed version by Harry Cox, and I say that more than qualifies it as a folk song. - PJS
It should be noted that the mere presence of characters with these approximate names does not make a poem this song. Nicolas Breton, for instance, published "Phyllida and Coridon" in 1591 in The Honourable Entertainment given to the Queen's Majesty in Progress at Elvetham); it's the same plot, but told in the third person: "In the merry month of May, In a morn by break of day, Forth I walked by the wood side Whenas May was in his pride. There I spied all alone Phillida and Coridon."
Similarly, John Chalkhill published a "Coridon's Song" ("Oh, the sweet contentment The countryman doth find. High trolollie Lolly loe, That quiet contemplation Possesseth all my mind: Then care away, And wend along with me") around 1600.
Again, Dyer published "Corydon to his Phyllis" ("Alas, my heart! mine eye hath wronged thee, Presumptuous eye, to gaze on Phyllis' face... Poor Corydon, the nymph, whose eye doth move thee, Doth love to draw, but is not drawn to love thee") in The Phoenix Nest (1593).
In England's Helicon (1600) we have "Phyllida's Love-Call to her Corydon, and His Replying" (A dialog: Phyllida "Corydon, arise, my Corydon! Titan shineth clear." Corydon: "Who is it that calleth Corydon? Who is it that I hear?") this piece has no author, but has a contemporary musical setting.
- RBW
Last updated in version 4.4
File: K125

Cosher Bailey's Engine

DESCRIPTION: "Cosher Bailey had an engine, It was always wanting and mending." Tall tales of Bailey, the engine (bought second-hand, and capable of "four miles an hour"), his sister, brother, daughter, education, and death
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Cambrian Minstrelsy, Volume 1)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Railroader Cosher Bailey's locomotive is described, along with his sister, brother, daughter, and escapades. At least half of the verses are double entendre, in a cleaned-up sort of way -- e.g. "Cosher Bailey had a daughter/Who did things she shouldn't oughta/She was quite beyond the pale/But over that we'll draw a veil." He dies (maybe) and is refused entrance into Hell
KEYWORDS: train humorous family funeral death sex railroading bawdy Devil
FOUND IN: Britain(Wales)
REFERENCES (4 citations):

MacColl-ShuttleAndCage-IndustrialFolkBallads, pp. 17-18, "Cosher Bailey's engine" (1 text (edited), 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 31, "Cosher Bailey's Engine" (1 text)
DT, COSHERB*

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Mochyn Du (The Black Pig)" (tune)
cf. "Was You Ever See?" (tune, structure)

NOTES [219 words]: I suspect there are verses out there considerably more bawdy than these. - PJS

As well as some of the "blatantly obviously cleaned up" variety -- witness this from the Digital Tradition:

Cosher Bailey's brother Matthew
Had a job at cleaning statues
But when he was cleaning Venus
He slipped and broke his elbow.

In fact, the notes in MacColl-ShuttleAndCage-IndustrialFolkBallads, derived from A. L. Lloyd, admit that there are many ribald verses.

According to those notes, Bailey was an ironmaster who in 1846 built the Taff Vale railroad.

Legend has it that he drove the first train on the line and got stuck in a tunnel -- obviously something that invited some really dirty verses. Bailey is said to have died in 1872, by which time railroads had obviously been entirely vindicated.

It was John Patrick who pointed out to me the citation of this song in the 1893 volume of _Cambrian Minstrelsy_. Under the tune "Lili Lon" ("Bright Lily") there is a reference to a "comic song" sung to the same tune, which begins

Crawsay Bailey had an imjin,
It was puffin' and a-blowing',
And according to its power,
It was go five miles an hour.
Was you ever see, (x3)
Such a thing before!

It would appear that even this 1893 version had undergone some folk processing (or damage), so the song is presumably even older. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.3
File: FSWB031A

Costly Crosshaul, The

DESCRIPTION: "When a poet's fancy takes its flight Into naught but romance bold," loggers will pay tricks. Greenhorn Billy Dean is ordered into town to pick up a "crosshaul." He is kept in town for months seeking the fictitious equipment -- and billed for the time

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps)
KEYWORDS: logger trick commerce money
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 42, "The Costly Crosshaul" (1 text)
Roud #18189

NOTES [22 words]: This was apparently intended to be funny, but I'd call it just plain mean. To be sure, I think practical jokes quite un-humorous. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2
File: BeLo042

Cott'n-Dance Song

DESCRIPTION: "O Massa said from firs' to las', 'Way down in the cott'n-fiel', Eighteen inches an' a half, 'Way down in... Two stalks an' all de grass, 'Way down..." The work is hard. The singer gambles with Jim. There are possums in the cotton pile

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1919 (Curtis-Burlin-NegroFolkSongs-TheHamptonSeries)

KEYWORDS: work food gambling slave hardtimes

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Curtis-Burlin-NegroFolkSongs-TheHamptonSeries (III), pp. 98-106, "Cott'n-Dance Song" (1 text with variants, 1 tune with variants)
Roud #17446
File: CuBu098

Cottage By the Sea, The

DESCRIPTION: he singer thinks about his "joyful days" as a child, gathering shells below the white waves. He recalls his mother's (unspecified) warning "as she took me on her knee." He hopes to return "when life's long day is closing"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1995 (IROConway01); before 1886 (broadside, Bodleian, Bod21918 2806 c.16(212))

KEYWORDS: age homesickness warning home return separation travel sea nonballad youth

FOUND IN: Ireland

Roud #1743

RECORDINGS:
Ollie Conway, "The Cottage By the Sea" (on IROConway01)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Bod21918 2806 c.16(212), "The Cottage by the Sea" ("Childhood's days now pass before me"), H.P. Such (London), 1863-1885; also Bod1096 Firth b.25(227), Bod6576 Firth b.25(228), Bod2800 Harding B 15(64a), Bod12826 Harding B 11(2897), Bod13908 Harding B11(707), Bod7338 Firth b.26(466), Bod8794 2806 c.13(75), Bod14675 Harding B 15(63b), Bod15066 Harding B 16(60c), "(The) Cottage by the Sea"

NOTES [19 words]: The Conway version on IROConway01, but not the broadsides, says of the singer, now "in some foreign land I roam." - BS

Last updated in version 4.4

File: RcCotSea

Cottage Well-Thatched with Straw, The

DESCRIPTION: An old farmer envies no one "while I have home-brewed, brown bread, and a cottage well-thatched with straw." His father built it with money he earned. The farmer turns no one away from his door before giving him brown bread and home-brewed beer.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames)

KEYWORDS: home drink food farming nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 154-155, "The Cottage Well-Thatched with Straw" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 203)
Roud #1270

File: WT154

Cottage With the Horseshoe o'er the Door

DESCRIPTION: The singer will soon return to his old home, "the cottage with the horse-shoe o'er the door." His father is dead and buried and his mother weeps there alone, but he thinks of the happy days of his youth.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1988 (McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen)

KEYWORDS: emigration return death Ireland nonballad father mother

FOUND IN: Ireland
Cotton Fields Back Home

DESCRIPTION: "When I was a little bitty baby My mama would rock me in the cradle In them cotton fields back home." "Oh when them cotton bolls get rotten, you can't pick very much cotton." Tales of cotton-picking

AUTHOR: Huddie Leadbetter (Lead Belly)

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (recorded by Lead Belly)

KEYWORDS: worker nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE) Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (3 citations):

DT, COTTNFLD

ADDITIONAL: Moses Asch and Alan Lomax, Editors, _The Leadbelly Songbook_, Oak, 1962, p. 39, "Cotton Fields" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11662

RECORDINGS:
Pink Anderson and son (Little Pink), "Old Cotton Fields of Home" (on USChartersHeroes)

NOTES [96 words]: There isn't much evidence that this song became traditional, but Cox-FolkMusicInANewfoundlandOutport, p. 185, says that Harry Mercer of Newfoundland knew it and sang it, and there is the NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal version, so I have very tentatively indexed it. The NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal version is interesting. It was collected in 1963, so after the Lead Belly recording, and the wording appears identical. Would a black couple in North Carolina have been able to memorize the Lead Belly recording, or is it possible that the opening part of the song predates him? - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: DTcottonf

Cotton Mill Colic

DESCRIPTION: "I'm a-gonna starve, ev'rybody will, You can't make a livin' in a cotton mill." The singer talks of the poor wages and hard conditions. He tells how people offer merchandise on easy terms, then repossess it when he can't pay. He works without ever resting

AUTHOR: David McCann

EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (recorded by David McCann)

KEYWORDS: work hardtimes poverty warning humorous

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 292-292, "Cotton Mill Colic" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 148, "Cotton Mill Colic" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfSouthernFolklore, p. 731, "Cotton Mill Colic" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, CTNCOMIC

Roud #6688

RECORDINGS:
Lester (The Highway Man) [pseud. for Lester "Pete" Bivins], "Cotton Mill Blues" (Decca 5559, 1938)
David McCarn, "Cotton Mill Colic" (Victor V-40274, 1930)
Mike Seeger, "Cotton Mill Colic" (on MSeeger02)
Pete Seeger, "Cotton Mill Colic" (on PeteSeeger13, AmHist1)
Joe Sharp, "Cotton Mill Colic" (AFS 1629, 1939)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [226 words]: A reading of the bitter lyrics of this song may make you wonder why I have tagged it "humorous." But Doug deNatale and Glenn Hinson, in their article, "The Southern Textile Song Tradition Reconsidered," published in Archie Green, editor, Songs about Work: Essays in Occupational Culture for Richard A. Reuss, Folklore Institute, Indiana University, 1993, p. 83, assure us that the song was satiric, and was funny to the cotton workers who were author David McCann's co-workers. The title came about because, in the worker's jargon, "to colic" was to complain about something.

Interestingly, there was apparently an attempt to suppress this song during the 1930-1931 Danville strike, according to deNatale and Hinson, p. 89. The recording had just come out. A store owner in the area stocked it, and apparently it sold briskly. Then the mill owners started talking to store owners and media, and it apparently became much harder to find and hear. DeNatale and Hinson, p. 90, also note that McCann, although not fired from his mill job, would later be barred from the building after he gave up the job.

Years later, a social history project tried to test the extent to which mill workers actually knew these mill songs. They found that only two were really part of the tradition: "Cotton Mill Colic" and "Weave Room Blues" (deNatale and Hinson, p. 95). - RBW

Last updated in version 3.5
File: LoF148

Cotton Mill Song, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer takes his love for a walk. "She said she loved me dearly and to me she would prove true." "Well now we are to marry for she has named the day ... we'll bring the children up like us to work in the Cotton Mill" if her parents will have him.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1989 (Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong 11, "The Cotton Mill Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #16945
NOTES [43 words]: Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong: "The mill referred to in this song is probably the Springfield Cotton Mill built by Stevenson and Company in 1805, one of the earliest large-scale mills in Ulster and the last cotton spinning mill in Ireland when it closed in 1919." - BS
File: Leyd011

Cotton Needs Pickin'

DESCRIPTION: "Cotton needs pickin' so bad (x3), I'm gonna pick all over this world." The field worker describes how he contracted with the boss to raise the cotton, but now the boss is finding excuses not to pay him

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1918
KEYWORDS: work slave poverty money trick
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 281, "Cotton Needs Pickin'" (1 text, 1 tune)
Curtis-Burlin-NegroFolkSongs-TheHamptonSeries (III), pp. 89-97, "Cott'n-Pickin' Song" (1 text with variants, 1 tune with variants)
Roud #16391 and 17447
NOTES [105 words]: Since the first verse of this song refers to slaves being freed, it would appear to date to the period immediately after the Civil War. The Union forces had freed the slaves -- but the freedmen had no job they could do except work the fields. The landowners built up an elaborate system (Black Codes, Jim Crow laws) for keeping the Blacks working -- perhaps even at a lower cost, since they no longer had to pay for food and lodging. Roud splits the Lomax song (#16391) from the Curtis-Burlin-NegroFolkSongs-TheHamptonSeries piece (#17447), but the differences are minor change in lyrics; they emphatically look the same to me. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
Cotton the Kid
DESCRIPTION: Cotton seems "a nice kid... Until he became a rolling stone at the age of seventeen." After a brief career as a thief, the sheriff "come got him and threw him in jail." Cotton escapes and vanishes; the singer advises against trying to catch him
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: outlaw thief prison escape
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 171, "Cotton the Kid" (1 text)
Roud #4097
NOTES [8 words]: This song is item dE37 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW

Cotton Wool Pie
DESCRIPTION: "It's about a pie social. It should take the cake." Jim sells the pies but Tom could find none for him. He assumed the last was for him from his beau but found it filled with wool. "No pie to devour, no sweetheart had he."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs)
KEYWORDS: courting trick food party humorous
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, pp. 206-207, "Cotton Wool Pie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2722
RECORDINGS:
Omar Blondahl, "Cotton Wool Pie" (on NFOBlondahl04)
NOTES [99 words]: Blondahl04: "It should be explained in the following song that two girls loved the same man. Now, when a pie social was planned one of the girls baked a pie and filled it with cotton wool. She intended to shift the pies and so break up the rival affair." It appears she was successful.
Blondahl04 has no liner notes confirming that this song was collected in Newfoundland. Barring another report for Newfoundland I do not assume it has been found there. There is no entry for "Cotton Wool Pie" in Newfoundland Songs and Ballads in Print 1842-1974 A Title and First-Line Index by Paul Mercer. - BS

Cotton-Eyed Joe
DESCRIPTION: "If it hadn't been for Cotton-eyed Joe, I'd have been married a long time ago."
"Where did you come from, where did you go...." Stanzas describe country life, fiddle playing, and attempts to outshine Cotton-eyed Joe
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Dykes' Magic City Trio); seemingly quoted 1882 (see NOTES)
KEYWORDS: fiddle music nonballad
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)
REFERENCES (9 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 104, "Page's Train Run So Fast" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 104, "Page's Train Run So Fast" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 69-70, "Cotton-Eyed Joe" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 82, pp. 132-133, "Cotton-Eyed Joe" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 262-263, "Cotton-Eyed Joe" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, p. 99, "Cotton Eye Joe" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cotton's Patch (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, quite early in March, I remember the date, I left for the ice the seals to locate." Finally the pilots find "the main patch" of seals. They return and bargain with Mr. Bowring. At last the merchants strike a deal

AUTHOR: Johnny Burke (1851-1930)

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Burke's Ballads)

KEYWORDS: hunting technology commerce pilot flying

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff, p. 120, "Cotton's Patch (I)" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Johnny Burke (John White, Editor), _Burke's Ballads_, no printer listed, n.d. (PDF available on Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. 14, "Cotton's Patch" (1 text)
Johnny Burke (William J. Kirwin, editor), _John White's Collection of Johnny Burke Songs_, Harry Cuff Publications, St. John's, 1981, #38, p. 61, "From the show Cotton's Patch: First Song" (1 text)

Roud #4423

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Cotton's Patch (II)" (subject)

NOTES [1416 words]: According to Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff, this is based on an incident of 1922, when Australian Sidney Cotton and Newfoundlander Sydney Bennett made a deal seek the "Main Patch" (main herd) of seals by air. There is dispute over the spellings of the pilot's name; Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff give Cotton's first name as "Sydney," but I have followed O'Neill, DictNewfLabrador, and Candow, especially since Candow (p. 216) lists a book, Sidney Cotton, Aviator Extraordinary: The Sidney Cotton Story: As Told to Ralph Barker, Chatto and Windus, 1969.

"In 1920 an Australian airman, Major F. Sidney Cotton, arrived in Newfoundland with Sydney Bennett, a Newfoundland man whom he met when they served together in the Royal Flying Corps.... It was their purpose in life to establish the first air service in Newfoundland" (O'Neill, p. 358). They managed to gain the money they needed from Alan Butler, and their plane arrived in late 1920. DictNewfLabrador, p. 68, says that a third pilot, David Plaistowe, was also involved.

"In 1921 Cotton engaged the interest of the owners of the large sealing vessels in hiring his services as a seal spotter. It was his job to locate the patches. This led to some embarrassment when, on one occasion, he found what he thought to be the main patch [the most important whelping ground, where the largest group of seals congregated]. When the ships reached the spot there was not a seal anywhere in sight. Johnny Burke, the great ballad writer, turned the event into a successful stage comedy, 'Cotton's Patch,' in which the patch turned out to be the seat of Cotton's pants" (O'Neill, pp. 358-359).

Part of Cotton's problem was that it was hard to maintain a plane in Newfoundland conditions; eventually he managed to get government support to bring mechanics to Newfoundland. (The Newfoundland government had a history of funding technologies they could not sustain). He apparently managed to find the main patch the next year -- but the sealers (presumably leery after 1921, apart from being cheap) refused to pay up (Candow, p. 79). Candow has quite a bit of information about the deal that was eventually made; I will confess that I got lost reading it, but it's clear that the negotiations described in "Cotton's Patch (I)" were inspired by (although perhaps not very similar to) the actual negotiations.

Even if Cotton didn't help the seal hunt, his aerial photographs did help to map Newfoundland and its timber resources (DictNewfLabrador, p. 69).

For the ship Neptune, mentioned in "Cotton's Patch (II)," see "Neptune, Ruler of the Sea." Cotton, after his experience in 1922, had suggested that a ship be modified to carry a plane for the 1923 season, and the Neptune was the ship chosen -- but the plane never flew. Sealing rumor had it that the captain, George Barbour (for whom see "The Greenland Disaster (I)"), refused to have anything to do with the contraption, but Barbour's explanation, which is likely true, is that the weather in 1923 was simply too bad for the aircraft (Candow, p. 79).

The other ship mentioned in "Cotton's Patch (II)," the Thetis, wasn't as famous. Chafe, p. 104, implies that there were two sealers named Thetis, Ryan/Drake, p. 24, says that she was built in 1881. She was said to be the strongest of the whaling/sealing fleet (Guttridge, p. 246), so when the Greely Expedition (for which "Hurrah for Baffin's Bay") needed rescue, she was one of the ships purchased for the purpose (the Bear being the other). Her commander at this time was Winfield Scott Schley, later to be famous as an officer in the Spanish-American War (Guttridge, p. 245). After that, she was used as a patrol boat (Guttridge, p. 320). She finally went back to sealing in 1917, under William Winsor (for whom see "First Arrival from the Sea Fishery S. S. Fogota, 1912"); he was still in command in 1923 (Chafe, p. 104). She was damaged in the ice in 1936, and was beached and abandoned in that year (Ryan/Drake, p. 24; Guttridge, p. 320, gives the date as 1950, but I suspect he is confusing her with the Eagle, the very last of the sealing steamers, which was sunk in that year). Ryan/Drake have a picture of her as she was in 1920 on p. 24; Guttridge's photo section has several pictures of her as she appeared in 1884.

In "Cotton's Patch (II)," the singer speaks to "Wesley Kean." This is a common error (Chafe, p. 93, makes it also); the captain's name was "Westbury Kean," commonly known as "Wes." He was infamous for his part in the Newfoundland disaster of 1914 (see "The Newfoundland Disaster (I)") -- but after six years without a command, in 1921 he was again allowed to go to the ice, as commander of the Ranger (Chafe, p. 93). I have no idea why the song mentioned him here, although his father Abram Kean is known to have disliked the planes; he even engaged in a bit of mild book-cooking to try to demonstrate his point (see "Captain Abram Kean" for the data).

According to O'Neill, by 1923, Cotton's planes had been ruined and he gave up. Other aviators took up the business after that, however, with some success, although by 1928 they were back to flying from land rather than trying to fly off the ice. The service ended in 1930 when the plane involved crashed (Candow, p. 80). On the whole, Candow concludes, the spotting planes didn't do much good (p. 81); his reasons amount to saying that the technology wasn't quite ready yet. Planes returned to the ice fields in 1947, and continued until 1982, using newer planes and a different payment scheme (Candow, pp. 164-165), but of course that isn't mentioned in the "Cotton's Patch" pieces. In 1962, the first helicopters were used, both for spotting and for carrying... pelts (Busch, p. 248), but of course that's not mentioned in the song either -- and was mostly organized by non-Newfoundlanders anyway.

Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff treat the song about this incident as two pieces, and they do have different forms. For the pilots' own search for the Patch, see "Cotton's Patch (I)." For the actual hunt, see "Cotton's Patch (II)."

England, pp. 168-169, has what seems to be almost the only near-contemporary account of how the sealers felt about the 1922 hunt:

"Though as yet without much practical value, the fact is noteworthy that modern methods have at last definitely invaded the seal hunt. The enterprise is daring, to say the least."

"The ships carry charts marked off in squares; the 'planes carry similar charts. On spying seals, they note the square, and undertake to notify the ships of the location [apparently by dropping a message cylinder near the ship]. To me it seems almost an impossibility to identify one's position in the air, over the icefields. It is also hard to 'spot' seals, especially whitecoats, from aloft. Some of the sealing captains have faith in the plan, others scoff at it.

"So far as I could see, we got no good of the service. Major Cotton claimed to have reported the 'Main Patch,' Mecca of all the sealers -- the patch that none of the captains in 1922 reached. This came to be known as 'The Cotton Patch,' and caused oceans of talk, considerable jesting, and not a little acrimony. The Cotton Patch may have been where Major Cotton claimed it was, right enough, but it happened to lie where ships could not reach it. Thus the principal herd escaped for at least one year."

A photo of Cotton's plane can be seen facing p. 104 of Chafe; Candow, p. 80, has a photo of Cotton and one of the plane, with later pages showing other sealing aircraft; Major, p. 323, has a photo of him and mentions his work carrying mail and taking aerial photographs but barely mentions sealing. On p. 324, Major mentions that the planned town of Gander, Newfoundland names its streets after famous aviators -- and, yes, there is a Cotton Street in Gander, short but clearly visible on Google Maps.

Johnny Burke seems to have been hung up on Cotton's aircraft. In addition to the two "Cotton's Patch" songs, he also wrote "A Wink and a Nod from a Yankee Cod," which opens "They struck the West Coast in the month of July, Two bold aviators from Boston did fly; Syd Cotton and Cadwel came down to explore, All over the Island and search Labrador." In the Irwin/White edition of Burke's works cited in the references, this is item #44, pp. 70-71. It also has a picture of an aircraft apparently resting on ice or snow, although it doesn't say that it's Cotton's.

For a brief biography of Johnny Burke, see the notes to "The Kelligrew's Soiree." - RBW

Bibliography

- England: George Allan England, Vikings of the Ice: Being the Log of a Tenderfoot on the Great Newfoundland Seal Hunt (also published as The Greatest Hunt in the World), Doubleday, 1924
Cotton's Patch (II)

DESCRIPTION: "We got up steam the ninth of March" to seek Cotton's patch. "Oh, didn't we ramble, scramble, But the devil a sign of Cotton's patch we found." After many ships seek in vain, the singer says the only patch they saw "was the patch on Tapper's trousers"

AUTHOR: Johnny Burke (1851-1930)

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Burke's Ballads)

KEYWORDS: hunting technology commerce pilot ship humorous flying

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff, p. 121, "Cotton's Patch (II)" (1 text)
- Johnny Burke (John White, Editor), _Burke's Ballads_, no printer listed, n.d. (PDF available on Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. 15, "Cotton's Patch" (1 text)
- Johnny Burke (William J. Kirwin, editor), _John White's Collection of Johnny Burke Songs_, Harry Cuff Publications, St. John's, 1981, #39, p. 62, "From the show Cotton's Patch: Second Song" (1 text)

Roud #V44826

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Cotton's Patch (I)" (subject)
- cf. "Didn't He Ramble" (lyrics, form, probably tune)

NOTES [37 words]: For the story of Cotton's airplane and Cotton's patch, see the notes to "Cotton's Patch (I)." This isn't the same song as "Cotton's Patch (I)" (this has a "didn't he ramble" chorus), but it's about the same incident. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: RySm121

---

Coulter's Candy

DESCRIPTION: "Ally, bally, ally bally bee, Sittin' on yer mammy's knee, Greetin' for anither bawbee, Tae buy mair Coulter's candy." The parents feed the slender boy on candy, say he will grow up to go to sea, or will later buy candy for them

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Montgomerie)

KEYWORDS: mother father food

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Montgomerie/Montgomerie-ScottishNurseryRhymes 154, "Colter's Candy" (1 short text)
- DT, COULTR
- DT, COULTR2

ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 32, #4 (1987), pp, 84, "Coulter's Candy" (1 text, 1 tune, supplied by Sam Hinton and with some unusual verses)

NOTES [121 words]: Murray Shoolbraid's notes in the Digital Tradition cite Buchan to the effect that "Coulter" was in fact a Scottish candy-seller named Robert Coltart who was active around 1900. Ewan McVicar reported on the Ballad-L mailing list that "Coulter's Candy was made and sold by Robert Coltart, a weaver in Galashiels. He stamped his name on every piece and flavoured it with aniseed. He sold it all round the Borders fairs, attracting customers by playing his tune on his penny whistle and singing out his song. An early advertising jingle. He died in 1880 aged 48." This is the most substantial description I've seen of who Coulter/Colter was -- but I've heard performers cite other sources. So I suppose it's not quite proved. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.3

File: MSNR154

---

Countersigns, The

DESCRIPTION: Forecastle song. Verses quote John Paul Jones, Admiral Farragut, and Captain Lawrence (of the Chesapeake), citing their actions and bravery. Each verse concludes with "And that was the Navy of long, long ago." Sung to the tune of "Spanish Ladies."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (The Book of Navy Songs)

KEYWORDS: foc's'le navy sailor

FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, p. 135, "The Countersigns" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST Col135 (Partial)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Spanish Ladies" (tune) and references there
NOTES [546 words]: For John Paul Jones (1747-1792) and the declaration "I have not yet begun to fight," see the notes to "Paul Jones's Victory" [Laws A4]. For James Lawrence (1781-1813) and his folly in command of the Chesapeake, see "The Chesapeake and the Shannon (I)" [Laws J20]. There is some irony in the fact that this song mentions him being carried belowdecks (to the surgeon) when wounded -- but ignores the fact that this caused the midshipman who did it to be court-martialed and discharged.
David Glasgow Farragut (1801-1870) began the Civil War as a navy captain awaiting orders, living in Virginia and married to a Virginia wife (McPherson, pp. 281-282), but ended up (perhaps by luck as much as anything else) in charge of the fleet destined to attack New Orleans. Being, fortunately, a pretty good sailor, he captured the city -- the first really big Union success of the war (for which see, e.g., "The New Ballad of Lord Lovell (Mansfield Lovell)."
His next few operations, against Vicksburg, were less successful (Vickburg was effectively impossible to attack by river), but he still was given command of the next major naval assault on a Gulf Coast city, the 1864 attack on Mobile Bay. Despite being a lesser city than New Orleans, Mobile was a much tougher nut to crack; the defences of New Orleans had been badly and hastily built. Farragut had wanted to go after Mobile at once, but the Navy department disagreed. They felt Farragut would need ironclads, and all of those were tied up at Charleston and other places (Johnson/McLaughlin, p. 127). By the time the Navy department changed its mind, their initial assessment had been made correct. Initially nearly defenseless, by August 5, 1864, when Farragut attacked, Mobile Bay was properly fortified, with only one sea channel, forts on each side, and a small fleet including the ironclad Tennessee waiting -- and the harbor entrance sown with mines. (In those days, when the self-propelled torpedo had not been invented, such mines were called "torpedoes"). Farragut's fleet tried to enter the bay -- and watched a monitor hit a mine and sink almost instantly. (The things were hardly seaworthy, after all.) Most of the fleet stopped -- right under the guns of the harbor forts. Farragut, lashed to the mast, knew what he had to do: He had to get through the channel, even if the mines took more ships. So he ordered "Damn the torpedoes! Full speed ahead." (McPherson, p. 761. The Union fleet made it into the harbor, and after a hard battle captured the city.
We note that hardly anyone seems to mention the signal "For God's sake" that Farragut wanted to send after one of his own ships did its best to ram and sink him (Johnson/McLaughlin, p. 134.) At first, the North didn't think much of the victory; Farragut had lost over 300 men and a monitor (Catton, p. 371). But in fact it was a severe blow, since the Confederacy lost its last major Gulf Coast port; all that was left were a few heavily-blockaded East Coast ports and some minor harbors in Texas, too far from the rail net to do much good. The North eventually woke up; Farragut became first Vice Admiral and then Admiral -- the first such in American history (just as U. S. Grant was the first full General). And Farragut's words passed into folklore. - RBW
Bibliography
• Catton: Bruce Catton, Never Call Retreat (being the third volume of The Centennial History of the Civil War), Doubleday, 1965 (I use the 1976 Pocket Books edition)
• Johnson/McLaughlin: Curt Johnson & Mark McLaughlin, Civil War Battles, Crown Books, 1977

Last updated in version 2.5
File: Col135

Counties of Arkansas, The
DESCRIPTION: "There's Benton, Carroll, Marion, Boone in a line...." The song describes the various counties of Arkansas, with chorus exhorting the students to make Arkansas "The banner state for enterprise, good schools, and moral law" and praising Ouachita county AUTHOR: Annie Coble Wilson?
Country Blues

DESCRIPTION: Floating verses; singer is in jail, possibly dying, lamenting his fate and hard living.
AUTHOR: Unknown, possibly Homer Crawford; add'l verses by Dock Boggs
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Dock Boggs)
KEYWORDS: captivity crime prison death floatingverses
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dunson/Raim/Asch-AnthologyOfAmericanFolkMusic, p. 90, "Country Blues" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #428
RECORDINGS:
Dock Boggs, "Country Blues" (Brunswick 131A, 1927; on AAFM3, RoughWays1) (on Boggs1, BoggsCD1, ClassOT)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Country Blues" (on NLCR05) (on NLCR16)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Darling Corey" (words, tune)
cf. "Moonshiner" (words)
cf. "Sweet Heaven" (words)
cf. "Sweet Heaven (II)" (floating lyrics)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Give Me Corn Bread When I'm Hungry
Hustling Gamblers
NOTES [94 words]: This is ALMOST a nonballad, but not quite; there is a hint of narrative. And while most of the verses show up elsewhere, this song as a gestalt comes squarely from its performer, Dock Boggs. -PJS
Some people consider this a version of "Darling Corey," the tune is very close and they share a lot of lyrics. But I tentatively agree with Paul: There are several unrelated verses on the front, and "they" make this a separate song.
Roud lumps the piece with "I Wonder Where's the Gambler" [Laws H22]. It may perhaps have been inspired by fragments of that song. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.5
File: ADR90

Country Courtship, The

DESCRIPTION: Dialog: "When shall we get married"? "As soon as time comes." "What shall I wear to the wedding?" "Thee wold print frock an' thee yepron." "How shall we go to the wedding?" "Thee's got two fine legs to walk wi' I." And so on for many verses
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1776 (Herd according to Hecht-Herd MS I)
KEYWORDS: courting love marriage wedding bargaining
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South,North))
REFERENCES (9 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 127, "The Country Courtship" (1 text, 1 tune)
Country Farmer's Son, The (Sweet Nelly My Heart's Delight)

DESCRIPTION: "Sweet (Nelly/Nancy), my heart's delight. Be loving, and do not slight." The singer asks her to fancy him "Though I'm but a farmer's son." She rejects him. He reveals that he has wealth. She says he does not -- but still consents to court him

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1729 (Vocal Miscellany, according to Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland)

KEYWORDS: love, courting, money, lie, rejection

FOUND IN: Britain(England)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Song #4, pp. 171-173,245, "The Farmer's Son" (1 text)
Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 366-368, "The Farmer's Son" (1 text)

ST BeCo366 (Partial)
Roud #8506

File: BeCo366

Country Girl, The (The Fair Maid of the West)

DESCRIPTION: The "country girl" goes to the fair, and asks the merchant for a bonnet. Having no other money, she pays with her maidenhead. She goes home and tells her mother, who tells her to get it back. The merchant lays her down again and gives it back

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1976 (collected by Logsdon from Riley Neal)

KEYWORDS: sex, humorous, bawdy, mother trick, virginity, clothes

FOUND IN: US(SW)
Country Hirings

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you blooming country lads and listen unto me." They are told, "Servant men stand up for your wages When to the hirings you do go." The farmers and their families live well while the hired servants endure poor conditions. It is time for change

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1977 (Raven)
KEYWORDS: farming hardtimes money commerce clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Palmer-ThePainfulPlow, #4, "Country Hirings" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham_, Broadside, 1977, pp. 33-34, "Country Hirings" (1 text)

Country I Was Born In, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer has left Donegal and is bound for America "where I'm told a man he's paid there for his labour." In Ireland he has seen people starving or "hurled by the landlord from their door." No matter where he goes he will always think of home.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday)
KEYWORDS: emigration work hardtimes America nonballad political landlord
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday 53, pp. 149-150,176, "The Country I Was Born In" (1 text, 1 tune)

Country Lass (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "Although I am a country lass, A lofty mind bear I." Although not from the city, she dresses well and looks beautiful. She does not have city vices. The women of the country do useful work together. She refuses to feel inferior to the women of the city

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1887 (Ashton)
KEYWORDS: nonballad farming beauty clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
ADDITIONAL: John Ashton, _A Century of Ballads_, Elliot Stock, London, 1887; reprinted 1968 by Singing Tree Press, pp. 37-41, "The Countrey Lasse" (1 text)
Roud #5520
ALTERNATE TITLES:
What tho’ I am a Country Lass
File: JACB037

Country Life (I), The
DESCRIPTION: The singer describes the joy of living and working in the country, reporting "I like to rise when the sun she rises, Early in the morning... And hurrah for the life of the country boy." He describes the work done on the farm in each season
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1976
KEYWORDS: home farming nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain
REFERENCES (1 citation):
DT, COUNTRYL
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "The Country Life (II)" (chorus lyrics)
 cf. "A Sweet Country Life" (theme)
 cf. "The Brisk and Bonny Lass (The Brisk and Bonny Lad)" (theme)
 cf. "The Contented Countryman" (theme)
 cf. "I Like to Be There" (form, lyrics)
File: DTcountr

Country Life (II), The
DESCRIPTION: "Behold in me a farmer's son so jolly." The singer tells what he likes about farming: fields and flowers, birds singing, "milking the old dun cow," hearing the cock crow early, his Mary, ... "I do not like a city life." "A country life's the best"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1911 (Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast)
KEYWORDS: farming nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber),England(North))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #169, p. 2, "The Country Life" (1 text)
Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #20, "The Old Cock Crows" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6297
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "The Country Life (I)" (chorus lyrics)
 cf. "A Sweet Country Life" (theme)
NOTES [43 words]: The chorus is close to "The Country Life" (I) but this song has no seasonal verses. Each verse of "The Country Life" (I) is a variation on "rambling in the new-mown hay," which appears here only in the chorus. Greig says it "seems to hail from the south." - BS
Last updated in version 3.7
File: Grg169b

Country Life for Me, A
DESCRIPTION: "Here I am as you may see, I'm Yorkshire to backbone." The singer feeds the animals, plows, and declares "A country life for me." The farmer will ignore the scorn of those who don't know the life -- or fight them. He enjoys Martinmas with his chosen girl
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1969 (Gardham-EastRidingSongster)
KEYWORDS: farming work animal food drink courting
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gardham-EastRidingSongster 9, p. 13, "A Country Life for Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1409
Country Rockin', The

DESCRIPTION: "The best o' human life ... we only find when assembled at a country rockin' .... at sangs we'll hae a hearty yokin' and we'll chat the lays o' Robbie Burns." On the way home "we steal a wee bit kiss Her hert tae move and tell oor love"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: courting music party nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 635, "The Country Rockin'" (1 text)
Roud #6068

File: GrD3635

County Jail (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "As I was standing on a corner, Not doing any harm, Along came a policeman And took me by the arm." The singer ends in prison. He watches the bedbugs and cockroaches play ball. The food is terrible: "The coffee tastes like tobacco juice"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan)
KEYWORDS: prison police food hardtimes floatingverses bug
FOUND IN: US(MW) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 147, "The County Jail" (1 text)
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 106, "They Locked Me Up in Bonavist' Jail" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST GC147 (Partial)
Roud #3673
CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. most other prison songs, especially "Song of an Old Time Jailbird" (theme of hard times in prison and the dangers posed by bugs)
NOTES [67 words]: Nearly every part of this has parallels elsewhere, but the combination, particularly the bedbug/cockroach contest, seems to be unique. - RBW
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou's tune is close to the usual one and the cockroaches and bedbugs playing ball are replaced by "a hundred and fifty bedbugs playing a game of ball." It has "coffee like tobacco juice and bread so hard as steel." Close enough for me. - BS

File: GC147

County Jail (II)

DESCRIPTION: "I used to live a glorious life [untill]... they piped into a railroad mail And carried me off to County Jail." The singer recounts the rules, initiation, awful food, beds; Jonah was better off in the whale; "glorious times in County Jail"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1860 (broadside, Bodleian Firth b.26(213))
KEYWORDS: violence food prisoner ordeal
FOUND IN: Ireland Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 148, "Kirtle Gaol" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, pp. 121-122, "County Jail" (1 text)
Roud #964

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth b.26(213), "County Gaol" ("Good people all give ear I pray"), A. Ryle and Co. (London) , 1845-1859; also Harding B 11(730), Harding B 11(729), "County Gaol"; Harding B 20(32), "County Jail"; Firth c.17(76), "Duke St. Gaol"; Firth c.26(19), Firth c.17(73), "Wakefield Gaol"; 2806 c.16(234), Harding B 13(292), "Preston Gaol"; Harding B 11(2000), "Kirkdale Goal [sic]"; 2806 c.16(63), "Kirkdale Gaol"; Harding B 11(233), "Bellevue Goal [sic]"; 2806 c.8(201), "The Humours of the County Jail

LOCsinging, sb10045a, "County Jail," H. De Marsan (New York), 1864-1878; also sb40474a, "X"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Cryderville Jail" (theme)
NOTES [129 words]: Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia says his title of "Kirtle Gaol" "is a contraction, or corruption, of 'Kirkdale.'" Mackenzie lists a number of broadside versions including O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland pp. 121-122. He lists American copies of "County Jail" which are not indexed yet. The versions of this that I've seen do not have the bedbug vs cockroach sporting event but do insist that Jonah was better off inside the whale and Lazarus in his shroud was better dressed.

The Bodleian broadsides agree in the details except for the location of the jail. Broadside LOCsinging sb10045a: H. De Marsan dating per Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at FindArticles site. - BS

File: Mack148

County of Limerick Buck-Hunt, The

DESCRIPTION: Twenty huntsmen and their hounds hunt a buck. He is killed in the hills after a four hour chase. "Nothing was wanting That poor hungry huntsman could wish ... For every man was a dish." There was drinking and dancing; many of the ladies are named.

AUTHOR: Pierce Creagh (source: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)
EARLIEST DATE: 1839 (Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)
KEYWORDS: hunting dancing drink party moniker animal dog horse

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 238-242, "The County of Limerick Buck-Hunt" (1 text)

NOTES [21 words]: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland seems to date the event and the writing of the song in the first half of the eighteenth century. - BS

File: CrPS238

County of Saline

DESCRIPTION: "Mid the valleys and the hills, Mid the woodlands and the rills, In the land that pleasure fills Is the County of Saline." "Grand old County of Saline, Fertile spot of Egypt's plain." "Broad and fertile are thy fields." "And her people brave and true."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks)
KEYWORDS: home nonballad

FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, p. 30, "County of Saline" (1 text)
Roud #14055

NOTES [40 words]: This refers to Saline County as part of "Egypt." "Egypt" was the name used for the area of southern Illinois in the general vicinity of Cairo, Illinois. Saline County is in southern Illinois, although somewhat north and east of Cairo. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: McIn030

County of Tyrone, The

DESCRIPTION: Desiring freedom from his parents, the singer sets out for (Newry/Dover). He meets a girl and, after assuring her of his character, convinces her to elope to Tyrone. They are pursued, but escape by ship. His parents welcome him home

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1847 (Journal of William Histed of the Cortes)
KEYWORDS: work home family love travel elopement

FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 218-220, "The County of Tyrone" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenry'sSongsOfThePeople H153a/b, p. 480-481, "The County Tyrone" (1 text, 1 tune)
Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 15, "The County Tyrone" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1991

RECORDINGS:
Robert Cinnamond, "The County Tyrone" (on IRRCinnamond03)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 17(305a), "Sweet Jane of Tyrone" ("My father oft told me he would not control me"), J. Pitts (London), 1819-1844; also Harding B 11(3947), Harding B 11(932), 2806 b.11(57), "Sweet Jane of Tyrone"; Firth b.25(475), Harding B 11(2563), Harding B 11(2563), 2806 c.15(252), Harding B 28(34), 2806 b.11(144), "County of Tyrone"; Harding B 28(34), "County Tyrone"

File: SWMS218

County Song (The Counties of Iowa)

DESCRIPTION: "Our home is in Iowa toward the setting sun, Just between two mighty rivers where the flowing waters run... It has 99 counties, will you join and sing their names?" Educational song listing Iowa's counties, adding information about a few of them
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Stout-FolkloreFromIowa); reportedly learned 1880
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 474-475, "County Song" (1 text)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 103, pp. 127-133, "Early Iowa School Songs" (11 texts, of which the "A" text is this song)

File: CAFS2474

Coupon Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "You get good things for nothing" for coupons now. Singer got his "good for nothing" wife, and is saving coupons for a divorce, a car, and a baby. His wife must have found out about his baby plan because she is making baby clothes.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: marriage pregnancy commerce humorous nonballad wordplay baby wife
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

RECORDINGS:
Mrs. Ghaney, "The Coupon Song" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
Bill Monroe and his Bluegrass Boys, "The Coupon Song" (1941, Bluebird B 8893, 2003, "Bill Monroe and his Bluegrass Boys 1940-1946," JSP Records CD JSP7712C)

NOTES [38 words]: Coupons have been used since the late 19c as a marketing promotional tool offering a product at a discounted price. The singer's implicit question is whether there is anything that can't be bought with coupons at a discount. - BS
Last updated in version 4.2

File: MunLCoup

Courrier, Courrier, Qu'y a-t-il de Nouveau? (Courier, Courier, Say What News Hast There?)

DESCRIPTION: French. King of England asks courier why he is troubled. The courier tells of General Braddock's defeat. The king asks if he has lost his best men, and if the bombs and grenades were no help. All the mortars and cannon helped not a whit. The king laments.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1865 (published by Hubert Larue in "Le Foyer canadien")
Court of Cahirass, The
DESCRIPTION: Katey, a nobleman's daughter in the Court of Cahirass, is sought by many Dublin lords. She is beautiful and charitable to the sick and needy but has only frowns and coldness for the singer, who loves her. "How fatal the day when we first met each other"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1839 (Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)
KEYWORDS: love rejection beauty nonballad
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 173-175, "The Court of Cahirass" (1 text)
NOTES [129 words]: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland: "The chaplain [of the chapel belonging to the Carbery family] falling desperately in love with the daughter of Lord Carbery, and being disappointed, hanged himself in the chapel, which soon afterwards went to decay. This unfortunate lover had composed [this song] which is still recollected by the country people. Unluckily for the romance of this storey the name Katey occurs ... and five manuscript copies of the song, procured through various channels, though differing materially in many lines, all retain that name. It is therefore impossible to reconcile this with the facts, that the only daughter of the first Lord Carbery was named Anne; the only daughter of the second lord, Frances Anne; and the only daughter of the third, Juliana." - BS
File: CrPS173

Court of Conscience in Cork, The DESCRIPTION: The Cork court is above a meat-market. Some find happiness below "to purchase a beefsteak," others above in justice. "Thus, 'twixt the market-scales and those of law, A strong similitude exists"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1839 (Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)
KEYWORDS: commerce nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 167-168, "The Court of Conscience in Cork" (1 text)
File: CrPS167

Courte Paille, La
DESCRIPTION: (Canadian) French: A sailing crew has been seven years at sea, and is starving. They draw straws to decide which one of them they will kill and eat. The Captain is chosen, but asks a cabin boy to take his place. At the last moment, the boy spies land
Courtin' in the Stable (The Workin' Steer)

DESCRIPTION: Jock sets out to meet Kate by the gate of the farm where she works. She being late, and he being drunk, he mistakes a steer for his girl and sets out to kiss her. He thinks she has turned to a steer, but she arrives to correct him; eventually they wed.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan2)
KEYWORDS: courting drink animal marriage
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #162, p. 1, "The Courtin' in the Stable" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan2 288, "Coortin' in the Stable" (7 texts, 3 tunes)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 227-228, "Courtin' in the Stable" (1 text)
Roud #3793
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Doran's Ass" [Laws Q19] (plot)
cf. "Jock Gheddes and the Soo" (plot)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Nicht Was Fine
File: Ord227

Courtin' Owre Slow

DESCRIPTION: The singer loves a girl in Buchan and she accepts his ring. While he is in Edinburgh on business a rich suitor wins her hand. The singer returns and asks her why she abandoned him. Her reason is that he never kissed her. He won't make that mistake again.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan4)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage ring infidelity money
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #37, p. 1, "The Buchan Laddie" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan4 896, "Courtin' Owre Slow" (8 texts, 2 tunes)
Roud #5369
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "On Top of Old Smokey" (theme: lover lost by courting too slowly)
File: GrD4896

Courting Case, The

DESCRIPTION: Man comes courting a woman. She reminds him that she told him never to return. He offers her his "very fine house," his "very fine farm," his "very fine horse," etc.; (she rejects them all because he is a gambler/drunkard/whatever).

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1918 (Cecil Sharp collection)
Courting Coat, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer takes his girl to bed while still in his (pit boots/navvy boots/courting coat). She fears pregnancy ("the baby will come with his pit boots on"); he laughs it off -- but runs away, still wearing the boots. Women are warned to beware

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Reeves/Sharp-The Idiom of The People)

LONG DESCRIPTION: The singer (shaves and) dresses up, (by the light of the moon) arrives at his girl's window, and takes her to bed while still in his (pit boots/navvy boots/courting coat). She fears pregnancy ("the baby will come with his pit boots on"); he laughs it off -- but runs away, still wearing the boots. Women are warned to "beware of them colliers who are easy and free"

KEYWORDS: courting sex warning pregnancy mining worker clothes
Courting in the Kitchen [Laws Q16]

DESCRIPTION: The singer warns listeners against love, "The devil's own invention." He courts a serving girl in her master's kitchen. When her master returns unexpectedly, she claims that the singer was forcing himself upon her. He winds up in prison.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1886 (broadside, Bodleian Firth c.18(275)), and used for a parody by Charles Thatcher by 1864
KEYWORDS: courting rape betrayal punishment prison
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar) Ireland
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Laws Q16, "Courting in the Kitchen"
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 147, "Courting in the Kitchen" (1 text, 1 tune)
OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 32, "Coortin' in the Kitchen" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 527, COORTINK*

Roud #1007

RECORDINGS:
The Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem, "Courting in the Kitchen" (on IRClancyMakem01)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth c.18(275), "Courting in the Kitchen," W.S. Fortey (London), 1858-1885; also 2806 c.14(39), "Courting in the Kitchen"

SAME TUNE:
Obstruction (Healy-MercierBookOfOldIrishStreetBalladsVol2, pp. 154-156)
Courting the Widow's Daughter (Hard Times) [Laws H25]

DESCRIPTION: The young swain creeps into his sweetheart's house, but the young couple cannot keep quiet. The girl's mother, a widow, creeps down -- and tries to get the young man for herself! He insults her, and she drives him off with a broom.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)

KEYWORDS: courting fight mother

FOUND IN: US (Ap, MW, Ro, So)

REFERENCES:
- Laws H25, "Courting the Widow's Daughter (Hard Times)"
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 248-249, "Courting the Widow's Daughter"
- Randolph 387, "The Widow's Old Broom" (2 texts, 1 tune)
- Cox-FolkSongsSouth 183, "Hard Times" (1 text, the first six verses being "Courting the Widow's Daughter" and the last seven being a reduced version, minus the chorus, of "The Rigs of the Times")
- Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol3, pp. 22-24, "Hard Times" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #127, "The Widows A-Courtin'" (1 text)
- Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 124-125, "Johnny McCardner" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 156, "Last Saturday Night I Entered a House" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: James P. Leary, Compiler and Annotator, _Wisconsin Folklore_ University of Wisconsin Press, 2009, article "Kentucky Folksong in Northern Wisconsin" by Asher E. Treat, pp. 236-237, "Last Saturday Night I Entered a House" (1 text, 1 tune, sung by Mrs. M. G. Jacobs)

RECORDINGS:
- Pearl Jacobs Borusky, "Last Saturday Night I Entered a House" (AFS 4174 B1, 1940)
- Charles Ingenthron, "The Widow's Old Broom" (AFS; on LC12)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Aye She Likit The Ae Nicht" (plot)

File: LH25

---

Courtown Fishermen, The

DESCRIPTION: On June 9 a crowd collects at Courtown Harbour: "I fear the Glenrose she is lost" with six on board, capsized on the fishing ground by a sudden squall. "How could you pass them by ... For pity they besought of you to snatch them from the waves."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast)

KEYWORDS: drowning sea ship storm wreck fishing

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES:
- Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast, pp. 107-108, "The Courtown Fishermen" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roud #20544

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Pomona (I)" (tune)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- The Glenrose

NOTES: Ranson has [an] alternative verse that explains the condemnation

"To see those men condemned to death, it was a dismal sight,
While one poor man upon an oar for his life did boldly fight.
And you, hard-hearted Arklowmen, why did you pass them by?
Aloud to you for help they called; you heard their drowning cry"

Arklow is on the south east coast of County Wicklow; Courtown is on the north east coast of County Wexford. "Courtown is a small harbour situated on the south east coast of Ireland approx. 15 nautical miles south of Arklow" according to the Courtown Sailing Club Online site. - BS

Cousin Harry (Cousin Nellie)

DESCRIPTION: Cousin Harry and Cousin Nellie sit under a tree. Nellie whispers, "Cousin Harry, what is love?" He answers it is "a passion, a passion to be felt." He demonstrates. As he "reached home with a shove," she declares, "This must be love."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (collected by Larson)

KEYWORDS: sex, bawdy, incest

FOUND IN: US(NE,Ro,SW)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 44, pp. 224-225, "Cousin Harry" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Bethke-AdirondackVoices, pp. 62-63, "Cousin Nellie" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: Logs044

Cove Cherry Fair

DESCRIPTION: "Many years ago our cherries Were the haws and huckleberries That were wild and free as air." The Indians are gone, replaced by cherry orchards. "We all extend a greeting To the people of this meeting For this is our holiday."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 2002 (Supplement to the History of Union County)

KEYWORDS: food, nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 637, "Cove Cherry Fair" (1 text)

File: CAFS2637

Cove that Sings, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer, hearing of "the luck of a 'cove wot writes," believes his own luck better as "a cove wot sings" the comic line. When performing he gets free drink. He gets free food from admirers, free rooms from landladies, and free port from landlords

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1852 (broadside "The Cove Wot Sings," Poet's Box (Glasgow), according to Greig/Duncan3)

KEYWORDS: drink, food, music, wine, nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Greig/Duncan3 563, "The Cove that Sings" (2 texts, 1 tune)

File: GrD3563

BROADSIDES:

- Bodleian, Firth c.21(6), "The Luck of a Cove Wot Sings" ("No doubt a song you've heard"), unknown, no date

NOTES [73 words]: "cove" n -s [Romany kova thing, person] slang Brit: MAN, CHAP, FELLOW, BLOKE (source: Webster's Third New International Dictionary of the English Language Unabridged (1976))

Apparently broadside Bodleian, Johnson Ballads fol. 143, "I'm One of the Chaps Wot Sings" ("No doubt a song you've heard"), J. Pitts (London), 1819-1844 is this song but I could not download and verify it. - BS

This really sounds like a music hall song to me. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.4

File: GrD3563
Coventry Carol, The

DESCRIPTION: A lullaby and a lament: the singer asks how to preserve her baby, for "Herod the king, in his raging, charged he hath this day His men of might in his own sight All children young to slay."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1591 (colophon of original lost manuscript)

KEYWORDS: death children Bible carol royalty religious

FOUND IN: Britain(England)

REFERENCES (10 citations):
Rickert-AncientEnglishChristmasCarols, pp. 76-77, "Lulay, Lullay, Thou Little Tiny Child" (1 tet)
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 252, "Coventry Carol" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dearmer/VaughnWilliams/Shaw-OxfordBookOfCarols 22, "Coventry Carol" (1 text, 2 tunes)
DT, COVCAROL
Brown/Robbins-IndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse, #2551.8
DigitalIndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse #4049

Rossell Hope Robbins, editor, _Early English Christmas Carols_, Columbia University Press, 1961, #28, pp. 74-76, "Lully, Lulla, Thou Little Tiny Child" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ian Bradley, _The Penguin Book of Carols_ (1999), #49, "Lully, Lulla, Thou Little Tiny Child" (1 text)

MANUSCRIPT: {MSPageantShearmen}, Coventry, Thomas Sharp MS. (burned 1879), folio ?
ST OBC022 (Full)

RECORDINGS:
John Jacob Niles, "Lulle Lullay (The Coventry Carol)" (Victor Red Seal 2017, 1940)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Innocents" (subject of the Massacre of the Innocents)
cf. "In Bethlehem, that Fair City" (subject of the Massacre of the Innocents)
cf. "Tyrel, Tyrlo (Tyrlow)" (from the same play)

NOTES [2176 words]: Not, properly speaking, a folk song, unless its modern popularity makes it so.
The Coventry Carol was originally found in the Coventry Pageant of the Shearmen and Tailors, a mystery (miracle) play of the fourteenth or fifteenth century (Happe, p. 343, suggests first quarter of the fifteenth century; the Oxford Book of Carols says fifteenth century). At the time the miracle plays were written, translation of the Bible into English was discouraged by the Catholic Church (the English version of Wycliffe was available for much of this period, but was officially heretical; Christie-Murray, p. 115. In any case, it was a very literal translation of the Latin, making it difficult to understand even when it accurately represented the Hebrew and Greek). The miracle plays, crude and biblically inaccurate (many of the cycles included the fall of Satan, the Harrowing of Hell, and other non-Biblical details) were therefore one of the chief sources of Biblical knowledge for many common people.

Many towns had cycles of miracle plays (as many as 48, in the case of York; Happe, p. 10), although not all would be performed in a particular year. The individual plays generally of a few hundred lines, usually performed on or around the festival of Corpus Christi. The craft guilds of each city would each take and perform a play.

On the evidence, most major towns had a unique cycle of miracle plays. The majority of these, however, are lost; we have only a handful (e.g. from York, Chester, and "N Town"; Happe, pp. 10-14) remaining. The Coventry cycle did not survive (the Coventry Plays should not be confused with the surviving "Ludus Coventria," which has "no connection" with the Coventry cycle, according to Wells, p. 565); we have only two Coventry pageants (that of the Shearmen and Tailors and that of the Weavers), from a manuscript by Robert Croo dated 1534 (the Oxford Book of Carols says 1591, which might be the time the songs were added to the text) -- and even the Croo manuscript was burned in the Birmingham Library Fire of 1879 (Wells, p. 566), leaving us dependent on bad transcriptions from 1817 and 1825 (Happe, p. 343).

What's more, the notes in Robbins point out that the melody in the three-part transcription has the melody in the top voice, not in the bottom (tenor) voice as was usual in the fifteenth century. So the arrangement may not be what was sung in the actual play but rather a sixteenth century rearrangement.

In a further irony, even though the Coventry Carol is the only part of the Mysteries to be known to the general public (unless they encountered the Second Shepherd's Play of the Wakefield cycle in a literature class), the Coventry Pageant itself is rarely published. Happe, e.g., prints the 900 lines of the Shearmen and Tailors pageant on pp. 344-380, but does not print the Coventry Weavers Play. The two plays, interestingly, are much longer than the usual Mystery Play; one suspects the Coventry Cycle had fewer plays than most others -- 900 lines for the Shearmen's play, 1192 lines for the Weaver's (Wells, p. 567). Craig strongly affirms this opinion, based in part on the number of pageants -- stages -- listed in Coventry records; he thinks there were ten plays in the cycle, and on p. xv lists what he thinks were their contents, although based on p. xlv of the introduction it appears that he has at least mentally modified his list. Wells, p. 566, on the other hand, explain the length of the Coventry pageants on the basis that the Shearmen and Tailor's pageant is actually two plays (which would explain why there are two guilds involved); the first play, of 331 lines, concerns the Annunciation, Nativity, and visit of the Shepherds. Then come 140+ lines by prophets to explain the situation, then (starting with line 475) we have the play of Herod and the Magi, to which the Coventry Carol belongs. I have not seen this view in any more recent works.

Characters in the play of the Shearmen and Tailors are Isaye (Isaiah), who speaks the prologue (Matthew's whole infancy tale of Jesus is built around Old Testament quotations, mostly from Isaiah); Gaberell (Gabriel, an import from Luke's infancy narrative, who announces the coming of Jesus); Mare (Mary); Josoff (Joseph); an Angell (Angel, to tell Joseph that Mary did not commit adultery); three Pastors (Shepherds, to whom the birth of Jesus is announced; they make anachronistic references to the Trinity); two Profeta (Prophets; non-Biblical; Gassner does not list them in the cast of characters); the Nonceose (the messenger, speaking at times in pseudo-French; Craig, p. 1, calls him "Nuncius," i.e. "Nuncio"), Erode (Herod), three Rex (kings -- the three Magi--Astrologers, sometimes called the "three kings" -- although the Bible neither says they were kings nor says there were three of them); (another?) Angellus (yes, it's spelled differently); 2 Myles (soldiers under Herod's orders, who are told to kill the children of Bethlehem; Gassner, 128 interprets the term "myles" as "knights"); and three Women (of Bethlehem, mothers of children to be killed).

How much of this is historical is a matter of conjecture. It probably isn't much. The Massacre of the Innocents, in which Herod the Great slaughtered all the children of Bethlehem in hopes of killing the Christ child, is described in Matthew 2:16. The other gospels do not hint at it. Beare, p. 74, tells us that the Emperor Nero was visited by a group of eastern "magians" in 66 C.E., and suggests that this might have put the idea in the mind of the author of Matthew (which gospel was probably written about 80 C.E.). Beare, p. 75, goes so far as to suggest that it is based in the legend of Osiris, Set, and Horus. But would a monotheistic Jew like Matthew go near such a tale? I doubt it. It is more likely that it is based on the Jewish Torah account of Pharaoh's murder of the children of Israel in Exodus 1-2; Matthew was probably creating a parallel between Jesus and Moses, something he was fond of doing.

We have no record of Herod committing this particular atrocity -- and Josephus probably would have told us if he had. It may be based on other instances of Herod's behavior, however; Josephus tells us that Herod ordered the killing of vast numbers of people at his death, so that the entire nation would have to mourn him (Josephus, Antiquities XVII.174-179; Josephus/Marcus/Wikgren, pp. 450-453), though his relatives prevented his wishes from being carried out (Josephus, Antiquities XVII.193-194; Josephus/Marcus/Wikgren, pp. 460-461). Whether that tale is true or not, it is a matter of historical fact that he killed his three oldest sons -- the eldest of them just days before his own death (Josephus, Antiquities XVII.186-187; Josephus/Marcus/Wikgren, pp. 456-459). Macrobius later told a grim jest attributed to none other than the Emperor Augustus -- that, since Herod was Jewish, it was safer to be Herod's pig (Greek, "hyn") than his son (, "hyion"). The subject of the Massacre was fairly popular in sermons and stories, for obvious reasons (see, for instance, "The Innocents," a literary version of the tale); we see such sob stories to this day. It seems to have been used for political messages, as well -- e.g. Bradbury, p. 189, shows a king looking on as children are slaughtered, which is clearly a reminiscence of the Massacre. The drawing was made around 1140 C.E., according to Bradbury, during the reign of England's King Stephen -- and Bradbury thinks it a comment on the civil war of Stephen's reign, not just a scriptural allusion.

The "lully lullay" lullaby (note the similarity between "lullay" and "lullabye," though ironically the dictionaries do not see a connection) is quite common starting in the fourteenth century. There are several "lullay" carols in Robbins, and I know of at least five poems beginning with this phrase, three of them from the Commonplace Book of John (or Johan de) Grimestone (1372): -- Brown/Robbins #2025. British Museum Harleian MS. 913, from the early fourteenth century, has a piece beginning "Lollai, lollai, litil child, whi whepistou so sore? Nedis mostou wepe, hit was i arkid e ore..." ("Lully, lullay, little child, why weep'st thou so sore? Needs must thou wepe, it was..."
ordained for you of yore.

Davies, #35, pp. 106-107; BrownXIV #28, pp. 35-36 (although Brown transcribes the first line as "...whi wepistow so sore"); Sidgwick/Chambers-EarlyEnglishLyrics XCI, pp. 166-168. A modernized version of this, under the title "A Bitter Lullaby," is on 127-128 of Morgan-MedievalBallads-ChivalryRomanceAndEverydayLife.

BrownXIV, p. 255, labels this the oldest of the "lullay" songs and says it is "exceptional in being the song of a human mother," with the several other "Lullay" songs being dialogs between the Virgin and Child (but, obviously, the Coventry Carol is also a song of a human mother and child). Davies regards it as mostly a warning of the sorrows to come in the world, concluding with a mention of Adam and Eve's sin Chambers, pp. 79-80, implies that this is the earliest surviving lullaby in the English language -- although, since it is sung by Mary to the baby Jesus, it isn't exactly an ordinary lullaby.

-- Brown/Robbins #2024. National Library of Scotland MS. Advocates 18.7.21. National Library of Scotland MS. Advocates 18.7.21, the 1372 Commonplace Book of John Grimestone: "Lullay, lullay, litel child, why wepest thu so sore? Lullay, lullay, litel child, Thu that were so sterne and wild."

Grimestone #8; Wilson, p. 2.

GreeneSelection #43, pp. 103-104; Luria/Hoffman #201, pp. 194-195.

-- Brown/Robbins #2023. National Library of Scotland MS. Advocates 18.7.21. Again from National Library of Scotland MS. Advocates 18.7.21, the Grimestone Commonplace Book: "Lullay, lullay, litel cjild, child reste thee a throwe, Fro heye hider art thu sent with us to wone lowe": "Lullay, lullay, little child, rest you a spell, From high hither are you sent with us to dwell [be]low." Grimestone #180; Wilson, p. 37.

Luria/Hoffman #202, pp. 195-196; Burrow/Turville-Petre, pp. 246-247; BrownXIV, #65, p. 83

-- Brown/Robbina #352. National Library of Scotland MS. Advocates 18.7.21; Cambridge University MS. Add. 5943; Cambridge, St. John's College MS. 259; London, British Library, MS. Harley 2330. Again from Grasmine, plus three other copies, despite being sixteen or so verses long. "Lullay, lullay, la lullay, My dere moder, lullay, Als I lay vpon a nith, Alone in my longging": "Lullay, lullay, la lullay, My dear mother, lullay. As I lay upon a night, Alone in my longing." Grasmine #5; Wilson, p. 2; indexed as "Als I Lay Upon a Nith (As I Lay Upon a Night II)."

BrownXIV, #56, pp. 70-75; Davies, #38, pp. 112-114

-- Brown/Robbins #1264. Bodleian MS. 29003. Fifteenth century. "Lullay lullay my lityll chyld, slepe & be now still. If u be a lytill chyld itt may u haue i will": "Lullay, lullay, my little child, sleep and be now still. If thou be a little child, yet may thou have thy will."

BrownXV, #3, pp. 3-4.

In each case, the "lully, lullay, little child" phrase serves as a partial refrain.

Grasmine was himself a Franciscan monk from Norfolk (Bennett/Gray, p. 367), and recorded these poems for religious not secular reasons (Bennett/Gray, p. 367, report that he had a collection of almost 250 assorted lyrics which he apparently used when preaching; Burrow/Turville-Petre, p. 245, observe that they are arranged topically, under headings such as abstinence. They report that 239 of the items are in English, with others in Latin). But it is hard to imagine anyone composing lullabyes to the baby Jesus if there were no secular lullabyes.

The exceptionally feeble state of the tradition of the Coventry piece, incidentally, results in some variants, as does the problem of early spelling. There is no doubt, for instance, that the first line is to be pronounced "Oh sisters too," but we cannot be sure if this is to be interpreted as "Oh sisters, too," or as "Oh sisters too." We do note that there are three women of Bethlehem present when the song is sung.

The second verse gives an even greater problem. Is the third word of the second line "mourn" or "morn"? If the former, then the line should be read "and ever mourn and say" (perhaps to be emended to "mourn and pray"); if the latter, then "and ever morn and day." Gassner, p. 143, goes so far as to emend to "And ever mourn I may." Craig emends to "And ever morn, and morn and may" (attributing the reading to Kittredge). The former question, of what word is meant by "too," certainly cannot be resolved (since spelling in that era was so fluid); the latter can only be resolved if, by extremely unlikely chance, another manuscript turns up.

There are two other short songs in the play, with the others being sung by the shepherds. They have the same "terly terlow" refrain, so they may in fact be one song; cf. "Tyrle, Tyrlo (Tyrley, Tyrlow)."

Kerr, p.132, claims that this song was heard by the English kings Richard III and Henry VII. The Kerrs do not cite any authority for this claim. - RBW

Bibliography

Cow Ate the Piper, The

DESCRIPTION: In the troubles of '98, piper Denny Byrne cannot find work. Needing shoes, he tries to take boots from an executed soldier -- but pulls down legs as well. He sleeps that night in a cowshed; in the morning the farmer assumes the cow has eaten the piper

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1847 (Songs of Ireland and Other Lands)

KEYWORDS: humorous Ireland rebellion animal poverty homicide escape clothes corpse

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1798 - Irish rebellion causes Britain to place Ireland under martial law

FOUND IN: Ireland Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H29, pp. 53-54, "Denny Byrne, the Piper" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 29, "The Cow That Ate the Piper" (1 text)
OLochlainn-MorelIrishStreetBallads 37, "The Cow Ate the Piper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 60, "The Cow that Ate the Piper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 91, "The Cow Ate the Piper" (1 text)
DT, COWPIPER*

ADDITIONAL: (no author listed), _Songs of Ireland and Other Lands_, D. & J. Sadlier & Co., 1847 (available on Google Books), pp. 103-106
Cow Camp on the Range

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, the prairie dogs are screaming, And the birst are on the wing, See the heel fly chase the heifer, boys! 'Tis the first class sign of spring." The singer appreciates the food and the end of winter, and says there is no home like the range camp.

AUTHOR: Tom Mew? (source: Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)

EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Lomax)

KEYWORDS: cowboy home work cook

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 30-31, "A Cow-Camp on the Range" (1 text)
Saffel-CowboyPoetry, pp. 217-218, "Cow Camp on the Range" (1 text)

Roud #8043

NOTES [25 words]: This doesn't look at all traditional to me; it appears to be one of those poems Lomax lifted from somewhere for Cowboy Songs. But I can't prove it. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: Saffe217

Cow Hooking Blues

DESCRIPTION: The singer wakes up to find the girl he loves has gone. He considers drowning himself in the river. He goes to the barn and a cow hooks him with its horn. "She hurt my heart, you might have heard me cry"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1963 (MJHurt05)

KEYWORDS: grief courting love parting injury animal lover

FOUND IN:

RECORDINGS:
Mississippi John Hurt, "Cow Hooking Blues" (on MJHurt05)

File: RcCoHoBl

Cow that Drank the Poteen, The

DESCRIPTION: Paddy Shinahan makes poteen. His cow drinks some, becomes drunk, and fights Paddy. She wakes with a broken horn and advises "all good cows" to shun drink. When her milk was brown, Una, the milkmaid, thinks it was the cow's blood. Paddy does not betray her

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (recording, Paddy Tunney)

KEYWORDS: drink humorous animal food

FOUND IN: Ireland

Roud #5170

RECORDINGS:
Paddy Tunney, "The Cow that Drank the Poteen" (on Voice13)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Tom Kelly's Cow" (theme: cow hides drinking problem)
File: RcTcDtP

Cowardy Cowardy Custard
DESCRIPTION: "Cowardy cowardy custard, You ate your father's mustard." Or "Cowry cowry custard, Your mother's made of mustard."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty father food
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 126, "(Cowardy cowardy custard)" (1 text); p. 132, "Cowry, cowry, custard") (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Peter and Iona Opie, _I Saw Esau: Traditional Rhymes of Youth_, #156, "(Cowardy, cowardy, custard)" (1 text)
Roud #19247
File: SuSm126E

Cowaye
DESCRIPTION: "Cowaye cowaye Cut a roadie throw aye A peck for a firlot [35 pounds] A firlot for a bowaye [bowl]"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: farming nonballad animal
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 432, "Cowaye" (1 fragment)
Roud #5948
NOTES [25 words]: Greig/Duncan3: "The heading is 'Cry of one herd to another.' 'Cowaye' = come along."
The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan3 fragment. - BS
Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD3432

Cowboy (I), The
DESCRIPTION: "A man there lives on the Western plain With a ton of fight and an ounce of brains." The song tells of the wild exploits of the cowboy: "He feels unwell unless in strife" "He snuffs out candles with pistol balls" "He fills with terror all he meets"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1884 (The Kansas Cowboy newspaper)
KEYWORDS: cowboy violence
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 28, "Idyl of the Plains" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 65, "The Cowboy #2" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, THECOWBY*
Roud #11078
File: FCW028

Cowboy Again for a Day
DESCRIPTION: The singer urges time (or film) to "turn backward." He wishes to replace airplanes and automobiles with "my sombrero and flaps." He recalls the old days. His wish is that someone "Make me a cowboy again for a day."
AUTHOR: unknown
Cowboy Lore

Earliest Date: 1933 ("Cowboy Lore")
Keywords: cowboy technology derivative
Found in: US
References (2 citations):
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 116, "Cowboy Again for a Day" (2 texts, 1 tune; the "B" text, "Moving Picture Cowboy," is heavily adapted and should probably count as a separate piece, but surely never existed in oral tradition)
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 56, "Make Me a Cowboy Again" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5092
Recordings:
Peg Moreland, "Make Me a Cowboy Again" (Victor V-40272, 1930; on MakeMe)
Cross-references:
cf. "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother" (tune)
cf. "Backward, Turn Backward (I)" (tune, lyrics)
Notes [37 words]: For background on the "Backward, turn backward" lyric, ultimately derived from "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother" by Elizabeth Akers Allen, see the notes to "Backward, Turn Backward (I)" as well as to "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother." - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: FCW116

Cowboy at Work, The

Description: "You may call the cowboy horned and think him hard to tame.... But to know him is to like him, notwithstanding his hard name, For he will divide with you his beef and bread." He works hard in tough conditions "but his heart is warm and tender"
Author: unknown
Earliest Date: 1921 (Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)
Keywords: cowboy work
Found in:
References (1 citation):
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 34-35, "The Cowboy at Work" (1 text)
File: ThLo034

Cowboy Boasting Chants

Description: Cowboy boasts of his exploits, talking about/to the horses he rides. Samples: "Born on the Colorado, Sired by an alligator, I'm a bold, bad man from Cripple Creek, Colorado." To the horse: "Git higher, git higher, The higher you git's too low for me."
Author: unknown
Earliest Date: 1934
Keywords: cowboy horse bragging nonballad floatingverses
Found in: US
References (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 381-383, "Cowboy to Pitching Bronco;" "Other Cowboy Boasting Chants" (3 texts, 1 tune, but described as "declaimed, not sung")
Roud #15536
Notes [19 words]: These pieces are not really songs, and can be assembled out of floating materials. As a result, I lump them here. - RBW
File: LxA381

Cowboy in Church

Description: The cowboy wanders into church in his work clothes, noting "on the plains we scarcely know a Sunday from a Monday." The crowd is upset, though the preacher too is dressed in "the trappings of his trade." He reflects on how people look down on cowboys
Author: unknown
Earliest Date: 1910
Keywords: clergy clothes cowboy
Found in: US
Cowboy Jack [Laws B24]

DESCRIPTION: Having quarreled with his sweetheart, Jack joins a band of cowboys. He decides to return home and ask forgiveness after singing about a faithful girl. He arrives too late; his sweetheart has died with his name on her lips

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (Sires, "Songs of the Open Range")

KEYWORDS: separation death cowboy

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SW)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
Laws B24, "Cowboy Jack"
Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 5, pp. 48-52, "Cowboy Jack" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 5, "Cowboy Jack" (1 text, 1 tune)
Tinsley-HeWasSinginThisSong, pp. 204-207, "Cowboy Jack" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #22, "Jack Was a Lonely Cowboy" (1 text, 1 tune)
ArkansasWoodchopper, pp. 28-29, "Cow-boy Jack" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 788, COWBYJCK*

Roud #3244

RECORDINGS:
Arkansas Woodchopper [pseud. for Luther Ossenbrink], "Cowboy Jack" (Conqueror 7882, 1931; Melotone [Can.] 91539, 1933)
Homer & Walter Callahan, "Cowboy Jack" (ARC 6-09-53/OKeh 03171/Vocalion 03171, 1936; Columbia 27613/Columbia 20212, 1947)
Smiling Bill Carlisle, "Cowboy Jack" (Vocalion 02839. 1934)
Carter Family, "Cowboy Jack" (Montgomery Ward M-4545, c. 1935/Bluebird B-8167, 1939)
Girls of the Golden West, "Cowboy Jack" (Bluebird B-5719, 1934)
Harry Jackson, "Cowboy Jack" (on HJackson1)
Peg Moreland, "Cowboy Jack" (Victor 23593, 1929) (Bluebird B-4956, c. 1933)
Roy Shaffer, "Cowboy Jack" (Bluebird B-8303, 1939)
Marc Williams, "Cowboy Jack" (Brunswick 430, 1930; rec. 1929)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Blackbirds and Thrushes (I)" (plot)

File: LB24

Cowboy Song (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Though your backs they are weak An' your legs they ain't strong, Don't be skairt, little dogies, We'll get there 'fore long." The singer encourages the cattle; even though right now the trail is dry and ugly, there are better places ahead

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Randolph)

KEYWORDS: cowboy work travel animal

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 205, "Cowboy Song" (1 text)

Roud #5483

File: R205
Cowboy Trail, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer, a cowboy, comes to an Indian village; they welcome him. He meets a girl; they ride the trail together, courting as they go. A war party overtakes them, taking the girl and leaving him wounded. She returns; he asks her to bury him by the trail

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1931 (recording, Buell Kazee)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer, a cowboy, takes lonely trail to an Indian village, where they welcome him. He meets a girl; she waits for him out on the trail and they ride off together, courting as they go. As they approach a ranch, a war party overtakes them, taking the girl and leaving him wounded. She returns; he tells her he is dying, and asks her to bury him by the trail so that she may mourn for him
KEYWORDS: courting love fight war travel burial death dying mourning lover cowboy Indians(Am.)
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
RECORDINGS:
Buell Kazee, "The Cowboy Trail" (Brunswick 481, c. 1931; rec. 1929; on WhenIWas2, KMM)

Cowboy's Challenge

DESCRIPTION: "Down, down, hold me down, It takes more than one man to hold me down."
Repeat with two men, three men, etc.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)
KEYWORDS: cowboy nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, p. 399, "Cowboy's Challenge" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7817
File: Beld399

Cowboy's Dream, The

DESCRIPTION: "One night as I lay on the prairie... I wondered if ever a cowboy Could drift to that sweet by and by.... Roll on, roll on, roll on, little dogies, roll on, roll on....." A cowboy's reflections on the afterlife, with the images cast in herding terms

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 ("Cow-Boy Life in Texas"); Will Barnes thought he learned the words in 1886 or 1887
KEYWORDS: cowboy religious dream
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So,SW) Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (21 citations):
Randolph 185, "One Night As I Lay on the Prairie" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 516, "The Great Round-Up" (1 text)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 95, p. 227, "Cowboy Meditations" (1 text)
Hudson-FolkTunesFromMississippi 44, "Cowboy Meditations" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 14-17, "The Cowboy's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 146, "The Cowboys Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
Larkin-SingingCowboy, pp. 105-108, "The Cowboy's Heaven" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thorp/Fife-SongsOfTheCowboys VI, pp. 66-86 (19), "Grand Round-Up" (9 texts, 3 tunes);
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 40-41, "The Cowboy's Dream"; pp. 75-77, "The Great Round-Up" (2 texts)
File/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 122, "The Grand Roundup" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Finger-FrontierBallads, pp. 101-103, "The Cowboy's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp 155-157, "The Cowboy's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 410-411, "The Cowboy's Dream" (1 text, tune references; this appears to combine "The Cowboy's Dream" and "The Last Great Round-Up")
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 75, pp. 166-167, "Cowboy Song" (1 text)
Cowboy's Farewell, The

DESCRIPTION: "A cowboy lay out on the prairie... Oh, he had a quart of good liquor, And nearly a full quart of gin." He has been a cowboy all his life, avoiding farming and sheep ranches. He regretfully drinks to those who have taken over his cattle range

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (Powder River Jack Lee songbook)

KEYWORDS: cowboy drink travel home hardtimes

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 34-35, "Good-Bye, You Old Dty Landers" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Powder River Jack and Kitty Lee's _Songs of the Range: Cowboy Wails of Cattle Trails_, Chart Music, 1937, pp. 22-23, "The Cowboy's Farewell" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #12693

File: PRJ022

Cowboy's Life, A

DESCRIPTION: "A cowboy's life is a weary, dreary life, Some say it's free from care." The singer complains of long hours, rising too early in the day, howling wild animals, bad weather, and wealthy Cowboy's Life, The

DESCRIPTION: "The bawl of a steer To a cowboy's ear Is music of sweetest strain; And the yelping notes Of the gray coyotes To him are a glad refrain." The cowboy recalls home and girl, and concludes, "Saddle up, boys, For the work is play."

AUTHOR: James Barton Adams?
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Lomax)
KEYWORDS: cowboy work home nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 44-45, "The Cowboy's Life" (1 text)
Saffel-CowboyPoetry, p. 219-220, "The Cowboy's Life" (1 text)
Roud #8062
NOTES [55 words]: Given the metre, the form, the contents, and the Lomaxness of this item, I'd bet a lot that it isn't traditional; John Lomax doubtless threw it into Cowboy Songs just to add bulk to the volume, and Thorp then picked it up in a sort of "you stole my songs, I'll steal yours" tit-for-tat. But we can't prove it, so here it is. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: Saffe219

Cowboy's Meditation

DESCRIPTION: "At midnight when cattle are sleeping," the cowboy looks at the stars and wonders. Are they inhabited worlds with cowboys and cattle ranges? Do cowboys there wonder about our sun? Will he meet mother in heaven? When dawn breaks, he gets back to work

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)
KEYWORDS: cowboy work family death
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 46-47, "The Cowboy's Meditation" (1 text)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 121, "Cowboy's Meditation" (1 text, 1 tune)
ArkansasWoodchopper, pp. 26-27, "The Cow-boy's Meditation" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4453
RECORDINGS:
Lee Boswell, "The Cowboy's Meditation" (Decca 5057, 1934)
David Gauthier, "Cowboy's Meditation" (Broadway 8325, rec. 1931)
Kenneth Houchins, "Cowboy's Meditation" (Champion 45028, 1935)
NOTES [32 words]: Yes, this is Cowboy Science Fiction. Roud lumps this with "The Cowboy's Dream." There are similarities in theme, but this seems much more creative. Like Thorp, I wish I knew who wrote this. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: FCW121

Cowboy's Prayer (I), A
DESCRIPTION: "Oh Lord, I've never lived where churches grow"; the speaker prefers the wilderness as God created it. He is thankful that he is "no slave of whistle, clock, or bell." He apologises for his failings, and asks for guidance in the future
AUTHOR: Words: Charles Badger Clark
EARLIEST DATE: 1920
KEYWORDS: cowboy religious nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 128, "A Cowboy's Prayer" (1 text)
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 47-48, "A Cowboy's Prayer" (1 text)
Saffel-CowboyPoetry, p. 154, "A Cowboy's Prayer" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: John I. White, _Git Along, Little Dogies: Songs and Songmakers of the American West_, 1975 (page references are to the 1989 University of Illinois Press edition), pp. 126-136, "Badger Clark, Poet of Yesterday's West" (1 text plus discussion and a short biography of Clark)
Roud #11201
NOTES [24 words]: There is no evidence that this song has ever circulated in tradition; the Fifes included it in their book for its content, not its pedigree. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: FCW128

Cowboy's Prayer (II), The
DESCRIPTION: "Guard me, Lord, while I'm a-riding 'cross the dusty range out there From the dangers that are hiding on the trail so bleak and bare." The cowboy asks for guidance and protection, and concludes "At last to heaven lead me, up in the home corral."
AUTHOR: Earl Alonzo Brinistool
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 ("Trail Dust of a Maverick")
KEYWORDS: religious cowboy recitation
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 77, "The Cowboy's Prayer" (1 text)
Saffel-CowboyPoetry, p. 81, "A Range Rider's Appeal" (1 text)
File: 0hr077

Cowboy's Ride, The
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, for a ride o'er the prairies free, On a fiery untamed steed...." The singer describes guiding the horse on its travels, concluding "You can have your ride in the crowded town! Give me the prairies free... Oh, that's the ride for me."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1966
KEYWORDS: cowboy horse travel
Cowboy's Soliloquy, The

DESCRIPTION: "All day (long) on the prairies I ride, Not even a dog to run by my side." The solitary cowboy describes his life on the prairie -- where, e.g., "My books are the brooks, my sermons the stones" (the latter teaching him "not to despise" small things).

AUTHOR: Allen McCandless?

EARLIEST DATE: 1885 (Kansas "Cowboy")

KEYWORDS: cowboy work loneliness

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
- Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 4-6, "The Biblical Cowboy" (1 text)
- Larkin-SingingCowboy, pp. 131-134, "The Cowboy" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 123, "The Cowboy's Soliloquy" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 66, "The Cowboy #1" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Saffel-CowboyPoetry, pp. 176-177, "The Cowboy" (1 text)
- Tinsley-HeWasSinginThisSong, pp. 2-7, "The Cowboy" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #5102

RECORDINGS:
- Glenn Ohrlin, "The Cowboy" (on Ohrlin01, BackSaddle)
- Carl T. Sprague, "The Cowboy" (Victor 21402, 1928; Montgomery Ward M-4783, c. 1935; on WhenIWas2)

NOTES [80 words]: Seemann and Ohrlin both credit authorship to Allen McCandless. Seemann also lists first printing as being in the Trinidad, Colorado Daily Advertiser, 1885. [Cannon also attributes this to McCandless, and lists the 1885 printing, but says that it probably circulated before that, which makes you wonder about McCandless's authorship - RBW]

Carl T. Sprague's recording [credits] the words to John Lomax's "Cowboy Ballads" book. From oral tradition to print to aural tradition. - PJS

Last updated in version 5.3

File: FCW123

Cowboys Victimized

DESCRIPTION: "We all made the guess by the cut of his dress An' the tenderfoot style that he slung" that the visitor was some unacceptable alien. He says he can ride anything; they offer him the horse called "Satan." He rider tames Satan, for he is Bronco Bill Snyder

AUTHOR: James Barton Adams (source: Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)

EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)

KEYWORDS: cowboy horse trick

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 49-52, "Cowboys Victimized" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Zebra Dun" (theme of the un-ridable horse)

File: ThLo049

Cowboys' Christmas Ball, The

DESCRIPTION: "Way out in western Texas where the Clear Forks waters flow... It was there that I attended the Cowboys' Christmas Ball." The location is described, as are all the people who show up. The singer expects to recall the excitement forever

AUTHOR: Larry Chittenden
Cowboys' New Years Dance, The

DESCRIPTION: "We were sitting round the ranch house some twenty hands or more, Most of us Americans but a few from Arkansas...." "Twas with them I attended the Cowboys' New Years Ball." The extravagant dance is described in extravagant terms

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Thorp)

KEYWORDS: cowboy party parody

FOUND IN: REFERENCES (2 citations):

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Reference</th>
<th>Notes</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Thorp/Fife-SongsOfTheCowboys XXII, pp. 251-253 (44-48), &quot;The Cowboys New Years Dance&quot; (1 text)</td>
<td>Thorp in his 1908 edition credits this to an unknown &quot;Mark Chisholm.&quot; On the other hand, Thorp appears to have marked the song as one of his own in a copy given to a friend. Since the song does not seem to have appeared elsewhere, either in oral tradition or in print, it probably doesn't matter much. - RBW</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 552-554, &quot;The Cowboys' New Years Dance&quot; (1 text)</td>
<td>[51 words]</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Roud #12501

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Cowboys' Christmas Ball"

NOTES [51 words]: Thorp in his 1908 edition credits this to an unknown "Mark Chisholm." On the other hand, Thorp appears to have marked the song as one of his own in a copy given to a friend. Since the song does not seem to have appeared elsewhere, either in oral tradition or in print, it probably doesn't matter much. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.7

File: TF22

Cowcadden's Heroes

DESCRIPTION: The key members of Orange Lodge One-Six-Two are named. Then the singer puts himself at the Boyne. "When we ... had safely crossed I fell into a dream" of Joshua leading "us" across Jordan and around Jericho until "it came tumbling"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark)

KEYWORDS: dream Ireland Bible moniker political religious

FOUND IN: REFERENCES (1 citation):

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Reference</th>
<th>Notes</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark 24, &quot;Cowcadden's Heroes&quot; (1 text, 1 tune)</td>
<td>[65 words]</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Last updated in version 5.3

File: TF16
Notes [94 words]: For the Battle of the Boyne, regarded as a liberating event by Irish Protestants, see the notes to "The Battle of the Boyne (I)." Joshua's exploits are only marginally parallel to the events of 1688-1690: The crossing of the Jordan was unopposed, and the river bed was dry (see chapters 3-4 of the book of Joshua). And the Boyne was a straight battle, unlike the siege of Jericho, which was -- a siege (see Joshua chapters 5-6). It can't even be compared with the siege of Londonderry, because Jericho was captured by assault, while Derry withstood its siege. - RBW

Cow, Cowe

Description: If you like "lang kail" [see notes] cull the nettle early. Cull it low and soon, in June, before it blooms. Cull it by the wall, where the sun doesn't fall, at dawn. Cull it with an old toothless sickle and old leather-palmed gloves.

Author: unknown

Earliest Date: 1828 (Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2)

Keywords: food nonballad

Found In: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord))

References (6 citations):

Greig/Duncan8 1656, "Cow, Cowe" (1 text)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 143, "Cow the Nettle Airlie" (1 text)

Additional: Robert Chambers, The Popular Rhymes of Scotland (Edinburgh, 1870 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 34, "Cou' the Nettle Early"
Robert Chambers, The Popular Rhymes of Scotland (Edinburgh, 1870 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 34, "The Wee Wyifie" (1 text)
Robert Ford, Children's Rhymes, Children's Games, Children's Songs, Children's Stories (Paisley, 1904 (2nd edition, "Digitized by Google")), pp. 138-139, "Cow the Nettle Early"
Roud #13047

Cross-references:
cf. "Jenny Nettles" (tune, per Greig/Duncan8)

Notes [179 words]: Chambers notes, "Broth is sometimes made from nettles by the Scottish poor." Since his note follows the line "Gin ye be for lang kail" -- that is cabbage boiled, strained, chopped and seasoned with butter -- I assume that that dish and the nettle broth go together. Ford says "Cow the Nettle Early" is "another delectable song for children -- also of a subtly didactic character."
"An old Scotch rhyme says the Nettle must be pulled in June:
Ere it's in the blume
Pull it by the auld wa's,
Pull whar the sun n'er fa's,
Stoo it when the day daw's,
Pu' the nettle early."
(source: Mary Pamela Milne-Home, Stray Leaves from a Border Garden, (London, 1901 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 184). This rhyme is entirely distinct from "Cow the Nettle Early."
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 p. xli: "Crawfurd supplied songs and rhymes for Robert Chambers ... it appears that the versions of 143 'Cow the Nettle Airlie' and 144 'The Wee Wyifie' ...." Chambers 1870 notes these to be from "recitations in Fife and Ayrshire." Crawfurd's versions are from Ayrshire (p. xxxix). - BS

Last updated in version 2.6
File: GrD81656

Crabe Dans Calalou

Description: Creole French lullabye: "Fais dodo, mon fils, Crabe dans lalalou." "Go to sleep, my son, Crabs are in the pot." Father has gone to the river; mother is catching crabs.

Author: unknown

Earliest Date: 1937 (Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry)

Keywords: foreignlanguage lullaby father mother fishing

Found In: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 97-98, "Crabe Dans Calalou" (1 French text plus English translation, 1 tune)
File: LoSi097

Crabtree Still
DESCRIPTION: "I went up the hill, I found a still, So gather round, boys, we will all keep mum. It's bad, it's sad, it's a shame." "Ed" is killed in a shootout (?), and those with the moonshine are chased by the sheriff. They end up in court before a dishonest judge
AUTHOR: Clabe Kazee?
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)
KEYWORDS: drink police judge trial punishment
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, pp. 118-120, "Crabtree Still" (1 text)
File: ThBa118

Crack Schooner Moonlight, The
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, we towed out the Moonlight, dropped the tug in the gale With the old Law before us and the Porter on our tail." "Hurrah for a race down the Lakes!" The sailor describes the wind and how they "leave the Law, the Damforth, and others by the score."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (collected by Walton from a group of Illinois sailors)
KEYWORDS: ship racing
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 231-234, "The Crack Schooner Moonlight" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #19861
RECORDINGS:
Ivan Watson, "The Crack Schooner Moonlight" (fragment, 1938; on WaltonSailors, which curiously omits a line from the chorus shown in the Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors text)
NOTES [613 words]: Although this song praises the Moonlight's performance, the statement that she was a "crack schooner" requires a lot of footnotes. Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors describes her as having a clipper hull but a schooner rig -- a strange compromise, since clippers were designed mostly for speed (at the cost of cargo capacity), and schooners, though highly maneuverable, we not as fast as square-rigged ships. Keller, p. 77, reports that "She was a three-master, her rigging consisting of fore and aft sails on the mainsail and mainmast, and a squaresail on the foremast. But unlike the traditional barkentine rig, she carried a large, billowing triangular topsail above the squaresail, known as a raffee." The effect of this, clearly visible in the painting of the ship on p. 78 of Keller, is that most of her sail is on the foremast.
This apparently was a common compromise on the Great Lakes, where (due to the many shoals) maneuverability was important. Keller, p. 79, says that "Only a few short years after she was built, the MOONLIGHT was generally acknowledged to be one of the finest -- and fastest -- cargo vessels on the Great Lakes."
Her reputation did little to keep her in business. After just 14 years, in 1888, Moonlight was sold, cut down, and made into a sailing barge. Nor did it have much luck in this configuration. Thompson, p. 90, shows a photo of the Moonlight after it ran aground near Marquette in 1895 after her tow the Charles J. Kershaw suffered a boiler problem. (a closeup of the photo is on p. 80 of Keller, who however dates the accident to 1896.)
According to Wolff, p. 74, the Moonlight and the Henry A. Kent (which had also run aground in the Kershaw incident) were not re-floated until the next year, and that at "enormous expense." The Kershaw itself was a total loss, and one of the tugs called in to rescue the barges sank on its way home.
At that time, Moonlight still had three masts. But apparently after that she was further cut down. Keller has a photograph on p. 81; the once-proud schooner ended up losing her mainmast, and while the foremast and mizzen are still there, they have no yards; I see no way to hang a sail. The once-beautiful ship has become extremely ugly and utilitarian.

According to Wolff, p. 100, the Moonlight's last voyage was in September 1903. Carrying a load of 1400 tons of iron ore, she began to take on water and quickly sank. The crew, fortunately, was rescued by her tow the Volunteer (Keller, p. 82); the Moonlight may have had a lot of accidents, but she seems to have had a good safety record.

According to Keller, p. 83, the Moonlight at the time of her loss "was valued at $12,000, less than half of what she was worth in her glory days."

This song, however, describes an earlier event in the boat's existence. Keller, p. 80, gives no date, but apparently the Moonlight and the Porter left Buffalo at about the same time, and both were heading for Milwaukee. They agreed to have a race. It was a very close contest as they passed the Straights of Mackinac. Then a storm blew up. Captain Sullivan of the Moonlight took shelter in Port Washington; the Porter pressed on. The Porter won the race -- sort of. Moonlight reached Milwaukee under her own power. The Porter had lost all her masts and rigging, and reached Milwaukee only because tugs had found her after the storm and hauled her into port (Keller, p. 81). According to Keller, the captains decided to call it a draw and headed to a bar together.

It would seem reasonable to assume that this song was written in the years between the race and the time the Moonlight was cut down. - RBW

Bibliography

- Keller: James M. Keller, The "Unholy Apostles: Shipwreck Tales of the Apostle Islands, 1984
  (I use the 1989 Bookcrafters edition, which -- given the information on the spine and title page -- I suspect to be a private printing)
- Thompson: Mark L. Thompson, Graveyards of the Lakes, Wayne State University Press, 2000
- Wolff: Julius F. Wolff Jr., Lake Superior Shipwrecks, Lake Superior Port Cities Inc., Duluth, 1990

Last updated in version 5.0
File: WGM231

Crackers, Crackers, Penny a Cracker
DESCRIPTION: Rope-skipping game. "Cracker, cracker, Penny a cracker, When you pull them, They go bang."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 106, "(Crackers, crackers)" (1 text)
File: SuSm106B

Cradle Lullaby
DESCRIPTION: "Baloo, loo baby, now baloo, my dear, now baloo, loo lammie, your mammie is here." The singer consoles her baby through all the wind and storm, while lamenting that its father is out on the sea. She hopes the child's "wauk'nin' be blyther than mine."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Ord-BothySongsAndBallads)
KEYWORDS: lullaby father sailor separation
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, p. 167, "Cradle Lullaby" (1 text)
Roud #5562
File: Ord167
Cradle's Ta'en the Stan' Again, The

DESCRIPTION: The cradle has stopped rocking and "twould need a man wi' tartan hose" to make it rock again.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan7)

KEYWORDS: sex childbirth nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1452, "The Cradle's Ta'en the Stan' Again" (1 text)

Roud #7279

File: GrD71452

Crafty Farmer, The [Child 283; Laws L1]

DESCRIPTION: A farmer carrying money from/for a transaction is met by a robber. The robber demands his money; the farmer throws it on the grass. While the robber gathers it, the farmer makes off with the robber's horse and all the wealth in his saddlebags

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1769

KEYWORDS: robbery trick money outlaw escape

FOUND IN: Britain(England(All),Scotland(Aber,Hebr)) Ireland Canada(Mar,Newf) US(Ap,MA,MW,NE,NW,Ro,SE,So)

REFERENCES (41 citations):
Child 283, "The Crafty Farmer" (1 text)
Bronson 283, "The Crafty Farmer" (43 versions)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildrensPopularBallads 283, "The Crafty Farmer" (5 versions: #1, #12, #18, #25, #38)
Laws L1, "The Yorkshire Bite" (Laws gives three broadside texts on pp. 73-77 of ABFBB)
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 253-254, "The Yorkshire Bite" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Bk 11)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #137, "Highwayman Outwitted" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #35, pp. 1-2, "The Yorkshire Farmer" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan2 266, "The Yorkshire Farmer" (9 texts, 7 tunes) {A=Bronson's #25, C=#28 [misattributed in Bronson], D=#27, E=#34, F=#23}
Greig/Duncan2 267, "The Farmer and the Robber" (2 texts, 2 tunes) {A=Bronson's #1, B=#3}
Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Ballad #17, pp. 126-130,243-245, "Saddle to Rags" (1 text)
Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 177-180, "Saddle to Rags" (1 text)
Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 140-142, "Saddle to Rags" (1 text, 1 tune)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 406-413, "The Yorkshire Bite" (3 texts, 1 tune); also pp. 477-478, "The Crafty Farmer" (notes plus many stanzas from Child) {Bronson's #31}
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 234-235, "The Yorkshire Bite" (1 fragment, 1 tune) {Bronson's #20}
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 51-53, "The Yorkshire Boy" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #32}
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 97-102, "The Yorkshire Bite" (1 text, 1 tune, plus extended analysis including several excerpts) {Bronson's #29}
Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland4, pp. 139-175, "The Yorkshire Bite" (9 texts plus 6 fragments, 9 tunes) {B=Bronson's #32, D=#29, K=#20}
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 46, "The Crafty Farmer" [incorrectly listed as Child #278] (1 text plus an excerpt)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 46, "The Crafty Farmer" (1 excerpt, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 55, "Johnny and the Highwayman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #141, "The Yorkshire Bite" (1 text); #142, "The Damsel from Cheshire" (1 text, with this plot but with the interesting twist that the person robbed is female)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 237-239, "Well Sold the Cow" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #26}
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 14, "Well Sold the Cow" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #19}
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 171-173, "Well Sold the Cow" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #26}
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 20, "The Little Yorkshire Boy" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #21}
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 60, "The Yorkshire Bite" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Peacock, pp. 33-38, "The Yorkshire Boy" (2 texts, 3 tunes)
Logan-APedlarsPack, pp. 127-133, "The Crafty Farmer" and "The Yorkshire Bite" (2 texts)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 662-665, "The Crafty Farmer" (2 texts)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 117, "The Old Spotted Cow" (2 texts, 3 tunes)
{Tune "B" is Bronson's #29}
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 163-164, "The Kennebec Bite" (1 text)
Thompson-APioneerSongster 6, "The Kennebec Bite" (1 text)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 157, "John Sold the Cow Well" (1 text plus mention of 2 more)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 118-119, "Down, Down Derry Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
{Bronson's #37}
Combs/Wilgus-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernUnitedStates 89, pp. 130-132, "The Crafty Farmer" (1 text)
Henry/Huntingdon-Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H51, pp. 129-130, "The Crafty Ploughboy" (1 text, 1 tune)
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 180, "The Yorkshire Farmer" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 31, "The Crafty Farmer" (1 text)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 94-95, "The Wise Farmer" (1 text)
DT 283, CRAFTBY CRFTFARM*
ADDITIONAL: Katherine Briggs, _A Dictionary of British Folk-Tales in the English Language_, Part A: Folk Narratives, 1970 (I use the 1971 Routledge paperback that combines volumes A.1 and A.2), volume A.2, pp. 377-380, "The Boy Who Outwitted the Robber" (a prose version of the tale from Scotland)
Roud #2640 and 2637
RECORDINGS:
Elizabeth Cronin, "The Yorkshire Farmer" (on IRECronin01)
Nick Davis, "The Yorkshire Boy" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Warde Ford, "The Oxford Merchant (Hampshire Bite)" (AFS 4197 A, 1938; on LC58, in AMMEM/Cowell) {Bronson's #18}
Leonard Hulan, "The Yorkshire Boy" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 19(79), "The Robber Outdone" ("Come listen a while and a story I will tell"), W. Birmingham (Dublin), c.1867; also Firth c.17(20), "The Robber Outdone"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Highwayman Outwitted" [Laws L2]
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Jack the Plowboy
Jack the Cow Boy
Well Sold the Cow
Selling the Cow
The Boy and the Cow
The Highway Robber
The Scotch Herdie
NOTES [300 words]: Roud has #2637 for Laws L1 Bite, #2640 for Child 283 - BS
Laws, obviously, considers "The Yorkshire Bite" to be distinct from "The Crafty Farmer." He may be right, but Coffin does not find any essential differences, and Bronson seems to regard them as subgroups. Even the three texts Laws gives for comparison have strong similarities in detail; it looks to me as if they are simply (bad) rewrites of the same original.
Given the degree of variation in the particular verses, it is hard to tell which texts go with which song. Since the versions are so close; I decided not to distinguish them. (One of the few instances where I lumped rather than split, but splitting requires a distinguishing characteristic!)
It's just possible that this has a real-life origin, though I doubt it: Brandon, pp. 29-31, reports that one Isaac Atkinson held up a young woman, who -- apparently thinking he wanted something harder to recover than her money -- threw a bag of coins in the ditch. Atkinson, instead of either pursuing his seduction or doing anything to control the girl, simply jumped off his horse to pick up the coins.
The girl then flew away on her horse, and by chance his horse followed. She was able to report where she had left him, and he was taken and hanged.
Brandon, however, cites no sources; I almost wonder if his tale doesn't combine this one with something like "Lovely Joan." Or, even more likely, with "The Highwayman Outwitted."
The tale of a robber tricking a man off his horse and stealing it has many more analogies, such as the folk tale of "Jack Hannaford," found in Henderson's Folk-Lore of Northern Counties and accessible on pp. 40-43 of Jacobs.
Kellett, p. 208, tells that "Yorkshire bite [is an] old term applied to Yorkshire dealers, reputed to be sharp and cunning." - RBW

Bibliography

- Jacobs: Joseph Jacobs, collector, English Fairy Tales, originally published 1890; revised edition 1898 (I use the 1967 Dover paperback reprint)

Last updated in version 5.0

File: C283

Crafty Ploughboy (II), The

DESCRIPTION: "Three hearty young men in the country do dwell"; they go out poaching. "Sweet Lips and Reuben" go out to set up pheasant decoys to try to lure the poachers, but the poachers ignore them to take real game, leaving a few to breed more

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1981 (Cologne/Morrison-WiltshireFolkSongs), with parts dating to 1906

KEYWORDS: poaching trick escape bird

FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Cologne/Morrison-WiltshireFolkSongs, pp. 56-57, "The Crafty Ploughboy" (1 composite text, 1 tune)

NOTES [75 words]: Roud lists this as #2637, which is "The Crafty Farmer"/"The Yorkshire Bite" type (Laws L1). This is a completely separate song, however, even taking into account the fact that it is composite; neither part belongs with #2637. The confusion is presumably based on the title "The Crafty Ploughboy," which is a standard title for Laws L1 -- but which has no connection with the song as printed. A better title would be "The Crafty Poachers" or similar. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2

File: CoMo56

Crafty Wee Bony

DESCRIPTION: Bony escapes, Louis flees Paris and Sandy and Donald lead highlanders and Scots Greys to meet Bony at Waterloo. "A favourite eagle was ta'en by a Grey." The French run. Bonaparte is sent to St Helena. "We'll chant ower this story to auld Scotia's glory"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1817 (T Johnston chapbook, according to Greig/Duncan1)

KEYWORDS: battle France humorous Napoleon exile

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

June 18, 1815 - Battle of Waterloo

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #94, p. 2, "Sandy and Donald" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan1 151, Greig/Duncan8 Addenda, "Crafty Wee Bony" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #2642

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth c.14(33), "Adventures of Sandy and Donald On the Plains of Waterloo" ("When crafty wee Buona' broke out of his prison"), The Poet's box (Glasgow), 1870
Murray, Mu23-y1:063, "The Adventures Of Sandy And Donald On The Plains Of Waterloo," James Lindsay (Glasgow), 19C
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Lass o' Glenshee" (tune)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Waterloo
NOTES [163 words]: In the aftermath of Napoleon's first abdication in 1814, Louis XVIII (1755-1824) hurried to France to claim the throne of his elder brother Louis XVI. (What happened to Louis XVII? He was the son of Louis XVI, and spent his entire reign in exile, dying while still a boy in 1795.) Hence the reference to Louis fleeing (though not very fast, since he was immensely fat and needed a cane to walk due to gout).
The reference to the Highlanders and Scots Greys at Waterloo is accurate; David Chandler, The Campaigns of Napoleon, (Macmillan, 1966), notes that the Scots Greys and 92nd Highlanders were in Wellington's army. They were among the forces who opposed the first French attack, launched by d'Erlon's corps. (The 92nd Highlanders, if I understand Chandler right, were in the front line; the Scots Greys came to reinforce them when the front line wavered.)
According to Chandler, Sergeant Charles Ewart of the Scots Greys captured the eagle of the French 45th Regiment. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD1151

Craiganee
DESCRIPTION: The singer calls on the muses to help him express his farewell. He must leave home, parting from friends and Craiganee and a girl he will not name. He describes how she watches him from the shore, and hopes they will meet again
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (JIFSS)
KEYWORDS: emigration parting separation
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H749, pp. 189-190, "The Flower of Craiganee" (1 text, 1 tune); H730, p. 190, "The Hills of Tandragee" (1 text, 1 tune, said by some to be derived from "The Hills of Glenwilly," but agreeing in plot and in over half its lines with the Henry text of "Craiganee," though the tunes are somewhat different)
Roud #2743
NOTES [34 words]: The relationship between "Craiganee," "The Hills of Glenwilly/Glensuili," and "The Hills of Tandragree" appears to be very complicated; we will try to make it clearer in future versions of the Index. - RBW
File: HHH749

Craigie Hill
DESCRIPTION: Singer overhears two lovers. She asks that he take her with him from Ireland. He is leaving to buy a plantation in America where she will join him. She says, before he dies, he would wish one sight of the Bann River. He bids farewell to Craigie Hill.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c.1945 (Tunney-StoneFiddle)
KEYWORDS: love emigration parting America Ireland
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Tunney-StoneFiddle, p. 80, "Craigie Hill" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, CRAIGHIL
Roud #5165
RECORDINGS:
Paddy Tunney, "Craigy Hills" (on IRPTunney01); "Craigie Hill" (on Voice04)
Roisin White, "Craigie Hill" (on IRRWhite01)
File: RcCraHil
Cranberry Bogs, The (Cranberry Song)

DESCRIPTION: "Have you ever been down to the cranberry bogs? Some of the houses are hewn out of logs...." Asked to sing, the singer tells stories of the cranberry harvest. The fruit are gathered after most other crops are in, so all sorts of people happily take part AUTHOR: Barney Reynolds?

EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (recording, Frances Perry)

KEYWORDS: farming work nonballad moniker

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p.45, "The Cranberry Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 435, "The Cranberry Song" (1 text)
- DT, CRANBRRY* CRANBRR2*

Roud #5412

RECORDINGS:
- Frances Perry, "Cranberry Song" (AAFS, 1946; on LC55)

NOTES [232 words]: The only published version of this piece appears to be that recorded by Frances Perry for AAFS. But Perry herself (who thought the song to have been composed around 1900) admitted that "At each marsh every year, new verses are composed about the workers present at that season." (Hence my use of the "moniker" keyword). Curiously, John Berquist claims to have a Minnesota version, which conforms closely to the outline of the Perry version but has dozens of minor verbal differences; the tune is also different from that printed in Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin. It appears there has been some folk processing (but starting from the basic Reynolds/Perry text). The most substantial change alters the location: "Mather" in Perry becomes "Mercer" in Berquist.

This is a noteworthy change, because there doesn't seem to be a town called Mather (although Frances Perry said that author Barney Reyonds was from Mather). Mercer, however, is in northern Wisconsin, near the border with upper Michigan and about 20 miles south and slightly east of Ironwood. It's a wet region, there is, in fact, a Cranberry Lake not too far south of there. The Digital Tradition claims that Dillon Buston wrote a tune for this in 1987, taking the text from Peters. However, Perry had a tune back in 1946, and Berquist recorded his tune in 1981 -- and it's a fine tune that doesn't need any newfangled replacements. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.7

File: RCTcrBo

Craven Churn-Supper Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "God rest you, merry gentlemen, Be not moved at my strain"; the singer hopes hearers will laugh. "The ale it is a gallant thing." "Twill make the parson forget his men." All are urged to drink and forget their cares: "Be frolicsome, every one."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1846 (Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland)

KEYWORDS: drink nonballad clergy

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Song #10, pp. 182-184, "Craven Churn-Supper Song" (1 text)
- Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 382-384, "The Craven Churn-Supper Song" (1 text)

ST BeCo382 (Partial)
- Roud #13471

File: BeCo382

Craw Killed the Pussy-O, The

DESCRIPTION: "The craw killed the pussy-o (x2), The muckle cat Sat doon and grat Behind the wee bit housie, O!" "The craw killed the pussy-o (x2), And aye, aye, the kitten cried, 'Oh, who'll bring me mousie-o?'"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1870 (Chambers)
Crawdad

DESCRIPTION: "You get a line and I'll get a pole... And we'll go down to the crawdad hole, Honey, baby mine." "What you gonna do when the lake runs dry, honey...." Sundry verses about catching crawdads, rural life, and (presumably) sexual innuendo

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Cecil Sharp collection)

KEYWORDS: animal fishing nonballad

FOUND IN: US(Ap,So)

REFERENCES (15 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 34, "Sweet Thing/Crawdad Song/Sugar Babe" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 298-299, "Sweet Thing" (2 texts, the second being titled "The Crawdad Song"); 1 tune
Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp. 27-28, "The Crawdad Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, p. 896, "Crawdad" (1 text, 1 tune)
Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 86, "Crawdad" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 271, "Crawdad" (1 text)
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 103, "Dweley" (1 text, a collection of floating verses including one from this song, one from "The Jawbone Song," and others)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 199, "The Crow-fish Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, pp. 68-69, "The Crawdad Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sulzer-TwentyFiveKentuckyFolkBallads, p. 18, "Crawdad Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 23, "Crawdad" (1 text)
NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, Portia Naomi Crawford, "A Study of Negro Folk Songs from Greensboro, North Carolina and Surrounding Towns," Vol. XVI, No. 2 (Oct 1968), pp. 104-105, "Honey Bee" (1 fragment, 1 tune, which appears to be either "Crawdad" or "New River Train," although it has a "Honey Bee" for the "Honey Babe")

DT, CRAWDAD

Roud #4853

RECORDINGS:
Jess Alexander, "Crawdad Song" (AAFS 617 B1)
Mrs. Vernon Allen, "Crawdad Song" (AAFS 4142 B1/2)
Mary Davis, "Crawdad Song" (AAFS 1488 A/B1)
Girls of the Golden West, "You Get a Line and I'll Get a Pole" (Bluebird B-5167, 1933; Montgomery Ward M-4455, 1934)
J. L. Gores, "Sugar Babe" (AAFS 2593 B3)
Sam Hinton, "The Crawdad Song" (Decca K-69, n.d.)
Honeyboy & Sassafras, "Crawdad Song" (Brunswick 417, rec. 1929)
Clint Howard et al, "Crawdad Song" (on Ashley03, WatsonAshley01)
Aunt Molly Jackson, "Sugar Babe" (AAFS 827 B3, 1935)
Vera Kilgore, "Crawdad" (AAFS 2939 B2)
Evelyn Knight & Red Foley, "Crawdad Song" (Decca 27599, 1951)
Leary Family & T. Henderson, "Crawdad Song" (AAFS 3574 B1)
Texas Jim Lewis' Lone Star Cowboys (Perfect 7-12-55, 1937)
Lone Star Cowboys, "Crawdad Song" (RCA Victor 20-2941, 1948)
Leroy Martin & group of convicts, "Crawdad" (AAFS 2671 A2)
Alec Moore, "Sugar Babe" (on AAFS 55 B1)
Poplin Family, "Crawdad Hole" (on Poplin01)
Sims & Mandie Tartt & Bettie Atmore, "Sugar Babe" (AAFS 2704 A3)
Joe Turner, "Crawdad Hole" (Atlantic 1001, 1952)
Ray Wood, "Sugar Babe" (AAFS 1594 A1)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Sweet Thing (I)" (tune, lyrics, and everything else)
- cf. "Back to Jericho" (words, pattern)
- cf. "New River Train"
- cf. "Going Around the World (Banjo Pickin' Girl, Baby Mine)"
- cf. "This Mornin', This Evenin', Right Now" (tune, pattern)

SAME TUNE:
How Many Biscuits Can You Eat? (File: RchMCYBE)
Pittsburg (Pittsburg Town) (on PeteSeeger13, AmHist1; PeteSeeger39)
Bill Cox, "N.R.A. Blues" (Perfect 13090, 1935)
Log Cabin Boys, "New Crawdad Song" (Decca 5103, 1935)

NOTES [213 words]: Songs with this tune and metrical pattern turn up throughout North American tradition; like the limerick, this skeleton seems to have become a favorite framework for humorous material. - PJS
This song poses a conundrum (hinted at in Paul's comment), because it merges continuously with the "Sweet Thing" family; they use the same tune (at least sometimes) and ALL of the same verses. Roud lumps them.
Chances are that they are "the same" song (whatever that means). But the tenor of the song changes somewhat with the presence or absence of a crawdad; after initially lumping the song, the Ballad Index staff decided to split them, based solely on mention of a crawdad. But one should definitely check all versions of both to get the complete range of material. - RBW
Just to confuse things further, the version of "The Crow-fish Man" in Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians (which uses a "This morning so soon" refrain) mentions crawdads, whereas the one in Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs apparently doesn't. So the former is filed here, the latter under "Sweet Thing (I)." Sharp also notes that his informant learned the song from an African-American singer.
The versions called "Sugar Babe" should not be confused with "Sugar Baby", aka "Red Rocking Chair." - PJS
Last updated in version 6.1
File: R443

Crazy Grey Mare, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer stops at a tavern for whiskey and hay for his mare. When the mare is startled by a train, he is thrown from the sleigh. The mare is gone: he thinks killed by the train. She is at the tavern. She says she left because he is nasty when drunk.

AUTHOR: Hugh Lauchlan MacDonald
EARLIEST DATE: 1968 (Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland)
KEYWORDS: accusation drink ordeal humorous horse
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 183-185, 243, "The Crazy Grey Mare" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #13987
File: IvDC183
Crazy Jane

DESCRIPTION: Henry deserts Jane, "and with him forever fled the wits of Crazy Jane." She tells the story to each frightened passerby and each "in pity cries: 'God help poor Crazy Jane!'" "When men flatter, sigh and languish, Think them false, I found them so"

AUTHOR: Words: Matthew Gregory Lewis/Music: John Davy

EARLIEST DATE: before 1808 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 12(141))

KEYWORDS: madness courting lie warning lament

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Peacock, pp. 436-437, "Crazy Jane" (1 text, 1 tune)

Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #405, p. 27, "Crazy Jane" (2 references)

ST Pea436 (Partial)

Roud #6458

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 12(141), "The Favourite Song, of Crazy Jane," Burbage and Stretton (Nottingham), 1797-1807; also Harding B 11(3335), Johnson Ballads 781, Harding B 11(3647), Firth b.27(10), Firth b.26(46), Harding B 28(61), Harding B 11(740), Firth b.25(140), Harding B 11(741), Harding B 25(444), Harding B 17(66a), Harding B 17(65b), Firth b.25(340), 2806 c.18(74), "Crazy Jane"; 2806 b.11(216), Harding B 11(3066), Harding B 11(3067), Harding B 11(3068), Harding B 11(3069), "Poor Crazy Jane"

LOCSinging, sb10044a, "Crazy Jane," J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859; also as102530, "Crazy Jane"

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Ghost of Crazy Jane" (character of Crazy Jane)

NOTES [207 words]: Bodleian attributes authorship to Matthew Gregory Lewis (1775-1818), but attributes no other broadsides to him. According to the English Department University of Pennsylvania site Lewis is best known for his 1796 Gothic novel "The Monk." The Public Domain Music site attributes the music to John Davy (1763-1824) and makes 1800 the date of the song.

Bodleian has one related broadside as "The Birth of Crazy Jane", London, 1800-1802, shelfmark Johnson Ballads 301.

Bodleian has one parody as "Crazy Paul" dated Feb 5, 1801 which asks "Can a moonstruck Russian sailor Draw the fleet of France from Brest?" shelfmark Curzon b.3(138).

Yeats wrote a whole series of "Crazy Jane" poems (though they don't seem to have been particularly popular); Peacock suspects this piece of inspiring them, but cannot prove it. Leslie Shepard, John Pitts, Ballad Printer of Seven Dials, London 1765-1844, Private Library Association, 1969, p. 101, prints a broadside, "The Ghost of Crazy Jane." I'd say it's about the same character but not the same song. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: Pea436

Crazy Song to the Air of "Dixie"

DESCRIPTION: "Way down south in the land of cotton, I wrote this song and wrote it rotten, I did, I didn't -- you don't believe me. The reason why I cannot sing I have no chestnuts for to spring...."

Other nonsense of similar calibre follows

AUTHOR: "Andy Lee" (W. W. Delaney) supplied Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag's text

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (recording, Ernest Stoneman)

KEYWORDS: nonsense nonballad parody derivative

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 342, "Crazy Song to the Air of 'Dixie'" (1 text)

Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, pp. 120-121, "The Crazy Dixie" (1 text, 1 tune, beginning with "The Horze Named Bill" and including "Crazy Song to the Air of Dixie" verses)

Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 61, "Take It Out, Take It Out, Remove It" (1 text, tune referenced); also p. 61, "The Whale Song (1 text, tune referenced)

Roud #10134
RECORDINGS:
Ernest Stoneman, "Dixie Parody" (OKeh 40430, 1925)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Dixie" (tune) and references there
NOTES [37 words]: The nature of this song is such that almost any nonsense can, and is, attracted to it. So any nonsense to the air of "Dixie" is listed here (with the exception of "A Horse Named Bill," which is coherent in a small way). - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: San342

Crazyhead, Michael
DESCRIPTION: "Crazyhead, Michael, Crazyhead, Michael, If you go across the street, You ill be crying, crying, crying so hard."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana)
KEYWORDS: nonballad warning
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, p. 86, "Crazyhead, Michael" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #16817
File: List086A

Creeping and Crawling
DESCRIPTION: The young man, creeping and crawling, seduces the maid, taking a knife to cut the tie on her drawers. He leaves her to lament nine months later.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Sharp mss., a "Sally My Dear" version with the words bowdlerized)
KEYWORDS: bawdy childbirth sex seduction lament clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,South)) US(So) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Randolph/Legman-RollMeInYourArms I, pp. 33-39, "Creeping and Crawling" (7 texts, 2 tunes)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 178, "The Knife in the Window" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #76, "The Knife in the Window" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 89, "Pretty Polly" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, CRPCRAWL, KNIFWIND
Roud #329
RECORDINGS:
James "Iron Head" Baker, "Crawling and Creeping" (AFS 717 A1, 1936)
Harry Cox, "The Knife in the Window" (on FSB2CD)
A. L. Lloyd, "Pretty Polly" (on BirdBush1, BirdBush2)
Asa Martin, "Crawling and Creeping" (Oriole 8452, 1935)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Hares on the Mountain" (tune)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Pretty Polly
The Snoring Maid
Lay Your Leg over Me Do
Nancy and Johnny
The Young Doctor
NOTES [97 words]: In England, this song regularly mixes with "Hares on the Mountain," with which it shares a tune. But the plots are different; I happily keep them separate though Roud lumps them.
- RBW
The Lloyd recording provocatively contains the chorus "Lay your leg over me, over me, do" And at least one recorded version of "Sally, My Dear" -- an American one -- contains the "cutting the trousers" motif. So if "Sally, My Dear" is truly part of the "Hares on the Mountain" family, then "Creeping and Crawling" (or the "Pretty Polly" variant of it) is another link to "Roll Your Leg Over." -
PJS
Last updated in version 5.2
Creeping Jane [Laws Q23]

DESCRIPTION: Racehorse Creeping Jane is not well known, but wins a race despite a slow start -- and is still fresh, though the course exhausted the other animals. After Jane dies, plans are made to keep her body from the hounds

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1855 (broadside, Bodleian Firth c.19(76))
KEYWORDS: horse racing burial
FOUND IN: US(MW) Britain(England(Lond,North,South))
REFERENCES (10 citations):
- Laws Q23, "Creeping Jane"
- Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 439, "Creeping Jane" (1 text)
- O' Shaughnessy/Grainger-TwentyOneLincolnshireFolkSongs 4, "Creeping Jane" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 23, "Creeping Jane" (1 text)
- Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 89, "Creeping Jane" (1 text, 1 tune)
- MacColl/Seeger- TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 114, "Creeping Jane" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Palmer- FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #112, "Creeping Jane" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #105, "Creeping Jane" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 99, "Creeping Jane" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT 532, CREEPJAN*
Roud #1012

RECORDINGS:
- Joseph Taylor, "Creeping Jane" (on Voice08)

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Firth c.19(76)[first line illegible], "Creeping Jane" ("I'll sing you a song, and a very pretty one"), E.M.A. Hodges (London), 1846-1854; also Firth c.19(73), Firth c.19(75), Harding B 11(174), "Creeping Jane"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Bill Hopkin's Colt" (theme)
- cf. "Down the Road" (II) (theme)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Jockey's Song

File: LQ23

Creggan White Hare, The

DESCRIPTION: Barney Conway hunts the famous Creggan White Hare. He finds the hare but she eludes his dogs. He calls in sportsmen "with pedigree greyhounds" who arrive "in a fine motor-car." She eludes the seven men and nine dogs. "Health to the Creggan White Hare"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c.1945 (Tunney-StoneFiddle)
KEYWORDS: escape hunting animal dog
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Tunney-StoneFiddle, p. 85, "The Creggan White Hare" (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: Bell/O Conchubhair, Traditional Songs of the North of Ireland, pp. 54-56, "The Creggan White Hare"

Roud #9633

NOTES [101 words]: Creggan is in County Antrim, Ireland. - BS
I have a strange feeling this has something to do with the Irish revolution. In particular it makes me think of Michael Collins (for whom see "General Michael Collins") and the dramatic British attempts to catch him in the period around 1919-1920. Collins, to be sure, was from the south -- but he would in time be elected to the Irish parliament from Armagh.

i repeat, it's just speculation. - RBW

Also collected and sung by Kevin Mitchell, "The Creggan White Hare" (on Kevin and Ellen Mitchell, "Have a Drop Mair," Musical Tradition Records MTCD315-6 CD (2001)) - BS

File: TSF085
Crepe On the Little Cabin Door
DESCRIPTION: The singer left his home, breaking his mother's heart. He wastes time "on women, wine and song." He gets a letter from his mother asking that he come home to see her. When he finally returns home he finds crepe on the door. His mother is dead.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: age sex warning home parting return separation death music wine mother rake
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #30115
RECORDINGS:
Cyril O'Brien, "Take Warning" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
Doc & Chickie Williams, "Crepe On the Little Cabin Door" (Doxx DWLP-2001, 1974 (see Notes))
NOTES [31 words]: The description follows the Doc & Chickie Williams recording.
For a list of Doc & Chickie Williams records see DocWilliams.com at http://www.hankwilliamslistings.com/ind-dcw1-07.htm - BS
Last updated in version 4.4
File: ML3C0LCD

Crew from Boston Bay, The
DESCRIPTION: The Gin, with a crew from Boston Bay, is lost in the fog off Jefferey's. They drift until "I can smell the beans, we are drifted home" says the captain. They drop anchor, "and were guided by the sinful smell as we walked ashore on the fog"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Peacock)
KEYWORDS: fishing sea ship shore ordeal humorous
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peacock, pp. 110-111, "The Crew from Boston Bay" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9960
RECORDINGS:
Jim Smurridge, "The Crew from Boston Bay" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
File: Pea110

Crew of the Clara Youell, The DESCRIPTION: "It's of a stately vessel, a vessel of great fame, And if you want to know her, the Clara Youell's her name.... She's the pride of Goderich harbor, and she's in the lumber line." The singer describes the captain, cook, and crew
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (collected from Norman Maclvor by Walton)
KEYWORDS: ship sailor moniker nonballad cook
FOUND IN: Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 149-150, "The Crew of the Clara Youell!" (1 text)
Roud #19854
File: WGM149

Cribisse! Cribisse! (Crawfish! Crawfish!)
DESCRIPTION: "Cribisse! Cribisse! pas gain di tout "show" bebe!... Creyole trappe ye pou' fait gumbo bebe." Sung in English and in (Creole) French, this song mocks the propensity of the Creole to be found around crawfish and vice versa.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939
KEYWORDS: nonballad humorous foreignlanguage
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Botkin-TreasuryMississippiRiverFolklore, p. 580, "Cribisse! Cribisse! (Crawfish! Crawfish!)") (1 text, 1 tune)
File: BMRF580

Cricket and Crab-louse, The (Down Derry Down)
DESCRIPTION: A girl picks a flower containing a cricket and a crab-louse. Both transfer to her body; the crab-louse takes up residence in her vagina. The next day, he escapes and tells the cricket of the horrors he experienced while she had sex
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1976 (collected by Logsdon from Riley Neal)
KEYWORDS: bug sex bawdy humorous
FOUND IN: US(SW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 56, pp. 258-260, "Down, Derry Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4791
NOTES [122 words]: Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging notes mentions of an item about a crab-louse and cricket in Legman's The Horn Book. Legman (pp. 153, 183) refers to a single item names "The Cricket and Crab-Louse," which appears on page 69 of an 1825 edition of The Merry Muses of Caledonia (a book which reportedly survive in only one copy). I have adopted Legman's title, since Logsdon's is so meaningless, but it should be noted that I have not seen the Merry Muses text; I am equating the two based solely on Legman's description. It is possible that the texts of the Merry Muses and Riley Neal are entirely different songs derived from a common folktale (which Legman also considers to underlie Tristram Shandy and Scientology). - RBW
File: Logs056

Cricketty Wee
DESCRIPTION: Arty Art, Dandrum Dart, and Brother-in-Three ask, in turn, "Where are ye going?"; Cricketty Wee answers, "To the fair." He will buy a pony, he will marry, will drink, will eat, will put food away, a cat will guard it; his children will work for death
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: commerce wedding humorous questions
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H744, pp. 12-13, "Cricketty Wee" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, CRICKWEE*
Roud #236
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Billy Barlow" (form)
cf. "The Cutty Wren" (form)
cf. "Hunt the Wren" (form, subject)
NOTES [48 words]: Scholars almost without exception link this to "The Cutty Wren" and/or "Billy Barlow." The only similarity, however, is in form; neither the plot nor the characters are the same. I am clearly in the minority, but I don't think they're the same song. In any case, when in doubt, we split. - RBW
File: HHH744

Crime at Quiet Dell, The
DESCRIPTION: "A widow and her children three at Parkridge, Illinois, Was happy and contented with two daughters and her boy." But "she would be wealthy If she'd only change her name." The family moves to Quiet Dell, where they are murdered as they try to escape
AUTHOR: Words: Leighton D. Davies / Music: A. H. Grow
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (sheet music)
KEYWORDS: homicide death family husband trick technology Crime of the D'Autremont Brothers, The

DESCRIPTION: "Way out west in Oregon in 1923, The D'Autremont brothers wrecked the train as brutal as could be." Four of the train crew are killed. The brothers flee, are caught almost four years later, and "noe they are in prison for the lives they led."

AUTHOR: probably the Johnson Brothers
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (recording by the Johnson Brothers)
KEYWORDS: train robbery homicide manhunt punishment prison

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Oct 11, 1923 - Roy, Ray, and Hugh DeAutremont attack the San Francisco Express as it comes out of a tunnel in Oregon. The brothers were caught in 1927 and all were given life sentences

NOTES [75 words]: Pretty definitely not a folk song; the only early recording appears to be that by the Johnson Brothers (whose small repertoire included several other non-traditional songs); Cohen reports that it sold fewer than 6000 copies, and the song does not appear ever to have been found in the field.

Charles and Paul Johnson seem to have been rather mysterious themselves; Cohen also reports that their listed home town of Tuco, Kentucky, cannot be located. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.7

Crimean War, The [Laws J9]

DESCRIPTION: Johnny and his mother together tell of Johnny's part in the Crimean War. Having fought at Alma, Balaclava, and Sevastopol, he is now safely (and happily) home again

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan)
KEYWORDS: war
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sept 20, 1854 - Battle of Alma
Oct 25, 1854 - Battle of Balaclava
Nov 5, 1854 - Battle of Inkerman clears the way for the siege of Sevastopol (the city fell in the fall of 1855)

FOUND IN: US(MW) Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Laws J9, "The Crimean War"
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 91, "The Crimean War" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 49-50, As I Rode Down Through Irishtown" (1 text)
Ives-FolksongsOfNewBrunswick, pp. 123-125, "The Crimean War" (1 text, 1 tune, with the text of this piece though the tune is described as being identical to that for "As I Went Down to Port Jervis")
Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 30, "As I Roved Through an Irish Town" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 765, CRIMEAWR
Roud #1924
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "As I Went Down to Port Jervis" (tune, lyrics, plot)
NOTES [55 words]: For the relationship of this song to "As I Went Down to Port Jervis," see the notes to that song. That song is certainly derived from this, and could easily be listed as a version (so, e.g., Roud), but Cazden et al consider them separate. Some versions, such as that of Ives, may belong with the "Port Jervis" rather than here. - RBW.
Last updated in version 5.1
File: LJ09

Criole Candjo (Creole Candio)
DESCRIPTION: Creole French. Candio comes asking the young woman to "make merry" with him. He follows her everywhere and repeats his pestering. She repeats her refusal, and wishes the listeners had met him so they would know what pressure he put her under
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934
KEYWORDS: courting foreign language
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 216-218, "Criole Candjo" (1 text, 1 tune, plus a translation from Creole French into Creole English)
File: LxA216

Cripple Creek (I)
DESCRIPTION: Often found as a fiddle tune with words: "I got a gal at the head of the creek, Goin' up to see her 'bout the middle of the week...." "Goin' up to Cripple Creek, Goin' at a run, Goin' up to Cripple Creek to have a little fun." Most verses involve courting
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Cecil Sharp collection); +1913 (JAFL28)
KEYWORDS: fiddle courting river nonballad
FOUND IN: US(Ap, SE)
REFERENCES (15 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 299, "Cripple Creek" (1 short text plus mention of 1 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 299, "Cripple Creek" (2 tunes plus text excerpts)
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 178, "Going Up Hippocreek" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Lunsford/Stringfield-30And1FolkSongsFromSouthernMountains, p. 53, "Cripple Creek" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 247, "Gone to Cripple Creek" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol2, p. 15, "Cripple Creek" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #81, "Cripple Creek" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 118, "Cripple Creek" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 898-899, "Cripple Creek" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rorrer-RamblingBlues-LifeAndSongsOfCharliePoole, p. 83, "Shootin' Creek" (1 text, with recitation and verses partly derived from "Ida Red (I)"
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 37, "Cripple Creek" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 43, "Old Corn Licker" (a 2-line fragment, unclassifiable but with similarities to some texts of this song)
North CarolinaFolkloreJournal, John Allen Davidson, Jr., "The Songs of Caleb Mashburn," Vol. XX, No. 1 (Feb 1972), p. 56, "Goin' up Cripple Creek, goin' on a run" (1 fragment)
DT, CRIPLCRK
ADDITIONAL: James P. Leary, Compiler and Annotator, _Wisconsin Folklore_. University of Wisconsin Press, 2009, article "Kentucky Folksong in Northern Wisconsin" by Asher E. Treat, pp. 245-246, "Goin' Up Cripple Creek" (1 text, 1 tune, sung by Mrs. M. G. Jabobs)
Roud #3434
RECORDINGS:
Fiddlin' John Carson, "Going Down to Cripple Creek" (OKeh 45214, 1928)
Fruit Jar Guzzlers, "Cripple Creek" (Paramount 3116/Broadway 8108, 1928)
Charlie Higgins, Wade Ward & Dale Poe, "Cripple Creek" [instrumental] (on LomaxCD1701)
The Hillbillies, "Cripple Creek" (OKeh 40336, 1925) (Vocalion 15367, 1926/Vocalion 5115, c. 1927)
Roscoe Holcomb, "Cripple Creek" (on MMOKCD)
Doc Hopkins, "Cripple Creek" (Radio 1410B, n.d., prob. late 1940s - early 1950s); "Going to Little Creek" (unpublished? 1960s; this is a very different version)
Land Norris, "Red Creek" (OKeh 40433, 1925)
Roscoe Holcomb, "Cripple Creek" (on MMOKCD)
Charlie Poole and the North Carolina Ramblers, "Shootin' Creek" (composite with "Ida Red (I)"; Columbia 15286-D, 1928; on CPoole01, CPoole05)
Fiddlin' Doc Roberts, "Cripple Creek" (Gennett 6336, 1927)
Ernest Stoneman, "Going Up Cripple Creek" (Victor 20294, 1926)
Stove Pipe No. 1 [pseud. for Sam Jones], "Cripple Creek & Sourwood Mountain" (Columbia 201-D, 1924)
Tweedy Brothers, "Cripple Creek" (Silvertone 4008, c. 1925)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Sally Goodin" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [35 words]: The notes in Brown say that there was a gold rush at Cripple Creek, producing this song. But it's worth noting that the sources can't agree on the state in which Cripple Creek is located (Colorado, Virginia). - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: San320

Cripple Creek (II) (Buck Creek Girls)
DESCRIPTION: "Buck Creek girl, don't you want to go to Cripple Creek? Cripple Creek girl, don't you want to go to town?" (x2). Alternately, "Buck Creek girls, don't you want to go to Somerset? Somerset girl, don't you want to go to town?"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Cecil Sharp collection)
KEYWORDS: nonballad travel
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 241, "Cripple Creek, or Buck Creek Girl" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 64, "Cripple Creek" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3434
RECORDINGS:
Banjo Bill Cornett, "Buck Creek Girls" (on MMOK, MMOKCD)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Buck Creek Gal
NOTES [18 words]: Not to be confused with the fiddle tune/old time dance of the same name ("Going up to Cripple Creek...".). - RBW
File: SKE64

Cripple Kirsty
DESCRIPTION: A porter meets Cripple Kirsty and asks if she's thirsty. She offers to pay half and they stop at a tavern. When she asks for another round he refuses. She says the drink she had was good and tells him to call on her the next time he would share a round.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1911 (Greig/Duncan3)
LONG DESCRIPTION: "It's wha amang ye hisna heard o' weel-kent Cripple Kirsty." When a porter asks her if she were thirsty she offers to add her two-pence to his and "we'll hae a wee drap whiskie." He agrees and they go to Shirra's for a pint. She deftly drinks hers. He praises her but when she says "'lat us hae some mair o't' 'Na! na!' quo he 'ye greedy jade I think ye've got yer share o't.'" Says she, "'I maun be contentit ... it's done me muckle gweed ....' An noo I hope ye'se gies a ca' some mornin' fin yer thirsty An as ye gae by Fiddler's Close cry in for Cripple Kirsty"
KEYWORDS: drink parody
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cripple of Cornwall, The

DESCRIPTION: "Of a stout cripple that kept the highway, And begged for his living all time of the day." Besides begging, the cripple also leads a band of robbers who work the highway. He intends to retire, but attacks Lord Courtney and is eventually captured and hung

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1887 (Ashton); a song with this title was in William Thackeray's broadside catalog by 1690; a billlad by this title was published 1625
KEYWORDS: injury robbery execution crime punishment
FOUND IN: Britain(England)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Roud #12763
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Cornwall Cripple
The Stout Cripple of Cornwall

NOTES [81 words]: In addition to the items references here, there is STC #5773 [STC: A. W. Pollard, G. R. Redgrave, et al., _A Short-Title Catalogue of Books Printed in England, Scotland & Ireland And of English Books Printed Abroad 1475-1640_, The Bibliographical Society [of London], 1963] -- "A new ballad, intituled: The stout cripple of Cornnewall." It is said to have been entered to "the ballad partners" December 14, 1624, and published the next year; there is a copy in the British Library. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: JACB280

Crockery Ware

DESCRIPTION: A merchant wants to lay with a girl one night. She puts dishes on a chair near her bed. In the dark he breaks the dishes and chair and wakes her mother. She calls the police and he has to pay for the crockery ware and broken chair.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1886 (Long)
KEYWORDS: sex trick bawdy humorous mother rake nightvisit courting lover police FOUND IN: Britain(England(South)) Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont) US(MW)
REFERENCES (10 citations):
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Mi 679, "Pretty Polly and Her Crockery Ware" (1 text)
Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #66, "The Crockery Ware" (1 text, 1 tune)
Peacock, pp. 257-258, "Crockery Ware" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 119, "Old Woman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 129-130, 243-244, "The Crockery Ware" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 11, "A Young Man Lived in Belfast Town" (1 text, 1 tune)
Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 9, "A Young Man Lived in Belfast Town" (1 text, 1 tune)
Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection, pp. 138-139, "Crockery Ware" (1 text)
DT, CROCKWAR CROCKRY*
ADDITIONAL: William Henry Long, _A Dictionary of the Isle of Wight Dialect, And of Provincialisms used in the Island_ (Reeves & Turner, London, 1886), pp. 163-164, "The Crockery Ware" (1 text)
Roud #1490
RECORDINGS:
O. J. Abbott, "A Young Man Lived in Belfast Town" (on Abbott1)
Everett Bennett, "Crockery Ware" (on PeacockCDROM)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 28(37), "Crockery Ware," unknown, n.d.
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Frolicksome Farmer" (theme: the hazards of sex in the dark)
NOTES [34 words]: At least one source claims that the Crockery Ware wasn't just random pottery but the chamber pot. Not sure I believe it; that sounds awfully messy.
Thanks to Jim Dixon for pointing out the Long copy.- RBW
Last updated in version 5.1
File: Pea257

Cromie's Orange Buck, The
DESCRIPTION: Coming from a Hibernian Ball Misses M'Nulty and O'Hare meet Cromie's ranting Buck. He says he had "full authority from all the Orange boys" to "rip you on the ground." They run for protection to Barney Greenan who saves them. Ladies: travel protected.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster)
KEYWORDS: warning rescue party political talltale animal
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster 37, "The Cromie's Orange Buck" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2889
NOTES [61 words]: Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster: "Initiation into the Orange Order involves various rituals the most important being 'the ride on the buck'. Whether this actually means that you ride on the back of a goat I just don't know, but the 'buck' has become a symbol of Orange power...[T]he ranting season' is the time when a good strong healthy buck is looking for a wife." - BS
File: MorU037

Cronie o' Mine, A
DESCRIPTION: "Ye'll mount yer bit naiggie an' ride your wa'sdoun... There wons an auld blacksmith, we'Janet his wife, And a queerer auld cock ye ne'er met in your life." The singer describes the smith's odd haunt, then starts to describe the people of the town
AUTHOR: Alexander Maclagan (1811-1879) (source: Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast)
EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Ford)
KEYWORDS: moniker nonballad friend
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 92-95, "A Cronie o' Mine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cronnen's Song
DESCRIPTION: "In Paradise I am again, There's objects here inspire my view, And if I your favor still retain, You'll find I'm still a sailor." The singer will not disgrace his sailor's clothing, and hopes the girls will like him. He will respect all, high and low
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1873 (Harris Manuscript)
KEYWORDS: nonballad sailor clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lyle/McAlpine/McLucas-SongRepertoireOfAmeliaAndJaneHarris, p. 158, "Cronnen's Song" (1 text)

Crook and Plaid, The DESCRIPTION: "O, I'll no hae the laddie That drives the cart or ploo... But I will hae the laddie That has my heart betrayed, He's my bonny shepherd laddie And he wears the crook and plaid." She praises his beauty, his kindness, and his faithfulness
AUTHOR: Rev. Henry S. Riddell
EARLIEST DATE: 1843 (Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong; from tradition in Ford, 1899)
KEYWORDS: love shepherd
FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 58-61, "The Crook and Plaid" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #106, p. 2, "The Crook and Plaid" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 455, "The Crook and Plaid" (5 texts, 5 tunes)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H617, pp. 45-46, "The Shepherd Laddie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5960

Crooked Rib, The
DESCRIPTION: Women were created from man's crooked rib which explains "the crooked nature some women are" Like Eve, most women betray their husband. Men claim they can control their wife, but they can't. "From great guns and bad women's tongues, O Lord deliver me!"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1847 (Forget-Me-Not-Songster)
KEYWORDS: wife humorous nonballad
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, p. 105, "The Crooked Rib" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [79 words]: The creation of a woman from a man's rib (note that, in Hebrew, "adam" means "man" as well as being a proper name) is told in Genesis 2:21. There is no hint, in the Bible, that this rib was any more crooked than the others. Diblee/Diblee apparently attribute this to Dan Somers of St Georges, PEI. Possibly Somers rewrote it, since the Diblee text is somewhat unlike the others. But the existence of various songster versions show that Somers did not originate the piece. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0

File: Dib105

Crooked Trail to Holbrook, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you hunky punchers that follow the bronco steer, I'll sing to you a verse or two your spirits for to cheer." The singer grumbles about a trip from Globe City (?) to Holbrook, marked by windstorms and stampedes; he's glad to be back home

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Lomax, Cowboy Songs)

KEYWORDS: cowboy hardtimes travel storm

FOUND IN: US(SW)

REFERENCES (5 citations):

- Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 53-54, "The Crooked Trail to Holbrook" (1 text)
- Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 10, pp. 70-73, "The Crooked Trail to Holbrook" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 533, "The Crooked Trail to Holbrook" (1 text)
- Tinsley-HeWasSinginThisSong, pp. 54-59, "The Crooked Trail to Holbrook" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, ARIZONIO*

Roud #4037

NOTES [52 words]: This is item dB30 in Laws's Appendix II. The notes in the Digital Tradition list this as a descendent of Laws B10 (either 10a, The Buffalo Skinners, or 10b, Boggy Creek or The Hills of Mexico). The similarity in theme is obvious. But cowboys complained a lot; Laws, Roud, and I all regard them as separate. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: Log010

Crookit Bawbee

DESCRIPTION: "Oh! whar awa' got ye that auld crookit (penny/plaidie)?" He offers one of gold and "a mantle o' satin" to go with him to Glen Shee. She will only accept "the laddie that gave me the penny." If he is that man "whar's your crookit bawbee?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick)

KEYWORDS: courting separation brokentoken

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

- Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 25, "The Crooked Bawbee" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST CrSNB025 (Partial)

Roud #2281

NOTES [101 words]: Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick: "Said Mrs Leslie: 'A bawbee is a halfpenny, and the term for it goes back to the days of Mary, Queen of Scots. They brought out a coin when she was a baby [Mary because Queen at eight days old - RBW] and the baby's head was on it; you know the Scottish drawl and the language, and by and by baby came to be bawbee.'" - BS

Jean Redpath claims that this song was popular in lowland Scotland, but I can find no field collections. Redpath also points out an item in the Scots Musical Museum (#99, "O whar did ye get that hauver-meal bannock") which may be related. - RBW

File: CrSNB025
Croppies Lie Down (I)

DESCRIPTION: "We soldiers of Erin, so proud of the name, Will raise upon Rebels and Frenchmen our fame... and make all the traitors and croppies lie down." The rebels murder parsons and women but run from soldiers. If the French land they'll lie with the croppies.

AUTHOR: Captain Ryan (Source: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)
EARLIEST DATE: 1798 (_Constitutional Songs_, according to Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)
KEYWORDS: rebellion death France Ireland nonballad patriotic
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 94A, "Croppies Lie Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 76, "Croppies Lie Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #V17442
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 25(448), "Croppies Lie Down" ("We soldiers of Erin, so proud of the name"), unknown, n.d.; also Harding B 22(56), Harding B 11(3852), "Croppies Lie Down"; Harding B 16(253c), "The Soldier's Delight" or "Croppies Lie Down"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Tree of Liberty" (tune)
NOTES [222 words]: According to Robert Kee, The Most Distressful Country, being Volume I of The Green Flag, pp. 98-99, this was "popular among the Orange yeomanry," i.e. the militia forces (not all of them Protestant, we should note) raised by the British to control the 1798 rebellion. The ascription to "Captain Ryan" is interesting at the least. Obviously there could be several "Captain Ryans" -- but the one mentioned in the histories is one of the two men who tried to arrest Lord Edward Fitzgerald, and mortally wounded him in the process (see the notes to "Edward (III) (Edward Fitzgerald)"). - RBW
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815: "It was for playing this tune on the pipes that the unfortunate William Johnson was murdered at Scullabogue along with over one hundred others." The ballad is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentenial of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See:
Sean Tyrrell, "Croppies Lie Down" (on "The Croppy's Complaint," Craft Recordings CRCD03 (1998); Terry Moylan notes) - BS
For background on Scullabogue, see the notes to "Father Murphy (II) (The Wexford Men of '98)."
None of the sources I've seen attribute the massacre to someone playing a pipe tune, though -- it was based on false information heard about the Battle of New Ross (for which see, e.g., "Kelly, the Boy from Killane"). - RBW
Last updated in version 5.1
File: Zimm094A

Croppies Lie Down (II)

DESCRIPTION: "In the County of Wexford these rebels did rise." The Orange-men made them retreat. The Vinegar Hill battle is recalled. Esmond, Kay, Harvey and Hay are turned over to General Moore and executed after courtmartial. "Derry down, down, Croppy lie down"

AUTHOR: "Charles Cain, Grenadier in His Majesty's 7th, or Antrim Militia" (Source: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1798 (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)
KEYWORDS: rebellion execution trial Ireland patriotic
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 26, 1798 - Beginning of the Wexford rebellion
May 27, 1798 - The Wexford rebels under Father John Murphy defeat the North Cork militia
June 5, 1798 - The Wexford rebels attack the small garrison (about 1400 men, many militia) at New Ross, but are repelled
June 21, 1798 - The rebel stronghold a Vinegar Hill is taken, and the Wexford rebellion effectively ended
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 94B, "Croppies Lie Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Derry Down" (tune) and references there
cf. "The Tree of Liberty" (tune)
cf. "Bagenal Harvey's Farewell" (subject of Bagenal Harvey) and references there

NOTES [381 words]: Nine rebels were executed including eight courtmartialed. Esmond, Kay, Harvey and Hay were not among them. Dr John Esmonde, Bagenal B Harvey and Harvey Hay are among those "Patriots of 1798" named on the "1798-1898 Irish Memorial" in New South Wales, Australia. (source: "Memorials, Monuments and Miscellany" Vinegar Hill at the OptusNet site)

Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion: "'Down' might have been chosen as a reply to 'up', which was a pass-word of the United Irishmen." - BS

All of the names in this song do indeed belong to figures from the 1798 Rebellion.

Dr. John Esmond, a leader of the Kildare rebels, was a member of the yeomen, making him a deserter. He was indeed executed by hanging; see the notes to "The Song of Prosperous."

Bagenal Beauchamp Harvey (or Beauchamp Bagenal Harvey; I've seen both forms) was the inept and apparently reluctant United Irish commander at New Ross (for details, see "Kelly, the Boy from Killane"). After the battle, he fled, and was eventually tried and hanged on Wexford Bridge (July 1, according to Robert Kee, The Most Distressful Country, being Volume I of The Green Flag, p. 124).

Also hanged there was Matthew Keogh, a former British officer who had governed Wexford for the rebels; I would guess he is the "Kay" of the song.

I don't know a Harvey Hay, but there were brothers, Edward Hay and John Hay. John was known to have commanded troops during the 1798 rebellion. Edward did not, and lived until 1826, but it's widely felt that he was involved in the rebellion.

Blaming the slaughter on General Sir John Moore is thoroughly unfair; the atrocities of the 1798 campaign were almost all the fault of his superior, General Gerard Lake (1744-1808). Moore in fact seems to have felt that the best approach to the rebellion was to improve conditions for all. - RBW

The ballad is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentenial of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See:

Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "Croppies Lie Down" (on Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "1798 the First Year of Liberty," Hummingbird Records HBCD0014 (1998))

Harte: "This is one of several Orange songs written in 1798, all of them ending with the inevitable chant that is still to be heard on the 12th July Orange marches.... 'Croppies Lie Down.'" - BS

Last updated in version 4.4

File: Zimm094B

Croppy Boy (I), The [Laws J14]

DESCRIPTION: The singer, a young Irish patriot, is arrested. A girl (his sister?) gives evidence against him, and he is sentenced to die. As he is waiting to be hanged, his father denies him, naming him "The Croppy Boy"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1798 (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)

KEYWORDS: rebellion execution

FOUND IN: US(MW,So) Canada(Mar,Ont) Ireland Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (22 citations):

Laws J14, "The Croppy Boy"

Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 207, "Copy Boy"[sic] (1 text)

Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 24, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text)

Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 283-284, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text)

Randolph 128, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text)

Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 45-46, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text)

Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 85, "Song of the Croppy Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)

Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 163, "Early, Early in the Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)

Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 34, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)

Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 35, "As I Was Walkin' Down Wexford Street" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 203, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text)

Galvin-IrishSongsOfResistance, pp. 23-24, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)

OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 155, "The Croppy Boy" (6 texts)

OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 40, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)

Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 19, "The Croppy Boy" (7 texts, 2 tunes)

Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 95, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)

Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 188-190, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)

Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 318, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text)
Behan-IrelandSings, #10, "The Boy from Wexford" (1 text, 1 tune, modified)
DT 397, CROPPIE2* CROPPIE3*
Roud #1030
RECORDINGS:
The Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem, "The Croppy Boy" (on IRClancyMakem03)
Tom Lenihan, "Croppy Boy" (on IRClare01)
Della Murphy, "The Croppy Boy" (HMV [Eire?] IM-820, n.d.)
Brigid Tunney, "Early, Early, All in the Spring" (on IRTunneyFamily01)
BROADSIDES:
LOCSinging, as102550, "The Croppy Boy," H. De Marsan (New York), 1859-1878; also as200580, "Croppy Boy"
VonWalthour, CDDrive>b>b(3),"The Croppy Boy" ("It was early, early in the spring"), T. Taylor (London), no date
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Convict Maid" (tune)
cf. "McCaffery (McCassery)" (tune)
cf. "The Sailor Boy (I)" [Laws K12] (tune, per Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster 7)
cf. "Lady Franklin's Lament (The Sailor's Dream)" [Laws K9] (tune)
NOTES [519 words]: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion p. 39, fn. 18: "In the 1790's those who admired the Jacobin ideas began to crop their hair short on the back of the head, in what was said to be the new French fashion; in 1798 this was considered as an evidence of 'disaffection'." Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 19: "In the American versions, the Croppy Boy is betrayed by his sister Mary [see, for example, broadsides LOCSinging as102550 and LOCSinging as200580 and Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 85], or by some vindictive girl, and is sent to New Guinea [see Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 85]." "New Guinea" is an apparent corruption of "New Geneva": "used as a prison and torture house in 1798 [Zimmermann, p. 165]." Being sent to New Guinea does not save the Croppy Boy from being hanged. Notes to IRLClare01 regarding Zimmermann's explanation of the term "Croppy": poet and playwright Patrick Galvin put forward a number of other, equally convincing explanations, which included the practice of punishing convicted felons by cutting off the tops of their ears, and a form of torture applied to rebels known as 'pitch cap'. He suggested that a true explanation probably lay in a combination of these. [For pitchcapping, see e.g. the notes to "The Union." Slitting the ears is mentioned several times in Irish sources, though I don't recall cutting off the tops of the ears being mentioned much. - RBW]
Laws cites O'Conor as a source. O'Connor p. 11, "The Croppy Boy" is not this ballad.
Zimmermann 19, text B, includes the verse
And as I walked down James Street
A pair of painters I chanc'd to meet
'Twas Jemmy O'Brien and Tom O'Neill
For one guinea they swore my life away.
For more about the informer Jemmy O'Brien see "The Major," "Jemmy O'Brien" and "Jemmy O'Brien's Minuet."
The ballad is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentenial of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See:
Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "Croppy Boy" (on Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "1798 the First Year of Liberty," Hummingbird Records HBCD0014 (1998))
Broadside LOCSinging as102550: H. De Marsan dating per _Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song_ by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at FindArticles site. - BS
I can't help but notice some significant similarities between this song and the actual events of the trial of Henry Joy McCracken: Taken by militia, tried as his father and sister Mary (Ann) looked on, with his father denying all knowledge of his activities at the trial, and with McCracken eventually hanged. For details, see "Henry Joy McCracken (I)." - RBW
O'Cróinin/Cronin-The Songs Of Elizabeth Cronin is close to Sparling but lacks the verse accusing the singer's cousin of betraying him, or any verse accusing anyone of the betrayal. - BS

As of this writing, I have no evidence that this song was known in Australia, John S. Manifold, Who Wrote the Ballads? Notes on Australian Folksong, Australasian Book Society, 1964, pp. 23-24, reports that the word "Croppy" came to mean "bushranger" in Australia, hinting that the song made it to the colonies there.

Last updated in version 53.2

File: L14J

Croppy Boy (II), The

DESCRIPTION: The boy asks to speak to the priest. He will go to Wexford to fight as the last of his family. He asks the "priest" to bless him. The real priest had been captured; this "priest" is a yeoman captain in disguise. The boy hangs at Geneva Barracks

AUTHOR: Carroll Malone (source: O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland; Duffy; O'Lochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads: "said to be [a pseudonym of] Dr James McBurney of Belfast"; compare Hoagland)

EARLIEST DATE: 1845 (Duffy; also Duffy's magazine _The Nation_...: "first published in _The Nation_, 4th January, 1845", according to Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)

KEYWORDS: rebellion execution disguise patriotic clergy trick

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

1798 - Irish rebellion

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (8 citations):

O'Lochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 41, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 52, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moylan-The Age Of Revolution-1776-1815 96, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p.11, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 212, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: Charles Gavan Duffy, editor, The Ballad Poetry of Ireland (1845), pp. 156-157, "The Croppy Boy"

Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 540-541, "The Croppy Boy" (1 text)

NOTES [230 words]: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 52: "In The Sham Squire, pp. 179-180, W.J. Fitzpatrick [1866] tells the anecdote that inspired this ballad." As quoted by Zimmermann the ballad closely follows the anecdote.

Zimmermann p. 39, fn. 18: "In the 1790's those who admired the Jacobin ideas began to crop their hair short on the back of the head, in what was said to be the new French fashion; in 1798 this was considered as an evidence of 'disaffection'."

Hoagland's date range (c. 1855-d.1892?) for the author has a problem; Duffy attributes the ballad to "Carroll Malone" but publishes the text in 1845. Hoagland's attribution to Carroll Malone has that as a pseudonym for William B. McBurney. The article "William B. McBurney aka Carroll Malone" at the "From Ireland" site (copyright Jane Lyons, Dublin, Ireland) agrees that McBurney is the author, that he published it in 1845 and that he died in 1892. - BS

Until Ben Schwartz submitted his note, I had doubted that this is based on any actual incident, but Thomas Pakenham, The Year of Liberty, p. 343, notes a case of a Wexford woman with 13 children at the start of the 1798 rebellion. Of her nine sons, five died in battle and three were hung, as was her husband; all four of her daughters were present in the camp at Vinegar Hill, and all came home sick with diseases contracted in the camp. Not the same story, but close. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: OLCm041

Cross Mountain Explosion, The (Coal Creek Disaster) [Laws G9]

DESCRIPTION: The Coal Creek mine blows up, killing 150 miners. The families grieve and the usual prayers are prayed for the dead

AUTHOR: Thomas Evans (?)

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Roberts-SangBranchSettlers)

KEYWORDS: mining death disaster
Cross Your Fingers
DESCRIPTION: "Keep in right with Lady Luck, my dear, Find a good luck charm, and keep it near; Love will surely come to you On some lucky day. "Cross your fingers and make a wish, And maybe your wish will come true." Don't break mirrors, keep a horseshoe
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (Henry, from Glada Gully)
KEYWORDS: nonballad magic
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 228, "Cross Your Fingers" (1 text)
File: MHAp228

Crossed Old Jordan's Stream
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 8, "Going Along" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 122, "Crossed Old Jordan's Stream" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, CRSJDNST
RECORDINGS:
Bird's Kentucky Corn Crackers, "Crossed Old Jordan's Stream" (Victor 23608, c. 1932)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Crossed Old Jordan's Stream" (on NLCR01)
File: CSW122

Crossing the Bridge
DESCRIPTION: Rope-skipping rhyme, reportedly done with two players skipping in opposite directions. "Cross the bridge (x3) To London." Or, "Crossing the bridge To London town, One jumps up, And the other down, If you jump, Win ten peppers And run right through)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: play party food travel
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 101, "(Cross the bridge)" (1 text): pp. 105-106 "(Crossing the bridge)" (1 text, much longer)
File: SuSm101D
Crossing the Divide

DESCRIPTION: "Parson, I'm a maverick, just runnin' loose and grazin'." The singer "had no raisin'"; he has no church affiliation, but asks the parson to pray for him "when I cross the Big Divide." He says he has tried to be honest and follow the rules
AUTHOR: J. W. Foley (source: Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)
EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)
KEYWORDS: cowboy death clergy

Crossing the Plains (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you Californians, I pray ope wide your ears." The singer describes the overland passage to California. The travelers are told what to bring, and warned of troubles. The singer would have gone around the horn if he had known what he now knows
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1854 ("Put's Original California Songster")
KEYWORDS: travel hardtimes

Crosspatrick, The

DESCRIPTION: Crosspatrick leaves "for New Zealand, with their families and their wives." Five days out the ship is wrecked by fire. The captain and his wife try to save others. "Out of four hundred passengers and forty of a crew, There were only four of them left."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1911 (Greig/Duncan1)
KEYWORDS: drowning sea ship wreck sailor
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Nov 18, 1874 - "The most terrible catastrophe of the old year was the destruction by fire of the emigrant-ship Cospatrick, and the consequent loss of over 450 lives, in the early morning of Nov. 18." (source: Illustrated London News, January 2, 1875, as quoted on The Ships List site)
FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #167, p. 2, "The Loss of the Kilpatrick" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan1 32, "The Loss of the Cospatrick" (1 text)
Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast, pp. 99-100, "The Crosspatrick" (1 text)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Loss of the Scotch Patrick
NOTES [374 words]: There are Bodleian broadsides for at least two other ballads about this disaster. While neither is dated, both broadsides quote news dispatches making it seem that they should be dated 1874.
Bodleian, Firth c.12(104), "The Burning of the Emigrant Ship, 'Cospatrick'" ("To this most heartrending and sorrowful tale"), unknown, n.d.; the chorus begins "The 'Cospatrick' took fire when at sea."
Bodleian, Firth c.12(107), "The Burning of the Emigrant Ship, 'Cospatrick'" ("In '74 we've had some shocking disasters"), unknown, n.d.; the chorus begins "Far out on the ocean, in the darkness of midnight."

Another broadside seems to be a third different ballad but could not be downloaded and verified: Bodleian, Harding B 40(4), "The Burning of the 'Cospatrick'" ("You feeling-hearted Christians wherever that you be"), J.F. Nugent and Co.? (Dublin?), 1850-1899; also Harding B 19(115a), "The Burning of the 'Cospatrick'" - BS

David Ritchie, Shipwrecks: An Encyclopedia of the World's Worst Disasters at Sea, 1996 (I use the 1999 Checkmark paperback edition), pp. 52-53, devotes many hundreds of words to this disaster. Cospatrick was built in Burma and seems to have spend many years working mostly in the Indian Ocean. Eventually it was taken over by the Shaw Savill Line and used to take emigrants from Britain to New Zealand.

Ritchie reports 429 emigrants were aboard for the final voyage, plus the crew, including the captain's wife and son.

The ship was approaching Auckland, New Zealand, on November 17 or 18 ("accounts differ" on the date, according to Ritchie). Flammables in the forward part of the ship caught fire, the fire pumps could not be worked because they were in the midst of the blaze, and the passengers got in the way of the crew.

It was difficult even to abandon ship; some boats had burned, others overloaded. Only two boats apparently made it away, with 80 people on board. But they lacked food and water, and had no sails. One boat vanished. On the other, it seems, the people aboard were forced into cannibalism. When the boat was finally found by the British Sceptre on November 26, only three men -- the second officer, a quartermaster, and a seaman -- were still alive. Thus the casualty rate was over 98%.

Crow and Pie [Child 111]

DESCRIPTION: The singer woos a maid encountered in a forest. She spurns him, repeating with each refusal "the crowe shall byte yew". He takes her by force, then taunts "the pye hath peckyd yew." He refuses to marry, give money, or tell his name. All maids take warning

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 16th century (MS, Bodleian Rawlinson C.813)

KEYWORDS: courting virtue rape bird

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Child 111, "Crow and Pie" (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: Karin Boklund-Lagopolou, _I have a yong suster: Popular song and Middle English lyric_, Four Courts Press, 2002, pp. 90-93 "(No title)" (1 text)

MANUSCRIPT: Oxford, Bodleian Library, MS. Rawlinson C.813, folio 27

Roud #3975

NOTES [99 words]: According to Karin Boklund-Lagopolou, _I have a yong suster: Popular song and Middle English lyric_, Four Courts Press, 2002, p. 90, the manuscript which contains this, Bodleian Rawlinson C.813, opens with an "amateur collection of lyrics from the sixteenth century. Love poetry predominated." This is item #44 in the manuscript, which does not give it a title. Boklund-Lagopolou, p. 92, compares it to the Holly-and-Ivy competition songs.

It's interesting (to me, at least) that the two birds referred to in the song, crow and magpie, are probably the two most intelligent types in Britain.

Crow and the Weasel, The

DESCRIPTION: "The crow he peeped at the weasel (x3) AND The weasel he peeped at the crow."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: bird animal

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 157, "The Crow and the Weasel" (1
Crow Song (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, said the blackbird to the crow, To yonder cornfield I must go, Picking up corn has been my trade, Ever since Adam and Eve was made." Regarding the life of the crow and other birds

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: bird floating verses food
FOUND IN: US(MW,SE,So)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Randolph 275, "The Crow Song" (5 texts, 1 tune, with the "A," "B," and "C" texts being this piece though "B" and "C" texts mix with "The Bird's Courting Song (The Hawk and the Crow; Leatherwing Bat)"; "D" is perhaps "Ain't Gonna Rain No More"; "E" is "One for the Blackbird")
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 119, "The Song of the Crow" (1 short text, 1 tune, in which the "blackbird" asks "What makes white folks hate us so," implying a racial subtext)
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 31-33, "The Three Ravens" (the two fragments in the headnotes are this piece)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 156, "Said the Blackbird to the Crow" (5 texts, though "D" and "E" appear mixed, with "D" being this combined with "Bird's Courting Song, The (The Hawk and the Crow; Leatherwing Bat)"
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, p. 60, "Said the Blackbird" (1 short text, 1 tune, which combines the "Said the Blackbird" verse with an A B C D E F G alphabet)

DT, THRERAUV6*

Roud #747?

RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "The Crow Song" (Victor V-40149, 1929) Columbia 15449-D [as Al Craver]/Harmony 992-H [as Mack Allen], 1929) (Broadway 8144 [as Lone Star Ranger], c. 1930) [Note: the Broadway recording may be by John I. White rather than Dalhart, as he is also known to have used that pseudonym. - PJS]
Whitey Johns, "Crow Song" (Oriole 1810, 1930)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Three Ravens" [Child 26] (lyrics, theme)
cf. "Hidi Quili Lodi Quili" (floating lyrics)
cf. "The Bird's Courting Song (The Hawk and the Crow; Leatherwing Bat)" (lyrics)
cf. "Hilo, Boys, Hilo" (lyrics)
NOTES [126 words]: Some have thought this a relative of "The Three Ravens." While it's possible that the various by-blows of that austere ballad inspired this, it certainly qualifies now as a separate song. It's more likely to be derived from "The Bird's Courting Song (The Hawk and the Crow; Leatherwing Bat)"; the first verse in particular is often found with that song. That first verse is the only one that survives in McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks's version, a playparty which also includes an alphabet song; it's not really possible to know what song it derives from. Another possibility is that some of the lyrics derive from the sea song "Hilo, Boys, Hilo," which shares quite a few words, but my guess is that the dependence is the other way. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

Crow Wing Drive

DESCRIPTION: "Says White Pine Tom to Arkansaw, 'There's one more drive I'd like to strike,' Says Arkansaw, 'What can it be?' "It's the Crow Wing River for the old Pine Tree." The loggers leave Bemidji for Brainerd, where they "make some noise."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy)
KEYWORDS: logger travel train moniker
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy 24, "The Crow Wing Drive" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 24, "The Crow Wing Drive" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 465, "Crow Wing Drive" (1 text)
ST Rick099 (Partial)
Roud #8893
NOTES [106 words]: The relationship between this and the "Casey Jones"/"Joseph Mica (Mikel) (The Wreck of the Six-Wheel Driver) (Been on the Choly So Long)" [Laws 116] families will be obvious. Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy's informant said it was built out of those elements by White Pine Tom, the singer mentioned in the first line.
Whether White Pine Tom is the actual author or not, the piece clearly was composed by someone familiar with northern Minnesota. Given that the informant, Ed Springstad, was known as Arkansaw, it may have been a local joke.
I have this feeling that there may have been a few more verses than Rickaby printed. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.3
File: Rick099

Crow, Black Chicken

DESCRIPTION: Dance tune with floating verses: "Chicken crowed for midnight, chicken crowed for day/Along came an owl, and toted that chicken away." Chorus: "Crow black chicken, crow for day/Crow black chicken, fly away/I love chicken pie."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (recording, Leake County Revelers)
KEYWORDS: dancing humorous nonballad floatingverses chickens
FOUND IN: US(Se)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 207, "Crow, Black Chicken" (1 text, 1 tune)
RECORDINGS:
Leake County Revelers, "Crow Black Chicken" (Columbia 15318-D, 1928)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Crow Black Chicken" (on NLCR04, NLCR11, NLCR12, NLCRCD1)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Chickens They Are Crowing" (words)
cf. "It's Almost Day" (words)
cf. "Letter from Down the Road" (words)
cf. "Jubilee" (words)
NOTES [119 words]: The authorship on this one is up in the air. The headnotes in Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook read: "Words - NLCR [New Lost City Ramblers], Vol. 4, tune and source text from the Leake County Revelers, Col. 15318." This may mean that the NLCR rewrote the original words, but without hearing the Leake County Revelers' version it's hard to tell. -PJS
I haven't heard the Leake County Revelers version, either, but I have heard Bob Bovee and Gail Heil sing that form, and it is shorter and more "chickenish" than the NLCR text. It would appear that the NLCR reshuffled the verses, then added a couple of floaters (e.g. "Went up on a mountain, Give my horn a blow...") to make a short piece longer. - RBW
File: CSW207

Crowd of Bold Sharemen, A

DESCRIPTION: "It was early in June, b'ys, When we sailed away" with a young skipper and crew, "And a crowd of bold sharemen." Skipper withholds oil until the sharemen threaten to destroy the catch. Skipper threatens to go home until the sharemen threaten to sue.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: bargaining fishing ship sea work ordeal
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 121, "The Crowd of Bold Sharemen"
Crown For Us All, A

DESCRIPTION: "I had a pious (father/mother/brother/sister) that I once loved dear, He's been gone for many a year, He has lain in his grave for many a day Till the power of God shall call him away. There's a crown for you, and a crown for me, Glory be to God...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad death
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 211, "A Crown For Us All" (1 text)
ST Fus211 (Partial)
Roud #16372
File: Fus211

Crows in the Garden

DESCRIPTION: "Crown in the garden, pulling up corn (x2), Catch 'em, catch 'em, string 'em up and stretch 'em." The marauding crows are condemned; the gardeners who cannot stop them insulted. The world is said to be full of crows -- some of whom seek money, not corn

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934
KEYWORDS: gardening bird work lawyer money gold
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 137, pp. 283-284, "Crows in the Garden" (1 text)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 314-316, "Crows in the Garden" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, CRWGARDN*
Roud #4505
File: LxA314

Crows Kept Flyin' Up, The

DESCRIPTION: "The crows kept flyin' up, boys, The crows kept flyin' up. The dog he seen and whimpered, boys, Though he was but a pup. The lost was found, we brought in round, And took him from the place. While ants was swarmin' on the grass...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1902 (Henry Lawson, "A Hero in Dingo Scrubs," according to Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads)
KEYWORDS: bird dog bug
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads, p. 52, "The Crows Kept Flyin' Up" (1 short text)
NOTES [30 words]: This fragment was enclosed in a longer work by Henry Lawson, who described it as being of unknown origin. Stewart/Keesing treat it as a folk song as a result. I am less convinced. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2
File: StKF052

Crucified

DESCRIPTION: "They nailed the Savior to a cross and left him there to die, 'Forgive them, Father, 0 forgive,' That was the Savior's cry. Crucified, crucified, And nailed upon a tree, Crucified, crucified, He suffered there for me."

AUTHOR: see NOTES
EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (Cox-FolkMusicInANewfoundlandOutport); probably recorded 1974
KEYWORDS: religious Jesus injury
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cox-FolkMusicInANewfoundlandOutport, p. 200, "Crucified" (1 short text, 1 tune)
NOTES [70 words]: Almost every word of this song, as sung by Simon Crocker for Cox-FolkMusicInANewfoundlandOutport, is found in the song "Crucified" by C. Austin Miles (1868-1946), who also wrote "Dwelling in Beulah Land" and "In the Garden." But Crocker's version is so reorganized and filed down and shortened that I'm frankly tempted to consider them different songs. It took me a LONG time to see the connection between the two. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3
File: CoxN200

Cruel Brother, The [Child 11]

DESCRIPTION: A man and woman agree to wed, but fail to ask her brother's permission. As the woman prepares for the wedding, her brother stabs her. She does not name her murderer, but reveals the facts in the terms of her will.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1776 (Herd)
KEYWORDS: homicide brother marriage jealousy revenge lastwill
FOUND IN: Britain(England (West),Scotland) Ireland US(Ap,NE,SE)
REFERENCES (26 citations):
Child 11, "The Cruel Brother" (14 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #1}
Bronson 11, "The Cruel Brother" (10 versions)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 11, "The Cruel Brother" (4 versions: #1, #4, #6, #9)
Lyle/McAlpine/McLucas-SongRepertoireOfAmeliaAndJaneHarris, pp. 26-33, "They Were Three Ladies/There Waur Three Ladies" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #1, but with differences}
Riewerts-BalladRepertoireOfAnnaGordon-MrsBrownOfFalkland, pp. 235-237, "Cruel Brother Or The Bride's Testament" (1 text)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 54, "The Rose Smells Sae Sweetly" (1 text)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 114, "The Rosie Smell'd Sae Sweetlie"; Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 135, "Fine Flowers in the Vale O" (2 texts)
Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Ballad #2, pp. 56-59,242, "The Three Knights" (1 text)
Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryEngland, pp. 270-271, "The Three Knights" (1 text)
Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall, p. 7, "The Three Knights" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #7}
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 6 "The Cruel Brother" (2 texts, 2 tunes) {Bronson's #3, #4}
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 13-15, "The Bride's Murder" (1 text, 1 tune)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 431-433, "The Cruel Brother" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #2}
Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland1, pp. 171-174, "The Cruel Brother" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 5, "The Cruel Brother" (2 texts)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 5, "The Cruel Brothers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cruel Fate

DESCRIPTION: "Though cruel fate should us part, As far as pole an' line." her memory should stay in his heart; though mountains and deserts separate them, the singer would still love "Jean."

AUTHOR: unknown (new tune by Jeannie Robertson)

EARLIEST DATE: 1788 (Scots Musical Museum, according to Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice)

KEYWORDS: courting promise nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #45, pp. 196, "Cruel Fate" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #24309

File: RPG045

Cruel Gamekeeper, The

DESCRIPTION: A farmer's daughter, pregnant, asks the gamekeeper, her lover, to marry. He refuses, kills her and, after ripping her open, kills the baby. He is caught and condemned to be hanged.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1886 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(3637))
KEYWORDS: sex promise rejection execution homicide pregnancy gallows-confession lover
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 259-260, "The Gamekeeper" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 317)
Cologne/Morrison-WiltshireFolkSongs, pp. 62-63, "The Gamekeeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henderson-VictorianStreetBallads, p. 28, "The Cruel Gamekeeper" (1 text)
Roud #1313
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(3637), "The Cruel Gamekeeper" ("In Buxton town in Staffordshire"), H. Such (London), 1863-1885; also Firth c.17(204), "The Cruel Gamekeeper"; Harding B 22(273) [some words illegible], "The Staffordshire Tragedy"
NOTES [109 words]: This is one of the few Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames texts that varies significantly from an earlier broadside. In the Bodleian broadside Harding B 11(3637), the girl tells the gamekeeper "I am big with child by you" (Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames: "I've lost my liberty by you"), "He ripp'd her up and there was by, A baby in her womb did cry" (Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames: "He picked her up, and there lay by A fair young babe that moaned and cried") and "I promised her but did not wed, So the gallows proved my marriage bed" (Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames: "And never do as I have done, For I might have been a farmer's son"). - BS
Last updated in version 4.4
File: WT259

Cruel Mother, The [Child 20]

DESCRIPTION: A woman is (preparing to be wed, but is) pregnant (by another man). When her child(ren) is/are born, she kills him/them. As she proceeds to the church to be wed, the child(ren) appear to her to condemn her for her act.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1776 (Herd)
KEYWORDS: homicide pregnancy adultery wedding childbirth burial children accusation supernatural ghost bastard
FOUND IN: Britain(England,Scotland(High,Aber,Bord)) Ireland US(Ap,MA,MW,NE,SE,So) Canada(Mar,Newf)
REFERENCES (58 citations):
Child 20, "The Cruel Mother" (17 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #5}
Bronson 20, "The Cruel Mother" (56 versions plus 1 in addenda)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 20, "The Cruel Mother" (12 versions: #1, #4, #5, #6, #15, #19.1, #20, #22, #24, #31, #45, #47)
Lyle/McAlpine/McLucas-SongRepertoireOfAmeliaAndJaneHarris, pp. 68-73, "The Rose o' Balindie/ The Rose o' Malindie O" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #5}
Dixon-ScottishTraditionalVersionsOfAncientBallads VI, pp. 46-49, "The Cruel Mother"; VII, pp. 50-52, "The Minister's Dochter o' Newarke" (2 texts)
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 295, "She Laid These Babes Across Her Lap" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 129, "Cruel Mother")
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #116, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan2 193, "The Cruel Mother" (7 texts, 3 tunes) {A=Bronson's #12, B=#3, C=#15}
Greig/Duncan8 1910, "Doun by the Greenwood Sae Bonnie O" (1 fragment)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #20, p. 2, ("Doun by the greenwood and by the green") (1 fragment)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 12, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 131, "The Trajedie o Twa Bairns of Newark" (1 text)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 80-93, "The Cruel Mother" (6 texts plus a fragment, 1 tune) {Bronson's #6}
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 66-67, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #21} Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland1, pp. 230-238, "The Cruel Mother" (3 texts (all missing parts of the plot) plus 3 fragments probably of this; 3 tunes} {A=Bronson's #21, B=#34}
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 7, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #14}
Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection, pp. 69-70, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text)
Randolph 8, "Down by the Greenwood Side" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #54}
Davis-TraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 9, "The Cruel Mother" (4 texts plus a fragment, 4 tunes)
Bronson's #35, #48, #43, #44}
Davis-MoreTraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 12, pp. 81-83, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #150, "The Cruel Mother" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #47}
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 167-169, "(The Cruel Mother)" (1 text, from Randolph; tune on p. 403) {Bronson's #54}
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 11A, "Two Little Babes"; 11B, "The Cruel Mother" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 17-20, "The Cruel Mother" (2 texts plus 2 fragments and 1 excerpt, 4 tunes) {Bronson's pp. #18, #45, #13, #20}
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 2, "Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #37}
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 6, "Fair Flowers of Helio" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #28}
Peacock, pp. 804-805, "The Babes in the Greenwood" (1 text, 2 tunes)
Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 5, "The Cruel Mother" (5 texts, 7 tunes) {Bronson's #26}
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 3, "The Greenwood Siding" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #19}
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 56, "There Was a Girl Her Name Was Young (Down by the Greenwood Side-I-O) (The Cruel Mother)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 103-106, "The Cruel Mother" (3 texts)
Leach-HeritageBookOfBallads, pp. 44-45, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 22, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 181, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text + 1 fragment)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 68, "Down by the Greenwood Shady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 447-448, "Dwon by the Greenwood Side" (1 text)
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 38-39, "There Was a Lady Lived in York" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #22}
Grison-PenguinBookOfBallads 27, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 10 "The Cruel Mother" (13 texts, 13 tunes) {Bronson's #51, #55, #42, #44, #17, #32, #46, #40, #11, #10, #52, #30, #41}
Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolkSongs 13, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #31}
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 17, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #31}
Wells-TheBalladTree, pp. 150-151, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #51}
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 459-460, "Hey Wi' the Rose and the Lindsay, O" (1 text)
Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 20, "The Cruel Mother" (2 texts, 2 tunes); also possibly 15, "The Maid and the Palmer" (1 text, which Niles identifies with Child 21, but the fragment is so short that it could equally be part of Child 20)
Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 9, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune -- a composite version) {Bronson's #42}
Hammond-SongsOfBelfast, p. 54, "All Round the Loney-O" (1 text, 1 tune)
VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, p. 28, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #16}
Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 36, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 5, "The Cruel Mother" (3 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #7}
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 26-27, "Down by the Greenwood Sidee" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 222, "The Cruel Mother" (1 text)
Behan-IrelandSings, #74, "The River Sila" (1 text, 1 tune, "adapted" by Wolfe Stephens and probably significantly rewritten but with some similarity to other Irish versions)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN2495, "There was a Duke's Daughter Lived in York"
DT 20, CRUELMOT* CRUELMO2* CRUELMO3
ADDITIONAL: Emily Lyle, _Fairies and Folk: Approaches to the Scottish Ballad Tradition_,
Wissenschaftlicher Verlag Trier, 2007, pp, 156-157, "[The Minister's Daughter of New York]" (1 text, from a letter from Peter Buchan to William Motherwell); pp. 170-172, [no title], (1 text, in a shorthand notation, again from Buchan to Motherwell)

Roud #9

RECORDINGS:
- A. L. Lloyd, "The Cruel Mother" (ESFB1, ESFB2)
- Lizzie Higgins, "The Cruel Mother" (on Voice03) (on LHiggins01)
- John James, "The Green Woods of Bonnie-O" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
- Thomas Moran, "The Cruel Mother" (on FSBB4)
- Duncan Burke, Cecilia Costello, Thomas Moran [composite] "The Cruel Mother" (on FSBBAL1) {cf. Bronson's #19.1 in addenda}
- Joshua Osborne, "The Babes in the Greenwood" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
- Lucy Stewart, "Down by the Greenwood Sidie O" (on LStewart1)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- Fine Flowers in the Valley
- Three Little Babies
- The Lady of York
- Greenwood Siding
- The Minister of New York's Daughter
- Hey My Rose

NOTES [611 words]: Although this has not been linked with any historical incident, there are a number of cases in history which are at least vaguely similar. One which struck me was the case of Will Darrell, reportedly from 1575 (as told in Underwood, pp. 123-124).

Darnell, having gotten one of his sundry mistresses pregnant, brought in a midwife (blindfolding her to conceal the place) to help the mother, then killed the child. The midwife left a deathbed testament, but Darnell was acquitted at trial. Later, when riding a horse, he saw the ghost of the dead baby; his horse bolted and he was killed.

You can believe as much of that as you like; I don't believe much. But it shows that stories like this were circulating. And it is good psychology. Comer, p. 241, reports that regret often follows a murder -- sufficient regret to result in suicide. It appears that five percent of those who commit murder attempt suicide soon after -- but that figure rises to 20% of those who have murdered a child.

The motif of a mother pretending to still be a virgin is also well known. Briggs, Volume A1, pp. 452-454, has a story called "The Princess with the White Petticoat" in which just about every girl in a court proves to be a secret mother.

Some versions, including Child's Q and Creighton's from Nova Scotia, have a secondary folklore motif: The unremovable stain (in this case, of blood on the knife). This is most famous for Shakespeare's application to Lady MacBeth (Macbeth V.i, a part of the play which is more Shakespeare than Holinshed), but it is common in folklore: Compare Asbjornson and Moe's "East of the Sun and West of the Moon," I seem to recall also a story of three drops of blood arranging for their own revenge, though I can't recall the source. We also see it in Child's D text of "Babylon, or, The Bonnie Banks o Fordie" [Child 14].

Dixon's version (Child's F, taken from Buchan) ends with the mother's suicide, something rare in other versions. The form appears to have been influenced by "The Twa Sisters." I wonder a little if there has not been some rewriting involved. - RBW

Also collected and sung by David Hammond, "All Round the Loney-O" (on David Hammond, "I Am the Wee Falorie Man: Folk Songs of Ireland," Tradition TCD1052 CD (1997) reissue of Tradition LP TLP 1028 (1959)) The Hammond versions have the common form for this ballad of rhyming couplet interspersed with "All round the Loney-O" and "Down by the greenwood side-O." According to Sean O Boyle's notes to the album the version "has been localized by Belfast singers, who identify the Loney with a street called The Pound Loney. The Castle Pound in old Belfast stood here by a boundary river among the trees of the Falls (Hedge) Road; thus giving all features of the song a local habitation." The version survives stripped of all supernatural references as both the (suicidal?) mother and murdered baby "sleep" in the river.

Greig/Duncan8 is so fragmentary and broken(?) that it can go a number of places. There are two distinct parts of the text: "Down by the greenwood and by the green, Down by the greenwood sae bonnie O" [almost from Child 20 and "Lady Anne" as a chorus] and "Four-and-twenty bairnies playing at the ba" [Child 155A and C, and "Still Growing" Greig/Duncan8 1222D]. The notes to Greig/Duncan8 refer to Child 20 and "Still Growing." Since I have to pick one, I'll take Child 20 because of its sometime "Down by the green wood sae bonnie" and "She spied twa [not twenty-four] boys playing at the ba" [Child 20D]. Since the Greig/Duncan8 fragment has lost the story of the boys it doesn't matter that the twenty-four players don't make sense in the context of Child 20. - BS

Bibliography

- Briggs: Katherine Briggs, A Dictionary of British Folk-Tales in the English Language, Part A: Folk Narratives, 1970 (I use the 1971 Routledge paperback that combines volumes A.1 and A.2)
- Underwood; Peter Underwood: Gazetteer of British, Scottish & Irish Ghosts, originally published as two volumes, A gazetteer of British Ghosts (1971?) and A gazeteer of Scottish and Irish Ghosts (1973?); although the two volumes still have separate title pages, the 1985 Bell edition I use has continuous pagination and a single index

Last updated in version 6.1
File: C020

Cruel Ship's Carpenter, The (The Gosport Tragedy; Pretty Polly) [Laws P36A/B]

DESCRIPTION: The carpenter gets the girl pregnant. They meet, allegedly to plan their wedding. He announces he spent the night digging her grave, then murders her. He flees to sea; her ghost follows to demand justice. His crime is revealed, and the man dies

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1767 (Journal from the Vaughn)
KEYWORDS: homicide burial ghost pregnancy betrayal sailor
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland) US(Ap,MA,SE) Canada(Mar,Newf)
REFERENCES (31 citations):
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 318, "Johnny, the Ship’s Carpenter" (1 text)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #117, "The Cruel Ship's Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan2 201, "The Gosport Tragedy" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Carey-MarylandFolkloreAndFolklife, pp. 59-61, "The Gospels of Libby" (1 text, with the title being a clear corruption of "Gosport City")
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 64, "The Gosport Tragedy" (3 texts plus 1 excerpt and mention of 1 more; Laws lists the "A" text as P36A, and the rest as P36B, but "D" and probably "C" are "Pretty Polly (II")
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 64, "The Gosport Tragedy" (3 excerpts, 3 tunes; the "C" version is probably "Pretty Polly" and the others Laws P36B)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #183, "The Cruel Ship's Carpenter" (1 text)
Cox/Hercog/Halpert/Boswell-W/W Virginia-A, #17A-C, pp. 73-78, "Pretty Polly," "Come, Polly, Pretty Polly" (2 texts plus an excerpt, 2 tunes; the "A" text is the full "Cruel Ship’s Carpenter" version; "B" is the short "Pretty Polly (II)"; the "C" fragment is too short to tell but has lyrics more typical of the latter)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 114-120, "The Ship's Carpenter" (4 texts, 2 tunes)
Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 70, "The Ship's Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Peacock, pp. 404-406, "The Ship's Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-FolksongsFromNewfoundland 27, "The Cruel Ship’s Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 29, "The Gaspard Tragedy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 698-700, "The Gosport Tragedy" (2 texts, but the second goes with "Pretty Polly (II)")
Leach-HeritageBookOfBallads, pp. 147-148, "Pretty Polly" (1 text, 1 tune) on p. 203
CAMBAIRE - EAST TENNESSEE WEST VIRGINIA MOUNTAIN BALLADS, pp. 74-75, "The Cruel Ship's Carpenter (Pretty Polly)" (1 text, with the moralizing ending in which the ship sinks but no ghost)

SCARBOROUGH - A SONG CATCHER IN SOUTHERN MOUNTAINS, pp. 128-134, collectively titled "The Cruel Ship's Carpenter" but with individual titles "Pretty Polly," "Dying Polly," "Pretty Polly," "Pretty Polly," "Pretty Polly," "Oh, Polly!!" (6 texts; 5 tunes on pp. 395-398; of these only the "C" text has a ghost; in "D" and "E" there is no ghost but Willie's ship sinks; the others by our criteria are versions of "Pretty Polly (II)"

SHARP - ENGLISH FOLK SONGS FROM SOUTHERN APPALACHIANS 49, "The Cruel Ship's Carpenter" (21 texts, 21 tunes -- but many of them, being fragmentary, could as easily be classified under "Pretty Polly (II)"

SHARP/KARPELES - EIGHTY ENGLISH FOLK SONGS 36, "The Cruel Ship's Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)

KARPELES - THE CRYSTAL SPRING 77, "The Cruel Ship's Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)

HUNTINGTON - SONGS THE WHALEMEN SANG, pp. 129-131, "The Ship Carpenter" (1 text, long but broken off just before the murder, 1 tune)

LEACH - FOLK BALLADS SONGS OF FLAPER LABORADOR COAST 20, "Pretty Polly" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

MANNY/WILSON - SONGS OF MIRAMICHI 92, "The Ship's Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)

ASHTON - REAL SAILOR SONGS, #86 insert, "The Gosport Tragedy or The Perjured Ship-Carpenter" (1 text)

FORGET-ME-NOT SONGSTER, pp. 232-235, "The Gosport Tragedy" (1 text)

OLSON - BROADSIDE BALLAD INDEX, ZN1429, "In Gosport of late there a damsel did dwell"

DT 311, SHIPCARP* SGIOCRRP2*

Frank Harte _Songs of Dublin_, second edition, Ossian, 1993, p. 24, "Miss Brown" (1 text, 1 tune, short enough that it might be any of several murder ballads, but some of the material seems characteristic of this song)

Roud #15

RECORDINGS:

Harry Cox, "In Worcester City" (on Voice17)

Din Dobbin, "Pretty Polly" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

Sam Larner, "The Ghost Ship" (on SLarner02)

Joshua Osborne, "The Ship's Carpenter" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]

Mike Waterson, "The Cruel Ship's Carpenter" (on ESFB2)

BROADSIDES:

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. esp. "Pretty Polly (II)" (a much-reduced form of this ballad which as now sung has a different plot)

cf. "The Sailor and the Ghost [Laws P34A/B]"

cf. "Captain Glen/The New York Trader (The Guilty Sea Captain A/B)" [Laws K22] and references there

cf. "Willie Was As Fine a Sailor" cf. "The Fog-bound Vessel" (parody of this)

ALTERNATE TITLES:

Willie and Nancy of Yarmouth

NOTES [167 words]: Although there is no clear dividing line between the full ballad "The Gosport Tragedy" and the drastically shortened form "Pretty Polly," the latter has now clearly taken on a life of its own. I tend to distinguish them by the presence or absence of the ghost.

sketch genealogy of the history of this song, starting with a 1720 broadside, "The Gosport Tragedy, or, The Perjur'd Ship-Carpenter," which was the direct source of "The Gosport Tragedy." This split into two lines of descent, the smaller family being Laws P36A, "The Cruel Ship's Carpenter," the larger being "Pretty Polly," including Laws P36B. Brooks then classified some fifty versions of "Pretty Polly" into a "Standard Version" (18 examples), those with an "Altered Tune" (14 examples), and those with "Altered Lyrics" (18 examples). - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0

File: LP36

Cruel War (II), The

DESCRIPTION: "In 1861, By then the cruel war had begun, And the boys all hastened away, away, And the boys all hastened away." "In 1862, We wished the cruel war was through." In 1863, Lincoln freed the slaves; in 1864, they heard the war was over

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1969 (Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol3)

KEYWORDS: battle Civilwar separation

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol3, p. 39, "The Cruel War" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [23 words]: Bush calls this an adaptation of "Paddy on the Railway," and this is likely, but the form appears to have shifted a little along the way. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0

File: BWV3039

Cruel Was the Press Gang

DESCRIPTION: "Oh! cruel was the press-gang That took my love from me; Oh! cruel was the little ship That took him out to sea; And cruel was the splinter-board That took away his leg; Now he is forced to fiddle-scrape And I am forced to beg."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose)

KEYWORDS: husband wife pressgang injury begging disability

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

*Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #196, p. 137, "(Oh! cruel was the press-gang)"

Roud #V1839

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Firth c.12(204), "The Answer to Oh! Cruel" ("Oh! cruel were my parents as tore my love from me "), unknown, n.d.

NOTES [23 words]: Although I haven't met this in any traditional collections, it sounds so traditional that I decided to risk including it in the Index. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: BGMG196

Cruel Waves of Huron

DESCRIPTION: "On the nineteenth of May, ninety-four... Was the loss of the schooner Shupe, which I am going to tell." The Shupe is sinking near Port Huron. A tug, the Thompson, tries to help. The Shupe's crew is saved, but four from the tug die; Dan Lynn survives

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (assembled by several informants for Walton)

KEYWORDS: ship wreck drowning

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

May 19, 1894 - the _William Shupe_ breaks up near Port Huron, Michigan. Five men in a rescue boat are cast into the water. Only Daniel Lynn can be saved. He later is given a congressional medal for heroism (source: Walton)

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cruise of the Bouncing Sally, The

DESCRIPTION: "The boat has slipped her moorings, The mules have whisked their tails." The Bouncing Sally sails on the Schuylkill. "Chief" Bangs works with the mules. They see a "phantom vessel" "With a phantom crew to man her." The ghost boat drifts away

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1949 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)
KEYWORDS: canal ship travel animal ghost
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 284-285, "The Cruise of the Bouncing Sally" (1 text)
Roud #7740
File: KPL284

Cruise of the Dove, The DESCRIPTION: The whaling vessel fits out and sails. The singer names the owners and captain. They visit Peru and Japan. The sailors spot a whale and compete to catch it first. They return home. The singer prepares to make merry.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1845 (Journal from the Minerva)
KEYWORDS: whaler sea sailor travel
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 13-15, "The Cruise of the Dove" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, CRUISDOV*
Roud #1999
File: SWMS013

Cruising Round Yarmouth

DESCRIPTION: Sailor on leave in Yarmouth tells a girl he's a fast-going clipper; he takes her in tow to her house, where he puts his jib boom into her cabin. He drinks a health to the girl, and to the doctor who "squared his main yards -- he's a-cruising again"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (recorded from Harry Cox)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer, a sailor taking shore leave in Yarmouth, meets a young woman. He tells her he's a fast-going clipper; she tells him her hold is free. She looks Dutch, "round at the quarters and bluff in the bow"; he takes her in tow through the town to her house, where she lowers her topsails and he puts his jib boom into her cabin. With his shot-locker empty and powder spent, "I can't fire a shot for it's choked at the vent." He drinks a health to the girl, and to the doctor who "squared his main yards -- he's a-cruising again"
KEYWORDS: disease sex beauty ship bawdy humorous sailor whore
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Bone-CapstanBars, pp. 77-82, "Blow th' Man Down" (2 texts, 1 tune, of which the second text may have a bit of "Cruising Round Yarmouth" in it, though that fragment may have been the inspiration for this song)
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 128, "The Whale Island Anthem" (1 fragment)
Roud #2432
RECORDINGS:
Harry Cox, "Cruising Round Yarmouth" (on LastDays)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
While Cruising Round Yarmouth
NOTES [74 words]: It's worth noting that many Dutch prostitutes worked the streets of British ports. - PJS

What's more, there was an East Anglian rhyme with the lines, Pakefield for poverty, Lowestoft for poor, Gorleston for pretty girls, Yarmouth for whores.

(See Enid Porter, The Folklore of East Anglia, Batsford, 1974, p. 164.) Although, in Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy's version, she's a "Chatham" hag/whore. I'd still consider it the same song. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: RcCRYar

Cruiskeen Lawn

DESCRIPTION: "Let the farmer praise his grounds, as the hunter does his hounds" and so on, but the singer prefers his full jug. He reviews the benefits and when death comes to take him he will have death wait while he has "another cruiskeen lawn"

AUTHOR: Dion Boucicault (1820-1890)? (see NOTES)

EARLIEST DATE: 1858 (Lover)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Partly in Gaelic. Singer says farmers may praise their grounds, the huntsman his hounds, but he's happy with his cruiskeen lawn (little full jug). He toasts his companions, proposing not to go home although it's morning, and swears that when Death approaches, he will beg off to "have another cruiskeen lawn" Chorus: "Gramachree ma cruiskeen, slanthe gal mavourneen, Erin mavourneen lawn"

KEYWORDS: drink humorous nonballad death party foreignlanguage

FOUND IN: Canada(Ont) Ireland

REFERENCES (8 citations):

O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 54, "Crooskeen Lawn" (1 text)
Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 2, "The Cruiskeen Lawn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 63, "The Cruiscín lárn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 127-128, "Cruiskeen Lawn" (1 text, 2 tunes)
DT, CRUSKEEN*

ADDITIONAL: Samuel Lover, The Lyrics of Ireland (London, 1858 ("Digitized by Google")), pp. 131-132, "Cruiskeen Lawn" (1 text)

Roud #2309

RECORDINGS:

O. J. Abbott, "The Cruiskeen Lawn" (on Abbott1)
The Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem, "Cruiscin Lan" (on IRClancyMakem01)

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Harding B 15(73b), "Crooskeen Lawn," Henry Disley (London), 1860-1883

LOC Singing, as102580, "Cruiskeen Lawn," George S. Harris (Philadelphia), 19C

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "John Anderson, My Jo, John" (tune)

NOTES [722 words]: "Cruiskeen lawn" is, in Irish, a "full jug." (source: radiohaha: the online encyclopaedia of contemporary british radio comedy. [Also Hoagland, who renders the title "My full little jug"; Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott say that the proper spelling is cruiscín lán - RBW]).

Lover: "The meaning of the chorus, in English, is something like the following -- 'My heart's love is my little jug, Bright health to my darling! My heart's love, her fair locks,' &c."

Sparling: "Originated among convivial circles of Dublin, but embodies fragments of a much older Celtic song. The tune is clearly not Irish; said to be of Danish origin, and a variant of that which has reached modern times as 'There was a little man and he had a little gun!'" It appears here that Sparling is referring to the melody of Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 325, "There was a little man, and he had a little gun." - BS

Although apparently the work of a known author, it has quickly been "anonymized"; the several popular books of poetry which include it (Stevenson's Home Book of Verse v. 2, Hoagland) list no author.
What's more, Finson, p. 275, writes that "Dublin-born immigrant [to America] Peter K. Moran relates the Irish love of whisky in his 'Croskeen Lawn' (ca. 1823) which speaks f the brew as it is distilled in the old country and features a refrain in Gaelic." Finson doesn't give any text of Moran's song, but presumably it played some role in the ancestry of this; Williams, p. 31, claims that Boucicault took it over for "The Colleen Bawn" (1860).

Dion Boucicault was born in Ireland but migrated to America in 1853 (Kahn, p. 66). According to Morison, p. 780, "Of the 132 plays written my Dion Boucicault, only Rip Van Winkle (1865) in which Joseph Jefferson starred for over thirty years, and The Colleen Bawn, a romantic comedy of Ireland, are remembered." On the other hand, his daughter Nina Boucicault, when in her late thirties, would create the role of "Peter Pan" in the first theatrical production (Douglas-Fairhurst, p. 306). And Boucicault's "achievements in the United States included the first depiction [in a play] of Negroes as something other than buffoons, the founding of a school of Irish comedy, and the first use of carpets on stage (Kahn, p. 22). Less to his credit, perhaps, is his invention of the special effects extravaganza; in 1857, he had a play simulate a fire on stage (Kahn, p. 30). So even if his works are forgotten, the Boucicault family arguably still managed to leave a mark on the theater.

Williams, pp. 98-99, says, "Boucicault was born in Dublin around 1820. Destined to spend most of his life outside of Ireland, he nevertheless received the most indelible gift that city can bestow -- its accent. It remained with him all of his life, making it difficult for Boucicault, the actor, to play convincingly any but Irish roles.... Boucicault got his theatrical start in London as both actor and playwright (one of his first roles was that of [Samuel] Lover's Rory O'More). He came to America in 1853, but spent much of the sixties touring abroad with his Irish plays. In 1870 he returned more or less permanently to America, where he died in 1890." Williams says that he wrote largely with Irish-American audiences in mind, and also that he "provided a bridge that would lead from the stage Irishry of Lover to the sophisticated comic-dramas of John Millington Synge and George Bernard Shaw."

Boylan, p. 27, says that Dion Lardner Boucicault was born either Dec. 26, 1820 or Dec. 20, 1822, and was "probably the natural son of Dr. Dionysius Lardner, a boarder in his mother's house." Boylan lists his first successful play as being 1841's London Assurance. Boylan attributes much of the success of his dramas "to his wife's portrayal of the heroines." He also mentions the "sensation" caused by The Octaroon of 1859, "the first play to treat seriously of the American negro population." Late in his life, demand for his plays declined, leaving him to make a bare living as a teacher of actine. He died in New York on September 18, 1890."

Even so, Boucicault's plays presented only a "romanticized, sentimentalized, and largely falsified image of Ireland," according to Heinz Kosok (quoted by Williams, p. 100) -- and one that hoped for English and Irish reconciliation. - RBW

Bibliography

- Williams: William H. A. Williams,'Twas Only an Irishman's Dream, University of Illinois Press, 1996

Last updated in version 5.2
File: OCon054A

Crummy Cow, The

DESCRIPTION: Pat O'Hurry tries to sell his old cow, but has no luck. She refuses to travel further; when he threatens to butcher her, she comes back to life. She costs him dearly in travel expenses. At last he manages to foist off the animal

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (Sam Henry collection)
Cry Is "All Up," The

DESCRIPTION: "The cry is 'All up! Let us haste away!' And like hearty good fellows we'll row through the bay. Haul up, my young men, Pull away, my old blades, For the county gives bounty For the pilchard trades." Girls cause conflict between husbands and wives

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Baring-Gould, A Book of Cornwall)

KEYWORDS: fishing husband wife courting fight

FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Sabine Baring-Gould, _A Book of Cornwall_, 1906 (available on Google Books), p. 317, "(The cry is 'All up! Let us haste away!')" (1 text)
- Tony Deane and Tony Shaw _The Folklore of Cornwall_, B. T. Batsford, 1975, p. 79, "(The cry is 'All up! Let us haste away!')" (1 text)

File: DeSh079

Cry of the Pilchard Man, The

DESCRIPTION: Street cry. "Charrd, pilcharrd, pilcharrd, pilcharrd!"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall)

KEYWORDS: food nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall, p. 44, "(The Cry of the Pilchard Man)" (1 short text, 1 tune, filed with a group of songs under the general heading "Crowdy Crawn")

File: Gund044F

Cry, Baby, Cry

DESCRIPTION: "Cry, baby, cry, (Stick/put) your finger [or "a needle"] in your eye, And tell your mother It wasn't I/eye."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana)

KEYWORDS: playparty injury

FOUND IN: Britain US(MW) New Zealand

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 132, "(Cry, baby cry)" (1 text)
- Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, p. 119, "(Cry, baby, cry)" (1 text)
- List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 84-85, "Crybaby, Crybaby" (2 short texts, 2 tunes)
- Peter and Iona Opie, _I Saw Esau: Traditional Rhymes of Youth_, #55, "(Cry, baby, cry)" (1 text)

File: SuSm132A
Cryderville Jail, The

DESCRIPTION: Complaints about prison life. Refrain: "It's hard times in (Cryderville) jail, It's hard times, poor boy." Sample stanzas: "Durant jail beats no jail at all; If you want to catch hell, got to Wichita Falls." "Lice and the bedbugs have threatened my life."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1934

KEYWORDS: prison hardtimes trial punishment gambling

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,MW,SE,So)

REFERENCES (11 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 354, "Durham Jail" (1 text)
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 184, "Fond du Lac Jail" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 41-42, "Old Dad Morton" (1 text)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart1 20, "Cryderville Jail" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 90, "The Durant Jail" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 138-142, "The Cryderville Jail", pp. 142-143, "Po' Boy" (3 texts plus scattered addenda, 2 tunes)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 228, "Hard Times" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 127-128, "Mount Holly Jail" (1 text); p. 438, "Fond du Lac Jail" (1 short text)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 887-888, "Hard Times in Mount Holly Jail" (1 text, 1 tune)
cf. Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, p. 141, "Hard Times at Little New River" (1 text, adapted to mill conditions, but too short to tell if it was a full adaption or just a spur-of-the-moment change)

DT, DRNTJAIL*

RECORDINGS:
Dock Boggs, "Wise County Jail" (on Boggs2, BoggsCD1)
Logan English, "Durant Jail" (on LEnglish01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "County Jail (II)" (theme)
cf. "Dawsonville Jail" (subject)

File: LxU090

Crying Family, The (Imaginary Trouble)

DESCRIPTION: Tom is courting Nancy; her parents worry. Old Kate fears that the lovers will have a child who will drown. She tells the young ones, and "They all went crying home, Tom, old man, wife and daughter. Each night the ghost doth come and cries upon the water"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (Springfield, MA, _Sunday Union_ for Jan. 3, according to Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster)

KEYWORDS: ghost courting

FOUND IN: US(NE)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 62, "Imaginary Trouble" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 14-17, "The Crying Family" (1 text)

DT, IMAGTRBL*

ADDITIONAL: Robert E. Gard and L. G. Sorden, _Wisconsin Lore: Antics and Anecdotes of Wisconsin People and Places_, Wisconsin House, 1962, pp. 104-107, "[no title; filed under the heading "Yodelings of Champin Raftsmen"]" (1 text, source not listed)

ST Wa062 (Full)

Roud #4653

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Nervous Family" (theme: much worry about nothing)

NOTES [311 words]: This is believed to be the only ballad in which the ghost of someone who never existed appears. One wonders whose achievement is greater -- the ghost's or the songwriter's.

Flanders compares this with item #34 in the Grimm collection, "Clever Else" ("Die kluge Else," from Dortchen Wild, 1819). This is sort of semi-true: In the folktale, Else and her family are paralyzed by fear of a future disaster to a child. But while the gimmick is the same (monomaniacal fears of an improbable and preventable death), the plot is quite different. "Clever Else" is Thompson motif J2063. The motif of "Bewareing a calamity that has not occurred" is J2198 (although Thompson's only instance is from India).

Also similar, but not a song, is the tale called "The Three Sillies" on pp. 9-14 of Jacobs: Joseph Jacobs, collector, English Fairy Tales, originally published 1890; revised edition 1898 (I use the 1967 Dover paperback reprint), from the Folk-Lore Journal, with versions traced back at least to 1852. It is also found on pp. 61-63 of Katherine Briggs, British Folktales (originally published in 1970 as A Dictionary of British Folk-Tales), revised 1977 (I use the 1977 Pantheon paperback edition). This tale tells of a family which panics about a mallet stuck in a beam; they worry that it might fall out and kill someone, but never consider taking it down themselves.

L. Frank Baum also used the same general gimmick in The Emerald City of Oz; according to Michael O. Riley, Oz and Beyond: The Fantasy World of L. Frank Baum, University of Kansas Press, 1997, p. 163, in "Flutterbudget Center... live all the people who worry excessively about improbable things that have not happened."

Gard/Sorden say that raftsmen sang this "awakening the echoes in Witch's Gulch at the Dells" [on the Wisconsin River]. Presumably the echoes sounded like a family crying. - RBW

---

Crystal Spring, The

DESCRIPTION: Captain courts his true love; promises to maintain her, mentions his loaded ship just arrived from Spain. She says men are fickle; he promises to be true

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Sharp); the Butterworth version is undated but probably from 1910

KEYWORDS: courting ship promise

FOUND IN: Britain(England)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

- Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 32, "The Crystal Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Butterworth/Dawney-PloughboysGlory, p. 13, "Crystal Stream" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #1391

CROSS-REFERENCES:

- cf. "One Morning in May (To Hear the Nightingale Sing)" [Laws P14] (theme)

NOTES [40 words]: This may well be a fragmentary version of "One Morning in May", but so many elements of the latter song are missing that it could just as easily be an independent song. It does, however, mention a nightingale briefly in the first line. -PJS

---

Cu-Cuc A Chuaichin

DESCRIPTION: Gaelic. "Cuckoo, where will we spend the summer? Cuckoo, we'll spend it in the glens"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage nonballad bird

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):

- OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 42, "Cu-Cuc A Chuaichin" (2 texts, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:

- Elizabeth Cronin, "Cu-Cuc A Chuaichin" (on IRECronin01)

NOTES [17 words]: The description follows the "English Summary" provided by OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin. - BS

---
Cuatro Palomitas Blancas (Four While Doves)

DESCRIPTION: Spanish: "Cuatros palomitas blancas (x3), Sentadas en un alero (x2)." "Unas a las otras dicen, 'No hay amor como el primero.'" Four white doves perch and tell each other, "There is no love like the first." They (or the singer) prefer kisses to food.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934
KEYWORDS: foreign language love bird
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 366-368, "Cuatro Palomitas Blancas" (1 text plus translation, 1 tune)
File: LxA366

Cuba (Go, Preachers, and Tell It to the World)

DESCRIPTION: "Go, preachers, and tell it to the world (x3), Poor mourners found a home at last. Through free grace and a dying lamb (x3), Poor mourners found a home at last." Similarly, "Go, fathers..."; "Go, mothers..." etc.

EARLIEST DATE: 1859, according to the Original Sacred Harp 1971
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad father mother clergy
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Abernethy-SinginTexas, p. 116, "Cuba" (1 text, 1 tune, a copy of a shape note version)
NOTES [52 words]: This is said to be based on Matthew 28:19, in which Jesus instructs his hearers to "make disciples of all nations." The image of Jesus as the Lamb however comes from John 1:29 ("Behold the lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world"), reinforced by much imagery in the Apocalypse, starting in Rev. 5:6. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.5
File: Aber116

Cucanandy

DESCRIPTION: "Cucanandy-nandy, cucanandy-o (x2), Throw him over, over, throw him over th sea, Throw him over, over, he'll be here today." "He didn't dance, dance, he didn't dance today... no, nor yesterday." "Throw him up... he'll be here by and by."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Cray-AshGrove)
KEYWORDS: lullaby nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cray-AshGrove, p. 25, "Cucanandy" (1 text, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Dance To Your Daddy" (tune)
File: CrAGr25A

Cucaracha, La

DESCRIPTION: Recognized by the references in the chorus to "la cucaracha" (the cockroach). The verses may describe the girls in various towns, and the way to court them. The chorus translates, "The cockroach doesn't want to travel because she has no marijuana"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Canciones Mexicanas)
KEYWORDS: drugs bug nonballad courting Mexico foreign language
FOUND IN: Mexico
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 289-291, "La Cucaracha (Mexican Cockroach Song)" (1 text
Cuckanandy

DESCRIPTION: Macaronic. "He didn't dance today... he won't till after tea." "Throw him oversea... He'll be here for tea." "Throw him up high...he'll come down by-and-by"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)

KEYWORDS: nonballad baby food

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 41, "Cuckanandy" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
Elizabeth Cronin, "Cuckanandy" (on IRECronin01)

NOTES [42 words]: OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin translating a Seamus Ennis note about the song: "As the old women used to have when they were making sport for youngsters, dandling them on their knees or in their laps." Includes a final mouth music verse. - BS

Last updated in version 3.2

File: OCC041

Cuckold by Consent, A

DESCRIPTION: A miller intends to sleep with a customer and has his wife put her in the parlour bed for the night. The maid and wife trade places. In the morning the miller tells Jack to sleep with the woman in the parlour bed cuckolding himself "with my own consent"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1675 (broadside, Bodleian 4o Rawl. 566(172))

LONG DESCRIPTION: A maid takes her father's corn to the mill. The miller asks his wife to put her in the parlour bed for the night, intending to sleep with her. The maid tells the wife of the miller's intent and they change places. In the morning the miller tells Jack to sleep with the woman in the parlour bed. At the mill the maid reveals the trick and the miller accepts being cuckolded by his own consent.

KEYWORDS: adultery trick wife miller sex

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1458, "The Jolly Miller" (4 texts, 2 tunes)

RECORDINGS:
Bodleian, 4o Rawl. 566(172), "A Cuckhold by Consent" or "The Frollick Miller that Inticed a Maid" ("Friends will it please you to hear me tell"), F. Coles (London), 1663-1674

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Bed's Making" (tune, per broadside Bodleian 4o Rawl. 566(172))

NOTES [23 words]: A certain similarity to Chaucer's "Reeve's Tale" will probably be evident, although the characters and motivations are all different. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: GrD71458

Cuckoo Cherry Tree

DESCRIPTION: "Cuckoo [or "cook a ball," or "keppy ball"], cherry-tree, catch a bird and give it to me [or "Come down the long lonning and tell to me"] the form of the singer's future spouse: "Once a maiden, two a wife, Three a maiden, four a wife"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1842 (Halliwell)
KEYWORDS: playparty courting wife nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: Marjorie Rowling, _The Folklore of the Lake District_, Rowman and Littlefield, 1976, p. 100, "(Keppy ball, Keppy ball, Coban Tree") (1 short text)
Roud #19966
File: Rowl100

Cuckoo Waltz

DESCRIPTION: "Three times round the Cuckoo Waltz (x3), Lovely Susie Brown. Fare thee well, my charming girl, Fare thee well I'm gone, Fare the well, my charming girl, With golden slippers on." "Choose your pard as we go round, We'll all take Susie Brown...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Wolford-ThePlayPartyInIndiana)
KEYWORDS: playparty nonballad
FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Wolford-ThePlayPartyInIndiana, pp. 36=37=Wolford/Richmond/Tilson-PlayPartyInIndiana, pp. 169-171, "Cuckoo Waltz" (1 text, 1 tune)
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, pp. 64-65, "Susan Brown" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 160, "Cuckoo Waltz" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, p. 136, "Susie Brown" (1 text, a mixed text which has two verses typical of "Cuckoo Waltz" or something like it and two from "Go In and Out the Window")
Spurgeon-WaltzTheHall-AmericanPlayParty, p. 101, "Four Hands Round in the Euchre Ring" (1 text, 1 tune, hard to identify but it looks more like this than anything else); pp. 184-185, "Susan Brown" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST San160 (Full)
Roud #7893
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Old Joe Clark" (floating lyrics)
File: San160

Cuckoo, The

DESCRIPTION: "The cuckoo is a pretty bird, she sings as she flies; she brings us glad tidings, and she tells us no lies." Many versions are women's complaints about men's false hearts (usually similar to "The Wagoner's Lad/Old Smokey")

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1769 (Herd)
KEYWORDS: bird nonballad lament lyric floatingverses
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber)) US(Ap,MA,NE,SE,So,SW) Canada(Mar,Newf) Ireland
REFERENCES (44 citations):
Randolph 49, "The Cuckoo" (4 texts, of which "A" is about half "Inconstant Lover/Old Smokey" verses and "B" never mentions the cuckoo and appears to be mostly floating verses; 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 117-118, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 49A)
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 45, "Lovely Willie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 473-476, "The Unconstant Lover" (3 texts, 1 tune, of which the first is "Old Smokey"; the second mixes that with "The Cuckoo," and the third is short enough that it might be something else)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 248, "The Inconstant Lover" (5 texts plus a fragment, admitted by the editors to be distinct songs but with many floating items; "A," "B," and "C" are more "On Top of Old Smokey" than anything else, though without that phrase; "D" is The Broken Engagement (II -- We Have Met and We Have Parted)," "E" is a mix of "Old Smokey" and "The Cuckoo," and the "F" fragment may also be "Old Smokey")

Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #195, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, very mixed, containing fragments of at least three songs, "On Top of Old Smokey" being the largest element, plus "The Cuckoo" and something that begins "Johnny on the water")

Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 95, pp. 147-149, "Sweet Willie" (1 text, 1 tune, with verses from "The Cuckoo" but also much material from "On Top of Old Smokey" or something similar plus one of "Farewell He" type)

Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 66-67, "Cuckoo Bird" (1 text, 1 tune)

Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, p. 88, "The Cuckoo" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 313-314, "The Cuckoo" (1 short text, with local title "Too Wandering True Loves": the piece, which begins "A-walking and a-talking and a-courting goes I," never mentions a cuckoo and consists mostly of floating material similar to Randolph's; it could well be an "Inconstant Lover" type but is too short to classify; placed here because Scarborough does)

McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksongs, pp. 99-101, "The Cuckoo is a Pretty Bird" (1 text, 1 tune)

Burton-TennesseeTraditionalSingers, p. 13, "The Coo-Coo Bird (The Cuckoo Bird)" (1 text, 1 tune, the Tom Ashley version, mostly of floating verses)

Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart2 42, "Forsaken" (1 text, 1 tune)

Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 34, "A-Walking and A-Talking" (1 text, 1 tune)

Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 142-144, "The Cuckoo" (1 text plus 2 fragments, 1 tune)

Karpel-E-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 85, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune)

Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 140, "The Cuckoo" (13 texts, 13 tunes)

Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 35, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune)

Sharp/Karpel-EightyEnglishFolksongs 38, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune -- a composite version)

Karpel-TheCrystalSpring 42, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune)

Thomas-DevilsDitties, p. 153, "Cuckoo" (1 short text, 1 tune)

Wells-TheBalladTree, p. 274, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune)

Carey-MarylandFolkLegendsAndFolkSongs, pp. 101-102, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, with at least two verses that are "On Top of Old Smokey," two that might be from any of several abandonment songs, and a final verse that is "The Cuckoo")

Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople 23A, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, a composite of two texts)

Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 25, "The Cuckoo" (4 texts)

Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 165, "The Cuckoo" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 396)

Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 127, "Cuckoo" (1 text)

Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #78, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune, of four verses, all of which can float; one might be "Oh, No, Not I!"); the second is clearly "The Cuckoo"; the third is perhaps from "On Top of Old Smokey"; the fourth is uncertain)

Greig/Duncan 1157, "The Cuckoo" (5 texts plus a fragment on p. 559, 3 tunes)

Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H479, pp. 347-348, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune)

Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 148, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune)

MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 57, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune)

Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 110, "The Cuckoo"; 111, "The Fourth Day of July" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

Ritchie-SingingFamilyOfTheCumberrlands, pp. 255-256, "[The Cuckoo She's a Pretty Bird]" (1 text, 1 tune)

Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 121, "The cuckoo is a merry bird" (2 texts)

Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #475, p. 210, "(The cuckoo is a bonny bird)"

Montgomerie/Montgomerie-ScottishNurseryRhymes 18, "(The cuckoo's a bonnie bird)" (1 text)

Flanders/Onley-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, p. 163, "[Cuathiciag Ghorm]" (1 short text, purporting to be a translation of a Gaelic text of "The Cuckoo")

Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, p. 69, (no title) (1 fragment, the single floating stanza "I'll build me a cabin On the mountain so high" that is perhaps most typical of this song)

Dunson/Raim/Asch-AnthologyOfAmericanFolkMusic, p. 79 "The Coo Coo Bird" (1 text, 1 tune)

Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 164, "The Cuckoo" (1 text)

DT CUKOO2 CUCKBIRD CUCKBIR2*

Maud Karpeles, _Folk Songs of Europe_, Oak, 1956, 1964, p. 44, "The Cuckoo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #413

RECORDINGS:
Clarence "Tom" Ashley, "The Coo Coo Bird" (Columbia 15489-D, 1929; on AAFM3, Ashley04)
Clarence Ashley & Doc Watson, "The Coo-Coo Bird" (on Ashley03, WatsonAshley01)
Charlie Black, "The Cuckoo is a Pretty Bird" (AAF 1389 B1)
Anne Briggs, "The Cuckoo" (on Briggs2, Briggs3, Briggs4)
Mrs. Joseph Gaines, "The Cuckoo" (AAFS 832 A1)
Gant Family, "The Cuckoo" (AAF 72 B1)
Maggie Gant, "The Cuckoo" (AAFS 66 A2)
Kelly Harrell, "The Cuckoo She's a Fine Bird" (Victor V-40047, 1926; on KHarrell02)
Aunt Molly Jackson, "The Cuckoo" (AAFS 823 B1/B2, 1935)
Mrs. C. S. MacClellan, "The Cuckoo is a Pretty Bird" (AAF 986 B2)
Jonathan Moses, "Cuckoo is a Fine Bird" (AAF 3705 A2)
New Lost City Ramblers, "The Coo Coo Bird" (on NLCR04, NLCR11)
Lize Pace, "The Cuckoo" (AAFS 1437 A1)
Charlie Phillips, "The Cuckoo" (on FSBFTX15)
Dink Roberts, "Coo Coo" (on ClassBanj)
Mr. & Mrs. John Sams, "The Coo-Coo" (on MMOKCD)
John Selleck, "The Cuckoo" (AAF 4219 A2)
Vivian Skinner, "Cuckoo is a May Bird" (AAF 2997 A2)
Pete Steele, "The Cuckoo" (on PSteele01)
John Williams, "Cuckoo Song" (AAF 4182 A2/B)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth c.12(211), "The Cuckoo" ("Come all you pretty fair maids, wherever you be"), J. Evans (London), 1780-1812; also Harding B 11(762), Harding B 15(77a), Harding B 11(1231), "The Cuckoo"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Waggoner's Lad" (lyrics)
cf. "Sumer Is I-cumen In"
cf. "If I Were a Fisher" (floating verses)
cf. "The Streams of Bunclody" (floating verses)

SAME TUNE:
The Dove (by Ewan MacColl; Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs, pp. 260-261)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
To a Meeting One Evening, to a Meeting Went I

NOTES [475 words]: Legends about the cuckoo bringing in summer (and infidelity) are common and early.
The cuckoo loves warmth, and so arrives late during migration; it is thus held to signal summer (see Briggs, volume A.2, p. 51, the story of "The Cuckoo-Penners": "cos when the cuckoo do come, they begins to think about puttin in the 'arvest." (These days, it may seem silly to time these things by bird migration, but recall that the calendar was off before the Gregorian Calendar was adopted.)
According to Binney, p. 182, to hear one's first cuckoo on April 28 was a sign of money coming one's way.
Certain species of cuckoo also lay their eggs in other birds' nests (whence probably the word "cuckold"), hence their association with lustiness.
The legend is ancient; Alcuin (died c. 804) wrote a piece, "Opto meus veniat cuculus, carrisimus ales," in which spring begs for the cuckoo to come. And Alcuin was English. But he worked in Charlemagne's France, and wrote in Latin, so we cannot prove that the idea was that old in England. But we do have the very old English song "Sumer Is I-cumen In"; showing that the cuckoo legend had made it to England by then; see the entry on that piece for more details on the dating. Outside England, we find a number of other songs on the theme: Maud Karpeles, _Folk Songs of Europe_, Oak, 1956, 1964, p. 115, prints "L'inverno e passato," "Oh past and gone is winter, And March and April too, And May is here to greet us And songs of the cuckoo.... May's the month for lovers And songs of the cuckoo" (Italian, from Switzerland), as well as "Kukuvaca," "Cuckoo, cuckoo, sings the cuckoo," in which a girl asks a mower, "Have you cut the grass for me?" (p. 217, from Croatia).
The idea of the cuckoo being used as a calendar is found in areas as remote as China. Eberhard, p. 77, says that "The peasants in the province of Sichuan pay a lot of attention to the cuckoo, which helps them to pick the right day for starting various jobs on the farm. The local dialect has several expressions for the bird, like 'reap the wheat,' 'forcing us to plough,' 'watching the silkworms' or 'watching the fire.'"

Briggs, volume A.2, p. 3, notes in addition that Britain has a large class of "noodle tales" in which some group of people try to "wall in the cuckoo" to keep it from laying its eggs in other nests. These naturally end in failure. A typical example is "The Borrowdale Cuckoo" (Briggs, volume A.2, pp. 25-26), in which the residents keep building a wall just higher than the highest point to which the cuckoo most recently flew, and the cuckoo simply flies a little higher the next time.

Simpson, p. 114, has a single stanza with line, "She picks up the dirt in the spring of the year." Simpson explains, "Since cuckoos arrive when the land is drying out after the winter rains, it was said that they cleared the mud away." - RBW

Bibliography

• Briggs: Katherine Briggs,A Dictionary of British Folk-Tales in the English Language, Part A: Folk Narratives, 1970 (I use the 1971 Routledge paperback that combines volumes A.1 and A.2)
• Simpson: Jacqueline Simpson,The Folklore of Sussex, B. T. Batsford, 1973

Cuckoo's Nest (I), The

DESCRIPTION: Singer meets a girl and tells her his inclination lies in her cuckoo's nest. She's shocked at first, but his words are convincing; she consents. (He leaves her with the makings of a young cuckoo.)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: Early 1950s (recorded from Jeannie Robertson & John Strachan)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer meets a girl and tells her his inclination lies in her cuckoo's nest. She's shocked at first, but as his intentions are good and his words are convincing, she consents. (He leaves her with the makings of a young cuckoo.) Chorus: "Some like the lassie's that's gay weel dressed/And some like the lassies that's lecht aboot the waist/But it's in amang the blankets that I like best/To get a jolly rattle at the cuckoo's nest" or words to that effect

KEYWORDS: courting sex pregnancy animal bird lover dancetune

FOUND IN: Britain US(SW)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Peacock, pp. 259-260, "Cuckoo's Nest" (1 text, 1 tune)
Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 48, pp. 232-233, "The Cuckoo's News" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #91, "The Cuckoo's Nest" (1 text, 1 tune, apparently composite, so it's not really clear where it should file)
DT, CUKONEST*
Roud #5407

RECORDINGS:
Sean McGuire, "The Cuckoo's Nest" [instrumental] (on FSB02, FSB2CD)
Mrs. Nellie Musseau, "The Cuckoo's Nest" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
Jeannie Robertson "The Cuckoo's Nest" (on FSB2, FSB2CD)
John Strachan, "Twa and Twa" (on FSB2, FSB2CD)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Cuckoo's Nest (II)" (tune, subject)
cf. "The Magpie's Nest" (tune)

NOTES [85 words]: Three songs (two erotic) share this tune, which is also a common fiddle tune. "Cuckoo's Nest (I)" and "Cuckoo's Nest (II)" overlap some, but as one is always a ballad while the other is really a lyric song, I've split them. (They're most easily distinguished by the chorus: in (I) the man expresses his preferences in women, in (II) he doesn't.) [Note, however, that Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging's version, from Riley Neal, has no chorus. - RBW] Better check out both, though -- and "The Magpie's Nest." - PJS

Last updated in version 3.7
Cuckoo's Nest (II), The

DESCRIPTION: Lyric song in praise of the female "cuckoo's nest." Behind a thorn bush a man and woman are busy "hairing at the cuckoo's nest," which "isn't easy found"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1796 (see NOTES)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Lyric song in praise of the female "cuckoo's nest." "It is thorned, it is sprinkled, it is compassed all around/It is thorned, it is sprinkled, and it isn't easy found"; Chorus: "Hi the cuckin', ho the cuckin', hi the cuckoo's nest...I'll gie onybody a a shilling and a bottle o' the best/If they'll ramble up the feathers o' the cuckoo's nest"

KEYWORDS: sex dancetune lyric nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England, Scotland(Aber)) Ireland

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #49, pp. 203-204, "The Thorn Bush (The Cuckoo's Nest)" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, CUKOO3

Roud #1506

CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "The Cuckoo's Nest (I)" (subject, tune)
  cf. "The Magpie's Nest" (tune)

NOTES [144 words]: Three songs (two erotic) share this tune, which is also a common fiddle tune. "Cuckoo's Nest (I)" and "Cuckoo's Nest (II)" overlap some, but as one is always a ballad while the other is really a lyric song, I've split them. (They're most easily distinguished by the chorus: in (I) the man expresses his preferences in women, in (II) he doesn't.) Better check out both, though -- and "The Magpie's Nest." - PJS

Kennedy cites the text in Ford, "The Bonnie Brier Bush," as an offshoot of this. Offshoot it may be, but it's not the same song, and Ford indicates no tune. Kennedy is overreaching. Again. - RBW

Porter and Gower note the hornpipe tune is quite popular. Also they cite the fact that Burns and others tried to rework the lyrics to lessen the erotic symbolism (p. 204). The earliest attempt they list is from 1796, so this song must be at least that old. - DGE

Last updated in version 5.3

File: RcTCN02

Cuddy, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer tells Jock that idleness is the cause of poverty. Now well off, he began with only a cuddy [donkey] and a pack. Finally, he opened a shop, married and had children.

"Freens tak my advice ... If a stout heart ye hae ye may climb a stiff brae"

AUTHOR: Thomas Denham (source: Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast)

EARLIEST DATE: 1854 (_The Aberdeenshire Lintie_, according to Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast)

KEYWORDS: virtue work

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast 109, p. 2, "The Cuddy" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 661, "The Cuddy" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #6088

File: GrD3661

Cudelia Brown

DESCRIPTION: Jamaican patois: Cudelia Brown, what makes your head so red? It's because you sit in the sunshine with nothing on your head. The singer meets Mister Ivan one night and he said he gave Neita "de drop, Jamaica flop an' de moonshine drop (hah! hah!)"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (Murray-FolkSongsOfJamaica)
Cuir A Chodladh

DESCRIPTION: Gaelic. A lullaby. The baby's feet are being washed and the baby is given a drink.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage lullaby nonballad baby drink

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 43, "Cuir A Chodladh" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
Elizabeth Cronin, "Cuir A Chodladh" (on IRECronin01)

NOTES [17 words]: The description follows the "English Summary" provided by OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin. - BS

Last updated in version 3.2

File: OCC043

Culling Fish

DESCRIPTION: In August the crew took its dried codfish to Monroe. There was no one at the plant to cull [grade] the fish. The new rules make grading more strict. "According to instructions and the outline in view, There's no 'number one' so [it] must go 'number two'"
NOTES [299 words]: Newfoundland's economy was almost entirely dependent on cod. It's why the island was settled, and it was the island's largest export for most of its history. The "cull" was the process by which the dried fish was sorted based on quality. In early days, this was a hand operation. But as described on pp. 151-152 of James Hiller and Peter Neary, editors, Newfoundland in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries: Essays in Interpretation, University of Toronto Press, 1980:

"During the last quarter of the 19th century, technological advances and the charging commercial patterns of the fishery seriously undercut the quality of Newfoundland's saltfish and helped to render its marketing system almost chaotic. As the productivity and profitability of the cod fishery declined in the latter half of the 19th century, specialist shore crews, whose job was to cure the fish, became uneconomic and disappeared. Their function was assumed by untrained women and children with a predictable drop in the quality of fish produced. The invention of the cod trap and increasing use of seines exacerbated the problem by producing large catches that left insufficient time for curing...."

"Since the first fish to reach the foreign markets received a premium price, exporters on the Labrador coast began buying fish by the qual (that is, ungraded and at a flat price for later grading) in order to speed up the process by which it could be handled and raced to market. The fisherman was therefore deprived of the critical incentive to devote extra time producing superior quality, because he no longer received a price difference to reward his efforts. Quality and price dropped accordingly." The result was a decline in the codfish industry, and probably a worse decline in respect for Newfoundland fish. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: Pea118

Culloden Field

DESCRIPTION: "The heather bell blooms o'er the dead ... They mark the warrior's gory grave ... Where mouldering in the dust is laid The hero of the plume and plaid"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan1)
KEYWORDS: battle death nonballad Jacobites
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Apr 16, 1746 - Battle of Culloden Muir ends the 1745 Jacobite rebellion (see the NOTES to "The Muir of Culloden" for details)
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan1 129, "Culloden Field" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #5780
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Muir of Culloden" (subject) and notes and references there
cf. "Culloden Moor" (tune)
NOTES [11 words]: The current description is based on the Greig/Duncan1 fragment. - BS

Last updated in version 2.4

File: GrD1129

Culloden Moor

DESCRIPTION: "Culloden moor, Long wilt thou be remembered ... On thee the clans of Scotland bled for their dear royal Charlie...." "Traitor knaves with bribery base Made death's darts fly fu' rarely, Ah! Scotland lang will min' the place She lost her royal Charlie"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan1)
KEYWORDS: battle betrayal death patriotic Jacobites
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Apr 16, 1746 - Battle of Culloden Muir ends the 1745 Jacobite rebellion (see the NOTES to "The Muir of Culloden" for details)
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan1 128, "Culloden Moor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5779
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Muir of Culloden" (subject) and notes and references there
cf. "Culloden Field" (tune)
NOTES [20 words]: Greig/Duncan1: "Learnt from her brother, James Birnie, who probably had it from ... from fifty to sixty years ago." - BS
Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD1128

Cum, Geordy, Haud the Bairn
DESCRIPTION: "Cum, Geordy, haud the bairn, Aw's sure aw'll not stop lang." The woman goes out briefly, leaving the child because she is "not strang." When the child becomes upset, Geordy is unable to calm it, and talks of the weary work his wife must do
AUTHOR: Joseph Wilson
EARLIEST DATE: 1900 (Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland); Wilson died 1875
KEYWORDS: mother father children humorous
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 136-137, "Cum, Georfy, Haud the Bairn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3161
File: StoR136

Cumarashindu
DESCRIPTION: The singer is "a dacent policeman, the pride o the Glesca Force." When he meets friends he says "Cumarachandhu." When he passes the boys "in ma bonnie coat o' blue" "they cry as I pass by, 'There goes Cumarachandhu'"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: police
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig/Duncan8 1902, "Cumarashindu" (1 fragment plus a single verse on p. 417, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Chris Wright, "Forgotten Broadsides and the Song Tradition of the Scots Travellers"
-- essay found in David Atkinson and Steve Roud, Editors, _Street Ballads in Nineteenth-Century Britain, Ireland, and North America: The Interface between Print and Oral Tradition_, Ashgate, 2014, p. 100, "Cumarachandhu" (copy of a Dundee Poet's Box broadside)
Roud #13562
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Cumarachandhu
The Russian Jew
NOTES [37 words]: Greig/Duncan8 text count includes one verse on p. 417. That verse is the basis for the description.
Greig/Duncan8: "'Cumarashindhu' is a representation of the Gaelic 'Ciamar a tha si(bh) 'n diugh?' (How are you today?)." - BS
Last updated in version 4.4
File: GrD81902

Cumberland Crew, The [Laws A18]
DESCRIPTION: The crew of the Cumberland, attacked by the CSS Virginia/Merrimac, fight back as best they can, though their shot bounces off the Confederate's armored hull. The Cumberland fights until it is rammed and sunk

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1865 (broadside, LOCSing sb10061b)

KEYWORDS: Civilwar ship

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
March 8, 1862 - U.S. frigates Congress and Cumberland sunk by the CSS Virginia (formerly USS Merrimack). The Minnesota runs aground; had not the Monitor arrived the next day, the Merrimac would have sunk that ship also

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,NE) Canada(Mar,Ont) Ireland Britain(England(Lond))

REFERENCES (20 citations):
Laws A18, "The Cumberland Crew" Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 134-135, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy 39, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 tune, partial text)
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 39, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 tune, partial text)
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 36-37, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 text)
Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, pp. 162-165, "The Cumberland Crew" (1 text)
Smith/Hatt/Fowke-SeaSongsBalladFromNineteenthCenturyNovaScotia, pp. 102-103, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 text)
Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast, pp. 106-107, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 text, 1 tune)
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 87, "The Fate of the 'Cumberland' Crew" (1 text)
Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan, pp. 249-252, "The Fate of the 'Cumberland' Crew" (1 text)
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 97, "The Fate of the 'Cumberland' Crew" (1 text)
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 113, "Cumberland's Crew" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, p. 194, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 text) Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 16-17,244, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 358-359, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 text)
Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #60, "The Cumberland's Crew" (1 text, 1 tune, in which the ship becomes British!)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #410, p. 28, "The Cumberland's Crew" (4 references)
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 258-260, "The Cumberland Crew" (1 text, 1 tune) Silber-SoldierSongsAndHomeFrontBalladsOfCivilWar, pp. 24-25, "The Cumberland Crew" (1 text,
1 tune)

DT 366, CUMBCREW*

Roud #707

RECORDINGS:
Stanley Baby, "The 'Cumberland's Crew (1)"" (on GreatLakes1)
Orlo Brandon, "The 'Cumberland's Crew (2)"" (on GreatLakes1) Warde Ford, "The Cumberland crew (The Cumberland's crew)" [fragment] (AFS 4202 B5, 1938; tr.; in AMMEM/Cowell)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 18(108), "Cumberland's Crew," Bell and Co. (San Francisco), c.1860; also Firth c.12(72), "The Cumberland's Crew"
LOCSing, sb10061b, "The Cumberland's Crew," H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Cumberland" [Laws A26] (subject)
cf. "Iron Merrimac" (subject)
cf. "The Merrimac (I)" (subject)
cf. "Jack Gardner's Crew" (tune & meter)

NOTES [8104 words]: To tell this song from "The Cumberland," refer to this text from the broadside version of 1887:
Oh, shipmates, come gather and join in my ditty,
Of a terrible battle that happened of late;
Let each Union tar shed a sad tear of pity
When he thinks of the once-gallant Cumberland's fate.
The eighth day of March told a terrible story,
And many a brave tar to this world bid adieu,
Yet our flag it was wrapped in a mantle of glory
By the heroic deeds of the 'Cumberland' crew."

The first day of the Battle of Hampton Roads, March 8, 1862, has been called the worst day in the history of the United States Navy prior to Pearl Harbor (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 148).

The Monitor and the Virginia/Merrimack are often referred to as the "first ironclads," that is, the first ships with iron armor. This is absolutely false; Preston, p. 15, reports that France and Britain had fiddled with wrought iron ships as early as the 1840s, but temporarily abandoned the idea because the iron splintered too much when hit by solid shot.

Several things changed the equation. The Crimean War caused such terrific casualties that it became vital to build armored floating batteries, technological progress made metal less brittle -- and the introduction of shell-firing naval guns meant that the old wooden walls were just too vulnerable to fire; a way had to be found to make ships safe against burning. The French were the first out of the gate, producing in 1859 La Gloire, a wooden ship fitted with iron plating (Preston, pp. 16-17). She was ugly and slow, but at least one hot shot could not sink her.

Britain promptly went one better, with Warrior -- the first all-iron warship ever built (Paine, p. 566). Nelson, p. 3, notes that the combatants at Hampton Roads were not even the first American ironclads. The Confederates at New Orleans had tried to build one, the Louisiana (though she was still incomplete when the city fell; McPherson, p. 420), and on the Tennessee front, the Union had built "Pook's Turtles," light ironclads designed for work in shallow waters. They had a lot of problems, but they fought at Forts Henry and Donelson in February 1862 (Nelson, p. 183, describes them as the first ironclads in Federal service, and praises their performance, though Woodworth, pp. 76-77, 90-91, in giving details of their activity notes that the light armor of these vessels could not always stop a heavy cannonball). Nelson, p. 144, argues that the very first ironclad in action was in fact the Confederate ram Manassas, which went into action at the mouth of the Mississippi in 1861 (though it wasn't much of an action).

But neither the British nor the French ironclads had ever fired a gun in anger in 1862, and while the American ships had, they had not engaged other ships of the same type. The Battle of Hampton Roads was the first "battle" of self-powered ironclad vessels. What's more, La Gloire and Warrior were basically conventional designs, designed to fight under steam but cross large distances under sail, and both fired standard broadsides. The American designs would be radically different. (In the Confederate case, largely by necessity; Nelson, p. 162, reports that the Confederate navy had concluded that "there was no possibility of building such a ship in the Confederacy.")

From the moment the Civil War began, both sides tried for control of the sea and rivers. The Union, which controlled the American navy, striving to blockade the Confederacy so that it could not sell its cotton or gain raw materials from outside, while the southerners tried to break the blockade. Given Union naval superiority, the Confederacy had no hope of winning a pitched battle on water. Rather, they had to try to nibble a little bit here and there -- or they had to come up with a superweapon. Holzer/Mulligan, p. 23, reports that the Confederates briefly tried to buy La Gloire or one of its sisters. The French, who still had only a handful of ironclads, weren't selling. The Confederates would have to do it on their own.

They had just the man to arrange it. Confederate Secretary of the Navy Stephen Mallory had not had a very distinguished career in the United States Senate (Hendrick, p. 365), and had had only one year of formal schooling (Hendrick, p. 366) -- but he was creative, and fascinated by ships. He served well enough that he ended up being the only member of the Confederate cabinet to serve the entire war (Hendrick, p. 364).

And where better to do it than in Chesapeake Bay? It controlled the sea approach to both Richmond and Washington. If the Confederates could somehow clear out the Union navy from the bay's outlet near Hampton Roads, it could change the course of the war.

And, in that quest, the Union had given the Confederacy a great gift: the Gosport naval yard in Norfolk, Virginia, its chief naval base. Not only were there naval facilities there, there were even some salvagable ships. When Virginia seceded, the commander of the yard, 67-year-old Charles Stewart McCaulay (an alcoholic, according to Nelson, p. 37, and he certainly sounds senile), had feared the Confederates, and ordered a premature and disorderly abandonment of Norfolk (Holzer/Mulligan, pp. 23-24; even Wood-BL, a Confederate officer, says that Norfolk was "hurriedly abandoned by the Federals, why no one could tell": Wood-BL, p. 98). The one vessel to escape the chaos was the U.S.S. Cumberland, the subject of this song, since she was properly manned and able to sail (Nelson, p. 53).

Not so fortunate was the USS Merrimack (correct spelling). She was one of the newest and strongest vessels in the U.S. navy, having been built in 1854 and commissioned in 1855 (Paine, pp. 557-558; Nelson, p. 36, gives her year of commission as 1856). But her engines were incredibly balky; they had been overhauled in 1857 (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 25), and by 1861 were out of... command again -- the main reason she was rotting in port (Nelson, p. 37, says she was "all but disassembled," and adds on p. 141 that "the engine was so bad that the [United States] navy had decided to condemn it". H. Ashton Ramsey, who had been an engineer on Merrimack before the war and then went south to become the new vessel's chief engineer, called them "radically defective"); Nelson, p. 140. The navy tried to rescue the ship (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 60), but McCauley, confused and fearful of provoking the locals, interfered with the repair attempts. Official Washington made several attempts to get the ship away (this is the primary subject of Nelson, pp. 36-50). But the government did not want to provoke the state of Virginia, which was teetering on the brink of secession. That, combined with McCauley's inept attempt to prevent trouble, eventually gave rise to a situation in which Merrimack was able to sail, but had no crew and no weapons. No one seemed able to figure out what to do from there. An expedition was finally sent to Norfolk, but it arrived just a few hours too late to save the ship or the naval yard (Nelson, p. 50). By then, the (mostly secessionist) workers at the yard had quit (Nelson, p. 51), so the few naval personnel could no longer accomplish any real repairs.

It is just possible that the naval yard could have been saved -- the Cumberland, after all, was in the waters of Hampton Roads, and had enough heavy guns to make any infantry attacker think twice (Nelson, p. 52), and another heavy ship, the Pawnee, was soon to arrive. But McCauley had already ordered the several ships in the yard, destroyed. (When Commodore Pauling of the Pawnee heard about that, he had McCauley relieved; Nelson, p. 55.) But the ships that were destroyed were of relatively little value. It was Merrimack that everyone wanted.

By then, the ship was settling in the water; she too had been scuttled. At this point, confusion in command took hold. Paulding, who had hoped to save the naval yard, concluded that McCauley had given too much away; the yard could not be defended (a debatable point, given the weakness of Confederate forces in the area; Nelson, pp. 63-64). So he ordered its destruction instead. This was done rather ineptly. Quite a few buildings were damaged or destroyed, but there wasn't enough time to destroy most of the heavy guns (Nelson, p. 56). And, in a blatantly stupid move, Merrimack was one of the things set afire as she sank -- which meant that the rising waters put out the flames before they could reach the lower decks (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 62). Instead of being destroyed, the ship's hull and engines were largely intact (as balky as ever -- Wood-BL says "We could not depend on them for six hours at a time" -- but intact). The ship's rig was gone, and the engines suffered further damage from salt water -- but they could be used. In particular, the propeller shaft remained whole (Nelson, p. 95) -- one of the trickiest thing for the Confederates to fabricate.

"If the federals had simply burned Merrimack as she floated on her waterline, and not scuttled her first, there would have been nothing for the Confederates to salvage. But as it was, the water flooding the hull protected the lower part of the vessel from the flames, and left it virtually intact" (Nelson, p. 95). In a way, the damage actually helped the Confederacy: It was cheaper to rebuild the Merrimack without masts than with. And a ship without masts could mount a heavier broadside and was less vulnerable to damage.

A rebuild was easily undertaken because the attempts to render the yard unusable had been a complete failure. As the officer who occupied it noted, "Only an inconsiderable portion of the property, with the exception of the ships, was destroyed" (Nelson, p. 67). "The U. S. Navy left for the southerners 130 gun carriages and over a thousand guns, from 11-inch to 32-pounders. They left most of the machinery in repairable condition. They left two thousand barrels of gunpowder, thousands of cartridges, thousands and thousands of shot and shells" (Nelson, p. 68). The yard did end up somewhat debilitated, but that was mostly the fault of the Confederates themselves, engineers would complain that the yard had been stripped of both essential equipment and personnel (Nelson, p. 159).

It was quickly decided to rebuild Merrimack. After some discussion, the Confederates settled on a design that "reminded observers of a barn floating with only its roof above water" (McPherson, p. 373). In simplest terms, they cut off the top of the ship right about at the waterline, put a sheathe of iron over it as a deck, then built a small iron citadel, with sides sloped at 36 degrees, on top (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 24). The citadel wasn't the whole ship, but it was all that could be seen at a distance; hence the barn-like appearance.

Armoring the ship proved a major challenge. The major structural element of the armored citadel was in fact wood (several feet of it, running in different directions and of several different types), but this had to be plated with iron -- a difficult item to obtain, since the total amount of iron needed was very large -- nearly 800 tons, according to Holzer/Mulligan, p. 25, or even 1000 tons, accoring to Nelson, p. 109. I've often seen it stated that the Merrimack was plated with rail iron (e.g. Foote, p. 255) -- which gave me the impression that someone covered her sides with sections of track. Not quite -- but the Confederates took up a lot of railroad iron (Nelson, p. 109) and melted it down so the Tredegar Iron Works (the only place in the Confederacy capable of producing the plates) could make the plating. It was a desperate measure that would prove costly later on, as the Confederate rails wore out. And even so, it took months for all the armor to be rolled; the first deliveries were in October 1861, and the last did not arrive until February 1862 (Holzer/Mulligan, pp. 25-26).

The ship almost didn't make it into action; workmen put in long hours, seven days a week (Holzer/ Mulligan, p. 69), but the Confederacy was not an industrial nation. (Just to give an illustration of how hard this was for them, there are no photographs at all of Virginia, and no authoritative plans; scholars aren't even sure how many pilothouses she had; Nelson, p. 142).

The problems with creating materials meant that frantic changes had to be made once tests showed that the 1-inch-thick iron plates originally specified were not strong enough; 2-inch plates had to be substituted. Even the Tredegar Iron Works -- the only place in the Confederacy that was up to dealing with all that metal -- had trouble with that; the plates were hard to roll, and the holes for bolts could not be punched; they had to be drilled (Nelson, pp. 112-113). Even transporting the stuff was almost impossible. But Tredegar rebuilt its facilities, and eventually they worked out the transport, too. The designers were constantly fiddling with the design, as well. They even created a new type of rifled gun (Nelson, pp. 109-110). But finally they managed to put her in the water.

She wasn't a healthy ship; her ventilation was terrible, and the citadel on top had no roof except a grating, so it was open to rain; her officers reported that dozens of crewmen were sick on most days (Nelson, p. 195). Her opponent the Monitor was also very bad in that regard; Greene-BL, p. 118, declares that "Probably no ship ever devised was so uncomfortable for her crew"). Still, she floated, and she could fight.

The result was renamed CSS Virginia, but is often (perversely) called the Merrimac (note the different spelling). The confusion is partly the Confederate fault; several of the new ship's officers (including even her commander Franklin Buchanan -- Nelson, p. 180 -- and her executive officer, Catesby ap Roger Jones, who commanded her on March 9) had served aboard her in the U. S. Navy and tended to keep the old name. And some of them misspelled it Merrimac (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 58). According to Nelson, p. 193, the name Virginia didn't take hold until about the time she was relaunched.

Whatever they called her, she had one major advantage. As Foote says, "What she lacked in looks, and she was totally lacking there, she made up for in her ability to give and take a pounding" (p. 255).

Had she taken much longer, Union general George B. McClellan's Peninsular Campaign might have stopped work on her before she even went to sea. Plus her design was wrong: Her displacement had been miscalculated, so that her hull rode too high, exposing the unarmored portions that were supposed to be below the waterline (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 69). Ballast was added, but as she burned shot and coal, she would rise and expose her underbelly. Plus her ram, which was her most deadly weapon, was not attached very securely. She also suffered from having a crew with inadequate sea experience (Holzer/Mulligan, pp. 69-70; Nelson, pp. 180-181, tells how Lt. Wood, of Wood-BL, had to scour army artillery units to find gunners).

It wasn't until March 4, 1862 that the new ship was ready for a shakedown cruise (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 71). Even her guns had hardly been proved -- they were a new design, but her officers has been allotted only 300 pounds of gunpowder to test it! (Nelson, p. 177; Wood-BL, p. 103, reports that at one point on her voyage, her guns would stop firing for fear of wasting powder. To put this powder-pinning in perspective, she would sail with some 18,000 pounds of powder; Nelson, p. 211). But her commander, Franklin Buchanan, decided to make that test run a trial by fire -- though he didn't even tell most of his crew until the trip was underway. This even though workmen had still been on the ship that very morning and much work still had to be done: Her weapons to prevent boarding had not been fitted, she needed shutters over most of her gunports (Nelson, p. 213), and the guns themselves were untested (Nelson, p. 7), her rudder was giving problems, and her internal arrangements were incomplete (Konstam, pp. 16-17).

(We might note incidentally that, technically speaking, Buchanan wasn't her captain; Virginia never had a captain. This is because Buchanan was junior to some other naval officers who had headed south, and who considered themselves more deserving of being ship's captains. The Navy department circumvented this by making Buchanan a commodore; Nelson, pp. 195-196. This made him technically a fleet commander, not a ship commander -- but in practice he commanded Virginia as well as the whole James River squadron. Buchanan's career was full of such contradictions -- he had resigned from the United States navy when he thought Maryland would secede, but it didn't leave the Union. He tried to rescind his resignation, but this understandably was not allowed, so he went to the Confederacy; Nelson, pp. 198-199.)

Bad weather on March 6 and 7 forced Buchanan to wait until March 8 (Holzer/Mulligan, p.72). But when he did, he came out with a bang.
It was quickly discovered that Virginia was hideously hard to handle. One of her officers reported that the best possible speed she could make was five knots (Wood-BL, p. 100), and that was with everything perfect: smokestacks intact and drawing well, the ship level, the crew at full strength. Other estimates vary; Nelson, p. 8, estimates her speed at seven knots before battle damage affected her smokestack -- though a comment on p. 108 implies that her propeller was too high in the water to be very efficient. No matter which calculation is right, she was not fast. Plus it took her at least half an hour to turn about (Wood-BL, p. 100, says "it took from thirty to forty minutes to turn" -- and it also required a lot of room, because of Virginia's deep draught. Most of Hampton Roads was so shallow that she literally could not turn about. And she drew so much water (22 feet) that she couldn't really maneuver at all in the James River; it was too shallow for her rudder to have much effect (Holzer/Mulligan, pp. 72-73). Plus there were many places in Hampton Roads which were accessible to other ships where she simply could not sail -- to some extent Union ships could avoid her (or at least her ram) by putting a shoal between them.

By comparison, the Monitor, which could make eight knots, could turn in four minutes and fifteen seconds; Nelson, p. 227).

To be sure, the Confederates had other ships in the area -- Konstam, pp. 18-19, lists five other Confederate vessels based in Norfolk and on the James River, two of which, though armed, served mostly as tugs to get the Virginia to where she would fight (Nelson, p. 10); most of the rest would sortie with her. But the five combined mounted only about two dozen guns (the biggest, Patrick Henry, had ten, but was a sidewheel steamer, which made her very vulnerable; Nelson, p. 216); on their own, they were not even as strong as one of the Union blockading ships. They did fight, and take casualties (Nelson, p. 233) and in one case fairly severe damage (Nelson, p. 247); indeed, the Jamestown and Patrick Henry did most of the slight damage to the Minnesota (Nelson, p. 249).... But they were sort of like cavalry raiders hiding behind an infantry screen: more irritant than anything else; they could only fight because, if they had to, they could hide behind the big ironclad. It was essentially the Virginia against the entire Union fleet.

As long as Virginia couldn't be hurt, it hardly mattered. Maybe she couldn't catch the enemy ships, but they could not survive where she was.

When she came out on March 8, there were five major representatives of the Union navy in Hampton Roads: The Cumberland (26 guns, under Captain William Radford), the Congress (52 guns; under Lieutenant Joseph Smith), the Minnesota (47 guns; Captain Gershon Van Brunt), the Roanoke (42 guns; Captain John Marston, though her engines were temporarily disabled; Nelson, p. 234), and the St. Lawrence (50 guns; Captain H. Purveyance) (for the ship's armaments, see Holzer/Mulligan, p. 73; for their skippers, Konstam, p. 22). Roanoke and Minnesota were in fact sisters of the Merrimack (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 58. Nelson, p. 73, notes the irony that Confederate Secretary of the Navy Stephen Mallory was chair of the Senate committee which approved these ships, and had been one of the senators most responsible for their construction). Many of them had been on blockade duty for quite a while; Nelson, p. 11, says that Cumberland and Congress had been at Hampton Roads since at least November.

The ironclad's first shots went into Congress, which was closest (Nelson, p. 14), but Virginia fired on her only in passing. She was heading for the Cumberland, which had been laid down in 1826 and finally finished in 1842 as a 50-gun frigate; she was razeed (i.e. had her upper deck taken off) in 1856 and converted to a 24-gun sloop-of-war (though the guns were of heavier weight than those of the Congress, making her potentially more deadly to the Virginia; Nelson, p. 14). She was exclusively a sailing ship; without engines (Paine, p. 127) -- and there was no wind on the day of the Battle of Hampton Roads (Nelson, p. 236), so she was effectively unable to move. Indeed, both Cumberland and Congress were thought so vulnerable that tentative orders had been given to withdraw them from Hampton Roads (Nelson, p. 11).

When the Virginia came out, Cumberland was in bad shape to fight -- it was washing day (Hoehling, p. 65, Nelson, p. 12), and her captain William Radford was away on a court-martial board at the time, leaving the ship in the hands of Lieutenant George U. Morris (Hoehling, p. 66). Hoehling, p. 67, says that 121 men died on the Cumberland -- roughly a third of the ship's crew of 376 (Nelson, p. 239).

Still, she did most of the damage to the Virginia. The ironclad's guns tore Cumberland to shreds, but then the Confederate ship decided to ram. The big blade tore a fatal hole in the Cumberland, causing her to sink quickly, with her flag famously still flying. She almost took the Virginia with her; the ship rocked so violently when the ram went in that it nearly submerged the ironclad's nose (Nelson, p. 18), and one Federal officer thought he could have sunk her simply by dropping an anchor onto her as Cumberland went down (Nelson, pp. 229-230). But Captain Buchanan had been clever; he had ordered the engines reversed before impact (Nelson, pp. 14, 18), and she was able to pull free.
was, it inspired little confidence in the Federal naval officers (Hoehling, p. 73). Events were to Roads the night of March 8/9, and took position to protect the grounded

Except that, overnight, the 264).

sending telegraphing "the sky is falling" messages to cities all along the East Coast (Nelson, p.

word arrived by cable -- Secretary of War Stanton, who was prone to fits of near-insanity, started her the next day. There was panic in Hampton Roads, in Newport News, and in Washington once distance before getting stuck again. There was every reason to think that the Minnesota,

Having dealt with the two weakest vessels in the blockade, reached at 10:30 A.M. the Federals tried to destroy her, but she moved only a short reason for her to give up the fight. She turned to destroy the USS

Congress.

The damage was significant but did not in any way threaten Virginia's buoyancy; there was no herself a big fat target, and was unable to fire her broadside at the Confederate ship (Paine, p.

Congress.

it might have been hard for her inexperienced crew to handle her in battle). Instead, she had made Confederate vessel (though Nelson, p.12, notes that most of her veteran sailors had been paid off;

was more maneuverable than Virginia and might have been able to "cross the T" on the Confederate vessel (though Nelson, p. 229), further reducing the Confederate vessel's speed (since it reduced the draw through her furnaces, "after the loss of the smoke-stack, Mr. Ramsey, chief engineer, reported that the draft was so poor that it was with great difficulty he could keep up steam"

-- WoodBL, p. 103).

Hoehling, p. 68, adds that her engineers noted structural problems as well, including loose plates and broken beams. Nelson, p. 230, reports that several of Virginia's guns were damaged by the three broadsides Cumberland fired after being mortally wounded. On p. 255, Nelson adds this catalog of damage which she had sustained by the end of the day: her surgeon would count 98

dents in her ironworks (though the yard would list the number as 97, according to Nelson, p. 301, with only six of her outer plates of iron broken and none of her inner plates); her flagstaff was down, her "less substantial gear ha been annihilated," and her bow timber was twisted and leaky as a result of the loss of the ram

The damage was significant but did not in any way threaten Virginia's buoyancy; there was no reason for her to give up the fight. She turned to destroy the USS Congress. The Federal ship was handled very badly -- apparently her captain ran her aground on purpose (Hoehling, p. 66) to save her from being rammed. But that made her almost useless offensively: Even without engines, she was more maneuverable than Virginia and might have been able to "cross the T" on the Confederate vessel (though Nelson, p.12, notes that most of her veteran sailors had been paid off;

it might have been hard for her inexperienced crew to handle her in battle). Instead, she had made herself a big fat target, and was unable to fire her broadside at the Confederate ship (Paine, p.

119).

The Confederates happily took advantage. The "crossed the T" on Congress, pouring their fire into her stern (Nelson, p. 237). Eventually, after her captain had been killed, the Congress surrendered (Nelson, p. 238), but because she was aground in shallow water, Virginia could not take her in tow.

Total casualties on the Congress were 136 killed, wounded, and missing out of 434 aboard

(Nelson, p. 239).

Shore batteries continued to fire on Virginia after the Congress hauled down her flag (Nelson, p.

243, though he notes that the Federals actually caused as many casualties among their own surrendered sailors as the enemy), and Buchanan was injured while firing back at them; he would not be aboard for the next day's big fight (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 87). The Confederates would also claim that Congress fired after putting up the white flag (Nelson, p. 244, though he thinks the claim false). Buchanan then ordereder hot shot to be fired into the Congress, setting her afire (Wood-

BL, p. 102); she blew up in the night (Hoehling, p. 68, says he did this in response to being wounded; he decided to take revenge. But destroying the Congress was reasonable; if he did not destroy her, the Federals were better equipped to take her away than the Confederates. His only fault was in destroying her before the sailors got off).

Having dealt with the two weakest vessels in the blockade, Virginia then turned to deal with the Minnesota, which had also gone aground. But her extreme draught of 22 feet kept her from reaching the Minnesota, so Virginia headed back into port to prepare to fight the next day.

Overnight, strenuous attempts were made to free the Minnesota, but she moved only a short distance before getting stuck again. There was every reason to think that the Virginia could destroy her the next day. There was panic in Hampton Roads, in Newport News, and in Washington once word arrived by cable -- Secretary of War Stanton, who was prone to fits of near-insanity, started sending telegraphing "the sky is falling" messages to cities all along the East Coast (Nelson, p.

264).

Except that, overnight, the Monitor arrived an changed everything. The Monitor arrived at Hampton Roads the night of March 8/9, and took position to protect the grounded Minnesota. Small as it was, it inspired little confidence in the Federal naval officers (Hoehling, p. 73). Events were to prove them wrong. Early in the war, the Union was confident in the strength of its navy; it researched ironclads, but did very little about constructing seagoing iron ship. They started to have second thoughts, according to Holzer/Mulligan, pp. 126-127, when the Trent affair made it possible that there might be war with Britain. The Americans knew perfectly well that their wooden walls couldn't fight Warrior and her sisters.

When word came of the building of the Virginia, the urgency increased. There were, at that time, only two serious designs on the table, which would later become the New Ironsides and the Galena (McPherson, p. 374; Konstam, p. 20. For the latter disastrous design, see the notes to "Old Johnston Thought It Rather Hard"). New Ironsides (which in some ways resembled the Virginia, save that the armored citadel covered the entire hull) was a successful design, but could not be ready in time. Galena also probably would take too long. But Cornelius Bushnell, the shipbuilder on the Galena, had called in the brilliant but cantankerous Swedish inventor John Ericsson to look over his designs (the Navy board had not quite trusted the Galena's stability, and demanded more calculations, which Bushnell could not perform but Ericsson could; Nelson, p. 102-103), and it turned out that Ericsson had his own easy-to-build ironclad concept on the shelf -- he had designed it for the French in the Crimean War, but after that war ended, Napoleon III lost interest (Nelson, p. 104).

After complicated machinations, the navy department ordered the construction of the Monitor (Holzer/Mulligan, pp. 26-29; Nelson, p. 146, notes that, despite the wrangling, the urgency was such that the contract was signed only eight days after Bushnell talked to Ericsson. The flip side is, the contractors were on the hook if the ship failed; the navy would only pay if she proved a successful design; Nelson, pp. 150-151. The Navy's delays in paying the amounts it had promised caused some construction delays; Nelson, p 188).

The Monitor was in many ways the weakest of the three designs; it was to prove almost unseaworthy (with only 18 inches of freeboard -- that is, height above water -- waves could easily swamp it; Konstam, p. 21), and it involved so many new ideas that naturally some of them failed to work. The pilothouse would prove severe weakness; it was almost too small for the three sailors it needed to hold (captain, pilot, and helmsman), and yet it was large enough that the guns could not be fired near it; her internal communications systems easily broke down (Greene-BL, p. 115). Many changes would be made in future designs of this type.

But Ericsson claimed it could be built in ninety days. He was close to right; construction was started October 25, 1861, and she was launched 93 days later (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 30. Nelson, p. 146, states that claim was that she could be finished in a hundred days. Presumably one estimate counts the time needed to write the contract, the other does not. Nelson's count on p. 190 is that it took 118 days from contract signing to launch, or 105 working days. Clearly not what was promised -- but still pretty amazing.).

If the Virginia looked like a barn, the Monitor was the "tin can on a shingle" (Catton, p. 201): "A heavily armored turret carrying two 11-inch guns... on a long, armored hullthathad no more than a foot or two of freeboard; there was a little knob of a pilothouse forward and a smokestack aft, and nothing more."

There are a lot of what-ifs about the battle of the two ironclads. Neither ship was finished, and at the time they met, Virginia was both slower (due to the damage to her stacks) and less potent (due to the loss of her ram) than before the action against the Cumberland.

The situation on Monitor was similar. The ship itself was intact, but a lot of rough edges were left (literally -- e.g. the edges of the gunholes in the turrets had not been smoothed; Nelson, p. 188). In addition, the crew was inexperienced; it had been decided to take only volunteers, and few of the men aboard had enough service time to rate even the designation of Ordinary Seaman (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 32; Konstam, p. 22).

Plus the ship had run into a storm on the way to Hampton Roads (the same storm that had delayed the Virginia's sortie), which almost caused the Monitor to go under. The heavy seas had started to flood the ship, the smokestacks poured water into the engineering spaces, and the ventilators failed in the wet (Greene-BL, pp. 112-113. Ericsson, against the advice of experienced seamen, had insisted on vent tubes that didn't extend far enough above the water; Nelson, p. 23). As a result, the blowers failed as the belts got wet, water hit the fireboxes, the engine started leaking fumes, and the pumps went out. (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 41, say that the entire operation of the ship depended on the ventilation system, and it proved insufficient for the task. Improved designs would eventually largely cure these problems, but of course the Monitor was the first of its kind. In warmer weather, the bad ventilation would also cause the ship to become almost unendurably hot; Holzer/ Mulligan, p. 49).

The crew, seasick and breathing bad air, ended up extremely unwell and barely kept the ship the higher she rose, and her armor ended not much below the waterline even when she was full.

to spend the night in port -- and to refill her coal bunkers and shot lockers; the more she used up,
Jones talked to his officers and decided to head for home (Nelson, pp. 290-291); safer, in her case,
But the battle was over. The fight.

functional, and the retreat would probably have been temporary had... Holzer/Mulligan, p. 88). But Given her communications problems, it took some time for the exec to make his way from the turret sight -- at least in one eye; Nelson, p. 341).
would live, though he carried metal in his face for the rest of his life, and he also recovered his leaving, he declared, "Then I don't care what happens to me." See Greene-BL, p. 117. But he debri, and had to ask, "Have I saved the... Wood-BL, p. 103, reports that shots at point-blank range from the Monitor "forced the side in bodily two or three inches." With a full charge of powder, it is possibly that some might have penetrated.

The flip side is, the Confederate cannon had no solid shot to fire (another consequence of the inadequate industrial facilities of the Confederacy; Nelson, pp. 177-178), and might have cracked the Monitor had she been able to fire shot rather than shell.

There were also command and control problems on Monitor. Except when the gun ports were opened, the turret crew of the Monitor had no way to view the outside world. They had to fire and then ask the crew in the pilothouse whether they had hit. (Ericsson's plan had been to leave the gun ports open and rotate the turret away during reloading; Nelson, p. 274. But the turret machinery proved sticky enough -- the seawater let in by the storm had damaged it; Nelson, pp. 274-275 --that the crew eventually gave up trying to start and stop it, and just left it rotating, firing when the Virginia was in sight. There was little though of really aiming the thing; they just relied on the fact that they were close enough to be almost sure to hit; Nelson, p. 279) And the speaking tube connecting the turret to the pilothouse either didn't work or was damaged, so the turret crew had to keep sending runners forward (Holzer/Mulligan, pp. 44-45; Nelson, p. 271).

Aiming was a problem for other reasons. Because the turret was closed off, they had no way of knowing where the guns were pointing relative to the axis of the ship; they had chalked markings on the floor, but these were soon rubbed off (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 45).

On March 9, the Virginia, now commanded by executive officer Catesby ap Roger Jones (the nephew of Thomas ap Catesby Jones, who had occupied California during the Mexican War, and an ordnance expert highly esteemed by both sides; Hoehling, p. 72), headed back for the Minnesota. At first the Virginia tried to attend to both Minnesota and Monitor, but finding the Monitor much harder to deal with, the Confederate ship quickly gave the Monitor her full attention. It was quickly evident that neither ship had weapons capable of breaching the other's armor. At best, they might get a ball into a firing shutter, or maybe get a lucky hit below the waterline or at a vulnerable seam or the like. The Virginia tried to ram (though she no longer had her ram beak), but the Monitor was much faster and more maneuverable; the impact was trivial (Hoehling, p. 76). So the two ships did little except throw iron at each other for several hours.

In the case of the Virginia, she soon gave up on firing at the Monitor's turret and started firing on the pilothouse. That was too small a target, though, so she decided to go back to hitting at Minnesota -- only to run aground (Nelson, p. 281). It was a dangerous fix; if the Virginia couldn't move, Monitor could finally pick a spot to attack her. Fortunately for the Confederate ship, the Union officers did not choose wisely (Nelson, p. 282). The Confederates almost burst their boilers, but they finally worked the Virginia free (Nelson, p. 283). After that, the Virginia stopped worrying about Minnesota and went back to slugging at the Monitor. She made an attempt to ram, despite having lost her ram bow, but the only real effect of this was to make the leak in her bow worse (Nelson, p. 285).

Eventually a lucky shot from Virginia hit the Monitor's pilothouse, injuring commander John Worden though it luckily did not affect Monitor's steering (Nelson, pp. 288-289). (Incidentally, there was a sort of a "Brave Wolfe" moment in the battle; Worden was bruised and temporarily blinded by the debris, and had to ask, "Have I saved the Minnesota? Told he had, and that the Virginia was leaving, he declared, "Then I don't care what happens to me." See Greene-BL, p. 117. But he would live, though he carried metal in his face for the rest of his life, and he also recovered his sight -- at least in one eye; Nelson, p. 341).

Given her communications problems, it took some time for the exec to make his way from the turret to the front; as a result, the ship backed away from the fighting for half an hour. Confederates sometimes claim victory in the battle on this basis (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 88). But Monitor was still functional, and the retreat would probably have been temporary had Virginia tried to continue the fight.

But the battle was over. The Virginia made one more run at the Minnesota, but then Lieutenant Jones talked to his officers and decided to head for home (Nelson, pp. 290-291); safer, in her case, to spend the night in port -- and to refill her coal bunkers and shot lockers; the more she used up, the higher she rose, and her armor ended not much below the waterline even when she was full.
After another day without refilling, she would be very vulnerable. This led Union newspapers, which claimed she was towed from the battle (which she was not), to assert victory (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 93).

You still see occasional claims that one ship or the other "won" -- e.g. Mabry Tyson's article in Holzer/Mulligan claims victory for the Virginia (p. 109). But Tyson is the great-grandson of Catesby ap Roger Jones; his is hardly an unbiased view!

From a pure tactical standpoint, it was a draw (unless you count the damage the Virginia did to the Minnesota during the engagement, which was fairly severe -- she had briefly been on fire, and her crew was exhausted and her ammunition nearly gone; Hoehling, p. 79). Neither ship could damage the other significantly (men were stunned if they touched the armor when it was hit -- Hoehling, p. 77 -- but eventually learned not to do that). The Monitor suffered no real damage, and the damage to the Virginia was almost all from the Cumberland, so they were well-matched. A case could be made that, had the Virginia met the Monitor on the first day, she might have won (Monitor's armor stopped cannonballs, but would not be enough to stop Virginia's ram if it hit home straight-on, and Monitor certainly didn't have the reserve buoyancy to survive such a blow!). Or you might claim the Virginia won "on points": although both ships withdrew, the Monitor withdrew first. That, though, is like claiming Germany won the Battle of Jutland because they sank more ships: The latter part of the claim is true but doesn't mean anything. Strategically, the Battle of Hampton Roads was a clear Union victory; Virginia could not clear the Roads of Federal shipping, and while Monitor could not stop blockade runners, she could guard the faster frigates that could. And, over the following months, additional ironclads would support her. For Virginia, it was win in March or not at all -- and she didn't win in March. Due, in no small part, to the damage inflicted by the Cumberland.

Nelson, p. 295, cites Jones's report on damage to Virginia: "Our loss is 2 killed and 19 wounded. The stem is twisted and the ship leaks. We have lost the prow, starboard anchor, and all the boats. The armor is somewhat damages; the steam pipe and smokestack both riddled; the muzzles of two of the guns shot away. It was not nasy to keep a flag flying. The flagstaffs were repeatedly shot away." Nelson adds: " Virtually all of the damage and casualties occurred on the first day of fighting. Monitor had inflicted almost no injury at all."

Nelson's conclusion is that both Jones of Virginia and Greene of Monitor were right to break off the fight, even though it raised questions about their characters (Nelson, p. 297). Virginia really needed time in dry-dock to replenish and to make minor fixes; Monitor was in better shape, but the crew was bone-weary and there were hardly enough officers left even to stand watches -- a major concern with a scratch crew.

The Confederates probably thought Virginia would be back in service soon. Certainly it would have taken only a little while to patch up her leaks. But the Virginia spent most of a month in dry dock, where her damage was repaired, her ram replaced, and some of her more glaring problems remedied, including the fitting of some additional armor near the waterline (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 76; Nelson, p. 308) -- though this cost her another knot of speed (Wood-BL, p. 105), and left her engines even more overburdened than before; the engineer now said they could be relied on for only a few hours (Nelson, p. 308). Now commanded by Josiah Tattnall, Virginia made one more brief sortie on April 10/11, with some officers contemplating a harebrained scheme to try to board the Monitor (Nelson, pp. 310-311), but by this time the Monitor had been joined by another ironclad, Naugatuck, and in essence the two Union ships stood guard while the rest of the Northern ships fled. The two sides didn't really engage, and the Virginia eventually headed back to base (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 78). According to Nelson, p. 313, Tattnall commanded Virginia for 45 days, and she spent 32 of them in dry-dock or under repair, though she made a total of five trips toward Hampton Roads (the others were even less eventful than the sortie of April 11). Mostly she just made her men miserable, since living conditions were terrible and steam had to be kept up at all times to allow her to respond quickly in the event of Union action.

In May, as Union general George B. McClellan's Army of the Potomac approached Richmond during the Peninsular campaign, the Confederates decided (almost certainly correctly) that they had to scrape up every available man to defend the city. The division defending Norfolk was taken north of the James on May 3 (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 79). The Virginia for the time being stayed at Norfolk, but now she was vulnerable to being captured from land. At the very least, she had to be kept from Federal hands.

It was Abraham Lincoln himself who ordered federal troops to make a move on Norfolk on May 9 (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 90). When the last Confederate forces pulled out, no one even told the Virginia's commander (Wood-BL, p. 106; Nelson, pp. 317-318).

Foote, p. 415, notes that the Confederates made desperate attempts to take the Virginia up the James River (the only other alternative being a death-or-glory attack on the Federal blockade). They lightened her enough to expose several feet of unarmoured hull. But then came word that conditions on the James had changed; although the ship had been lightened enough that she drew "only" 18 feet, which was supposed to be sufficient to get her to within 40 miles of Richmond (Nelson, p. 318), conditions had changed and she would have to work her way up a channel only 15 feet deep. That was impossible (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 81; Wood-BL, p. 107), and there was no time for more lightening anyway.

Tattnall, understandably upset, thought that the pilots were cowards who had concocted their story to keep the ship from battle.(Nelson, p. 319). Lightening ship meant that she would be floating with her armor deck above water level. With her hull exposed, Virginia could no longer fight as an ironclad, ruling out the death-or-glory ride.

The only remaining alternative was to scuttle her. After only three months afloat, and two months of active serve, she was -- for the second time -- set on fire on May 11, 1862 (Wood-BL, p. 107, tells of being one of the last two men aboard, and of setting her afire). And the Confederates did what the Union navy had not done: They successfully destroyed the hull of the Merrimack. She would rise no more. Her second commander, Josiah Tattnall, was savaged in the press and a preliminary court of inquiry, and demanded a court-martial, which acquitted him (Wood-BL, pp. 107-108; Nelson, p. 344).

After Virginia was out of the way, Monitor was taken up the Potomac for various improvements (Nelson, p. 323). She then was ordered to Wilmington, North Carolina. Once again there was bad weather along the way (Nelson, p. 324). The Monitor sank in a storm at the end of December 1862 off Cape Hatteras (Holzer/Mulligan, p. 51). Her wreck has of course been discovered (e.g. Delgado, pp. 117-119), and portions are being brought to the surface to highlight a museum (Holzer/Mulligan in fact was inspired by the opening of the Mariner's Museum; pp. xiii, xviii).

Nelson, p. 339, makes an interesting point about this song and the whole fame of the Battle of Hampton Roads: It became a household name simply because of the timing. Had Monitor arrived on any day other than the day it did, there would have been no battle (had it arrived, say, a month earlier), or a likely draw with no Union ships sunk (had it arrived a day earlier), or a complete Union fiasco (had it arrived even one day later). Hampton Roads became famous only because the Monitor arrived exactly when it did, like the cavalry coming to the rescue (to use Nelson's metaphor).

Despite Monitor's poor sea qualities, there was a rush to build monitors around the world. Jane's-WWI, pp. 63-64, lists ten named monitors (including two christened Erebus and Terror) and fifteen numbered monitors in service with the British navy in World War I, and p. 314 lists eight that were lost during the War or in the operations in Russia in 1919. Marshall-Encyclopedia, entry on the Florida, says that the U. S. Navy built its last class of monitors in 1901, with one of them not decommissioned until 1939. But they were hardly ships that John Ericsson would have recognized. The ones I've seen all had large upperworks, and in most of the British examples, the turret was raised high above the waterline, and the ships had masts. They were monitors only in the sense that they had very little freeboard.

And I never heard of any of those twentieth century monitors doing anything useful. Monitor included many ideas which would be very useful in future warships -- the turret being the most important -- but the ships themselves were just too problematic. And their low profiles, which made them harder to hit with cannon, would become nearly useless once self-propelled torpedoes were invented.

The Cumberland, like the Monitor, has been rediscovered. Delgado, p. 115, notes that she was found in 1980. Unfortunately, she is in shallow water, and souvenir hunters did a great deal of damage before serious efforts were made to protect the wreck. - RBW

Broadside LOCSinging sb10061b: H. De Marsan dating per Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at FindArticles site. - BS

Bibliography

• Catton: Bruce Catton, Terrible Swift Sword. (being the second volume of The Centennial History of the Civil War), Doubleday, 1963 (I use the 1976 Pocket Books edition)
• Delgado: James P. Delgado, Lost Warships: An Archaeological Tour of War at Sea, Checkmark, 2001
• Greene-BL: S. Dana Greene, "We thought we had gained a great victory: In the 'Monitor' Turret," article in Clarence C. Buel and Robert U. Johnson, editors, Battles and Leaders of the Civil War, four volumes, 1888. For convenience of transport, I used the version of the article printed in the abbreviated one-volume edition "edited" (read: hacked down almost to Greene was the executive officer of the Monitor and commanded the turret in the early stages of Hampton Roads, then briefly commanded the whole ship. (He notes ironically that Monitor had five captains, but he was her only executive officer; p.111).

- Hendrick: Burton J. Hendrick, Statesmen of the Lost Cause: Jefferson Davis and His Cabinet, Literary Guild of America, 1939
- Jane's-WWI: Jane's Fighting Ships of World War I (1919; I use the 1990 Studio Editions reprint with modern foreword by Captain John Moore, RN). Not entirely accurate, but the best in-one-place catalog of naval vessels serving c. 1918.
- Paine: Lincoln P. Paine, Ships of the World (Houghton Mifflin, 19970
- Preston: Antony Preston, Battleships, Gallery, 1981
- Wood-BL: John Taylor Wood, Colonel, C.S.A., "The battle was a drawn one: The first fight of iron-clads," article in Clarence C. Buel and Robert U. Johnson, editors, Battles and Leaders of the Civil War, four volumes, 1888. For convenience of transport, I used the version of the article printed in the abbreviated one-volume edition "edited" (read: hacked down almost to uselessness) by Ned Bradford, 1956; page references are to the 1979 Fairfax Press edition. Wood was a lieutenant on the Virginia before joining the Confederate army.
- Woodworth: Steven E. Woodworth, Nothing But Victory: The Army of the Tennessee 1861-1865, Vintage, 2005

Cumberland Gap

DESCRIPTION: Stories of the settlement of Cumberland Gap. Texts may have a variety of verses, about exploration or the Civil War. The chorus is diagnostic: "Lay down boys and take a little nap; (Fourteen miles to the) Cumberland Gap."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1924 (recording, Uncle "Am" Stuart, followed in the same year by recordings by Land Norris, Gid Tanner & Riley Puckett)

KEYWORDS: exploration settler CivilWar dancing dancetune

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1750 - Thomas Walker explores and names Cumberland Gap
Jun 18, 1862 - Union troops under G.W. Morgan occupy the Gap after James Rains (who is outnumbered by two to one) evacuates the pass
Sep 17, 1862 - Morgan evacuates the Gap, his retreat having been cut off by Bragg's and Kirby Smith's campaigns in Kentucky
Oct 22, 1862 - Confederate troops from Braxton Bragg's army occupy the Gap
Sept 10, 1863 - Confederates forced from the Gap by troops under Burnside. The Gap will remain in Union hands thereafter

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (17 citations):
Randolph 498, "Cumberland Gap" (1 fragment)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 329, "Cumberland Gap" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 329, "Cumberland Gap" (1 tune plus a text
NOTES [172 words]: This melody is played as a dance tune throughout the southeast. - PJS
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands's unusually long text has also been heavily localized:
"September morn in Sixty-two... Morgan's 'Yankee' all withdrew." "They burned the hay, the meal, and meat... And left the rebels nothing to eat." "Braxton Bragg with his rebel band... He run George Morgan to the bluegrass land." (Compare Thomas's text, which has most of the same lyrics.)
Union general George W. Morgan (1820-1893) had occupied the Gap on June 18, 1862 with a division after the oversized Confederate brigade of James E. Rains withdrew. (Rains, incidentally, did his own burning of stores as he pulled out.)
In September 1862, though, two Confederate armies under Braxton Bragg and Edmund Kirby
Smith were moving into Kentucky (the Perryville campaign). Kirby Smith's force threatened Morgan's communications, and on September 17, he conducted an orderly evacuation. There was no battle, but it would be another year before the Union recaptured the Gap. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: R498
Cumberland Traveller, The

DESCRIPTION: "Dear wife I hope this you will find In health of body and of mind And my dear babes whom I adore I live in hopes to see once more." The singer, who has left home for Cumberland, advises his wife, asks guidance of God, and hopes for peace for Cumberland

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown), from a manuscript apparently dated 1839

KEYWORDS: travel home husband wife

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 515, "The Cumberland Traveller" (1 damaged text)

NOTES [16 words]: This may not be a song; it was found in a barely-legible nineteenth century manuscript book. - RBW

File: Br3515

Cumberland, The [Laws A26]

DESCRIPTION: The crew of the Cumberland, attacked by the CSS Virginia/Merrimac, fight back as best they can, though their shot bounces off the Confederate's armored hull. The Cumberland fights until it is rammed and sunk and goes down with all flags flying

AUTHOR: unknown

KEYWORDS: Civilwar ship

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
March 8, 1862 - U.S. frigates Congress and Cumberland sunk by the CSS Virginia (formerly USS Merrimack). The Minnesota runs aground; had not the Monitor arrived the next day, the Merrimac would have sunk that ship also

FOUND IN: US(MA,SE) Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont)

REFERENCES (9 citations):
Laws A26, "The Cumberland"
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 16, "The 'Merrimac'" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 11, "The Cumberland and the Merrimac" (1 text, 1 tune)
Peacock, pp. 909-910, "The Cumberland and the Merrimac" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 225, "The Cumberland" (1 text plus extensive excerpts from a broadside version)
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 131, "Maggie Mac" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #787, pp. 52-53, "Good Ship Cumberland" (7 references)
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 256-257, "The Cumberland and the Merrimac" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 597, CUMB MERR*

Roud #630

RECORDINGS:
Orlo Brandon, "The 'Merrimac'" (on GreatLakes1)
"Yankee" John Galuha, "The Cumberland and the Merrimac" [excerpt] (on USWarnerColl01)

BROADSIDES:
LOCSinging, cw102120, "The Good Ship Cumberland," A. W. Auner (Philadelphia), 19C; also cw102130, "Good Ship Cumberland"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Iron Merrimac" (subject)

SAME TUNE:
Raging Canal (per broadsides LOCSinging cw102120 and cw102130)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Good Ship Cumberland
Cumblom

NOTES [126 words]: For historical background on this song, see the notes to "The Cumberland Crew" [Laws A18].
To tell this song from "The Cumberland Crew," refer to this text:
Come all my jolly seamen, likewise you landsmen too.
It is a dreadful story I will unfold to you.
It's all about the Cumberland, the ship so true and brave,
And it's many the loyal seamen that met a wat'ry grave.

... Was early in the morning, just at the break of day,
When our good ship the Cumberland lay anchored in the bay (cj.)
When a man from our masthead to those below did cry (cj.)
"There's something up to windward like a housetop I espy."

-In the above sample, (cj.) means "conjecture," i.e. it's my guess as to what the text originally read
although the extant texts are damaged. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: LA26

Cup o Tay, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer praises the virtues of "a gintale (genteel) cup o' tay": "Och, prate about your wine, or poteen mighty fine, There's no such draught as mine." Whiskey makes the head sore, but tea brings good company. The singer thanks the Chinese for it

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland)
KEYWORDS: nonballad drink
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H489, p. 48, "The Cup o' Tay" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 7, "A Cup O' Tay" (1 text)

Roud #13362
File: HHH489

Cupid Benighted

DESCRIPTION: On a rainy night, the singer is awakened by a knocking at the door. It proves to be a winged boy with a bow (obviously Cupid). Once dry, he departs, saying, "My bow is not damaged / Nor yet is my dart / but you will have trouble / In bearing the smart"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1815 (The Songster's Companion)
KEYWORDS: supernatural gods
FOUND IN: US(NE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 180-183, "The White-Headed Boy" (1 traditional text plus the Songster's Companion version; also a copy of Derby's translation of Anacreon)
ST FO180 (Partial)
Roud #4688

NOTES [57 words]: Helen Flanders believes this piece to be based on the third Ode of Anacreon (floriut sixth century B.C.E.) The theme is obviously similar; presumably some broadside brought the song to popular consciousness.

Spaeth reports a piece by [Samuel?] Arnold called "Cupid Benighted," from 1795; I assume they are the same, but cannot prove it. - RBW

File: F0180

Cupid the Plowboy [Laws O7]

DESCRIPTION: The singer sees a youth breaking up the soil. She calls him "Cupid the plowboy," imagines his farm tools to be Cupid's arrows, and confesses that seeing "Cupid" has driven her current love from her mind. The plowboy hears her lament and offers marriage

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1844 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(773))
Cupid's Garden (I) (Covent Garden I; Lovely Nancy III)

DESCRIPTION: The singer wanders down to (Cupid's/Covent) Garden and meets (lovely Nancy). He asks her if she will marry him. She says she will remain a virgin and/or she has another lover. He hopes to return and marry her

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1767 (Journal from the Leopard)

REFERENCES (11 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #155, p. 2, "Covent's Garden"; #151, p. 3, "Covent's Garden"; #157, p. 2, "Cupid's Garden" (3 texts including 2 fragments)
Greig/Duncan5 970, "Covent's Garden" (5 texts, 3 tunes)
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 90-92, "Covent Garden"; pp. 92-94, "Cupid's Garden" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 186-187, "Twas Down in Cupid's Garden" (1 text, 1 tune)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 487, "Cupid's Garden" (1 text)
Copper-ASongForEverySeason, pp. 252-253, "Cupid's Garden" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #23, "Cupid's Garden" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ashton-RealtailorSongs, #68, "Cupid's Garden" (1 text)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #1914, p. 129, "The 'Prentice Boy" (2 references)

ADDITIONAL: Harold Nestler, "Songs from the Hudson Valley" (article in _New York Folklore Quarterly_, Volume V, #2, Summer 1949), pp. 91-912, "William and Dinah" (1 text, which seems to consist of the opening of "Vilikens and his Dinah (William and Dinah)" [Laws M31A/B" with the happy ending of "Cupid's Garden (I) (Covent Garden I; Lovely Nancy III)" or something similar grafted onto the end)
Roud #297

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(773), "Cupid, the Pretty Ploughboy" ("As I walk'd out one May morning"), J. Howe (Hull), 1835-1843; also Harding B 25(457), Firth c.18(231), "Cupid the Pretty Ploughboy"; Harding B 17(67a), "Cupid the Pretty Plough Boy"; Harding B 11(772), Firth c.18(169), "Cupid the Pretty Plough-boy"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Rich Lady Gay" (plot)
NOTES [126 words]: The versions of this text I have seen are, without exception, confused. The above plot summary is the best I can come up with.

Laws M12, "The Apprentice Boy," displays versions with this title, and both are about sailors and their loves. It's just possible that this is a badly damaged form of the Laws ballad. But I incline to think this is a separate song.

According to Roud/Bishop, p. 394, "Cuper's Garden was a formal pleasure garden opened by Abraham Boydell Cuper about 1691, and until the 1750s was a well-known entertainment venue for Londoners." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4
File: SWMS090

Cupid's Trepan (Cupid's Trappan, The Bonny Bird)

DESCRIPTION: "Once did I love a bonny brave bird, And thought he had been all my own, But he lov'd another far better than me, And has taken his flight and is flown." The jilted lover in turn has turned to another, leaving the first lover lonely

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1675 (broadside, Bodleian Douce Ballads 1(50a)); a song "Cupid trappanned" was in William Thackeray's broadside catalog by 1690

KEYWORDS: love separation

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Chappell/Wooldridge-OldEnglishPopularMusic II, pp. 149-150, "Cupid's Trepan" (1 tune, partial text)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 74, "The Blackbird" (1 text)
Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 60B, "The Grey Hawk" (1 text)
Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #106, "The Grey Hawk" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brocklebank/Kindersley-DorsetBookOfFolkSongs, p. 14, "The Grey Hawk" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: J Woodfall Ebsworth, The Roxburghe Ballads, (Hertford, 1891 ("Digitized by Microsoft").), Vol. VII Part 2 [Part 21], pp. 359-360, "Cupids Trappan; Or, Up the green Forrest" Or "The Scornor Scorn'd" or "Willow turn'd into Carnation"; "Described in the Ranting Resolution of a Forsaken Maid" (1 text)

ST ChWII149 (Full)
Roud #293

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Douce Ballads 1(50a), "Cupids Trappan; Or, Up the green Forrest" Or "The Scornor Scorn'd" or "Willow turn'd into Carnation"; "Described in the Ranting Resolution of a Forsaken Maid" ("Once did I love and a bonny bonny bird"), F. Coles (London), 1663-1674

EngBsdBA 21112, Pepys 3.107, "Cupids Trappan; Or, Up the green Forrest" Or "The Scornor Scorn'd" or "Willow turn'd into Carnation"; "Described in the Ranting Resolution of a Forsaken Maid" ("Once did I love a bonny bonny Bird, thinking that he had been my own"), I. Wright (London?), no date, accessed 08 Dec 2013.

SAME TUNE:
The Bonny Young Irish Boy [Laws P26] (File: LP26)
Of late I did hear a young man domineer/The Milkmaid's Resolution (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2108)
I am a young man that do follow the plow/The Plowman's Art in Wooing (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN1240)
Of late did I hear a young damsels complain/Young Man put to his shifts (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2107)
Once did I love and a very pretty Girl/The Batchellors Fore-cast..an Answer to Cupids Trappan (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2160)

NOTES [328 words]: This set of words clearly is of broadside origin (though likely inspired by a song of the "Dear Companion" type). But the evidence of the broadsides indicates that the tune, at least, entered oral tradition. I'm indexing it on that basis.

A "trepan" (trappan) is a trick or, by extension, a trickster. Thus Cupid's trepan is a trick played by Cupid on a lover.
Although it is also possible to take "Trepan" as "Trapan," which was the kidnapping of children and sending them as servants to the colonies. There is, e.g., a song (probably of broadside origin) of "The Trapann'd Maiden," quoted by Samuel Eliot Morison in The Oxford History of the American People, p. 83, about a girl taken and sent to Virginia. Thus this song may even have links to songs such as "Australia (Virginnie)."

Roud lumps this with all sorts of songs, I assume on the basis of tune. - RBW

I have indexed Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 60B here, rather than at "The Bonny Boy (I)" or "The Disappointed Lover (I)" [all of which are Roud #293] because it retains the bird theme, and at least three (and part of the fourth) of its five verses are close to the broadsides, and the verse structure is close to the broadside pattern in that the penultimate line adds "my brave boys" and is repeated without "my brave boys" (similar to "The Greenland Whale Fishery"). The fifth verse begins with an approximation of Ecclesiasticus [Sirach] 26.1, "Blessed is the man that hath a virtuous wife, for the number of his days shall be double": "How happy's the man that hath a good wife, Much better is he that's got none, But cursed is he that courteth another's When he has a good wife of his own...." - BS

I index the Reeves/Palmer/Brocklebank/Kindersley-DorsetBookOfFolkSongs version here for reasons similar to Ben's. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: ChWII149

Cups and Saucers

DESCRIPTION: "Cups and saucers, plates and dishes [or "china dishes"], There goes Sally in calico britches."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1900

(Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: play party clothes

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 90, "(Cups and saucers, plates and dishes)" (1 short text); p. 109, "(Cups and saucers, plates and dishes)" (1 text)

File: SuSm090B

Curacao

DESCRIPTION: Dutch. Forbitter shanty. "Curacao, 'khebjouw zo menigmaal bekeken." The singer has been to Curacao many times; he dislikes the tricks they play, and the women and inns trying to take his money. He hopes to get back to the Netherlands and better women

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1977 (Hugill-SongsOfTheSea)

KEYWORDS: shanty trick travel commerce whore

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, p. 61, "Curacao" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: HS0Se061

Curly Head of Hair

DESCRIPTION: The singer at first rejoices in his head of hair, even though it has brought him unwanted attention from apes and bears. But now he has a scolding wife, who often twists his hair, and he resolves to go and have the hair cut

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1969 (Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl)

KEYWORDS: hair humorous

FOUND IN: US (MA, NE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Curly Locks

DESCRIPTION: "Curly locks, curly locks, wilt thou be mine? Thou shalt not wash dishes nor yet feed the swine, But sit on a cushion and sew a fine seam, And feed upon strawberries, sugar, and cream."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1810 (Gammer Gurton's Garland)

KEYWORDS: hair food nonballad clothes

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 122, "Curly Locks, Curly Locks" (1 text)
Dolby-OrangesAndLemons, p. 63, "Curly Locks" (1 text)

Roud #19787

NOTES [51 words]: The Opies mention a claim that this is about Charles II, while pointing out that there is no evidence for it. To give the hypothesis its due, Charles II did wear his hair long and curly, and he was invited back to England in 1660, so the link is possible -- but many other explanations fit just as well. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.3

File: 002122

Curragh of Kildare, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, the winter it has passed, And the summer's come at last, The small birds are singing in the trees." The birds are glad, but the singer is weary of being apart from his love and will set out for the Curragh of Kildare to learn of her.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1765 (London Rake's Garland, according to Garland)

KEYWORDS: love separation bird

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf) Britain(England(Lond,South),Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (14 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #2, p. 2, "The Winter It Is Past" (1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan6 1104, "The Winter It Is Past" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, p. 104, "Farewell, My Joy and Heart" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 59, "My Love Is Like the Sun" (1 text)
Brocklebank/Kindersley-DorsetBookOfFolkSongs, p. 29, "Farewell My Joy and Heart" (1 fragment, 1 tune, probably this)
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 158, "The Love-Sick Maid" (1 text)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 291-293, "The Braes of Yarrow" (1 short text plus a fragment, 1 tune; the "A" text is a composite lost love song with single stanzas from "The Braes o Yarrow," "The Curragh of Kildare," and others beyond identification; as a whole it cannot be considered a version of Child #214) (Bronson's #37)
Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 54, "The Winter's Gone and Past" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 185, "The Winter It Is Past" (1 text)

DT, CURRKILD*

ADDITIONAL: Hans Hecht, editor, Songs From David Herd's Manuscripts (Edinburgh, 1904), #104, pp. 243-244,327, "The Winter it is Past" (1 text)
James Johnson, Editor, _The Scots Musical Museum_ [1853 edition], volume II, #200, p. 208, "The Winter it is Past" (1 text, 1 tune)
Samuel Lover, The Lyrics of Ireland (London, 1858 ("Digitized by Google")), pp. 71-72, "The Love Sick Maid"; p. 72, "The Winter it is Past" Horse-Rider"
Roud #583
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 28(176), "Young Johnson" ("Cold winter's gone and past"), W. Armstrong (Liverpool), 1820-1824; also Harding B 11(635), Harding B 16(54c), Harding B 16(55a), Harding B 25(394), Harding B 11(636), "Cold Winter is Past"; Harding B 28(236), "Cold Winter"; Harding B 17(54a), "Cold Winter" or "Young Johnson"; Harding B 20(53), "Cold Winter's Gone and Past"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Forglen (Forglen You Know, Strichen's Plantins)" (lyrics, form)
NOTES [661 words]: Roud lumps a great many "cold winter is passed" type pieces under his #583 -- an understandable decision, given the state of the pieces. We try to restrict this item to "The Curragh of Kildare" and "The Winter It Is Past," filing the others separately Which form is actually earliest I don't know with certainty; I called the piece "The Curragh of Kildare" rather than "The Winter It Is Past," even though the latter form seems better-attested, to make it clear that the Burns version is "not" original. - RBW
Broadside Bodleian Harding B 16(55a), among others, refers to "the borough of Kildare" rather than "the curragh of Kildare."
Greig: "The original version takes us back to the middle of the 18th century, and, as given in Herd's MSS., has the following verse -- Oh my love is like the sun ...."
Lover's "The Love Sick Maid," which has the verse quoted by Greig, "is taken from the 'Roxburg Collection' (Vol. iii, No. 680) in the British Museum."
Lover: "The celebrated race-course the Curragh of Kildare and also the town of Lurgan being named in the ballad prove it to be Irish. It has appeared, however, in collections of Scotch Songs, the verses that prove its Irish origin being omitted." Lover prints "The Winter it is Past" as a Scottish example.
Herd's text does not have "verses that prove its Irish origin." Hecht notes that "another version in The London Rake's Garland, 1765, bears the title: A new Song, made on a young Lady who fell in love with a Horse-Rider."
Hecht-Herd: "The musick of the preceding song may be found in Oswald's Collection of Scots tunes, [book X, p. 9] and is very fine."
Ebsworth: "This ballad has been erroneously described as written by Robert Burns ...." He points out that Burns's text adds only one verse -- Lover's second of four, "The Rose upon the brier...." -- to the Roxburgh text of eight verses. Lover claims, of the Burns text, "there is not a single Scotticism in the composition."
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 59's three verses piece together parts of the Roxburgh text: Gl 59 v1.1-3 are from R v1.1-2; Gl 59 v1.4-6 are from R v4.3-4; Gl 59 v2.1-3 are from R v2.1-2; Gl 59 v2.4-6 are from R v3.3-4; Gl 59 v3 is from R v6. - BS
The "winter is past" lyric may have been suggested by Song of Solomon 2:11 (a scrap which has been set to music on occasion by classical composers), but this is at best only a possibility; the parallel is slight.
Slightly closer is the parallel to one of John Gower's early French ballades (I'm not sure which one; I have only a translation, found in GArnell-IHearAmericaSinging and Gosse's English Literature: An Illustrated Record, pp. 184-185 with no catalog indication), since it mentions not only the passing of winter but the rejoicing of birds, and it's a lost love piece. But while the one may have suggested the other, I doubt real dependence. - RBW
The Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs fragment is a puzzle. The source provided the tune and four of five lines: "Farewell, my joy and heart, Forever we must part. ... For I never do design, To alter my mind, So all of you know my decree." Maitland supplies the third line, "All happiness wait on thee!" from "The Pair of Turtle Doves," [sic] in Roxburgh Coll.,1.318; actually from "The Paire of Northerne Turtles," which begins "Farewell, farewell, my dearest deare, all happiness wait on thee! For now, alas! my turtle dove I am departing from thee" (source: William Chappell, The Roxburghie Ballads (Hertford, 1874 ("Digitized by Microsoft")), Vol. II, pp. 312-314, "The Paire of Northerne Turtles" (1 text)). It's not clear to me why Maitland picked that line from that text which has a different tune; the sense of the fragment may be the same as the sense of the broadside but they share no lines. Compare the fragment to Herd's ("But farewell my joy and heart, since you and I must part; Ye're the fairest of all I do see, I never do design to alter my mind, Altho' you're below my degree.") texts. - BS
Last updated in version 6.1
File: DTcurrki
Currant Island Wedding

DESCRIPTION: The party began with gin for the men and wine for the women. "The grub it did fly ... all [had] some cake." A "tipsy" man asks after the raffle but the bride said "There's nothing raffled here tonight". They all danced. Guests sailed off in the morning

AUTHOR: John Tom Keads (source: Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports)

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports)

KEYWORDS: wedding drinking dance food music party wine

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 99-100, "Currant Island Wedding" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #25319
File: Guig099

Cursed Dancers of Colbeck, The

DESCRIPTION: On a Christmas morning, a group of young people gather to carol and dance. A priest, who is saying mass, looks on in disapproval. The young people cannot stop dancing; they dance for a year, until many die or go mad or wander broken in body

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: (cannot be shown to have existed, but the underlying story was known by 1328)

KEYWORDS: dancing curse travel disease clergy religious MiddleEnglish

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):
RELATED: Versions of the "Cursed Dancers" section of Handlyng Synne --
Kenneth Sisam, editor, _Fourteenth Century Verse and Prose_, Oxford, 1925, pp. 4-12, "The Dancers of Colbeck" (1 text, of 256 lines)
Robert D. Stevick, _Five Middle English Narratives_, Bobbs Merrill, 1967, pp. 27-36, "The Cursed Dancers of Colbeck" (1 text, a heavily standardized version of Sisam's text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Judas" [Child 23] (subject: The Earliest English Ballad) and references there
NOTES [698 words]: This, like "The Knight of Liddesdale" [Child 160], is a "ballad on speculation" -- and the speculation in this case is even weaker than that for the "Knight." The tale of the Cursed Dancers, although probably not actually true, is certainly ancient. Gerould, p. 207, reports that the tale, set in Kölbïgk, was in circulation by the eleventh century, shortly after the alleged date of the tragedy. The story of the Cursed Dancers is Thompson #C94.1.1 (although that number specifies that they must dance until the Judgment Day). Most of Thompson's citations appear to be German (or, in one case, Swiss), but he has one English and one Finnish/Swedish.
Brown, p. xi, mentions a tale told by Gerald of Wales (late twelfth century) that sounds a bit like this: A party of young people spent the night singing a song with the refrain "Swete lamman dhin are" (meaning, I think, [My] sweet leman/lover you are"). The priest, having been kept awake by the song, the next morning opened a service by singing that refrain rather than "Dominus vobiscum," resulting in a scandal. Another version of the tale, closer to the original, says that a cursed dancer named Theodoric showed up at Wilton Abbey and was cured at the shrine of St. Editha (Gerould, p. 208). This would have allowed the story to reach England. Gerould quotes a bit of Latin verse about the story. A ballad? Not even Gerould claims that. But Friedman, p. 16, following others who link the story to the evolution of carols, hints that he (or Gerould, or someone, at least) considers the tale of the Cursed Dancers to be a ballad. Similarly, Chambers, p. 178, interprets Gerould as finding "the earliest European record of a ballad in the combination of dance and song and story described in the eleventh- or twelfth-century legend of the Dancers of Kölbïgk."
If they are right and this is a ballad, it follows that, since the story is eleven century, it is a candidate for the Earliest English Ballad. So here it is in the Index, even though this is probably the worst of all the "earliest ballad" candidates I've examined. And most of the cases are quite feeble. Although the tale apparently goes back to the eleventh century, in England, it cannot be documented before the early fourteenth. In 1303, Robert Mannying of Brunne, or Bourne (sometimes called simply "Robert of Brunne") began to write Handlyng Synne ("Handling Sin") (" e eres of grace fyl an to be / A oussynd and re hundred and re"); Sisam, p. 2). It was based on an apparently Anglo-Norman work (i.e. French, but written in England), William of Wad(d)ington's
Manuel de (la) Pechiez or Manuel des Pechiez Mannyng's version is metrical and is more adaption than translation; William provided the framework, but Mannyng made the book his own. It is a collection of rules and commandments, often illustrated with exemplum, or tales illustrating the point. William deals with "the Commandments, the Sins, the Sacraments, the Requisites, and the Graces of Shrift. But such a bald summary gives no idea of the richness and variety of the content" (Sisam, pp. 2-3).

Most of Mannyng's content derives from William, but the story of the Cursed Dancers is an exception. This was taken from a Latin version; there is a related copy of this Latin source in MS.
Rawlinson C 938 (Sisam, p. 3).

The story of the Cursed Dancers is lines 8987-9252 in Furnivall's standard edition of Mannyng, apparently based on MS. Harley 1701 of about 1375 (Sisam, p. 4); there is a second complete manuscript copy (Bodley 415) and another fragment; none of these is the original (Stevick, p. xix).
This seems to be regarded as the most interesting part of Handlyng Synne; at least, it's the part reprinted by both Sisam and Stevick.

Emerson, p. 276, says that Mannyng was born around 1260 and died around 1340. Emerson dates the Harley copy slightly earlier than Sisam, to c. 1360; since paleography generally cannot date a manuscript closer than the nearest fifty years, and sometimes not to the nearest hundred, this is a trivial difference. Either date would make the copy more than half a century more recent than Mannyng's translation, and a generation or so after his death.- RBW

Bibliography

- Brown: Carleton Brown, editor, English Lyrics of the XIIIth Century, Oxford University Press, 1932 (I use the 1962 reprint)
- Chambers: E. K. Chambers, English Literature at the Close of the Middle Ages, Oxford, 1945, 1947
- Emerson: O. F. Emerson, A Middle English Reader, 1905; revised 1915 (I use the 1921 Macmillan hardcover)
- Gerould: Gordon Hall Geround, The Ballad of Tradition, Oxford University Press, 1932
- Stevick: Robert D. Stevick, Five Middle English Narratives, Bobbs Merrill, 1967

---

Curtis House at Jennings

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, Curtis House is still as a mouse, There is no other place for me. I look away across the lake" hoping to see a place with better food. The singer also thinks of the hard times after a blizzard, when loggers face "two-foot ice and five-foot snow."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps)

KEYWORDS: logger travel food hardtimes

FOUND IN: US (MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 40, "Curtis House at Jennings" (1 text)

Roud #18190

File: BeLo040

---

Cushnie Winter Sports, The

DESCRIPTION: [After Jean Adam was hurt] Dauvid Ferries was "doctor till the doctor cam'." Effie Milne "swore she wad the laddie kill." If we affront Effie, "Willie Forbes'll gie's a dunt." Rachie would go no more "for fear o' getting her ... laid bare"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan3)

KEYWORDS: sports humorous nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain (Scotland (Aber))
Custard Pie Blues
DESCRIPTION: "I'm going to tell you something baby, Ain't gonna tell you no lies, I want some of that custard pie. You got to give me some of it (x3) Before you give it all away." The singer informs the woman that she has the best pie in the world, and requests part
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1963
KEYWORDS: sex nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Courlander-NegroFolkMusic, pp. 129-130, "(Custard Pie Blues)" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Harold Courlander, _A Treasury of Afro-American Folklore_, Crown Publishers, 1976, p. 514, "Custard Pie Blues" (1 text)
File: CNFM129

Custer's Last Charge (I)
DESCRIPTION: Custer leads his men into battle against the Sioux; a fierce scene is described, with bullets flying and dead falling on both sides. Three hundred US soldiers are killed and scalped by the Indians, who leave Custer with his dead
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930
KEYWORDS: army battle fight violence war death corpse soldier Indians(Am.)
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
June 25, 1876 - Battle of the Little Bighorn. Lt. Colonel George A. Custer (who had been a Major General during the Civil War) is killed, along with the entire force of cavalry (five companies with somewhat over 250 men) with him.
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 561, "Custer's Last Charge" (1 text)
Roud #8598
RECORDINGS:
Warde Ford, "Custer's Last Charge" (AFS 4199 B1, 1938; tr.; on LC30, in AMMEM/Cowell)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "The Last Fierce Charge" [Laws A17] (subject)
NOTES [93 words]: This is a separate song from "The Last Fierce Charge," although [some versions of] both describe the battle of the Little Bighorn. Confusingly, some versions of "The Last Fierce Charge" share this song's title. They can be distinguished by the description of two men and a letter, which is present in "The Last Fierce Charge" but not in "Custer's Last Charge."
Warde Ford states that the words to this song were copied from the Custer Monument by his friends Robert & Charles Walker, and that the tune is generic; I do not have information to confirm this. - PJS
Last updated in version 2.7
File: RcCLC
Cut Your Nails on Monday (Finger-Nails)

DESCRIPTION: "Cut them on Monday, you cut them for health, Cut them on Tuesday, you cut them for wealth, Cut them on Wednesday, you cut them for news... Cut them on Saturday, see your true love tomorrow, Cut them on Sunday, ill luck will be with you all the week."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1844 (Halliwell)
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #537, p. 219, "(Cut them on Monday, you cut them for health)"
Dolby-OrangesAndLemons, p. 47, "Cut Your Nails Monday" (1 text)
Roud #20970
File: Dolb047

Cuttie's Wedding

DESCRIPTION: Big Cuttie will get "a little wifie." He goes to the town pasture [drunk?], "fell oer the midden" and lost his shoe. He says "Monie ane's be at our weddin." "Busk and go to Cuttie's weddin' Wha wad be the lass or lad That wadna gang an they were bidden?"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Peter Buchan, _Ancient Ballads and Songs of the North of Scotland_, according to Whitelaw)
KEYWORDS: wedding clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig/Duncan3 608, "Cuttie's Weddin'" (1 fragment, 2 tunes)
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #53, pp. 211-212, "Cuttie's Wedding" (1 text, 1 tune)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, p. 311, "Busk and Go, Busk and Go"
Roud #3357
File: GrD3608

Cutty Wren, The

DESCRIPTION: Milder asks Malder questions ("Oh where are you going? says Milder to Malder"). Festle replies to Fose with a refusal to answer. John the Red Nose answers the questions. Most of the answers are extravagant ways of hunting the wren

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1827 (Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1)
KEYWORDS: wren hunting questions talltale
FOUND IN: Wales Britain(England,Scotland(Bord))
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland (78), "Helg yn Dreean/Hunt the Wren" (1 text, located in the notes)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 23, "Wise Willie" (1 text)
Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, pp. 110-111, "The Cutty Wren" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 91-92, "The Cutty Wren" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 347, "The Cutty Wren" (1 text)
Jack-PopGoesTheWeasel, p. 26, "The Cutty Wren" (1 short text)
DT, CUTYWREN*
Roud #236
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Wren (The King)" (subject)
cf. "Billy Barlow" (form)
cf. "Cricketty Wee" (form)
cf. "Hunt the Wren" (form, subject)
Cyclone of Rye Cove, The

DESCRIPTION: A tornado strikes the town of Rye Cove, and the schoolhouse is destroyed. Parents search the rubble, finding the bodies of their children.

AUTHOR: A. P. Carter (?)

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (recording, Carter Family)

KEYWORDS: grief death disaster storm

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1928 - the Rye Cove storm in Scott County, Virginia

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 11-12, "The Cyclone of Rye Cove" (1 text, 1 tune); p. 45, "The Cyclone of Rye Cove" (1 text, stated to be learned from the Carter Family recording)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 211-212, "Rye Cove (1 text)
DT, RYECOVE

Roud #7116

RECORDINGS:
DeBusk-Weaver Family, "Cyclone of Ryecove" (on DeBusk-Weaver1)
Asa Martin, "Ryecove Cyclone" (Oriole 8163/Conqueror 8068 [as Martin & Roberts], 1932)
New Lost City Ramblers, "The Cyclone of Rye Cove" (on NLCR13, ClassOT)

NOTES [70 words]: Mark Zwonitzer with Charles Hirschberg, Will You Miss Me When I'm Gone: The Carter Family & Their Legacy in American Music, Simon & Schuster, 2002, p. 101, says this was the only attempt A. P. Carter ever made at creating a song about a topical event. It was not especially popular; unlike, say, Andrew Jenkins, Zwonitzer/Hirschberg conclude that "The Carters were never much good at channeling public tragedy." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: DTtryecov

D & H Canal, The

DESCRIPTION: (After an unrelated opening stanza), the song describes a flood which hit the canal in 1878. "The embankment broke" and "the damage was terrific"; the rest of the song details some of the damage done

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1982

KEYWORDS: canal flood

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1828 - Opening of the Delaware & Hudson Canal
1898 - The D & H Canal closes

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 172, "The D & H Canal" (1 text, 1 tune)
D-Day Dodgers, The

DESCRIPTION: "We're the D-Day Dodgers, out in Italy, Always on the vino, Always on the spree." The soldiers describe their allegedly safe and luxurious life: "Salerno, a holiday with pay," etc. They point out the nonsense of Lady Astor's remarks

AUTHOR: Hamish Henderson?

EARLIEST DATE:

KEYWORDS: war battle death

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
July 10, 1943 - British and American troops attack Sicily (Messina falls on August 17, but the Germans have evacuated)
Sept 9, 1943 - Allies invade the Italian mainland
June 4/5, 1944 - Allies enter Rome
June 6, 1944 - D-Day. Invasion of Normandy begins

FOUNDED IN:
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead, p. 110, "D-Day Dodgers" (1 text, tune referenced)
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 358-359, "D-Day Dodgers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 282, "The D-Day Dodgers" (1 text)
DT, DDAY*
Roud #10499

RECORDINGS:
Pete Seeger, "The D-Day Dodgers" (on PeteSeeger39)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Lili Marlene" (tune, plus cross-references to songs of the Italian campaign)
cf. "O'er the Hills of Sicily" (subject: the Italian campaign)

NOTES [1937 words]: Lady Astor, an American-born member of the British parliament, was reported to have criticised the Allied armies in Italy as "D-Day Dodgers." In fact they were some of the hardest-suffering troops of the war; they fought well-entrenched Germans and never received enough equipment or reinforcements. The troops in Normandy were, comparatively, lucky; casualties were lighter and conditions were better.

As Stokesbury, p. 299, says, "Italy became the theater of fighting that most resembled the horrible static trench warfare of World War I. Few soldiers of World War II experienced the kind of deadening, soul-destroying fighting that had characterized the earlier war, but most of those who did experience it fought in Italy."
Keegan, p. 254, says, "The bloodiness of the Italian fighting was felt all the harder by the Allied Mediterranean force because, by a chance of assignments, so many of its divisions were drawn from narrowly localised recruiting areas. The US 36th and 45th Divisions were respectively Texas and mountain states formations of the National Guard, while the British 56th and 46th Divisions came from London and the North Midlands. The two Indian divisions, 4th and 8th, were raised from the 'martial race' minority of the Raj, while the 1st Canadian was formed of volunteers from a dominion which, after the tragedy of a failed raid on Dieppe in August 1942, harboured ill-concealed suspicions about the freedom with which British generals shed its soldiers' blood. Three other groups of soldiers under [theater commander Harold] Alexander's command, the 2nd New Zealand Division and the French Moroccan and Polish II Corps, were renowned for their hardihood.... However, in the prevailing circumstances, all three lacked any easy means to make good the losses they suffered at the front." So not only were the costs high, but the soldiers lost even more of their close comrades and squad-mates than in most of the other campaigns of the war.

This song is how the troops answered Lady Astor.
When the Allies had finished their conquest of Sicily (for which see "Banks of Sicily (The 51st Highland Division's Farewell to Sicily)"), there was the question of what to do next. The Sicily victory had been relatively easy (Botjer, p. 25), which if anything made the choices harder. They could go for Italy. They could go for Corsica or Sardinia. Or they could save troops for the invasion of France, which was of course the ultimate objective. But even if they put all their energies into France, they couldn't hope to invade before early 1944. So they would be out of contact with the Axis in the west for at least six or seven months, letting Germany throw everything it had into stopping Russia.

So the Allies made a last-minute decision to move on from Sicily into Italy. The fall of Sicily had caused the overthrow of Benito Mussolini, but for the time being, the Italians were still in the war -- at least nominally.

Salerno was one of the many instances of the Allies having a good idea and executing it miserably. The larger part of the Italian invasion force went across the straits of Messina to the very "toe" of Italy, but the Allied plan was to land additional troops closer to Rome so that they could cut off German troops in the south and reach the capital more easily. They would have liked to pick Naples, since they needed a good port, but Naples was too far away for their fighters to control the air. So they picked Salerno, which was about as far north as they could go and still retain air control. Parts of two corps, under the rather vain American general Mark Clark, landed on September 9, 1943 -- only to find the 16th Panzer right on the scene. (The 16th Panzer that had been rebuilt after Stalingrad, so it was pretty green, but the Americans were green, too; Botjer, p. 52, and the 16th Panzer was one of the few German units up to strength; Atkinson, p. 203.) The invaders were caught by a rapid German counterattack and stuck in their tiny beachhead. Clark -- who had committed his thin reserves far too early (Atkinson, p. 214) -- thought he would have to pull out, but the Allies managed to send in enough additional forces that he could survive until British forces came up from the south to break the German siege. (It helped that Hitler had withheld two divisions that German General Kesselring had wanted.) But the Allies were no nearer to Naples than when the affair started; Salerno surely more costly than it was worth (Wheal/Pope, pp. 415-416).

As witness the fact that the Allies lost 8659 killed and injured and several thousand prisoners, plus damage to several ships; the Germans suffered total losses of 4102 (Botjer, p. 59). The mess was so bad that the general in control of the American sector on the ground, Ernest J. Dawley, was not only relieved but demoted to colonel, although the judgment of history is that the fault is mostly Clark's, not Dawley's (Botjer, pp. 57-58; members of a Texas division that suffered badly actually tried, but failed, to get court-martialed to clear their records; Botjer, pp 71-72. Atkinson, p. 212, points out that General Clark was actually junior to Dawley in permanent rank, and younger as well; Clark had done all he could to sideline Dawley (who wasn't even supposed to go ashore in the first phase of the landing) -- then blamed the junior officer for his own and other officers' decisions). Dawley was apparently almost happy to be out of there, even though it cost him his ranking; he said later, "I can't work with Clark. He made decisions off the top of his head" (Atkinson, p. 235). And they were bad decisions; some subordinates, sick of his autocratic ways, apparently christened him "Marcus Aureliius Clarkus" (Atkinson, p. 237), because he was a tyrant trying to control Rome.

Although the Germans did not push the invaders into the sea, they were successful enough that the German high command made the decision to hold Italy rather than retreating to the Alps (Botjer, pp. 60-61), turning the Italian campaign into a long-drawn-out struggle. And the Germans continued to be far better planners than the Allies -- the Anglo-Americans didn't even realize that winters in Italy were cold and that the men would need to be equipped for that, and would have to deal with the almost un-navigable Italian mud (Atkinson, pp. 252-253).

There seem to have been a few in the Allied high command who thought Italy really was a picnic; at Christmas 1943, along with useful supplies for the holidays, the troops received such things as ping-pong balls, tennis nets, and masquerade costumes (Atkinson, p. 312). Needless to say, they went unused.

The next Allied attempt at using an amphibious assault as a shortcut, at Anzio, also produced tremendous casualties and relatively poor results (Botjer, p. 72ff). The soldiers in Italy suffered terribly: "Men cycled out for rest in Naples after only ten or twelve days of living in ditches and tramping through brambles and thorn bushes on the mountainsides, much of the time soaked through from the chilly rain, were a sight to behold as they waited for trucks to bring them back to civilization. Their uniforms were tattered and filthy; often even their boots were torn. Behind several days' growth of beard were green-yellow complexions, decidedly unhealthy even by the standards of Patton. Bloodshot, bleary eyes showed their lack of sleep. Many shivered incessantly, for the damp cold had penetrated to their inner depths. Few could stand or sit still, unless they were very sick with heavy colds or pneumonia. These were men who had been pushed to the limit" (Botjer, p. 82).

As an example, the American third division, in the two months after it came to Italy, suffered 8600 casualties. The infantry portions of the division lost 70% of their men (Atkinson, p. 261). Apart from the sheer human tragedy, a unit hit that hard simply wasn't going to function well in any area. Plus, by November 1943, men were suffering thousands of cases of "cold ground trauma" and trench foot (Atkinson, p. 265). The term "Post-traumatic stress disorder" hadn't been coined yet (it wouldn't become an official diagnosis until the 1980s), but psychiatric casualties were very high after months spent in continuous combat, and there was no real way to treat them (Atkinson, pp. 506-509).

And with almost all available men and equipment being devoted to the Normandy invasion, there was little the local generals could do to speed up the campaign or improve the men's lot (Botjer, p. 103). It wasn't until June 4/5 that Rome finally fell to the allies. That the city was relatively undamaged was only because of an informal agreement between the Allies and the German commander Albert Kesselring not to demolish it (Botjer, pp. 107-108). The men even often found themselves using mules for transport, because motor transport couldn't move in the Italian mountains (Botjer, p. 122).

Even General Lukas, who replaced Dawley, recorded, I wish so many things were not done on a shoestring. This campaign was poorly planned in many respects. We should have at least twice as many troops" (Atkinson, p. 265).

The Italian campaign didn't finally end until the spring of 1945, even as the Russians were pounding Berlin; the last German troops were forced into retreat, and Mussolini was captured by partisans as he tried to flee to Switzerland and was killed without trial (Botjer, pp. 192-194). The Germans actually held on better in Italy than anywhere else -- on a tactical level, they exceeded what they hoped for in the Italian campaign. Botjer, p. 196, concludes, "Neither side lost in Italy [except, of course, all the bombed, brutalized, kidnapped, starving civilians]. But that only highlights the real tragedy of the Italian campaign. Nobody lost because, from a military standpoint, it wasn't all that important. It really didn't have to happen."

And the soldiers suffered for a long time. Think of it this way: The distance from Normandy to the Elbe is almost exactly the same as the distance from the toe of Italy to the plains of Milan. The soldiers in Normandy covered that distance in eleven months. For the soldiers in Italy, it took twenty. According to Atkinson, p. 581, Allied casualties in the Italian campaign totaled 302,000. American casualties were about 120,000 (23,501 killed), or about one man in six -- which doesn't sound horrible, but that's one in six Americans in the theatre, not one in six men in the fighting units! The casualties were less than half those in the Normandy-to-Berlin campaign, but the forces involved were much smaller; as a percentage, American losses in Italy were far worse.

And the Italian campaign seemed to promote atrocities. The Allies brought gas, which got loose; they bombed civilian sites such as the Monte Cassino monastery; there were many rapes. It was an ugly, ugly part of the war, and the Americans had perhaps the dirtiest hands of all.

Some have argued that the Italian campaign caused D-Day to be delayed (though I can't imagine it being scheduled before May 1944, so if there was a delay, it wasn't much). So the "D-Day Dodgers" in fact spend some nine more months in combat than those who went to Normandy. Better, then, to speak of the troops in Normandy as the "Italy Avoiders," or some such.

The Folksinger's Wordbook credits this to Hamish Henderson, which is possible, as he wrote other "anonymous" songs of World War II. But I know of no actual proof, and many authors treat the song as anonymous. Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead implies he got it from Canadian troops, which at least implies oral tradition. - RBW

Bibliography

- Botjer: George F. Botjer, Sideshow War: The Italian Campaign 1943-1945, Texas A & M University Press, 1996

Last updated in version 5.3
File: SBoA358
D'où Viens-Tu, Bergere?

DESCRIPTION: French: "'Where did you come from, shepherd girl?' 'I came from the stable... I saw a little child... Fairer than the moon... There his mother Mary did her babe enfold... Ox and ass before him... Then came three bright angels.'"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1865

KEYWORDS: Christmas Jesus religious foreignlanguage

FOUND IN: Canada(Que) US(MW)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Berry-FolkSongsOfOldVincennes, p. 14, "D'où viens-tu, bergere? (Whence, O, Shepherd Maiden?)" (1 text + translation, 1 tune)
- Fowke/Johnston-FolkSongsOfCanada, pp. 126-127, "D'où Viens-Tu, Bergere" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 42, "D'où Viens-Tu, Bergere?" (1 English and 1 French text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: Edith Fowke and Richard Johnston, _Folk Songs of Quebec (Chansons de Quebec)_., Waterloo Music Company, 1957, pp. 92-93, "D'où Viens-Tu, Bergere? (Whence Come You, Shepherd Maiden?)" (1 French text plus English translation, 1 tune)

NOTES [44 words]: This is one of those Christmas songs built mostly around legends. There was no evidence that Bethlehem was cold at the time Jesus was born (for that matter, there is no evidence that it was in December), nor even that there were animals in his immediate vicinity. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: FJ126

D'r Guckgu (The Cuckoo)

DESCRIPTION: German. "Dr Guckgu i ein braver Mann, D'r vazzeh Weiwer annehre kann. Guckgu, Guckerdiagu." The cuckoo is an able man Who maintains 14 wives." "The first wife carries wood into the house, the second builds a fire with it," and so forth through all 14.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)

KEYWORDS: bird husband work drink home

FOUND IN: US(MA) Germany

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 100-101, "D'r Guckgu (The Cuckoo)" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: KPL100

D'ye Ken John Peel?

DESCRIPTION: "Do ye ken John Peel with his coat so gray? Do ye ken John Peel at the break of day?" The singer talks of Peel's frequent hunting expeditions, detailing even his hounds. The singer will "follow John Peel through fair and through foul"

AUTHOR: Words: John Woodcock Graves / Music: Traditional

EARLIEST DATE: 1900 (Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland)

KEYWORDS: hunting dog

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North,South)) US(MW)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
- Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 108-109, "D'ye Ken John Peel?" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 56, "John Peel" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 118)
- Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 11, p. 21, "John Peel" (1 fragment)
- Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 92, "John Peel" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 208, "John Peel" (1 text)
- DT, JOHNPEEL*

ADDITIONAL: Walter de la Mare, _Come Hither_, revised edition, 1928; #143, "John Peel" (1 text)

Roud #1239

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Horn of the Hunter" (subject)
NOTES [425 words]: Written by John Woodcock Graves to celebrate his friend John Peel. The tune is said to be "Bonnie Annie" or "The Border Rant," and to have been set by William Metcalfe in 1868 (Rollinson, p. 51).

John Peel is not to be confused with the prime minister Sir Robert Peel (who created the "Peelers"). Born in 1776, John Peel lived until 1854, and "for over 40 years ran the famous pack of hounds that bore his name," Nettel, p. 149, "John Peel was a real character, riding in his grey coat after a mongrel pack to the neglect, apparently, of his farming; he was not therefore representative of the pink-coated, well-mounted huntsmen which have distinguished the hunting-field since the eighteenth century, but he was a man with the primitive urge to hunt strongly within him."

Indeed, he was so obsessive a hunter that, on the day his son Peter died, he spent the day out hunting to collect a foxtail to bury with his son (Rollinson, p. 120).

According to Stokoe, Graves (1795-1886) wrote the song while in the company of Peel. This would date the song before 1833, in which year Graves emigrated to Tasmania.

Incidentally, his move to Tasmania give him a link, of sorts, to another Great Folklore Saga, that of Sir John Franklin and the Northwest Passage. Before leading his famous lost expedition, Sir John was governor of Van Diemen's Land/Tasmania for more than half a decade. While there, his wife Jane briefly took over the education of an aboriginal child whom she called "Mathinna." Lady Jane -- who was anything but a people person -- seems to have been disappointed by the results and dumped Mathinna in the aboriginal refugee camp. What little we know of Mathinna after that (she died young) came from an article published by "Old Boomer" in 1869. It is believed that "Old Boomer" was Graves (Alexander, pp. 130-137).

Rollinson, p. 50, says that Graves predicted that this piece would become famous, telling Peel, "you'll be sung when we're both run to earth." Rollinson, pp. 50-51, also claims that this was originally written in dialect:

Did ye ken John Peel wid his cwote sae grey?
Did ye ken John Peel at the breck o' day?
Did ye ken John Peel gayin' far, far away --
Wie his hoons and his horn in a mwornin'? - RBW

Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames claims his is "perhaps the original of 'D'ye ken John Peel."

The texts are similar and the tune is probably the same. The first line is "D'ye mind John Peel in the days gone by" and the last line of the chorus and each verse is a variation on "the blast of his horn in the morning." - BS

Bibliography

• Nettel: Reginald Nettel, Seven Centuries of Popular Song, Phoenix House, 1956

Last updated in version 4.3
File: FSWB208

Da Bhfaghainn Mo Rogha Dhe Thriur Acu

DESCRIPTION: Gaelic. "A woman asks jocosely which suitor she should marry, a tailor, [a blacksmith, or a fisherman], and gives reasons why each in turn would be unsuitable."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage marriage work
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 44, "Da Bhfaghainn Mo Rogha Dhe Thriur Acu" (2 texts)
NOTES [17 words]: The description follows the "English Summary" provided by OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin. - BS

Last updated in version 3.2
File: OCC044
Da Mbeadh Mac an Mhaoir Agam
DESCRIPTION: Gaelic. The singer wishes he had the shepherd's pet snowy lamb. He wishes he had a herd of cows "and Mollie from her mother." Chorus: he wishes he had his girl, her mother's pet.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage marriage work animal
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 46, "Da Mbeadh Mac an Mhaoir Agam" (2 texts)
NOTES [77 words]: The description is a summary of the translation at George Sigerson, Bards of the Gael and Gall (London: T Fisher-Unwin, 1897), pp. 337-338, "The Shepherd's Pet." OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin, which has no English summary for this song: "Sigerson's English text is eclectic"; on the other hand it is not far from the translation under the title "Peata Beag" at http://www.celticlyricscorner.net/dervish/peata.htm on the Celtic Lyrics Corner site.
- BS
Last updated in version 3.2
File: OCC046

Da's All Right, Baby
DESCRIPTION: Patting chant. "Da's all righ', honey (x2), Way up yonder, darlin', 'Bove the sun, sugar, Girls all call me honey." Odds and ends about courting. The singer warns that yonder girl will "git you too." He is going away someday
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934
KEYWORDS: love courting nonballad betrayal
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 239-240, "Da's All Right, Baby" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #15037
File: LxA239

Daar Was Eens Een Meisje Loos
DESCRIPTION: Dutch. Ballast-stowing shanty. "Daar was eens een meisje loos, Hoera, my boy (x2)." A girl goes to see for seven years. She makes a mistake and is to be punished when she says she is the captain's love. She bears a child and says he will marry her
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1977 (Hugill-SongsOfTheSea)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage shanty sailor cross-dressing pregnancy children
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, pp. 88-89, "Daar Was Eens Een Meisje Loos" (2 texts, Dutch and English, 1 tune)
File: HSoSe088

Dadd driwwwe (Over There)
DESCRIPTION: German. "Dadd driwwwe, sagt'r, Uff em Barrick, sagt'r, Schteht en Hasch, sagt'r." "Over there, he says, On the hill... is a house... it's scandalous" because it lacks one wall. Also on the hill is a hunter with no powder and other scandalous things
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage home hunting horse clothes music
FOUND IN: US(MA) Germany
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 104-107, "Dadd driwwwe (Over There)" (1 German text
Daddy Shot a Bear

DESCRIPTION: "Daddy shot a bear, Daddy shot a bear, Shot him (in the stern/through the keyhole) And never touched a hair."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (collected from Annie Brewer)

KEYWORDS: animal death humorous lullaby

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, p. 95, "Daddy Shot a Bear" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #15607

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Old Moke Pickin' on the Banjo (Song of the Pinewoods)" (lyrics)
NOTES [41 words]: Every word of this is found in "Old Moke Pickin' on the Banjo (Song of the Pinewoods)" -- but since that has a plot (at least sometimes), and this is listed by the Lomaxes as a lullaby, I decided, very tentatively, to follow Roud and split them. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

File: LoSi095B

---

Daddy Wouldn't Buy Me a Bow-Wow

DESCRIPTION: The child regularly brings her cat to school because, she explains, "Daddy wouldn't buy me a bow-wow." She intends to do as she "likes" when she gets old, and have a parrot and children.

AUTHOR: Joseph Tabrar

EARLIEST DATE: 1927

KEYWORDS: animal dog children

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, pp. 258-259, "Daddy Wouldn't Buy Me a Bow-Wow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #13973

NOTES [23 words]: It's songs like this that make me wish we had a keyword "stupid." But the piece proved much more popular than it deserved, so here it is. - RBW

File: SwM258

---

Daemon Lover, The (The House Carpenter) [Child 243]

DESCRIPTION: A girl who once loved a sailor is greeted by her lost lover (now rich and powerful). He bids her come with him; she points out that she is married and has a child. He convinces her to come with him. Their ship sinks not far from land

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1737 (a broadside version is thought to be from 1685)

KEYWORDS: courting infidelity abandonment Devil death

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber),England(South)) US(All) Canada(Mar,Newf) Ireland

REFERENCES (85 citations):
Child 243, "James Harris (The Daemon Lover)" (8 texts)
Bronson 243, "James Harris (The Daemon Lover)" (146 versions+1 in addenda)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 243, "The Daemon Lover (The House Carpenter)" (9 versions: #9, #53, #75, #78, #82, #88, #98, #111, #129)
Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbuchatBallads, pp. 130-132, "Lady Jane" (1 text)
Greig/FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #162, pp. 2-3, "James Harris" (1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan2 332, "James Harris" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #134}
Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 19, "The Carpenter's Wife" (1 text) {Bronson's #143}
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 310-313, "The House Carpenter" (1 text plus a fragment and a broadside version, 1 tune) {Bronson's #53}
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 56-58, "The House Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #102}
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 31-32, "The House Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #13, "The House Carpenter" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #96}
Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 21, "James Harris" (9 texts, 2 tunes) {Bronson's #93, #127}
Carey-MarylandFolkLegendsAndFolkSongs, pp. 103-104, "The House Carpenter" (1 text)
Peacock, pp. 740-741, "The Young Ship's Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 598-606, "James Harris (The Daemon Lover)" (4 texts)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 28, "The Daemon Lover" (1 text)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 13, "James Harris (The Demon Lover; The House Carpenter)" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Wyman/Brockway-LonesomeSongs-KentuckyMountains-Vol2, p. 54, "The Daemon Lover" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #91}
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 84-85, "The Little Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
{compare Bronson's #44, from a recording, showing a slightly different tune but almost the same text except that it is a "House Carpenter" rather than a "Little Carpenter"}
Bush-FSoCentralWestVirginiaVol1, pp. 77-79, "House Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 74, "The Ship's Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 45, "The Ship Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 65, "James Harris (The Demon Lover)" (1 text)
Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 55, "James Harris (The Daemon Lover)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 35, "The Daemon Lover" (10 texts plus 12 fragments, 22 tunes){Bronson's #2, #10, #54, #77, #113, #135, #23, #7, #29, #14, #109a, #50, #9, #65, #36, #21, #48, #80, #74, #81, #136}; Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 25, "The House Carpenter (The Daemon Lover)" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #9}
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 66-67, "The House Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #118}
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 88, "The House Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 75, "James Harris (The Demon Lover)" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 25, "James Harris (The Daemon Lover)" (5 texts plus mention of 16 others, 1 tune) {Bronson's #120}
Cox/Hercog/Halpert/Boswell-WVirginia-A, #12A-D, pp. 48-56, "The House Carpenter," "The House Carpenter's Wife" (4 texts, 3 tunes) {Bronson's #32, #83, #130}
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 80-81, "The House Carpenter's Wife" (1 text, 1 tune)
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, pp. 9-10, "The House Carpenter's Wife" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 81, "The House Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Whiting-TraditionalBritishBallads 34, "The Daemon Lover" (1 text)
Gilbert-LostChords, pp. 35-36, "The House Carpenter and the Ship Carpenter" (1 text)
Abrahams/Foss-AngloAmericanFolksongStyle, pp. 25-27, "The House Carpenter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, pp. 17, 43-45, "The House Carpenter" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 112-113, "The Demon-Lover"; pp. 222-224, "James Herries" (2 texts)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #908, p. 61, "The House Carpenter" (1 reference)
Ashton-RealSailorSongs, #74 insert, "The Distressed Ship Carpenter" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSonster, pp. 34-36, "The House Carpenter" (1 text)
Morgan-MedievalBallads-ChivalryRomanceAndEverydayLife, pp. 10-13, "The Demon Lover" (1 text)
Silber-Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 218, "The House Carpenter's Wife" (1 text)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN2466, "There dwelt a fair Maid in the West"
DT 243, HOUSCARP* HOUSCRP2* HOUSCRP3*
ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), p. 208, "The House Carpenter" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: James P. Leary, Compiler and Annotator, _Wisconsin Folklore_ University of Wisconsin Press, 2009, article "Kentucky Folksong in Northern Wisconsin" by Asher E. Treat, pp. 244-245, "Well Met, Well Met, My Old True Love" (1 text, 1 tune, sung by Mrs. M. G. Jabobs) {Bronson's #88}

Roud #14

RECORDINGS:
Clarence Ashley, "The House Carpenter" (Columbia 15654-D, 1931; rec. Apr 14, 1930; on AAFM1, BefBlues3, Ashley04) {Bronson's #70}
Clarence Ashley & Tex Isley, "The House Carpenter" (on Ashley01)
Pearl Jacobs Borusky, "Well Met, My Old True Love" (AFS, 1940; on LC58) {Bronson's #103}
Frank Browne, "Banks of the Sweet Viledoe" (on IREarlyBallads)
Sheila Clark, "House Carpenter" (on LegendTomDula)
Carolina Tar Heels, "Can't You Remember When Your Heart Was Mine?" (Victor V-40219, 1930)
Dillard Chandler, "Little Farmer Boy" (on Chandler01, DarkHoll)
Mrs. Mary Ann Galpin, "The Young Ship's Carpenter" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
Rebecca King Jones, "The House Carpenter" [excerpt] (on USWarnerColl01)
Bradley Kincaid, "The House Carpenter" (Bluebird 5255/Sunrise 3338, 1933)
A. L. Lloyd, "The Demon Lover" (on Lloyd3, ESFB1, ESFB2)
Almeda Riddle, "The House Carpenter" (on LomaxCD1706) {Bronson's #71}
Jean Ritchie, "The House Carpenter" (on JRitchie01)
Jean Ritchie & Doc Watson, "The House Carpenter" (on RitchieWatson1, RitchieWatsonCD1)
Hobart Smith & Texas Gladden, "The House Carpenter" (Disc 6079, 1940s; on USTGladden01) {Bronson's #47}
Lillie Steele, "The House Carpenter" (on PSteele01) {Bronson's #24}
Doug Wallin, "The House Carpenter" (on Wallins1)
Doug & Berzilla Wallin, "The House Carpenter" (on FarMtns3)
Clay Walters, "The Ship Carpenter" (AFS, 1937; on LC58) {Bronson's #13 or #78}
Annie Watson & Gaither Carlton, "The House Carpenter" (on Watson01)

BROADSIDES:
LOCSinging, sb40538b, "The House Carpenter," H. De Marsan (New York), 1864-1878; also as105530, "The House Carpenter"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Bateman's Tragedy (Young Baithman)" (theme)

NOTES [344 words]: Although Child calls this "The Daemon Lover," a survey of the 163 versions printed or cited in Bronson shows that 99 are named "The House Carpenter" or minor variants, and several others were probably retitled by the editors. This probably ought to be the family name -- but I adopted the one I did as a partial link to Child.

David Atkinson's essay "The Popular Ballad and the Book Trade: 'Bateman's Tragedy' versus 'The Demon Lover,'" chapter 10 of David Atkinson and Steve Roud, Editors, Street Ballads in Nineteenth-Century Britain, Ireland, and North America: The Interface between Print and Oral Tradition, Ashgate, 2014, p. 206, discusses this song and suggests that the earliest version can be dated to 1657, when a piece entitled "A warning for marries women, by the example of Mrs Jane Renalls, a west countrey woman, &c," was entered into the Stationer's Register. For this item, see Hyder E. Rollins, An Analytical Index to the Ballad-Entries (1557-1709) In the Register of the Company of Stationers of London, 1924 (I use the 1967 Tradition Press reprint with a new Foreword by Leslie Shepard), p. 247, #2868, "A warning for marris women, by the example of Mrs Jane Renalls, a west countrey woman, &c, registered February 17, 1657 by Francis Grove. Rollins does not connect this with 'The House Carpenter,' but according to Atkinson, broadsides of this period show the Renalls (Renals, Reynolds) piece to be "The House Carpenter." One of these early broadsides credits the piece to "L.P." Dave Harker suggests that "L.P." was Laurence Price, an author of the period. Possible, of course, but not proof -- indeed, "L.P." might just stand for "Licensed to print" or the like. - RBW

From the liner notes for Franke Browne's recording: "Apparently not recorded elsewhere in Ireland, but common in America, where Frank was born and lived to an early age."

Broadside LOCSinging sb40538b: H. De Marsan dating per Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at FindArticles site. - BS

Last updated in version 6.1

File: C243
Daffy-Down-Dilly
DESCRIPTION: Probably describing a daffodil: "Daffy-down-dilly is new come to town, With a yellow petticoat and a green gown."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1805 (Songs for the Nursery, according to Dolby-OrangesAndLemons)
KEYWORDS: flowers nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 125, "Daffy-Down-Dilly" (1 text )
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #342, p. 183, "(Daffy-down-dilly is new come to town)"
Dolby-OrangesAndLemons, p. 64, "Daffy-Down-Dilly" (1 text)

Dainty Davie
DESCRIPTION: "Being pursued by the dragoons," Davie is hidden in the bed of the daughter of Cherrytrees. He makes such efficient use of the time that the girl ends up pregnant; they eventually marry. She is happy with her Dainty Davie
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1776? (Herd MS.); c. 1800 (Merry Muses of Caledonia)
KEYWORDS: sex escape marriage bawdy
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
DT, DNTDAVE2
Roud #2387
NOTES [140 words]: The variations among the versions of this song are extreme -- and not just because Burns rewrote it; the versions from "The Merry Muses" and Buchan's "Secret Songs of Silence" have hardly a word in common except for parts of the chorus. It seems likely that Burns was not the only one to rewrite it. Nonetheless there seems to be agreement that the song is about one Reverend David Williamson (died 1706?), who was accused of preaching rebellion against Charles II (reigned 1660-1685).
Supposedly Williamson was hidden by a wife who dressed him as a woman and put him in bed with her daughter, who was about 18. The girl went along; the mother was less happy, but allowed them to marry to avoid scandal.
Whether any of this has been verified by historians I do not know. Mostly we find folklorists repeating the tales of other folklorists. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.5
File: DTdntda2

Dainty Doonby, The
DESCRIPTION: "A lassie was milkin' her father's kye When a gentleman on horseback he cam' riding by... He was the laird o' the Dainty Doonby." The laird seduces then abandons the girl. Months later, he comes to ask of her health. She is pregnant; he marries her
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1776 (Herd)
KEYWORDS: courting seduction sex pregnancy nobility abandonment reunion marriage
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord))
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Greig/Duncan7 1488, "The Dainty Downby" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #39, pp. 182-183, "The Laird o' the Denty Dounby" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 121, "The Laird of Daintie Bye" (1 text)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 179, "The Lady o' the Dainty Doon-by" (1 text, 1 tune)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 21, "The Laird of the Denty Doon Bye"
Daisy Deane
DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls meeting Daisy Deane in a flowery meadow where the birds sang. He recalls that she outshone the flowers. But now both are faded; Daisy is dead.
AUTHOR: Lt. T. F. Winthrop & James R. Murray
EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (sheet music published by Root & Cady, Chicago)
KEYWORDS: death courting flowers
FOUND IN: US(MW,SE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 36, "Daisy Dean" (1 text)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol2, pp. 162-165, "Daisy Deane" (2 texts, one the original print version and the other a field collection; 2 tunes)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #418, p. 28, "Daisy Deane" (1 reference)
ST MN2162 (Partial)
Roud #4269
RECORDINGS:
Grandpa Jones, "Daisy Dean" (King 834, 1949)
NOTES [86 words]: There is a "Daisy Deane Songster" dated 1869, presumably named after the heroine of his song. This would seem to imply a high degree of popularity for the song, at least for a time. George F. Root, who knew James R. Murray and whose company published the song, reported it as "one of the marked successes of the day." Murray was a Union soldier when he wrote it; Root & Cady hired him as an editor after the Civil War (George F. Root, The Story of a Musical Life, 1891; I use the 1970(?) Da Capo reprint, p. 142). - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: MN2162

Dakota Land
DESCRIPTION: "We've reached the land of desert sweet Where nothing grows for man to eat." "O Dakota land, sweet Dakota land, As on thy fiery soil I stand, I look across the plains And wonder why it never rains." Settlers stay only because "we are too poor to get away"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (a "Nebraska Land" version in The Farmer and Labor Songster, according to Cohen)
KEYWORDS: pioneer hardtimes parody
FOUND IN: US(Ro)
REFERENCES (10 citations):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 280-281, "Dakota Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 23, "Dakota Land" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 9, "Dakota Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 86, p. 185, "Dakota Land" (1 text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 477-478, "Dakota Land" (1 text); p. 623, "Quincyland, My Quincyland" (1 text, a rewrite but still too close to "Dakota Land to bother splitting); pp. 491-492, "Nebraska Land" (1 text, patently the same as "Dakota Land" except for a change in the name of the state)
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, pp. 143-144, "Kansas Land" (1 text, which could either be a "Dakota Land" version rewritten for Kansas or a "Kansas Land" version with the references to the government removed)
Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 48-49, "Nebraska Land" (1 text)
Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 155, "Dakotaland" (1 text, tune referenced); pp. 248-249, "Sweet Dakotaland" (1 text, 1 tune, perhaps a parody of this parody!)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 119, "Dakota Land" (1 text)
DT, DAKOTLAND* SWTDAKOT
Roud #4899
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Beulah Land" (tune)
cf. "Prairie Land" (tune, theme, lyrics)
cf. "Saskatchewan" (tune, theme)
cf. "Webfoot Land" (tune, theme)
NOTES [137 words]: Although the "Dakota Land" form seems to be the most common in tradition, local versions have sprouted for much of the West. Thus the Fifes lists texts for "Dakota Land," "Nebraska Land," and "Missouri Land." "Saskatchewan" also follows this form, but it has been adapted enough that I think it qualifies as a separate song. - RBW
The Pankakes report this to the tune of "O Tannenbaum." Based on the sheet music I've seen, this is common but not universal.
Rose Wilder Lane (daughter of Almanzo and Laura Ingalls Wilder) quotes a stanza of this on p. 6 of Laura Ingalls Wilder, _On the Way Home: The Diary of a Trip from South Dakota to Mansfield, Missouri, in 1894_, Harper & Row, 1962; she claims her mother and her aunt Grace sang it in the early 1890s -- but of course she was writing almost seventy years later. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.5
File: San280

Dallas Gawn a Cuba (Dallas Has Gone to Cuba)

DESCRIPTION: Jamaican patois: Dallas has gone to Cuba and left Francella. Francella faints and her mother sends for the doctor to restore her with camphor. Johnny stays around.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (Murray-FolkSongsOfJamaica)

KEYWORDS: courting separation travel lover mother

FOUND IN: West Indies(Jamaica)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Murray-FolkSongsOfJamaica, pp. 53-54, "Dallas Gawn" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
_Edric Connor with the Caribbeans and Earl Inkman, "Dallas Gawn" (on WIEConnor01)

NOTES [24 words]: Dexter and Taylor: "Francella's distress over the departure of her lover Dallas to Cuba will not be for long as Johnny is planning to woo her." - BS

Last updated in version 3.7

File: JaMu053

Dalmuir Ploughing Match

DESCRIPTION: Will Aikenhead competes in a ploughing match "in the West Barns of Clyde" and is declared winner after a dispute about timing. The dispute continues after the decision. The old and young class winners are named.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1858 (_Dalmuir Ploughing Match_ broadside from Poet's Box, Glasgow, according to Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: contest farming
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #65, p. 1, "The Dalmuir Ploughing Match" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 427, "Dalmuir Ploughing Match" (1 text)
Roud #5944
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Vilikens and his Dinah (William and Dinah)" [Laws M31A/B] (tune, per broadside cited by Greig/Duncan3)
File: GrD3427

Dalry

DESCRIPTION: "Noo, I'm a saft country chiel and my name's Geordie Weir, I suppose you'll a' wonder what I'm doin' here." Visiting Glasgow, he is robbed by a girl. If he can only get home, he will never return to Glasgow. He tells of the trouble he suffered while broke
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 2006 (Stewart/Belle-Stewart-QueenAmangTheHeather)
KEYWORDS: travel drink courting hardtimes
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Stewart/Belle-Stewart-QueenAmangTheHeather, pp. 81-82, "Dalry" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5205
File: StQue081

Dam on Baldwin Creek, The [Laws C21]

DESCRIPTION: Sawmill boss Bill Reed has set up a cofferdam which fails; the sawmill is saved by sandbags placed by Old George Shane. Reed tries to restart the mill too soon; his errors cause him to be replaced by Old George
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)
KEYWORDS: logger flood boss lumbering
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Laws C21, "The Dam on Baldwin Creek"
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 30, "The Dam on Baldwin Creek" (1 text)
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 34, "The Dam on Baldwin Creek" (1 text)
DT 838, BALDCRK
Roud #1927
NOTES [34 words]: Beck notes that some versions of this song include a few obscenities. Not [his text], though. - PJS
One can only wish one knew the sources of Beck's information, as his is the only version known to Laws. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.2
File: LC21

Damage Control Song

DESCRIPTION: "Firemains are red, my love, Fresh water's blue, Salt water's green, my love, But not as green as you. As green as you."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)
KEYWORDS: colors sailor
FOUND IN: Britain
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dame Bruin

DESCRIPTION: "One night as Dame Bruin she went to her bed, She had scarce retired to her pillow, When the masculine voice she heart close to her head Of Satan..." who has come to take her away. She asks for more time, then asks what she will do in Hell

AUTHOR: Larry Gorman (1846-1917)
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Ives-LarryGorman)
KEYWORDS: death Devil Hell

Dame Durden

DESCRIPTION: "Dame Durden kept five servant maids To carry the milking pail, She also kept five lab'ring men To use the spade and flail." The sundry workers are listed, as well as their (amorous) adventures on Valentine's Day

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1845 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(2724)) (tune and song name in use in America by 1834)
KEYWORDS: courting love work servant

NOTES [27 words]: At least one of the women in this song has had a life outside Dame Durden's employ; for Dorothy Draggletail, see the notes to "Arthur O'Bradley's Wedding (III)." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
Dame, Get Up and Bake Your Pies (Christmas Day in the Morning)

DESCRIPTION: "Dame, get up and bake your pies, Bake your pies, bake your pies, Dame, get up... On Christmas day in the morning." "Dame, what makes your maidens lie?" "Dame, what makes your ducks to die?" "Their wings are cut, they cannot fly."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1778 (Gentleman's Magazine, according to Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes)
KEYWORDS: cook food Christmas bird
FOUND IN: Britain(England)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
  Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #420, pp. 195-196, "(Dame, get up and bake your pies)"
  Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 126, "Dame, get up and bake your pies" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: [Cuthbert Sharp], _The Bishopric Garland, A Collection of Legends, Songs, Ballads, &c Belonging to the County of Durham_, 1834 (references are to the 1969 reprint), p. 64, "Christmas Day in the Morning" (1 short text)
Roud #497
File: BGMG420

Damn Fine Kids in Harbour

DESCRIPTION: "From the Halls of Montezuma To the shores of Tripoli, There's a buzz going round the harbour That the Yanks are off to sea. With a gallon of Coca Cola And a bloody great tub of ice cream, Oh, they're damn fine kids in harbour, But oh my Christ at sea!"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)
KEYWORDS: sailor derivative
FOUND IN: Britain
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 42, "Damn Fine Kids in Harbour" (1 text, tune referenced)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "Marines' Hymn (From the Halls of Montezuma)" (tune)
File: Tawn025

Damn the Filipinos

DESCRIPTION: "In that land of dopey dreams, happy peaceful Philippines," the singer complains of the hardships suffered by American soldiers and of the lack of social grace of the natives. He calls for "civiliz[ing] them with a Krag" and curses them repeatedly

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Harper's Weekly)
KEYWORDS: war rebellion army curse
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
  1898 - Spanish-American War results in American occupation of the Philippines.
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
  Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 547-548, "Damn the Filipinos" (1 text, 1 tune)
  DT, DAMFILIP*
Roud #15578
NOTES [82 words]: During the Spanish-American War, almost the entire population of the Philippines welcomed the Americans as liberators. The Americans didn't live up to their part of the bargain, though; independence was not granted for half a century. As a result, a strong resistance movement arose under Emilio Aguinaldo (1870-1964). Aguinaldo originally fought against the Spanish (from 1896), then turned against the Americans. He was captured in 1901, but the resistance movement lasted much longer. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: LxA547
Damsel's Tragedy, The
DESCRIPTION: When her son falls in love with a girl she finds unsuitable, his mother first blusters, then murders the girl. The girl's ghost walks to tell her lover. The son accuses his mother, then kills himself. The mother completes the circle by committing suicide
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads)
KEYWORDS: love courting homicide betrayal suicide ghost mother children
FOUND IN: US(NE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 97-98, "The Damsel's Tragedy" (1 text)
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 152-156, "The Damsel's Tragedy" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST FlBr097 (Partial)
Roud #4663
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Beautiful Susan" [Laws M29] (theme)
NOTES [27 words]: Although most of the themes in this song are commonplace, this strikes me as just a little too Antigone-ish to be real. Certainly it didn't become widespread. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.0
File: FlBr097

Dan (Dan, the Sanitary Man)
DESCRIPTION: "Dan, Dan, the sanitary man, Working underground all day, Sweeping out urinals, Picking out the finals, Whiling the happy hours away... Doing his little bit... And the only music that he hears Is poo-poo-poo-poo-poo all day."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang)
KEYWORDS: soldier nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang, p. 65, "Dan" (1 text)
Roud #10542
File: BrPa065C

Dan Curley
DESCRIPTION: May 18, singer hears Dan Curley's wife crying. Curley is being executed for the Phoenix Park murders on the word of the informer, James Carey. She wishes Carey be evicted, his wife be a widow, and his children wander homeless. She will join Curley soon.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1988 (McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen)
KEYWORDS: betrayal homicide curse revenge nonballad wife death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Chronology of the Phoenix Park murders (source: primarily Zimmermann, pp. 62, 63, 281-286.)
May 6, 1882 - Chief Secretary Lord Frederick Cavendish and the Under Secretary Thomas Henry Burke are murdered by a group calling themselves "The Invincible Society."
January 1883 - twenty seven men are arrested.
James Carey, one of the leaders in the murders, turns Queen's evidence.
Six men are condemned to death, four are executed (Joseph Brady is hanged May 14, 1883; Daniel Curley is hanged on May 18, 1883), others are "sentenced to penal servitude," and Carey is freed and goes to South Africa.
July 29, 1883 - Patrick O'Donnell kills Carey on board the "Melrose Castle" sailing from Cape Town to Durban.
Dec 1883 - Patrick O'Donnell is convicted of the murder of James Carey and executed in London (per Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast)
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen 19, "Dan Curley" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dan Curry

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets a woman "dressed in deep mournin' With a babe on her bosom" on the banks of the Effie. She says "Felix Parks murdered my husband, Dan Curry.... May his short life be wrecked and his wife die a widow" She hopes to meet Curry in heaven.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Ives-21FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland)

KEYWORDS: mourning homicide wife husband curse

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 64, "Dan Curry" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ives-21FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 22-24,79, "Dan Curry" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST MaWi064 (Partial)

Roud #9210

NOTES [39 words]: Although the names in this song sound English, and the only known versions seem to be Canadian, it sounds very Irish to me. I checked both current and somewhat older atlases, and found no river Effie. An error for "Liffey," perhaps? - RBW

Last updated in version 3.6

File: MaWi064

Dan Dan

DESCRIPTION: Shanty. "Oh my name is Dan Dan! Ho! Somebody drink me rum. Ho! Somebody wears me clothes, Ho!" Little more than a chant used for hauling, the pull coming on 'Ho!'

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas)

KEYWORDS: shanty worksong

FOUND IN: West Indies

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, p. 440, "Dan Dan" (1 short text, 1 tune) [AbEd, p. 331]
Abrahams-DeepTheWaterShallowTheShore, pp. 86-88, "Dan-Dan-oh" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: Hugi440

Dan McChree

DESCRIPTION: Tailor Dan McChree's mother had him take gruel to her maid, sick in bed with a headache. Dan told her to take it to "mak' your belly warm." "The lassie thocht her mistress Knew better than she" and took the "gruel." "She grew stoot aboot the waist"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan7)

KEYWORDS: seduction medicine pregnancy mother rake servant

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1474, "Dan McChree" (1 text)

Roud #7182

ALTERNATE TITLES:
I'm a Tailor To My Trade

File: GrD71474

Dan Murphy's Convoy

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls what happened at the convoy. He lists the people who showed up. They start a dance, then interrupt it. There is a fine dinner, and much drink. Fights break out; there is much commotion; a fine time is had by all

AUTHOR: unknown
Dan Taylor

DESCRIPTION: "Dan Taylor is a rollicking cuss, A frisky son of a gun, He loves to court the maidens" and used to be a cowboy. Now he runs a business and is looking for a wife. The author expects him to be a good husband and hopes he finds a good wife and friend

AUTHOR: Len Doran? (source: Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)

Dance All Night with a Bottle in Your Hand

DESCRIPTION: "Dance all night with a bottle in (your/my) hand, bottle in your hand, bottle in your hand, Dance all night... (Just for a day, give the fiddler a dram/As we go marching on)." "Old Aunt Petty, won't you fill 'em up again?" "We'll hang Jeff Davis...."

AUTHOR: unknown

Dance at Daniel's Harbour, The

DESCRIPTION: The boys took their boat to the dance at Daniel's Harbour. The fiddler played; "we danced there that night till eleven o'clock And some of the couples went out for a walk." "We'll come back again if the weather prove fine"

AUTHOR: unknown
Dance Josey
DESCRIPTION: "Chicken on the fence post, can't dance Josey (3x) Hello Susan Brown." "Choose your partner come dance Josey ... Chew my gum ... Shoestring's broke ... Hold my mule ... Crank my Ford ... Hair in the butter ... Brier in my heel ... Stumped my tope ...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1976 (Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed)
KEYWORDS: dancing nonballad playparty
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 156-157, "Dance Josey" (1 text, 1 tune)
Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp. 98-99, "Saro Jane" (1 text, 1 tune, which despite the title is closer to this song than anything else)
Roud #735
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Coffee Grows (Four in the Middle)" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [45 words]: Most of the material in Abernethy-SinginTexas's version of this, at least, derives from "Coffee Grows (Four in the Middle)"; it appears to be an expansion of that game. Abernethy-SinginTexas says both are ring games played at a "Josey party." Roud appears to lump them. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.5
File: Ow2E156

Dance Me a Jig
DESCRIPTION: "I'm going up to that freedom land." The slave has fled his master, taking with him a pig and a hog which he has named "Jeff Davis" and "General Lee." The singer's sons are free. She enjoys thinking of his face when he finds that she and the pigs are gone
AUTHOR: Al Wood
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (copyright, according to Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar)
KEYWORDS: slave freedom animal
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 360-362, "Dance Me a Jig" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: SCWF360

Dance to Your Daddy
DESCRIPTION: "Dance to your daddy, my little laddie, Dance to your daddy, my little man. You shall have a fish and you shall have a fin, You shall have a coddlin' when the boat comes in." The child is told that he will grow up, marry, and love the girl his whole life
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2)
KEYWORDS: dancing family father nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North,South),Scotland(Aber,Bord)), Ireland US(Ap)
REFERENCES (13 citations):
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 76-77, "Dance Ti' Thy Daddy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 127, "Dance to Thee Daddy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan8 1562, "Dance to Your Daddy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 187, "Dance to Your Daddy" (1 text)
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 47, "Dance For Your Daddy-O" (5 texts, 1 tune)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 123, "Dance to your daddy" (3 texts)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #563, p. 229, "(Dance to your daddy)"
Montgomerie/Montgomerie-ScottishNurseryRhymes 104, "(Dance to your daddy)" (1 text)
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 83, "Dance to Your Daddy" (1 short text partly rewritten by Jean Ritchie, 1 tune)
Cray-AshGrove, p. 13, "Dance to Your Daddy" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 409, "Dance To Your Daddy" (1 text)
DT, DANCEDAD* DANCDAD2*
ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers, The Popular Rhymes of Scotland (Edinburgh, 1870 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 18, ("Dance to your daddie")
Roud #2439
RECORDINGS:
Elizabeth Cronin, "Dance to Your Daddy" (on Lomax42, LomaxCD1742); "Dance For Your Daddy-O" (on IRECronin01)
Ritchie Family, "Dance To Your Daddy" (on Ritchie03)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Cucanandy" (tune)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Little Fishy
NOTES [218 words]: This appears, from the dialect and the unusually full form found in Stokoe, to have originated in Northumbria in England. But there are a lot of filed-down versions; I'm not entirely sure whether these are traditional or pop-folksingers' attempts to make the song more accessible to urban audiences - RBW
Jean Ritchie notes that she sings this song to her son; she doesn't say it's one she learned from her family, but she hints that she did, so I include, "FOUND IN US(Ap)". However, at this point in her life she'd done folklore research in Britain and may have picked it up there. - PJS
See Tim Coughlan, Now Shoon the Romano Gillie, (Cardiff,2001), #160, p. 413, "Grib to your Naiskel" [Scotto-Romani/Tinklers' Cant fragment from MacColl and Seeger, Till Doomsday in the Afternoon (1986)]. - BS
J. M. Bulloch, in the lecture "The Delight of the Doric in the Diminutive," cites this as an example of extreme use of diminutives -- almost every noun is a diminutive; some are double diminutives: "little laddie," "little fishie," "little dishie" (CraigieEtAl, p. 140, etc.). I'm not sure what that tells us, but Bulloch thinks the Scots use diminutives to denigrate those they dislike (see, e.h., "The Wee Wee German Lairdie" -- a triple diminutive) and show affection for those they like (as here). - RBW

Bibliography

Last updated in version 5.0
File: FSWB409

Dance, Thumbkin, Dance
DESCRIPTION: A childrens's game for the fingers: "Dance, Thumbkin, dance, Dance, ye merry men, every one: But Thumbkin, he can dance alone, Thumbkin, he can dance alone." Similarly for the other four digits, Foreman, Longman, Ringman, Littleman
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1831 (Mrs Child's Girls Own Book, according to Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes)
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 500, "Dance, Thumbkin, dance" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #576, p. 233, "(Dance Thumbkin, Dance)"
Roud #12837
File: BGMG576

Dancing at Whitsun
DESCRIPTION: "It's fifty long springtime since she was a bride, But still you may see her at each Whitsuntide." With the men who did the local dances dead in World War I, the women are keeping the dances alive
AUTHOR: Words: Austin John Marshall (1937-2013)
EARLIEST DATE: 1968 (copyright)
KEYWORDS: dancing wife husband death soldier
NOTES [135 words]: Not a traditional song, but so well known in folk circles that I am including it based on its presence in Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs. Based on the notes there, it was originally a poem, but Shirley Collins (Marshall's then-wife) set it to the tune of "The False Bride," and it was taken up by the Country Dance Societies. It has now been a half a century since the song was written, and a century since the Great War; I wonder who will keep up the dances -- and the song -- now.

Apparently Marshall's original title was "The Whitsun Dance," but I've never met a recording under that name.

The song is popular enough that it seems to have encouraged its own folklore -- e.g. that the dance was the Morris Dance, and that the women entirely replaced the men. None of this seems to be true. Too bad. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: DalC240

Dancing Dolly

DESCRIPTION: "Dancing Dolly has no sense, She bought some eggs for fourteen pence, The eggs went bad, the dolly went mad, A, B, C, D, E...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty food money
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
*Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 108, "(Dancing Dolly)" (2 texts)
Roud #19306
File: SuSm108D

Dancing in Glenroan (Rinnceoiri Ghleann Ruain)

DESCRIPTION: The singer, "growing old and weary," recalls the dancing of his youth in Glenroan; "my heart is filled with wonder Why we ever leave such pleasure for a world so cold and lone" He is comforted by the thought that youngsters are still dancing there.

AUTHOR: Felix Kearney (source: Tunney-WhereSongsDoThunder)
EARLIEST DATE: 1991 (Tunney-WhereSongsDoThunder)
KEYWORDS: age dancing music lyric nonballad
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
*Tunney-WhereSongsDoThunder, pp. 71-72, "Dancing in Glenroan" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Kerry Dance" (theme)
NOTES [22 words]: Tunney-WhereSongsDoThunder: Translated into Gaelic as "Rinnceoiri Ghleann Ruain" by Arthur Kearney.
Glenroan is in County Tyrone. - BS
File: TST071

Dandy Jim from Caroline

DESCRIPTION: "I've often heard it said of late Dat Souf Carolina was de state, Whar handsome Niggars bound to shine, Like 'Dandy Jim from Caroline.'" Jim is the best-looking black man in the county. He boasts of the successes his looks have brought

EARLIEST DATE: 1843 (Bodleian broadside Harding B 11(789))
KEYWORDS: Black(s) beauty courting
Dandy Man, The

DESCRIPTION: A dandy man ["fop"] bought a magpie and an owl and boiled them, "feathers, guts and all," to eat. Women, don't wed a dandy man; in bed "he never takes his breeches off He sleeps in women's stays"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople)

KEYWORDS: cross-dressing nonballad wife husband

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople 25, "The Dandy Man" (1 text)

Roud #15129

NOTES [33 words]: For all his fussing, the dandy man is not only effeminate, but slovenly (like the wife in "Risselty, Roselty, Now, Now, Now," "... a hure of aw the sluts, She roasit a hen baith feathers and guts." - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: ReSh025

Dandy Pat

DESCRIPTION: "I'm the boy called Dandy Pat, Dandy Pat, I was born in the town of Balinafat, Dandy Pat-I-O." He courts Kitty Malloy. He is handsome, funny, well-dressed, and very Irish. Girls seek to win him

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1867 (Broadside Bodleian Harding B 11(3237))

KEYWORDS: courting clothes

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
New-Comic-Songster, p. 29, "Dandy Pat" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 142, "Dandy Pat" (1 text)

Roud #18381

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(3237), "Dandy Pat," J. Harkness (Preston), 1840-1866

NOTES [15 words]: Probably not traditional, but this ended up in an amazing collection of songsters.... - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: NCS029

Dandyman Oh

DESCRIPTION: "Dandyman look oo day are break." "Cock are crow." "Neil are go home oh, What you do oh"

Daniel Cooper

DESCRIPTION: The drinking and sexual adventures of Daniel Cooper and others. When the Piper's wife lifts her smock he "claw'd her." He lies with a milk-maid who leaves happy but pregnant. Lady Cardle says he's a bonny loon. A widow dances naked for highland boys.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1683 (broadside, Douce Ballads 1(51a))

KEYWORDS: sex adultery pregnancy drink bawdy humorous nonballad rake

FOUND IN: Roud #V13676

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Douce Ballads 1(51a), "Daniel Cooper" or "The High-land Laddy," P. Brooksby (London)], 1683

NOTES [53 words]: One text of Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 523, "We're all dry with drinking on't" quotes the first verse of "Daniel Cooper"

Broadside Bodleian Douce Ballads 1(51a) includes the tune which, the broadside says, is "a Scotch tune, called Wally on't, Or, We'l welcome you to Yarrow. Up go we, Or, Jenny Gin.." - BS

Last updated in version 5.1

File: BdBDaCoo

Daniel in the Lion's Den

DESCRIPTION: "Among the Jewish captives one Daniel there was found." Daniel's piety is renowned. His enemies cause the King to demand that all people worship only the King for 30 days. Daniel does not, is thrown to the lions -- and survives

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Brown); there are several older references to songs of this title, but they may not be the same

KEYWORDS: religious animal royalty Bible Jew

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)

REFERENCES (3 citations):

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 524, "Daniel in the Lion's Den" (1 text)

Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 524, "Daniel in the Lion's Den" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)

Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 194, "Daniel in the Lion's Den" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #3614

RECORDINGS:

Sister Rosetta Tharpe, "Daniel in the Lion's Den" (Decca 48116, c. 1948)

NOTES [38 words]: This is too accurate to be folk song. (Too bad there was no king called Darius the Mede, so the whole section in Daniel is demonstrably historically inaccurate.) This is a dull but correct retelling of the events in Daniel 6. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.1

---

you do oh"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (Elder-FolksongsFromTobago)

KEYWORDS: parting ritual dancing nonballad religious ghost Caribbean

FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Elder-FolksongsFromTobago 26, "Dandyman Oh" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [95 words]: Elder-FolksongsFromTobago: "The reel dance gives the living opportunity to enjoy briefly the company of loved ones long dead. But the ancestors must depart from the dance before daybreak and so the farewell ceremony is performed early in the morning before dawn. This is a very sad ritual taking farewell of the ancestor spirits until some future time." - BS

It is interesting to find the idea of a ghost having to depart before cock crows in Tobago, given that the idea is widespread in Europe; see the notes to "The Grey Cock, or, Saw You My Father [Child 248]." - RBW

File: ElTo026
Daniel O'Connell (I)

DESCRIPTION: Singer overhears an old woman and a tinker; he says Daniel O'Connell is now making children in Dublin by steam; those made the old way are too few. She berates O'Connell for removing the people's best diversion; he salutes her

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1871 (broadside, Bodleian 2806 b.10(26))

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer overhears an old woman and a tinker talking; he says Daniel O'Connell is now making children in Dublin by steam, because those made the old way are too small and too few. She berates O'Connell for removing the people's best diversion; he salutes her, saying that if all women in Ireland were as plucky as she, the nation would have babies aplenty (for the Queen's army)

KEYWORDS: age disability sex army pregnancy Ireland political baby children tinker

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1775-1847 - Life of Daniel O'Connell

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf,Ont)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 19, "Daniel O'Connell" (1 text, 1 tune)
Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 16, "Daniel O'Connell and His Steam Engine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 65-66, "The Bold Tinker (Daniel O'Connell)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 46, "Daniel O'Connell" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 22, #1 (1973), p, 18, "Daniel O'Connell" (1 text, 1 tune, apparently the O. J. Abbott version)
Roud #2313

RECORDINGS:
O. J. Abbott, "Daniel O'Connell" (on Abbott1)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 b.10(26), "Dan O'Connell or Morris O'Donnell. Hatching Chickens by Steam" ("Ye lovers of mirth, I pray give attention"), The Poet's Box (Glasgow), 1871

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Fergus O'Connor and Independence" (subject: Daniel O'Connell and the Tithe War)

NOTES [296 words]: Daniel O'Connell (1775-1847) [was] leader of Catholic Association whose pressure led to the Catholic Emancipation Act, 1829.

"Tinker," in this context, means one of the travelling people, rather than a worker in tin. Fowke notes drily that this aspect of O'Connell's long career "seems to have been overlooked by his biographers.

I wonder if this might not be confused with the life of another Irish hero, Charles Stewart Parnell (1846-1891), whose career was blighted by sex scandals. Given that the only surviving version of this song seems to be O. J. Abbott's, such a thing is possible.
There is severe irony in O'Connell urging that Ireland breed up more people; his last major speech, in 1847, was on the disaster of the potato famine -- which of course was so deadly only because Ireland had more people than it could reasonably support.

There is another Canadian Daniel O'Connell song, a fragment collected by Creighton. It perhaps reveals how many Irish left Ireland after the famines that both songs are found only outside Ireland.

- RBW

Broadside Bodleian 2806 b.10(26) refers to O'Connell only in the title, with Morris O'Donnell being the name in the text. - BS

This might explain why, as Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario comments on p. 171, "this particular phase of [O'Connell']s career seems to have been overlooked by his biographers": It was originally a tale of O'Donnell that was attracted to O'Connell by similarity of names. - RBW

Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario: "It is still [1965] in oral circulation in Ireland for Liam Clancy learned it from an Irish countryman and taught it to Luke Kelly who has popularized it in London's folk clubs. Kenneth Peacock tells me that he heard a fragmentary version in Newfoundland." - BS

Last updated in version 5.1
File: RcDan0oco

Daniel O'Connell (II)

DESCRIPTION: "In the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and four There was great rejoicing round Erin's green shore, When Daniel O'Connell he made this appeal: 'All I want is fair justice to gain my repeal.'"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick)

KEYWORDS: Ireland political

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 95, "Daniel O'Connell" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

Roud #2771

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Battle of Carrickshock" (subject: The Tithe War) and references there

cf. "Daniel O'Connell (I)" (subject: Daniel O'Connell) and references there

NOTES [317 words]: The current description is all of the Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick fragment.

See also Bodleian, 2806 c.15(195), "Erin's Green Linnet ("On a fair summer's morning as day was just dawning"); Harding B 19(39), "The Green Linnet"

Daniel O'Connell (1775-1847) tried to convince the British to reform administration of Ireland and was the leading figure on behalf of Catholic Emancipation. (For his history, see also "Erin's Green Shore" [Laws Q27]).

Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick: "Our solitary stanza may refer to the Tithe War." That may be but does not tie in with 1804. O'Connell's Catholic Association was formed in 1823 to resist the requirement that Irish Catholics pay tithes to the Anglican Church of Ireland. The "war" was passive for most of the period 1823-1836, though there were violent incidents in 1831 (source: The Irish Tithe War 1831 at the OnWar.com site) - BS

I am more inclined to accept the date than Creighton's explanation. O'Connell first came to prominence at the time of the 1800 Union of Ireland and England: He opposed it. (Quite reasonably, since Ireland had had a real parliament and significant self-rule under the old constitution which Union replaced.)

The name of the anti-Union movement? "Repeal."

The notion of Repeal became more of a platform in 1832, when O'Connell formed a party in parliament for the purpose. But he had been talking about the notion for decades. The date 1804 makes some sense, because it was the last year in which his primary issue was avoiding Union; starting in 1805 and for many years after, his chief demand was Catholic "emancipation" (read, essentially, enfranchisement, though it's a lot more complicated than that).

Healy-MercierBookOfOldIrishStreetBalladsVol2 includes a very large section of O'Connell pieces (roughly p. 85-101, plus a few others). Few of these show any hints of being traditional. - RBW

File: CrSNB095
Daniel Prayed
DESCRIPTION: Daniel prays to God three times a day. Cast in the lions' den, the lions' jaws are locked. Listeners should follow his example. Chorus: "Old Daniel served the living God/While here upon this earth he trod...Daniel prayed every morning, noon and night"
AUTHOR: G. T. Speer
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (composed)
KEYWORDS: captivity Bible religious animal gods
FOUND IN: US(SE)
Roud #7692
RECORDINGS: Fred Price, Clint Howard & Doc Watson, "Daniel Prayed" (on Ashley03, WatsonAshley01)
Stanley Brothers "Daniel Prayed" (on StanBros01)
NOTES [106 words]: Ralph Rinzler notes that Price, Howard & Watson refreshed their memory of this song from the shape-note hymnal "The Best of All," from whence comes the attribution to G. T. Speer and the date. - PJS
In Daniel 6, the (non-existent) king Darius the Mede ordered that no one pray to anyone but him for thirty days (an inconceivable order from the historical Darius I of Persia, who was a Zoroastrian monotheist, and hardly more likely from Cyrus the Great of Persia, who conquered Babylon, since he was religiously tolerant). In 6:13, we read that Daniel nonetheless prayed three times a day. The rest of chapter 6 explains the result. - RBW
File: RcDanlPr

Daniel Saw the Stone
DESCRIPTION: "Daniel saw the stone, hewn out of the mountain (x3), Tearing down the kingdom of this world." Verses: Daniel prays in the lion's den -- despite wicked men; he prays three times a day to defeat the devil. "Have you seen that stone?" "Jesus was the stone."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad Jesus Bible
FOUND IN: US(SE,So)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 54, "Daniel Saw the Stone" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 157 in the 1909 edition)
Harold Courlander, _A Treasury of Afro-American Folklore_, Crown Publishers, 1976, pp. 322-323, "(no title)" (1 text plus an excerpt)
Roud #12210
NOTES [70 words]: In Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute's verses, every alternate line is "Cut out the mountain without hands." Daniel interprets Nebuchadnezzar's dream that includes "a stone cut out without hands ... and the stone that smote the image became a great mountain" in Daniel 2:29-35 (King James). Daniel in the lion's den is Daniel 6; his praying three times a day is Daniel 6:10. - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: CrAAF322

Daniel Sullivan [Laws E22]
DESCRIPTION: Daniel Sullivan offers himself as a warning against passion. As an infant, his mother dreamed of him hanging. Having gone abroad, he murders a man. Lonely and penitent, he is scheduled to die. He bids farewell to family and meets his fate
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Beck-FolkloreOfMaine)
KEYWORDS: dream homicide execution warning
FOUND IN: US(NE) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Danny Boy (The Londonderry Air)

DESCRIPTION: The singer laments that her Danny Boy is called away. She promises to be waiting when he returns to her. Even if she dies, she will await him AUTHOR: Words: Fred(eric) E. Weatherly?

EARLIEST DATE: 1855 (Petrie Collection); words written 1913

KEYWORDS: love separation

FOUND IN: Ireland US

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 323, "Danny Boy" (1 text)
- Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, p. 337, "Londonderry Air"
- Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H3, p. 286, "The Londonderry Air" (1 tune, plus a text known not to have been traditional)

SAME TUNE:
- O, Jeanie Dear (File: HHH545)
- My Gentle Harp (Words by Thomas Moore) (File: Fire088)

NOTES [771 words]: Fuld reports that the name "Londonderry Air" came about because the tune "was collected by Miss J. Ross of the county of Londonderry." Little else seems to be known of its ancestry, though it has been used for many texts, few of them popular. Anne G. Gilchrist published an article, "A New Light upon the Londonderry Air" in JFSS (December 1934).

Fuld attributes the words to Fred Weatherly (1848-1929) without supporting documentation, and many people seem unaware of it. Weatherly has six poems attributed to him in Granger's Index to Poetry. "Danny Boy" is not one of them. Three of the pieces ("The Holy City," "The Angels to the Shepherds Sang," and "When the Christ Child Came") are religious; the others appear to be for children. None proved very popular.

Turning to Bartlett's Familiar Quotations (13th edition), we find three Weatherly pieces, none of them the same as the ones quoted in Granger's -- though one of them, "Nancy Lee," has had some slight traditional popularity (it is one of the other Weatherly pieces in the Index). But none have themes similar to this. Weatherly does seem to have been popular in his time. Songs That Never Grow Old, copyrighted 1909 and 1913, has a long list: "Beauty's Eyes," with music by F. Paolo Tosti; "Mona," "Nancy Lee," and "The Midshipmite," all with music by Stephen Adams (who also supplied the melody for "They All Love Jack," which is in the third Weatherly item Index); "Darby and Joan," and "The Little Tin Soldier" with music by J. L. Molloy -- but most of the songs in that book I have not seen elsewhere.

I have managed to acquire the sheet music for two other Weatherly pieces, "Roses of Picardy" and "The Holy City."

"The Holy City" was published in 1942 with music by Stephen Adams. It is a dream of Jerusalem before the destruction of the Temple and of a heavenly Jerusalem. It is not very original -- and feels both anachronistic and rather silly. I would not file it as great poetry. It did become popular enough to be included in Aline Waites & Robin Hunter, The Illustrated Victorian Songbook, Michael Joseph Ltd., 1984, (pp. 48-54).

"Roses of Picardy," published in 1916 with music by Haydn Wood. It is noteworthy that Wood's name is printed in far larger type than Weatherly. Yet Wood was hardly a big name. I checked five musical references to learn about him. Only one had an entry, and it brief. Percy A. Scholes, The Oxford Companion to Music, ninth edition, corrected, Oxford, 1960, p. 1127, mentions him, giving as his whole biography, "Born near Huddersfield, Yorkshire, in 1882 and died in London in 1959, aged seventy-six. He had a double career as a solo violinist and as a composer some of whose lighter pieces (e.g. Roses of Picardy) had a great vogue." I do note that Jerry Silverman included it in the Mel Bay book Ballads & Songs of WWI.

But "Roses of Picardy," as a poem, is banal (though I'd call it better than "The Holy City"); it's yet another song about an old man remembering his wife's early beauty and saying that, unlike the roses of Picardy to which he once compared her, he still loves her:

Roses are flow'ring in Picardy, but there's never a rose like you!
And the roses will die with the summertime, and our roads may be far apart,
But there's one rose that dies not in Picardy! 'tis the rose that I keep in my heart!

Bottom line: If Fuld's attribution is correct, this seems to have been a unique item for Weatherly in style as in popularity.

Robert Gogan, 130 Great Irish Ballads (third edition, Music Ireland, 2004), p. 129, offers some additional details which do seem to confirm Fuld's report. Weatherly, an English lawyer (!), wrote the lyrics for this song in 1910, and also wrote a tune. It went nowhere. When his sister-in-law sent him the tune for the "Londonderry Air," he decided to use that tune instead, and a hit was born.

According to Reginald Nettel, Seven Centuries of Popular Song, Phoenix House, 1956, p. 220, Weatherly was an "eminent barrister," who reportedly wrote his poems while working through difficult legal problems.

Gogan adds a warning to barroom singers out there: "[This is] one of the most consistently murdered ballads I know, because amateur balladeers usually start singing it in too high a pitch for their voice[,] realizing (when it is too late) that they can't reach the high E note in the chorus. Keep that in mind; don't get caught out."

Given that the range of the song is an octave and a sixth (e.g. from the G below middle C to the E nine steps above that), little wonder that singers have trouble. I know of no traditional song requiring a wider range.

Danny By My Side

DESCRIPTION: "The Brooklyn Bridge on Sunday is known as lover's lane, I steal there with my sweetheart, oh, time and time again." As she walks, she sees lovers, mothers with their babies, all sorts of people. "What joy to me such sights to see with Danny by my side."

AUTHOR: Words: Edward Harrigan / Music: David Braham

EARLIEST DATE: 1891 ("The Last of the Hogans")

KEYWORDS: love courting nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Finson-Edward-Harrigan-David-Braham, vol. II, #162, pp. 275-278, "Danny By My Side" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: E. J. Kahn, Jr., _The Merry Partners: The Age and Stage of Harrigan and Hart_, Random House, 1955, p. 77, "(Danny by My Side)" (1 partial text)

RECORDINGS:
Mick Moloney, "Danny By My Side" (on HarriganBrahamMaloney)

NOTES [266 words]: For background on Harrigan and Braham, see the notes to "The Babies on Our Block."

"The Last of the Hogans" was first staged on December 22, 1891 (Moody, p. 259), making it the last real collaboration between Ned Harrigan and David Braham, and the last real Harrigan play (Moody, p. 192). His company was active into 1893, and Harrigan occasionally wrote and frequently acted after that, but there were no new hits.

The plot of "The Last of the Hogans" was a typical Harrigan complexity-fest; the title comes from a legal case about a bricklayer named Hogan who is thought to be dead; his presumed decease results in a wild chase for his papers, hidden inside a bricked-up vault (Franceschina, p. 203). Braham's tune for "Danny By My Side" was compared to his earlier "Maggie Murphy's Home," which was one of Braham's biggest hits (Franceschina, pp. 203-204). But "Maggie Murphy's Home" managed to make it into tradition in a small way; it doesn't appear that "Danny By My Side" did. The Brooklyn Bridge opened in 1883; fifty years later, Al Smith (a lifelong Harrigan/Braham fan) sang "Danny By My Side" to celebrate the anniversary of its opening (Moody, p. 2; Kahn, p. 77, reports that Smith, when he was ten and the bridge was new, had been caught in a panic when someone reported it was in danger of falling, but that didn't stop him from celebrating both the bridge and the song!"

According to Williams, p. 207, "The [Tin Pan Alley] Irish-American girl began life as the tough 'chippie' characterized by Harrigan's Maggie Murphy and the somewhat gentler girl who sings 'Danny By My Side.'"

Bibliography

- Williams: William H. A. Williams, 'Twas Only an Irishman's Dream, University of Illinois Press, 1996

Danny Sim's Sow

DESCRIPTION: "There was a drunken collier, they ca'd him Danny Sim." Danny, sent to buy feed for the sow, instead spends it drinking. His wife complains. He grabs a pick (pike?) and beats her. He offers a sow to the butcher, and sells his bruised wife

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Ord-BothySongsAndBallads)

KEYWORDS: drink animal abuse injury commerce

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 401-403, "Danny Sim's Sow" (1 text)

Roud #5616

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Scolding Wife (V)" (theme: sale of a wife)
cf. "Sale of a Wife" (theme)
cf. "In Praise of John Magee" (theme: sale of a wife)

NOTES [26 words]: Although clearly meant to be funny, this strikes me as being about as humorous as mud.

For background on wife-selling, see the notes to "Sale of a Wife." - RBW

Danny Winters

DESCRIPTION: "Danny Winters went a-courtin', hi, hey an' ho, Choseed a sweetheart with a red head, bow, bow low, Wed a redhead, wished himself dead, Dan Danny-O. "Danny Winters lay a-moanin... Redhead was too wild a partner... Wife a flyin', Dan a-dyin'...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Randolph)

KEYWORDS: courting marriage playparty

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Randolph 548, "Danny Winters" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 404-405, "Danny Winters" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 548)

Roud #7648

File: R548
Dans Les Chantiers (The Winter Camp)
DESCRIPTION: French: A complaint about life in a lumber camp -- Hard work in cold snowy weather, a bed on the icy ground, coupled with slow and insufficient pay. Finally the logger goes home to a happy reunion. He vows never to return to the lumber camp
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1865
KEYWORDS: logger work separation reunion foreignlanguage
FOUND IN: Canada(Que) US(MW)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Fowke/Johnston-FolkSongsOfCanada, pp. 70-71, "Dans Les Chantiers (The Winter Camp)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 23, "Dans Les Chantiers" (1 English and 1 French text, 1 tune)
Berry-FolkSongsOfOldVincennes, p. 66, "Dans les chantiers nous hivernerons (Voyagers)" (1 text + translation, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 418, "Dans les Chantiers Nous Hivernerons (Voyageurs)" (1 text + translation)
ADDITIONAL: Edith Fowke and Richard Johnston, _Folk Songs of Quebec (Chansons de Quebec)_, Waterloo Music Company, 1957, pp. 12-13, "Dans les Chantiers (The Winter Camp" (1 French text plus English translation, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Lumber Camp Song" (theme) and references there
NOTES [70 words]: The editors of Berry-FolkSongsOfOldVincennes suggest that the Vincennes version is older than the Canadian; it mentions a trader and merchant, M. Dubois, lived on the banks of the Wabash at the end of the 1700s. - PJS
Interestingly, I find no mention of this Dubois in William E Wilson, _The Wabash_, Farrar & Rinehart, 1940 (a volume in the Rivers of America series edited by Stephen Vincent Benet and Carl Carmer). - RBW

Dans les prisons de Nantes (Within the Prisons of Nantes)
DESCRIPTION: French. A man is prisoner in Nantes. The jailer's daughter cries because he is to die next day. She unties him so he escapes. She is pregnant. On another shore he drinks and boasts of his escape.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1954 (Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage seduction warning escape rake prisoner
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar,Newf)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Peacock, pp. 183-184, "Dans les Prisons de Nantes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, pp. 170, "Dans La Prison de Nantes" (1 text, 1 tune)
RECORDINGS:
Jean Ozon, "Dans les Prisons de Nantes" (on PeacockCDROM)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Dans la Prison de Londres
NOTES [75 words]: In Peacock's version the prisoner is on London Bridge; the escaped prisoner promises that, if he ever is in France he will have a dress made for her with gold buttons and they will embrace. In another version, all the girls of Nantes are taken prisoner. The CD _After the Tempest_ by Figgy Duff includes a different London version than Peacock's called, more reasonably, Dans la Prison de Londres: "Dans la prison de Londres Un prisonnier il y a" - BS

Dans Tous Les Cantons (Through All the Country 'Round)
DESCRIPTION: French: The song notes how boys and girls are often talking of marriage... then highlights all the troubles they will face. The woman must scrub, cook, sew, and obey her husband;
the man will find that his wife nags and spends his money
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1865
KEYWORDS: marriage humorous husband wife foreignlanguage
FOUND IN: Canada(Que)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Fowke/Johnston-FolkSongsOfCanada, pp. 113-115, "Dans Tous Les Cantons (Through All the Country 'Round)" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Édith Fowke and Richard Johnston, _Folk Songs of Quebec (Chansons de Quebec)_, Waterloo Music Company, 1957, pp. 83-85, "Dans Tous les Cantons (Through All the Country 'Round)" (1 French text plus English translation, 1 tune)
File: FJ113

Danse de Mardi Gras, Le
DESCRIPTION: "Captain, captain, wave your flag, Let's get on the road." "The Mardy Gras riders get together once a year, To ask for charity." The singer describes Mardy Gras in Mamou. The riders politely ask for hens, lard, etc.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1960 (recording, Savy Bee Deshotels)
KEYWORDS: party food travel
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 349-350, "La Danse de Mardi Gras" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Richard M. Dorson, _Buying the Wind: Regional Folklore in the United States_, University of Chicago Press, 1964, pp. 276-281, "Le Danse de Mardi Gras/La Chanson de Mardi Gras" (2 texts, 1 tune)
File: CAFS1349

Danse des Bois Brules, La (Lord Selkirk at Fort William)
DESCRIPTION: Canadian French: "Allons, vite accourez Rats musques, Bois Brules." A "herald" announces that the Lord (Selkirk) is giving a ball. The dignitaries are invited to join the fun. Lord Selkirk tells the men to stop joking; they tell him to relax
AUTHOR: unknown (perhaps Pierre Falcon; tune by Francs Macons)
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (MacLeod-SongsOfOldManitoba)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage humorous moniker party
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
  June 19, 1816 - Battle of Seven Oaks. Some 70 Metis horsemen under Cuthbert Grant encounter 28 Hudson's Bay Company men under Governor Semple on Frog Plain. Only six of Semple's men survive
FOUND IN: Canada
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  MacLeod-SongsOfOldManitoba, #2, pp. 10-15, "La dance des Bois Brules" (1 French text plus English translation "Lord Selkirk at Fort William," 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "Chanson de la Grenouillere ("Song of Frog Plain," Falcon's Song)" (context)
NOTES [61 words]: After the Battle of Frog Plain/Seven Oaks, the British governor Lord Selkirk came down to try to bring things back under control. Pierre Falcon -- or someone -- wrote this song to lampoon his acts. It looks more like a play than a folk song, with pars assigned to a "Herald," the "Brule Boys" (i.e. the Metis who had won at Frog Plain), and "Milord," i.e. Selkirk. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Macl02

Dansekar the Dutchman
DESCRIPTION: "Sing we sea-men, now and then, Of Dansekar the Dutchman, Whose gallant mind hath won him great renown." His piracy has afflicted nations the world over. He and Captain
Ward have caused much trouble. But they will be overthrown

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1609 (broadside, according to Frank)
KEYWORDS: pirate fight commerce
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1611 - Hanging of Simon Danziker the pirate, according to Frank
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs 10, "Dansekar the Dutchman" (1 text, #10 in the first edition)
Roud #V30470
CROSS-REFERENCES:
File: Fran010

Dar Gingo Tre Flickor

DESCRIPTION: Swedish shanty. Three girls discuss love; three sailors overhear and decide to pay a visit. The girls bar the door but the wind blows it open. They make a bed for the sailors who leave in the morning saying maidens will never regain their beauty.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Sternvall, _Sang under Segel_)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Swedish shanty. Three girls are talking about love, three sailors overhear and decide to pay a visit. The girls bar the door but the wind blows it open. They make a bed for the sailors who leave in the morning saying maidens will never regain their beauty. There is a short chorus following each line of the verses "Fantali for Julia, fantali for Julia," and a longer chorus which translates, roughly, "For a little goblin was with them, It was so lion-like, They walked holding candles, and then took a pinch of snuff. Oh tjohalia, seamen are so amusing.

KEYWORDS: foreign language shanty sailor seduction
FOUND IN: Sweden
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSeven Seas, pp. 393-395, "Dar Gingo Tre Flickor" (2 texts-English & Swedish, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ane Madam" (lyrics)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Fantali for Julia
NOTES [14 words]: There is a German version given in Baltzer's Knurrhahn, "Es Gingendrei Madchen." - SL
File: Hug393

Darahill

DESCRIPTION: "When I engaged to Darrahill, 'Twas low down in Buchan fair." The singer describes going to work for (Dara/Darra), whose horses are very poor and ill-fed. The workers aren't much better off. The singer looks forward to working for someone else

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1890 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: farming horse hardtimes
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #133, pp. 1-2, "Darrahill"; #135, p. 3, "Darrahill"; #143, p. 2, "Darrahill" (1 text plus 2 fragments)
Greig/Duncan3 351, "Darrahill" (6 texts, 1 tune)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 276-277, "Darrahill" (1 text)
Roud #3941
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Barnyards o Delgaty" (tune) and references there
NOTES [51 words]: Greig/Duncan3, re version D: "Got from James Mackenzie of Ellon in Johannesburg in 1890."
Greig/Duncan3 has a map on p. xxxv, of "places mentioned in songs in volume 3" showing the song number as well as place name; Darahill (351) is at coordinate (h2,v9-0) on that map [roughly 11 miles N of Aberdeen]. - BS
Last updated in version 2.6
File: 0rd276

Darby Jig

DESCRIPTION: "Darby, darby, jig, jig, I've been to bed with a big, big wig! I went to France to learn to dance -- Darby, darby, jig, jig, jig."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1903 (Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty nonballad dancing clothes travel
FOUND IN: US(MA,NE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #67, "Darby Jig" (1 short text)
File: Newe067

Darby Kelly

DESCRIPTION: Grandfather Darby Kelly "beat a drum so neat" for Marlboro at Blenheim and Ramilie. His father drummed "when great Wolf died." The singer was with Wellington in Portugal and when "He made Nap prance right out of France"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1820 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 12(19))
KEYWORDS: army war nonballad patriotic Napoleon soldier
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1701-1714 - War of the Spanish Succession, in which Marlborough was the chief English general for most of the war, commanding at the battles of:
Aug 13, 1704 - Battle of Blenheim. British/Imperial victory which saves Vienna.
May 23, 1706 - Battle of Ramillies. British and Imperials foil a French campaign to reinforce the Spanish Netherlands 1756-1763 - Seven Years War, in which the British captured Canada from the French, largely as a result of:
Sep 13, 1759 - Battle of the Plains of Abraham. James Wolfe attacks Quebec City; he is mortally wounded, but Canada is taken 1803-1815 - Napoleonic Wars. Many British officers commanded on land; the last and greatest was Wellington, who directed:
1808-1814 - the Peninsular War, which began as a campaign to defend Portugal and eventually became a war to liberate Spain
June 18, 1815 - Battle of Waterloo. Final defeat of Napoleon
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 155, "Darby Kelly" (1 text)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 158, "Darby Kelly" (1 text)
Roud #21859
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 12(19), "Darby Kelly", J. Pitts (London), 1802-1819; also Johnson Ballads fol. 109, Harding B 16(67a), Johnson Ballads 1557, 2806 c.18(80), Harding B 11(793), Harding B 11(794), "Darby Kelly"; Harding B 28(63), "Darby Kelly, O"; Harding B 25(469), Harding B 11(696), "Darby Kelly, O!"
NOTES [148 words]: Broadside Bodleian Harding B 11(696) notes provide the following military references for the grandfather, father, and singer, respectively: "Marlborough, John Churchill, Duke of, 1650-1722; Wolfe, James, 1727-1759; Wellington, Arthur Wellesley, Duke of, 1769-1852" - BS
Given that the earliest possible date for this song is 1814 (when Napoleon abdicated for the first time), and a date after Waterloo (1815) is more likely, it seems clear that the broadsides cited are the original publication of the song in this form. Obviously, from the dates, Darby Kelly was a drummer boy, not an actual soldier, in the War of the Spanish Succession. Nonetheless, the range of dates would better suit four or five generations than three; one wonders if there wasn't an intermediate version, in which perhaps the grandson fought in the American Revolutionary War rather than the Napoleonic Wars. - RBW
Darby O'Leary

DESCRIPTION: The singer is hired by Darby O'Leary to work at his Galbally mountains farm. The supper is sour milk, the barn "covered with rats," terrible sleeping conditions: "such woeful starvation I never yet seen ... May he or his offspring never live long"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick)

KEYWORDS: farming work ordeal

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar) Ireland

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 110, "The Silly Old Miser" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 57, "The Galbally Farmer" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST CrSNB110 (Partial)

Roud #6978

RECORDINGS:
Tom Lenihan, "The Cranbally Farmer" (on Voice05)

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Harding B 26(619), "The Spalpeen's Complaint of Darby O'Leary ("One evening of late as I happened to stray"), unknown, n.d.

NOTES [22 words]: Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick is a fragment; broadside Bodleian Harding B 26(619) is the basis for the description. - BS

Dardanelles Patrol Song

DESCRIPTION: "Rolling and patrolling Outside the Dardanelles, Waiting for the Goeben So that we can test our shells. We went up to Chanak, But we very soon came back, Ain't it lovely rolling and patrolling?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)

KEYWORDS: ship travel navy derivative

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1914 - the British navy fails to stop the German ships Goeben and Breslau from fleeing to the Ottoman Empire

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 76, "Dardanelles Patrol Song" (1 text, tune referenced)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Roaming in the Gloaming" (tune)

NOTES [2023 words]: The beginning of World War I saw a tricky situation for the Germans in the Mediterranean. They had no bases there, although their Austrian allies had some. But the Germans had two ships in the area, the battlecruiser Goeben and the light cruiser Breslau. Even with Austrian support, they had no hope against the British and French forces in the area -- but they could potentially do a lot of damage if they could avoid interception and could manage to keep supplied (especially with coal and shells).

Adding to the complexity of the situation was the fact that there were other Mediterranean powers that were still neutral -- Italy, Spain, the Ottoman Empire, and lesser states. Both sides wanted to lure Italy, but she would hold off until 1915. Spain never did get involved. But the Ottoman Empire was a much more complex case. She had long ties with Britain -- but Britain was allied with Russia, and Russia was the long-time enemy of the Ottomans. Plus, in recent years, the Germans had been courting the Ottomans.

And the British definitely started the war on the wrong foot with the Ottomans. The Turks had placed orders with the British for two battleships, with many Turks taking pay cuts and making contributions to enable the ships to be built (Kinross, p. 604). They were dear to Turkish hearts, and they were almost finished. But as the war began, with the Turks about to take possession, the British (who were worried that they did not have an adequate edge in battleships over the German fleet) requisitioned them as HMS Agincourt and HMS Erin (Farquharson-Roberts, pp. 43-44; against there has been much debate ever since over whether the four cruisers would have had a chance damage to other parts of her hull that the heavier British ships might catch her.
The cruisers' guns were too light to pierce ships were all slower than each plus lesser guns (Jane's-WWI, pp. 51-52). But many of the guns were badly sited, and the obsolete) had four 9.2" guns and a bunch of 7.5"; the others, built in 1903 and 1904, had six 9.2".
Ernest Troubridge.
around the mouth of the Adriatic (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 46) under the command of Admiral
There was still a force in position to intercept Souchon, but it wasn't the British battlecruisers; it was Milne ordered her to break off (Marder, p. 29), so the British knew where the enemy was for the two days from August 5 to August 7.
Because coaling took time, the British could have caught Souchon coming out of the Straits of hadn't quite expired yet, so they didn't open fire (Wragg, p. 44), and couldn't keep up as Souchon went to Messina on August 5 to coal up (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 46; Marder, p. 23).
No, they had the faster, newer, well-armed ships. And the British actually found Souchon briefly as he withdrew from Africa, but the British ultimatum Marder, p.22, especially points to an order not to fight the Germans in the absence of the French).
Making things even more complicated was the breakdown of who was at war with whom. The war had started when the Habsburg Empire of Austria-Hungary declared war on Serbia. Russia had declared war on the Habsburgs to protect Serbia. The Germans, committed to protect Austria-Hungary, then declared war on Russia -- and then, when France refused to promise neutrality, declared war on and invaded France. The attack on France involved invading neutral Belgium. That caused Britain to issue an ultimatum to Germany to get out of Belgium (Kinross, pp. 602-603). But, in the early days of August, Britain wasn't at war with Austria-Hungary at all (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 43) -- and technically wasn't even at war with Germany; the British would not be at war until the ultimatum expired at the end of August 4, 1914.
The first major Mediterranean operation came as the French set out to move an army corps from North Africa to France (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 44). The Germans of course hoped to interfere, and the British wanted to prevent them from interfering. The Goeben reached the shore of Africa on August 4 -- some hours before the British joined the war -- and fired a few shots before turning away (Wragg, p. 44).
The Admiralty, under Winston Churchill, was determined to push Milne into action -- and issued him so many orders that it flatly overwhelmed and confused him (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 45; Marder, p.22, especially points to an order not to fight the Germans in the absence of the French).
The British actually found Souchon briefly as he withdrew from Africa, but the British ultimatum hadn't quite expired yet, so they didn't open fire (Wragg, p. 44), and couldn't keep up as Souchon went to Messina on August 5 to coal up (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 46; Marder, p. 23).
Because coaling took time, the British could have caught Souchon coming out of the Straits of Messina, but Milne blew his chance; he concentrated on covering the French convoy rather than chasing the Goeben (Marder, p. 24), which was silly -- if he took out the Goeben, then there weren't any ships to attack the convoy! By so doing, Milne abandoned any hopes of confronting Goeben with the battlecruisers that were designed to do the job.
One small cruise, the Gloucester, however managed to trail the Goeben for a great distance, until Milne ordered her to break off (Marder, p. 29), so the British knew where the enemy was for the two days from August 5 to August 7.
There was still a force in position to intercept Souchon, but it wasn't the British battlecruisers; it was four older "armoured" cruisers, Defence, Warrior, Black Prince, and Duke of Edinburgh, who were around the mouth of the Adriatic (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 46) under the command of Admiral Ernest Troubridge. Defence, the newest (laid down in 1905, which still meant she was almost obsolete) had four 9.2" guns and a bunch of 7.5"; the others, built in 1903 and 1904, had six 9.2" each plus lesser guns (Jane's-WWI, pp. 51-52). But many of the guns were badly sited, and the ships were all slower than Goeben.
The cruisers' guns were too light to pierce Goeben's armored belt, but with luck might do enough damage to other parts of her hull that the heavier British ships might catch her.
There has been much debate ever since over whether the four cruisers would have had a chance against Goeben. In a straight-up line-ahead fight, I think the consensus is that they probably... wouldn't, but if they had split their forces and let their accompanying destroyers use their torpedoes, they might have been able to make a fight of it, especially if the battle took place at night (since they would be harder to hit in the dark, and their many light guns might give more of an advantage relative to the Goeben's few but heavy guns). Given that the British cruisers were close to obsolete, and wouldn't have been much of a loss if they were destroyed, it might have been worth a try; Farquharson-Roberts, p. 47, for instance, suggests that the British "might have had a significant chance of victory." The British court which examined the matter also felt Troubridge might have won (Marder, p. 33). And Marder, p. 29, points out that Souchon's ships had limited coal and ammunition. The former limited their ability to maneuver; the latter meant that they might well run out of shells before they could deal with all the British ships.

But Admiral Troubridge (a descendent of one of Nelson's captains, but certainly not a man possessed of the Nelson spirit) did not try; he withdrew in the face of what he considered superior force, arguing that the Goeben outranged him (Marder, p. 27) -- which was true, but ignored the fact that guns often miss, especially at long range; Troubridge could certainly have gotten into range to fight had he wanted to. He didn't. He was court-martialed and acquitted, but his sea career was over (Farquharson-Roberts, p. 47). The Navy continued to employ him, but Marder, p. 36, thinks that they didn't want to admit that they disagreed with his acquittal by the court; they would have dropped him if they could. The ultimate fault, he contends on pp. 39-41, was the Admiralty's confused, confusing, and ever-changing orders.

The British still had one more chance. Souchon hadn't managed to get a full load of coal in Messina; on August 9, he had to stop at the island of Denusa, not far from the southern Ottoman coast (Marder, p. 30). This gave Milne and his battlecruisers another chance to catch up. But a staff snarl-up caused an order to be sent to Milne telling him to go off and fight the Austrians (even though the British would not go to war with the Habsburg Empire for another four days). The last chance was gone.

On August 10, the Goeben and the Breslau reached the Dardanelles and safety (Palmer, p. 224), since the Ottomans were still neutral. And the Germans had another trick in their bag: They promptly "sold" the ship to the Ottomans to replace the battleships the British had requisitioned. "Sold," as in, the ships took down their German flags and raised Turkish ones (Palmer, p. 225) and started to be known as Yavuz Sultan Selim (the Goeben) and Midilli (the Breslau) The Ottomans declared that they were to take the place of the two ships of which perfidious Britain had robbed her" (Kinross, p. 604).

The ships had changed their names, but not their crews (although they started to wear fezes); they were still, for practical purposes, German warships. And the Germans got another benefit: the Turks had no naval tradition, so they had been in the habit of seconding foreign admirals as their own naval commander. And so Admiral Souchon became head of the Turkish navy, replacing British Admiral Limpus (Palmer, p. 225). Which meant that, as soon as the Ottomans joined the war, Souchon was able to do whatever he wanted with his ships, just as if he had been still serving Germany! And the mere fact that the Ottomans now had German ships in their command inevitably pushed them toward the German side -- indeed, Marder, p. 41, thinks it was the decisive factor in causing the Ottomans to join the Central Powers.

The result in a way resembled a siege: Milne left the Mediterranean on August 18, but he left two of his battlecruisers to watch the straits (Marder, p. 31). The Goeben couldn't come out of the Dardanelles (at least on the Mediterranean side; she was free to go into the Black Sea), but the British couldn't stop blockading the strait, lest she come out. Hence this song, telling of the monotonous British blockade the German ship inspired. She had no real effect on the further course of the war, but in her role as a "fleet in being," she certainly influenced the planning of the Dardanelles campaign of 1915.

Milne expected to get a higher command on going home, but was disappointed; the Admiralty canceled his appointment -- in effect, relieving him. They retired him in 1921, without giving him another substantial command (Marder, p. 31-32) -- although, unlike Troubridge, he did not face a court.

The British quest to catch the Goeben/Yavuz ultimately accomplished absolutely nothing. The Yavuz survived the war. When the Ottoman Empire fell, the new Turkish state was able to keep her. She survived World War II, too, and was not finally scrapped until the 1970s (Worth, p. 271). I believe this made her the last battlecruiser -- certainly the last German battlecruiser, and the last World War I battlecruiser -- in service.
Darius Cole and Mackinac, The

DESCRIPTION: "On the eighteenth of December, The weather it was far, The Darius Cole and Mackinac were crossing Lake St. Clair." The Darius Cole boats of being able to beat the Mackinac's time. They have a race

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (collected from J. Sylvester Ray by Walton)

KEYWORDS: ship racing

FOUND IN: US(MW) Canada(Ont)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 110-111, "The Darius Cole and Mackinac" (1 short text, composite but lacking any indication of which boat won the race)

Roud #19844

File: WGM110

Dark and Dreary Weather

DESCRIPTION: "It's dark and dreary weather, Almost inclined to rain, My heart is almost broken, My lover has gone on the train!" The singer wonders why she loves him so much, and he loves her not at all. "Some say that love is a pleasure; What pleasure do I see?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1921

KEYWORDS: love courting separation train suicide floatingverses

FOUND IN: US(MW,So)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Randolph 750, "Dark and Dreary Weather" (4 texts, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 168, "Dreary Weather" (1 text)
Niles/Moore-SongsMyMotherNeverTaughtMe, pp. 135-136, "Some Say That Love Is a Blessing (How Old Fashioned of Them After All)" (1 text, 1 tune)
List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 165-167, "I Don't Know Why I Love Him" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #6527

RECORDINGS:
Carter Family, "Dark and Stormy Weather" (Bluebird B-8868, 1941)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Dark and Stormy Weather" (NLCR14)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Farewell He" (stanza form, floating lyrics)
cf. "Goodnight Irene" (floating lyrics)
cf. "Farewell Ballymoney (Loving Hannah; Lovely Molly)" (floating lyrics)
cf. "The Boys Won't Do to Trust" (floating lyrics)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Dark and Stormy Weather

NOTES [107 words]: Many of Randolph's versions consist of more floating lyrics than anything else (including even the "jump into the river and drown" stanza best known from "Goodnight Irene"). The net result reminds me strongly of "Farewell He" -- but there seems to be no actual dependence, though the form of the verses is the same. Roud apparently agrees, since he splits the songs. Niles/Moore-SongsMyMotherNeverTaughtMe give only a short text, claiming "There are more unprintable verses to this song than any other on record." It is not absolutely clear that it is the same song. But it has all the characteristics of this song, or at least of this type. - RBW

Dark and Thorny is the Desert

DESCRIPTION: "Dark and thorny is the desert, Through which pilgrims make their way; But beyond this vale of sorrows Lie the fields of endless day." Difficulties on the way to heaven are described, but the pleasures of arrival are emphasized

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5)

KEYWORDS: nonballad travel religious

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 767, "Thorny Desert" (1 short text, 1 tune)

NOTES [55 words]: Apparently well-known in shape note hymns, but less popular now, perhaps because it has a rather militant feel. Some versions take the tune "Regent Square," but this is apparently not universal. It would seem that one of the earliest, if not the earliest, appearance was in the Southern Harmony, but I'm not sure which edition. - RBW

Dark as a Dungeon

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you young fellows so young and so fine, And seek not your fortune in a dark dreary mine." The singer describes how a miner's life slowly kills a man, twisting his soul and turning his blood black. He hopes to turn to coal when he dies

AUTHOR: Merle Travis

EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (recorded by author)

KEYWORDS: work hardtimes poverty mining death warning

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 155, "Dark as a Dungeon" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfSouthernFolklore, p. 729, "Dark as a Dungeon" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, p. 172, "Dark as a Dungeon" (1 text, 1 tune)
Green-OnlyAMiner-RecordedCoalMiningSongs, pp. 279-281, "Two by Travis": p. 284, "Dark as a Dungeon" (1 text, 1 tune); additional verse on p. 290

DT, DARKDUNG

Roud #6392

RECORDINGS:
Charlie Gore, "Dark as a Dungeon" (King 4879, c. 1957)
Grandpa Jones, "Dark as a Dungeon" (King 896, 1950)
Maddox Bros. & Rose, "Dark as a Dungeon" (4-Star 1540, 1956)
Pete Seeger w. Robert DeCormier, "Dark as a Dungeon" (on HootenannyTonight)
Merle Travis, "Dark as a Dungeon" (Capitol 48001, 1947; on 78 album "Folk Songs of the Hills", Capitol AD 50; rec. 1946)

File: LoF155

Dark Day

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Dark day, dark day, Sinner you're missing your way, Dark day." "Shout by and by when I get home." "Round my Father, scattering thrones." "One of these days about twelve o'clock This old world gonna reel and rock."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (LomaxCD1708)

KEYWORDS: floatingverses nonballad religious

FOUND IN: US(SE)

Roud #17298

RECORDINGS:
Dark Girl Dressed in Blue, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets a "dark girl dressed in blue" on a stagecoach. She fools him into paying her fare. They go to a bar. She hands him a banknote to pay their bill. She leaves; he is arrested for passing a bad bill. He is freed but forced to pay the bill

AUTHOR: Harry Clifton?

EARLIEST DATE: 1868 (sheet music)

KEYWORDS: money courting trick clothes

FOUND IN: US (So)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
- Randolph 388, "The Dark Girl Dressed in Blue" (1 text plus a fragment)
- Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, pp. 76-78, "The Dark Girl Dressed in Blue" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Johnson-BawdyBalladsAndLustyLyrics, pp. 47-49, "The Dark Girl Dressed in Blue" (1 text)
- Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #424, p. 28, "The Dark Girl Dressed in Blue" (1 reference)
- New-Comic-Songster, p. 55, "The Dark Girl Dressed in Blue" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST R388 (Full)

Roud #7022

BROADSIDES:
- NLScotland, L.C.Fol.178.A.2(073), "The Dark Girl Dressed in Blue," unknown, c. 1860; also RB.m.168(133)

NOTES [108 words]: The authorship here is an interesting question. It is not unlikely that the American versions derive from Harry Clifton, who was apparently the source of the 1868 sheet music. This was sung by Tony Pastor. But then there is the Scottish broadside, dated 1850-1870. It is undeniably the same song (same plot, same chorus, many of the same words). But it is set in Glasgow rather than New York, the vehicle is an omnibus rather than a stagecoach, etc. More significant, the woman is caught in the end, with a "reversible dress." Original or derivative? I could argue for either; each text has parts which appear to have been excised from the other. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: R388

Dark Knight, The

DESCRIPTION: The knight courts "a lass all neat and fair" and takes her home, where she bears him six(?) sons and three daughters. He then kills the children. "She did not live another dawn," whereupon he seeks another bride

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: homicide family madness children knight husband wife

FOUND IN: US (SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 59, "The Dark Knight" (1 text)

ST BrII059 (Full)

Roud #6526

CROSS-REFERENCES:

NOTES [67 words]: The notes in Brown show some signs of suspicion of this piece, found in the collection but with no indication of source; it also has some Scottish word forms they find unlikely. But it also shows clear signs of tradition.

There is also the question of source. The editors thought the story sounded familiar -- but couldn't locate it. I find the very lyrics familiar -- but I can't locate it either. - RBW

File: BrII059
Dark Was the Night, Cold Was the Ground

DESCRIPTION: "Dark was the night and cold was the ground On which the Lord was laid; The sweat like drops of blood run down; In agony he prayed." Jesus asks to be released from his burden, but submits to God's will; listeners are advised to learn from him

AUTHOR: Thomas Haweis (1732-1820) (Source: John Julian, Dictionary of Hymnology)

EARLIEST DATE: 1792 (Carmina Christo) (Source: Julian)

KEYWORDS: religious Jesus Bible death ordeal request

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 526, "Dark Was the Night" (3 texts, though the "C" text, which is rather short, might be another song)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 526, "Dark Was the Night" (notes only; recording missing)
Roud #11819

RECORDINGS:
John & Lovie Griffins, "Dark Was the Night, and Cold the Ground" (on MuSouth07)
Mahalia Jackson, "Dark Was the Night Cold the Ground" (on "Moving On Up a LittleHigher," Shanachie CD SHA-6066 (2016))
Blind Willie Johnson, "Dark Was the Night, Cold Was on the Ground" (on USChartersHeroes;on AAFM1; "Dark Was The Night - Cold Was The Ground" (Columbia 14303-D, 1927)
Lucy McKeever, "Dark Was the Night, Cold Was the Ground" (on AFS 921 B, 1937)
Mary Price, "Dark Was the Night" (on MuSouth07)
Charlotte Rucell and Rev. Lewis Jackson, "Dark Was the Night" (on MuSouth07)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Frankie and Albert" [Laws I3] (lyrics)
cf. "My Soul Wants Something That's New" (first verse from Haweis)

NOTES [600 words]: The song appears in the Baptist Standard Hymnal (but not the New National Baptist Hymnal) as "Dark Was the Night" with arrangers' names listed, but no author. The song passed into folk tradition, and the title seems to have caught the imagination as well; the phrase appears in Mississippi John Hurt's recording of "Frankie and Albert" (!) and it's also used as the title of an extraordinary recording of slide guitar and wordless moaning by Blind Willie Johnson. - PJS

Lining Out Black Hymns

By lining out is meant the style in which a precentor or deacon calls out the words of one or two lines of a hymn and the congregation sings those lines before the next line or two are called. The style is called "Dr Watts" because some of the hymns still sung in the style were written by Isaac Watts.

While the calling out is rapid-fire the congregational singing is slow with many notes to each syllable. At some point the precentor may initi ate moaning by the congregation. For a good example of this "old" style--with lining out and moaning--contrasted to the "new" style of hymn singing listen to Rev. Willie Mae Eberhart, Sister Fleeta Mitchell and Eddie Ruth Pringle, "A Charge to Keep I Have" on "Dust-to-Digital" CD DTD-12, various artists, "Art of Field Recording, Vol. 2" (2008).

The recordings of "Dark Was the Night..." listed here illustrate the lined out and moaning styles of hymn singing. Even on the solo recordings of Mary Price and Mahalia Jackson, the soloist calls out the lines and then sings them as the congregation would (The first line of the first verse is often not lined out since -- the assumption is -- the first line(s) have already been announced as the hymn to be sung next). The wordless Blind Willie Johnson recording of moaning is in this style of hymn singing. (The Lucy McKeever recording, which I was not able to download from the Library of Congress site -- may be an exception to this hymn singing style.)

William T Dargan's Lining Out the Word -- subtitle "Dr Watts Hymn singing in the music of Black Americans" -- is the book to read if you want to know more about this style of hymn singing. For moaning in hymn singing see pages 36-39 and 60. - BS

The request that God remove the cup from Jesus is found in all four Gospels (Matt. 26:42, Mark 14:26, Luke 22:42, cf. John 12:27). The main source, however, is probably Luke, because only Luke includes the bloody sweat.

At least, the King James translation does.

The reference is to Luke 22:43-44 -- verses which, however, are likely not part of Luke's original Greek text; of the earliest seven Greek witnesses, six -- those known as P75 (1) A B T W -- omit, as do some later witnesses of great weight (the earliest witnesses to include it are those known as * and D; it is also found in most of the early Latin translations, and may well have originated in Latin rather than Greek). Also, Jesus's prayer before his arrest is said to have taken place in a garden in John 18:1, but Gethsemane is not called a garden in the other three gospels -- and in John, Jesus had prayed for release from his fate rather earlier. Incidentally, although Jesus was arrested at night, there is no reason to think the night was unusually dark (it was Passover time, after all, and Passover is a full moon festival); we have reports of darkness as Jesus died, but not at the time of his arrest, and there are no reports of bad weather at the time (not that that inherently means anything, of course). It reportedly was chilly, though, since Peter would warm his hands during the night (Mark 14:67, John 18:18). - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2
File: Br3526

Dark-Eyed Sailor, The (Fair Phoebe and her Dark-Eyed Sailor) [Laws N35]

DESCRIPTION: The singercourts a girl, but she remains true to William, her sailor, gone these seven years. William at last identifies himself and produces his half of their broken ring. The two are married and settle down.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1809 (broadside, Bodleian Johnson Ballads 2483)

KEYWORDS: love courting brokentoken marriage

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,MW,NE,SE) Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont) Britain(Scotland(Aber),England(Lond,South,West)) Ireland

REFERENCES (40 citations):
Laws N35, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor (Fair Phoebe and her Dark-Eyed Sailor)"
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 57, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text plus 1 excerpt and mention of 2 more, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 218-219, "Dark-Eyed Canaller" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thompson-APioneerSongster 14, "The Dark Eyed Sailor" (1 text)
Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, pp. 108-110, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, very damaged, plus a reprint of a Forth broadside)
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 36-38, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman pp. 300-301, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H232, p. 318, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 93, "The Broken Ring" (1 text)
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 120-122, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #112, p. 2, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan5 1037, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (5 texts, 5 tunes)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 323-324, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 409, "Phoebe and Her Dark Eyed Sailor"; Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Mi 609, "Twas of a Comely Young Lady Fair" (2 texts)
Purslow-TheConstantLovers, pp. 30-31, "Fair Phoebe And Her Dark-Ey'd Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hamer-GreenGroves, pp. 40-41, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, "The Dark-eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 69, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #68, "Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 95, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text (with mention of a variant collection) plus 1 excerpt)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 95, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 excerpt, 1 tune)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 267-270, "Fair Phoebe and her Dark-Eyed Sailor" (3 texts; the first, "Young Willie's Return, or The Token," with tune on pp. 426-427, is this song; the second, "The Sailor," with tune on p. 427, is "John (George) Riley II" Laws N37; the third, "Billy Ma Hone," with tune on p. 427, seems to be its own song)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 26, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart1 12, "The Dark Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 144-146, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 29, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 36, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text)
Peacock, pp. 513-514, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpelés-FolksSongsFromNewfoundland 55, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 107-110, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 27, "The Dark-eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 64, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text)
Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 9, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 93-94,244, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 65, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 5, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ashton-RealSailorSongs, #71, "Fair Phoeby and Her Dark Eyed Sailor" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 125-126, "The Dark Eyed Sailor" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolkSingersWordbook, p. 147, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (1 text)
DT 460, DARKEYED* DARKEYE2
Roud #265
RECORDINGS:
M. Curran, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Charlotte Decker, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
Warde Ford, "Nightingales of Spring" (AFS 4198 A1, 1938; in AMMEM/Cowell)
Mrs. T. Ghaney, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Fred Jordan, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor" (on Voice02)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Johnson Ballads 2483, "Fair Phoebe and her Dark-ey'd Sailor," unknown [Printer's Series:(39)], 1767-1808; also Harding B 11(498), "Fair Phoebe and her Dark-Eyed Sailor," J. Catnach (London), 1813-1838; Harding B 11(499), Johnson Ballads 452, Firth c.18(141), Harding B 15(99a), Harding B 11(1120), Firth c.12(261), Harding B 11(1119), Harding B 11(3030), Harding B 16(84b), "Fair Phoebe and her Dark-Eyed Sailor"; Firth c.17(53), Harding B 11(2824), Firth b.27(475), "Fair Phoebe and her Dark-ey'd Sailor"; Harding B 16(326b), "Fair Phoebe and her Dark Eyed Sailor";
Firth b.25(142), Harding B 15(98b), "Fair Phoebe and her Dark Ey'd Sailor"; Harding B 11(3493), Johnson Ballads 1837, "Fair Phoebe, and the Dark-Eye'd Sailor";
Firth b.25(193), "Fair Phoebe and the Dark-Eyed sailor";
Harding B 15(99b), "Fair Phoeby and Her Dark Eyed Sailor";
Firth b.18(114), "Dark Ey'd Sailor" ("'Tis of a comely young lady, fair")
LOCSinging, as102640, "Dark Ey'd Sailor," J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859; also sb10077b, "Dark Ey'd Sailor"
Murray, Mu23-y1:016, "The Dark-Eyed Sailor," R. M'Intosh (Calton), 19C; also Mu23-y1:102, "Fair Phoebe And Her Dark-Eyed Sailor," James Lindsay (Glasgow), 19C
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "John (George) Riley (I)" [Laws N36] and references there
cf. "The Lovely Cottage Maid (The Cottage Maid)" (plot, themes)
cf. "Brave Wolfe" [Laws A1] and references there (tune)
cf. "The Female Smuggler" (tune, per broadsides Bodleian Johnson Ballads 2483, Bodleian Harding B 11(498), Bodleian Harding B 11(499))
NOTES [140 words]: Ford sings this to the tune usually associated with "The Blacksmith," which -- so far as I know -- hasn't been otherwise collected outside Britain except as "Brave Wolfe." - PJS
Lines shared with The Banks of Sweet Primroses: Young girl's be true while your love's at sea, For a dark cloudy morning Brings forth a pleasant day.
Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario, p. 166, declares that, in North America, this was the most popular broken-token ballad other than "The Sailor's Return" (i.e. "Pretty Fair Maid (The Maiden in the Garden; The Broken Token)" [Laws N42]) and adds that "in Britain it was an even greater favorite." - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: LN35
Dark-Haired Girl, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer and a comrade go rambling on July 20, (18)39. They see a girl, whose beauty he praises extravagantly. He promises to be true to her. Though she is a servant and he is rich, "a pretty curl Will be all I want as dower from my dark-haired girl."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: love courting rambling beauty
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H559, p. 237, "The Dark-Haired Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9471
File: HHH559

Darlin' (I)

DESCRIPTION: "If I'd a-known my captain was blind, darlin', darlin'... Wouldna gone to work till half past nine." The captain and the worker quarrel; the captain won't tell the time, and will throw him in jail if he argues. The singer wishes he had listened to mother

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973
KEYWORDS: prison work hardtimes chaingang floatingverses
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 68, "Darlin'" (1 text)
DT, DARLNCAP
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Pay Me My Money Down" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [36 words]: Every word of this song floats -- so much so that I was tempted to list it as a variant of some other song. But the form is unique. It is probably someone's rework, but it's hard to tell what the "original" was. - RBW
File: FSB068

Darlin' Why You Treat Me So?

DESCRIPTION: "... oh hello darling I still love you just the same ... you left me for another guy." "Why do you treat me so?"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1967 (USMississippi01)
KEYWORDS: love rejection nonballad lover
FOUND IN: US(SE)
RECORDINGS:
Leland musician, "Darlin' Why You Treat Me So?" (on USMississippi01)

NOTES [47 words]: The USMississippi01 track was apparently written by the singer. In the 1950s doo wop style the verse lines use a I-VI(m)-IV-V chord progression which the singer follows here; for a popular 1950s example listen to The Five Satins' "In the Still of the Night" (Ember E-1005, 1956). - BS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: RdWTMS

Darling Boy, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer says "love is the occasion of my down fall ... I have lost my love fighting for sweet liberty." She denies he left her pregnant: "he loves me too well for to serve me so." She wishes she could fly to him and will welcome him home with kisses

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1820 (broadside, Bodleian Firth c.18(125))
KEYWORDS: love war separation nonballad
Darling Cloe

DESCRIPTION: "In the old Carolina state, where the sweet magnolias bloom... There is one I long to see, She was ever true to me, And like mine I know her hair is turned to snow.... I'm going home to see my darling Cloe."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric, who was also shown an older but undated manuscript copy)

KEYWORDS: love separation age

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 117, "Darling Cloe" (2 texts, 1 tune, both from the same informant, one from manuscript and one from memory)
Roud #11390

NOTES [44 words]: Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric thinks this of minstrel-show-ish origin, perhaps learned from a songster, but could not locate it. The obvious suspicion is that the name should properly by "Darling Cloe," but a quick Google search didn't find a song by that name either. - RBW

File: Brne117

Darling Corey

DESCRIPTION: "Wake up, wake up, darling Corey, what makes you sleep so sound? The revenue officers are coming, Gonna tear your still-house down." The singer describes Corey's wild career as a moonshiner, and (dreams of) her death and burial

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1918 (Cecil Sharp collection)

KEYWORDS: drink police death burial dream

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (15 citations):
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 134-135, "Little Cora" (1 text, an unusually full version though with several floating verses)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 152, "The Gambling Man" (2 texts, 2 tunes, but only the "B" text is this song; the "A" text is "I Wonder Where's the Gambler")
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 39, "Little Cory" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #58, Darlin' Cory (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling If You Must Leave

DESCRIPTION: Singer says that if his lover leaves she will hurt him. But he will keep traveling until he finds someone else. When she sees how cruel the world can be she'll be sorry she left. By then "I'll have someone else on my mind."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1963 (recording, Ted Taylor)
KEYWORDS: courting love rejection warning nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
RECORDINGS:
Walter Lee Hood, "Darling If You Must Leave" (on USMississippi01)
Ted Taylor, "Darling If You Must Leave" (Dade 45-5000, 1963)

NOTES [45 words]: Ted Taylor's "Darling If You Must Leave" is an R&B track. Walter Lee Hood's a cappella track swaps the unrhymed lines of Ted Taylor's verses without changing the meaning. Walter Lee Hood's tune is close to a chant and Ted Taylor's is not much more musical than that. - BS
Last updated in version 5.1

File: RcDaIYML

Darling Johnny O (I)

DESCRIPTION: "My Johnny signed on board the Dragon, Bound for some place I don't know, But true it is I have had no letter." His color as been changed in a water grave. She will seek him. She steals away from home; her parents will never know if she finds him

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1968 (Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry)
KEYWORDS: love sailor separation father mother travel
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 28, "Darling Johnny O" (1 text, 1 tune) (p. 19 in the 1972 edition)
Darling Little Joe

DESCRIPTION: The dying boy asks how life will be when he is dead, e.g. "Oh what will the birds do, mother, in the spring... Will they harp at the door... Asking why Joe wanders out no more?" The boy asks mother to care for his pets, and tells her he will be in heaven

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1866 (sheet music, "The Death of Little Joe")

KEYWORDS: death children animal farewell

FOUND IN: US(Ap,So)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Randolph 712, "Darling Little Joe" (3 texts plus a fragment, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 460-461, "Darling Little Joe" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 712A)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 68, pp. 111-112, "Little Joe" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, p. 290, "The Brown Bird" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #3545

RECORDINGS:
Carter Family, "Darling Little Joe" (Victor [Canada] CNV-102, n.d.); "Little Joe" (Decca 5632/Montgomery Ward 8068, 1939; rec. 1938)
Bradley Kincaid, "Little Joe" (Montgomery Ward M-4457, 1934)
Monroe Brothers, "Little Joe" (Bluebird B-7598, 1938)
Charles Nabell, "Little Joe" (OKeh 40418, 1925)

BROADSIDES:

LOCSheet, sm1876 10660, "Little Joe," Blackmar & Finney (New Orleans), 1876 (tune)

NOTES [133 words]: Cohen notes two sheet music printings, one (dated 1876) crediting it to Charles E. Addison, the other (1866) by V. E. Marsten. Draw your own conclusions. - RBW

Darling Neddeen

DESCRIPTION: O'Shaughnessy's song in praise of Neddeen: whales flap their tail to raise a breeze for birds; girls' eyes are so bright no gas lamps are needed in cabins; geese run around ready roasted; cows give whisky; ganders give milk; girls never grow old.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1823 (_The Freeholder_, according to Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)

KEYWORDS: nonballad talltale animal bird whale

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 250-254, "Darling Neddeen" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
Darling Nelly Gray

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls the time he spent with Nelly. But now "the white man has bound her with his chain;" he laments "Oh my darling Nelly Gray, they have taken you away And I'll never see my darling any more." He hopes they will be reunited after death

AUTHOR: B. R. Hanby

EARLIEST DATE: 1856 (broadside, LOCsSheets; sheet music published by Oliver Ditson of Boston)

KEYWORDS: love separation slave

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (9 citations):
Dean-FlyingCloud, p. 73, "Darling Nelly Gray" (1 text)
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 303-304, "Darling Nellie Gray"(1 text, 1 tune)
Jackson-PopularSongsOfNineteenthCenturyAmerica, pp. 53-56, "Darling Nelly Gray" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #434, p. 29, "Darling Nelly Gray" (2 references)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 251, "Darling Nelly Gray" (1 text)
Salt-BuckeyeHeritage-Ohio'sHistory, pp. 83-84, "Darling Nelly Gray" (1 text, 1 tune)
Heart-Songs, pp. 116-117, "Darling Nelly Gray" (1 text, 1 tune, without the slavery references)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #127, "Darling Nelly Gray" (1 text, without the slavery references)
DT, NELLGRAY*

ST RJ19053 (Full)

Roud #4883

RECORDINGS:
American Quartet, "Darling Nelly Gray" (CYL: Lambert Indestructible 630, 1902; on Protobilly)
Louis Armstrong & the Mills Brothers, "Darling Nelly Gray" (Decca 9145, 1937; on Protobilly)
The Carver Boys, "Darling Nelly Gray" (Paramount 3198, 1930/Broadway 8246 [as Carson Boys], n.d.; rec. 1929)
Roland Cauley & Lake Howard, "Medley: Darling Nelly Gray & Little Brown Jug" (ARC, 6-04-54, 1936; rec. 1934; on Protobilly)
Carroll Clark, "Darling Nelly Gray" (Columbia A-770, 1909)
Al Hopkins & his Buckle Busters, "Darling Nelly Gray" (Brunswick 185/Vocalion 5186 [as the Hill Billies], 1927)
W. W. MacBeth, "Darling Nelly Gray" (Brunswick 571, 1931; rec. 1929)
[Asa] Martin & [James] Roberts, "Darling Nelly Gray" (Perfect 12762/Banner 32306 [as by Asa Martin], 1931; Conqueror 7935, 1932)
McMichen's Melody Men, "Darling Nelly Gray" (Banner 32306, 1931; Conqueror 7965, 1932)
Metropolitan Quartet, "Darling Nelly Gray" (CYL: Edison [BA] 1860, n.d.)
Chubby Parker, "Darling Nelly Gray" (Supertone 9187, 1928)
Peerless Quartet, "Darling Nelly Gray" (Gennett 4532, 1919)
Roba Stanley [or Stanley Trio], "Nelly Gray" (OKeh 40271, 1925)
Henry Whitter's Virginia Breakdowners, "Nelly Gray" (OKeh 40211, 1925)

BROADSIDES:
LOCsSheets, sm1856 600230, "Darling Nelly Gray," Oliver Ditson (Boston), 1856 (tune) [attributed to B. R. Hanby]
LOCsSinging, as102660, "Darling Nelly Gray," Charles H. Anderson (Washington), 19C; also cw103950, "Nelly Gray"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Eumerella Shore" (tune)
cf. "Memphis Flu" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
Dear Prairie Home (File: CAFS491A)
The Escaped Prisoner (by Charles Thatcher) (File: BaRo037)
Our Union Flag ("There's a starry banner floating o'er the home of liberty," by Walter Washington Warren) (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 122)

NOTES [155 words]: This was the first popular success of Benjamin Russell Hanby (1833-1867), who eventually wrote some eighty songs. It is reported to be based on an actual event; a runaway slave named Joseph Shelby died at the Ohio home of Hanby's father. Shelby was hoping to raise money to win the freedom of another slave named Nelly Gray.

In one of the odd turns of history, Wharton's War Songs and Poems of the Southern Confederacy, following one Mrs. A. T. Smythe, suggests Stephen Foster as the author; even if the sheet music did not disprove this, the anti-Slavery sentiment would surely do so.

In an even odder turn, Fitzhugh Lee, Robert E. Lee's nephew who was such an ardent Southerner that he refused to surrender with his uncle at Appomattox, gave his favorite horse the name "Nelly Gray"; see Jeffry D. Wert, From Winchester to Cedar Creek: The Shenandoah Campaign of 1864, 1987 (I use the 1989 Touchstone paperback), p. 79. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0

File: RJ19053

Darling Old Stick

DESCRIPTION: Bull Morgan McCarthy inherits his brother's shillelah and fights with those he'd heard of as "informer" and "canary." Partly as result, partly as cause, he meets Kate. "I bought this gold ring, sir, And to the priest I shall bring, sir"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1853 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(798))
KEYWORDS: marriage fight trial humorous
FOUND IN: Ireland Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 137, "Bull Morgan McCarthy" (1 text)
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 51, "Darling Old Stick" (1 text)
Roud #3276
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(798), "The Darlin' Old Stick," John Ross (Newcastle), 1847-1852; also 2806 c.15(258), 2806 b.11(11), "The Darlin' Old Stick"; Harding B 20(34), Harding B 11(799), Harding B 11(797), "The Darlin' Ould Stick"; Harding B 11(1370), "Darling Old Stick"; Firth b.25(73), "The Darling Ould Stick"
NLScotland, L.C.178.A.2(300), "The Darlin' Old Stick," unknown, c.1870
SAME TUNE:
Teddy O'Toole (per broadside Bodleian Harding B 20(34))
Young America and Ould Ireland ("It's a soger I am, and I'm wearing the green") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 183)
File: Mack137

Darling, I Have Come to Tell You (Farewell Nellie, Little Bunch of Roses, Many Miles Apart, Don't This Road Look Rough and Rocky)

DESCRIPTION: "Darling, I have come to tell you, Though this message breaks my heart, That, before the night is over, We'll be many miles apart." The singer may leave a bunch of roses, or request that the other remember him, or complain that she has broken his heart

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1920 (Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5)
KEYWORDS: love betrayal flowers separation nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 689, "Goodbye"; 700, "Little Bunch of Roses"; 705, "Many Miles Apart" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
Roud #16012
RECORDINGS:
The Carter Family, "Farewell Nellie" (Decca 5677, 1937)
(Lester) Flatt & (Earl) Scruggs, "Don't This Road Look Rough and Rocky" (Columbia 21334)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "When Rocks and Hills Divide Us" (lyrics)

NOTES [100 words]: This song is very difficult; it shares lines with so many lost love songs that it could perhaps be argued that it is not even an independent song in its own right, although the first verse quoted in the description is fairly distinct. But the rest of the song varies greatly. I put it in the Index mostly to establish it as the source of the well-loved bluegrass song "Don't This Road Look Rough and Rocky," made famous by Flatt & Scruggs but first performed with that chorus by the Blue Sky Boys. I do not know if the Blue Sky Boys added the chorus or if they found the whole thing in tradition. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.5
File: BrS5689

Darling, Soon I Will Be Sleeping

DESCRIPTION: "Darling, soon I will be sleeping, In the church yard over there, Where the grass and vines are creeping...." The singer asks (her?) love to place flowers on her grave. He should not mourn; the flowers "will speak of me."

AUTHOR: Delia Bates Burns (source: Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama)
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama)
KEYWORDS: death burial separation love flowers

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 99, "Darling, I Will Soon Be Sleeping" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #16294
File: Arno099

Darn Little Ford, The

DESCRIPTION: "Old Zeke (?) Perkins sold his hog the other day, And the gosh-darn fool throwed his money right away" on a Ford car. He tries to shut it off, "but the darn little Ford kept a chugging right ahead." Nothing he tries can make the car stop moving

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (High-OldOldFolkSongs)
KEYWORDS: humorous technology

REFERENCES (1 citation):
High-OldOldFolkSongs, p. 44, "The Darn Little Ford" (1 text)
File: High044

Darn the Man That I Can Get

DESCRIPTION: Singer wonders why she can't get a man. She likes all men in uniform, even "short or thin," "from the U.S.A or Canada." She is "six feet four ... just the proper size." "I have buried four more of them and I'm only sixty-two"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA/Leach)
KEYWORDS: age marriage drink humorous nonballad sailor soldier

RECORDINGS:
Mike Kent, "Darn the Man That I Can Get" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Old Maid's Song (I)" and references there

File: RcDtMtIG
Darra

DESCRIPTION: "First when I engaged, it was to [corn-dealer] Darrahill, It was to be his foreman, and feed the threshing mill." Instead, he is put in a bothy with grueling work. He will go back to see Darrahill's "servant girlie that I am often wi'," but not Darrahill

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: courting lie work hardtimes farming worker
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 352, "Darra" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5901
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Darrahill
File: GrD3351

Dashing Young Lad from Buckingham, A

DESCRIPTION: The Buckingham lad bets he could go through London singing but not speaking. Though thrown in jail he does not speak. The Lord Mayor's daughter begs her father to release him. He does on condition he pays the officers' wage. He wins the bet.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs)
KEYWORDS: wager prison gambling
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, pp. 114-115, "A Dashing Young Lad from Buckingham" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1382
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Jock Hamilton" (plot)
NOTES [15 words]: As closely as this song's plot agrees with "Jock Hamilton" the two songs share no text. - BS
Last updated in version 2.6
File: BrMa114

Dat's All Right

DESCRIPTION: Floating-verse with chorus "Dat's all right (x2), Dat's all right, babe, dat's all right. I'll be with you right or wrong; When you see a good thing, shove it right along...." Verses about visiting honey and seeing her dead or working for the rich folks

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: love death separation money floatingverses
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 234-235, "Dat's All Right" (1 text)
File: ScNF234B

Daughter Ellen

DESCRIPTION: "O rise, daughter Ellen, and stand on thy feet For to see thy dear mother lie dead in yon field." "Oh no..." Repeat for father, sister, brother. For true love: "Oh yes"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1886 (E.M. Plunket, _Merrie Games in Rhyme_, according to Opie/Opie--TheSingingGame)
KEYWORDS: love death playparty family
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Daughter of Peggy-O, The

DESCRIPTION: Husband marries a wife who won't work; he beats her and threatens to yoke her to the plow. She submits.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908

KEYWORDS: marriage abuse work humorous wife

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, p. 29, "The Daughter of Peggy-O" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #117

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" [Child 277] (plot)

NOTES [67 words]: Although there are strong similarities to "Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin", the class distinction does not appear, and neither does the sheepskin. I call it a different song. -PJS

In the absence of intermediate versions, I tend to agree. Although both songs have nonsense refrains, they are not the SAME nonsense refrains, and the stanza forms and lyrics are distinct.

Though Roud, of course, lumps them. - RBW

File: VWL029

---

David Dodd

DESCRIPTION: "Drums were beating, troops were marching." "Captured by the Federal minions, as a hated Rebel spy," Dodd is asked to name his informant. The boy answers that he is prepared to die. "In the grave in old Mount Holly Lie the bones of David Dodd."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Allsopp)

KEYWORDS: Civilwar execution burial

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), pp. 231-232, (no title) (1 text)

ST FORA231 (Partial)

NOTES [343 words]: Allsopp lists this under the section heading "The Nathan Hale of Arkansas," and says that a school was dedicated in 1927 to the memory of David Dodd.

The story Allsopp tells is a little confused. Dodd's age is given as 17 when he was executed in 1864 -- yet he is called "too young to enlist" in the Confederate army. This is simply false -- by the end of the war, the Confederates were taking 15-year-olds. Either his age is wrong or he had dodged regular military service.

If Allsopp's account is true, Dodd not only was serving as a courier but was spying on Union positions. It also sounds as if he could have told everything he knew without it doing the Confederates any harm; the Union army command was just too slow in its responses to news (the whole Red River campaign was marked by slow and inept Federal action). But the kid seems to have been a romantic.

Allsopp's account gives few substantial details except that Dodd was executed in Little Rock.

Allsopp's account is in error in at least one particular: The Federal general in charge of the Department of Arkansas in 1864 was not General "Steel" but Major General Frederick Steele, 1819-1868. The fact that Steele was opposed by General Fagan seems to date the incident to the Arkansas campaign of 1864; the general involved is James Fleming Fagan (1828-1893), a cavalry division commander. Dodd must therefore have been active some time between March 23 (when Steele set out) and April 30 (when Steele was forced to retreat largely as a result of Fagan's..." actions). The likeliest date would appear to be around April 20-25; it was on the latter date that Fagan hit Steele's supply line.

Steele's campaign is of course mentioned in most major Civil War histories (though usually only in connection with the Red River expedition of Banks, which it was supposed to support). I haven’t found any mentions of Dodd, though.

I don't know whether this poem is a traditional song or not. But Allsopp lists no author, and the tale is very folkloric, so I have very hesitantly indexed the piece. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: FORA231

David's Flowery Vale

DESCRIPTION: The singer sees the Armagh coach arrive; one of the passengers is a beautiful girl. He steps up to her, point out his family's wealth, and asks if she will come away with him. She says that she is not wealthy and is pledged to another

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1845 (by John Hume, according to Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong)
KEYWORDS: courting rejection beauty
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H212, p. 370, "Drummond's Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong 12, "Young McCance" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2943
RECORDINGS:
Eddie Butcher, "David's Flowery Vale" (on Voice01, IREButcher01)
Robert Cinnamond, "Young McCance" (on IRRCinnamond01)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Young McCance

NOTES [153 words]: I have found no references to "David's Fountain" or "David's Flowery Vale" in maps of Ireland. There are, however, some clues. The lad and lass look at ships sailing to Chester (in western Britain). She comes from Hamiltonsbawn, and is riding the Armagh coach. Hamiltonsbawn is almost due east of Armagh, half a dozen or so miles from the city center. It is not on any body of water. Armagh isn't on anything navigable, either. But the road from Armagh to Hamiltonsbawn heads on in the general direction of Belfast. Thus it seems likely that David's Flowery Vale is somewhere on the shores of the Belfast Lough. - RBW

Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong: "John McCance, the owner of this splendid mansion [near Belfast], was born in 1772 and lived until 1835.... The song is correct in mentioning McCance's dwelling at the foot of Divis Mountain: he lived at Roselands on the Upper Falls before moving to Suffolk House in 1811." - BS

File: HHH212

David's Lamentation

DESCRIPTION: "David the king was grieved and moved, He went to his chamber, his chamber and wept. And as he went, he wept and said, 'Oh my son! Oh my son, would to God I had died, would to God I had died for thee, Oh Absalom, my son, my son.'"

AUTHOR: William Billings
EARLIEST DATE: 1840 (Missouri Harmony)
KEYWORDS: royalty death family Bible religious
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 412, "Oh, Absalom, My Son" (1 text)
DT, DAVLAMNT ABSALON*
Roud #15055

NOTES [139 words]: The original William Billing song (of slightly uncertain date, though obviously in existence by the early nineteenth century) is taken almost verbatim from 2 Samuel 18:33. A second verse, rarely sung and not found in the Sacred Harp or the Missouri Harmony, is almost as close to 2 Samuel 19:2:

Vict'ry that day was turned into mourning
When the people did see how the King grieved for his son. He covered his face and in a loud voice cried, "Oh my son...."

I cannot absolutely prove that the round "Absalom My Son" is descended from the Billings piece; the words are straight from the Bible, after all. There is, however, melodic similarity (though not identity), and the Billings tune was designed as a fugue, which would encourage its conversion to a round.

For more about composer William Billings, see the notes to "Chester." - RBW

Last updated in version 2.6
File: FSWB412B

Davie and His Kye Thegither

DESCRIPTION: Davie comes to his mother, "some good news to lat her ken." She warns against hasty marriage, but the wedding goes ahead. He and his wife fight; she breaks a pot over his head. The parson arrives, the wife hits him too, and he concedes Davie's misfortune

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast)

KEYWORDS: courting marriage clergy humorous injury

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #113, p. 2, "Davie and His Kye"; "Folk-Song in Buchan," p. 20, ("Davie an' his kye together") (1 text plus 2 fragments)
Greig/Duncan7 1281, "Davie's Woon'" (6 texts, 4 tunes)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 120-121, "Davie and His Kye Thegither" (1 text)
Roud #5545

NOTES [38 words]: Greig says his copy is from A Kininmouth Lassie which Greig/Duncan7 seems to correct to A Kininmonth Lassie.
Greig/Duncan7: "Bell Robertson [1841-1922] says she read 'Davie and his Kye' when she was a lassie of about eight." - BS

Last updated in version 2.6
File: 0rd120

Davy

DESCRIPTION: Dance tune; "Davy, Davy, where is Davy/Down in the henhouse eating up the gravy/Davy, Davy, where is Davy/Down in the chickenyard, sick on the gravy." (There may also be a "why can't a white man dance like a nigger" verse).

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (recording, Weems String Band)

KEYWORDS: dancing nonballad food discrimination

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 68, "Davy" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST CSW068 (Full)

RECORDINGS:
New Lost City Ramblers, "Davy, Davy" (on NLCR01)
Weems String Band, "Davy" (Columbia 15300-D, 1928)

NOTES [266 words]: This piece instantly makes me think of some of the versions of "Black-Eyed Susie (Green Corn)." I can't prove any connection, though. It also bears some slight similarities to "Davy Crockett" -- but, again, nothing concrete, just isolated words. - RBW

Only, I think, the name. - PJS

George Lineberry, the husband of the grand-niece of "Uncle Dick" Weems and "Uncle Frank" Weems, explains how the song actually came about:
"The Weems String Band (Perry County, TN) traveled to Memphis, TN in 1928 where Columbia was recording groups for the potential '1928 version American Idol.' (NOT)
"[Their] musical numbers were instrumental -- not vocal arrangements. However, Columbia wanted lyrics, i.e. no lyrics -- no record. So the Weems String Band went back to the hotel, created some lyrics (kind of) for their two songs: 'Greenback Dollar' and 'Davy' (sometimes referred to as 'Davy, Davy'). The lyrics met the minimum requirement, but both songs remained basically instrumentals.
"The next day they returned to Columbia's 'studio' and recorded both songs, resulting in their only record."
The New Lost City Ramblers proceeded to bowdlerize the song to within an inch of its life (Lineberry's transcription is in the Supplemental Tradition, and it will demonstrate why they did so). Had the Ramblers known its story, they probably would have just played it as an instrumental. Though the instrumental style also apparently puzzled them, based on the notes in Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook. Lineberry's comments may explain that, too: A third Weems, Jess, played bowed 'cello. - RBW
File: CSW068

Davy Crockett

DESCRIPTION: Davy and/or the singer engage in various improbable activities such as hunting coons without a gun. The singer and Davy have a fight and agree to a draw: "I was hard enough for him, and so was he for me."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety); "Pompey Smash" appeared 1847 in Lloyd's Ethiopian Song Book

KEYWORDS: nonsense humorous hunting fight

FOUND IN: US(Ap,So)
REFERENCES (9 citations):
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, p. 339, "Davy Crockett" (1 stanza)
- Randolph 423, "Davy Crockett" (2 texts, 1 tune)
- Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 338-340, "Davy Crockett" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 423A)
- Combs/Wilgus-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernUnitedStates 168, pp. 182-183, "Davy Crockett" (1 text)
- Cox-FolkSongsSouth 177, "Davy Crockett" (1 text)
- Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 243-246, "Pompey Smash and Davy Crockett" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 130-132, "Pompey Smash and Davy Crockett" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 251-253, "The Ballad of Davy Crockett" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, DAVCROCK
Roud #3589
RECORDINGS:
- Chubby Parker, "Davey Crockett" (Conqueror 7895, 1931; on StuffDreams1)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Settin' on a Rail" (lyrics)

NOTES [66 words]: Obviously not to be confused with the pop song "The Ballad of Davy Crockett." Randolph says that this piece is derived from the minstrel piece "Pompey Squash," (called "Pompey Smash" by Cox). This is clearly true of Randolph's "B" text and less obviously so in the case of the Lomax text; I am not certain in the case of the other versions. I might theorize that Randolph's text is a hybrid. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.5
File: R423

Davy Faa (Remember the Barley Straw)

DESCRIPTION: (A man courts a neighbour's daughter by disguising himself as) a tinker. The tinker follows the girl into bed and sleeps with her. (He departs, leaving her with a rich fee, giving his name as Davy Faa/Shaw. Her father seeks a husband for her)

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1895 (Baring-Gould)

KEYWORDS: disguise seduction sex trick abandonment money father rape tinker bastard

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South,Lond),Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Bronson 279, "The Jolly Beggar" (37 versions, but #28 is "Davy Faa (Remember the Barley Straw)"")
- Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #20, pp. 145-146, "Davie Faa" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's Child 279 #28!}
- Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #87, "The Barley Straw" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 188, "Remember the Barley Straw" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan7 1473, "The Tinker Loon" (2 texts, 1 tune)

DT, DAVYFAA* BARLSTRW

Roud #118

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Tramps and Hawkers" (tune) and references there

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Barley Straw

NOTES [207 words]: I've never really been sure whether this song involves rape or not. It's clear that the girl gets the worst of it, though. It will be observed that the only parts of this song that are constant are the tinker and the seduction. No doubt various attempts at bowdlerization account for some of this, but there does seem to be some mixture involved as well. - RBW

I suggest renaming this main entry; as far as I know, only in one version of the song (Jeannie Robertson's) is the man (or the song) named Davy Faa, while "The Barley Straw" or variants thereon seem relatively common. More important, I'd rather avoid confusion with the more common "Davy Faa", aka "The Gypsy Laddie." Also, the tune given in Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland isn't that of "Tramps and Hawkers/Paddy West", and I'm not sure it's been collected from tradition with that tune (Jean Redpath doesn't count.) - PJS

All true, except that the Robertson/Redpath versions seems to be the ones everyone knows. Which is why I used the title I did. And while Robertson's tune is not "Tramps and Hawkers," it has similarities.

Roud lumps this with Child #279, "The Jolly Beggar." So do Porter/Gower. The similarity in plot is obvious. So is the dissimilarity in form. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: K188

Davy Lowston

DESCRIPTION: "My name is Davy Lowston, I did seal, I did seal." Lowston and crew are left to hunt seal; the ship which is to retrieve them is wrecked. After much privation, the survivors are rescued by the Governor Bligh. Lowston advises against sealing

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1967 (Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ); reportedly collected by John Leebrick in the 1920s

KEYWORDS: hunting wreck disaster hardtimes rescue New Zealand ordeal

FOUND IN: US(NE)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, "David Lowston" (1 text, 1 tune)
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 14, "Davy Lowston" (1 text, 1 tune) (p. 7 in the 1972 edition)
Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook, pp. 41-42, "David Lowston" (1 text, 1 tune)
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 45, "(Davy Lowston)" (1 text)

DT, DAVYLOWS

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "We Will Not Go to White Bay with Casey Any More" (plot)

NOTES [941 words]: It is ironic to note that this most iconic of New Zealand folk songs was not found in that country but rather was found by John Leebrick in the United States. Bill Morris, who as of this writing (2019) is working on a documentary about this song, tells me that Neil Colquhoun talked to Leebrick in the 1950s. It appears that all known versions derive from this report of a reported version. And no one now alive seems to know much about Leebrick. There is obviously a possibility that Colquhoun had a hand in the text or (even more likely) setting the tune.

This song is a mostly-true story, though there has been a lot of confusion along the way. The best summary seems to be from "The Story of David Lowston, a pre-colonial NZ song," an article by Frank Fyfe published in the Journal of New Zealand Folklore in 1970 and now available online at the New Zealand folklore web site.

All dates in what follows are somewhat uncertain. I'm going to leave out all the "probablies" and just summarize.

It was in 1809 that the brig Active, Captain John Bader (corrupted to Bedar in the song, probably for metrical reasons) advertised for hands. The Active sailed from Sydney on December 11, 1809; on February 16, 1810, a party of ten sealers under David Lowrieston was left on an island off New Zealand. They had relatively few supplies; Bader promised to return soon with more, but the Active was never seen again.

The sealing crew had to survive by hunting seals and digging up roots; they seem to have been amazingly inept, watching two boats destroyed, but despite their privations (and the implication of the song), none of them actually died. They were rescued by the Governor Bligh, and arrived in Sydney on December 15, 1813.

This practice of leaving sealers on an island to hunt, incidentally, had been common for some decades; Port Jackson (Sydney) had been established in 1788, and it was used as a sealing supply hub almost at once (so Briton Cooper Busch, The War Against the Seals: A History of the North American Seal Fishery, McGill-Queen's University Press, 1985, p. 28). By 1800 we find contracts made between the ships and the sealers, including rules for what to do if the ship did not return on time. Interestingly, the 1800 contract did not include a provision for what to do if the ship did not return at all, or how long to wait for it (Busch, pp. 12-13).

Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, pp. 46-47, quotes an article from the Dec. 23, 1813 Sydney Gazette telling what was known at the time. On p. 47 Garland quotes an account of the finding of the Active's wreck in 1847.

All of this fits with what we know about New Zealand sealing. Gordon McLauchlan, editor-in-chief, New Zealand Encyclopedia, David Bateman Limited, 1984, p. 491, says that sealers came to New Zealand within a quarter of a century of Captain Cook's discovery of the country -- only to hunt the seals effectively to extinction within three decades. "In NZ only fur seals were of any commercial value, because the water was too warm for any build-up of blubber under the skin" (although there were blubber seals on the islands to the south that were worth taking for oil). "The first sealers concentrated on Fiordland where large numbers of seals were found on the rocks around the coastline and on small islands nearby. During the first 20 years, tens of thousands of skins were taken each season from the Dusky Sound area, and round Foveaux Strait and Stewart Island.... [T]he men themselves were often left on the shore for months at a time to be picked up later with their kills, having survived arduous and uncomfortable living conditions." (Although, as any Newfoundland can tell you, conditions on a sealing ship also featured arduous and uncomfortable living conditions!)

The rest of Fyfe's speculation must be taken with a grain of salt. He believes the song to be based on "Captain Kidd," and there are obvious resemblances of form. However, "Davy Lowston" as it was collected (from an American, of all things) is not sung to "Captain Kidd," and while several of the musical phrases are similar, others are strikingly different.

Indeed, "Davy Lowston" cannot be sung to the usual "Captain Kidd"/"Wondrous Love" by any amount of squeezing, as the following analysis will show; I print the common text of "Davy Lowston," and note the differing number of syllables in "Captain Kidd."

My name is Davy Lowston (1 extra syllable in DL; could perhaps be adapted -- though Fyfe argues that the original was "My name is David Lawrieston," which would never fit no matter what squeezing applied)

I did seal, I did seal (compatible)
My name is Davy Lowston, I did seal. (compatible)
Though my men and I were lost (1 extra syllable in DL; could be adapted)
Though our very lives it cost (1 fewer syllable in DL, hard to adapt)
We did seal (2 fewer syllable in DL, no adaption possible)
We did seal, we did seal. (compatible with some versions of Captain Kidd).

I allow the possibility that "Davy Lowston" is derived from Captain Kidd, or one of its folk relatives, but it's far from certain.

Cleveland lists the tune not as "Captain Kidd" but as "Sam Hall." The two are of course similar, but I think "Sam Hall" is a better fit. Although the way I've heard "Davy Lowston" is not quite the same as any version of "Sam Hall" that I've heard.

Fyfe also believed that the song was brought to the United States by the whaler Erie, which sailed the southern Pacific starting in 1832 and was lost in 1840. This is certainly possible, but I'd need stronger evidence than Fyfe offered.

Thanks to Bill Morris for sharing his research on this song. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2

File: DTdavylo
Dawning of the Day (I), The [Laws P16]

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets a milk-maid at the dawn of day, seduces her despite her reluctance, and leaves her. Months later they meet again; she asks him to marry her, but he answers that he has married a rich girl. She warns against such rovers

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1845 (broadside, Bodleian 2806 b.11(56))

KEYWORDS: seduction warning poverty betrayal

FOUND IN: US(MA) Canada(Mar,Ont) Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (9 citations):
- Laws P16, "The Dawning of the Day"
- ThomsonNewYork, pp. 384-386, "The Dawning of the Day" (1 text)
- Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, p. 163, "The Dawning of the Day" (1 text)
- Greig/Duncan7 1312, "The Dawning of the Day" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
- Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 56, "The Dawning of the Day" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 28, "The Dawning of the Day" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Thompson-A PioneerSongster 21, "The Dawning of the Day" (1 text)
- Forget-Me-Not-Songster, pp. 178-180, "The Dawning of the Day" (1 text)

DT 498, DAWNDAY

Roud #370

RECORDINGS:
- Cathie Stewart, "The Dawning of the Day" (on SCStewartsBlair01) (a fragmentary version, ending with the girl's reluctance)

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, 2806 b.11(56), "Dawning of the Day," J. Pitts (London), 1819-1844; also Harding B 11(2026), Harding B 6(4), Harding B 25(480), Johnson Ballads fol. 412 View 1 of 2, Harding B 11(806), 2806 c.8(283), 2806 c.16(25), 2806 b.11(197), Harding B 26(119) [badly faded], Harding B 11(804), Harding B 11(803), Harding B 16(69a), Harding B 17(73a), Harding B 16(69b), Harding B 11(805), Harding B 20(23), Harding B 17(72b), Harding B 16(69b), "[The] Dawning of the Day"
- LOCsinging, as102690, "Dawning of the Day," L. Deming (Boston), 19C
- NLScotland, L.C.Fol.70(148), "The Dawning of the Day," James Lindsay (Glasgow), c.1853

File: LP16

Dawsonville Jail

DESCRIPTION: Singer is told by Sheriff Glen Wallace that he's "a little too full." He is taken to jail. His friend Shorty objects but is arrested too; they work on the sheriff's chicken farm, and the food is bad. They swear they'll drink no more.

AUTHOR: Words: L. D. Snipes & Shorty Lunsford; tune: traditional

EARLIEST DATE: 1982 (recording, Ray Knight)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer gets up, but is told by Sheriff Glen Wallace that he's "a little too full." He heads for town; Wallace & his deputy, Toy, come to arrest him and take him to jail. His friend Shorty objects but is arrested too; they work on the sheriff's chicken farm, and the food is bad -- "the peas was green and the meat was fat." They fall on their knees and swear they'll drink no more. Released, they advise that "before we take a drink we'd better look twice." Refrain: "Comin' for to carry me home"

KEYWORDS: warning farming crime prison punishment drink friend police prisoner humorous

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices, pp. 208-209, "Dawsonville Jail" (1 tet, 1 tune)

Roud #4960

RECORDINGS:
- Ray Knight w. Ed Teague & Art Rosenbaum, "Dawsonville Jail" (on FolkVisions2)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" (tune, refrain)
- cf. "Hand Me Down My Walkin' Cane" (lyrics)
- cf. "Cryderville Jail" (subject)

NOTES [113 words]: Clearly not a traditional song, but I include it because (a) the form, structure and style are traditional, and (b) it uses tune, structure and refrain from a traditional song, and borrows a floating verse from another. It's not "Cryderville Jail"; in fact, according to the liner notes, the writers, who knew that song, deliberately chose a different structure. - PJS
According to the notes in Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices, this is loosely based on something that actually happened to the authors; they were hauled in for drunkenness, but the authorities also had them play a concert in the prison! So apparently they weren't treated too harshly, and made a joke of it. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.6
File: RcDawsJa

Dawtie, The
DESCRIPTION: Jenny loves Johnny but "cannot, munnet marry yet! My peer auld mudder's unco bad." Johnny says he loves Jenny and would not wait. She would wait a year. Her mother says she'll die soon and sobs when Jenny is out of sight.
AUTHOR: Robert Anderson (source: Whistle-Binkie)
EARLIEST DATE: 1842 (Whistle-Binkie)
KEYWORDS: age courting travel dialog mother
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Greig/Duncan4 899B, "I Canna, Mauna Marry Yet" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #6255
CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Haughs of Crumdale" (tune, per Whistle-Binkie)
File: GrD4899B

Day Columbus Landed Here, The
DESCRIPTION: "I never shall forget the day Columbus landed here. Myself and forty Indians were standing on the pier.... 'Twas I who built the Rockies up and placed them where they are; Sold whiskey to the Indians behind my little bar"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908
KEYWORDS: humorous talltale bragging
FOUND IN: Canada(West)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Fowke/Johnston-FolkSongsOfCanada, pp. 178-179, "The Day Columbus Landed Here" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST FJ178 (Partial)
Roud #4546
CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "I Was Born About Ten Thousand Years Ago (Bragging Song)"
ALTERNATE TITLES:
- I Never Shall Forget
- The Old Timer's Song
File: FJ178

Day I Lost My Job, The
DESCRIPTION: Higgins loses his job at Fitzpatrick's grocery for being drunk. When he cannot find work his family turns him out. He escapes from an officer who takes him for a tramp. Murphy invites him for a drink but they get into a fight. There's no comfort since
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: violence work drink unemployment hardtimes family wife
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #30150
RECORDINGS:
- Paddy Duggan, "The Day I Lost My Job" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
File: ML3D1LMJ
Day I Went to Rothesay O, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer and Maggie go to Rothesay and dance to a fiddle on the shore. Maggie changes into a blue gown to swim. She rides a donkey and breaks her dress hoops. That made her sad until "a kiss and a cuddle" made her feel better on their way home.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan2)

KEYWORDS: love travel clothes shore dancing

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan2 289, "The Day I Went to Rothesay O" (1 text)
Roud #2142

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Rothesay-O" (lyrics)

NOTES [35 words]: I have split this from "Rothesay-O" because the story is entirely different though the chorus is the same. One obviously provided the pattern for the other.

Rothesay is on the Island of Bute, west of Glasgow. - BS

Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD2289

---

Day is Past and Gone, The

DESCRIPTION: "The day is past and gone, The evening shades appear, Oh, may we all remember well The hour of death is near." The singer, preparing to sleep, things ahead to the sleep of death and asks to be taken to God when the time comes

AUTHOR: Words: John Leland (1754-1841) / Original Music: A. Chapin (source: Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)

KEYWORDS: death religious nonballad

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 46, "The Day is Past and Gone" (1 text, 1 tune)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, p. 45, "The Day is Past and Gone" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: F. E. Belden, Christ in Song (Washington: Review & Herald Publishing Assn, 1908 ("Digitized by Internet Archive")), #774, "The Day Is Past" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5718

RECORDINGS:
Lawrence McKiver and the McIntosh County Shouters, "Watch That Star" (on McIntosh1)

--

Day ob Liberty's Comin', De

DESCRIPTION: "Darkies don't you see de light, De day ob liberty's comin', comin'...." The "darkies" sing; the Lord says "Now let my people go." The slaves had worried that the Union troops would never arrive, but they will come soon and free the slaves

AUTHOR: George F. Root (writing as "Wurzel")

EARLIEST DATE: 1862 (sheet music published by Root & Cady, according to Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar)

KEYWORDS: slavery Civilwar freedom

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 322-324, "De Day ob Liberty's Comin'" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [28 words]: George F. Root sometimes used the pseudonym "Wurzel" because "Wurzel" is German for "Root"; for background on this, see the notes to "Rosalie the Prairie Flower." - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2
File: SCWF322
Day of Judgment, The

DESCRIPTION: "And the moon will turn to blood (x3), In that day. Oh you, my soul, And the moon will turn to blood in that day." "And you'll see the stars a-falling." "And you'll hear the saints a-singing." "And the Lord will say to the sheep ... go to him right hand."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, p. 53, "The Day of Judgment" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #12013
NOTES [208 words]: The verses of this song all come pretty directly from the various Biblical apocalypses:
The moon turning to blood is from Rev. 6:12; Acts 2:20 also says the moon will turn to blood, citing Joel 2:31. In addition, Mark13:24=Matt. 24:29 tells of the moon not giving light.
The very next sentence in Matthew and Mark (Matt. 24:29, Mark 13:25) tells of the stars falling, as does Rev. 6:13. In addition, Rev. 8:10-11 tells of the great star Wormwood falling from the sky to the earth bringing destruction, and another evil star falls in 9:1, and in 12:4 the dragon is sweeping stars from the sky.
We find saints singing around the throne of God in 15:3, where "those who had conquered the Beast" gather; in addition, the elders sing around the throne in Rev. 5:9, 11:17, and someone (it's not entirely clear who) is singing in Rev. 14:3. The creatures before the throne sing in Rev. 4:8. (As you can probably tell, there is a lot of singing in the Revelation to John.)
The last three verses, about the Lord talking to the sheep and the goats, refers specifically to the parable of the sheep and the goats in Matthew 25:32-45 (at the end of Matthew's apocalypse), which I've seen described as one of the most frightening parables in the New Testament. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.4
File: AWG053

Day of Waterloo, The

DESCRIPTION: "Revolving time has brought the day That beams with glory's brightest ray In history's page or pet's lay -- The day of Waterloo." The singer urges the British to rejoice in the humbling of France, and praises Wellington and his soldiers AUTHOR: "Lieutenant Skinner" ?

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Ord-BothySongsAndBallads), from a notebook dated 1817
KEYWORDS: soldier battle nonballad
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
June 18, 1815 - Battle of Waterloo
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, p. 303, "The Day of Waterloo" (1 text)
Roud #2184
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Scots Wha Hae (Bruce Before Bannockburn)" (tune)
File: 0rd303

Day That I Played Baseball, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, my name it is O'Houlihan, I'm a man that's influential." He normally lives a quiet life, but one day is convinced to play baseball. He strikes out, he hits fouls but runs the bases anyway; he ends up drunk and on a cattle train

AUTHOR: Pat Rooney (Sr.)
EARLIEST DATE: 1878 (sheet music, titled "The Day That I Played Base Ball")
KEYWORDS: humorous sports
FOUND IN: US(MW,So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 58-59, "The Day That I Played Baseball" (1 text)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart1 17, "Baseball" (1 text, 1 tune)
Day the Co'nel Leave and Gone

DESCRIPTION: The place mourned "the day the Co'nel leave and gone." The Colonel was born in Princess Town. The woodmen had to lower him down.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Elder-FolksongsFromTobago)

KEYWORDS: burial death nonballad Caribbean

FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Elder-FolksongsFromTobago 8, "Day the Co'nel Leave and Gone" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [34 words]: Elder-FolksongsFromTobago: "This bongo song about 'The Colonel' is characteristic of a certain type of wake song in which the 'great deeds' of an outstanding man in the village are sung at his wake." - BS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: EITo008

Day the Pub Burned Down, The

DESCRIPTION: "Pull up a stump and lend and ear, A story I'll relate, About a sinful waste of beer I will elucidate." During a drought, the pub catches fire. There being no water, the fire brigade uses the beer to halt the fire. Residents seek revenge on the firemen

AUTHOR: Words: Bob Edwards (source: Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry)

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry)

KEYWORDS: humorous fire revenge drink

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 91, "The Day the Pub Burned Down" (1 text, 1 tune) (p. 53 in the 1972 edition)
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, pp. 244-245, "(The Day the Pub Burned Down)" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Phil Garland, "The Day the Pub Burned Down" (on NZSongYngCntry)

NOTES [168 words]: Colquhoun's notes point out that there is no such town as "Wapakiwi," so this is obviously fiction, mostly a vehicle for the line, "Oh, firemen, firemen, save the beer, And let the (bloody) pub burn down!"
The song reports that, after the fire, "morphants haunt the old pub site" and "shickers... hunt the firemen down." NewZealandDictionary, p. 247, has three definitions for "shicker" as a noun (and one for it as an adjective), but all involve alcohol; definition (c) is "a drunk or drunkard."
Morris, p. 301, claims that the original form of "morphoon" is "mopoke" an aboriginal name for a bird whose call sounds like MO-poke." He goes on to explain that "The New Zealand Morepork is assuredly an owl" (NewZealandDictionary, p. 172, describes it as the koukou or ruru or New Zealand owl), but explains, "The bird is heard far more often than seen, hence confusion has arisen as to what is the bird that utters the note." Thus a morepork will only be found at a place that has bee thoroughly deserted. - RBW

Bibliography
Day We Packed the Hamper for the Coast, The DESCRIPTION: About the great difficulties a couple has "the day we packed the hamper for the coast." First the food is loaded in extravagant quantities. Then the wife tries to add cooking utensils; the husband proposes adding the cat. And so forth.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (Sam Henry collection)

KEYWORDS: travel husband wife humorous food fight

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H488, pp. 501-502, "The Day We Packed the Hamper for the Coast" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #9466

NOTES [43 words]: The Sam Henry text (the only one known; I suspect Henry's informant was close to the author) seems to end in mid-song, with the hamper full but nothing much happening. I suspect an explosion -- either of the hamper or of the quarreling couple -- followed. - RBW

File: HHH488

Days Are Awa That I Hae Seen, The

DESCRIPTION: In words familiar from many songs, the girl says that she has been jilted through no real fault of her own. Her lover had bid her farewell. She will dress well and show no sorrow, and vows she will love him no more.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1818 (Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbuchatBallads, but see notes); 1906 (Greig/Duncan6)

KEYWORDS: courting farewell abandonment

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (3 citations):

Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbuchatBallads, pp. 192-193, "Lord Ogilvie" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan6 1136, "Begone, Bonnie Laddie" (5 texts, 4 tunes)
Ord-BothysSongsAndBallads, p. 179, "The Days Are Awa That I Hae Seen" (1 text)

Roud #5530

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Farewell He" (subject) and references there

ALTERNATE TITLES:

I Went to Meet My True Love
I've Got Sweethearts
Come Back, Bonnie Laddie

NOTES [249 words]: This is one of those songs that seems to be assembled entirely out of floating materials. The first stanza in Ord-BothysSongsAndBallads's version, "The flowers are bonnie and the trees are green, But the days are away that I hae seen," is of course reminiscent of "A-Growing." Both the first and second stanzas have parts reminiscent of "I'll Be All Smiles Tonight." The overall effect is more like "Farewell He." And a couple of lines remind me of "No, Never, No." The combined effect seems to be unique, though.

The Glenbuchat text "Lord Ogilvie" makes the problem even worse. Unlike Ord's version, it is coherent, although the opening is vague. A girl asks what she has done wrong that the man (later said to be Lord Ogilvie) has abandoned her. He says she has done nothing wrong; he has simply chosen another girl. She despairs; he says he was testing her; she rejects him; he dies for love. Only a few words of this appear in Ord's version, and the Glenbuchat "Lord Ogilvie" text is the only Personally, I would consider this two songs (possibly more): the Glenbuchat "Lord Ogilvie" ballad and the Ord floating verse collection (which happens to have some lines from "Lord Ogilvie"). But until more "Lord Ogilvies" turn up, I will follow the Glenbuchat editors in filing the song here, simply to facilitate referencing the versions.- RBW

Greig/Duncan6 quoting Duncan: "From a young man called 'George' twenty-five years ago. Noted 29th June 1908." - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: Ord179

Days in Old Penobscot Stream, The

DESCRIPTION: "Out in Boston City In the middle of July," 25 lumberjacks leave for the camps. They arrive in Suhomuck by the Penobscot. The work goes well for a week -- until it starts raining. The food is mostly beans. The singer ironically praises boss and cook

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks)

KEYWORDS: logger work cook food

FOUND IN: US(NE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, pp. 70-71, "The Days in Old Penobscot Stream" (1 text)

File: Gray070

Days of Forty-Nine, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer, "Old Tom Moore from the Bummer's Shore," a relic of the California gold rush of 1849, recalls the various characters that he encountered "in the days of old when we dug up the gold"

AUTHOR: Charles Bensell ("Charley Rhoades")?

EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (The Great Emerson's New Popular Songster)

KEYWORDS: gold mining drink death moniker

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1849 - Beginning of the California gold rush

FOUND IN: US(MA,Ro,So,SW)

REFERENCES (10 citations):
Randolph 198, "The Days of Forty-Nine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 12, "The Days of Forty-Nine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #158, "The Days of Forty-Nine" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 91, "The Days of Forty-Nine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 54, "The Days of '49" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 654, "The Days of '49" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 285, "The Days of Forty-Nine" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 172-174, "The Days of '49" (1 text)

DT, DAYSOF49*

Roud #2803

RECORDINGS:
Logan English, "The Days of '49" (on LEnglish02)
"Yankee" John Galusha, "Days of '49" (on USWarnerColl01)

File: R198

Days of Hard Luck Swagmen Seem So Long Ago, The

DESCRIPTION: "The days of hard luck (hard case) swagment/swaggies seem so long ago, When they roamed about the country, carrying their load. The places where they camped beneath the open sky, Are just forgotten places (or "hardly ever noticed") by people passing by

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 2009 (Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ)
KEYWORDS: travel hardtimes
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 282, "(The days of hard luck swagmen/The days of hard-case swaggies)" (2 short texts)
File: Garl282

Days of Seventy-Six, The

DESCRIPTION: "The days of '76, boys, We ever must revere, Our fathers took their muskets then To fight for freedom dear.... Oh 'tis a great delight to march and fight As a Yankee volunteer." Battles of the Revolutionary War are recalled, and potential enemies warned

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1960
KEYWORDS: war freedom nonballad America rebellion
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Apr 18, 1775 - Battle of Lexington. A British force routs the American Minutemen. The colonials gain some revenge as the Redcoats advance on Concord
Dec 25, 1776 - Washington leads his troops across the Delaware to rout the British at Trenton
Oct 17, 1777 - Saratoga. British General John Burgoyne, advancing from Canada into New York, is forced to surrender when the British forces in the mid-Atlantic region do not undertake their planned advance
Oct 19, 1781 - Surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown causes the British to give up hope of reconquering America
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 19, "In the Days of '76" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6666
File: LoF019

Days of the Past Are Gone, The

DESCRIPTION: "The harness hangs in the old log barn, The wagon rots in the shed...." "For we've caught up with the Joneses now, with a fine new car and a truck...." "Them were the days when We were young and able. We rode good broncs, and we had fast dogs...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973
KEYWORDS: age cowboy recitation
FOUND IN: Canada
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 91, "The Days of the Past Are Gone" (1 text)
File: Ohr091

Days of the Week (I)

DESCRIPTION: "I went to visit a friend one day ... she couldn't go out to play, Because it was her washing day, This is the way she washed away." Repeat with ironing, mending, baking, cleaning, until it is "her playing day"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1985 (Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame)
KEYWORDS: playparty
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 67, "Days of the Week" (3 texts)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
Daysman, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer quits as day labourer for bad wages, takes his only fiver and goes to a hiring fair, but receives no bid. He spends the five on a maid pretending to hire him. Now he's back at the same wages as before, but without his fiver.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (IREButcher01)

KEYWORDS: sex lie money work drink

FOUND IN: Ireland

Roud #2942

RECORDINGS:

Eddie Butcher, "The Daysman" (on IREButcher01)

File: RcDaysm

De Boatman Dance

DESCRIPTION: A minstrel song about a boatman's life, observing that there is no one like a boatman. "O dance, de boatman, dance all night 'till broad daylight, And go home wid de gals in de morning. Hi, ho, de boatman row, Floating down de ribber on de Ohio"

AUTHOR: Daniel Decatur Emmett

EARLIEST DATE: before 1835 (broadside, Bodleian Firth c.22(54)), but reportedly copyrighted 1843

KEYWORDS: dancing river minstrel ship sailor

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE) Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (10 citations):

Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 492-493, "Dance the Boatman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan3 484, Greig/Duncan8 Addenda, "The Boatman's Dance" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 223, "Hi You Boat Row" (1 fragment)
Sulzer-TwentyFiveKentuckyFolkBallads, p. 13, "Dance, Boatman, Dance" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryMississippiRiverFolklore, p. 566, "De Boatman Dance" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scott-EnglishSongBook, pp. 78-79, "De Boatmen's Dance" (1 text, 1 tune)
Heart-Songs, pp. 76-77, "De Boatmen's Dance" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 39, "Boatman's Dance" (1 text)

DT, BOATDANC*

Roud #5898

RECORDINGS:

Elizabeth Cotten, "Boatman Dance" (on Cotten02)
Byrd Moore & his Hot Shots, "Boatman's Dance" (Gennett, unissued, 1930)
Eleazar Tillet, "Come Love Come" (on USWarnerColl01) [a true mess; the first verse is "Nancy Till", the chorus is "Come, Love, Come, the Boat Lies Low," and it uses part of "De Boatman Dance" as a bridge.]

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Firth c.22(54), "The Boatman of de Ohio" ("De boatman dance, de boatman sing"), G. Walker (Durham), 1797-1834; also Firth b.25(239), "Dance de Boatmen"; Harding B 15(81b), Harding B 11(352), Firth b.28(38) View 1 of 2 [almost entirely illegible], ["De Boatman Dance"; Firth b.25(595/596) View 1 of 2, "The Boatmen Dance"; Harding B 11(117), "Boatman's Dance"

LOCSheet, sm1844 390930, "De Boatman Dance, Ethiopian Ballad," C. G. Christman (New York), 1844 ["by Philip Ernst"]; also sm1848 441710, "De Boatmen's Dance" (tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
De Los Dorados de Pancho Villa (I Am a Soldier of Pancho Villa)

DESCRIPTION: Spanish. "I am a soldier of Pancho Villa, Of his dorados I am but one." The singer says it does not matter if he is killed, because there are other soldiers. He will fight to the end. All Villa's followers will gladly die for him.

AUTHOR: unknown (English translation by Jenny Wells Vincent)

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Sing Out!, volume 2, #12, according to Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection)

KEYWORDS: foreign language soldier Mexico nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection, p. 117, "I Am a Soldier of Pancho Villa" (1 text)
File: Grim117

De Shucking ob de Corn

DESCRIPTION: Named for the chorus, "Ain't you goin' (x3) to de shuckin' ob de corn? Yes, I'se goin' (x3)... to de shuckin ob de corn." Verses are various: White children go to school to learn, negroes to fight; a beau offers his love gold; Satan tempts the singer.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: work food courting floating verses

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 199, "De Shucking ob de Corn" (1 text plus a fragment of the chorus)
File: Br3199

De Valera

DESCRIPTION: The singer favors the republic rather than Redmond's Home Rule. "At Ringsend in Boland's De Valera took his stand." "We'll carry arms openly as in the days of yore The defence of the realm won't be heard of anymore When De Valera's president of Ireland"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (Tunney-StoneFiddle)

KEYWORDS: rebellion England Ireland nonballad patriotic political

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tunney-StoneFiddle, p. 24, "De Valera" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
John Redmond (1856-1918) led the Home Rule Party. The Home Rule issue, which might have caused an Irish Civil War, was made a side issue during the World War, and Redmond's political fate was sealed by the Easter Rising. After the war the Home Rule party lost lost power to Sinn Fein. (source: John Redmond at the History Learning Site)

During the Easter Rising, in April 1916, Eamon de Valera led the Irish Republican Brotherhood [IRB] Third Battalion attack at "Boland's Mills, with outposts from Westland Row Station to Ringsend and at Mount Street Bridge." (source: Dublin Flames Kindled A Nation's Spirit: Extract from Irish Independent 1916-66 Supplement at IrelandOn-Line site) - BS

(I have to disagree with the History Site's interpretation of Redmond pretty strongly. The strong majority of histories I have read say that the largest group in Ireland in the period 1880-1915 was in favor of Home Rule. The only threat of civil war was from the Ulster Protestants. General Irish opinion did not begin to shift until after the British botched the response to the 1916 Easter Rising. Ireland "did" have a Civil War in the 1920s, and it was the de Valera faction who started it, attacking the legitimate government. Poor John Redmond, who ended up picking up the pieces of the Parnellite fiasco, tried to find a solution which would satisfy both sides -- Home Rule. The British muffed "that", too, and Redmond died too soon to find another answer, and of course it's easy, now that Ireland is independent, for people to say they were for it all along, meaning that many songs that were once the province of a militant -- even terrorist -- minority are now the general property of the Irish people.)

(For the background to this controversy, see the notes to "Home Rule for Ireland" and "Loyal Song Against Home Rule." For how it worked out, including the start of the Irish Civil War, see "General Michael Collins." For more on the relations between de Valera and the government he both helped found and fought against, see "Legion of the Rearguard.")

The reference to the "defence of the realm" could have two interpretations, depending on the exact dating of the song. If it is during World War I, it might refer to the British attempts to raise troops in Ireland. First they picked up volunteers -- with little success; according to Chandler/Beckett, p. 243, less than 11% of eligible Irish men volunteered, compared to about 25% of those in England, Scotland, and Ireland. Volunteerism having failed to supply enough corpses for Douglas Haig and his staff of butchers, the British then started trying to impose conscription -- yet another stupid move that helped to turn Ireland against them.

If, on the other hand, the song is in fact from the time it was collected, then the comment about defence presumably refers to the fact that the British, under the Free State treaty, kept control of a handful of ports for naval use. Ports which they eventually gave back to Ireland when de Valera and Neville Chamberlan were running Ireland and England (OxfordCompanion, p. 550). It was one of Chamberlain's less-noticed mistakes; it made the Battle of the Atlantic much more deadly for Britain. Had he just promised to turn them over, say, ten years later, it might well have shortened World War Two.)

Eamon de Valera is one of the great enigmas of history. Like Joan of Arc, or Richard III, or Julius Caesar, he inspires violently conflicting opinions. Coogan's monumental biography on, p. 2 describes how difficult it is to sum him up:

"Dev.' was the greatest political mover and shaker of post-revolutionary Ireland. His towering figure continues to cast shadows that are both benign and baleful. Therefore, as a biographer, I have been conscious of the two linked and major problems in the course of trying to chart the career of this extraordinary man: First, to convey a sense of his importance to Ireland and her relationships with Great Britain, America and the members of the British Commonwealth; second, while doing so to steer between the Scylla of hagiography and the Charybdis of denigration. Practically everything of substance written about him falls into one category or the other. There is no via media where Eamon de Valera is concerned. The problem is compounded by the fact that not only did de Valera shape history, he attempted to write it too...."

The difficulty, I think, is that de Valera was a man who operated by assumptions -- that Ireland was somehow unique, that the Catholic Church was absolutely correct and great (except where he disagreed with it), that the British were the enemy and extremely untrustworthy, and that he was himself a moderate steering between the radical Cathal Brugha and the realist Michael Collins factions of the Irish independence movement. All of these are, of course, just assumptions, and how one interprets de Valera will depend entirely on how many of those assumptions one accepts.
- RBW

Bibliography

Last updated in version 2.5
File: TSF024

De'il Stick the Minister

DESCRIPTION: "Our wife she keeps baith beef and yell And tea to treat the Minister... While I the water-stand maun try, May the De'il stick the Minister." The minister can explain the Covenant and curse Papists, but he's otherwise grasping and useless

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1900 (Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland)

KEYWORDS: clergy curse humorous

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 116-117, "De'il Stick the Minister" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST StoR116 (Partial)

Roud #3153

NOTES [75 words]: Although reported seemingly only in Northumberland, the references to the Covenant seem to imply Scottish origin. As, for that matter, does the clear anti-clericalism. (Though we might note that the Covenanting army long was engaged around Newcastle and other parts of Northumberland.) I'm amazed it doesn't quote the passages in Matthew and James which condemn the clergy. Apparently The Minister didn't preach those passages to the congregation. - RBW

File: StoR116

Deacon's Calf

DESCRIPTION: The deacon goes out to feed his calf; it kicks over the bucket and the deacon too. He reviles it; were it not for Christian love, he'd tear the calf's miserable soul apart. Ch.: "Ah-ha-ha-ha-ha, what makes the monkey laugh/To see the deacon feed his calf"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (recording, Georgia Yellow Hammers)

KEYWORDS: curse farming humorous animal clergy

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:
Georgia Yellow Hammers, "The Deacon's Calf" (Victor V-40004, 1929)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Le Petit Moine (The Little Monk)" (subject)
cf. "Mourner, You Shall Be Free (Moanish Lady)" (floating lyrics)

File: RcDCalf

Deacon's Daughter, The

DESCRIPTION: A young man is engaged to a "treacherous" deacon's daughter. Just before the wedding, in the middle of the night, the lady runs off with her blacksmith lover. The final stanzas tell how those left behind piously wring their hands

AUTHOR: Wheeler Hakes?

EARLIEST DATE: 1945 (Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland)
Dead and Gone

DESCRIPTION: "Dead and gone, Lord, dead and gone, All the friends I have, dead and gone. "My poor mother died a-shouting, All the friends I have...." "Dead and gone, dead and gone...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1977 (Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices)

KEYWORDS: religious death nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE,So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices, p. 34, "Dead and Gone" (1 short text, 1 tune)

File: Rose034

Dead Man's Chest

DESCRIPTION: "Fifteen men on a dead man's chest, Yo ho ho and a bottle of rum, Drink and the devil had done for the rest." A combination of rebellion and civil war in a (pirate?) crew results in the death of captain, bosun, cook, and most of the rest of the crew.

AUTHOR: Allison & Waller ?

EARLIEST DATE: 1915

KEYWORDS: death homicide rebellion pirate

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 512-514, "The Buccaneers (The Dead Man's Chest)" (1 text)

DT, YOHOHO*

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Fifteen Men on a Dead Man's Chest
Yo Ho Ho

NOTES [119 words]: The origin of this piece is more than usually confused. The initial quatrain appears in Robert Louis Stevenson's Treasure Island (1883), but he reports that he had it from another source. (According to David Cordingly, Under the Black Flag: The Romance and Reality of Life among the Pirates, Harcourt Brace, 1997 [copyright 1995], p. 5, the Dead Man's Chest comes from Charles Kingsley's At Last.)

In 1901, the full form of the piece is said to have appeared in a musical by Allison & Waller. Did they write it? I don't know. The Lomaxes printed their version from Seven Seas, September 1915. Apparently no author was listed.

Chances are that this is not a folk song, but it may have folk roots somewhere. - RBW

File: LxA512

Dead Man's Journey, The

DESCRIPTION: It was in the spring of (?) Just a little before the war was o'er, That 'twas mine the mail bags to transport." The singer and Josh Murphy set out from Stevenson's Post; Murphy is killed by Indians. The path comes to be called Deadman's Journey

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Burt-AmericanMurderBallads)

KEYWORDS: travel Indians(Am.) homicide

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Burt-AmericanMurderBallads, pp. 140-141, "(The Dead Man's Journey)" (1 excerpted text)
NOTES [106 words]: The dating on this piece is curious and difficult. Burt-AmericanMurderBallads's text dates it to (18)54, but the next line says "Just a little before the war was o'er," which implies 1864. And the destination was "Totten Fort," which -- if Burt-AmericanMurderBallads is correct in assuming this is Fort Totten -- was not established until 1867. There is also the problem of the Indian tribes listed. The event took place in North Dakota (the supposed singer, Carlie Reynolds, was a historical person who died at the Little Bighorn), but the piece mentions Chippewa (Ojibwe) and Sioux (Dakota) -- and that territory was entirely Sioux. - RBW

File: Burt140

Deadly Wars, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh the deadly wars are past and blawn And gentle peace returning." The singer laments all the good people killed in the war. In the Burns text, he comes home and begs for lodging -- and meets the girl he loved long ago. She still loves him

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1793 (published by Burns as "When wild War's deadly Blast was blawn")

KEYWORDS: soldier separation return reunion

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #31, pp. 167-168, "The Deadly Wars" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs, pp. 238-239, "The Deadly Wars" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 24, #3 (1975), p. 23, "The Deadly Wars" (1 text, 1 tune, the Jeannie Robertson version)

James Kinsley, editor, Burns: Complete Poems and Songs (shorter edition, Oxford, 1969) #406, pp. 543-545, "When wild War's deadly Blast was blawn" (1 text, 1 tune, from 1793)
Roud #7284

NOTES [47 words]: The Robert Burns version of this is eight-eight line stanzas long, and is a fairly familiar story. The only traditional version appears to have been Jeannie Robertson's, which is only a quarter this long and has a somewhat simplified tune. Even Burns gets folk processed sometimes. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: S0v23n3

Deaf Woman's Courtship, The

DESCRIPTION: An old man comes to an old woman and asks her is she will (mend his jacket). She says she cannot hear him. He asks about other mundane tasks. She still can't hear him. He asks her to marry. She says, "I hear you now quite clearly"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1776 (Herd MS.)

KEYWORDS: age courting humorous questions

REFERENCES (17 citations):
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissouriFolkloreSociety, p. 265, "Hard of Hearing" (1 text)
Randolph 353, "Old Woman, Old Woman" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 136, "Old Woman, Old Woman" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 187, "Hard of Hearing" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 187, "Hard of Hearing" (2 excerpts, 2 tunes)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 105, "The Deaf Woman's Courtship" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 178, "The Deaf Woman's Courtship" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 54, "Old Woman (The Deaf Woman's Courtship)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 78, pp. 128-129, "Old Woman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 243-244, "The Deaf Woman's Courtship" (1 text plus 1 fragment)
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 10-11, "The Deaf Woman's Courtship" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dear Annie

DESCRIPTION: "My heart's most broken, And I have wondered why, I'm left without a token, Without one Annie's smile." "I know it was wrong to leave her, To leave against her will, But blame not me, dear Annie, I fondly love you still"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: separation love
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 321, "Dear Annie; I Left My Love in England" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #6652
File: BrS4321

Dear Companion (The Broken Heart; Go and Leave Me If You Wish To, Fond Affection)

DESCRIPTION: "I once did have a dear companion (or: "love with fond affection"); Indeed I thought his love my own Until a dark eyed girl betrayed me And now he cares no more for me." The girl, looking at her baby, recalls her unfaithful love and regrets her shame

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan6)
KEYWORDS: love infidelity pregnancy lyric floatingverses
FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,SE,So) Britain(Scotland(Aber)) Canada(Newf) Ireland
REFERENCES (24 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #169, pp. 1-2, "Go and Leave Me" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan6 1145, "Go and Leave Me If You Wish It" (6 texts, 2 tunes)
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 209-210, "Fond Affection" (1 text)
Randolph 755, "The Broken Heart" (7 texts plus 1 excerpt and mention of 1 more, 2 tunes, though some, especially the fragments, may not go here; the "A" text contains material from "I Loved You Better Than You Knew" and several others, notably "H," are or are mixed with "The Broken Engagement (II -- We Have Met and We Have Parted)"") "F" is "Thou Hast Learned to Love Another"
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 493-495, "The Broken Heart" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 755A)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 111, "The Dear Companion" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 43, "The Dear Companion" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 10, "Dear Companion" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 181-182, "Go And Leave Me If You Wish To" (1 text)
Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 58, "Once I Loved" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 153, "Fond Affection" (13 text, including several much longer than the usual versions; the "M" text in particular seems conflate; the first four verses may be a separate song beginning "Darling, do you know who loves you?")
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 153, "Fond Affection" (5 excerpts, 5 tunes)
"Fond Affection" (1 text, 1 tune)

Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 142-143
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 90-91
Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp. 50-51
Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs, p. 166
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, pp. 32-33
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 59
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 323
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, p. 173
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 164
Harold Nestler, "Songs from the Hudson Valley" (article in _New York Folklore Quarterly_, Volume V, #2, Summer 1949)

RECORDINGS:
- [Clarence] Ashley & [Gwen] Foster, "Let Him Go, God Bless Him" (Vocalion 02666, 1934; rec. 1933)
- Dock Boggs, "I Hope I Live a Few More Days" (on Boggs3, BoggsCD1 -- an incredibly complex composite of lost love/abandonment songs, jumbled together and confused, but seemingly with more lines from this song than any other)
- Carter Family, "Fond Affection" (Victor 23585, 1931; Montgomery Ward M-4744/Bluebird B-6176, 1935)
- Daisy Chapman, "Go and Leave Me" (on SCDChapman01)
- Walter Coon, "Fond Affection" (Superior 2521, 1930)
- Debra Cowan, "Dear Companion" (on HCargillFamily)
- Crowder Brothers, "Leave Me Darling, I Don't Mind" (Melotone 7-04-70, 1937)
- Clarence Green, "Fond Affection" (Columbia 15311-D, 1928)
- Texas Gladden, "Once I Knew a Pretty Fair Miss" (on USTGladden01 -- a fragment too short to classify but with a feeling similar to this piece)
- Sid Harkreader, "Many Days With You I Wandered" (Vocalion 15100, 1925)
- Kelly Harrell, "Bye and Bye You Will Forget Me" (Victor 20535, 1926; on KHarrell02 -- clearly this song, though it borrows lyrics from "Bye and Bye You Will Forget Me")
- Maine's Mountaineers "Let Her Go God Bless Her" (Bluebird [Canada] B-6104, 1935)
- Lester McFarland & Robert Gardner, "Go and Leave Me If You Wish" (Brunswick 293, 1929; rec. 1928)
- David Miller, "Many Times With You I've Wandered" (Champion 15429, 1928)
- Mrs Way, "Go and Leave Me If You Wish, Love" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Wayfaring Stranger" (approximate tune) and references there
- cf. "The Bonny Boy (I)" (lyrics)
- cf. "Columbus Stockade Blues" (lyrics)
- cf. "Sweet Heaven (II)" (lyrics)
- cf. "Saint James Infirmary" (the "let her go" lyrics)
- cf. "Good Night, Bye-Bye, Forever" (theme, some lyrics)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Once I Loved with Fond Affection
If It's In Your Heart
I Once Did Love Your Fond Affection
Fond of Affection
Raven Dark Hair
Fond Devotion
Future Days
Separation

NOTES [144 words]: This piece would appear to break up into two subfamilies, "Dear Companion"
"I once did have a dear companion") and "A Fond Affection." I tried to separate the two -- but when I saw the incredible mixture in Randolph, I gave up. - RBW
It's also getting harder to distinguish "Columbus Stockade Blues" from this song. We use the "Columbus Stockade" line as a marker, but several versions of "Dear Companion" overlap heavily with that song in lyrics. - PJS
So true. Peacock's version, e.g., is "Columbus Stockade Blues" minus the first verse, though the tune is different.
Jean Ritchie, incidentally, rewrote this as "My Dear Companion," beginning "Oh have you seen my dear companion, For he was all the world to me." Her version can be found on pages 62-63 of Sing Out!, Volume 41, #3 (1996/1997). Apparently it has become mildly popular in country circles. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: R755

Dear Cork City by the Lee
DESCRIPTION: The singer is far from Cork but recalls its hills, chimes, streets, restaurants in Coal-Quay, hurling and "Glen Rovers' Christy Ring"; "now for the finish we'll drink a pint... We can never forget ... the night we won the Free State Championship"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1978 (OCanainn-SongsOfCork)
KEYWORDS: pride sports drink nonballad
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCanainn-SongsOfCork, pp. 112-113, "Dear Cork City by the Lee" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [119 words]: The first and second verses -- before the hurling verses -- remind me of "Cork's Own Town" (I) for the description of local streets and Fishamble or Coal-Quay restaurants. OCanainn-SongsOfCork: "I suppose it is just possible that there are people looking at this song who might not be aware that Glen Rovers Hurling Club is situated in Blackpool, on the Northside of the city. Equally, it is possible that they might not know that Christy Ring, one of the most famous hurlers of all time, is the 'rock of Cloyne' referred to in the song, for Cloyne, in East Cork, is his native place though he now lives in the city. The 'eight counties in a row' refers to their many victories in the Cork County Championship." - BS
File: OCan112

Dear Emerald Isle
DESCRIPTION: "...an orphan will bless you If you'll help a poor boy from the dear emerald isle." His father died working the bad soil. The sheriff turned out the child and mother. Mother died and the boy left Ireland. He hopes to return when Ireland is free
AUTHOR: George W. York (source: Irish Song Book No. 1, 617 Irish Songs and Ballads)
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (617 Irish Songs and Ballads); in tradition, 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: poverty emigration burial death farming begging hardtimes starvation Ireland father mother
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
ADDITIONAL: Manus O'Conor, Irish Com-All-Ye's (New York, 1901 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 110, "The Dear Emerald Isle" ("Kind friends, will ye help a poor, weary stranger") (1 text)
Wehman Bros. Pocket-Size Irish Song Book [of 175 Songs] No. 1 (New York, 1909 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 9, "The Dear Emerald Isle" ("Kind friends, will ye help a poor, weary stranger") (1 text)
Six Hundred and Seventeen Irish Songs and Ballads (New York: Wehman Bros., n.d. ("Digitized by Irish Traditional Music Archive")), p. 108, "The Dear Emerald Isle" ("Kind friends, will ye help a poor, weary stranger")
Wehman's Collection of 163 Songs No. 38 (New York, 1893 ("Digitized by Internet Archive")), p. 2, "The Dear Emerald Isle" ("Kind friends will ye help a poor, weary stranger") (1 text)
Roud #30111
RECORDINGS:
John Connors, "The Shamrock" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
SAME TUNE:
I Always Shall Speak of Old Ireland with Pride
Dear Evalina

DESCRIPTION: The singer met Evalina "way down in the meadow." They courted for a time, but after three years he still has no money; though he cannot marry her, "Dear Evalina, Sweet Evalina, My love for thee shall never, never die."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (sheet music published by E. A. Daggett of New York)

KEYWORDS: love courting poverty separation

FOUND IN: US(MW, Ro, SE, So)

REFERENCES (8 citations):
Randolph 823, "Sweet Evelina" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 686, "Sweet Evelina" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 101, pp. 211-212, "Evalina" (1 text)
Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, p. 87, "Sweet Evelena" (1 text)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2267, p. 153, "Sweet Evelina" (1 reference)
Heart-Songs, pp. 417-418, "Dear Evelina, Sweet Evelina" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gilbert-LostChords, p. 113, "(Sweet Evelina -- parody)" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 257 "Sweet Evelina" (1 text)

Roud #15352

RECORDINGS:
Arkansas Woodchopper [pseud. for Luther Ossenbrink], "Sweet Evalina" (Supertone 9643, 1930)
The Blue Sky Boys, "Sweet Evalina" (Bluebird 7348, c. 1938)
W. Lee O'Daniel & the Light Crust Doughboys, "Dear Evalina, Sweet Evalina" (Vocalion 04440, 1938)
Ola Belle & Bud Reed, "Sweet Evalina" (on Reeds01)
Phil Reeve & Ernest Moody, "Sweet Evalina" (Victor 21188, 1928)

SAME TUNE:

NOTES: The 1863 sheet music of this credits the words to "M" and the music to "T." I would assume this means that it was taken from tradition. It seems to have been picked up fairly quickly; according to Edwin Wolf 2nd, American Song Sheets, Slip Ballads, and Political Broadsides 1850-1870, Library Company of Philadelphia, 1963, p. 153, there was another Civil War-era broadside printed by Magnus. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
File: R823

Dear Honey

DESCRIPTION: A man writes to "dear Honey." "To follow after you it is my whole intent." He dreams of being with her but "when I wake and find myself A-lying all alone," the night seems long. If he dies before they meet he would have her "keep these few lines"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed)

KEYWORDS: courting love separation nonballad

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 168-169, "Dear Honey" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #6376

File: Ow1E168
Dear Land

DESCRIPTION: "When comes the day all hearts to weigh if they be staunch or vile, Shall we forget the sacred debt we owe our mother isle?" The singer recalls the wrongs of Ireland, and his family's long devotion
AUTHOR: Sliach Cuilinn (John O'Hara, 1822-1890)
EARLIEST DATE: 1887 (Sparling)
KEYWORDS: Ireland patriotic
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 54-55, "Dear Land" (1 text)
Roud #9558
NOTES [38 words]: John O'Hara was a writer associated with The Nation, though he is almost forgotten today; this is pretty definitely his best and most famous work. Supposedly Charles Gavin
Duffy whispered the first few lines on his deathbed. - RBW
File: Dean054

Dear Little Shamrock, The

DESCRIPTION: "There's a dear little plant that grows on our isle" brought by St Patrick "and he called it the dear little shamrock of Ireland." The shamrock still grows. "When its three little leaves are extended" they denote that "we together should toil."
AUTHOR: Words: Andrew Cherry (1762-1812)
EARLIEST DATE: 1806 (sung by Mrs Mountain, Dublin Opera House, according to Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)
KEYWORDS: Ireland nonballad patriotic
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (5 citations):
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, pp. 112-113, "The Dear Little Shamrock" (1 text)
Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 46-48, "The Green Little Shamrock of Ireland" (1 text)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #94, "Dear Little Shamrock" (1 text)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 105, "The Green Little Shamrock of Ireland" (1 text)
Little Shamrock of Ireland"
Roud #13278
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(658), "The Dear Little Shamrock," J. Harkness (Preston), 1840-1866; also Harding B 11(823), Harding B 11(824), 2806 c.15(239), "The Dear Little Shamrock"
LOCSheet, sm1870 02376, "The Dear Little Shamrock," Whittemore Swan & Stephens (Detroit), 1870; also sm1875 00381, sm1878 07872, '[The] Dear Little Shamrock" (tune)
NOTES [102 words]: The shamrock has been associated with St. Patrick for centuries; the earliest legend has it that he used it to explain the concept of the Trinity. (The argument, however, is not found in his extant writings.) In the earliest accounts, though, there is no claim that Patrick actually imported the shamrock -- and, of course, good evidence that he didn't.
Either there are two tunes for this (not unlikely), or there have been multiple claims; Croker-
PopularSongsOfIreland lists the tune as by "Shield," but [no author listed] A Library of Irish Music
(published by Amsco) credits the tune to "W. Jackson." - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: 0Con112

Dear Mallow, Adieu

DESCRIPTION: The singer bids adieu to Mallow, "where all may live just as they please," and recalls its pleasures. Now he is leaving "for the city's dull uniform scene." He will miss women, companions, and freedom. He hopes to return next spring.
AUTHOR: Samuel Whyte (1724-1811) (source: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)
EARLIEST DATE: 1772 (Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)
KEYWORDS: farewell nonballad home
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 243-249, "Dear Mallow, Adieu" (1 text)
NOTES [42 words]: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland: "In 1750, Dr Smith thus describes Mallow, which was then a very fashionable watering-place: '... Here is generally a resort of good company during the summer months, both for pleasure and the benefit of drinking the waters....'"
File: CrPS243

Dear Meal's Cheap Again, The
DESCRIPTION: "The dear meal's cheap again, The dear meal's cheap again, The dear meal on Donside's at ten pence the peck again"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: commerce food nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1728, "The Dear Meal's Cheap Again" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Roud #13129
NOTES [38 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan8 text.
See "A Pig and a Posset o' Whey" for a similar verse. Does this text, or name for the reel, date back to the period after the Napoleonic wars? See "The Ports are Open." - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD81728

Dear Mother
DESCRIPTION: "I'm going away to leave you... Don't weep for me, dear mother, For I'll be back someday." The singer's girl has abandoned him; he will cross the sea to find another, then return to mother. But she dies and tells him to trust in God before he can return
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (JAFL 45, from Granville Gadsey)
KEYWORDS: separation mother death courting emigration
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 210-211, "Dear Mother" (1 text)
Roud #4214
NOTES [38 words]: I have a feeling this is a composite of an emigration song with a religious song, with perhaps one of those "Don't leave your mother when her hair turns gray" songs thrown in as well. But they've all been thoroughly mixed up. - RBW
File: MHAp210

Dear Old Ireland
DESCRIPTION: "Deep in Canadian woods we've met, From one bright island flown, Great is the land we tread, but yet, Our hearts are with our own." Ireland is great despite her faults, but they will never see her again, so they cheer "Dear old Ireland, Good old Ireland!"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster)
KEYWORDS: Ireland home exile nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, pp. 141-142, "Dear Old Ireland" (1 text)
Roud #30047
File: HMHS142

Dear Old New Zealand
DESCRIPTION: "Here's to New Zealand, so far away; That's where I'll ever be in memory each night and day, And now as I wander, my thoughts ever stray, Back to New Zealand...." He toasts his family, longs to return home; when he wakes, he can only think of home

Dear Old Newfoundland

DESCRIPTION: When the singer arrived in Newfoundland a year ago, he was surrounded by other Irishmen. Wherever you go, "You'll always find a welcome, and you'll hear some Irish songs." When he returns to Ireland, "Newfoundland will soon be calling me"

Dear Prairie Home

DESCRIPTION: "There's a dear old homestead on Nebraska's fertile plain, Where I toiled my manhood's strength away, All that labor now is lost to me, but it is Shylock's gain." The unsuccessful farmer tells how bankers and lawyers combined to destroy his home

Dear-A-Wee Lass, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer first sees the girl on a May morning, and is drawn by her beauty and "killing glances." Men of all occupations court her; he thinks them doomed to be disdained, but he too loves her always. He wishes he could marry and bless her Dearest Lassie O!

DESCRIPTION: "Your letter I received, my dearest lassie O! My heart is much relieved, my bonnie lassie O!" He will hurry to Sydney to marry her. Many slander him, but he rejects their charges. He expects to own land and have a happy life with her

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1964 (Anderson-FarewellToOldEngland)

KEYWORDS: love courting home

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Anderson-FarewellToOldEngland, pp. 139-140, "Dearest Lassie O!" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Shearin's Nae for You" (tune) and references there

File: AnSo139

Dearest Mae

DESCRIPTION: The singer describes his life as a slave and his love for Mae. When master gives him a holiday, he visits Mae and they court happily; he then returns home. Master dies; the singer is sold down the river; Mae dies of grief

AUTHOR: unknown (see NOTES)

EARLIEST DATE: 1850 (The Ethiopian Glee Book)

KEYWORDS: slave death separation love courting

FOUND IN: US(SE,So)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 405, "Dearest Mae" (1 text plus an excerpt -- a verse which has floated in from "Massa Had a Yellow Gal" -- and mention of 2 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 405, "Dearest Mae" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 118, "Old Carolina State" (1 text, 1 tune)
Heart-Songs, pp. 158-159, "Dearest Mae" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #9089

SAME TUNE:
Charming Emma Show ("Way down in Alabama") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 20)
The Dying Soldier ("Oh! bury me not 'neath foreign skies," by E. Walter Lowe) (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 36)
The Menagerie ("Now folks, come listen to me, and as you stand around") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 96)
The Baltimore Girls ("Oh the Girls of dear old Baltimore") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 186)
Dix's Manifesto ("Once on a time in Baltimore") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 188)
Fort Sumpter. A Southern Song ("Come now and gather round me") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 189)
Jackson's Requiem ("That noted burglar Ellsworth") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p.190)
Linger Yet ("The golden glories of the sun, as in the west he falls") (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 66)
Song of the Graduate ("It's I that is a bachelor, though married to the Muse") (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 47)
Cornell ("The soldier loves his en'r'al's fame, The willow loves the stream") (by G. R. Birge, [class of 1872]) (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 109)
NOTES [140 words]: The notes in Brown list versions attributed to "A. F. Winnemore" and "Francis Lynch/L. V. H. Crosby." Heart-Songs also attributes it to Frances Lynch and L. H. V. Crosby. Harry Dichter and Elliott Shapiro, Early American Sheet Music: Its Lure and Its Lore, 1768-1889, R. R. Bowker, 1941, p 142, list a piece called "Dearest Mae" with words by Francis Lynch and music by James Power published by A. Fiot of Philadelphia in 1847. Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric lists these attributions and several others, found mostly in songsters (so even less reliable than the above). It's worth noting that this is not a "happy slave" piece; the singer works hard, but is cruelly betrayed on his master's death, and Mae dies. In that sense, it rather resembled "Darling Nellie Gray" -- though seemingly without provoking the reactions the latter produced. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
File: Br3405

Dearest Mary

DESCRIPTION: "Oh dearest Mary, take pity on me, I'm doing all I can to gain my liberty." Only slavery can part them. The hounds follow as he flees. "The queen, she standed on the shore... Saying, 'Leave that land of slavery and come across the line.'"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1943 (Helen Creighton collection)
KEYWORDS: slave escape freedom royalty
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 36-37, "Dearest Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #31157

NOTES [82 words]: Creighton's informant William Riley said that this was the song of a black slave who was to be sold away from his wife, and he and she escaped north to Canada. Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes therefore conjecture that "The Queen" who calls them was Queen Victoria. Obviously possible -- but Riley's text is so short that I think we must admit at least the possibility that this is a Catholic song, and that the crossing the singer makes is death, and the Queen is the Queen of Heaven. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: PoEll036

Death and the Lady

DESCRIPTION: Young woman meets Death; offers him rich gifts if he will grant her more time in this world. (In some versions, she wishes to mend her ways after a life of wickedness.) He refuses. She dies.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1736 ("A Guide to Heaven")
KEYWORDS: death bargaining dialog
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland(Bord)) US(SE)
REFERENCES (14 citations):
Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 22, "Death and the Lady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 129, "Death and the Lady" (1 text, 1 tune)
VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, p. 30, "Death and the Lady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 28, "Death and the Lady" (1 text)
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 173, "Death and the Maid" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 351)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Mi 554, "Death and the Lady" (1 text)
Purslow-TheConstantLovers, p. 20, "Death and the Lady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Broadwood-EnglishTraditionalSongsAndCarols, pp. 40-41, "Death and the Lady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Chappell/Wooldridge-OldEnglishPopularMusic II, pp. 170-171, "Death and the Lady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Poem #6, pp. 24-28, "The Messenger of Mortality" (1 text)
*Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 252-255, "The Messenger of Mortality, or Life and Death Contrasted in a Dialogue betwixt Death and a Lady" (1 tet)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN843, "Fair lady leave your costly Robes aside"; ZN1415, "In Cambridge lives a maiden fair" (composite text also containing part of "Weaver to My Trade") DT, DEATHLDY*
BROADSIDES:
NLScotland, L.C.Fol.70(52), "Death and the Lady," unknown, c. 1890 CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Conversation with Death (Oh Death)" (theme)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Oh Death
My Name is Death
NOTES [66 words]: Also see Ralph Stanley, "O Death" (on soundtrack for "O Brother, Where Art Thou," Mercury (Lost Highway) 088 170-069-2 (2000)) For more information on the Ralph Stanley version -- apparently first recorded by Dock Boggs -- and other U.S. recordings see Gary B Reid's booklet accompanying the 4-CD album, "The Stanley Brothers: The King Years 1961-1965", King Records KG-0950-2 (2003), p. 17. - BS Last updated in version 5.0 File: ShH22

Death is a Melancholy Call [Laws H5]
DESCRIPTION: The singer observes a young man dying as a result of a dissolute life. Both the youth and his friends are frightened by the prospect of hell. The singer concludes with a stock exhortation to repent
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)
KEYWORDS: death, farewell, Hell, youth
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Laws H5, "Death is a Melancholy Call"
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 464-465, "Death is a Melancholy Call (3 texts)"
Randolph 595, "The Dying Youth" (1 text, 1 tune) Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 95, "The Lost Youth" (1 text)
Richardson/Spaeth-AmericanMountainSongs, p. 63, "Death, What A Solemn Call" (1 text, 1 tune) DT 718, DEATHMEL
Roud #655 CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Dying Boy" (theme)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Awful, Awful, Awful
NOTES [80 words]: Many versions of this piece have the tragicomic refrain "And it's awful, awful, awful...." Not to be confused with "Death 'Tis a Melancholy Day." Barry wrote a study of this piece and "Wicked Polly," treating them as variants (male and female, presumably) of the same piece. The moral is of course the same, and they use the same metrical form -- but I can't see any actual dependence in the lyrics. This is the sort of piece that humorless moralists could crank out endlessly. - RBW Last updated in version 5.0 File: LH05

Death Letter Blues
DESCRIPTION: Singer gets a letter, telling him to come home, because the girl he loves is dead. He comes home, to find her on the "cooling board." He buries her, weeping, telling her he'll meet her on Judgement Day
Death of Alec Robertson (I)

DESCRIPTION: "A good man has gone, he's drawn his last breath, Struck down in the midst of his pride. Poor Alec Robertson met his sad death On his favorite horse, Silvermine."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1959
KEYWORDS: death horse racing
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, p. 150, "Death of Alec Robertson" (1 text, tune referenced)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Donald Campbell" (theme)
cf. "Tom Corrigan" (theme)
cf. "The Jockey's Lament" (theme)
cf. "Alec Robertson (I)" (theme) and notes there
cf. "Alec Robertson (II)" (theme)

File: MA150

Death of Archbishop Scrope, The

DESCRIPTION: "The bishop Scrope that was so wise. Now he is dead and low he lies. To heaven's bliss yet may he rise. Through help of Mary that maid mild." He was mild and still for his execution. He forgave his killer, asking to be slain with five strokes

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1600 (Cambridge, Trinity College MS. R.4.20)
KEYWORDS: death execution clergy MiddleEnglish
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jun 8, 1405 - Execution of Archbishop Richard Scrope

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (10 citations):
Greene-TheEarlyEnglishCarols, #425, pp. 288-289, "(The Byshop Scrope, that was so wyse)" (1 text)
Brown/Robbins-IndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse, #3308
DigitalIndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse #5212
Rosell Hope Robbins, _Historical Poems of the XIVth and XVth Century_, Columbia University Press, 1959, #31, p. 90, "The Death of Archbishop Scrope" (1 text)
MANUSCRIPT: Cambridge, Trinity College, MS. R.4.20 (Trinity 652), folio 71
The manuscript's primary contents are an interesting mix -- there are two major works, "The Travels of Sir John Mandeville" (folios 1-87r) and John Lydgate's "The Siege of Thebes" (folios 89r-169r) (Stephen K. Wright, on p. 120 of Goldberg). Mandeville's "Travels" is a wonder tale; parts of it describe real places but much is fictional; it is clearly a secular work. Lydgate's work is on a secular subject, but Lydgate himself was a monk (for background on him, see the notes to "The London Lackpenny"). The manuscript is of good quality and probably was for a well-off patron; Wright believes it was made in the early 1400s; it was donated to Trinity College in 1663. The two major works each start at the beginning of a quire, and "Mandeville's Travels" did not fill its last quire completely, leaving some room for additional writings. This left space for additional writings; this was one of several items on folio 88; one of the others is what Wright calls a "heart-breaking love letter" that was copied twice on the same page by other hands (Wright, on p. 121 of Goldberg).

Richard Scrope (c. 1346-1405), of the baronial family of the Scropes of Masham, became Bishop of Lichfield in 1386, then Archbishop of York in 1398 (Hicks, p. 205), just a year before the overthrow of King Richard II. According to Hicks, p. 205, until his execution, "he was an 'obscure and colourless figure' with no distinguishable political affiliations and was indeed 'the very antithesis of the ambitious, worldly prelate.'" Similarly Goldberg, p. 1, says his execution "served to transform a conscientious, devout, but apparently loyal ecclesiastic not previously noted either for his charisma or his interest in politics into a martyr and a saint. Richard Scope was transformed from an aristocratic younger son who had achieved high office as a reward from years spent in papal and royal service into York's own Becket, the focus of a regional cult and the object of pilgrimage."

He was a younger son of Henry, first Lord Scrope of Masham, and so was destined for the church rather than inheriting his father's barony (there is a genealogy on p. x of Goldberg). He apparently went to Oxford for a time, though the records of this are scant, then studied law at Cambridge from 1375-1387. He even became Chancellor of Cambridge 1378-1380. (R. K. Swanson, on p. 20 of Goldberg). He was ordained in 1377 -- and, unlike most members of noble families who joined the church, he seems, based on our limited records, to have taken his clerical duties entirely seriously (Hicks, p. 206).

Apparently it was also thought that he was not only celibate but a virgin, since this was part of his cult (P. H. Cullum, on pp. 94-97 of Goldberg). Although not rare at the time, it was far from universal among clerics who came from noble families. After university he went to Rome and served in the papal court. In 1385, the canons of Chichester elected him Bishop -- only to have King Richard II turn him down. But he was allowed to become Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield in 1386 in a complicated arrangement that translated the incumbent bishop (Swanson, on p. 20 of Goldberg).

The exact details of the decision to make him Archbishop of York in 1398 are not clear. He was in Rome on a diplomatic mission when the old Archbishop died unexpectedly. Did the Pope appoint Scrope against Richard's will, or did Richard support it? We can't know; it doesn't sound as if Scrope expected it, since he had already set up a chantry for himself at Lichfield (Swan, on pp. 22-23 of Goldberg).

Richard II had come to the throne in 1377 at the age of ten and had had constant troubles with others trying to run the country for him (Smith, p. 203, who points out e.g. that the Merciless Parliament of 1388 had not only taken over his government but also executed many of his friends and favorites). Despite this, by 1397 he had gained complete control of the government, executing several of his chief opponents -- including the Earl of Arundel and Richard's uncle Humphrey of Gloucester, who allegedly died prison while awaiting trial (yeah, sure; Saul, pp. 378-379). Others were plundered or exiled -- including Henry of Bolingbroke, heir to the Duchy of Lancaster and one of Richard's potential heirs (Saul, p. 373; the king was childless and his second wife still only a child, so Bolingbroke, a first cousin, was an obvious candidate to succeed). Also exiled was Thomas Arundel, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the brother of the executed Earl of Arundel (Bevan, p. 140).
The exile of Bolingbroke is the subject of "Hereford and Norfolk," discussed below.
After this, "[Richard's] vengeance was complete. The last of his enemies was punished. A parliament packed with Richard's supporters voted him a life income and set up a committee of eighteen submissive creatures of the king to exercise several Parliamentary powers. New treason laws expanded the definition of treason and wrapped it up in such ambiguous language that any opposition to the king might be called treason. Law after law was broken by the royal commands....
No man's life or property was safe. Richard was king indeed" (Smith, p. 203). Kirby, pp. 51-51, makes the situation even worse: Richard rewrote the rules for this committee of 18 after parliament dissolved, to make it a better instrument, and required "blank charters" of his nobles, apparently meaning that Richard could commit them to anything without actually asking their consent.
Richard even managed to worsen relations with France (Saul, p. 407), despite the fact that his child bride was the daughter of King Charles VI and he had tried to keep peace with France.
Perhaps the French were willing to look the other way at plotting against him.
In 1399, Richard's uncle John of Gaunt, the father of Bolingbroke, died (Bevan, p. 138). Richard made Bolingbroke's exile permanent and moved to possess Gaunt's and Bolingbroke's lands.
Richard was now acting like a pure tyrant. Richard decided that it was time to take an army to Ireland to control the constant raids and rebellions of the Irish (Kirby, p. 52) -- and, in another sign of tyranny, he levied forced loans to pay for it (Bevan, p. 136). Then he was off to Ireland, without leaving anyone really in charge (technically, Richard's last living uncle, Edmund of Langley, Duke of York, was in charge, but he was too ineffective to run things if anything went wrong; Bevan, p.
142; Kirby, p. 53). So off Richard sailed to Waterford -- where the Irish led by Art MacMurrough avoided battle and caused Richard to chase them all over the place without accomplishing anything (Bevan, p. 145).
Meanwhile, there was trouble in England. Bolingbroke led a party of exiles, including Archbishop Arundel, to invade England. At first, he claimed he was just out to regain his dukedom; he also spread a series of lies about Richard (Bevan, pp. 145-146).
And he gained allies -- notably the Percies of Northumberland, Henry the First Earl of Northumberland and his son Harry "Hostspur," who had gotten in trouble with Richard for opposing the punishment of Bolingbroke (Bevan, p. 143). But they remained at liberty, and they joined Henry and other northern rebels at Pontefract (Bevan, pp. 145-146). It's not clear that all these supporters wanted Henry to overthrow Richard; they may only have supported Henry's claim on his land (Saul, p. 409). But they were enough to make the revolt a serious threat. Some time later, Henry met with the Duke of York, and somehow caused York to stop actively opposing Henry (Saul, p. 410; Kirby,
p. 57, says he actually joined his army to Henry's).
Richard, in Ireland, seems not to have taken the rising seriously; it took many days before he decided to return to England, and was slow to take the field after he did return (Bevan, pp. 147-148). It wasted time that he didn't have; the troops that the Earl of Salisbury had raised for him abandoned the cause when Richard didn't show up (Bevan, p. 148). Many other supporters also gave up when Richard didn't appear (Saul, p. 411).
Details on what happened next are extremely sketchy, but Richard left his army and ended up at Conway Castle with relatively few supporters. Henry sent Northumberland with his forces to try to negotiate (Saul, pp. 412-413; Kirby, pp. 57-58; Archbishop Arundel may also have taken part).
Northumberland supposedly promised to let Richard keep his throne in return for granting Bolingbroke his Lancaster dukedom and other rights (Bevan, p. 151). Possibly Northumberland even believed that Richard would keep his throne -- under suitable supervision, of course. But as Kirby comments, pp. 58-59, "The Earl may not have been aware that he was being used to deceive
Richard... but his whole career suggests that he would not be over-scrupulous about betraying either his friends or his enemies."
Richard insisted that Northumberland swear to this. Northumberland swore -- and promptly turned Richard over to Bolingbroke (Bevan, p. 152). "In a little more than a month Henry had transformed himself from an exile into the master of both king and kingdom, a position from which he could not withdraw, but a position which posed several well-nigh insoluble problems" (Kirby, p. 59). Kirby, p.
61, thinks that Henry, Northumberland, and Arundel ran the country for a time as "advisors" to Richard II.
Exactly what Henry's plans were at this point we cannot know -- but Henry clearly decided that the situation was intolerable. Eventually he and his allies set out to depose the king (Saul, p. 418). That was in 1399; in early 1400, Richard conveniently died (Saul, p. 425).
Richard probably had to be overthrown -- he was ruling utterly arbitrarily. (As Smith says on p. 204, Richard's great-grandfather "Edward II had been deposed [in 1326/1327] because he governed too little, Richard II because he tried to govern too much.") But he still had supporters. And the man who overthrew him, Henry of Lancaster, while he was Richard's heir in male line, was not the heir in female line; members of the Mortimer family were closer to the throne.

Henry, because he had usurped the throne, was in a particularly difficult position. He didn't want to rule too despotically, lest the mass of lords remember that he had a weak claim to the throne (even though Richard II was dead, there were those pesky Mortimers). But he had followers who wanted to be paid off. Starting with the Percies. After all, he might not have been king without them! And he faced constant wars as well, especially with Owen Glyndŵr (Glendower), but relations with Scotland and France posed problems too. And supposedly his revenues were down about 20% from what Richard had enjoyed (Keen, p. 314). As a result, he was chronically short of money, and parliament was always pestering him about his accounts and what he had done with Richard II's accumulated treasure (Given-Wilson, p. 176). In a reign of less than fourteen years, he ran through ten treasurers (Kirby, p. 115), indicating just how hard the job was! Henry spent much of his reign seeking new ways to raise money (an early one was to try to raise money from his bishops. The northern bishoprics were poorer than the southern, but Archbishop Scrope's offering of 100 marks=£66 13s 4d -- Kirby, pp. 95-96 -- was particularly stingy; one wonders if Henry remembered...). The crown jewels often had to be used as security on loans (Kirby, p. 144).

The Percies came out of this very well; "No family apart from the king's had profited more from the deposition of Richard II. Before 1399 was out, Northumberland had been made constable of England for life and warden of the West March [with Scotland] for ten years, granted the Isle of Man, and put at the head of a consortium which farmed the Mortimer inheritance during the young earl's minority. His son Hotspur became warden of the East March, also for ten years, sheriff of Northumberland, justiciar of Chester and North Wales, and sheriff of Flintshire; he was granted the lordship of Anglesey and custody of the Mortimer lordship of Denbigh. Father and son thus secured a virtual monopoly of civil and military power on the Scottish marches and in North Wales. Meanwhile, Thomas Percy, the earl's brother... [retained the title Earl of Worcester which Richard had given him in 1397 and] became admiral of England..." (Given-Wilson, p. 190. On pp. 190-191, he suggests that Hotspur served mostly as a soldier, Worcester was mostly at court, and Northumberland involved in commissions of many types, often but not always in London).

In 1402, Hotspur won the Battle of Homildon Hill or Humbleton Hill against the Scots, breaking their invading army and capturing, among others, the earl of Douglas and three other earls, plus Murdoch Steward of the Scots royal family (Givens-Wilson, p. 200). The Scots border was not entirely quiet, but it was basically safe, and it was not Henry but the Percies who had accomplished the feat. The problem with all this was that they had much of the military might of England under their control. If they proved unreliable, Henry was in a lot of trouble. And they proved unreliable.

It was Wales that proved Henry's biggest problem. Hotspur was having to fight the war with the Welsh out of his own resources, because Henry was so broke. Hotspur didn't like that. Which probably reminded him that his wife was the sister of Edmund Mortimer, whose nephew (also named Edmund) was Richard II's heir in female line -- in other words, he had a claim to the throne arguably better than Henry's. And Glyndŵr had captured Mortimer the uncle, and Henry (who really did have a blind spot for Wales) refused to let Mortimer ransom himself. Mortimer therefore decided to join the Welsh cause (Given-Wilson, p. 190-194) -- and eventually the Percies came around, too.

"The reasons for their discontent remain as much of a mystery to us as they probably were to the King. No doubt there was some disagreement with the royal policy in Wales, the Percies both felt that they had received but a very small proportion of the money that was their due, and Hotspur regarded the prisoners of Homildon as his own property to be ransomed as and when he chose without royal interference [which is how things usually worked, but Henry had demanded the prisoners himself], but above all it seemsto have been personal ambition which led the younger Percy to rebel" (Kirby, pp. 153-154).

Supposedly the Percies, Mortimer, and Glyndŵr made an agreement to split the country: Glyndŵr would get an enlarged Wales, Northumberland the whole north of England, Mortimer would rule the west, as king or regent (Keen, p. 312). Hard to believe there were many others who would have signed on to that."

Still, the revolt would likely have succeeded if the rebels had coordinated better. But Northumberland's army had to come from the Scottish border. Glyndŵr was in western Wales. And Hotspur was in the northern Welsh marches. Henry moved fast and attacked Hotspur before the others could do anything -- it's not even absolutely sure that they were coordinating their moves. Hotspur was slain at the Battle of Shrewsbury in 1403 (Given-Wilson, pp. 219-226). Despite the setback, Glyn Dwr continued his rebellion (he didn't have much choice, since Henry had already refused to pardon him), but Northumberland pretended that he hadn't been involved and asked to be received back into the King's Peace. Henry, with no money to fight another battle, and prodded by parliament to not be too harsh, accepted Northumberland's submission (no doubt with a lot of mental reservations) -- for the moment. But he stripped him of many of his offices and awards (Given-Wilson, p. 231), which can't have made Northumberland any happier.

None of which has anything to do with Archbishop Scrope, except that he was a northern Archbishop from a northern family in the region the Percies dominated. Apolitical he might have been, but all this affected him, and the fact that Henry had won at Shrewsbury didn't make the crown any less grasping! Kirby, p. 186, thinks Scope not only took part in the next rebellion but that he instigated it.

"[I]n the city of York more serious trouble was brewing. Here the protesters were led by Richard Scrope, archbishop of York, and Thomas Mowbray, the earl marshal. Scrope was a man more associated with the previous than with the current regime. Sent to Rome by Richard II in 1397 to seek the canonization of Edward II, he was rewarded with his archiepiscopal see on his return, and although he acquiesced in Henry's usurpation there is no evidence of a personal rapport between him and the new king. Between 1399 and 1405 he kept his distance from the court, encouraging the northern convocation to prevaricate and negotiate over the king's demands for clerical taxation. It was a sermon he gave in York Minster which galvanized the citizens into action, probably on Sunday 17 May [1405]. He and Mowbray also drew up a list of grievances which they posted on the gates of the city...

(The truth, however, was not straightforward. Negotiations were opened, during which [the Earl of] Westmorland assured the protesters they could have their man (i.e. a pope, not a king). "Scrope seems to have taken it upon himself to act as a mediator between his public -- nobility, clergy and burgesses alike -- and the Crown. His reformist program, written in English and hung on church-doors and on the city-gates of York, voiced certain complaints and abuses, to which remedies were suggested. It called for a London parliament with free elections, in which the following reforms would be discussed: (1) Removal of the burden of taxation from the clergy (following the Commons' call for heavier taxation in the Unlearned Parliament of 1404); (2) A remedy for the subjection and annihilation suffered by lords when rightful claims to lands and titles were wrongfully denied to them (as the Earl Marshal, Thomas Mowbray, had reportedly complained to Scope); (3) Emendation of the excessive taxes imposed on all estates (especially in York, which found itself burdened by the fiscal demands of Henry IV); and (4) Punishment for those who had put the wealth of the Commons to their own use. The idiom of protest used by Scrope, highlighting the three orders of society -- fighters, prayers, and workers -- place this reformist agenda alongside other similar 'risings of the commons', such as that of 1381; the general dissent it expresses remains within a context of obedience, both to the ruler and to the social hierarchy"
(Pirojansk, p. 49).

On this platform Scrope, Mowbray, and others raised a large crowd -- I'm not sure the word "army" is warranted. But Henry's response was clearly military. Henry IV would later claim Scrope and Mowbray were taken in battle. "The truth, however, was not so straightforward. Negotiations were opened, during which [the Earl of] Westmorland assured the archbishop and earl marshal that he would do his best to persuade the king to remedy their grievances. Apparently satisfied with this, Scrope and Mowbray encouraged their supporters to disband, but were then arrested and taken to Pontefract castle" (Given-Wilson, p. 268). (Shakespeare blames this largely on John, the future Duke of Bedford, Henry IV's third son, but that's just Shakespeare being Shakespeare -- i.e. ignoring historical facts.)

Henry's decision to execute Scrope was surprising given that, when Henry had faced a major rebellion at the start of his reign, all the clerics involved had been allowed to live -- even Thomas Merks, the Bishop of Carlisle (who had spoken on Richard's behalf in the parliament where Richard was deposed; Kirby, p. 69), who had initially been given a death sentence (Given-Wilson, p. 163), though he was not restored to his see. Henry's general policy was to be lenient with clerics (Kirby, p. 89). And Henry's ally, Archbishop Arundel, desperately tried to get Henry to change his mind, and Chief Justice Gascoigne is said to have withdrawn from the trial (Hicks, pp. 206-207). But Henry was determined on punishment. Scrope, Mowbray, and one Sir William Plumpton were ordered executed.

"[A] hastily created court which included the Earl of Arundel [the archbishop's nephew], Sir Thomas Beaufort [the Beauforts were Henry's half-siblings] and a judge, Sir William Fulthorpe, condemned Scrope, the Earl Marshal [Mowbray], and Sir William Plumpton as traitors. They were immediately beheaded outside the city of York. Henry had his revenge, an also made one of the big mistakes of his life" (Kirby, p. 187).

Scrope is reported to have told Mowbray that they would meet in paradise. His last words, by one report, were "It is for the laws and good government of England that I die" (Given-Wilson, p. 269).

Henry seems to have tried to humiliate Scrope on his way to his execution, causing him to ride a cheap nag without a saddle. He also caused Scrope to be dressed in a plain blue cloak rather than his episcopal robes. This turned up in both the accounts of Scrope's martyrdom, by Clement Maidstone (who wrote c. 1414 and died 1456) and Thomas Gascoigne (died 1458; the similarities in the two accounts have led some to think they have an earlier common source; Piroyansky, p. 51), and Scrope showed his dignity by saying he had never liked a horse better than this one (Danna Piroyansky, on pp. 101-105 of Goldberg). He certainly gave the martyrologists good copy to work on.

It was the first time a king had directly executed any bishop -- and an archbishop at that! (Given-Wilson, p. 270). Little wonder that miracles were soon reported at Scrope's grave (Kirby, p. 187) -- Maidstone's account lists three supernatural events, although it's not clear if any would pass Catholic scrutiny: "a miraculous harvest in the field where the archbishop died... King Henry's sudden attack of leprosy... the Archbishop's posthumous appearance to John Sibson, an elderly would-be murderer who, in a guilt-stricken frenzy, then cleared huge tree trunks or beams from the martyr's tomb in York Minster" (Stephehn K Wright, on p. 117 of Goldberg; the original text is on pp. 308-309 of Raine). Also, in 1413, a bell-tower near York caught fire, and an invocation of Scrope was said to have miraculously put it out (Piroyansky, p. 61). He was also considered to have power over stormy waters (Piroyansky, p. 70), although no specific miracle seems to be involved there.

"Scrope proved more effective dead than alive -- by creating the most spectacular devotional cult in the late medieval Minster" (Nuttgens, p. 113). Soon he was regarded in Yorkshire as a saint. (A crux in "A Gest of Robyn Hode" [Child 117] has the Abbot of Saint Mary's swear "By Saint Richard," which has troubled scholars who can't find such a saint. Surely Scrope is meant.) Pilgrimages to his grave site apparently began almost immediately, and would induce the authorities to try to make it impossible -- Sibson's alleged miracle of moving large beams served to make the burial site once again open to visitors. Apparently there were other attempts to keep people away, and all failed (Christopher Norton, on p. 172 of Goldberg).

A later poem would speak of "Holy bisshope Scrope, the byssed confessour" (Rollins #93, pp. 222-226, line 14, from the Society of Antiquaries MS. 101. Index of Middle English Verse #3756; DIMEV #5979. Rollins calls the piece "A Political Retrospective" and dates it to 1462; it is a Yorkist piece, so it would be inclined to cast Scrope in the best light and "henry of derby" in the worst. A "confessor" was a technical term which does not really apply to Scrope, however; it was applied to those who gave strong testimony to the faith but were not martyred -- hence "Edward the Confessor").

There were definitely relics associated with Scrope (Goldberg, pp. 11-12). Among the most notable is the "Bolton Hours," from before 1445; it has a prayer to Scrope, once refers to him as "Sancte ricarde scrope" and once as "S. ricardus"; the second notation is in a picture which shows him as a saint (Danna Piroyansky, p. 110 of Goldberg; pictures of the images are in the photos section of Goldberg). In the 1460s, King Edward IV formally petitioned for his canonization (Goldberg, p. 12), and pushed the diocese of York to work for that end in 1462 (Christopher Norton, on pp. 198-199 of Goldberg) -- which is pretty ironic when you consider that Edward IV's grandfather Ralph Neville, Earl of Westmorland, had been the one to take Scrope and Mowbray into custody! But we know that he had been called a saint before that, and that there had been earlier support for canonization (Norton, on p. 199 of Goldberg). R. N. Swanson, p. 17 of Goldberg, says "His cult was certainly strong throughout the fifteenth century, and into the sixteenth." And his story was popular enough that four copies of Maidstone's account were preserved (Piroyansky, p. 51). There were probably a number of reasons why there was no formal inquiry into Scrope's sanctity. One was that the church in York didn't want to pay the expense. The other is that, at the time Edward IV wanted to make it happen, the Archbishop of York was a political opponent of the Yorkist regime, which probably gummed things up. (The Yorkists apparently tried to portray some of Scrope’s statements as being pro-Yorkist when in fact they were probably pro-Richard II; Piroyansky, p. 53.) Plus there was a peculiar confusion of dates: June 5, the date of Scrope’s execution (and hence the date likely to become his feast day) was also the death-date and feast day of William FitzHerbert, an earlier Archbishop of York (died 1154) who had been canonized in 1226 (Norton, on pp. 203-204 of Goldberg). Thus York was over-supplied with saintly archbishops who died on June 5! Considering the track record of martyr bishops in this period, I suspect Scrope would have had a pretty good shot had it not been for the opposition of the 1462 Archbishop. Though Scrope never made it to Saint, it was easy to see the finger of God in what followed: Henry would live eight more years, but he was ill for much of that time, and some reported the disease as leprosy. There was a belief that it began after he executed Scrope (Given-Wilson, p. 270. Certainly it did start in the years after that, but there is no proof that it happened soon enough after to imply cause and effect! On the other hand, OxfordCompanion, p. 466, suspects he had a stroke in 1406, which isn’t long after Scrope’s death and came at the surprisingly young age of 39 or 40, so just maybe there is a connection.... Kirby, p. 213, suggests that a long progress that Henry took after a difficult parliament in 1406 was a pilgrimage to atone for the murder, but it so, he didn’t go to the more obvious pilgrimage spots such as Canterbury or Walsingham).

As reported in the last verse of the poem, Scrope apparently asked to be beheaded with five blows to commemorate the five wounds of Christ; a chronicle reported, "Than said tharchbishop to him that sholde smyte of his hed, 'For His loue that suffr'd v wounds for alle mankynde, yee me v strokes, and I foryeve the me dethe'' (Robbins, p. xxi) i.e. "Then said the archbishop to him that would smite off his head, 'For his love that suffered five wounds for all mankind, give me five strokes, and I forgive you my death.'" Maidstone's Latin account says the same (Raine, p 308), Robbins, p. 295, says that the executions was one Thomas Alman of Poppleton, a prisoner in York; one suspects that no local of any standing was willing to kill Scrope. The name Thomas Alman is also found in Maidstone (Raine, p. 307: "Thomæ Alman").

The fourth verse, in which Scrope says he will commend his executioner's soul, also parallels the chronicles; Maidstone says that Scrope forgave his executioner, using language reminiscent of the martyrdom of Stephen in chapter 7 of Acts (Christopher Norton, on p. 171 of Goldberg).

Whether Scrope was "so wise," i.e. learned, as the first line claims, is hard to know, since we have little of his library or writings. But there are three indications. One was his work for the Papacy, and his diplomatic work; if he hadn't been fairly knowledgeable, he wouldn't have gotten those tasks. Another is that he is reported to have taken a book with him to his execution, which he seems to have hoped would be buried with him (Christopher Norton, Goldberg, p. 199 n. 190). A third is his family's library. Henry, third Lord Scrope, the Archbishop's nephew, had an "impressive collection of books" (Christopher Norton, on p. 190 of Goldberg). If the secular Scropes liked books, it is probable that the cleric in the family would also have been an avid scholar.

There is a window of Scrope in the York Minster, installed not too long after his death (the Minster was being substantially rebuilt at the time); there is a photo of it in the pictures section in Goldberg, showing what Christopher North says is a halo (Goldberg, p. 192) although it's hard to tell in the black-and-white photo. (And the caption, perhaps in an abundance of caution, calls him "Dominus," "Lord," not "Sanctus," "Saint.")

The Pope would impose a penalty on Henry for the murder in 1408; Henry never responded, but Henry V founded a monastery at Sheen, possibly to fulfill part of the penance (Allmand, p. 273). Henry would eventually catch up with Northumberland; the Earl of Westmorland forced him to flee England in 1405, and in 1408 he lost the Battle of Bramham Moor in Yorkshire and was finally killed (Hicks, p. 208; Keen, p. 313).

Many said that the execution of Scrope was one of Henry's great crimes that resulted in his extremely difficult reign. Yet it should be recalled that Henry died in bed, although at the too-young age of about 46.

For those wishing to see more from the primary sources, in addition to Raine, Robbins, pp. 294-295, has an extensive quote from the English Chronicle, which gives some additional background. Scrope never quite obtained sainthood -- I'm somewhat surprised that King Edward IV didn't try harder to get him canonized, since Scrope was martyred by the Lancastrians whom Edward had displaced. But maybe he was too much forgotten by then. Piroyansky's book focuses on three political martyrs who were treated as saints -- Scrope, Thomas of Lancaster, and Henry VI. France had a similar case in Jean Darc, who of course was sainted. But of the four, Lancaster was a puffed-up jerk who had no sense of morals and not much more brains; Jean was clearly schizophrenic, and Henry was mentally defective also although the surviving records don't show us how. I don't think any of the four actually meet the Catholic criteria for sainthood. But if any of them was a saint, I think it was Scrope, not Jean.
Scrope is a character in both of Shakespeare's Henry IV plays (he spelled the name "Scroop"), but of course the one thing guaranteed about a Shakespeare play is that the history will be entirely wrong; pay it no attention! The one interesting point is that the earliest printed text of 2 Henry IV, the quarto edition, drastically shortens the Scrope section of the play compared to the 1623 Folio. Every reference I have checked believes that this omission was deliberate censorship (it hurts the flow of the play), implying that, in some sense or other, Scrope's rebellion still roused alarm bells. Is it possible to date this poem, other than saying that it must be older than the date in the manuscript? Piroyansky, p. 126, says that "Emphasis on Scrope's martyrlogical death characterized the cult in its early stages, and from the 1450s onward.... In-between these two periods, Scrope's representation focused rather on his exemplary virtues as on his intercession and help." That hints that the poem is either very early or post-1450. But a post-1450 poem would probably have political or miraculous elements. Thus a very early date may be indicated. I'd hate to bet a lot on that, though.

APPENDIX: The ballad "Hereford and Norfolk"
Henry IV lived too soon for there to be much of a ballad tradition about him, but there is an item in the Percy Folio, cited above as the related piece "Hereford and Norfolk," which begins
Towe noble dukes of great renowne
That long had lived in fame
Throug(h) fatal envye were cast downe
And brought to sudden bane
It tells of how the Dukes of Hereford and Norfolk accuse each other of treason. Richard II orders a trial by combat to resolve the matter, and both lords agree. But just before they fight, Richard orders the combat halted -- and punishes both of them, banishing Hereford for ten years and Norfolk for life. But Hereford comes back and overthrows Richard. The rest of the story is covered above.

The piece is inaccurate, or at least deceptive, in any number of ways -- at least based on what we think happened. (As far as I know, no one has suggested using "Hereford and Norfolk" a source for histories.) An interesting one is calling Henry of Bolingbroke "Duke of Hereford." His first title was Earl of Derby. When he married his first wife Mary de Bohun, he gained her title of Earl of Hereford. (Wagner, p. 148) Some reports say that he was made Duke of Hereford, and Thomas Mowbray Duke of Norfolk, at the same time in 1397. When his father died, Bolingbroke became Duke of Lancaster -- but he could not claim the title of Duke of Lancaster until he claimed the kingship. Thus, although Bolingboke was for a long time known as "Hereford," he was only briefly known as "Duke of Hereford." Similarly Mowbray spent most of his time as Earl, not Duke, of Norfolk.

As Hales/Furnivall report, the song has the date of their proposed duel wrong. From what little we know, it also appears to have the prelude wrong as well; the usual story is that Norfolk told Bolingbroke that Richard was after both of them, since they had been among the Lords Appellant earlier. Bolingbroke then accused Norfolk before the king (Kirby, pp. 46-48). The (non-)duel mostly went as described.

I suppose a case could make a case that, if I were going to index one Henry IV song, it should have been "Hereford and Norfolk," since it's in the Percy Folio. But it is very ornate, and looks like a professional job. "Archbishop Scrope" looks much more genuine. Goldberg, p. 8, declares "Archbishop Scrope" to be "a relic more of an active oral tradition of collective and cult remembrance than simply a literary curiosity." So I indexed the latter. - RBW

Bibliography

- Allmand: Christopher Allmand, Henry V, University of California Press, 1992
- Hicks: Michael Hicks, Who's Who in Late Medieval England (1272-1485), (being the third volume in the Who's Who in British History series), Shepheard-Walwyn, 1991
- Keen: Maurice Keen, The Pelican History of Medieval Europe, Pelican, 1968
Raine: James Raine, editor, The Historians of The Church of York and Its Archbishops, volume II, Longman & Co (and others), 1866 (available on Google Books)
Saul: Nigel Saul, Richard II (a volume in the Yale English Monarchs series), Yale, 1997
Smith: Goldwin Smith, A Constitutional and Legal History of England (no copyright date listed but written after 1979; I use the 1990 Dorset edition)
Wagner: John A. Wagner, Encyclopedia of the Hundred Years War, Greenwood Press, 2006

Last updated in version 6.1
File: MsDArScr

Death of Ben Hall (I), The

DESCRIPTION: Ben Hall's cowardly murder is recalled, as well as his nobility: "He never robbed a needy man, The records sure will show. How staunch and loyal to his mates, how manly to the foe." The singer bids him farewell
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Paterson, Old Bush Songs)
KEYWORDS: death homicide outlaw abuse Australia
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 5, 1865 - Ben Hall is ambushed and killed by police near Forbes, Australia
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 98-99, "Bold Ben Hall" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 90-91, "The Death of Ben Hall" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fahey-PintPotAndBilly, p. 6, "The Ballad of Ben Hall" (1 text, 1 tune)
Paterson/Fahey/Seal-OldBushSongs-CentenaryEdition, pp. 81-84, "The Death of Ben Hall" (1 text. Note that the song appears to begin with the unrelated stanza "My name is Ben Hall from Urunga I came," but this is in fact a separate poem which just ended up on the same page)
Ward-PenguinBookOfAustralianBallads, pp. 73-74, "Brave Ben Hall" (1 text)
Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads, pp. 32-33, "Brave Ben Hall" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Bill Wannan, _The Australians: Yarns, ballads and legends of the Australian tradition_, 1954 (page references are to the 1988 Penguin edition), pp 17-18, "The Ballad of Ben Hall" (1 text)
Bill Beatty, _A Treasury of Australian Folk Tales & Traditions_, 1960 (I use the 1969 Walkabout Paperbacks edition), p. 267, "The Ballad of Ben Hall" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ben Hall" (plot, subject) and references there
NOTES [110 words]: Ben Hall is widely regarded as "the noblest of the bushrangers." The story is that he was hounded from his home by the police, and only then turned to crime. Even as a bushranger, he attacked only the rich and never shed blood. For background, see the notes to "Ben Hall."
To tell this song from the other Ben Hall songs, consider this first stanza:
Come all Australia's sons to me, a hero has been slain,
Cowardly butchered in his sleep upon the Lachlan plain.
Oh, do not stay your seemly grief but let a teardrop fall,
Oh, so many hearts will always mourn the fate of bold Ben Hall.
(note: with some settings of the tune, this is the first two stanzas) - RBW

Death of Bernard Friley, The

DESCRIPTION: "It was down in the level land A murder came to light, The death of Bernard Friley 'Twas on a Monday night." A boy discovers the body as the man's dog sits by his side. The crime is blamed on drink; his murderer is imprisoned; listeners are warned
AUTHOR: James W. Day ("Jilson Setters")
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)
Death of Birchie Potter

DESCRIPTION: "In the state of North Carolina, in a place called Pottertown, Two cousins took to drinking; One shot the other down." Birchie Potter, the victim, is praised; the singer hopes Glen Brown, the murderer, will face justice. He warns against drink.

AUTHOR: Jim Brown?

EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (Wautauga Democrat)

KEYWORDS: homicide family warning drink

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 295, "Death of Birchie Potter" (1 text)
Roud #6637
File: BrII295

Death of Brugh, The

DESCRIPTION: In 1922, rebel leader Cathal Brugh(a) is trapped (in a Dublin hotel) along with his fighting comrades; attempting to escape through the back door, he is shot. The singer praises and laments him.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (recording, Johnny McDonagh)

KEYWORDS: grief rebellion death lament IRA

FOUND IN:
Roud #12941

RECORDINGS:
Johnny McDonagh, "The Death of Brugh" (on Lomax42, LomaxCD1742)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "All Around My Hat" (tune)

NOTES [832 words]: Cathal Brugha was an officer in the resistance forces during the rebellion of 1916, famed for how hard he fought. He was also a political leader, arguing strenuously for a Republican government. - PJS

Brugha (born Charles Burgess, but like many Irish revolutionaries, he changed his name to a Gaelic form) fought and was wounded in the Easter Rebellion, but survived and was the Defence Minister in the 1919 Dail (the Irish parliament, which at that time would have to be regarded as provisional).

By the time he died, the Irish Free State had been organized (admittedly as a dominion) by Britain. But when the Irish cabinet voted (1921) on the dominion Treaty with Britain, Brugha (along with de Valera and Stack) voted against it (it was a 4-3 vote, with Barton, Collins, Cosgrave, and Griffith voting for the treaty). The vote in the Dail was 64-57 in favor.

When, later, Archbishop Byrne arranged a conference between Griffith, Collins, Brugh, and de Valera, Brugha called Collins a British agent, and when the latter proposed a referendum on the treaty, declared that circumstances were such that the people should not be allowed to vote (Coogan, p. 320).

The result was civil war, with pro- and anti-Treaty forces bitterly contesting the nature of a future Ireland. The legitimate government was pro-Treaty; Brugha was against. Thus Brugha was actually fighting against the legitimate government of Ireland when he died, fleeing from a burned building, gun in hand -- the perfect foot soldier, except that that wasn't his role.

According to Kee, p. 166, "Out of one of the blazing buildings in which a group of anti-Treaty men had eventually surrendered there emerged... a small dark man carrying a Thompson sub-machine gun. He had shaken off a St. John's Ambulance man who tried to make him surrender, and suddenly started firing... He was brought down in a hail of bullets, and died two days later. Altogether some sixty people were killed and three hundred wounded in eight days' fighting in Dublin."

To be fair, Brugha had allowed the remainder of his forces to surrender before setting out alone.
Younger, pp. 341-342, speculates that Brugha wanted to die as a sacrifice. But he did flee the Granville Hotel, breaking away from the men who served under him -- then when he was cornered, he fought rather than surrendering, and forced the army to kill him.

Perhaps the fittest description of him came from Richard Mulcahy (1886-1971), chief of staff of the Irish Volunteers and one of the most important men in holding together the Free State government: he was "as brave and as brainless as a bull" (Coogan, p. 34). He was tough as a bull, too; during the Easter Rising, he had taken "frightful" grenade wounds and lay for hours in a room "with little or no plaster left on the walls and every piece of furniture wrecked" (Foy/Barton, p. 102). He had been spared a firing squad in 1916 because he was thought too wounded to survive. Obviously he proved the doctors wrong (Coogan, p. 71).

Even Collins had mild words for him: "Because of his sincerity, I would forgive him anything. at worst he was a fanatic though in what has been a noble cause" (Kee, p. 167). Reading Coogan's description of Brugha (p. 70), which describes an inflexible, unimaginative, doctrinaire man -- so doctrinaire that he actually wanted to fight pitched battles against the English! (p. 142) -- I can't help but think how much he sounds like an English officer -- even though Brugha, were he alive, would doubtless beat me to a pulp for saying that.

The idiocy of this viewpoint is shown by a comment by Richard Mulcahy, the Irish Chief of Staff, who (after Collins) was probably the man most responsible for forcing the British to negotiate; he observed that, for all the deaths, the Irish rebels had never managed to drive the English out of anything more significant than "a fairly good-sized police barracks" (Kee, p. 145.) Nor was Brugha particularly close to the "men in the trenches"; Coogan on p. 142 reports that he continued to work at his business through most of the Troubles.

He would have made a wonderful prison camp commandant, I think: Loyal, dependable, and completely lacking in imagination. As a senior government official, he was probably more trouble than he was worth.

Brugha was not the only famous casualty in this period; the Irish shed at least as much of their own blood in the Civil War as the English ever had, and many leaders on both sides were ambushed, executed, or otherwise eliminated. For an even stronger example, and a far greater loss, see "General Michael Collins."

It is sad to note that much of the violent squabbling may have been based on personality rather than policy: Sean Dowling state that "Cathal Brugha hated Collins like poison. It was pathological. ... Brugha was Minister for Defence but he never did anything.... Collins was so energetic that he had usurped many of Brugha's functions; he sure was hated by him." (Quoted by Coogan, p. 175.) - RBW

Bibliography

- Coogan: Tim Pat CooganMichael Collins, 1992 (I used the 1996 Roberts Rinehart edition)
- Foy/Barton: Michael Foy and Brian Barton,The Easter Rising, 1999 (I use the 2000 Sutton edition)
- Kee: Robert Kee, Ourselves Alone, being volume III of The Green Flag (covering the brief but intense period from 1916 to the establishment of constitutional government in the 1920s), Penguin, 1972
- Younger: Calton Younger, Ireland's Civil War (1968, 1979; I used the 1988 Fontana edition)

Last updated in version 2.5

File: RcTDOB

Death of Cilley, The (The Duelist)

DESCRIPTION: "Hark! Didst thou hear that startling shriek, That agonizing yell? Which bathed in tears the widow's cheek, When murdered Cilley fell?" "O tell it not in Askelon... What deeds are done in Washington." "The duellist... Must stand condemned...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Burt-AmericanMurderBallads)
KEYWORDS: homicide political
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Feb 24, 1838 - Jonathan Cilley, a Maine congressman, killed in a duel with Kentucky Representative William Graves
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Death of Colonel Crafford, The

DESCRIPTION: Crafford leads a party out to slaughter the Indians outside Sandusky. Despite the valor of the white officers, they are forced back and Crafford is taken. The tribal council condemns him to be burnt. The survivors go home and cry for revenge

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1873 (Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio)

KEYWORDS: Indians(Am.) execution war

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- Mar 7, 1782 - American militia massacre 96 Delaware Indians (all Christians) at Gnadenhutten, Ohio. This was in retaliation for raids in which the Delaware took no part
- May 25-June 6, 1782 - Colonel William Crawford's campaign against the Indians (and British loyalists) on the Sandusky River, culminating in his severe defeat and the massacre of his army.
- June 11, 1782 - Execution by burning of Crawford. Crawford's defeat brought many Indians into the Revolutionary War on the British side, but this did little to change the balance of power; Cornwallis had already surrendered and American independence was assured

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 115, "A Song on the Death of Colonel Crafford" (1 text)
- Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 390-393, "A Song, Called Crawford's Defeat by the Indian on the Fourth Day of June, 1782" (1 text)

Death of Ellenton, The

DESCRIPTION: "Where the broad Savannah flows along to meet the mighty sea" was the former location of the town of Ellenton. The town has been taken over for a military test area and the inhabitants bought out. "Ellenton -- fair Ellenton -- is gone forevermore."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (recording, Johnson Family Singers)

KEYWORDS: home exile technology war

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 301-302, "The Death of Ellenton" (1 text)

Death of Fan McCoy, The

DESCRIPTION: "On her death bed lay Fan McCoy, Her child standing near." She reminds her son, "The Hatfields got your pappy, Jed," and tells the history of the feud, bidding him carry it on. Judge and jury are urged not to treat him harshly because of his history

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)

KEYWORDS: feud death mother children revenge

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1880 - Beginning of the Hatfield/McCoy feud

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Death of Fred Lowry, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come all young men and gentle maids, Come listen to me now...." The singer tells how troopers surround Fred Lowry's home. He vows to fight while ammunition lasts, but is shot from ambush. He proclaims his honesty, bids farewell to his girl, and dies

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987
KEYWORDS: outlaw death police prison Australia love
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, pp. 58-60, "The Death of Fred Lowry" (1 composite text, 1 tune)

NOTES [93 words]: According to Gwenda Beed Davey and Graham Seal, A Guide to Australian Folklore, Kangaroo Press, 2003, p. 180, "Fred Lowry (1836-1863), a bushranger of the Bathurst [New South Wales] region, is the subject of numerous extant local traditions.... In common with most bushranger lore, Lowry is presented as a brave, defiant hero who goes down gamely in a shoot-out with the cowardly police. He also seems to have had a reputation as a smart dresser and ladies' man. Legend has it that Lowry was the bushranger whose last words were 'Tell 'em I died game.'" - RBW

File: MCB058

Death of George Stoole, The

DESCRIPTION: George, loved by the ladies, and a scamp, is not helped at trial by fickle friends. Though "guiltlesse," he is condemned to be hanged for receiving stolen horses from a merchant. He would have preferred to have died fighting but dies well.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1610-1612: "date guessed" by Ebsworth
LONG DESCRIPTION: "When Georgie to his triall came ... A thousand Lasses wept." "Some did say he would escape, some at his fall did glory" but no friends came to his defense. He calmly went to his death, "tooke his leave of his Lards wife whom he lov'd best of any." He writes a letter to "his beloved Lady ... Wherein he did at large bewail the occasion of his folly"; he would not have her mourn for him. He curses those that turned him in for sheep stealing. He wished he were on the hill "my sword and buckler by my side, to fight till I be weary." He gives "his dearest love" gold for her babies. He says, "I never stole no Oxe nor Cow, nor never murdered any; but fifty horse I did receive of a Merchants man of Gory... For which I am condem'n'd to dye, though guiltlesse I stand dying." "God! comfort" those that "died so well as Georgie!"
Death of Harry Bradford, The [Laws C12]

DESCRIPTION: Harry Bradford, the foreman's son, cannot escape being crushed by falling logs. The father learns of his son's tragic death

AUTHOR: W. J. Taylor

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)

KEYWORDS: death logger lumbering father children

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Laws C12, "The Death of Harry Bradford"
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 52, "The Death of Harry Bradford" (1 text)
Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan, pp. 130-135, "The Death of Harry Bradford" (1 text)
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 70, "The Death of Harry Bradford" (1 text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 413-414, "The Death of Harry Bradford" (1 text)
DT 836, HARBRADF
Roud #2218

CROSS-REFERENCES:

NOTES [51 words]: Beck describes this song as "frankly in imitation" of "The Jam on Gerry's Rock". - PJS

This seems pretty clear; there are many phrases in common. But more than half of Beck's text (the only version that seems to be known) is about the father than about the tragedy. It's expansion as much as imitation. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2

File: LC12

Death of Harry Simms, The

DESCRIPTION: Harry Simms is nineteen and "the bravest union man That I have ever seen." The singer worked with Simms; one day in 1932, after they separate, Simms is killed for his union activities. The singer says "The thugs... cannot kill our spirit"

AUTHOR: Aunt Molly Jackson (Jim Garland listed as second author in some sources)

EARLIEST DATE: 1953

KEYWORDS: homicide labor-movement death mining

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Feb 1932 - Killing of Harry Simms

FOUND IN: US
Death of Herbert Rice, The [Laws D6]
DESCRIPTION: "A fine young man," Herbert Rice, "is lost at sea" off Block Island in a storm. The family mourns. Listeners are advised to turn to God.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Beck-FolkloreOfMaine)
KEYWORDS: sea storm death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1868 - Herbert A. Rice, not yet nineteen, is lost at sea
FOUND IN: US(NE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Laws D6, "The Death of Herbert Rice"
Beck-FolkloreOfMaine, p. 164, "The Death of Herbert Rice" (1 text)
DT 822, HERBRICE
Roud #2232
File: LD06

Death of Huey P. Long
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, they shot Huey Long in Louisiana As he walked in the Capitol stair." "Povery was his share back in childhood." The song describes Long’s life in Louisiana, and how he rose to power; it laments his assassination
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (recording, Hank Warner)
KEYWORDS: political death homicide
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sep 10, 1935 - Assassination of Huey Long
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 354-355, "Death of Huey P. Long" (1 text)
Roud #22310
File: CAFS1354

Death of Jerry Damron, The DESCRIPTION: Jerry Damron and his crew are killed on the C & O railroad, apparently in a derailment. His friends mourn for him, and hope to meet him in heaven
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: Early 1930s (given to Dock Boggs by Damron's sister)
KEYWORDS: grief train death mourning railroading wreck disaster lament worker
Death of Mill o' Tiftie's Annie, The

DESCRIPTION: Tifty's Annie lies buried in a Fyvie churchyard. The singer recalls the details of the story of Child 233 "Andrew Lammie" in different words from that ballad

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1912 (Greig/Duncan5)

KEYWORDS: love death family poverty derivative

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 1019, "The Death of Mill o' Tiftie's Annie" (1 text)

Roud #6723

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Andrew Lammie" [Child 233] (story) and references there

NOTES [15 words]: Greig/Duncan5 quoting Duncan: "The girl had learnt it from tradition, not from print." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD1019

Death of Morgan, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, Morgan was the traveler's friend, the squatters all rejoice, That the outlaw's life is at an end, no more they'll hear his voice... But my curse attend a treacherous man who'd shed another man's blood." Outlaw Daniel Morgan is killed in an ambush.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1955

KEYWORDS: outlaw death

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Apr 1865 - death of Daniel "Mad Dog" Morgan

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 230, "The Death of Morgan" (1 text)
Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads, pp. 28-29, "The Death of Morgan" (1 text)

Roud #8240

NOTES [617 words]: According to Boxall, p. 258, "[Daniel Morgan] was credited with being the most bloodthirsty of the New South Wales bushrangers after Willmore." Similarly Richardson, p. 23, calls him the "vilest buhranger of his times," adding, Morgan's exploits were dashing and daring, but he wasn't one of those engage bushrangers who inspire respect and public sympathy. He was mad, murderous, vicious and vindictive, and nobody much liked him." Boxall says that it was in 1863 that the police realized that he was not associated with Ben Hall or his gang and set out pursuing Morgan. Eventually a price of one thousand pounds was placed on his head.

On the night of April 8, 1865, Morgan set out on a raid in Victoria on a dare from a newspaper. He came to the station of Macpherson and Rutherford, both mentioned in at least some versions of the song. (Asked why he had taken to a life of crime, he claimed he was convicted of a crime he hadn't committed and had escaped.) Morgan was tired enough after several nights without sleep that someone was able to sneak out and summoned help. One of the rescuers shot Morgan from behind a bush.

Davey/Seal, p. 192, says "Bushranger hero Daniel Morgan operated along the Victoria and New South Wales border between 1863 and 1865, stealing horses, robbing travellers, and occasionally occupying farms and stations. Evidence suggests that he may have been emotionally unbalanced, but he was not the pathological killer painted by the police and the press. In fact, Morgan had considerable support and sympathy, particularly in Victoria, where he was known as the traveller's..."
friend.' The circumstances of Morgan's bushranging were brutal, ending in his death and disfigurement at Peecelba station (Victoria) in April 1865. Lindner, pp. 130-131, has an amazing back story. Born in 1830 in Appin, New South Wales, Jack Fuller (as he was originally known) was the illegitimate child of George Fuller and Mary Owen. Initially using the name John Smith, he was convicted in 1854 of highway robbery and served six years of a twelve year sentence, but once released, promptly violated his parole and vanished. He called himself "Bill the Native," but lasted only a few weeks as a legitimate station hand before stealing a horse and setting off. In the pursuit that followed, he had a finger shot off, but made his escape. They started calling him "Dan Morgan" around 1863.

A contemporary description, printed on p. 131 of Lindner, says that he was "5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, dark swarthy complexion, black hat worn down to his shoulders, black mustache, and black beard, the latter rusted about his mouth, cheeks covered up with hair to the eyes, straight nose, blue eyes, slouching gate, round shoulders, inter-lards his conversation with the words of course; insolent and overbearing in his manners."

He killed at least two men, one of them a policeman; there was a reward of £1000 on his head by the end of his career (Lindner, p. 132).

In a sense, Morgan's death contributed to the birth of another legend, that of "Waltzing Matilda." Magoffin, pp. 33-34, reports that Morgan's last robbery the one at the station of Macpherson and Rutherford, was at the home of the family of the baby Christina Macpherson, who would fit the tune of "Waltzing Matilda"; when the baby cried, Morgan allowed Christina's nurse to attend to her -- and the nurse snuck out and summoned the authorities, who proceeded to kill Morgan. Magoffin, p. 36, has a photo of Morgan taken after his death. The body was much abused after that, with the body being decapitated and some of the skin being made into a purse (Magoffin, p. 35). Thus a man who lived an ugly life had an even uglier death. - RBW

Bibliography

- Davey/Seal: Gwenda Beed Davey and Graham Seal, A Guide to Australian Folklore, Kangaroo Press, 2003
- Lindner: W. Benjamin Lindner, Waltzing Matilda: Australia's Accidental Anthem: A Forensic History, Boolarong Press, 2019
- Richardson: Matthew Richardson, Once a Jolly Swagman: The Ballad of Waltzing Matilda, Melbourne University Press, 2006

Last updated in version 5.2
File: Hodg230

Death of Mother Jones, The

DESCRIPTION: "The world is mourning today The death of Mother Jones; Grief and sorrow hover Around the miners' homes." The miners lament the death of the organizer who "was ready to help them; she never turned them down."

AUTHOR: unknown (see NOTES)
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (recording, Gene Autry)
KEYWORDS: labor-movement death mining
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
c. 1837-1930 - life of Mary Harris "Mother" Jones
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, pp. 154-155, "Mother Jones" (1 text)
Green-OnlyAMiner-RecordedCoalMiningSongs, pp. 241-243, "Mother Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DETHJONE*
Roud #15157
RECORDINGS:
Gene Autry, "The Death of Mother Jones" (Banner 32133/Jewel 20033/Oriole 8033/Perfect 12696/Regal 10311/Romeo 5033/Conqueror 7702, 1931)
NOTES [549 words]: Greenway notes that his text differs from that in Korson's "Coal Dust on the Fiddle," implying oral transmission. I'm not sure this really follows -- but there is enough doubt that I have indexed the song. - RBW

Jim Nelson reports that the song was copyrighted by American Record Company A & R man William R. Callaway, but it's virtually certain that he did not compose it, but rather purchased the rights from an unknown composer. His widow told Archie Green that her husband never had composed anything, but would often purchase material from musicians he worked with or people he met on the road. - PJS

Details about the early life of Mary Harris "Mother" Jones are vague, in part because her autobiography -- which was published when she was at least in her late eighties and perhaps older -- is unreliable, especially for dates (DAB). Estimates of the date of her birth vary from 1830 (so DAB) to 1837 (which apparently was when she was baptized -- which to me argues that the dates in the early 1830s are simply too early). She was born in Cork, Ireland, daughter of Richard and Helen Harris (Weir/Hanlan). Her father went to the United States in 1835, then brought his family over; they also spent time in Canada. Her education came from both public and convent schools (Weir/Hanlan). A tiny woman -- she was less than five feet tall -- she had enough energy for a woman twice her size.

Her first known work was a a teacher in a convent school in Monroe, Michigan. She then opened a dressmaking business in Chicago, but moved to Memphis, Tennessee and returned to teaching (DAB). It was there that she married George Jones, a member of the Iron Molders' Union, in 1861. They had four children by 1867 -- but her husband and all four children died in the Yellow Fever epidemic of 1837 (Weir/Hanlan). She went back to dressmaking in Chicago, but the Fire of 1871 destroyed everything she owned (DAB). With little else to do, she started attending Knights of Labor meetings -- and quickly became a dedicated organizer. As she grew older, she became known as "Mother" Jones, in part because of her gray hair and in part because of her tendency to call the workers "boys" (Weir/Hanlan).

She was often present at major events in labor history, such as the Pittsburg Labor Riots of 1877, the Haymarket violence of 1886, the A. R. U. strike of 1894 (DAB), and the Ludlow Massacre of 1913 (Weir/Hanlan). In 1903, she tried to convince Theodore Roosevelt of the evils of child labor. She was an early worker for the United Mine Workers of America (UMWA), split with them for a time because they were too conservative, then rejoined (DAB), but later quit again(Weir/Hanlan).

Although associated with radical causes, with some hints of socialism, she was not a pure liberal -- e.g. she had a conservative view of women's issues and opposed suffrage. Nonetheless she was imprisoned many times, once even being charged with conspiracy to commit murder (Weir/Hanlan). But she died in peace, widely respected even by fairly conservative figures.

Her heritage was preserved, e.g., by the magazine Mother Jones, although I think it is more consistently liberal than Jones herself was. - RBW

Bibliography

- DAB: Dumas Malone, editor,Dictionary of American Biography, originally published in 20 volumes plus later supplementary volumes; I use the 1961 Charles Scribner's Sons edition with minor corrections which combined the original 20 volumes into 10. The biography of Jones is on pp. 195-196 of volume V, part 2 (i.e. the original Volume X)

Last updated in version 6.1
File: Grnw154

Death of Mrs. Lydia Woodburn, The

DESCRIPTION: "What mournful sounds invade mine ear? What notes of anguish do I hear? ... Ah! yes sweet blooming Lydia dies...." Woodburn, young and beautiful, is mourned by her parents and siblings; her husband grieves. All hope she is in heaven

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads); probably composed c. 1814
KEYWORDS: death youth beauty nonballad
Death of Nelson, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you gallant seamen and give me a meeting." The song tells how an enemy shot mortally wounds Nelson. The doctor can do nothing. He had fought many battles, and lost an arm and an eye. England is told to mourn Nelson and bless Collingwood

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1866 (broadside Bodleian Curzon b.24(100)=Harding B 11(2624))
KEYWORDS: sailor death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1758-1805 - Life of Horatio Nelson, victor at Aboukir (the Nile), Copenhagen, and Trafalgar
Oct 21, 1805 - Battle of Trafalgar

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #462, p. 31, "The Death of Nelson" (1 reference)
Roud #3549
BROADSIDES:
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Nelson's Victory at Trafalgar (Brave Nelson)" [Laws J17] and references there (subject)
SAME TUNE:
Parody on "The Death of Nelson" (by Charles R. Thatcher, in "Thatcher's Colonial Songster")
(Thatcher-ColonialMinstrel-Songsters, pp. 94-95)
NOTES [88 words]: Roud lumps two types of song, both called "(The) Death of (Lord) Nelson," under one number. But they appear to me distinct. This one begunes "Come all you galland seamean"; the other starts typically "O'er Nelson's tomb with silent grief oppress'd." The other version seems to have been the more popular, but neither seems to have had any real traditional life; they are known from masses of broadsides, not from field collections.
For more about Nelson, see e.g. "Nelson's Victory at Trafalgar (Brave Nelson)" [Laws J17]. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: BdTDeoNe

Death of Parcy Reed, The [Child 193]

DESCRIPTION: Parcy Reed captures the raider Crosier. Crosier plans vengeance. When Reed goes hunting, the Halls find him asleep, disable his weapons, then awaken him but refuse to stand with him against the Crosiers. Reed is fatally injures. (He makes his farewells)

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1846 (Richardson's Border's Table Book; Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland)
KEYWORDS: homicide revenge trick betrayal outlaw borderballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (10 citations):
Child 193, "The Death of Parcy Reed" (2 texts)
Death of Queen Jane, The [Child 170]

DESCRIPTION: Queen Jane has hard labor. She begs her attendants to remove her baby surgically. They call King Henry; he will not permit the operation. Queen Jane falls unconscious; the baby is delivered but she dies. King, baby, and court mourn.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1776 (Percy)

KEYWORDS: royalty pregnancy death

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1536 - Execution of Henry VIII's second wife Anne Boleyn. His marriage to Jane Seymour (one of Anne's women in waiting) follows swiftly
- Oct 12, 1537 - Birth of the future Edward VI
- Oct 24, 1537 - Death of Jane Seymour

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South,West),Scotland(Aber,Bord)) US(Ap,SE)

REFERENCES (23 citations):
- Child 170, "The Death of Queen Jane" (9 texts)
- Bronson 170, "The Death of Queen Jane" (10 versions)
- Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 170, "The Death of Queen Jane" (2 versions: #3, #5)
- Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 333-335, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text)
- Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine p. 466, "The Death of Queen Jane" (brief notes only)
- Davis-TraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 35, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text)
- Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 254-255, "Queen Jane" (1 text, the Lunsford version which has no true plot; tune on pp. 422-423) {Bronson's #7}
- Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 478-480, "The Death of Queen Jane" (4 texts)
- Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 285, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text)
- Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 32, "The Death of Queen Jane" (2 texts, 2 tunes) {Bronson's #4, #5}
- Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 29, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #3}
- Jones-MinstrelOfTheAppalachians-Bascom-Lamar-Lunsford, p. 198, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 short text, 1 tune) {same source as Bronson's #7, but the transcription shows differences}
- Wells-TheBalladTree, p. 47, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #4}
- Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 50, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #4}
- Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolksongs 21, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #4}
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 21, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #3}
VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, p. 31, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #2}
Greig/Duncan3 693, "Queen Jean" (2 texts)
Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 52, "The Death of Queen Jane" (1 text)
Abrahams/Foss-AngloAmericanFolksongStyle, pp. 56-57, "Queen Jane" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #7}
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 212, "Queen Jane" (1 text)
DT 170, QUENJANE* QUENJAN2*
Roud #77
RECORDINGS:
Douglas Kennedy, "The Death of Queen Jane" (on FieldTrip1)
Bascom Lamar Lunsford, "Death of Queen Jane" (LOC AAFS 104/AAFS L21) (on BLLunsford01; a lyric fragment in which everyone comes to Jane and says simply, "The red rose of England shall flourish no more.") (on BLLunsford02) {Bronson's #7}
Archie Sturgill, "Queen Sally" (on CloseHomeMS)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Six Dukes Went A-Fishing" (lyrics)
NOTES [2449 words]: [A. L. Lloyd reports.] "We do not know how old this ballad is, nor if it derives from a piece called "The Lamentation of Queen Jane", licensed for publication in 1560." This ballad is also, as "Dronning Dagmar (Queen Dagmar)," found in Danish tradition. - PJS
The Stationer's Register item cited by Lloyd is described on p. 127, #1455, "The Lamentation of quene Jane," registered November 39, 1560 by Jno. Sampson. However, Rollins says that this is the same as his #1457 (p. 128), "the lamentation of the ladye Jane made saying my fathers proclamation now I muste lose my head," printed by Jno. Tisdale, 1562/1563. This clearly refers to Lady Jane Grey, not Jane Seymour, although I am not personally convinced that they are the same item.
If actually the same song, the Danish version would appear to be much older than the English; the most famous Dagmar in Danish history was the daughter of Ottocar I of Bohemia and the wife of Valdemar II (c. 1170-1241; reigned 1202-1241; the name of the Danish king in "Dronning Dagmar" is in fact Valdemar). They were married in 1205; she died in 1212 (so Birch, p. 63; I've seen online sources which say 1215-1222), leaving a son who, in an interesting coincidence, predeceased his father (the victim of a shooting accident, according to Birch, p. 67), meaning that the Danish throne went to younger half-brothers, beginning with Eric, co-King with his father from 1232.
Mitchell, p. 32, observes that most Danish historical ballads seem to be very old and only very slightly altered by tradition, and adds that "The substance of the ballads about Queen Dagmar dates from about 1205." The reason may be that they aren't really folk songs; they are minstrel work, targeted to the upper class; "the common man, the peasant, was not commemorated in song." The other side of that is, a minstrel song would perhaps be more likely than a true folk song to be transmitted to another nation and language. - RBW
Re "Queen Dagmar's Death" translated in R.C. Alexander Prior Ancient Danish Ballads (1860), Vol. II, No. LXII, pp. 136-140: "Dagmar, the first wife of King Waldmar the second, died at Ringsted by the side of her husband." The plot is very close to "The Death of Queen Jane." However, the king reaches her side after she has died. The king asks that everyone pray that he be allowed to hear her wishes. The Queen wakes, asks that all prisoners be released, that Berengaria not be taken as a wife, and that her youngest son Knud be heir to the crown. Finally, she explains the reason for her death and damnation: "Had I on a Sunday not laced my sleeves, Or border upon them sewn, No pangs had I felt by day or night, Or torture of hell-fire known." She returns to death. - BS
Note therefore the (minor) differences between the songs: Valdemar arrives at his wife's bedside only after she dies, and she attributes her death to dressing too gaily on a Sunday. She also speaks after death; I know of no supernatural versions of "Queen Jane." Still, it's noteworthy that "Queen Jane's" plot, where it differs from the facts, always differs in a way that brings it closer to "Dronning Dagmar." - (RBW, PJS, BS)
To bring up another source, Fowler, pp. 125-126, mentions a piece that was registered in 1560, "The Doleful Death of Queen Jane," although he lists no printings before 1612. It is flowery and doesn't look very good to me, but Fowler (following Nygard) thinks it helped promote the story that became this ballad.
Of all the strange events in the history of Henry VIII, his romance with Jane Seymour may be the strangest.

Henry had not initially expected to succeed his father Henry VII. There was an older brother, Arthur, who had been groomed for the throne and had married Catherine, princess of Aragon. But Henry VII's children seemed cursed -- four of eight died very young, and then, in 1502, Arthur died also (Ashley, pp. 630-631). The only surviving boy, Henry, became heir to his father -- and to Catherine of Aragon. Nor was Catherine the only legacy from his relatives: Henry also inherited, in different form, the suspicions and power-hungriness of his usurping father. And he also inherited that bad genes that perhaps went back to the mad king Charles VI of France, whose daughter Catherine had been Henry VII's grandmother. There is no reason to think Catherine of Aragon was infertile -- her sisters generally had no problems with child-bearing. But Catherine's many pregnancies mostly ended in miscarriages or in the birth of children who died very young; only one girl, Mary, survived infancy. By 1526, Henry was sure that Catherine of Aragon (who was 40 years old, six years older than her husband) would not give him a son (Ashley, p. 632). And, in this period, he also became interested in Anne Boleyn -- who, however, refused his advances unless she could marry him.

You know the rest; Henry couldn't get a divorce from Rome, so he founded his own church, divorced Catherine, disinherited Mary (Scarisbrick pp. 351-352, notes how the poor girl was forced to give up her claim to the throne, her legitimacy, and even her religion; he suggests she might have been executed had she not given in), married Anne -- and found that the whole cycle started again. There was one healthy child, Elizabeth, born 1533. But there were also three miscarriages (Lofts-Anne, p. 124), and no son.

Soon after the birth of Elizabeth, Henry VIII's roving eye seems to have started roving again. Jane Seymour was not of a very exalted family, but sufficiently notable that Jane had been a lady in waiting first to Catherine of Aragon and then to Anne (Ives, p. 292). Scarisbrick, p. 348, thinks Henry noticed Jane Seymour in mid-1534, and stories began to circulate about them later in that year. Ives, pp. 292-293, however, thinks he only became serious about Jane in January 1536. But most sources I checked think he began courting her some time in 1535.

It was rather surprising -- no one then or now seems to have regarded Jane as particularly beautiful. Lofts-Anne, p. 136, says, "[u]nless her portrait maligns her vilely, she may have been the original Plain Jane"; Loach, p. 2, refers to a "pale and puffy" appearance. The imperial ambassador said "nobody thinks she has much beauty. Her complexion is so whitish that she may be called rather pale. She is a little over 25... not very intelligent, and is said to be rather haughty" (Ives, p. 302)

But Anne Boleyn hadn't been considered a great beauty, either (although certainly prettier than Jane); Henry VIII seems to have wanted something other than conventional good looks. The odd thing was Jane's age -- we don't know it exactly, but Lofts-Queens, p. 99, claims she was fully 33 at the time her son was born. This is almost certainly high, but Ashley, p. 630, gives her birth date as c. 1508, making her 29, OxfordCompanion, p. 539, says she was born c. 1509, making her 28. (One suspects her late marriage is additional evidence of her lack of looks.) Ives, p. 302, hints that Henry was attracted by Jane as a sort of anti-Anne -- she was "fair, not dark... gentle rather than abrasive; of no great-wit, against a mistress of repartee; a model of self-effacement, against a self-made woman." Skidmore, pp. 14-15, seems to think it was her submissiveness that caught Henry's fancy: she was willing to be utterly subservient.

By then, Anne seems to have been living on sufferance. Henry -- who had been so ardent as long as she had refused to share his bed -- no longer loved her, and apparently was spending just enough time with her to try for another child. Anne did become pregnant in late 1535 -- but had another miscarriage in early 1536. (If Henry had been rational, this should have proved to him that Anne was being faithful, because he was the one with the genetic defects. But Henry was not rational.)

The miscarriage came shortly after Henry took a fall which caused great fears for his health (Scarisbrick, p. 348). More than ever, Henry wanted a son -- and that, in his warped mind, meant another wife (he actually considered his failure to beget a son to be evidence that God disapproved of his marriages). Conveniently, Catherine of Aragon had died in early 1536 (OxfordCompanion, p. 175), so if Anne could be set aside, the children of further marriages would be free of doubt about their legitimacy. And Anne could easily be eliminated, because -- unlike Catherine -- she was not popular; the people resented her replacement of the much-loved Catherine.

There was, in fact, a song written about this business, which cast Henry to scorn and caused Jane some pain. Henry vowed to "straitly punish" the author, but never managed to catch him (Ives, p. 305). That song does not appear to have gone into tradition.

Henry had Anne and a handful of others accused of adultery and other crimes -- some merely unlikely, some, such as of engaging in incest with her brother (Lofts-Anne, p. 158), absurd. Her brother's chief crime seems to have been saying aloud that Henry might be impotent (Lofts-Anne, pp. 159-160). Henry and Cromwell arranged a kangaroo trial (there were no witnesses, according to Lofts, p. 160, and no impartial judges, either), and executed her on May 19 (the execution had to be hasty, because, apparently, the false conviction earned her sympathy for the first time in her career. The only hint of mercy, according to Lofts-Anne, p. 168, was that she was beheaded rather than being drawn and quartered, the normal sentence for treason -- and adultery by the Queen was called treason. The crown did try to keep things relatively quiet -- Anne was executed on a low scaffold, and the execution was postponed from May 18 to May 19 in hopes of causing spectators to go home (Lofts-Anne, p. 171).

That day, Archbishop Cranmer issued a dispensation allowing Henry to marry Jane Seymour (who was distantly related). They became engaged the next day, and married on May 30 (Scarisbrick, p. 350). She became pregnant about half a year later -- a pregnancy which would result in her death. There are surprisingly many stories about the death of Jane Seymour -- that she died in childbirth, or due to the after-effects of a Caesarean operation. Our information is sadly conflicting.

It does seem certain that Jane Seymour went into labor on October 11, 1537. The future Edward VI was born early on October 12. Jane died twelve days later. The labor is said to have been hard and to have lasted thirty hours (Skidmore, p. 14). Henry was not present at the time and made no decisions about the birth; Skidmore, p. 15, says that he was at Esher when Edward was born.

The story that Henry was told at the time that "one of the two must die" is very early, apparently first found in 1538, with a variant, that the prince would be "as great a murderer as his father," apparently being known in 1539. Apparently some of this was used as Catholic propaganda. And Scarisbrick, p. 353, says that "At Hampton Court, on 12 October 1537, Queen Jane was delivered by Caesarean section of a son, christened Edward shortly afterward -- just ten years since Henry first set out on the task of getting rid of Catherine to save his dynasty. But Loach, pp. 4-5, declares that, while the Caesarean operation was known at the time, it was a course of desperation and usually killed the mother. Jane did live twelve days, and at first was well enough to see her child and attend his christening (Skidmore, p. 16). Loach therefore thinks it unlikely that surgery was involved in Edward VI's birth.

Loach on p. 7 considers and rejects the suggestion of puerperal fever (caused presumably by the dirty hands of doctors), which Lofts-Anne, p. 156, considers the cause of death. On p. 6 Loach notes the activities Jane was able to engage in immediately after the birth. It was not until October 23 that she became ill. She died "during the night of Wednesday, 24 October." Even then, no fever was reported -- but heavy bleeding was. Loach's speculation is that the incompetent doctors did not fully remove the placenta, and it haemorrhaged.

Skidmore, p. 19, also accepts the diagnosis of incompetent removal of the placenta, and speculates that it was because Jane was treated by academic doctors rather than midwives with hands-on experience. Skidmore adds that rumors about caesarean operations or other surgeries arose very early -- and notes on p. 20 that, in an era when politics was dominated by religious propaganda, Catholics would be willing to swallow almost any story that fit their views of Henry the heretic.

Even Edward seems to have accepted this story in part; he was recorded as saying he slew his mother at his birth (Skidmore, p. 22). Jane's funeral took place on November 12, and she was buried the next day (Loach, p. 7). The statement about "fiddling and dancing" at the baby's birth are likely enough; Henry VIII was himself a good musician, and exceptionally fond of music and dance; Williams, p. 14, notes that Henry's father Henry VII had been indifferent to music and celebration (or almost anything in life except money and power), and had kept only a very small musical establishment, and observes on pp. 36-37 that when Henry VIII succeeded, he immediately enlarged his staff of minstrels and musicians.

The mention of Henry wearing mourning for Jane is true and quite interesting, because he had blatantly refused to wear mourning when Catherine of Aragon died; indeed, he forbade others from dressing in mourning (Lofts-Anne, p. 139). And, of course, he completely refused to mourn for Anne (hardly surprising, since to do so would be, in effect, to admit that she was innocent and that he had had her judicially murdered).

The description of the colors in the song is interesting. Black mourning was a new fashion at this time (Skidmore, p. 21). Jane was buried in cloth of gold; the banners in the procession were white. When Henry died, he ordered that he be buried next to Jane (Skidmore, p. 1). Of course, of the other five wives, one was still alive, two he had divorced, and two he had executed; Jane was the only dead one with whom he had not had some sort of fight. The decision was probably by process of elimination in more senses than one.
Incidentally, Jane Seymour's ghost is alleged to still appear at Hampton Castle, one of Henry VIII's primary residences and the place where Jane died. The other side of the coin is, the place is alleged to have quite a few ghosts, very many of whom have been explicitly identified with one or another historical person. One can't help but wonder if the real explanation isn't someone (perhaps in a tourism office) with an overactive imagination.... - RBW

Bibliography

- Ashley: Mike Ashley, British Kings and Queens, Barnes & Noble, 2000 (originally published as The Mammoth Book of British Kings and Queens, 1998)
- Birch: J. H. S. Birch, Denmark in History, John Murray, 1938
- Loach: Jennifer Loach (edited by George Bernard and Penny Williams), Edward VI (one of the Yale English Monarchs series), Yale, 1999 (I use the 2002 paperback edition)
- Lofts-Anne: Norah Lofts, Anne Boleyn, Coward, McCann & Geoghegan, 1979
- Skidmore: Chris Skidmore, Edward VI, St. Martin's Press, 2007
- Williams: Neville Williams: Henry VIII and His Court, Macmillan, 1971

Last updated in version 6.1
File: C170

Death of Roy Rickey, The

DESCRIPTION: "Little Roy was missing, Where was he found? A-hangin' by the roadside ...." He was hangin' on a whiteoak.... Where he could have saved himself If he had not been dead." His parents are accused of killing the boy then hanging the dead body

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)

KEYWORDS: death homicide father mother children crime

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, pp. 163-164, "The Death of Roy Rickey" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Mary Phagan" [Laws F20] (tune)

SAME TUNE:
Mary Phagan [Laws F20] (File: LF20)

NOTES [75 words]: This is so feeble a piece that, after the first two verses, I thought it intended to be humorous. But it evidently wasn't so meant. The outcome of the case apparently was not known to the informants, but rumor had it that Roy had discovered his mother in a compromising position with Jim Andy Day (who later discovered Roy's body). The two disposed of Roy to make sure no word reached Roy's father. Amazing no one made a movie out of that plot.... - RBW

File: ThBa163
Death of Samuel Adams

DESCRIPTION: "In the state of old Kentucky... A horrible crime was committed And later brought to light." "A man was cruelly murdered, Samuel Adams was his name." The buried body washes up in a flood, and Joe Schuster and gang sentenced to life imprisonment

AUTHOR: Grover Frazier?
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)
KEYWORDS: homicide trial prison work
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
 Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, pp. 242-243, "Death of Samuel Adams" (1 text)
Roud #4131
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Rowan County Crew (Trouble, or Tragedy)" [Laws E20] (lyrics)
NOTES [61 words]: Neither this song nor Thomas's notes are very clear as to what actually happened here. Reading a great deal into a small amount between the lines, I suspect that Samuel Adams, left without work in the Depression, arrived perhaps at Ashland during the labor troubles. He took a job as a guard and was killed as a result.
This is item dF62 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW
File: ThBa242

Death of Sly Grog, The

DESCRIPTION: "O'er 'Sly Grog's tomb' with drunken grief oppressed Grogsellers mourn their business now at rest." The singer tells how the police, after much effort, proved that there was illegal liquor sold. The seller is fined fifty pounds for not buying a license

AUTHOR: Words: "Coxon"
EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (AndersonStory)
KEYWORDS: drink police punishment
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
 Anderson-StoryOfAustralianFolksong, pp. 88-90, "The Death of Sly Grog" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: AnSo088

Death of the Beckwith Child (The Beckwith Tragedy)

DESCRIPTION: "My frends allow my febel toungue, If I may speak my mind, This plainly shoes to old and young The frailty of mankind." A family in Manchester had five children. Two wander off, and one is killed by a falling branch

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1773 (date of composition, according to Coffin/Cohen)
KEYWORDS: death children family burial
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
 Jun 20, 1773 - Death of the Beckwith child
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
 Flanders-ChapBook Flanders-VermontChapBook, pp. 10-15, "Beckwith Tragedy" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Tristram P. Coffin and Hennig Cohen, _Folklore in America: Tales, Songs, Superstitions, Proverbs, Riddles, Games, Folk Drama and Folk Festivals_, Doubleday, 1966, pp. 78-80, "The Death of the Beckwith Child" (1 text, with the original peculiar orthography preserved)
Roud #4672
File: CoCo078

Death of William Gilley, The [Laws D5]

DESCRIPTION: A widow tells of how, within weeks of her marriage, her husband went to sea. Neither ship nor sailor ever returned, leaving her trying to find strength in her faith

AUTHOR: Mary Lurvey Stanley (broadside)
EARLIEST DATE: 1926
KEYWORDS: sea death religious
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 14, 1829 - Marriage of Clarissa Gott and William Gilley
Mar 1, 1829 - Gilley sets sail in the Minerva, never to return
FOUND IN: US(NE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Laws D5, "The Death of William Gilley"
DT 821, WMGILLEY
Roud #2231
File: LD05

Death of Willie Stone, The DESCRIPTION: "In a graveyard at Toowong, where the river rolls along, Lies Willie Stone a trusted man and true." Well-beloved and handsome, he falls and is killed in a horserace. Listeners are told that "'Twas God's decree and he alone knows best."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1975
KEYWORDS: horse racing death
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 224-225, "The Death of Willie Stone" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [114 words]: Stone came from a well-known family of horse trainers, but he was not killed in a race; rather, he was thrown in a practice run. The informant, M. Sullivan, thought this piece might be the work of "Cyclone" Jimmy Connors.
There is some disagreement about the spelling of his name; Fahey-Eureka-
SongsThatMadeAustralia calls him "Willie Stone," but Gwenda Beed Davey and Graham Seal, A Guide to Australian Folklore, Kangaroo Press, 2003, p. 204, give the name as "Willy Stone."
Davey/Seal say of him, "Historical jockey whose song celebrates his bravery and laments his death in a racing accident in Brisbane when his mount, Crusoe, fell on him and killed him in December
1892." - RBW
Last updated in version 4.1
File: FaE224

Death of Young Robert, The DESCRIPTION: "Come gather, my friends, For a short tale of woe... Oh, nothing is worse than the death of a child." Robert was the son of Lord William and Lady Anne. One night the boy cries out and dies while his father is away. He will never grow old in heaven
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 2001 (HCargillFamily)
KEYWORDS: children death mother father
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
RECORDINGS:
Susan Brown and Acie Cargill, "The Death of Young Robert" (on HCargillFamily)
NOTES [33 words]: This sounds like several other songs that originated or were heavily rewritten in the Tyler family. It seems likely that Hattie Mae Tyler Cargill or someone else in the family wrote the piece. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: RcD0YR

Death Song for the Huntly Miners
DESCRIPTION: "A dirge for the miners, the brave Huntly miners, O'erwhelmed in the drive, where they labour'd for bread." The song laments those who were killed. "Work on, then, O millions, in darkness and sorrow."
AUTHOR: Arthur Desmond
EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (New Zealand Observer, according to Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)
Death Was a Little Thing

DESCRIPTION: "Death was a little thing, It goes from door to door, You take him in the silent grave, It's never to rise no more" "Pray brother ... sing sister ... Praise ye the Lord ... I'm going to serve the Lord"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious floatingverses
FOUND IN: West Indies(Bahamas)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories 30, "Death Was a Little Thing" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [20 words]: The description is based on the Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories text. The first verse is also in "Lord, Remember Me" (I). - BS

Death, 'Tis a Melancholy Day

DESCRIPTION: "Death, 'tis a melancholy day For those who have no God, When the poor soul is forced away To seek her last abode." The girl is condemned to Hell; others are warned of it. The singer is glad to be rescued from it.

AUTHOR: Words: Isaac Watts
EARLIEST DATE: 1707 (Watts; see NOTES)
KEYWORDS: religious Hell death
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 645, "Death, 'Tis a Melancholy Day" (1 text)
Roud #655
NOTES [122 words]: In the Sacred Harp, where the text is credited to Isaac Watts (1707) and the tune to H. S. Reed, this is called "Melancholy Day." The Missouri Harmony sets the first verse to the tune "Tribulation."

Death, Ain't You Got No Shame?

DESCRIPTION: "Death, ain't you got no shame, shame...." "Left his pappy to moan, moan...." "Left his widder alone, lone...." "Left his mammy to weep, weep...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang)
KEYWORDS: religious death nonballad
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 129, "Death, Ain't You Got No Shame?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang, pp. 248-249, "Det' Ain't Yuh Got No
Debt I Owe

DESCRIPTION: Leader lines alternate with the response "I ain't going to pay any debt I owe." The leader's lines say which debt won't be paid ("Debt I owe in Brunswick store") or authority defied ("Mister Watchman don't watch me")

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands)
KEYWORDS: money work nonballad shanty
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands 51, pp. 209-210, "Debt I Owe" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [47 words]: The chorus of "Jesus Paid It All" may be a source: "Jesus paid it all, All the debt I owe, Jesus died and paid it all, Yes all the debt I owe" (Philip Phillips and William B Bradbury, The Silver Bells (Chicago: Alfred L. Sewell, 1867 ("Digitized by Internet Archive")), p. 4).
- BS
Last updated in version 4.1
File: Parr051

Deceitful Husband, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer says she was courted and married by a stranger. They had been married six weeks when a woman claims him as the father of her infant. The singer believes the story although her husband denies it. She drives him away to "where he ought to go"

AUTHOR: Hugh McWilliams (source: Moulden-McWilliams)
EARLIEST DATE: 1831 (according to Moulden-McWilliams)
KEYWORDS: marriage accusation rejection baby husband lover wife
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: John Moulden, Songs of Hugh McWilliams, Schoolmaster, 1831 (Portrush,1993), p. 8, "The Deceitful Husband"
Roud #7002
RECORDINGS:
Robert Cinnamond, "Young Girls Beware" (on IRRCinnamond02)
NOTES [6 words]: The description is based on Moulden. - BS
File: RcTDeHus

December Cam'

DESCRIPTION: The day before Old Yule comes with wind and snow. The maiden cleaning the lum [chimney] slippes on her bum. She bakes bread and cleans the house. We get bread buttered and hot but cups and dishes "cam' rowin frae the pantry"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: humorous religious
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast 59, p. 2, ("December cam, the twenty-fift") (1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan3 636, "December Cam" (1 text)
Roud #6096
NOTES [72 words]: Greig: .. " .. a rhyme about Yule, which was written, my correspondent thinks, by an Inverkeithnney man, an Episcopalian, as a kind of satire on the way Presbyterians held Christmas." In this regard, the first verse begins "December cam' the twenty fift Accordin' to the aul' time." For more background on the reaction to the introduction of the Gregorian calendar, and its effect on the Yule celebration, see the notes to "Auld Yule." - BS
Deck of the Willow Green

DESCRIPTION: Edgar ships on the Willow Green. Being God-fearing, he refuses to join the crew and captain in drink. Edgar tells the captain that drink will lead him to Hell. In drunken gloom the captain kills himself. Edgar prays for the crew. They all swear off rum.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast, Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports)

KEYWORDS: virtue suicide sea ship drink religious sailor

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 89, "Deck of the Willow Green" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 288-290, "On the Deck of the Willow Green (Faithful Edgar)" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST LLab089 (Partial)
Roud #9974

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Faithful Edgar

NOTES [2 words]: Yeah, sure. - RBW

Deck the Halls (with Boughs of Holly)

DESCRIPTION: Listeners are urged to "Deck the halls with boughs of holly," wear "gay apparel," "troll the ancient yuletide carol," and welcome in the new year

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1881 (tune published 1784 as "Nos Galan" in Musical and Poetical Relics of the Welsh Bards)

KEYWORDS: Christmas nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Dearmer/VaughnWilliams/Shaw-OxfordBookOfCarols 50, "Nos Galan" (2 texts, of which the second is this piece, 1 tune)
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 254, "Deck the Halls" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 382, "Deck the Halls" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 193-194, "Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly"
DT, DECKHALL*

ADDITIONAL: Ian Bradley, _The Penguin Book of Carols_ (1999), #17, "Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly" (1 text)

SAME TUNE:
Deck the Halls with Lefse Slices (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 19)
Deck the Halls (with Gasoline) (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 99)

NOTES [125 words]: This seems certainly to have been originally a Welsh New Year's song, "Nós Galan." According to Fuld, this was originally published, in Welsh, in 1784. Despite the appearance of the words in the Oxford Book of Carols, the commentators cited by Fuld consider the song to be exclusively American.
The English words bear no relationship to the Welsh, which is said to be a love song used as a circle dance. Bradley in the Penguin Book of Carols claims it could be used for a forfeit game: The singers danced around a harp, and each singer was called upon to sing a verse in turn, with the singer who failed to do so dropping out of the circle.

For some background on the mythological and historic significance of holly, see "The Holly and the Ivy." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: FSWB382A
Declaration d'Amour, La (Declaration of Love)

DESCRIPTION: French. Singer has waited by his love's door to speak with her, but she's refused. He pleads, "Why love not a lover who loves you more?" She says, "How could you wish that I love you / When I am forbidden my love to bestow?" In dreams she will love him.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (Berry-FolkSongsOfOldVincennes)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage hardheartedness courting love rejection lover
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Berry-FolkSongsOfOldVincennes, p. 62, "La Declaration d'Amour (Declaration of Love)" (1 text + translation, 1 tune)
File: BerV062

Deep Blue Sea (I), The

DESCRIPTION: The girl's lover set off to sea, promising to write to her. She never hears from him. She seeks out his captain, who tells her "he is drowned in the deep blue sea." She bids "farewell to friends and relations" and decides to drown herself

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (Carter Family recording)
KEYWORDS: death suicide ship sea drowning
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Randolph 794, "The Deep Blue Sea" (1 short text plus 2 excerpts, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 518-520, "The Deep Blue Sea" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 794A)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, p. 60, "Sailor on the Sea" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 26, "Sailor on the Deep Blue Sea" (1 text, 1 tune, perhaps rewritten by the Carter Family)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 181, "Sailor On The Deep Blue Sea" (1 text)
DT, SAILDEEP*
Roud #4291
RECORDINGS:
Carter Family, "I Have No One to Love Me" (Victor V-40036, 1929)
Lake Howard, "I Have No One to Love Me" (Perfect 13151, 1935)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Sailor on the Deep Blue Sea" (on NLCR01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [118 words]: Paul Stamler suggests that this is a worn-down form of "The Sailor Boy" (Laws K12). I consider the characteristic of Laws K12 to be the request for a boat that the girl may seek her lover. Also, there are very few words in common between the two. So I have, with some hesitation, decided to split the two songs (though there are cases, such as Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, where I truly wasn't sure). It is quite possible that the separation is recensional; Cohen notes that Randolph's texts appear to be a warn down version of the Carter Family version, and Randolph's is the only genuinely traditional source. So this may be the remnants of a Carter Family rewrite of "The Sailor Boy." - RBW
Last updated in version 5.1
File: R794

Deep Blue Sea (II)

DESCRIPTION: "Deep blue sea, baby, deep blue sea...It was Willie what got drownded in the deep blue sea"; "Dig his grave with a silver spade..."; "Lower him down with a golden chain..."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (recording, Pete Seeger)
KEYWORDS: death burial drowning floatingverses lullaby
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Deep Deep Sea, The

DESCRIPTION: "A noble ship lay motionless Far on the deep blue sea; The winds were hushed, The waves were still in quiet harmony." But there is no laughter on the ship because one of the sailors is dead. He has been buried at sea

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1849 (Journal of the Edward)

KEYWORDS: sailor death mourning

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, p. 126, "The Deep Deep Sea" (1 text, 1 tune -- the latter from the manuscript rather than a reconstruction or guess)

Roud #25989

File: HGam126

Deep Elem Blues

DESCRIPTION: The listener is advised to be prepared when going to (Deep Elem): "If you go down to Deep Elem just to have a little fun, You'd better have your fifteen dollars when the policeman comes." The singer details his experiences with the women there

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Cofer Brothers)

KEYWORDS: whore money police theft trick sex warning crime humorous clergy

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (4 citations):

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 501, "Went Down Town"; 502, "Standin' on de Street Doin' No Harm" (2 fragments, consisting of little more than a declaration of innocence and a statement "along came the police and grabbed me by the arm," also found in some versions of this song)

Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 502, "Went Down Town"; 503, "Standin' on de Street Doin' No Harm" (2 tunes plus text excerpts)

Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 529-530, "Deep Elem Blues" (1 text)

Roud #3119

File: PSAFB076
Deep River

DESCRIPTION: "Deep River, "(My home is over Jordan), I want to cross over (to the campground)." The singer hopes to cross (the Jordan) to heaven, there to meet family, friends, etc.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1875 ("The Story of the Jubilee Singers")

KEYWORDS: religious death river

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (6 citations):

- Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 167, "Deep River" (1 text) (1 tune)
- Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 594-595, "Deep River" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Warren-EveryTimeIFeelTheSpirit, p. 29-30, "Deep River" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 370, "Deep River" (1 text)
- Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, p. 195, "Deep River"

RECORDINGS:

- Marian Anderson, "Deep River" (Victor 19227, 1924) (Victor 22015, 1929; Victor 2032, 1940)
- Carroll Clark w. Fletcher Henderson [Orch.?] "Deep River" (Columbia 128-D, 1924)
- Commonwealth Quartet, "Deep River" (Conqueror 7079, 1928)
- Hampton Institute Quartette, "Deep River" (RCA, unissued, 1941)
- The King's Heralds, "Deep River" (Chapel CR 23, n.d.)
- Lions Quartet, "Deep River" (Columbia 1167-D, 1927)
- Oriole Male Quartette, "Deep River" (Oriole 893, 1927)
- Randolph's Kentucky Jubilee Choir, "Deep River" (Brunswick 4063, 1928)
- Paul Robeson, "Deep River" (Victor 20793, 1927)

NOTES [53 words]: Not to be confused with either of two songs called "Deep River Blues" (one traditional, with the opening "Let it rain, let it pour; Let it rain a whole lot more..."); the other coming from the W. C. Handy tradition and beginning "Deep river, deep river, Mississippi River, so deep and wide my heart is breaking"). - RBW

Last updated in version 4.1

File: DTdeepel

Deep Sea Tug

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, the trawler wharf in Aberdeen, It's a bonnie place to be When a force eight gale is blawin'..." "Aye it's cauld, bloody cauld On... The north-east Scottish coast." A man is killed before anyone can come to his aid. It's an awful life

AUTHOR: Harry Robertson (Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)

EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (recorded by Harry Robertson, according to Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)

KEYWORDS: sailor hardtimes death

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

- Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 151, "Deep Sea Tug" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [12 words]: Palmer offers absolutely no evidence that this song is traditional. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4

File: PsSea151
Deep Sheephaven Bay

DESCRIPTION: The singer is exiled from Ireland. He thinks about his old home, the fishing fleet, the fields, and "bonnie blue-eyed Mary in her shawl of Galway grey," Now he is old but hopes he can return and "sleep in that old churchyard" near his old home.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1988 (McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen)
KEYWORDS: exile home separation Ireland nonballad return
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen 21, "Deep Sheephaven Bay" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [24 words]: McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen: "A favourite song of emigration in Donegal. Sheephaven Bay lies west of Inishowen...." - BS
File: McB1021

Defence of Crossgar

DESCRIPTION: Thrashers prepare "not to leave a Protestant soul in Crossgar" on St Patrick's Day. A policeman encourages them and the peelers don't stop them. "Many a Thrasher that day was detained" by Orange shot. "We fought them and beat them an hundred to one"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark)
KEYWORDS: violence Ireland patriotic political police
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
  Mar 17, 1849 - "Ribbon parades at Castlewellan and Crossgar were attacked by Orangemen, and at Crossgar a policeman and a young woman were killed" (source: Neil Jarman and Dominic Bryan, _From Riots to Rights; Nationalist Parades in the North of Ireland_ (1997),
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark 13, "Defence of Crossgar" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "The Seige of Carrick" (tune, according to Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark)
NOTES [93 words]: Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark: "The Irish Constabulary, like the R.I.C. which superseded it, was largely composed of Roman Catholics."
  Sir Robert Peel established the Royal Irish Constabulary in 1812 and its success led, in 1829, to the Metropolitan Police Act for London. Originally the term "Peeler" applied to the London constabulary. (source: Sir Robert "Bobby" Peel (1788-1850) at Historic UK site.)
  The Thrashers were one of the Catholic agrarian groups like the Defenders, Whiteboys and Ribbonmen (source: "Orange Institution" at the Wikipedia site). - BS
File: OrLa013

Defender's Song (II), The

DESCRIPTION: The singer, "a Defender and a member of the Church of Rome," is banished from his home by "Luthers black and Calvin crew." He flees to the mountains. He recalls Christ's travails. He considers the despair of Calvinists: "their compass needle it is broke"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (Tunney-StoneFiddle)
KEYWORDS: Ireland religious exile
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Tunney-StoneFiddle, pp. 134-135, "The Defender's Song" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "The Banished Defender" (some text)
NOTES [252 words]: Tunney-StoneFiddle pp. 134-135 shares its first verse and theme with "The Banished Defender" but the remaining verses are entirely different.
  Zimmermann p. 19: "In some parts of Ulster, Protestant and Catholic tenants were mingled and contended for the land; the peasantry was thus divided into two camps, each having its oath-bound association. This led to a sort of religious war. At the end of the eighteenth century the Catholic "Defenders" were opposed to the Protestant "Peep o'Day Boys" or "Orangemen." The "Defenders were succeeded by the "Ribbonmen" - BS

An irony of this song is that, while there were Calvinists in Ulster (the Presbyterian church is Calvinist), the main force of Protestantism in Ireland was the Anglican church, which is neither Lutheran (Protestant) nor Calvinist (Reformed); Anglicanism is third major branch to split off from the Church of Rome.

The Calvinist despair is, I assume, based on their extreme doctrine of predestination, which holds that no amount of effort to do right can save a person; it depends entirely on God's grace (or God's whim, as it appears to non-Calvinists). This position is summed up in the Reformed faith's "TULIP" acronym, affirmed at the Synod of Dort: Total depravity, Uncondition election, Limited atonement, Irresistible grace, and Perseverance of the Saints.

To show why all of this is relevant to Ireland: Cromwell, who did more than anyone (including even William III) to destroy Irish society, could well be called a Calvinist's Calvinist. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.5
File: TSF134

Defenders' Song (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Arise, ye sons of liberty, awake out of your slumber." United defenders must "plant the tree of liberty" in Ireland. Follow the examples of America and France. "The harp and shamrock will unite, when tyrants are no more"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)
KEYWORDS: America France Ireland nonballad political
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 44, "Defenders' Song" (1 text)
NOTES [42 words]: For more about the Defenders, who spread starting around 1790 in response to the Protestant Peep o’ Day boys, see e.g. the notes to "Bold McDermott Roe," "The Banished Defender," and "The Noble Ribbon Boys," and of course "The Defender's Song (II)." - RBW

Last updated in version 2.5
File: Moyl044

Dehorn Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "The dehorn's nose is deepest red, The one bright spot on his empty head, To get his booze he begs and steals." The "dehorn" is lazy and incapable of seeing what he should do -- which is to join the union and get his rights

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (collected from Louis Gracey, according to Coffin & Cohen)
KEYWORDS: labor-movement drink
FOUND IN: US(SW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: Tristram P. Coffin and Hennig Cohen, _Folklore in America: Tales, Songs, Superstitions, Proverbs, Riddles, Games, Folk Drama and Folk Festivals_, Doubleday, 1966, p. 99, "The Dehorn Song" (1 text)

File: CoCo099

Delhi Jail, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer is going down the road "with a tired feeling and a heavy load" when the Sheriff apprehends him. The food in Delhi Jail is abominable, and the singer, once freed, proclaims, "I hope to the Lord I go there no more." Tune: "Turkey in the Straw"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1982
KEYWORDS: prison parody
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 169, "The Delhi Jail" (1 text, 1 tune, plus a Delia's Gone [Laws I5]

DESCRIPTION: Tony/Coonie shoots Delia (for breaking her promise to marry him). Delia's mother grieves. Coonie writes a letter from prison, where he has been sent for life, asking the governor for a pardon.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927

KEYWORDS: homicide prison punishment

FOUND IN: US(SE) West Indies (Bahamas)

REFERENCES (8 citations):
Laws I5, "Delia (Holmes)"
Joyner-FolkSongInSouthCarolina, pp. 59-61, "Delia Holmes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 309-312, "Delia Holmes (1 text)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 911-912, "Delia Holmes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 238-239, "Delia" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 177, "Delia's Gone" (1 text)
DT 657, DELIAGON* DELIAGO2 (DELIAG2 -- heavily adapted)

ADDITIONAL: John Garst, _Delia_ (Occasional Papers in Folklore Number Two), Loomis House Press, 2012, prints all or parts of half a dozen texts (although no tunes) and gives extensive background notes including two newspaper articles on the murder trial of Moses Houston

Roud #3264

RECORDINGS:
Blind Blake Higgs, "Delia Gone" (on WIHIGGS01)
Blind Willie McTell, "Delia" (on USWMcTell01)
Pete Seeger, "Delia's Gone" (on PeteSeeger04)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

"Mister McKinley (White House Blues)" (tune, some versions)

NOTES [522 words]: In oral tradition this ballad has split into two texts which are so distinct that they can hardly be recognized as one. (Indeed, I wasn't sure until I came across an unusually full Bahaman version.)

"Delia's Gone," from the Bahamas, tells only the bare facts of Delia's murder, which is committed by Tony.

"Delia" ("Delia Holmes") provides a motive for the shooting (Delia Holmes had broken her promise to marry Coonie), and gives details about the murderer's conviction.

One theory has it that this story is based on a murder committed in Georgia around 1900. If this is true, then Tony/Coonie is Moses Houston (variously called "Mose" and "Cooney/Coony" in the newspapers). His age is uncertain; he gave it as fourteen, and the papers estimated it at fourteen to sixteen.

Delia Green was fourteen year old whom he had been dating. He claimed there was a sexual relationship; she denied it. He killed her in 1900, at a rowdy party in which they argued, apparently over whether their relationship was sexual. He was tried in 1901. Found guilty (in a trial which, in retrospect, does not sound very fair), he was sentenced to prison but paroled in 1913; a later request to overturn his sentence does not seem to have been acted upon. (Information compiled by John Garst.)

Almost all that was known about this song is summarized by Chapman J. Milling in Volume 1, Number 4 of Southern Folklore Quarterly (December 1937); Botkin excerpts several important paragraphs. This has now been superseded by the John Garst book cited in the references. Garst has a number of interesting notes on the case; he observes (p. 15) that there must have been extensive perjury in the trial testimony, notes that Coonie escaped from a chain gang in 1904 but got in trouble with the law again, resulting in him being shipped back to Georgia (p. 13), and speculates (pp. 15-16) that the place where Delia died was a house of ill repute, leading him to wonder if Delia was a prostitute (I would have to say that may be reading too much into the facts; even brothels can have girls who help clear up).

Garst, pp. 14-15, makes an interesting point: Moses Houston was eventually granted parole by Georgia governor Slaton. Slaton later would commute the sentence of Leo Frank, convicted of murdering Mary Phagan, from a death sentence to life imprisonment. It ended his political career. It tells you something about politics at the time that Slaton suffered no political consequences at all for paroling a man clearly guilty of murder in some degree, but saw his career end for merely canceling the execution of a man who was undeniably innocent of murder.

On pp. 21-22, Garst points out that the chorus line "Delia('s) gone, one more round" originated in the Bahaman versions, and was not found in the U. S. until American singers started copying those versions. The typical American version is "one more rounder gone." - RBW

McTell's version keeps one of the usual tag lines -- "She's all I've got is gone" -- but tells none of the story. Instead it combines floating verses from murder blues like Stagolee, Frankie and Albert, and Louis Collins. - BS

Last updated in version 5.0
File: LI05

Deluded Lover, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer greets his love; but she reproaches him for deluding her. He says he's free of obligation to her. She points out that he broke his vows to her. He says "he" was deluded, and that he still thinks of his true-love. He wishes all wars were over

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan6)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer meets his true love; he greets her, but she reproaches him for deluding her. He denies it, saying he's free of obligation to her, and so is she. He admits giving her diamond rings; she points out that he broke his vows to her, and married "the lassie with the land." He admits that too, but says "he" was deluded, and that he still thinks of his true-love. He wishes all wars were over (, that the soldiers may be called home from their war-brides,) and that they might meet again

KEYWORDS: love marriage accusation promise abandonment betrayal lover wife
FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #175, pp. 2-3, "My He'rt It Is Sair"; #119, p. 3, ("The slower that the fire burns the sweeter is the maut"); #166, p. 2, ("Begone, young man, you deceived me") (1 text plus 2 fragments)
Greig/Duncan6 1165, "My He'rt It Is Sair" (6 texts, 4 tunes)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 150, "The Deluded Lover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Tunney-StoneFiddle, pp. 78-79, "As I Roved Out" (1 text, 1 tune)
OBoyle-TheIrishSongTradition 1, "As I Roved Out" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3479 and 6289
RECORDINGS:
Michael Gallagher, "The Deluded Lover" (on IRTunneyFamily01, FSBFTX15)
Paddy Tunney, "As I Roved Out" (on IRPTunney02)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Sarah Scott" (theme: girl deserted by man who marries for money or land)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Briar and the Rose
NOTES [618 words]: Schmuck. - PJS
The final verse of this song wishes that "the Queen would call home her armies From England, Ireland, from Amerikay and Spain." This strongly implies a date in the reign of Queen Anne (1702-1714) and the War of the Spanish Succession; Elizabeth I had no armies in America (though she did fight Spain), and Victoria, though she had armies in North America if you count Canada as British, was no longer involved in Spain.

The War of the Spanish Succession (1701-1713) did keep British troops on the continent (mostly in the Low Countries) far longer than previous wars, and there were also troops stationed in Ireland for long periods for fear of Jacobite activities. So foreign marriages did become a possibility. - RBW While Michael Gallagher's recording has the title "The Deluded Lover" he himself introduces the song as "As I Roved Out."

Tunney-StoneFiddle calls this "'As I Roved Out' or 'The False Bride'." This doesn't seem in any way related to "The False Bride." Tunney's melody is the one used by Planxty for "As I Roved Out" on Planxty -- The Well Below the Valley on LP Shanachie 79010 (1979). Perhaps "The False Bride" is a typo for a title mentioned on p. 137, viz., "The Forsaken Bride."
Peter Boyle's notes to IRPTunney02: "The song sung here has been equated, rightly or wrongly, with the English ballad 'The False Bride' (BBC Recorded Programmes Library), but to me it seems rather to be a mixture of two or three themes taken over from Provencal folk poetry, and one really Irish theme -- that of land hunger. Easily recognizable in the verses are (1) the love debate, (2) chanson de jeune fille, and (3) a folk-memory of amour courtois." In Tunney's own comment on IRPTunney02 considers land hunger one issue but speculates that the outcome might be blamed on a matchmaker making the best deal.

From "As I Roved Out on a Bright May Morning" for Scottish Songs--Lyrics and Melodies at Glasgow Guide site: "A copy of this song was recently found in Russia, by Dr. Urbanov, folded into the diary of a Captain Dougal Frazer who presumably died at Balaclava in the Crimean war around 1853, as a member of the 93rd Highland Regiment, under Sir Colin Campbell, one time Aide de Camp to the Duke of Wellington." [For Colin Campbell, commander of the Highland Brigade at Alma, see e.g. "The Kilties in the Crimea," "Grand Conversation on Sebastopol Arose (I)," and "The Heights of Alma (I)" [Laws J10] - RBW]

O Boyle writes "...in part it is the voice of land-hungry Ireland -- but where does the word 'lassie' come from?" It seems to me that the Irish ballad may just be an abbreviated Scottish ballad. That would explain "lassie" and may mean that the land issue, which is central to the Irish versions, is preserved because of Irish land hunger of the 19th Century. The singer's complaint that his friends "conveyed me to yon church" and his "lips said Yes at their request" does not survive in the Irish versions we have because the land itself is sufficient motivation, well understood by all Irish listeners.

The last verse, so seemingly out of place in the Irish versions, is made clear by the Scottish versions:

But O gin the king wid gie command
Through Italy, through France, and Spain
To every married man to forsake his own wife
And return back to his own sweetheart again.

The singer is not asking for an end of war but for the king's command (to war again?) that every married man would have to leave his wife.

Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland’s view (p. 373) is that "the Queen will not only recall her soldiers but, in so doing, will also call them away from women they have married while abroad." I don't think that resolves the marriage for land issue. - BS

Dem Bones

DESCRIPTION: "Dem bones, dem bones, dem jee-umpin' bones" (x3). "Bones, bones, won't you tell me the word of God?" "De toe bone connected to de foot bone," and so forth, until the entire body is connected

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 23-24, "Dem Bones" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #15641

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Ezekiel in the Valley" (theme)
cf. "Dese Bones Gwine to Rise Again" (theme)
cf. "I Saw the Light from Heaven" ("Dry Bones" (I)) (theme)

NOTES [14 words]: The mention of bones rising again comes from Ezekiel's vision in Ezek. 37:1-14 - RBW

Last updated in version 4.0

File: LxSi023

Demon of the Seas, The

DESCRIPTION: On board the pirate ship Demon of the Seas Captain Moore outrun ships of war until "two men of war were fitted out By Edward, England's King" to bring him in. The pirates destroy those ships but are destroyed by a third.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1847 (Journal of William Histed of the Cortes)

KEYWORDS: fight navy death pirate

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Ives-FolksongsOfNewBrunswick, pp. 151-153, "The Demon of the Seas" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 78-79, "The Demon of the Sea" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs 43, "The Demon of the Sea" (2 texts, 2 tunes; #36 in the first edition)

ADDITIONAL: Leslie Shepard, _John Pitts, Ballad Printer of Seven Dials, London 1765-1844_, Private Library Association, 1969, p. 66, "The Demon of the Sea"/"Oh No my Love Not I" (reprint of a Pitts broadside)

Roud #1962

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Brave Old Oak" (tune)

NOTES [331 words]: Huntington states, without evidence, that the King Edward involved is Edward VI (reigned 1547-1553). The difficulty in this, of course, is that Edward VI died while he was still only a boy; he didn't fit out anything in his own right.

Nonetheless, if an English King Edward is meant, it almost has to be Edward VI. Edward VII (reigned 1901-1910) is obviously too late. The Edwards prior to Edward VI are largely eliminated by the mention of guns. Edward I (1272-1307) and Edward II (1307-1327) simply didn't have cannon. They began to be used in the reign of Edward III (1327-1377), but not on shipboard -- they were still too experimental.

By the time of Edward IV (1461-1470, 1471-1483) and Edward V (1483), cannon were well-established as weapons, but only on land; they had been mounted on ships, but hardly used. It's surprising to hear guns mentioned even in connection with Edward VI's navy, since this is before the Spanish Armada really caused naval gunnery to be tested -- but at least it's possible.

I know of no famous pirate named Moore (excluding the Captain of the _Flying Cloud_, which is obviously too late). Could it possibly be an error for "Moor" -- i.e. one of the corsairs from North Africa?

Leslie Shepard, _John Pitts, Ballad Printer of Seven Dials, London 1765-1844_, Private Library Association, 1969, p. 65, quotes an interview by Henry Mayhew with the alleged author of this piece (who is, however, not named). He complained about the pay:

"The first song I ever sold was to a concert-room manager. The next I sold had great success. It was called the 'Demon of the Sea', and was to the tune of 'The Brave Old Oak.' Do I remember how it began? Yes, sir, I remember every word of it... That song was written for a concert-room, but it was soon in the streets, and ran a whole winter. I got only 1 [shilling] for that. Then I wrote the 'Pirate of the Isles,' and other ballads of that sort. The concert-rooms pay no better than the printers in the sheets...."

Last updated in version 5.0

File: IvNB151

Dempsey's Lumber-Camp Song

DESCRIPTION: Singer describes the characters at Dempsey's lumber camp

AUTHOR: Frank Ward

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)

KEYWORDS: lumbering work nonballad moniker logger humorous

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 70, "Dempsey's Lumber-Camp Song" (1 text)
- Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 111, "Dempsey's Lumber Camp" (1 text)

Roud #8840

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Lumber Camp Song" (theme) and references there

NOTES [33 words]: The "moniker song" consists mostly of listing the names of one's compatriots, and perhaps telling humorous vignettes about each; it's common among lumberjacks, hoboes, and probably other groups. - PJS

Last updated in version 5.2
Den o' Aldbar, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer, out one May morning on the way to church (for a wedding?), admires the stream winding through the Den o' Aldbar, the trees, flowers, and birds. "Here's a health to the proprietor ... in wedlock, and to a family fine"

AUTHOR: John Archer (source: Reid, "with some slight emendations by Colin Sievewright")

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan3)

KEYWORDS: marriage flowers lyric bird

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #28, p. 2, "The Den o' Aldbar" (1 fragment)
- Greig/Duncan3 514, "The Den o' Auldbar" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
- ADDITIONAL: Alan Reid, The Bards of Angus and the Mearns (Paisley, 1897 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 524, "The Den o' Auldbar"

Roud #5998

NOTES [10 words]: Reid (1897): "highly popular some fifty or sixty years ago." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD3514

---

Dennis McGonagle's Daughter Mary Ann

DESCRIPTION: "I am a decent Irishman, I've a daughter Mary Ann... and you bet she is so fresh, she will never spoil." The girl is always going to balls and courting young men. At one, she is arrested, but promptly freed when the police learn who she is

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1922 (Dean-FlyingCloud)

KEYWORDS: courting police humorous floatingverses

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 80-81, "Dennis McGonagle's Daughter Mary Ann" (1 text)

Roud #9569

NOTES [110 words]: This song poses a bit of a conundrum. The chorus runs, "She's a darling, she's a daisy, and she nearly drives me crazy, With a hand and foot upon her like a man. And everywhere she goes you can tell by her turned-up nose That she's Dennis McGonagle's daughter Mary Ann." This obviously has the same source as the as the lyric "She's my darling, she's my daisy, She's humpbacked and she's crazy... She's my freckled-faced consumptive Mary Ann" found in "Hungry Hash House" and "Sara Jane."

And yet, the feeling of the two versions is so different that they can properly be considered separate songs. And which one (if either one) is original? I have no answer. - RBW

File: Dean0880

---

Dens of Ireland, The

DESCRIPTION: A young hunter accidentally kills a man. He is captured and faces the death penalty. A girl sets out to save him. She enters the courtroom and pleads on her knees for his life. The judge frees him; the man agrees to marry the girl

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1982

KEYWORDS: love death trial reprieve

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills, "The Dens of Ireland" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, DNIRELND*

File: FSC060
Departed Loved Ones

DESCRIPTION: "Is it wrong to wish to meet them Who were dear to us in life?" "I've a mother up in heaven, And oh, tell me if you will, Will my mother know her children When to glory they will go?" The singer thinks of family and how they live in heaven

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (SFLQ)
KEYWORDS: religious death
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 525, "Departed Loved Ones" (1 text)
Roud #11818
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "We Have Fathers Gone to Heaven" (floating lyrics)
cf. "The Other Bright Shore" (theme)
NOTES [47 words]: This may be an elaboration "We Have Fathers Gone to Heaven," or that piece may be an expanded repetition of a single version of this. Dependence seems nearly certain -- but since "We Have Fathers" is just a set of stanzas repeated with variations, they must be listed separately. - RBW
File: Br3525

Depot Camp, The

DESCRIPTION: A logger dreams St. Peter won't accept the depot camp loggers but buys them off by sending material to make next year's drive heavenly: gold axes to use and gold fish to eat. In his dream the next year he can't find the camp. He wakes to his old camp.

AUTHOR: James O'Hara? (possible, per Ives-FolksongsFromMaine)
EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (Ives-FolksongsFromMaine)
LONG DESCRIPTION: A logger dreams that he goes to Heaven. St. Peter sends him back to bring up the depot camp crew. When they return St. Peter decides he can't have them in Heaven but, since they have only five sins among them, he can't reject them. He tells them to return for next year's drive and he will send logs and other things to make the camp heavenly. They expect the next year "we'll have a jolly time, Our axes they'll be made of gold... we'll eat golden fishes there instead of rotten cod." In the dream a year passes and the loggers can't find the heavenly camp. The dreamer wakes when the cook cries "turn out"

KEYWORDS: gold lumbering dream food moniker supernatural logger
FOUND IN: US(NE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ives-FolksongsFromMaine 1, "The Depot Camp" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
NOTES [35 words]: Ives-FolksongsFromMaine: "The year was 1901 or 1902; the operation was run by James McNulty of Bangor.... The 'depot camp' was the central or base camp from which other camps in the operation were supplied." - BS
Last updated in version 3.6
File: IveMa01

Depression

DESCRIPTION: "The meal is cheap sellin their farms high rentit And sma is their profit when sellin their grain," Bad weather destroys the crops. Cattle cannot be sold. The "cursed gentry ... card not nor spin... The laird and the factor will get an overthrow"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: hardtimes work farming landlord nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #147, p. 1, "Depression" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 435, "Depression" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5950
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Lass o' Glenshee" (tune, per Greig)
NOTES [201 words]: The line about "cursed gentry ... Walks out at their leisure, lies up at their pleasure" in Greig/Duncan3 is "Like Solomon's lilies they card not nor spin." The reference is to Matthew 6:28-29 [with a close parallel in Luke 12:27 - RBW]: "And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin: And yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." While the reference does not work as intended by Matthew it does work in bringing to mind a picture of landlord as idler wallowing in unearned luxury.

[Indeed, it gets the point almost backward, since Jesus's message in this passage, as given by both Matthew and Luke, was not to worry about how to make a living. But the comparison to Solomon is apt: Of all the Davidide Kings, he was among the most useless, spending vast amounts he didn't have and doing nothing to promote the actual prosperity of his kingdom. - RBW]

Greig: "['Depression'] gives a picture of the agricultural situation as it would have been in the seventies of last century when the word 'Depression' came into vogue."

Greig/Duncan3: "September 1907. Heard about 1850." - BS

Last updated in version 2.4

File: GrD3435

---

Derby Ram, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer travels to Derby and sees the amazing Derby Ram. Its size and power are described in expansive detail (with the details varying). Most versions end with the slaughter of the ram. "If you had been to Derby, you'd have seen it as well as I"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1827 (Kinloch)

KEYWORDS: animal talltale bawdy bragging humorous lie

FOUND IN: Britain(England(All),Scotland(Aber)) US(All) Australia Ireland Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont) West Indies(Bahamas,Jamaica)

REFERENCES: (67 citations):

- Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople 26, "The Derby Ram" (2 texts)
- Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 31, "The Derby Ram" (1 text)
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 43-44, "The Ram" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Bk 26)
- Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, pp. 44-47, "The Derby Ram" (3 texts, 4 tunes)
- OShaughnessy-MoreFolkSongsFromLincolnshire 6, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #145, "The Derby Tup" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Gardham-EastRidingSongster 1, p. 5, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hamer-GarnersGay, p. 21, "The Ramsey Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hamer-GreenGroves, pp. 51-52, "The Derby Tup [Derby version]"; pp. 70-71, "The Derby Tup [Lincolnshire version]" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
- Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #106, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
- OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 48, "Derby Ram" (5 texts, 1 tune)
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 224-225, "The Derby Ram" (1 text)
- Randolph 106, "The Derby Ram" (2 texts plus a mixed fragment, 1 tune)
- Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 137-139, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 106A)
- Randolph/Leafman-RollMeInYourArms I, pp. 89-96, "The Darby Ram" (8 texts, 1 tune)
- Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 230-231, "Darby's Town" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromTexas 81, "The Darby Ram" (1 text)
- Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 190, "The Darby Ram" (2 texts plus an excerpt and mention of 1 more, 2 tunes)
- List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 208-214, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 112-113, 120-121, "The Derby Ram"; p. 153, "Inky Dinky Derby Town" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 176, "The Derby Ram" (1 text plus a fragment)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 176, "The Derby Ram" (3 excerpts, 3 tunes)
- Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 105, "Ram of Darby" (1 text)
- Lunsford/Stringfield-30And1FolkSongsFromSouthernMountains, pp. 8-9, "Darby's Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Jones-MinstrelOfTheAppalachians-Bascom-Lamar-Lunsford, p. 209, "Darby's Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 127, pp. 273-274, "The Ram of Derby" (1 text)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 58, "Darby's Sheep" (1 text)
Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 75, "The Derby Ram" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 241-242, "Derby Ram" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 114-115, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, p. 136, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune -- sailors' version; the ram goes to sea but still gets slaughtered)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 437-438, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune) [AbEd, pp. 328-329]
Peacock, pp. 10-11, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 100-101, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 141, "The Derby Ram" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
Karpes-TheCrystalSpring 120, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #204, "The Derby Ram" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 104-107, "The Ram of Darby" (1 text, 1 tune)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 441, "The Derby Ram" (1 text)
Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 23-28, "The Derby Ram" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #14, pp. 1-2, "The Ram of Derby" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 645, "The Ram o' Dirram" (5 texts, 2 tunes)
Lyle/McAlpine/McLucas-SongRepertoireOfAmeliaAndJaneHarris, p. 130, "Hech hiegh Durham" (1 fragment)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 304, "The Ram Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ritchie-SingingFamilyOfTheCumberlands, pp. 38-40, "[The Darby Ram]" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 53, "Darby Ram (1 text, 1 tune)
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #10, "The Old Big Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 41, pp. 73-74, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, although the singer did not call it "The Derby Ram" and the song never mentions Derby)
Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs, pp. 134-136, "The Darby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfNewEnglandFolklore, pp. 577-578, "The Derby Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manifold-PenguinAustralianSongbook, p. 97, "The Ram of Dalby" (1 text, 1 tune)
Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, pp. 139-140, "The Derby Shed Ram" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kinloch-TheBalladbookXXVI, pp. 80-81, "The Ram of Diram" (1 text)
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 124-125, "The Ram o' Bervie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 129, "As I was going to Derby" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnottedMotherGoose #805, p. 298-300, "(As I was going to Derby)"
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 404, "The Darby Ram" (1 text)
JournalOfAmericanFolklore, Elsie Clews Parsons, "Spirituals and Other Folklore from the Bahamas," Vol. 41, No. 162 (Oct-Dec 1928), Toasts and other verses: Watlings p. 469, "(Dere's a ball in from London town)" (1 fragment)
DT 312, DERBYRAM DERBYRM2 DRBYRAM3* (DERBYRM4) DRBYRAM5 DERBYRM7*
ADDITIONAL: Llewellyn Jewitt, The Ballads and Songs of Derbyshire (London, 1867) ("Digitized by Google"), pp. 115-119, "The Derby Ram" (1 text)
Martha W Beckwith, "The English Ballad in Jamaica: a Note Upon the Origin of the Ballad Form" in _Publications of the Modern Language Association_ [PMLA], Vol. XXXIX, No. 2 (Jun 1924 (available online by JSTOR)), #8-#9 p. 478 "The Great Ram of Derby" (2 texts)
Frank J. Gillis, "The Metamorphosis of a Derbyshire Ballad into a New World Jazz Tune," an article published 1978 in _Disourse in Ethnomusicology: Essays in Honor of George List_; republished on pp. 207-248 of Norm Cohen, editor, _All This for a Song_, Southern Folklife Collection, 2009
Roud #126
RECORDINGS:
Clarence Bennett, "The Derby Ram" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
Elizabeth Cronin, "Derby Ram" (on IRECronin01)
Warde Ford, "The Derby ram / The Darby ram" (AFS 4214 B1, 1939; in AMMEM/Cowell)
Charles Ingenthron, "The Derby Ram" (AFS; on LC12)
Grandpa Jones w. Delmore Brothers, "Darby's Ram" (King 708, 1948)
Arthur Lennox, "The Ram Song" (on FSB10)
A. L. Lloyd, "The Derby Ram" (on Lloyd4, Lloyd08, Lloyd12)
Bascom Lamar Lunsford, "Darby's Ram" (Brunswick 228, 1928) (Brunswick 80080, Brunswick BL 59001; these are probably the same as the preceding) (Riverside RLP 12-645, 1956)
Cyrl O'Brien, "The Derby Ram" (on NFMLeech); "The Ram" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Lawrence Older, "Derby Ram" (on LOlder01)
Abigail Hall Ritchie, "Darby Ram" (on Ritchie03)
Pete Seeger, "The Darby Ram" (on PeteSeeger09, PeteSeegerCD02)
Skylane Scotty, "Darby's Ram" (Conqueror 8309, 1934)
Sid Steer, "The Derby Ram" (on Voice07)
Cas Wallin, "Derby Ram" (on OldTrad1, FarMtns4 as "The Derby Ram")
Doug Wallin, "The Derby Ram" (on FarMtns3)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Didn't He Ramble" (lyrics)
cf. "The Grey Goose" (theme)
cf. "The Red Herring" (theme)
cf. "The Sucking Pig" (theme)
cf. "'Ow'd Yowe wi' One Horn" (theme)
cf. "Paul Bunyan's Big Ox" (theme)
cf. "The Loft Giant (Song of Marvels)"
cf. "The Wonderful Crocodile" (theme)

SAME TUNE:
Frankfort Town (Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, p. 18)
I Came, an Emerald Freshman (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 37)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Beast of Derbytown
The Darby Tup
The Old Tup
The Ram of Derby (Darby)
The Ram Song
The Wattle Flat Ram
The Great Sheep

NOTES [469 words]: This is another of the ballads Child excluded from his ESPB, presumably because the "hero" is an animal. The contemporary bawdy song is descended from English mummer plays, and those, in turn, are perhaps relics of medieval mystery plays. Randolph/Legman-RollMeInYourArms has extensive, if rambling and opinionated, notes on this ballad. - EC

And if it had been trimmed, we'd say "He rambled till that editor cut him down." (Sorry.) - PJS

It's times like these I'm REALLY glad I can blame these notes on somebody else.

Ford reports, without accepting it, that "a prisoner had been condemned to death, in the time of the feudal laws, and was promised free pardon should he succeed in composing a song without a grain of truth in it, and that this was the song he produced." Of course, he could just as well have produced the previous story.... - RBW

The chorus of Beckwith #8, from Jamaica, (collected 1919-1921) is: "He's a ramble, he's a ramble, Said de butcher to de ram, 'Cut it down.'" Is this the only version close to Handy's 1902 "Oh! didn't he ramble, ramble, He rambled 'till the butchers cut him down" [indexed here as "Didn't He Ramble"]? If so, which is the source and which the borrower? Of course, in this song, the ram is frequently slaughtered by a butcher (for example, "The butcher that killed this ram, sir, was up to his thighs in blood") and the "tup" [i.e., ram] was slaughtered by a butcher in the mummers' play (source: Ronald Hutton, _The Stations of the Sun_, 1996, Oxford University Press, p. 87), but I'm interested in the idea "he rambled till the butchers cut him down."

Beckwith's two texts of "The Great Ram of Darby" show how easily English songs are absorbed into the Jamaican Anansi cante fable form. [E.g. it has happened with Child 1, "Riddles Wisely Expounded," Child 68, "Young Hunting," and Child 95, "The Maid Freed from the Gallows"; see the notes on those songs. - RBW] Often the plot becomes the basis for the tale and speech from the song remains to be sung as part of the cante fable. Beckwith illustrates the extremes. Beckwith #8 is entirely sung. Beckwith #9 is entirely in prose, bracketed with an Anansi introduction and epilog: "There was a great ram; everybody heard about him but could not kill him. Anansi [the trickster] heard about him and took a ride to Darby town to look at the ram. The finest ram that ever is seen! ... The wool that grows on that ram's back seems tall enough to reach the sky. The John-Crow [turkey vulture] build their nest there. ... [The ram is killed] The flood carried away all the young men in Darby town, and all the young women were screaming out for the skin and bone to boil it down to oil to rub the old man's bones. Meanwhile, Anansi had the ram secure in his bag and started for home, leaving the mourning in Darby town." - BS

Derby, Derby
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, Derby, Derby, won't you marry me? Derby, Derby, won't you say yes? Derby, Derby, won't you marry me? Show your legs to the Cockney girls"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1974 (recording, Minty Smith)
KEYWORDS: humorous nonballad nonsense marriage
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
RECORDINGS:
Minty Smith, "Derby, Derby" (on Voice14)
NOTES [9 words]: The current description is all of the Voice14 text. - BS
File: RcDerDer

Dermody and Hines
DESCRIPTION: The police shoot the innocent without penalty. It's murder when a policeman's shot. The informer Noctor is persuaded to say Dermody and Hines shot M'Goldrick. Nevertheless, the jury finds them not guilty. Must we continue to play at being fools?
AUTHOR: Susan Mitchell (source: OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads)
EARLIEST DATE: c.1909 (_Bean na h-Eireann_, according to OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads)
KEYWORDS: homicide trial freedom patriotic police lie
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 62, "Dermody and Hines" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9766
NOTES [23 words]: O Lochlainn recalls the lines "Cut yourself an ash plant, and never heed the fines, But strike a blow for Freedom, like Darmody and Hynes" - BS
File: OLCM062

Dermot Astore
DESCRIPTION: "Oh! Dermot Astore! between waking and sleeping I heard thy dear voice, and I wept to its lay" She asks whether this is their last meeting. "I know we must part, but oh! say not for ever."
AUTHOR: Anne Barry Crawford
EARLIEST DATE: before 1861 (broadside, LOC Singing sb10099a)
KEYWORDS: love separation parting exile
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #472, p. 31, "Dermot Astore. Reply to Kathleen Mavournee" (2 references)
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 146, "Dermot Astore" (1 text)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 65, "Dermot Astore" (1 text)
Roud #4884
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 18(613), "Dermot Astore. Reply to Kathleen Mavournee," H. De Marsan (New York), 1859-1860 [same as LOC Singing sb10099a]; also Harding B 11(878), "Dermot Astore.
The Reply to Kathleen Mavourneen
LOCSinging, sb10099a, "Dermot Astore," H. De Marsan (New York), 1859-1860 [same as Bodleian Harding B 18(613)]; also as102940, "Dermot Astore. Reply to Kathleen Mavourneen"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "Kathleen Mavourneen" (characters)
NOTES [95 words]: See the description for "Kathleen Mavourneen" for the background to this song. Mrs. Crawford is a co-author to that.
According to William H. A. Williams, 'Twas Only an Irishman's Dream, University of Illinois Press, 1996, p. 34, "astore" is a popular word in Irish song because it comes from Irish Gaelic "a stór," "my treasure." - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: OCon146

Derriere Chez Nous (Behind Our House)
DESCRIPTION: French. Behind our house is a tree. On the tree is a branch. On the branch is a nest. In the nest is an egg. In the egg is a small bird. In this bird you do not know what there is. The shanty version is sexual in nature
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage nonballad bird bawdy
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 169, "Derriere Chez Nous" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, p. 107, "Derriere Chez Nous" (2 texts, French and English, 1 tune; although the story of this is not the same as the Canadian folksong, they clearly come from the same original)
SAME TUNE:
 cf. "The Rattling Bog" (theme)
File: CrMa169

Derry Down
DESCRIPTION: Reference entry for the "Derry Down tune," known by its chorus, "Derry down, down, down derry down" (often repeated). It is not certain what the original lyrics were, but it has been used for many parodies and derivatives; see the "Same Tune" field
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1859 (Chappell), but widely used in older songs
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
(no references under this title)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. all the other Derry Down songs
SAME TUNE:
Benton County, Arkansas (File: R345)
The Bible Story (File: SWMS264)
Blue Mountain Lake (The Belle of Long Lake) [Laws C20] (File: Laws C20)
The Coal Owner and the Pitman's Wife (File: MacCS16)
Croppies Lie Down (II) (File: Zimm094B)
Hauling Logs on the Maniwaki (File: FowL20)
Joe Livermore (File: CrNS124)
King John and the Bishop [Child 45] (File: C045)
Moosehead Lake (File: LoF058)
Red Iron Ore [Laws D9] (File: LD09)
The Tree of Liberty (File: Zimm095)
Castle Island Song ("You simple Bostonians, I'd have you beware") (Rabson-
Derry Walls Away

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls when "Lord Antrim's men came down yon glen" While some opposed them "our 'Prentice Boys" closed the gates. The seige is recounted including Walker's and Murray's parts. "When we close our gates again We'll then all be True Blue"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1865 (broadside, Bodleian 2806 b.10(3))

KEYWORDS: battle rescue death starvation Ireland patriotic youth

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Dec 7, 1688 - The "Apprentice Boys" close the Londonderry gates against Lord Antrim's "Redshanks" (source: Kilpatrick [see Notes])

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark 6, "Shutting of the Gates of Derry by the Apprentice Boys of Derry" (1 text, 1 tune)
Graham-TheOrangeSongster, p. 5, "Derry Walls Away" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #V11050

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 b.10(3), "Derry Walls" ("Full many a long wild winter's night," The Poet's box (Glasgow), 1865; also 2806 b.10(2), "The Seige of Derry"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "No Surrender (I)" (subject)
cf. "The Shutting of the Gates of Derry" (subject) and references there

NOTES [511 words]: The Protestant Plantation of Ulster was created after the 1607 "Flight of the Earls" -- heads of the Ulster clans -- to Rome allowed James I to declare their lands forfeit to the Crown. In the Plantation, the City of Londonderry was fortified and gated walls built around it. When James brought troops from Ireland Londonderry was left unguarded. On December 7, 1688, Lord Antrim's Catholic "Redshanks" camped outside the city. With the city government undecided as to how to handle the situation, thirteen young "Apprentice Boys" seized the gate keys, drew up the drawbridge and locked the four gates. Antrim's troops withdrew. Lord Mountjoy's Protestant regiment was allowed to garrison the city.

To escape the war, residents surrounding areas flooded into the city. Reinforcements sent by William to relieve Derry in April turned away. Then James's attempt at negotiating with Derry failed. Colonel Murray led Protestant troops to the gate, which was opened for them, and the Derry government, which had been willing to negotiate with James, was overturned. Reverend George Walker and Colonel Henry Baker were appointed joint Governors. The seige began "in earnest" on May 5, 1689. On July 28 three ships on the Foyle broke the seige bringing food; captain of the Mountjoy was Michael Browning, who was killed in the battle. The beseigers left on August 1, 1689. (source: Cecil Kilpatrick, "The Seige of Derry: A City of Refuge" at the Canada-Ulster Heritage site)

"True Blue": "A substantial number of the earliest Volunteers, the Belfast First Volunteer Company, also called the Green Company, and another the Blue Company, were identified as belonging to the Orange and True Blue Masonic Lodges. Indeed it seems likely that the Volunteer Companies were a Masonic initiative." (source: Dr Clive Gillis, "Days of Deliverance Part 13: The Providential rise of the Orange Order: What it was and what it was not," posted 5/26/2004, Ian Paisley's European Institute of Protestant Studies site) This seems a simple statement of fact. However, keep in mind this statement from the home page of the EIPS site: "The Institute's purpose is to expound the Bible, expose the Papacy, and to promote, defend and maintain Bible Protestantism in Europe and further afield."

Later, in the same article, Dr. Gillis explains his antipathy to the Masons and the United Irishmen: "The evaporation of the Protestant Catholic divide from 1780 onwards, which so threatened Protestantism, can only be explained in terms of secret co-operation within Freemasonry."

The Belfast Volunteers were formed in 1778 because of the threat of war between France and Britain. Similar groups formed, became politicized, and supported "those in favour of legislative independence from the British parliament and the removal of impediments to Irish commerce."

Henry Grattan and Harry Flood supported this program in the Irish House of Commons. (Source: Moylan) - BS

For a good deal more on the Siege of Derry, see "The Shutting of the Gates of Derry." For Grattan and Flood, see "Ireland's Glory." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: OrLa006

Derry's Walls

DESCRIPTION: 200 years ago "James and all his rebel band" were forced to retreat from Derry's Walls. "Blood did flow ... For many a winter's night." "At last, with one broadside Kind heaven sent them aid" and broke the seige. Now "we'll guard old Derry's Walls"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c.1895 (Graham-TheOrangeSongster)

KEYWORDS: battle rescue death starvation Ireland patriotic

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Dec 7, 1688 - The "Apprentice Boys" close the Londonderry gates against Lord Antrim's "Redshanks"

Jul 28, 1689 - Browning's ships break the 105 day seige of Derry (source: Cecil Kilpatrick, "The Seige of Derry: A City of Refuge" at the Canada-Ulster Heritage site)

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Graham-TheOrangeSongster, p. 4, "Derry's Walls" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Shutting of the Gates of Derry" (subject) and references there

cf. "No Surrender (I)" (subject)

cf. "Derry Walls Away" (subject)

File: Gra004

Derwentwater

DESCRIPTION: "Oh! Derwentwater's a bonny lord, And golden is his hair." He travels the land calling for people to support "good King James." The lord of the castle he visits will have nothing to do with him, but the lady sighs for the handsome young man.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1810 (Cromek)

KEYWORDS: Jacobites love

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

1715 - the 1715 Jacobite rebellion

Sept. 1715 - Warrant issued for Derwentwater's arrest. He responds by openly going into revolt

Nov. 14, 1715 - Derwentwater and his comrades forced to surrender

Feb 24, 1716 - Execution of Derwentwater at the age of (probably) 26

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North),Scotland)

REFERENCES (3 citations):

Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2 10, "Derwentwater" (1 text, 1 tune)

Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 128-129, "Derwentwater" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST StoR128 (Partial)

Roud #3158

CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [223 words]: The text of this ballad is not really sufficient to establish that the Derwentwater mentioned is "the" Derwentwater; it's at least theoretically possible that "good King James" was someone other than the Old Pretender. But a young, handsome Derwentwater campaigning for King James certainly sounds like the hero of "Lord Derwentwater" [Child 208]. - RBW

Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2: "James Radcliff, Earl of Derwentwater, was among those who met in Northumberland, and rose in arms for King James about the beginning of October.... The editor cannot find any tradition on which this ballad is founded; it is taken from the recitation of a young girl, in the parish of Kirkbean, in Galloway. He has searched for it carefully through all the collections he could meet with; but it is not to be found.... This song, and part of the above note, are copied from Cromek's Remains of Nithsdale and Galloway song. The air is exceedingly simple and beautiful, and very ancient."

"Cromek died [1812] shortly after the issue [1810] of Remains of Nithsdale and Galloway Song, which was mostly written by Cunningham, though palmed upon Cromek as recovered antiques." (source: J. Ross, The Book of Scottish Poems: Ancient and Modern, (Edinburgh, Edinburgh Publishing Co, 1878), "Allan Cunningham 1784-1842," p. 738; other sources agree) - BS

Last updated in version 2.5
File: StoR128

Derwentwater's Farewell

DESCRIPTION: "Farewell to pleasant Dilston Hall, my father's ancient seat, A stranger now must call thee his." The singer bids farewell to his friends, to Tyne, to his steed. He must die in London, but asks to be buried in Northumberland

AUTHOR: Robert Surtees?

EARLIEST DATE: 1821 (Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2)

KEYWORDS: Jacobites execution burial farewell

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1715 - the 1715 Jacobite rebellion
Sept. 1715 - Warrant issued for Derwentwater's arrest. He responds by openly going into revolt
Nov. 14, 1715 - Derwentwater and his comrades forced to surrender
Feb 24, 1716 - Execution of Derwentwater at the age of (probably) 26

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North),Scotland)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2 11, "Lord Derwentwater's Good-night" (1 text, 1 tune)
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 4-5, "Derwentwater's Farewell" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 208, DRWNTFRW*
Roud #2616

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Lord Derwentwater" [Child 208] (subject)
cf. "Derwentwater" (subject; tune according to Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2)

NOTES [151 words]: Stokoe reports that "there is more than a suspicion that it was the offspring of the facile pen of the late Robert Surtees of Mainsforth, although he presented it to his friend and correspondent, Sir Walter Scott, as a poem of the period to which it refers; and it was inserted, on Scott's reedication, in James Hogg's Jacobite Relics of Scotland in 1819."

For all that it is a false folksong, it's fairly effective as a lament for one slain far from home. There is a certain tendency, which is quite understandable, to confuse this with "Lord Derwentwater," but the forms of the two pieces are clearly distinct. For historical background on Derwentwater, see the Child ballad. - RBW

Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2: "I had this song from my esteemed friend, Robert Surtees, esquire of Mainsforth. The copy was on an old half sheet of paper apparently in the hand-writing of a boarding-school miss." - BS

Last updated in version 2.4
File: Sto004
Description of St. Keyne's Well

DESCRIPTION: The well is named after "no over-holy saint." Between a married couple, the first that drinks from the well "thereby the maistry gains"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1602 (Carew's _Survey of Cornwall_ according to Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland)

KEYWORDS: marriage warning humorous nonballad recitation

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Poem #12, p. 51, "Description of St. Keyne's Well" (1 text)
Roud #V22570
File: DixP012

Dese Bones Gwine to Rise Again [Laws I18]

DESCRIPTION: A light retelling of the Biblical creation myth: God makes Adam, then Eve; Eve, tricked by the serpent, takes an "apron full" of fruit to Adam. God, spotting the peels, accuses Adam of stealing the fruit; Adam blames Eve; God throws them out of the garden

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)

KEYWORDS: Bible humorous animal

FOUND IN: US(SE,So)

REFERENCES (11 citations):
Laws I18, "Dese Bones Gwine to Rise Again"
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, pp. 148-149, "Dese Bones Gwine Rise Ag’in" (1 text, 1 tune)
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 32, "These Bones Gwine Ter Rise Again" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 523, "Creation" (1 text plus a fragment)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 523, "Creation" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 470-471, "Dese Bones Gwine to Rise Again" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 249, "Dese Bones Gwine Rise Again" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 597-600, "Dese Bones Gwine to Rise Again" (1 text, 1 tune, composite)
Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, pp. 88-89+91 (book is mis-paginated), "Dese Bones Gwine to Rise Again" (1 text, 1 tune) NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, Gloria Dickens, "Childhood Songs from North Carolina" Vol. XXI, No. 1 (Apr 1973), pp. 8-9, "(The Lord decided he’d make a man" (1 text)
DT 793, DESEBONE

Roud #4184

RECORDINGS:
Frank & James McCravy "These Bones G'wina Rise Again" (Victor 20869, 1927) (Brunswick 3778, 1928 [as "De's Bones Gwine to Rise Again"])
Rutherford & Foster "These Bones G'wina Rise Again" (Conqueror 7276, 1929)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ezekiel in the Valley" (theme)
cf. "Dem Bones" (theme)
cf. "I Saw the Light from Heaven" ("Dry Bones" (I)) (theme)

SAME TUNE:
[T.C.] Johnson-[Tom "Bluecoat"] Nelson-Porkchop "G. Burns is Gonna Rise Again" (OKeh 8577, 1928; on GoodForWhatAilsYou). [It is not know who the vocalist "Porkchop" was, nor the significance of "G. Burns", if any. - PJS]

NOTES [35 words]: The details here generally come from what scholars call the "J" or "second" account of the creation, found in Genesis 2:4b-3:24. The mention of bones rising again comes from Ezekiel's vision in Ezek. 37:1-14 - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: LI18
Deserted Husband, The

DESCRIPTION: On the day of their wedding, the singer's young wife went on a spree and flirted with the man next door. Three months later, his wife and the other man went off in the train. He is tired of life; he has land and stock, but no one to take care of them.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)

LONG DESCRIPTION: The singer has married a young woman, but she has left him. On the day of their wedding, she went on a spree and flirted with the young man next door. Three months later, the singer took her to town, but while he was having a drink his wife and the other man went off in the train, to his distraction. Now he is tired of life; he has an acre of land, and various livestock, but no one to take care of them. He advises men to keep an eye on their wives.

KEYWORDS: grief loneliness infidelity marriage warning abandonment drink humorous husband lover wife

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 198, "The Deserted Husband" (1 text, 1 tune)
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 50, "Did Your Wife Go Away" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Seamus Ennis, "Deserted Husband" (on FSBFTX19)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Tramp's Story" (plot)
cf. "The Lehigh Valley" (plot)
cf. "Can I Sleep in Your Barn Tonight?" (theme)

NOTES [66 words]: Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland also refers, cryptically, to a song called "The Deserted Wife," also collected from Ennis, but gives no further details. - PJS
Kennedy also claims that songs of wives deserting husbands are rare. I won't say they are common, but "Rocking the Cradle (and the Child Not His Own)," for instance, is very widespread; see also the songs in the cross-references. - RBW

Deserter (IV), The

DESCRIPTION: The singer, recruited while drunk, deserts. He is turned in in succession by a woman, a sergeant, and drummer. Each time but the last he is flogged and deserts, saying "the King's duty has been cruel to me." At last the king intervenes and releases him.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1853 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 17(75a))

KEYWORDS: army recruiting punishment freedom royalty soldier

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #90, p. 1, "The Deserter" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan1 83, "The Deserter" (7 texts, 3 tunes)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Mi 555, "Deserter" (1 text)
Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs, pp. 167-169, "The Deserter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henderson-VictorianStreetBallads, p. 148, "Deserter" (1 text)

Roud #493

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 17(75a), "The Deserter" ("As I was walking down Ratcliffe highway"), John Ross (Newcastle), 1847-1852; also Harding B 15(220a), "The New Deserter" LOCsinging, as109540, "The New Deserter," Ryle & Co. (Seven Dials), n.d.

NOTES [109 words]: Greig/Duncan1: Re version A "from father who learnt it in boyhood, say 1824." - BS
My guess is that the song is a few decades older than that, and that George III was the King. George's wars were extensive, so that the military was always looking for soldiers. Discipline was harsh. (Frankly, the singer was lucky not to be killed.) George III was, however, personally merciful -- unlike his grandfather George II. If he somehow came to know about a case of a deserter about to be executed, he might well have intervened in this way. And then gone back to recruiting more drunks, because he couldn't seem to figure out
Deserter from Kent, The

DESCRIPTION: A deserter comes to join the harvesting. He talks too freely to a man in the tavern, who informs on him. He is arrested, taken to jail, then marched through the streets as he is returned to his regiment. The singer curses all informers.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1907

KEYWORDS: army desertion betrayal soldier curse

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South)) New Zealand

REFERENCES (5 citations):
- VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, pp. 32-33, "The Deserter from Kent" (1 text, 1 tune)
- MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 87, "The Deserter from Kent" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs, pp. 165-166, "The Deserter from Kent" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 62, "May the Devil Reward" (1 text, 1 tune, with significant changes to fit New Zealand) (p. 38 in the 1972 edition, where the title "The Gay Deserter" is used)

DT, DESERTR

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Rambling Royal"

File: VWL032

Deserter's Lamentation, The

DESCRIPTION: Thinking about the past won't help so "let us be merry before we go" "Now hope all ending, And death befriending, His last ending, my cares are done ... My griefs are over -- my glass runs low"

AUTHOR: John Philpot Curran (1750-1817)

EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads)

KEYWORDS: desertion death drink nonballad

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- OLochlann-MoreIrishStreetBallads 87A, "The Deserter's Meditation" (1 text, 1 tune)
- OBoyle-TheIrishSongTradition, p. 27, "The Deserter's Meditation" (1 fragment)

NOTES [121 words]: John Philpot Curran was famous mostly as a defender of the rebel leaders of 1798, including Napper Tandy and Wolfe Tone (though he did not like it at all when his daughter took up with Robert Emmet). He also served in parliament. His poetry is now mostly obscure. Except for this. Granger's Index to Poetry lists four citations, under three different names ("The Deserter's Lamentation," "The Deserter," "Let Us Be Merry Before We Go"), and I observe that OLochlann has it under a fourth title. Clearly this particular poem was well-traveled.

File: OLoM087A

Deserter's Song

DESCRIPTION: "I'd rather be on the Grandfather Mountain A-taking the snow and rain Than to be in Castle Thunder A-wearin' the ball and chain."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
Deserter's Song

DESCRIPTION: "There was a desperado from the wild and woolly West, He came into Chicago just to give the West a rest." He visits Coney Island to see "the girls all dressed in tights"; he gets so excited that he shoots out the lights. He ends up in prison

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1973

KEYWORDS: outlaw cowboy humorous prison police crime punishment

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 28, "The Desperado" (1 text)
  DT, DESPRAD2

NOTES [13 words]: Cripple Creek, Colorado was a notoriously wide-open town in the late 1800s. - PJS

File: FSWB028

Dessur le Pont de Nantes (On Nantes Bridge)

DESCRIPTION: The police have the singer when we meet Marguerite. She dresses as a page boy and goes to jail to see her "master." They exchange clothes; he walks out. Sentenced to be hung, Marguerite reveals that she is a girl. Four other high class young ladies visit

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Peacock)

KEYWORDS: foreign language love escape cross-dressing disguise mistress outlaw prisoner

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Peacock, pp. 331-332, "Dessur le Pont de Nantes" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
  Mme Lucie Cormier, "Dessur le Pont de Nantes" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]

NOTES [21 words]: Should this be "Dessous le Pont de Nantes" (Under Nantes Bridge)? What happened here? What four young ladies? Does she hang? - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: Pea331

Destroyer Life

DESCRIPTION: "The boys out in the trenches have got a lot to say Of the hardships and the sorrows... But we destroyer sailors would like their company On a couple of trips...." The sailors describe life on their small, uncomfortable ships that never cease rolling

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Niles/Moore-SongsMyMotherNeverTaughtMe; supposedly sung 1917-1919)

KEYWORDS: ship navy

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (3 citations):
  Niles/Moore-SongsMyMotherNeverTaughtMe, pp. 86-91, "Destroyer Life" (1 text, 1 tune)
  Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 514-517, "Destroyer Life" (1 text, 1 tune)
  DT, DSTRYR
NOTES [153 words]: This song, with its references to submarine warfare, clearly comes out of World War I. At that time, the destroyer was the smallest naval ship that could possibly be called ocean-going (a typical destroyer of the time was about 300 feet long and had a displacement on the order of a thousand tons. It has nothing in common, except the name, with the much heavier modern destroyers).

The worst thing about destroyers was their long, narrow, low hulls -- what the song calls "skinny ship." In bad seas, the waves could wash the entire deck, and waves could roll the ships through angles of 45 degrees or more. Crew quarters, moreover, were small and cramped. Only submarines had less space, and not even submarines were as subject to wind and wave. Hence the song's comment that "The God-damned ships were never meant for sea."

For another song about the difficulties of service on a destroyer, see "Showing the Flag." - RBW

Det Hande Sig I Goteborg (It Happened in Gothenburg)

DESCRIPTION: Swedish/German shanty. A sailor is signed by a man named Peter. The ship is a good one, but conditions are bad. Peter sleeps all the time except when threatening the crew. Ch: Hey ho fallerallera (2x) Just for all soka hyra (just to find myself a ship)"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1935

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage shanty sailor work

FOUND IN: Sweden Germany

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 550-551, "Det Hande Sig I Goteborg" (2 texts, Swedish & English, 1 tune)
Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, p. 147, "Det Hande Sng I Goteborg" (2 texts, Swedish & English, 1 tune)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Ja das geschah in Gotenborg

NOTES [26 words]: Found both in Sternvall's Sang under Segel (1935) and Baltzer's Knurrhahn (1935). Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas said this was popular around 1870. - SL

Deuks Dang Owr My Daddie, The

DESCRIPTION: The babies scream "the duck's knocked over daddie." His wife says, let him lie there; he's just a useless old man. He says there had been a day she'd butter his porridge, but not now. He threatens to beat her if she's not quiet. She creeps out of sight.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2)

KEYWORDS: shrewishness violence drink humorous bird baby husband wife

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 194, "The Deuks Dang Owr My Daddie" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Whistle-Binkie [], First Series] (Glasgow, 1842 ("Digitized by Microsoft")), pp. 83-84, "The Deuks Dang O'er My Daddie" (1 text)
AJames C Dick, The Songs of Robert Burns (London, 1903 ("Digitized by Microsoft")), #216 pp. 193,427, "The Bairns Gat Out wi' an' Unco Shout" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #8948

NOTES [118 words]: Whistle-Binkie: "The first two stanzas are, with a few verbal alterations, from Burns -- the additional verses are by a facetious contributor to whom this publication is indebted for the graphic humour of our brethren of the Green Isle."

The Burns verses exclude the threat, retreat, and clear statement that the old man is a drunkard. The Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 text makes the drunkenness clear ("the ninth pint knocked the old man over and the duck just got in the way) and the wife would let the duck and old man stay down and toddle together; Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2: "It appears to be a verse of the traditional song on which Burns based his peice with the same title." - BS

Last updated in version 2.6
DeValera Election Song

DESCRIPTION: The coming election is between "a Castle servant" and DeValera. DeValera "fought in the Rebellion ... so don't forget to pay the debt." His opponent would send your sons "to fight the gallant German"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1976 (IRClare01)
KEYWORDS: Ireland nonballad political

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1917 - Eamon DeValera defeats Patrick Lynch in the East Clare MP bi-election (source: notes to IRClare01).
FOUND IN: Ireland
Roud #18470

RECORDINGS:
* Nora Cleary, "DeValera Election Song" (on IRClare01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Green Flag of Erin" (subject)

NOTES [211 words]: Notes to IRClare01: "The East Clare by-election of 1917 played a vital part in the movement towards Irish independence.... Newly released from prison and having narrowly avoided execution for his part in the Rebellion, Eamon DeValera easily took the seat." - BS
Not only was De Valera elected to the British parliament on July 11, 1917, but he was even elected to a seat that had formerly been held by the brother of John Redmond, the leader of the Irish Nationalist party (i.e. the moderate Irish faction); see Terry Golway, For the Cause of Liberty, p. 251. This was the third in a series of by-elections in which pro-Republic candidates defeated "Nationalist" (moderate) candidates (see Peter and Fiona Somerset fry, A History of Ireland, pp. 296-296). It was one of the first major tokens of the shift in feeling in Ireland from a desire for Home Rule to a desire for something less dependent on the British government.
The "Castle" was Dublin Castle, which had long been the center of the Irish government and was still the symbolic center of Irish rule.
De Valera was one of the few high officers of the 1916 rebellion to survive; he lived mostly because he was born to an American family and the British didn't want an incident with the United States. - RBW

File: RcDevoES

Deveron Banks

DESCRIPTION: "To Deveron Banks we will go, Dainty Dandy, my dear jo, Sweet wi' you the time will flow, My dainty bloomin dandy"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan7)

KEYWORDS: sex

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1316, "Deveron Banks" (1 fragment)

Roud #7208

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Whistle O'er the Lave O't" (tune, per Greig/Duncan7)

NOTES [21 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan7 fragment.
Greig/Duncan7: "A Banff song, said not to be very delicate." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD71316

Devil and Bailiff McGlynn, The

DESCRIPTION: A woman wishes the Devil take a piglet digging her potatoes and a boy stealing her piglet. He refuses because "it was only her lips that have said it." When she wishes the Devil take the bailiff, he does: "Twas straight from her heart that came surely"
The Devil and Bailiff McGlynn discuss business. Nearby a woman wishes the Devil take a piglet digging among her potatoes but the Devil won't take it because "it was only her lips that have said it, and that's not sufficient for me." Then a boy runs off with the piglet and she wishes the Devil might take him, but the Devil doesn't because "it was only her lips that have said it, and that's not sufficient for me." When she sees the bailiff and wishes the Devil take him, it's done: says the Devil, "Twas straight from her heart that came surely"

NOTES [609 words]: Tunney-StoneFiddle: "Even his [Uncle Mick's] songs of the Land War [roughly 1879-1885] and landlordism, with all its attendant evils, had a spark of humour in them. For example, listen to this little ditty describing the love and affection in which bailiffs were held in those stirring days." - BS

For background on the Land War, see e.g. "The Bold Tenant Farmer." However, there is reason to doubt this link (even if the Land War caused the Irish to tell more tales about the evils of bailiffs).

Abby Sale points out to me the clear connection between this song and the tale of "The Devil and the Bailiff" found in Asbjornsen and Moe (which is short, so the comparison is quite apt; it is on pp. 168-169 of NorwegianFolk). There seems to an equivalent Irish tale, though all the printed versions of it seem to be modern.

In outline, the story that the Devil comes to collect the Bailiff -- but stops to chat for a bit. They hit it off well -- presumably because they are so alike. The song hints at this:

Now, one of these boys was the devil
And the other was Bailiff McGlynn,
And the one was as foul as the other
And both were as ugly as sin.

They visit a cottage, and as they come by, the pet pig gets its snout in the cream, and the woman says, "The devil take the pig" -- but they do not take the pig, because the curse was not from the heart. Later, a mother curses her child for being mischievous. Again, the curse is not meant. But the two then meet a pair of farmers, who curse the bailiff. That curse, the Devil declares, is from the heart -- and the bailiff is taken.

The tale is even older in England -- Murray Schoolbraid points that it is The Friar's Tale in Chaucer's Canterbury Tales -- although in Chaucer, it is a Summoner who meets the fiend (a point Chaucer uses to bring out the rivalry between Friar and Summoner), and the devil is in disguise and the two agree to share whatever they get (an idea similar to the hunting contest in Sir Gawain and the Green Knight).

The question then becomes, Where did Chaucer get the tale? Benet, p. 408, says that it is from the Latin Promptuarium Exemplorum, and others agree that it is an exemplum -- i.e. a story around which morality tales and sermons can be built.

Chaucer/Benson, p. 875, says that "The tale of the heart-felt curse is probably of folk origin, and numerous analogies found across northern Europe indicate that any avaricious type might be used for the role here played by a summoner." The notes mention in particular Caesarius of Heisterbach's Libri VIII miraculorum, of the thirteenth century, in which the guilty party is an advocatus or administrator of church estates. But the Riverside editors note that there are two similar English folktales which resemble Chaucer's in that the man fails to realize he is under threat. One of these is from a sermon by Robert Rypon of Durham in which the man is actually a bailiff (Ohlgren/Matheson, p. 45, add that the sermon was in Latin, and point to an additional work about it by Helen Cooper). As usual, of course, Chaucer amplified the tale.

Walton credits the song to Cathal McGarvey (1866-1927), but Walton's attributions are said to be very suspect, and it is interesting that the only collections seem to be from Tunney and his uncle, Michael Gallagher. Still, it seems certain that someone rewrote the tale as a song; the only question is, Who? - RBW

Bibliography
Devil and the Hackney Coachman, The

DESCRIPTION: Ben, a hackney coachman: "how he used to swear." One night the Devil hires him to drive to Hell: "he thought he'd taken poor Ben in." At the gates Ben backs in so he is outside. Ben escapes. "Now ... he never swears And so for the Devil he never cares"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (_The Melodist_)
KEYWORDS: curse escape trick Devil
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 264-265, "The Hackney Coachman" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 377)
ADDITIONAL: The Melodist and Mirthful Olie (London, 1828 ("Digitized by Google")), Vol II (mislabelled Vol XX), pp. 348-350, "Tommarroo!" or "The Devil and the Hackney Coachman" ("Ben was a Hackney Coachman rare") (1 text)
Roud #1314
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 25(509), "The Devil and the Hackney Coachman" ("Ben was a hackney coachman rare"), T. Birt (London), 1828-1829; also Harding B 11(873), Johnson Ballads 180, Harding B 11(877), "[The] Devil and [the] Hackney Coachman"; Harding B 11(881), "Deivl[sic] and Hackney Coachman"
LOC Singing, as101590, "The Devil and Hackney Coachman" ("Ben was a hackney coachman, rare."), L. Deming (Boston), no date
File: WT264

Devil and the Lawyer, The

DESCRIPTION: "The devil came up to the earth one day, And into a courthouse he wended is way" as a lawyer was making his case." When he is done, the other lawyer starts talking. The Devil concludes that he dares not allow lawyers in Hell; they would "ruin its morals"

AUTHOR: unknown (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah's informant James Jepson set the tune)
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (text in "The International Bookbinder," vol. XVIII, available on Google Books); traditional version 1947 (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)
KEYWORDS: Devil Hell humorous lawyer
FOUND IN: US(Ro)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #176, "The Devil and the Lawyer" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #10922
NOTES [39 words]: This reminds me very faintly of Chaucer's "Friar's Tale," although the ending is very different (in the Friar's Tale, it is a summoner who is corrupt, and he eventually is taken to Hell). I strongly doubt literary dependence, though. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.8
File: Hubb175
Devil Came to My Door, The

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas on one dusky evening When I was very poor, A story you may believe me, The Devil come to my door." The devil comes to claim "brother Mike," but sister Bets breaks his back with her wooden leg. Now the Devil is dead and the family can celebrate

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: humorous Devil death family
FOUND IN: US(MW,So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Randolph 419, "The Devil Came to My Door" (1 text, 1 tune)
Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection, p. 26, "The Death of the Devil" (1 text)
Roud #1696
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Farmer's Curst Wife" [Child 278] (plot)

File: R419

Devil Sends the Evil Winds, The

DESCRIPTION: "The Devil sends the evil winds To raise the skirts up high, But heaven's just and sends the dust That closes the bad man's eye."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore)
KEYWORDS: clothes Devil
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, p. 126, "The Devil Sends the Evil Winds" (1 short text)

File: SaKo126A

Devil Winston [Laws I7]

DESCRIPTION: [George] "Devil" Winston (an unusually vile specimen even by murder ballad standards) sets out to confront his woman Vinie [Stubblefield]. He finds her, kills her after an argument, is taken, and is hanged

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (Wheeler)
KEYWORDS: homicide execution
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Laws I7, "Devil Winston"
Wheeler-SteamboatinDays, pp. 105-109, "Devil" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 810, DEVWINST*
ST LI07 (Full)
Roud #4176

NOTES [128 words]: Wheeler does not give dates for the life of George "Devil" Winston, but notes that he "began life as a cabin boy on the Mississippi. He was later an Ohio River rouster... His career of reckless lawlessness culminated when he was thirty-two years old, in the vicious murder of Vinie Stubblefield, his sweetheart.
"The murdered Negress was said to have been half-witted and repulsive-looking. She have made several efforts to sever her relationship with Winston, and this was the indirect cause of her death: Devil was apparently a victim of helpless bondage where she was concerned.... When he was not on the river he was often serving time on the 'chain gang' for beating the woman, and the murder occurred just following his release from jail for this offense." - RBW

File: LI07

Devil's in the Girl, The

DESCRIPTION: A man visits his true love at night and plays "The Devil's in the Girl" on his pipes. Her mother wakes and beats the man. He returns a year later to find his lover with a son. She asks him to marry but he refuses, leaving her to "pay the piper"

Devilish Mary [Laws Q4]

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets a "pretty little girl" named Mary; they get married within days. She then starts taking over his life, wearing his pants, and abuses and torments him. At last he leaves. He vows to court only tall/short girls who can't wear his breeches

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1897

KEYWORDS: courting marriage cross-dressing abuse shrewishness

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (19 citations):
- Laws Q4, "Devilish Mary"
- Randolph 437, "Devilish Mary" (4 texts, 3 tunes)
- Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 331-333, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 331)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 326, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #76, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Browne-AlabamaFolkLyrical 70, "Devilish Mary" (2 texts, 1 tune, plus mention of 1 more)
- Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 17, pp. 31-32, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol1, pp. 68-69, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, p. 121, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 136-138, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax/FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 93, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Cox/Hercog/Halpert/Boswell-WVirginia-A, #13A-C, pp. 57-60, "The Wife Wrapped in Wether's Skin," "Dandoo" (3 texts, 1 tune, but the "B" text omits the beating typical of Child #277 and has the husband run away; it appears to have mixed with this song or something like it)
- Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 149, "Devilish Mary" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
- Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs, pp. 154-155, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Botkin-TreasuryOfSouthernFolklore, p. 721, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 70, "Devilish Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 145-149, "Devilish Mary" (1 text)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 191, "Devilish Mary" (1 text)
- DT 518, DEVLMARY*
- Roud #1017

RECORDINGS:
- Bob Atcher, "Devilish Mary" (Columbia 20483, 1948)
- Horton Barker, "Devilish Mary" (on Barker01)
- Bill Boyd & his Cowboy Ramblers, "Devilish Mary" (Bluebird B-7299, 1937; Montgomery Ward M-8417, 1940)
- Glenn Neaves & band, "Devilish Mary" (on GraysonCarroll1)
- Lee O'Daniel Hillbilly Boys, "Devilish Mary" (Vocalion 04102, 1938; rec. 1937)
- Paul Rogers, "Devilish Mary" (AFS; on LC14)
- Pete Seeger, "Devilish Mary" (on PeteSeeger02, PeteSeegerCD01)
- Roba Stanley, "Develish Mary" (OKeh 40213, 1924)
- Arthur Tanner, "Devilish Mary" (Silvertone 3514, 1926)
- Gid Tanner and His Skillet Lickers, "Develish Mary" (Columbia 15589-D [as "Devilish Mary"], 1930; Columbia 15709-D, c. 1932; rec. 1928; on CrowTold02, GTanner01)
Devonshire Cream and Cider

DESCRIPTION: "I be nigh on ninety-seven, born and bred in dear old Devon." The singer mentions being alone, and suggests, "For if you be as lone as me, try Devonshire cream and cider."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin)

KEYWORDS: drink nonballad age

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 52, "Devonshire Cream and Cider" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #9083

NOTES [88 words]: There is much that is ironic about this song, or at least about the sole known collection, from Eryl Levers of Madison, Wisconsin: Despite being known only in the American midwest, it is about England, and despite the singer claiming to be in his nineties, Levers was in her mid-twenties when the song was collected. Levers was probably the only one of the informants in Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin who was still alive when the book was compiled; it is to be regretted that no one tried to find out more about the song. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.6
File: Pet052

Dewdrops Are Falling on Me

DESCRIPTION: "Dewdrops ar falling on me (x2), Dewdrops are falling on me at one, Say, darling, won't you love me once more." "I'll ask your papa for you... Say, darling, won't you love me once more?" "I'll buy the license for you."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)

KEYWORDS: love courting father

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 19, "Dewdrops Are Falling on Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11339
File: Brne019

Di zwiterich Danzer (The Flashy Dancer)

DESCRIPTION: German. Cumulative. "Ei was hawwich so scheene Shicklicher a Mit so scheene Bendicher dra." "Oh, I wear such pretty little shoes, With such pretty little strongs.... I am such a lusty boy, I can dance so flashily." "I wear such pretty little socks...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Korson-Legends)

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage cumulative nonballad clothes dancing

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 77-80, "Di zwiterich Danzer (The Flashy Dancer)" (1
Dialogue Between an Exciseman and Death

DESCRIPTION: A tax-collector argues for his life against Death who has come for him. Afraid of final judgement, he concedes his past evil-doing and advises excisemen to shun the practice

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1846 (Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland)

LONG DESCRIPTION: A tax-collector seeking "a booty 'mongst merchant's goods which had not paid the duty" confronts Death who has a writ to take him. Fearing the judgement seat, he wishes he had not taken gold. "Let all Excisemen hereby warning take, To shun their practice for their conscience sake"

KEYWORDS: virtue death money dialog religious

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Poem #5, pp. 19-23,241, "Dialogue between an Exciseman and Death" (1 text)
Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 249-252, "A Dialogue Between an Exciseman and Death" (1 text)

Roud #V35056

Dialogue Between Orange and Croppy

DESCRIPTION: Orange proposes union. Orange is the source of all woe. The English do no more harm than the purple marksmen. Orange ask for union only after Billy Pitt's failure. The singer is neither Croppy nor Orange: "when your county's in danger, united be seen"

AUTHOR: William Sampson (source: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

EARLIEST DATE: 1887 (Madden's _Literary Remains of the United Irishmen of 1798_, according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

KEYWORDS: Ireland nonballad dialog patriotic political

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 149, "Dialogue Between Orange and Croppy" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Purple Boy" (subject)

NOTES [433 words]: The last verse is by a third party asking for union in times of trouble. Throughout the rest of the dialogue Orange proposes union and croppie rejects it. Zimmermann, p. 39, fn. 18, re "Croppy": in the 1790's those who admired the Jacobin ideas began to crop their hair short on the back of the head, in what was said to be the new French fashion; in 1798 this was considered as an evidence of 'disaffection'."

"The Loyal Orange Institution was founded after the Battle of the Diamond [at Diamond Crossroads] on September 21, 1795. The 'skirmish' was between the Roman Catholic Defenders and the Protestants of the area.... [For the Battle of the Diamond, see the notes to "The Battle of the Diamond," "Bold McDermott Roe," and "The Boys of Wexford"; also "The Grand Mystic Order." - RBW]. At the beginning the membership was of the labouring and artisan classes.... In the Rebellion of 1798, the Orangemen were on the side of the Crown and had much to do with the defeat of the United Irishmen.... With the rebellion at an end the lodges were to be less fighting societies, and more political and fraternal clubs.... From 1815, the Institution had been seriously affected, by internal disputes. Many of them were about lodge ritual and the attempts to form higher orders." (source: The Orange Institution - The Early Years at Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland site.)

"Following an affray at Loughgall in Co. Armagh in 1795 the Orange Order was founded, while the Yeomen were also established in June 1796. These were made up mainly of men from the Orange Lodges." (source: The 1798 Rebellion on the Hogan Stand site)

The reference to "Purple Marksmen" is to one of the Master degree, above "Orange" and "Orange Marksman," of the Orange Institution (source: "The Formation of the Orange Order 21st September 1795" in the anti-Orange Evangelical Truth at NIreland.com site). See Zimmermann's song
For more on "Billy Pitt" and the Union Act of 1801, see "Billy Pitt and the Union" and "The Shan Van Voght (1848)" - BS
One should note that this song was clearly composed with the benefit of hindsight -- I suspect very much hindsight; if the date is 1887, then we're getting toward the period of Home Rule and Ulster's opposition to changes in the Union. Of course, there had been Protestant and Catholic conflicts before that, but Protestants historically had been more nationalist than Catholics; it wasn't until it became clear that the Protestant Ascendancy had to end that they finally turned Unionist. - RBW
File: Moyl1149

Dialogue entre Deux Metis: Le Cultivateur et la Chasseur (The Hunter and the Farmer)

DESCRIPTION: Canadian French, "Aujourd'hui pour chanter nous sommes reunis." The people meet to hear from a farmer and a hunter. The farmer asks how the hunter is doing. The hunter tells of all the dangers faced by those in his job. The farmer is happy to be safer
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1872 (Le Metis, according to MacLeod-SongsOfOldManitoba)
KEYWORDS: dialog farming hunting injury home
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
MacLeod-SongsOfOldManitoba, #11, pp. 67-74, "Dialogue entre Deux Metis: Le Cultivateur et la Chasseur (The Hunter and the Farmer)" (1 French text plus English translation, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "Soldier Boy for Me (A Railroader for Me)" (theme: professional comparison) and references there
File: Macl11

Diamond Cook

DESCRIPTION: Tobago patois: A woman tells Diamond Cook that he has been paid for his work or goods (renta), and it's time go; you are a man but not the only one
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1954 (Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville)
KEYWORDS: courting rejection commerce nonballad Caribbean
FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville, p. 51, "No You One Are Man"; Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville, p. 61, "Diamon Cook" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Elder-FolksongsFromTobago 4, "Diamond Cook" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [344 words]: The description follows the Elder-Charlottville note on p. 61. "This Tobago banter song is a very good illustration of the power of the female in Caribbean society. She can turn a man out of doors and dispense with his services in favour of another man who brings more yams." "Whatever this word may mean in another context 'banter' for the women in this village connotates ridicule and castigation of another person -- usually another female -- in an impersonal way. There is in banter songs no name calling, i.e. the object of derision is not named but by skillful choice of words and expressions, clues are given... suppressed hostilities projected through the banter song may be waged as seriously as any international 'cold war'" (p. 28).
Women's power over a man is also apparent in Trinidadian calypso where the "sweetman" calypsonian has to guard against the power of the woman supporting him. See, for example, Lord Executor's "My Trouble With Dorothy" ("Now Dorothy you made me tame / You want the Executor to lose his name" also liner notes on "West Indian Rhythm", #22 p. 59, Bear Family Records 10CD BCD 16623 JM, 2006), The Caresser's "Madame Khan" ("I could make me living in an easier way / Than to have a woman licking me every day" also liner notes on "West Indian Rhythm", #9 p. 44), The Tiger's "Gertrude" ("And when I talk about me food / She square up to fight/ She said she wouldn't cook if I kill her dead" also liner notes on "West Indian Rhythm", #108 p. 148), and Alfred Mendes's short story, "Sweetman" (Leah Rosenberg, "Man Sweet, Woman Stronger: Calypso's War with Yard Fiction" (Journal of West Indian Literature, Vol. 9, No. 2 (April 2002), pp. 18-50 (made available online by JSTOR))).
Elder-FolksongsFromTobago: "... Diamond Cook has put in a stock of yams [not stated in the texts] in order to pay for his keep. He has however overstayed his time. He has 'eaten his renta done' gotten sufficient service for the value of the yams. There are other men so he must give way. He must leave at once. The lady laughs in his face...." - BS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: ELCh051A

Diamond Joe (I)

DESCRIPTION: Singer tells of ranch-owner Diamond Joe, who mistreats his workers, talks too much, and lies. Singer has tried to quit three times, but Joe has talked him out of it. When he dies, "Give my blankets to my buddies And give the fleas to Diamond Joe"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (radio program "The Chisholm Trail" on the BBC) (Source: Nicholas Hawes)

KEYWORDS: lie work boss cowboy worker

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):

DT, DIAMONJ2

RECORDINGS:

Cisco Houston, "Diamond Joe" (on CHouston01, CHoustonCD01, FMUSA)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

NOTES [585 words]: This should not be confused with "Diamond Joe (II)", a river shanty with the distinctive chorus, "Diamond Joe, better come and get me, Diamond Joe." "Diamond Joe (I)" has no chorus, although most verses end with the name of Diamond Joe. Some have speculated that Cisco Houston and/or Lee Hays adapted the song from "The State of Arkansas," but there is no evidence. - PJS

Nicholas Hawes in 2014 wrote to me to clarify this history. I have slightly shortened the material he sent me. His report is below. [-RBW]

It was written in 1944 by my father, Baldwin "Butch" Hawes, in New York City on commission from the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Alan Lomax created two radio programs for a branch of the BBC that was located in New York to produce radio programs for broadcast in the UK. The programs, which he called "ballad operas," were based on traditional songs from the published Lomax collections, and the cast was a mix of traditional artists (like Huddie Leadbetter, Brownie McGhee, Sonny Terry), semi-traditional artists (like Woody Guthrie), as well as local actors and musicians (Burl Ives, Cisco Houston, Will Geer).

The second program, "The Chisholm Trail," was scripted by Alan's then wife Elizabeth. One of her major characters was the tough cattleman "Diamond Joe," whom she based on a song of the same name from the Lomax book Our Singing Country. ["Diamond Joe (III)" in the Ballad Index.] The words were a good match:

Old Diamond Joe was a rich old jay
With lots of cowboys in his pay
And many a maverick got his brand

Once the script was finished, the music editor (Alan's sister Bess, my mother Bess Lomax Hawes) discovered that the song Elizabeth set in a rowdy barroom was actually a slow waltz which did not fit the scene. It was too late to restructure the script, so she asked my father to write a new "Diamond Joe" to suit. Since the song was to be performed on the show by Lee Hays, he wrote this new song to the tune of a major number in Lee's repertoire: "The State of Arkansas."

The program's opening announcement that "the songs you will hear are traditional" wasn't revised, and my father received no on-air credit for his work. It's likely that no cast members (other, possibly, than Lee Hays) knew my father had written the song. Cisco Houston was a member of the cast (his copy of the script is currently held by the Woody Guthrie archives), and the version he recorded in 1952 is identical to the version in his "The Chisholm Trail" script. All subsequent versions of the song are clearly based on Cisco's recording.

When the song appeared in Sing Out! magazine in 1954 as a song from Cisco's repertoire, my mother was upset that my father wasn't credited. She urged him to claim credit by writing to the editor, but unfortunately he had just quit the business of songwriting and was somewhat bitter about it. He said he preferred the honor of having been accepted into tradition. He probably expected nothing to come of the song. Ironically, it's turned out to be his biggest "hit," having been recorded by Ramblin' Jack Elliott, Bob Dylan, Ian Tyson, James Taylor, and (thanks to Joe Val) it seems to be on its way to becoming a bluegrass standard. If you want to hear "The Chisholm Trail," it's streamable from the Lomax archives at culturalequity.org. You can see Cisco's copy of the script in the Woody Guthrie Archives. My father's original lyric sheet is included in the "Bess Lomax Hawes Collection" at the Library of Congress.

Last updated in version 3.5
File: RcDJoe1

Diamond Joe (II)

DESCRIPTION: Mostly floating verses with a hint of narrative; singer goes "up on the mountain, give my horn a blow...." "Ain't gonna work in the country, neither on (Parchman?) farm...." Chorus: "Diamond Joe, come-a get me, Diamond Joe"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Georgia Crackers)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Mostly floating verses with a hint of narrative; singer goes "up on the mountain, give my horn a blow/Thought I heard Miss Maybelle say, yonder comes my beau." "Ain't gonna work in the country, neither on (Parchman?) farm/I'm gonna stay till my Maybelle come, she gon' call-a me Tom." Chorus: "Diamond Joe, come-a get me, Diamond Joe"
KEYWORDS: love work floatingverses nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
DT, (DIAMONJ3 -- though this may be at least partly a parody)
Roud #3585
RECORDINGS:
Charlie Butler, "Diamond Joe" (AFS, 1941; on LCTreas, LC04)
Georgia Crackers [Cofer Bros.], "Diamond Joe" (OKeh 45098, 1927)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Yonder Comes My Love" (lyrics)
NOTES [168 words]: This should not be confused with the cowboy complaint song "Diamond Joe (I)," an entirely separate song.
Art Thieme has suggested that the Diamond Joe referred to in this song is a steamboat rather than a person. - PJS
Lyle Lofgren offers additional support for this view: "Joseph Reynolds (1819-1891) was a Chicago grain dealer who devised a logo ('JO' inside a diamond) to distinguish himself from another Joseph Reynolds. Dissatisfied with the shipping situation, he built a steamboat, the Diamond Jo, to haul freight on the upper Mississippi (St. Paul to St. Louis). He later expanded the business to become the Diamond Jo Line, with all the boats sporting his logo. After the railroads began to carry more of the grain, the steamboats became mostly passenger vessels. There are only two remnants of the operation: the Diamond Jo name is now used by an unrelated riverboat casino in Dubuque, Iowa, and Reynolds Hall, the University of Chicago student union, was built with an endowment from Reynolds." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: RcDiJoII

Diamond Joe (III)

DESCRIPTION: "Diamond Joe was a rich old jay, With lots of cowboys in his pay." Chorus: "Roll on, boys, don't you roll so slow." The singer complains about working for Diamond Joe, wishes he were rich, wishes he could see his girl, thinks about death
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (collected from J. B. Dillingham)
KEYWORDS: cowboy home money hardtimes
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 247-248, "Diamond Joe" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DIAMONJO*
Roud #3585
NOTES [38 words]: Roud lumps this with the two other Diamond Joe songs in the Index, but this one -- which seems to have been collected only by the Lomaxes -- has mostly unique lyrics and not much of a plot; I think it deserves its own listing. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

File: LoSi247

Diana and Her Sailor Bright

DESCRIPTION: Diana is a rich merchant's daughter. She falls in love with "a bright young sailor" on one of her father's ships. She sends for him to marry. "Twas in her father's garden they walked hand in hand." He said "Lovely Diana, take my heart in command"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Peacock)

KEYWORDS: courting love beauty father sailor floating verses

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Peacock, pp. 515-516, "Diana and Her Sailor Bright" (1 text, 1 tune)
Jim Smurridge, "Diana and Her Sailor Bright" (on PeacockCDROM)
ST Pea515 (Partial)

Roud #2301

NOTES [54 words]: The first verse of this, "It's of a rich merchant in London did dwell, He had one only daughter, a beautiful girl," is of course commonplace, found in songs such as "The Young Sailor Bold (I) (The Rich Merchant's Daughter) [Laws M19]." The happy ending is different. Possibly this is a rewrite of that with a happy ending? - RBW

Last updated in version 2.6

File: Pea515

Diana Dors

DESCRIPTION: "My name is Diana Dors And I'm a movie star." She describes her "cute face," "monkey guitar," lips, hips, "sexy le-egs"; "Boys got the muscles, Teacher's got the brains, We've got the sexy legs, And we've won the game"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame)

KEYWORDS: play party beauty

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 119, "Diana Dors" (2 texts, 1 tune)

NOTES [21 words]: "Diana Dors (October 23, 1931-May 4, 1984) was an English actress and sex symbol." (Source: Wikipedia article "Diana Dors"). - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: OpGa119

Diana Kitty Annie Maria

DESCRIPTION: The singer loves the pride of Glasgow Green, Diana Kitty Annie Maria. She is pretty and rich and dances wonderfully. He plans to marry in three weeks. They will have a boy named for him and three girls: Diana Kitty Annie [that is, "and"] Maria.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1884 (broadside, NLScotland L.C.1269(172b))

KEYWORDS: courting marriage beauty money dancing humorous children wordplay

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 737, "'Twas in the Month of June" (2 fragments, 2 tunes)
Roud #13666

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 26(135), "Diana Kitty Anna Maria" ("Being in the bloyming [sic] spring when the black bird did sinn [sic"]), P. Brereton (Dublin), c.1867
NLScotland, L.C.1269(172b), "Diana Kitty Annie Maria" ("'Twas in the month of June, when the Birds were in full tune"), Poet's Box (?), 1884
NOTES [88 words]: Greig/Duncan4 entries are fragments; broadside NLScotland L.C.1269(172b) is the basis for the description.
The broadside texts have five eight-line verses and a four-line chorus. That seems a long way to go to reach the last line play on "Annie" or "Anna" and "and a," especially for a non-dialect story.
One of the Greig/Duncan4 fragments blows the "joke" by having -- as one of its two surviving lines -- the chorus end "She's my darling Dinah Katie and Maria"; the other fragment does not have the heroine's name at all. - BS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: GrD4737

Dicey Reilly
DESCRIPTION: "She walks along Fitzgibbon street with an independent air," but Dicey Riley is headed to the pawnshop to pay for her drinking: "Poor oul Dicey Reilly, she has taken to the sup, Poor oul Dicey Reilly, she will never give it up...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Behan-IrelandSings)
KEYWORDS: drink hardtimes
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (3 citations):
  Behan-IrelandSings, #23, "Dicey Riley" (1 text, 1 tune, modified)
  DT, DICYREIL*
ADDITIONAL: Frank Harte _Songs of Dublin_, second edition, Ossian, 1993, pp. 18-19, "Dicey Reilly" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [178 words]: I have encountered four independent versions of this. One has only two verses, and approximates the description above. The other three are longer, and agree only on the material given in the description, with the rest being entirely independent. It's possible that we have three fragments of a longer piece -- but my guess is that the only truly traditional material is the two verses, and the tune is so strong that people have been patching on additional material when they record it.
Example: Robert Gogan, 130 Great Irish Ballads (third edition, Music Ireland, 2004), p. 66, has a version in which Dicey is a shopowner. He explains that "Heart of the rowl," a phrase which occurs at the end of the chorus, refers to a coiled roll of tobacco, in which the "heart of the rowl" is the best tobacco, found at the center of the spiral. The problem with this is, of course, that the material common to all the verses makes Dicey a drunk who is selling her possessions to buy more booze. Unless the term is applied satirically, she is hardly the heart of the rowl. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.2
File: Har018

Dick Derrick's Rear
DESCRIPTION: The song lists the men who ran logs for foreman Dick Derrick. One, a "mossback" (farmer), shoves his girlfriend through a window; another falls in the creek.
AUTHOR: Plumb Bob Jack and cohorts (?)
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)
KEYWORDS: lumbering work moniker humorous nonballad logger drink
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 66, "Dick Derrick's Rear" (1 text)
  Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 115, "Dick Derrick's Rear" (1 text)
Roud #8844
NOTES [33 words]: The "moniker song" consists mostly of listing the names of one's compatriots, and perhaps telling humorous vignettes about each; it's common among lumberjacks, hoboes, and probably other groups. - PJS
Last updated in version 5.2
File: Be066
Dick Mooney's Daughter

DESCRIPTION: Dick Mooney is dying and he wants to get a husband for his daughter. He lists his assets. Except for the house and farm, they are all defective and you can easily find better than his daughter. But don't forget the farm.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday)
KEYWORDS: dowry death dying farming humorous nonballad father oldmaid
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday 31, pp. 81-82,118,168-169, "Dick Mooney's Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2902
RECORDINGS:
John Maguire, "Dick Mooney's Daughter" (on IRJMaguire01)
NOTES [64 words]: Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday: "After the famine the small-farmer class in Ireland became very conscious, for various reasons, about the value and importance of land, as this song says.... If the female did have the land then she became extraordinarily desirable; her dowry was great and could overcome almost all 'deficiencies' in her family background, or in herself." - BS
File: MoMa031

Dick o the Cow [Child 185]

DESCRIPTION: Johnnie Armstrong decides on a raid, but has little luck. He is advised to steal the three kye of Dick o the Cow, a "fool." Dick seeks redress; when denied, he makes off with horses in exchange for his cattle, and finally gets a reward from his master

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1775 (Percy papers)
KEYWORDS: horse revenge robbery family
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Child 185, "Dick o the Cow" (1 text)
Bronson 185, "Dick o the Cow" (1 version)
Bronson-Singing Tradition Of Childs Popular Ballads 185, "Dick o the Cow" (1 version)
Chambers-Scottish Ballads, pp. 41-49, "Dick o' the Cow" (1 text)
Whitelaw-Book Of Scottish Ballads, pp. 374-378, "Dick o' the Cow" (1 text)
Leach-The Ballad Book, pp. 498-504, "Dick o the Cow" (1 text)
Quiller-Couch-Oxford Book Of Ballads 142, "Dick o' the Cow" (1 text)
Roud #4012
NOTES [36 words]: This ballad may have some roots in history, but had clearly been magnified beyond recognition and become rather confused in the process. Child has various speculations; most are possible but none really convincing. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.1
File: C185

Dick the Joiner

DESCRIPTION: Dick, a joiner, falls in love with Nell, a country girl, but "could not gain her favour." He dresses as a woman, goes where Nell is a servant, and applies for a position. Being shy, he asks that they sleep together. In the morning he left her "mournin'

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1820 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 16(74a))
KEYWORDS: seduction cross-dressing rake servant
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan1 165, "Dick the Joiner" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #5769
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 16(74a), "Dick the Joiner" ("There is a lad in our town"), J. Pitts (London),
Dick Turpin and the Lawyer [Laws L10]

DESCRIPTION: Dick Turpin, upon meeting a lawyer, claims to be so afraid of meeting Turpin that he has hidden his money in his boot. The equally nervous lawyer admits to having hidden his money in his coat. Turpin gaily relieves him of the cash

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1856 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 17(323a))

KEYWORDS: robbery lawyer humorous

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1735 - Dick Turpin comes to the attention of the authorities as a robber
April 1739 - Hanging of Dick Turpin (by then retired from highway robbery; he was captured after getting drunk and shooting the landlord's cockerel)

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar) Britain(England(Lond,North, South)) US(MA) Australia

REFERENCES (13 citations):
Laws L10, "Dick Turpin and the Lawyer"
Logan-APedlarsPack, pp. 115-121, "Turpin's Valour" (1 text, although Laws considers this as two pieces, "Turpin's Valour" and "The Dunghill-Cock")
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 99, "Dick Turpin" (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 368); Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 100, "Turpin and the Lawyer" (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 94) (2 texts)
OShaughnessy- YellowbellyBalladsPart2 54, "Turpin Hero" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hamner-GarnersGay, pp. 6-7, "Turpin Hero" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #133, "Dick Turpin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 125, "Dick Turpin and the Lawyer" (1 text)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 336, "Turpin Hero" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #45, "Bold Turpin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 368, "Dick Turpin and the Lawyer" (1 text)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 70, pp. 157-158, "Turpin and the Lawyer" (1 text)
Scott-ACollectorsNotebook-31TraditionalSongs, p. 15, "Dick Turpin" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 570. TURPNLAW

Roud #621

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 17(323a), "Turpin Hero" ("Turpin Hero is my name"), J. Cadman (Manchester), 1850-1855; also Harding B 22(304), "Turpin's Rant" ("On Hounslow heath as I rid o'er"); Firth c.26(260), "O, Rare Turpin!" ("As I was riding over Hounslow moor")

CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "My Bonnie Black Bess I" [Laws L8] (subject)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
O Rare Turpin, Hero

NOTES [359 words]: Versions of this generally place the incident on Hounslow Heath. This is probably a bit folkloric. According to Pringle, p. 64, each of the four great roads out of London had its hot spots for highway robbers, with Hounslow Heath on the Great Western Road being the most notorious spot of all. Turpin, however, is associated mostly with Finchley Common on the Great North Road (Pringle, p. 66).

What's more, this approximate story is told of other highwaymen, rather than Turpin; Pringle, pp. 86-87, tells how Francis "Dixie" Jackson met a lawyer in a tavern and was shown how he hid his... treasure in his saddle. Several of Jackson's confederates then met the lawyer on the road and took his gold.

On the other hand, Brandon, p. 84, tells the story -- in a form even more like the ballad -- of William Davis, "The Golden Farmer" (died c. 1689). Evidently it's a "zipper" highwayman legend. This may be the oldest of all the Turpin ballads -- very possibly the only one to predate the Great Turpin Rewrite which associated him with the fictional Black Bess. According to Sharpe, pp. 197-198, "Roughly at the time of Turpin's execution, a broadside ballad was published entitled 'Turpin's Rant.' This told how Turpin, while riding over Hounslow Heath, met with a lawyer travelling alone...." Clearly it is this ballad.

Sharpe, p. 198, adds that the "Turpin Hero" chorus suggested the "Stephen Hero" of Joyce's Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man.

At least part of this story exists independently of the song. Porter, pp. 109-110, tells a story from Cambridgeshire of a tanner who was out traveling and met another rider. The other rider talked obsessively about Turpin's exploits, and the tanner became convinced that the other was Turpin himself. Armed with that knowledge, he was able to break away from Turpin at a place where he knew the path and Turpin didn't, and hence escape un-robbed.

For the rest of Turpin's history, see the notes to "My Bonny Black Bess (II) (Poor Black Bess; Dick Turpin's Ride)" [Laws L9]. - RBW

Bibliography

- Porter: Enid Porter, The Folklore of East Anglia, Batsford, 1974
- Pringle: Patrick Pringle, Stand and Deliver: Highwaymen from Robin Hood to Dick Turpin, (no copyright date listed but after 1935; I use the 1991 Dorset edition)

Dick Turpin's Ride (II) (My Bonny Black Bess (II))

DESCRIPTION: "Dick Turpin bold! Dick, hie away," say his pals as Turpin escapes from three officers. Black Bess carries him to York and dies: "her heart she had burst, her rider to save, For Dick Turpin she lived and died"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1846 (broadside, Bodleian Johnson Ballads 670)
KEYWORDS: escape death horse outlaw thief
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 101, "Dick Turpin's Ride" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 315)
Roud #856
BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Johnson Ballads 670, "My Bonny Black Bess" ("Dick Turpin bold! Dick, hie away"), J. Paul and Co. (London), 1838-1845; also 2806 c.13(200), Johnson Ballads 560, Harding B 11(2518), 2806 b.11(230), Firth c.17(213), Harding B 11(2517), Harding B 11(3910), Firth b.26(10), "My Bonny Black Bess"; Firth c.17(31), Harding B 11(829), "Death of Black Bess"; Firth c.17(32), "Dick Turpin's Ride to York"
LOC Singing, as101400, "Bonny Black Bess" ("Dick Turpin, bold Dick, hark away!") , W.S. Fortey (London), no date
File: WT101

Dicky Dash

DESCRIPTION: Dicky Dash takes Miss (Beal/Peel) to a dance but has to sell his shirt to raise admission. During the dance a shawl is stolen. Everyone is searched. When they search Dickie and find he has no shirt Miss Beal has nothing further to do with him.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast)

KEYWORDS: courting theft clothes dancing humorous money commerce

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf) Ireland

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 64, "Dicky Dash" (1 text, 1 tune)
Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 18, "Dick the Dasher" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST LLab064 (Partial)

File: LLab064

Dicky in the Yeomen

DESCRIPTION: Yeoman cobbler Dick McClane and his Orange wife live "at the end of Dirty Lane."

He was with Beresford, at Castlepollard and Weavers' Hall upon the Coombe. Finally, "he shot an dass ... going to mass." But now he has to beg "Like all black-hearted Yeomen" AUTHOR: probably by "Zozimus" (Michael Moran) (c.1794-1846) (Source: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)

EARLIEST DATE: 1830s (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)

KEYWORDS: violence death Ireland political

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 47, "Dicky in the Yeomen" (2 texts, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Gulielmus Dubliniensis Humoriensis [Joseph Tully?], Memoir of the Great Original Zozimus (Michael Moran) (Dublin, 1976 (reprint of the 1871 edition)), p. 23, "Dickey and the Yeoman" [only the first verse]

NOTES [634 words]: "Following an affray at Loughgall in Co. Armagh in 1795 the Orange Order was founded, while the Yeomen were also established in June 1796. These were made up mainly of men from the Orange Lodges." (source: The 1798 Rebellion on the Hogan Stand site) Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion: "John Beresford was one of those who organized the repression in 1798."

Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion: May 21, 1831 - "Seventeen people were killed by the police at Castlepollard ... in one of the bloodiest affrays of the Tithe War. An inquest followed but the policemen were finally acquitted of the charge of murder." See also "The Castlepollard Massacre."

The Charter of the Weaver's Guild, dedicated to "the Blessed Virgin Mary," was granted 1446. A weavers' hall was built by the Guild in the Lower Coombe, Dublin. Irish Catholics were excluded from guild membership and Catholic weavers operated illegally. The guilds no longer had a monopoly and the Municipal Corporations Act of 1840 ended the guild system in Ireland. The Weavers's Hall was demolished in 1965. (source: The Weavers' Guild, The Guild of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Dublin 1446 to 1840 by Veronica Rowe at The Irish Guild of Weavers, Spinners &

Dyers web site.

For all that, I haven't yet found anything about a battle at Weavers' Hall or any loss there of Croppy lives.

Donkey's have a cross-shaped patch of dark hair on their back. In political ballads this mark is taken as a sign that donkeys are Roman Catholic. [For more on this, see the notes to "The Ass's

Complaint." - RBW] - BS

There are at least three John Beresfords who might be the subject of this song, though I suspect the reference is to the younger, John Claudius.

John Beresford (1738-1805) was the second son of the Earl of Tyrone, and the depiction of him as strongly opposed to Catholic rights is quite accurate -- Bartlett/Dawson/Keough, p. 23, tells us that

"members of Parliament like John Foster, John Fitzgibbon, and John Beresford... served as an informal 'Irish cabinet'. This talented but deeply conservative trio became a vital element in the government of Ireland and shared London's opposition to parliamentary reform." MP for Waterford, Beresford also held a revenue commission post from 1780 (OxfordCompanion, p. 44), and gave vigorous support to the Act of Union.

According to Brumwell/Specck, p. 50, the Lord Lieutenant Lord Fitzwilliam declared that he was "virtually King of Ireland." And he used that power to oppose FitzWilliam's attempts at reforms.

His greatest influence on Irish history may well have come in 1795. In January of that year, the Second Earl of Fitzwilliam was appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, which brought "prospects of Catholic Emancipation" (Smyth p.108). Beresford protested vigorously, and in the squabble that followed, it was Fitzwilliam, not Beresford, who fell. I can't find any references to deaths at Weaver's Hall, either, but there were riots in Dublin in 1795. During the riots, John Beresford's son John Claudius Beresford fired on the crowd outside the Customs House (Smyth, p. 150). Beresford the younger was also a leader of the Dublin Orange Lodge (Pakenham, p. 352). So he is a likely target of the denunciation in this song. The third John Beresford is Lord John George Beresford (1773-1862), who became the Church of Ireland (Anglican) Archbishop of Armagh in 1822. The nephew of John Beresford and the cousin of John Claudius, he was not as directly involved in battle as his cousin, but he vigorously opposed Catholic emancipation and contributed to the needs of clergy who had lost their incomes during the Tithe War (OxfordCompanion, p. 44). Given that this song seems to describe events stretching over a period of more than thirty years, I wonder if there might not be some conflation of Beresfords. - RBW

Bibliography

Last updated in version 2.6
File: Zimm047

Dicky the Miller

DESCRIPTION: Dicky the Miller meets his sweetheart Joan dressed "in her holiday's clothes." Dazzled, he proposes, they have sex and she is overjoyed at "the pleasure of being a wife." At home her mother criticizes her for losing her virginity. Dickie marries her.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle)

KEYWORDS: courting love marriage sex virginity clothes mother miller

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 33, "Dicky the Miller" (1 text)
- Purslow-TheConstantLovers, p. 21, "Dicky, The Miller" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #1033
File: ReCi033

Did Christ o'er Sinners Weep? (The Weeping Savior)

DESCRIPTION: "Did Christ o'er sinners weep? And shall our cheeks be dry... He wept that we might weep... In heav'n alone no sin is found, and there's no weeping there"

AUTHOR: Benjamin Beddome (source: Rippon)

EARLIEST DATE: 1787 (#367 in the 1787 edition Rippon's _Selection of Hymns_, according to Julian)

KEYWORDS: Bible nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- ADDITIONAL: John Rippon, A Selection of Hymns from the Best Authors (Elizabethtown: Shepard Kollock, 1792 ("Digitized by Internet Archive")), #367 pp. 268-269, ("Did Christ o'er sinners weep") (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
- Testerina Primitive Baptist Church, "Did Christ o'er Sinners Weep? (The Weeping Savior)" (on USFlorida01
NOTES [542 words]: "Some Baptists objected to missions and other alternatives to worship [that emerged from the evangelical theology of the Second Great Awakening], and withdrew [around 1830] to form separate anti-mission associations. While most Baptists followed the course of American Protestant modernization, these anti-mission associations, taking the name of Primitive Baptist, held fast to the ecclesiastical principles given directly in New Testament scripture [rejecting salvation through works]" (John Bealle, "Introduction" p. 2, and Beverly Bush Patterson, "Forging Religious Identity: An Exploration of Hymn Singing in Anglo-American Primitive Baptist Churches" p. 23, both in Joyce Cauthen, editor, Benjamin Lloyd's Hymn Book: A Primitive Baptist Song Tradition (Montgomery: Alabama Folklife Association, 1999)).

The USFlorida01 recording is lined out by the precentor Deacon Wilson, one line at a time, and sung very slowly; each syllable has whole or multiple notes. Dargan, describing another Primitive Baptist recording as typical of this class of performances, writes about "melody spun-out melismatically with no rhythm derived out of measure and beat" that "beckons the ear and the consciousness to savour the very moment of each syllable" (William T Dargan, "Texts from Lloyd's Hymn Book in the Quiltwork of African American Singing Styles" in Joyce Cauthen, editor, Benjamin Lloyd's Hymn Book: A Primitive Baptist Song Tradition (Montgomery: Alabama Folklife Association, 1999), pp. 33, 32).

The reference is to Luke 19.41: "And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and wept over it" (King James). - BS

Perhaps more likely, John 11:35, the shortest verse in the Bible, "Jesus wept" or "Jesus shed tears." This is the most famous reference to Jesus weeping, and I see no reference in the Beddome text to where or why Jesus was weeping.

John Julian, editor, A Dictionary of Hymnology, 1892; second edition 1907 (I use the 1957 Dover edition in two volumes), p. 121, says of author Bedome, "This prolific hymn-writer was b[orn] at Henley-in-Arden, Warwickshire, Jan. 23, 1717, where his father, the Rev. John Bedome was at that time Baptist Minister. He was apprenticed to a surgeon in Bristol, but removing to London, he joined, in 1739, the Baptist church in Prescott St. At the call of his church he devoted himself to the work of Christian ministry, and in 1740 began to preach at Bourton-on-the-Water, in Gloucestershire." He would stay there until his death on September 3, 1795. He wrote at least one theological tract in this time, and also apparently made it a habit to inflict a new hymn on his congregation every week.

Not all of these hymns were published, and Julian says that only a few are widely known in England although more are popular in America. Julian lists 69 of his hymns, not one of which is familiar to me (at least under the title given by Julian), and none of which are in the Index as of this writing (2017); several appear to be specifically linked to a particular Bible text (e.g. "Behold the Eunuch, When Baptized," also known as "The Holy Eunuch, When Baptized," which is based on chapter 8 of Acts). I have to say, based on the texts I've checked, that Beddome's works appear to be mercifully forgotten. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: RcDCoSw

Did the Maine Go Down?

DESCRIPTION: "On fifteenth day of February, In the year of '98, That day records the Maine disaster, 'Twas the day that sealed her fate." Many will not return home. It's Spain's fault. Captain Sigsbee went where duty called; so did many of the sailors

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1963 (List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana)

KEYWORDS: sailor ship death derivative

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1895 - Cubans rebel against Spain
Feb 15, 1898 - Explosion of the battleship "Maine" in Havana harbour
April 25, 1898 - Congress declares war on Spain

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 329-336, "Did the Maine Go Down?" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Ship That Never Returned" [Laws D27] (tune) and references there
cf. "My Sweetheart Went Down with the Maine" (theme) and references there
NOTES [88 words]: List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana says this is to the tune of "The Wreck of the Old 97," and it is true that it (as transcribed by List) it lack the chorus of "The Ship That Never Returned." Since, however, it has several stanzas that look like direct rewrites of "The Ship," and the third verse appears as if it should have been the chorus, and the song was presumably written in 1898, before the Old 97 was even wrecked, I think the song can be traced back to "The Ship" without having "Old 97" in its ancestry. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: List329

Did Ye not Promise to Marry Me?

DESCRIPTION: The singer complains that her lover, leaving her with her baby, had promised to marry her. Her mother, now dead, had warned her that "young men proved untrue." He takes her to London and they marry.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan5)
KEYWORDS: love marriage sex abandonment
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 978, "Did Ye not Promise to Marry Me?" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
Roud #6731
NOTES [107 words]: Greig/Duncan5 versions seem incomplete but the very general outline reminds me of "The False Lover Won Back" [Child 218]. It also has floating lines "I will clim as high a tree, Bring doon as rich a nest ....," "pull the red roses fine ..." as an invitation to sex, "rock the cradle and spin," "the trees they're high ... the branches they're but small" and "he has turned his high horse roon' aboot"; in two cases the rhyme is lost.
Greig/Duncan5: "Mrs D. Lyall; from her mother. Noted 4th June, 1907. Mrs Lyall's mother learnt this from her own mother, who in turn learnt it from her mother. That goes back about a hundred and twenty years." - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD5978

Did Ye See My Lad?

DESCRIPTION: "Did ye see my lad lookin' for me? He wears a blue bonnet wi' tassels upon it, A hump on his back and a patch on his e'e"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1824 (Sharpe, A Ballad Book)
KEYWORDS: courting nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber)) Ireland
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig/Duncan7 1343, "Did Ye See My Lad?" (1 fragment)
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 49, "Did You See My Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Charles Kirkpatrick Sharpe, A Ballad Book (Edinburgh, 1883, reprint of 1824 edition ("Digitized by Microsoft")) 27, Part II, p. 13, "The Bonny Lad" (1 fragment)
Roud #2105
RECORDINGS:
Elizabeth Cronin, "Did You See My Man" (on IRECronin01)
NOTES [11 words]: The current description is based on the Greig/Duncan7 fragment. - BS
Last updated in version 3.2
File: GrD71343

Did You Ever See a Bear Walk a Tightrope in the Air?

DESCRIPTION: "Did you ever see a bear Walk a tightrope in the air? If you did, it was all a dream, So out you must go for saying so."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
Did You Ever See a Lassie?

DESCRIPTION: "Did you ever see a lassie, A lassie, a lassie, Did you ever see a lassie Go this way and that way? Did you ever see a lassie go this way and that?" Other verses, if any, equally silly; sustained by the tune "O Du Lieber Augustine"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1896 (Beebe)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Linscott-FolkSongsOfOldNewEngland, pp. 6-7, "Did You Ever See a Lassie" (1 text)
- Byington/Goldstein-TwoPennyBallads, pp. 101-102, "(Did you ever see a lassie)" (1 text, 1 tune, filed under "Follow the Leader")
- Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 69, "Did You Ever See a Lassie?"; Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame, pp. 303,304-306, "(When I was a young gell, a young gell, a young gell)" (3 texts)
- Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 399-400, "O Du Lieber Augustin -- (Polly Put the Kettle On -- Did You Ever See a Lassie)"

JournalOfAmericanFolklore, Leah Rachel Clara Yoffie, "Three Generations of Children's Singing Games in St. Louis," Vol. LX, No. 235 (Jan 1947), #39 p. 34 ("Did you ever see a lassie, a lassie, a lassie") (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: Marion Bromley Newton, Graded Games and Rhythmic Exercises for Primary Schools (New York, 1907 ("Digitized by Google")), #6 pp. 3-4, "Did You Ever See A Lassie?" (1 text, 1 tune)

SAME TUNE:
- Ach, Du Lieber Augustine (File: SBar017)
- Ach, Du Lieber Augustine (Slot Machine Run By Steam) (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 163)
- Love to Be in Copenhagen (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 197)
- Have You Ever Seen (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 197)

NOTES [90 words]: Obviously a silly little song -- but the tune is so widespread that it can hardly be omitted.

Linscott, who has only a single stanza, describes its use as a singing game. - RBW

"Another favorite in Eleanor Smith’s song book No. 2 reads: 'Did you ever see a lassie Do this way and that?' This is a very old friend in a new dress, and it is deservedly a friend, for it gives scope for any amount of ingenuity and originality" (source: Katherine Beebe, Home Occupations for Little Children (Chicago, 1896 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 126). - BS

Last updated in version 5.3

File: FuldODLA

Did You Ever See the Divil?

DESCRIPTION: The Devil dug "pritties" in the garden, swatting flies with his tail until "they dragged him back to prison." The Devil, overjoyed when the spuds were blighted and famine killed the people, was put in his place by Saint Patrick.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c.1939 (Tunney-StoneFiddle)

REFERENCES: farming starvation Devil

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Tunney-StoneFiddle, p. 69, "Did You Ever See the Divil?" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Stack of Barley" (tune, according to Tunney-StoneFiddle)
- cf. "Over There (I - The Praties They Grow Small)" (subject: the potato famines) and references there

NOTES [74 words]: For the potato blight, see "Over There (I - The Praties They Grow Small)" and references there. The British policy was largely one of neglect (though this was more due to flawed economic opinions than actual cruelty), but it resulted in many deaths and even more people selling out and going to America. I have no idea why the song thinks the Devil was put in his place; the famines eventually ended, but the effects had been simply horrid. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3
File: TSF069

Did You Ever, Ever, Ever

DESCRIPTION: "Did you ever, ever, ever In your leaf, life, loaf, See the deevil, divil, dovol, Kiss his weef, wife, woaf? No I never, never, never In my leaf, life, loaf, Saw the deevil, divil, dovol, Kiss his weef, wife, woaf."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1880 (McCollum and Porter)
KEYWORDS: devil nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 329, "Did You Ever, Ever, Ever" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 139, "Have You Ever Ever Ever Ever?" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #4253 and 18989
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Oh, Mister Revel" (theme)
File: San329A

Did You Hear My Jesus?

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Did you hear my Jesus when He called you (x3), For to try on your long white robe." Verses: "Heaven gates are open, come along, come along... hear my Jesus when He calls you." "My mother's in the kingdom...." "Going to meet her yonder...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, pp. 134-135, "Ef You Want to Get to Hebben (Did You Hear My Jesus?)" (1 text, 1 tune; pp. 230-231 in the 1874 edition)
Roud #15248
NOTES [34 words]: Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute repeats the verse line -- including "come along, come along" -- three times, followed by "Hear my Jesus when he calls you." - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: Dett134

Did You Never Hear of Donald Blue?

DESCRIPTION: "In Union Street as I walked late I met a man I never knew When I askerd his name, said he "For shame Did you never hear of Donald Blue?"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan7)
KEYWORDS: travel
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1456, "Did You Never Hear of Donald Blue?" (1 fragment)
Roud #7149
NOTES [44 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan7 fragment.
Greig/Duncan7 refers to a 1797 chapbook including "Donald Blue" beginning "Thro' Deery town I rambled late."
For the association of "Donald Blue" with whiskey see "Whiskey Is My Name (Donald Blue)." - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD71456

Diddie Wa Diddie

DESCRIPTION: Double entendre. Singer describes several awkward situations involving "Diddie Wa Diddie," lamenting "I wish somebody would tell me what Diddie Wa Diddie means." He gets thrown out of church "Cause I talk about Diddie Wa Diddie too much."
AUTHOR: Label ledger says "Davis-Blake"; no hint who Davis might have been EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (recording, Blind Blake)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Double entendre. Singer describes several awkward situations involving "Diddie Wa Diddie," lamenting in the chorus "I wish somebody would tell me what Diddie Wa Diddie means." A girl who's four foot four asks him to give her some more Diddie Wah Diddie. In church, he puts his hand on a seat, and a woman sits on it, saying "You sure is sweet." He tells her he'll soon be gone, just "give me that thing you're sitting on." He gets thrown out of church "'Cause I talk about Diddie Wa Diddie too much."
KEYWORDS: sex questions bawdy
FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,SE)
RECORDINGS:
Blind [Arthur] Blake, "Diddie Wa Diddie" (Paramount 12888, 1929)
Bill Cox, "Didi Wa Didi" (Vocalion 05191/Conqueror 9219, 1939) [Note: I have not heard this record, so cannot verify that it's the same song.]
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Diddy Wa Diddy
Diddie Wah Diddy
NOTES [106 words]: The narrative is minimal, but it's there.
It's hard to know where to assign a FOUND IN for this song; Mr. Blake may have been born in Florida or Virginia; he lived in Chicago (at least for a time), and recorded in Wisconsin.
The similarly-titled "Diddy Wah Diddy" was composed by Willie Dixon and Elias "Bo Diddley" McDaniel, and recorded in 1955. It's a different song; in Dixon & McDaniel's piece "Diddy Wah Diddy" is a place of ease and contentment, similar to the Big Rock Candy Mountain, whereas in the Blake record it's a (sexual) thing.
In a sequel to this song, Blake sings "I just found out what Diddie Wa Diddie means." -PJS
Last updated in version 4.3
File: RcDiWaDi

Diddle, Diddle, Dumpling, My Son John

DESCRIPTION: "Diddle, diddle, dumpling, my son John, Went to bed with his trousers on, One shoe off, and one shoe on, Diddle, diddle, dumpling, my son John."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1805 (Songs for the Nursery, according to the Opies)
KEYWORDS: food clothes nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 275, "Diddle, diddle, dumpling, my son John" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #129, p. 106, "(Diddle, diddle, dumpling, my son John)"
Dolby-OrangesAndLemons, p. 65, "Diddle, Diddle, Dumpling, My Son John" (1 text)
Roud #19709
NOTES [27 words]: The first words, "Diddle, diddle, dumpling," are reputed to be the cry of street-sellers offering dumplings. Where the rest of the poem came from is not clear. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.3
Didn't He Ramble

DESCRIPTION: "Mother raised three grown sons... Buster was the black sheep of our little family... And didn't he ramble, ramble... He rambled till the butchers cut him down." Buster's rambling ways and debts are described; at last he hits bottom and the song ends

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1902 (broadside, LOCSheet rpbaasm 1155)

KEYWORDS: rambling hardtimes gambling family

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, pp. 174-175, "Didn't He Ramble?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rorrer-RamblingBlues-LifeAndSongsOfCharliePoole, p. 88, "He Rambled" (1 text)
Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, pp. 231-232 (partial text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 203, "Didn't He Ramble" (1 text)
DT 312, DIDRAMBL*

ADDITIONAL: Frank J. Gillis, "The Metamorphosis of a Derbyshire Ballad into a New World Jazz Tune," article published 1978 in _Disourse in Ethnomusicology: Essays in Honor of George List_; republished on pp. 207-248 of Norm Cohen, editor, _All This for a Song_, Southern Folklife Collection, 2009

Roud #126

RECORDINGS:
Fiddlin' John Carson, "Didn't He Ramble" (OKeh 45569, 1932; rec. 1930)
Al Hopkins & his Buckle Busters, "Didn't He Ramble" (Brunswick, unissued, 1928)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Didn't He Ramble" (on NLCR02)
Charlie Poole and the North Carolina Ramblers, "He Rambled" (Columbia 15407-D, 1929; on CPoole01, CPoole05, ConstSor1)

BROADSIDES:
LOCSheet, rpbaasm 1155, "Oh! Didn't He Ramble," J.W. Stern & Co. (New York), 1902 (tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Darby Ram" (lyrics)
cf. "Traveling Man (Traveling Coon)" (lyrics)
cf. "Cotton's Patch (II)" (lyrics, form, probably tune)

NOTES [123 words]: Although an obvious pop rewriting of "The Derby Ram" (Roud lumps them), the actual history of this piece is uncertain. Credit (blame?) has been offered to Will Handy (a pseudonym for Bob Cole, sometimes working with John Rosamond Johnson and James Weldon Johnson; note that this is not W. C. Handy), who offered an extravagant seven verse version. (So, e.g., in Silber & Silber, and there is sheet music of this version.; cf. Spaeth, _A History of Popular Music in America_, p. 317.)

Charlie Poole sang a much more sedate three verse version. If anyone knows more, I'd welcome the information. - RBW

Broadside LOCSheet rpbaasm 1155: "words & music by Will Handy ... adaptation by Bob Cole." Poole's tune is closely related to Handy's. - BS

Last updated in version 4.3

File: CSW174

Didn't It Rain

DESCRIPTION: "Now didn't it rain, children...." Various events related to the flood: "It rained 40 days and 40 nights...God sent a raven to carry the news...." "God sent Noah the rainbow sign...." "They knocked at the window and they knocked at the door...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (recording, Biddleville Quintette)

KEYWORDS: religious Bible flood

FOUND IN: US(SE) West Indies(Bahamas)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 564, "Didn't It Rain" (3 fragments plus an excerpt; the "D" fragment does not use the "didn't it rain" line and might be something else)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 564, "Didn't It Rain" (2 tunes plus text excerpts)
Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories 4, "Didn't It Rain, My Elder" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 250, "Didn't It Rain" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warren-EveryTimeIFeelTheSpirit, pp. 111-113, "Didn't It Rain" (1 text, 1 tune, adapted and copyrighted by Roberta Martin, 1907-1969, plus an excerpt of the original spiritual on pp. 115-116)
Roud #6699

RECORDINGS:
Biddleville Quintette, "Didn't It Rain" (QRS 7073, 1929)
Famous Blue Jay Singers of Birmingham, "Oh My Lord Didn't It Rain" (Paramount 13126, 1932; on VocalQ2)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Noah" (subject, patter+chorus format) and references there

NOTES [79 words]: For the statement that the rain fell for forty days during Noah's flood, see Gen. 7:12 (the total duration of the flood is given in 7:17, 8:6? as 40 days and in 7:24, 8:3 as 150 days; the different numbers are believed to have come from different sources). Nowhere does the Bible mention people asking Noah to take them aboard. Nor was the raven sent as a warning; rather, Noah sent it out to look for dry land (Gen. 8:7). The covenant of the rainbow is described in 9:13f. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: LoF250

Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel

DESCRIPTION: "Didn't my Lord deliver Daniel... Then why not every man? He delivered Daniel from the lion's den, Jonah from the belly of the whale." The singer forecasts the end of the world, expecting to be saved, and rejoices in salvation

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 65, "My Lord Delivered Daniel" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 193 in the 1874 edition)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 370, "Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel?" (1 text)
DT, DELVRDAN*
Roud #12348

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Preacher and the Bear" (theme)

NOTES [53 words]: The story of Daniel in the lion's den (for refusing to worship a false god) is in Daniel 6:16-24. Jonah's sojourn in the belly of a fish (NOT a whale; the Hebrew says "fish"); for more about this, see the notes to "God's Radiophone") is in Jonah 1:17-2:10. The story of the three in the fiery furnace is in Daniel 3. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.0
File: FSWB370A

Didn't Ol' John Cross the Water on His Knees

DESCRIPTION: "Didn't ol' John (huh!) cross the water on his knees? (huh!) (x2), Lut us all (huh!) bow down (huh!), good Lord, and face, face the rising sun (huh!)." Listeners are told to get on their knees and sing

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad prison
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 384-385, "Didn't Ol' John Cross the Water on His Knees" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #15587
Didn't You Hear

DESCRIPTION: "Didn't you hear my Lord when he called? Yes, I heard my Lord when he called... My Lord callin' in my soul." Similarly, "Didn't you hear them turkle (sic) doves moan... hear the harp when it blowed... hear that thunder roll... hear the organ playin'"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (recording, Rich Amerson & Earthy Anne Coleman)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Courlander-NegroFolkMusic, pp. 68-69, "(Didn't You Hear)" (1 text); pp. 241-243, "Didn't You Hear" (1 tune, partial text)

Roud #10959

RECORDINGS:
Rich Amerson & Earthy Anne Coleman, "Didn't You Hear" (on NFMAla4, NFMAfAm)

File: CNFM068

Died for Love (I)

DESCRIPTION: A song of a woman in pain. The woman says that the man loved her when her apron was low, but now it's high. She may wish she were a maid again, recall the alehouse where she drinks, or wish her parents had never met

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (OShaughnessy/Grainger-TwentyOneLincolnshireFolkSongs)

KEYWORDS: seduction pregnancy betrayal abandonment floatingverses

FOUND IN: Britain(England,Scotland) Ireland

REFERENCES (5 citations):
OShaughnessy/Grainger-TwentyOneLincolnshireFolkSongs 5, "Died for Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, p. 53, "I Wish, I Wish" (1 text, 1 tune)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 55, "Died for Love" (2 texts, 2 tunes, the second having a wide variety of imported verses not usually associated with this family)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 273, "I wish I was a Child again" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Hammond-SongsOfBelfast, p. 56, "I Wish I Was a Maid Again" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #495

RECORDINGS:
Isla Cameron, "Died For Love" (on Lomax41, LomaxCD1741)
Walter Pardon, "I Wish, I Wish" (on Voice15)
Pete Seeger, "Tarrytown" (on PeteSeeger46)
Pete Seeger & Sonny Terry, "In Tarrytown" (on SeegerTerry)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Butcher Boy" [Laws P24] and references there
cf. "My Blue-Eyed Boy" (lyrics, theme)
cf. "Must I Go Bound" (theme)
cf. "Love Has Brought Me To Despair" [Laws P25] (lyrics)
cf. "The Effects of Love" (theme)

NOTES [225 words]: This piece is almost "The Butcher Boy" [Laws P24] without the suicide. The mention of the apron riding high is a strong indicator; the girl is definitely pregnant and regrets her folly.

For further details on the family, see the notes to "The Butcher Boy." - RBW

Yates, Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Notes - Volume 15" - 13.9.02, cite as a possible source "song 'The Effects of Love - A New Song' which was issued by an anonymous broadside printer in the 18th century." The note quotes the text, which includes the "when my apron it hung low" and "I wish that my dear babe was born" verses. The reference seems to be to "The effects of love. A new song. [London]. [1780?]. 1 sheet; 1/80. British Library 11621.k.4(158). A slip song. "O! Love is hot, and Love is cold," REFERENCE: ESTCT32452 x." (source: Eighteenth Century (1701-1790) Cheap Print: A Finding Aid produced by Richard C. Simmons, University of Birmingham, Dec 2000, on the University of Birmingham site); this is not at all the Bodleian broadside set "The Effects of Love [by a young lady who drowned herself]" ("Young lovers all I pray draw near=").

Also collected and sung by David Hammond, "I Wish I Was a Maid Again" (on David Hammond, "I Am the Wee Falorie Man: Folk Songs of Ireland," Tradition TCD1052 CD (1997) reissue of Tradition LP TLP 1028 (1959)) - BS

Last updated in version 3.0
File: McST055

Died for Love (III) (Early, Early)

DESCRIPTION: The singer hears a girl sighing, "The lad I love is gone far away." "He's gone and left me now in grief and woe, And where to find him I do not know. I'll search these green fields and valleys low." She wishes she had wings to hunt Willie

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: love separation floatingverses
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H89, p. 287, "Early, Early" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3817
RECORDINGS:
Robert Cinnamond, "Early, Early, by the Break of Day" (on IRRCinnamond03)

NOTES [41 words]: This is one of those songs where you simply cannot tell if it's the remnant of something else (it reminds me of Jean Redpath's "When I Look tae Yon High Hills") or a collection of floating lines or just a short piece on a commonplace theme. - RBW

File: HHH089

Died for Love (V)

DESCRIPTION: "A man returning home one night, He found his house without a light." He seeks his daughter; he finds her dead (perhaps of suicide, perhaps not). Her love was a sailor. She warned "Don't change the old love for the new." Clearly from "The Butcher Boy"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1974 (Gardham-EastRidingSongster)
KEYWORDS: death suicide love abandonment sailor
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Gardham-EastRidingSongster 28, "The Maiden's Prayer (Died for Love)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hamer-GreenGroves, pp. 18-19, "A Sailor Came Home Late" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #18828
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Butcher Boy" [Laws P24] and references there
NOTES [48 words]: Basically "The Butcher Boy" with the love a sailor instead. I'd be tempted to lump them, but Roud and others split them. But you'd better see all the "Butcher Boy" references. Gardham-EastRidingSongster states that this particular version became particularly popular in World War II. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: Gard028

Died on the Ice Fields

DESCRIPTION: "The white, rugged ice-flow came gliding along" as Richard Parsons and his sons
Diego's Bold Shore

DESCRIPTION: "Has a love of adventure, a promise of gold, or an ardent desire to roam Ever tempted you far o'er the watery world?" The singer describes the whaling life by asking if the listener has ever experienced this or that. He advises those at home to enjoy life

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1852 ("The Friend," November 2, 1852 edition)
KEYWORDS: whaler work questions

Diego's Bold Shore

DESCRIPTION: "Has a love of adventure, a promise of gold, or an ardent desire to roam Ever tempted you far o'er the watery world?" The singer describes the whaling life by asking if the listener has ever experienced this or that. He advises those at home to enjoy life

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1852 ("The Friend," November 2, 1852 edition)
KEYWORDS: whaler work questions

Diesel and Shale

DESCRIPTION: "On the fifth of November in '53, The big man at Dolphin he sent for me... We've booked you a berth in the water below... We've booked you a berth with the diesel ad shale." The sailor describes the smelly life on submarines; he finally gets another berth

AUTHOR: Cyril Tawney (source: Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)
KEYWORDS: sailor ship hardtimes

Diesel and Shale

DESCRIPTION: "On the fifth of November in '53, The big man at Dolphin he sent for me... We've booked you a berth in the water below... We've booked you a berth with the diesel ad shale." The sailor describes the smelly life on submarines; he finally gets another berth

AUTHOR: Cyril Tawney (source: Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)
KEYWORDS: sailor ship hardtimes

NOTES [69 words]: Murphy reports that this was based on an incident of March 24, 1894. Such stories are depressingly common in Newfoundland, where fathers and sons often went to the ice together; in the Newfounland disaster (for which see "The Newfoundland Disaster (I)"), there were multiple instances of family members together trapped on the ice, including at least one case of three family members dying in each others’ arms. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: RySm039

NOTES [67 words]: Jim Dixon pointed out to me the version of this song, from "The Friend," a Honolulu temperance journal. It appears Jonathan Lighter first found it. None of the earliest copies seems to indicate a tune. Both that text and the Lindeman printing list it as a Whaleman's Song "by one of them." "The Friend" uses this tag on several other items about whaling, though this was the only song I noticed. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.5
File: SwMS030
NOTES [66 words]: Submarines were always crowded, and even when on the surface, they had limited ventilation. The were famous for their odors, both human and machine. A well-designed boat wouldn't smell too much of diesel fuel and shale oil, but either Tawney was not on a good boat or he had a very good nose. As someone who finds all petroleum fumes hard to take, I have a great deal of sympathy for the latter. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1
File: PaSe153

Dieu du Liberal, Le (The Idol of His Party)

DESCRIPTION: Canadian French. "Peuple, ecoutez devotement, Un recit bien interessant." Listeners are asked to hear the tale of "A famous Doctor friend of ours," who, although "a great blockhead," goes into politics. Despite their loathing, he becomes an M.P.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (MacLeod-SongsOfOldManitoba)
KEYWORDS: political nonballad Canada
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1840-1896 - Life of Sir John Christian Schultz, M.P 1871-1882, Senator 1882-1888, Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba 1888-1895. Although the "Doctor" of the song is unnamed, MacLeod is certain it refers to Schultz
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
MacLeod-SongsOfOldManitoba, #10, pp. 60-66, "The Idol of His Party" (1 French text plus English translation, 1 tune)
NOTES [182 words]: According to W. Stewart Wallace, Editor, The Macmillan Dictionary of Canadian Biography, fourth edition revised and enlarged by W. A. McKay, Macmillan of Canada, 1978, p. 751, Sir John Christian Schultz (1840-1896) was born at Amherstburg in what was then Upper Canada. He attended Oberlin College in Ohio, Queen's University at Kingston, and Victoria University, Cobourg, earning his MD there (although Wikipedia, when I checked some time in 2017, claimed that he never actually graduated medical school but called himself a doctor anyway). Medical doctor or not, he practiced medicine at what was then Fort Garry and is now Winnipeg. A loyalist during the North West Rebellion of 1869-1870 (for which see "Riel's Song"), he was taken captive by Louis Riel and sentenced to death, but managed to escape. That gave him a big boost in politics, and as the Historical References show, he held some sort of office fro 1871 until 1895. He was a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and in 1895 became K.C.M.G. So I doubt he was actually a blockhead, though no doubt he was highly opinionated. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4
File: Macld10

Dig My Grave with a Silver Spade

DESCRIPTION: "You can dig my grave with a silver spade (x3), 'Cause I ain't gonna stay here long." "There's a long white robe in heaven for me...." "There's a starry crown in heaven for me...." "There's a golden harp up in Heaven for me...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 351, "You Can Dig My Grave" (1 text)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, p. 134, "Silver Spade" (1 short text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Deep Blue Sea (II)" (floating lyrics)
cf. "Down by the Weeping Willow Tree" (lyrics)
File: FSWB351A
Digger's Farewell, The
DESCRIPTION: "Just as you say, sire, I'm off once more, The Palmer River, that's my way." "Ten long years since I landed here... But who lacks hardship looking for gold." "Success to the Palmer! -- is that your toast? Mine's 'Here's to the land I leave behind!'"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (Greymouth Star, according to Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)
KEYWORDS: mining hardtimes drink New Zealand
FIND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, p. 66, "The Digger's Farewell" (1 text, 1 modern tune, with an indication of an earlier tune)
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 60, "Digger's Farewell" (1 text, 1 modern tune) (p. 36 in the 1972 edition)
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, pp. 89-90, "(The Digger's Farewell/Farewell to the Grey)" (1 text)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Farewell to the Grey
NOTES [25 words]: Apparently a song of a gold digger who arrived in New Zealand in 1864 and has found little in that time but now (1874) intends to go to Australia. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.4
File: BaRo066

Digging for Gould
DESCRIPTION: Boys know Darby Kelly only loves gold. Dan tells Darby he dreamt of a jar of gold. They dig and find a jar. He takes it home on his back; when they smash it, he is "like a black sugar stick on a hot summer-day," not smelling like gold. He is cured
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1879 (broadside, LOCSinging sb10104a)
KEYWORDS: greed lie trick dream humorous gold FIND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
O’Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 43, "Digging for Gould" (1 text)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #477, p. 32, "Digging for Gould" (1 reference)
Roud #V15467
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 18(129), "Digging for Gould", H. De Marsan (New York), 1864-1878 [same as LOCSinging sb10104a]; also Firth c.20(133), "Digging for Gold"
LOCSinging, sb10104a, "Digging for Gould", H. De Marsan (New York), 1864-1878 [same as Bodleian Harding B 18(129)]
NOTES [126 words]: Both O’Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland and the De Marsan broadside leave off the last verse: once the jar is broken we know from the smell that Darby Kelly is not covered with gold; the missing part, only in shelfmark Firth c.20(133), [runs] "when she [his wife] saw Darby good lord! what a sight, Doubled in two on the ground there he lay, Like a black sugar stick on a hot summer-day ... I know them gasoons have disbed me complete, Never more by you I'll be led or rulled, For I may dig my grave, when I next dig Gold."
Last updated in version 5.0
File: OCon043

Diggins-Oh, The
DESCRIPTION: "I've come back all skin and bone From the diggins-oh, And I wish I'd never gone, To the giggins-oh. Believe me, 'tis no fun...." He lost weight. The natives burned his home. His hut washed away. He finally comes home; he will not go digging again
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1967 (Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads)
KEYWORDS: hardtimes mining Australia
Dinah

DESCRIPTION: "Dinah, Oh Dinah, if you were only mine, Set you in the corner, kiss you all the\ntime, kiss you all the time, kiss you all the time." "It's raining and it's hailing... My true love goes\nback on me, I will surely die." "Durn her, let her go."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1976 (Bush-FSoCentralWestVirginiaVol5)
KEYWORDS: love courting rejection
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Bush-FSoCentralWestVirginiaVol5, p. 7, "Dinah" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7049
File: BWV5007

Dinah, Dinah Show Us a Leg

DESCRIPTION: "Dinah, Dinah, show us your leg ... above the knee" Rich girl wears brassiere,\npoor girl rags, or a string, Dinah wears nothing and lets her bosoms sag, or swing.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1976 (Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame)
KEYWORDS: bawdy playparty clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame, p. 479, ("Dinah, Dinah, show us your leg") (1 text)
Roud #7052
NOTES [51 words]: Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame: "The adult version at least makes more sense."
See the Mudcat Cafe site forum for examples. One thread on Rugby songs includes a bawdy text for "Dinah" that includes -- sort of -- two of the Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame verses. Other threads have long versions with a lot of overlap. - BS
Last updated in version 5.0
File: 0pGa479C

Ding Dang Me

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Ding dang me one, Ding dang, Ding dang me two ... Ding dang me four, Ding dang." Includes floating Black or "minstrel" verses (see Notes)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands)
KEYWORDS: nonballad floatingverses
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands, p. 120, ("Once I went out huntin") (1 text)
NOTES [195 words]: Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands has three verses, all floaters.
Parrish's "Once I went out huntin' I heard a possum sneeze I holler back to Susan Put on de pot o'\npeas" is -- allowing for minor changes -- the same as "Black-Eyed Peas for Luck" in Thomas W.\nTalley, Negro Folk Rhymes (NewYork: Macmillan Company, 1922 ("Digitized by Microsoft")), p.\n200. Parrish's "I went down to Missy house Missy was in bed I took de marrow bone An' beat her in\nde head" is close to the first verse of "Song of the Black Shakers" in 19th Century Songsheets,\nVonWalthour, CDDrive>s>s(74),"Song of the Black Shakers,, unknown publisher, no date [p.\n2725]: "I went down to Sally's house, Sally wasn't home, So I sat in de corner dar An played on de\njaw bone." Finally, Parrish's couplet, "Toad frog sittin' on the railroad track Train come along an'\nbreak his back" is at least reminiscent of "... railroad track ... back" couplets. For example, [so-and-\nso] on the railroad track, hitched/pinned the engine to his back" (see Scarborough-\nOnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 199, "Old Dan Tucker"; Brown/Belden/Hudson-
Ding, Dong, Bell

DESCRIPTION: "Ding, dong, bell, Pussy's in the well." Johnny Green (or Tam Linn) put her in. Tommy Stout pulls her out. "What a naughty boy was that, To try to drown poor pussy cat, Who never did him any harm, And killed the mice in his father's barn"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1784 (Gammar Gurton's Garland, according to Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes)
KEYWORDS: rescue animal youth
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 190, "The Cat's in the Well" (1 text)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 134, "Ding, dong, bell" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #43, p. 56, "(Ding dong bell)"
Jack-PopGoesTheWeasel, p. 29, "Ding, Dong, Bell" (1 short text)
Dolby-OrangesAndLemons, p. 97, "Ding, Dong, Bell, Pussy's in the Well" (1 text)
Roud #12853
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Dingle Dingle Doosey" ("cat's in the well" lyric)
NOTES [84 words]: The Baring-Goulds report that Katherine Elwes Thomas believed this to come from Bristol, where there was a tradition of ringing the city bells at any excuse. A plausible speculation, but no more.
The Opies, more reasonably, link this to an item in Ravenscroft's 1609 Pammelia, There are some similarities in the lyrics, but not enough to prove identity, I think. Similarly, the Opies note several uses of the phrase "Ding, dong, bell" in Shakespeare. There might be a link, but we can't prove it.

Dingle Dingle Doosey

DESCRIPTION: "Dingle, dingle, doosey, The cat's in the well; The dog's away to Bellingen, To buy the barn a bell"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1810 (Ritson)
KEYWORDS: nonballad animal dog baby
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 175, "Round, Round Rosie" (1 text)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 135, "Dingle dingle doosey" (2 texts)
ADDITIONAL: Joseph Ritson, Gammer Gurton's Garland (Glasgow, 1866 (reprinted from London, 1810 edition)), p. 47, ("Dingle, dingle, doosey") (1 text)
Roud #15524
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ding, Dong, Bell" ("cat's in the well" lyric)
NOTES [31 words]: The current description is all of the Ritson text.
Ritson: "This is a Scottish ditty, on whirling round a piece of lighted paper to the child. The paper is called the dingle doosey." - BS

Dingle Puck Goat, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer goes to Puck Fair in Dingle and buys a goat, jumps on its back, grabs its horns and has a fantastic ride. They cross the sea and are attacked by fish. They return through Dink's Blues

DESCRIPTION: "Some folks say dat de worry blues ain' bad, It's de wors' ol' feelin' I ever had." The singer details (her) life: "If trouble was money, I'd be a millionaire." "I used to love you, but oh, God damn you now." "Take a worried man to sing de worried song."
Dink's Song

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: Fare thee well/Oh, honey, fare thee well." Floating verses: "If I had wings like Noah's dove/I'd fly 'cross the river to the man I love"; "When I wore my apron low..." "One of these days... You'll look for me, and I'll be gone"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (collected by John Lomax)
KEYWORDS: nonballad lyric pregnancy love separation floatingverses
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 21, "Dink's Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 195-196, "Dink's Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 88, "Dink's Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 186, "Dink's Song" (1 text)
DT, DINKSONG*
ADDITIONAL: Francis L. Utley, "'The Genesis and Revival of 'Dink's Song,'" article published 1966 in _Studies in Language and Literature in Honor of Margaret Schlauch_; republished on pp. 122-137 of Norm Cohen, editor, _All This for a Song_, Southern Folklife Collection, 2009
Roud #10057
RECORDINGS:
Pete Seeger, "Dink's Song" (on PeteSeeger24)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Careless Love" (floating lyrics)
cf. "Waly Waly (The Water is Wide)" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [110 words]: While this shares a great deal of material with the cross-referenced songs, the unique tune and chorus make me believe it deserves a separate entry. - PJS
It is, however, so close to "Careless Love" in its text that I may have classified some versions there. The reader is advised to check the entries for both songs. Given that it comes from the Lomaxes, I'm not sure I trust its origin, either. Supposedly it was collected from a prostitute who called herself "Dink."
Utley's article is less about Dink and the Lomaxes than about how the song was modified by performers in the folk revival -- an interesting commentary on what performers can do to a song. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.6
File: PSAFB088
Dinky Die

DESCRIPTION: A bloody soldier returned from France is berated by a lance corporal from headquarters for appearing in public in a disheveled uniform. The soldier is awarded a medal for kicking the corporal in the ass.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (Lahey, "Australian Favorite Ballads," according to Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook)

KEYWORDS: army soldier abuse

FOUND IN: Australia Britain(England) US New Zealand

REFERENCES (3 citations):

- Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 403-404, "Dinky Die" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook, pp. 112-113, "The Lousy Lance Corporal" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Ward-PenguinBookOfAustralianBallads, pp. 240-241, "The Digger's London Leave" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Vilikens and his Dinah (William and Dinah) [Laws M31A/B]" (tune & meter) and references there

ALTERNATE TITLES:

Dinki-Di

NOTES [102 words]: Davey/Seal, p. 88, say this song originated in World War I, and derived from another song, "Horseferry Road." In World War II, it acquired a chorus, "Dinki-di, Dinky-di, I am a digger and I won't tell a lie." How much of this history applies to the whole song, and how much is specific to the Australian version, is not clear to me.

NewZealandDictionary, p. 75, offers this for "dinky-di":

1. adverb. Also dinky-die, and elaborated to dinky die do. Truly, certainly. 1987 Norgrove

   Shoestring Sailors 'This is straight up, Blue?' 'Absolutely dinky-die!'

2. noun. The diamond in the game of 'Crown and Anchor'. - RBW

Bibliography

- Davey/Seal: Gwenda Beed Davey and Graham Seal, A Guide to Australian Folklore, Kangaroo Press, 2003

Last updated in version 5.2

File: EM403

---

Dinna Think, Bonny Lassie, I'm Gaun to Leave You

DESCRIPTION: He says he's going but will "come again and see thee." She asks him to "stay this night wi' your love" He says he'll only be gone "a night and hauf a day." She insists he stay. He does, "and never leave[s] my dearie"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1854 (_The Illustrated Book of Scottish Songs ..._)

KEYWORDS: love separation dialog

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):

- Greig/Duncan8 1519, "Dinna Think, Bonny Lassie, I'm Gaun to Leave You" (1 fragment)
- ADDITIONAL: The Illustrated Book of Scottish Songs from the Sixteenth to the Nineteenth Century, (London, 1854 ("Digitized by Google")), pp. 69-70, "Dinna Think, Bonnie Lassie"
  Roud #12948

NOTES [27 words]: Concerning _The Illustrated Book of Scottish Songs ..._: "Anonymous, but attributed to Hector Macnell, though not included by him in the collection of his works." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD81519
Dip Dem (Dip Them)
DESCRIPTION: Jamaican patois: The preacher Bedwud is implored to "dip dem [people who need healing] in the healing stream ... to cure bad feelin." Maladies and people cured are named.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (WILBennett01)
KEYWORDS: river healing ritual moniker nonballad clergy
FOUND IN: West Indies (Jamaica)
RECORDINGS:
Louise Bennett, "Dip Dem" (on WILBennett01)
NOTES [65 words]: Bennett says: "Bedwud' was a religious maniac who used to baptise his followers every Sunday morning in the Mona River."
The tune is close to "Ain't Gonna Rain No More." - BS
Although the obvious thought here is of baptism, I'm also reminded of the story of Naaman the Syrian leper in 2 Kings chapter 5. The prophet Elisha told him to wash himself seven times in the Jordan to be cured. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.7
File: RcDipDem

Dip Me in de Golden Sea
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, I long for to reach dat hebenly shore, To dip in de golden sea; To meet old Peter a standing in de door, To dip in de golden sea." "Den dip me, bathe me, sisters, you and me, Come get in de boat, for we all gwine float," and meet only Baptists
AUTHOR: Words: Edward Harrigan / Music: Harrigan and/or David Braham (?)
EARLIEST DATE: 1881
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad sea
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Finson-Edward-Harrigan-David-Braham, vol. I, #68, pp. 251-252, "Dip Me in de Golden Sea" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #V40163 and 20892
RECORDINGS:
Frank and Jame McCravy (The McCravy Brothers), "Dip Me in the Golden Sea" (Victor V-40026, 1928?)
NOTES [220 words]: For background on Harrigan and Braham, see the notes to "The Babies on Our Block."
I would never have guessed that this would turn traditional -- Edward Harrigan was certainly not a Baptist, and may well have been an atheist, so he wasn't writing a heart-felt religious song! -- but the McCravy Brothers song looks as if it at least borrowed some of Harrigan and Braham's words. And it did well enough to have sheet music published in Canada as well as the United States. The Braham/Harrigan song is Roud V40163; the McCravy song is Roud 20892, John Franceschina, David Braham: The American Offenbach, Routledge, 2003, p. 154, calls this David Braham's "first pseudo-spiritual... a nonsense jubilee song and chorus set to words by Edward Harrigan and published in 1881." He adds that the Braham spirituals "Anticipat[ed] the twentieth-century variety of 'white' spirituals ('Blow, Gabriel, Blow,' 'Hallelujah,' "Great Day")."
Last updated in version 5.2
File: HaBrDMGS

Dirty Mistreatin' Women
DESCRIPTION: "A dollar's roun' goes from han' to han'. Jes' de way dese women goes from man to man." The singer complains about women's ways, describes how his woman throws him out, contemplates suicide, warns other men that he could pursue their women
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934
Dirty Wife, The
DESCRIPTION: A wife keeps a dirty home, does not darn the holes in her husband's socks, leaves the "woollen duds and flannel" in the was tubs and does not clean the blankets until after eleven; "it's tryin' But I daurna say nae mair"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan7)
KEYWORDS: nonballad husband wife clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1506, "The Dirty Wife" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
Roud #7167
File: GrD71506

Dis Morning
DESCRIPTION: "Dis mornin' I get up and puts on my Sunday clothes, and down de street I goes. I meets old Brother Mose; He hits men on my nose, And dat's all I knows."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1919 (Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5)
KEYWORDS: fight clothes
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 739, "Dis Morning" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #17901
NOTES [50 words]: The description is based on the Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 fragment. The informant said he heard it at a minstrel show, which I readily believe; this sounds like a part of a skit in which a member of the troupe is having to explain to a policeman how an altercation came about. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.1
File: BrS4739

Dis Time o' de Night
DESCRIPTION: The singer asks the "young gal" what she is doing out in the yard "dis time o' de night." The white (overseer) will lose his job. White men can't marry a black woman and their children are neither white nor black.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Elder-FolksongsFromTobago)
KEYWORDS: marriage sex warning childbirth nonballad bastard Black(s)
FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Elder-FolksongsFromTobago 32, "Dis Time o' de Night" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: ElTo032

Disappointed Lover (I), The
DESCRIPTION: "Once I courted a pretty little Miss, I courted her for my own... She's taken flight and she's gone." "I walked up and down, just like a man in a haze." When she sees him, she gives a kind smile but no more. He warns her new man to treat her well
AUTHOR: unknown
Discharged Drummer, The

DESCRIPTION: A drummer proposes to a Bristol lady of sixteen that she enlist in the regiment to follow him. She proposes instead that she buy his discharge and that they marry. He agrees "and now he's knocked off playing Among his comrades all"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: marriage soldier money
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 75, "The Discharged Drummer" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Roud #2303
File: KaNew075

Disconsolate Judy's Lamentation for the Absence of Her True Love

DESCRIPTION: "Come pity me, young maidens all... My love was pressed away to sea, And is on bord the Victory." When he left, he told her it was a safe ship and "Brave Balchen is a gallant man." But her love has not come back; she is still waiting

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Firth)
KEYWORDS: sailor death separation
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Oct 3, 1744 - Loss of the _Victory_ and her entire crew, including Admiral John Balchen
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 41, "Disconsolate Judy' Lamentation" (1 text)
Roud #V10597
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Loss of the Victory Man-of-War" (subject of the loss of the Victory)
File: PaSe041

Disconsolate Maid, The

DESCRIPTION: "As near to Portsmouth dock I stray'd," the singer hears a woman lament that her love has been transported to Botany Bay. He had fought for the king, but it didn't matter. The singer tries to speak to her, but she declares that she will follow her love

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1816 (Anderson-FarewellToOldEngland)
KEYWORDS: separation transportation soldier
FOUND IN:
Discovery of Newfoundland

DESCRIPTION: "The shades of Eve were falling o'er Atlantic's silent breast Around the 'Cabot Landfall' the wavelets lay at rest." The singer describes the Irish who explored Newfoundland. "Pat O'Dady" complains that Cabot got the credit for an Irish discovery

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland, 1st edition)
KEYWORDS: Canada humorous home travel
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1497- John Cabot's voyage
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Roud #7293
File: Doyl4072

Discussion Between Church and Chapel, A

DESCRIPTION: Singer overhears Cork chapel and Shandon Church arguing. Church blames chapel for convincing people to leave Ireland. Chapel blames Church for "tithes and taxes" and prophesizes "tithes and taxes will be defeated" and freedom will return after 500 years

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c.1830 (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)
KEYWORDS: Ireland prophecy nonballad political religious money
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 37, "A Discussion Between Church and Chapel" (2 texts)
Roud #V4224
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth c.26(159), "Church and Chapel," J.O. Bebbington (Manchester), 1855-1858; also 2806 b.10(162), 2806 b.10(46), Firth b.25(326), "A Discussion Between the Church and Chapel";
Harding B 26(136), "A Discussion Between a Church and a Chapel"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Battle of Carrickshock" (subject: The Tithe War) and references there
ALTERNATE TITLES:
A Dialogue Between Church and Chapel
NOTES [162 words]: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion, quoting English As We Speak it in Ireland by Joyce: "All through Ireland it is customary to call a Protestant place of worship a 'church', and that belonging to Roman Catholics a 'chapel'." [This presumably because the Anglican faith was the official and legal Church of Ireland; Catholic services were often held in any place they could find. - RBW]
The context is "The Tithe War": O'Connell's Catholic Association was formed in 1823 to resist the requirement that Irish Catholics pay tithes to the Anglican Church of Ireland. The "war" was passive for most of the period 1823-1836, though there were violent incidents in 1831 (source: The Irish Tithe War 1831 at the OnWar.com site). [In the Index, see "The Battle of Carrickshock" for more on the Tithe War.]
Zimmermann prints a variant of the prophecy in which "base heresy" is defeated and freedom will return after 300 years. The Bodleian broadsides illustrate both prophecies. - BS
Last updated in version 5.0
File: Zimm037
Disguised Sailor (The Sailor's Misfortune and Happy Marriage; The Old Miser) [Laws N6]

DESCRIPTION: When a girl's father cannot talk her out of marrying a sailor, the father has the boy pressed. The girl follows in disguise; they wind up in the same bunk. At length she reveals herself. They return home. The girl's father has died; they are married

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1864 (broadside, LOCSinging as200940)

KEYWORDS: courting sailor pressgang father disguise marriage

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar, Newf) Britain(England,Scotland) Ireland US(MW) Australia

REFERENCES (13 citations):
- Laws N6, "Disguised Sailor (The Sailor's Misfortune and Happy Marriage; The Old Miser)"
- Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #114, p. 1, "In Fair London City" (1 text)
- Greig/Duncan1 174, "Merchant's Daughter and Her Sailor" (4 texts, 1 tune); Greig/Duncan1 175, "In Fair London City" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 50, "The Bonny Lighter Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 59, "The Bonny Lighter Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H108a, pp. 329-330, "The Rich Merchant's Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 146-147, "Disguised Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune, considered "confused" by Laws)
- Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 35, "The Lady and the Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 47, "The Press Gang" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 62, "The Weaver is Handsome" (2 texts, 1 tune, both short and both starting with variants "I am a young girl and my fortune is sad"); both seem confused and neither contains the complete plot, but "A" at least has the father's feigned consent and the press gang; "B" has the dressing in men's clothes
- Ashton-RealSailorSongs, #55, "The Sailor's Misfortune and Happy Marriage" (1 text)
- Scott-ACollectorsNotebook-31TraditionalSongs, p. 33, "Colomba's Sweet Shore" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT 742, DISGSAIL

RECORDINGS:
- Gerald Aylward, "Lady and Sailor" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Harding B 19(40), "The Lady and Sailor" ("There was a rich merchant in London did dwell"), W. Birmingham (Dublin), c.1867 ; also 2806 c.15(59), Firth c.12(252), "The Lady and Sailor"
- LOCSinging, as200940, "The Farmer's Daughter" ("It is of a rich farmer, I dare not tell his name"), H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "There Was an Old Miser"
- cf. "Jack Monroe (Jackie Frazer; The Wars of Germany)" [Laws N7]
- cf. "James and Flora (Flora and Jim, The United Lovers)"

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- There Was a Rich Merchant
- The Rich Merchant's Daughter
- The Hills o' Traquair

NOTES [98 words]: [In Sharp's version,] the plot is fragmentary; the girl's father has the boy pressed, and he pledges his undying love. That's all. - PJS

The general plot in Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland, Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast and the Bodleian "The Lady and Sailor" broadsides agrees but the couple get married, go to "Columbia's [or England's] fair shore" and don't return home. - BS

Last updated in version 5.0

File: LN06
Dismasting of the Cummings, The DESCRIPTION: "In 1884, upon the first of May, The schooner M. J. Cummings from Oswego sailed away." A day later, a storm blows up. She is feared lost. It turns out she has lost her masts, but the crew survives. The singer wishes success to the rebuilt ship
AUTHOR: possibly Thomas Peckham
EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (collected from John S. Parsons by Walton)
KEYWORDS: ship wreck rescue
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 209-211, "The Dismasting of the Cummings" (1 text)
Roud #19873
File: WGM209

Distant Land to Roam, A
DESCRIPTION: "I remember very well One dark and (dreary) day" when the singer set out for "A distant land to roam." He recalls mother bidding him goodbye and hoping to see him again in a year. But she dies before he returns; he says he will remember her words
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (recording, The Carter Family)
KEYWORDS: mother separation death
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II, p. 201 (1931), "(The Wanderer)" (1 text)
ST FORA201 (Partial)
Roud #17234
RECORDINGS:
The Carter Family, "A Distant Land to Roam" (Victor 40255/Bluebird5433/Montgomery Ward 7020, 1929)
File: FORA201

Distressed Men of War
DESCRIPTION: "Says, Jack, 'There is very good news; there is peace both by land and sea" and the fleet will be disbanded. But the officers are unhappy. The purser is content with the money he has stolen. Others tell what they will do. Jack will turn highwayman
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1803 (broadside Bodleian Firth c.13(262))
KEYWORDS: sailor war money hardtimes work outlaw
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 79, "Distressed Men of War" (1 text)
Roud #V31259
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth c.13(262) "Distressed Men of War," J. Davenport (London) 1800-1802
File: PaSe079

District Attorney Blues
DESCRIPTION: "District attorney sure is hard on a man. He will take a woman's man and leave her cold in hand." Verses all start by calling the D.A. "hard on a man." He exiles men to "some distant land." "He ain't no woman, but he sure will take a woman's man."
AUTHOR: Booker T. Washington "Bukka" White
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (recording, Booker T. Washington "Bukka" White)
KEYWORDS: hardtimes separation prison lawyer nonballad
FOUND IN:
Diverting Show, The

DESCRIPTION: A weaver's apprentice falls in love with a girl he sees at a show. The next day he meets her employer. She takes him to her maid who refuses the weaver's advances because he is an apprentice. But she would marry him "when ye win free" He is delighted.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1911 (Greig/Duncan4)
KEYWORDS: courting love weaving apprentice servant
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #170, p. 1, "The Apprentice" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan4 886, "The Diverting Show" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6230
File: GrD4886

Dives and Lazarus [Child 56]

DESCRIPTION: Poor Lazarus comes to the rich man's door. The rich man (Dives/Diveres/Diverus) refuses to offer charity. Lazarus dies and is rewarded after death; the rich man suffers eternal punishment

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1871 (Bramley & Stainer)
KEYWORDS: religious poverty punishment Hell
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,West)) US(Ap,SE)
REFERENCES (19 citations):
Child 56, "Dives and Lazarus" (2 texts)
Bronson 56, "Dives and Lazarus" (13 versions, but #10-#12, given in an appendix, are "Lazarus (I)," and #9, a tune with no text, might also be something else)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 56, "Dives and Lazarus" (4 versions: #1, #3, #5, #13)
Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, pp. 102-103, "Lazarus" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leather-FolkLoreOfHerefordshire, pp. 190-191, "Dives and Lazarus" (1 text plus some excerpts, 2 tunes)
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 107, "Dives and Lazarus" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #6}
Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #42, "Dives and Lazarus" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #3}
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 177-179, "Dives and Lazarus" (1 text)
Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland2, pp. 74-75, "Dives and Lazarus" (a few scraps of text, which Flanders places with Child #56 though none of the lines is characteristic of that song and one -- "even the whelps can eat crumbs" -- is not even part of the tale of Lazarus)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol1, pp. 41-44, "Dives and Lazarus" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dearmer/VaughnWilliams/Shaw-OxfordBookOfCarols 57, "Dives and Lazarus" (1 text, 2 tunes)
{First Tune=Bronson's #3; Second Tune=Bronson's #1}
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 109, Dives and Lazarus"" (1 text)
Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 24, "Dives and Lazarus" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 153, "Dives and Lazarus" (1 text)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 33-34, "Diverus and Lazarus" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 583-584, "Dives and Laz'us" (1 text)
DT 56, DIVRLAZ*
ADDITIONAL: William Henry Husk, editor, Songs of the Nativity (London, 1884? ("Digitized by Microsoft")), pp. 95-97, ("As It Fell Out Upon a Day") (1 text)
Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham_, Broadside, 1977, pp. 166-167, "Dives and Lazarus" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #477
RECORDINGS:
Aunt Molly Jackson, "Lazarus" (AFS; on LC57)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Lazarus and the Rich Man" (subject)
cf. "Lazarus (I)" (subject)
cf. "Poor Old Lazarus (I've Got a Home; Don't You See)" (subject)
cf. "The Rich Man and Lazarus" (subject)
cf. "Tramp on the Street" (subject)
cf. "The Rich Man and the Poor Man" (theme)
cf. "The Star of the County Down" (tune) and references there

NOTES [240 words]: There are a number of short pieces listed in the Stationer's Register under the title "Dives and Lazarus" or something similar. The earliest seems to be one titles "Dyves and Lazerus" registered in 1570/1571 to William Pickering (see Hyder E. Rollins, An Analytical Index to the Ballad-Entries (1557-1709) In the Register of the Company of Stationers of London, 1924 (I use the 1967 Tradition Press reprint with a new Foreword by Leslie Shepard), #614, p. 58). But there is no way to know if this or any of the other pieces is this song.

Jesus's story of the rich man and Lazarus -- which, be it noted, was a warning, not a description of an actual event -- is found in Luke 16:19-31 (the Lazarus of John 11, 12 is unrelated). The name "Dives/Divers" from the Latin dives, rich/rich man.

The Lomaxes seem to regard their text, "Dives and Laz'us," as a "Dives and Lazarus" variant. This seems rather a stretch -- the song is about Lazarus, but the form does not much resemble the Child ballad. But I have seen nothing similar elsewhere. Given the undeniable possibility of Lomax editorial work, I give in and list the song here.

In the folk revival, this song is most commonly sung to the tune of "The Star of the County Down." Most of the tunes in Bronson, however, are not of this type; indeed, the majority are in two, not three. - RBW

Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs speculates that the tune given might belong with the text. - BS

Last updated in version 6.0
File: C056

Dividing Line, The

DESCRIPTION: "There's a line that divides all the people on earth From a life of sin and a life of true worth...." Sinners are exhorted to turn to God and "cross that dividing line." They are warned that it will be too late if they wait for God's revelation

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: religious sin
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 646, "The Dividing Line" (1 text)
Roud #7567
NOTES [21 words]: The story of Elijah's being carried into heaven occupies 2 Kings 2:1-12, with his actual departure taking place in 2:11. - RBW
File: R646

Dixie

DESCRIPTION: "I wish I was in the land of cotton...." A blackface-dialect song praising southern life and the conditions the slaves endured. Such plot as it has revolves around Old Missus, who married Will the Weaver, a "gay deceiver"

AUTHOR: Daniel Decatur Emmett
EARLIEST DATE: 1860 (see notes)
KEYWORDS: courting patriotic nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (22 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 531-533, "Dixie" (1 text plus one extra verse, 1 tune)
Jackson-PopularSongsOfNineteenthCenturyAmerica, pp. 61-64, "Dixie's Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Arnett-IHearAmericaSinging, p. 76-77, "Dixie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfSouthernFolklore, p. 713, "Dixie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 424-425, "Dixie" (2 texts, 1 tune -- text given has the standard Dixie chorus but bawdy & nonsensical lyrics)
Hill-PoemsAndSongsOfTheCivilWar, p. 221, "Dixie" (1 text); also two adaptions: pp. 198-199, "Dixie" (1 text, by Albert Pike; for other versions see the Same Tune field); p. 222, "Dixie" (1 text, a Union version by John Savage)
Krythe-SamplerOfAmericanSongs 6, pp. 100-112, "Dixie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 59-61, "Dixie's Land" (1 text, 1 tune); also p. 62, "Dixie" (the Pike adaption) (1 text); p. 63 "The Officers of Dixie" (1 text); p. 64, "Union Dixie" (1 text)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #487, p. 32, "Dixie's Land" (3 references)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 45, "Dixie" (1 text)
Gilbert-LostChords, pp. 13-16, "(Dixie)" (several fragmentary sets of later words plus a description of the dance)
Emerson-StephenFosterAndCo, pp. 36-37, "I Wish I Was in Dixie's Land" (1 text)
Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #157, "Dixie's Land" (1 text, adapted to be used as a children's game)
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 192, "Dixie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Messerli-ListenToTheMockingbird, pp. 100-101, "Dixie" (1 text)
Heart-Songs, pp. 166-167, "Dixie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #17, "Dixie" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 196-199+, "Dixie"
Colonial-Dames-AmericanWarSongs, pp. 139-140, "Dixie's Land" (1 text)
DT, DIXIELND*
ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), pp. 163-164, "(Dixie)" (1 text plus extensive notes on pp. 164-166); also the Pike adaption on pp. 225-226
Harry Dichter and Elliott Shapiro, _Early American Sheet Music: Its Lure and Its Lore, 1768-1889_, R. R. Bowker, 1941, plate 26, shows the original sheet music cover
ST LxA531 (Full)
Roud #8231
RECORDINGS:
Earl Johnson & his Dixie Entertainers, "Dixie" (OKeh 45129, 1927)
Kessinger Brothers, "Dixie" (Brunswick 518, c. 1931)
Peerless Quartet, "Dixie" (Superior [Pathé] 1, 1922)
Red Mountain Trio, "Dixie" (Columbia 15369-D, 1929; rec. 1928)
[Frank] Stanley & [Henry] Burr, "Dixie" (Columbia A696, 1909)
Gid Tanner & his Skillet Lickers, "Dixie" (Columbia 15158-D, 1927)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Woodpecker's Hole" (tune)
cf. "A Horse Name Bill" (tune)
cf. "Crazy Song to the Air of 'Dixie'" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
Crazy Song to the Air of "Dixie" (File: San342)
A Horse Named Bill (File: San340)
Ernest V. Stoneman, "Dixie Parody" (OKeh 40430, 1925)
The Officers of Dixie (Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, p. 63)
Union Dixie (Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, p. 64)
Dis-Union Dixie Land/The New Dixie ("I'm glad I'm not in de land ob cotton") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 32)
"Dixie" Union-ized ("Oh I'm glad I live in a land of freedom") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 32)
Dixie's Land #4 ("I wish I was in Baltimore"); Dixie's Land #5 ("Come, Patriots all who hate oppression) (both listed on Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 33)
Our Yankee Generals ("We are all for the Constitution") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 122)
At Chicago they selected Lincoln, who will be elected (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 345)
I Wish I Was in Dixie Corrected Edition! ("Come along, boys, come out in the fields") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 352)

Dixie for the Union ("Oh! ye patriots to the battle, Hear Fort Moultrie's cannon rattle") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 353)

Dixie's Land ("I wish I was in de land of cotton, 'Cimmon seed 'an sandy bottom") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 353)

Stars & Stripes ("Arise! ye brace and how your hand") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets pp. 151-152)

We'll Vote for Hayes and Wheeler ("In the land of corn and the land of cotton, Democrats are rife and rotten") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 460)

The Traitor's Land ("Away down south in the land of traitors") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 159)

Uncle Sam and Betsy ("Our country' cause is in a fix") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 161)

Union Song. Bell and Everett Campaign Song ("The wide-awakes they like to bluster") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 163)

We're Marching down to Dixie's Land ("Good news, good news, from Dixie's Land") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 172)

Wide-Awakes, The Irrepressible's Campaign Song ("We'll give you now our campaign song," by John W. Dawson) (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 178)

The Song of the Exile ("Oh, here I am in the land of cotton") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 194)

Hurrah for Hokitika ("The West Coast puts folks in a fright, It slews 'em when they first catch sight Of the sand") (by Charles R. Thatcher) (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 136)

NOTES [968 words]: Although forever to be associated with the Confederate states, "Dixie" was a favorite of President Lincoln, and was often played by Union bands during the war. It could literally be regarded as having been "stolen" by the south; the first certain publication of the piece was by a New Orleans firm in 1860, but Emmett was neither credited nor consulted -- nor, apparently, paid. (The piece was registered in 1859, but no copies of the relevant printing -- if there was one -- have survived. Gilbert-LostChords reports that Emmett's total lifetime payment for the song was the $300 he received for the copyright.)

The origin of the term "Dixie" is uncertain, but it is believed to be associated with the Mason-Dixon line. Not that there haven't been other proposals offered! Nettel, p. 176, gives two explanations for the name, both of which file under "absurd." In one, there was a slave-owner in New York who, thinking in 1860 that Abraham Lincoln would become president, sent his slaves south, and the slaves were wishing they were in New York (which, in this version, was Dixie), because they were treated better there. But, of course, slavery was illegal in New York in 1860. Nettel story #2 is that Emmett, feeling unwell in the north, saw a piece of currency from a southern bank which read "Dix," and so he wished he were in the land of Dix -- Dixieland. - RBW

It should also be noted that Dan Emmett was an abolitionist. -PJS

And, of course, a Northerner. He even produced a "northern" set of lyrics, though neither they nor any of the other "northern" texts took hold. Publication data for "Northern" editions can be found in Dichter/Shapiro, p. 107.

It is interesting to see the notes on the publication of this song in Dichter/Shapiro, pp. 105-106. There were at least three 1860 editions, two northern ones published by Firth, Pond & Co. of New York and a southern one by P. P. Werlein of New Orleans. The northern editions give the first line as "I wish I was in de land of cotton." The southern edition clean up the dialect: "I wish I was in the land of cotton." Dichter/Shapiro note on p. 106, "The front covers of the two pirated or unauthorized editions [i.e. those by Werlein] credit two different authors, and do not mention Dan Emmett.... The story is that Emmett sent the words and music down to New Orleans to Billy Newcomb, the minstrel, and somehow or other a copy of the manuscript fell into the hands of Werlein, who published it, believing that it was no-one's property." They suggest that the first publication of "Dixie" was a broadside, which we might suspect was printed in 1859.

There were also southern rewrites (Dichter/Shapiro, p. 108); the earliest of these, from 1860, begins "Oh Dixie am de paradise!" (sic.).

Abel, devotes a whole chapter (chapter 2, pp. 27-51) to "Dixie" and data about its history. He affirms on p. 31 the report that Emmett sold all rights to Firth and Pond in 1860 for $300. There were many disputes about authorship thereafter (continuing well into the twentieth century), but Emmett's claim was upheld in all the cases that mattered. Few of the others who claimed authorship were in any way noteworthy, but one was that other great nineteenth century composer, Will S. Hays.

Finson, p. 195, says that Dixie "gathers many threads from the preceding three decades of blackface. In 1858 Emmett left White's Serenaders to join Bryant's Minstrels. He wrote a good deal for this company established by three brothers, Dan, Jerry, and Neil, who also did immigrant impersonations, especially of Irishment. 'Old K. Y. Ky.,' "Dar's a Darkey in de Tent, 'Billy Patterson," 'Jack on the Green,' and 'Darrow-Arrow' all came from Emmett's last flowering as a songwriter, and issued during the 1860s from the presses of Firth, Pond and Company."

The idea for the song supposedly came to Emmett one day in 1859. He was supposed to write a song, but nothing came to him. On a gloomy day, he muttered to himself, "I wish I was in Dixie," and the whole song flowed from that (Abel, p. 30).

Some of it is pastiche. The second verse, about "Will the Wever," reportedly comes from the song "Gombo Chaff" (Finson, p. 196), which was from the repertoire of Thomas D. Rice, the original Jim Crow. The final verse, about "buckwheat cakes and 'Injun batter,"" is specifically tied to the steps of the walkaround.

According to Finson, p. 177, although there were blackface minstrels before Emmett (see, e.g., the notes on Thomas D. Rice under "Jump Jim Crow"), "The Virginia Minstrels generally received credit as the first coherent [blackface minstrel] troupe. It included four members who had been engaged in solo or duo blackface performances for some time: William Whitlock on bajo, Richard Pehlam on tambourine, Frank Brower on bones... and Daniel Emmett on fiddle." Emmett reported that the four came together, essentially by chance, at the North American Hotel in the Bowery in New York in 1843. They went to "Uncle" Nate Howes of the nearby Bowery Circus, and after some putzing around, sang "Old Dan Tucker." The rest is musical history.

Williams, p. 65, says that Emmett was "an Irish American from Mount Vernon, Ohio," and points out that he wrote Irish dialect songs as well as minstrel songs, although it doesn't seem as if any of the Irish songs took off. But there was probably some Irish influence even on the songs he did in blackface.

Emmett himself "hadn't been south of the Mason-Dixon line since 1847 and didn't return until the 1890s" (Abel, p. 45). By 1865, unable to find work in New York, he moved to Chicago, but lost his voice in 1867. He earned a little money as a fiddler, then late in life began, in effect, exhibiting himself as the composer of Dixie (Abel, pp. 45-46). Awarded a modest pension by the Actor's Fund of America, he died in 1904. - RBW

Bibliography

- Abel: E. Lawrence Abel, Singing the New Nation: How Music Shaped the Confederacy, 1861-1865, Stackpole, 2000
- Nettel: Reginald Nettel, Seven Centuries of Popular Song, Phoenix House, 1956
- Williams: William H. A. Williams, 'Twas Only an Irishman’s Dream, University of Illinois Press, 1996

Last updated in version 6.1
File: LxA531

Dixie Brown [Laws D7]

DESCRIPTION: Arriving in (San Francisco), a sailor goes on a spree and ends up broke. He is taken in by [Dixie] Brown, who alleges he owes a score and uses that as a lever to force him back to sea. The sailor warns others to avoid the sea and this sort of trap

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1923
KEYWORDS: sailor poverty robbery shanghaiing
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (9 citations):
Laws D7, "Dixie Brown"
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 107-109, "Off to Sea Once More" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 96, "Dixie Brown" (1 text)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 581-585, "We'll Go To Sea No More," "Go To Sea No More," "Go To Sea Once More," "Off To Sea Once More" (4 texts, 3 tunes - the last tune given the name "The Flying Cloud" and listed without a text) [AbEd, pp. 402-406]
Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, p. 72, "Go to Sea No More" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 124, "Off to Sea Once More" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 494-496, "Jack Wrack" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 140-141, "Off to Sea Once More" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 702, GOTOSEA
Roud #644
RECORDINGS:
A.L. Lloyd, "Off to Sea Once More" (on Lloyd9)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Sailor's Way" (tune)
cf. "Gold Watch" [Laws K41] (plot) and references there
cf. "Jolly Sailors Bold (I)" (lyrics)
cf. "Pretty Girls of Liverpool" (lyrics)
cf. "The River Lea" (plot)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Ben Breezer
Go to Sea Once More

NOTES [647 words]:
Boarding masters was a peculiar occupation which existed primarily in the late days of sail. At a time when casualties among sailors were high (due to injuries, bad diet, desertion, and incompetent skippers), a captain often needed to find new hands quickly. Hence the Boarding Master: He found sailors and gave them a place to stay in return for a fee, taken from the sailor's wages when he shipped out.

The idea wasn't inherently bad -- sailors, after all, did need some place to stay while on shore -- but the way it was implemented was pretty toxic. It was captains who hired the sailors from the boarding master, but the money was taken from the sailor's pay at a fixed rate. Thus there was every incentive for the boarding master to give the sailors the minimum amount of pay and shove them out the door as soon as they could be sobered up.

The practice was so common that rituals evolved around it, the most famous being that of "paying off the dead horse" -- the ceremony sailors performed when they had paid off the advance to the boarding master and finally were able to earn wages for themselves, usually after thirty days (for this, see "Poor Old Man (Poor Old Horse; The Dead Horse)").

There were relatively honest boarding masters, but some of the tricks they pulled were pretty dreadful. "Paddy West" tells of a boarding master who operated by teaching landlubbers to pretend to be sailors. Other boarding masters operated in complicity with captains to kidnap sailors shortly before they were paid off (see for this practice Richard Woodman, A Brief History of Mutiny, Carroll & Graf, 2005, p. 9); the idea was to avoid paying their wages. And the whole system worked because sailors in port were so good at wasting their pay anyway; see, e.g., "Gold Watch" [Laws K41] and the numerous references there to songs such as "Maggie May."

Dixie "Shanghai" Brown was a particularly notorious San Francisco boarding master, noted for not only supplying sailors for the whalers (the least desirable sort of service for a sailor, since it was hard, cold, and dirty) but going so far as to lure, rob, or trick sailors into his hands. Even among San Francisco boarding masters (who in this period were little better than slavers), he stood out as a particularly bad seed.

It should be noted that many versions of this song do not mention San Francisco or Brown; they simply tell of how a sailor arrived in port (often Liverpool), got drunk, spent all his money, and had to return to sea. The line "(he must) go to sea once more," however, seems highly characteristic. - RBW

There was an equally notorious Liverpool boarding master called "Rapper" Brown, whose name is often found in British versions of this song. - PJS

Perhaps more about "crimps" -- "Boarding Masters" -- is in order. "The word 'crimp,' which came into the English language in the 1630s, denoted a person actively associated with military and naval recruitment.... By the middle of the nineteenth century crimping had become a civilian occupation. The crimp was now an agent who procured seamen for captains who needed crews. His rewards were numerous. He took the seaman's advance note, if the seaman was leaving port, and discounted it for him. Any debts the seaman had were paid (lodging, clothing, liquor, etc.) and the crimp demanded a fee for himself. Sometimes the ship's captain also paid a fee (known as 'blood money') in order to obtain a crew. The crimp was often the runner of a boarding house proprietor, if not the keeper of the boarding-house himself, or a publican. He usually made a profit whether seamen were embarking, discharging or spending time ashore. Crimping took place in Australia as it did in most of the principal ports in the northern hemisphere."

[G.R. Henning, "Fourpenny Dark and Sixpenny Red" in Labour History, No. 46 (May 1984 (available online by JSTOR)), pp. 52, 54.] - BS

Last updated in version 5.0
File: LD07

Do 'Round My Lindy

DESCRIPTION: "Do 'round my Lindy, do 'round my Jane, Gonna run away with a pretty little girl...." "My Lindy, she's handsome..., Broke my new suspenders down and sat down on my ..." "Wish I was an alligator... Open up my mouth... and scoot little Lindy in."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1982 (Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices); recorded by Fiddlin' John Carson c. 1925
KEYWORDS: courting animal
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices, p. 212, "Do 'Round My Lindy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #16278
RECORDINGS:
Fiddlin' John Carson, "Do Round My Lindy" (Okeh 45032, 1925?)

NOTES [146 words]: Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices, p. 212, notes that the second verse of this, as recorded, does not rhyme. The verse runs

My Lindy, she's handsome, my Lindy she's stout, Broke my new suspenders down and sat down on my ??
Fiddlin' John Carson recorded the last word as "hat." Rosenbaum's informant Ray Knight sang "hand." Mark Wilson suggested "lap" (and emended "stout" in the first line to "fat"). My first guess was that there was a tradition that gave the last line as "mouth," with sexual implications, and that the various performers bowdlerized it. Ed Cray agrees with the suggestion of bowdlerization, but suggests that the word is "spout," and I personally think this almost certainly correct. I should note, however, that when I asked the Ballad-L list about this, Jonathan Lighter expressed reservations, while John Patrick suggested rhyming "Kerflat" with "lap." - RBW

Last updated in version 2.6
File: Rose212

Do as They Do in France

DESCRIPTION: The singer's step-mother told him as a child, "do as they do in France." Even now, when he needs shoes, or bread, she says "do as they do in France." A friend explains that means "do without." So he joins the navy. "Boys, do as Britons do"

AUTHOR: William Ball (source: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)
EARLIEST DATE: "shortly after 1798" (according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)
KEYWORDS: France patriotic hardtimes poverty navy
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 21, "Do as They Do in France" (1 text)
NOTES [218 words]: The inference is that we should ignore those who would overthrow the king "as they do in France."
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815: Ball is a Dublin loyalist. "The tenor of all his songs is that of an ordinary Irish citizen, loyal to the established order," - BS
The comment that doing as they do in France meaning doing without is of course dead-on accurate: Marie-Antoinette's foolish "Let them eat cake" comment was in response to a report that the peasants had no bread (they had been taxed almost to death to pay for the American war), and the sans-culottes were not so called because they were rich! In a sad irony, the Irish would eventually do as they did in France, in cutting their relations with the British monarch -- after which they followed the worst part of the French model: They killed their first real head of state, Michael Collins, and engaged in a civil war over who would rule the country and how.
William Ball was a writer of humorous verse about Irish history; in this index, see "Cockledemoy (The French Invasion)," "Do as They Do in France," "The Dying Rebel," "Faithless Boney (The Croppies' Complaint)" -- though he doesn't seem to have made much impression on the wider world of literature; I have been unable to find any of his writings in any of my literary references. - RBW
File: Moyl021

Do Let Me Lone, Susan
DESCRIPTION: Shanty. Choruses "Hoo-raw! me loo-loo boys, Do let me lone." Three line verses with the chorus following each. Verses run through different women's names (Susan, Flora, Rosy, etc)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Shanty. Choruses "Hoo-raw! me loo-loo boys, Do let me lone." Three line verses with the chorus following each. Verses run through different women's names (Susan, Flora, Rosy, etc). Verses run as follows: "Do let me lone (Susan), do let me lone. Chorus. I put me arm around Jinny's waist, oh Jinny jumps about. Chorus. When I put me hand on Jinny's head, oh, Jinny jumps away. Chorus."
KEYWORDS: shanty bawdy
FOUND IN: West Indies
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 379-380, "Do Let Me Lone, Susan" (1 text, 1 tune) [AbEd, pp. 287-288]
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Yellow Gals (Doodle Let Me Go)" (similar chorus)
NOTES [34 words]: Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas gives five verses, running through various parts of Jinny's anatomy. He says the rest of the song would eventually refer to ALL parts, and so was considered unprintable. - SL
File: Hugi379

Do Remember
DESCRIPTION: "Old broom sweeps my floor, New broom scratches my floor." Repeat many times "Do remember" and "Do remember me"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands)
KEYWORDS: work nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands 57, pp. 228-231, "Do Remember" (1 text, 1 tune) [AbEd, pp. 287-288]
NOTES [47 words]: The current description is based on the Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands text. Parrish writes, "The words themselves mean little except that their syllables lend themselves to the flat-footed hopping steps which are used to scuff the outer husks of the rice on the floor." - BS
Last updated in version 4.1
File: Parr057

Do They Miss Me at Home?
DESCRIPTION: "Do they miss me at home, do they miss me?" The singer asks for assurance that he is remembered. He recounts various ways people might show how they miss them.
AUTHOR: Words: Caroline Atherton Mason / Music: S. M. Grannis
EARLIEST DATE: 1852 (sheet music published by Oliver Ditson & Co.)
KEYWORDS: home separation loneliness nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Randolph 858, "Do They Miss Me at Home?" (1 text) Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 294-295, "Do They Miss Me At Home?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 131-133, "Do They Miss Me at Home?" (1 text, 1 tune); also p. 133, "Do They Miss Me in the Trenches" (1 text, a parody of the preceding)
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, p. 18, "Do They Miss Me at Home?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #494, p. 33, "Do They Miss Me at Home" (3 references)

DT, DOMISSME*
Roud #4366
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Do They Think of Me at Home?" (subject)
SAME TUNE:
Do They Miss Me in the Trenches (Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, p. 133)
NOTES [47 words]: This is the very first song in Spaeth's chapter "The School of Self-Pity." Which about sums it up.
This and "Do They Think of Me at Home?" are similar enough that Roud, although he gives them two separate numbers, seems to mix them. The verse forms are rather different, though. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
File: R858

Do They Think of Me at Home?

DESCRIPTION: "Do they think of me at home, Do they ever think of me? I who shared their ev'ry grief...." The singer asks if they remember her songs and harp. The singer remembers her lover being rejected. Happy with him now, she still wishes those at home cared AUTHOR: Words: J. E. Carpenter / Music: Charles W. Glover (source: Heart-Songs)
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Heart-Songs)
KEYWORDS: love separation music
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Heart-Songs, p. 430, "Do They Think of Me at Home?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #13939
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Do They Think of Me at Home?" (subject)
NOTES [38 words]: This and "Do They Miss Me at Home?" are similar enough that Roud, although he gives them two separate numbers, seems to mix them. The verse forms are rather different, though. I'm not at all sure that this one is traditional. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
File: HeSo430

Do Thugas Gra Cleibh Duit

DESCRIPTION: Gaelic. "A young man asks a woman's hand in marriage, but she has heard her mother disparaging him. He denies the mother's charges of excessive drinking and music-making in pubs, and promises to change his ways and settle down, but she is not persuaded."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage courting marriage rejection drink music mother
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 53, "Do Thugas Gra Cleibh Duit" (2 texts, 1 tune)
RECORDINGS:
Elizabeth Cronin, "Do Thugas Gra Cleibh Duit" (on IRECronin01)
NOTES [36 words]: The description follows the "English Summary" provided by OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin.
Oisin's tune for "The Cow Ate the Piper" is very close to Elizabeth Cronin's tune for "Do Thugas Gra Cleibh Duit" - BS

Last updated in version 3.2
File: OCC053
Do war ich mol in Schtd Redding (Once I Was in the City of Reading)

DESCRIPTION: German. "Do war ich mol in Schtd Redding, Do war ich net bekannt." The singer, a stranger in the town, is approached by Bully Lyon in Reading. He asks what he has done. He is imprisoned for three years. His wife visits him, and Lyon calls her foolish.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage prison travel husband wife police
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 112-113, "Do war ich mol in Schtd Redding (Once I Was in the City of Reading)" (1 German text plus non-poetic translation, 1 tune)
File: KPL112

Do Ye Mind Lang Syne

DESCRIPTION: "Do ye mind lang syne, When the simmer days were fine, When the sun it shone far brichter than it's ever done sin' syne?" The singer recalls the joys of the old days, and all the youths used to do. Now old, he hopes to awaken on an equally bright Sabbath

AUTHOR: George James Laurie?
EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Ford); Laurie died in 1878
KEYWORDS: youth age nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #135, p. 1, "Lang, Lang Syne" (1 text)
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 190-191, "Do Ye Mind Lang Syne" (1 text)
Roud #6322
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Lang Lang Syne
File: FVS190

Do You Live By Prayer?

DESCRIPTION: "Do you live by prayer?" "Yes I live by prayer." "Remember me?" "Have you passed here before?" "Yes I have passed here before." "When I can read my title clear To mansions in the skies," then I'll bid farewell, wipe my tears, and smile at Satan's rage.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Devil floatingverses
FOUND IN: West Indies(Bahamas)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories 27, "Do You Live By Prayer?" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [12 words]: The description is based on the Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories text. - BS
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Edwa027

Do You Love an Apple?

DESCRIPTION: The girl loves an uncaring man. She details her abuses ("When I was single, I wore a black shawl; now I'm married, it's overalls," etc.), always ending, "Still I love him, I'll forgive him (or "cannot deny him"), I'll go with him wherever he goes."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (recording, Phil Hammond)
KEYWORDS: love abuse poverty hardtimes
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,North),Scotland(Aber)) Ireland
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 203, "He Comes Down our Alley" (1 text, 1 tune)
OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart2 50, "Still I Love Him" (1 text, 1 tune)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 30, "Still I Love Him" (1 text, 1 tune)
Do Your Balls Hang Low?

DESCRIPTION: Encouragement to sexual activity: The listener is encouraged to "find a woman if you can. If you can't find a woman, find a clean old man." The remainder of the song is devoted to the characteristics of the listener's scrotum

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1903 (Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren)

KEYWORDS: bawdy nonballad sex

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #24, "Do, Do, Pity my Case" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, p. 805, "Do, Do Pity My Case" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST BAF805 (Full)

Roud #11590

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ransum Scansum" (lyrics)
cf. "The Closet Key" (lyrics)
cf. "In Some Lady's Garden (I)" (lyrics)
cf. "In Some Lady's Garden (II)" (lyrics)

NOTES [51 words]: There is a whole complex of "In Some Lady's Garden" songs (see the cross-references), many if not most surely related. And many of them seem to be one-shots. Roud lumps some of them and ignores others. But they're different enough that I've split them. This one appears to be by far the most popular. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.3
File: BAF805

Dobie Bill (Dobe Bill, The Killer)

DESCRIPTION: "Dobie Bill, he came a-riding from the canyon, in the glow." Arriving in Santa Fe, he enters a bar and finds "Blake, the killer." In the fight that follows, Bill kills Blake, reports he has "made the scoundrel pay," and goes his way

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Lomax)
KEYWORDS: cowboy fight death revenge
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 403-404, "The Killer" (1 text)
DT, THEKILLR
Roud #4046
RECORDINGS:
Art Thieme, "Dobie Bill" (on Thieme03)

NOTES [206 words]: Cisco Houston had a tune for this (sung also by Art Thieme). And therein, apparently, hangs a tale. Thanks to Abby Sale for finding this; most of what follows is from him or from Guy Logsdon via Abby.
The poem was originally published in Wild West Weekly, although Abby was unable to determine the exact date. (Contrary to Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, this was published by Frank Tousey, not Street and Smith; the confusion in Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs may be because both Street & Smith and Frank Tousey were Dime Novel publishers and targeted much the same audience of adventure-craving boys.) The tune apparently was from Katie Lee, who set the Lomax words (as found in the 1938 edition of Cowboy Songs) to music. Cisco Houston learned the tune from her when they were dating. But they then broke up, and Houston modified it somewhat to prevent her from claiming copyright. The result is, I suppose, folk processed, although I'm not sure it's truly folk. (As Logsdon noted, it looks more like the work of a romance writer than a genuine cowboy; the vocabulary is wrong.) For more on the origin story, see Lee's Ten Thousand Goddam Cattle.
As "The Killer," this is item dB43 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW
File: LxA403

Dockyard Gate, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you married seaman bold, a few lines to you I'll write, Just to let you know how the game do go when you are out of site," The "lads on shore go sporting with your wives." She and her "fancy man" collect his half-pay and spend it, and even more

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)
KEYWORDS: sailor separation infidelity return reunion clothes money
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,North,South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 136, "The Dockyard Gate" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1739
File: PaSe136

Dockyard Mateys' Sons

DESCRIPTION: "We are the dockyard mateys' sons Sitting on the dockyard wall, Watching our poor fathers Doing bugger all. When we grow older We'll be dockyard mateys too, Just like our fathers, With bugger all to do"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)
Docta Bud (Doctor Bird)

DESCRIPTION: Jamaican patois: The cunning doctor bird is hard to kill: you beat him and he gets up; you shoot him and he flies away; when he wants a place to lie down he builds a nest on a low branch.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (Murray-FolkSongsOfJamaica)

KEYWORDS: magic nonballad bird

FOUND IN: West Indies(Jamaica)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Murray-FolkSongsOfJamaica, pp. 45-46, "Docta Bud" (1 text, 1 tune) ADDITIONAL: Noel Dexter and Godfrey Taylor, _Mango Time - Folk Songs of Jamaica_ (Kingston: ian Randle Publishers, 2007), pp. 3-4, "Docta Bud" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
Edric Connor with the Caribbeans and Earl Inkman, "Docta Bud" (on WIEConnor01)

NOTES [97 words]: According to the Jamaica Information Service site the doctor bird is the swallow tail humming bird (Trochilus Polytmus), which lives only in Jamaica. It may be called "Doctor Bird" because "the erect black crest and tails resemble the top hat and long coat tails the doctors used to wear in the old days.... According to Frederick Cassidy ... The Aracks spread the belief that the bird had magical powers. They called it the 'God bird,' believing it was the reincarnation of dead souls" ( http://jis.gov.jm/symbols/jamaican-national-bird-the-doctor-bird/accessed April 25, 2015). - BS

Last updated in version 3.7

File: JaMu045

Doctor Blair Was a Man of Skill

DESCRIPTION: Dr Blair was a man of skill, He built his castle on a hill; He set four statues in the front. And every morning went to hunt. From his castle you may see Up and down along the Lee"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1839 (Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)

KEYWORDS: doctor home hunting

FOUND IN: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, p. 161, "Dr Blair Was a Man of Skill" (1 fragment)

NOTES [37 words]: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland: "So says an old song. This Dr Blair was a Scotch physician, who settled in Cork about the middle of the last century." The current description is all of the Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland text.- BS

File: CrPS161

Doctor Crippen

DESCRIPTION: In London, Doctor Crippen poisoned his wife, "cut up her body and buried it deep." He and his disguised mistress are arrested "on board the Montrose." He is tried, convicted, "and Crippen was condemned on the gallows to die"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (IRClare01)

KEYWORDS: execution homicide trial disguise mistress wife

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1910 - "Doctor Hawley Harvey Crippen was hanged in London ... for the murder of his wife"
Doctor Fletcher (Dr. Pritchard)

DESCRIPTION: Dr. Pritchard poisons his wife and mother-in-law (Mrs. Taylor). The jury finds him guilty and he is sentenced to be hanged in Glasgow. His children come to the jail and blame him for murdering their mother. He warns against bad company.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports)

KEYWORDS: warning crime execution homicide prison punishment trial death children wife

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Jul 28, 1867 - "Dr. Edward William Pritchard ... was hanged ... in Glasgow, Scotland, for poisoning his wife with antimony and then his mother-in-law, Mrs. Taylor of Edinburgh, with opium. Pritchard was the last man to be publicly executed in Scotland." (source: Guigné).

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Hebr)) Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (7 citations):

Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 111-113, "Doctor Fletcher (Dr. Pritchard)" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: Peter A. Hall, "Scottish Tinker Songs" in Folk Music Journal, Vol. 3, No. 1 Music of the Travelling People (1975 (available online by JSTOR)), pp. 58-59 "Doctor Pritchard" ("Oh, come a' you people great and small, o' high and low degree") (1 text, 1 tune)

Maggie Stewart, "Doctor Pritchard". School of Scottish Studies Archive SA1954.091, Tobar an Dualchais/Kist o Riches accessed 16 January 2017 from http://www.tobarandualchais.co.uk/fullrecord/68907/1

Lucy Stewart, "Doctor Pritchard". School of Scottish Studies Archive SA1960.139, Tobar an Dualchais/Kist o Riches accessed 16 January 2017 from http://www.tobarandualchais.co.uk/fullrecord/59340/1

Ethel Findlater, "Doctor Pritchard". School of Scottish Studies Archive SA1967.115, Tobar an Dualchais/Kist o Riches accessed 16 January 2017 from http://www.tobarandualchais.co.uk/fullrecord/61012/1 (fragment of the verse in which Pritchard's children see him in jail)

Roud #4805

RECORDINGS:

Nicolas Keough, "Doctor Fletcher" (on NFAGuigné01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Tramps and Hawkers" (tune) and references there

NOTES [34 words]: Hall writes that Robin Hutchinson's tune is one usually used for "Tramps and Hawkers." The Tobar an Dualchais/Kist o Riches versions use the same tune. Nicolas Keough's tune is one I don't recognize. - BS

_Last updated in version 4.2_

File: Guig111

Doctor Foster Went to Gloucester

DESCRIPTION: "Doctor Foster went to Gloucester In a shower of rain, He stepped in a puddle, Right up to his middle, And never went there again."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1844 (Halliwell)

KEYWORDS: travel nonballad
NOTES [141 words]: The Opies and Jack-PopGoesTheWeasel both mention an hypothesis that this item refers to Edward I (reigned 1272-1307), who encountered difficulties on a visit to Gloucester and never returned there. This has several problems. First is the fact that the piece would have had to survive for half a millennium without anyone noticing it. Second, why call Edward I "Doctor Foster"? And third, there are plenty of reasons why Edward would not have needed to go back to Gloucester.

An alternate explanation, derived from a text in the Baring-Goulds, is that "Doctor Foster" is in fact "Doctor Faustus," which raises a different set of questions but still doesn't explain the rhyme. The inimitable Katherine Elwes Thomas connected it to the battle of Newberry in the English Civil War, but Thomas could connect anything with anything, except reality. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4

File: 002170

Doctor Jones

DESCRIPTION: "Dr. Jones is a good man, a good man, a good man, Dr. Jones is a good man, he'll help whoever he can." "Ladies and gentlemen, sail around... and kiss just who you please." "Spider in the dumpling... Roll around and roll."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Cecil Sharp collection)

KEYWORDS: playparty nonballad doctor

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 90, "Doctor Jones" (1 text)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 90, "Doctor Jones" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
- Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 256, "Old Doc Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 250, "Old Doc Jones" (1 fragment, probably this though it might be a distorted version of "Sail Away Ladies")

Roud #3646

RECORDINGS:
- Logan English, "Old Doc Jones" (on LEnglish01)

File: Br3090

Doctor Monroe

DESCRIPTION: A man asks Monroe to use any method ("bleed me to death," "grant me some poison") to cure him: "my lass has forsaken me." Monroe says the cure will cost 100, but a free lecture may be effective. The patient chooses the lecture and is cured immediately

AUTHOR: James Hogg (1770-1835)

EARLIEST DATE: 1866 (Hogg)

KEYWORDS: love rejection money healing humorous doctor

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Greig/Duncan6 1197, "Doctor Munro" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #6804

File: GrD61197
Doctor Stafford and the Weaver's Daughter

DESCRIPTION: A weaver's daughter loves Dr Stafford. He is called to her death bed and says they will marry if she survives. He stays with her eight weeks, but she dies. The neighbors say her ghost haunts him. He ends in Bedlam. Her spirit comes to save him.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1); before 1828 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 28(185))
KEYWORDS: love death healing doctor ghost
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord)) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #78, pp. 2-3, "The Weaver's Daughter" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan6 1234, "The Weaver's Daughter" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 78, "The Weaver's Dochter" (1 fragment)
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 97, "The Weaver's Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3868
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 28(185), "Dr. Stafford," W. Wright (Birmingham), 1820-1827; also Johnson Ballads 1929, Harding B 25(2015), "Weaver's Daughter" ("As I walk'd out one evening...")[see Notes for first lines]; Harding B 25(529), Johnson Ballads 2457, "Doctor Stafford"; Harding B 25(531), Firth c.18(55), Firth b.34(90), "Doctor Stafford, and the Weaver's Daughter"; Harding B 11(4357), "Young Doctor Stafford and the Weaver's Daughter"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Sheffield Apprentice" (tune, per Greig/Duncan6)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Weaver's Dochter
The Rocks o' Penn
NOTES [231 words]: The first line varies, yielding titles based upon where the weaver's daughter walks. For example, just from the Bodleian broadsides:
"One evening as I walk'd by the rocks of Mile End"
"One day was I was walking down by the banks of Clyde"
"One ev'ning as I walked down by the rock of Mache"
"One evening as I walked, by the rocks of Mile"
"One evening as I walked down by the rocks of Myle"
Lyle has "One day as I was walking To view my father's land."
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi has "As I walked out one evening Down by the rocky mull"
Manny Wilson's text is confused so the description is based on broadside Bodleian Harding B 28(185).
There seems an assumption by the neighbors that the inexperienced Dr Stafford -- he is Dr Richardson's apprentice -- is responsible for her death. [Indeed, in glancing at one version, I thought they were hinting he poisoned her. - RBW] This seems not to be the case. The last that the weaver's daughter says is "All goodness be my darling's guide, he's the boy I lov'd so dear."
After her death he claims that, of all his women "the weaver's daughter lov'd me best, she died in love for me." When the neighbors claim she haunts him he says they were all liars "for she laid no blame on me." Confined in Bedlam "quite bereft of his senses," "Her spirit came unto him saying young man revive, For I never was ordained to be your wedded wife." - BS
Last updated in version 2.6
File: MaWi097

Doctor-Man, The

DESCRIPTION: Daniel Morris is the local doctor for 40 years. His house visits are described, including his work in the 1918 flu pandemic. He is still remembered after his death.

AUTHOR: Mrs. Dan Morris
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland)
KEYWORDS: memorial doctor
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 21-22, "The Doctor-Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #12479
NOTES [41 words]: Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland: "Dr Morris ... was born in Donaldston, P.E.I. in 1865 and died in 1937. He is still [1973] well-known on the Eastern end of Prince Edward Island and there are many people who were named after him. - BS
File: Dib021

Dodger, The

DESCRIPTION: Comments on the less-than-honest nature of various professionals: "Oh the candidate's) a dodger, yes, a well-known dodger, Yes, the (candidate's) a dodger and I'm a dodger too. For we're all dodging... Our way through the world"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: political trick
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Randolph 462, "We're All Dodging" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 333, "The Dodgers" (1 text, less political than some; candidates are not mentioned)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol3, pp. 28-29, "Dodgers" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 289-290, "The Dodger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 875-876, "The Dodger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, pp. 24-25, "The Dodger Song" (1 text)

DT, DODGRSNG*
Roud #3758
RECORDINGS:
Almanac Singers, "The Dodger Song" (General 5019B, 1941; on Almanac01, Almanac03, AlmanacCD1)
Neil Morris, "Corn Dodgers" (on LomaxCD1706)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "We're All A-Singing" (lyrics, form)
cf. "We're A' Noddin'" (chorus tune)
cf. "We're A' Cuttin'" (form)
File: R462

Does Your Heart Beat True to Me?

DESCRIPTION: The singer is about to travel "far upon the seas" and asks, "now we're going to part ... Have I thy loving heart"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: love separation nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1546, "Does Your Heart Beat True to Me?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #12961
File: GrD81546

Does Your Mother Know You're Out? (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Does your mother know you're out? (x2), How are you, Horace Greeley? Does your mother know you're out?" "Mother, is the battle over? What are the men about? How are you, Horace Greeley? Does your mother know you're out?"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: political battle derivative
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1872 - Horace Greeley's presidential campaign
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 398, "Does Your Mother Know You’re Out?" (1 text)
Roud #11756
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Does Your Mother Know You're Out? (II)" (possible stage song basis for political derivative)
cf. "Mother, Is the Battle Over?" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [1330 words]: The editors of Brown speculate that this is from Horace Greeley's 1872 presidential run. Greeley lost decisively to Ulysses S. Grant, then died, and his electoral votes went to the four winds.
DeGregorio, p. 267, quotes Eugene H. Rosebloom as saying "Never in American history have two more unfit men been offered to the country for the highest office." Greeley's biggest single issue was probably the corruption that had occurred under Grant (who had no political background at all and was unable to control his underlings; indeed, the Republicans booted his 1868 vice president off the 1872 ticket because he was associated with corruption). But Greeley had no background in politics either.
Randall/Donald, p. 15, described Greeley this way: "Animated by enthusiasms that tended toward fanaticism, and marred by personal eccentricities that laid him open to ridicule, this Yankee printer had risen from stark poverty to influence and power; and, as a supporter of the Whig and later the Republican party, had demonstrated in areas widely distant from his sanctum the tremendous force of political journalism. With defects of character that were to grow with the years, he showed the finer idealism of his ardent nature in efforts to improve the workingman's lot, in generous support of movements for popular education, and in championship of progressive social movements generally."
Gillette/Schlesinger, pp. 1313-1314, reports, "'Uncle' Horace was a gawky man with a big round face and bald head, neck whiskers, drooped eyeglasses, crumpled clothes, and a slouched figure. his white hat, squeaky voice, and illegible handwriting reinforced an impression of eccentricity. And his views were often no less peculiar.... At various times, he was a utopian socialist, a spiritualist, a vegetarian, and a prohibitionist. He even campaigned against women's corsets.... His opinions were often eccentric, his partisanship intense, his language intemperate, and all who disagreed with him weew denounced vehemently. Charles A. Dana of the Sun called him 'a visionary without faith, a radical without root, an extremist without persistency, a strifemake without courage....' Greeley, as fierce crusader, noisy crackpot, and unconventional personality, both appealed to and was joked about by nineteenth-century Americans, who read and relished his newspaper for all those reasons."
Morison, p. 730, says of his 1872 run for the Presidency, "As a 'headliner,' Horace Greeley could not have been bettered. In his thirty years' editorship of the New York Tribune he had built it up to be the country's leading newspaper, whose articles and editorials were quoted nationwide. His personal integrity and moral earnestness were unquestioned. But he was also something of a crackpot... and at one time or another he had espoused unpopular causes such as socialism, temperance, spiritism, and women's rights."
He was, of course, the editor of the New York Tribune, which he founded in 1841, and, yes, he did write, "Go west, young man" (DAB, volume IV, p. ).
Bunting, p. 127, says he was "founder and editor of the New York Tribune, had argued with characteristic brio in behalf of both sides of most major issues for the Civil War and its aftermath. He was known as a strong supporter of high tarriffs; he was on record, many times, as having been violently critical of the Democratic party, with whom the liberal Republicans proposed to ally themselves for the election. He seemed, further, to lack gravitas. In appearance he was a character out of illustrations in Dicken's novels: plump, with a bald red head like a pumpkin, frequently dressed in bizarre dusters, given to strange fads and nostrums -- like arguing for the particular agricultural efficacy of human manure."
Gillette/Schlesinger, p. 1315, "[H]is journalistic assets were political liabilities. His zeal as an editor seemed scatterbrained demagoguery on the stomp. His openmindedness on the editorial page appeared empty-mindedness in politics. His enthusiasm generated familiarity with readers, but his lack of reserve failed to command their respect at the polls. Indeed, Greeley lacked both sense and nerve, lacked the politician's intution, when to speak and when to remain silent...."
"The Greeley choice came as a shock to many people. Greeley, for all his intelligence, sincerity, idealism, and journalistic aplomb, was erratic, crotchety, unpredictable, and thoroughly incompetent in the art of politic. About all one could say of him as a candidate was that he was a national celebrity. With his cherubic face, big blue eyes, pilgarlic pate, steel-rimmed glasses, and shuffling gait, he looked more like a character out of a Dickens novel than a presidential hopeful" (Boller, p. 128).
According to Gillette/Schlesinger, p. 1317, many Democrats found Greeley's nomination shocking;
he largely refused to work with the party and was by no means a regular Democrat. (Of course, his opponent U. S. Grant was not a regular Republican, and admitted to having voted for Buchanan in 1856.) But no one else came forward to deny Greeley the nomination; the 1872 Democratic convention lasted only six hours (Gillette/Schlesinger, p. 1318). Gillette/Schlesinger, p. 1323, quotes a contemporary observer as saying, "Never was a good cause so badly handled."

It was a truly absurd situation. In early 1872, a group of disaffected Republicans, who called themselves "Liberal Republicans," held a convention and, for five ballots, deadlocked between several respectable candidates including Charles Francis Adams. On the sixth ballot, the convention made a surprise turn to Greeley. So he was initially nominated as a Republican protest candidate. But the Democrats, who would take anyone over Grant, decided to back Greeley rather than split the opposition (Boller, pp. 127-129).

"Given the two candidates -- a 'man of no ideas,' as someone put it, versus a 'man of too may' -- the campaign was predictable" (Boller, p. 129). "Greeley made a strong speaking campaign, but the Republicans had the money and the organization, and the average citizen, having to choose between an old soldier whose very name stood for patriotism, and a journalist who had been as often wrong as right, voted for Grant. The President carried all but six states with a popular vote of 3.6 million as against 2.8 million for his opponent" (Morison, p. 730).

Indirectly, the effect on the political situation was dramatic. Liberal Republicans, having despaired of Grant and the spoils system, had turned to Greeley -- and, as an organization, were destroyed by his defeat (Gillette/Schlesinger, p. 1329). Liberalism as a political force in America was ruined for a quarter century -- until revived in the crackpot populism of William Jennings Bryan. Greeley probably would have been a terrible President -- but his defeat led to a period of stagnation probably worse than any except that from 1836 to 1860 which led to the Civil War.

It's likely enough that this song comes from the 1872 campaign -- described as exceptionally bitter, and also quite strange, given that Greeley was endorsed by both ends of the spectrum: the independent (generally radical) Republicans "and" by the reactionary Democrats. The pressure of the campaign was so extreme that Greeley, after his defeat, his wife's death (just before election day; Gillette/Schlesinger, p. 1329), and his discovery of a sort of palace coup at the Tribune, went insane after the election, and died soon thereafter.

And Greeley during the Civil War was quite strident and also rather unstable; one can easily imagine someone at the time taunting him, "Does your mother know you're out?"

Or it could be two mixed-up songs. It rather looks that way to me.

According to Partridge's entry on "Mother know you're out," that question itself was used at least as early as 1838, in Bentley's Miscellany. It was "addressed to a person showing extreme simplicity or youthful presumption." - RBW

Bibliography

- DAB: Dumas Malone, editor, Dictionary of American Biography, originally published in 20 volumes plus later supplementary volumes; I use the 1961 Charles Scribner's Sons edition with minor corrections which combined the original 20 volumes into 10
- Partridge: Eric Partridge, A Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English (combined fifth edition with dictionary and supplement), Macmillan, 1961
Does Your Mother Know You're Out? (II)

DESCRIPTION: Singer does not understand why everyone takes him for a naive fool. So, "My station is respectable There's nothing about me In the slightest way detectable Of the apeing wain cockney ... I dresses vell ... The cry is Ho my precious svell Does ...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1845 (broadside, Bodleian Bod9666 Harding B 11(919)
KEYWORDS: clothes fishing dancing humorous nonballad
FOUND IN:
Roud #30119
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Bod9666 Harding B 11(919), "Does Your Mother Know You're Out" ("I am the laughing stock of all"), J. Pitts (London), 1819-1844; also Bod16335 Harding B 20(246), "Does Your Mother Know You're Out"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Does Your Mother Know You're Out? (I and III)" (derivatives)
NOTES [99 words]: The broadside begins, "I am the laughing stock of all." Each verse ends with the line "Does your mother know you're out?" The keywords reflect some activities the singer tries. At the end he decides to leave town and settle "in some silent glen" where no one will ridicule him. The broadside text is "in dialect." Specifically, some "w" and "v" are swapped. I assume this song goes with a stage act (note the comment for Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 398 p. 473, "Does Your Mother Know You're Out?": "... 1872, adapted obviously from a vaudeville song of the time."). - BS

Last updated in version 5.0
File: BdDYMKYO

Does Your Mother Know You're Out? (III)

DESCRIPTION: Naive singer comes to Liverpool, stops at a pub, is beaten by "three roaring fellows" and has his purse stolen by a girl. In the street a girl stops him; he beats her, assuming she is the one that stole his money, and is thrown in jail for six months.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: fight violence travel crime prison punishment robbery theft drink England humorous
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
RECORDINGS:
Les Martin, "Does Your Mother Know You're Out?" (on MUNFLA-Leach)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Does Your Mother Know You're Out? (II)" (possible stage song basis for this ballad)
NOTES [72 words]: The last line of most verses has someone asking, "Does your mother know you're out?" Apparently, travellers from Manchester in Liverpool were considered "country bumpkins."
The Roud Broadside Index database has this as Roud #V8718, but assigns the same number to "Does Your Mother Know You're Out? (II)." See "Does Your Mother Know You're Out" ("From Liverpool to Manchester as I have lately strayed"); I haven't seen the broadside. - BS

Last updated in version 4.2
File: MunLDYMK

Doffin' Mistress, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh do you know here or do you not, This new doffin' mistress we hae got, [Something-or-other] is her name, And she helps her doffers at every frame." The weavers tell of her exploits. They contemptuously tell the boss they will work hard for her, not him

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1904
KEYWORDS: work weaving
FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 220, "The Doffin' Mistress" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong 14, "The Doffing Mistress" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hammond-SongsOfBelfast, p. 27, "The Doffing Mistress" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DOFFNMIS*
Roud #2133
RECORDINGS:
Anne Briggs, "The Doffing Mistress" (on IronMuse1, IronMuse2, Briggs3, Briggs4)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "The Sea Apprentice" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
The Sea Apprentice (File: HHH739)
NOTES [268 words]: The "Doffing Mistress" was responsible for a gang of mill-workers (doffers). These women inspired surprising loyalty (presumably because they protected the workers, who were often children, from the senior management -- which, of course was rapacious enough to hire young children). As a result, they were often honored with processions and celebrations when they retired, married, or went to work for another establishment.
In Yorkshire at least, the "doffer" had a very specific job, according to Arnold Kellett, _The Yorkshire Dictionary of Dialect, Tradition, and Folklore_, revised edition, Smith Settle, 2002, p. 49: "doffer[:] textile worker taking filled bobbins from the spinning machine." Those who put new bobbins in the place of the full ones were "bobbin-liggers," according to p. 15.
A version of this song in _Sing Out!,_ Volume 28, #3 (1980), p. 26, notes for instance that the mistress "hangs her coat on the highest pin." This might be interpreted as some sort of dominance game -- but the children could not easily reach the highest pin, so she was leaving the lower pins available for the workers.
The same article says that this has been called "the national anthem of the textile mills in Belfast," even though the doffers were replaced by machines in the 1930. (And, of course, the textile mills were not a nation and could not have a NATIONAL anthem. But I'm nitpicking.) - RBW
Also collected and sung by David Hammond, "The Doffin' Mistress" (on David Hammond, "I Am the Wee Falorie Man: Folk Songs of Ireland," Tradition TCD1052 CD (1997) reissue of Tradition LP TLP 1028 (1959)) - BS
Last updated in version 5.3
File: K220

---

Dog in the Closet, The (The Old Dyer) [Laws Q11]
DESCRIPTION: The hatter has to hide in the closet when the woman's husband comes home unexpectedly. The husband locks the closet and goes for witnesses. The wife releases the hatter and puts a dog in his place. The husband finds the dog and is embarrassed
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster)
KEYWORDS: infidelity trick escape dog hiding age
FOUND IN: US(NE,SE)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Laws Q11, "The Old Dyer (The Dog in the Closet)"
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 123-125, "The Dog in the Closet" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 279, "The Old Dyer" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 179, "The Old Dyer" (2 excerpts, 2 tunes)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN151, "All you that to merriment now are inclined" (probably this piece)
DT 523, DOGCLOS
Roud #1006
CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "The Boatsman and the Chest" [Laws Q8] (plot) and references there
NOTES [43 words]: This and similar songs are sometimes traced back to a story in Boccaccio (seventh day, second story: Gianella, Peronella, and her husband). But the story is really one of the basic themes of folktale, and doubtless predates Boccaccio as well as these songs. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.0
File: LQ11
Dog in the Midden, The

DESCRIPTION: The dog lay in the dunghill, saw the moon, "cockit his tail" and ran away. The cock crowed on the dunghill, ..., "flappit his wings" and flew away.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)

KEYWORDS: nonballad chickens dog

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Greig/Duncan8 1663, "The Dog in the Midden" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers (Edited by Norah and William Montgomerie), Traditional Scottish Nursery Rhymes (1990 selected from Popular Rhymes) #40, ("The dog in the midden")

Roud #13042

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Jock Robb" (tune, per Greig/Duncan8)

File: GrD81663

---

Dog in the Wood

DESCRIPTION: "Dog in the wood, Barking at the squirrel; My true love Is as good as the worl'."

"Mr. Banks, he loves sugar and tea, Mr. Banks, he loves candy...." "Dog in the wood, Barking at the squirrel."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Scarborough)

KEYWORDS: hunting animal playparty

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 133-134, (no title) (1 text)

ST ScNF133A (Partial)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Sugar and Tea" (lyrics)

NOTES [47 words]: This shares a chorus with the song I've indexed as "Sugar and Tea," but the verses are so distinct (this is a hunting song, that a courting song) that I've tentatively split them. It appears (due to an abrupt change in stanza form) that Scarborough's text may be a mixture anyway. - RBW

File: ScNF133A

---

Dog Shark

DESCRIPTION: "Daddy eat dog shark Ma Lingay." "Take them one by one Ma Lingay. Take them two by two. Take them three by three Ma Lingay. Take them four by four."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville)

KEYWORDS: fishing food

FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville, p. 62, "Dog Shark" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [59 words]: This seems to me to be a counting game song, not far different from Jamaican "Go Down Emmanuel Road." Elder says nothing about this song, or about counting game songs in Tobago, so this is just my guess.

If these dog shark are anything like the Coney Island dogfish of the 1940's they are small and harmless, and more a nuisance than a prized catch. - BS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: ElCh062A

---

Dog Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "There is something so thrilling and gay As the team into harness we strop." The song is about driving a dog team. "The good man too performs his part; The hungry dogs are fed;
And blizzards now may whirl and roar, The traveller has a bed."

Dog-Catcher's Child, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh the moon shines tnight on the river, But not on the dog-catcher's child, FOr he fed her some raw liver, And raw meat makes dog-people wild. Now he sits all alone in his mansion, The soup dribbles over his vest... she sleeps in the alley by request."

Dog's Convention, The

DESCRIPTION: At a convention of dogs from far and near, the animals' anuses are mixed up, and the canines go home with orifices not their own. This explains why dogs will drop a bone to smell the anus of a passing dog; they are looking for their own.

Dog's-Meat Man, The

DESCRIPTION: "In (Grays-Inn Lane) not long ago, An old maid lived a life of woe." She falls in love with a handsome Dog's-Meat Man. He says he will marry her if she gives him money for a shop. He vanishes; she finds him with a wife and "seven little dog's-meat men"
DESCRIPTION: Grimsby fishermen spend all their money in Grimsby taverns and must go to work the fishing grounds. The disreputable looking crew is described. They "battle through every gale" and head home again for Mrs. Surgeon's beer.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1904 (OShaughnessy-Yellowbelly1)
KEYWORDS: fishing sea ship shore drink humorous
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart1 21, "The Grimsby Fishermen's Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 131, "The Grimsby Fisherman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #18836
RECORDINGS:
Sam Larner, "The Dogger Bank" (on SLarner02)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Bigler's Crew" (tune, chorus, meter) and references there NOTES [460 words]: Palmer: "The Grimsby variant [of "Bigler" and "Knickerbocker Line" derivatives], sometimes entitled 'The Dogger Bank', seems to have been confined to the eastern seaboard, save for 'Littlehampton Collier Lads,' an adaptation dealing with the sailing colliers of the south coast."
See the entry for "The Knickerbocker Line," which refers to a New York City pre-Civil War horse-drawn stagecoach.
Larner adds a second chorus: "So watch her, twig her, the piperray she goes, / High heels, painted toes, Jinnie is all the go; / She is one of the flash girls, can't she cut a shine? / She can do the double shuffle on the Knickerbocker line." This chorus, not in either of the two US texts (Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 146A or 146B), is very close to the Australian chorus reported for "The Knickerbocker Line": "Twig her, pipe her, watch her how she goes, / Her high-heeled boots and patent leather, my Jinny she's on the go; / She is one of the fast girls, her beauty is bound to shine, / With her high-heeled boots to rattle on the knickerbocker line" (Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, p. 195). The New York State texts for "The Knickerbocker Line" are more about women -- including prostitutes -- than about the line itself but do not include this specific verse. Peggy Seeger's notes to Larner's album may refer to an independent life for this chorus: "Another song, which has for its refrain the final chorus of the song printed here, was collected by Cecil Sharp in 1911 at Shipton, Somerset." (Sharp MS 2620, possibly the Sharp 1911 MS from Gloucestershire cited by Kennedy p. 728. However, the two lines quoted by Kennedy are the same lines that begin Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, p.
195).

The two Tobar an Dualchais/Kist o Riches entries at "The Knickerbocker Line" are close relatives.
Here is the chorus of Lucy Stewart's text of "Jeannie's Aa the Go": "Watch her, twig her, pipe her as she goes / High heels, paintit boots, an paintin on the toes / Jeannie's aa the go, boys, Jeannie's aa the go, / And yet she wis a dabber if she only had the nose." Here is the whole text of John MacShannon's "Knickerbocker Line": "Watch her, twig her, pipe her, how she goes, / High top heels and her patent leather toes, She is one of the prettiest that ever wore the shine, She could do the double shuttle on the Knickerbocker Line."
The Kennedy text of "The Knickerbocker Line" is close to Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 146A, except for its chorus, which fits here: "Watch her, trail her, pipe her as she goes / With her high-heeled boots and her patent leather toes / That she was one of those flash girls I soon found out in time / When her high heeled boots went clattering down the Knickerbocker Line" - BS
Last updated in version 4.4
File: OSY1021
Dogget's Gap
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929
KEYWORDS: nonballad floatingverses
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Botkin-TreasuryOfSouthernFolklore, p. 739, "Dogget's Gap" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart1 22, "Doggett Gap' (1 text, 1 tune)
Lunsford/Stringfield-30And1FolkSongsFromSouthernMountains, p. 52, "Dogget Gap" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11584
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "Cumberland Gap"
File: BSoF739

Doggie Woggie Woo Woo
DESCRIPTION: "Doggie woggie woo woo (x2)."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana)
KEYWORDS: nonballad dog
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, p. 87, "Doggie Woggie Woo Woo" (1 short text, 1 tune)
NOTES [55 words]: I have to suspect there is another part to this, something along the lines of "Doggie woggie woo woo, Here is what I'm going to do." If I were really going to conjecture, the final lines might be, "We are going to the zoo, Do you want to come too?" That's WILD speculation, though; I just think part of the rhyme is missing. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: List087B

Dogie Song
DESCRIPTION: "The cow-bosses are good-hearted chunks," very diverse, but "Still they sing the same old song": "Sift along, don't ride so slow, Haven't got much time but a long round to go." After gathering the herd, the crew is to "hit the shortest trail"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Lomax)
KEYWORDS: cowboy work boss travel
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Saffel-CowboyPoetry, p. 187, "Dogie Song" (1 text)
Roud #8028
File: Saffe187

Doherty's Wake
DESCRIPTION: Michael Doherty lives in Kerry and has "a taste for the grog" He is "killed" in a fight. When the whiskey is passed at the wake Doherty lifts the coffin lid. He advises, at the next wake, "don't pass with the whiskey so close to his nose"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick)
KEYWORDS: injury drink fight party humorous mourning
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 69, "Doherty's Wake" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST CrSNB069 (Partial)
Roud #2761
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Finnegan's Wake" [Laws Q17] (subject)
NOTES [43 words]: There are several Irish songs about dead men rising at the scent of alcohol; this is so close to "Finnegan's Wake" that I'm tempted to list it as a rewrite. But there are minor differences in form, and the lyrics are different in detail if not in outline. - RBW
File: CrSNB069

Dol-li-a
DESCRIPTION: "Fresh I cum frae Sandgate Steet, Dol-li, dol-li, Maw best frends here to meet, Dol-li-a, Dol-li the dillen dol...." "The Black Cuffs is gawn away, An' that'll be a crying day." "Dolly Coxon's pawned her shirt...." "The Green Cuffs is cummin' in...." AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1812 (Bell, _Rhymes of the Northern Bards_)
KEYWORDS: clothes soldier nonballad
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 86-87, "Dol-li-a" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DOLLIA
Roud #2611
NOTES [89 words]: This apparently refers to a situation where one British regiment left town and another replaced it, with the Black Cuffs and Green Cuffs being references to their uniforms. Without further details, though, I can't determine the historical situation. The text in Bell's _Rhymes of the Northern Bards_ bears the description "A song famous in Newcastle about the Years 1792-3-4" which implies that this might have something to do with the Glorious Revolution -- but since there are no Orange cuffs, the information is not much help. - RBW
File: StoR086

Dole Song (I), The
DESCRIPTION: When you go on the dole they take your report: name and "what you've got." Scratch through the seasons and do anything to stay off the dole. When the man with money dies and is buried "he'll have no better chance than the poor man on the dole"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1977 (Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou)
KEYWORDS: poverty hardtimes nonballad unemployment
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 30, "The Dole Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #30698
File: LeBe030

Dole Song (II), The
DESCRIPTION: We Labrador fishermen work hard "noon and night" while "those that profit" are warm and well fed. "Long coat chaps" do not help. Merchants rob us. Taxes take what we have. "The ruler in Newfoundland" does not allow us on the dole.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: poverty fishing hardtimes nonballad political money
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
RECORDINGS:
George Hatfield, "The Dole Song" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Dole Song (I)" (theme)
File: MunLDoS2
Dollar a Day, A
DESCRIPTION: "A dollar a day is a fisherman pay, Way you lazy Liza, A dollar a day for that I can't stay, Roll out your sails my Liza"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville)
KEYWORDS: fishing work shanty
FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville, p. 47, "A Dollar a Day" (1 text, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "Lowlands (My Lowlands Away)" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [11 words]: The current description is all of the Elder-Charlottville text. - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: EldC047B

Dollar Down and a Dollar a Week
DESCRIPTION: Singer describes all the things his friend has bought on credit, including clothes, car, marriage, and a child; finally the man's wife, saying "these weekly payments are killing me," divorces him, and the alimony is a dollar down, a dollar a week.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (recording, Arkansas Woodchopper)
KEYWORDS: marriage money humorous commerce
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 79, "Dollar Down and a Dollar a Week" (1 text, 1 tune)
RECORDINGS:
Arkansas Woodchopper [pseud. for Luther Ossenbrink], "A Dollar Down and a Dollar a Week" (Conqueror 7887, 1931)
Woody Guthrie & Cisco Houston, "A Dollar Down and a Dollar a Week" (on Struggle2)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "Cotton Mill Colic" (theme)
NOTES [8 words]: And this was before Visa cards even existed.... - RBW
File: CSW079

Dolly Grey
DESCRIPTION: "I have come to say goodbye, Dolly Grey; It's no use to ask me why, Dolly Grey; There's a murmur in the air... So it's time to do and dare, Dolly Grey." The singer bids Dolly a sad farewell and goes off to join the "boys in blue"
AUTHOR: Words: Will D. Cobb / Music: Paul Barnes
EARLIEST DATE: 1898 (composed, according to Waites & Hunter)
KEYWORDS: soldier separation
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, pp. 35-36, "Dolly Grey" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Aline Waites & Robin Hunter, _The Illustrated Victorian Songbook_, Michael Joseph Ltd., 1984, pp. 194-197, "Good-Bye Dolly Gray" (1 text, 1 tune)
SAME TUNE:
Good-Bye Dollars, I Must Leave You (IWW song by Richard Brazier)
Parody on Dolly Gray ("When the boots are on the last, Dolly Gray, And I have to mend them fast") (by Johnny Burke) (Johnny Burke (John White, Editor), Burke's Ballads , no printer listed, n.d. (PDF available on Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. 61) (Johnny Burke (William J. Kirwin, editor), _John White's Collection of Johnny Burke Songs_, Harry Cuff Publications, St. John's, 1981, #35, pp. 55-56)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Goodbye Dolly Gray
NOTES [112 words]: Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2 report this to have been Dolly Varden Hats, The

DESCRIPTION: Girls: "Lovers you'll have plenty ... If you wear the Dolly Vardon hat, and do the Grecian bend." The comical adventures of women and their hats are related. Soldiers could wear them when drilling: "they'll do for umbrellas to save them from the rain"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1867 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 13(73))

KEYWORDS: clothes humorous nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Greig/Duncan3 652, "Come, Dear, Don't Fear" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
  Roud #6081

BROADSIDES:
  Bodleian, Harding B 13(73), "The Dolly Varden Hats" ("Come, dear, don't fear, try and cut a shine"), J. Harkness (Preston), 1840-1866; also Firth c.21(132), 2806 b.10(41), Firth c.26(213), "The Dolly Varden Hats"

NOTES [525 words]: Greig/Duncan3 is a fragment; broadside Bodleian Harding B 13(73) is the basis for the description.

"dolly varden ... n. cap D&V [after Dolly Varden, gaily dressed coquette in Barnaby Rudge (1841), novel by Charles Dickens 1870 Eng. novelist] 1 : a 19th century clothing style for women consisting of a print dress with a white fichu, tight bodice, and skirt with panniers, and a beflowered hat with a wide drooping brim 2 : a large and beflowered hat with a wide drooping brim 3 ...." (source: Webster's Third New International Dictionary of the English Language Unabridged, 1976)

The heroine of "The Garden Where the Praties Grow" "was just the sort of creature sir that nature did intend To walk throughout the world, my boys, without a Grecian bend." In this context, as in "The Dolly Varden Hats," the Grecian bend seems a posture encouraged or forced by the fashionable corsettes and bustles of the 1870's (see "From the Crinoline, to the Crinolette, to the Bustle: 1860-1880" in The Secret History of the Corset and Crinoline at Fathom Archive of Columbia University site). - BS

Dolly Varden proved surprisingly popular as a subject of song. W. C. Handy wrote a "Sail Away, Ladies" piece with chorus, "Sail away, ladies, sail away: Sail away, ladies, sail away. Never mind what de sisters say, Just shake your Dolly Varden and sail away." There was a 1901 song "Dolly Varden" as well, attributed to Le Mar. And apparently there is a modern performer calling herself "Dolly Varden."

Kellett, p. 50, says that the phrase "all dressed up like Dolly Varden" became a commonplace in the West Riding of Yorkshire.

Benet, pp. 1165-1166, notes that there were three Vardens in Barnaby Rudge: Gabriel, the father of Dolly, a locksmith; Martha, his wife; and Dolly, "The locksmith's daughter; a pretty, laughing girl, with a rogueish face, lit up by a lovely pair of sparkling eyes, the very impersonation of good humor and blooming beauty. She marries Joe Willet, and conducts with him the Maypole Inn, as never a country inn was conducted before. They prosper and have a large and happy family. Dolly dresses in the Watteau style, and Watteau gowns and hats were for a time, about 1875, called 'Dolly Vardens.'" The name was frequently in use in fashions of a later period also."

EncycLiterature, p. 1157, says that "Dolly's memorable costumes led to the naming for her of a style of 19th-century women's ensemble consisting of a wide-skirted, tight-bodiced print dress worn with a white fichu (light triangular scarf) and a flowered hat with a wide, drooping brim. She was also commemorated in the brightly colored Dolly Varden trout."

Napolitano, p. 2, writes of the works of Dickens, "countless waltzes and ballads [were] based on the characters of Little Nell and Dolly Varden."
In addition, the supplement to Partridge notes that "Dolly Varden" was sometimes used as rhyming slang for a garden. And, in Newfoundland, the name "Dolly Varden" was used for large cups fishermen used for tea (StoryKirwinWiddowson, p. 145). None of these is relevance to the song, of course, but they show just how common references to "Dolly Varden" were. - RBW

Bibliography

- EncycLiterature: [no author listed], Merriam Webster's Encyclopedia of Literature, Merriam-Webster, 1995
- Napolitano: Marc Napolitano, "Reviewing the Situation': Oliver! and the Musical Afterlife of Dickens's Novels," unpublished Ph.D. dissertation, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 2009 (I have no idea how I found a PDF of this, but it's on the Internet somewhere)
- Partridge: Eric Partridge, A Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English (combined fifth edition with dictionary and supplement), Macmillan, 1961

Last updated in version 5.2

File: GrD3652

Dolly, My Crumpled-Horn Cow

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, what a joy I have in the grazing field, When the sun goes own all aglow, For I love my Doll and the milk she yields With her croon ochone so low." The cow likes him, and is beautiful, and he always enjoys being with her

AUTHOR: Words: Edward Harrigan / Music: David Braham

EARLIEST DATE: 1889 ("The Lorgaire")

KEYWORDS: animal nonballad food

FOUND IN:

References (1 citation):
Finson-Edward-Harrigan-David-Braham, vol. II, #150, pp. 232-234, "Dolly, My Crumpled-Horn Cow" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [464 words]: For background on Harrigan and Braham, see the notes to "The Babies on Our Block."

This song really has no place in the Index; is certainly has no place in tradition, and it hasn't even been printed very often. But more than a dozen Harrigan/Braham songs did manage to become traditional, making them a very important source -- and this is the song that David Braham said was his favorite melody of all. I've put it in the Index on that admittedly somewhat peculiar basis. It comes from the play "The Lorgaire," which "gave Braham the opportunity to produce seven new songs, including his personal favorite, "Dolly, My Crumpled-Horn Cow," an old-style folk ballad of Mozartian simplicity and grace about a farmer's devotion to his cow" (Franceschina, p. 190). "The Lorgaire" was one of Edward Harrigan's few dramatic flops (date seemingly uncertain; Moody, p. 82, dates it to February 18, 1878, but Franceschina, p. 234, to 1889, which is also the date on the sheet music in the Levy Collection at Johns Hopkins; Finson-Edward-Harrigan-David-Braham, p. 366, says December 10, 1888. Presumably the 1879 date is of the first production, with the play re-introduced in the 1880s, but it's not clear when this song went into it).

Moody, p. 82, explains the play, which sounds interesting despite its failure; it "was an extraordinarily long play, three acts and multiple scenes, laid in and around a fishing village in County Galway on the west coast of Ireland. In Gaelic a lorgaire is a searcher or pursuer. Harrigan's lorgaire was a detective from Scotland Yard....

"Harrigan's detective, Cornelius Dempsey, appears alternately as a peddler, a blind piper, and a schoolmaster. His disguises never fool the audience but utterly confound the other characters. Many friends slipped into the theatre regularly just to observe him thrashing about in the academic world: I am Dyonesius Kavanaugh, Professor of the Learned Languages, also a Homo Factus Ad U ungeum, and teacher of bookkeeping, geometry, trogonometry, stereometry, mensuration, navigation, galvanism, ventilation, explosion, and cholera morphus. Quas Enumerare Longum Est. "Harrigan often remarked that The Lorgaire was one of the best plays he ever wrote, a claim that rested on his pride in having matched, some say beat, [Dion] Boucicault at his own game." Moody, p. 155: "In 1891 a reported asked Braham how many songs he'd composed and which were his favorites. Probably around one hundred eighty had been published, another twenty were still in manuscript, and he had the most recent ones in his pocket. The public seemed to favor 'Babies on Our Block,' "Widow Dunn,' 'The Mulligan Guard,' and 'Charleston Blues.' He would never dispute them, although he was proudest of 'Mollie [sic.] My Crumpled Horn Cow.'" - RBW

Bibliography

Last updated in version 5.2

File: HaBrDMCC

Dolly's Brae (I)

DESCRIPTION: July 12, 1849. "Ten hundreds of our Orangemen together did combine" to celebrate the Battle of the Boyne at Dolly's Brae. Two priests can't turn the march to fight the gathered Catholics. "And the Orange cry, as we passed by, was 'Dolly's Brae no more'"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1849 (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)

KEYWORDS: violence Ireland political

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- July 12, 1848 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae, County Down, and divert an Orangemen's march.
- July 12, 1849 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae but the Orangemen would not be diverted. At least thirty Catholics are killed in the fight. No Orangemen are hit. (source: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 96, "Dolly's Brae" (2 texts, 1 tune)
- Graham-TheOrangeSongster, p. 15, "Dolly's Brae" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Dolly's Brae (II)" (subject)
- cf. "Dolly's Brae (III)" (subject)
- cf. "Dolly's Brae (IV)" (subject)
- cf. "A Dream of Dolly's Brae" (subject)

NOTES [376 words]:

July 12 is the Gregorian Calendar (adopted in England in 1752) date for celebrating the victory of William III of Orange in the Battle of the Boyne, July 1, 1690. Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion: "There are at least six other ballads on the same subject, most of them with some stanzas in common."

For another ballad with many illegible words see Bodleian, Harding B 26(143), "Doly's [sic] Brae's No More" ("Come all you loyal Orangemen, I pray listen unto me"), unknown, n.d. - BS

According to Jonathan Bardon, A History of Ulster, Blackstaff Press, 1992, pp. 302-304, the Orange Order in 1849 announced a long march, avoiding the main roads in order to march through mostly Catholic districts. "Clearly the intention was to provoke the Catholic Ribbonmen, but as the Party Processions Act had lapsed, the authorities hoped that if enough troops and police were sent, a clash could be prevented." Reportedly there were at least 1200 heavily armed marchers. Perhaps a thousand Ribbonmen came out in response, but the two factions for long merely maneuvered without violence.

Major Wilkinson, who led troops on Dolly's Brae between the two mobs, reported that "there went bang a shot in front, but I don't know where it came from no more than the man in the moon." Another officer thought it sounded "more like a squib," but felt it came from the Orange side. But whatever the initial sound was, it soon had both sides shooting.

"At the top of the hill the police found eighteen pitchforks, seven pikes and ten muskets, and half a dozen bodies. Not a single Orangeman was wounded. The forces of law and order were also unscathed, except for a constable accidentally bayonetted in the arm.... The Catholics took away most of their dead and wounded, but the Newry Telegraph... reckoned that no fewer than fifty of the Ribbonmen were either killed or wounded'. The government inquiry estimated that at least thirty Catholics had been killed."
The result was a new Party Processions Act, but of course the damage to inter-religious relations had been done.
For other ballads of Party Fights -- of which Dolly's Brae was the most famous and probably the most severe -- see "The Battle That Was Fought in the North" and "The Lamentation of James O'Sullivan." - RBW

File: Zimm096

Dolly's Brae (II)

DESCRIPTION: "Ribbon-knaves" attacked a July 12 Orange parade with "murderous volleys." The Orangemen "quenched the Popish brand which death-fires would have lighted." Afterwards Orangemen are attacked but "ten hundred Paypishes [are knocked] right over Dolly's Brae" AUTHOR: unknown

EARIEST DATE: 1925 (Hayward-UlsterSongsAndBalladsOfTheTownAndCountry)

KEYWORDS: violence Ireland political

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- July 12, 1848 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae, County Down, and divert an Orangemen's march.
- July 12, 1849 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae but the Orangemen would not be diverted. At least thirty Catholics are killed in the fight. No Orangemen are hit. (source: Zimmermann)

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Hayward-UlsterSongsAndBalladsOfTheTownAndCountry, pp. 120-121, "Dolly's Brae" (1 text)
Roud #6544

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Dolly's Brae (I)" (subject) and references there

NOTES [18 words]: For background on Dolly's Brae, and other songs on party fights, see the notes to "Dolly's Brae (I)." - (RBW, BS)

File: HayU120

Dolly's Brae (III)

DESCRIPTION: July 12, 1849: Lord Roden invites the Rathfriland Orangemen to march. Priests Mooney and Murphy encourage the "rebels." "The Ribbonmen advantage took and fired upon our rear" but no Orangemen were hit in the battle. The Orangemen claim "glorious victory"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARIEST DATE: c.1895 (Graham-TheOrangeSongster)

KEYWORDS: violence Ireland political

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- July 12, 1848 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae, County Down, and divert an Orangemen's march.
- July 12, 1849 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae but the Orangemen would not be diverted. At least thirty Catholics are killed in the fight. No Orangemen are hit. (source: Zimmermann)

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Graham-TheOrangeSongster, p. 14, "Dolly's Brae" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 96, "Dolly's Brae" (1 fragment)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Dolly's Brae (I)" (subject) and references there

NOTES [148 words]: July 12 is the Gregorian Calendar (adopted in England in 1752) date for celebrating the victory of William III of Orange in the Battle of the Boyne, July 1, 1690.
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion: "There are at least six other ballads on the same subject, most of them with some stanzas in common."
In "A Dream of Dolly's Brae" one priest, named Morgan, is mentioned as leading the ambush. This song establishes that "Lord Roden was Grand Master of the Orangemen." - BS
The Rodens were strongly linked to the Protestant cause. According to Jonathan Bardon, A History of Ulster, Blackstaff Press, 1992, p. 238, they were among the Ulster landowners who had voted for Union in 1800. The Dolly's Brae march, according to Bardon, p. 303, was to terminate on Lord
Dolly's Brae (IV)

DESCRIPTION: July 12, [18]49 an Orange march is intercepted by Catholic Ribbonmen but "we did them greatly scar." The Orange "were the conquerors of Crossgar." For loyalty to the Pope the "false misguided heretics ... will be rewarded in the regions down below"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (IRRCinnamond01)
KEYWORDS: violence Ireland political religious
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
July 12, 1848 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae, County Down, and divert an Orangemen's march.
July 12, 1849 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae but the Orangemen would not be diverted. At least thirty Catholics are killed in the fight. No Orangemen are hit. (source: Zimmerman)
FOUND IN: Ireland
Roud #6544
RECORDINGS:
Robert Cinnamond, "Dolly's Brae" (on IRRCinnamond01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Dolly's Brae (I)" (subject) and references there
NOTES [86 words]: As in "A Dream of Dolly's Brae," the Catholic priest among the Ribbonmen is named Morgan; "Dolly's Brae (I)" mentions two priests and "Dolly's Brae (III) names them Mooney and Murphy.

For a reference to Crossgar see "Defence of Crossgar." For a sense of the times and the antagonism caused by sectarian parades note that "Crossgar" is the St Patrick's Day between the "Dolly's Brae" July 12 events. - BS
For background on Dolly's Brae, and other songs on party fights, see the notes to "Dolly's Brae (I)."
- (RBW, BS)
File: RcDolBr4

Dolphin, The

DESCRIPTION: "All on one summer's morning, The fourteenth day of May, our Dolphin slipped her cable...." The song describes the ship's triumphant voyage

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Greig/Duncan1)
KEYWORDS: sailor battle
FOUND IN: US(SE) Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 66, "The Dolphin" (1 text, probably a confused version of "The Dolphin" and "The Banks of the Nile" [Laws N9] or similar)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #125, p. 2, "The Saucy Dolphin" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan1 41, "The Saucy Dolphin" (1 text)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #4, "The Dolphin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #690
RECORDINGS:
Sam Larner, "The Dolphin" (on SLarner02)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Warlike Seamen (The Irish Captain)" (plot, lyrics) and references there
NOTES [82 words]: Any number of Royal Navy ships were named Dolphin; one laid down in 1751 was reportedly the ninth of that name (that one was famous as an exploring vessel, and for its early use of a copper-coated bottom). Whether this song is actually based on the exploits of a particular Dolphin is unclear.
Roud lumps this with "The French Privateer" and "Warlike Seamen (The Irish Captain)," and there are common lyrics and thematic similarities, but I would consider them separate but related songs.-RBW
Last updated in version 4.1
File: ChFRS066
Dolphin's Return, The

DESCRIPTION: "Ye bold British tars, who to glory are free, Who dare venture your lives for your fortune at sea," will hear of the trip of the Dolphin and the Swallow to explore the Pacific. They are separated in Magellan's Straits. The Dolphin finally arrives home

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Firth)
KEYWORDS: ship travel storm separation
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 51, "The Dolphin's Return" (1 text, 1 tune)
  Roud #V10497
  File: PaSe051

Dom Pedro, The [Laws D12]

DESCRIPTION: The Dom Pedro sails from Boston to Shanghai. The crew reaches their destination, unload the ship, and rejoice at the thought of coming home

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen)
KEYWORDS: ship return
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
  Laws D12, "The Dom Pedro"
  Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, pp. 179-180, "The Dom Pedro" (1 text, 1 tune)
  DT 678, DOMPEDRO
  Roud #2236
  File: LD12

Don Buck

DESCRIPTION: "There is a man that gives a hand To all that riff-raff band. At night you'll see Don pleasantly" travel through the city to gather up those who are drunk. He takes the men to a mining camp where rules are strictly enforced. In the end, they benefit

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1967 (Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry)
KEYWORDS: prisoner drink punishment help
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 12, "Don Buck" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [70 words]: Based on the description in Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, it would appear that Francisco Rodrigues Flguero, known as "Don Buk" (sic.), ran a gumdiggign camp near Swanson, New Zealand, that in effect served as a halfway house for those released from Mt Eden prison. He was successful enough at rehabilitating the felons that he became a minor New Zealand legend, with various landmarks named after him. - RBW
  Last updated in version 4.4
  File: Col2067

Don' Cher Look at Me, Ca'line

DESCRIPTION: "Don' cher look at me, Ca'line, Don' cher look at me! You done busted up many a po' niggah's hat, But you ain't a-goin' to bust up mine! Oh, it's hahd to love, An' it's mighty hahd to leave, But it's hahder to make up yo' mind."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: love separation nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 273, "Don' Cher Look at Me, Ca'line" (1 short text,

Don't Be a Coward, Don't Be Afraid

DESCRIPTION: "Don't be a coward, Don't be afraid, And for Heaven's sake, Don't die an old maid."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore)

KEYWORDS: oldmaid

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, p. 134, "(Don't be a coward)" (1 short text, from an autograph book)

File: SaKo134D

Don't Be Weary Traveller

DESCRIPTION: "Don't be weary, traveler, come along home to Jesus (x2)." "My head got wet with the morning dew, Come along home... Angels bear me witness too." "Where to do I did not know, Ever since he freed my soul." "I look at the world and the world look new."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, p. 75, "Don't Be Weary Traveller" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 113, "Don't Be Weary, Traveller" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 127 in the 1901 edition)

Roud #12036

File: AWG075

Don't Call the Roll

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Don't call the roll (x4), "Till I get there." Verse: "Jacob's ladder slim and tall, Ain't got the faith surely you must fall." "Two white angels walking down, Long white robe and starry crown."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious

FOUND IN: US(SE,So)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 119, "Don't Call de Roll" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 150 in the 1901 edition)
Arnold-FolkSongsOfAlabama, p. 174, "Don't Call the Roll" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang, pp. 300-301, "Tell John Don' Call duh Roll" (1 text, 1 tune)
JournalOfAmericanFolklore, Anna Kranz Odum, "Some Negro Folk-Songs from Tennessee," Vol. 27, No. 105 (Jul-Sep 1914), #12 p. 261, "O Sinner Man, You So Hard to Lead" (1 text)

Roud #15254

NOTES [55 words]: In Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute's verses, every alternate line is "Don't call the roll till I get there." The last line of the verse in Odum is "O sinner man, you so hard to lead," and in Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang it is "Oh, sinnuh man, yuh would not belebe." - BS

Last updated in version 5.3

File: Dett119
Don't Care Was Made to Care

DESCRIPTION: "Don't care was made to care, Don't care was hung, Don't care was put in a pot, And boiled till he was done." Reportedly used as a response when one child told another "Don't care."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1900 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty execution
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 136, "(Don't care was made to care)" (1 text)
File: SuSm136A

Don't Come to Michigan

DESCRIPTION: Singer tells listeners all the reasons not to come to the Michigan lumber woods: snakes, bugs, dangerous sawmills, corduroy roads, quack doctors, and thieving merchants.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks); Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan reports a claim that it was written in 1848
KEYWORDS: warning lumbering work nonballad logger
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
  Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 3, "Don't Come to Michigan" (1 text)
  Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan, pp. 116-119, "Don't Come to Michigan" (2 texts)
  Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 9, "Don't Come to Michigan" (1 text)
  Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 407-408, "Don't Come to Michigan" (1 text)
Roud #6524
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "The Rigs of the Times" (lyrics)
  cf. "On Meesh-e-gan" (theme)
File: Be003

Don't Count Your Chickens

DESCRIPTION: The singer warns against counting one's chickens before they are hatched. He cites as examples the banker who expected to be rich but had his house attached, the boy who expected to marry but had his girl stolen away, etc.

AUTHOR: Probably Rudy Sooter
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: warning money courting
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Randolph 482, "Don't Count Your Chickens" (1 text)
Roud #7584
RECORDINGS:
  Rudy Sooter, "Don't Count Your Chickens" (Black & White 10023, n.d.)
File: R482

Don't Forget Me, Little Darling (I)

DESCRIPTION: Lost love song recognized mostly by the title line. As one lover departs, the other notes that "you may meet with many changes... But remember, little darling, you are ever in my dreams." The singer says (she) will be true

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1920 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: love separation floatingverses
Don't Get Trouble in Your Mind

DESCRIPTION: Singer tells of troubles with ex-sweetheart. She says he is the "meanest boy that ever lived or died." Later, she throws her arms around him "like grapevines round a gum." At his last visit, she had "Johnny's arms around her, and the baby on the floor."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Fields and/or Crockett Ward)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer tells of troubles with ex-sweetheart; he goes to see her but she says he is the "meanest boy that ever lived or died." He goes again; she throws her arms around him "like grapevines round a gum." He tells listeners to tell her "if she goes to make her bread, to wash her nasty hands" and that "if she don't like my way of doin', to get some other fella." The last time he's seen her, she had "Johnny's arms around her, and the baby on the floor."

KEYWORDS: hardheartedness loneliness courting floating verses dance tune baby lover

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES:
- _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 20, #5 (1971), p, 10, "Don't Get Trouble in Your Mind" (1 text, 1 tune, the J. E. Mainer version)
- Roud #14067

RECORDINGS:
- Allen Bros., "Ain't That Skippin' and Flyin'" (Columbia 15270-D, 1928) [see Notes]; "Skipping and Flying" (Victor V-40266, 1930/Bluebird B-5772, 1935; rec. 1928); "Skippin' and Flyin'", Vocalion 02939, 1935/ARC 6-12-57, 1936; rec. 1934) [see Notes]
- Frank Blevins & his Tar Heel Rattlers, "Don't Get Trouble in Your Mind" (Columbia 15280-D, 1928; on Lost Prov1, GoinUpTown)
- Sam Connor & Dent Wimmer, "Don't Get Trouble in Mind" (instrumental) (on OldTrad1, FarMtns1)
- Grayson County RailSplitters, " Ain't That Trouble in Mind" (on StuffDreams1)
- Mainer's Mountaineers, "Don't Get Trouble in Your Mind" (Bluebird B-7289, 1937)
- Fields [and/or Crockett] Ward & the Grayson County RailSplitters] "Ain't That Trouble in Mind" (OKeh 45304, 1929; rec. 1927)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Pig at Home in the Pen" (floating verse)
- cf. "Shady Grove", "Darling Corey" (floating phrase)
- cf. "Liza Jane" (floating verses)
- cf. "Willy, Poor Boy" (floating verses)

NOTES: While one verse and a phrase float, most of the rest of the song is original; the verses sound like floaters but aren't. If, as I suspect, Frank Blevins wrote the piece, it was a remarkable achievement; it's a brilliant song, his fiddling was superb, and he was all of fifteen years old when he recorded. - PJS

It appears to me that this song is actually closest to "Liza Jane:" a Stanley Brothers version has several stanzas in common with this piece. But it does appear to be at least an adaption of that framework. - RBW

I don't think so; Liza Jane is much more a collection of floaters, whereas this has a unifying theme. of the singer's rejection by the girl. If the Stanley Brothers' version of "Liza Jane" -- recorded decades later -- includes overlapping verses, my guess is they were taken from this song, rather than the other way around.

Well, here's a conundrum; the Allen Bros. " Ain't That Skippin' and Flyin' " uses an identical tune with "Don't Get Trouble in Your Mind," but the verses are floaters, without the implicit plot of this song. Frank Blevins's recording of, "Don't Get Trouble in Your Mind" was made first -- by three days, and for the same record company. But then, the Ward recording predates both, and its title splits the difference. Its words are floaters as well. - PJS

Last updated in version 5.2
File: RcDGTIYIM

Don't Get Weary

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Don't get weary, Angels brought the tidings down, Don't get weary, I'm hunting for a home." Verses are about judgment day: "world on fire" "elements melting" "moon bleeding" "stars falling"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 114, "Don't Get Weary (My Brethren, Don't Get Weary)" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 180 in the 1874 edition)
Roud #12051

NOTES [35 words]: In Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute's verses, every alternate line is "I do love the Lord." While the verse themes are common I don't recognize any floating verses. - BS

Last updated in version 4.0
File: Dett114

Don't Get Weary Children (Massa Had a Yellow Gal)

DESCRIPTION: "Massa had a yellow gal, He brought her from the south, Her hair it curled so very tight She couldn't shut her mouth," "He took her to a tailor" to repair her defect; "She swallowed up the tailor." Now he uses her nose "to hang his hat and coat."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1860 (broadside, LOCSinging sb10148a)

KEYWORDS: slave humorous floating verses

FOUND IN: US(Ap, SE) Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (8 citations):
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 903-904, "Massa Had a Yellow Gal" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 406, "Massa Had a Yaller Gal" (1 text plus 2 fragments; the one full text consists mostly of floating verses); also 405, "Dearest Mae" (the "C" excerpt contains the first verse of this song)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 406, "Massa Had a Yaller Gal" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 66-68, "Ole Mars'r Had a Yaller Gal," "Ol' Mars'r Had a Pretty Yaller Gal," "Massa Had a Yaller Gal" (2 texts plus a fragment, 1 tune); also p. 110, "Dar Was a Gal in our Town" (1 short text, with the "don't get weary" chorus though Scarborough links it with "Old Virginny Never Tire")
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #80, "Shoo Fly" (1 short text, 1 tune, lumped with "Shoo Fly" by Roud because it has the single chorus line "Shoo fly, don't you bother me" but which is otherwise "Don't Get Weary Children (Massa Had a Yellow Gal)")
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 112, "Coloured Girl from the South" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, p. 355, [no title] (1 text)
cf. Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, p. 481, "Massa Had a Yaller Gal" (source notes only)
ST BAF904 (Full)
Roud #11744
RECORDINGS:
Uncle Dave Macon [w. McGee Bros.], "Don't Get Weary Children" (Decca 5369, 1937; Montgomery Ward 8029, 1939; Champion 45048; rec. 1934)
Kirk & Sam McGee, "Coming from the Ball" (on McGeeSmith1)

BROADSIDES:
LOCSinging. sb10148a, "Gal From the South," J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Old Bee Makes the Honey Comb" (floating verses)
cf. "Letter from Down the Road" (lyrics)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
I Ain't Got Time to Tarry

NOTES [119 words]: The version printed in Botkin has almost a ballad flavor; it is the exaggerated story of how a master dealt with a physically unusual slave. Dave Macon has a fuller version, "Don't Get Weary Children." The latter has a much larger set of verses, and might be a separate song -- but who knows how much of it comes from Uncle Dave's imagination?
The texts in Brown don't help much, either; two are fragments and the third a collection of floating verses. Scarborough's several versions also show much diversity. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: BAF904

---

Don't Get Weary, We'll Get Home By and By

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Don't get weary (3x), We'll get home by and by." Verses: "O we'll break this bread (shout and talk, sing and shout) together (x2), On the other side of Jordan, We'll get home by and by"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious

FOUND IN: West Indies(Bahamas)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories 40, "We'll Git Home By and By" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [304 words]: The description is based on the Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories text. The song indexed as "Don't Get Weary Children (Massa Had a Yellow Gal)" includes some texts with a chorus that has the form -- with a different tag line -- of the Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories text for this hymn and the Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates text for "O Brothers, Don't Get Weary." The tunes do not match the one sung for "Don't Get Weary Children (Massa Had a Yellow Gal)" by Uncle Dave Macon or Kirk & Sam McGee, but there is likely a connection between those songs and a hymn like these via the music hall or minstrel show. "Don't Get Weary, Children," "as sung by Johnny Roach" is a minstrel-show type of song with a half verse "When de sun rise in de mornin', Down by de yellow corn, Dat's de time de larks take warnin', When Dinah blows de horn!" and chorus "Oh, don't get weary, don't get weary children, Don't get weary, because I'm gwine home" ( Wehman's Collection of 95 Songs No. 2 (New York, n.d., "digitized by Internet Archive")), p. 39). Neither Wehman nor Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs "Dar Was a Gal in our Town" -- the other "Don't Get Weary Children (Massa Had a Yellow Gal)" text in this form -- include tunes.
Incidentally, the tune played by Macon and the McGees is also played by Fiddlin' John Carson as "The Old Grey Horse Ain't What He Used To Be" (OK 45471, 1930) but -- since that recording is partly a spoken comedy routine about an old horse -- I don't know if Carson changed the name of his tune to fit the routine; we have another well known "Out of the Wilderness" tune for "Old Grey Mare" (I) (where you'll find Carson's recording indexed). I'm speculating that one of these hymns was minstrelized: its chorus taken, pseudo-Black verses added, and all put to a lively two-part fiddle tune. - BS

Last updated in version 4.2
File: Edwa040
Don't Give Us a Make and Mend, Sir
DESCRIPTION: "Don't give us a Make and Mend, sir, We might come over faint. There's not many 'Jimmies' like you, sir, It's a bloody good job there ain't."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1985 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)
KEYWORDS: sailor request
FOUND IN: Britain(England)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, p. 116, "Don't Give Us a Make and Mend, Sir" (1 short text)
File: Tawn116

Don't Go in Them Lion's Cage Tonight Mother
DESCRIPTION: "A lady once had a lovely daughter, The lady was an actress on the stage" who performed with lions. One day the daughter warns her mother not to perform, but the mother is attacked by a lion. A young man rescues the mother; he marries the daughter
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions)
KEYWORDS: animal warning mother children marriage humorous
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Warner-FolkSongsAndBalladsOfTheEasternSeaboard, pp. 32-33, "The Lion's Cage" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 100-101, "Don't Go in them Lion's Cage Tonight, Mother" (1 text)
Roud #9629
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Don't Go in Them Lion's Cage Tonight Mother
NOTES [61 words]: Sort of a combination of "The Dream of the Miner's Child" and "The Lady of Carlisle" [Laws O25]. I suspect it's derived from one or the other, but I don't know which.
Sigmund Spaeth, A History of Popular Music in America p. 351, calls this a turn of the century "burlesque... which John Gilroy and E. Ray Goetz interpolated in the Blue Moon of Paul Rubens." - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: WarE022

Don't Go Out Tonight, My Darling
DESCRIPTION: The wife pleads: "Don't go out tonight, my darling, Do not leave me here alone... Though the wine-cup may be tempting And your friends are full of glee... Darling, won't you stay with me?" But he goes out, and is carried home (dead?)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Grayson & Whitter; manuscript version from 1889?)
KEYWORDS: drink husband wife separation
FOUND IN: US(SE,So)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Randolph 339, "Don't Go Out Tonight, My Darling" (1 text)
Abrahams/Riddle-ASingerAndHerSongs, pp. 103-104, "Don't Go Out Tonight, My Darling" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 26, "Don't Go Out Tonight, My Darling" (3 texts)
Roud #3521
RECORDINGS:
Uncle Henry's Original Kentucky Mountaineers, "Don't Go Out Tonight My Darling" (Capitol 48036, 1949)
File: R339
Don't Go Ridin' Down That Old Texas Trail

DESCRIPTION: "Don't do ridin' down that old Texas trail (x2), Oh my darling, stay at home, don't go out alone." "Oh the nights are gettin mighty long... And I'm singin' you this song." "Oh, my darling, you done me wrong... Don't do riding down that old Texas trail."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1978 (Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices)

KEYWORDS: travel nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices, p. 15, "Don't Go Ridin' Down That Old Texas Trail."

Roud #4955

File: Rose015

Don't Go, Tommy

DESCRIPTION: "You'll miss it, my boy, now mind what I say, Don't spend all your money and time in that way." The aged parents beg Tommy not to go out carousing. They tell him to work, and remind him that they cared for him. Refrain" Don't go there, Tommy, don't go."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Randolph); 19C (Wolf)

KEYWORDS: age family work nonballad gambling drink

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Randolph 857, "Don't Go, Tommy" (1 text)
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, pp. 163-164, "Don't You Go, Tommy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #511, p. 34, "Don't You Go, Tommy" (1 reference)

Roud #7531

File: R857

Don't Knock

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "You don't knock, you just walk in, The door to heaven's inn"; love joy and old friends are waiting; "don't knock ring push or hold." Verses are about the singer's certainty that, with Jesus as "my guide, ever by my side," entry to heaven is sure.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (recording, Staple Singers)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:
Reverend Ott and Family, "You Don't Knock, You Just Walk On In" (on USMississippi01)
Staple Singers, "Don't Knock" (Vee Jay 902, 1961)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
You Don't Knock

File: RcYDoKno

Don't Leave Me, Lord

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Don't leave me Lord (2x), Lord, don't leave me behind (2x)." Verses: "Jesus is my friend ... He will go with me to the end." "I don't want to stumble and I don't want to stop ... I don't want to be a stumbling block."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 31, "Don't Leave Me, Lord" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 117 in the 1901 edition)
Don't Leave Your Mother When Her Hair Turns Gray

DESCRIPTION: "Stick to your mother, Tom, And don't you leave her worry, lad." The singer, who lost his father at a young age, reminds Tom of how his mother cared for him. So Tom is advised to care for mother, even when her hair turns gray

AUTHOR: Words: Charles Osborne/Music: Ernest J. Symons (?)

EARLIEST DATE: 1885 (sheet music)

KEYWORDS: age mother sailor orphan

FOUND IN: US(MW,So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 717, "Stick to Your Mother, Tom" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7380

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I'm a Decent Boy from Ireland" (theme)

NOTES [19 words]: Apparently originally titled "Stick to Your Mother, Tom," but I've used the only title I found in tradition. - RBW

File: R717

Don't Let Your Deal Go Down

DESCRIPTION: Floating verses: "Been all around this whole round world... Anyplace I hang my hat/Feels like home to me"; "Left my little girl a'crying"; "Where did you get your high-top shoes"

Chorus: "Don't let your deal go down/Till your last (g)old dollar is gone"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (recording, Charlie Poole)

KEYWORDS: gambling nonballad floatingverses

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 301, "High-Topped Shoes" (2 texts, both mixed; "A" is mostly "Pretty Little Foot" with verses from "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" while "B" is a hash of "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down," "More Pretty Girls Than One," "In the Pines," and others)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 301, "High-Topped Shoes" (2 tunes plus text excerpts, both of which have verses of this song)
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, pp. 182-183, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rorrer-RamblingBlues-LifeAndSongsOfCharliePoole, p. 70, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down Blues" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, p. 285, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 144, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" (1 text)

DT, DEALDOWN*

Roud #4854

RECORDINGS:
Fiddlin' John Carson, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" (OKeh 45096, 1927)
Lake Howard, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" (Perfect 13151, 1935)
Dick Justice, "Old Black Dog" (Brunswick 395, c. 1929)
Kessinger Brothers, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" (Brunswick 411, 1930)
Sam & Kirk McGee, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" (on ClassOT)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" (on NLCR01, NLCRCD1) (NLCR12)
W. Lee O'Daniel & the Light Crust Doughboys, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" (Vocalion 03471, 1937)
Charlie Poole and the North Carolina Ramblers, "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down Blues" (Columbia 15038-D, 1925; on CPoole01, CPoole05); (Columbia 15184-D, 1927)
Don't Let Your Deal Go Down

DESCRIPTION: "Don' let yo' watch run down, Cap'n, Don' let yo' watch run down. Workin' on de levee, dollar an' half a day, Workin' for my Lulu, gettin' mo' dan pay." "...Workin on' de railroad, mud up to my knees, Workin' for my Lulu, she's a hard ole gal to please."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)

KEYWORDS: railroading work hardtimes floating verses

FOUND IN: US (So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 370, "Don' Let Yo' Watch Run Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 247, "Don't Let Your Watch Run Down, Cap'n" (1 short text)

Roud #11641

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Working on the New Railroad" (floating lyrics)
cf. "Hang Me, Oh Hang Me (Been All Around This World)" (floating verses)

File: San370

Don't Lie, Buddy

DESCRIPTION: "Mammy Logan, she had a daughter And she run a cookshop down in Florida. How I know? God knows I been there, An I bought four pork chops -- for a quarter. A-don't lie, buddy, don't lie." A collection of semi-tall tales with a bluesy, bawdy feel

AUTHOR: (published versions adapted by Josh White?)

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1945 (recording, Lead Belly & Josh White)

KEYWORDS: food lie courting animal tall tale

FOUND IN: US (SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 295, "Don't Lie, Buddy" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
Leadbelly & Josh White, "Don't Lie, Buddy" (Asch 432, rec. c. 1945)

File: LoF295

Don't Like Your Family

DESCRIPTION: "I don't like your family, They don't make a hit with me, I don't like to bother Lending money to your father, While your mother would live on me. I don't think your Uncle Joe Ever had a collar on." She is a lady, but the singer wants to marry an orphan

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)

KEYWORDS: love family rejection orphan humorous
Don't Never Marry a Drunkard

DESCRIPTION: "Seven long year I've done been married, I wish to God I was an old maid...." The woman marries a man who made fine promises, but now he won't work or care for the children; he spends his nights in a bar. The woman warns girls against marrying drunkards

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Randolph)

KEYWORDS: drink marriage warning

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Randolph 337, "Don't Never Marry a Drunkard" (1 text)

Roud #724

ALTERNATE TITLES: Seven Long Years

File: R337

Don't Put Me Off At Buffalo Anymore

DESCRIPTION: "To see the Pan American I went to Buffalo." "I'd sooner visit some department store." "I'd see more sights on a Sunday night on the beach at Coney Isle." And besides that he is cheated and over-charged at every turn.

AUTHOR: William Jerome (see Notes)

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)

KEYWORDS: travel abuse ordeal

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

1901 - The Pan American Exposition held in Buffalo (where, although it is not mentioned in this song, William McKinley was shot)

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

Roud #26319

RECORDINGS:

unknown singer, "Don't Put Me Off At Buffalo Anymore" (on MUNFLA-Leach)

NOTES [205 words]: Article The Pan-American Exposition Selected Sources in the Grosvenor Room is a PDF accessed 11 Aug 2018 at the Buffalo & Erie County Public Library site https://www.buffalolib.org/sites/default/files/pdf/genealogy/subject-guides/Pan-Am.pdf. On page 15 it has two relevant sheet music references:

"Don't Put Me Off At Buffalo Anymore. lyrics by William Jerome. New York: Shapiro, Bernstein & Von Tilzer, 1901."

"Don't Put Me Off At Bufalo" is not a parody or continuation of the older song, but is an "answer" song. In "Put Me Off..." the singer takes a sleeper at Albany and asks the porter to wake him at Buffalo, where his wife is waiting with a rig. The porter gets drunk, tries to wake the wrong man, and the singer finally wakes when the train pulls into Cleveland. In "Don't Put Me Off..." the singer can think of no good reason to get off at Buffalo while the Exposition is there. For the text of "Put Me Off At Buffalo" see The Lester S. Levy Sheet Music Collection at http://levysheetmusic.mse.jhu.edu/collection/058/147. - BS

Last updated in version 4.4

File: ML3DPOBA

Don't Run Down the Irish (My Father Was Born in Killarney)

DESCRIPTION: "My father was born in Killarney, My mother was born in Cork; I've been taught to love old Ireland Ever since I could walk. So don't run down the Irish; If you do, you'll make me cry."
For an Irishman I've always been, And an Irishman I'll die."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987
KEYWORDS: nonballad Ireland
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, p. 224, "My Father was Born in Killarney" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: MCB224

---

Don't Sell Daddy Anymore Whiskey

DESCRIPTION: "Don't sell Daddy anymore whiskey, for I know it will take him away, We all are hungry and Mama is weeping, don't sell him no whiskey today." The child says father is kind when sober, but cruel when drunk, and begs the bartender to cut him off

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1964 (recording, Betty Garland)
KEYWORDS: drink commerce abuse family
FOUND IN: US
RECORDINGS:
Betty Garland, "Don't Sell Daddy Anymore Whiskey" (on BGarland01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Don't Sell Him Any More Rum" (subject)
NOTES [33 words]: When Paul Stamler sent me this, he asked if it is the same as "Don't Sell Him Any More Rum." Obviously the plots are the same. The forms are different enough, though, that I decided to split them. - RBW
File: RcDSDAMW

---

Don't Sell Him Any More Rum

DESCRIPTION: The girl appeals to the liquor-seller, "Don't sell him any more rum; He's reeling already, you see. I know when he comes home tonight He'll beat poor mama and me." The girl asks why the seller can't sell something "that won't make people so sad."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Giddens Sisters)
KEYWORDS: drink commerce abuse family
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Randolph 322, "Don't Sell Him Any More Rum" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 273-275, "Don't Sell Him Any More Rum" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 322)
DT, DONTSELL*
Roud #7796
RECORDINGS:
James & Martha Carson, "Don't Sell Him Another Drink" (Capitol 57-40175, 1949)
Giddens Sisters, "Don't Sell Pa Anymore Rum" (OKeh 45143, 1927)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Don't Sell Daddy Any More Whiskey" (subject)
File: R322

---

Don't Send Me Home

DESCRIPTION: "Give me time, lots of time, in the COF Command, Don't send me home. Let me stay, far away, from the country that I love, Don't send me home. Let me stay in this land, on a long vacation... No, MacKenzie, don't send me home. (Just kidding.)"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1979 (Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead)
KEYWORDS: home derivative soldier homesickness hardtimes exile
FOUND IN: Canada
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead, p. 78, "Don't Send Me Home" (1 text, tune referenced)
Roud #29410
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Don't Fence Me In" (tune)
cf. "Aliford Bay" (tune)
File: Hopk078A

Don't Speak To Me
DESCRIPTION: "Boys and girls take my advice Quit playing cards and shooting dice. "Don't drink no booze." "Don't be no thief, don't be no rogue." "Bad company you must shun." "Just keep right on and don't speak to me."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (StuffDreams1)
KEYWORDS: virtue crime theft gambling drink nonballad
FOUND IN:
RECORDINGS:
Lottie Kimbrough, "Don't Speak To Me" (on StuffDreams1)
File: RcDSptMe

Don't Stay After Ten
DESCRIPTION: "There is one thing I hate to say If ever you come again, To see me in my evening hours, You don't stay after ten." Last time he stayed late, and now her parents are on watch for the young man. Another mistake and it's over....
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: love courting family
FOUND IN: US(SE,So)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Randolph 375, "Don't Stay After Ten" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 16, "Don't Stay After Ten" (2 texts)
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 83, "Don't Stay After Ten" (2 texts plus an excerpt and mention of 1 more, 1 tune)
Roud #4969
File: R375

Don't Strike Out the Top Line
DESCRIPTION: "Don't strike out the top line, Rub out the other two, Don't be ruled by fanatics, To liberty be true. Don't let silly weaklings rule Who can't themselves control, Don't let go your precious rights." "Hold fast by liberty, The watchword of our race."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1896 (Ad in the Timaru Herald, according to Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)
KEYWORDS: drink political nonballad New Zealand
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, p. 95, "Don't Strike Out the Top Line" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Strike Out the Top Line" (subject of prohibition in New Zealand)
NOTES [360 words]: As Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ describe it, New Zealand voters had the option, every three years starting in 1894, to vote on prohibition, and they had three choices, from top to bottom:
CONTINUATION (maintaining the current number of liquor licenses)
REDUCTION (giving authorities the right to shut down up to a quarter of licenses)
NO LICENSE (complete elimination of alcohol)
Voting consisted of what is now called "approval voting" -- saying which choices were acceptable.
This song tries to take advantage of that situation. If the vote for NO LICENSE failed to reach the three-fifths majority needed for approval, then those ballots which listed both NO LICENSE and REDUCTION would count toward REDUCTION. If, as was possible, some who were pro-liquor voted for CONTINUATION and REDUCTION (on the grounds that REDUCTION was better than shutting things down entirely) and some voted only for REDUCTION (on the grounds that they didn't object to drink but thought there were too many pubs), then by only "striking out the top line" the prohibitionists could at least earn a reduction, which (by their standards) was better than nothing.

It doesn't seem to have worked; in the 1896 poll, at least, CONTINUATION won easily, with NO LICENSE slightly ahead of REDUCTION.

Even when New Zealand fixed (?) the voting system, their relationship with liquor remained complicated. According to Gordon Ell, Kiwiosities: An A-Z of New Zealand traditions & Folklore, New Holland Publishers, 2008, p. 136, a phenomenon called "Booze Barns" eventually came about: "During the 1960s the perverse logic of the Licensing Control Commission re-allocated liquor licenses from many ageing corner pubs to new hotels in the suburbs, surrounded by car parking. To enjoy a drink you had to drive. Huge public bars, detached from motel-like accommodation, provided the venue for mass drinking... The idea of a quiet, sociable drink was stifled by rock bands and the milling throng. Such 'booze barns' have deservedly lost custom' as liquor laws made it easier for local pubs and restaurants to serve alcohol.

According to Ell, p. 74, the last "dry towns" gave up in 1999. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: BaRo096

Don't Swat Your Mother, Boys

DESCRIPTION: Two brothers come home to find that dinner is not ready. One is about to hit his mother because she is slow. The youngest child tells them, "Don't swat you mother, boys, just because she is old." They beg forgiveness

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1988

KEYWORDS: family mother children violence food

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 128, "Don't Swat Your Mother, Boys"

(1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #15690

NOTES [35 words]: When I first saw this song, I couldn't believe it was a folk song. But here it is again. I'm pretty sure it appears in some other book(s) we have indexed, because I saw it there -- but I can't locate it now. - RBW

File: PHCFS128

Don't Take Everybody to Be Your Friend

DESCRIPTION: Singer is traveling for Jesus. His dying mother told him, If you see your brother in the fault, don't gossip; take it to God. People who owe you money will turn away. Refrain: "Don't mind what the people say/Lord, don't take everybody to be your friend"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (recording, Frederick McQueen & group)

KEYWORDS: hardheartedness virtue warning dying religious mother Jesus

FOUND IN: West Indies(Bahamas)

RECORDINGS:

Frederick McQueen & group, "Jesus Will Be Your Friend" (on MuBahamas2)

NOTES [74 words]: I assign Joseph Spence's title, "Don't Take Everybody to Be Your Friend" rather than Frederick McQueen's earlier title, as the 1965 Spence recording is the one that was most widely heard and picked up within the folk revival. - PJS

The thrust of this is almost all out of the Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5-7), with perhaps a slight detour into the story of the Good Samaritan, but the references are allusions rather than real citations. - RBW

File: RcDTEBYF
Don't Talk About It
DESCRIPTION: "July the redbird (hah!), redbird, August the fly (hah!)...." "Now don't talk about it (huh!), Bout it, if you do I'll cry." The singer wakes up with shovel and hammer by his side. The food is cabbage, beans, corn bread.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry)
KEYWORDS: prison work food
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 382-383, "Don't Talk About It" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #15588
RECORDINGS:
John Williams and Group, "On a Monday" (on VaWork)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Almost Done" (verse)
File: LoSi382

Don't Tell Little Lulu
DESCRIPTION: "Don't you tell little Lulu what road you left me on, Though she be ridin' ridin', I'll be gone on home.... Look over here and wonder wonder, Lulu see me, fall fall from my shoulder from me knees on down, I am on a new cut road, Don't write me li'l Lulu"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal)
KEYWORDS: separation reunion
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, Portia Naomi Crawford, "A Study of Negro Folk Songs from Greensboro, North Carolina and Surrounding Towns," Vol. XVI, No. 2 (Oct 1968), pp. 96-97, "Don't Tell Little Lulu" (1 text, 1 tune, which looks like a blues variation on a theme rather than a coherent song)
File: NCF162G

Don't You Feel the Fire A-Burning
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Don't you feel the fire a-burning, Yyou feel the fire a-burning (x2, So precious to your soul. Rise and give to glory, Shout Hallelujah, So precious to your soul") Verse replaces the leading "don't" with""My brother (sister,...)"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious
FOUND IN: West Indies(Bahamas)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories 20, "Don't You Feel the Fire A-Burnin'" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [12 words]: The description is based on the Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories text. - BS
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Edwa020

Don't You Grieve After Me (I)
DESCRIPTION: The singer describes various adventures: Being found by the police with a wallet not his own, sleeping in a hotel and being declared a deadbeat. Chorus: When I'm gone, Don't you, don't you grieve (x3), An' I told him not to grieve after me."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1915
KEYWORDS: rambling crime travel floatingverses
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Don't You Grieve for Me

DESCRIPTION: "My sister's took her flight, And gone home, And the angel's waiting at the door." "Tell all-a-my Father's children, don't you grieve for me." "She has taken up her crown." Presumably can be repeated for other relatives

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1915 (Work-FolkSongOfTheAmericanNegro)

KEYWORDS: religious death nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Work-FolkSongOfTheAmericanNegro, p. 58, "Don't You Grieve for Me" (1 text)

Roud #12089

File: FSAN058A

Don't You Hear Jerusalem Mourn?

DESCRIPTION: Describes the foibles of various denominations of preachers; a Baptist has a bottle in his pocket, etc. Chorus: "Don't you hear Jerusalem Mourn?...Thank God for the heaven bells a-rinin' and my soul starts singin'"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (recording, Bill Chitwood & Bud Landress)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Describes the foibles of various denominations of preachers; a Baptist has a bottle in his pocket, a Hardshell "never chews his own tobacco nor drinks his own booze," a Presbyterian is stiff-necked, a Holy Roller "gets them all a-rolling then he kicks the lights out." Chorus: "Don't you hear Jerusalem Mourn?...Thank God for the heaven bells a-rinin' and my soul starts singin'"

KEYWORDS: sex drink humorous nonballad clergy

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Richardson/Spaeth-AmericanMountainSongs, pp. 64-65, "Don't Ya Heah Jerusalem Moan?" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, JERUSLEM*

Roud #4945

RECORDINGS:
Warren Caplinger's Cumberland Mountain Entertainers, "Jerusalem Mourn" (Vocalion 5240, 1928)
Bill Chitwood & Bud Landress, "Jerusalem Mourn" (Brunswick 2809, 1925)
Gid Tanner & his Skillet Lickers, "Can't You Hear Jerusalem Moan" (Columbia 15104-D, 1926)
Cas Wallin, "Jerusalem Mourn" (on OldTrad1, FarMtns3)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Don't You Hear Jerusalem Moan?

NOTES [20 words]: This seems to be a distant parody of a spiritual, "Jerusalem Mourning", recorded in 1910. I suspect a minstrel origin. - PJS

Last updated in version 5.0

File: RcDYHJM
Don't You Hear My Hammer Ringing

DESCRIPTION: Chain-gang work song, with chorus line, "Oh don't you hear my hammer ringing?" The song complains about present work conditions, describes the career of Noah, and talks about his hammer

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1963

KEYWORDS: work worksong chaingang Bible floatingverses

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Courlander-NegroFolkMusic, pp. 99-101, (no title) (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Take This Hammer" (lyrics)
cf. "Oh, Mary, Don't You Weep" (lyrics)
cf. "Oh, Lord, How Long" (lyrics)

NOTES [43 words]: Courlander gives this as a single song, but it appears to me to be a combination of other songs. Very likely the gang leader just assembled the text from other songs (with a little glue of his own); it probably does not exist in tradition as an entity. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.5
File: CNFM099

Don't You Hear That Jaybird Call

DESCRIPTION: "Don't you hear that jaybird call -- Don't you hear them dead sticks fall? He's a throwin' down firewood for we-all, All on a Friday morning."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1969 (Raleigh Times, June 20, 1969, according to NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal)

KEYWORDS: bird

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, Joseph D. Clark, "North Carolina Popular Beliefs and Superstitions," Vol. XVIII, No. 1 (Jan 1970 Special Issue), p. 66, "Don't you hear that jaybird call" (1 text)

NOTES [69 words]: NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal identifies this as a fragment of a folk song, so it's indexed even though there is very little genuine source information.
The same article connects it with a legend that jays were servants of the devil and reported to their master on Fridays. Possibly sticks were connected with this legend. The connection seems reasonable but, without more of the song, I think this beyond proof. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1
File: NCF181DH

Don't You Hurry Worry with Me

DESCRIPTION: "Don't you hurry worry with me (x3), I'm gonna pack your eyes with sand." "If you tell me that again....." "Mr. Munson he get broke...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry)

KEYWORDS: nonballad

FOUND IN: West Indies(Bahamas)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, p. 87, "Don't You Hurry Worry with Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #15649

File: LxSi087
Don't You Know (Way Over in Williamson)

DESCRIPTION: "Don't you know Billy Bryan will never get there? Don't you know? (x2) Billy McKinley will fill the chair.... Way over in Williamson, away over in the county where we grow...." "Don't you know Henry Jones will be our next clerk...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1896 (Bryan/McKinley election); field collection 1934 (McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks)

KEYWORDS: political nonballad money gold

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1896 - Republican William McKinley wins the presidential election over William Jennings Bryan

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, pp. 19-20, "Way Over in Williamson"
ADDITIONAL: Richard M. Dorson, _Buying the Wind: Regional Folklore in the United States_, University of Chicago Press, 1964, pp. 408-410, "Don't You Know" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #15137

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Free Silver" (subject of William Jennings Bryan and the 1896 election) and references there

NOTES [52 words]: The song is correct. William Jennings Bryan ran for President three times but was never elected. For some background on Bryan, and the Cross of Gold, and his three presidential runs, see "Free Silver." The silver issue is alluded to in this song, in the statement, "Sixteen to one makes the gold bug shiver." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: RDBW408

Don't You Leave Me Here

DESCRIPTION: Floating verses: "Don't you leave me here...If you must go...leave me a dime for beer." "I've never had one woman... I've always had six, seven, eight or nine." "The rooster crowed... Saying, 'If you want to taste my fricassee you got to run me down."

AUTHOR: Possibly Jelly Roll Morton

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)

KEYWORDS: loneliness sex bragging abandonment parting separation money drink floatingverses nonballad lover

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 239, (no title) (1 short text)

RECORDINGS:
Charles Johnson's Original Paradise Ten, "Don't You Leave Me Here" (Victor 20653, 1927; on Protobilly)
Yas Yas Girl [pseud. for Merline Johnson], "Don't You Leave Me Here" (Conqueror 9079, 1938)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "Alabama Bound (II)" (floating verses)

NOTES [87 words]: Norm Cohen tells Paul Stamler that "Don't You Leave Me Here," a song sung by Jelly Roll Morton, not only shares lyrics with but is a version of "Alabama Bound (II)". We leave the question open. - (PJS, RBW)

Scarborough's text certainly has references to being Alabama Bound, but the form is rather different:
Don't you leave me here,
Don't you leave me here!
I'm Alabama bound,
I'm Alabama bound.
Don't you leave me here!
Ef you de train don't run.
I got a mule to ride,
I got a mule to ride,
Don't you leave me here. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: RcDYLMH
Don't You Like It
DESCRIPTION: "Don't you like it (x2), Here my collar, come and shake it. You think you's big because you been on the boat. You passed me by like a she nanny goat."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (collected from Annie Brewer)
KEYWORDS: nonballad clothes animal
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, p. 76, "Don't You Like It?" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #15646
File: LxSi076

Don't You Mind What The Devil Does
DESCRIPTION: "(Don't you mind what the (devil/Reverend/lawyer/deacon/hypocrit) does, Don't you mind) (x2) Don't you mind what the (...) does, He can't get to Heaven and he won't let you, Don't you mind."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Devil
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang, pp. 320-321, "Don't Yuh Min' W'at duh Debble Do" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [18 words]: The description follows Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang but I do not repeat the dialect. - BS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: HPR320D

Don't You Want To Go
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: ("Let's go down to Jordan"(3x) "Hallelujah") (2x) Verse: "Brother (sister, sinner), don't you want to go"(3x) "Come let's go down to Jordan, Hallelujah"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 31, "Don't You Want To Go" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: Bart031A

Don't You Weep After Me
DESCRIPTION: "When I'm dead and buried don't you weep after me (x3).... I don't want you to weep after me." Unrelated verses about death: "On the good ship of Zion"; "King Peter is my Captain"; "Bright angels are the sailors"; "When I do cross over"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories)
KEYWORDS: death nonballad Bible funeral
FOUND IN: US(SE,So) West Indies(Bahamas)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Randolph 262, "Jacob's Ladder" (1 text, 1 tune -- a fragment so short that it can only tentatively be classified with this piece; see also "Jacob's Ladder")
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 527, "Don't You Grieve After Me" (2 texts plus a fragment)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 527, "Don't You Grieve After Me" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories 35, "Don't You Weep After Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Donagh Hill

DESCRIPTION: "On the eighth of November In the year of '68" there was a hare hunt on Donagh Hill "on Colonel Madden's estate." "Tally Ho, Hark away." The route is described, the dogs named. The hare tires. The hunters plan to let it go but Gaynor makes the kill.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (IRHardySons)

KEYWORDS: death hunting animal dog moniker Ireland

FOUND IN: Ireland

Roud #17893

RECORDINGS:

Red Mick McDermott, "Donagh Hill" (on IRHardySons)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Bold Reynard the Fox (Tallyho! Hark! Away!)" (form, hunting theme)
cf. "The Hare's Dream" (form, hunting theme)

NOTES [24 words]: The Notes for "Killafole Boasters" discuss the practice of letting the hare, or fox, that has led a good chase, live to be hunted another day. - BS

File: RcDonHil

Donahue's Spree

DESCRIPTION: "Now come all you young men that wish for to travel Through hedges, through mud, and through dirt and much gravel"; the singer will tell you about the wild party, Donahue's Spree. The singer tells the story of "a lad in the corner" and the work he's done.

AUTHOR: Larry Gorman (1846-1917)

EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (Ives-LarryGorman)

KEYWORDS: party travel

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ives-LarryGorman, pp. 72-74, "Donahue's Spree" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #25121

File: LaGoDoSp

Donal' Don

DESCRIPTION: "Wha hasna heard o' Donal' Don, Wi' all his tanterwallops on; I trow, he was a lazy drone, And smuggled Hieland whisky, O." Donal, abandoned long ago by his love, lives a poor and isolated life, without a change of shirt, but all appreciate his whiskey.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Ford)
Donald and His Mither

DESCRIPTION: Donald invites a lass to marry and "sit beside young Donald's mither." If she deny him he'd sulk and "cuddle wi' my mither." She agrees "and I'll lie between you and your mither." Donald kicks his mother out of bed "and has fairly noo forgot his mither"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan4); 19C (broadside, Bodleian Firth b.26(382))

KEYWORDS: courting marriage sex humorous mother

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (1 citation): Greig/Duncan4 849, "Come Awa' Wi' Me, Lassie" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Firth b.26(382), "Donald and His Mither" ("Come, my lass, and be nae blate"), J. Scott (Pittenweem), 19C; also 2806 c.15(282), 2806 c.14(112), Harding B 25(537), "Donald and His Mither"
- Murray, Mu23-y1:013, "Donald and His Mither," J. Bristow (Glasgow), 19C
- NLScotland, L.C.Fol.178.A.2(088), "Donald and His Mither" ("Come my lass and be nae blate"), unknown, c.1875

NOTES [46 words]: Greig/Duncan4 is only the chorus; broadside NLScotland L.C.Fol.178.A.2(088) is the basis for the description. For another example of a not-so-innocent ballad reduced to an innocent ditty see "Ye Ken Pretty Well What I Mean, O" as Greig/Duncan1 50, "Green Leaves So Green." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD4849

Donald Campbell

DESCRIPTION: "Once I loved a fair young jockey; Donald Campbell was his name, Until it pleased God for to take him, Then a mourner I became." While racing the horse "Luna," Campbell is thrown and killed.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1957

KEYWORDS: death racing horse

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, p. 93, "Donald Campbell" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Wayfaring Stranger" (tune & meter)
- cf. "Tom Corrigan" (theme)
- cf. "The Death of Alec Robertson" (theme)
- cf. "Alec Robertson (I)" (theme)
- cf. "Alec Robertson (II)" (theme)

File: MA093

Donald Duck

DESCRIPTION: "Donald Duck is a one-legged, one-legged, one-legged duck" (sung while hopping on one foot). Then "...is a two-legged duck" (while hopping on two feet), then "three-legged" (add a hand), then four, concluding "Donald Duck is a duck"

AUTHOR: unknown
Donald Monroe [Laws J12]

DESCRIPTION: Monroe leaves Ireland for America, leaving his boys in Scotland because he cannot pay their fare. Years later the boys join the British army and sail to America. There the boys are killed by rebels, one of them their father; there is a sorrowful parting

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1778 (chapbook)

KEYWORDS: emigration family soldier reunion death battle parting

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW) Canada(Mar,Newf)

REFERENCES (11 citations):
Laws J12, "Donald Monroe"
Logan-APedlarsPack pp. 413-415, "Munro's Tragedy" (1 text)
Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy 51, "Daniel Monroe" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 51, "Daniel Monroe" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bethke-AdirondackVoices, pp. 113-114, "Two Sons of North Britain" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 157, "Donald Monroe" (1 fragment)
Peacock, pp. 812-816, "Donald Munro" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 37, "Daniel Monroe" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 61, "Donald Munro" (1 text, 1 tune) Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 131, "Donald Munro" (1 text)
DT 395, DANMONRO

Roud #521

RECORDINGS:
Francis O'Brien, "Daniel Monroe" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Edward Primroy, "Daniel Monroe" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Albert Roche, "Donald Monroe" (on ITMA/CapeShoreNL)
Monica Rossiter, "Daniel Monroe" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Mrs Thomas Walters, "Donald Munro" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 25(538), "Donald Munro's Tragedy," Stephenson (Gateshead), 1821-1850; also Harding B 11(2599), "Donald Monro"; 2806 c.14(71), "Donald Munro"

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Sons of Lord Bateman
You Sons of North Britain

File: LJ12

Donald o' Dundee

DESCRIPTION: "Young Donald is the blighest lad That e'er made love to me; Whene'er he's by, my heart is glad; He seems so gay and free. Then on his pipes he plays so sweet...." She has been courted by Sandy, but loves only Donald, who has now offered to wed her

AUTHOR: David Vedder (1789-1854) (source: Greig/Duncan5)

EARLIEST DATE: before 1825 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 28(184))

KEYWORDS: love courting ring marriage beauty music

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 306-307, "Donald o' Dundee" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan5 995, "Donald o' Dundee" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 60, "Donald o' Dundee" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #6716
Donald's Adventure

DESCRIPTION: Donald, behind in his rent, organizes a cattle drive to an English fair where prices are good. He sells the cattle but is met on his way home by a robber who takes the money. By a trick Donald captures the robber, wins a reward, and pays off his lease.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Greig/Duncan2)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Donald was a poor man, behind in his rent. He organized a drive, with his own and his neighbors' cattle, to an English fair where the price would be good. He armed himself with a sword, completed the drive, sold the cattle and started for home. On the way he met a robber who held Donald up at sword-point. Donald gave him the money but complained that he would not be able to explain the loss to his friends. The robber said he would give his usual proof by cutting off one of his victim's hands. Donald asked that his hand be cut off against a tree root rather than on the ground. Donald bared his wrist and as the robber struck moved his hand so that the sword stuck on the tree. Donald beat the disarmed robber, tied him up and took him to town. In town the robber was recognized "for lang his deeds o' horror Had kept the countryside in terror." Donald collected a twenty guinea reward while the robber "wis tried, condemned and hung." He paid off the laird and "wis soon a man o' means himsel'."

KEYWORDS: poverty violence travel execution robbery trial trick injury money commerce England Scotland animal

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan2 269, "Donald's Adventure" (1 text)
Roud #5832

ALTERNATE TITLES:
A Highland Tale

File: GrD2269

Donald's Safe Come Back Again

DESCRIPTION: Donald returns to Meg from war with Abercrombie after losing a leg. He says "If her I can protect again, Claymore in hand I'll leave the north Though legless I come back again"

AUTHOR: Adam Cameron

EARLIEST DATE: 1881 (Christie)

KEYWORDS: love war return injury Scotland

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig/Duncan1 94, "Donald's Safe Come Back Again" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: W. Christie, editor, Traditional Ballad Airs (Edinburgh, 1881 (downloadable pdf by University of Edinburgh, 2007)), Vol II, pp. 258-259, "Back Again" (1 tune)
Roud #5791

NOTES [236 words]: Greig/Duncan1 quoting Christie, Traditional Ballad Airs: "The Ballad, "Back again," is said to have been composed by a Lamp-maker in Aberdeen of the name of Watson, and was a great favourite in Scotland, after the death of General Sir Ralph Abercromby at Aboukir Bay.' He died on 28 March 1801." Christie's four eight-line verses include, with minor changes, all the text of the Greig/Duncan1 four four-line verses. - BS

So strong is the British historical bent toward the navy that, in checking four histories of the Napoleonic Wars and two encyclopedic histories, I found only one that mentions Abercrombie, though all of them mention the Naval victory at Aboukir Bay in 1798. (That, after all, involved Nelson.)

But it was the land expedition under Abercrombie which finally drove the French from Egypt. According to Michael Glover, The Napoleonic Wars: An Illustrated History 1792-1815 Hippocreme, 1978. 1979, p. 82. Abercrombie's forces had been based in Gibraltar. He took roughly 15,000 men to Turkey so that the Ottomans could cooperate in the expedition. Abercrombie and his subordinate John Moore managed to cooperate well with the navy, and they succeeded in making a landing in Aboukir Bay on March 7, 1801. Abercrombie suffered his mortal wound two weeks later, on March 21, at the Battle of Alexandria. His successor General Hutchinson would take Cairo in June and receive the French surrender. - RBW

Donald's Visit to Glasgow

DESCRIPTION: Donald and his wife go to Glasgow and see things they cannot understand: a poor man and horse unmoving in the street, a devil counting the hours, strange women's clothing, two men carrying a woman in a barrow...

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan2)

KEYWORDS: travel humorous

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan2 292, "Donald's Visit to Glasgow" (1 text)

Roud #5858

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Paddy's Ramble to London" (theme: country folk in town)

cf. "Paddy's Voyage to Glasgow" (theme: country folk in town)

NOTES [121 words]: Greig/Duncan2, quoting MacGregor, "John Highlandman's Remarks on Glasgow" in The Collected Writings of Dougal Graham (1883), explains most of the sights that puzzle Donald and his wife. For example, the poor man on a horse is "the equestrian statue of King William III.... The classical style of dress, including primitive sandals ['The brogues be worn aff's feet and me see a his taes.'] ... gave rise to the idea ... that His Majesty was a 'poor man.'"; "the deil chap the hoors" refers to "a clock [on record] on which a figure of the 'Deil' was shown as 'chapping' the hours."; the strange women's clothing refer to the styles of the time and the men carrying a woman is "a long drawn out description of a sedan chair." - BS

Donall Og (Young Donald)

DESCRIPTION: Gaelic or English: Singer tells her lover Donal to take her with him, that he'll be well taken care of. She reproaches him for breaking his promise; he says she has ignored him. She says that he is always in her mind, and has taken her past and her future

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (Hoagland)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Gaelic or English: Singer tells her lover, Donall Og (young Donald) to take her with him on his travels, that he'll be well taken care of (and sleep with the Greek king's daughter). She reproaches him for breaking his promise; he replies that she has rejected and ignored him. She says that he is always in her mind, even in the church where she should be thinking of Christ's passion. She says he has taken her past and her future, and perhaps will even take away God himself

KEYWORDS: hardheartedness love request rejection farewell parting travel abandonment lover foreignlanguage

FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (3 citations):

Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 31, "Donall Og [Young Donald]" (1 text in Irish Gaelic + translation, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 238-240, "Donall Oge: Grief of a Girl's Heart" (1 text, translated by Lady Gregory)
Roud #3379
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Donald Og
Donal Og
Donal Ogue
NOTES [597 words]: A personal note: Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland calls this "one of the most intense love songs in the Irish language." Or in English; I can testify that if you are carrying a serious torch for someone, this song can bring you to tears every time. - PJS
It's pretty strong even if you aren't carrying a torch. The English version is reported by Norman Buchan (notes to the recording "The Fisher Family") to have been translated by Frank O'Connor. (The translation by Lady Gregory quoted by Hoagland and MacDonogh/Robinson is very different, and hardly even poetry; I doubt anyone will ever sing it.)
The text sung by Joyce Fisher omits the references to promise-breaking, making the song a lost love song rather than a betrayal song. The Fishers reportedly had it from Bob Clancey.
The reference to the "Greek King's daughter" caused a discussion without much resolution on the Ballad-L mailing list. No conclusion was reached about the symbolism involved, but John Moulden gave what I think can be regarded as the last word (I've fiddled with the orthography to match Ballad Index conventions):
"Donal Óg was originally in Irish Gaelic and couched within the poetic conventions of that language. Songs in Irish are seldom narrative, rather are they a consideration, mostly in emotional terms, of an event or circumstance. The text being discussed here is a translation -- the original regarding the Greek King's daughter is 'Is inion ri Gréige mar chéile leapa agat' but their is no doubt about Greek rather than great or about his having the Greek King's daughter for his bed companion.
"Having cleared that up, consider the circumstance: a young woman about to be abandoned, addressing a young man in the most passionate terms, indicating the depths of her despair and the extent to which her life will be ruined if he leaves. It dwells also on his broken promises, including that of a fleet of boats. The most striking images however are those of a woman who says, in the utmost self-abasement, 'Take me with you, I'll look after you, you can sleep with other women' like the Greek King's daughter, and who ends by saying that he had robbed her of all direction (You've taken east and west) and (God himself), her faith."
Seosamh O Duibhginn devoted a monograph to the variant texts of this song; according to Kennedy, it contains nearly every version ever collected. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: K031

Done Been Sanctified
DESCRIPTION: Second and fourth lines of each verse are "The Lord done sanctified me" and "He sanctified my soul." Typical verse: "Before I learned to pray... I'd trouble all the day... Brother behold the Lamb of God... He sanctified me, he'll sanctify you...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
_Barton-OldPlantationHymns_, p. 31, "Done Been Sanctified" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: Bart031

Done Took the Children out of Pharaoh's Hands
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "(You've got to take the children out of Pharaoh's hand)(4x)." Verses' second and fourth line is "You've got to take ..." and the first and third are floating rhyming couplets like "Tallest tree in Paradise ... Christians call the tree of life"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang)
KEYWORDS: floatingverses nonballad religious Doneraile Litany, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer's Dublin watch is pilfered in Doneraile. He wishes fire and brimstone, the fate of Pompey, the death of its industry, and many other disasters on the town. "May Charon's boat triumphant sail, Completely manned, from Doneraile"

AUTHOR: Patrick O'Kelly (source: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)

EARLIEST DATE: 1808 (Patrick O'Kelly, _Poems on the Giant's Causeway and Killarney, with other Miscellanies_, according to Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)

KEYWORDS: curse theft humorous nonballad

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (2 citations): Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 176-182, "The Doneraile Litany" (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 354-357, "The Curse of Doneraile"

NOTES [387 words]: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland: "The popularity of this jingle in the south of Ireland is remarkable.... The Doneraile Litany consists of a series of anathemas upon that town, strung together, it appears, in consequence of the author having there lost his watch."

Hoagland: "Widely circulated through Ireland, this poem caused a great deal of amusement. To appease O'Kelly Lady Doneraile presented him with a 'watch and seal,' in place of the one he 'lost,' upon receipt of which he wrote 'Blessings on Doneraile.'" (See Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 357-359, "Blessings on Doneraile") - BS

Charon was of course the boatman who sailed the dead across the River Styx. Pompey is Gnaius Pompeius Magnus, known as Pompey the Great (106-48 B.C.E.), whose life was not exactly pure tragedy: Although he lost his father in the time of Sulla's dictatorship, he managed to remain in that dictator's favor, picked up a good deal of land in the period after that, was given a series of extraordinary military commands (among other things conquering a big part of Spain, and of Asia Minor, plus Jerusalem; he also cleaned the pirates off the Mediterranean). Eventually he was appointed consul without colleague to deal with the threat posed by Julius Caesar. That's when things finally went bad for Pompey. Caesar, the conqueror of Gaul, forced Pompey and his Senatorial supporters out of Italy, then beat them at Pharsalus in Greece (48 B.C.E.; called "Pharsale" in the song). Pompey fled to Egypt and was killed by the government there, who wanted no quarrel with Caesar, now the clear ruler of Rome.

(Caesaar, to be sure, came to Egypt anyway, met the young queen Cleopatra VII, and fiddled around in the civil war going on at the time, but the murder of Pompey probably did save the country from being sacked.)

Egypt's plagues of course refers to the Exodus story of the Ten (or so) Plagues (Exodus 7-13). For "Granuaile" and her sons, see e.g. the notes to "Granuaile."

Pluto (Greek Hades) was king of the dead.

The destruction of Sodom is told in Genesis 18-19.

I have to say -- if this guy had spent half the energy working that he spent coming up with all these goofball curses (all of which rhyme with "Doneraile"), he could surely have easily made back what he lost. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: CrPS176
Doney Gal

DESCRIPTION: "A cowboy's life is a weary thing, Rope and brand and ride and sing.... Rain or shine, sleet or snow, Me and my Doney gal are bound to go." The cowboy describes the hard work he and his horse do as they herd the cattle.

AUTHOR: claimed by Louise Williams Henson

EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Lomax, Cowboy Songs, revised edition)

KEYWORDS: cowboy horse work

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 250-251, "Doney Gal" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica194, "Doney Gal" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 85, "Doney Gal" (3 texts, 1 tune)
- Tinsley-HeWasSinginThisSong, pp. 118-121, "Doney Gal" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 106, "Doney Gal" (1 text)

DT, DONEYGAL*

Roud #3587

NOTES [42 words]: "Doney" is a variant of "dona", from the Italian word "donna," meaning "woman." - PJS

(I believe the cowboy derivation is actually from Spanish "dona," which also means "woman" or "wife"; presumably the American cowboys got it from the Mexicans. - RBW)

_Last updated in version 3.2_

File: LoF194

---

Donkey Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "I used to own a donkey, a bob-tailed stubborn mule" -- so stubborn that it could have been a congressman. He could kick you to "where Bob Ingersoll belonged." But now "Empty is the stable, Dave is gone.' The singer fondly recalls the havoc Dave caused.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin)

KEYWORDS: animal death political

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, pp. 55-56, "The Donkey Song" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #9081

NOTES [137 words]: I have the feeling that this was inspired by Foster's "Uncle Ned."
The way the song reference to Robert Ingersoll is phrased, I thought it was a reference to him in congress. But this is deceptive. Robert Ingersoll (1833-1899) was known mostly as a professional agnostic. Since the general attitude has always been that non-Christians, especially vocal non-Christians, were damnable, the assumption is that the place "where Bob Ingersoll belonged" is hell. In other words, the donkey could kick you to hell and gone.

Since the mule is said to have been born in 1849, a likely date for this song is circa 1870.

Bob Ingersoll's non-Christianity was so infamous that he apparently is mentioned in three different songs: "Bob Ingersoll and the Devil," "The Donkey Song," and some versions of "When This Old Hat Was New." - RBW

_Last updated in version 2.6_

File: Pet055

---

Donkey, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer's donkey is smart but, best of all, he is fast. The singer races him in the Derby. "The signal it was given me boys and off the horses flew." His donkey is "the last one out but the first one in"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (for USBallinsloeFair, according to site irishtune.info, Irish Traditional Music Tune Index: Alan Ng's Tunography, ref. Ng #2616)

KEYWORDS: pride racing animal

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))

Roud #1147
RECORDINGS:
Murty Rabbett and Dan Sullivan, "The Donkey" (on USBallinsloeFair)\nHarry Upton, "I Am a Donkey Driver" (on Voice14)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth c.26(204), "Jerusalem Cuckoo" ("I am a donkey driver, I'm the best that's in the line"), unknown, n.d.; also Firth c.26(296), "Jerusalem Cuckoo"

NOTES [65 words]: Why do I get the feeling this isn't really about a donkey? - RBW
Rabbett's version on USBallinsloeFair, as well as Upton's on Voice14, and the Bodleian broadsides, name the donkey "Jerusalem Cuckoo." Yates, Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Notes - Volume 14" - 8.9.02 notes that "Jerusalem" is cockney rhyming slang for "donkey": Jerusalem artichoke = moke = donkey. - BS

File: RcThDonk

Donkey's Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, Thomas Benton is his name, Yong huh, yong huh, That is well known to railroad fame.... Lease traitor to the railroads turned... We had our way When Tommy was on the board." The railroads recall the good times when they could cheat and steal grain

AUTHOR: Words: Luna E. (Mrs. J. T.) Kellie (1857-1940)
EARLIEST DATE: 1890 (Farmer's Alliance, September 6, 1890 edition, according to Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore)
KEYWORDS: farming poverty hardtimes derivative political train railroading commerce
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 61-62, "The Donkey's Song" (1 text, tune referenced)
ADDITIONAL: Nebraska Folklore, Pamphlet Eighteen, "Farmers' Alliance Songs of the 1890's," Federal Writers' Project, 1938, p. 6, "The Donkey's Song" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (tune)
NOTES [12 words]: For background on Luna Kellie, see the notes to "Marching for Freedom." - RBW

Last updated in version 3.6

File: Wels061

Donnelly

DESCRIPTION: A tinker meets a woman: coming from the ball and he soldering against the wall; in the wood and his budget stood; in the bar to "have it again"; in the bed and says "We should be wed"; at the door and trips her on the floor. She should go with him.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (IRClare01)
KEYWORDS: drink bawdy tinker sex wordplay
FOUND IN: Ireland
Roud #863
RECORDINGS:
Mary Delaney, "Donnelly" (on IRTravellers01)
Martin Howley, "Donnelly" (on IRClare01)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Duchess and the Tinker
The Highland Tinker
Tim the Tinker
NOTES [96 words]: Notes to IRClare01: "This has been around since at least 1675 when a fourteen-verse version was entered in the Stationers Register but since then it has been slimmed down somewhat, while still retaining its celebration of bawdry." - BS
This apparently is lumped by Roud with his #863, which includes several Tinker-who-can't-keep-his-mind (or other body parts)-on-the-job songs. But Ben Schwartz and I would separate this from both "The Tinker" and "The Jolly Tinker" by the nature of the wordplay and the fact that the tinker is interested quite specifically in one woman. - RBW

File: RcDonnel
Donnelly and Cooper

DESCRIPTION: Boxers Donnelly (Irish) and Cooper (English) meet. Odds are on Cooper. First Donnelly is knocked down, then Cooper, then Donnelly again; (referee) Kelly's pretty daughter exhorts Donnelly to get up and win. He does, and Miss Kelly congratulates him.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1854 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 17(77b)); c.1845 (broadside, NLScotland L.C.1270(017))

KEYWORDS: pride fight sports

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1815 - Donnelly (1788-1820) and Cooper fight in Kildare

FOUND IN: Ireland US(MW) Canada(Ont)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 317, "Donnelly and Cooper" (1 text, 1 tune)
- O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladsOfIreland, p. 27, "Donnelly and Cooper" (1 text)
- OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 26, "Donnelly and Cooper" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster 44, "Donnelly and Cooper" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 21-22, "Donnelly and Cooper" (1 text)
- Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 39, "Cooper and Donnelly" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #2147

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Harding B 17(77b), "Donnelly and Cooper," The Poet's Box (Glasgow), 1854; also 2806 c.15(226), 2806 c.8(245), Firth c.19(16), Harding B 11(934), Harding B 11(935), Harding B 19(45), Johnson Ballads 2271B[some illegible words], "Donnelly and Cooper"
- LOC Singing, as200750, "Donnelly and Cooper That Fought on Kildare," Johnson (Philadelphia), 19C
- NLScotland, L.C.1270(017), "Donnelly and Cooper," James Kay (Glasgow), c.1845

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Donnelly & Oliver" (broadside Murray, Mu23-y3:015, "Donnelly & Oliver" ("You muses I beg you will lend me your aid, I'll sing of brave Donnelly a true Irish blade"), James Lindsay (Glasgow), 19C; also Murray Mu23-y3:037, "Donnelly And Oliver," unknown, 19C (subject)
- cf. "Morrissey and the Black" (theme)
- cf. "Heenan and Sayers" (tune, theme)

SAME TUNE:
- I'm the Boy Can Do It (per broadside Bodleian Harding B 17(77b))
- Relief for Ireland ("Arise, my Irish heroes! It's painful to relate") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 134)
- St. Patrick's Day in New York, A New Song ("Come, all you true bred Irishmen, wherever you may be") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 149)

NOTES [477 words]: Michael Padden and Robert Sullivan's May the Road Rise to Meet You, p. 211, devotes much space to Dan Donnelly, "a carpenter by day and a pub brawler by night," who was very popular with his people; on "September 14, 1814, he drew forty thousand fans to a fight -- a seventeen-round win over an Englishman" (note that, under the boxing rules of the time, rounds were not timed but ended with one fighter or the other knocked to the ground. The fight ended when he stayed down for half a minute). They add that Donnelly was "as prodigious a drinker as he was a fighter," which apparently contributed to his demise at age 32.

Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster has a brief history of Dan Donnelly, "knighted by the Prince Regent" [i.e. by the future George IV, son of George III who became regent during the periods of George III's madness - RBW], brought down by "good living and bad company," dead in 1820 at 32 years of age; "thousands lined the street to Glasnevin cemetery." - BS

O hOgain, pp. 182-183, notes that Donnelly became a figure of folklore, with reports of him settling a bar brawl with one punch to each of the brawlers. There was also an account of his mother winning a race against a horse before his birth; although probably based on the tale of Macha, the mother did little to downplay it.

Supposedly a Captain William Kelly discovered Donnelly, a carpenter, in 1814; his career lasted until 1819. His first major fight was against the champion of Dublin, and lasted 16 rounds. There was a parade in Dublin, led by Donnelly's mother, to celebrate the victory over George Cooper.

O hOgain admits that there is "scant evidence" that George IV actually knighted Donnelly.

Boylan, pp. 97-98, has a capsule biography of Donnelly, who died in 1820: "Born in Dublin, son of a carpenter, and followed the same trade. Fond of drink and company, he led a wild and extravagant life. Lived in Ringsend, and became noted for his strength in encounters with sailors." His first major fight was against an Englishman named Hall (which forced him to actually train -- and leave his drinking companions). The fight took place on September 14, 1814, with Donnelly winning after 17 rounds. He needed just two weeks to waste his 100 guinea prize. "His next march was against the English champion, Cooper, in 1815. He defeated him in eleven rounds at 'Donnelly's Hollow' in the Curragh, now marked by a small obelisk."

After that, a merchant gave him the money to get started as a publican; that let him get married. But he didn't take care of the business and went broke. So he went to England to give sparring exhibitions. In 1819, he beat one Oliver in 32 rounds on July 21, 1819. He went back to Dublin, and this time, his fame let him succeed as a publican. But he didn't take care of himself; "He died in his house, of a sudden chill, on 17 February 1820." - RBW

Bibliography

- O hOgain: Daithi O hOgain, The Lore of Ireland, Boydell Press, 2006

Last updated in version 5.2
File: K317

Donnie Willie

DESCRIPTION: Girls from all over Tobago are calling Donnie Willie. The singer says "member the pronise, Boy, you promise to married to me" and, later, "remember you a married man"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (WITrinidadVillage01)
KEYWORDS: infidelity marriage nonballad husband wife
FOUND IN: West Indies (Trinidad)
RECORDINGS:
Martha Saunders, "Donnie Willie" (on WITrinidadVillage01)

File: RcMSDoWi

Donside

DESCRIPTION: Jamie leaves Nellie to fight in Egypt and Spain with Wellington. He returns to find her gone. He searches and finds her about to be married. She chooses to marry Jamie. Her fiancee challenges Jamie to duel but yields when Jamie draws his broadsword.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1851 (broadside, Bodleian 2806 c.18(91))
KEYWORDS: courting war return reunion separation Scotland Spain soldier
FOUND IN: Britain (Scotland (Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #22, p. 1, "Donside" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan #93, "Donside" (19 texts, 16 tunes)
Roud #5759
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 c.18(91), "The Don-side Lovers" ("I once had a true-love on Don-side did well [sic]"), C. Croshaw (York), 1814-1850
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Donside Lassie
The Donside Soldier
I Once Had a Sweetheart

File: GrD1093

Donside Wedding, The

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas on the fifth of June, my boys, The truth I will make known, There stood a merry Marriage Upon the banks of Don"
AUTHOR: unknown
Donzella and the Ceylon, The DESCRIPTION: The Donzella and the Ceylon set out from Lunenburg on February 1. After fourteen days, the Ceylon arrives in Puerto Rico, followed ten hours later by the Donzella. On the way back, the Ceylon runs into a storm and sinks.

AUTHOR: Daniel Smith

EARLIEST DATE: 1951

KEYWORDS: ship racing storm wreck

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1890 - The Donzella and the Ceylon race from Lunenburg, Nova Scotia to Ponce, Puerto Rico. Captain Charles Swain of the Ceylon outraced his brother, Captain Nathan Swain of the Donzella, by ten hours in a fourteen-day race. The Ceylon sank on the way home.
1896 - The loss of the Donzella

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 192-194, "The Donzella and the Ceylon" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4087

NOTES [8 words]: This song is item dD44 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW

File: Doe192

Doodle Dandy

DESCRIPTION: "Doodle, doodle, doodle dandy, Cornstalks, rum, and homemade brandy, Indian pudding and pumpkin pie, And that'll make the Yankees fly! Ev'ry Yankee shall have on his back A great big pumpkin in a sack, A little molasses and a piece of pork....."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl); the first stanza can be documented from 1840 (see notes)

KEYWORDS: food soldier

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 192, "Doodle Dandy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-FolkSongsAndBalladsOfTheEasternSeaboard, pp. 68-69, "Doodle Dandy" (1 text)
ST Wa192 (Full)
Roud #16407

NOTES [358 words]: Said by Roy Walworth (the Warners' informant) to have been sung by Washington's troops as they marched for New York in 1783 after the British left the town following the American Revolution. - RBW

Although the song has only the most tenuous hold in tradition (the Warner version is the only traditional version known; it can be heard on Frank Warner's "Songs and Ballads of America's Wars"), Jonathan Lighter has shown that the first stanza at least was quite popular at one time. The following is a slightly condensed version of his notes to the Ballad-L list:

* Stanza one appears in the one-act farce, Yankee Notes for English Circulation, written by Edward Stirling for Thomas D. Rice's minstrel troupe in 1842:
Yankee doodle doodle dandy,
Corn stalks rum and Gin Sling brandy,
An Indine pudden and a green peach pie,
Golly, how we make de British fly.
* From Burton's Gentleman's Magazine And American Monthly Review (Feb., 1840), p. 70:
"Doodle doodle doodle dandy,
Corn-stalk rum, right slick and handy,
Indgian pudding and green peach pie,
And it takes me to make the fried clams fly!"
* Maine Farmer, July 13, 1848, p. 2:
"We couldn't help whistling a stave or two of the old song which the old Continentallers used to sing to the Britishers whenever they had given them a good thrashing, and which ran in this wise:
"Yankee doodle, doodle dandy,
Cornstalk molasses and home-made brandy,
An Indian pudding and a punkin pie
Is the stuff to make the red-coats fly."
* Annals of Iowa (1943), p. 40:
Yankee doodle dandy
Cornstalk rum and cider brandy,
Stinking gin that's made of rye
So we'll make the Yankees fly.
"One of his favorite war songs began thus:
"We'll take our knapsacks on our backs,
With a piece o' pork and pumpkin pie,
And gang down to New-York,
To make the red-coats fly!"
Lighter also notes that the second stanza of the Warner version is sung to "a worn down 2/4 version of 'The Campbells are Coming.'"
- JL (RBW)
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Wa192

Doon by yon Clear Rinnin' Burnie
DESCRIPTION: The singer often meets Mary. Although "her proud parents began to upbraid her" she says she'll go with him in spite of their threats
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan5)
KEYWORDS: courting nonballad father mother
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 1006, "Doon by yon Clear Rinnin' Burnie" (1 text)
Roud #6727
File: GrD1006

Doos o' Dunbennan, The
DESCRIPTION: Doves of Dunbennan, crows of Cairnie, rooks of Rathven, .... The list continues but the alliteration is dropped: "The creeshy shankers [Greig/Duncan8: stocking-knitters] o' Fyvie"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: nonballad bird worker
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1645, "The Doos o' Dunbennan" (1 text)
Roud #13056
NOTES [24 words]: The places named are Aberdeenshire parishes (Cairnie, Forgue, Drumblade, Auchterless and Fyvie) or towns (Dunbennan, Rathven and Inverkeithny). - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
Doran's Ass [Laws Q19]

DESCRIPTION: Drunken Pat lies down to rest on his way to Biddy's. A jackass lies down next to him. In his stupor, Pat caresses the beast -- only to be awakened by a horrid braying. He flees to Biddy's, to be told that it was only Doran's Ass

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1859 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(946))

KEYWORDS: drink, humorous, animal

FOUND IN: US (MW, SE), Canada (Mar, Newf), Ireland

REFERENCES (12 citations):

- Laws Q19, "Doran's Ass"
- Peacock, pp. 50-52, "Doran's Ass" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Creighton, Songs And Ballads From Nova Scotia 75, "Doran's Ass" (1 text, 1 tune)
- O'Connor, Old Time Songs And Ballads Of Ireland, p. 43, "Doran's Ass" (1 text)
- O'Lochlainn, Irish Street Ballads 84, "Doran's Ass" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Mackenzie, Ballads And Sea Songs From Nova Scotia 138, "Paddy Doyle" (1 text)
- Dean-Flying Cloud, pp. 38-39, "Doran's Ass" (1 text)
- Peters, Folksongs Out Of Wisconsin, p. 293, "Paddy Doyle and Biddy O'Toole" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hylands, Mammoth Hibernian Songster, pp. 141-142, "Doran's Ass" (1 text)
- Wolf, American Song Sheets, #514, p. 34, "Doran's Ass" (1 reference)
- DT 530, DORANASS

ADDITIONAL: Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 260-262, "Doran's Ass" (1 text)

Roud #1010

RECORDINGS:

- Horton Barker, "Paddy Doyle" (on Barker01)
- Bert Fitzgerald, "Paddy Doyle" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
- Mr. Fitzgerald, "Paddy Doyle" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

BROADSIDES:

- Bodleian, Harding B 11(946), "Doran's Ass" ("One Paddy Doyle lived near Killarney"), J.O.
- Bebbington (Manchester), 1855-1858; also 2806 c.15(157), 2806 c.15(235), 2806 c.15(237), Harding B 19(93), Firth c.26(40), Harding B 11(947), Harding B 11(3492), Firth b.27(457/458) View 3 of 4, 2806 c.15(236), Harding B 19(15), "Doran's Ass"; 2806 b.11(255), Harding B 11(151), "Doran's Ass" or "[The] Straw Hat"; Harding B 11(2961), 2806 b.11(251), "Pat Doran's Ass"
- Murray, Mu23-yr:135, "Dorrans's Ass," Poet's Box (Glasgow), 19C
- NL Scotland, L.C. Fol.178.A.2(070), "Dorm's Ass" (sic.) unknown, c.1860 [despite the title, the animal is called "Doran's Ass" in the text]

CROSS-REFERENCES:

- cf. "Courtin' in the Stable (The Workin' Steer)" (plot)
- cf. "Jock Gheddes and the Soo" (plot)

File: LQ19

---

Dors Le Petit Bibi (Sleep Little Baby)

DESCRIPTION: French. "Dors dors le p'tit bibi." Sleep little baby. Mama's beautiful little baby. If tomorrow is nice we will go to grandfather's.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (Nova Scotia 1)

KEYWORDS: foreign language, lullaby, nonballad, baby

FOUND IN: Canada (Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

- Pottie/Ellis, Folksongs Of The Maritimes, pp. 22-23, "Acadian Lullaby" (1 French text plus English translation, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:

- Mrs Laure Irene McNeil, "Lullaby" (on Nova Scotia 1)

File: RcDlPBi
Double Dutch
DESCRIPTION: Jump rope rhyme. "Double Dutch, Double Dutch, Who can jump rope so much? Faster, now, take a bow, Double Dutch, Double Dutch."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks)
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN: US (MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, p. 106, "(Double Dutch, Double Dutch)" (1 short text)
File: McIn106B

Double Tragedy, The
DESCRIPTION: "Bright lights were in the hall, Everyone seemed happy and gay" at a dance when a drunk and angry Tom Roach strides in. His friend McCord tries to calm him; Roach shoots him. Frank Adams tries to shoot him, but kills Mrs. Walton instead
AUTHOR: Otho Murphy
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Burt-AmericanMurderBallads)
KEYWORDS: homicide party dancing death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
July 24, 1891 - the Pioneer Day tragedy at Monticello, Utah
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Burt-AmericanMurderBallads, pp. 245-247, "(Double Tragedy)" (1 text)
Roud #10883
File: Burt245

Double-Breasted Mansion on the Square, The DESCRIPTION: "I once was young and gallant and drove a span of grays...." The young man was rich, with property and servants. But he "lost a lot at Keno" and now he has nothing left; he spends most of his life thinking about what he has lost
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1885 (Lane County Herald)
KEYWORDS: gambling poverty hardtimes cards
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 25, "The Little Old Sod Shanty" (7 texts, 2 tunes, with the "H" text going here)
Roud #11209
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Little Old Log Cabin in the Lane" (tune) and references there
File: FCW025H

Double-bunking
DESCRIPTION: "I heard this sad song O In the Orongorongo, 'No more double-bunking, double-bunking for me.'" The singer has slept with tramps, and has ended up sick and anxious and "washed-out like a dish-rag." He'll sleep anywhere, "But I'm going to sleep single."
AUTHOR: Words: Harold William Greeton
EARLIEST DATE: 1967 (Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)
KEYWORDS: disease home
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, p. 144, "Double-bunking" (1 text, tune referenced)
Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook, p. 84, "Double-bunking" (1 text, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
Dougherty's Boarding House

DESCRIPTION: "There's a story I could tell you, so listen unto me, 'Bout a big deck boarding house on Twelfth street number three." The singer complains about Irishman Doughery's crowded house and the poor food he offers, while listing the people and insects there

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Beck-FolkloreOfMaine)
KEYWORDS: home nonballad hardtimes food moniker
FOUND IN: US(NE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-FolkloreOfMaine, pp. 263-264, "Dougherty's Boarding House" (1 text)
Roud #4729
File: BeMe263

Douglas! Tender and True

DESCRIPTION: "Could you come back to me, Douglas! Douglas! In the old likeness that I knew, I would be so faithful." The singer promises no harsh words. "I was not half worthy of you." "Stretch out your hand to me... I lay my heart on your dead heart, Douglas!"

AUTHOR: unknown (music apparently by Lady John Scott, according to Heart-Songs)
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Heart-Songs)
KEYWORDS: love death separation
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Heart-Songs, p. 84, "Douglas! Tender and True" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #25550
NOTES [28 words]: If I were to pick one word to describe this, it would be "nauseating." But Alice Kane apparently learned it from tradition, so into the Index it goes. My apologies. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: HeSo084

Doun the Middle an' Up Again

DESCRIPTION: "Doun the middle and up again, A-teenth um, a-teenth um, Doun the back and back again, A-teenth um a tum" "Set to Belly Christie An' syne to Jinsie Martin"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: dancing nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1731, "Doun the Middle an' Up Again" (1 fragment)
Roud #13131
NOTES [23 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan8 fragment.
Greig/Duncan8: ".. instructions for Country Reel, 'The auld road to Towie" - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: Gr81731

Dowie Dens o Yarrow, The [Child 214]

DESCRIPTION: Many men feel that a woman (their sister?) should be separated from her lover/husband. They set out in a band to kill the lover. He manages to kill or wound most of them, but one of them kills him from behind. In many texts the lady dies of sorrow

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1768 (Percy collection)
KEYWORDS: courting fight death family
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North),Scotland(Aber,Bord,High)) US(Ap,MA,NE,SE)
Canada (Newf, Ont)

REFERENCES (35 citations):

Child 214, "The Braes o Yarrow" (18 texts)
Bronson 214, "The Braes o Yarrow" (42 versions + 2 in addenda)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 214, "The Baes o Yarrow" (5 versions: #2, #28, #34, #36, #40.1)

Chambers-ScottishBallads, pp. 145-148, "The Dowie Dens o' Yarrow" (1 text)
Bucho/Moreira-TheGlenbuchiBallads, pp. 210-212, "Yarrow" (1 text)

Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #57, pp. 1-2, "The Dowie Dens o' Yarrow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Greig/Duncan 215, "The Dowie Dens o' Yarrow" (20 texts, 25 tunes) {A=Bronson's #16; to B compare #1; D=#25; E=#23; F=#9; G=#10 or #31; H=#4; I=#5; K=#8; L=#11; M=#12; N=#7; O is probably #18; P=#3; Q=#6; S=#14; T=#20; U=#17; W=#15; X=#22}

McMorland/Scott-HerdLaddieOTheGlen, pp. 42-42, 149, "The Dowie Dens o Yarrow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Dixon-ScottishTraditionalVersionsOfAncientBallads XIII, pp. 68-70, "The Braes o Yarrow" (1 text)

Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 21-24, "The Dowie Dens of Yarrow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Barry/Eckstorm-Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 291-293, "The Braes of Yarrow" (1 short text plus a fragment, 1 tune; the "A" text is a composite lost love song with single stanzas from "The Braes o Yarrow," "The Curragh of Kildare," and others beyond identification; as a whole it cannot be considered a version of Child #214) {Bronson's #37}

Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 235-237, "The Dewy Dens of Darrow" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #42}

Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland3, pp. 255-259, "The Braes of Yarrow" (2 texts, 2 tunes) {A=Bronson's #42}

Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 568-571, "The Braes o Yarrow" (1 text, with a Scandinavian text for comparison)

Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 99, "The Braes o Yarrow" (1 text which incorporates most verses of "Rare Willie Drowned in Yarrow")

Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 150, "The Dowie Houms of Yarrow" (1 text)

Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 45, "The Dens of Yarrow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Bethke-AdirondackVoices, pp. 105-107, "Donny Dims of the Arrow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Cox-FolkSongsSouth 24, "The Braes o Yarrow" (1 text, which Cox lists here though it is so worn down that it might as well be considered a lyric piece; the plot is entirely gone, compare the Hamilton text in Percy)

Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, p. 77, "The Banks of Yorrow" (1 text, 1 tune, which like the Cox West Virginia text is very short and lyric and might be something else)

Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 426-429, "The Dowie Dens o' Yarrow" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #2}

MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 17, "The Braes o' Yarrow" (3 texts, 3 tunes)

MacColl-PersonalChoice, pp. 4-5, "The doowie dens of Yarrow" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #33}

Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 19, "The Dowie Dens of Yarrow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 77, "The Dewy Dells of Yarrow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 23, "The Braes of Yarrow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Whiting-TraditionalBritishBallads 10, "The Braes O' Yarrow" (1 text)

Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 54, "The Braes o Yarrow" (3 texts, 3 tunes)

Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 54-55, "The Dewy Dens of Yarrow" (1 text)

HarvardClassics-EnglishPoetryChaucerToGray, pp. 115-116, "The Dowie Houms o Yarrow" (1 text)

Silber/FolksingersWordbook, p. 179, "The Dowie Dens of Yarrow" (1 text)

cf. Percy/Wheatley-ReliquesOfAncientEnglishPoetry II, pp. 362-367, "The Braes of Yarrow" (1 text, said to be William Hamilton's adaption of this song)

DT 214, YARROW1*

Roud #13
RECORDINGS:
Liam Clancy, "Dowie Dens of Yarrow" (on IRLClancy01)
John Joe English, "The Dewy Dells Of Yarrow" (on ITMA/CapeShoreNL)
Ewan MacColl, "The Dowie Dens of Yarrow" (on Lomax43, LomaxCD1743) {Bronson's #33}
John MacDonald, "The Dewie Dens of Yarrow" (on Voice03)
Brigid Murphy, "The Dewy Glens of Yarrow" (on IREarlyBallads)
Willie Scott, "The Dowie Dens O' Yarrow" (on Voice17)
Davie [Davy] Stewart, "The Dowie Dens of Yarrow" (on FSB5, FSBBAL2) {Bronson's #24}
BROADSIDES:
NLScotland, RB.m.143(120), "The Dowie Dens of Yarrow," unknown, c. 1890 [scan largely illegible but probably this piece]
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "Rare Willie Drowned in Yarrow" [Child 215]
  cf. "Yarrow Streams [Child 214]" (story and some lines)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Lady and the Shepherd
The Dreary Dream
In the Lonely Glens of Yarrow
NOTES [379 words]: Several scholars, among them Norman Cazden, have claimed that this song is the same as Child 215, "Rare Willie Drowned in Yarrow." Certainly there has been exchange of verses. However, I (following Leach), would maintain that there is a difference: "The Dowie Dens" is about opposition to a marriage; "Willie Drowned" is about the loss of a love.
A brief summary of the whole discussion is found in Coffin's notes in Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland3. It's not clear what he believes, except that the two songs are a mess and quite mixed. Which can hardly be denied.
Lynn Wollstadt, "A Good Man Is Hard to Find: Positive Masculinity in the Ballads Sung by Scottish Women" (printed in Thomas A. McKeen, editor, The Flowering Thorn: International Ballad Studies, Utah State University Press, 2003) declares (p. 71) that "the tragic 'Dowie Dens o' Yarrow' is the ballad most often recorded by singers of both sexes" in the collections cataloged in the third quarter of the twentieth century. An interesting point, although the methodology of the study is questionable.
Yarrow is a particular strong herbal symbol in this song. According to Anthony S. Mercantante, (The Facts on File Encyclopedia of) World Mythology and Legends, Second Edition revised by James R. Dow, two volumes, Facts on File, 2004, p. 917, "In English folklore, yarrow was used by lovesick maidens to determine who their future lovers would be.... [I]f one dreamed of yarrow, it meant losing the object of one's affection. If one was married and dreamed of the plant, it signified death in the family. Yarrow is often found on gravesites and thus is often associated with death." Incidentally, there is at least one historical instance of a man fighting off six enemies but then being wounded from behind: William the Marshal, famous for his service with Kings Richard I and John, and infamous for the role he allegedly played in "Queen Eleanor's Confession" [Child 156], was part of a party that was attacked in 1168. His horse was killed under him before he had donned all his armor, but he killed the horses of six attackers before one came from behind and disabled him by spearing him in the thigh (see Frank McLynn, Richard & John: Kings at War, Da Capo, 2007, pp. 62-63). - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: C214

Down a Country Road I Know

DESCRIPTION: "The city roar is in my ears, the glare is in my eyes, Yet in my heart I long to see those sunny Central skies" where the singer was a shearer and "raced to hold the ringer's place."
But that's all behind him now, back "down a country road I know"
AUTHOR: Words: Ross McMillan / Music: Phil Garland EARLIEST DATE: 1982 (recording, Graham Wilson)
KEYWORDS: sheep travel hardtimes
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, pp. 42. 158-159, "(Down a Country Road I Know)" (various fragments which between them contain five of the six verses of the song)
NOTES [76 words]: This is not, to my knowledge, traditional in New Zealand. But it arguably is traditional "worldwide" -- because I learned it in Richfield, Minnesota, from another Minnesotan who had learned it while visiting New Zealand. Only later did I find it on record, and I'm not sure my source ever heard a recording of it, either. A weak foothold in tradition, to be sure. But it's a decent lyric with a terrific melody by Phil Garland, so maybe it will survive. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3
File: Garl042

Down Among the Budded Roses

DESCRIPTION: Singer tells his sweetheart that she should not forget the promise she made to him among the roses. "Down among the budded roses/I am nothing but a stem." He asks her to be his in heaven, where their hearts will be united forever. Or something like that

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Charlie Poole)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer tells his sweetheart that, though they have parted, she should not forget the promise she made to him among the roses in the lane. "Down among the budded roses/I am nothing but a stem." He says they will never meet again on earth, but asks her to be his in heaven, where their hearts will be united forever. Or something like that

KEYWORDS: grief loneliness love promise farewell parting separation death nonballad lover

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Rorrer-RamblingBlues-LifeAndSongsOfCharlePoole, p. 72, "Budded Rose" (1 text)

Roud #6577

RECORDINGS:
[Clarence] Ashley & [Gwen] Foster, "Faded Roses" (Vocalion 02666, 1934)
[Walter "Kid" Smith & the] Carolina Buddies, "Down among the Budding Roses" (Jewel 20004/Oriole 8004/Perfect 144/Romeo 5004. 1930)
Happy Valley Family, "Down Among the Budding Roses" (Perfect 6-08-53, 1936)
Roy Harvey & the North Carolina Ramblers, "Budded Roses" (Brunswick 268, 1928)
Daddy John Love, "Budded Roses" (Bluebird B-6675, 1936)
Asa Martin, "Budded Roses" (Perfect 13089, 1935)
Charlie Poole & the North Carolina Ramblers, "Budded Rose" (Columbia 15138-D, 1927)
Red Fox Chasers, "Budded Roses" (Supertone 9492, 1929)
Shelton Bros., "Budded Roses" (Decca 5180, 1936)
Kid Williams & Bill Morgan, "Down Among the Budded Roses" (Homestead 16116, c. 1929)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I'll Be With You When the Roses Bloom Again" (a line or two)
cf. "Bye and Bye You Will Forget Me (I)" (lyrics)

SAME TUNE:
Whitney & Hogan, "Answer to Budded Roses" (Decca 5817, 1940; rec. Nov. 8. 1939)

NOTES [197 words]: This sounds like nothing so much as a stripped-down version of "I'll Be With You When the Roses Bloom Again", minus the soldier bit. But except for that line, the lyrics seem to be independent, so I split them. I index this one mostly to keep the two straight. It's unclear, incidentally, whether the singer is dying or lighting out for the territories. - PJS

Dr. Thomas L. McAbee of Livermore, California writes of the "Answer to Budded Roses":
This song, as noted, borrows the tune from "Down Among The Budded Roses." The "Answer" was written by my father, Leonard Bratton McAbee, Sr., for my mother Maggie Goble McAbee. They were dear friends of the Briarhoppers and Whitney and Hogan in particular. My father served as MC for Whitney and Hogan occasionally. My parents introduced me to them in the late 1970s in Charlotte, NC, and they confirmed that my dad had written the song (and that Decca paid them nothing for the recording!).
My parents both passed away in 2010 and my brother holds our only family copy of the 78 RPM on which the song was cut. I have no legal method of proving authorship, just memories from my childhood and conversations with the recording artists. - (RBW)

Last updated in version 3.2
File: RcDATBR
Down Among the Dead Men

DESCRIPTION: "Here's a health to the king and a lasting peace, To faction an end, to wealth increase; Come, let's drink it while we have breath, For there's no drinking after death." The singer has no interest in those who will not enjoy themselves

AUTHOR: Words: John Dyer (1700-1758)? (source: Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, Wikipedia)

EARLIEST DATE: 1728 (The Dancing Master)

KEYWORDS: drink nonballad death

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, p. 55, "Down Among the Dead Men" (1 text)

DT, DEADMEN*

Roud #9623

SAME TUNE:
Come, Comrades, Come ("Come, comrades, come, your glasses clink; Up with your hands a health to drink -- The health of all that workers be") (Foner, p. 322)

File: SBar055

Down at the Station

DESCRIPTION: "Down at the station, early in the morning, See the little pufferbellies all in a row. See the stationmaster pull the little handle. Puff, puff, toot, toot, off we go!"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1976

KEYWORDS: train nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 198, "Down at the Station" (1 text)

Roud #10746

NOTES [53 words]: Amazing what you learn to think of as a folk song once you start compiling a ballad index! This is one of perhaps only two songs from my mother's tradition (the other being "White Coral Bells"). I had not thought of it as a folk song (in fact, for decades I hadn't thought of it at all) till it showed up in Pankake. - RBW

File: PHCFS196

Down at the Wangan

DESCRIPTION: "Down at the Wangan across the street From Gifford's Corner the fact'ry boys meet, Waiting for Johnny come down and pay, Down comes old Matthew, 'No pay today.' Stick to the fact'ry boys ...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi)

KEYWORDS: factory work nonballad

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 11, "Down at the Wangan" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

Roud #9200

NOTES [78 words]: Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi: "This is a fragment of a song made up in Newcastle in the 1880's or early 1890's. A wangan is a storage house ... where supplies are stored for the use of a lumber camp. By extension, used of any storage place. The song told of Matthew Russell, who ran a spool factory.... Workmen often had to wait a long time for their pay in the 1880's, though it wasn't so much of a hardship in those days, since business was done mostly on credit." - BS

File: MaWi011
Down at Widow Johnson's

DESCRIPTION: "Down at Widow Johnson's the other night, Did a little courtin' out of sight. Down on my knees my love I was telling, My old girl on the outside yelling, 'You can't fool me Charlie (x2), You've tried ev'ry manner for to fool your little Hannah...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1902 (Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5)

KEYWORDS: courting fight

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 740, "Down at Widow Johnson's" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #17902

NOTES [15 words]: The description is based on the Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 fragment. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.1

File: BrS5740

Down By Blackwaterside

DESCRIPTION: Girl lies with a man, who dresses and prepares to leave her. She reproaches him, saying "That's not the promise you gave to me." She tells him she's the most loyal girl in the world, but now she'll marry him only "when fishes fly and the seas run dry"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1803 (Johnson)

KEYWORDS: sex promise abandonment

FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber)) US(MA,SE) Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (8 citations):
Greig/Duncan6 1188, "Down by Yon Riverside" (2 fragments, 1 tune)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 151, "Down By Blackwaterside" (1 text, 1 tune plus another text in the notes)
Reeves/Sharp-TheldiomOfThePeople 28, "Down by a River Side" (2 texts)
Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 1, "Abroad As I Was Walking" (1 text); 124, "The Squire and the Fair Maid" (1 text)
Tunney-StoneFiddle, pp. 108-109, "Blackwater Side" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 65, "Down by a Riverside" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 57, "As I Strolled Out One Evening" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 468, BLKWTRSD*

Roud #564

RECORDINGS:
Anne Briggs, "Blackwater Side" (on Briggs2, Briggs3, Briggs4)
Liam Clancy, "Blackwater Side" (on IRLClancy01)
Winnie Ryan, "Down By Blackwaterside" (on FSBFTX15)
Paddy Tunney, "Blackwaterside" (on Voice10)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 28(122), "Distress'd Maid" ("As I walk'd out one May morning"), W. Wright (Birmingham), 1831-1837; also Harding B 11(904), Harding B 28(123), "Distress'd Maid"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Camden Town" (plot)
cf. "The Lovely Irish Maid" (plot, lyrics)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Blackwaterside
Black Water Side
I Am Too Young
The Squire and the Fair Maid
The Distress'd Maid

NOTES [219 words]: The voice keeps changing, from a bystander to the woman to (possibly) the man. This song should not be confused with "The Black Water Side" (Laws O1). - PJS

Roud in fact lumps this with Laws P18, "Pretty Little Miss." But that entry is one of his mass lumps, of many songs about untrue lovers. While there is much sharing between songs of this type, it seems better to split them.
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland lumps this with "The Lovely Irish Maid," and I have to admit that there are strong points of contact, both lyric and in plot. This song, however, appears to take a slightly different direction, so I have, with much hesitation, split them. - RBW

The Reeves/Sharp-TheldiomOfThePeople fragment fits "Down By Blackwaterside" but its primary text combines "Down By Blackwaterside" with "The Shannon Side": instead of taking the maid to his room, "The grass was wet and slippery And both her feet did slide They both fell down together Down by the riverside"; she asks his name so she will know it for her baby's baptism and he says "My name is Captain Thunderbolt"; his reason for not marrying her is that he is committed to "the glazier's daughter."

While Ryan's text is cited by Kennedy as the basis for his Kennedy 151 text only a few verses are shared by the recording and the text in his book. - BS

Last updated in version 5.3
File: K151

---

Down by El Alamein

DESCRIPTION: "That night on the desert was dark and serene, Our troops moving up in an endless stream, The barrage all set for ten p.m. Down by El Alamein." "The Afrika Corps will no longer dwell Down by El Alamein" and the "Kiwis" played a great part

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1943 (Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook)

KEYWORDS: battle New Zealand

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1942 - Battle of El Alamein. Montgomery's Eighth Army defeats Rommel's Germans and Italians, finally turning the course of the North African war

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook, p. 55, "Down by El Alamein" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Somewhere in France with You" (tune)

File: Clev055

---

Down by Jim Long's Stage

DESCRIPTION: "As I roved out one day in June 'twas down by Jim Long's stage, I met my true love's father" who has other plans for Eliza; singer threatens to take her away "to be me darlin' wife." Father reveals singer has passed the test and can "wed her in the fall"

AUTHOR: unknown (but see NOTES)

EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland, 3rd edition)

KEYWORDS: love marriage dialog father

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland "Down by Jim Long's Stage" (1 text, 1 tune): p. 22 in the 3rd edition, p. 21 in the 4th, p. 19 in the 5th
Blondahl-NewfoundlandersSing, p. 111, "Down By Jim Long's Stage" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7294

NOTES [83 words]: A stage is "An elevated platform on the shore ... where fish are landed and processed for salting and drying ...." [per Dictionary of Newfoundland English, University of Toronto Press, 1999].

According to GEST Songs of Newfoundland and Labrador site the author is "unknown, but probably Mark Walker." - BS

Anna Kearney Guigné, in her article on the Doyle songsters, "Kenneth Peacock's Contribution to Gerald S. Doyle's Old-Time Songs of Newfoundland (1955)," also attributes the piece to Walker. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
File: Doyl3022
Down By the Derwent Side

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets a girl going to tend her father's sheep "down by the Derwent side." She refuses to go with him. "In time my suit I fondly pressed to win her for my bride." She finally agrees

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (Kidson-TraditionalTunes)

KEYWORDS: courting marriage shepherd

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))

REFERENCES (4 citations):

Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 151-152, "Down By the Derwent Side" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

Anne Geddes Gilchrist, EFDSS Archives AGG/7/37, "Down By the Derwent Side" accessed 5 October 2012 from http://libraryefdss.org/archives/cgi-bin/search.cgi.

Anne Geddes Gilchrist, EFDSS Archives AGG/7/38, "Down By the Derwent Side" accessed 5 October 2012 from http://libraryefdss.org/archives/cgi-bin/search.cgi. [one verse, almost entirely illegible]

Roud #1114

NOTES [54 words]: From his fragment Kidson considered this a local variant of "The Shannon Side" which "may be another instance of the alteration of the locality to suit local singers." The Kidson-TraditionalTunes verses are very close to the beginning of "Shannon Side" but the resolution added by Gilchrist's texts are entirely different. - BS

Last updated in version 3.0

File: KiTu151

Down By the Glenside (The Bold Fenian Men)

DESCRIPTION: An old woman sings about the "bold Fenian men" she had seen "marching and drilling" 50 years earlier. They died in the glens and amid strangers. "Wise men have said that their cause was a failure, But they stood by old Ireland and never feared danger"

AUTHOR: Peadar Kearney (source: Hall, notes to Voice08)

EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (recording, Margaret Barry)

KEYWORDS: Ireland rebellion death nonballad

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):

DT, GLNSFEN

Roud #9266

RECORDINGS:

Margaret Barry, "The Bold Fenian Men" (on Voice08)

NOTES [214 words]: The Fenians were an Irish Independence organization -- but they were also among the most absurdly inept plotters in history. The depth of their feelings are illustrated by the fact that they kept on after an endless litany of failures. (For examples, see "A Fenian Song," "The British Man-of-War," and "The Smashing of the Van (I).") - RBW

Hall, notes to Voice08, re "The Bold Fenian Men": "Peadar Kearney wrote [it] ... around the time of the 1916 Easter Rising."

Regarding "Some died by the glenside; some died amid strangers" this comment at Yates, Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Notes - Volume 8" - 1.3.03: "The Fenian Irish independence movement began in the 1860s with attempted risings in the USA, Canada and Ireland."

Yates, Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Notes - Volume 8" - 1.3.03: "In the song, the 'old woman' represents the Spirit of Ireland." In this connection see notes to "Eileen McMahon" and references there. - BS

This seems to be known in tradition mostly under the title "The Bold Fenian Men," but Kearney's original title apparently was "Down by the Glenside." Kearney was also the author of the Irish national anthem "The Soldier's Song"; for more on him, see the notes to "Whack Fol the Diddle (God Bless England)." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: RcDbtGle
Down By the Groves of Tullig
DESCRIPTION: The singer meets a beautiful "ruined" and "ailing" woman who plans to leave Ireland for California. He flatters her and makes a play but she turns her back saying "tis vanity we're not leading one course."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)
KEYWORDS: courting rejection emigration beauty America Ireland
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 54, "Down By the Groves of Tullig" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9288
RECORDINGS:
Elizabeth Cronin, "Down By the Groves of Tullig" (on IRECronin01)
File: OCC054

Down By the Magdalen Green
DESCRIPTION: A sailor, whose ship anchored at Dundee, convinces a girl to walk "along by the Magdalen/Maudlin/Mellon Green." He returns to sea and dreams of the girl weeping with his baby son. He warns sailors against seducing and abandoning girls.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster)
KEYWORDS: seduction abandonment childbirth dream sailor
FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster 16, "Down By the Mellon Green" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 35, "The Magdalen Green" (1 text, 2 tunes)
Roud #2893
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Harbour of Dundee
NOTES [38 words]: Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster: "A couple of variants of this song have been collected in Scotland itself, notably from Jimmy McBeath, but it is by no means widely known. There is a Magdalen Green in Dundee (pronounced Madlin)." - BS
Last updated in version 4.5
File: MorU016

Down By the Riverside (I) (Study War No More)
DESCRIPTION: "I'm gonna lay down my sword and shield Down by the riverside... And study war no more," The singer describes coming to heaven, and living in peace with Jesus.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)
KEYWORDS: war religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (10 citations):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 55, "Down by the River" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 167 in the 1909 edition), pp. 74-75, "I Ain't Going t' Study War No More" (1 text) (1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 624, "Old Satan's Mad" (5 text, of which the short "A" text is probably "Free at Last"; "B" is a variation on "Down By the Riverside (Study War No More)"; "C" has the "Old Satan's Mad" stanza but a "climbing Zion's walls" chorus; "D" is an unidentifiable fragment perhaps related to "I Belong to that Band; and "E" is also a fragment, perhaps of "Free At Last")
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 566, "Down by de Ribberside" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 566, "Down by de Ribberside" (2 tunes plus text excerpts)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 480-481, "Ain' Go'n to Study War No Mo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Joyner-FolkSongInSouthCarolina, p. 90, "Going to Pull My War-Clothes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 13, "Down By the River" (1 text, 1 tune)
Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 50, "Study War No More" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 281, "Study War No More" (1 text)

DT, WARNOMOR
Roud #11886

RECORDINGS:
Dixie Jubilee Singers, "I Ain't Gonna Study War No More" (Banner 7237/Domino 4206/Challenge 937 [as Jewel Male Quartet], 1928)
Elkins Payne Jubilee Singers, "Down By the Riverside" (Paramount 12071, 1923)
Fisk University Jubilee Quartet, "I Ain't Goin' to Study War No More" (Columbia A3596, 1922; rec. 1920)
Jimmie Lunceford & his Orch. "I Ain't Gonna Study War No More" (Columbia 26938, n.d.; Columbia 35567, 1940)
Golden Echo Quartet, "Study War No More" (Deluxe 1005, 1945)
Memphis Minnie [Lizzie Douglas], "Down by the Riverside" (Conqueror 9936, 1941)
Missouri Pacific Diamond Jubilee Quartette, "Study War No More" (OKeah 8472, 1927)
Morehouse Quartet, "Down by the Riverside" (OKeah 4887, 1923)
C. Mae Frierson Moore, "Going to Study War No More" (Paramount 12323, 1925)
Norfolk Jubilee Quartet, "Down by the Riverside" (Paramount 12445, 1927)
Oak Ridge Quartet, "Ain't Gwine to Study War No More" (Capitol 40057, 1947)
Pete Seeger, "Study War No More" (on PeteSeeger14) (on PeteSeeger15) (on PeteSeeger44) (on PeteSeeger48)
Pete Seeger & Sonny Terry, "Study War No More" (on SeegerTerry)
Sister Rosetta Tharpe, "Down By the Riverside" (Decca 48106, n.d. but probably 1950s)
Louise Foreacre, "Shout Little Lulu" (on CloseHomeMS)

SAME TUNE:
Three Little Maids, "Ain't Gonna Study War No Mo'" (Bluebird B-5860, 1935; rec. 1933)

NOTES [376 words]: Holger Terp has written an article for the Danish Peace Academy, "Ain't gonna study war no more." He notes several sources who think the song goes back to the Civil War era -- but he observes that there is no evidence of the song in the nineteenth century. He finds a number of uses of the line "down by the river" or "down by the riverside" in that era, but they quite clearly are not this song although they may have inspired it.

It is his belief that the text of this song originated after 1917, using a tune published by John J. Nolan in 1902. Not having heard Nolan's piece "Down By The River Side," I cannot directly verify this, but it seems likely. It also seems likely that the first "Study War No More" text was compiled in 1918, although we cannot absolutely verify this. Holger thinks the text was first published in the 1918 Rodeheaver volume "Plantation Melodies"; again, I have not verified this.

Holger also believes that the song was inspired by the famous verse in Isaiah (2:4) and Micah (4:5), the former of which reads in the (American printings of) the King James Version, and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.

These verses have inspired many songs (too bad they haven't inspired more politicians!), although in this case I would consider the song an allusion, not an actual quote.

Incidentally, although the King James translation is so influential that many more accurate translations are afraid to change it, the New English Bible renders it differently at several points: They will beat their swords into mattocks and their spears into pruning-knives; nation will not lift sword against nation nor ever again be trained for war.

Similarly, the New Jerusalem Bible has "sickles" for KJV "pruninghooks." The "pruning-knives" rendering goes back to the brilliant George Adam Smith. James Moffatt's translation gives the last line as no longer shall men learn to fight.

Smith omits "any more" from the last line on the basis of the LXX Greek. - RBW

Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute is a variant of Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 624B. - BS

Last updated in version 4.1

File: San480
Down By the Riverside (II)

DESCRIPTION: The singer loves Annie, but his parents have him marry another girl for gold. "What is the use of gold to me when I haven't the girl I love." He murders his wife. "Tomorrow morning you must hang down by the riverside." Don't slight your first true love.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)

KEYWORDS: greed love marriage warning execution homicide punishment trial father mother wife

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

Roud #25802

RECORDINGS:

John James, "Down By the Riverside" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
Minnie Murphy, "Down By The Riverside" (on ITMA/CapeShoreNL)

NOTES [39 words]: According to the ITMA/CapeShoreNL notes for this song, "After Minnie Murphy finished her performance, one of the men present in the room comments [sic] that he sometimes heard this song in the lumber camps of western Newfoundland." - BS

Last updated in version 4.5

File: ML3DBtRi

Down by the Sally Gardens

DESCRIPTION: Singer meets his sweetheart by the Sally Gardens; she bid him to "take love easy," but he is foolish and does not. He is now filled with remorse.

AUTHOR: Words: William Butler Yeats / Music: Traditional

EARLIEST DATE: 1889

KEYWORDS: grief courting youth lover

FOUND IN: Britain

REFERENCES (5 citations):

Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 164, "Down by the Sally Gardens" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 182, "Down By The Sally Gardens" (1 text)
DT, SALLYGRD*

ADDITIONAL: Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), p. 598, "Down by the Salley Gardens" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "You Rambling Boys of Pleasure (Down by Sally's Garden)"

ALTERNATE TITLES:

Down By the Sally Gardens

NOTES [40 words]: This is barely a ballad, but there is the skeleton of a narrative, and it seems to have entered the repertoire. - PJS

It seems to have had roots in tradition, though. See "Down In my Sally's Garden" and "You Rambling Boys of Pleasure." - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: FSWB182

Down by the Sea

DESCRIPTION: Call and answer: "Down by the sea (Down by the sea) Where the watermelons grow (Where the...), Back to my house... I dare not go... For if I go... My wife will say... Have you ever seen a cow with a green eye-brow Down where the watermelons grow?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang)

KEYWORDS: sea husband wife nonsense food

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang, p. 38, "Down by the Sea" (1 text)

Roud #10561

File: BrPa038A
Down by the Seaside
DESCRIPTION: Singer meets young woman and asks her to walk with him. She declines; she's searching for her true love. Looking through an opera glass, she spies his ship; hearing that he has been shot, she despairs; if he died for honor, she will die for love
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (recorded from George Maynard)
KEYWORDS: grief virtue love separation death ship lover sailor
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
Roud #1712
RECORDINGS:
George Maynard, "Down By the Seaside" (on Maynard1)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "John (George) Riley (I)" (part of plot, lyrics) and cross-references there
cf. "Susan Strayed on the Briny Beach [Laws K19]" (plot)
NOTES [48 words]: This is a conundrum; it starts out as a classic John-Riley-lover-in-disguise ballad, but halfway through does not take the usual sharp turn of revealing the stranger to be the lover returned. Instead, it proceeds in a straight line to the young man's death and the woman's bereavement. - PJS
File: RcDBTSS

Down by the Weeping Willow Tree
DESCRIPTION: "Dig my grave and let me lie, love (x3), Down by the weeping willow tree." "Make it long and deep and wide, love." "Dig my grave with a golden spade, love." "Let me down with a golden chain, love." "Cover me over with the sod, love."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: burial death
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 268, "Down by the Weeping Willow Tree" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Dig My Grave with a Silver Spade" (lyrics)
NOTES [47 words]: The lyrics of this are largely identical with "Dig My Grave with a Silver Spade," and I thought seriously about lumping them. But I hesitantly separate them (pending discovery of additional versions) on the basis of the refrains and the much more spiritual feel of "Silver Spade." - RBW
File: Br3268

Down by the Yeaman Shore
DESCRIPTION: "Come all ye swains of Scotland, I pray you lend an ear." The singer met his love in Dundee; they walked by the Yeaman Shore. Later, she will not walk with him because of her parents. He wishes he had money, but having none, he will travel far away
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1986 (Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
KEYWORDS: courting rejection travel
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 36, "Down by the Yeaman Shore" (1 text, tune referenced)
File: Gath036

Down By Yon Shady Harbor
DESCRIPTION: "You tender-hearted lover, come listen to my grief, My darling's going to leave me in hopes of no relief." He is bound for America; she begs him to stay, but he is sent off. She sets out for America also, and finds him; they marry
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Fowke collection)
KEYWORDS: love separation emigration reunion
FOUND IN: Canada (Ont)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 12, "Down By Yon Shady Harbour" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3830
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Mary Acklin (The Squire's Young Daughter)" [Laws M16] (plot)
NOTES [125 words]: The mention of a "shady harbor" also occurs in versions of "Mary Acklin (The Squire's Young Daughter)" [Laws M16], which also features two lovers separated. But, in that song, it is because of her father, and Mary is a squire's daughter. In this song, the father does not enter in, and the girl (still named Mary) is a servant. The ring which motivates the plot is also missing from this song.
On the other hand, the text of this song as collected from O. J. Abbott is a bit confused: Did Willy go to America voluntarily, or was he forced away? Different lines give different answers. On the whole, I think this song a derivative of "Mary Acklin," but just different enough that I have agreed with Roud in splitting them. But best to see both songs. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.1
File: AbFo012

Down Fell the Old Nag
DESCRIPTION: "Down fell the old nag, dead between the shafts." The crew, rather than haul the cart home themselves, declare, "We'll harness up the old woman, and put her in the shafts, and make her pull the whole lot home"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1968
KEYWORDS: husband wife horse death hardheartedness
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, p. 144, "Down Fell the Old Nag" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: MA144

Down Hampshire Way
DESCRIPTION: "I'm Hampshire bred and Hampshire born, And proud of it am I, No softer, purer air I know, Beneath God's boundless sky." Hampshire is beautiful, and welcomes visitors. No matter where you travel, you will not find better cities than Southampton, etc.
AUTHOR: Words: Hugh Scott / Music: Seathcote Statham (source: Browne-FolkSongsOfOldHampshire)
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Hampshire Advertiser and Southampton Times, according to Browne-FolkSongsOfOldHampshire)
KEYWORDS: patriotic home nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-FolkSongsOfOldHampshire, pp. 40-42, "Down Hampshire Way" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [32 words]: Pretty definitely not a folk song -- and probably not true, even in 1927; all the coal-burning ships traveling in and out of Portsmouth and Southampton would hardly have produced pure air! - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: BrHa040

Down in a Boston Restaurant
DESCRIPTION: A moneyless hobo steals a crock of beans from a Boston restaurant and escapes from a cop who chases him. He marries a girl with false teeth and hair and a wooden leg. She has a baby girl; he wants boys. He hopes to fool a blind man with a fake quarter
Down in a Licensed Saloon

DESCRIPTION: "Where is my wandering boy tonight? Down in a licensed saloon. Down in a room all cozy and bright, Filled with the glare of many a light, Ruined and wrecked by the drink appetite..." The mother recalls the boy's youthful charms and regrets his downfall

AUTHOR: W.A. Williams

EARLIEST DATE: 1892 (copyright)

KEYWORDS: drink mother children

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 335, "Down in a Licensed Saloon" (1 text)

Roud #7807

NOTES [14 words]: Published under the caption "An answer to, 'Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?'" - RBW

File: R335

Down in Dear Old Greenwich Village

DESCRIPTION: "Way down south in Greenwich Village, that's the field for cultural tillage; there they have artistic ravings, tea and awful cravings." In Greenwich women bob their hair and look for men and look for "distillage" and otherwise act in shocking ways

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions)

KEYWORDS: nonballad home travel courting drink

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 128-130, "Down in Dear Old Greenwich Village" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #9537

File: SBar128

Down in My Sally's Garden

DESCRIPTION: The thrush sings sweetly in Sally's garden. The singer recalls meeting her in the garden, and the time they fondly shared. In the end, "My heart became love-weary When I at last must go." "I left my Sally weeping Down by an ivied dell."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Sam Henry collection)

KEYWORDS: love courting separation

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H828, p. 286-287, "Down in My Sally's Garden" (1 text, 1 tune)

Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 124-125, (no title) (1 text, with at least the first verse being related to this)

DT, SALGARD2

Roud #3819

NOTES [31 words]: This may have influenced the Yeats poem, "Down by the Sally Garden," though that poem may also have been inspired by "You Rambling Boys of Pleasure." Or both may have played a part. - RBW
Down In Old Franklin County

DESCRIPTION: "It was down in Franklin County, Where they never have the blues, Where the Captain kills the colonel, And the colonel kills the booze." Horses and women there are attractive, but it is a violent place. A daily walk can leave "buckshot in your pants."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks)
KEYWORDS: violence home drink homicide
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, p. 29, "Down in Old Franklin County" (1 short text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 443, "Down in Old Franklin County" (1 short text)
Roud #14054
NOTES [23 words]: I can't prove it from the extant fragments, but I suspect that this is about moonshine, with a moonshiner killing a revenue officer. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: CAFS443A

Down in Our Village

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets Fan dancing in the village after work. His parents and friends "laugh and joke and jeer me." When they've saved enough money they will marry and "Fan will dance and I will sing"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1822 (broadside, Bodleian Johnson Ballads fol. 15)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage dancing father friend mother shepherd
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 149-150, "Down in Our Village" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1113
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Johnson Ballads fol. 15, "Our Village" ("When first I was a shepherd's boy"), J. Catnach (London), 1822; also Harding B 36(29), "Our Village"; Firth b.27(47), Firth b.26(343), 2806 c.16(145), Harding B 20(44), 2806 c.17(105), Firth b.25(518), Firth b.25(518), Harding B 25(546), "Down in Our Village"; Johnson Ballads 804, Firth b.26(343), Firth b.25(222), Harding B 11(958), Harding B 11(697), Harding B 25(543), "Down Down in Our Village"; 2806 c.17(389)[left margin clipped], Johnson Ballads 3071 View 2 of 3, [The] Shepherd's Boy"
SAME TUNE:
The Sun That Lights the Roses (broadside, Bodleian Johnson Ballads fol. 15)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Little Fan

File: KiTu149

Down in Southern Illinois

DESCRIPTION: "You may sing of old Kentucky Or your Indiana home, You may boast of Missouri Or the many lands you roam," but the singer prefers Southern Illinois, even though it is called "Darkest Egypt." The singer dreams of hogs and cattle and plans to stay

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks)
KEYWORDS: home nonballad farming
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, pp. 28-29, "Down in Southern Illinois" (1 text)
Down in Texas Blues
DESCRIPTION: Don't be a stick-up man or call a man a liar in Texas because every "pocket has a pistol"; "they never hang a man." "They put us in jail every night and every morning they turn us loose." Texas is the best state after all: "I can get my ashes hauled"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (StuffDreams1)
KEYWORDS: sex violence crime home bawdy nonballad
FOUND IN:
RECORDINGS:
Jesse "Babyface" Thomas, "Down in Texas Blues" (on StuffDreams1)
NOTES [18 words]: Three line blues: the first line is repeated -- more or less -- and the last line completes the thought. - BS
Last updated in version 5.2
File: RcDITexB

Down in the Arkansas
DESCRIPTION: Odd snippets with the refrain "Down in the Arkan (x2) Down in the Arkansas. The sweetest girl I ever saw Was down in the Arkansas." Example: "I had a cow that slobbered bad... Asked (the doctor) what to do for it. He said to teach that cow to spit."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (recording, Myers & Hanford)
KEYWORDS: humorous animal courting
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Randolph 349, "Down in Arkansas" (2 texts)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 355-356, "Down In Arkansas" (1 text)
Roud #7626
RECORDINGS:
Bill Cox, "Down in Arkansas" (Champion 16075 [as Luke Baldwin]/Supertone 9714 [as Charley Blake]/Superior 2558 [as Clyde Ashley], 1930)
Crystal Springs Ramblers, "Down in Arkansas" (Vocalion 03856, 1937)
Dave Edwards & his Alabama Boys, "Down in Arkansas" (Decca 5536, 1938; rec. 1937)
Golden Melody Boys, "Way Down in Arkansas" ( Paramount 3087, 1928; Broadway 8134, n.d.)
Uncle Dave Macon, "Down in Arkansas" (Vocalion 15034, 1925)
[Pee Wee] Myers and [Ford] Hanford, "Down in Arkansaw" (Victor 18767, 1921)
Pickard Family, "Down in Arkansas" (Brunswick 348/Conqueror 7251, 1929; Banner S-6283/Challeng 993/QRS 9002, c. 1929; rec. 1928)
Riley Puckett, "Down in Arkansas" (Columbia 15139-D, 1927; rec. 1926)
Reaves White County Ramblers, "Down in Arkansas" (Vocalion 5224, 1928)
Almeda Riddle, "Down in Arkansas" (on LomaxCD1707)
Art Thieme, "Down in the Arkansas" (on Thieme04)
File: R349

Down in the Brunner Mine
DESCRIPTION: "They work in the heat, and the coal-black dust Sticks to the skin... We curse each day that the miner must Go down in the Brunner Mine." Even the air is dangerous. A cave-in brings "a hundred feet of rubble and coal," giving a day off; no one rejoices
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry)
KEYWORDS: mining death New Zealand
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Mar 26, 1896 - The Brunner Mine in Westland, New Zealand, collapses, killing 67 miners

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 78, "Down in the Brunner Mine" (1 text, 1 tune) (p. 58 in the 1972 edition)
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, pp. 38-39, "Down in the Brunner Mine" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Barbie and Neil Colquhoun, "Down in the Brunner Mine" (on NZSongYngCntry)

NOTES [111 words]: According to Gordon McLauchlan, editor-in-chief, New Zealand Encyclopedia, David Bateman Limited, 1984, pp. 72-73, Brunner was "a locality 13 km east of Greymouth, formerly known as Brunnerton and declared a borough in 1887. It is near where Thomas Brunner [''one of the most intrepid explorers in the early days of NZ settlement''] discovered a coal seam in January 1848. The Brunner coalmine was the scene of the worst mine disaster in NZ history. On 26 March 1896, 67 men were killed by an explosion and release of gas, following the negligent and unauthorized firing of a shot in a disused section of the mine where no work should have been in progress." - RBW
Last updated in version 5.2
File: Colq058

Down in the Coal Mine

DESCRIPTION: The miner sings, "I am a jovial collier lad, as blythe as blythe can be / And let the times be good or bad, it's all the same to me...." He describes his dark and dirty life and his lack of culture, but points out how all are dependent on him.

AUTHOR: J. B. Geoghegan (or "Geehagen")

EARLIEST DATE: 1872

KEYWORDS: mining nonballad work

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,Ro) Britain

REFERENCES (8 citations):
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 26, "Down in the Coal Mine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 373-374, "Down in a Coal Mine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 74, p. 97, "Down in the Coal Mines" (1 text)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #187, "Down in the Coal Mine" (1 text)
Foner-AmericanLaborSongsOfTheNineteenthCentury, p. 199, "Down in a Coal Mine" (1 text)
Arnett-IHearAmericaSinging, pp. 128-129, "Down in the Coalmine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, pp. 171-172, "Down in a Coal Mine" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, DOWNCOAL

Roud #3502

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Yellow Meal (Heave Away; Yellow Gals; Tapscott; Bound to Go)" (part of tune)
File: Wa026

Down in the Diving Bell (The Mermaid (II))

DESCRIPTION: Singer, a sailor, sees amazing sights while down in the diving bell (including the Atlantic Cable used as a clothesline). He courts and marries a mermaid and they live happily, if wetly, ever after

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1867 (Broadside Bodleian Harding B 11(965))

KEYWORDS: courting marriage wedding sea humorous sailor mermaid/man

FOUND IN: US(MW,SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #27, "Down in the Diving Bells" (2 texts, 1 tune)

Roud #5013

RECORDINGS:
Warde Ford, "The Mermaid (Down in the Diving Bell)" (AFS 4199 A2, 1938; tr.; in AMMEM/Cowell)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(965), "Down in the Diving Bell," J. Harkness (Preston) , 1840-1866

CROSS-REFERENCES:
Down in the Duckpond

DESCRIPTION: "Down in the duckpond, Learning how to swim, First he does the overarm, Then he does the side, Now he's underwater, Swimming against the tide"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1900 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: playparty

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 60, "(Down in the duckpond)" (1 text)

File: SuSm060

Down in the Harbor of Havana

DESCRIPTION: "Down in the harbor of Havana, Have you heard the news, know what?" "Our battleship, the Maine, Was visiting the Spain." "Our crew was fast asleep." "About ten o'clock, There came an awful shock." "The Spaniards nevermore Shall ravish Cuba's shore."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida)

KEYWORDS: disaster ship death war

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

1895 - Cubans rebel against Spain
Feb 15, 1898 - Explosion of the battleship "Maine" in Havana harbor
April 25, 1898 - Congress declares war on Spain

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #10, "Down in the Harbor of Havanna" (1 text)

Roud #5018

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "My Sweetheart Went Down with the Maine" (subject) and references there

File: Morr010

Down in the Holler

DESCRIPTION: "Down in the holler Where the pigs used to waller, Oh there's somebody wailing for me, Take the one, leave the other, Take the one, leave the other, Take the one, leave the other for me."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore)

KEYWORDS: playparty courting animal

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, pp. 215-216, "Down in the Holler" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: SaKo215
Down in the Jungle

DESCRIPTION: "Down in the jungle Where nobody goes, Lives a big fat mama Who washes her clothes." Some rubbing and dubbing and "That's how she washes her clothes"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame)

KEYWORDS: clothes derivative playparty

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

* Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 125, "Down in the Jungle" (1 text)

Roud #18993

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Down in the Valley Washing Her Clothes" (the apparent source)

NOTES [68 words]: Google for "where nobody goes" and "clothes" and you'll find references to variations of this song (as well as to "Down in the Valley Washing Her Clothes"). There are "children's" versions where "big fat mama" becomes a gorilla, or crocodile, or an elephant, or "wisy washy washer woman" or "Boogie Woogie Washer Woman." You can also go "down in the cellar" where "the bugs and beetles get in your clothes." - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: OpGa155

---

Down in the Meadow (Down in the Valley II)

DESCRIPTION: Singing game/skipping rhyme "Down in the (meadow/valley) where the green grass grows," a girl shines like a rose (or hangs out her clothes). She and a young man court (and marry)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1894 (Gomme)

KEYWORDS: playparty courting

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber)) US(MA,MW,SE)

REFERENCES (11 citations):

* Greig/Duncan8 1575, "Down in Yon Meadow" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
* Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 20, "Down by the Riverside" (6 texts, 1 tune)
* Montgomery/Montgomery-ScottishNurseryRhymes 59, "Skipping (Down in the Valley)" (1 text)
* Behan-IrelandSings, #25, "Down in Yonder Meadow" (1 text, 1 tune, modified)
* Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #126, "Down in the Valley Where the Green Grass Grows" (1 text)
* Carey-MarylandFolkloreAndFolklife, p. 78, "(no title)" (1 text)
* Byington/Goldstein-TwoPennyBallads, p. 116, "(no title, filed under "Rope Jumping")" (1 text)
* NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, (Joan McCaskill, collector), "Rope-Skipping Games", Vol. 1, No. 1 (Jun 1948), p. 12, "(Down in the Meadow)" (1 text)
* ADDITIONAL: Richard M. Dorson, _Buying the Wind: Regional Folklore in the United States_, University of Chicago Press, 1964, p. 386, "(no title)" (1 short text)
* Tristram P. Coffin and Hennig Cohen, _Folklore in America: Tales, Songs, Superstitions, Proverbs, Riddles, Games, Folk Drama and Folk Festivals_, Doubleday, 1966, p. 189, "A Political Jump Rope Rhyme" (1 text, with references to Kennedy and Nixon rather than courting, collected 1960)
* Roud #12967

NOTES [45 words]: Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame: "Although the precise source ... may never be known, the words probably stem from an Arcadian song such as 'The Wars are all O'er', which appears on a slip sheet in our possession printed in the 1770's." See "I Wish the Wars Were All Over." - BS

Last updated in version 6.1

File: SNR059

---

Down in the Place Where I Come From

DESCRIPTION: "Down in de place where I come from, Dey feed dose coons on hard-parched cawn, Dey swell up an' dey get so far Day dey couldn't get deir heads in a Number Ten hat."
NOTES [43 words]: Anyone who has had to deal with an urban raccoon will know how true this is; trash is so abundant and convenient that the critters tend to take over yards and even houses. It's also reported that many of them are ending up with severe dental problems. - RBW

File: ScNF284A

Down in the Town of Old Bantry (The Black and Tan Gun)

DESCRIPTION: An Irish soldier is dying in Bantry "shot by a Black-and-Tan gun" He asks his comrades to bury him "out on the mountain Where I can see where the battle was won" They bury him, return to Dublin "with our victories over and won."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (recording, Tommy McGrath)

KEYWORDS: Ireland rebellion Civilwar IRA dying soldier

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1920-1921 - The Black and Tan War

FOUND IN: Ireland

ST RcBlTaGu (Full)

Roud #12938

RECORDINGS:
- Tommy McGrath, "Down in the Town of Old Bantry" (on Voice08)

NOTES [185 words]: The "Black and Tans" were British reinforcements to regular British soldiers sent to Ireland in 1920. (source: Michael Collins: A Man Against an Empire copyright by and available on the History Net site) For more information see RBW note for "The Bold Black and Tan" - BS

Although details in the song are lacking, its setting in Bantry is quite reasonable; the south of Ireland was noteworthy for the fury of the contest with the English, with Cork being probably the single most active IRA center. Robert Kee, in Ourselves Alone, being volume III of The Green Flag, devotes pp. 102-103 to the atrocities committed by both side in Bantry.

The sad irony is that, once the Irish fought off the British, and achieved the Free State (see the notes to "The Irish Free State"), they proceeded to have a civil war (see "General Michael Collins"). That by implication dates this song to 1921 or 1922, before it became clear that the "victory" of the Black and Tan war just led to more violence. Of course, many Irish songwriters have tended to write about their successes and ignore the subsequent failures. - RBW

File: RcBlTaGu

Down in the Tules

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, down in the tules, a-wranglin' around, I'd give a month's pay just to be in town." A cowboy complains about his hard work. He goes into town and parties, concluding "Saturday night's over, it's back to the hills;" partied out, he wants to go home

AUTHOR: Jim McElroy

EARLIEST DATE: 1973

KEYWORDS: cowboy work home party

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 73, "Down in the Tules" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [24 words]: "Tules," Ohrlin explains, are the reed grasses that grow by bodies of water. This gives rise to the secondary meaning "boondocks, outskirts." - RBW

File: 0hr073

Down in the Valley

DESCRIPTION: "Down in the valley, valley so low, Hang your head over, hear the wind blow." The singer tells of his deep, unrequited love for (his/her) sweetheart. (He) bids farewell: "If you don't love me, love whom you please." (He says to write to Birmingham Jail.)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)

KEYWORDS: love courting separation prison lyric

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,SE,So)

REFERENCES (26 citations):

Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, p. 488, "Down in the Valley"; pp. 488-489, "Bird in a Cage" (2 texts)

Randolph 772, "Down in the Valley" (1 text, 1 tune)

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 281, "Down in the Valley (Birmingham Jail)" (1 text plus a fragment); also probably 282, "I Sent My Love a Letter" (3 texts, of which "A" is likely to be this piece and "C" is a mess with some "Down in the Valley" verses and others about Lulu, though it's not clear which Lulu; "B" is "Green Grows the Laurel (Green Grow the Lilacs)"

Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 281, "Down in the Valley (Birmingham Jail)" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)

Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #31, "Birmingham Jail" 2 texts, 1 tune)

Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 142, "Bird in the Cage" (1 text)

Sulzer-TwentyFiveKentuckyFolkBallads, pp. 6-7, "Down in the Valley" (1 text plus some additional verses, 3 tunes)

Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 179, "Down in the Valley" (1 text)

Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 148, "Down in the Valley"; 213, "Bird in a Cage" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 19, "Down in the Valley" (1 text, 1 tune)

Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 147-149, "Down in the Valley" (1 text, 1 tune)

Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 150, "Down in the Valley" (1 text, 1 tune)

Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 310-311, "Little Willie's My Darling" (1 text, 1 tune, with a plot of "Twenty-One Years" [Laws E16] but which has swallowed "Down in the Valley" almost entire)

Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, p. 332, "Birmingham Jail" (1 text)

Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 149-151, "The Birmingham Jail" (1 text, 1 tune)

Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 92-93, "The Birmingham Jail" (1 text, 1 tune)

Abernethy-SinginTexas, p. 85, "Birmingham Jail" (1 text, 1 tune)

Fife/CowboyAndWesternSongs 58, "Down in the Valley" (1 text, 1 tune)

Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 902-903, "Down in the Valley" (1 text, 1 tune)

Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 33, "Down In The Valley" (1 text, 1 tune)

Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 290, "Down in the Valley" (1 text)

Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 99, "Down in the Valley" (1 text)

Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 150, "Down In The Valley" (1 text)

Roud #943

RECORDINGS:

Ezra Hill & Henry Johnson, "Birmingham Jail" (Challenge 15750, 1929)

Frank Proffitt, "Down in the Valley" (on Proffitt03)

Riley Puckett, "Down in the Valley" (Regal Zonophone [Australia] G22464, n.d.)

Pete Seeger, "Down in the Valley" (on LonesomeValley) (on PeteSeeger17)

Unidentified group of singers, "Down in the Valley" (on JThomas01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Charlotte the Harlot (III)" (tune)

cf. "Bull Connor's Jail" (tune)

cf. "The Stolen Bride" (tune)

cf. "Billy My Darling" (lyrics)

SAME TUNE:

Hang Your Head Over (Suck Your Big Toe) (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 110)

Tom Darby & Jimmie Tarlton, "Birmingham Jail - No. 2" (Columbia 15375-D, 1929; rec. 1928);

"New Birmingham Jail" (Columbia 15629-D, 1930 -- note that two different takes were issued under this record number)
NOTES [99 words]: "Birmingham Jail" (sometimes credited to E.V. Body) is considered by some a separate song, but it can hardly be distinguished from "Down in the Valley." The same can be said of Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag's and Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety's "Bird in a Cage" texts; it lacks the "Down in the Valley" stanza, but the other verses are common. - RBW
This song is often called "Birmingham Jail," particularly on early recordings; there is also, however, another song called "Birmingham Jail", which is part of the "Sweet Thing/Crawdad Hole" family, and no relation to this. - PJS
Last updated in version 4.5
File: R772

Down In The Valley On My Praying Knees
DESCRIPTION: "(Down in the valley on my praying knees) (x3) O Lord O Lord what shall I do."
Other first lines: "Where were you when the evening sun went down," "Where were you when death came creeping in the room" to "take mother" and "steal father"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang)
KEYWORDS: death nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang, pp. 318-319, "Down Een duh Valley On My Prayin' Knees" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [18 words]: The description follows Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang but I do not repeat the dialect. - BS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: HPR318D

Down in the Valley to Pray
DESCRIPTION: "As I went down in the valley to pray, Studying about the good old way (or: My soul got happy and I stayed all day)." "Oh, (sinners/mothers/fathers/brothers/sisters, etc.), let's go down, you better go down, Down in the valley to pray."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 4, "Down in the Valley to Pray" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 553, "As I Went Down in the Valley to Pray" (3 short texts with significant variations)
DT, DOWNVALL
Roud #4928
RECORDINGS:
Delta Big Four, "Moaner Let's Go Down in the Valley" (Paramount 13009, 1930; on VocalQ2)
Price Family Sacred Singers, "I Went Down Into the Valley to Pray" (OKeh 40796, 1927)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Can't Cross Jordan"
cf. "The Good Old Way (II)" (lyrics)
NOTES [70 words]: This song shares many lines with "The Good Old Way (II)," and given how short some of Brown's fragments are, they may file there. Indeed, some might argue for lumping them -- but the forms appear distinct to me. - RBW
The creators of the film O Brother, Where Art Thou? changed the lyric to "Down to the River to Pray", and there are signs that this variant is entering into aural tradition among revival singers. - PJS
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Br3553
Down in the Valley Washing Her Clothes

DESCRIPTION: "Down in the valley/river/woods/on Old Smoky where nobody goes, There was a maiden/girl/Annie Oakley without any clothes." A cowboy/Freddy/Gene/Roy Rogers comes by and opens his zipper/takes off his trousers or everything. Sometimes, she has a baby.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950s (Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame)
KEYWORDS: sex clothes bawdy
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord)) US(SW)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame, pp. 427-428, ("Down in the Valley Where Nobody Goes") (1 text)
- Nancy Leventhal and Ed Cray, "Depth Collecting from a Sixth-Grade Class" in Western Folklore, Vol. XXII, No. 4 (Oct 1963 (available online by JSTOR)), #56a p. 243 ("On top of Old Smoky") (1 text)
- Bruce Jackson, Get Your Ass in the Water and Swim Like Me (Florence, 2004 (copyrighted material limited preview "Digitized by Google")) #89 p. 227, "Forty-Nine Ford" (1 text)
- Onwuchekwa Jamie, editor, Yo' Mama: New Raps, Toasts, Dozens, Jokes, and Children's Rhymes from Urban Black America (Philadelphia, 2003 (copyrighted material limited preview "Digitized by Google")) p. 143, "Down By The River" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Down in the Jungle" (a playparty version)
cf. "The First Time I Met Her (Down in the Valley, Down in the Dark Alley)" (form)

File: OpGap427

Down in Union County

DESCRIPTION: "Down in Union County (x3), For to see my Susie/Suzie Ann." "I know that she'll be waiting (x3), To see her loving man." "I know I'll get some loving (x3), When I see my Susie Ann." "I know that we'll get married." "Cornbread in the oven."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1977 (Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol5)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage food
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol5, p. 67, "Union County" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: BWV5067

Down in Utah

DESCRIPTION: "While the workmen stopped in Denver one fellow came to me, Said he, Are you from Utah, and why are you so free?" The two get into a fight. The singer gets in trouble with the law. Mormons always get questioned because of their faith

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Cheney)
KEYWORDS: fight questions
FOUND IN: US(Ro)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 604-605, "Down in Utah" (1 text)
- Richard M. Dorson, _Buying the Wind: Regional Folklore in the United States_, University of Chicago Press, 1964, pp. 532-533, "Down in Utah" (1 text)

File: CAFS2604

Down On Me

DESCRIPTION: Floating verses: "Down on me, down on me..." "I wonder what Satan is growling about..." "Mind my mother how you walk on the cross..." "Satan's mad and I'm so glad..." Refrain:
"...Seems like everybody in this whole wide world is down on me"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (recording, Dock Reed)
KEYWORDS: floating verses nonballad religious Devil
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Carawan/Carawan-AintYouGotARight, p. 137, "Down On Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #12256
RECORDINGS:
Mary Pinckney, "Down on Me" (on BeenStorm1)
Dock Reed, "Down on Me" (AFS 4058 A1, 1940; on LC10)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "That's All Right" (floating verses)
File: RcDoOnMe

Down on my Luck

DESCRIPTION: "Wand'r'ing above a sea of glass, In the soft April weather," the singer neither knows nor cares where he will sleep tonight; he has lost his job to a machine, and is broke. His woman has left him; he is "close to the end of my tether"

AUTHOR: A. R. D. Fairburn (source: Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)
EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (New Zealand Poetry Yearbook, according to Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)
KEYWORDS: hardtimes technology abandonment
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, pp. 158-159, "Down on my Luck" (1 text, 1 modern tune)
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 71, "Down on my Luck" (1 text, 1 modern tune)
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, pp. 164-165, "(Down On My Luck)" (1 text)
File: BaRo158

Down on Penny's Farm

DESCRIPTION: "Hard times in the country, Down on Penny's farm." The renters are subjected to dreadful conditions: Bad land, houses with "no windows but the cracks in the wall," low income, high expenses -- and a threat of going on the chain gang for debt

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (recording, Bently Boys)
KEYWORDS: hardtimes work farming poverty landlord nonballad
FOUND IN: US(Ap, SE)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 287-288, "Hard Times in the Country" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 147, "Down on Penney's Farm" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, p. 362, "Down on Penny's Farm" (1 text)
Dunson/Raim/Asch-AnthologyOfAmericanFolkMusic, p. 66 "Down on Penny's Farm" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, pp. 216-217, "Down on Roberts' Farm" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 119, "Robert's Farm" (1 text)
Roud #6687
RECORDINGS:
Bently Boys, "Down on Penny's Farm" (Columbia 15565-D, 1930; rec. 1929; on AAFM1, HardTimes1)
Pete Seeger, "Penny's Farm" (on PeteSeeger02, PeteSeegerCD01)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
On Tanner's Farm
NOTES [59 words]: Bascom Lamar Lunsford has the "Roberts' Farm" version from a Claude Reeves of North Carolina, who claimed to have written it around 1935. It would seem, however, that this was only a local adaption. - RBW
Bob Dylan wrote a parody/pastiche of this song entitled "New York Town". - PJS
And, of course, Gid Tanner produced a version about his own farm! - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2
File: LoF147

Down on the Corner of Dock and Holly

DESCRIPTION: "Down on the corner of Dock and Holly, A woman comes and says to me, 'Will you come and work of Jesus?'" The singer asks how much Jesus pays. Since Jesus pays nothing, he prefers to work for Charley Lind.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1988 (Allen, Washington Songs and Lore)

KEYWORDS: work humorous derivative

FOUND IN:

Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 627-628, "Down on the Corner (of Dock and Holly)" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Swede from North Dakota" (theme of not working for Jesus)

File: CAFS2628

Down on the Farm (I)

DESCRIPTION: Susie Slick and Tommy lay on the grass, where she wiggles her ---, as in all such teasing songs.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE:

KEYWORDS: bawdy humorous

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Randolph/Legman-RollMeInYourArms I, pp. 216-221, "Down on the Farm" (3 texts, 3 tunes)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Butcher Town"

File: RL216

Down on the Farm (II)

DESCRIPTION: "When a boy I used to dwell in a home I loved so well, Far away among the clover and the bees." The singer describes the happy life on the farm, the family among whom he worked -- and the changes since his "boyhood's happy days down on the farm."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: farming family father mother home death separation return

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 210, "Down on the Farm" (1 text plus mention of 3 more; also a text of "Down on the Farm (III)"

Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 148, "Down on the Farm" (1 text plus mention of 1 more)

Roud #4375

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Girl I Left in Sunny Tennessee" (theme)

cf. "Down on the Farm (IV -- Parody)" (parody of this song)

File: Br3210

Down on the Farm (III)

DESCRIPTION: "Down on the farm 'bout half past four, I slip on my pants and sneak out the door" to start the long, hard rounds of farm life. He notes that, despite great labors, he has "less cash now than I had last spring." Farm life proves the existence of hell

Author: unknown

Earliest Date: 1952 (Brown)

Keywords: farming work hardtimes poverty

Found In: US(SE)

References: (1 citation):

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 210, "Down on the Farm" (The "E" text is this, appended to "Down on the Farm (II)")

Cross-References:

cf. "The Farmer Is the Man" (theme)

cf. "The Humble Farmer" (theme)

Notes: The notes in Brown imply that this is a parody of "Down on the Farm (II)." It may perhaps be an answer to that song, but it does not appear to be direct parody; the lyrics are not related and the stanza form different. - RBW

File: Br3210A

---

Down on the Farm (IV -- Parody)

Description: "I remember when a boy how my heart would leap with joy When someone would speak of home and farms so dear." The singer is not impressed with the hard life there; "I'd rather go to jail and no one to go my bail Than to go and spend one hour on the farm"

Author: unknown

Earliest Date: before 1900 (Harper Bros. European Circus Songster, according to Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)

Keywords: derivative farming hardtimes humorous

Found In: US(So)

References: (1 citation):

Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 149, "Parody of 'Down on the Farm" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11348

Cross-References:

cf. "Down on the Farm (II)" (the original of this parody)

File: Brne149

---

Down on the Ol' Bar-G

Description: "The boss he took a trip to France, Down on the ol' Bar-G, He left his gal to run the ranch, Down on... She wouldn't let us chew nor cuss....." She takes over for the cook. The cowboys quit and go "What apron-strings the couldn't rope us"

Author: Phil LeNoir (source: Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)

Earliest Date: 1921 (Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)

Keywords: cowboy humorous boss wife cook

Found In:

References: (1 citation):

Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 60-61, "Down on the Ol' Bar-G" (1 text)

File: ThLo060

---

Down on the Pichelo Farm

Description: "I got a gal named Dinah, The people cain't out-shine her, And I'll take a kiss if I find her Down on the Pichelo farm." "Her father's name was Moses, Her shoes was out at the toeses... Down on the Pichelo farm." "An a rig jag jag jag jag jag (x3)..."

Author: unknown

Earliest Date: 1928 (Randolph)

Keywords: playparty farming

Found In: US(So)

References: (1 citation):

Randolph 572, "Down on the Pichelo Farm" (1 text)

Roud #7662
Down on Your Knees

DESCRIPTION: Thomas Fitzgerald enters hell. He is accused: "While on earth your shortlived reign All your delights were torture's dreadful pain." Lucifer prepares him for sentence: "Down on your knees." He is sentenced to eternal pain

AUTHOR: Bernard Wright (source: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

EARLIEST DATE: 1981 (O hOgain's _Duanaire Thiobraid Arainn_, according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

KEYWORDS: punishment death Devil judge

NOTES [215 words]: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815: Thomas Judkin Fitzgerald was High Sheriff for County Tipperary in 1798. "He would have people seized on the street, and, ignoring all and any protestations or proof of innocence, would have them savagely flogged.... Bernard Wright of Clonmel, commemorated his experiences in this acrostic piece of verse upon reading of Fitzgerald's death. Fitzgerald's words to Wright -- 'Down on your knees, rebellious scoundrel, and receive your sentence' -- are the reason for the title." - BS

Thomas Pakenham gives a generally pro-British history of 1798 in _The Year of Liberty_, but on p. 283, he gives this description of Fitzgerald, a later-day Judge Jeffries: "At his trial in 1799 [for his brutality] Fitzgerald was to claim that only by 'cutting off their heads' could some people be made to talk. There was laughter in the court. The terrible thing was that Fitzgerald was not joking. His judicial policy, as summed up by the judge in his own case, reads like a speech of the Red Queen's: sentence first, then execution, then trial." (Pakenham's reference is actually to the Queen of Hearts in _Alice in Wonderland_, the chapter "Alice’s Evidence": "Sentence first -- verdict afterward." Not that it matters who said it. What matters is who practiced it.) - RBW

File: Moyl098

Down the Green Fields

DESCRIPTION: "Down the green fields we'll jig it... when you go mowing you'll get a young lass... under the stairs you'll get her."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)

KEYWORDS: sex nonballad

NOTES [1 text, 1 tune]: OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin: "Down the Green Fields" (2 texts, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:

Elizabeth Cronin, "Down the Green Fields" (on IRECronin01)

File: OCC055

Down the Hall on Saturday Night

DESCRIPTION: "I got a new brown sports coat, I got a new pair of grey strides, I got a real Kiwi haircut," and the singer (as soon as he finishes his work) will get on his tractor and ride it to the Hall, to drink and dance and have a good time

AUTHOR: Peter Cape (source: Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)

EARLIEST DATE: 1967 (Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)

KEYWORDS: party drink dancing

NOTES [1 text]: Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, p. 148, "Down the Hall on Saturday Night" (1 text)

Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, pp. 225, 244, "Down the Hall on Saturday Night" (1 text plus an Down the River

DESCRIPTION: Recognized by the chorus, "Down the river, down the river, Down the (river to the) Ohio." The full version tells of the river ("Oh the river is up and the channel is deep") and the crew of the boat working on it.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Wolford-ThePlayPartyInIndiana)
KEYWORDS: river playparty work
FOUND IN: US(MW,So)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Wolford-ThePlayPartyInIndiana, pp. 40-41=Wolford/Richmond/Tillson-PlayPartyInIndiana, pp. 193-194, "Down the River" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph 592, "Down the River" (1 text)
Botkin-TreasuryMississippiRiverFolklore, p. 564, "Down the River" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Spurgeon-WaltzTheHall-AmericanPlayParty, p. 94, "Down the River" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wheeler-SteamboatinDays, p. 38, "Down the Rivuh, Down, Boys" (1 text, 1 tune -- a fragment which might or might not go with this song)
DT, DOWNRIVR* DOWNRIV2*
Roud #7677
NOTES [66 words]: The playparty version of this piece simplifies the story immensely. Randolph, for instance, has a text which runs simply Bridges all out and the water mighty deep,
Down the river we all got to go,
Bridges all out and the water mighty deep,
Down the river to the Ohio.
Down the river, down the river,
Down the river we all got to go
Down the river, down the river,
Down the river to the Ohio. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: R592

Down the Road (I)

DESCRIPTION: Floating verses, usually not terribly cohesive. Various choruses: "Down the road, down the road/I've got a sugar baby down the road"; "Bound to go, bound to go/Over the road I'm bound to go"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (recording, Uncle Dave Macon)
KEYWORDS: love humorous nonballad nonsense floatingverses
FOUND IN: US(SE,Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, pp. 208-209, "Over the Road I'm Bound" (1 text, 1 tune)
RECORDINGS:
Lester Flatt & Earl Scruggs, "Down the Road" (Mercury 6211, 1949)
Bascom Lamar Lunsford, "Down the Road" (AAFS 1802 A1, 1935)
Uncle Dave Macon, "Over the Road I'm Bound to Go" (Brunswick 329, 1929)
Sonny Osborne, "Down the Road" (Kentucky 564, n.d.)
Marion Rees, "Down the Road" (AAFS 837 B3, 1936)
Doc Watson & Gaither Carlton, "Down the Road" (on Watson01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Letter from Down the Road"
cf. "On the Road Again"
cf. "Kassie Jones" (Furry Lewis's version)
cf. "Ida Red" (tune)
NOTES [16 words]: Even for Uncle Dave, these words are incoherent. And -- hot dog! -- that's Down the Road (II)
DESCRIPTION: Singer races his pony Polly for 60 pounds and beats Jones's cob. Jones proposes a rematch and Polly wins again. Soon after this Polly dies and is buried after a sad funeral procession.
AUTHOR: Fred Gilbert (source: Yates, Musical Traditions site _Voice of the People suite_ "Notes - Volume 7" - 1.3.03)
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Recorded by Gus Elen, according to Yates, Musical Traditions site _Voice of the People suite_ "Notes - Volume 7" - 1.3.03)
KEYWORDS: burial death funeral racing horse
FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))
Roud #15128
RECORDINGS:
Fred Jordan, "Down the Road" (on Voice07)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
File: RcDowRd2

Down the Road (III)
DESCRIPTION: "Way down yonder as far as I have been, All them women love rowdy men, Down the road, down the road, Can't get a letter from down the road." "Way down yonder far as I can see, Everybody looks like me." "The first I knowed, the sheriff had me."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Lunsford/Stringfield-30And1FolkSongsFromSouthernMountains)
KEYWORDS: courting police
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #69, "Down the Road" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Lunsford/Stringfield-30And1FolkSongsFromSouthernMountains, p. 51, "Down the Road" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #3426 and 11585
NOTES [69 words]: Roud lists this as a version of "Black-Eyed Susie (Green Corn)." The brevity of the text makes this barely possible, but I doubt it. Lunsford's version mentions Ida Red in the first chorus, which clearly floated in from one of the songs by that name, but the rest goes here. Lunsford’s version is also short. A tricky problem. Roud puts Roberts-SangBranchSettlers’s version with #3246, Lunsford’s with #11585. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.4
File: Robe069

Down to New Orleans (I)
DESCRIPTION: "I went down to New Orleans, But I didn't go there to stay. I stuck my head in a feather bed, And couldn't get away. Fare ye well, my dearest dear, Fare ye well, my darling, Fare ye well, my dearest dear, With the golden slippers on."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Wolford-ThePlayPartyInIndiana)
KEYWORDS: playparty travel separation clothes
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Wolford-ThePlayPartyInIndiana, p. 41=Wolford/Richmond/Tillson-PlayPartyInIndiana, pp. 233-234, "Down to New Orleans" (1 text)
Roud #7900
File: Wolf041
Down to the Mire

DESCRIPTION: Each of the ring-shouters in turn is addressed by name and told "you must come down to the mire." "Jesus been down to the mire." "Lower, lower, to the mire"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaslnds)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaslnds 10, pp. 71-73, "Down To de Mire" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [70 words]: Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaslnds: "In the center of the ring, one member gets down on his knees and, with head touching the floor, rotates with the group as it moves around the circle. The different shouters, as they pass, push the head 'down to the mire.'" Parish recognizes that "shout" in this context is "a semi-religious survival of African dancing - not a vocal performance as the name implies" (p. 13). - BS

Last updated in version 4.1

File: Parr010

Down Went McGinty

DESCRIPTION: McGinty bet that McCann could not carry him up a wall. McGinty was right, and "Down went McGinty to the bottom of the wall And though he won the five, He was more dead than alive." McGinty's adventures lead to more falls, prison, death, etc.

AUTHOR: Joseph Flynn

EARLIEST DATE: 1889 (sheet music copyrighted)

KEYWORDS: gambling humorous injury prison children party death ghost

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (8 citations):
- Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, pp. 306-307, "Dan McGinty" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 81, pp. 102-103, "Down Went Dan McGinty" (2 texts)
- Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, pp. 134-136, "Down Went McGinty" (1 text, partial tune)
- Geller-FamousSongsAndTheirStories, pp. 120-123, "Down Went McGnty" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Emerson-StephenFosterAndCo, pp. 154-156, "Down Went McGinty" (1 text)
- Gilbert-LostChords, pp. 235-237, "Down Went McGinty" (1 text)
- DT, DWNMGNTY*

ADDITIONAL: Robert A. Fremont, editor, _Favorite Songs of the Nineties_, Dover Publications, 1973, pp. 74-77, "Down Went McGinty" (1 text, 1 tune, a copy of the published sheet music)

Roud #4870

NOTES [155 words]: According to William H. A. Williams, 'Twas Only an Irishman's Dream, University of Illinois Press, 1996, p. 135, during the late nineteenth century, in American pop music, "In effect the Gaelic surnames became a sort of advertisement for comedy. Songs with titles such as 'Mike McCarthy's Wake,' 'McGonigle's Led Astray,' 'Reagan's Evening Out,' 'Let Her Go Gallagher, 'Murphy's Boarding House,' and any song featuring the name 'McGinty' carried the promise of comedy."

This is clearly a prime example of the type, and probably the one that went most strongly into tradition.

Williams, p. 146, says that the song was introduced in a program "McGinty in Town" by the Carncross minstrel troop.

The song was popular to produce numerous parodies, including the author's answer "McGinty's Wake." Indeed, there were so many of them that by 1890 someone had written a song "I'll Paralyze the Man That Says McGinty" (Williams, p. 147). - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2

File: SRw134

Down-Trodden Maryland

DESCRIPTION: "Down-trodden, despised see brave Maryland lie, The noblest of all states, Up and to ransom her let each one try." "From her, her Old Line has departed." The singer hopes Maryland will be able to join the Confederacy and be free of oppression

AUTHOR: unknown
Down, Down, Down

DESCRIPTION: The singer describes the conditions at the Oak Hill mine "that goes down, down, down." He was warned against the mine, but took a job anyway; now he complains of the wet, and the work, and the poor pay AUTHOR: William Keating?

EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)

REFERENCES: 5 citations:
- Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 364-366, "Down, Down, Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 56, "Down, Down, Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 273-274. "Down, Down, Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 867-873, "Down, Down, Down" (1 text, 1 tune)

Downey's Our Member

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Now Downey's our member you all understand, So beware of the boar, the bull and the ram." The government does nothing. The worthless and crooked politicians are named.

AUTHOR: Leonard Hulan

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Peacock)

REFERENCES: 1 citation:
- Peacock, pp. 779-780, "Downey's Our Member" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
- Leonard Hulan, "Downey's Our Member" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]

NOTES [1033 words]: Peacock gives no date for this song except to say that "the events described in this political ballad have long since ceased to be controversial." The animal symbolism, if that what it is, escapes me; one verse is "The next thing we heard of out here on the coast Some kind of a bull with a ring through its nose, And then a boar pig and a certified ram, And a spring fitted harrow to tear up your land." - BS

We can work out a few things. DictNewfLabrador, p. 87, has an entry of Joseph F. Downey (1852-1933), who was a member of the House of Assembly 1908-1919, 1923-1924, 1928-1932, and was Minister of Agriculture and Mines 1923-1924 and 1928-1932. He represented St. George’s. St. George is on the west coast of of Newfoundland, about half way between Port aux Basques and Corner Brook. It had a stop on the Newfoundland Railway (Kearley, back cover) -- indeed, other than by boat, that was just about its only connection to the outside world.

Reid, mentioned in the first verse, is Robert Gillespie Reid or one of his relatives (my guess would be one of Robert's sons, William Duff Reid, 1867-1924; Robert Gillespie Reid Jr., 1875-1947; or Harry Duff Reid, 1869-1929) whose company (mostly) built and ran the Newfoundland Railway (for the incredibly improbable deal that resulted in this situation, see "The Wreck of the Steamship Ethie"). The railroad never paid for itself, and after World War I, the machinery itself was in bad shape and the company too stretched to be willing to repair it. And snow was a terrible problem inland, especially in the Gaff Topsail area (Penney, p. 101) -- a route that was chosen because it was shorter, even though there were better alternatives to going over the high, wind-swept hills (Lingard, pp. 1-2; when the Trans-Canada Route was built in Newfoundland, it mostly followed the rail path -- but Harding, p. 67, says that the Gaff Topsail area was one of the few places where the rerouted the road). According to Harding, p. 11, "the Newfoundland line had the curviest roadbed of any railroad in North America. Of its seven hundred miles of track, almost six hundred were expended in curves.... Moreover, the builders could not afford frills like tunnels and signals. There was a bridge every four miles on average and for a time there was but one signal on the whole line. On the entire length of the Bullet's track there was not a single tunnel, though steep hills were common."

And Harding adds that, given the difficulty of building and the lack of revenue source, "it is not surprising that R. G. Reid ended up building a most rudimentary sort of railway. It was a genuine accomplishment to be building anything at all. Reid had little alternative but to build the railroad piecemeal, out of the cheapest scraps available" (Harding, p. 71). Even the engines were second-hand.

All this meant that snow often shut down the line -- occasionally for the whole winter (Lingard, p. 2). Hardly surprising, when the plows usually created walls of snow twelve to fifteen feet high (Harding, p. 71). The result was to leave places like St. George cut off from St. John's. The unfortunate decision to build a narrow gauge line, which made it harder to trans-ship freight, also made the problem worse; it had been a very bad decision made in the 1880 (Kearly, p. 56). Given how little rail was built in that first venture, Newfoundland probably should have re-laid the whole narrow gauge section -- but they didn't. Hence the second verse, "For one month last winter we got no mail, The news was reported: 'A very bad rail.' But Reid showed the truth, just what he intend, Was to starve the west coast, every darn one of them." Given, however, that there had been a time in 1903 when a passenger train was stuck for seventeen straight days (Harding, p. 12), it's hard to blame Reid & Co. for being cautious.

It probably didn't help that, starting in 1919, the eastern and western halves of the line were separately administered! (Penney/Kennedy, p. 32, which says that it was almost like two separate railways).

1922 was a particularly bad year; the rail was out for the whole winter (Lingard, p. 5; according to Harding, p. 98, "during the winter of 1922, operations over the Gaff Topsails Plateau ceased altogether), and the Reid company also deliberately shut down the rail for a week in May 1922 to try to get more financial support (Kearley, p. 60; Lingard, p. 5; Harding, p. 98, says that there was no money left to meet payroll). The Reid company, which had been trying to get out of operating the rail since 1920 (Harding, p. 97) gave up the franchise in 1923 (Lingard, p. 5). Given that Downey, after some time out of the Assembly, was re-elected shortly after the shutdown, 1922/1923 may be the most likely time for the song to have been written.

It is interesting to note that a re-routing around the Topsails areas was planned in the 1920s, and begun in 1928 -- but dropped immediately after an election in that year (CuffEtAl, p. 6).

It sort of worked, too, since the Newfoundland government bought the railroad from Reid as of July 1, 1923 (Penney/Kennedy, p. 1), and laid heavier, better rails starting in 1924 (Penney/Kennedy, p. 2).

So, somehow or other, this has to do with the people on the west coast of Newfoundland electing Downey to deal with the shut down railroad. This might indirectly have something to do with the line, "And a spring fitted harrow to tear up your land"; since Downey was Minister of Agriculture and Mines, he had a lot to do with digging and farming.

Why this would cause hearers to need to "beware of the boar, the bull, and the ram" I cannot explain. Unless -- could "boar" actually be "bore," as in "boring machine," and "ram" be the engine ramming through the snow (the rotary plow Reid used required a crew of three and two engines to push it; Lingard, p. 3), and the "bull" perhaps the engine driving it? I doubt it, but I've heard stranger song explanations.

For more on Leonard Hulan, see the notes to "The Ferryland Sealer." For more on the Newfoundland Railroad in general, see the notes to "The Wreck of the Steamship Ethie," "The Bonavist Line," "The Loss of the Bruce," and "Drill, Ye Heroes, Drill!" - RBW

Bibliography

- CuffEtAl: Robert H. Cuff, Building the Railway, being #5 in Newfoundland Railroad and Coastal Steamers, Railway Coastal Museum Pictorial Booklets Series #1-#6, 2003
Downfall of Heresy, The

DESCRIPTION: Gladstone, supported by the Queen, has undone Cromwell's proclaimed Church. Salvation comes only through the true Church and not "where every man could preach" following Luther. "The Parson now must emigrate And leave his handsome dwelling place"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 19C (broadside, Bodleian 2806 b.9(128))

KEYWORDS: Ireland nonballad political

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- July 26, 1869 - Irish Church Disestablishment Act

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion, p. 99, "A New Song on the Downfall of Heresy" (1 fragment)
- Roud #V8272
- BROADSIDES:
  - Bodleian, 2806 b.9(128), "A New Song on The Downfall of Heresy" ("Good people all attention pay"), P. Brereton (Dublin), c.1867

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Let Recreant Rulers Pause" (subject)

NOTES [1309 words]: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion p. 99: "We find many allusions to the 'Wheel of Fortune', an image of the precariousness of things in life..... It provided the Irish ballad-writers with a refrain suggesting the idea of revolutionary changes" and Zimmermann quotes part of a chorus slightly different from the one found here. The Bodleian version is

  The lofty wheel is moving round
  The side that's up is getting down
  A rotten Creed can not be sound
  When lost is the foundation

  Zimmermann p. 99 is a fragment; broadside Bodleian 2806 b.9(128) is the basis for the description. Gladstone drafted the Irish Church Disestablishment Act and Queen Victoria intervened in its behalf. The act "ends the legal link between Church and state in Ireland, abolishes the tithe and ecclesiastical courts..... It confiscates the Church's property....." (Source: "26 July 1869 Irish Church Disestablishment Act" on the Channel4.com site) - BS

The Wheel of Fortune, "Rota Fortunae" in Latin, Thompson motif N111.3, truly was famous in the Middle Ages; it was almost an article of faith that fortune could "turn her wheel" and knock down the wealthy and powerful while raising those who were poor and weak. King Arthur was often held up as an example of fortune turning her wheel. For example, take "The Awntyrs off Arthur at the Tarne Wathelan" ("The Adventures of Arthur at the Wathelan/Wadling"), lines 264-272 (this is the numbering of Mills, p.169) or lines 265-273 (so Hahn, p. 186). Guinevere's mother, with the knowledge of those imprisoned in Hell, is speaking to Guinevere and Gawain. The text (in Mill's edition; Hahn's has several substantive differences) reads,

  'Yaure king is to covetus an his kene knyghtus;
  Thers may no strength him stir quen the quele stondus,
  Quen he is in his magesté most in his myghtus,
  Then schall he light full lau bi the see sondus.

  Thus your chiualreis kynghe chefe schall a chaunse;
  [Felle] Fortune in fyghte,
  That wonderfull quele-wryghte,
That law will make lords become light
Take witness by France!

That law will make lords become light
That wonderful wheel-wright
Take witness by France!
Chaucer made much use of the image, e.g. in "The Book of the Duchess," "The House of Fame," and "Boece," the latter being Chaucer's translation of Boethius (Rossignol, p. 139; Boethius was one of the major sources of the concept in the Middle Ages). The fickleness of fortune is the entire theme of "The Monk's Tale": "The Monk's tragedies center on the workings of the ancient Roman goddess Fortuna, whose capricious turnings of a great wheel were thought to govern the fates of men" (Chaucer/Benson, p. 930). The tale includes so many instances of fortune turning that the Knight eventually asked the Monk to leave off; it is by no means clear that Chaucer agreed with the Monk, but clearly many did.

Cambridge University MS. OO.7.32 also has a verse on fortune's wheel (Brown, #42, p. 56):
e leuedi fortune is bo e frend and fo,
Of pore che makit riche, of riche pore also,
She turne wo al into wele, and wele al into wo,
No triste no man to is wele, e whel it turnet so.
i.e.
The lady Fortune is both friend and foe;
Of poor she makes rich, of rich poor also.
She turns woe all into weal, and weal all into woe,
No man should trust to this weal, the wheel it turns so.

There is a version of this in both French and English from around the year 1325, according to Brown, p. 260, and occur in many manuscripts.
Shakespeare, too, wrote at times about the caprice of fortune (consider "King Lear"!), and at least once refers to the Wheel directly: in Henry V, Fluellen says, "Fortune is painted blind, with a muffler afore his eyes, to signify to you that Fortune is blind; and she is painted also with a wheel, to signify to you, which is the moral of it, that she is turning, and inconstant, and mutability..." (Act III, scene iv, lines 30fff.; p. 952 in ShakespeareEvans).

By 1869, Catholics no longer suffered significant legal discrimination in Ireland (they could own property, join parliament, etc.) -- except in one regard. They still paid tithes to the Anglican church. Not directly -- the Tithe War had taken care of that (see, e.g., "The Battle of Carrickshock"). But landlords were still required to come up with the money. This particular rule was still around mostly because the tithes had supported many otherwise-useless clergy members. The Disestablishment Act did its best to phase them out.

This sounds minor today. It was not minor at the time. Even if you ignore the predictable sectarian complaints, the Protestant Ascendancy was written into the Act of Union. British law has a great deal of respect for precedent; this was more like Americans amending the constitution than simply passing a law.

The irony, of course, is that the Act, as it gave greater rights to the majority of the Irish, created grievances among the Protestants. Which would cause trouble later on, since the Protestants no more wanted to be ruled by Catholics than the Catholics wanted to be ruled by Protestants.

We should note incidentally that King Victoria was not particularly fond of disestablishing the Church -- though that may be because the proposal came from Gladstone, whom she disliked and strongly disagreed with.

She of course was not the only one. For an example of the Irish Protestant reaction, see "Let Recreant Rulers Pause."

The crack about "rotten Creeds" strikes me as ironic coming from Catholics. The two most important creeds of the Western church are the Nicene Creed (which was actually finalized at the Council of Chalcedon) and the Apostles' Creed (which is not apostolic). The Nicene Creed is of course the most important of all, since it defines the relationship between the persons of the Trinity, and is thus the key to excluding the myriad heresies of Arianism, Docetism, and Monophysitism. And the Catholics have altered the Creed. As originally adopted, it read that the Holy Spirit
"proceeded" (in Latin, procedit) from the Father (Bettenson, pp. 25-26). Period. End of story. In the Catholic church, the Latin word "filoque," "and the Son," has been added, so that the Holy Spirit proceeds from the Father AND THE SON (Clifton, p. 103). This "filoque clause" is generally said to have been inserted in the creed by a council at Toledo in 589 (Christie-Murray, p. 97). Since no one really claims to know what it means for the Holy Spirit to "proceed" from the Father, or from the Father and the Son (none of this has any basis in the Bible, and the Council of Nicaea was trying to find a formula which would be somewhat vague and so avoid causing fights; Christie-Murray, p. 48), it is obviously possible to argue for either position. But the version without "filoque" was agreed by the entire church, Catholic and Orthodox both. It was the Catholics, and they alone, who changed it -- one of the myriad reasons why the Catholic and Orthodox churches cannot heal their schism, now almost a millenium old. And, of course, Catholic theology gives the Vatican the right to change the result of a church council at any time. But any external observer would have to say that it is the Catholics who had corrupted the Nicene Creed. What's more, the Anglican church adopted much Catholic credal language. On the other hand, the reference might, I suppose, be to the Book of Common Prayer, which might be considered a very long creed, which the Catholic church would not accept. - RBW

Bibliography

- Brown: Carleton Brown, editor, English Lyrics of the XIVth Century, Oxford University Press, 1924
- Chaucer/Benson: Larry D. Benson, general editor, The Riverside Chaucer, third edition, Houghton Mifflin, 1987 (based on F. N. Robinson, The Works of Geoffrey Chaucer, which is considered to be the first and second editions of this work)
- Clifton: Chas S. Clifton, Encyclopedia of Heresies and Heretics, 1992 (I use the 1998 Barnes & Noble edition)
- Hahn: Thomas Hahn, editor, Sir Gawain: Eleven Romances and Tales, TEAMS (Consortium for the Teaching of the Middle Ages), Medieval Institute Publications, Western Michigan University, 1995

Last updated in version 5.2
File: BrdDownH

Downfall of Trade, The

DESCRIPTION: In 1793 "weaving went well." When war broke out, "our Trade it grew low." Weavers and spinners "their loyalty show" by joining the marines. "If weaving and spinning should totally stop" banks and trades will fail and "the whole Nation will instantly drop"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (Elbourne); c.1805 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 25(2016))

KEYWORDS: marines war commerce weaving hardtimes nonballad patriotic

FOUND IN: marines war commerce weaving hardtimes nonballad patriotic

REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: Roger Elbourne, Music and Tradition in Early Industrial Lancashire 1780-1840 (Totowa, 1980), pp. 78, 139-140, "The Weavers' Garland" or "The Downfal of Trade"
Roud #V8922

BROADSIDES:

NOTES [54 words]: The broadside tells "tradesmen of Bolton you need not to fear, The strength of Tom Paine, nor great [French general] Dumourier." But Dumourier deserted the French Republican Army in April 1793 [see, for example, Thomas Clio Rickman, Life of Thomas Paine (1819) at Downhill of Life, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer hopes for a cottage by the sea, with a porch, a pony, cow, dog and barn, food to eat and friends to share "the downhill of life." He hopes not to linger "as this worn-out stuff ... may become everlasting to-morrow."

AUTHOR: John Collins (source: notes to Bodleian Harding B 28(211))

EARLIEST DATE: "c.1805" (broadside, Harding B 11(3183)); before 1825 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 28(211))

KEYWORDS: sea food nonballad animal horse friend

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 249-250, "The Downhill of Life" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 122)
- Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 96, "Downhill of Life" (1 fragment)
- The Quaver; or Songster's Pocket Companion (London, 1844 ("Digitized by Google")), pp. 112-113, "In the Downhill of Life" (1 text)

Roud #1308

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Harding B 28(211), "To-morrow" ("In the down-hill of life, when I find I'm declining"), W. Armstrong (Liverpool), 1820-1824; also Firth b.25(182), Harding B 25(1928), "To-morrow"; Firth b.26(358), Harding B 25(545), Harding B 11(4276), Harding B 11(964), Johnson Ballads 181, Douce Ballads 4(63/64), Harding B 11(963), [The] Downhill of Life; Harding B 11(3183), Harding B 25(1577) [some words illegible], "The Prospect of Hope"

File: WT249

Downward Road, The

DESCRIPTION: "Well, brother, the downward road is crowded... with unbelieving souls." The song lists various endangered sinners and their fated condemnation. "When I was a sinner, I loved my distance well, But when I come to find myself I was hangin' over Hell."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)

KEYWORDS: religious Hell warning nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 14, "Oh, de Downward Road Is Crowded (The Downward Road Is Crowded)" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 119 in the 1901 edition)
- Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 256, "The Downward Road" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11945

File: LoF256

Dr. Knickerbocker

DESCRIPTION: "Dr. Knickerbocker" "Got rhythm of the" hands, feet, shoulder, eyes, ooo-ooo.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (JohnsIsland1)

KEYWORDS: playparty nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:
- Mabel Hillery, Janie Hunter and her grandchildren, "Dr. Knickerbocker" (on JohnsIsland1)

File: RcDrKnic
Dr. Till of Somerset

DESCRIPTION: "We took a trip to Somerset not very long ago.... Our health it was so poorly, We thought that we would try That doctor there at Somerset For he was all the cry." Doctor Till can cure cancer without a knife; his treatments are worth a "California mine."

AUTHOR: Words: D. Adams / Music: W. Broughton
EARLIEST DATE: 1979 (Wyman); reportedly written 1907
KEYWORDS: doctor disease
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDIONAL: Walker D. Wyman, _Wisconsin Folklife_, University of Wisconsin Extension (?), 1979, pp. 35-36, "Dr. Till" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [180 words]: I know of no real evidence that this song was traditional, but it was written by folk for folk, and managed to be remembered after some seventy years, so I've included it. John Till, according to Wyman, was born in Austria and came to Wisconsin as a lumberjack. He apparently had only two remedies, an ointment and a plaster, which he used for everything. He did not call himself a doctor, and did not charge directly for his remedies (though he accepted donations). But enough people swore by his cures that this song was written -- and enough people called him a quack that a newspaper wrote an expose and he ended up in prison, going back to Austria in 1922 (though he came back to the United States late in life, dying in Kiel, Wisconsin in 1922). Frankly, his cures sound more frightening that death to me. But what do I know about truth -- I actually believe that facts actually mean something.

Somerset, Wisconsin is a small town not far from the Minnesota border. It's about 15 miles northeast of Stillwater, the town in which the anti-Till article was published in 1907. - RBW

File: WyWF046

Dramdrinker, The

DESCRIPTION: "Good morning, Mr. Dramdrinker. How do you do? How have you been since I parted from you? How did you come by the bruise on your head...?" The singer had family, fortune, friends; all are now lost to drink

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)
KEYWORDS: drink death family poverty abandonment
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 470-471, "The Dramdrinker" (1 text)
Roud #7831
File: Beld470

Drap o' Cappie O, The

DESCRIPTION: Tammie Lammie's wife likes ale. She asks him to share a dram. When she reproves him for his drink he packs her in a sack and dunks her by the turning mill wheel. She fears for her life. She lives happily afterwards but never asks for another drink.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1894 (Murison collection, according to Lyle, _Fairies and Folk_)
KEYWORDS: drink humorous husband wife drowning river abuse
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #177, p. 1, "The Drap o' Cappie" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 582, "The Drap o’ Cappie O" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
Roud #5893
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Tammie Lammie
File: GrD3582
Draw a Bucket of Water

DESCRIPTION: "Draw a (bucket/pail) of water For my lady's daughter; My father's a king and my mother's a queen, My two little sisters are dress'd in green... Pray thee, fine lady, come under my bush."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1842 (Halliwell)

KEYWORDS: playparty royalty

REFERENCES (10 citations):
- Greig/Duncan8 1610, "Buckets of Water" (1 text)
- Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #652, p. 259, "(Draw a pail of water)"
- Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 109, "Draw a Bucket of Water" (2 texts, 1 tune)
- Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #28, "Draw a Bucket of Water" (2 short texts)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5, pp. 533-534, "Draw a Bucket of Water" (2 short texts, 2 tunes)
- Skean-CircleLeft-FolkPlayOfKentuckyMountains, p. 9, "Draw a Bucket of Water" (1 short text, 1 tune)
- Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 296-297, "Draw a Bucket of Water" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 114, "(Draw a bucket of water)" (2 texts)
- JournalOfAmericanFolklore, Jean Olive Heck, "Folk Poetry and Folk Criticism, as Illustrated by Cincinnati Children in Their Singing Games and Their Thoughts about These Games," Vol. XL, No. 155 (Jan 1927), #17 pp. 15-16 ("Draw buckets of water").
- "Pump, pump the water").
- "Draw a bucket of water") (3 texts)

File: BGMG652

Draw a Snake (Tip the Finger)

DESCRIPTION: Guessing game in which one player holds a hand behind his back, and another player touches it; the first player must guess who it was. "Draw a snake down your back, This is the way it went, North, south, east, west, Who tipped your finger?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: playparty animal

FOUND IN: Britain New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 93, "(Draw a snake down your back)" (1 text)

File: SuSm093B

Draw Level

DESCRIPTION: "Draw level, the angel is (coming down)(3x), Draw level, the angel is coming down To the ground." "Draw (members/deacon/preacher/sister/...), Draw around the altar, Draw (members/deacon/preacher/sister/...) Draw till the break of day."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang, pp. 258-259, "Draw Lebel" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [18 words]: The description follows Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang but I do not repeat the dialect. - BS

Last updated in version 5.1

File: HPR258A
Dreadful Massacre of Sixmilebridge, The

DESCRIPTION: "Upon the 21st day of July, Those fine young youths were compell'd to die, In Sixmilebridge, in the County Clare, To see the elections was what brought them there." An Orange troop attacked the crowd with musket and bayonet.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1852 (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)
KEYWORDS: violence homicide Ireland lament political
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 21, 1852 - "Seven people were killed in an election riot at Sixmilebridge" (source: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)

NOTES [15 words]: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion: "Several soldiers were found guilty of wilful murder." - BS

Dreadful Shipwreck of the Flora Transport (Jane Cardonell)

DESCRIPTION: "Henry Welsh, a banker's foreman Courted Jane Cardonnell fair." Henry gambles, commits forgery, and is sentenced to transportation. She goes with him. He is washed away in a storm. She goes mad, murders a seaman, ends in Bedlam

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1832 (Anderson-StoryOfAustralianFolksong)
KEYWORDS: gambling transportation wreck disaster death homicide madness

Dreadnought, The [Laws D13]

DESCRIPTION: A song describing a run on the "Dreadnaught" from Liverpool to New York. Other than a concluding wish for captain and crew, most of the song is a catalog of places the ship visits

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909
KEYWORDS: sea travel ship shanty sailor
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1853- Launch of the Dreadnought, the most famous of the transatlantic packets
1869 - Wreck of the Dreadnought

REFERENCES (22 citations):
Laws D13, "The Dreadnought"
Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy 42, "The Clipper Ship Dreadnought" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 42, "The Clipper Ship Dreadnought" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 58-59, "The Clipper Ship Dreadnought" (1 text)
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 97-98, "The Dreadnought" (1 text, 1 tune, followed by several derived songs)
Huntington-FolksongsFromMarthasVineyard, pp. 27-28, "The Dreadnought" (1 text, 1 tune)
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 126-128, "The Dreadnought" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, pp. 170-171, "The Dreadnought" (1 text, 1 tune)
Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips, pp. 101-103, "Cruise of the Dreadnought" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 122-123, "Goodbye, Fare-Ye-Well" (1 text, version D of "Homeward Bound") [AbEd, p. 106]; pp. 464-469, "The Flash Frigate," "The Dreadnought," "The Liverpool Packet" (5 texts, 4 tunes and several fragments) [AbEd, pp. 344-348]; p. 124, "Goodbye, Fare-Ye-Well" (the "d" text is "The Dreadnought" with a "Homeward Bound" chorus) [AbEd, p. 106]
Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, pp. 150-151, "The Dreadnought" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [479 words]: The Dreadnought, one of the best-known of the packets, was launched in 1853 and wrecked off Cape Horn in 1869. It should not be confused with the later battleship (launched in 1905) which started the "Dreadnaught Revolution" and a pre-World-War-I arms race. Huntington, in the notes to this song in Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople, writes, "Perhaps Laws is correct in including 'The Dreadnaught' as American; however, it derives from a broadside ballad about a British naval vessel, 'La Pique.'" That "The Dreadnaught" and "The Flash Frigate (La Pique)" share a tune is undeniable, and La Pique was the earlier ship. I'm not sure that absolutely proves that "The Flash Frigate" is older, though.

There is some confusion about the spelling of the ship's name. Laws called it the Dreadnaught, and earlier editions of the Index followed him because, well, I didn't notice. Every reference I have checked, however, gives the title of the ship involved (as well as the later battleship) as Dreadnought (with an o rather than an a).

Incidentally, Dreadnought had about as interesting a career as a ship on the Liverpool/New York run could have. Howe/Matthews, between pp. 160 and 161, reproduces two paintings of the ship. It calls her a "medium clipper" (i.e. designed with capacity as well as speed in mind), built by the Massachusetts firm of Currier & Townsend (Howe/Matthews, p. 139). She originally sailed for the Red Cross line (Howe/Matthews, p. 140). Her first captain was Samuel Samuels, who declared, "She was built for hard usage and to make a reputation for herself and me and I intended that she should do her duty, or that we both should sink" (Howe/Matthews, p. 140). Paine, p. 150, reports that his attitude caused her to be called "The Flying Dutchman" and "The Wild Boat of the Atlantic." Samuels stayed with her for nine years, despite the fact that she broke her rudder on two voyages and he himself suffered a compound leg fracture and was nearly swept away on one voyage.

She was a very profitable ship; Brinnin, p. 10, reports that she is said to have cleared $40,000. But, after a decade on the North Atlantic route, she was shifted to the San Francisco run; in 1869, she was wrecked off Tiera del Fuego (Paine, p. 40).

She was not especially fast; it generally took her nearly two weeks to cross the Atlantic eastbound, and three weeks to cross westbound, despite Captain Samuels and his tendency to keep a lot of sails up even in heavy weather. Nonetheless, Captain Samuels once challenged the famous Great Eastern to a race (Hoehling, pp. 41-42. The Great Eastern won the race -- but the Dreadnought had the last laugh; she made money, and carried plenty of passengers, whereas the Great Eastern was a white elephant that bankrupted various owners and only once managed to fill even 65% of her passenger space. - RBW
Bibliography

- Howe/Matthews: Octavius T. Howe and Frederick G. Matthews, American Clipper Ships 1833-1858 (Volume I), 1926 (I use the 1986 Dover paperback reprint).

Last updated in version 5.2
File: LD13

Dream of Dolly's Brae, A

DESCRIPTION: The singer dreams of a July 12, 1849 ambush led by Priest Morgan against "all those heretics who dare to cross the Brae." Orangemen assemble, led by William Beers, and cheer the Queen and their leaders. On meeting gunfire, the Catholics retreat.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Hayward-Ulster Songs And Ballads Of The Town And Country)
KEYWORDS: violence Ireland political dream clergy
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
July 12, 1848 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae, County Down, and divert an Orangemen's march.
July 12, 1849 - Catholics occupy Dolly's Brae but the Orangemen would not be diverted. At least thirty Catholics are killed in the fight. No Orangemen are hit. (source: Zimmermann)
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hayward-Ulster Songs And Ballads Of The Town And Country, pp. 124-126, "A Dream of Dolly's Brae" (1 text)
Roud #6545
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Dolly's Brae (I)" (subject) and references there
NOTES [18 words]: For background on Dolly's Brae, and other songs on party fights, see the notes to "Dolly's Brae (I)." - (RBW, BS)
File: HayU124

Dream of the Miner's Child, The

DESCRIPTION: "A miner was leaving his home for his work When he heard his little child scream." She had dreamt of his death in the mines, and begs him not to go to work that day. But he must go to work. (In some versions the song ends with a mining disaster)

AUTHOR: Andrew Jenkins?; also attributed as "Words: Robert Donnelly, music: Will Geddes" (see NOTES)
EARLIEST DATE: 1922 (Randolph); for "Don't Go Down in the Mine, Dad" the earliest date is 1910 (sheet music)
KEYWORDS: father work mining children dream disaster death
FOUND IN: US (Ap, So) Australia
REFERENCES (9 citations):
Green-Only A Miner - Recorded Coal Mining Songs, p. 113-115, "Dream of the Miner's Child" (2 texts, 1 tune, plus a text of "Don't Go Down in the Mine, Dad")
Randolph 859, "The Dream of the Miner's Child" (1 text)
Shellans-Folk Songs Of The Blue Ridge Mountains, pp. 64-65, "The Miner Child's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
Richardson/Spaeth-American Mountain Songs, pp. 40-41, "The Dream of the Miner's Child" (1 text, 1 tune)
Burton/Manning-East Tennessee State Collection Vol 1, pp. 21-22, "The Miner's Child" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-Weep Some More My Lady, pp. 141-142, "The Dream of the Miner's Child" (1 text, 1 tune)
Paterson/Fahey/Seal-Old Bush Songs-Centenary Edition, pp. 131-134, "The Miner" (1 text, collected as a conflation of "The Miner" and "The Dream of the Miner's Child")
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 220-221 "The Explosion in the Fairmount Mines" (1 text, slightly reworked by Blind Alfred Reed but still so close that it can be considered a version of this song)

DT, MINERCHD*

Roud #2334

RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "The Dream of the Miner's Child" (OKeh 40498, 1925) (Columbia 15046-D [as Al Craver], 1925) (Victor 19821, 1925) (Cameo 812/Lincoln 2429, 1925; Romeo 332, 1927) (Pathe 32150/Pathe 02150/Perfect 12229, 1925) (Edison 51649 [as Vernon Dalhart & Co.], 1925) (CYL: Edison [BA] 5085 [as Vernon Dalhart & Co.], 1925) (Gennett 3197, 1926; Challenge 505, 1927; Herwin 75502, n.d.; rec. 1925) (Banner 1672/Domino 3642/Oriole 545/Paramount 33176/Regal 9978, 1926; rec. 1925) (Vocalion 5086/Vocalion 15217, 1926)
Stanley Kirkby, "Don't Go Down in the Mine, Dad" (Regal [UK] G-6460. 1910; on Protobilly)
Morris Brothers, "The Dream of the Miner's Child" (Bluebird B-8841, 1941)
Arnold Keith Storm, "The Dream of the Miner's Child" (on AKStorm01)
Keith Whitley, "Dream of a Miner's Child" (Rebel SLP-1504, 1971; on Protobilly)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Les Reeder" (theme)
- cf. "Blockader Mama" (theme)
NOTES [195 words]: How solid is the 1922 date from Randolph? The Vernon Dalhart recording, which became near-canonical, credited Andrew Jenkins as author, and it certainly has his style. Could he have taken bits from "Don't Go Down in the Mine, Dad" and perhaps elsewhere, then built a new song from them? - PJS
I would add that I have a copy of the original sheet music, published in 1926 by Shapiro, Bernstein & Co and copyrighted by P. C. Brockman (who also owned the copyright, e.g., of "The Death of Floyd Collins," which is surely by Jenkins). This sheet music credits the song to Jenkins (interestingly, it does not list an arranger for the piano accompaniment).
So I grant that this is a very interesting question. Randolph's text is certainly much like the standard version. The book assuredly prints a date of 1922. What's more, Randolph had two other pieces from the same informant, and both were dated 1922 also. So I cannot resolve the question.
Cohen, in discussing Reed's rewrite of Jenkins's version, says that the Jenkins text was loosely based on a 1910 song "Don't Go Down in the Mines, Dear Dad," by Robert Donnelly and Will Geddes. Maybe that explains part of it. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: R859

Dreary Black Hills, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer arrives in the Black Hills to find "loafers and bummers" filling the streets of Cheyenne -- but there is no gold to be found. He misses his home, and warns others against going there; all they are doing is making the railroad speculators rich

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c.1885 (see the comment on the ADDITIONAL Wehman reference); 1909 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)

KEYWORDS: gold hardtimes railroading

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1875 - Announcement that gold has been found in the Black Hills

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,NE,Ro,So)

REFERENCES (16 citations):
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 249-350, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text plus mention of 1 more)
- Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, pp. 116-117, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 108-109, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text)
- Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 264-265, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 176, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 438-440, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 24, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 87, pp. 185-186, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text)
Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 9-10, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #161, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text plus a fragment, 1 tune)
Larkin-SingingCowboy, pp. 95-97, "Dreary Black Hills" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 480-481 "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text plus a broadside print)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 59, "The Dreary Black Hills" (1 text)
cf. Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, p. 478, "The Dreary Black Hills" (source notes only)
DT, DREARBLK*
Roud #3604
RECORDINGS:
Bill Bender (The Happy Cowboy), "Dreary Black Hills" (Varsity 5150, n.d.; rec. 1939)
Harry Stephens, "The Dreary Black Hills" (AFS, 1940s; on LC28)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Captain Old Blue" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
Captain Old Blue (File: PrivCOBl)
NOTE [87 words]: Regarding Wehman's Collection Norm Cohen writes, "Songbook #6 was undated, but most likely 1884-5." Each page except the first is headed Wehman's Universal Songster. The first page is undated but states, "Published Quarterly -- January, April, July and October. Norm Cohen's Finding List ... has WE29, Universal Songster as "monthly serial ...
[beginning] 1881 (Norm Cohen, A Finding List of American Secular Songsters Published Between 1860 and 1899 (Middle Tennessee State University,Murfreesboro,2002), p. 150). - BS
Last updated in version 3.8
File: San264

Dredge from Presque Isle, The

DESCRIPTION: "The night was fair, the sky was clear, No ripple on the sea, When King came into the shop...." The sailor is told that the [Alanson] Sumner will sail for Presque Isle. The singer describes the cook and the trip and says he won't sail that trip again
AUTHOR: supposedly Thomas Peckham
EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (collected from Ben Peckham by Walton)
KEYWORDS: sailor ship travel cook
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 107-109, "The Dredge from Presque Isle" (1 text)
Roud #19875
NOTES [19 words]: Although no tune is indicated for this, it looks to me as if it was meant to be sung to "The Rose of Allandale." - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: WGM107

Drei Reiter Am Thor

DESCRIPTION: "Es ritten drei Reitter zum Tore hinaus, Ade! Fein's liebchen schaute zum Fenster heras, Ade!" Tune in 6/8. Translates roughly as "three riders from Tore" and seems to be an all purpose love song.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Baltzer's _Knurrhahn_)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage love horse
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, p. 96, "Drei Reiter Am Thor" (1 text, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Saltpeter Shanty (Slav Ho)" (tune)
Drei Wochen vor Oschrdren (Three Weeks before Easter)
DESCRIPTION: German. Quatrain ballad, with most verses about love. "Drei Wochen vor Oschrdren Do geht d'r Schnee weck." "Three weeks after Easter, the snow starts to melt." The singer has been jilted by his beloved. He has property but no girl. He likes to dance.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage dancing love abandonment
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 98-100, "Drei Wochen vor Oschrdren (Three Weeks before Easter)" (1 German text plus non-poetic English translation, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The False Bride (The Week Before Easter; I Once Loved a Lass)" (lyrics, general feeling)
File: KPL098

Drifting and Drifting
DESCRIPTION: "Well I'm drifting and drifting just like a ship out to sea (x2), Well I ain't got nobody in this whole world who cares for me." "Nobody wants me, nobody seems to care." "Gonna pack my suitcase, gonna move on down the line."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1963
KEYWORDS: loneliness nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Courlander-NegroFolkMusic, p. 132, (no title) (1 text); p. 165, (no title) (partial text)
File: CNFM132

Drihaureen O Mo Chree (Little Brother of My Heart)
DESCRIPTION: The singer's brother "is gone to the wars now proud England united with France" and is killed on the battlefield. "The dark narrow grave is the only sad refuge for me Since I lost my heart's darling, my driharin o mo croi"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1856 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(985))
KEYWORDS: grief loneliness war death brother
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf) Ireland
REFERENCES (3 citations):
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 28, "Drihaureen O Mo Chree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Tunney-WhereSongsDoThunder, pp. 148-149, "Mo Drathereen O Mo Chroi" (1 text)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 170, "Draharon O Machree" (1 text)
Roud #2360
RECORDINGS:
Anita Best, "Driharin O Mo Croi" (on NFABest01)
Brigid Tunney, "Dritherearin-o-Mo-Chroidhe" (on IRITunneyFamily01)
Paddy Tunney, "Drahareen-O Mochree" (on IRPTunney02)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(985), "Drecharian O'Machree," Wm. Wright (Birmingham), 1842-1855; also Firth b.25(126), Harding B 11(1963), "Drecharian O'Machree"; 2806 b.11(269), "Dechrarian O'Machree"; 2806 b.11(190), Firth c.26(199), "Dreearan O'Macree[i]"; 2806 b.9(264), 2806
The song is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentenary of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See: Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "Dearthairin O Mo Chroi" (on Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "My Name is Napoleon Bonaparte," Hummingbird Records HBCD0027 (2001)) -BS

Last updated in version 6.1
File: RcDOMCLB
Drill Ye Heroes, Drill!

DESCRIPTION: Working on the northern railroad the, crew proceeds from Gambo in the east, westward to the Hall's Bay Line, to Codroy on the west coast of Newfoundland. The crew are named.

AUTHOR: John Devine?

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Peacock)

KEYWORDS: railroading work moniker

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Peacock, pp. 781-782, "Drill Ye Heroes, Drill!" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #4436

RECORDINGS:

Ken Peacock, "Drill Ye Heroes, Drill!" (on NFKeacock)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Drill, Ye Tarriers, Drill" (theme, tune and references there)

ALTERNATE TITLES:

Drill ye Tarriers

NOTES [207 words]: The song follows the workers along about 400 miles of the 550 mile length of the defunct Newfoundland railroad. The passage today would be closely approximated by driving Trans-Canada 1.

Certainly derivative of "Drill, Ye Tarriers, Drill" both as to theme and tune though only a few lines are carried over. Ironically, one of the common lines is the "you're docked for the time you were in the sky" though the point is lost since the preceding explosion has been dropped. Further, the senses of hard times and of a tall tale have also been lost. - BS

Because the song says the rail to the west coast was actually built, this must refer to the second stage in the history of the Newfoundland Railway. The line through Gambo was built in the 1890s by the Reid Newfoundland Company. The earlier attempt, in the 1880s, had featured similar working conditions but never made it much beyond the Avalon Peninsula. For more on the Newfoundland Railroad in general, see the notes to "The Wreck of the Steamship Ethie," "The Bonavist Line," "Downey's Our Member," and "The Loss of the Bruce." I wonder if John Devine, said to be the author of this piece although the claim is not reported by Peacock, might not also have written "The Bonavist Line." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: Pea781

---

Drill, Ye Tarriers, Drill

DESCRIPTION: Describing, in extravagant terms, the hard life of the (Irish) railroad workers -- subjected to long hours, blast, short pay (and that docked for any or no reason). And always the order comes again, "Drill, ye tarriers, drill!"

AUTHOR: words: Thomas Casey/music: Charles Connolly

EARLIEST DATE: 1888 (play, "A Brass Monkey"; sheet music published by Frank Harding of New York, seemingly without attribution)

KEYWORDS: work railroading hardtimes talltale

FOUND IN: US(MW,SE)

REFERENCES (15 citations):

Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #101, "Drill, Ye Terriers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan, p. 120, "Drill Ye Terriers" (1 short text, apparently localized)
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 553-559, "Drill, Ye Terriers, Drill" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Geller-FamousSongsAndTheirStories, pp. 14-18, "Drill Ye Terriers, Drill!" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 217, "Drill, Ye Terriers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Arnett-IHearAmericaSinging, pp. 112-113, "Drill, Ye Terriers, Drill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin/Harlow-TreasuryOfRailroadFolklore, p. 442, "Drill, Ye Terriers, Drill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, pp. 43-44, "The Terriers' Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 329, "Drill, Ye Terriers, Drill" (1 text)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #165, "Drill, Ye Terriers, Drill" (1 text)
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 138, "Drill, Ye Terriers, Drill!" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 130, "Drill Ye Terriers, Drill" (1 text)
DT, DRILLTAR*
ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 30, #3 (1984), pp. 50-51, "Drill Ye Tarriers, Drill" (1 text, 1 tune, a Canadian version reportedly collected by Tim Rogers though no informant is listed)
Roud #4401 and 4436

RECORDINGS:
George J. Gaskin, "Drill Ye Tarriers Drill" (Berliner 064-1/Berliner [Canada] 4, 1899)
Chubby Parker, "Drill Ye Tarriers Drill" (Conqueror 7893, 1931)
Dan W. Quinn, "Drill, Ye Tarriers, Drill" (Victor 3155, c. 1901)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Drill Ye Heroes, Drill!" (tune)

NOTES [143 words]: This is believed to have originated with an Irish comedy team, (Thomas F.) Casey and (Charles) Connelly, in the 1880s. It has gone almost verbatim into oral tradition; with the exception of a few rewrites such as Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan's, variations in the text are very few.

Very nearly the only exception to this uniformity is the Chubby Parker recording, which is longer than the popular version, and a genuine song about railroad life rather than a humorous item. Cohen, based on this and a few hints in nineteenth century writings, wonders if there may not have been some ancestral text in existence before 1888. If so, that version has been almost completely displaced by the Casey version.

I seem to recall, in my youth, a bunch of us understanding "tarriers" as "terriers," i.e. dogs, with resulting very odd notions of what the song was about. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
File: LoF217

Drimindown

DESCRIPTION: "Bad luck to ye Drimon and why did you die?" I'd sooner have lost my son and hut. When I found her "I rolled and I bawled and my neighbors I called." "I thought my poor Drimindoon never would fail."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Macaronic w. Gaelic. An old man loses a cow but can't tell how; he laments that as he went to mass, he saw his cow, drimindown, sunk into (water, mire). He cries and raises the neighbors; after the cow sinks, she rises again "like a bunch of black wild berries". Ch.: "Ego so ro Drimindown ho ro ha/So ro Drimindown nealy you gra...."

KEYWORDS: death lament nonballad animal grief corpse drowning farming foreignlanguage

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 176, "Drimindown" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, p. 78, "Drimindown" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 19, "Drimmin Dubh Dheelish" (1 text)

Roud #2712

RECORDINGS:
Ernest Sellick, "Drimindown" (on MRHCreighton)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "If It Wasn't For Dicky" (lyrics)
cf. "Kisses Sweeter Than Wine" (lyrics)

NOTES [699 words]: The description is based on Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs with help from the notes for Creighton/MacLeod 88(3) in Gaelic Songs in Nova Scotia. Creighton/MacLeod has three versions in English (two with chorus in Irish Gaelic).

Is this an allegory or really about a country-man's lament for the death of his cow? There are Jacobite songs in which a cow is named Drimin and denotes Ireland allegorically. H Halliday Sparling, in Irish Minstrelsy (1888), gives three examples of this in other songs:
"O Say, My Brown Drimin" by James Joseph Callanan, p. 309 [Also in Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry, pp. 183-184 -RBW];
"Drimin Dubh"--from Druim-fionn dubh dilis "dear black white-backed (cow)" by Samuel Ferguson, p. 148.
"Drimin Donn Dilis" by John Walsh, p. 203.

ibiblio site The Fiddler's Companion: DEAR BLACK COW [1] (Druimin Dubh). AKA and see "The Black Cow." Irish, Air (3/4 time). G Dorian. Standard. AAB. The words lament the loss of a cow, comparing it to the celebrated mythological Irish cow which could never be fully milked. In Bunting's 1840 collection he gives a few verses of a political song in which "the black cow" serves as a "very whimsical metaphor, the cause of the exiled monarch." [I must admit, in reading Creighton's first version, I thought of Bonnie Prince Charlie. The more so as many residents of Nova Scotia fled there after the Jacobite rebellions. - RBW]

Other writers, notably George Petrie, Patrick Walsh, Margaret Hannegan, Seamus Cladlloon and Redfern Mason, believe "Drimin/Druimin Dubh" (or "Dhriman Dhoun Deelish" "Drimin donn Dilis" etc.) also note the title's symbolizm (sic.) with Ireland. Cazden (et al, 1982) finds that, "with sufficiently imaginative adjustment," the melody resembles the "Drimindown" tune family, which includes O'Neill's "The Sorrowful Maiden" and Cazden's own Catskill Mountain (New York) collected ballad "The Maid on the Shore."

For an exhaustive discussion of text and tune history see "Drimion Dubh(Drimindown, Irish)" on Bruce Olsen's web site. The earliest complete text he finds "is from The Universal Songster, III, p. 45, London: Jones and Co., 1828."

For another copy of "O Say, My Brown Drimin" by James Joseph Callanan (Sparling p. 309) see Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 183-184, "O Say, My Brown Drimin". This is an example of Drimin as Ireland.

Zimmermann p. 56: "the strangest allegorical name for Ireland in Irish songs of the eighteenth century is 'Druimfhionn Donn Dilis': 'dear brown cow'. Petrie gave for this rather incongruous name the explanation which has been proposed for some of the women's names applied to Ireland, namely that it might have been suggested by the title or refrain of an older popular song which furnished the tune. In political broadside ballads of the Tithe War, the cow was still accepted as the symbol of Ireland. (See song 41["The Barrymore Tithe Victory"])."

Edward Bunting, The Ancient Music of Ireland (Mineola, 2000 (reprint of 1840 Dublin edition)), p. 93, has a translation of a Jacobite text of "Druimindubh" with "the 'black-backed cow' representing ... the cause of the exiled monarch.... Ah drimindhu' deelish, my darling black cow, Say where are your folk, be they living or no? They are down in the ground 'neath the sod lying low, Expecting King James with the crown on his brow. But if I could get sight of the crown on his brow, By night and day travelling to London I'd go.... - BS

[To this compare Ruth Dudley Edwards, The Seven: The Lives and Legacies of the Founding Fathers of the Irish Republic, Oneworld Books, 2016, p. 156 n., who glosses "Druimfhionn donn dilis" as "The dear brown white-backed cow -- one of the allegorical names for Ireland." - RBW]

I believe this was the song, originally Irish, which Lead Belly adapted into "If It Wasn't For Dicky," which the Weavers in turn made into, "Kisses Sweeter than Wine." Really. - PJS

Last updated in version 4.5

File: CrMa176

Drinaun Dun, The (An Draighnean Donn, The Blackthorn Tree)

DESCRIPTION: Irish Gaelic. The singer complains of being "captivated" by a young man, whose disappearance has caused her to wander. She shelters under the blackthorn. She tells of her love, wishes she had a boat to follow him, and warns girls to marry when they can

AUTHOR: D F McCarthy (per O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland)

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland); probably by 1855 (Petrie Collection)

KEYWORDS: love separation foreign language

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (4 citations):
  Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H206, p. 289, "The Drinaun D[h]un"
  (1 text, 1 tune)
  O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 63, "Drinane Dhun" (1 text)
  OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads, pp. 263-264, "The Drynaun Dun" (1 text)
  cf. Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 32, "An Draighnean Donn" (1 Irish Gaelic text plus translation, 1 tune; it is not clear that the English version of Henry has any relation to Kennedy's Irish text)
Roud #2363
RECORDINGS:
Sean Dirrane, "An Droighnean Donn (The Blackthorn)" (on Aran1)
NOTES [87 words]: Not to be confused with "Draigheanan donn" by Robert Dwyer Joyce, a love song about a man who dreams of being home again with "her sweet loving kisses, 'neath the Drinan Donn." (source: Irish Minstrelsy by H Halliday Sparling (1888), p. 301).
Charles Gavan Duffy, editor, The Ballad Poetry of Ireland (1845), pp. 143-144, "The Drinan Dhun" seems like a different translation of the same song. There are lines that are close but if translation were not a complicating factor I would consider these to be separate songs. - BS
File: HHH206

Drink in the Morn, A
DESCRIPTION: Dan O'Reilly explains to the judge the benefits of drinking "twenty or thirty" poteen between morning, when it "is good for the sight," and night. "In winter or summer, in June or July, I'll be punching all day till I die"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (for USBallinsloeFair, according to site irishtune.info, Irish Traditional Music Tune Index: Alan Ng's Tunography, ref. Ng #2615)
KEYWORDS: drink humorous nonballad
FOUND IN:
RECORDINGS:
Packy Dolan and The Melody Boys, "A Drink in the Morn" (on USBallinsloeFair)
File: RcADItM

Drink It Down
DESCRIPTION: "Here's success to Port, drink it down, drink it down (x2)... For it warms the heart for sport." "Here's success to sherry... makes the heart beat merry." And so forth, for whisky, cider, brandy, ale, punch, porter, water
AUTHOR: Julien Carle? (source: McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksong)
EARLIEST DATE: 1862 (The Campfire Songster, according to Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar); 1853 (according to McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksong)
KEYWORDS: drink nonballad wordplay
FOUND IN: Australia US(So) Canada
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 189-190, "Drink It Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksong, pp. 154-157, "Drink 'er Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fahey-Joe-Watson-AustralianTraditionalFolkSinger, [p. 20, page headed "Drinking Song:", "(no title)" (1 short text, a racy verse that opens "Here's to the good old brandy")
Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang, pp. 41-42, "Here's to the Good Old Beer" (1 text)
Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead, p. 20, "Here's to Good Old Beer" (1 text)
Roud #17004
SAME TUNE:
Boys In Blue, Fall In Line ("Wake up, gallant boys in blue, Fall in line! Fall in line!" (Garfield and Arthur Campaign Song Book 1880, p.23)
File: SCWF189

Drink Old England Dry
DESCRIPTION: Singer calls on his companions to drink, for the English are at war with the French (Germans, Russians). The singer vows to show the enemy "British play": "We'll fight until we die/Before that they shall come and drink old England dry."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1890 (Rev. J. Broadwood, "Sussex Songs")
LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer calls on his companions to drink, for the English are at war with the French (Germans, Russians). The singer vows to show the enemy "British play"; "With our swords and with our cutlasses, We'll fight until we die/Before that they shall come and drink old England dry." A national hero (Lord Raglan, Lord Roberts, Churchill) swears he shall be true to his country and crown, and that cannons will rattle and bullets fly before they drink old England dry.

KEYWORDS: promise fight violence war drink France Germany Russia nonballad patriotic ritual

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South,North))

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 270, "Drink Old England Dry" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Browne-FolkSongsOfOldHampshire, pp. 43-45, "Drink Old England Dry" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs, pp. 148-149, "Drink Old England Dry" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, DRNKENGL*

RECORDINGS:
- Rowland Whitehead & chorus, "Drink Old England Dry" (on FSB8)

NOTES [278 words]: Anne Gilchrist dates the original of this song to the time of the Napoleonic Wars. It was sung by a group known as The Boggens who would go around the village of Haxey (Lincolnshire) during the week preceding the day of the Hood Game, a combat ritual game. - PJS

The Napoleonic date is of course possible, but I personally think it's older. The British have, of course, fought the French for as long as both nations existed. But the reference in Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland's text to fighting the "Germans" "with our swords and our cutlasses" argues against such a date -- and postponing to the World Wars hardly helps.

Personally, I'd guess (very tentatively) that this dates to one of the "Succession Wars" of the eighteenth century. During the War of the Austrian Succession (1740-1748), for instance, Britain was allied with Austria against France (e.g. Battle of Dettingen, 1743), and sometimes Prussia (which started the war, then backed out, then went back in). It therefore fits the situation better than the Napoleonic era.

The War of the Spanish Succession (1701-1713) doesn't fit quite as well, since the German states were mostly on the same side as England in opposing France -- but it has the advantage of bringing in a Churchill before Winston (and note that the Kennedy text does not refer to Winston Churchill, merely "Churchill"): The Duke of Marlborough's name was John Churchill.

This, of course, is not to deny that the song could be adapted to later wars, as in the version collected by Cecil Sharp, which was adapted to the Crimean War by the insertion of Lord Raglan (the British commander on the Black Sea front) into the song. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: K270

---

Drink That Rot Gut

DESCRIPTION: "Drink that rot gut (x2), Drink that red eye, boys, It don't make a damn wherever we land, We hit her up for joy." A call for drink and a celebration of its effects. The cowboys have "lived in the saddle and ridden trail"; now they will enjoy themselves.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1916

KEYWORDS: drink cowboy nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, p. 169, "Drink That Rot Gut" (1 tune)
- Saffel-CowboyPoetry, p. 196, "Drinking Song" (1 text)

Roud #8030

File: LxA169

---

Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes

DESCRIPTION: "Drink to me only with thine eyes And I will pledge with mine, Or leave a kiss within the cup And I'll not ask for wine." The singer prefers his lady's love to "Jove's nectar," and says that her breath makes even a dead wreath grow.

AUTHOR: Words: Ben Jonson

EARLIEST DATE: 1616 (as part of "To Celia," in "The Workes of Benjamin Jonson"); tune in print by 1780

KEYWORDS: love nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 90, "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henderson-VictorianStreetBallads, p. 84, "Drink To Me Only" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 260, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" (1 text)
Heart-Songs, p. 105 "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd. #70, "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 202-203, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes"

ADDITIONAL: Aline Waites & Robin Hunter, _The Illustrated Victorian Songbook_, Michael Joseph Ltd., 1984, pp. 204-205, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes!" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #V3830

RECORDINGS:
Massanutten Military Quartet, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" (Columbia 15751-D, 1932)

NOTES [14 words]: According to Waites & Hunter, Jonson's text is based on a passage by Philostratus. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: FSBW260A

Drinkin' Bad Bad Whiskey
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Bad bad whiskey (3x) Made me lose my happy home." Whiskey and drinking women made him lose home, friends and money. "Never been to church... school... I was a booze drinking fool"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (USFlorida01)
KEYWORDS: home money drink hardtimes friend
FOUND IN: US(SE)
RECORDINGS:
Emmett Murray, "Drinkin' Bad Bad Whiskey" (on USFlorida01)
File: RdDrBaWh

Drinking and Gambling Gonna Be My Ruin
DESCRIPTION: "Drinking and gambling gonna be my ruin (x3), Gonna be my ruin, gonna be my ruin. Drinking and gambling gonna be my ruin."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal)
KEYWORDS: drink gambling hardtimes
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, Charles W. Joyner, "The Repertory of Nancy Jones as a Mirror of Culture in Scotland County," Vol. XXI, No. 3 (Sep 1973), p. 95, "(Drinking and gambling gonna be my ruin)" (1 fragment)
Roud #32511
File: NCF213DG

Drinking Gin
DESCRIPTION: "A-drinking gin through all the day And then at night attend the play Will on a man infer a curse And find the bottom of his purse." Drinking leads to starving children and poor clothing; the singer is urged to set sail
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1831 (DCHS archives)
KEYWORDS: warning drink sailor poverty
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 343-344, "Drinking Gin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #25999
NOTES [50 words]: The final verse of this alludes to 1 Timothy 5:23, where Paul advises Timothy... to take a little wine for his stomach's sake rather than drinking just water -- decent advice in places where the water is bad, less good where there is clean water. The whole song seems rather confused in that regard. - RBW

_last updated in version 4.2_

File: HGam343

Drinking of the Wine

DESCRIPTION: "Drinking (of the) wine, wine, wine, Ought to been there for a thousand years, drinking wine." In its full form, apparently a spiritual on the Eucharist. A prison version ends with "If my (brother/sister/etc.) comes for me, Tell her I've gone to Galilee"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Odum)

KEYWORDS: drink nonballad religious wine Jesus worksong

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 48, "Drinking Wine" (1 fragment)
Jones-MinstrelOfTheAppalachians-Bascom-Lamar-Lunsford, p. 220, "Drinking of the Wine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeasIslands, pp. 250-251, "Drinking Of the Wine" (1 text)
Jackson-WakeUpDeadMan, pp. 246-248, "Drinkin' That Wine" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: Howard W. Odum, Religious Folk-Songs of the Southern Negroes, (reprint from American Journal of Religious Psychology and Education, July 1909, Vol.3 pp. 265-365 "Digitized by Internet Archive"), p. 91, "If my mother ask you for me, tell her I gone to Gallerleed") (1 text)

Roud #7851

RECORDINGS:
Menhaden Fishermen, "Drinking of the Wine" (on USMenhaden01)
Walter Kegler and Crew of the Barnegat, "Drinking of the Wine" (on VaWork)
Bascom Lamar Lunsford, "Drinking of the Wine" (on BLunsford01) (Rounder LP 0065, 1957)
Northern Neck Chantey Singers, "Drinking of the Wine" (on USMenhaden02)

NOTES [148 words]: The editors of Brown, having only the chorus (and that without the reference to "holy wine" found in Lunsford's version) classified this as a drinking song. Lunsford's version makes it a spiritual of sorts. But it's the same chorus, from the same area; same song in my book. The final verses in Jackson's prison version, about the singer going to Galilee, are probably an allusion to Matthew 28:7, "He [Jesus] has been raised from the dead, and indeed is going ahead of you to Galilee; there you will see him." - RBW

Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeasIslands writes, because of the swinging rhythm this was "a favorite with the chain gang for cutting weeds along the highway."

Odum has "Christ was there four thousand years ago," and has "four thousand" where Parrish has "ten thousand."

Menhaden01 shares the "on my way to Galilee" verse with the same group's "My Way Seems So Hard." - BS

_last updated in version 6.1_

File: Br3048

Drinking Rum and Raspberry

DESCRIPTION: "Some like gin and some like brandy, Some are keen on beer or shandy, I'll drink any drink that's handy' as long as it's strong. Drinking rum and raspberry grows hair on the chest, makes you want to sing and fight, and results in fights"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Ruth Park, "One a Pecker, Two a Pecker")

KEYWORDS: drink nonballad

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p. 44 in the 1972 edition, "Drinking Rum and Raspberry" (1 text, 1 tune); dropped from the 2010 edition

File: Colq044
Drinking Strong Whiskey

DESCRIPTION: Singer "being tipsy from drinking strong whiskey ... straight to the raygions of dead men did go." He finds the souls in Hell weary and wonders "if souls who go up to heaven" ever stray among mortals; those in Hell would surely not be permitted that.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (IRTunneyFamily01)

KEYWORDS: dream drink Hell

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
* Tunney-StoneFiddle, p. 125, "Drinking Strong Whiskey" (1 text)

Roud #5293

RECORDINGS:
* Brigid Tunney and Paddy Tunney, "Drinking Good Whiskey" (on IRTunneyFamily01)

Drive Dull Care Away

DESCRIPTION: "Oh why should we at our lot complain or grieve at our distress? ... while we're here with our friends so dear we'll drive dull care away." Be satisfied with your state, "have a contented mind," and "make the best of life"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland)

KEYWORDS: nonballad friend

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
* Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 81-82, 244, "Drive Dull Care Away" (1 text, 1 tune)
* Ives-21FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 46-48,79, "Drive Dull Care Away" (1 text, 1 tune)
* DT, DULLCARE*

Roud #13988

RECORDINGS:
* Charles Gorman, "Drive Dull Care Away" (on MREIves01)

NOTES [40 words]: Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland reproduces a note seeming to push the earliest date at least to 1775.

Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland and Ives-21FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland are the same August 18, 1958 performance. - BS

Last updated in version 3.5

File: IvDC081

Drive It On (I)

DESCRIPTION: A formula song in which the singer gives the lady inches one, two, three, etc., until she is content.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE:

KEYWORDS: bawdy shanty humorous sex

FOUND IN: Australia Britain(England) US(MW,So,SW)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
* Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 323-325, "Drive It On" (1 text, 1 tune)
* Randolph/Legman-RollMeInYourArms I, pp. 268-271, "Drive It On" (2 texts, 1 tune)

Roud #10223

CROSS-REFERENCES:
* cf. "She'll Be Coming Round the Mountain" (tune) and references there
* cf. "Yo Ho, Yo Ho"
* cf. "Roll Me Over"
* cf. "Put Your Shoulder Next to Mine and Pump Away"

ALTERNATE TITLES:
* I Gave Her Kisses One

Drive It Home
I Gave Her Inches One
The Inches Song
NOTES [15 words]: Descended from a pumping chanty, this formula song survives largely on college campuses. - EC
File: EM323

Drive the Cold Winter Away (In Praise of Christmas)

DESCRIPTION: "All hail to the days that merit more praise Than all of the rest of the year...." The singer bids rejoicing come in for the Christmas season. Various Christmas activities are detailed, each intended to "drive the cold winter away."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1719 (Pills to Purge Melancholy)
KEYWORDS: Christmas party nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Logan-APedlarsPack, pp. 293-297, "Drive the Cold Winter Away" (1 text)
Dearmer/VaughnWilliams/Shaw-OxfordBookOfCarols 5, "The Praise of Christmas" (1 text, 1 tune)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN67, "All hayle to the dayes" cf. Chappell/Wooldridge-OldEnglishPopularMusic I, p. 173, (no title, but called "Drive the cold winter away" in the notes) (1 tune)
DT, DRIVCOLD ALLHAIL*
ADDITIONAL: John Ashton, _A Century of Ballads_, Elliot Stock, London, 1887; reprinted 1968 by Singing Tree Press, pp. 341-344, 'A pleasant Countrey new Ditty: merrily shewing how To Drive the Cold Winter Away" (1 text)
ST Log293 (Full)
Roud #V9375
SAME TUNE:
O fain would I marry[Title missing] (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2003)
I often have known/The father hath beguil'd the sonne (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN1311)
All you which lay clame/Hang Pinching (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN154)
Come, come my brave gold/Gathergood the Father and Scattergood the son [missing title from Stat. Reg. Entry, Apr. 9, 1638] (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN569)
Be merry, my hearts, and call for your quarts/A Health to all Good=Fellows (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN383)
To all my good Friends these presents I send/A New Song, called Jacke Dove's Resolution (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2630)
When Phoebus did Rest (tune listed in the copy in Ashton)
NOTES [44 words]: The _Oxford Book of Carols_ credits the first two verses to D'Urfey. Though D'Urfey was the first to print these stanzas, the existence of the song in the Pepysian collection casts the usual doubts on these authorship claims. Playford also published the tune. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: Log293

Drive, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer describes a log drive and jam, and praises the "river rats" and "jack" who break up logjams with their peaveys.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)
KEYWORDS: lumbering work logger nonballad
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 33, "The Drive" (1 text)
Roud #8854
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Badger Drive" (theme)
File: Be033
Driven into Spaniard's Bay

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas on the very first day of March, To the ice, boys, we were bound." A storm blows up, bringing them very close to the ice while they are blinded by snow; they finally anchor in Spaniard's Bay and head out on Match 17

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Murphy, The Seal Fishery)
KEYWORDS: storm ship
FOUND IN: REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff, p. 26, "Driven into Spaniard's Bay" (1 text)
Roud #V44630
File: RySm026A

Driver Boy, The [Laws G12]

DESCRIPTION: A teenage boy is too sick to drive his mule in the mines. His drunken father, thinking him lazy, beats him repeatedly. The boy dies of pneumonia; the father repents too late

AUTHOR: John A. Murphy (1900)
EARLIEST DATE:
KEYWORDS: father mining disease death
FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Laws G12, "The Driver Boy"
DT 787, DRIVRBOY
Roud #3253
NOTES [31 words]: The author of this song claims to have been an eyewitness and to have stepped in to keep the father from beating his son. It was, however, too late to save the boy from his pneumonia - RBW
File: LG12

Drivin' Steel

DESCRIPTION: "If I could drive steel like John Henry, I'd go home, baby, I'd go home." Of the troubles of a steel driver: "This old hammer killed John Henry/Bill Dooley, Can't kill me...." "I'm goin' home and tell Little Annie, No mo' trials, baby, no mo' trials."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)
KEYWORDS: work railroading
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 150, "Drivin' Steel" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #790
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Swannanoah Tunnel" (theme, lyrics)
cf. "Take This Hammer" (theme, lyrics)
NOTES [41 words]: I suspect this piece is a variant of "Swannanoah Tunnel," but the tunes are slightly different and I have yet to find common verses, except for the floater about the hammer that killed John Henry, so for the moment I am keeping them separate. - RBW
File: San150

Driving Away at the Smoothing Iron

DESCRIPTION: The speaker admires his darling as, on successive days of the week, she does various laundry-related tasks, all the while she is ironing, which action he apparently adores.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909
KEYWORDS: love clothes work nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South)) US(SW)
Driving Logs on the Cass [Laws C22]

DESCRIPTION: A crew of loggers led by Miller have hard times, caused especially by the incompetent cook, "Old Black Joe." Despite logjams, the drive is successful until the river's water falls too low. The loggers head home gratefully

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)
KEYWORDS: logger cook river lumbering
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Laws C22, "Driving Logs on the Cass"
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 28, "Driving Logs on the Cass" (1 text)
Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan, pp. 38-41, "Driving Logs on the Cass" (1 text)
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 16, "Driving Logs on the Cass" (1 text)
DT 839, LOGCASS
Roud #1928
File: LC22

Driving Saw-Logs on the Plover

DESCRIPTION: A mother bids farewell to her shanty-boy son on the banks of the Plover. She blesses him, but warns him that "Driving saw-logs on the Plover, You'll never get your pay." Eventually Johnny returns, having been driven from the camp without his pay

AUTHOR: William N. Allen ("Shan T. Boy")
EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy); reportedly composed 1873
KEYWORDS: work logger mother separation money
FOUND IN: US(MA,MW) Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy 20, "Driving Saw-Logs on the Plover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 20, "Drawing Saw-Logs on the Plover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fowke-LumberingSongsFromTheNorthernWoods #60, "Driving Saw-Logs on the Plover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bethke-AdirondackVoices, pp. 123-124, "Driving Saw-Logs on the Plover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 396-397, "Driving Saw-Logs on the Plover" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, SAWLOGPL*
Roud #2797
RECORDINGS:
Pierre La Dieu, "Driving Saw-Logs On The Plover" (Columbia 15278-D, 1928)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "The Falling of the Pine" (tune)
NOTES [19 words]: Sung to a variant of the tune "Tramps and Hawkers/Paddy West."
This song is item dC29 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW- RBW
Last updated in version 4.3
File: San396
Droosy Chiel, The
DESCRIPTION: The singer has a sleeping problem. His wife -- "continually she's singing" -- tries vainly to wake him at "half past five" every morning. He wakes half an hour early but can never be ready before half past nine. Then he falls asleep standing at his work.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: work nonballad wife
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 659, "The Droosy Chiel" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #6086
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Rise, Jock Rise!
NOTES [17 words]: Greig/Duncan3: "Sung by James Davidson, farm servant, Burnside, Carnousie, about 1870. Noted 1906." - BS
Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD3659

Drop 'Em Down
DESCRIPTION: "Oh Maybelle, drop 'em down" (x2). "I call you, drop 'em down" (x2). "With my diamond, drop...." "I got a lifetime to drop 'em." "I'm gettin' worried." "Where's the sergeant?" "Won't you help me?" An axe song which shares many words with hammer songs
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (recorded from Matt Williams by Jackson)
KEYWORDS: work prison
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Jackson-WakeUpDeadMan, pp. 248-253, "Drop 'Em Down" (3 texts, 2 tunes, very diverse; Jackson notes that the various informants' versions were each closer to their versions of "Hammer Ring" than to each other!)
File: JDM248

Drop 'Em Down Together
DESCRIPTION: An axe song: "Drop 'em down together (x3), Whoa Lord, Make 'em sound much better (x3) When you drop 'em down together." The singer calls to his girl(s), asks for water, and talks about the act of cutting the trees
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (recorded from J. B. Smith by Jackson)
KEYWORDS: nonballad separation work
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Jackson-WakeUpDeadMan, pp. 254-255, "Drop 'Em Down Together" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [52 words]: Jackson notes that this is one of the few songs he collected from J. B. Smith that did not appear to have any of Smith's own work in it; most of the material is found in other songs. It is ironic to note that there seem to be no other versions known (though, as with many prison songs, it can be hard to tell). - RBW
Last updated in version 2.4
File: JDM254

Drought, The
DESCRIPTION: The singer describes the troubles of Australia during drought, and observes, "You curse this bloomin' country for she's only fit for black." The singer notes that, if you survive until it rains, then the flies and mosquitoes will torture you instead
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1987
Drouthy Souters, The

DESCRIPTION: Two drunken shoemakers lived by the Clyde. "No man could them divide." "For wives and bairns they didna care." They only cared for drink.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan3)

KEYWORDS: drink nonballad friend river

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Greig/Duncan3 592, "The Drouthy Souters" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

Roud #6044

NOTES [19 words]: Greig #42: "In rustic song the Shoemaker becomes the Souter, and as such, is usually treated in humorous style." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD3592

Drover's Dream, The

DESCRIPTION: The drover is on watch when he dozes off. He sees "a very strange procession" -- a clothed kangaroo and a dingo, dancing birds, a bandicoot playing the flute. He is awakened by a crash as the boss asks, "Where the !!! are all the sheep?"

AUTHOR: unknown (sometimes credited to W. Tully)

EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (collected by David Campbell and Douglas Stewart)

KEYWORDS: dream animal Australia boss sheep

FOUND IN: Australia New Zealand

REFERENCES (7 citations):
- Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 202-203, "The Drover's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 160-161, "The Mustering Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fahey-PintPotAndBilly, pp. 28-29, "The Drover's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Paterson/Fahey/Seal-OldBushSongs-CentenaryEdition, pp. 219-221, "The Drover's Dream" (1 text)
- Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, pp. 265-267, "The Drover's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads, pp. 79-80, "The Drover's Dream" (1 text)
- Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook, pp. 75-76, "The Drover's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune, somewhat localized to New Zealand but with the same plot)

Roud #5473

RECORDINGS:
- A. L. Lloyd, "The Drover's Dream" (on Lloyd2, Lloyd4)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. Rock'd in the Cradle of the Deep" (this song quotes that)

File: MA202

Droving Song, The

DESCRIPTION: At the end of St Patrick's day a young man fails to return home from a day with his friends. A search gang finds him frozen to death in a crack in the ice. They take him home and bury him.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast)

KEYWORDS: burial death
Drowned Boy, The

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas early in the springtime, all in the month of May, A young man in deep sorrow from his home he went away." In his sorrow he jumps in the river and drowned. His body is found at evening. He awaits the Judgment Day

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (Abrahams/Riddle-ASingerAndHerSongs)

KEYWORDS: suicide drowning death river

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Abrahams/Riddle-ASingerAndHerSongs, pp. 129-130, "The Drowned Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #3524

NOTES [22 words]: According to Abrahams/Riddle-ASingerAndHerSongs, this was written by Reverend George Poole about the suicide of Rugus Parrott. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.1

File: Abrr129

Drowned Miner, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come gentle muse assist my song, My feeble mind inspire," "This miner in his blooming years Was drowned in the deep." He has no "sartain grave"; his body is in the sea. His parents are left behind, but "He beats the air with eagle's wings" in heaven

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1790 (Journal of the Dolphin)

KEYWORDS: death sailor mining

FOUND IN: Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 128-130, "The Drowned Miner" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #25987

NOTES [28 words]: The author of this asked for the muse's help, but I don't think he got it; the result is pretty feeble even if you ignore the terrible orthography in the logbook. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2

File: HGam128

Drowning in Tears

DESCRIPTION: "My heart stopped beating and my eyes were drowning in tears, I didn't look at nobody, I wished that you were here"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (USChartersHeroes)

KEYWORDS: grief love separation nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:
Henry Townsend, "Drowning in Tears" (on USChartersHeroes)

NOTES [28 words]: The description follows the Townsend recording. One verse, three line blues: the first line is repeated -- more or less -- and the last line completes the thought. - BS

Last updated in version 5.2

File: RcDroITe
Drowning of John Roberts, The [Laws C3]

DESCRIPTION: John Roberts tries to break up a logjam and is swept into the river. He comes to the surface three times, then disappears; his body is found three days later

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE:

KEYWORDS: logger death drowning

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1852 - John Roberts drowns on the West Branch of the Union River

FOUND IN: US(NE)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Laws C3, "The Drowning of John Roberts"
Ives-FolksongsFromMaine 7, "John Roberts" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
DT 717, JONROBTS

Roud #2222

File: LC03

Drowning of Patrick Martin, The

DESCRIPTION: Apprentice blacksmith Patrick Martin, out swimming with a friend, drowns in Orwell Bay. His body is retrieved with difficulty and his family mourns.

AUTHOR: Brian Doherty

EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland)

KEYWORDS: drowning memorial

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 69-70, "The Drowning of Patrick Martin" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #12464

NOTES [29 words]: Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland: "Patrick Martin was drowned circa 1907 at the age of 24 years."

Orwell is on the south coast of Queens, Prince Edward Island. - BS

File: Dib069

Drowning of Young Robinson, The

DESCRIPTION: Robinson and (Wesley) go hunting by the Bann in winter. The ice is thin, and they fall through. Wesley can swim, and escapes; Robinson vanishes. Wesley summons help, but Robinson is drowned. Family and friends mourn

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1869 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 26(705))

KEYWORDS: death river drowning mourning

FOUND IN: Ireland Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H585, p. 147, "Sloan Wellesley" (1 text, 1 tune)
Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster 9, "The Drowning of Young Robinson" (1 text, 1 tune)
Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark 15, "The Drowning of Young Robinson" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 104, "In the County of Innocent"; p. 105, "The Dog and the Gun" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

Roud #3600

RECORDINGS:
Robert Cinnamond, "Sloan Wellesley" (on IRRCinnamond01)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 26(705), "Young Robinson" ("In the parish of Seagoe, in the county Armagh"), J. Moore (Belfast), 1852-1868; also 2806 b.10(103), "Young Robinson"

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Dog and the Gun

NOTES [221 words]: Morton regards this as an adaption of Laws Q33, "The Lake of Cool Finn (Willie Leonard)." There are similarities, especially in the scenes of mourning at the end, but calling the one an adaption of the other seems more than is called for. - RBW
In trying to date this ballad later than c.1830 -- suggested by one of his references -- Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster notes that, in his text, the drowning follows "the steamboat passed down a few days ago. The ice it was broken these boys did not know." Morton points out that steam tugs were not used regularly on the river Bann in Seagor, County Armagh, until after 1880. That part of his argument for late dating does not apply to the broadside version in which "a small boat passed over a few days ago." (In one of the Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs texts no boats are mentioned; the other has "two boats had passed over.")
The Bodleian broadside and Morton-FolksongsSungInUlster texts end with an Orange funeral ceremony ("Eight hundred Orangemen all stood in a ring, Where the Orange and Purple from their left breasts did hang...."). The Creighton texts have lost the Orange references altogether though the funerals are described with the colors worn ("green and purple" in one case and "red, white and green" in the other) and the music played ("God Save the King/Queen"). - BS
File: HHH585

Drowsy Sleeper, The [Laws M4]

DESCRIPTION: A young man comes to his love's window and bids her ask her parents' permission to marry him. They will refuse it; her father is prepared to kill him. Depending on the version, he leaves, or one or the other lover (or both) commits suicide or die of grief

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1830 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 17(183a))

KEYWORDS: courting father mother death suicide

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,MW,NE,SE,So) Canada(Mar,Newf) Britain(England(West),Scotland)

REFERENCES (48 citations):
Laws M4, "The Drowsy Sleeper" Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #49, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sturgis/Hughes-SongsFromTheHillsOfVermont, pp. 38-39, "The Shining Dagger" (1 text, 1 tune) Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 118-123, "Bedroom Window (The Drowsy Sleeper)" (6 texts plus two fragments which might float, 1 tune)
Randolph 52, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (6 texts, 3 tunes)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 83-85, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 52D)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 31, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (3 texts plus a fragment, 4 tunes)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 22, "Who Is Tapping at My Bedroom Window?" (1 text plus an excerpt and mention of 3 more, 2 tunes; some of the unprinted texts may have "Silver Dagger" elements) Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 214, "Wo Is That Under My Bedroom Window?" (1 text, 1 verse); pp. 159-160, "Awake, Arise, You Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text, 1 tune) Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 28, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (2 texts plus a fragment and mention of 3 more, 2 tunes)
Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 18, "Awake Ye Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text)
Brown/Belden-Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 71, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (2 texts plus 3 excerpts; the "B" text is a "Silver Dagger" mix; the "D" excerpt contains "Fair and Tender Ladies" verses)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 71, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (4 excerpts, 4 verses)
Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 45, "Wake Up" (2 texts) Jones-MinstrelOfTheAppalachians-Bascom-Lamar-Lunsford, p. 210, "Awake, O Awake" (1 text, 1 tune)
Joyner-FolkSongInSouthCarolina, pp. 53-54, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #193, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 46, pp. 161-162, "Willie and Mary" (1 text); also 37, pp. 151-152,
"Annie Girl" (1 text, which conflates 2 verses of "The Drowsy Sleeper" [Laws M4], 2 or 3 of "Wheel of Fortune (Dublin City, Spanish Lady)" or "No, John, No: or similar, and 3 verses probably of "Pretty Fair Maid (The Maiden in the Garden; The Broken Token)" [Laws N42]) Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 88, "Wake Up You Drowsy Sleepers" (1 text,
1 tune)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 139-142, collectively titled "Awake! Awake!"
but with individual titles "Katy Dear, or Willie Darling," "Mollie Dear, Go Ask Your Mother," "Drowsy Sleepers," Little Willie" (4 texts; 2 tunes on p. 399)
Sulzer-TwentyFiveKentuckyFolkBallads, p. 17, "Rafter's Song" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, p. 314, "Who's That at My Bedroom Window? (The Drowsy Sleeper)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 24, "Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Peacock, pp. 733-734, "Who Is At My Window Weeping?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 30, "Who Is At My Bedroom Window?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 727-730, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (2 texts)
Leach-HeritageBookOfBallads, pp. 183-184, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 51, "Awake, Awake, Ye Drowsy Sleepers" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 390-391, "Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 188, "Wake, O Wake, You Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol1, pp. 72-73, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 57, "Awake! Awake!" (10 texts, 10 tunes)
Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 47, "Arise, Arise" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 46, "Arise! Arise!" (1 text, 1 tune, from different informants)
Karpel-Bush-TheCrystalSpring 57, "Arise, Arise" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 144, "Kind Miss" (1 short text, 1 tune, primarily "Wheel of Fortune" but with one verse of "The Drowsy Sleeper")
Ritchie-SingingFamilyOfTheCumberlands, pp. 200-201, "[Drowsy Sleeper]" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol2, pp. 63-65, "Drowsy Sleepers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, pp. 91-92, "Katie Dear, or, Awake, Awake" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H722, pp. 343-344, "The Sweet Bann Water" (1 text, 1 tune, erroneously listed in the text as Laws M34)
Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 73, "The Sweet Bann Water" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfNewEnglandFolklore, pp. 549-550, "The Shining Dagger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 21, pp. 51-52, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (1 text, the second text is perhaps influenced by "The Silver Dagger")
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 348, "The Drowsy Sleeper" (2 texts)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 114-115, "Awake, Awake, My Old True Lover" (1 text); also pp. 115-116, "Oh, Molly Dear" (1 text, very mixed, with verses from this song, from "East Virginia, and some floaters); also pp. 116-117, "Who's That Knocking" (1 text, even more mixed and with a "Little Sparrow" verse)
Silber-Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 193, "Don't Sing Love Songs" (1 text)
DT 327, SHIPORDR* SHIPORD2* SILVDAG3* SILVDAG4*
ADDITIONAL: James P. Leary, Compiler and Annotator, _Wisconsin Folklore_ University of Wisconsin Press, 2009, article "Kentucky Folksong in Northern Wisconsin" by Asher E. Treat, p. 239, "O, Mary Dear, Go Ask Your Mother" (1 text, 1 tune, sung by Pearl Jacobs Borusky)
Roud #22620 and 22621
RECORDINGS:
Dillard Chandler, "Awake, Awake" (on OldLove, DarkHoll)
Lester A. Coffee, "Awake, Arise, You Drowsy Sleeper" (AFS, 1946; on LC55)
Kelly Harrell, "O! Molly Dear Go Ask Your Mother" (Victor 20280, 1926; on KHarrell01 -- with several verses from "East Virginia" inserted in the song)
Frank Knox, "Silver Dagger" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Little Satchel" (on NLCR17, NLCRCD2)
Oaks Family, "Wake Up You Drowsy Sleeper" Victor 23795, 1933; on TimesAint01, KMM
Ken Peacock, "Who Is At My Window Weeping?" (on NFKPeacock)
B. F. Shelton, "Oh Molly Dear" (Victor V-40107, 1929; on ConstSor1, StuffDreams2)
Wilmer Watts & the Lonely Eagles, "Sleepy Desert" (Paramount 3282, 1931; on TimesAint03)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 17(183a), "The Maidens Complaint," T. Birt (London), 1828-1829; also Firth c.17(25), "Awake, Drowsy Sleeper"; Harding B 28(233), "The Drowsy Sleeper"; Harding B 25(452), "Cruel Father" or "The Maidens Complaint"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I Will Put My Ship In Order" (plot)
cf. "Greenback Dollar" (plot)
cf. "Go From My Window (I)"
cf. "One Night As I Lay on My Bed"

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Silver Dagger
Awake, Awake

NOTES [220 words]: I put [the Silber "Don't Sing Love Songs" text] under "Drowsy Sleeper" rather than "Silver Dagger" because, although a dagger is mentioned, no one uses it. - PJS
In the absence of any other basis, this is a good criterion. The two songs have cross-fertilized heavily; drawing the line can be extremely difficult, especially for fragmentary forms. - RBW
Broadside Bodleian Harding B 28(233): she refuses bread and water; "single I will go to my grave."
Broadside Bodleian Firth c.17(25): she says she will go to Botany Bay to be with Jim and asks for her portion of 500 pounds; father gives in and says "you and your true love shall be married, And that will ease you of all your pain." - BS
Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin is the English "Drowsy Sleeper" (I) (not Laws M4 "Drowsy Sleeper" (II), nor the Scottish "I Will Put My Ship In Order"). I plan to break all this out. - BS
Steve Gardham points out that what clearly appears to be an ancestor of this appears in Ramsey's Tea-Table Miscellany, at least in the 1763 edition, where it is song XCVII. Gardham and Steve Roud both consider this to be two separate but related songs, Roud's 22620 and 22621. I see their point -- the whole family is a mess -- but for the time being am keeping them together to match with Laws references in other works. - (RBW)
Last updated in version 6.0
File: LM04

Droylsden Wakes

DESCRIPTION: Man and woman alternately brag and insult each other over their prowess at spinning.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1865
KEYWORDS: bragging weaving ritual dialog
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, p. 36, "Droylsden Wakes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3290
NOTES [52 words]: "This Lancashire dialogue song was once associated with a folk ceremonial attached to the local 'wakes' or annual holiday." - A. L. Lloyd. The role of the woman was played by a man in woman's clothing; the two participants sat on a cart with a spinning-wheel spinning flax and collecting money from onlookers. - PJS
File: VWL036

Drum Major, The (The Female Drummer)

DESCRIPTION: A girl enlists "voluntarily in a regiment of foot" to follow her lover. A soldier sees her bathing; she is called before the officers. They call her lover and request that he pay the postage on a letter from his love. He pays the postage. They are married
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1895 (Baring-Gould and Sheppard, _Garland of Country Song_, according to Palmer)
KEYWORDS: love separation disguise soldier cross-dressing trick
FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig/Duncan1 184, "The Drum Major" (1 text)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H797, p. 327, "The Drum Major" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1678

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 28(78), "The Female Drum Major" ("Come all you true lovers and batchelor's sweet"), unknown, n.d.; also 2806 c.17(131), 2806 c.17(130)[almost entirely illegible], "The Female Drum Major"

ALTERNATE TITLES:
cf. "The Soldier Maid" (subject)

NOTES [186 words]: The story in the Bodleian broadsides is somewhat different from Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenry'sSongsOfThePeople but there is enough similarity in lines to convince me that these are the same. Here is a description for the broadsides: A girl enlists "who carries the drum, In search of her true love to Flanders is gone." Besides being a drummer who "excelled them all," she distinguished herself in battle ("she fought with such courage, I mean by the sword, Until that her fame it came up to the board"). A soldier sees her bathing; she is called before the officers. They hear her story and the captain dresses her "in silks so fine, in woman's apparel." They call Jacklare, her lover. They kiss. The captain gives her "fifty pound, In reward for her service as we do hear. The King settled on her three hundred a year." They marry.
"Baring-Gould says that it dates back to the time of Marlborough" (source: Roy Palmer, ed., The Rambling Soldier (Gloucester, 1985) p. 283.) - BS

For notes on legitimate historical examples of women serving in the military in disguise, see the notes to "The Soldier Maid." - RBW

Last updated in version 2.5

File: HHH797

Drumallachie

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas on a chill November night... I overheard a fair maid... 'My love is far frae Sinnahard And fair Drumallachie." The singer asks her of her trouble, tries to convince her to marry him, then reveals he is her long-lost lover

AUTHOR: James Hepburn (source: Greig/Duncan5)

EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan5)

KEYWORDS: love courting separation marriage disguise reunion

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #22, pp. 1-2, "Drumallachie"; #23, pp. 2-3, "Drumallachie"; #25, p. 2, "Drumallachie" (1 text plus 2 fragments) Greig/Duncan5 1043, "Drumallachie" (9 texts, 4 tunes)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, p. 34-37, "Drummallochie" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #2481

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "John (George) Riley (I)" [Laws N36] and references there
cf. "Fair Gallowa" (tune, per Greig/Duncan5)
cf. "High Germany (I)" (theme and likely source)

NOTES [169 words]: Of the myriad Broken Token songs, this seems among the most literary, yet it seems fairly widespread in Scottish tradition. Most of the references are clearly Biblical:
"King David had a faithful friend": This is of course Saul's son Jonathan, and their love for each other is repeatedly mentioned in 1 Samuel (e.g. 18:1, 20:41).
"When Jacob saw his long-lost son": Refers to the reunion of Jacob and Joseph (Genesis 46:19f.) Various versions also refer to a fair Queen of Scotland. In the case of Mary Stewart, this makes some sense, since she was known for her looks. One version, however, refers to Victoria. Whether this dates the song, or is just a funny error, I do not know. - RBW

Greig/Duncan5 quoting Duncan: "Another statement of Robert Chree was that the song was understood to have been an older song adapted. The reference is probably to 'The Banks of Claudiy' [Greig/Duncan5 1036], from which the idea was very likely taken. There are also reminiscences in it of [Greig/Duncan1 96] 'High Germany'." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: Ord034

Drumboe Castle

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas the Eve of St. Patrick's by the dawn of the day, The hills of Tirconnel looked sombre and grey When... Four Irish soldiers were led forth to die." They had come "to fight for the Gael," but were captured, imprisoned, and shot at Drumboe

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1962
KEYWORDS: Ireland prison execution
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
March 14, 1923 - Execution of Tim O'Sullivan, Charles Daly, John Larkin, and Dan Enright at Drumboe in Donegal
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Galvin-IrishSongsOfResistance, pp. 100-101, "Drumboe Castle" (1 text, 1 tune)
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 80, "The Woods of Drumbo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #13466
NOTES [63 words]: Galvin lists this as an Irish song of rebellion, but this is rather an exaggeration; the British had no part in it.
The four men were Irishmen condemned (without trial) by Irishmen. The worst of it is, they were innocent of the crime of which they stood accused (which had been ordered by Liam Lynch while they were imprisoned), but were killed because they were convenient. - RBW

Drumdelgie

DESCRIPTION: Bothy work is described: rising early, working hard in bad weather (but with praiseworthy horses). At the end, the singer bids farewell to Drumdelgie: "Fare ye weel, Drumdelgie, I bid you all adieu, I leave ye as I got ye, A damned unceevil crew."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: farming work
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #4, p. 2, "Drumdelgie" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 384, Greig/Duncan8 Addenda, "Drumdelgie" (15 texts, 14 tunes)
Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 66, "Drumdelgie" (1 text, 1 tune in appendix)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 209-211, "Drumdelgie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2180
RECORDINGS:
Norman Kennedy, "Drumdelgie" (on ESFB2)
Davie Stewart, "Drumdelgie" (on FSB3)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Gentleman Soldier" (tune)
cf. "Harrowing Time" (tune)
cf. "The Miller of Straloch" (tune, per Greig)
cf. "The Guise o' Tough" (tune, per Greig/Duncan3)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Big Toon in Carnie
O Fare Ye Well, Drumdelgie
NOTES [36 words]: Greig/Duncan3 has a map on p. xxxv, of "places mentioned in songs in volume 3" showing the song number as well as place name; Drumdelgie (384) is at coordinate (h4,v5) on that map [roughly 38 miles NW of Aberdeen]. - BS

Drumglassa Hill

DESCRIPTION: A confusing song, in which Johnston, and probably Mrs. Johnston, sail for America, and the singer (Johnston? someone else?) hopes to return to Ireland, and there live a life of hunting and enjoying the beautiful scenery

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: Ireland emigration hunting homesickness
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H703, pp. 210-211, "Drumglassa Hill" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [39 words]: The best explanation I can think of for this song is that the singer is leaving his hound, Bellman, in the hands of another as he goes over the sea, and is describing how he hopes to return. But even that leaves some loose ends. - RBW
File: HHH703

Drummer and the Cook, The DESCRIPTION: A drummer is in love with a cook. He sneaks in to see her one night, she gives him a meal and he chokes on a bone. She tries to knock it out of him and wakes the house. The master comes down, chases them, the drummer falls into his drum, both get fired.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1856 (broadside, Bodleian Johnson Ballads 1885)

KEYWORDS: cook shanty nightvisit humorous courting disability escape food soldier

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig/Duncan2 314, "The Drummer and the Cook" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, p. 460, "The Drummer and the Cook" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea, pp. 56-58, "The Drummer and the Cook" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DRUMCOOK, DRUMCOO2*

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Johnson Ballads 1885, "Walking Tub of Butter" ("There was a little drummer"), J. Cadman (Manchester), 1850-1855; also 2806 b.10(163), Harding B 16(299a), "The Walking Tub of Butter"; Harding B 15(132a), "Hump-back'd Drummer, and the Cross-eyed Cook"; Firth c.14(306), "The Little Drummer"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Sailor's Consolation" (similar chorus)
cf. "The Way to Swig It" (tune, per broadside Bodleian Firth c.14(306))

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Drummer
The Little Drummer

NOTES [131 words]: [Regarding Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas's 1926 date:] Hugill says this is from one of Richard Runciman Terry's books, unfortunately he didn't specify which one [It appears to be Shanty Book 2 - RBW]. Terry supposed that this was a music hall song which was taken wholesale into the shanty repertoire. He says he learned it from Cap'n John Runciman, who in turn had it from the cook of the Blyth brig Northumberland. Harry Belafonte recorded this in the 1950s. - SL

If not a music hall song, it certainly came from the popular press, as the broadsides show. - RBW

The cook "had a squinting look" ["cross-eyed" in Bodleian Harding B 15(132a)] that plays little part in the story but leads to the best known line of the song: "She had one eye in the pot, and another up the chimney." - BS

Last updated in version 5.1

File: Hugi460

Drummer Boy of Shiloh, The [Laws A15]

DESCRIPTION: "On Shiloh's dark and bloody ground The dead and wounded lay. Amid them was a drummer boy Who beat the drum that day." One of the many Federal casualties at Shiloh was a young drummer boy. He is mourned and buried by older survivors.

AUTHOR: Will S. Hays

EARLIEST DATE: 1862 (sheet music published by D. P. Faulds)

KEYWORDS: Civilwar death youth

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
April 6-7, 1862 - Battle of Shiloh. The army of U.S. Grant is forced back but, reinforced by Buell, beats off the army of A.S. Johnston. Johnston is killed. Both sides suffer heavy casualties (Shiloh was the first battle to show how bloody the Civil War would be)
Drummer Boy of Waterloo, The [Laws J1]

DESCRIPTION: Young (Edwin) is leaving home to serve as a drummer boy at Waterloo. Though his mother is terrified for him, the lad knows no fear. But at Waterloo he is fatally wounded; he sends a dying message to his mother and is buried by moonlight on the battlefield

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1839 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(995))

KEYWORDS: war death burial mother youth

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

June 18, 1815 - Battle of Waterloo

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,MW,Ro,SE,So) Canada(Mar) Britain Ireland

REFERENCES (18 citations):

Laws J1, "The Drummer Boy of Waterloo"
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 58, "The Drummer Boy of Waterloo" (1 text plus 2 short fragments perhaps of this song, 3 tunes)
Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 12, "The Drummer Boy" (1 text)
Randolph 82, "Young Edward" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 62, "The Drummer Boy of Waterloo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 77-78, "The Drummer Boy of Waterloo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 65-66, "The Drummer Boy of Waterloo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 10, "The Drummer Boy of Waterloo" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Thompson-APioneerSongster 31, "The Drummer Boy of Waterloo" (1 text)
Forget-Me-Not-Songster, p. 202, "Drummer Boy of Waterloo" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 82, "The Drummer Boy of Waterloo" (text)
Drums Beat to Order, The

DESCRIPTION: "The drums beat to order and the Queen she wants men And I'll go to the war, should I never return." Farewell Rhynie [Aberdeenshire]. The singer will think of the girl he left behind. When the war is over he'll return to her.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan1)

KEYWORDS: love war separation return Scotland soldier

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan1 100, "The Drums Beat to Order" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #5788

NOTES [44 words]: It is interesting to ask whether the Queen in this song is Anne, in which case the wars are probably in the Low Countries, or Victoria, in which case the Wars are probably in the Crimea or Asia. But Grieg's seems to be the only version, so evidence is lacking - RBW

Last updated in version 2.4

File: GrD1100

Drunk Last Night

DESCRIPTION: "Drunk last night, drunk the night before, Gonna get drunk tonight like I've never been drunk before. For when I'm drunk I'm as happy as can be, For I am a member of the Souse family." The singer calls for beer and is glad that there are few to drink it

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Silber)

KEYWORDS: drink nonballad

FOUND IN: Canada

REFERENCES (3 citations):

Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 235, "Drunk Last Night" (1 text)

Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, p. 25, "One More Drink for the Four of Us" (1 text)
Drunk Mason, The
DESCRIPTION: A mason decides to see a drunk mason safely home at night. They see the light of a man stealing grain; the sober mason says it is Old Nick coming for the drunk who runs for safety to a tavern. He is refused, causes a commotion, and everyone else laughs.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: drink humorous thief Devil food
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 574, "The Drunk Mason" (1 text)
Roud #6040
File: GrD3574

Drunkard and His Daughter, or Please Mr. Barkeeper
DESCRIPTION: "Please, Mr. Barkeeper, has father been here?" The bartender tells the girl her father is in jail. At the jail, she begs for his release. They tell her to go home. She refuses. Because she is so cold, they release her father. He stops drinking
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (Cambiaire)
KEYWORDS: prison father children drink promise
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, pp. 123-124, "The Drunkard and His Daughter, or Please Mr. Barkeeper" (1 text)
NOTES [59 words]: Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads claims this is a true story about a mountaineer whose pretty 13-year-old daughter begged for his release. He also claims the song remained popular for fifty years in East Tennessee. I rather wonder if Cambiaire didn't write the poem himself, no doubt thinking of the pretty young girl all the while. - RBW.
File: Camb123

Drunkard John
DESCRIPTION: "You might have lit a lamp upon The fiery nose of Drunkard John." He stays out so late that the fire goes out at home. His wife says she will lock him out if he does not reform. She fulfills her threat; he pretends to drown in the well; she relents
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions)
KEYWORDS: drink husband wife trick fight
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, ppp. 170-172, "Drunkard John" (1 text)
Roud #9551
File: SBar170

Drunkard Song
DESCRIPTION: "When I was young I had a fortune... And spent it al in gambling One night when I was drunk." The singer goes to India, and gets drunk. He marries and loses a wife and gets drunk. He becomes ill; the doctor blames it on drink. He warns against drink
Drunkard's Child (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, father, do not ask me why the tears roll down my cheek... It breaks my heart to think that I must be a drunkard's child." The child recalls how much better things were when mother was alive and father was sober. (S)he asks father to turn to God

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1924 (recording, Henry Whitter)

KEYWORDS: drink orphan mother father death

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 331, "The Drunkard's Child" (1 text)
Roud #7803

RECORDINGS:
Frank J. Smith, "The Drunkard's Child" (Columbia 15137-D, 1927; rec. 1926)
Henry Whitter’s Virginia Breakdowners, "The Drunkard's Child" (OKe 40169, 1924)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Drunkard's Lone Child" (plot)

File: R331

Drunkard's Doom (I), The

DESCRIPTION: The singer sees a man at a bar or "grog shop door". His son begs him to come home; his wife is ill and his children starving. The drunkard instead takes another drink. A year later, the singer learns the drunkard is dead

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)

KEYWORDS: drink death funeral

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,SE,So,SW)

REFERENCES (17 citations):
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 468-469, "The Drunkard's Doom" (1 text)
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 58, "Drunkard’s Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 142, "Temperance Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 21, "The Drunkard's Doom" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 21, "The Drunkard's Doom" (1 tune plus an excerpt of text)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 82, "Drunkard's Doom"; 83, "A Drunkard's Warning" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 104-105, "The Drunkard's Doom" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #109, "The Drunkard Is No More" (1 text)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 174-175, "The Drunkard's Doom" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 131, "Temperance Song" (1 text)
Cox/Hercog/Halpert/Boswell-WVirginia-B, #31A-B, pp. 203-206, "Temperance Song," "The Drunkard" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, p. 122, "The Drunkard's Doom" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, p. 84, "The Grog Shop Door" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 357-358, "The Drunkard's Doom" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 265, "The Drunkard's Doom" (1 text)
cf. Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, p. 478, "The Drunkard's Doom" (source notes only)
ST R306 (Partial)
Roud #3113
RECORDINGS:
Ted Chestnut, "The Drunkard's Doom" (Gennett 6638 [as Ted Chesnut]/Challenge 422 [as Oliver Moore]. 1928)
Doc Watson & Fred Price, "I Saw a Man at the Close of Day" (on WatsonAshley01)
NOTES [60 words]: The Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl texts are rather complicated, not fitting exactly with any of the various drunkard songs, and not matching each other either. It may be that the second has become mixed. I file them here because they fit best and they probably aren't worth separate entries; there is too much cross-influence. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.3
File: R306

Drunkard's Dream (I), The

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets (Dermot) and expresses surprise at how healthy and prosperous he looks. Dermot explains that he had had a dream which showed him the consequences of his actions. Awakening in relief, Dermot has reformed his ways

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1842 (broadside, Bodleian Firth b.25(31))

KEYWORDS: dream drink love promise wife

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,Ro,SE,So) Canada(Newf,Ont) Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (20 citations):
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 469-470, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text)
Randolph 307, "The Drunkard's Dream" (2 texts plus a fragment, 2 tunes)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 254-256, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 307A)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 101, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 242-247, "The Drunkard's Dream" (2 texts, 2 tunes, plus a sheet music reprint)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 129, "The Drunkard's Dream" (2 texts)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 22, "The Drunkar's Dream (I)" (1 text plus 2 excerpts and mention of 2 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 22, "The Drunkard's Dream (I)" (2 tunes plus textual excerpts)
Richardson/Spaeth-AmericanMountainSongs, p. 41, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 71, pp, 118-118, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 366-372, "The Drunkard's Dream" (4 texts; 3 tunes on pp. 455-456)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #107, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text plus an excerpt, 1 tune)
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 73, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 42, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, p. 193, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladsOfIreland, p. 67, "The Husband's Dream" (1 text)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Mi 595, "Husband's Dream" (1 text)
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 202-203, "(Samuel, You Look Healthy Now)" (1 text, based on this but modified by informant "Blind Sam" Taylor to describe his own circumstances)

DT, DRUNKDRM*

ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), pp. 210-211, "The Drunkard's Dream" (1 text)
Roud #722
RECORDINGS:
Morgan Denmon, "Drunkard's Dream" (OKeh 45327, 1929)
Betty Garland, "Drunkards Dream" (on BGarland01)
Frank McFarland, "Drunkard's Dream" (Brunswick 203, 1928; Supertone S-2027 [as Kentucky Mountain Boys], 1930; rec. 1927)
Charlie Oaks, "The Drunkard's Dream" (Vocalion 15195, 1926)
Riley Puckett, "The Drunkard's Dream" (Columbia 15035-D, 1925)
Jim Rice, "The Drunkard's Dream" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth b.25(31), "The Husband's Dream", Birt (London), 1833-1841; also Harding B 11(3168), Firth c.22(81), Harding B 18(264), Harding B 18(265), Johnson Ballads 552, Harding B 11(1609), Harding B 11(1608), "The Husband's Dream"

CROSS-REFERENCES:

NOTES [246 words]: This song seems to have followed different paths on different sides of the Atlantic: In the U. S., it is "The Drunkard's Dream"; in Europe, "The Husband's Dream." But both versions are about drunken Dermot and his dream; while odds are that one version or the other was reworked in broadsides, I say they're the same song. - RBW

Is this a sequel to "The Wife's Dream" or is that, if it exists, just a prequel to "The Husband's Dream?"

In "The Wife's Dream" Mary explains her happy disposition though married to a drunkard by a dream she had: having wished her husband dead, she dreamed that he were and was happy at waking to find him alive but unreformed. She hopes "by patience I can change, my husband's wandering life" and then she'd "bless the hour that dream was sent to his neglected wife."

Bodleian, Harding B 11(3669), "The Wife's Dream", Walker (Durham), 1797-1834; also Firth b.27(135), Harding B 15(375a), Firth c.26(53), Harding B 11(4203), Harding B 11(4207), Harding B 11(4208), Harding B 11(4205), Harding B 18(745), Firth b.26(253), "The Wife's Dream"; Harding B 11(4206), "Wife's Dream!"

There is another "Answer to the 'Wife's Dream'": "The Drunkard Reformed" in which Dermot was about to murder Kathleen in a jealous drunken rage, but is saved in time by her prayer:

Bodleian, Harding B 11(3249), "The Reformed Rake", E. Hodge's (London), 1846-1854; also Firth b.26(205), Harding B 11(996), Harding B 11(997), Harding B 17(79a), "The Drunkard Reformed" - BS

Last updated in version 5.3
File: R307

Drunkard's Dream (II), The

DESCRIPTION: "The drunkard dreamed of his old retreat, Of his cozy spot in the taproom seat."
As he carouses, "Like a crash there came to the drunkard's side His angel child who that night had died." The drunkard sets down the glass; the host asks why he hesitates.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: drink death father children
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 23, "The Drunkard's Dream (II)" (1 text)
Roud #7856
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Father, Dear Father, Come Home with Me Now" (theme) and references there

File: Br3023

Drunkard's Hell, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer, a drunkard, has a vision of the part of hell to which drinkers are sent. The vision is enough to scare him away from drink. He goes home to find his wife crying over their child's body. He says the child is in heaven, and that he will sober up

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Lomax)
KEYWORDS: drink children death
Drunkard's Hiccoughs (Drunken Hiccups)

DESCRIPTION: Fiddle tune, with words often assembled from other drinking songs. The singer describes his quest for a drink, a woman, a home, directions, or perhaps the ability to stand up straight. Typical chorus: "Hiccup! O Lordy, how queasy I feel (x2)"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (W. R. Thomas)

KEYWORDS: drink fiddle nonballad

FOUND IN: US(Ap,So)

REFERENCES (3 citations):

- Randolph 404, "The Drunkard's Hiccoughs" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
- Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 343-344, "The Drunkard's Hiccoughs" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 404A)
- Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains, pp. 54-55, "Drunken Hiccoughs" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7682

File: R404

---

Drunkard's Home, The

DESCRIPTION: "No sun shines bright, no smiling face, No loving words to cheer and bless, But only woe and deep distress, No peace, no joy or songs of love, To [???] above, But is there and woe and gloom, Within the wretched drunkard's home."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5)

KEYWORDS: drink home

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 663, "The Drunkard's Home" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

NOTES [42 words]: I wouldn't be surprised if this is a fragment of another drunkard song (perhaps a "Drunkard's Doom," not a "Drunkard's Home") -- but with less than a complete stanza in the Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 text, I can't identify it. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.1

File: BrS5663
Drunkard's Horse, The

DESCRIPTION: Conversation between a man and his horse. The man beats the horse; the horse tells the man to leave him alone, as the beast is just doing its job. (They continue on their round of taverns)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1918 (Cecil Sharp collection)

KEYWORDS: animal horse drink

FOUND IN: US(Ro,SE,So)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 160, "The Horse's Complaint" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph 318, "The Drunkard's Horse" (2 texts plus a fragment, 2 tunes)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 269-270, "The Drunkard's Horse" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 318A)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #192, "The Old Gray" (1 text)
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 161, "The Old Gray Horse" (1 text)
Roud #2799

RECORDINGS:
Warde Ford, "Barefooted in front and no shoes on behind" (AFS 4209 B3, 1939; in AMMEM/Cowell)

NOTES [35 words]: I can't help but think that this story was influenced by the Biblical account of Baalam's Ass (Numbers 22:22-35), which also has a beast of burden talking back to its owner after the owner beat the beast. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: R318

Drunkard's Legacy, The

DESCRIPTION: A dying father has his drinking son make a deathbed promise that involves a trick: when the son has lost everything and is desperate enough to commit suicide, it will provide him the means to win back his land and convince him to stay sober.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1765 (according to Percy); 1846 (Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland)

LONG DESCRIPTION: A father builds a cottage on "a waste plot" as part of a plan to save his drinking son from ruin. On his deathbed he makes his son promise that -- when he has lost all his friends, money and other land -- he will go to that cottage "to find something thy grief to end." The son loses everything, pawns his land for little price to a tavern-owner, and spends that money as well. "Then [he] thought it was high time for he his father's legacy to see." He goes to the cottage hoping to find money but finds "a gibbet and a rope" instead. He decides his father was showing him his only way out, prays God for forgiveness, puts the rope around his neck and jumps. The gibbet breaks and one thousand pounds in gold falls around him. He blesses his father and swears never to drink again. He returns to the tavern, challenges the owner who would kick him out but says, in jest, that he would return the drunkard's land for 100 pounds the next day. The drunkard insists the tavern owner put his offer in writing. The next day he returns, with a witness, pays the fee and claims his land. The tavern owner, fearing his customers will laugh at his foolishness, commits suicide. The ex-drunkard "lives sober and [does] his lands possess, and warns others against drunkenness."

KEYWORDS: money gambling drink poverty bargaining promise trick death suicide gold father

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Child 267 Appendix, "The Drunkard's Legacy (1 text)
Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Ballad #21, pp. 151-159, "The Drunkard's Legacy" (1 text)
Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 320-326, "The Drunkard's Legacy" (1 text)
Roud #V3745

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Heir of Linne" (II) (derived from this song)

NOTES [213 words]: The only reason I have for including this song in the Index is that Percy used it as a source for completing his version of "The Heir of Linne" [see "The Heir of Linne" (II)]. Percy described it as "a modern" ballad when he was writing in 1765. We have Dixon's text "taken from an old chap-book, without date or printer's name," and Child's slightly different text "from a Broadside among Percy's Papers" with the imprint "Printed and sold in Bow-Church-Yard, London."

Also see John Ashton, Chap-Books of the Eighteenth Century (Chatto and Windus: Picadilly, 1882 ("Digitized by Lyrasis"); pp. 455-457 for the heading and woodcuts from "The Drunkard's Legacy" chapbook "Printed by Dicey and Co. in Aldermary Church Yard." Unfortunately Ashton does not print the text: "As the title is so voluminous and exhaustive, it is unnecessary to reproduce any of the text." Nevertheless, it is clear from the title, that this is our song. "St Mary Aldermary is an Anglican church in Bow Lane in the City of London" [Wikipedia, "St Mary Aldermary," accessed 15 Dec 2013] and "Bow Church is the parish church of St Mary and Holy Trinity, Stratford, Bow.[1] It is located on an island site in Bow Road" [Wikipedia, "Bow Church"]; both imprints were used by the Diceys after 1736. - BS

Drunkard's Lone Child, The

DESCRIPTION: "Out in the gloomy night sadly I roam, No one to love me, no friends and no home, Nobody cares for me, no one would cry Even if poor little Bessie should die." Bessie is alone: "Father's a drunkard and mother is dead." She hopes father will sober up

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: drink orphan children mother father death

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,Ro,SE,So)

REFERENCES (12 citations):

Randolph 309, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (4 texts plus an excerpt, 3 tunes)

Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 257-259, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 309A)

High-OldOldFolkSongs, p. 27, "It's Spring Time on Earth" (1 text, with many key lines and the name of the child lost)

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 25, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (1 text plus a fragment and mention of 1 more)

Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 25, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (1 tune plus an excerpt of text)

Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 97, pp. 122-123, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (1 text plus a fragment); 98, pp. 123-124, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (2 texts)

Neely/Spargo-TalesAndSongsOfSouthernIllinois, pp. 259-260, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (1 text, 1 tune)

Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #105, "The Drunkard's Child" (1 text, 1 tune); #106, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (1 text, which is clearly not this song but which does not have enough sufficient information to identify, so we file it here based on the title until it can be identified)

Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, pp. 191-192, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (1 text, 1 tune)

Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #534, p. 36, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (1 references cf. Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, p. 477, "Bessie, the Drunkard's Lone Child" (source notes only)

DT, DRNKCHLD* DRNKCHL2*

Roud #723

RECORDINGS:

Dock Boggs, "Drunkard's Lone Child" (on Boggs1, BoggsCD1)

Walter Coon, "Father's a Drunkard and Mother is Dead" (Conqueror 7271, 1929)

Arthur Fields, "The Drunkard's Lone Child" (Grey Gull 4200/Radiex 4200, 1928)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, p. 477, "Bessie, the Drunkard's Lone Child" (source notes only)

ALTERNATE TITLES:

Song Ballet of a Drunkard's Child

NOTES [100 words]: Cohen, in his edition of Randolph, has extensive notes on the origin of this song; they boil down to, "Something is fishy here."
Although the earliest firm date I can give for this is Brown's, Edwin Wolf 2nd, American Song Sheets, Slip Ballads, and Political Broadsides 1850-1870, Library Company of Philadelphia, 1963, p. 36, lists a broadside of this by De Marsan, which dates it firmly in the nineteenth century. Stout-FolkloreFromIowa lists his four texts as belonging to two different songs, and he may well be right, but the plots are identical; it would be very hard to disentangle them. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: R309

Drunkard's Ragged Wean, The

DESCRIPTION: "A wee bit ragged laddie gaes wandering through the street, Wading mong the snow Wi' his wee bit hacket feet... he's the drunkard's ragged wee ane. The poor child is poor, ill-clothed, ill-fed, and unable to play with other children. The singer urges pity

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Cox)
KEYWORDS: drink children poverty hardtimes
FOUND IN: US(SW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cox/Hercog/Halpert/Boswell-WVirginia-B, #32, pp. 207-208, "The Drunkard's Ragged Wee Ane" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST CoxIIB32 (Partial)
Roud #3112
BROADSIDES:
NLScotland, RB.m.143(212), "The Drunkard's Raggit Wean," Poet's Box (Dundee), c. 1890; same broadside as LC.Fol.70(97a); also RB.n.168(150), "The Drunkard's Raggit Wean," James Lindsay (Glasgow), 1847-1907
NOTES [70 words]: Although collected in California (apparently the only American collection), Cox's text is of Scottish origin (as the dialect shows). My guess, looking at it, was that it began life as a Scottish broadside, and the NLScotland texts seem to confirm this.
NLScotland also has a broadside sequel, NLScotland, LC.Fol.178.A.2(018), "The Reformed Drunkard, An Answer to the Raggit Wean," Robert McIntosh (Glasgow), 1849(?). - RBW

File: CoxIIB32

Drunkard's Song (I)

DESCRIPTION: "I have traveled over these foreign countries, Into a broad and distant range, I give advice to you thoughtless husbands." A drunkard works, spends his wages on drink, beats his children; his wife and children flee into the cold and die

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)
KEYWORDS: drink children river drowning suicide death
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, p. 123, "Drunkard's Song" (1 text)
NOTES [21 words]: Thomas's notes seem to state that this song was by Jimmie Mutters, the singer. It however appears to be a more generic song. - RBW

File: ThBa123

Drunkard's Story, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer started out a successful businessman, happily married. But then, despite his wife’s pleadings, he took to drinking. In time this used up all his money, and his family wound up in the street. Now even saloon keepers scorn the man who cannot pay

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: drink poverty
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randoph 324, "The Drunkard's Story" (1 text)
Drunkard's Wife (I), The

DESCRIPTION: The drunkard's widow warns young girls against marrying a drunk. Her marriage has turned her old. She describes the symptoms of a drunk, and tells how her husband killed their children, then himself, and left a drunkard son.

AUTHOR: Words: M. W. Knapp/Music: L. L. Pickett

EARLIEST DATE: 1894 (songbook known to Randolph)

KEYWORDS: drink marriage husband wife children homicide

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 332, "The Drunkard's Wife" (1 text)

Roud #7804

Drunkard's Wife (II), The

DESCRIPTION: "Don't go out tonight, my darling. Do not leave me here alone. Stay at home with me, my darling, For I'm lonely while you're gone." The wife's pleas fail; he sets out for the bar; later, "They have brought me back my darlin, Dead he lies upon the floor!"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands)

KEYWORDS: drink husband wife death

FOUND IN: US(MW,Ap)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 137, "The Drunkard's Wife" (1 text)
Neely/Spargo-TalesAndSongsOfSouthernIllinois, pp. 261-262, "The Drunkard's Wife" (1 text)

ST Fus137 (Partial)

Drunkard's Wife's Dream, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, Mary, tell me how it is you always look so gay" despite having a drunkard for a husband. Mary reports that she wished her husband dead, then had a dream of him dying. This is so frightening that it causes her to act happy wharever her husband does.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)

KEYWORDS: dream drink family

FOUND IN: US(Ro)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #108, "The Drunkard's Wife's Dream" (1 text, tune referenced)

Roud #10918

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Drunkard's Dream (I)" (inspiration for this song)

NOTES [15 words]: One wonders who created the propaganda department for drunks that produced this song.... - RBW

Last updated in version 3.8

File: Hubb108

Drunken Captain (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "A fierce stporm raged and black winds blew, The captain said, 'I'll change the crew.'" The new "sailors" "had some booklore, But never had left their home shore." Veterans warn him to seek harbor. People jump overboard; the Captain says all are safe
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (Cambiaire)
KEYWORDS: drink ship storm
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, p. 106, "The Drunken Captain" (1 text)
Roud #12639
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Canso Straight" (subject)
NOTES [82 words]: I thought very seriously about filing this with "Canso Straight," which is also about a drunken captain who tries to fight through a gale against the crew's advice. Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads's text (which seems to be unique) can be sung to the "Canso Straight" tune. I would not be surprised if they were in fact the same. But this has details not typically found in "Canso Straight," and it lacks the crew's rebellion. So I, like Roud, very tentatively split them. - RBW
File: Camb106

Drunken Driver
DESCRIPTION: Two little children are struck and killed by a drunken driver; he turns out to be their absent father. Listeners are warned not to drink and drive.
AUTHOR: "Banjo Bill" Cornett
EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (recording, Molly O'Day)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer warns drunken drivers that they'll never know when their time will come, says s/he has seen an accident that would teach offenders never to "drink a drop/while the steering wheel's in your hand." The accident, on 20 May, killed two "loving children." Their mother has died; their father has run away. They are talking when a car driven by a drunk man comes around the curve; the driver honks his horn, saying, "Get out of the road, you two little fools." The driver staggers from the car and recognizes the dying little boy as his son. He prays for forgiveness; the boy opens his eyes, saying, "Daddy, you've come once more." Listeners are warned not to drink and drive.
KEYWORDS: grief warning abandonment crime death drink crash injury father mother children
FOUND IN: US(SE)
Roud #6982
RECORDINGS:
Dillard Chandler, "Drunken Driver" (on Chandler01, DarkHoll)
New Lost City Ramblers, "The Drunken Driver" (on NLCR8)
Molly O'Day, "The Drunken Driver" (Columbia 37938, 1947)
File: RcDruDri

Drunken Maidens
DESCRIPTION: (Three/four drunken maidens) come to a tavern and go on a spree. After eating and drinking for hours/days, they run up a tally of (40 pounds). They are forced to give up clothes and riches (and maidenheads?)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1750 (Charming Phyllis's Garland); 1827 (Kinloch)
KEYWORDS: drink party poverty
FOUND IN: Britain(England)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Logan-APedlarsPack, pp. 240-242, "The Four Drunken Maidens" (1 text) Kinloch-TheBalladBook VIII, p. 30, (no title) (1 text, a 3-stanza fragment but almost certainly this piece)
Browne-FolkSongsOfOldHampshire, pp. 108-110, "Three Drunken Maidens" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DRNKMAID* FRDNKMD*
ADDITIONAL: Charming Phyllis's Garland, (British Library), p. 8, "The Four Drunken Maidens" (1 text)
John McColl MSS. (National Library of Ireland), 255, "The Three English Fair Maids" (1 text)
ST Log240 (Full)
Drunken Sailor, The (Early in the Morning)

DESCRIPTION: Walkaway (stamp and go) shanty. The sailors ask, "What shall we do with the drunken sailor (x3), Early in the morning. Way, hey, and up she rises (x3), Early in the morning." Various suggestions are offered, few of them pleasant.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1841

KEYWORDS: shanty sailor drink punishment

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,SE) Canada(Mar) Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (24 citations):
- Wolford-ThePlayPartyInIndiana, p. 85=Wolford/Richmond/Tillson-PlayPartyInIndiana, p. 233, "Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, p. 48, "The Drunken Sailor, or Early in the Morning" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 70-71, "The Drunken Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Shay-AmericanSeaSongsAndChanteys, pp. 61-62, "Early in the Morning" (1 text)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 783, "What Shall We Do with a Drunken Sailor?" (1 short text, 1 tune)
- Smith/Hatt/Fowke-SeaSongsBalladFromNineteenthCenturyNovaScotia, p. 36, "What You Going To Do With a Drunken Sailor" (1 text)
- Bone-CapstanBars, pp. 40-41, "Early in th' Morning" (1 short text, 1 tune)
- Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, p. 78, "The Drunken Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips, pp. 25-26, "The Drunken Sailor (Up She Rises)" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 134-135, "Drunken Sailor" (2 texts, 2 tunes) [AbEd, pp. 109-110]
- Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, p. 170, "Drunken Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea, pp. 76-77, "What Shall We Do with the Drunken Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys, VII, p. 8, "Drunken Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 257, "Up She Rises" (1 text, 1 tune, actually a playparty which shares only the chorus and a variant of the tune with "Drunken Sailor")
- Greig/Duncans 1 4, "The Drunken Sailor" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
- Terry-TheShantyBook-Part1, #14, "What shall we do with the drunken sailor?" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 129, "Drunken Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 176, "The Drunken Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 92, "What Shall We Do With a Drunken Sailor" (1 text)
- Messerli-ListenToTheMockingbird, pp. 28-29, "The Drunken Sailor (What Shall We Do with a Drunken Sailor?)" (1 text)
DT, DRNKSILR
ADDITIONAL: Frederick Pease Harlow, _The Making of a Sailor, or Sea Life Aboard a Yankee Square-Rigger_, 1928; republished by Dover, 1988, p. 121, "The Drunken Sailor, or, Up She Rises" (1 text)
Roud #322
RECORDINGS:
Cadgwith Fishermen, "What Shall We Do With a Drunken Sailor?" (on LastDays)
Richard Maitland, "The Drunken Sailor" (AFS, 1936; on LC26)
Pete Seeger, "What Shall We Do with a Drunken Sailor?" (on PeteSeeger31)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Maria"
cf. "Ten Little Indians (John Brown Had a Little Indian)" (tune, floating lyrics)
cf. "The Mustering Song" (tune & meter)
cf. "I Had a Wife" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
The Raleigh Song (File: Tawn037)
What Shall We Do for the Striking Seamen? (Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, pp. 233-234)
What Do You Do with a Dirty Family? (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 231)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Hooray an' Up She Rises"
Up She Rises
NOTES [138 words]: A modern verse: "Put him in charge of an Exxon tanker..." - PJS
Bone-CapstanBars says of this that it "must be of fairly recent date, for only in a comparatively large ship could there be room on deck for 'walking' a light sail aloft, the operation at which [this] was generally used. It was not a chanty often sung. I remember it chiefly as a showy accompaniment when all hands were employed on deck and there was an atmosphere of good humour with us." - RBW
Emrich has "What're ya gonna do with a drunken miner," (3x) "Early in the morning?" "Put him in a long hole till he's cooler" (3x) "Early in the morning" from Utah. (source: Duncan Emrich, "Songs of the Western Miners" in California Folklore Quarterly, Vol. I, No. 3 (Jul 1942 (available online by JSTOR)), pp.230-231, "What're Ye Gonna Do with a Drunken Miner?n). - BS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: Doe048

Drunken Tarlan' Crew, The

DESCRIPTION: "O the drunken Tarlan' crew First they drink and then they spew"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: drink
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1889, "The Drunken Tarlan' Crew" (1 fragment)
Roud #13566
NOTES [110 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan8 fragment. The Greig/Duncan8 note confuses me enough that I'll repeat most of it in hope it may help someone track down a more complete text or date what we have: ".. [Black Jock, apparently a tailor rather than the 1715 Jacobite, John Forbes, Bailie for the Earl of Mar [see. p. 417]] landed at Tarland and in some way the inhabitants took offence and gathered with threats round the inn. Black Jock took the double barrels from his gun went out and faced them and sang 'The Drunken Tarlan' Crew' till they danced with rage but feared to touch him." Tarland is about 30 miles west of Aberdeen, Scotland. - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD81889
Dry Weather Houses

DESCRIPTION: Jamaican patois: "Dry weather houses are not worth a cent and yet we have to pay so much for rent." When it rains the roof is like a sieve. The rooms are infested by scorpions and cockroaches and are so small you have to go outside to turn around.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (WILBennett01)

KEYWORDS: accusation commerce hardtimes humorous nonballad landlord bug

FOUND IN: West Indies(Jamaica)

RECORDINGS:
Louise Bennett, "Dry Weather Houses" (on WILBennett01)

File: RcDryWeH

Drygate Brig, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer goes to an inn and passes snuff around; "ilk ane quite forget himsel'" He leaves high without his hat. Passing Drygate Brig his wig is lost in the wind and his snuff is spilt. Now he prefers drink which has the same high but crashes quickly

AUTHOR: Alexander Rodger (1784-1846)

EARLIEST DATE: 1838 (Alexander Rodger, _Poems and Songs_)

KEYWORDS: drink drugs humorous clothes

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #162, p. 2, "The Drygate Brig" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 575, "The Drygate Brig" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, pp. 173-174, "The Drygate Brig" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Alexander Rodger, Poems and Songs (Glasgow, 1838), pp. 279-282, "The Drygate Brig"

Whistle-Binkie, (Glasgow, 1878), Vol II, pp. 246-248, "The Drygate Brig"

Roud #6039

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Battle of Sheriffmuir" (tune, per Greig)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Mirren Gibb's

File: GrD3575

Du Dah Day

DESCRIPTION: "Our bishop's name is Chauncey West, Du dah! Du dah day! He goes ahead and does his best, Du day! du day day! I our Lord will serve today, And our prophet Brigham will be... We'll mind what Brigham say." "If you want to ride the Mormon car...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)

KEYWORDS: clergy servant

FOUND IN: US(Ro)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah,#237, "Du Dah Day" (1 short text)

Roud #10838

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Camptown Races" (tune) and references there

NOTES [25 words]: This is minor enough that Roud lumps it with "The Du Dah Mormon Song." This strikes me as possible, but not certain, and the Ballad Index splits...." - RBW

Last updated in version 3.8

File: Hubb237
Du Dah Mormon Song, The

DESCRIPTION: Clearly to the tune of "Camptown Races": "Seven hundred wagons are on the way, Du dah! Their cattle are many, so they say, Du dah! Du dah! Du dah day!" Uncle Same is sending a "Missouri ass" to govern Utah. The Mormons will defeat the invader Harney

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)
KEYWORDS: derivative war
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1857 - Mounting of the Mormon Expedition/Mormon War/Utah War
1880-1889 - Life of William S. Harney, who was the original commander of the Mormon Expedition but was later replaced by Albert Sidney Johnston
FOUND IN: US(Ro)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah,#236, "The Du Dah Mormon Song" (1 text)
Roud #10838
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Camptown Races" (tune) and references there
NOTES [50 words]: The reference to General Harney as a "squaw-killed" is a reference to his victory over the Dakota Indians at the battle of Sand Hill. His mention in this song is surprising; his involvement in the Utah expedition was so brief that his Dictionary of American Biography entry doesn't even mention it. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.8
File: Hubb236

Du denkscht es dut mich reien (You Think That I Regret)

DESCRIPTION: German. "Du denkscht es dut mich reien Das du mei Schetzel warscht." "You think that I regret That you aren't my sweetheart any more." But the singer does not regret it. There are equally pretty girls everywhere

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)
KEYWORDS: love separation beauty
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 117-118, "Du denkscht es dut mich reien (You Think That I Regret)" (1 German text plus non-poetic English translation, 1 tune)
File: KPL117

Dubbieneuk

DESCRIPTION: "In the cauld month o' December" there is a dance at Dubbienuck. The dancers included "gardners up frae Florth," "lads frae Catchiebrae" and "lassis frae Pitblae." Ploughman Jaumie Mackie "could scarcely dance a reel" with Betty Forbes

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: dancing
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 622, "Dubbieneuk" (1 text)
Roud #6060
File: GrD3622

Dublin After the Union

DESCRIPTION: Pitt "the conjurer" is bringing the country to Dublin: turnips growing in the Royal Exchange, vermin in the Parliament House, .... "Give Pitt, and Dundas, and Jenky, a glass, Who'd ride on John Bull, and make Paddy an ass"

AUTHOR: Edward Lysaght (1763-1810) (source: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)
The 1801 Act of Union abolished the Dublin parliament. Follow-up reforms that Pitt hoped for were not forthcoming. [The most notable of these non-reforms being the extension of the franchise to Catholics; not only did the Act of Union deprive Ireland of her parliament, but meant that her representatives in the British parliament would be Protestant. - RBW] The song sees Dublin -- its business as capital shut down -- literally going to seed.

Henry Dundas (1742-1811) - Friend and subordinate of Prime Minister William Pitt the Younger (see "Henry Dundas, 1st Viscount Melville" at the Wikipedia site). I don't know what part he played in Union.

Jenky is, apparently, Robert Banks Jenkinson (1770-1828) (see, for example, part 12 fn 19 of Byron's Poetical Works, Vol 1 by Byron at fullbooks.com site), foreign secretary (1801) and home secretary (1804-6, 1807-9) (source: Liverpool, Robert Banks Jenkinson, 2d earl of at encyclopedia.com site). I don't know what part he played in Union.

Pitt, Dundas and Jenky appear together in other songs (see for example: About the Hastings Diamond and Its Ballad at the JJKent site; "A Gentleman's Wig" in The Pearl No. 18, Dec 1880 at the immortalia.com site)

The ass as symbol of Ireland is illustrated by "The Ass's Complaint" and explained in the notes for "The Ass and the Orangeman's Daughter." - BS

We should note that the prediction here was far from true. Union didn't do much for Ireland economically, but that didn't harm Dublin much; as the major city and shipping point to Britain, it attracted most of the people who had nothing else to do with their lives.

It is true that the people of Dublin lived in utter poverty; Kee, p. 195, writes, "The poverty and squalor of much of Dublin in the early years of the twentieth century appalled all who encountered it. A government report issued in 1914 assessed that of a Dublin population of 304,000, some 194,000, or about sixty-three percent, could be reckoned 'working classes'. The majority of these working classes lived in tenement houses, almost half of them with no more than one room to each family. Thirty-seven per cent of the entire working class of Dublin lived at a density of more than six persons per room; fourteen per cent in houses declared 'unfit for human habitation.'"

Nonetheless it was the most productive place in Ireland. And it was the only part of the country where the population grew: ;Lyons, p. 101, discussing migration, says that it was "movement toward Dublin or Belfast, for apart from those two giants only a few other places (notably Londonderry) showed any remarkable or sustained growth; most of the smaller towns actually declined in numbers.". This was most clear during the famine years, though it continued until (and even after) the First World War. The population chart in Edwards, p. 233, makes this clear. It shows the percentage change in the populations of Ireland's counties between the 1841 and 1851 census tallies. The declines are often dramatic. Roscommon lost 31% of its population; Mayo, Longford, and Monaghan, 29%. Most were over 20%; the lowest figures were for Antrim, Down, and Wexford, at 11%. Except for Dublin. Ireland as a whole lost 20% of its population in this period -- but the population of the county of Dublin rose 9%.

The result was that the urban population of Ireland rose from one-eighth of the total population in 1851 to one-third in 1911 (Lyons, p. 101). - RBW

Bibliography

- Kee: Robert Kee, The Bold Fenian Men, being volume II of The Green Flag (covering the period from around 1848 to the Easter Rising), Penguin, 1972
Dublin Bay (Roy Neal)

DESCRIPTION: "They sailed away on that gallant ship, Roy Neal and his fair young bride." Despite this happy situation, Roy spends most of his time kissing his wife's tears away. Finally the ship strikes a rock, and Roy and his wife are lost in Dublin Bay.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1860 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(1015))
KEYWORDS: love death ship sea marriage
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South)) US(MW,Ro,SE,So) Ireland Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (12 citations):
  Randolph 691, "Dublin Bay" (1 short text, 1 tune)
  Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 324, "Dublin Bay" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
  Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 109, "Dublin Bay" (1 text, 1 tune)
  Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #113, "Dublin Bay" (1 text)
  Dean-FlyingCloud, p. 128, "Dublin Bay" (1 text)
  O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladsOfIreland, p. 156, "Dublin Bay" (1 text)
  Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Mi 561, "Dublin Bay" (1 text)
  Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 95, "Roy Neil and His Fair Young Bride" (1 text, 1 tune)
  Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 29, "Dublin Bay" (1 text)
  Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #537, p. 36, "Dublin Bay, or Roy Neil!" (1 reference)
  cf. Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, p. 478, "Dublin Bay" (source notes only)
  DT, SWT Dubln
  Roud #785
RECORDINGS:
  The McNulty Family, "They Sailed Away From Dublin Bay" (on IRMcNulty-Night1)
BROADSIDES:
  Bodleian, Harding B 11(1015), "Dublin Bay," A. Ryle and Co. (London), 1845-1859; also Firth c.12(369), Harding B 11(1014), "Dublin Bay"; Harding B 11(3363), "Roy Neil" or "Dublin Bay"
LOC Singing, sb10097b, "Dublin Bay," H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864
SAME TUNE:
  Dublin Bay (NL Scotland, L.C.1269(173b), "Dublin Bay" ("They sailed away in a gallant barque"), unknown, 1857 -- listed as to the tune of "John Grumlie" but with so many lyrics from "Dublin Bay (Roy Neal)" that it could almost be considered the same song still -- plus the long introduction asks for the pianist to play "Dublin Bay")
NOTES [93 words]: A pop Irish songbook called The Library of Irish Music (no author listed; published by Amso) lists this with words by Annie Barry Crawford and music by George Barker. Given the nature of the song, and the relatively fixed form of the lyrics, it seems likely that it is composed. But I need somewhat stronger evidence than that book to credit the song. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: R691

Dublin Jack of All Trades

DESCRIPTION: Roving Jack arrives in Dublin and becomes a porter, pastry cook, baker, coffin maker, preacher .... listing the Dublin sites for each of his many occupations. He can't keep a job but places his "chief delight in courting pretty maids"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1900 (broadside, Bodleian 2806 b.9(255))
KEYWORDS: worker rake cook clergy
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 40, "Dublin Jack of all Trades" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Frank Harte _Songs of Dublin_, second edition, Ossian, 1993, pp. 58-59, "The Dublin Jack of All Trades" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3017
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 b.9(255), "Dublin Jack of All Trades"("I am a roving sporting black, they call me Jack of all trades"), J.F. Nugent & Co. (Dublin), 1850-1899; also 2806 c.15(234), 2806 c.15(36), 2806 c.7(15), "Dublin Jack of all Trades"

NOTES [113 words]: OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads begins "I am a roving sporting blade" which improves an internal rhyme with "trades" but loses a play on "black Jack" and "Jack of Spades" - BS
There is an old-time country item, "Jack of All Trades," recorded by the Prairie Ramblers and by "Weary Willie" (Frank Luther) and Carson J. Robison, as well as more recently by Bob Bovee and Gail Heil. That has been credited to "Howard Johnson," though I wouldn't be surprised if Robison is largely responsible. That follows the same "gimmick" of a guy who can't keep a job, though the part about chasing girls is absent. I suspect but can't prove influence. It's definitely not the same song, though. - RBW

Duck and a Drake, A

DESCRIPTION: "A duck and a drake, and a (nice barley cake/halfpenny cake/double pancake), And a penny to pay the old baker. A hop and a scotch (in/is) another notch, Slitherum, saltherum, take her."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1846 (Halliwell)
KEYWORDS: playparty nonballad bird food cook
FOUND IN: Britain(England) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ron Young, _Dictionary of Newfoundland and Labrador_, Downhome Publishing Inc., 2006, p. 213, "Ducks and Drakes" (2 texts)

File: Yng213

Duck in the Pond, A

DESCRIPTION: "A duck in the pond, A fish in the pool, Whoever reads this Is a big April Fool."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1971 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty bird
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 63, "(A duck in the pond)" (1 short text)

File: SuSm063A

Duck-Foot Sue

DESCRIPTION: "I'm going to sing to you About a girl I love so true, She's chief engineer with the White Star Line, And her name is Duck-foot Sue." He details her odd looks ("teeth like bits of pipe"), her proposal "if you don't marry me I'll bust," and her appetite.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1968 (but found in tradition c. 1935)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage humorous
FOUND IN: Australia US(MA)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, p. 227, "Duck-Foot Sue" (1 text, 1 tune)
Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, pp. 129-130, "Duckfoot Sue" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, p. 155, "Duckfoot Sue" (1 short text)
Roud #9553
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Slufoot Sue
NOTES [94 words]: John Collins of Lansdale, Pennsylvania, sends me a version which he learned around 1935. Reportedly "a friend's father sang [this] to his dogs. It drove them batty and they 'san' along with him."
There once was a girl I knew
Her name was Slufoot Sue
She was chief engineer at a shirttail factory
Down by the riverside zoo
Her face was all she had
She had a shape like a softshell crab
Every night she had a tussle
With a patent leather bustle
GEE but she was BAAAD
I begin to think there must be a music hall origin to the song, although I haven't yet found it. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: MA227

Ducks Fly
DESCRIPTION: Singing game, in which the leader calls out "Ducks fly!” "Geese fly.” "Eagles fly.” "Robins fly.” The others are supposed to imitate a flying motion. When the leader says "Cats fly,” the children must stop flying or lose the game
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1903 (Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren)
KEYWORDS: bird playparty animal nonballad
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #52, "Ducks Fly" (description with limited text)
File: Newe052

Ducks in the Millpond
DESCRIPTION: "Ducks in the millpond, A-geese in the ocean, A-hug them pretty girls If I take a notion." Chorus: "Lord, Lord, gonna get on a rinktum" (x2). More verses about ducks in the millpond and other animals, many of which float
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (recording, Fields Ward)
KEYWORDS: bird nonballad courting floatingverses animal horse
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 59-60, "Ducks in the Millpond" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11307
NOTES [37 words]: The notes to Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry says that this is related to Old Dan Tucker. The verses also float into "Take a Whiff On Me," "Bile Them Cabbage Down," "Lynchburg Town," "Old Joe Clark," and probably others. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.2
File: LoSi059

Dudley Boys, The
DESCRIPTION: "In the days of good Queen Bess... Coventry outdone the rest, Ya ha boys, O boys, the brave Dudley Boys." But now the boys of Dudley and Tipton have claimed their own. Soldiers had to interfere with a riot. Lord Dudley Ward arranged peace
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Palmer, Songs of the Midlands)
KEYWORDS: battle nobility work hardtimes labor-movement
FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham_, Broadside, 1977, pp. 49-51, "The Brave Dudley Boys," "The Brave Doodley" (2 texts)
Roud #1131
File: JRVI080

Duermete, Nino Lindo
DESCRIPTION: Spanish. "Duermete, nino lindo, En los brazos del amor. Mien tres que duerme y des cansa, La pena de mi dolor." The holy baby is urged to sleep while his mother grives. But the baby need not fear King Herod; his mother will guard him
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Cray-AshGrove)
KEYWORDS: lullaby foreignlanguage Jesus homicide
FOUND IN: US(SW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cray-AshGrove, p. 23, "Duermete Nino Lindo" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 383, "Duermete, Nino Lindo" (1 text plus a singable translation)
File: CrAGr23B

Duffy's Hotel
DESCRIPTION: The singer advises those who want enjoyment to visit the hotel in Boiestown. He describes the wild parties, the fights, the mad rush to collar a diseased chicken, and the peculiar visitors. He concludes by setting out for home
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman)
KEYWORDS: party fight
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 268-269, "Duffy's Hotel" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 38, "Duffy's Hotel" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ives-FolksongsOfNewBrunswick, pp. 144-148, "Duffy's Hotel" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 12, "Duffy's Hotel" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST Doe268 (Partial)
Roud #1961
File: Doe268

Dug-Out in the True
DESCRIPTION: "I am just a poor old shearer, I am stationed on the board... But I'm happy as a clam, in this land of ewes and lams, In my tick-bound, bug-bound dugout in the true." There is wool everywhere. The dugout is ill-made and windy. He wishes he had a girl
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry)
KEYWORDS: worker sheep home loneliness
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Colquhoun-NZ-Folksongs-SongOfAYoungCountry, p, 88, Dug-Out in the True" (1 text, 1 tune) (p. 50 in the 1972 edition)
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 155, "(Dug-out in the True" (1 text)
RECORDINGS:
Bill Taylor, "Dug-Out in the True" (on NZSongYngCntry)
File: Colq050
Dugall Quin [Child 294]
DESCRIPTION: Dugall Quin comes to court Lissie. He asks her if she would love him if he were poor (she would). She asks if he would like her if she were rich (he would). Despite her parents' opposition (since they think him poor), she goes with him and is well-off.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1890 (Buchan, Child)
KEYWORDS: courting poverty money
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Child 294, "Dugall Quin" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan6 1267, "Lizzie Menzies" (2 texts)
Roud #3928
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Lizie Lindsay" [Child 226]
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Lizzie Lindsay
File: C294

Duggan's Dancing School
DESCRIPTION: Paddy Duggan, once a cattle slaughterer, opens a dancing school that exceeds the dancing halls of London and Paris. "When in this hall there is a ball they come from far and near.... in summertime it is a pretty sight" The singer wishes Duggan luck.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1988 (McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen)
KEYWORDS: dancing party nonballad
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen 22, "Duggan's Dancing School" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: McB1022

Duke of Argyle, The [Laws N1]
DESCRIPTION: A woman follows her lover Alexander to battle. He is slain on the banks of the Nile, but she continues to fight. Even though she remains in soldier's clothing, the Duke (of Argyle) comes to court her. She remains true to her slain Alexander
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: battle death love courting cross-dressing
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Laws N1, "The Duke of Argyle"
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 39, "The Duke of Argyle" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 811, DUKARGYL
Roud #1915
RECORDINGS:
F. Sutton, "Alexander" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
NOTES [22 words]: In the MUNFLA/Leach version Alexander is sent to "Holland and Flanders" and the lady is courted, in vain, by "Duke Wellington." - BS
Last updated in version 4.2
File: LN01

Duke of Argyle's Courtship, The
DESCRIPTION: "Did you ever hear of a loyal Scot...." He courts a girl, begging her to marry. She refuses; she has no proof he can care for her. He persists; so does she. He reveals he is Duke of Argyle, and rejects her after she changes her mind

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Ord-BothySongsAndBallads)
KEYWORDS: love courting rejection nobility
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 197-198, "The Duke of Argyle's Courtship" (1 text)

Roud #3797
NOTES [80 words]: Ord-BothySongsAndBallads suggests "The hero of this ballad was probably John, Duke of Argyle and Greenwich, who commanded the Royal army at the Battle of Sheriffmuir." The reference is to John Campbell, Second Duke of Argyll (1678-1743), a proponent of the Act of Union in 1707, British commander in Spain from 1711, and an opponent of Jacobitism who, as Ord says, commanded the Royalist forces in Scotland. I see no real reason to consider him the hero of this song, though. - RBW

File: Ord197

Duke of Athole's Nurse, The [Child 212]

DESCRIPTION: The Duke's (?) new leman bids his nurse (and former leman) bring her love a message. The nurse gathers her (seven) brothers to kill him instead. He asks the tavern's landlady to hide him; she disguises him as a baking maid. The brothers fail to kill him

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1803 (Skene ms.)
KEYWORDS: love abandonment brother disguise cross-dressing escape
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber),England(North))
REFERENCES (9 citations):
Child 212, "The Duke of Athole's Nurse" (6 texts)
Bronson 212, "The Duke of Athole's Nurse" (9 versions)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 212, "The Duke of Athole's Nurse" (2 versions: #4, #9)
Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbucatBallads, pp. 158-160, "The Lord at the Bakin" (1 text)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #84, pp. 1-2, "The Duke of Athole's Nurse"; #86, p. 2, "Duke o' Athole's Nurse" (2 texts plus 1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan1 160, "The Duke of Athole's Nurse" (10 texts, 6 tunes) {A=Bronson's #9, B=#4, C=#6, E=#7, F=#2}
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 105-106, "Duke of Athol's Nurse" (1 text)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 566-568, "The Duke of Athole's Nurse" (1 text)
DT 212, DUKATHOL*
Roud #3393
NOTES [31 words]: The opening of this song is a bit confused. Whose love is the new leman? The Duke's? The nurse's former love? Someone else's? It hardly affects the plot, but the pronouns are confusing. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.1
File: C212

Duke of Buckingham's Hounds, The

DESCRIPTION: The (Duke of Buckingham) goes out to hunt fox with his good hounds. The names of the hounds are given. The fox cleverly crosses the water. One old hound at last catches the fox. All rejoice at its fate

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1924 (Chappell; there is an undated broadside in the Roxburghe collection)
KEYWORDS: hunting death nobility animal dog
FOUND IN: Britain(England(West)) US(SE)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 218, "The Duke of Buckingham" (1 fragment)
Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 102, "The Bardy Train" (1 text plus a fragment, 1 tune)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 352-353, "A Fox Chase" (1 text)
Duke of Gordon's Daughter, The [Child 237]

DESCRIPTION: Jean, the Duke's daughter, loves Captain Ogilvie. Gordon, to stop the match, convinces the King to demote Ogilvie. Jean marries Ogilvie. They go to Gordon in poverty; he is turned away. Ogilvie inherits Northumberland; he brings home his wife and children

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1794 (Ritson)

KEYWORDS: nobility rejection love courting soldier elopement children

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (9 citations):
- Child 237, "The Duke of Gordon's Daughter" (1 text)
- Bronson 237, "The Duke of Gordon's Daughter" (14 versions+1 in addenda)
- Greig/Duncan 1099, "The Duke o' Gordon's Three Daughters" (10 texts, 9 tunes)
- Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 94, "The Duke of Gordon's Daughter" (1 text)
- Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 56, "The Duke of Gordon's Daughter" (1 text)
- DT 237, DUKGORD*

ADDITIONAL: James Johnson, The Scots Musical Museum (Edinburgh: Johnson & Co, 1796 ("Digitized by Internet Archive for NLS")), Vol. V, #419 pp. 431-432, "The Duke of Gordon Has Three Daughters") (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #1}

Roud #342

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- The Tents o' Foundlan'

NOTES [107 words]: As history, this ballad has its problems. Although it was not rare for the children of the nobility to join the military (after all, the offices of knights and earls were originally largely military positions), there are no Ogilvie earls or dukes of Northumberland. The Northumberland title has been in the Percy family almost continuously since the reign of Richard II (deposed 1399), apart from a brief period in the Wars of the Roses and a temporary elevation of the Dudley family to the dukedom. Nor can I find any members of the House of Percy with first name "Ogilvie." Not that any of that really affects the story in the ballad. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: C237

---

Duke of Marlborough, The

DESCRIPTION: Marlborough calls "generals and champions bold" to his deathbed. He fought in Flanders for Queen Anne and in France for Charles II. He recalls his last battle. He admonishes officers: "take no bribes, stand true to your men, and fight with courage bold"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1826 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 25(1141))

KEYWORDS: war death France nonballad

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1650-1722 - Life of John Churchill, first Duke of Marlborough
- 1701-1714 - War of the Spanish Succession, pitting France and Spain against Britain, Austria, and many smaller nations. Marlborough made a reputation by winning the battles of Blenheim (1704),
Duke William

DESCRIPTION: Duke William goes disguised to "know what usage have poor sailors." A press gang takes him at an inn. On board, he tears his trousers and asks for a tailor. Stripping for flogging his disguise is blown. He promises reforms and leaves gold for the crew.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1820 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 16(77c))

KEYWORDS: navy disguise humorous royalty sailor pressgang clothes gold

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig/Duncan1 17, "Duke William" (1 fragment)
Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #111, "Duke William" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ashton-RealSailorSongs, #37, "Duke William's Frolic" (1 text)
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 67, "Duke William" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1544

BROADSIDES:

NOTES [475 words]: The description follows broadsides Bodleian Harding B 11(3665) and Harding B 11(1024).
The subject is William Augustus, Duke of Cumberland, 1721-1765, according to Bodleian notes to Ashton, Modern Street Ballads (1888), p. 228: "This is supposed to refer to some frolic of William IV.'s when he was Duke of Clarence, and properly belongs to last century." - BS

I'm with Ashton on this one; the Bodleian suggestion is extremely unlikely. Not that this happened to either Duke William (I grant that Cumberland and Clarence are the only candidates, since we need a Duke William during the press gang era) -- press gangs sought sailors, not royalty in disguise. But William Augustus, Duke of Cumberland, the Butcher of Culloden, was about as unlikely a victim of a press gang as one can imagine. Immensely fat, he couldn't possibly do any useful work on shipboard. Nor is there anything "naval" in his record. Nor would he have hesitated to scream bloody murder were he taken. And, last but not least, he would not show any sense of comradery with sailors.

The future William IV (1765-1837; reigned 1830-1837), who was Duke of Clarence, is a much better candidate. The third son of George III, no one expected him to become King, so he was made a midshipman at the age of 13. His talents were limited, but at least he knew his way around a ship. And he had rough manners suitable to a sailor, and he didn't go "quite" as bad, physically, as Cumberland. He would go on to become an admiral (though without a command), and even admiral of the fleet in 1811.

There is even an instance of him being sent to sea against his will, although not actually pressed. Philip Ziegler, King William IV, 1971 (I use the 1989 Cassell Biographies edition), pp. 65-66, tells of him taking a mistress (not his first) named Sally Winne in 1788. His father George III, who disapproved strongly of his sons' license, ordered William sent to America. "The result was that the unfortunate Prince was shanghaied as he came in sight of the Lizard after a three-week cruise and brusquely ordered to set sail for the New World. With chagrin, he obeyed, complaining to his father, 'the men are in a peculiar hard situation'.... And so, sulkily, Prince William set forth on what was to be his final posting as an active sailor."

William, however, was not yet Duke of Clarence. When his father went mad, William was called home, and eventually, in 1789, given the dukedom (Ziegler, p. 70).

To give the Duke his due, William, shortly before becoming king, actually spent a brief period in true command of the fleet. It was rather a disaster -- he gave up the post after 15 months -- but he did get the navy to buy its first steam vessel, and he tried to reform the promotion system. Also, he tried to limit flogging -- an interesting point in light of this song. - RBW

Duke Willie

DESCRIPTION: "Mony a day hae I followed Duke Willie ... [and] followed the drum ... Frae Cullen o' Buchan to Cullen Aboyne." The singer wishes his Kattie were in his arms and thinks of his wine toasts to her and the fine gown, cloak, and cap he bought her.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1839 (Hogg and Motherwell)

KEYWORDS: courting, battle, clothes, drink, Scotland, soldier

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Greig/Duncan8 1763, "Duke Willie" (2 fragments, 2 tunes)

Roud #13011

NOTES [115 words]: Hogg and Motherwell: "[This is] a Jacobite ditty, for which we are indebted to Mr Buchan"; "Duke Willie" is the "Duke of Cumberland."

For some background on the Duke of Cumberland see "The Muir of Culloden." I would trust Motherwell -- it's his note -- to know "a Jacobite ditty." I expect Cumberland to be a villain in any Jacobite song. I don't see the connection here.

Buchan and Aboyne are in Aberdeenshire, Scotland. - BS

My first thought was that the Duke was not Cumberland but the Jacobite Duke of Perth, one of Bonnie Prince Charlie's Lieutenant Generals. But his name was James Drummond. James III did hand out some other empty titles of nobility; perhaps it was one of those? - RBW

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD81763
Duke's Late Glorious Success over the Dutch, The

DESCRIPTION: "One day as I was sitting still Upon the side of Dunwich Hill... By chance I saw de Ruyter's fleet" meet the fleet of Duke James [of York]. The British win even though the French fail to do their part. The singer curses Cromwell and praises the Stuarts

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1841 (Halliwell, Early Naval Ballads of England, according to Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)

KEYWORDS: sea battle royalty

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 28, 1672 (Old Style) - Battle of Solebay between the British force under James, Duke of York (the future James VII and II) and the Dutch fleet of de Ruyter

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Palmier-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 20, "A Song on the Duke's Late Glorious Success over the Dutch" (1 text)
File: PaSe020

---

Dulcie Jones

DESCRIPTION: "Sluma [slumber], slumba, sleep by de rattle of de bones. Slumba till de mornin', I love my Dulcie Jones." "Go tell de parson, I got no time to pray, Got to make de money, To court mah gal today."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama)

KEYWORDS: love courting money clergy

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 146, "Dulcie Jones" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #16286
File: Arno146

---

Dulcina

DESCRIPTION: "As at noone Dulcina rested In a sweete and shady bower, Came a shepherd and requested In her lap to sleep an hour." The song obliquely describes what might have happened, but the singer admits ignorance of what actually happened

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1707 (Pills to Purge Melancholy; registered 1615); a song "As at noon Dulcina Rested" was in William Thackeray's broadside catalog by 1690

KEYWORDS: love courting

FOUND IN: Britain

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Percy/Wheatley-ReilesOfAncientEnglishPoetry III, pp. 153-155, "Dulcina" (1 text)
Chappell/Wooldridge-OldEnglishPopularMusic I, pp. 160-161, "Dulcina" (1 tune, partial text)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN195, "As at noon Dulcina rested"
ADDITIONAL: Frederick J. Furnivall, _Bishop Percy's Folio Manuscript: Loose and Humorous Songs_, printed by and for the Editor, London, 1868, pp. 32-34, "Dulcina" (1 text)
ST Perc3153 (Full)
Roud #9916

SAME TUNE:
In the month of February/The true Lovers Good-morrow... brace of Valentines (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN1481)
Thou who art so sweet a creature/A delicate new ditty... Posie of a Ring (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2595)
What doth aile my loue, so sadly/A pleasant new Song, betwixt a Saylor and his Loue (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2793)
From Oberon in Fairy Land/The mad-merry prankes of Robbin Good-fellow (Olson-
Of late it was my chance to walke/A penny-worth of Good Counsell (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2114)

In the gallant month of June/The desperate Damsell's Tragedy (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN1478)

All you Young-men who would Marry/A Prouerb old, yet nere forgot, Tis good to strike while the Irons hott (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN1551)

Jewry came to Jerusalem/Two pleasant Ditties, one of the Birth, the other of the Passion of Christ (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN160)

The golden god Hyperion/An excellent new ditty.. Dulcina complaineth for the absence of.. Coridon (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN988)

NOTES [132 words]: Hyder E. Rollins, An Analytical Index to the Ballad-Entries (1557-1709) In the Register of the Company of Stationers of London, 1924 (I use the 1967 Tradition Press reprint with a new Foreword by Leslie Shepard), p. 209, #2419. "The shepards wooing," registered March 13, 1656, is said by Rollins to be this piece, but I can't prove it.

This is probably not an actual traditional song (widespread attributions to Walter Raleigh are said to be false). It is so often cited, however, that I thought it best to include it (there are eight or nine broadsides in the Broadside Ballad Index using this tune).

Izaak Walton's Compeat Angler also refers to this tune (Chapter II). He makes it sound like a folk song -- but he lists "Phyllida Flouts Me" and other arty songs in the same context. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

Dumb Wife, The (Dumb, Dumb, Dumb) [Laws Q5]

DESCRIPTION: A husband's new wife is a perfect housekeeper but is mute. The man takes her to a doctor, who is able to cure her impediment -- only to have her talk all the time. The husband again appeals for help; the doctor says that nothing can silence her

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1698 (Pills to Purge Melancholy)

KEYWORDS: doctor husband wife disability humorous

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,Ro,SE,So) Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (21 citations):
Laws Q5, "The Dumb Wife (Dumb, Dumb, Dumb)"
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 32-34, "Dumb, Dumb, Dumb" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #13, pp. 1-2, "Dumb, Dumb, Dumb" (1 text plus 1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan7 1289, "The Dumb, Dumb Maid" (6 texts, 4 tunes)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 194, "Country Blade and His Scolding Wife" (1 text)
Randolph 394, "The Dumb Wife Cured" (1 text, 1 tune)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 92, "The Scolding Wife" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 135, "The Wife Who Was Dumb" (1 text, 1 tune)
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, p. 56, "Dumb, Dumb, Dumb" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 199, "The Dumb Wife" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #96, "The Dumb Maid" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 183, "The Dumb Wife" (2 texts)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 183, "The Dumb Wife" (2 excerpts, 2 tunes)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #204, "The Dumb Wife" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 106, "The Dumb Maid" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #128, "The Dumb Wife" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #538, p. 36, "The Dumb Scold" (1 reference)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN143, "All you that pass along"

DT 519, DUMBDUMB

ADDITIONAL: John Ashton, _A Century of Ballads_, Elliot Stock, London, 1887; reprinted 1968 by Singing Tree Press, pp. 319-321, "The Dumb Maid: or The Young Galland Trapann'd" (1 text)
Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 262-263, "Dumb, Dumb, Dumb" (1 text)

Roud #434

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 39(145), "The Dumb Maid" or "The Young Gallant Trappan'd" ("All you that press along"), W. Onley (London), 1689-1709; also Harding B 28(80), "The Dumb Wife's Tongue Let Loose"; Harding B 11(2258), Harding B 16(325a), "[The] Dumb Wife"; Harding B 18(146), "The Dumb Scold"

LOC Singing, as103240, "The Dumb Scold", J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859; also sb10090b, "The Dumb Scold"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Bonnie Lass of Fyvie" (tune, per Greig/Duncan7)
SAME TUNE:
Cruiskeen Lawn (tune [cited as "Cowskeen Lawn"] per broadsides Bodleian Harding B 18(146), LOC Singing as103240 and LOC Singing sb10090b and Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #538, p. 36)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Bonnie Blade
NOTES [154 words]: There is a folktale version of this, "The Dumb Wife," printed on pp. 65-66 of volume A.2 of Katherine Briggs, A Dictionary of British Folk-Tales in the English Language, Part A: Folk Narratives, 1970 (I use the 1971 Routledge paperback that combines volumes A.1 and A.2). The plot is effectively identical, except that it is a demon, not a doctor, who loses the woman's tongue. This allows another punchline, if it can be called that: A minor demon can allow a woman to speak, but not all the devils of hell can make her shut up.

According to Palmer, another folktale version appeared in A Hundred Merry Tales in 1526. - RBW

Broadside LOC Singing as103240, LOC Singing sb10090b and Bodleian Harding B 18(146) are triplicates.

Last updated in version 3.8

File: LQ05

Dumbarton's Bonnie Dell

DESCRIPTION: The singer says "a winsome lassock lives hard by Dumbarton's bonnie dell." He'll never be happy until Dumbarton's belle is his wife.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1844 (broadside, LOC Sheet sm1844 400120)
KEYWORDS: love nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1323, "Dumbarton's Bell" (1 fragment)
Roud #7145
BROADSIDES:

NL Scotland, L.C.1270(001), "Dumbarton's Bonnie Dell" ("There's ne'er a nook in a' the land"), unknown, c.1845; also L.C.Fol.178.A.2(038), "Dumbarton's Bonnie Dell"

NOTES [98 words]: Broadside LOC Sheet sm1844 400120 claims authorship for Francis Weiland but it is never clear whether "author" may not just be arranger. Greig/Duncan7 cites a Poet's Box 1857 broadside that claims authorship for Mr C M Westmacott. Since Poet's Box broadsides have no arrangement that claim may be the better one. A clue as to when it was written is the reference to "the land That William rules sae well."

Broadsides NL Scotland L.C.Fol.178.A.2(038) and Murray Mu23-y3:013 are duplicates.

Greig/Duncan7 is a fragment; broadside NL Scotland L.C.1270(001) is the basis for the description.

- BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD71323

Dumbarton's Drums

DESCRIPTION: "Dumbarton's drums, they sound so bonny When they remind me of my Johnny." The singer tells of how Johnnie, "Dumbarton's caddie," courts her. She expects that someday he will be a captain and she his lady.
Dumma Locy Locy
DESCRIPTION: Mostly nonsense: "Dummy rumma locy, dume doe doe, Dumma rumma locy, doe doe, Dumma rumma locy, doe doe doe, Never saw a new sweet 'though I sang a love song." The singer cannot see a babe/pretty girl without loving her
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)
KEYWORDS: nonsense courting
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 67, "Dumma Locy Locy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11374
File: Brne067

Dummer Sheener's Gang, The
DESCRIPTION: "I'll sing you a song of a sheener's gang, I've got 'em all taped up to a man, There's long and short and thin and fat, But every man knows just what he's at." Each man's work is listed, from Jimmy Bailey "who runs the concern" to the lowest corn-fetcher
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1971 (Copper-ASongForEverySeason)
KEYWORDS: drink work moniker
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Copper-SongsAndSouthernBreezes, pp. 274-275, "The Dummer Sheener's Gang" (1 text, 1 tune)
Copper-ASongForEverySeason, pp. 278-279, "Old Threshing Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Browne-FolkSongsOfOldHampshire, pp. 46-49, "The Dummer Sheener's Gang" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #874
NOTES [73 words]: The first version I met was in Copper-SongsAndSouthernBreezes, which is pretty clearly a moonshining song, which was my original comment on it. But, interestingly, the Copper-ASongForEverySeasons text appears to be more of a true harvest song. Presumably the moonshining version is a modification of a song about machinery at harvest. Browne explains "sheener" as short for "machiner," in other words, manager of a threshing machine. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: CoSB274

Dummy Line (I), The

DESCRIPTION: Concerning possibly the worst, slowest train in history, which comes "Across the prairie on a streak of rust." Passengers who complain are instructed to get out and walk, but point out that they are not expected until the train arrives

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1978 (_Sing Out!_, volume 26, #4, p. 34, a version from Joe Hickerson via Michael Cooney)

KEYWORDS: humorous railroading train

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, pp. 254-255, "The Rummy Dummy Line" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 485-490, "On the Dummy Line" (the main text and tune are "The Dummy Line (II)." but there are selections from and discussion of this song)
- DT, DUMYLINE

Roud #15359

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "On the Dummy Line (I)" (lyrics)

NOTES [118 words]: There is a song called "Riding on the Dummy," by Sam Booth & Frederick Carnes, published in 1855. It's not this song. See Norm Cohen's Long Steel Rail for a full discussion. [There is also another "Dummy Line" song; see "On the Dummy Line (II)" for discussion. - RBW]

Uncle Dave Macon's "On the Dixie Bee Line," about a Ford car, is a parody of this song. - PJS

This song may have had some historical influence. The Newfoundland Railway, which was an extremely slow line (18 miles an hour at the best of times, according to Les Harding, The Newfoundland Railway 1898-1969: A History, McFarland & Company, 2008, p. 13), was known as "the streak of rust"; also the "Bullet." Presumably a spent bullet. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: DTdumyli

Dummy Line (II), The

DESCRIPTION: "Some folks say that the dummy won't run, Now, let me tell you what the dummy done, Left Saint Louis 'bout half past one, Rolled into Memphis at the seein' of the sun." Stories of riding on the Dummy Line, possibly without a fare

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)

KEYWORDS: train travel

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 485-490, "On the Dummy Line" (1 text plus fragments of several other "Dummy Line" songs, 1 tune)
- Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 244-245, "De Dummy Line" (1 short text, 1 tune); p. 239, "Railroad Song" (1 fragment)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 435, "The Dummy Line" (2 short texts; "B" is a mixed text that seems to be mostly a "May Irwin's Frog Song (The Foolish Frog, Way Down Yonder)" type, with a "Some Folks Say a Nigger Won't Steal" verse)
- Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, pp. 70-71, "The Dummy Line" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11776

RECORDINGS:
- Robert N. Page, "Ride and Shine on the Dummy Line" (Victor 21067, 1927)
Dun Cow, The

DESCRIPTION: "'Tis certain, that the Dun cow's milk, Clothes the prebend's wives all in silk; But this indeed is plain to me, The Dun cow herself is a shame to see.... O'er northern mountain, marsh and moor... Seven years St. Cuthbert's corpse they bore."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1834 (Sharp)
KEYWORDS: nonballad animal religious
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: [Cuthbert Sharp], _The Bishopric Garland, A Collection of Legends, Songs, Ballads, &c Belonging to the County of Durham_, 1834 (references are to the 1969 reprint), p. 30, "The Dun Cow" (1 short text)

NOTES [79 words]: I have no real evidence that this is a traditional song, but it it probably a traditional rhyme -- the reference to St. Cuthbert, who died in 687, makes that highly likely; he was the de facto patron saint of Northumbria. The mention of the Dun Cow is also interesting; there is a famous codex "The Book of the Dun Cow," but it is Irish and not related to St. Cuthbert. Looking at the form of the verse, I suspect that this is a by-blow of "Ewie Wi' the Crookit Horn." - RBW

Dunbar the Murderer

DESCRIPTION: "Awake, sad muse, awake and sing, And softly touch the mournful string...." "Oh brutal man... Two blooming children you have slain, A little paltry gold to gain." "The mother dear the lads did send To Dunbar's home some months to spend."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1855 (Supplement to the Ulster County Almanac)
KEYWORDS: homicide children money
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Burt-AmericanMurderBallads, pp. 91-92, (no title) (1 excerpted text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Children in the Wood (The Babes in the Woods)" [Laws Q34] (plot)

NOTES [39 words]: Burt-AmericanMurderBallads notes an obvious similarity to "Babes in the Woods." Since her (printed) source evidently does not link the song to any actual historical event, it may well be a song composed in imitation of that piece. - RBW

Pickard Family, "On the Dummy Line" ((Perfect 12625/Banner 0744/Conqueror 7574/Oriole 1995/Challenge 882/Jewel 5995/Pathe 32546/Regal 10049/Dome 4585/Romeo 1357/Paramount 3218, 1930; Broadway 8150 [as Pleasant Family], n.d.)

NOTES [235 words]: This is rather a conundrum, because the texts of "The Dummy Line (I)" and "The Dummy Line (II)" have similar choruses, and most are fragments, and they've mixed a lot, as well as gathering a lot of floating verses; see Cohen for a discussion. In general, though, "The Dummy Line (I) involves an extremely slow train, while this one involves a faster, but perhaps strangely-managed one.

It appears, in the original version, that the trip was from Saint Louis to Memphis -- a distance of nearly 300 miles, implying (depending on the time of the year and hence the time of sunset) a speed between 40 and 75 miles an hour, quite good for a train at the turn of the twentieth century. Scarborough's "Railroad Song" text (p. 239) is even stranger, because it has the train go from Saint Louis to Tampa in an afternoon. That's a distance of 900 miles, meaning that the train had to move at a speed of at least 125 miles per hour even at the summer solstice!

It may be that the Scarborough text confused "Saint Louis" (Saint Louie?) in the song with Saint Lucie, Florida, on the Atlantic coast almost due east of Tampa. That's a distance of about 125 miles, give or take a few river detours, implying a speed of 25-30 miles per hour. Hardly high-speed -- but not really Dummy Line numbers, either. Alternately, Saint Louis might be a variation on "St. Pete/Petersburg." In which case the speed is ridiculously slow. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2
File: ScNS139A

File: Burt092
Duncan and Brady [Laws I9]

DESCRIPTION: Policeman Brady walks into Duncan's bar and attempts to arrest the latter. Duncan, unwilling to have his business ruined, shoots Brady. Neither Brady’s family nor those around Duncan seem to care much; Brady’s wife looks forward to getting his pension.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)

KEYWORDS: homicide family

FOUND IN: US(MW,SE,So)

REFERENCES (11 citations):
Laws I9, "Brady (Duncan and Brady)"
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 248, "Brady" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 248, "Brady" (1 excerpt, 1 tune)
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 85-87, "Duncan and Brady" (3 texts; the second is incomplete and may well be a version of "Joseph Mica (Mikel) (The Wreck of the Six-Wheel Driver) (Been on the Choly So Long)" [Laws I16 with some Brady lyrics mixed in; both the second an third start with lines from "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star"]
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 198-199, "Brady" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 46, pp. 80-81, "Brady, Why Didn't You Run? (Duncan and Brady)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 333-335, "Duncan and Brady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 375-376, "Been on the Job Too Long" (1 text)
Botkin-TreasuryMississippiRiverFolklore, p. 596, "Duncan and Brady" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 660, DUNCBRAD

ADDITIONAL: Moses Asch and Alan Lomax, Editors, _The Leadbelly Songbook_, Oak, 1962, p. 74, "Duncan and Brady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4177

RECORDINGS:
Arthur "Brother-in-Law" Armstrong, "Brady" (AFS 3978 B3, 1940)
Wilmer Watts & the Lonely Eagles, "Been on the Job Too Long" (Paramount 3210, 1930; on TimesAint01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Casey Jones (I)" [Laws G1] (lyrics)
cf. "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star" (lyrics)
cf. "Otto Wood the Bandit" (lyrics)

NOTES [409 words]: The notes in Brown describe a history of this ballad which bears little resemblance to the song itself: Brady is not a policeman but the criminal in the piece, shot by deputy Albert Bounds around 1900. Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee repeats this, but it is noteworthy that Laws quotes none of this.

Richard Polenberg: _Hear My Sad Story: The True Tales That Inspired Stagolee, John Henry, and Other Traditional American Folk Songs_, Cornell University Press, 2015, pp. 18-27, has a completely different story. On October 6, 1890, two Black men, Luther Duncan and Bob Henderson, had a fight. A policeman, John J. Gaffney, interfered. From that point on, the witnesses disagreed completely. But Gaffney managed to get himself hurt (perhaps struck by Luther Duncan's brother Henry) and fired his pistol to summon more policemen. At least three other officers, including James Brady, responded.

The policemen followed Henry Duncan into the saloon kept by Charles Stark. In the fighting that followed, Brady was shot to death. Henry Duncan was arrested for the crime. Charged with first degree murder (even though the crime clearly was not premeditated), Duncan was tried in November, 1892, with the policemen being the the only real witnesses against him. Duncan was convicted. Appeals to the Missouri Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court failed. Duncan was executed on July 27 (1894?).

The verdict was pretty definitely not just. Apart from the fact that Duncan was convicted on a too-serious charge, there was significant reason to think that Charles Stark, not Duncan, fired the fatal shot, and the murder weapon was not recovered; it really sounds as if there was not enough evidence for conviction. There was also significant dispute about the actions of the police. But it was a case of a Black man and a White officer (the 31-year-old Brady was married with four young children); if he hadn't been convicted, Duncan might well have been lynched. Whether he was actually guilty... Polenberg doesn't offer enough evidence to form a good opinion, and I surely don't know.
Although the circumstantial detail of the Polenberg article inclines me to think it the most likely source, the difference are also substantial -- Brady was not the first officer on the scene, and the altercation did not start in Duncan's bar; Duncan didn't even own a bar! I think we must hold the question open as to what, if anything, inspired this song. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0

Duncan Campbell (Erin-Go-Bragh) [Laws Q20]

DESCRIPTION: Duncan Campbell, although he comes from Argyle in Scotland, is known as Erin-Go-Bragh. A policeman mistakes him for an Irishman and abuses him. Campbell returns the favor, then flees before anyone can stop him

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1850 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(3725))

KEYWORDS: abuse police

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW) Canada(Mar,Ont) Britain(Scotland) Ireland

REFERENCES (13 citations):

Laws Q20, "Duncan Campbell (Erin-Go-Bragh)," Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #127, p. 1, "Erin-go-Bragh"; #131, pp. 2-3, "Erin-go-Bragh" (1 texts plus 3 fragments)
Greig/Duncan2 236, "Erin-go-Bragh" (11 texts, 9 tunes)
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 49-51, "Erin-Go-Bragh" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 319, "Erin-go-Bragh" (1 text, 1 tune)
Munnely/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan 17, "Erin Go Bragh" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 4, "Erin Go Bragh" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, p. 387, "Erin-Go-Bragh" (1 text)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 134, "Duncan Campbell" (1 text)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 112, "Erin-Go-Bragh (Ireland Forever)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 197, "Clay Morgan" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 50, "The Wild Irishman" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 531, ERNGOBRA*

Roud #1627

RECORDINGS:

John Strachan, "Erin-Go-Bragh" (on FSB7)

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Harding B 11(3725), "Duncan Campbell," M. Stephenson (Gateshead), 1838-1850; also Firth b.25(539), 2806 c.14(79), Firth b.26(199), Harding B 11(1026), 2806 b.10(198), Harding B 20(83), "Duncan Campbell"; Firth c.26(15), "Erin Go Bragh" ("My name's Duncan Cambell, from the shire of Argyle")

Murray, Murray, Mu23-y1:068, "Duncan Cambell," James Lindsay (Glasgow), 19C; also Mu23-y1:025, "Duncan Cambell," James Lindsay Jr. (Glasgow), 19C

NLScotland, L.C.1270(003), "My Name Is Duncan Campbell," unknown, c. 1845; also L.C.Fol.70(57b), "Duncan Campbell," unknown, c. 1890

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Villikens and his Dinah" (tune) and references there

cf. "The Blaeberry Courtship" (tune, according to Greig)

cf. "Billy O'Rourke" (theme of Irishman being abused and fighting back)

cf. "The Wild Irishman in London" (theme of Irishman being abused and fighting back) cf. "The Coat That Was Buttoned Behind (An Irishman's Coat It Is Buttoned Before)" (theme of Irishman being abused and fighting back)

SAME TUNE:

NOTES [235 words]: From the commentary to broadside NLScotland, L.C.1270(003): "This song was written in the nineteenth century, and the mention of the police puts it post-1829, when the 'Peelers' were first established." - BS

A clever but not quite certain bit of logic, since the song generally refers to "policemen," not "Peelers," and that word is older. (Also, the first Peelers served in Ireland in 1817; the concept of a unified police force then came to Britain in 1829). - RBW
From the Greig #131 fragment: "I will tell you a guise, and I'm sure ye will smile, That Erin-go-bragh was the Duke of Argyle." Greig #127 quotes Ford's last verse: "I come from Argyle in the Highlands so braw But I ne'er take it ill when called Erin-go-bragh."
Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Leniihan 17 differs from the common version in two ways. First, instead of being Duncan Campbell from Scotland, the hero is Paddy from Ireland (Athy), which changes it from a ballad of common cause between the Scotsman and Irishman. Second, the hero is taken by the crowd as a "bold rascal that has killed our police"; usually, he escapes. - BS
The version in Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin also involves a genuine Irishman. Possibly the song family should be split into two parts -- except that there is no evidence that anyone made a deliberate change, and the versions blur together enough that it would be hard to draw a clear line. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.1
File: LQ20

Duncan M'Callipin (The Tranent Wedding)

DESCRIPTION: "It was at a wedding near Tranent, When scores an' scores on fun were bent...
'Shame tak' the hindmost,' quo' Duncan M'Callipin." A typical story of a wild wedding, the associated broose race, and the behavior of the various guests

AUTHOR: Peter Forbes?

EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Ford)

KEYWORDS: wedding humorous talltale

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 42-45, "Duncan M'Callipin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5982

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Duncan MacKallikin" (subject and form)

File: FVS042

Duncan MacCleary

DESCRIPTION: "Duncan MacCleary, an' Janet his wife, Duncan MacCleary, he played on the fife: Janet she danced until she cried wearie." They live a life of quiet happiness, though he is blind and hears little. When he dies, she soon follows after

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Ford)

KEYWORDS: love death dancing home

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, p. 302, "Duncan and Janet M'Cleary" (1 text)
Roud #12586

File: FVS302

Duncan MacIntosh

DESCRIPTION: Duncan Macintosh was a Highlander who played bagpipes for the king at Aberdeen, danced the Highland fling, and sang "It's a braw bricht meenlicht nicht ...." His whiskers were like heather. He ate potatoes, scones and pottage and enjoyed "a drap"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan3)

KEYWORDS: dancing drink food music Scotland nonballad royalty

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 529, "Duncan MacIntosh" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6008

File: GrD3529
Duncan MacKallikin

DESCRIPTION: "Twas for a peck o' meal ... Duncan bet on his grey mare To rin 'gainst nine or ten." One horse falls. The other horses are named as they challenge and fall back. "Duncan aye kept gallopin" and wins the bet

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1856 (broadside, Murray Mu23-y2:010)

KEYWORDS: wager racing derivative horse gambling

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 495, "Duncan MacKallikin" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #5983

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 17(80b), "Duncan M'Callachan" ("It was for a peck o' meal or mair"),
Sanderson (Edinburgh), 1830-1910
Murray, Mu23-y2:010, "Duncan M'Callochan," James Lindsay (Glasgow), 1856

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "There Cam a Young Man to My Daddie's Door" (tune, broadside Murray Mu23-y2:010)
cf. "Duncan M'Callipin" (subject and form)

NOTES [91 words]: Ford, re "Duncan M'Callipin" refers to this song as "a perverted version of the song ... but its coarseness damages its chance of popularity. Forbes's song ["Duncan M'Callipin"] deservedly has held the field." Reluctantly I am following Ford, Roud, and Greig/Duncan3 in considering the songs "related" rather than the same. The structure, and many lines are shared. Since Ford dates a book of Forbes's poems to 1812 it seems likely that his version is the earlier. Since the songs cannot be independent I consider this version to be derivative. - BS

Last updated in version 2.4

File: GrD3495

Dundee Jail

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, have you seen my Mary Ann?" was one time all the go, But now 'tis neither pot nor pan -- 'tis 'Dundee Jail You Know.' The singer describes the hard times in Dundee Jail -- bad food, poor drink, etc. -- and hopes he never goes there

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1986 (Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)

KEYWORDS: prison hardtimes warning

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 71, "Dundee Jail" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "John Anderson, My Jo, John" (tune)

NOTES [30 words]: All of this but the first verse seem to be a standard prison song; I suspect that the broadside publisher wrote a (not very coherent) first verse to make it look "different." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.5

File: Gath071

Dundee Lassie (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "I'm a Dundee lassie you can see, And ye'll a'ways find me cheerfu' nae matter whaur I be... I'm spinner intae Baxter's Mill." Her father was killed in France; her mother died young, so she cannot be a teacher. Her friend lost her ove in Spain

AUTHOR: Mary Brooksbank (source: Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)

EARLIEST DATE: 1986 (Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)

KEYWORDS: worker hardtimes

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 37, "The Dundee Lass" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #21588

File: Gath037
Dundee Once More
DESCRIPTION: "In Dundee once more, It's the place that I adore, When we're in Lochee we're aye longin' tae be Back in Dundee once more." Similarly, "In the berryfields once more... When we're in Blairgowrie we're longing...." "On the whalers once more...."
AUTHOR: Mary Brooksbank (source: Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
EARLIEST DATE: 1986 (Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
KEYWORDS: home travel nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 21, "Dundee Once More" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #21589
File: Gath021

Dundee Weaver, The
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, I'm a Dundee weaver and I come frae bonne Dundee, I met a Glesca feller and he came courtin' me... And there the dirty wee rascal stole my thingumyjig awa'." She will tie up her corsets and wear fine clothes; no one will know her thingumyjig is gone
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1986 (Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
KEYWORDS: humorous sex clothes seduction
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 30, The Dundee Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #8108
NOTES [52 words]: Matt McGinn wrote a sort of parody/continuation of this, in which the Glasgow man receives a complaint from the weaver's husband about his activities. This is apparently popular enough to have been passed around in folk club tradition. If I read this correctly, the original is Roud #8108, the parody #7286. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.5
File: Gath030

Dundee Whaler, The
DESCRIPTION: "Come all ye brisk young whalers and listen tae me, You think that the life is saw bonnie and free," but the singer vows that, if he makes it back to Dundee, he'll never whale again. The singer describes his miserable voyage
AUTHOR: Nigel Gatherer (source: Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
EARLIEST DATE: 1986 (Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
KEYWORDS: whaler sailor hardtimes
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 23, "The Dundee Whaler" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [78 words]: There is no evidence that Nigel Gatherer's song is traditional, but to set a song about whaling in Dundee is certainly fitting. In the days when whalers used only sail, they set out from everywhere, but as sail gave way to steam, Dundee gradually acquired a monopoly on the industry (for this, see the notes to "The Old Polina"), and the routine, as described in the song, was to set out from Dundee, resupply in Newfoundland, and then head north to take the whales. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.5
File: Gath023

Dundee, It's a Pretty Place
DESCRIPTION: "Dundee, it is a pretty place, Surrounded by a wall, Where brave Argyll did won the field With sword and cannon ball."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1634 (Hunt's Psalter)
KEYWORDS: battle
Dunderbeck

DESCRIPTION: The German Dunderbeck invents a steam-powered machine to turn any sort of meat into sausages. Thus vanish all the rats and cats of the town. When Dunderbeck's machine breaks down, he tries to fix it; his wife accidentally starts it with him inside.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1922 (Randolph)

KEYWORDS: technology disaster animal humorous food

FOUND IN: US(MW,So)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
Randolph 488, "Dunderbeck's Machine" (2 texts)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 107, pp. 135-136, "Dunderbeck" (1 text)
Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, p. 80, "Dunderbeck" (1 text, tune referenced)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 239, "Dunderbeck" (1 text)
Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 139-140, "The Sausage Meat Machine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 515-516, "Son of a Gun -- (Son of a Gambolier; Dunderbeck; and Rambling Wreck from Georgia Tech)"

DT, DUNDE*

Roud #4461

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Son of a Gambolier" (tune & meter) and references there
cf. "O Where O Where Has My Little Dog Gone" (theme)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Johnny Rebeck
Johnny Rebec
Johnny Robeck

File: R488

Dungannon Convention, The

DESCRIPTION: "The church of Dungannon is full to the door" with Volunteer warriors. In spite of "English oppression" the volunteers stood ready to protect England from a foreign fleet. At Dungannon the delegates swore "We've suffered too long, we'll suffer no more"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 2000 (Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

KEYWORDS: England Ireland patriotic political
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
September 8, 1783 - Irish Volunteer Society Convention in Dungannon, Co. Tyrone (Source: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815) (but see the NOTES)
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 5, "The Dungannon Convention" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [474 words]: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 p. 1: "On St Patrick's Day, 1778, the first company of Belfast Volunteers was formed in response to the danger of a possible war between Britain and France. The movement spread like wildfire and soon there were companies in all parts of Ireland. At their height they numbered 100,000 members. By the following year they had become politicized and swung their weight behind the so-called Patriot Party, those in favour of legislative independence from the British parliament and the removal of impediments to Irish commerce." - BS
According to Fry/Fry, p. 187, "In February 1782 [Henry] Grattan arranged a convention of some 250 delegates from the Volunteers, who met in the parish church of Dungannon." The result was, in effect, a declaration of parliamentary independence.
Kee, p. 32, relates that "In 1780 Grattan for the first time tried to get the Irish House of Commons to vote an Irish Declaration of Independence. He was then unsuccessful, owing to the Crown's effective control of the majority in Parliament, through the system of patronage. By the end of the following year, however, the Volunteers outside Parliament had become much stronger. They were now said to number eighty thousand men, and in 1782 a convention of democratically elected Volunteer delegates was held at Dungannon, a sort of parliament outside Parliament, backed by potential physical force for the first but by no means the last time in Irish history."
Moody/Martin/Keogh/Kiely, p. 208, describes it this way: "How did the United Irishmen hope to secure reform? Apparently at first they still trusted to persuasion, to the pressure of public opinion. Volunteer corps and political clubs passed resolutions in favour of reform, and early in 1793 Ulster reformers held a representative convention at Dungannon, the delegates pledging their support to parliamentary reform. It was hoped that later a national convention could be held at Athlone. To radicals parliamentary reform was the first step toward a just and efficient administration of Ireland. They looked forward to the abolition of tithes, a reduction in government expenditure, lower taxation, the encouragement of trade[,] and help for parliamentary education."
The pressure was enough that, later that year, the Irish parliament gave in and voted independence unanimously (Kee, p. 33). Under that pressure, the British granted the parliament most of what it asked -- repealing even the infamous Poyning's Law that said the British parliament could override the Irish. (For further details, see the notes to "Ireland's Glory.") There would be more Dungannon Conventions in 1783 and 1793, and eventually in 1905 Bulmer Bobson and Denis McCullough founded the nationalist "Dungannon clubs" (OxfordCompanion, p. 165), but the 1782 edition was the Really Big Deal. - RBW
Bibliography

- Fry/Fry: Peter and Fiona Somerset Fry, A History of Ireland, 1988 (I use the 1993 Barnes & Noble edition)
- Kee: Robert Kee, The Most Distressful Country, being volume I of The Green Flag (covering the period prior to 1848), Penguin, 1972

Last updated in version 2.5
File: Moyl005

Dungarvon Whooper (I), The

DESCRIPTION: The cook in a Dungarvon River lumber camp dies. The crew suspect the skipper murdered him. That night "fearful whoops and yells the forest fill" and are heard around "the Whooper's grave" until "God's good man" prays that they stop.

AUTHOR: Michael Whelan

EARLIEST DATE: 1912 (Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi)
Dungarvon Whooper (II), The

DESCRIPTION: The night a group of fishermen "reached Dungarvon ... the Dungarvon Whooper was the terror of the night." All the beasts fled and the fishermen "felt very sure We could beat any Whooper ... And when he saw that he was beat He was forced to run away"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi)

KEYWORDS: fight fishing humorous ghost

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 14, "The Dungarvon Whooper (II)" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST MaWi014 (Partial)
Roud #9199

NOTES [212 words]: Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi: "Rev Edward Murdoch, the Roman Catholic parish priest at Renous, felt seriously enough about the matter to come up to Dungarvon and read the church service of exorcism. It is said that after this the evil spirit which was responsible for the horrible sounds was heard no more. But people still say they sometimes hear the Whooper, and they fear to visit the grave by the Whooper Spring. The Dungarvon River is a branch of the Main Renous River, which it joins above Quarryville."

"The train on the Canada Eastern Railway, between Fredericton and Newcastle, named for the Whooper, made its last run in 1936."

Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi note on authorship: Someone "says this satiric song was made up by Everett Price, Billy's brother, but Billy [the singer] himself says it was written by his grandfather, Abraham Munn." - BS

Manny and Wilson offer two explanations for the origin of the name "Whooper." One, found in their notes to "The Dungarvon Whooper (I)," link it to a mysterious death and later exorcism in the area, described above and in the notes to the other "Whooper" song.

In their notes on this version, they mention the name being associated with the train on the occasion of a run with a lot of rowdy woodsmen aboard. - RBW

File: MaWi014

---

Dungiven Cricket Match

DESCRIPTION: The boys of Dungiven challenge the team from Derry to a cricket match. Both teams turn out, and bring crowds of supporters. The contest, naturally, is hard-fought, but Dungiven wins. The singer lists the team members

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Sam Henry collection)

KEYWORDS: sports moniker

FOUND IN: Ireland
Dungiven Priory Church

DESCRIPTION: The singer wanders out, enjoying nature, when he comes to "the old church not far from Dungiven." He praises the artistic quality of the site, and bids nature to love him. He notes that life is fleeting, and bids farewell to the spot

AUTHOR: James Maxwell ?
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: rambling burial
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H187, pp. 162-163, "Dungiven Priory Church" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #13463
NOTES [30 words]: Dungiven Priory is one of the most famous religious sites in Ireland, and is famous as the graveyard of the O'Cahan family. For details, see the notes to "The Banks of the Roe." - RBW
File: HHH187

Dunlap Creek

DESCRIPTION: "A friend and I went walking Along the public way. But things had changed so strangely From that of former days." The singer compares present with past. The fish are gone from Dunlap Creek, and the mill torn down. The main sight is a railroad tunnel

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1949 (Korson)
KEYWORDS: technology railroading fishing
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 26-27, "Dunlap Creek" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: KPL026

Dunlap's Creek

DESCRIPTION: "Sing to the Lord, ye heavenly hosts, And thou, O lord, adore, Let death and hell through all their coasts Stand trembling at his power." God's chariots are described, and his punishments; sinners are asked what they will do at judgment

AUTHOR: Words: Isaac Watts (1674-1748)
EARLIEST DATE: 1816 (The Pittsburg Selection of Psalm Tunes, according to Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad warning death
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 453-454, "Dunlap's Creek" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #18615
File: KPL453

Dunlavin Green

DESCRIPTION: At the time of the 1798 Rebellion, Captain Saunders betrays some of his own men to execution at Dunlavin Green. Some of the martyrs are named and mourned, and Saunders is cursed.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1798 (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion); 1820 (according to Moylan-
The Age of Revolution (1776-1815)

KEYWORDS: rebellion execution lie army Ireland betrayal death

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 24, 1798 - "Nineteen members of the Saundersgrove corps of yeomen, and nine of the Narraghmores, imprisoned in Dunlavin as United Irish sympathisers, were led out and summarily executed." (source: Moylan-The Age of Revolution-1776-1815)

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Hodgart-Faber Book of Ballads, p. 202, "Dunlavin Green" (1 text)
Galvin-Irish Songs of Resistance, pp. 94-95, "Dunlavin Green" (1 text, 1 tune)
OLochlann-Irish Street Ballads 53, "Dunlavin Green" (1 text, 1 tune)
Zimmerman-Songs of Irish Rebellion 9, "Dunlavin Green" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Moylan-The Age of Revolution-1776-1815 55, "Dunlavin Green" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #3010

NOTES [203 words]: The 1798 rebellion collapsed even before it properly began, and many of the leaders were betrayed (the United Irish leaders were taken in March, and the rebellion did not take place for many months after that).

Captain Saunders led a Yeoman (Irish militia) company, and on May 22, shortly before the actual rebellion, he assembled his men and urged those who were rebels to come forward.

About twenty of the rebels, leaderless and hoping for mercy, revealed themselves. They were arrested and sent to Dunlavin.

Two days later, with rebels threatening the town, a total of 28 rebels (19 of them from Saunders's company) were summarily executed. (This seems to have been both in fear of and as an example to the rebels outside.) Such behavior was against British rules, and was condemned by many even on the English side, but as always, the atrocities were remembered longer than the regrets of the more civilized faction of the Loyalists.

The ballad is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentennial of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See:
Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "Dunlavin Green" (on Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "1798 the First Year of Liberty," Hummingbird Records HBCD0014 (1998)) - BS

File: Hodg202

Dunya

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Cray-AshGrove)

KEYWORDS: courting foreign language

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cray-AshGrove, p. 21, "Dunya" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [47 words]: Cray-AshGrove implies that this is a popular song in Israel brought to the United States by Sol Gold, who added two verses. But if it is popular in Israel, I can find no hint of it on the web, at least as transcribed in Cray-AshGrove (in the Roman rather than the Hebrew alphabet).

File: CraAG21

Dupree [Laws I11]

DESCRIPTION: Betty asks Dupree for a diamond ring; he promises her one. He sets out for the jewelry store and steals a ring, but shoots a policeman as he escapes. Unwilling to leave Betty and/or unable to flee, he is captured, convicted, and hanged.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (recording, Willie Walker)

KEYWORDS: homicide robbery execution

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Aug 1903 - Birth of Frank DuPre
Dec 15, 1921 - Frank DuPre robs an Atlanta jewelry store
Sept. 1, 1922 - DuPre hanged

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (10 citations):
Laws I11, "Dupree"
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 328-330, "Dupree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 396, "Dupree" (2 texts, but only the second is I11; Laws considers the first to be E24)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, p. 315, "Dupree Blues" (1 text)
Botkin-TreasuryOfSouthernFolklore, p. 752, "Dupree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 239-240, "Dupree" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 73, "Betty And Dupree" (1 text, possibly modified by Brownie McGhee)

DT, BTTYDPRE

ADDITIONAL: Tom Hughes, _Hanging the Peachtree Bandit: The True Tale of Atlanta's Infamous Frank DuPre_, History Press, 2014, pp. 112-113, "(Betty Tol' DuPree)"; p. 114, "(no title)" (2 texts)
Harold Courlander, _A Treasury of Afro-American Folklore_, Crown Publishers, 1976, pp. 398-400, "Betty and Dupree" (1 text)

Roud #4179

RECORDINGS:
Teddy Grace, "Betty and Dupree" (Decca 2602, 1939)
Art Thieme, "Betty & Dupree Blues" (on Thieme06)
Kingfish Bill Tomlin, "Dupree Blues" (Paramount 13057, 1931; rec. 1930)
Brownie McGhee, "Betty and Dupree" (on AschRec2)
Willie Walker, "Dupree Blues" (Columbia 14578-D, 1931; rec. 1930; on BefBlues1, RoughWays1, StuffDreams2)
Georgia White, "Dupree Blues" (Decca 7100, 1935)
Josh White, "Betty and Dupree" (on ClassAfrAm)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

SAME TUNE:
Georgia White, "New Dupree Blues" (Decca 7209, 1936)

NOTES [4815 words]: Not to be confused with "Frank Dupree" [Laws E24]. This one is in blues form and opens with Betty asking for a ring.

Polenberg, pp. 272-273, lists no books about the story of Betty Andrews/Anderson and Frank DuPre/Dupre; there are a few web articles, plus the files of the Atlanta Constitution. However, Hughes's book came out at about the same time as Polenberg's, telling of DuPre's adventures although it doesn't have much about the romance. (Given that it lasted less than a week, there isn't all that much to know!)

I can't help but think how star-crossed the two were: They were teenagers, they hardly knew each other, and they were nitwits. Fortunately, there was no William Shakespeare to write their story, although there was Andrew Jenkins to cough up "Frank Dupree" and perhaps indirectly inspire this song.

A few noteworthy facts from Polenberg: Frank DuPre was just 18 years old at the time of his escapade (born August 1903), and barely 19 when he was hung. The spelling "Dupree" seems to be a clear error; Hughes, p. 101, has a photo of his tombstone, which clearly says "DUPRE." DuPre's family background was unpromising. Frank (Jr.) was of two children born to Frank A. DuPre and Nannie Pearl Schroeder DuPre, the other being an older brother, Joe. The family came from Abbeville, South Carolina, but wandered around a lot because Frank Sr., a blacksmith, had trouble finding work (Hughes, pp. 18-19; there seems to be no reason to doubt that Frank Sr. was a hard worker, but it was a tough period).

DuPre's mother seems to have been emotionally disturbed; she made at least two suicide attempts, in 1916 and 1917, using laudanum the first time and disinfectant the second (Hugues, p. 19). She died in November 1918. Hughes, p. 19, hints that it was the result of the 1918 flu; Polenberg, p. 137, says it was pellegra (niacin deficiency). To develop that particular deficiency implies a truly horrendous diet (perhaps the result of the poverty caused by Frank Sr. not being able to keep a job); one wonders if Frank DuPre had suffered malnutrition as well (perhaps prenatal), which could affect his mental processes.

DuPre's education apparently ended with the eighth grade (Hughes, p. 20). He apparently was a decent worker in his first jobs after leaving school, but none of them paid well and none lasted long (Hughes, pp. 20-21). He joined the Navy in late 1920, didn't like it, and was discharged in March.
1921 as the Navy downsized. By the summer of 1921, he was based in Atlanta -- and still unemployed (Hughes, p. 21). It was a tough time in Georgia; the boll weevil had reached the state in 1915, and between 1919 and 1923, the cotton crop fell by two-thirds. Banks, farms, and merchants went out of business (Martin, p. 159). It was better in Atlanta than in rural areas, but still, there was little work for young men with little useful training or experience.

DuPre apparently committed his first crime in the fall of 1921, robbing a cousin's husband of $140 and a watch (Hughes, pp. 21-22). On December 3, 1921, he robbed a jewelry store for the first time, walking off with a couple of rings with a combined value of about $2000, which he fenced for $425 (Hughes, pp. 22-23). $17 of that went to buy his first gun, a .32 Colt automatic (Hughes, p. 24; note that this contradicts the songs that, for poetic reasons, tend to call the pistol a .44). Clearly he was now committed to a life of crime.

Despite this, he apparently didn't drink, didn't swear, was shy and didn't talk much (Hughes, p. 25). He looked like, and was, a skinny teenager who, if unarmed, probably wouldn't scare anyone. He was staying at this time at a cheap lodging, the Childs Hotel. It was in the mezzanine of this hotel that he first met the woman usually called Betty Andrews (Hughes, p. 24), properly "Betty Anderson."

If we know a fair amount about DuPre, our knowledge of Betty is limited and confusing. She was barely 18 when she met DuPre (Polenberg, p. 138), and very pretty -- although, contrary to some newspaper reports, she was not a blue-eyed blonde; Hughes, p. 42, says that she was "a brunette with large sad eyes and heavy painted pouty lips of the flapper style." This seems accurate to me based on the photos of her on p. 140 of Polenberg and p. 43 of Hughes. The photos of her make her look biracial -- which is correct; her mother was the granddaughter of Cherokee Indians (Hughes, p. 50).

There was a report that she had suffered a severe fever at a child and never recovered her mental abilities; her father allegedly said her mind "is blank at times" (Pohlenberg, p. 138). Her father denied the tale (Hughes, p. 50) -- but at her trial, the judge was told she had spent four years in the first grade; the school said she had a "positively dull mind." She certainly seems to have been emotionally unstable; in interviews before DuPre's trial she alternated between calling him insane and said she would marry him if he weren't sentenced to death (Hughes, p. 49). The stories she told were always changing. Whether she had suffered a fever or not, there really seems to have been something wrong with her -- although the descriptions don't sound like ordinary intellectual disability to me; I think there was something else going on.

She was said to have worked as a chorus girl in the touring musical "Chu Chin Chow," a loose adaption of the tale of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves which featured a scantily-clad dancing harem (Hughes, p. 24; Pohlenberg, p. 138), which was believable given her looks. The show was a big success (there would eventually be a movie and a big revival), but Betty claimed to have decided to stay in Atlanta after it toured there (Hughes, pp. 24-25); she would later attribute this to a weak heart (Hughes, p. 42). But no one associated with the show had ever heard of her (Hughes, p. 50). She seems to have dressed beyond the means her minor income would have allowed, but she reported having "an allowance from my father," who lived in the north (Hughes, pp. 44, 50). This too was false; she came from Gainesville, Georgia, and her father was not wealthy.

Her father's name was Joseph Guest; she had gained the name "Anderson" when, at age fifteen in 1918, she had married a man almost twice her age, a barber named Joseph Anderson. That didn't last long; Anderson claimed "she has wrecked my life" and that she didn't know what love is (Hughes, p. 50) -- although he didn't actually file for divorce until the DuPre case came along (Pohlenberg, p. 140).

She also played piano, and it was as she played the piano that DuPre first saw her. He came up to her her to tell her how much he liked her playing (Polenberg, p. 137). They went on a few dates, and he bought her some clothes. But she wanted more: "Betty was clear: if Frank wished to court her, she would have to have nice things. Frank said all she would ever have to do was ask. Betty then made the immortal admission. Betty told DuPre, 'Baby, I'd love a diamond ring'" (Hughes, p. 25).

Their affair was so torrid that it apparently took them only four days to reach this stage (Polenberg, p. 138). What would have happened had Betty asked a half a year earlier, before he turned to crime, we cannot know. By December 1921, robbing a jewelry store was not new to him. Having fortified himself with alcohol, DuPre went to Nat Kaiser's jewelry and asked about wedding rings. The store staff apparently didn't trust him -- he was a handsome young man, but there must have been alcohol on his breath! Plus his clothes were somewhat mismatched; he wore a proper suit, but a "newsboy" cap (Hughes, p. 10). They showed him relatively inexpensive jewelry, but he demanded the $2500 ring in the window (3.25 carats on green gold).

That was an important enough item that the manager on duty, Nat Ullman came out -- and signaled their security guard, a Pinkerton named Irby C. Walker. When DuPre grabbed a $2500 ring, Walker moved to stop him -- and DuPre pulled out his gun and fatally shot him (Hughes, pp. 10, 12). DuPre fled, shooting another man, Graham West, along the way (Hughes, p. 12), this time non-fatal.

Now DuPre had a problem. He had the ring -- but he also had the whole city of Atlanta after him. And that meant that he couldn't use the ring as a gift; he needed to pawn it to gain the money to cover his tracks. (If the Atlanta police department weren't so utterly inept, he probably would have been taken into custody already; for another example of the Atlanta authorities bungling their work, see the Mary Phagan/Leo Frank case as described in the notes to "Mary Phagan" [Laws F20]. The Atlanta police chief, James L. Beavers, had been appointed in 1911 and gone on a crusade against brothels, but was incompetent enough that he was deposed and resigned in 1915, then reappointed in 1917, ran for mayor in 1922 and didn't even make it to the second round, and was deposed again in 1923, only to be restored yet again 1925-1932; Garrett, pp. 574, 657, 699, 787, 794-795).

Apparently DuPre showed Betty the ring but didn't give it to her. Instead, he went looking for his fence. (Hughes, p. 26). And the fence... couldn't take it. Apart from the fact that it was very expensive, no pawnbroker in Atlanta could acquire such a hot item. If DuPre wanted to hock it, it had to be somewhere else.

DuPre couldn't even take a train; they were watched. Finally he and the fence, Jack Worth, found a taxi driver to who would take DuPre to Chattanooga, with the driver to be paid once DuPre had sold the ring (they had a particular pawnbroker in mind). They made plans for Betty to join him, telling her to meet him at the Cecil Hotel. She didn't show up; she wouldn't leave without her sister, and the sister was not available. By phone, they agreed that he would leave without her (Hughes, p. 27).

In Chattanooga, DuPre was once again disappointed by the pawnbroker. He wanted $700; the pawnbrokers, father and son Max and Abby Silverman, offered $495. Eventually they worked out a deal under which DuPre got $400 cash and a pawn ticket; if he gave up his claim to the ring, he'd get $200 more. Out of that $400 cash (which the Silvermans needed time to scrounge), he had to pay $90 for the taxi ride (Hughes, p. 30).

DuPre then went to Chattanooga Station to catch a train north. The driver, Clifford Buckley, headed back to Atlanta -- where he and his car had been missed; he was fired as soon as he got home. The police found his car -- with a gun that had been recently fired .32 Colt automatic; DuPre had left his gun. Buckley was promptly arrested as an accessory to murder (Hughes, pp. 30-31).

He proved a key source of information. Atlanta investigators went to the Silverman pawnshop in Chattanooga and verified that the ring they had taken was the one stolen from the Kaiser jewelers. That proved they were on the right track. Then... a Western Union message and a money order at the taxi company, asking Buckley to give a message and money to Betty Andrews; the message asked Betty to come to Norfolk to meet him. The taxi company collected the message -- and the police went for Betty (Hughes, p. 32).

Talking to the desk clerk at the Childs Hotel, the police learned that Betty had been with a man named Frank DuPre. A photo in Betty's room was positively identified by a witness who had been by the jewelry store. So the police now had a name to go with their description. Betty confirmed she had been dating DuPre. She called him a nice young man, claimed to be surprised at what he had done, and declared that she would not have gone with him (Hughes, p. 33).

They came close to catching DuPre at the Western Union office as he awaited an answer from Betty. But he escaped and sent her a letter about it. It was signed "Your lover, Frank." Betty rather than responding, took the letter to the police (Hughes, pp. 33-34). Although she did cry heavily when she saw him after his arrest (Hughes, p. 48).

DuPre really did have rocks in his head. Having made his way out of Georgia to (eventually) Detroit, he actually sent a letter to an Atlanta newspaper describing his side of things (text on pp. 37-38 of Hughes). He also wrote to Max Silverman, the pawnbroker, to try to get his $200 -- as if the pawnbroker would pay up on a stolen ring! DuPre asked that the wire transfer be sent to the Detroit post office. Silverman turned the message over, and the Detroit police started watching for him (Hughes, p. 39). He was promptly arrested -- and promptly confessed. He sent back to Georgia (Polenberg, p. 139).

Betty was no longer having anything to do with him; she denied having encouraged him, releasing a statement that read, in part, "He fell in love with me, but it was not my fault and I did nothing to encourage him to do so. God knows I am sorry for the boy, but I cannot make myself feel that I am in any way responsible for his crimes.... I did not love him, and knowing him only four days, I was scarcely in a position to aid him or influence him in the commission of a crime. I was with him on the streets only one time, and then we went to the theater" (Hughes, p. 42. He suggests a lawyer had a hand in that statement, but I suspect it accurately reflects how Betty felt.)

From the time he was taken into custody, it was just a matter of things working through the courts -- and that didn't take long. According to Hughes, p. 46, "The grand jury indicted DuPre on Friday. The trial would start on Tuesday. [DuPre's lawyer Henry A.] Allen had not even met his client." Allen managed to obtain only a two day delay.

The prosecutor, John Boyken, was one of those who had prosecuted Leo Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan, although he later admitted that that had been a mistake (Hughes, p. 49). He was very much a throw-the-book-at-them law-and-order type. Throw in a megachurch leader preaching a sermon about DuPre as an example of depravity (Hughes, p. 53), and it was clear that the prosecution would go for the death penalty.

Given the talk of insanity, the prosecutor had him examined, and the doctor declared DuPre sane (Hughes, pp. 51-52, has his report). The doctor involved spent only two hours with DuPre, and his history makes it clear that he could not judge sanity anyway based on the standards we would apply a century later, but it meant that the prosecution was ready for an insanity defense.

In the end, the defense didn't use an insanity argument; they just claimed that DuPre was young and innocent and not really responsible for what he did (Hughes, p. 52), plus they tried to suggest that he thought he was defending himself when the security guard stopped him at the door. The insanity defense might have prolonged the trial, but I'm sure it would have failed; DuPre was a knucklehead, and probably had a diminished moral capacity. Plus he smoked like a chimney, which is a trait associated with several psychological disorders. It really sounds as if he had an impulse control disorder. Still, he certainly understood that murder was wrong.

There was no change of venue (Hughes, p. 57) despite what was clearly a heavily corrupted jury pool -- the case had been all over the newspapers and preached from the pulpits; it was the talk of the town.

The prosecutor offered witnesses to show that DuPre had committed the crime; the defense didn't even really try to contest this (Hughes, pp. 57-61). Witnesses said that DuPre smiled during much of the trial -- evidence I think of his foolishness or mental disorder, but it didn't help his case.

After the prosecution finished, the defense declined to call any witnesses, since they didn't have many they could call and by omitting witnesses, they would get the last word with the jury (Hughes, p. 61). That left one more stage before the final arguments: Under Georgia law, the defendant, without going on oath, was permitted to make a statement about the case. This could be of any length -- but it had to be the defendant speaking to the judge and jury, without help from his lawyer (the Supreme Court would eventually rule this unconstitutional, but not until 1961; Hughes, p. 62). DuPre's lawyers either failed to brief him for this or he forgot his instructions; given unlimited time, he spoke for only about a quarter of an hour; the newspaper transcript of the statement takes just barely more than two pages on pp. 63-65 of Hughes. DuPre briefly told the story of his life, then basically re-confessed (while saying he didn't remember the murder), and denied that Betty was involved -- meaning the defense couldn't even blame her (although they still hinted it was her fault; Pohlenberg, p. 141).

Crucially, he never apologized or said he was sorry for what he had happened (Hughes, p. 62). After that, there really wasn't much Allen and DuPre's other lawyers could do except plead for mercy. The whole thing had taken just two days (Pohlenberg, p. 142).

Under Georgia law at this time, there were only two verdicts involving someone dying: voluntary manslaughter (when there was some degree of provocation) and murder. If the verdict was murder, then the jury could recommend mercy (meaning a life sentence) or not recommend mercy (meaning the death penalty). Allen wasn't trying to get DuPre off; they were just trying to save him the death penalty (Hughes, p. 67).

The jury took an evening and part of a morning to reach a verdict; it was later reported that they needed twelve ballots. DuPre was convicted of murder, with no recommendation for mercy (Hughes, p. 68). The judge (who had no option) sentenced him to be hanged, although he allowed the defense a preliminary hearing for an attempt at a new trial.

Personally, I think the new trial was deserved; justice had been so swift that the defense had had no time to figure out what to do. The jury had clearly been tainted; several jurors were allowed to affirm that they had no prejudices, but had been heard saying that DuPre should swing (Hughes, pp. 74-75; under Georgia law, a sworn statement that one was unbiased had precedence over evidence of bias)). And, although Atlanta had seemed to be roaring for his blood before the trial, things started to change after that. The famous evangelist Billy Sunday thought DuPre should live. Other clergymen also called for clemency. And so did voices from the Ku Klux Klan -- if DuPre died, he would be the first white man executed in Georgia since 1912; it was declared that "Georgia did not hang white folk" (Hughes, pp. 70-71).

The Georgia Supreme Court took the case, and considered four issues -- but it rejected two of them, including the jury bias claim, outright; it was split 3-3 on the other two, meaning that the result would stand (Hughes, pp. 76-77). They admitted some problems with the charge to the jury, and with juror bias, but not enough to overturn the result. Based on Polenberg's comments on p. 142, it sounds as if the crucial matter for at least some of the judges was that they didn't want to give the impression to other criminals that "they" could get off; Georgia was having a crime wave which needed to be stopped. (The crime wave part was true, but study after study has shown that retributive justice doesn't work. Given what the Georgia courts were like at that time, though, appeals to facts were unlikely to succeed!)

That left only appeals to the governor and the Georgia Prison Commission for clemency. There were public appeals for funds for this; Frank didn't have the money to pay his lawyers. Hughes declares: "Let it be clearly understood: the campaign to save Frank DuPre from a rope was driven by the reality that Georgia was about to hang a white boy" (p. 79). Nonetheless the lawyers did the work that they hadn't been able to do before, including bringing in a psychologist who reports that Frank was a "high-grade moron" (Hughes, p. 79). Had this been known before Frank's first trial, the lawyers might well have tried to get an easier verdict on the grounds of "diminished capacity." However, Hall, p. 195, says "Most states do not allow this defense." In any case, it probably needed to be brought up at trial, not on appeal -- and, of course, there was no time for that.

(I would add, as an aside, that I don't believe that Frank DuPre had intellectual disability pure and simple, at least not as we would define it today. A later psychologist gave him a standard IQ test, on which he scored 80.7. That's low, of course -- but by itself does not qualify one for an intellectual disability diagnosis, for which the approximate cutoff is 70. And besides, the IQ tests of the time were biased against many groups, including uneducated Southerners. Examiners back then were flatly incompetent, and their diagnosis means nothing, but it sounds to me as if Frank's condition was more complex -- my gut feeling, based mostly on the amount he smoked, is that he had incipient schizophrenia. But that's a wild guess. I definitely suspect that Frank and Betty hit it off so fast because of their mental disorders -- people with similar disorders are often attracted to each other.)

The campaign drew a lot of support -- more than 12,000 people signed petitions on DuPre's behalf, which is more than for any case in Georgia history except the Leo Frank case (Hughes, pp. 79-80) -- in which, of course, Frank was innocent, whereas DuPre was unquestionably guilty. Meanwhile, DuPre was joining the Episcopal Church (Hughes, pp. 80-81), although it's not clear whether this was from genuine belief of an attempt to clean up his image. It didn't help. The Prison Commission was unanimous in recommending against clemency (Hughes, p. 81), and the request went to Governor Hardwick with that (lack of) recommendation. Little wonder, then, that DuPre's request was rejected (Polenberg, p. 143). The process had gained DuPre a few more months of life, but after that, a new execution date was set. Polenberg, p. 144 shows him in prison in the month before his execution, dressed in a suit and tie and looking handsome.

Betty, even though she was in the same prison, was not allowed a final visit. The sheriff did finally allow her to send a note, in which she promised to "be good" and "lead a Christian life." It was signed, "Lovingly, Betty" (Hughes, pp. 97-98). Because the elevator went by the women's floor, he briefly saw her as he rode up to the execution chamber. He waved and told her he would see her in heaven; she sobbed and shrieked that she would be good (Hughes, p. 98; I can't help but think how much her behavior sounds like an abused child trying to save herself further punishment even though she does not know what she has done wrong). DuPre was hung in September 1922, less than a month after his nineteenth birthday. Several reporters thought he was smiling before the drop (Hughes, p. 100).

Like just about everyone involved in law enforcement in Atlanta, the hangman was incompetent; DuPre's neck was not broken, and it took him fourteen minutes to die of strangulation (Polenberg, p. 144). Various others associated with DuPre -- Worth, the fence; Buckley, the driver; others -- went on trial while DuPre's appeal were going forward (there had been hope that DuPre would testify, but Worth's attorney found a legal argument that a man condemned to death could not testify). So it was Buckley who was the state's lead witness. Worth got three years (but served only one); Buckley got one year; others got minor punishments (Hughes, pp. 72-73). Silverman, the pawnbroker who bought the big diamond ring, actually got a cut of the roughly $2000 reward money for DuPre, although he probably lost money on the deal overall (Hughes, p. 106).

Which left Betty. She was under suspicion as an accessory for a long time (Boykin declared that he would certainly prove Betty's involvement; Hughes, p. 50; and had her arrested on January 19, 1922; Pohlenberg, p. 140). Buckley didn't go through with it, though. On March 4, Buckley suggested that she would plead guilty to a "statutory offense" -- which I suspect is the charge often brought against prostitutes. Betty, when asked how she wanted to plead, refused to plead... guilty. But her lawyer calmed her down and told the judge, in effect, that she was feeble-minded. She was given a one year suspended sentence and placed in the custody of her father (Hughes, p. 73). She apparently did make another attempt to visit DuPre. The judge considered this a violation of her parole, and told her he would never let her see her, but he decided not to arrest her because she was so ignorant -- although he warned her that another visit to Atlanta would put her in prison (Hughes, p. 75). But her father couldn't control her and she was ordered to prison. As it happened, she spent the period leading up to DuPre's execution on a different floor of the prison in Atlanta, but as we saw, they weren't permitted to see each other (Hughes, p. 77).

Polenberg isn't aware of what happened to Betty after that (Polenberg, p. 145). But she was paroled in October 1922, got in trouble again for making noise, staying out late, and walking in "unconventional attire." Taken back into custody, she was released three days later to Reverend Gasque, one of the observers of DuPre's execution. He tried to find a quiet place for her, and apparently succeeded, because little is heard of her for the next decade, until Peggy Guest (her maiden name) married Maurice Blaustein on August 2, 1932 in Hot Springs, Arkansas, a military supply officer (who was disowned by his family for marrying a non-Jew). The two apparently had no children, but took care of a boy, Robert, who was known by the name Blaustein although apparently never formally adopted (it sounds as if Betty and Robert never got along). She died on June 27, 1972, at the age of 68, being an accepted member of a Lutheran Church. Her husband survived her (Hughes, p. 108; it appears all this information came from a talk with Robert Blaustein in 2013 and her obituary in an Amarillo paper, where the Blausteins had gone on retirement). Given that she was not yet twenty at the time of the DuPre affair, meaning that there was every reason to think she might still be around in the 1960s when songs about "Dupree" (as it came to be spelled) became popular again. I'm surprised no one tried to find her. To be sure, the idea of an "old" Betty is hard to fathom....

Cohen repeats a common claim that DuPre was the last man legally hanged in Georgia. Another common statement is that it was the last public hanging -- but it wasn't public; public hangings had ended in 1893. It took place on the prison grounds (Hughes, p. 97). And there would be more (DuPre's, in fact, was the second on the prison grounds on that very day). DuPre's execution did increase the pressure to abolish the death penalty -- but not by much. It is true that Georgia decided to get an electric chair soon after; it was constructed in 1924. But there were hangings in Georgia as late as 1931 (Hughes, p. 105). Hughes even has a chapter entitled "The Last Man to Hang in Georgia (Not)."

It will tell you something about the Pinkerton Agency that they tried to deny survivor's benefits to the widow of Irby Walker, the slain Pinkerton security guard at the jeweler's (Hughes, p. 106), although it is estimated that they spent about $5000 of their own money to find his killer. This story seems to have been largely written out of Atlanta history. I checked four histories of Atlanta, including Garrett's, which is comprehensive, and Williford, which is explicitly about Peachtree Street -- and not one of them mentioned the DuPre case. Every one of them, by contrast, mentioned the Leo Frank case. I suppose the fact that, in this case, they had the right man made it less noteworthy. But it's still odd that it seems to have been so thoroughly forgotten. Anyone wishing to visit the sites behind this song will probably be disappointed. Sawyer/Matthews has no listing for the Peters Building on Peachtree Street, where Kaiser's Jewelry was located. Williford, p. 82, gives the site of the Peters Building as 1 Peachtree Street (the very center of the shopping district), says it was seven stories high, and says it was "built beside the railroad tracks upon property which had long been owned by the railroad and by [Richard] Peters' father-in-law, Dr. Joseph Thompson." Somewhat later, a viaduct was built over the tracks, which was in place by DuPre's time. Google Maps seems to confirm that there is indeed little old architecture left in the area; similarly, there is no longer a hotel on South Broad Street that might once have been the Childs Hotel where Frank and Betty first met, though there are a few buildings that look as if they might have been hotels. The Georgia State University Library site says that the old Fulton County Jail, where Frank was imprisoned and executed, and its landmark "The Tower," were demolished in 1962. - RBW

Bibliography

•  Hughes: Tom Hughes,Hanging the Peachtree Bandit: The True Tale of Atlanta's Infamous Frank DuPre, History Press, 2014
Durch Gnäd so will ich singen (Through Grace Will I Sing)

DESCRIPTION: Amish hymn in German. "Durch Gnäd so will ich singen, in Gottes Furcht heben an." "Through Grace I will sing, And raise my song in the fear of God. Love God above all things, and also your neighbor; that is the Law and the Prophets."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1742 (Amish Ausbund, #56, according to Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad foreignlanguage travel
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 155-156, "Durch Gnäd so will ich singen (Through Grace Will I Sing)" (1 short German text plus not-very-literal translation, 1 tune)
NOTES [91 words]: Derived from one of the accounts of Jesus's description of the Greatest Commandment and the way to eternal life, e.g. Luke 10:27, but especially the Greatest Commandment, Matt. 22-36-40: "Teacher, which of the Law's commandments is the greatest? [Jesus] answered, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind. This is the greatest and first commandment. And a second is like it, You shall love your neighbor as yourself. On these two commandments depend all the law and the prophets." - RBW

Durham Field [Child 159]

DESCRIPTION: Edward III is at war in France, so the king of Scotland invades England. In battle, he fares badly and is taken prisoner to London. Edward has returned. The Scottish king admits an English yeoman is worth a Scottish knight.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1750 (Percy folio)
KEYWORDS: fight war prisoner
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1327-1377 - Reign of King Edward III of England
1346 - Battle of Durham. King David of Scotland defeated and taken prisoner by the English, even though their main army was fighting in France
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Child 159, "Durham Field" (1 text)
Hales/Furnival-BishopPercysFolioManuscript, volume II, pp. 190-200, "Durham ffeile" (1 text)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 126, "Durham Field" (1 text)
Morgan-MedievalBallads-ChivalryRomanceAndEverydayLife, pp. 147-154, "Durham Field" (1 text)
DigitalIndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse, #3249
Roud #3998
NOTES [99 words]: According to David C. Fowler, A Literary History of the Popular Ballad, Duke University Press, 1968, p. 158 n. 25, this is one of eighteen ballads in the Child collection found only in the Percy Folio.
The DigitalIndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse cross-references this with their #4861 (Brown/Robbins Index of Middle English Verse #3117), which is Laurence Minot's poem "The Battle of Neville's Cross," beginning "Sir David the Bruce was at a distance." That also exists in only one copy (London, British Library, MS. Cotton Galba E.ix), although that copy is much closer to the time of the event. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3
File: C159

Durham Strike (Durham Lockout)
DESCRIPTION: "In our Durham County I am sorry for to say, That hunger and starvation is increasing every day." The mine is shut down; "the masters have behaved unkind." The miners face great hardship but hope to prevail if others will support them.
AUTHOR: probably Tommy Armstrong (1848-1919)
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Lloyd, "Come All Ye Bold Miners")
KEYWORDS: mining strike hardtimes
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1892 - the Durham Strike
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
MacColl-ShuttleAndCage-IndustrialFolkBallads, p. 14, "The Durham Strike" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DURHLOCK*
NOTES [121 words]: This song refers to the great Durham Coal Strike of 1892. The company wanted to impose a pay cut of 10%. The miners -- who, naturally, were already living on next to nothing -- went on strike. But coal is easy to come by; after two months, the miners were forced to return to work -- and to take an even larger pay cut.
Tommy Armstrong seems to have devoted his energy to mining and labour poetry; the three songs by him listed in Granger's Index to Poetry are "The Oakey Street Evictions," "The Row Between the Cages," and "The Trimdon Grange Explosion."
The Digital Tradition lists this to the tune of "Tramps and Hawkers/Paddy West," but the tune in MacColl/Shuttle is not that though it looks like it might be related. - RBW
File: MacCS014

Dust an' Ashes
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "The Lord shall bear my spirit home (x2)." Verses: "Dust and ashes fly over my grave." Jesus is crucified. Joseph takes his body and lays it in the tomb. An angel rolls the stone away. The grave can not hold him and he rises from the dead.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)
KEYWORDS: Bible religious Jesus
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, pp. 213-218, "Dust an' Ashes" (1 text, 1 tune; pp. 251-255 in the 1874 edition)
Roud #15291
NOTES [21 words]: In Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute's verses each line is repeated three times. - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: Dett213

Dust My Broom
DESCRIPTION: Singer will leave ("dust my broom") in the morning; a friend can have his room. He won't have a woman who "wants every downtown man she meets." He'll write a letter, telephone every town, to find his "good girl."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (recording, Robert Johnson)
Dusty Miller, The

DESCRIPTION: "Hey the dusty miller [(x2)], Dusty was his coat, dusty was his colour, dusty was the kiss That I got frae the miller." "Hey the dusty miller, With his dusty coat, He will spend a shilling Ere he win a groat."

AUTHOR: adapted by Robert Burns, but the extent of his changes is not clear

EARLIEST DATE: 1788 (Burns)

KEYWORDS: miller courting

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (7 citations):

- Greig/Duncan3 454, "The Dusty Miller" (2 texts, 3 tunes)
- Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, pp. 178-179, "The Dusty Miller" (1 text)
- Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 351, "O the little rusty dusty miller" (2 texts)
- Montgomerie/Montgomerie-ScottishNurseryRhymes 107, "(O the dusty miller)" (1 text)
- DT, DSTYMILR

ADDITIONAL: James Kinsley, editor, Burns: Complete Poems and Songs (shorter edition, Oxford, 1969) #201, pp. 311, "Dusty Miller" (1 text, 1 tune, from 1788)

- James Johnson, Editor, _The Scots Musical Museum_ [1853 edition], volume II, #144, p. 155, "Dusty Miller" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roud #5959

File: MSNR107

---

Dutch Courtship

DESCRIPTION: "Thar ware a time, a good old time, I ware in Dutchland far away." Hans wishes he could go back. Hailey refuses. He decides to drown himself. She calls him back. They will buy a farm and scare people away with the smell of "limbergar" cheese

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (McIntosh)

KEYWORDS: courting humorous death separation marriage food farming river

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

- Richard M. Dorson, _Buying the Wind: Regional Folklore in the United States_, University of Chicago Press, 1964, pp. 411-413, "Dutch Courtship" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roud #15139

File: RDBW411
Dutch Volunteer, The
DESCRIPTION: "It vas in Ni Orleans city, I first heard der drimes und fif, Und I vas so full mit lager, Dot I care nix for my life," so the German volunteers for the Southern army. Part of Hood's army, he flees from battle and gives advice on how to survive
AUTHOR: Harry McCarthy (1834-1888)
EARLIEST DATE: before 1870 (source: Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra; but see note)
KEYWORDS: Civilwar soldier humorous
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 58, "The Deutscher Volunteer" (1 fragmented text, 1 tune)
NOTES [200 words]: Harry McCarthy was best known (exclusively known, really) for writing the words to "The Bonnie Blue Flag." As an entertainer, he was perfectly willing (like many comics of the time) to make fun of German immigrants.
The text in _Southern War Songs_ says that Harry McCarthy (spelled "Macarthy" in the book) sang this "in his Personation Concerts, 1862" -- but the song says, "My name is Yacob Schneider, Und I yust come here to-night From Hood's Army up in Georgia." John Bell Hood commanded the army that lost Atlanta to General Sherman -- but that was in 1864. To be sure, Hood had been a general since 1862, but he began his career in the Army of Northern Virginia; he didn't get transferred to the west until the Chickamauga campaign in last 1863 -- and promptly lost a leg and was out of service for a long time. There was no "Hood's army up in Georgia" until Hood succeeded Joseph E. Johnston in 1864! So either McCarthy changed his song over the years (not unlikely), or the date in _Southern War Songs_ is wrong.
It is further curious to find a German in the Southern ranks; although I have no statistics, most Germans who fought in the war are believed to have fought on the Northern side. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: RDL058

Dutchman Song, The
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, shentlemens and ladies, chust in time, Swiddy widdy winky tum fum, Come listen now unto my rhyme" of an old "Dutchman" who drinks so much that the doctor warns he'll burst. He dies and is fit only for use as rat poison. The singer warns against drink
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)
KEYWORDS: humorous drink death poison doctor husband wife marriage
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 147, "The Dutchman Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11347
File: Brne147

Dutchman's Song
DESCRIPTION: "Amongst the pines and hemlocks ... we gathered round the table" in the Dutchmens' bunk house to play poker.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (Creighton-NovaScotia)
KEYWORDS: lumbering cards
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 114, "Dutchman's Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1820
NOTES [15 words]: The description is based on a "fragment of a lumberman's song" in Creighton-NovaScotia. - BS
Dwelling in Beulah Land

DESCRIPTION: "Far away the noise of strife upon my ear is falling, Then I know the sins of earth beset on every hand... None these shall move me from Beulah Land." The singer cites variations on the theme of God protecting the sinner from earthly troubles
AUTHOR: C. Austin Miles (1868-1946)
EARLIEST DATE: 1911 (Source: Morgan)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad

NOTES [116 words]: As far as I know, this song has never been collected in tradition, and probably was written to recently to have much chance of becoming traditional. I include it because Helen Schneyer was fond of recording it, and many folkies will have heard it as a result, but it should not be considered a folk song.
The name "Beulah Land" derives from Isaiah 62:4, where the author draws a contrast between happy and unhappy nations. The word is not used elsewhere in the Bible; it derives from the root for "married." I suppose there might be some sort of subtext of the church as Bride of Christ in the song's usage, but the Isaiah reference appears to me to be the only Biblical allusion in the song. - RBW

Dewey-Berry Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "Way out on the plains of Kansas, Where the winds blow hot and dry" is the building "Where the Berry boys were shot." Dewey was the murderer of the two men and their father. There should be justice, "Is this the glorious country Our fathers died to save?"

Dying Aviator, The

DESCRIPTION: The aviator has crashed and is surrounded by the refuse of the wreck. He advises his comrades to gather the sundry pieces which have pierced him; "there's a lot of good parts in this wreck." He is granted admission to heaven, since the Air Force is Hell

NOTES [25 words]: The notes in Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore say that Dewey, although many thought him guilty of murdering the three Berrys, was acquitted at trial. - RBW

NOTES [116 words]: The aviator has crashed and is surrounded by the refuse of the wreck. He advises his comrades to gather the sundry pieces which have pierced him; "there's a lot of good parts in this wreck." He is granted admission to heaven, since the Air Force is Hell
Dying Boy, The

DESCRIPTION: "On a summer day as the sun was setting... A young boy lay on a bed of fever.... I am dying, mother, I am surely dying, And Hell is my awful doom...." The young man heard God's voice, but chose to go sporting with his friends. Now he pays the price

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: death farewell Hell youth mother
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 597, "The Dying Boy" (1 text)
Roud #7552
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Death is a Melancholy Call" [Laws H5] (theme)
File: R597

Dying British Sergeant, The

DESCRIPTION: The British soldier recalls sailing to America to suppress the rebels. Told to expect easy duty and a swift victory, the soldiers instead find an implacable enemy; "Freedom or death! was all their cry." The singer is mortally wounded and bids farewell

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931
KEYWORDS: war death patriotic
FOUND IN: US(MA,NE)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 118-120, "The Dying Sergeant" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 10, "The British Soldier" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-FolkSongsAndBalladsOfTheEasternSeaboard, pp. 64-65, "The Dying British Sergeant" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 195, "Our Fleet," "Our British Troops," "American Boys" (3 fragments, first three of seven "Quatrains on the War"; the date in "Our Fleet" should of course be 1776, not 1770)
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 69-71, "The Dying Redcoat" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DYSARGE* DYSARGE2*
Roud #2801
CROSS-REFERENCES:
Dying Bushman, The

DESCRIPTION: "I've knocked around the logging camps since early boyhood days." "Now my chopping days are over." "For my slasher is all rusty and my axe handle's broke." He was once a great cutter, but that is over. He hopes to be buried suitably

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (recorded by Phil Garland on "Colonial Yesterdays")

KEYWORDS: lumbering New Zealand death

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 30, "(The Dying Bushman)" (1 text, a shortened compilation of at least four traditional versions)

File: PGar030

Dying Californian (I), The

DESCRIPTION: The singer tells a comrade he is dying. He confesses to a firm belief in God. He sends messages to his father and mother. He wishes his wife to know that he thought of her while dying, and bids her care for his children

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1850

KEYWORDS: dying farewell religious

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber)) US(Ap,MA,MW,Ro,So) Canada(Mar,Newf)

REFERENCES (19 citations):
Greig/Duncan8 1790, "Lay Up Brother Near Brother" (1 text)
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 350-351, "The Dying Californian" (1 text)
Randolph 183, "The Dying Californian" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 179-182, "The Dying Californian" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 183)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 154, "The Dying Californian" (1 text, 1 tune)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 126, "The Dying Californian" (1 text, 1 tune)
Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 39, "The Dying Californian" (1 text)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 92, pp. 221-222, "The Dying Californian" (1 text)
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 177, "Californian Brothers" (1 text)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 86, "The Dying Californian" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 187-189, "The Dying Californian" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 15, "The California Brothers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 90, pp. 191-193, "The Dying Californian" (1 text)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #117, "Dying California" (sic.) (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 49, "The Dying Californian" (1 text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 647-650, "The Dying Californian" (1 text plus a broadside print)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #541, p. 36, "The Dying Californian" (1 reference)
cf. Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, p. 478, "The Dying Californian" (source notes only)
DT, DYINGCAL
Roud #2283

BROADSIDES:
LOCSheet, sm1855 580660, "Dying Californian" or "The Brother's Request" ("Lie up nearer, brother, nearer"), Oliver Ditson (Boston), 1855 (tune)
LOCSinging, sb10096b, "The Dying Californian" ("Lie up nearer, brother, nearer, for my limbs are growing cold"), J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859; also as103250, as10325a, "The Dying Californian"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
Dying Californian (II), The

DESCRIPTION: "Comrades come gather round me for I am dying now." He has messages for father and mother. He sends his ring back to Mary but keeps "a token, she gave it me, from which I cannot part ... I must slumber here alone on San Francisco shore"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1856 (Thompson-APioneerSongster)

KEYWORDS: dying request father mother wife separation

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar) US(MA,Ro)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
  Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 58, "The Dying Californian" (1 text, 1 tune)
  Thompson-APioneerSongster 58, "The Dying Californian" (1 text)
  Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #118, "The Dying Californian" (1 text)

Roud #2283

CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "The Dying Californian (I)" (theme)

NOTES [43 words]: Roud does not distinguish seem to distinguish this song from the much more popular "Dying Californian (I)"; as of this check (2015), he does not index the Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah text, and Thompson's and Creighton's are filed with the other songs. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.8

File: CrSNB058

Dying Cowboy (IV), The

DESCRIPTION: "Lying on a saddle blanket a dying cowboy lay." He says, "Cowboys don't forget your mothers, write a letter home." Tell her you'll wait to see her in Heaven. He dies and is buried.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA/Leach)

KEYWORDS: burial death dying religious mother cowboy

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

RECORDINGS:
  William O'Driscoll, "Dying Cowboy" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

File: RdDyCoIV

Dying Cowboy of Rim Rock Ranch

DESCRIPTION: The dying cowboy is "Riding away... Where the sun is sinking low." He bids goodbye to all parts of the cowboy's life -- the sounds, the sunrises, the girl he loves. He bids his comrades to remember him "when you're far from the rimrock."

AUTHOR: unknown
Dying Cowgirl, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer goes west as a youth. Once there, he turns to a life of cattle rustling (perhaps chasing strays?). One night, in a storm, he finds a cowgirl helpless on the ground. She says she will meet the singer in heaven, and dies

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (recording, Gene Autry)

KEYWORDS: cowboy death parting love

FOUND IN: US(SE,So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol1, pp. 146-147, "The Dying Cowgirl" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, DYCOWGRL*

Roud #4775

RECORDINGS:
- Gene Autry, "The Dying Cowgirl" (Conqueror 8193, 1933)

NOTES [48 words]: McNeil believes -- with justice -- that the Florida text cited here (collected from Louise Sanders of Perry, Florida) is incomplete, but can find no other texts. One may speculate that the girl was fatally wounded while trying to protect her herd from the singer's band of rustlers. - RBW

File: MN1146

Dying Crapshooter's Blues

DESCRIPTION: Police shoot crapshooter Jessie. Friends gather at his bedside to hear his last words. He wants eight crapshooters for pall bearers and all the usual elaborate trappings. Place "a crooked card" on his hearse. Dig his grave with "the ace of spades"

AUTHOR: Blind Willie McTell

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (USWMcTell01)

KEYWORDS: burial death drowning dying funeral gambling police

FOUND IN:
- Roud #17561

RECORDINGS:
- Blind Willie McTell, "Dying Crapshooter's Blues" (on USWMcTell01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Unfortunate Rake" (theme, floating verses) and references there
- cf. "Saint James Infirmary" (theme, floating verses)

NOTES [23 words]: McTell says he made this song, which is far from a lament. Otherwise, it fits the pattern of "The Unfortunate Rake" and all its offspring. - BS

Last updated in version 5.0

File: RcDyCrBl

Dying Daughter, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, Mother, dear, go make my bed, And let me lie in darkness, Please rub my head when you have done." The mother asks what ails the girl. Her heart is broken. Mother says there are other men. The girl calls her mother "dearest" but wants to die

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 2001 (HCargillFamily)

KEYWORDS: love death mother
Dying Drunkard, The
DESCRIPTION: "What a terrible doom I have met. My teeth are now chattering, my eyes almost dead." "Oh, terrible, terrible doom of despair, My soul, you are landing I do not know where." At first, drinking was fun. Now the singer is dying; he warns others of drink
AUTHOR: John Daniel Vass
EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (collected by Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains from John Daniel Vass)
KEYWORDS: drink warning death nonballad family
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains, pp. 56-57, "The Dying Drunkard" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7321
File: Shel056

Dying Engineer, The
DESCRIPTION: "An engineer one morning Had kissed his wife goodbye, The sunlight was adorning A bright and cloudless sky." He picks a flower before learning his train is late. The train derails; as he dies, the engineer asks that his wife to remember his last kiss
AUTHOR: Bernice "Si" Coleman (1898-?) with Kyle Roop
EARLIEST DATE: 1982 (Lyle); probably written c. 1935
KEYWORDS: train wreck death flowers
FOUND IN: Roud #14018
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, p. 171, "The Dying Engineer" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: LySc171

Dying Fifer, The
DESCRIPTION: "When the battle was hot and raging Shot and shell around did fly... When I heard a piercing cry." The ship's fifer is mortally wounded. He sends dying messages to his mother and the rest of his family
AUTHOR: C. G. Wright?
EARLIEST DATE: before 1865 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 31(29))
KEYWORDS: death battle sailor
FOUND IN: US(SE) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 227, "The Dying Fifer" (1 text)
Smith/Hatt/Fowke-SeaSongsBalladFromNineteenthCenturyNovaScotia, pp. 94-95, "Our Fifer Boy" (1 text)
Roud #1977
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 31(29), "Our Fifer-Boy," H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Dying Californian (I)" (tune, per broadside Bodleian Harding B 31(29))
NOTES [86 words]: Broadside Bodleian Harding B 31(29) seems to be exactly the source for Smith/Hatt/Fowke-SeaSongsBalladFromNineteenthCenturyNovaScotia, word-for-word, including parenthesis and headnote "Composed by C.G. Wright, on board the U.S. Steam-ship Mississippi, (New Orleans.) Air: James Bird; or Dying Californian."
Broadside Bodleian Harding B 31(29): H. De Marsan dating per Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at...
Dying From Home and Lost (Companions, Draw Nigh)

DESCRIPTION: "Companions draw nigh, They say I must die... Only a sigh, only a tear, Only if sister or mother was here Only a hope to comfort and cheer, Only a word from the Book so dear." The dying singer seeks some sort of Christian comfort before the end

AUTHOR: S. M. Brown

EARLIEST DATE: 1892 (Songs of Zion)

KEYWORDS: death Bible religious

FOUND IN: US(SE,So)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Randolph 609, "Companions, Draw Nigh" (1 text plus an excerpt, 1 tune)
- Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 429-431, "Companions, Draw Nigh" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 609A)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 61, "Dying From Home and Lost" (1 text)

Roud #7547

NOTES [76 words]: Randolph reprints a clipping that allegedly explains this song. A young man was fatally wounded in a construction accident. He asked for a hymn, or for the reading of some Bible verses; neither could be supplied (the other workers knew no relevant songs, and no Bible was at hand). The young man lamented his death away from home, family, and the comforts of church.

It should be noted that neither the date nor the name of the young man is supplied. - RBW

Dying Girl's Message, The

DESCRIPTION: "Raise the window, mother darling, For no air can harm me now." The dying girl remembers the man who falsely courted her. She bids her mother return the ring he gave her with her blessing. She sees Jesus, bids farewell (and dies)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)

KEYWORDS: death love betrayal ring

FOUND IN: US(Ro,SE,So) Canada(Ont)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 217-218, "The Dying Girl's Message" (2 texts)
- Randolph 707, "The Dying Girl's Message" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Rosenbaum-FolkVisionsAndVoices, p. 178, "The Dying Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 318, "The Dying Girl's Message" (2 short texts, 2 tunes)
- Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 176-177, "Dying Girl's Message" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #34, "The Dying Message" (1 text)
- Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 35, "The Dying Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #3530

RECORDINGS:
- Homer & Walter Callahan, "The Dying Girl's Farewell" (Vocalion 04483/Conqueror 9134, 1936) [I place this here tentatively; I haven't heard the record - PJS]
- Mabel Cawthorne, "The Dying Girl" (on FolkVisions2)
- Vernon Dalhart, "The Dying Girl's Message" (Columbia 15051-D, 1926; rec. 1925.) (Brunswick 2927, 1925/Supertone S-2010, 1930)
- Sid Harkreader, "The Dying Girl's Message" (Vocalion 15075, 1925)
- Asa Martin, "The Dying Girl's Message" (Supertone 9179, 1928)
- Ernest V. Stoneman, "The Dying Girl's Farewell" (OKeh 40384, 1925) (Victor 21129, 1927)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Dying Nun" (tune, meter, floating lyrics)

NOTES [66 words]: Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety suggests a connection between this and Tennyson's "The May Queen" -- based seemingly on the meter. This strikes me as an extreme stretch. "The May Queen" has a few incidental lyric similarities, and mentions a lover dying for love -- but the speaker is not the one dying; she is unrepentantly exultant that she is to be the Queen o' the May. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1
File: R707

Dying Hobo, The [Laws H3]

DESCRIPTION: An old hobo lies dying as winter approaches. He speaks of the "better land... where handouts grow on bushes" that he is destined for, sends a message to his girlfriend, and dies. His partner "swiped his (coat and hat) and caught an eastbound train"

AUTHOR: unknown (attributed to John Kern in the 1912 Railroad Trainman)

EARLIEST DATE: 1912 (The Railroad Trainman)

KEYWORDS: railroading train death friend robbery

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,NE,Ro,SE,So,SW)

REFERENCES (16 citations):

Laws H3, "The Dying Hobo"
Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, pp. 102-103, "The Dying Hobo" (1 text)
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 367-372, "The Dying Hobo" (1 text plus a large collection of alternate verses, 1 tune)
Randolph 837, "The Dying Hobo" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 360, "The Dying Hobo" (2 texts plus mention of 1 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 360, "The Dying Hobo" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)

Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 112, pp. 251-252, "The Dying Hobo"; 113, p. 252, "The Hobo's Death" (2 texts)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #163, "The Dying Hobo" (1 text)
Finger-FrontierBallads, pp. 106-107, "The Dying Hobo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 219, "Around a Western Water Tank" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, p. 131, "The Dying Hobo" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 56, "The Dying Hobo" (1 text)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, p. 30, "The Dying Hobo" (1 text)

cf. Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, p. 478, "The Dying Hobo" (source notes only)

DT 644, DYINHOBO LTTLSTRM

Roud #1937

RECORDINGS:

[Richard] Burnett & [Leonard] Rutherford, "Little Stream of Whiskey" (Columbia 15133-D, 1927; rec. 1926; on BurnRuth01, on KMM)
Travis B. Hale & E. J. Derry, Jr., "The Dying Hobo" (Victor 20796, 1927)
Kelly Harrell, "The Dying Hobo" (Victor 20527, 1926; on KHarrell01 -- a rather strange version combining the first verse of "The Dying Hobo" with a story, taken from "George Collins," of a girl mourning her dead lover)
Dick Justice, "One Cold December Day" (Brunswick 367, 1929 -- like the Harrell recording, this starts with a "Dying Hobo" verse, then parallels "George Collins")
George Lay, "The Dying Hobo" (AFS 12,050 A19, 1959; on LC61)
McMichen's Melody Makers, "The Dying Hobo" (Columbia 15464-D, 1929; rec. 1928)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Big Rock Candy Mountain" (lyrics)
cf. "The Hobo's Last Ride" (plot)
cf. "Beside the Brewery at St. Mihiel" (lyrics, theme)

NOTES [40 words]: Several sources list this as a parody of "Bingen on the Rhine." Laws, however, does not mention the connection; perhaps he knew versions with different tunes?

Thanks to Jim Dixon for pointing out the version in The Railroad Trainman. - JD, RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: LH03
Dying Hogger, The
DESCRIPTION: "A hogger on his deathbed lay, His life was oozing fast away...." He does not want a tombstone, merely memorials of his career. He asks to be buried in the shade of the watertank, "And put within my cold, still hand, A monkey-wrench and the old oil can."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)
KEYWORDS: railroading train death burial lastwill
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 186-187, "The Dying Hogger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #13615
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Beside the Brewery at St. Mihiel" (form)
File: San186

Dying Hoopmaker, The
DESCRIPTION: "A hooper lay dying 'Neath a sultry summer sky; In the green depths of a black ash swamp He had laid him down to die." A tree has fallen on him; the others cannot move it. He sends a message to his mother and dies
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan)
KEYWORDS: death lumbering mother
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan, pp. 176-179, "The Dying Hoopmaker" (1 text)
Roud #4072
NOTES [7 words]: This is item dC51 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: BBun176

Dying Irish Boy, The
DESCRIPTION: Burt is wounded in battle at Santiago Bay, Cuba, "while Victoria shall reign." He tells his friend, Bill O'Shea, to break the news of his death to his mother and to tell O'Shea's sister Mary that he still loves her.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast)
KEYWORDS: army battle death Ireland friend mother soldier
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Feb 15, 1898 - destruction of the U. S. S. Maine
Apr 19, 1898 - Although the Spanish have agreed to all American demands, including peace with the Cuban rebels, the U. S. issues a sort of preliminary declaration of war, listing U. S. goals
Apr 24, 1898 - Spain declares war on the U. S.; the U. S. will next day do the same, backdating it to April 21
May 19, 1898 - The Spanish fleet enters Santiago Bay
July 2, 1898 - The Spanish fleet at Santiago, acting under orders from Madrid, sails out into the teeth of the American fleet and is destroyed
July 10, 1898 - U. S. troops attack Santiago
July 17, 1898 - U. S. troops capture Santiago
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 44, "The Dying Irish Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST LLab044 (Partial)
Roud #9988
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Farewell to Slieve Gallen" (plot, themes, setting)
NOTES [55 words]: The ballad must have originally referred to "Columbia" rather than "Victoria." - BS
Or, just possibly, "Victoria" is correct and "Santiago Bay" is wrong, meaning the song might date to some other battle in British history during the reign of Victoria; other than the first verse, there are no real time or place references. - RBW

Dying Mine Brakeman, The (The True and Trembling Brakeman) [Laws G11]

DESCRIPTION: The young mine train motorman is horrified to discover that, because he could not stop in time, he has run over his brakeman. The dying brakeman speaks to his sister and sends messages to his parents.

AUTHOR: Orville J. Jenks (?)

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Aulton Ray)

KEYWORDS: mining death farewell family

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1915 - Death of the brakeman

FOUND IN: US(Ap,So)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Laws G11, "The Dying Mine Brakeman (The True and Trembling Brakeman)"
- Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 257-260, "The True and Trembling Brakeman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Randolph 695, "The True and Trembling Brakeman" (1 text)
- Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, "The True and Trembling Brakeman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 92, "True and Trembling Brakeman" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT 783, TREMBRAK*

Roud #8599

RECORDINGS:
- Ralph & Arthur Addington, "The Trembling Motorman" (AFS 2762, 1939)
- Alice Begley, "Just a Wild Reckless Motorman" (AFS 1457, 1937)
- Cliff Carlisle, "True and Trembling Brakeman" (Superior 2669/Champion 16295 [as the Lullaby Larkers], 1931; Champion 45029/Melotone [Canada] 45029, 1935; Montgomery Ward M-8036, 1939)
- Jess Johnson, "The Dying Brakeman" (Champion 16255, 1931)
- Carter Family, "The Reckless Motorman" (Decca 5722, 1938)
- Bradley Kincaid, "True and Trembling Brakeman" (Melotone 12184, 1931; Conqueror 8091, 1933; Vocalion 02683, 1934; Panachord [UK] 25901, 1937; Polk 9064/Panachord [Australia] P-12184, both n.d.)
- Paul Mason, "True and Trembling Brakeman" (OKeh 45479, 1930)
- New Lost City Ramblers, "True and Trembling Brakeman" (on NLCR05)
- Aulton Ray, "True and Trembling Brakeman" (Gennett 6129/Herwin 75552/Champion 15277/Challenge 269/Bell 1186 [as Carl Bunch]/Superior 385, all 1927)
- Mike Seeger, "The Reckless Motorman" (on MSeeger01)
- Mary Trusty, "The Wild and Reckless Motorman" (AFS 1395, 1937)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Dying Californian (I)" (words)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Reckless Motorman

NOTES [66 words]: Reportedly written by Jenks in the three months following the accident in 1915. Jenks was one of those involved in taking the brakeman's body from the wreckage. Cohen observes that this may be a case where a singer took traditional materials and reworked them, but there is no clear evidence of a version of this song (as opposed to "The Dying Californian" and its relatives) predating Jenks. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2

File: LG11

Dying Nun, The

DESCRIPTION: The dying nun asks that the window be opened so that she can feel the cool air and see the sky. She remarks that it is hard to die. She thanks Sister Martha for her care. She cherishes the ring she received from Douglas, and says she will join him soon.

AUTHOR: E. Mack (source: List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana) Dying Outlaw, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come gather around me, my comrades and friends, The sun it is setting on life's short day... Oh bury me on the lone prairie Where the hooves of the horses shall fall." The singer, killed by a "red-coated foeman," asks that his pony be buried with him.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1958

KEYWORDS: death burial outlaw police

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1873 - Establishment of the North West Mounted Police, who wore red jackets (hence the "red-coated foeman" of the song)

FOUND IN: Canada(West)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Fowke/Mills/Blume-CanadasStoryInSong, pp. 139-141, "The Dying Outlaw (1 text, 1 tune)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 118, "The Dying Outlaw" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #10957

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Streets of Laredo" [Laws B1] and references there

NOTES [30 words]: A Canadian member of the "Dying Cowboy/Unfortunate Rake" family. Despite the line in the refrain, it does not seem to have been influenced by "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie." - RBW

File: FMB139

Dying Ploughboy, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer, a ploughboy, feels a blood vessel burst in his chest; although his doctor tells him he'll be all right, he senses death is near. He bids farewell to his friends, his team of horses, and his plough

AUTHOR: Rev. R. H. Calder?

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan3)

KEYWORDS: disease farewell death dying farming horse friend worker

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast 26, p. 2, "The Term" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 700, "The Term" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 108, "The Dying Ploughboy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, p. 235, "The Dying Ploughboy" (1 text)
Dying Preacher, The (Hick's Farewell)

DESCRIPTION: "The time is swiftly rolling on When I must faint and die, My body to the dust returned And there forgotten lie." The dying preacher bids farewell to his wife and remembers his family fondly. He bids his fellow preachers to do their work well.

AUTHOR: probably Rev. Berryman Hicks 1778-1839

EARLIEST DATE: 1835 (Southern Harmony)

KEYWORDS: religious clergy death farewell

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (11 citations):
Randolph 617, "The Dying Preacher" (1 text, 1 tune)
Arnold-FolkSongsOfAlabama, p. 7, "Hicks' Farewell" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 530, "Hicks' Farewell" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 530, "Hicks' Farewell" (1 tune plus text excerpt)
Joyner-FolkSongInSouthCarolina, p. 78, "Hicks' Farewell" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 176, "Hicks Farewell" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 73-74, "Hick's Farewell" (1 text)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 122, "Hicks's Farewell" (6 texts, 6 tunes)
NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, (Ed Cray), "Three Folksongs from North Carolina" Vol. XI, No. 1 (Jul 1963), pp. 2-3, "Hicks' Farewell" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DYPREACH* HCKSFRWL*

ADDITIONAL: Original Sacred Harp, 1971 Denson Revision, p. 83, "The Dying Minister" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #2869

RECORDINGS:
Dillard Chandler, "Hick's Farewell" (on OldLove)
Texas Gladden, "Hicks' Farewell" (on LomaxCD1702)
Doc Watson & Gaither Carlton, "Hick's Farewell" (on FOTM, WatsonAshley01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Preacher's Legacy" (theme)
cf. "The Iron Mountain Baby" (tune)
cf. "Little Hillside" (first verse lyrics)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Minister's Last Goodbye

NOTES [267 words]: In the Sacred Harp (which has a much-shortened text), this is called "The Dying Minister" and the tune is said to have been written by E. Dumas in 1854. (Joyner-FolkSongInSouthCarolina credits it to William Walker, but Walker was almost certainly the arranger of the Southern Harmony version, not the composer.)

The attribution of this song to someone named Hicks seems strong, given the number of versions with his name in the title, but of course there were a lot of, um, hick preachers out there. The most famous Hicks in American religious history is surely Elias Hicks (1748-1830), a Quaker who eventually caused a split within that denomination. But this really doesn't sound like the work of a Quaker.

That leaves Berryman Hicks, whose career was researched by Jackson (White Spirituals in the Southern Uplands, pp. 203-205). He was a "noted revivalist," and a poet and violinist. Though this attribution too has its problems; he became "financially embarrassed for a large amount," and was apparently dropped from his (Baptist-affiliated) church. On the other hand, that might explain the cranky tone of the piece.

The mid-nineteenth century seems to have witnessed a number of these "Preacher's Confession" sorts of pieces. No doubt it was the usual situation of the elderly frowning on the degenerate morals of the young. - RBW
Properly speaking, this should be "Hicks's Farewell." - PJS the nitpicker
And I thought I was the only one who remembered such things! Of course, this particular error is more that of the transcriber than the singer.... - RBW
"More sung against than singing?" - PJS
Last updated in version 6.1
File: R617

Dying Prisoner, The
DESCRIPTION: A Union soldier is a prisoner in a Confederate prison and dying. He wishes for bread or water, and to be exchanged, or to see his mother or have a letter from home. Finally he knows death is near. He is going home where there's "no rebel sentry"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1866 (Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin)
KEYWORDS: Civilwar prison dying death patriotic soldier mother
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 28, "The Dying Prisoner" (1 text)
Roud #4266
File: MuLa028

Dying Ranger, The [Laws A14]
DESCRIPTION: A cowboy/soldier tells of his sister left alone at home. His comrades promise to treat her as their sister. The wounded man dies happy. (Other details occur in localized versions; the verses -- and the dying hero -- vary widely)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910
KEYWORDS: death family farewell
FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,So,SE) Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont)
REFERENCES (20 citations):
Laws A14, "The Dying Ranger" Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 397-398, "The Dying Cowboy" (1 text)
Randolph 188, "The Dying Cowboy" (2 texts, 2 tunes) AND 216, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text, 1
tune)
High-OldOldFolkSongs, p. 21, "Texas Ranger" (1 text, clearly this despite the title)
Abrahams/Riddle-ASingerAndHerSongs, pp. 31-33, "The Dying Ranger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 274-276, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text, 1 tune) Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 19, "The Shades of the Palmetto" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 50, "Ranger's Prayer" (1 text, not recognized as a version of this song, but with the same plot, metrical pattern, and some lyrics); 52, "The Dying Ranger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #19, "The Dying Ranger" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 64, "The Dying Ranger" (1 text)
Cox/Hercog/Halpert/Boswell-WVirginia-B, #10, p. 144, "The Dying Ranger" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Finger-FrontierBallads, pp. 170-173, "The Dying Ranger" (1 text)
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 243-245, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 53, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text)
Cox-FolkMusicInANewfoundlandOutport, pp. 43-47, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ives-FolksongsOfNewBrunswick, pp. 17-20, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text, 1 tune)
Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 88, "The Soldier's Farewell" (1 text, 1 tune) Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 202-205, "The Dying Ranger" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 689, DYRANGR DYNGCWBY
ADDITIONAL: Powder River Jack and Kitty Lee's _Songs of the Range: Cowboy Wails of Cattle
Trails_, Chart Music, 1937, p. 42, "The Dying Ranger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #628
RECORDINGS:
Arkansas Woodchopper [pseud. for Luther Ossenbrink] "The Dying Ranger" (Supertone Dying Rebel, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer finds a wounded man dying. He asks to be given last rites. He has been deceived by the French and betrayed by a friend. His wife and brother are dead, his children alone. Unwittingly, he caused his landlord's death at pikemen's hands. He dies.

AUTHOR: William Ball (source: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

EARLIEST DATE: "shortly after 1798" (according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

KEYWORDS: betrayal rebellion death France Ireland injury family

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1798 - Irish rebellion against British rule

REFERENCES:
- Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 138, "The Dying Rebel" (1 text)

NOTES: William Ball was a writer of humorous verse about Irish history; in this index, see "Cockledemoy (The French Invasion)," "Do as They Do in France," "The Dying Rebel," "Faithless Boney (The Croppies' Complaint)" -- though he doesn't seem to have made much impression on the wider world of literature; I have been unable to find any of his writings in any of my literary references. I wonder if this isn't an answer to something like "Betsy Gray." - RBW

File: Moyl138

---

Dying Seal-Hunter, The

DESCRIPTION: "I can hear their sirens blowing As they steam to hunt the foe Where the young whitecoats are growing...." The dying man asks to watch as his ship sails away. He recalls the work of sealing, and bids farewell to the people and life he is leaving.

AUTHOR: Otto P. Kelland (1904-2004)

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Kelland, Anchor Watch, Newfoundland Stories in Verse)

KEYWORDS: death hunting ship

REFERENCES:
- Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff, p. 149, "The Dying Seal-Hunter" (1 text)
- Roud #V44797

NOTES: For information about Otto Kelland, the author of this piece, see the notes to "Western Boat (Let Me Fish Off Cape St Mary's)."

Last updated in version 5.0

File: RySm149

---

Dying Soldier (I), The (Erin Far Away II) [Laws J7]

DESCRIPTION: A dying soldier asks a comrade to send a lock of his hair from India to his mother in Ireland. He sends his sister and brothers word of his death in the fight against the Sepoys. He dies and is buried.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy)
KEYWORDS: war soldier death family
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1857-1858 - Sepoy Mutiny in India. The inhabitants of Northern India revolt against the East India Company on behalf of their ancestral customs (many of which, such as the murder of widows, were abhorrent to Western opinion)
FOUND IN: US(MW) Ireland Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Laws J7, "The Dying Soldier (Erin Far Away II)"
Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy 50, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 50, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 166, "Old Erin Far Away" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H816, p. 92, "Old Ireland Far Away" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp.. 5-6, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text)
DT 827, DYSOLDR*
Roud #893
RECORDINGS:
Jerry Carey, "Old Erin Far Away" (on ONEFowke01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Erin Far Away (!)" [Laws J6] (plot, theme) and references there
NOTES [43 words]: This song is frankly so close to Laws J6 that I find it impossible to tell them apart. Even the first lines in Laws's sample versions are similar. Laws does not give reasons for the distinction. One should therefore examine the references for both songs. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.3
File: LJ07

Dying Soldier to His Mother, The

DESCRIPTION: "On the field of battle, mother, All the night alone I lay; Angels watching o'er me, mother, Till the breaking of the day." The soldier thinks of his mother, sends farewells to family, wishes he could repay mother, and bids farewell
AUTHOR: Words: Thomas MacKellar/Music: William U. Butcher
EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (Dime Songster #11)
KEYWORDS: battle death soldier mother
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 228, "The Dying Soldier to His Mother" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 208, "The Dying Soldier to His Mother" (1 excerpt, 1 tune)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 108-109, "The Dying Soldier" (1 text)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #551, pp. 36-37, "The Dying Soldier to His Mother" (6 references)
ST BrII228 (Partial)
Roud #6568
ALTERNATE TITLES:
On the Field of Battle, Mother
File: BrII228

Dying Soldier, (III) The

DESCRIPTION: "A youth lay on the battlefield of France's blood-stained soil ... The Red Cross nurse beside him ..." Nurse promises to send a letter, book and bible to his mother and his love to his sweetheart
AUTHOR: unknown
Dying Tramper, The

DESCRIPTION: A starving young tramper lay dying, His rucksack supporting his head. He asks that his mates "Wrap me up in my sleeping bag cover, And bury me deep down below." He asks that they carve big boots and ice axe on his grave "to show there's a tramper below"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1950 (Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook)

KEYWORDS: death derivative clothes rambling burial

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook, p. 82, "The Dying Tramper" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Wrap Me Up in My Tarpaulin Jacket" (tune)

NOTES [22 words]: This appears to be a gag parody of "The Dying Stockman" variant of "Wrap Me Up in My Tarpaulin Jacket" adapted to a modern hiker. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: Clev082

---

Dying Wisconsin Soldier, The

DESCRIPTION: The sun sets on "a forest Where a dying soldier lay... Far away from his dear Wisconsin home." He recalls his life, and his beloved sister, and how he answered when his country called. He dies and is buried by the Potomac

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin), with an earlier version from c. 1925

KEYWORDS: death soldier family farewell Civilwar derivative

FOUND IN: US(MW,So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, pp. 225-226, "The Dying Wisconsin Soldier" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 152, "The Wisconsin Soldier Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #628

CROSS-REFERENCES:

NOTES [191 words]: Roud, understandably, lumps this with "The Dying Ranger" [Laws A14]. There is no question but that this is derived from that; many lines, and even whole verses, are identical. But there are enough alterations to make it clear that this is a deliberate rewrite -- although not a very specific one; there are really no references to particular places or people in Wisconsin. Still, the soldier died by enemy fire near the Potomac. Most Wisconsin regiments in the Civil War served in the west; only a handful were sent east to join the Army of the Potomac. And only a handful of those were in service early in the war, when the front was close to the Potomac. The three major exceptions were the 2nd Wisconsin, which served as early as Bull Run, and the 6th and 7th Wisconsin, which were later combined in the famous Iron Brigade.

If we wanted to suggest an actual regiment, the 2nd Wisconsin makes sense; according to Boatner's Civil War Dictionary, p. 942, the 2nd Wisconsin had the highest percentage of soldiers killed in the entire Union army. Although we note that the 7th Wisconsin was #3 on the killed list, and the 6th wasn't far behind. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.3
File: Pet225

E-ri-e, The

DESCRIPTION: About a "terrible storm" on the Erie Canal. "Oh, the E-ri-e was a-rising And the gin was a-getting low, And I scarcely think we'll get a little drink Till we get to Buffalo." Humorous anecdotes of a highly hazardous voyage

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)

KEYWORDS: canal humorous cook animal wreck

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1825 - Erie Canal opens (construction began in 1817)

FOUND IN: US(MW) Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (12 citations):
- Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 144, "It's Let Go Your Bowline" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 245-246, "(no title)" (assorted excerpts; see also "Black Rock Pork" on pp. 243-244, which includes much of this song although without a chorus); pp. 250-251, "The E-ri-e" (1 text)
- Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 180, "The E-ri-e" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 45, "The E-ri-e" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 470-471, "The E-ri-e" (1 text, 1 tune); see also pp. 455-457, "Ballad of the Erie Canal" (1 text, composite and probably containing stanzas which belong here); pp. 459-463, "The Erie Canal Ballad" (8 texts, some fragmentary, the fourth of which appears to belong here)
- Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 103-104, "The E-ri-e" (1 text)
- Warner-FolkSongsAndBalladsOfTheEasternSeaboard, pp. 36-36, "The E-ri-e" (1 text)
- Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 333-335, "The Erie Canal" (1 text)
- Arnett-IHearAmericaSinging, p. 56, "The Erie Canal" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 87, "Erie Canal" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 43, "E-ri-e" (1 text)

DT, ERICANL1 ERIECNL3*
Roud #6599

RECORDINGS:
- Pete Seeger, "Erie Canal" (on PeteSeeger07, PeteSeeger07a)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Raging Canal (I)" (plot)
- cf. "A Trip on the Erie (Haul in Your Bowline)" (plot)
- cf. "A Nautical Yarn" (theme)
- cf. "The Erie Canal"
- cf. "Black Rock Pork" (plot, lyrics)
- cf. "Canalman's Farewel (Lay Me on the Horse-Bridge)" (lyrics)
- cf. "The Calabar" (theme)
- cf. "Stormy Weather Boys" (subject)
- cf. "The Farmington Canal Song" (theme)
- cf. ""The Wreck of the Mary Jane"" (theme)
- cf. "The Wreck of the Varty" (theme)
cf. "On Board the Bugaboo" (theme)
cf. "Changing Berth" (theme)
cf. "The Wreck of the Gwendoline" (theme)
cf. "The Fish and Chip Ship" (theme)
cf. "The Shipwreck on the Lagan Canal" (theme)

NOTES [222 words]: The Erie Canal, as originally constructed, was a completely flat, shallow waterway. The barges were drawn along by mules. Thus, apart from getting wet, storms posed little danger, and the only way one could run aground was to run into trash that had fallen into the canal.

As for needing a distress signal ("We h'isted (the cook) upon the pole As a signal of distress"), one could always step off onto dry land....

The Lomaxes, in American Ballad and Folk Songs, thoroughly mingled many texts of the Erie Canal songs (in fairness, some of this may have been the work of their informants -- but in any case the Lomaxes did not help the problem). One should check all the Erie Canal songs for related stanzas.

Dan Milner, in the essay "Collecting Occupational Songs" in Scott B. Spencer, editor, The Ballad Collectors of North America, Scarecrow Press, 2012, pp. 198-199, observes that it is not known whether this song derives from the Harrigan and Hart piece "Buffalo" (printed 1878) or vice versa. The song he refers to is "Oh! Dat Low Bridge!" (Finson-Edward-Harrigan-David-Braham, vol. II, #122, pp. 139-141) that begins "It's many miles to Buffalo, Oh, dat low bridge, Balky mule he travel slow, Oh, dat low bridge...." It also talks about the cook. How much inspiration flowed between that song and this I do not know. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2
File: LxU045

E. A. Horton, The [Laws D28]

DESCRIPTION: The E. A. Horton is taken by Canadian authorities and her crew imprisoned. The captain leads his men on a daring escape; they recapture their ship and sail home

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (Creighton-NovaScotia)
KEYWORDS: sea prison escape
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Oct 8, 1871 - Canada seizes the E. A. Horton (then in Halifax harbor) on a charge of fishing inside Canadian territorial waters
FOUND IN: US(MW) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Laws D28, "The E. A. Horton"
Ives-FolksongsFromMaine 11, "The E. A. Horton" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 239-241, "The Schooner E. A. Horton" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 144, "Seizure of the E J Horton" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 753, EAHORTON*
Roud #1840
CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [74 words]: Although this event was celebrated enough to inspire at least two songs, reading the description of what happened on p. 212 of Beck-FolkloreOfMaine makes it sound as if the Americans were more in the wrong than the Canadians. Possibly the Edward A. Horton was innocent of the charge against her, but that should have been settled by diplomacy, not international piracy. Which is what this was, although the songs don't ever use the word. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.6
File: LD28

E. P. Walker

DESCRIPTION: E. P. Walker's thresher gets caught and fails to work. Someone drops in a wrench; the engineer can't be found. Another farmer buys a different threshing machine. Cho: "E.P. Walker mounted to the separator/E.P. Walker, with his oilcan in his hand...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1912 (composed)
LONG DESCRIPTION: E. P. Walker, a thresher, gets caught in the machinery, then the machine repeatedly fails to work. Someone accidentally drops in a monkey wrench; they try to stop the machine, but the engineer can't be found. Finally another farmer, not wanting to take a chance, goes and buys a different brand of threshing machine. Cho: "E.P. Walker mounted to the separator/E.P. Walker, with his oilcan in his hand...Took his farewell trip to the thresher's land"
KEYWORDS: farming harvest technology work worker
FOUND IN: Canada(West)
RECORDINGS:
Frank Hanson, "E. P. Walker" (on Saskatch01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Casey Jones (I)" [Laws G1] (tune, structure, a few lyrics) and references there NOTES [96 words]: According to Barbara Cass-Beggs, "This song was composed in the fall of 1912, during the delays in threshing, by the young homesteaders who made up the threshing crew. E. P. Walker's threshing machine was the first to be brought into the newly settled district of Malvern Link.... All the names are authentic and so are the incidents.... The song was very popular and is still remembered."
A very local traditional song, but traditional nonetheless. The song was collected from Winnifred Turner of Swift Current, Sask., whose late husband was one of the farmers mentioned. - PJS
File: RcEPWalk

Eadie

DESCRIPTION: "Go way, Eadie, you dirty dog, wo, Eadie, go away" (x2). "Go away, Eadie, quit worryin' me." "Told you once and I told you twice." "Next time I tell you goin' to take yur life."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (collected from Lightning and Dave Tippen)
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 363-364, "Eadie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #15593
File: LoSi363

Eagle Rock

DESCRIPTION: "Millionaires grow in Chicago, in mansions of marble and price, Homes grow in Eagle Rock, and friendships, true and tried." "Plutocracy thrives in proud New York... Real brotherhood grows in Eagle Rock." "Give me that dear Idaho town."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Idaho Lore, according to Cohen)
KEYWORDS: home nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p 588, "Eagle Rock" (1 text)
File: CAFS2588

Eagle With Her Gallant Crew, The

DESCRIPTION: In May the Eagle sails to Greenland to "chase the bear and walrus and for capturing of the whales." "I hope in health with wealth and prosperity they will return once more To their parents, wives, and loved ones on the Terra Nova shore"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: home parting return commerce hunting sea ship work nonballad animal whale sailor
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #30149
RECORDINGS:
Mr. Powers, "The Eagle With Her Gallant Crew" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
NOTES [86 words]: This is probably not about the Eagle (II) that was the very last of Newfoundland's sealing steamers, which is discussed in "The Ice-Floes" and "The Last of the Wooden Walls"; that ship was built too late to do much whaling service in the north. I suspect that it was instead the first Eagle, which was also a sealing steamer; she joined the Newfoundland fleet in 1871 (Ryan, p. 150) and lasted until 1893 (Chafe, p. 99). I don't know how successful she was as a whaler, but at least she had a chance to try. - RBW

Bibliography

Last updated in version 4.4
File: ML3EwHGC

Eamon An Chnuic (Ned of the Hill)

DESCRIPTION: Gaelic. Ned of the Hill sings at Eileen's bower asking that they marry though he has no wealth. Although her castle is guarded she escapes from the tower and goes with him. He spends his life wandering Ireland seeking shelter from his outlawry

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster); see NOTES

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage poverty elopement love exile outlaw

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- OBoyle-TheIrishSongTradition, p. 33, "Eamon an Chnoic" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
- Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 82, "Ned of the Hill" (1 text)
- DT, NEDHILL* NEDHILL2* (NEDHILL3)

RECORDINGS:
The Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem, "Eamon An Chnuic" (on IRClancyMakem03)

NOTES [798 words]: Sleeve notes to IRClancyMakem03: "Edmond O'Ryan, the hero of this Gaelic song, was born in Kilnamanagh, County Tipperary, before the wars of 1690. After the defeat of James II, whom he supported, he was outlawed and had his estates confiscated.... The song, in describing the outlaw driven by pain and beating on the closed door of his beloved, symbolized the lonely cause of Ireland." - BS

There seems to be confusion about (O')Ryan; the Digital Tradition notes to NEDHILL2 say he was displaced after the Boyne, but by Cromwell, who of course had been in his grave for more than thirty years at the time of the Boyne.

There is another O'Ryan item, in Kathleen Hoagland, 1000 Years of Irish Poetry (1947), p. 171, "Ah! What Woes Are Mine"); it's just possible that this is another translation of "Eamon An Chnuic," but if so, it's a very different one. Hoagland also dates O'Ryan to the period after the Boyne.

A search of six different books of Irish history covering this period revealed no references to (O')Ryan. Internet searches were no more revealing; one site which discussed this song said that there was no positive evidence of his existence. This despite a large assortment of tales about him -- one version has it that he was eventually betrayed for the reward money, only to have his murderer learn that his proscription had been lifted. The form of this song varies, too; in some texts, O'Ryan is seeking his love; in others, merely shelter from the English.

A summary of the various legends is given in Daithi O hOgain, The Lore of Ireland, Boydell Press, 2006, pp. 398-399. It gives his full name as Eamonn an Chnoic O Maollriain, which easily shortened to O Riain, and hence to Ryan. Legend gave his birthplace as Knockmeoll Castle near Ashanboe in Tipperary.

O hOgain says that he was proclaimed outlaw in 1702 (about the time of William III's death and long after Cromwell was gone); a reward of 200 pounds was offered for his capture. His girlfriend was said to be named Mary Leahy.

O hOgain speculates that the song "Eamonn an Chnuic" actually predates the person, and gave him his name.

The rest, according to O hOgain, is legend; many of the stories are told of other heroes as well as of Eamon An Chnuic. Clearly, whatever the historical truth, the tale has grown in the telling. My guess is that research on the topic has been limited because historians think Eamon a figure of folklore, while folklorists think him historical.

Jon W. Finson, The Voices That Are Gone: Themes in Nineteenth-Century American Popular Song, Oxford University Press, 1994, p. 272, says that "Ah Who Is That, or Emunh a Cnuic, or Ned of the Hill" was published by James Hewitt in "The Music of Erin" (1807). That obviously sounds like the same song, but the text that Finson quotes cannot be sung to this tune, and doesn't really fit either of the plots I've seen in other versions (the exile from Erin or the minstrel courting above his station), so I have not listed that as the earliest date.

Note that the widely heard "Ned of the Hill" by The Pogues is not, properly, a version of this song, but rather an attack on the memory of Oliver Cromwell based loosely on the story that lies behind the song; Terry Wood was largely responsible for that one.

With all that said, I'll tell you what I think is the history of this song, based solely on the directions in which it has evolved:

1. Someone wrote an instrumental piece, for fiddle or harp (the range is large for a vocal song), called either "Eamon An Chnuic" or "Ned of the Hill," probably the former. I've heard it said that Neil Gow played this tune, but can't verify it, so I don't want to strongly suggest he was the composer.
2. This was twice given words, in either Gaelic or English:
   - Text 1: refers to the harper winning a woman above his station ("Dark is the evening and silent the hour, Who is the minstrel by yonder lone tower? His harp all so tenderly toughing with skill, Oh ho could it be but young Ned of the Hill")
   - Text 2: refers to a rebel fleeing his home ("Oh who is without that in anger they should Keep beating my bolted door? I am Ned of the Hill, long weary and chill, from long trudging over marsh and moor").

Whatever language each version was created in, it was translated into the other, possibly with some cross-fertilization.

3. The various legends arose from interpretations of this text. Thus, rather than a hypothetical Eamon O'Ryan inspiring the song, the song created an Eamon O'Ryan. Or several of them. Of the texts cited here, Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, DT NEDHILL, are a "Dark is the evening and silent the hour" types. DT NEDHILL2 is a Gaelic text with a translation attributed to Donal O'Sullivan which is a "Oh who is without " type. DT NEDHILL3 is the Pogues rework. - RBW

Earl Bothwell [Child 174]

DESCRIPTION: A tale of the woes of Scotland. David [Riccio], the Queen's servant, is murdered with twelve daggers. King and Queen quarrel over this. Bothwell takes the king and hangs him. This produces such anger that the Queen flees to England

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1750 (Percy folio)

KEYWORDS: royalty nobility homicide death exile betrayal

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1542 - Mary Stewart, at the age of eight days, becomes Queen of Scotland. She later becomes Queen of France by virtue of her marriage to the French King Francis III.
- 1560 - Death of Francis III. Mary eventually returns to Scotland to rule it directly for the first time
- 1566 - Murder of David Riccio (falsely called "Lord David"), secretary to Mary Stewart (rumour had it that he was her lover, but there is no evidence of this)
- 1567 - Murder of Henry, Lord Darnley, Mary's husband (he was in a house which blew up, but from the state of his body it appears that he was dead before the explosion). Mary Stewart soon after (forcibly?) married to James Hepburn, the fourth Earl of Bothwell (here called "Bodwell"). She was deposed not long after
- 1568 - Mary escapes to England
- 1578 - Death of Bothwell
- 1587 - Execution of Mary Stewart by Elizabeth I of England

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Child 174, "Earl Bothwell" (1 text)
- Hales/Furnival-BishopPercysFolioManuscript, volume II, pp. 260-264, "Earl Bodwell" (1 text)
- Percy/Wheatley-ReliquesOfAncientEnglishPoetry II, pp. 213-218, "The Murder of the King of NOTES [540 words]: According to Fowler p. 158 n. 25, this is one of eighteen ballads in the Child collection found only in the Percy Folio. Rollins, p. 161, speculates that his item #1843, entitled "concerning the murder of the late kinge of Scottes," registered March 24, 1579 by Thomas Gosson, is this piece. The date makes this possible, but it seems not unlikely that there were multiple items about the murder of Henry Lord Darnley, so there is no real reason to think them the same. In any case, several of the Stuart kings were murdered prior to Darnley, and were probably the subject of songs, although there would obviously be less reason to print such an item in 1579. Henry Lord Darnley was Mary Stuart's cousin (and heir if she remained childless), and after their marriage he was addressed as King (although never formally granted the crown matrimonial -- that is, if Mary died before Darnley, he would not become king in his own right; the crown would pass to her children; Lyon, pp. 190-191). Darnley is thus the "king" of this ballad and Mary the Queen. The Queen of England is, of course, Elizabeth I (reigned 1558-1603). Mary Stuart was Elizabeth's heir under strict primogeniture, although Henry VIII had barred her branch of the family in his will (Lyon, p. 177).

Darnley was Mary's second husband -- she had earlier been married to Francis II of France, who however died young (Magnusson, pp. 332-333). Mary's and Darnley's relationship seems to have started with passion -- Mary was a very passionate woman -- but cooled extremely quickly. The murder of Riccio at the hands of Darnley and his allies is believed to have been a friend by the toy king to increase his own power (Oram, pp. 255-256).

Darnley's turn came not long after. He had been ill -- it has been suggested that the cause was syphilis (Magnusson, p. 356) and had been recovering at a house called Kirk o' the Field. Mary visited him there, but after she left, the house exploded (Magnusson, p. 357). Darnley's dead body was found in the wreckage. An investigation determined that Darnley had been killed before the explosion -- there were no marks on his body (Oram, p. 256). Contrary to the song, however, it was believed he was suffocated, not hanged. The person directly responsible has never been determined (Oram, p. 257); some have blamed Mary herself. Suspicion at the time, however, pointed directly at Earl Bothwell (Magnusson, p. 358). He was actually tried -- but controlled the proceedings and was easily able to secure acquittal (Magnusson, p. 358). It was Mary's response that brought her down: For some inexplicable reason, she voluntarily married Bothwell (Magnusson, p. 359; Oram, p. 257). Things fell apart rapidly after than, and Mary, her government in tatters, soon had to flee to England, leaving her baby son James VI as king (Magnusson, pp. 360-363). She would end up in the hands of Elizabeth I, eventually to be executed for conspiring against that monarch.

It is a tragic and regrettable story -- the more so since almost all of it was the result of Mary's own mistakes. (A spelling note: The Scottish spelling of Mary's name was "Stewart." Since, however, she spent much of her youth in France, she used the French spelling "Stuart.") - RBW

Bibliography

- Lyon: Ann Lyon, Constitutional History of the United Kingdom, Cavendish, 2003

Last updated in version 5.3
File: C174
Earl Brand [Child 7]

DESCRIPTION: (Earl Brand) falls in love with a high lady against her father's will. They flee together, but are overtaken. Earl Brand slays almost all the pursuers, but is himself sorely wounded. They flee on, but at last Earl Brand must stop and dies.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1750 (Percy Folio)

KEYWORDS: courting death fight

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North),Scotland) US(Ap,MA,MW,NE,SE,So) Canada(Mar,Newf)

REFERENCES (55 citations):
Child 7, "Earl Brand" (9 texts)
Bronson 7, "Earl Brand" (42 versions plus 2 in addenda)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 7, "Earl Brand" (6 tunes: #1b, #3, #11, #23, #25, #37)
Percy/Wheatley-ReleticsOfAncientEnglishPoetry l, pp. 131-139, "The Child of Elle" (2 texts, one being that of the Percy Folio and the other the result of Percy's reconstruction of the text)
Hales/Furnival-BishopPercysFoliaoManuscript, volume I, pp 132-134, "The Child of Elle" (1 fragment)
Chambers-ScottishBallads, pp. 98-100, "The Douglas Tragedy" (1 text)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #57, p. 1, "The Douglas Tragedy" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan2 220, "Lord Douglas" (13 texts, 8 tunes) {A=Bronson's #7, E=#8, F=#9, H=#25}
Lyle-AIeAndrew-CrawfordsCollectionVolume2 87, "Lord Thomas and Ladie Margaret" (1 text)
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 6-7, "The Brave Earl Brand" (1 text, 1 tune) {cf. Bronson's #1b)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 35-40, "The Seven Brothers" (2 texts, 2 tunes) {Bronson's #6, #28)
Randolph 3, "Rise Ye Up" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #27)
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 228-230, "Lord William and Lady Margaret" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #38)
Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland1, pp. 128-130, "Earl Brand" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #38)
Davis-TraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 4, "Earl Brand" (4 texts plus 1 of "The Bold Soldier," 2 tunes entitled "The Seven Brothers, or The Seven Sleepers";"The Seven Brothers, or Lord William"; 1 more version mentioned in Appendix A) {Bronson's #24, #40)
Davis-MoreTraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 5, pp. 26-34, "Earl Brand" (4 texts, 4 tunes; the "CC" text looks mixed)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 3, "Earl Brand" (2 texts plus 2 excerpts and mention of 3 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 3, "Earl Brand" (7 excerpts, 7 tunes)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #146, "Earl Brand" (1 text)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 5A, "Seven Sleepers"; 5B, "Lord William and Lord Douglas" (1 text plus 1 fragment, 2 tunes)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 154-156, "Sweet William" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 2, pp. 66-68, "Earl Brand" (1 text)
Hudson-FolkTunesFromMississippi 22, "Sweet William (Earl Brand)" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #17)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolksongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 79, "Sweet Willie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-FolksongsAndBalladsOfTheEasternSeaboard, pp. 8-9, "Sweet Willie" (1 text)
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 45-46, "Sweet Willie (Earl Brand)" (1 text)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 115-116, "Earl Brand" (1 text, properly titled "Sweet William," plus an untitled excerpt)
Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 4, "Earl Brand" (1 text plus mention of 1 more, 1 tune) {Bronson's #35)
Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 38, "Lady Margaret" (1 text)
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 2, "Lord Robert" (1 text)
Karpeles-FolksongsFromNewfoundland 2, "Earl Brand" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #10)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 66-71, "Earl Brand" (2 texts)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 38, "Earl Brand"; 39, "The Douglas Tragedy" (2 texts)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 68, "Earl Brand (The Douglas Tragedy)" (1 text+1
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 404-406, "The Douglas Tragedy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 33, "Earl Brand"; 49, "The Douglas Tragedy" (2 texts)
Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 5, "Earl Brand" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
Gummere-OldEnglishBallads, pp. 206-208+349-350, "Earl Brand" (1 text)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 4 "Earl Brand" (12 texts, 12 tunes) {Bronson's #13, #15, #14, #12, #11, #19, #20, #39, #26, #16, #36, #18}
Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 3, "The Seven Sleepers" (1 text, 1 tune -- a single traditional verse filled out from other printed sources by the editor) {Bronson's #20, but Bronson has a different text}
Wells-TheBalladTree, pp. 147-148, "Sweet William and Fair Ellen" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #37}
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 2, "The Seven Brethren" (1 text)
Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 29, "Earl Brand (the Douglas Tragedy)" (1 text)
Whiting-TraditionalBritishBallads 13, "The Douglas Tragedy (Earl Brand)" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 2, "Earl Brand" (1 text)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 8-9, "The Seven Sons" (1 text, 1 tune)
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, p. 17-18, "The Seven Sons" (1 text, 1 tune)
HarvardClassics-EnglishPoetryChaucerToGray, pp. 51-54, "The Douglas Tragedy" (1 text)
Abrahams/Foss-AngloAmericanFolksongStyle, pp. 7-8, "Earl Brand" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 216, "Earl Brand" (1 text)
cf. Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN2487, "There was a bold seaman, a ship he could steer" DT 7, DOUGTRAD* DOUGTRD2
Roud #23
RECORDINGS:
I. G. Greer & Mrs. I. G. Greer, "Sweet William (Earl Brand)" (AFS; on LC12) {Bronson's #34a/b}; Professor & Mrs. Greer, "Sweet William & Fair Ellen - Pts. 1 & 2" (Paramount 3236, 1930)
Henry McGregor, "The Douglas Tragedy (Earl Brand)" (on FSBBAL1)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Erlinton" [Child 8] (plot)
cf. "The Bold Soldier [Laws M27]" (plot)
cf. "The Child of Elle (II)" (some plot elements: elopement, chase by father)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Sweet Willie
Jolly Soldier
Lord William's Death
William and Ellen Brandywine
The Child of Ell
Fair Ellender
Sweer William and Fair Ellen
As He Rode Up to the Old Man's Gate
Lady Margaret
NOTES [521 words]: Child admits that he has "only with much hesitation" separated this from "Erlinton" [Child 8], and many others have inclined to join them. Scott viewed "A Child of Elle" (the Percy text of this piece) as a forerunner of "Erlinton." But it should be kept in mind that Percy's text was more than 80% Percy -- and, as Hales and Furnivall comment on p. 133, "A wax-doll-maker might as well try to restore Milo's Venus." No conclusions can be drawn based on the Percy text. Two of Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles's versions seem to be mixed texts; both relate a conversation between the knight and his horse, and end with the intertwined rose-and-briar. (This is not uncommon in American versions; Robert Shiflett, of Brown's Cove, Virginia, had a similar mixed version.) The second, "William and Ellen," consists primarily of these elements; little is left of the plot of "Earl Brand."
Quite a few people (e.g. Eddy) list "The Bold Soldier" [Laws M27] as a version of this balled, and some few of these may have slipped into the above list.
Reed, p. 139, remarks that "Various versions of the story exist in Danish [a connection of course known and cited by Child], as in English; Hidebrand and Hilde is much the same as Ribolt [und Guldborg], and involves the 'naming to death' incident which is almost entirely obscured in the Border accounts. The superstition that speaking of a person's name will ensure his death is widespread, and perhaps remains in a vestigial form in Erlinton:
'See ye dinna change your cheer
Until ye see my body bleed'.
and in The Hunting of the Cheviot...."
Reed goes on to repeat a point raised by Wimberly, that the refusal to give one's name is "a commonplace in romances where knights encounter without knowing the names of their antagonists." This is perhaps most common in the Arthurian romances, especially around the time of Malory (where it makes some sense, because by that time armor was so elaborate that one knight might not recognize another; it is anachronistic in the time of the pseudo-historical Arthur; Saxons and Roman Britons did not have such heavy armor). This failure to know another knight reached its apex in the "Tale of Balan and Balin," the second major section of Malory's Morte Darthur, based on the French Roman de Balain (Loomis, p. 392). In that, the two brothers meet, fight, mortally wound each other, and only recognize each other when they are dying. However, that really was mostly a medieval problem; by the time this ballad was being sung, firearms had resulted in the abandonment of heavy armor.
Incidentally, there is at least one historical instance of a man fighting off six enemies but then being wounded from behind: William the Marshal, famous for his service with Kings Richard I and John, and infamous for the role he allegedly played in "Queen Eleanor's Confession" [Child 156], was part of a party that was attacked in 1168. His horse was killed under him before he had donned all his armor, but he killed the horses of six attackers before one came from behind and disabled him by spearing him in the thigh (McLynn, pp. 62-63). - RBW
Bibliography

- Loomis: Roger Sherman Loomis and Laura Hibbard Loomis, editors (and translators), Medieval Romances, 1957 (I use the undated Modern Library paperback)
- Reed: James Reed, The Border Ballads, University of London/The Athlone Press, 1975

Earl Crawford [Child 229]
DESCRIPTION: Lady Crawford marries the Earl at a young age, and soon bears a son. She thinks Crawford loves the child more than he loves her. They quarrel and separate. Both wish to reconcile, both think the other has refused to do so, both die for love
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Buchan, Ballads of the North, according to Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads (Child 229B))
KEYWORDS: love separation children jealousy death
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Child 229, "Earl Crawford" (2 texts)
Bronson 229, "Earl Crawford" (2 versions)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 229, "Earl Crawford" (2 versions: #1, #2)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 589-592, "Earl Crawford" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 147-149, "Earl Crawford" (1 text)
DT, CRAWFRD*
Roud #3880
File: C229

Earl of Aboyne, The [Child 235]
DESCRIPTION: The Earl goes to London, leaving his wife behind. She hears that he has been courting others. When he returns, she makes a fine show but disdains him. He prepares once again to depart, and says she may not go with him. She dies for love
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1803 (Skene ms.)
Earl of Errol, The [Child 231]

DESCRIPTION: The Earl of Errol weds Kate Carnegie, perhaps for the sake of her large dowry. Kate complains that "Errol is no' a man." Errol disproves the charge by having an illegitimate child. Kate wishes to abandon him; he will not give up her dowry

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1803 (Edinburgh Magazine)

KEYWORDS: marriage pregnancy infidelity

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1658 - Wedding of Gilbert Hay, tenth earl of Errol, to Catherine Carnegie. The marriage was childless, and apparently unhappy (there was some sort of hearing in 1659), but lasted, at least officially, until Errol's death in 1674

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (7 citations):
- Child 231, "The Earl of Errol" (6 texts)
- Bronson 231, "The Earl of Errol" (6 versions)
- Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 231, "The Earl of Errol" (3 tunes: #1, #4, #6)
- Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbuchatBallads, pp. 106-108, "Lord Errol" (1 text)
- Greig/Duncan7 1366, "Errol on the Green" (5 texts, 2 tunes)
- Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 38, "The Earl of Errol" (1 text)
- Kinloch-TheBalladBook IX, pp. 31-36, "Earl of Errol" (1 text)

Roud #96

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Dundee, It's a Pretty Place" (floating lyrics)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- Lady Errol

NOTES [71 words]: Child said of this piece, "Errol is an unpleasant ballad but decidedly of the popular kind. It could not be left out. The collection is not meant for family reading. I shall strain the case against certain indecent ballads and exclude them if I can give a reason besides indecency." (See Mary Ellen Brown, Child's Unfinished Masterpiece: The English and Scottish Popular Ballads, University of Illinois Press, 2011, p. 137.)

Last updated in version 4.1

File: C231
Earl of Mar's Daughter, The [Child 270]

DESCRIPTION: The earl's daughter brings home a dove, who at night turns into a man and begets seven sons by her. When a man woos the earl's daughter, the earl decides to kill the bird and have her marry. The bird returns with an avian army and reclaims his love.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Buchan)

KEYWORDS: love, courting, bird, childbirth, father, marriage, rescue

FOUND IN: Britain (Scotland)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
- Child 270, "The Earl of Mar's Daughter" (1 text)
- Bronson 270, "The Earl of Mar's Daughter" (1 version)
- Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 641-645, "The Earl of Mar's Daughter" (1 text)
- Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 186-188, "The Earl of Mar's Daughter" (1 text)
- Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 25, "Earl Mar's Daughter" (1 text)
- DT, MARDAUGH

ADDITIONAL: Walter de la Mare, _Come Hither_, revised edition, 1928; #324, "The Earl of Mar's Daughter" (1 text)

Roud #3879

NOTES [94 words]: Joseph Jacobs, collector, _English Fairy Tales_, originally published 1890; revised edition 1898 (I use the 1967 Dover paperback reprint), comments that this is "clearly a fairy tale and not a ballad proper. The name Florentine is sufficient to prove that the tale does not belong to the Celtic area." He points out the analogy of a lover coming in the disguise of a bird is very old -- Leda and the Swan being an obvious example, but Jacobs says that the earliest "post-classic form" is the Irish "Tugall Brudne da Derga," "The Destruction of Derga's Fort." - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

File: C270

Earl of Westmoreland, The [Child 177]

DESCRIPTION: Following the failure of his revolt, Neville of Westmoreland flees to Scotland and is taken to Hume Castle. Neville at last sails for Seville, and is given office by the queen. He fights the heathen and is victorious, and receives various rewards.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1750 (Percy folio)

KEYWORDS: rebellion, exile, nobility, royalty, battle, fight

FOUND IN: Britain

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Child 177, "The Earl of Westmoreland" (1 text)
- Hales/Furnival-BishopPercysFolioManuscript, volume I, pp. 292-312, "Earle of Westmorlande" (1 text)

Roud #4007

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Rising in the North" [Child 175] (subject)
- cf. "Northumberland Betrayed by Douglas" [Child 176] (subject)

NOTES [263 words]: According to David C. Fowler, _A Literary History of the Popular Ballad_, Duke University Press, 1968, p. 158 n. 25, this is one of eighteen ballads in the Child collection found only in the Percy Folio.

For the background to this song, see the notes on "The Rising in the North" [Child 175]; also "Northumberland Betrayed by Douglas" [Child 176].

The song itself is almost pure fiction; the only truth is in the introduction, in which Neville flees to Scotland, goes to Hume, and sails to the Continent. (In reality, he spend the rest of his life in exile in Flanders.)

One suspects that this story somehow got mixed up with a romance. (This would be no surprise for a piece in the Percy Folio, which contained romances as well as ballads, and in some cases cut romances down to ballad size.) I have this odd feeling the legend of Guy of Warwick is involved (though the only clear similarity between the two is that both fought pagans); Guy was not a Neville, but the most famous Earl of Warwick in English history was of the Neville family (though a cadet branch); the main Neville line was, in fact, the Nevilles of Westmoreland.
There seem to be no actual ballads about Guy of Warwick, but he did gain a place in popular mythology, as this verse about a local beverage attests:

Of Guy Earl of Warwick our country can boast,
Who in fighting and thuming ruled lord of the roast;
He with courage relentless his foes did assail,
For he strengthened his sinews with Birmingham ale.

Earl Rothes [Child 297]

DESCRIPTION: Lady Ann is enamored of Earl Rothes, though he is married. Her (parents?) promise to care for her well if she will forget him. She says she will stay with Earl Rothes until her child is born. Her young brother vows revenge. But she stays with the Earl.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE:

KEYWORDS: love courting infidelity nobility family

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Child 297, "Earl Rothes" (1 text)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 682-683, "Earl Rothes" (1 text)

Roud #4025

File: C297

Early in the Morning (II)

DESCRIPTION: "Early in the morning, just about the break of day, You ought to see me grab my pillow Where my good gal used to lay." The singer is going up river; he complains about his girl, his life, his failure to listen to mother, the need to travel to escape jail.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (Wheeler)

KEYWORDS: travel separation mother prison

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Wheeler-SteamboatinDays, pp. 104-105, "Early in the Mornin'" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #10038

File: MWhee104

Early in the Morning (III)

DESCRIPTION: "I meet (little Rosa/my mother/brother Robert/etc.) earty in the morning, and I ask her, 'How you do my (daughter)? Oh, Jerusalem, early in the morning."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)

KEYWORDS: nonballad dancing

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, p. 44, "Early in the Morning" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #12000

File: AWG044

Early in the Morning (IV -- prison song)

DESCRIPTION: An axe song with unfixed lyrics. "Well, it's early in the morning, hear the dingdong ring." "Well, I'm don in the bottom, on a live oak log." "Partner can't hold me, hold me no longer." "Murder on Darrington, Godamighty my lord, Who was the rider?"

AUTHOR: unknown
Early in the Morning when the Cock Begins to Crow

DESCRIPTION: "Early in the morning when the cock begins to crow, Off you work you know your father has to go, With his little nosebag a-plodding through the rain, We shout 'Good morning, father," and we go to sleep again."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1966 (collected from Mrs. E. M. Turner by John Fletcher, according to Raven)

KEYWORDS: work father bird

FOUND IN: Britain(England)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Raven, "The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham.", Broadside, 1977, p. 186, "Early in the Morning" (1 short text, 1 tune)

Roud #1135
File: JRUI186

Early in the Morning, About Eight O'Clock (The Postman's Knock)

DESCRIPTION: Skipping game and counting rhyme. "Early in the morning, about eight o'clock, Thought I heard the postman's knock. Up jumps Mary to open the door, See how many letters on the floor. One, two,..."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: playparty wordplay

FOUND IN: Britain New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 109, ("Early one morning, about eight o'clock") (1 text)

Roud #13177
File: SuSm109A

Early Life in Dixie

DESCRIPTION: "As I was loafing on Main Street one day A comrade came to me and thus he did say," that the singer has been chosen to go to [Utah] Dixie to raise cotton and wine. Failed crops, poverty, and a wishto die await him, but they manage to make things better

AUTHOR: Samuel "Doc" Kenner, according to Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah's informant William R. Palmer

EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)

KEYWORDS: travel hardtimes farming poverty home

FOUND IN: US(Ro)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #231, "Early Life in Dixie" (1 text)

Roud #10907
File: Hubb231
Early Monday Morning

DESCRIPTION: "Early Monday morning the maid came at the door With her shoes and stockings in her hand and I don't know what before. I tied up her garter so neatly and so trim She threw her arms apart and I hugged her quietly in"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs)

KEYWORDS: courting clothes

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, pp. 32-33, "Early Monday Morning" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #2275

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Cindy (I)" (floating verses there and many other songs)

NOTES [170 words]: Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs: "[The singer] probably knew more verses but, being questionable, he refrained from singing them."

From Jefferson Democrat, Hillsboro, Jefferson county, Missouri, FRIDAY, 23 DECEMBER 1870 "JEFFERSON COUNTY SIXTY YEARS AGO - .... If, by chance, a young lady fell heir to a pair of shoes -- as times improved -- when she went abroad she always carried her shoes and stockings in her hand until near her journey's end, when she would stop and put them on, smooth back her hair, and all was right." (Source: rootsweb pub site) See a similar note in Early Settlers of Sangamon County -- 1876 by John Carroll Power at rootsweb site.

Note also the following from "The Maid of Ballymore": Markie Bawn's sweetheart has just told him she will marry if he gets her parents consent. "Markie Bawn he was overjoyed at hearing the good news, And to make him go the quicker, he tied on his shoes. He went straight to my mama ...." Markie may as well been trying to make a good impression, which he does. - BS

File: CrMa032

Early One Foggy Morning

DESCRIPTION: "Early one foggy morning when I knocked on your door, You had the nerve to tell poor me you didn't need me no more." Singer blames himself. "I'm getting darn tired of sleeping by myself." She's gone "and she sure won't write me"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (USFlorida01)

KEYWORDS: love rejection parting floatingverses nonballad lover

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:
Robert Dennis, "Early One Foggy Morning" (on USFlorida01)

NOTES [128 words]: The blues form of the USFlorida track is aab.
The first verse is a modification of a verse from Tampa Red "Mean Mistreater Blues" (Bluebird B5546, 1934) and Leroy Carr and Scrapper Blackwell "Mean Mistreater Mama" (Columbia C30496, 1934): "Can't you remember baby when I knocked upon your door You had the nerve to tell me that you didn't want me no more." While both Tampa Red and Carr & Blackwell have this verse as abab, Robert Dennis maintains his aab form.
The second verse shared with Blind Lemon Jefferson "Match Box Blues" ("Standing here wondering would a matchbox hold my clothes I ain't got so many matches but I got so far to go," OKeh 8455, 1927), a blues about a man leaving a woman, rather than the story of Dennis's blues where the man is leaving. - BS

Last updated in version 4.2

File: RcE0FoMo

Early One Morning

DESCRIPTION: "Early one morning, just as the sun was rising, I heard a maid sing in the valley below, Oh don't deceive me, Oh never leave me; How could you use a poor maiden so?" She laments the young maid who made promises and then betrayed her for a new girl

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1866 (Hullah, "The Song Book")

KEYWORDS: love courting abandonment
Early One Morning in the Month of July

DESCRIPTION: "Early one morning in the month of July We finished our crops and laid them all by." The singers depart from their girls. They exhort their patriots to fight hard: "We're bound to whip the Yankees, we'll do it or die." They praise Lee and insult Butler

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: Civil war farming separation

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 377, "Early One Morning in the Month of July" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 377, "Early One Morning in the Month of July" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)

Roud #11749

NOTES [164 words]: This is, perhaps, a reference to recruiting some (Civil War) regiment or company: Companies usually formed when an eminent person (usually a man who hoped to be an officer) signed up all the willing men in an area to form a unit.

What unit, though, cannot be told from Brown's fragment. The natural assumption is that the mention of July refers to July 1861, but this renders the reference to Lee and Butler mysterious; Lee did not assume command of the Army of Northern Virginia until 1862, and by that time Benjamin Butler was in New Orleans.

The closest Lee and Butler came to crossing swords was in the 1864 campaign, when Butler commanded the Army of the James which miserably failed to capture Petersburg by surprise. But by that time, the Confederacy had every man it could find under arms -- by means of a draft. No summer soldiering!

All that being the case, I rather suspect that this was a home front song, not one sung by soldiers in one of the major Confederate armies. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: Br3377

Early, Early in the Spring [Laws M1]

DESCRIPTION: The singer is (pressed and) sent to sea. (He writes to his true love, but her father withholds the letters.) When he returns, her father tells him she has wed another. He accuses her of unfaithfulness and swears to spend the rest of his life at sea

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1869 (Logan-APedlarsPack; broadside version appears to date to the seventeenth century)

KEYWORDS: separation courting love poverty sailor press gang

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So) Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber)) Canada (Mar,Newf) Ireland

REFERENCES (32 citations):
Laws M1, "Early, Early in the Spring"
Logan-APedlarsPack, pp. 28-30, "The Disappointed Sailor" (1 text)
O'Shaughnessy/Grainger-TwentyOneLincolnshireFolkSongs 6, "Early One Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #99, "Early, Early in the Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brocklebank/Kindersley-DorsetBookOfFolkSongs, p. 6, "Single Sailor" (1 short text, 1 tune, probably this although it’s hard to be sure with just three verses)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #128, p. 1, "Early in the Spring" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan1 51, "The Sailor Deceived" (5 texts, 2 tunes)
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 163-164, "Early, Early in the Spring" (2 texts)
Randolph 81, "Early, Early in the Spring" (4 texts plus an excerpt, 2 tunes)
Randolph/Cohen-ÖzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 77-80, "Early, Early in the Spring" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 81D)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol1, pp. 144-145, "The Disappointed Lover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 38, pp. 67-69"Early, Early in the Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 87, "Early, Early in the Spring" (2 texts plus 1 excerpt)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 87, "Early, Early in the Spring" (3 excerpts, 3 tunes)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 41, pp. 155-156, "Early in the Spring" (1 text)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 94, "Early In One Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 144-146, "Early, Early in the Spring" (1 text)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 328-331, "Early, Early in the Spring" (3 texts, the third very short; 2 texts on p. 444)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 125, "Early, Early in the Spring" (5 texts, 5 tunes)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 154-155, "Early Early in the Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 98, "Early Early in the Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)
Peacock, pp. 549-550, "The Letters of Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 63, "Early, Early in the Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 66, "The Trail to Mexico" (5 texts, 1 tune, of which only the "C" and "D" texts go here; "A" and "B" are "The Trail to Mexico" and "E" is "Going to Leave Old Texas")
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 111, "Early in the Spring" (3 texts plus mention of 1 more)
Cox/Hercog/Halpert/Boswell-WVirginia-A, #18, pp. 79-80, "Twas Early in the Spring" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cambaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, pp. 55-56, "Early, Early in the Spring (The Girl I Left Behind)" (1 text)
Ashton-RealSailorSongs, #56 insert, "The Sailor Deceived" (1 text)
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 39, "The Disappointed Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN2863, "When I went early in the Spring"; cf. ZN1423, "In e'ry street I hear 'em sing"
DT 429, EARLYSPR
ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 22, #5 (1973), p. 19, "Early in the Spring" (1 text, 1 tune, ending with a suicide; the version was collected in Pennsylvania by Sam Bayard though the informant's name was not recorded)
Roud #152
RECORDINGS:
Robert Cinnamond, "Early, Early, All In the Spring" (on Voice15, IRRCinnamond03)
Nicholas Davis, "The Colour of Amber" (on MUNFLA/Leach) (see NOTES)
Margaret Dirrane, "Twas Early, Early in the Spring" (on Aran1)
Sam Hazel, "Early, Early in the Spring" (AFS 3095 A2, 3095 B1, 1939)
Leonard Hulan, "The Letters of Love" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
Roisin White, "It Was Early Early All In the Spring" (on IRRWhite01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [140 words]: Several texts of this song, including Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety's "B" and one found by Lomax, convert the sailor to a cowboy. It is quite likely that this is a deliberate recension, and so perhaps worthy of separate listing. But Laws does not distinguish the versions, so we don't either. But cf. "The Trail to Mexico" [Laws B13].
Wolfe notes a suggestion by Sharp and Karpeles that this is based on Vernon's 1793 West Indies expedition. This is obviously possible but not compelling, and has vanished from many versions. - RBW
The MUNFLA/Leach text begins with floater "Colour of Amber" verse, in which the singer -- usually female for the verse -- is male. The text also omits the usual "Early, Early in the Spring" verse.
Although some of the remaining lines are broken the rest of the text is surely Laws M1. - BS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: LM01
Earsdon Sword-Dancer's Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "Good people, give ear to my story, I've called in to see you by chance; Five lads I have brought blythe and merry." The company welcomes in the new year. The gentlemen are introduced: The sons of Nelson, Elliot, etc. They prepare for the sword dance

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1900 (Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland)

KEYWORDS: dancing nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))

REFERENCES (2 citations):

- Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 154-155, "The Earsdon Sword-Dancer's Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
- ADITIONAL: [Cuthbert Sharp], _The Bishopric Garland, A Collection of Legends, Songs, Ballads, &c Belonging to the County of Durham_, 1834 (references are to the 1969 reprint), p. 58, "(Sword Dancers)" (1 text, which appears more like this than any other sword dancing song but might be independent; 1 tune on p. 85)

ST StoR154 (Partial)

Roud #610

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Wharfdale Sword Dance Song" (theme)

cf. "Ripon Sword-Dance" (theme)

NOTES [277 words]: There are a number of songs of this type, which Roud generally lumps under his #610. But they are at the very least different recensions of the same source.

The first character mentioned in this song, Elliot, is George Augustus Elliot, Lord Heathfield (1717-1790), who was governor of Gibraltar from 1776 until his death; from 1779-1783, he defended The Rock during the so-called "Great Siege."

Adam Duncan (1731-1804) was the British admiral at the Battle of Camperdown (1797). The British fleet was still feeling the after-effects of the Spithead and Nore mutinies (for which see "Poor Parker"), and was desperately trying to hold back the Dutch fleet which hoped to support a French invasion of England.

Dutch commander Johann William de Winter (1750-1812) knew his fleet was weak (of the eleven ships lost by the Dutch, the British declined to take any into their navy), but he did at one point try to break out; the British managed to concentrate against him and win a bloody strategic victory, forcing the remnant of the Dutch fleet back into the Texel harbors.

If you've read this far, you doubtless know who Admiral Horatio Nelson (1758-1805) was, so I won't delay you with his story.

So too for Arthur Wellesley, Duke of Wellington (1769-1852), victor at Waterloo and designer of the Lines of Torres Vedras, the defensive positions guarding Portugal from French attack.

The final character mentioned is "the son of the Great Buonaparte" (the original Corsican spelling of Napoleon's surname). Napoleon (1769-1821) had only one legitimate son, the Duke of Reichstadt (1811-1832), though there were illegitimate offspring. Not in England, of course. - RBW

File: StoR154

---

East Neuk o' Fife, The

DESCRIPTION: "Hey, the east neuk o' Fife! A weel-faur'd lass, and a canty wife." I'll look where there are plenty of girls: in Fife. It's long until Saturday night, and longer until Monday morning. If she doesn't fancy me I won't care, but I wont ask a Fife lass again

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Ford)

KEYWORDS: courting nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

- Robert Ford, editor, Vagabond Songs and Ballads of Scotland [second series] (Paisley, 1901 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 125, "The East Neuk o' Fife"

Roud #13097

NOTES [85 words]: "Neuk": piece of land; "weel-faur'd": good looking; "canty": cheerful. Ford: "Who is not familiar with the fiddle-tune, 'The East Neuk o' Fife,' which has put life and mettle in the heels of many generations of our dance-loving Scottish people. Who? one may very reasonably ask, for I trow there are not many. Well, the above are the words which were wont to be East of the Border

DESCRIPTION: "East of the border, over Canterbury way, there on a neighboring block To boost my tally I did stray. Nearby rifle shots told me That I must not stay, East of the border, over Canterbury way."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 2009 (Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ)

KEYWORDS: hunting New Zealand humorous

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 291, "(East of the Border)" (1 short text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "South of the Border" (tune)
cf. "South of the Sangro" (tune)
cf. "South of Columbo" (tune)
cf. "Dear Old New Zealand" (tune)
cf. "The Battle of the River Plate" (tune)

File: Garl291A

East Virginia (Dark Hollow)

DESCRIPTION: "I was born in (east Virginia); North Carolina I did go. There I met a pretty woman, And her name I did not know." The singer grieves that her parents would marry her to another. "I'd rather be in some dark hollow... than see you be another man's darling"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Cecil Sharp collection)

KEYWORDS: love courting separation grief

REFERENCES (16 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 279, "Must I Go to Old Virginia" (1 text, with a distorted first line and many floating bits; Roud lumps it with "Porto Rico")
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart2 40, "East Virginia" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 167, "In Old Virginny" (4 texts, 4 tunes, but "C" is "Man of Constant Sorrow" and "D" is a collection of floaters)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 63-64, "I Was Born in East Virginia" (1 text, 1 tune)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, pp. 92-93, "Virginia Blues" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dunson/Raim/Ásch-AnthologyOfAmericanFolkMusic, p. 80 "East Virginia" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ritchie-SingingFamilyOfTheCumberlands, pp. 134-135, "[Old Virginny]" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 65, "Old Virginny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #29, "When I Left the Blue Ridge Mountains" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 144-145, "East Virginia" (1 text, 1 tune)
Burton-TennesseeTraditionalSingers, p. 53, "East Virginia Blues" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 27 "East Virginia Blues" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cray-AshGrove, p. 12 "East Virginia" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 115-116, "Oh, Molly Dear" (1 text, very mixed, with verses from this song, from "The Drowsy Sleeper" [Laws M4], and some floaters); pp. 275-276, "East Virginia" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 44, "East Virginia" (1 text)

DT, EASTVIRG*

Roud #3396

RECORDINGS:
Clarence "Tom" Ashley, "Dark Holler Blues" (Columbia 15489-D, 1929; on Ashley04)
[Clarence] Ashley & [Gwen] Foster, "East Virginia Blues" (Vocalion 02576, 1933)
Carter Family, "The East Virginia Blues" (Bluebird B-5650/Montgomery Ward 4550, 1934; Victor Eastend Rocking, The

DESCRIPTION: An Eastend party: "sic caperan and dancing ... was never seen" The partiers are named. Lots of dancing and laughing. Old Hugh's wife packed him off to bed. At parting time they all had a scone and soup and "skailit aw for hame"

AUTHOR: Neil Walker (source: Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2)

EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2)

KEYWORDS: dancing fiddle food music party moniker

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 147, "The Eastend Rocking" (1 text)
Roud #15106

NOTES [16 words]: Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 glossary: "rocking, n, convivial gathering of neighbours" - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: LyCr2147

Easter Snow

DESCRIPTION: The singer sees a beautiful girl and asks her to come home with him to "Easter Snow." He says she will see foxhunters and other exciting things. She tells him that she is pledged to another who lives far from Easter Snow

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Sam Henry collection)

KEYWORDS: courting rejection hunting

FOUND IN: Ireland Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 128, "Easter Snow" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H66, pp. 369-370, "Wester Snow" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 43, "The Easter Snow" (1 text, 1 tune)
Tunney-StoneFiddle, pp. 29-30, "Easter Snow" (1 text, 1 tune)
Easter Light, The [Laws D11]

DESCRIPTION: A sailor, having spent his money on a drunken spree, ships on board the "Eastern Light," fishing on the Grand Banks. The captain drives the crew hard until they are forced to return to Gloucester.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925

KEYWORDS: sea work fishing ship

FOUND IN: US(NE) Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
- Laws D11, "The Eastern Light"
- Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland, "Banks of Newfoundland" (1 text, 1 tune): pp. 63-64 in the 3rd edition
- Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 117, "Song about the Fishing Banks" (1 text)
- Peacock, pp. 105-106, "The Banks of Newfoundland" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Blondahl-NewfoundlandersSing, p. 63, "The Banks of Newfoundland" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Beck-FolkloreOfMaine, pp. 214-215, "The Eastern Light" (1 text)

DT 820, EASTRNLT

Roud #2235

RECORDINGS:
- Jim Rice, "The Banks of Newfoundland" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]; "Eastern Light" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

NOTES [45 words]: [According to the Digital Tradition,] the year is 1873 -- 1863 [according to] Doyle3 -- and Eastern Light was built in 1866. - BS

Peacock also says 1863, which makes me wonder a bit if there might not be an earlier version of the song not about the Eastern Light. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0

File: LD11

---

Easy Rider

DESCRIPTION: "Easy rider, see what you have done... Made me love you, now your man done come." The singer expresses regret about the relationship between men and women, but hopes to do better in the future.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (recording, Ma Rainey)

KEYWORDS: love courting husband infidelity floating verses

FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 246-247, "C. C. Rider" (2 short texts, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 22, "Easy Rider" (1 text, 1 tune)
Courlander-NegroFolkMusic, p. 19, "(See See Rider)" (1 tune, partial text); cf. pp. 152-153
(apparently a combination of this song with "Satisfied") (1 text, 1 tune)
Burton-TennesseeTraditionalSingers, pp. 136-137, "Easy Rider" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 75, "Easy Rider" (1 text)

DT, EASYRIDER*
ADDITIONAL: Moses Asch and Alan Lomax, Editors, _The Leadbelly Songbook_, Oak, 1962, p. 89, "Easy Rider" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #10056
RECORDINGS:
Texas Alexander, "Easy Rider Blues" (Vocalion 02856, 1934)
Bea Booze [pseud. for Muriel Nichols], "See See Rider Blues" (Decca 8633, 1942; Decca 48055, n.d.)
Jimmie Davis, "Easy Rider Blues" (Bluebird B-5570, 1934; rec. 1933)
Scott Dunbar, Celeste Dunbar & Rosie Dunbar, "Easy Rider" (on MuSouth05)
Mississippi John Hurt, "See See Rider" (on MJHurt05)
Blind Lemon Jefferson, "Easy Rider Blues" (Paramount 12474, 1927)
Tom Johnson & John Copeland, "See See Mama" (on MuSouth05)
Sam McGee, "Easy Rider" (Vocalion 5254, c. 1929; rec. July 25 1928)
Ma Rainey, "See See Rider Blues" (Paramount 12252, 1925)
Leo Soileau, "Easy Rider Blues" (Paramount 12808, 1929)
Chuck Willis, "C. C. Rider" (Classic Wax CW-0004, rec. 1957)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Little Birdie" (theme)
cf. "Chilly Winds" (floating lyrics)
cf. "Vesta and Mattie's Blues" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [40 words]: The Random House Historical Dictionary of American Slang's "b" definition [of "easy rider"], "a woman who is sexually promiscuous or easily seduced", is the one that applies here. (Another definition, interestingly enough, is "guitar.") - PJS
Last updated in version 4.3
File: LxU022

Easy Rider, Don't You Know My Name
DESCRIPTION: ag line for floating verses is "Easy rider don't you know my name." Verses include "Come here mama look at sis Standing on the corner trying to do the twist," "Ain't but one thing on my mind All of these women ain't none of them mine"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1954 (recording, Scott Dunbar and Celeste Dubnbar)
KEYWORDS: floatingverses sex nonballad lover
FOUND IN: US(SE)
RECORDINGS:
Scott Dunbar, "Easy Rider" (on USDunbarS01)
Scott Dunbar and Celeste Dunbar, "Easy Rider" (on MuSouth05)
NOTES [67 words]: The chord progression of the Dunbarg recordings follows one of the "Salty Dog" chord progression versions: VI-II-V-I. The verses are all floaters; one more is "Here comes a man with his hat in his hand Looking for a woman ain't got no man." In that regard, see Notes to "Vesta and Mattie's Blues." (Incidentally, the recording year being 1954, sis's "twist" is not the popular dance of the 1960s) - BS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: RcERDYKN

Eat Some and Leave Some
DESCRIPTION: "New rice and okra... Eat some and leave some Beat rice to bum-bum Eat some and leave some"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeasIslands)
Ebenezer, The

DESCRIPTION: The sailor recalls a dreadful voyage: "Ev'ry day was scrub and grease her." The first mate was "the dirtiest man you ever seen"; the second had left his former line when it "got too hot." The food was bread "as tough as any brass" and over-salted meat

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951
KEYWORDS: ship sailor abuse hardtimes food

REFERENCES (5 citations):
- Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 200-201, "The Ebenezer" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 476-477, "The Ebenezer" (1 text, 1 tune) [AbEd, pp. 354-355]
- Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, p. 161, "The Ebenezer" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea, pp. 126-127, "The Ebenezer" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, EBENZER*

Roud #8237

File: Doe200

Echo Canyon

DESCRIPTION: Describes the building of a railroad through Echo Canyon; Mormons work hard and cheerfully. In the fall they will meet their women; in the future the locomotive will gather Saints from afar, bringing them to Zion (Utah) while the wicked are swept away

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)
KEYWORDS: pride virtue train railroading technology dancing party moniker worker

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- 1868 - Brigham Young contracts with Union Pacific to furnish Mormon labor for the building of the transcontinental railroad

FOUND IN: US(Ro)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #244, "Up Echo Canyon" (1 text plus a fragment)
- Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 599, "Echo Canyon (Mormon Railroad Song)" (1 text)
- DT, ECHOCNYN*

Roud #4749

RECORDINGS:
- L. M. Hilton, "Echo Canyon Song" (on Hilton01)

NOTES [19 words]: This almost got the "nonballad" keyword, but there's a thin thread of narrative, albeit in the present tense. - PJS

File: RecEchCa

Echo Mocks the Corncrake, The

DESCRIPTION: "The lass that I loved first of all was handsome, young, and fair." He recalls their happy life. He contrasts the complex, expensive demands of city life with the joys of rural citizenship. He waits for the corncrake to bring back the summer weather

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Ford)
KEYWORDS: love courting bird home
FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 325-327, "The Corncraik Amang the Whinny Knowes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #175, p. 1, "The Corncraik Amang the Whinny Knowes" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan 945, "The Corncraik" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Stewart/Belle-Stewart-QueenAmangTheHeather, p. 145, "The Whinny Knowes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenry'sSongsOfThePeople H18b, p. 272, "The Whinny Knowes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Tunney-WhereSongsDoThunder, p. 182, "The Corncraik Among the Whinny Knowes" (1 text)
Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 14, "The Corncraik Among the Whinny Knowes" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, CORNCRK*

NOTES [31 words]: Broadside Bodleian, 2806 c.11(39), "The Corncraik Amang the Whinny Knowes" ("Oh, the lass that I had first of a"), The Poet's Box (Glasgow), 1868 could not be downloaded and verified. - BS

Echoing Horn, The

DESCRIPTION: At the dawn of day the echoing horn calls to the foxhunt; the fox breaks, the dogs chase, the horses leap fences and stiles. When the fox is killed, the hunters take his brush, then go home and drink while their wives give great delight

AUTHOR: unknown, possibly Thomas Arne
EARLIEST DATE: 1798 (The American Musical Miscellany) (Source; Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents)
KEYWORDS: sex death hunting sports nonballad animal dog wife
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 60, "When Morning Stands on Tiptoe" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 67)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 246, "The E-choin' Horn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 55, "The Echoing Horn" (a copy of the 1798 American Musical Miscellany text)

Roud #878

NOTES [150 words]: In some versions, including "Glittering Dewdrops," the animal being hunted is a hare. Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland notes a song "with the same title" being sung in Thomas Arne's operetta "Thomas and Sally," 1761, but without seeing the text I'm not willing to cite this as earliest date, although this song certainly has a composed air about it. - PJS
Kennedy, p. 579, says the Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames text of "The Morning Was Charming" is the same song as his "The E-choin' Horn." I don't see any similarity. The other text that Kennedy groups here is "The Glittering Dewdrops." Judging by the CD George Townshend, "Come Hand to Me the Glass" Musical Traditions MT CD 304 text for "The Echoing Horn"("The Glittering Dewdrops"), that could be considered the same song as Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames. The texts share lines and both seem to be about hare rather than fox. - BS
Eclipse

DESCRIPTION: In June of the jubilee year the Eclipse kills a whale beginning a poor season. For the Erik and Hope the season was worse. At season end, the haul was meager and the bonus was low. The crew will not sail again for "one and three"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Greig/Duncan1)

KEYWORDS: sea ship whaler money

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #86, p. 1, "The Eclipse" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan1 14, "Eclipse" (7 texts, 8 tunes)

NOTES [72 words]: Notes to Lloyd9: "In the year of Queen Victoria's jubilee, 1887, the steamer Eclipse of Stonehaven went fishing in the Arctic with her sister ships the Erik and the Hope.... Even the Eclipse, that luckiest of whalers, came home light, and with a bonus of only one-and-threepence a ton for oil. Her crew felt the trip had hardly been worth the hardship, and they marched through the streets of Peterhead to tell the owners so." - BS

Ed Hawkins

DESCRIPTION: "Come stand around me young and old And see me welcome death so bold." The singer warns others of his misdeeds, says that he is arraigned for murder and sentenced to die; he prepares for the afterlife and declares, "I do not fear to meet the grave."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)

KEYWORDS: prisoner death homicide punishment

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, pp. 165-167, (no title) (1 text, 1 tune; also a fragment on p. 164 allegedly about the same event and by the same author)

NOTES [53 words]: According to Thomas's informant, "Ed [Hawkins] was promised to seven women, married four, killed seven men, and was scarce twenty-one when he died on the scaffold." Both the songs recorded by Thomas show the singer as penitent -- but neither mentions Hawkins by name; they are not the standard goodnight by any means. - RBW

Ed's Thoughts

DESCRIPTION: Recitation; the speaker and comrades try to break a logjam. The jam breaks but Ed McCoy is pinned under a small log. A big log knocks it loose. Asked what he was thinking, Ed answers, "My best girl I never thought of/I was afraid my lice would drown."

AUTHOR: Probably Marion Ellsworth

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Recitation; the speaker and his comrades Ed McCoy and Bob Joy, are loggers attempting to break a logjam on the Au Sable river; the jam breaks and all head for the shore, but Ed is pinned under a small log. A big log comes along, but instead of crushing Ed, it knocks the small one away, freeing him. Asked if he thought of home, mother and his girlfriend, he answers, "My best girl I never thought of/I was afraid my lice would drown."

KEYWORDS: lumbering humorous logger work recitation escape

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Edison Machine, The

DESCRIPTION: "Mike Murphy owned a fine saloon, He never knew grief nor care," and has an Edison phonograph. An Irish crew calls for "The Wearing of the Green"; he accidentally plays "God Save the Queen." The Irishmen riot; Murphy ends up dead

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales)

KEYWORDS: technology fight drink humorous

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 234-235, "The Edison Machine" (1 text)

Roud #6615

File: TNY234

Edward (III) (Edward Fitzgerald)

DESCRIPTION: Surrounded by "ruthless villains" as he slept, Edward wakes and stabs Swan but is seriously wounded by Ryan and SIRR. "Proclaim that Edward's blood is spill'd! By traitor's hand, by coward SIRR, Revenge! Revenge! Revenge! for Edward's kill'd."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1798 (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)

KEYWORDS: rebellion fight betrayal death Ireland patriotic

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
June 4 1798 - Lord Edward Fitzgerald, head of the military committee of the United Irishmen dies in Newgate, Dublin after being wounded and arrested by Major Henry Charles SIRR on May 19; Wexford Rebellion begins May 26, 1798 (source: The Princess Grace Irish Library (Monaco) site entry for [Lord] Edward Fitzgerald)

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 8, "Edward" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 52, "Edward" (1 text, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "When Bidden to the Wake of Fair" (from William Shields' opera _Rosina_, published in 1782, according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815) (tune)
cf. "Henry Downs" (character of Major SIRR) and references there

NOTES [593 words]: Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 8: Fitzgerald, hiding in Dublin, is betrayed [by Francis Magan who received a reward] and wounded and captured by a raiding party. Members of the raiding party named in the ballad are Major SIRR, Major Swan and Captain Ryan. One of his captors [Ryan] is killed. Fitzgerald was taken to Newgate jail where he died. For a brief biography of Lord Edward Fitzgerald(1763-1798) see The Princess Grace Irish Library (Monaco) site entry for [Lord] Edward Fitzgerald. For more about Major SIRR see "Henry Downs," "The Major" and "The Man from God-Knows-Where." - BS

Edward Fitzgerald (1763-1798) was a younger son of the Duke of Leinster. He spent time in the British army (BartlettEtAl, p. 12), but the French Revolution turned him against monarchy. If Pakenham (pp. 38fff.) is to be believed, he was not really very bright -- but the United Irishmen still found him useful, because he was handsome and gallant, a good Man on Horseback to inspire recruiting (BartlettEtAl, p. 91, call him the "talismanic personality among the United Irishmen"). Fry/Fry, p. 202, declare, "He was not particularly clever, but young, handsome, aristocratic and brave; he had the qualities Irishmen looked for in a leader." The brains of the movement -- Thomas Addis Emmet and the like -- knew a good thing when they saw one.
