DESCRIPTION: "Poor (Mary/Jenny/Nellie/Sally) sits a-weeping, sits a-weeping, sits a-weeping, Poor Mary sits a-weeping All on a summer's day." "What's poor Mary weeping for..." "Because she wants to see her lad." "Rise up and choose another love."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1898 (Gomme)
KEYWORDS: playparty courting separation love
FOUND IN: Britain(England(All),Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Greig/Duncan8 1606, "O Mary Stands a-Weeping" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 80, "Poor Jenny" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Montgomerie/Montgomerie-ScottishNurseryRhymes 70, "(Oh, what is Jeannie weeping for)" (1 text)
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #7, pp. 120-121, "What's Poor Mary Weepin' For?" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, JEANWEEP
Roud #2118
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Little Sally Walker" (lyrics)
cf. "Poor Mary Sits A-Weeping (I)" (lyrics)
NOTES [50 words]: There are versions of this which look a little like "Little Sally Walker," but the overall thrust is different enough that I had no hesitation in splitting them. The version I know best is that recorded by Jeannie Robertson and picked up by the Fisher Family; I've used her title on that basis. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.6
File: MSNR070

What's the Lady's Motion? (Skip O'er the Mountain)

DESCRIPTION: "Skip o'er the mountain, tra-la-la-la-la (x3), Oh, she loves sugar and cheese." "What's the lady's motion, tra-la-la-la-la (x3), Oh, she loves sugar and cheese." "It's a very lovely motion..." "Yonder goes a redbird...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: food playparty
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 87, "What's the Lady's Motion" (1 text)
Roud #7885
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Monkey Motions" (form)
File: Br3087
What's the Life of a Man?

DESCRIPTION: Singer, walking, observes the leaves that have fallen, noting that a few days ago they were green and growing. He calls attention to the churchyard, and to those who have withered and passed like a leaf. "(But man, unlike leaves, will rise to be judged.)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Sharp mss.; Vaughn Williams collection)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer, walking, observes the leaves that have fallen, noting that a few days ago they were green and growing, but a frost has withered them and a storm knocked them down. He calls attention to the churchyard, and to those who have withered and passed "like a leaf from a tree." (But man, unlike leaves, will rise again, according to scripture, and be judged.)

Chorus: "What's the life of a man any more than the leaf?/A man has his seasons so why should he grieve?/For although in this world we appear bright and gay/Like a leaf we must wither and soon fade away"

KEYWORDS: age disability death nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South)) Canada(Ont)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 238, "What's the Life of a Man Any More Than a Leaf?" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 513)
- Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 264, "What's The Life of a Man?" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #129, "What's the Life of a Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hamer-GreenGroves, pp. 25-26, "What's the Life of a Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #149, "The Life of a Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, LIFEMAN*

RECORDINGS:
Mrs. William Towns, "What Is the Life of a Man Any More than the Leaves?" (on Ontario1)

NOTES [28 words]: Some folks really know how to brighten up a day. - PJS

According to Palmer, this originated as a broadside, "The Fall of the Leaf," but was much improved by tradition. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: K264

What's the Matter Now?

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls how, when she was 17, Damon wooed her with "ardent flame" and a "wounded heart." When she consented to marry, he at first gave in to her every whim. But now, his response to all requests is, "What's the matter now?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1820 (New Musical and Vocal Cabinet)

KEYWORDS: love courting marriage request rejection

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, p. 255, "What's the Matter Now?" (1 text)
- Roud #7757

NOTES [41 words]: Even if the flowery tone were not a giveaway, the name Damon would surely prove the English broadside origin of this piece. How it wound up in tradition in Missouri neither I nor Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety could guess. - RBW

File: Beld255

What’s the Rhyme to Porringer?

DESCRIPTION: "O what's the rhyme to porringer? Ken ye the rhyme to porringer? King James the seventh had ae dochter, And he gave her to an Oranger." "The lad has into England come And taken the crown." "James shall have his own again."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1819 (Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol1)

KEYWORDS: royalty marriage Jacobites

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1688/1689 - Glorious Revolution deposes King James (II and VII) and replaces him with his nephew William III and his daughter Mary II

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol1, pp. 218-219, ("O what's the rhyme to porringer?") (1 text)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 422, "What is the rhyme for porringer?" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #217, p. 146, "(What is the rhyme for porringer?)" Montgomerie/Montgomerie-ScottishNurseryRhymes 100, "(O what's the rhyme to porringer?)" (1 text)

DT, RHYMPORR

NOTES [748 words]: Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol1: "[This] is another ranting song [like Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol1 33, "I Hae Nae Kith, I Hae Nae Kin"] which I have often heard sung about the same lady, or rather about the ingratitude of her husband, in whose hands she was no more than the clay is in the hands of the potter." - BS

I'm indexing this item with some qualms. The Montgomeries do not cite a source, and the handful of other references I've found, with the possible exception of Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol1, aren't "folk." And I've no evidence of a tune. But the context is clear: James (II of England and VII of Scotland; 1633-1701) was Catholic, but his heirs when he succeeded to the throne were his Protestant daughters Mary (1662-1694) and Anne (1665-1714). Mary was married to William of Orange (1650-1702), Stadtholder of Holland. William, after a chaotic period in Dutch politics, seemed early in life to be almost disinherited, but gradually gained power in the 1670s. Charles II of England, meanwhile, was getting himself in a foreign policy mess, taking French money to avoid answering to Parliament for his anti-Dutch policy. William was able to take advantage in 1677 to marry the young princess Mary -- his first cousin; William was the son of James's sister. Which sister just happened to be third in line for the throne. Charles II had no legitimate children, and his brother James had no sons (and neither of his daughters would leave an heir). James II succeeded Charles II in 1685. The British were already worried -- James had been openly Catholic for 15 years. Early in his reign, he gave indications of favoring Catholics. And then his second, Catholic, wife had a son. The "Old Pretender," potentially James III. James III was not a pretender; he was the proper heir in male descent. But he was Catholic. Meanwhile, the French, who had been attacking the Dutch, instead sent an army into Germany. William of Orange saw the opening, and invaded England in 1688. In England, the Stuart regime collapsed like a house of cards; James "abdicated" by force in 1689. William and Mary were crowned jointly, the English succession was made officially Protestant, and a series of liberal reforms were agreed to that gave the coup the name "The Glorious Revolution."

Scotland didn't entirely agree. There was only one real battle against the invaders in 1689 (Killiekrankie), and it resulted in the death of Dundee, the leader of the anti-Orange faction. That largely calmed the revolt until 1714, when Anne, the last Stuart, died and was succeeded by the Hannoverian George I. But there were always rumbles below the surface, which would eventually result in the 1715, 1719, and 1745 Jacobite rebellions. Obviously this item is about that. The question is, is it traditional? If the Montgomeries really found a copy in Scotland in the twentieth century, then it just about has to be, and deserves to be indexed. But mightn't they have just lifted it from Hogg? I suspect so, but there is enough doubt that I index the item. Incidentally, this had a very small part in inspiring one of the greatest literary works of the twentieth century. According to Christopher Tolkien's notes in his father's The War of the Ring: The History of the Lord of the Rings, Part 3, Houghton Mifflin, 1990, p. xi, J. R. R. Tolkien admitted that this fragment inspired his poem "Errantry." Which in turn seems to have been "upgraded" to produce Bilbo's poem in Rivendell. The link to "porringer" is not obvious in the published poem, but another of Christopher Tolkien's works, The Treason of Isengard: The History of the Lord of the Rings, Part 2, Houghton Mifflin, 1990, p. 85, shows that in fact there is a link. Tolkien's first text of the poem began There was a merry passenger, a messenger, an errander; he took a tiny porringer and oranges for provender. This leads to two further footnotes. First, Tolkien said that "Errantry" actually ended up in oral tradition (The Treason of Isengard, p. 90), although there is no evidence of it actually being passed from person to person. Second, "Errantry" made a reference to "Dumbledores," in their proper early English use of a bee-like insect. It is almost certainly in "Errantry" that J. K. Rowling first met the word that gave her her name for the headmaster of Hogwarts. So, by many indirect steps, this poem helped give rise to the two most popular fantasy works of the late twentieth and early twenty-first centuries. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: MSNR100

What's the Time?

DESCRIPTION: "What's the time?" "Half past nine. Hang your britches on the line." "What's the time." "Ten to ten. Time to bring them in again." "What's the time?" "Daytime." Etc. Also perhaps, "What's the clock say?" "Tick-tock."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty clothes
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 137, "(What's the time?)" (1 text)
File: SuSm137A

What's the Use?

DESCRIPTION: "Some call this the best old world that nature could contrive. One thing's sure, that none of us get out of it alive.... Makes you sometimes wonder if anything's worthwhile." Questions include "What's the point of drinking if you always have a thirst"

AUTHOR: Edward Montagu (sheet music)
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (sheet music)
KEYWORDS: nonballad drink questions
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, p. 198, "What's the Use?" (1 text)
Roud #9548

ALTERNATE TITLES:
So What's the Use

NOTES [139 words]: The sheet music of this is headlined, "Henry W. Savage Presents Raymond Hitchcock in 'The Yankee Tourist.'" The Internet Broadway Database says that "The Yankee Tourist" was a musical farce that had 111 shows on Broadway from August to November 1907. It was based on Richard Harding Davis's play "The Galloper"; Davis also wrote the book for the musical, with the songs mostly by Alfred G. Robyn and Wallace Irwin. There is no mention of Edward Montague, so one suspects that this was a song grafted in from another source. Additional supporting evidence for this comes from the fact that this is not included in the song list. Singer Raymond Hitchcock played one Copeland Schuyler.
Montagu's original title was "So What's the Use" (without a question mark), but it appears that all traditional collections call it "What's the Use." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: SBar198

What's Your Name? (I)

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore)
KEYWORDS: wordplay nonballad food
FOUND IN: US(MW) Britain
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, p. 120, "(What's Your Name)" ("Smart-Aleck" Rhymes) (1 text) ADDITIONAL: Peter and Iona Opie, _I Saw Esau: Traditional Rhymes of Youth_, #66, "(What's What's Your Name? (II)

DESCRIPTION: "What's your name, little girl? My name is Alaska. Alaska what, little girl? Alaska [=I'll ask-a] my mommy." "What's your name, little boy? ...Lemmy... Lemmy kiss you." "What's your name? ...I'd... I want to [=I don't want to]." And so with other name and jokes

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1971 (NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal)

KEYWORDS: wordplay nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Roud #21237

NOTES [105 words]: The two "What's Your Name" items use similar ideas -- so much so that I'd have lumped them if Roud didn't split them -- but the format is slightly different "What's Your Name (I)," Roud #19070, has the form What's your name? (Something something); ask me again and I'll (something or other). What's Your Name (II), Roud #21237, always seems to have "little girl" or "little boy" in the first line, and involves a pun: What's your name, little girl? My name is Ida. Ida what, little girl? Ida want to [=I don't want to]. Roud lumps this with the "Drunkard's Catechism," which is similar in form but perhaps different in intent. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: NCF2111wN

Wheal Rodney

DESCRIPTION: "Now I and Capp'n Franky Got up to go to Bal; We started for Wheal Rodney, Where there was work for all. Oh! a-mining we will go, high-o!" They ask about pay. The "knockers" (mine spirits) lead them to a good lode

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Old Cornwall #2)

KEYWORDS: mining money work

FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall, p. 55, "Wheal Rodney" (1 text, tune referenced) ADDITIONAL: Tony Deane and Tony Shaw _The Folklore of Cornwall_, B. T. Batsford, 1975, p. 68, "(Now we had luck at last, boys, the knockers showed us where" (1 excerpt)

Roud #3316

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Trelawny" (tune)

NOTES [33 words]: Knockers, according to Deane/Shaw, were small semi-human creatures said to inhabit the Cornish mines; there were several stories of their origin, but in many ways they sound
Wheel and Turn Me

DESCRIPTION: A soldier courts the singer, gives her money with which she buys "silk and satin" that John Crow steals and throws away. She begs not to have the cloth torn. She dances with the soldier and asks that he be careful of her belly.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (Murray-FolkSongsOfJamaica; Lord Fly and Higgs recordings)

LONG DESCRIPTION: A soldier courts the singer; She says she has no man; he gives her small change; she buys silk and satin, washes and sets it out to dry, but "John Crow" flings it away; "Jeremiah...no tear up me silk an' satin." This is followed by the wheel and turn me verse in which the fear is that the singer will fall, "lilk me belly pon tambourina" [and - unstated - have a miscarriage].

KEYWORDS: courting sex request clothes dancing bird soldier

FOUND IN: West Indies(Jamaica)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Murray-FolkSongsOfJamaica, pp. 58-59, "One Solja Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Noel Dexter and Godfrey Taylor, Mango Time: Folk Songs of Jamaica (Kingston: Ian Randle Publishers, 2007), pp-118-119, "Wheel an’ Tun Mi" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
Edric Connor with the Caribbeans and Earl Inkman, "One Solja Man" (on WEConnor01)
Blind Blake Higgs, "Wheel and Turn Me" (on WIHIGGS01)
Lord Fly and Dan Williams Orchestra, "Medley of Jamaican Mento-Calypsos(Fan Me Solja Man Fan Me; One Solja Man; Yuh No Yeary Weh De Ole Man Say; Slide Mongoose)" (1951, on Motta MRS 01A, n.d., "Lords of Mento," Marleybone Records MP3)
Lord Flea and the Jamaican Calypsonians, "Wheel and Turn Me" (on "Mento, Not Calypso," Fantastic Voyage CD FVDD163, 2013, reissue of Time Record 78 rpm UD1002, c.1954?; as "Wheel and Tun Me" on "Take Me to Jamaica," Pressure Sounds CD PSCD 51, 2006)
Louise Bennett and the Caribbean Serenaders, "Bongo Man (Jamaican Christmas Song)," (1951, on Melodisc MEL 29, 1951 [recorded 1950])

ALTERNATE TITLES:
One Bungo Man

NOTES [934 words]: The description follows the Murray-FolkSongsOfJamaica and Dexter and Taylor texts. At least on the surface, John Crow is "a scavenger bird" [Dexter and Taylor glossary, p. 131]. Murray-FolkSongsOfJamaica writes, "John Crow [:] Jamaican scavenger bird, but here used in a derogatory sense, alluding to 'Jeremiah'." "John Crow" ("As soon as it describes something dead, it swoops down majestically with a spread of its disproportionately huge wings. Its featherless red head, greedily curled talons and awkward gait...." [Helen H Roberts, "A Study of Folk Song Variants Based on Field Work in Jamaica" in The Journal of American Folklore, Vol. XXXVIII, No. 148 (Apr-Jun 1925 (available online by JSTOR)), p. 178]) is a turkey vulture. Jekyll has an Afro-Jamaican cante fable that ends "from that day every John Crow born with a peel head" (Walter Jekyll, Jamaican Song and Story (New York: Dover Publications, 1966 (Reprint of publication by David Nutt, 1907)), #43 pp. 132-134, "John Crow").

The Bennett version, "Bongo Man," almost exactly follows Murray, and Dexter and Taylor. One significant difference is that in the book version the woman answers the courting by "mi sey mi no ha' nobody" but Bennett sings "me say me don't want nobody." Some comments by Azizi Powell at the pancocojams site, specifically at http://pancocojams.blogspot.com/2012/07/caribbean-song-one-solja-man.html, accessed February 25, 2015, who describes herself as "an African American mother, grandmother, and retired human services administrator. For more than forty years I have shared adapted West African stories with audiences in the Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania area." She says, "Also sung as 'One Bungo Man,' Bungo meaning an African" [dated July 22, 2012] and, acknowledging that John Crow is a scavenger bird, "I believe that 'John Crow' in this song is a derogatory referent for a dark skinned Black man." [dated July 16, 2014] The same note also points to the Wailers' use of the wheel and turn me verse in "Rude Boy" [The Wailers' song available as "Walk the Proud Land", is a 1965 political protest song that includes the lines "Me want you come Wheel an' turn me Fi go lick a mi head 'pon you tambourine" but does not use the usual "Wheel and Turn Me" tune. See Bob Marley and the Wailers, "Walk the Proud Land" on the 1991 Tuff Gong album "Talkin Blues (Live)"; also see Timothy White, Catch Fire - The Life of Bob Marley (New York: Henry Holt, 1996), pp. 202-203. The label of the record says it is a "Jamaican Christmas Song." Considering the subject, that seems enigmatic, but there is likely no religious Christmas association intended by Bennett. Cowley says, about this record, that by the "Christmas" reference the performance is "associated with the Jonkunnu [or 'John Canoe'] masquerade held in Jamaica at this season" [John Cowley, "London is the Place: Caribbean Music in the Context of Empire 1900-60" in Paul Oliver, ed. Black Music in Britain: Essays on the Afro Asian Contribution to Popular Music, (Milton Keynes, Open University Press, 1990, pp. 57-767, endnotes pp. 181-183 (with factual corrections and refinements), 2011, renumbered as pp. 1-19, downloaded from http://sas-space.sas.ac.uk/2945/1/LITP3.pdf February 24, 2015, p. 6].

The Lord Fly song, "One Solja Man," is the second song in a medley of four. It follows a song in which a soldier gets a girl pregnant [see "Fan Mi Solja Man"]. Then this song which, in spite of its title, does not mention a soldier, is only this chorus, repeated three times: I want you to wheel and turn me/ Oh mind how you wheel and turn me/ [Do] you want me to go ba dung [fall down]/ Bust me belly with the tambourina?" As in the case of "Hold' im Joe" and "Jump in the Line" only the tune and chorus travel from singer to singer, and the verses among singers seem unrelated. [Incidentally, the third and fourth songs of the medley do not seem to continue the story.] Dexter and Taylor have versions of both Lord Fly songs (pp. 29-30, "Fan Mi Solja Man," and "Wheel an' Tun Mi" listed above), and they appear not to be related to each other; Lord Fly has taken the code[?] story of "Wheel and Turn Me" and made it explicit by tacking the chorus [conclusion] of "Wheel and Turn Me" as a conclusion to "Fan Mi Solja Man".

Lord Flea repeats the "wheel and turn me" chorus six times and has two creole verses I don't understand.

The Higgs version changes the sex of the singer and "cleans up" the story: Singer asks an old lady cooking for some dinner. She has him jump through the window and beat the tambourine with his belly. "The way is wheel and turn" [until he falls?] and hit the tambourine with his belly. Pearl Lewin has another song, "Dis Long Time Gal," with "wheel an' tun till we tumble dung" - without the tambourine or belly - as "a mento tune used for dance and play" (Olive Lewin, "Forty Folk Songs of Jamaica" (Washington: General Secretariat of the American States, 1973), pp. 59-60).

The Slickers' reggae simplifies the tune and words of Lord Flea's version - already simplified - but makes one more change. Unless there is something in Flea's "creole" verses that reveals the sex of the singer, that is indeterminate. The Slickers' version has the usual lines - "What makes you want to wheel and turn me/ You want me to go fall down/ Bust my belly on a tambourina" - but also "Hold me Mother Matty (if you want me)."

There is an instrumental ska version: Frank Anderson and Tommy McCook, "Wheel and Turn" (on "Ska Bonanza," HeartBeat CD HB 86/87, 1991).

See Hol' Yuh Han" for another example of wheel, turn and tumble down. - BS

File: JaMu058

Wheel in a Wheel, A

DESCRIPTION: "A wheel in a wheel, Oh my Lord (x2), Going to take a ride on the chariot wheel." "It runs by love ...." "It runs by faith ...." "Chariot's a-coming ...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)

KEYWORDS: Bible nonballad religious

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 184, "A Wheel in a Wheel" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 110 in the 1901 edition)
Roud #15241

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Ezekiel Saw the Wheel" (theme)

NOTES [141 words]: Ezekiel’s vision of the four creatures with a wheel at one side is not easy to picture, perhaps especially in King James, where the appearance of each wheel is "a wheel in the middle of a wheel" (Ezekiel 1:16). The wheel could be seen as acting like a chariot wheel that was never separated from its creature, even when the creature was "lifted up from earth" (Ezekiel 1:19). So, in this hymn, the singer is "going to take a ride" on that chariot wheel. In "Ezekiel Saw the Wheel," "the big wheel runs by faith, The little wheel runs by the grace of God"; here the wheels run by "love" and "faith." I don't know where to find those attributes cited. - BS
There is no connection between those attributes and Ezekiel's wheel, but "faith, hope, and love" are the three key virtues in 1 Corinthians 13; I would assume that is the basis for the link. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.0
File: Dett184

Wheel of Fortune (Dublin City, Spanish Lady)

DESCRIPTION: The young man comes to the young woman and asks her to wed. He offers her gold, silver, and land. She tells him she is not interested in these; "all I want is a (good young/handsome) man." That being offered, the two agree to marry

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1883 (Jackson/Burne)

KEYWORDS: courting marriage money virtue play party

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South,West),Scotland(Aber)) US(Ap,MA,MW,SE,So,SW) Canada(Ont) Ireland

REFERENCES (40 citations):

Greig/Duncan4 746, "The Spanish Lady" (9 texts, 8 tunes)
Greig/Duncan8 1588, "There's a Lady Over Yonder" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Stewart/Belle-Stewart-QueenAmangTheHeather, p. 28, "Öwre yon Hill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 196-197, "March Away" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 458)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 225, "Yonder Sits a Pretty Little Creature" (1 text)
Purslow-TheConstantLovers, p. 73, "Portsmouth City" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brocklebank/Kindersley-DorsetBookOfFolkSongs, p. 24, "Madam, Madam" (2 texts, 2 tunes; the first could be any of the courting songs but looks most like this; the second is clearly this)

Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 506-507, "Madam, I Have Gold and Silver" (1 text)

Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 98, "Spanish Lady" (1 text); 131, "The Quaker's Wooing" (1 text, 1 tune); possibly 132, "The Sober Quaker" (1 text, 1 tune)

Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 173, "The Wooing" (2 texts, the "A" text being "The Courting Case" and "B" being probably this piece)

McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesOfIllinoisOzarks, p. 106, "(On yonder hill there stands a lady)" (1 short text, consisting of just the opening lines of either "Wheel of Fortune (Dublin City, Spanish Lady)" or "No, John, No," used as a game song)

Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 154-155, "Yonder Hill There Is a Widow" (1 text, 1 tune)

Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople 69, "Ripest Apples" (1 text)

Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 205, "Come My Little Roving Sailor" (3 texts, 3 tunes)

Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 55, "Come, My Little Roving Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)

Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 71, "The Quaker's Wooing" (1 text, 1 tune); also p. 144, "Kind Miss" (1 text, 1 tune, primarily this piece but with one verse of "The Drowsy Sleeper")

Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 804-805, "There She Stands, a Lovely Creature" (1 text, 1 tune)

Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H532, p. 367, "Tarry Trousers" (1 text, 1 tune -- a curious version in which, after all the business about riches and a good young man, the girl finally sends the lad off by saying she has a sailor love)

OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 79A, "The Tarry Trousers" (1 text, 1 tune)

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 12, "Madam, I Have Gold and Silver" (1 text, starting with this song but ending with a "Ripest of Apples" verse and ending with a Riley stanza)

Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 12, "Madam, I Have Gold and Silver" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)

Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 37, pp. 151-152, "Annie Girl" (1 text, which conflates 2 verses of "The Drowsy Sleeper" [Laws M4], 2 or 3 of "Wheel of Fortune (Dublin City, Spanish Lady)" or "No,
John, No: or similar, and 3 verses probably of "Pretty Fair Maid (The Maiden in the Garden; The Broken Token)" [Laws N42]
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 158, "The Spanish Lady" (1 text)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 45, pp. 79-80, "The Spanish Lady" (1 text, 1 tune, with perhaps half the song being floating material; much of it looks more like "The Barnyard of Delgaty" or something similar like "Wheel of Fortune")
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H641, p. 383, "Ripest of Apples" (1 text, 1 tune, a tiny fragment of two verses, one of which often occurs with this song while the other is associated primarily with "Carrickfergus." The tune is not "Carrickfergus")
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 199-200, "Quaker's Courtship" (1 fragment, 1 tune, which might be either this or "The Quaker's Courtship")
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 194-195, "Song on Courtship" (1 text, 1 tune, Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 149, "Wheel Of Fortune" (1 text)
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 36, "Lady on the Mountain"; Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 87, "Spanish Lady" (7 texts, 3 tunes)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #290, pp. 168-169, "(Madam, I have come to court you)" (a short text, which might well be "The Quaker's Wooing" with beginning and end lost, but as it stands, it has no Quakers and must be filed here)
Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #6, "There She Stands, a Lovely Creature" (1 text, 1 tune)
JournalOfAmericanFolklore, F.W. Waugh, "Canadian Folk-Lore from Ontario," Vol. XXXI, No. 119 (Jan 1918), #630 pp. 48-49 ("Here stands a lovely creature"). ("Here sits a Spanish lady") (2 texts)
JournalOfAmericanFolklore, Marie Campbell, "Survivals of Old Folk Drama in the Kentucky Mountains," Vol. LI, No. 199 (Jan-Mar 1938), pp. 18-22, "A Plough Monday Play"); especially pp. 21-22, "For Gold and Silver" ("Kind miss, kind miss, go ask your mother")
DT, WHEELFOR* DUBLNCTY* DUBLNCT2 SPALDTIN (VANDY2) (DUBLNCl2)
ADDITIONAL: Frank Harte _Songs of Dublin_, second edition, Ossian, 1993, pp. 48-49, "The Spanish Lady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ray B. Browne, "Southern California Jump-Rope Rhymes: A Study in Variants" in Western Folklore, Vol. XIV, No. 1 (Jan 1955 (available online by JSTOR)), #22 p. 14 ("On a hillside stands a lady") (1 text)
G.F. Northall, English Folk-Rhymes (London, 1892 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 376, ("Here stands a lady on a mountain") (1 text)
J Woodfall Ebsworth, The Roxburghe Ballads, (Hertford, 1896 ("Digitized by Google")), Vol. VIII Part 2, pp. 851-852,"The Handsom' Woman" ("Yonder stan's a hansum woman, who she is I dunnnot knaw")
Roud #542
RECORDINGS:
Seamus Ennis, "Dublin City" (on FSB02, FSB2CD)
Hector MacIsaac and Emma MacIsaac, "Galway City" (on NFHMacIsaac02)
BROADSIDES:
Murray, Mu23-y1:104, "The Wheel of Fortune," James Lindsay (Glasgow), 19C [an incredible mixture, with the "Wheel of Fortune" verse, though the rest seems an amalgam of thyme songs -- here spelled "time"]; also Mu23-y1:105, "The Wheel of Fortune," James Lindsay (Glasgow), 19C [even more mixture, with the "Wheel of Fortune" verse, a thyme stanza, a bit of "Fair and Tender Ladies," a "Queen of Heart" verse, and more]
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Keys of Canterbury"
cf. "No, John, No"
cf. "Madam, Madam, You Came Courting" (theme)
cf. "The Quaker's Courtship" (theme)
cf. "Killy's Den" (tune, per Greig/Duncan4)
cf. "The Twelfth of May" (floating lyrics)
cf. "The Ripest Apple" (floating lyrics)
cf. "Now All You Lads" (lyrics)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Chester City
All I Want is a Handsome Man
As I Walked Up Through London City
Edinburgh City
Tinkle, Tinkle, Tra-La-La!
NOTES [855 words]: Although several versions listed here mention Quakers in their titles (e.g. Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio's text, also that printed by Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag), their texts make no mention of the Quaker, and so I list them here.
This obviously began life as a ballad, but was collected in New York as a playparty, and Belden also found it as a singing game. - RBW
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 36 has three texts of the "Yonder stands ... who she is I do not know" version.
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 87: "This song about an exile in disgrace was probably at the height of its popularity in Edwardian days." The "plot" in this case is that the singer, walking down the street, meets a Spanish or German lady with a baby in her arms. - BS
The text in the Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook version is extremely fragmentary, and contains almost nothing of the plot described above. All that happens is that the man and woman meet; she washes her feet and dries them, then he laments young girls' deceiving ways and sings about numbers. - PJS
What Paul describes is fairly typical. The description above is of the fullest texts, but this ballad seems to be unusually good at losing pieces of itself. Often it descends into a purely lyrical piece -- and sometimes it seems to "re-ascend" by taking on a new ending of abandonment.
The existence of the numbers chorus ("Twenty, eighteen, sixteen, fourteen...";) seems to be characteristic of a particular, very widespread, sub-version.
It appears likely that we can positively date this song to at least 1822, when John Randolph of Virginia asked a niece if she had heard a ballad with the verse
What care I for your golden treasures?
What care I for your house and land?
What care I for your costly pleasures?
So as I get but a handsome man.
For some reason, scholars have claimed this verse is from "Lord Randal." But it certainly appears to belong here. - RBW
The Ebsworth text is the oldest I have seen -- certainly older than Jackson/Burne -- but Ebsworth does not date it, possibly because it was just a side note to another ballad. The end of the Ebsworth text, following an editorial comment that "woman has the last word as usual," is
He took a pail, and I took a pail, and a-milking he went wi' me;
I said nout, and he said nout; but, ma faith! I think he'll ha' me."
"This is the finale," Ebsworth continues, "Robert Roberts, of Boston, is a safe authority to follow on old books and Lincolnshire customs: he writes, 'To take her pail and go with a girl to milking, is considered almost equal to a proposal of marriage.' This throws light on the popular song "'Where are you going to, my pretty maid?' "I'm going a milking, sir," she said. "May I go with you, my pretty maid?"" and her comprehensive reply, "'Yes, if you please, kind sir," she said. 'When he adds, 'Then I cannot marry you!' she knows it breaks the implied contract.'"
"The Jackson/Burne text ends
'But fare you well, my dearest creature,
Since I have no more to say.'
'O turn again, young man! I'll have you!'
But his answer was, 'Nay, nay!' The Campbell text is very close to Sandburg's "Kind Miss," which is also from Kentucky. These texts have an unusual twist to their "Drowsy Sleeper" verse: in printed texts of Laws M4, and one of its sources, "'I Will Put My Ship In Order," the lines following "... ask your mother If you my bride shall ever be" are "If she says 'No,' come back and tell me, And I'll no longer trouble thee"; in these two texts the lines are "If she says 'yes,' come back and tell me, If she says 'no,' we'll run away." [These lines are also in Hudzon-FolksongsOfMississippi 37 -- another "Drowsy Sleeper"-"Wheel of Fortune" hybrid -- and two closely related recordings of Laws M4: Harry and Jeannie West, More Southern Mountain Folk Songs, Stinson SLP 74, Katy Dear"; Blue Sky Boys, "Katie Dear" (Bluebird B-7661, 1938) and Homer and Walter Callahan, "Katie Dear (Silver Dagger)" (Banner 33103/Melotone M-13071/Oriole 8533/Perfect 13017/Romeo 5353, c. 1934; Conqueror 9145, 1938; on GoingDown), identical texts.]
The Campbell text provides a rationale for this break: "Kind Miss" is a wooing song in a mummers' play. The form of the wooing song usually has a reasonable bid by the male to start an engagement, followed by rejection by the woman and, occasionally, a final acceptance. The "I'll no longer trouble thee" line would end the song prematurely, while the "we'll run away" line leads to the normal wooing song form. Of course, the "Drowsy Sleeper" verse insertion is not necessary for "Wheel of Fortune" to be used as a wooing song, but once the verse was inserted, its form was likely changed to suit its new function. For more on "wooing songs" in mummers' plays, see "Sweet Moll."

The Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames chorus -- "March away, march away, Trumpets sound and cymbals play. March away, march away, To the merry little fife and drum." -- is from the chorus of "The Merry Little Soldier" (see The Universal Songster or Museum of Mirth (London, 1834 ("Digitized by Google")), Vol I, p. 109, "The Merry Little Soldier" ("I'm a merry little soldier") (1 text)). - BS

Last updated in version 5.3

File: E098

Wheels of the World, The

DESCRIPTION: Spinners turn the wheels of the world. Some spinners are named with their product: Pitt, Castlereagh, Napoleon, Wellington, John Mitchell, John Bull, factory owners and the rich. "Let liberty be your bright motto and glory will turn your big wheel"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1867 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 20(190))

KEYWORDS: death suicide exile nonballad political worker Napoleon Ireland

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 200, "The Wheels of the World" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #16901

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Harding B 11(4120), "Wheels of the World" ("Come all you true sons of old Erin"), J. Pitts (London), 1819-1844[?]; also Harding B 20(190) [J. Harkness(Preston), 1840-1866], Firth c.14(127), "Wheels of the World," Firth b.27(49) [mostly illegible and probably trimmed]

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Game of Cards (II)" (subject: the elimination of Grattan's parliament)

NOTES [1715 words]: According to "Wheels of the World," Pitt ["banish'd in Charon's old boat": d.1806] and Castlereagh spun the union of Ireland to England [1800] but were unhappy at the end, and Castlereagh committed suicide [1822]; Napoleon spun freedom and Wellington spun Waterloo [1815] "but if Grouchy had never been bribed sure the French would have split him in two"; John Mitchell spun to free Ireland but John Bull spun him to exile [1848]; factory owners and the rich spin to grind the poor. Broadside Bodleian Harding B 11(4120) mentions other spinners: Luther, Henry VIII, John Calvin, Nelson and the French that killed him at Trafalgar [1805], Prince Albert [1840] and Victoria: "For 300 years they've been spinning, Destruction all over the land."

There is a dating problem for broadside Bodleian Harding B 11(4120): it mentions John Mitchel's exile to Bermuda [subsequently Cape Colony and finally to Van Dieman's Land] which occurred after 1844. [I think the problem is an error in the attribution to the printer Pitts; the defaced imprint does not contain his name as it stands, merely the words "toy warehouse." Pitts also owned a toy warehouse, but the appearance of the broadside is unlike any of the other Pitts broadsides I checked. Given that this piece, if circulated in Ireland, would be considered perilously close to treason, I wonder if a printer might not try to fake the attribution. There is probably a good thesis in there somewhere, on broadside printers and their fonts and clip art collections. - RBW]

The ballad is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentennial of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See:

Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "Wheels of the World" (on Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "1798 the First Year of Liberty," Hummingbird Records HBCD0014 (1998)) - BS

It is interesting to note that, of the three legible Bodleian broadsides of this song, only one carries an actual printer's imprint, and that defaced. The Bodleian editors did manage to determine two of the printers, but one of those attributions is questionable -- and it's also interesting that this song of interest primarily to the Irish was printed on British soil.

There is much interesting history in this song, which can be dated fairly precisely by the events it mentions. The three legible Bodleian broadsides (Harding B 11(4120), Harding B 20(190), Firth c.14(127)) all have nearly the same text, and must have been printed at about the same time. The references which give us our dates are as follows:
"I'll sing you a song about spinning, it was a good trade in its time" -- This might (or might not) refer to the direct control Britain exerted over Irish textile manufacturing; for more on this, see e.g. "The Volunteers' March."
"Luther... King Henry the eighth... John Calvin" -- the founders of the three basic branches of non-Catholic Christianity: Protestant (a name falsely applied to all three types), Anglican, and Reformed/Presbyterian. In Protestant England the three were mostly approved of; not so in Catholic Ireland! Thomas ("Tom") Cranmer (1489-1556) was Henry VIII's Archbishop of Canterbury; though hardly a noteworthy theologian, he was largely responsible for implementing Henry's new church. It is odd to note that the song does not mention his hard end (Mary Tudor had him burned at the stake)
"John Mitchell the brave son of Erin" -- John Mitchel (1815-1875), for whom see the song of the same name, started as a writer, and founded the publication The United Irishman. He ended up calling stridently for change in Ireland, and in 1848 was sentenced to transportation. Sent briefly to Bermuda, he then was moved to Australia, and escaped to the United States, there to advocate slavery and flogging of prisoners. Since his exile to Bermuda is mentioned, the song must date after 1848. (One suspects this verse, the third in all the broadside texts, has been displaced; were it moved after the seventh verse, the song would be in chronological order. On the other hand, Mitchel is the only Irishman referred to; maybe he was shoved forward as a result.)
The Lord C--n--n of all the broadsides is Lord Clarendon, i.e. George Villiers, fourth earl of Clarendon (1800-1870), the Lord Lieutenant from 1847-1852 before becoming foreign secretary. Although nominally responsible for the case against Mitchel, and the suppression of the sort-of-revolt of 1848, he had so little influence on the course of Irish history that I found only one mention of him in the histories I checked. In the broader world, his work seems to have been successful and relatively enlightened.
"Lord Nelson he was a good spinner" -- For Horatio Nelson, see e.g. "Nelson's Victory at Trafalgar (Brave Nelson)" [Laws J17]
"Billy Pitt, too, was a good spinner, and so was Lord Castlereigh... they spun the Union from Ireland" -- William Pitt the Younger (1759-1806) was an MP as early as 1781 (from a "rotten" borough) and Prime Minister while still in his early twenties (1783). He would be Prime Minister for most of the rest of his life. He tried to pass several measures to help Ireland (free trade, Catholic emancipation -- Brumwell/Speck, pp. 296-297), but all were stymied. Therefore he is remembered mostly for the much-hated Act of Union, which eliminated the Irish parliament while introducing Irish members into the British Lords and Commons.
The reference here reminds me very strongly of similar references in "The Game of Cards (II)" and "The Shan Van Voght (1848)," though the direction of the dependence is not clear to me. Robert Stewart Viscount Castlereagh (1769-1822) was actually Irish (from Ulster), and early in his career in fact supported Catholic emancipation (Brumwell/Speck, p. 77). He entered the English parliament in 1794, and became a member of Pitt's government. His was a brilliant career; he served at various times as both war and foreign secretaries, was largely responsible for the Peninsular campaign, and helped direct the last battles against Napoleon. He was by rational standards an outstanding success -- but in Ireland he was remembered as being the actual director of the campaign for Union. In his later years, when it was clear that the Congress system for governing Europe was failing, he became despondent. The responsibilities of his offices overwhelmed him, and he had a nervous breakdown and committed suicide.
"Napoleon he was a great spinner" -- The Irish held out great hopes for Napoleon, though he never did much for them; for what encouragement and help he did give, see the notes to "The Shan Van Voght."

Excerpts from Boylan's capsule biography (p. 370): "STEWART, ROBERT, VISCOUNT CASTLEREAGH, second MARQUIS OF LONDON DERRY (1769-1822). Virb ub Dyk=vkubm 18 June 1769. Educated at the Royal School, Armagh, and St John's College, Cambridge. Elected to the Irish parliament in 1790. Became chief secretary in 1798. The rising that year convinced him that union with Britain was essential to preserve the empire, and he did not flinch from the huge outlay for 'compensation for disturbance' that secured the passage of the Act of Union in 1800. Description of his tactics as wholesale bribery and corruption take little account of the facts of political life in the eighteenth century, when patronage was an accepted instrument of government policy. The Catholics had been led to believe their emancipation would follow the Union, and when King George III refused his consent, Castlereagh resigned with Pitt. He as soon back in office as secretary for war in 1805, and from then until his suicide in 1822 played a dominant role in British policy."
He became Foreign Secretary in 1812, and Boylan credits him with putting together the terms that produced forty years of peace after 1815. "After 1815 his popularity ebbed rapidly in England (he had none to lose in Ireland), as he was identified with the repressive policies of the post-Napoleon years.... His duties had imposed severe and continuous strain on him for years, his mind gave way, and he cut his throat on 12 August 1822.... He left a widow but no children."

"Old Wellington" -- obviously the Duke of Wellington (1769-1852), winner of the Peninsular campaign and victor at Waterloo (1815), much disliked by the masses because he finally defeated Napoleon. If Mitchell's 1848 exile offers the earliest date for this song, the "Iron Duke's" death may supply the latest; two of the three broadsides have the line "Old Wellington he went a-spinning," but Firth c.14(127) patches this to "Old Wellington he now is dead"; this presumably was a topical change made 1852 or 1853, with the other versions coming from (though perhaps not printed) before 1852.

"If Grouchy had never been bribed" -- Emmanuel Grouchy (1766-1847) commanded one of the wings of Napoleon's army in the Waterloo campaign, and his failure to arrive at Waterloo may have cost Napoleon the battle (Pope, p. 247). The charge that he betrayed Napoleon occurs also in "Napoleon Bonaparte (III)" (see that song for a discussion) and in "The Removal of Napoleon's Ashes," but there is no reason whatsoever to believe that it is true.

"Prince Albert" -- Albert of Saxe-Coburg (1819-1861), the husband of Queen Victoria, upon whom she doted almost irrationally. He was not particularly well-liked in England, being suspected (as in this song) of being "on the make," since he was of far less hereditary importance than Victoria (see Cowan, pp. 161-162, for a couple of joke songs about Albert). But though she seems to have fallen in love first, there is no evidence that he tried to tempt her into anything. Indeed, as long as he lived, he proved a capable consort and diplomat, even if the people did not take to him.

"For the Queen has another young son That was spun in the City of Cork" -- Victoria had four sons: Edward (the future Edward VII, 1841-1910), Alfred (1844-1900), Arthur (1850-1942), and Leopold (1853-1884). Arthur, who was Victoria's favorite son (Longford, p. 367) later became Duke of Connaught, and is surely the child intended. The more so since Victoria visited Cork (which was renamed Queenstown at that time) in 1849, so it is possible (though hardly proved) that he was conceived in Cork.

Thus the strong internal evidence is that this piece was written between 1850 and 1852. - RBW

Bibliography

- Longford: Elizabeth Longford, Queen Victoria: Born to Succeed, Harper & Row, 1964
- Pope: Stephen Pope, Dictionary of the Napoleonic Wars, Cassell, 1999 (I use the undated Facts on File hardcover edition)

Last updated in version 5.3
File: Moyl200

Wheelwright, The (John Hunter)

DESCRIPTION: John Hunter is apprenticed to a wheelwright. He and the master's daughter fall in love. When his apprenticeship is finished, he prepares to leave her as he seeks work. She offers to marry him and come with him. He accepts

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: apprentice love father marriage
FOUND IN: Ireland US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H125a+b, pp. 475-476, "John Hunter (a)/John Hunter (b)/The Wheelwright" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #9058
NOTES [19 words]: The notes in Henry/Huntington/Herrmann imply that there is an Irish Gaelic version of this -- possibly even two. - RBW
File: HHH125
When a Man's in Love [Laws O20]

DESCRIPTION: The singer asks his sweetheart to allow him into her room; she convinces him to stay by the fire. He tells her he has courted her long enough despite her parents' opposition; he will go to America. She agrees to be married (or spend the night together)

AUTHOR: Hugh McWilliams (source: Moulden-McWilliams)

EARLIEST DATE: 1831 (according to Moulden-McWilliams)

KEYWORDS: courting marriage emigration request

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar,Newf) Ireland US(MW)

REFERENCES (13 citations):

Laws O20, "When a Man's in Love"
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 110-111, "The Boy of Love" (1 text, lacking the ending)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 214-215,"When A Man's In Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 59, "A Man in Love" (1 text, 3 tunes)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H211, p. 479, "When a Man's in Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 80, "When a Man's In Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 150, "The Boy In Love That Feels No Cold" (1 text, 1 tune)
Tunney-StoneFiddle, pp. 96-97, "When a Man's In Love He Feels No Cold" (1 text, 1 tune)

Harold Nestler, "Songs from the Hudson Valley" (article in _New York Folklore Quarterly_, Volume V, #2, Summer 1949), p. 87, "The Boy in Love" (1 text, short enough that it might possibly be something else with a few lines of this mixed in)

Roud #990

RECORDINGS: Robert Cinnamond, "When a Man's In Love" (on IRRCinnamond02)
Michael Gallagher, "When A Man's In Love" (on FSBFTX13)
A. L. Lloyd, "When a Man's In Love" (on Lloyd01)
Paddy Tunney, "When a Man's In Love" (on FSB01); "When A Man's in Love He Feels No Cold" (on Voice01); "When a Man's In Love" (on IRPTunney03); "When a Man's in Love" (on IRPTunney01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Star of the County Down" (tune) and references there

NOTES [9 words]: In McWilliams's version she agrees to be married. - BS

Last updated in version 4.4

File: LO20

When a Woman Blue

DESCRIPTION: "When a woman blue (x2) she hang her head and cry... When a man get blue He grab a railroad train and ride." "I'm gonna lay my head Down on that railroad line. Let the train roll by And that'll pacify my mind. Honey when I die, don't you wear no black..."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1919 (Brown)

LONG DESCRIPTION: "When a woman blue, when a woman blue, she hang her head and cry... When a man get blue He grab a railroad train and ride." "I'm gonna lay my head, I'm gonna lay my head Down on that railroad line... Let the train roll by And that'll pacify my mind." "Honey when I die, don't you wear no black, For if you do, my ghost come slippin' back"

KEYWORDS: train suicide

FOUND IN: US(SE,So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 236-237, "When a Woman Blue" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 506, "Oh! When a Man Get the Blues" (1 fragment)
When A' the Lave Gaed to Their Beds

DESCRIPTION: Late at night the singer taps at Nell's window. She lets him in "but a' that passed 'atween us twa An' we'll keep that to our-sell." He leaves at four. Hard work, wind and rain won't deter him "while I am welcome back again To the arms of my dear"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1897 (Greig/Duncan4)

KEYWORDS: courting nightvisit

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan4 784, "When A' the Lave Gaed to Their Beds" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #6197

NOTES [43 words]: Greig/Duncan4 quoting Robert Reid in an 1897 issue of the Aberdeen Evening Gazette, the source for the text: "I heard them sung between thirty and forty years ago."

The singer leaves at four to be home in time to start work. No mention of cocks crowing. - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

When Adam Was Created (Wedlock)

DESCRIPTION: "When Adam was created, he dwelt in Eden's shade, As Moses has related, before his bride was made." Then Eve was made from Adam's rib. The rest of the song describes the duties of wedlock, based on this account of the creation

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1879 (journal of the ANdrew Hicks; Dumas's tune dated 1869)

KEYWORDS: religious Bible marriage

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)

REFERENCES (8 citations):

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 53, "When Adam Was Created" (1 text)

Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 53, "When Adam Was Created" (2 tunes plus a text excerpt)

Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 193, "When Adam was Created" (1 text, 1 tune)

Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol5, pp. 29-31, "The Fall of Man" (1 text, 1 tune)

Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 55, "When Adam Was Created" (1 text, 1 tune)

Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 323-325, "A Song for a Weddling" (1 text, 2 tunes)

Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 567-569, "Wedlock" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, WEDLOK

Roud #728

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Old Adam and Eve" (theme)

NOTES [131 words]: I can't help but note that all the details here come from the "J" account of the creation (Gen. 2:4f.). In the "P" account, which occupies Genesis 1:1-2:4, men and women were created together. Make of it what you may.

Brown quotes Jackson to the effect that this derives from Chaucer's "Parson's Tale" or its folk/churchly sources. I really doubt it; The Parson's Tale is probably the dullest of all the Canterbury Tales.

In the Sacred Harp, this appears with the tune "Edmonds," credited to E. Dumas and dated to 1869.

Bush's version does not get into the duties of wedlock, instead halting at the expulsion from Eden and then proceeding with an account of the resurrection of Jesus and his commission of the disciples. This looks like it derives from Matthew 28 or possibly Mark 16. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
When Ah Was Ah Poor Gal

DESCRIPTION: "When ah was a poor gal Nobody look at me." "Now I am a rich gal The Captain send for me." "Go and tell the Captain My time is not for he."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Elder-FolksongsFromTobago)

KEYWORDS: poverty courting rejection money nonballad

FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Elder-FolksongsFromTobago 35, "When Ah Was Ah Poor Gal" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: E1To035

When Bob Got Throwed

DESCRIPTION: "hat time when Bob got throwed, I thought sure I would bust, I liked to die a-laffin', To see him chewing dust." The singer had been thrown a few days earlier, and Bob had laugh.

Bob Beats him up for laughing, but it's worth it

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)

KEYWORDS: cowboy horse injury

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 164-165, "When Bob Got Throwed" (1 text)

NOTES [2 words]: Not funny. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: ThLo164

When Bucks a Hunting Go

DESCRIPTION: "Sweet is the horn that sounds in the morn When bucks a hunting go," but the singer thinks about Nancy. The hounds chase the fox but his mind is on Nancy, his wife [usually]. "How happy is my wife and I When that we homeward go" Let's drink to it

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1830 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 25(2034))

KEYWORDS: wife drink hunting

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, pp. 168-169, "The Cheerful Arn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan4 727, "Hame to My Nancy" (2 fragments, 2 tunes)
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 48-49, "How Sweet is the Horn!" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 399)
Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 143-145, "Young Bucks A-Hunting Go" (2 texts, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: The Universal Songster or Museum of Mirth (London, 1834 ("Digitized by Google")), Vol III, pp. 281-282, "The Huntsman's Wife" or "The Sweets of Tally-Ho!"

Roud #217

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 25(2034), "When Bucks a Hunting Go" ("How sweet is the horn that sounds in the morn"), T. Birt (London), 1828-1829; also Harding B 11(1824), Firth b.25(229), Johnson Ballads fol. 27, Harding B 11(4160), Firth c.19(111), "When Bucks a Hunting Go[!]"

ALTERNATE TITLES:
My Fancy Dwells With Nancy Belle

NOTES [244 words]: There are literary references showing that the song was familiar, at least in England. Alfred Crowquill's story, "Forgiveness -- The Return," quotes the usual first verse, "'Tis sweet in the morn ..." sung by one character (Bentley's Miscellany (London, 1849 ("Digitized by Google")), Vol XXV, p. 384); George Du Maurier's Trilby has it that "Taffy, in a voice like a high wind (and with a very good imitation of the Yorkshire brogue), sang a Somersetshire hunting-ditty, ending: 'Of this 'ere song should I be axed the reason for to show, I don't exactly know, I don't exactly know! But all my fancy dwells upon Nancy, And I sing Tally-ho!'" [not a verse from the broadsides] (New York, 1899 ("Digitized by Google)), p. 172); Ben Brierley, in "Out of Work," has a conversation between two characters watching a girl: "Doesn't know where she is. Bonnie girl! What a bonnet! Bolted at last. 'Still my fancy dwells on Nancy - heigh my diddle dy oh!'' (Ben Brierley, Lancashire Life (Manchester, 1885 ("Digitized by Google)), p. 38)Greig/Duncan4 quoting Duncan: "The song seems to contrast two lovers, of whom Nancy Belle is one." Duncan seems to have it wrong. However, judging by the Brierley quote, the line "my fancy dwells with Nancy" seems to have had a life independent of the hunt.

Kidson has a version, "circa 1800," which replaces the "how happy is my wife" verse with "was she my wife, how sweet the life ...."Roud has Greig/Duncan4 as Roud #6161. - BS

Last updated in version 3.0
File: GrD4727

When Carbine Won the Cup
DESCRIPTION: "The race was run, the Cup was won, The great event was o'er. The grandest horse e'er trod a course Had led them home once more." A description of how Carbine and his rider Ramage (?) won the Melbourne Cup

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1968
KEYWORDS: horse racing
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 212-213, "When Carbine Won the Cup" (1 text) Fahey-Joe-Watson-AustralianTraditionalFolkSinger, [p. 7, page headed "Horse racing played..."], "/(no title)" (1 fragment)

NOTES [139 words]: According to Learmonth, p. 347, the Melbourne Cup was first run in 1861; it is run on the first Tuesday in November. Carbine, who won it in 1890, is noteworthy for having carried the most weight ("10 st. 5 lb.") of any winner.

NewZealandEncyclopedia, p. 95, says that "CARBINE was N[ew] Z[ealand's] first internationally successful racehorse. His performances on the track in Australia, and at stud in both Australia and England, gave the NZ thoroughbred industry its first claim to fame." The article continues to state that Carbine was bred in 1885 near Auckland. He won five races as a two-year-old, had a mixed season the year after that, failed in the Melbourne Cup as a four-year-old, but won it at age five. "He had a career record of 33 wins, six seconds, three thirds, and was unplaced only once," dying at the age of 27. - RBW

Bibliography

Last updated in version 5.2
File: MA212

When Clon Came Home
DESCRIPTION: "At Croke Park last Sunday I hear that the Cork men faced Cavan whose fame was so dear ... but we held them and led them and beat them" The team members are named. "The Sam Maguire Cup has come home to the Lee"

AUTHOR: Paddy Meeghan (source: OCanainn-SongsOfCork)
EARLIEST DATE: 1978 (OCanainn-SongsOfCork)
KEYWORDS: pride sports moniker
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sep 23, 1945 - Cork beat Cavan in the All-Ireland Football Championship (source: OCanainn-SongsOfCork).
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
When Fanning First to Orange Came

DESCRIPTION: "When Fanning first to Orange came He looked both pale and wan, An old patched coat upon his back An old mare he rode on. Both man and mare wa'nt worth five pounds... but by his civil robberies He's laced his coat with gold."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1826 (Raleigh Register and North-Carolina Gazette); the version in Cohen supposedly comes from 1765

KEYWORDS: robbery gold political

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1738?-1818 - Life of Edmund Fanning

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 277, "When Fanning First to Orange Came" (1 text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, p. 231, "When Fanning First to Orange Came (1 short text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "From Hillsborough Town the First of May" (subject)
cf. "Said Frohock to Fanning" (subject)
cf. "Who Would Have Tho't Harmon" (subject)

NOTES [823 words]: One of four "regulator" songs in Brown. The regulators were a group of protesters against high taxes and fees, found mostly in North Carolina though some also were active in South Carolina.

Jameson, p. 549, described the group this way:
"Regulators, the name given to a body of insurgents in North Carolina just before the Revolution. Heavy taxes and fees aroused the resistance of the back-country people against Governor Tryon in 1766. The rebellion spread, but Tryon signally defeated the armed bands at Almances, on the Haw, in 1771. His successor, Martin, compromised with the 'Regulators.'"

Powell, p. 50, has this description of the Regulator movement:
"Resentful of eastern control over their affairs, suspicious of the honesty of most local officeholders, and confident that they could manage their own government, many people in the [North Carolina] back country responded with enthusiasm to calls to attend local gatherings at which their problems might be discussed. After several clashes with local officials, the dissatisfied element coalesced into a body which called itself the Regulators, since its members wanted to regulate their own affairs. The objectives were stated quite clearly in a series of Regulator Advertisements that they issued, and their determination was demonstrated in several attacks on county courts and on individual officers. When the assembly meeting in New Bern was threatened, Governor Tryon called out the provincial militia and marched to the center of the Regulator country to quell the rebellion. In a battle fought near Alamance Creek on May 16, 1771, the Regulators were soundly defeated and scattered by the militia. The reform in local government which they so desperately sought was denied them. The west was not to be victorious in its struggle against eastern control until 1835."

Purcell, p. 4, describes Almances this way:
"Tryon's fourteen hundred militia men met the force of twenty-five hundred regulators, which had gathered on Alamance Creek, on May 16. Before attacking, Tryon paused half a mile from the Regulators' camp and demanded that they surrender up their 'outlawed ringleaders.' When no answer came, the two forces formed into lines only about three hundred yards apart. Through outnumbered, Tryon's force was armed with artillery, and sometime after 10 a.m. Tryon opened fire on the makeshift Regulator army. After firing grapeshot at the Regulators, many of whom did not even have weapons, Tryon ordered his men to push forward. In less than two hours, the militia drove the Regulators from the field."

Purcell gives Tryon's loss as ten men killed, sixty wounded, and says nine Regulators were killed, with many wounded and several dozen taken prisoner. "James Fee, one of the Regulators' leaders, was executed for treason on the battlefield on May 17. Twelve others who had taken part in the Regulator uprising were convicted of treason and six were hanged in June."

McLynn, p. 389, lists the rise of the Regulators as one of several "direct or indirect responses to the definitive appearance of Britain as the first global superpower." I assume he is referring to the colonials' anger over the taxes needed to support superpowerdom.

The notes in Brown say that Regulators formally organized in 1766, when William Tryon (1725-1788) was governor of North Carolina (1765-1771); he defeated them at Alamance in 1771. That was Tryon's way; as governor of New York (1771-1778) he was equally harsh. His successors then turned to compromise.

Brown states that Fanning, a Yale graduate of 1757, was a favorite of Tryon's; after moving to North Carolina, he went from being a local attorney to a Superior Court clerk and legislator. He also built a reputation for extreme avarice, making him a particular target for the regulators (and vice versa). A loyalist during the Revolution (commanded the King's American Regiment of Foot), he died in London.

Jameson, p. 229, gives this biography of Fanning: "Fanning, Edmund (1737-1818), at first a clerk of the North Carolina Supreme Court and a legislator. In 1777 he commanded a corps of loyalists, and fled to Nova Scotia at the close of the war, having been notorious for his barbarity as a leader of partisan warfare."

Jameson's biography of Tryon (p. 664) reads as follows: "Tryon, William (1725-1788), born in Ireland, was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of North Carolina in 1764. He was Governor from 1765 to 1771. He suppressed the revolt of the 'Regulators' with great cruelty. He became Governor of New York in 1771, and continued in office until 1778. He was detested by the patriots for his inhumanity and the destruction of Danbury, Fairfield and Norwalk, Conn."

Makes it rather easier to understand why the Regulators were as upset as they were.... Cohen's notes say that this song was first recorded in 1765. But note Fanning's dates. He was hardly worth writing about in 1765. I think there is an error somewhere. - RBW

Bibliography

- Purcell: L. Edward Purcell and Sara J. Purcell, Encyclopedia of Battles in North America, Checkmark Books, 2000

Last updated in version 5.3
File: BrII277

When Father Was a Little Boy

DESCRIPTION: "When father was a little boy, The world was not so gar. I love to hear him tell of how He passed the time of way." He walked four miles to school in the cold. A new boy shows up. Dad finds a string coming from his clothes and unravels his underwear. My portion was too small." If she remains coy, he'll seek another

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)

KEYWORDS: father humorous clothes

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 168, "When Father Was a Little Boy" (1 text)
Roud #11360
File: Brne168

When First I Seen This Lovely Queen

DESCRIPTION: "When first I seen this lovely queen, On her I fixed my eyes, And thought in time, while in my prime, To gain her I would try. "But all in vain; could not obtain This virgin's love at all... My portion was too small." If she remains coy, he'll seek another

AUTHOR: unknown
When First Into this Country

DESCRIPTION: The stranger arrives and finds no one cares about him. He is accused of crimes, but the only crime he admits is involvement with three girls. Forced into a harsh apprenticeship, he at last earns his freedom and marries his love

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1847 (Journal of William Histed of the Cortes)

KEYWORDS: love courting work abuse freedom marriage apprentice

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,South),Scotland(Aber),Wales) US

REFERENCES (9 citations):

Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 195-197, "When First Into this Country" (1 text, 1 tune)
Reeves/Sharp-TheldiomOfThePeople 4, "American Stranger" (2 texts)
Williams-Witshire-WSRO Ox 259, "I'm a Stranger In This Country" (1 text)
O'Shaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart1 1, "The American Stranger" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #59, p. 1, "The American Stranger" (1 text); #61, p. 2, "(I hae travelled this country)" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan 1469, "The American Stranger" (12 texts, 9 tunes)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 127-128, "The American Stranger" (1 text, a somewhat confused version in which the singer seems to shift from having one girl to three back to one)
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 170-171, "The American Stranger" (1 text, 1 tune, similar to but shorter than Ord's text)

DT, WHNFRST2*

Roud #1081

RECORDINGS:
Chris Willett, "The American Stranger" (on Voice11)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 c.17(4) View 2 of 2, "American Strander [sic]" ("I am a stranger in this country"), G. Thompson (Liverpool), 1789-1820; also 2806 c.17(3) View 2 of 2, "America [sic] Stranger";
Harding B 11(48), Firth b.25(273), Harding B 15(33a), Harding B 25(46), Harding B 20(237), Harding B 11(3053a), Harding B 11(3056), 2806 b.11(29), Harding B 11(49), Harding B 16(6a), Harding B 28(159), "American Stranger[!]"); Harding B 25(1845) [illegible lines], "The Stranger"; 2806 b.11(215), "Sporting Youth" ("I'm a stranger in this country from Ireland I came")
Murray, Mu23-y2:013, "The Sporting Youth," Poet's Box (Glasgow), 1856
NLScotland, L.C.Fol.178.A.2(019), "The American Stranger," McIntosh (Glasgow), 1849

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "When First To This Country (I)" ("When First Unto This Country" lyrics) and references there

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Irish Stranger
The Plains of America

NOTES [318 words]: This shares a first line or two with "When First To This Country," but the similarity ends by the end of the second stanza. The first few verses probably did transfer (I suspect from this song to that, since "When First To This Country" barely survived in tradition), but the two songs are clearly separate.

To add to the confusion, the song seems to exist in two forms. Huntington's gives full details of the youth's troubles. Ord-BothySongsAndBallads's and Stokoe's, both known by the title "The American Stranger," gloss over it, and end with the singer emigrating but saying something like the lovers are "In a plentiful country, (they are/and) God bless the King." - RBW

Chris Willett's version on Voice11 takes lines found on broadside Harding B 11(48), among others, ("But to prove myself loyal, You shall come along with me, And I'll take you to America, My darling for to be.") and turns them into a chorus ("Just to prove myself royal, if you're go along with me, I will take you to America my own darling to see"); it also has a verse from Johnson Ballads 458, among others, ("The moon shall be in darkness, And the stars shall give no light If ever I prove false to my hearts delight," "In the middle of the ocean There shall grow a myrtle [or plum, or willow] tree") that float in other songs.

Greig re #61 [Greig/Duncan7 1469L] as compared to "The American Stranger": "It would seem that the two songs have some connection. One verse is the same in both, and there are other minor points of resemblance."

Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople 4A shares lines in its last verse with "The Indian Lass": "Now our ship is ready 'Tis ready to sail ... And when we gets over to our own Countree We'll drink the good health to the Indian Lass." Polly and Betty were in the song earlier but this is the first appearance of an "Indian Lass." This was recorded in Stafford Common, Swansea, Wales in 1907.

- BS

File: SwMS195

When First To This Country (I)

DESCRIPTION: The singer courts Nancy, who turns him down; he steals a horse and is imprisoned. He complains of his ill-treatment, then adds "With my hands in my pockets and my cap put on so bold/With my coat of many colors, like Jacob of old"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (field recording, Gant Family)

KEYWORDS: courting love rejection prison theft thief

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 315-316, "When First To This Country a Stranger I Came" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRanblersSongbook, p. 29, "When First To This Country" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 71, "When First Unto This Country" (1 text)

DT, WHENFRST*

Roud #15600

RECORDINGS:
- Maggie & Foy Gant, "When First Unto This Country" (LC 65 A2)
- New Lost City Ramblers, "When First Unto This Country" (on NLCR02, NLCRCD1)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "In Eighteen-Forty-Nine" (floating lyrics)
- cf. "When First To This Country (II)" ("When First Unto This Country" lyrics)
- cf. "The Frowns That She Gave Me" ("When First Unto This Country" lyrics) and references there
- cf. "When First Into this Country" ("When First Unto This Country" lyrics) and references there
- cf. "When First To This Country (II)" ("When First Unto This Country" lyrics) and references there
- cf. "In Eighteen-Forty-Nine" ("When First Unto This Country" lyrics) and references there

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- When First unto this Country

NOTES [116 words]: This should not be confused with the kids' song "When I First Came to This Land," written -- well, translated -- by Oscar Brand in the 1940s. -PJS

[Or with the whalers' song "When First Into this Country." - RBW]

Paul Stamler mentions the prisoner's "coat of many colors," which he believes unconnected with the rest of the song. He may be right -- considering that the person who wore the "coat of many colors" (properly a "long robe with sleeves") was Jacob's son Joseph. However, it is worth noting that Joseph's possession of the robe (which the author presumably thought resembled prison apparel) caused his brothers to resent him; the end result was that Joseph became a prisoner in Egypt. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

File: CSW029

When First To This Country (II)

DESCRIPTION: "[My] poor heart beat sore" on leaving Molly. She pleads to come with him: "Short trouser, and jacket, my love I'll put on." He could not stand to see her beaten "So you can't come
When Fortune Turns Her Wheel

DESCRIPTION: "Come, fill a glass, let's drink about... To meet ye a' ance mair, my friends, A sacred joy I feel, Though far awa I noo maun stray Till fortune turns her wheel." The singer has been betrayed by love and comrades, and bids farewell to Scotland and home

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (Poet's Box broadside, according to Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: parting drink
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast 88, p. 2, "When Fortune Turns Her Wheel" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 667, "When Fortune Turns the Wheel" (5 texts, 2 tunes)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 180-181, "When Fortune Turns Her Wheel" (1 text)
McMorland/Scott-HerdLaddieOTheGlen, pp. 43-44, 149, "When Fortune Turns Her Wheel" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, FORTRNWH*
Roud #3798
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I'll Take This Glass into My Hands" (theme)
File: Ord180

When Grandmama Met Grandpapa

DESCRIPTION: "When grandmama met grandpapa, they danced the minuet." That was too slow "so they danced the rock and roll." Instructions for the game: "That's the way to do it"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame)
KEYWORDS: playparty dancing
FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 131, "When Grandmama Met Grandpapa" (2 texts, 1 tune)
File: OpGa131

When Griping Griefs the Heart Doth Wound

DESCRIPTION: "When griping griefs the heart doth wound, And doleful dumps the mind oppress, Then music with her silver sound, With speedy help doth lend redress." Music praises the gods and brings joy. It is a gift to humanity

AUTHOR: Possible Richard Edwards (source: Seng)
EARLIEST DATE: 1576 (Edwards's The Paradise of Dainty Devices, according to Seng)
KEYWORDS: nonballad love music
FOUND IN: Britain(England)
When He Comes, He'll Come in Green

DESCRIPTION: "Don't cry, little baby, don't you cry. Your sweetheart will come by and by. When he comes, if he's dressed in green, Then you may know you'll be his queen." Similarly with other colors: "Dressed in blue, Then you may know his love is true," etc.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1903 (Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren)

KEYWORDS: colors courting playparty lullaby

FOUND IN: US(MA,SE,So)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #35, "Hallowe'en Rhyme" (2 texts)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 70, "Oh, Pretty Polly" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 70, "Oh, Pretty Polly" (1 text); 71, "Don't Cry" (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), p. 163, (no title) (1 fragment)

Roud #7870

NOTES [92 words]: The editors of Brown concede their two texts to be the same song, but split them anyway. They admit they don't know if the piece is a singing game of some kind, a lullaby, or something else. (Allsopp calls it a lullaby but has only one verse.) I've used both keywords because both look like they fit. It looks like a very good song for both purposes; I'm surprised it isn't more widely known.

Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren obviously thought this a dress-up rhyme for Halloween. I really don't think that follows; the love element is strong. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.1

File: Br3070

When He Who Adores Thee

DESCRIPTION: The singer states "though guilty to them [my foes], I have been but too faithful to thee [Ireland]!" "Oh! blessed are the lovers and friends who shall live The days of thy glory to see"; next best "is the pride of thus dying for thee"

AUTHOR: Thomas Moore (1779-1852)

EARLIEST DATE: 1846 (Moore-IrishMelodies-1846); reportedly performed 1839 (see NOTE)

KEYWORDS: execution Ireland nonballad patriotic

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
- Sep 20, 1803 - Robert Emmet (1778-1803) is hanged

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Moore-IrishMelodies-1846, p. 23, "When he, who adores thee" (1 text)
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 158, "When He Who Adores Thee" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 116, "When He Who Adores Thee" (1 text)
Roud #V31869
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth b.27(14), "When He Who Adores Thee," unknown, n.d.
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Oh! Breathe Not His Name" (subject: concealed allusions to Robert Emmet)
cf. "She is Far From the Land" (subject: concealed allusions to Robert Emmet)
cf. "The Man from God-Knows-Where" (subject: concealed allusions to Robert Emmet)
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815: "In this song Moore paraphrases parts of Emmet's speech from the dock and has him address these sentiments to Ireland."
You can find copies of Emmet's speech on the Web. See, for example, "Robert Emmet's Speech from the Dock (Document)" quoted on wiki.politics.ie site from "Politics.ie, the Irish politics website."
None of Moore's text follows Emmet's, though Emmet is speaking over the court's head: "if there is a true Irishman present let my last words cheer him in the hour of his affliction." - BS
We should probably note that there is no official transcript of Emmet's speech (see Robert Kee, The Most Distressful Country, being volume I of The Green Flag, p. 168). We don't know his precise words. It hardly matters, any more than it matters that his rebellion was ill-organized and completely inept; he could hardly have said anything more effective than what was reported, and it was that which kept his myth alive.
Moore, we should add, knew Emmet; according to Kee, Moore was "Emmet's old friend and fellow student at Trinity." Kee regards Moore as having "set the tone" for Emmet's legend. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: Moyl158

When I Am LOB

DESCRIPTION: "When through the mud you drag your weary feet, Under your tunic your heart may cease to beat, No matter what becomes of thee, I'll always smile, and think with glee, That I am LOB." The singer describes all the dangers those LOB don't face
EARLIEST DATE: 1979 (Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead)
KEYWORDS: soldier hardtimes escape
FOUND IN: Canada
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead, p. 114, "When I Am LOB" (1 text, tune referenced)
Roud #29426
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Lili Marlene" (tune, plus cross-references to songs of the Italian campaign)
cf. "O'er the Hills of Sicily" (subject: the Italian campaign)
NOTES [401 words]: LOB, as Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead explains, is "Left Out of Battle," the portion of a battalion not engaged in order to preserve it in case the unit is slaughtered. This was probably especially important in the Italian Campaign, which of all the fronts of the European War, most resembled World War I -- trench warfare all the time, mostly stalemate; the Italian hills made tank-based war much harder, and hence caused the fight to be much more static than on other European fronts.
This fact may make it surprising to find a mention of the Tiger tank. But the Tiger was perhaps particularly suited to Italy. Heavier than any Anglo-Allied tank, it fired the famous German 88 mm anti-tank gun, which was probably the best anti-tank and field anti-aircraft gun of the war; it had frontal armor of 110 mm (Wheal/Pope, pp. 463-464; Dougherty, p. 132, says 100 mm), which at the time it appeared no Anglo-Allied tank gun could penetrate. I seem to recall reading that the rule of thumb was that the exchange rate was six Shermans (the standard Allied tank) for one Tiger -- the Shermans had little hope against the German tank except to destroy its treads.
Dougherty, p. 132, lists the strengths of the Tiger as "Very powerful gun. Extremely thick armour, Reputation of invincibility" -- but lists among its disadvantages, "Poor strategic mobility, Needed large amounts of fuel." The engine wasn't big enough to carry all that weight of tun and armor, leaving it with a top speed of just 23 miles per hour and a range of just 120 miles. It broke down a lot because of that heavy load, and it was hard to keep supplied and hard to build and repair. As a result, it was not much good as an offensive tank. But in a place like Italy, where it was used mostly to hold a position, it could be a real problem to deal with.

Although Hopkins doesn't mention it, the desire to preserve a cadre was not the only reason why portions of units were "LOB." A constant problem in the war was "battle exhaustion," also known as "shell shock" -- one of the various conditions we now recognize as trauma-related (i.e. the same psychological category as post-traumatic stress disorder). Units were designated LOB in order to let them relax and reduce the effects of battle fatigue (Bercuson, p. 183). For the reasons outlined above, this was probably more important on the Italian Front than any other European theater. - RBW

Bibliography

- Dougherty: Martin J. Dougherty, Compared and Contrasted: Tanks from World War I to the Present Day, Amber books, 2010

Last updated in version 5.0
File: Hopk114

When I Am On the Sea Sailing

DESCRIPTION: The singer is leaving to fight in Flanders for six months. He would not have his girl dress as a man and follow him. He will pray "to the High Powers above To guard you." He returns "free from harm"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: love war soldier parting reunion cross-dressing dialog floatingverses
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1541, "When I Am on the Sea Sailing" (6 texts, 7 tunes)
Roud #422
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Fish May Fly
NOTES [169 words]: The distinguishing line in the Greig/Duncan8 texts is the verse, "When I am on the sea sailing, An' far from any shore, My prayers will be to the High Powers above, To guard for evermore." Floating verses include "The fish may fly, and the seas gang dry, An' the rocks melt wi' the sun, But if ever I do prove false to you My heart's blood it shall run" and "You mind me on yon milkwhite dove Sits mourning on yon tree, Lamenting over her marrow so sweet, And so will I for you." I assume that Roud lumps this with "Careless Love" and "Fare You Well, My Own True Love."

The verse and story line from Greig/Duncan8 is missing in W. Christie, editor, Traditional Ballad Airs (Edinburgh, 1881 (downloadable pdf by University of Edinburgh)), Vol II, pp. 164-165, "You'll Never Mind Me More, Dear Love." That song begins "When you are on the sea sailing, And far from any shore, I fear you'll never mind on me, You'll never mind me more" -- as does Greig/Duncan8 -- and then becomes a collection of floating verses. - BS

Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD81541

When I Can Change My Clothes

DESCRIPTION: "Never will forget that day when they had me in Parchman Jail.... I wonder how long 'fore I can change my clothes." No one will go his bail. He is forced to work in rain and snow and cold, with bare feet. The singer wants to wear "citizen" clothes

AUTHOR: Booker T. Washington "Bukka" White
When I Can Read My Titles Clear (Long Time Traveling)

DESCRIPTION: "When I can read my titles clear to mansions in the sky, I will bid farewell to every tear and wipe my weeping eye." Chorus: "I'm a long time traveling here below, I'm a long time traveling away from my home...." Other verses vary

AUTHOR: unknown (portions by Isaac Watts)
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, J. T. Allison's Sacred Harp Singers)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
DT, LONGTIME
Roud #5732

RECORDINGS:
J. T. Allison's Sacred Harp Singers, "I'm A Long Time Travelling Away From Home" (Gennett 6255, 1927; on StuffDreams2)
Daniels-Deason Sacred Harp Singers, "Primrose Hill" (Columbia 15323-D, 1928; on Babylon)
Denson Sacred Harp Singers, "The Ninety-Fifth" (Brunswick 287, rec. 1928)
Elder Golden P. Harris, "I'll Lead a Christian Life" (Melotone 12178, 1931; on Babylon, StuffDreams2)
Frank Proffitt, "I'm A Long Time Travelling Here Below" (on FProffitt01)

NOTES [212 words]: This song, or one of the same title, is said to have been one of Abraham Lincoln's favorites. The verses are so generic that it is really hard to call it one song; it's a family held together by the refrain "Been a long time traveling here below" and (often but not always) the mansions in the sky.

The first stanza is from a poem by Isaac Watts, "The Hopes of Heaven Our Support Under Trials on Earth," and reportedly published 1807 (see John Julian, editor, A Dictionary of Hymnology, 1892; second edition 1907 (I use the 1957 Dover edition in two volumes), p. 1269). This shows up in several forms in the shape note books (e.g. with the tunes "Ninety-Fifth," "Primrose Hill," "Akers," and "Saints' Delight") -- but all these seem to be the Watts poem, which is not (to my ears at least) nearly as strong. It is noteworthy that, according to Julian, several editors saw fit to refashion the piece.

As far as I can tell from reading the Sacred Harp book [a demonstrably unreliable source - RBW], Watts seems to have composed all of the lyrics.

I've placed the Daniels-Deason and Elder Harris recordings here for want of a better place; they share lyrics but use different tunes. - PJS

For more on Isaac Watts, see the notes to "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2

File: DTlongti

When I Die (I)

DESCRIPTION: Because the singer has found salvation, "When I die, I'll live again." He's made confession and will transgress no more. Ch: "When I die I'll live again/Hallelujah, I'll live again/Because I'm forgiven, my soul will find heaven/When I die I'll live again"

AUTHOR: James Rowe & Ernest Rippetoe
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Stamps-Baxter book, "Harbor Bells #4")
KEYWORDS: resurrection death nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(MA,SE)

RECORDINGS:
Rev. Gary Davis, "When I Die I'll Live Again" (on GaryDavis02)
Watson Family, "When I Die" (on Watson01)

File: DTlongti
When I Die Don't Wear No Black

DESCRIPTION: "When I die don't wear no black, For if you do My ghost come a-creeping back."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: death mourning clothes ghost

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 489, "When I Die Don't Wear No Black" (1 text)
Roud #11871

When I Dream of Old Erin

DESCRIPTION: "When the nightingale's singing its sweet melodies, And the scent of the flowers perfumes the night breeze," the singer dreams of Ireland and his love. He describes his old home, repeating, "When I dream of old Erin, I'm dreaming of you."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1922 (Dean-FlyingCloud)

KEYWORDS: love separation home Ireland

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dean-FlyingCloud, p. 97, "When I Dream of Old Erin" (1 text)
Roud #9593

When I First Came To This Land

DESCRIPTION: Immigrant comes to the USA, gets a shack, cow, duck, wife and son, and sings about them in a cumulative fashion: "Called my wife 'Run for your life'; called my duck, 'Out of luck'", etc.

AUTHOR: English words translated by Oscar Brand from Pennsylvania Dutch song

EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Oscar Brand, "Our Singing Holidays")

KEYWORDS: animal cumulative emigration farming marriage nonballad

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 109-113, "When I First Came to This Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 68-71, "Wann ich vun dem Land rei kumm (When I Came to this Country)" (1 German text plus non-poetic translation, 1 tune)
Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 13, "When I First Came to this Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 120 "When I First Came To This Land" (1 text)
DT, FIRSTCAM

ADDITIONAL: Richard M. Dorson, _Buying the Wind: Regional Folklore in the United States_, University of Chicago Press, 1964, pp. 157-159, "When I Came to This Country (Wann ich vun dem Land rei kumm)" (1 non-poetic English translation)
Roud #16813

RECORDINGS:
Pete Seeger, "When I First Came to This Land" (on PeteSeeger24)
When I Get On My Bran' New Suit

DESCRIPTION: "When I git on my brand-new suit, Boots to my knees, Go to see my lovely gal And kiss her when I please."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands)

KEYWORDS: courting clothes

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 158, "Going to See My Girl (fifth of 12 single-stanza jigs) (1 text)
ST Fus158A (Full)
Roud #16414
File: Fus158A

When I Get to Heaven

DESCRIPTION: "When I get to Heaven going to sit right down, Ask my Lord for a starry crown, Sitting down beside the Holy Lamb." "When I get to heaven going to sit and tell, Three archangels going to ring the bell, Sitting down beside the Holy Lamb."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)

KEYWORDS: Bible nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, pp. 128-129, "Oh, When I Git t' Heaven" (1 text, 1 tune; pp. 140-141 in the 1901 edition)
ADDITIONAL: Howard W. Odum, Religious Folk-Songs of the Southern Negroes, (reprint from American Journal of Religious Psychology and Education, July 1909, Vol.3 pp. 265-365 "Digitized by Internet Archive")), p. 29, ("When I get to heaven gwine to ease, ease") (1 fragment)
Roud #15250

NOTES [73 words]: The "Holy Lamb" reference to Jesus is from John 1:29: "The next day John (the Baptist) seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world" (King James).
Odum's fragment and Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute's third verse is "When I git to heaven gwine to ease, ease, Me an' my God goin' do as we please, Settin' down side o' de holy Lamb." - BS

File: Dett128

When I Go Up to Shinum Place

DESCRIPTION: "When I go up to shinum place" there will be red, white and black men. "There is no need of wigwam there, He send his angels to take care, And Jesus good and kind"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus Indians(Am.)

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 171, "When I Go Up to Shinum Place" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, p. 82, "When I Go Up to Shinum Place" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2728

CROSS-REFERENCES:
When I Lays Down

DESCRIPTION: "When I lays down and dies on my tired old hunkers, The family back home will get ten thousand plunkers, Oh, this man's war is a mean man's war for sure." The singer expects to die. Women will miss him. He is learning war; he won't let a sniper get him

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Niles/Moore-SongsMyMotherNeverTaughtMe)

KEYWORDS: soldier war

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Niles/Moore-SongsMyMotherNeverTaughtMe, pp. 218-219, "When I Lays Down" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #27897

File: NiMo218

When I Leave These Earthly Shores

DESCRIPTION: Recitation: "When I leave this earthly shore And mosey 'round this world no more, Don't weep, don't sob; I may have found a better job." After this introduction, the speaker spends two stanzas asking for small gifts now rather than big ones after death

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1957

KEYWORDS: death recitation poverty

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 104, "When I Leave These Earthly Shores" (1 text)

ST FSC104 (Partial)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Give Me the Roses While I Live" (theme of giving roses)

File: FSC104

When I Left the State of Georgia

DESCRIPTION: "When I left the state of Georgia, To Alabamer I did go. There I spied a pretty fair girl, Although her age I did not know." "Your mama says that she's not willing For you to go with me. But, sweetheart, if you are willing, I will run away with you."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)

KEYWORDS: courting travel mother

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 22, "When I Left the State of Georgia" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11337

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "East Virginia (Dark Hollow)" (lyrics, theme)

NOTES [28 words]: This is so close to "East Virginia" that I almost lumped them. With just two verses in the Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric version, it's hard to know one way or the other. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: Brne022
When I Lie Doon

DESCRIPTION: The singer cannot sleep, oppressed "wi' dreams and delusions" for "my lovie's far from me When I lie doon"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE:

KEYWORDS: love nonballad separation dream

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan6 1106, "When I Lie Doon" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

Roud #6836

ALTERNATE TITLES:

At Night When I Gang to My Bed

Oh, My Lovie's Far frae Me

File: GrD61106

When I Rise Crying Holy

DESCRIPTION: "Oh my Lord this is a needed time (x3) In that morning when I rise crying Holy."

"I'm so glad I got my ticket in hand." "Oh sister your robe don't fit you like mine." "Oh Gabriel blow your trumpet loud." "Oh Jesus don't come that angry way."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands 32, pp. 148-150, "When I Rise Cryin' Holy" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [33 words]: The current description is based on the Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands text. In Parrish's text each verse is one line, three times, followed by "In that morning when I rise crying Holy." - BS

Last updated in version 4.1

File: Parr032

When I Set Out for Glory

DESCRIPTION: "When I set out for glory, I left this world behind, Determined for a city that's hard to find, And to begging I will go. And to begging I will go, I'll go...." Despite warnings, the singer is set on this path, and would rather be Christian than rich

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1856 (Thompson-APioneerSongster)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad travel begging poverty

FOUND IN: US(MA,Ap)

REFERENCES (3 citations):

Thompson-APioneerSongster 70, "The Convert" (1 text)

Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 212, "The Begging Song" (1 text)

Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 196-197, "When I Set Out for Glory" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST Fus212 (Partial)

Roud #5426

File: Fus212

When I Wake in the Morning

DESCRIPTION: The singer is "surrounded by sorrow ... lovely Jimmie if you knew what I knew."

"When the boys come to court ... I do them disdain ... I never will marry till [my love] comes back again"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1954 (Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs)
When I Wake Up in the Morning

DESCRIPTION: When the singer wakes in the morning she says, "Benjie, try and find yourself a job." Don't tell me about the hard times. Walk. Don't take the streetcar. One of these days I'll be gone and you'll be sorry.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1964 (USSealsland01)

KEYWORDS: poverty warning work hardtimes nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1500, "When I Was a Bonny Young Lassie" (2 texts, 1 tune)

Roud #7175

NOTES [43 words]: The current description is based on the USSealsland01 text. This is a blues apparently "made up on the spot" -- according to the liner notes -- by one of the Moving Star Hall Singers. Perhaps the Benjie referred to is one of the Singers, Benjamin Bligen. - BS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: RcwIWWUIM

When I Was a Bonny Young Lassie

DESCRIPTION: The singer, being maid to a minister, was ignorant about sex. When a young man courts her, they go out to sing and she comes home late and pregnant. When asked about her illness she recalls singing. The boy is confronted and they willingly marry

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan7)

KEYWORDS: courting sex marriage clergy servant

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1500, "When I Was a Bonny Young Lassie" (2 texts, 1 tune)

Roud #7175

NOTES [41 words]: A recurring line is "But aye I courted my laddie and pleased the minister too." When confronted the young man says, "As we came ower the way ... I was learnin' her to sing, And it's been the high notes o' Bangor that's pitten her oot o' tune." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD71500

When I Was a Cowboy

DESCRIPTION: "When I was a cowboy, out on the western plains (x2), I made a half a million pulling on the bridle reins." The cowboy boasts of fighting Jesse James and Buffalo Bill. He advises, in the event of fire, abandoning the house and saving the "jelly"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1934

KEYWORDS: cowboy bragging outlaw fight nonsense
When I Was a Little Boy Strikin' at the Studdy

DESCRIPTION: "When I was a little boy, strikin' at the studdy [smithy], I had a pair o' blue breeks, and oh but they were duddie [tattered]! As I strook, they shook, like a lammie's tailie; But noo I'm grown a gentleman, my wife she wears a railie"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: clothes nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig/Duncan8 1688, "When I Was a Young Man I Chappit at the Studdy" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers, The Popular Rhymes of Scotland (Edinburgh, 1826 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 297, ("When I was a little boy, strikin' at the studdy")
Robert Chambers (Edited by Norah and William Montgomerie), Traditional Scottish Nursery Rhymes (1990 selected from Popular Rhymes) #152, p. 87, ("When I was a wee boy, Strikin at the studdy")
Roud #13033

NOTES [105 words]: The description is Chambers's text. I don't know what a "railie" is, but seems likely to refer to an early 19th century fashion [see, for example, Webster's Third New International Dictionary of the English Language Unabridged, 1976: "rail ... n ... 1 archaic: a loose garment worn in varying style esp by women since the early medieval period 2 obs: a neckerchief for women"]. Greig/Duncan8 ends with the singer "grown a grandpa, my wife she wears a veillie." - BS
Alexander Warrack, The Scots Dialext Dictionary, Waverly Books, 2000, defines "railie/railly" as a woman's jacket, although it does not describe the style. - RBW

File: GrD81688

When I Was a Little Boy, Striking at the Studdy

DESCRIPTION: The singer says that when he was a little boy, blacksmithing, his clothes were ragged. Now he is such a gentleman his wife wears a night-rail

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2)
KEYWORDS: money work nonballad clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 128, "Quhan I Was a Wee Callan" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers, The Popular Rhymes of Scotland (Edinburgh, 1870 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 155, ("When I was a little boy, striking at the studdy") (1 text)
Roud #15103

NOTES [130 words]: "night rail ... a woman's loose robe or gown formerly worn as a nightgown or dressing gown" (source: Webster's Third New International Dictionary of the English Language Unabridged, 1976) Chambers: "... familiar to the boys in every province of Scotland.... It is supposed to bear reference to the founder of the family of Callender of Craigforth, near Stirling, who originally was a blacksmith. John Callender performed work on Edinburgh and Stirling Castles before the Revolution. In 1689 he was ordered paid a large amount in Scots money but "[a]ccording to the popular story, the ingenious blacksmith got payment of this sum from the English exchequer, but in the English denomination, a piece of good fortune which enabled him to become proprietor of Craigforth ...." - BS

Last updated in version 2.6
File: LyCr2128

When I Was a Rich Man
DESCRIPTION: "When I was a rich man, I wore my silk and satin; But now I am a poor man, I wear my cotton bagging. When I was a rich lady, I had a rich lady's baby! But now I am a Negro, damn a Negro baby."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (Morris, Southern Folklore Quarterly)
KEYWORDS: money clothes baby Black(s)
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #143, "When I Was a Rich Man" (1 short text)
Roud #5060
File: Morr143

When I Was a Wee Thing
DESCRIPTION: "When I was a (little girl/wee thing), About (seven) years old, I hadna worth a petticoat To keep me frae the cold." The singer travels to (Edinburgh), buys clothes, goes to the woods, and builds a kirk with the help of the birds of the wood
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1964 (Montgomerie)
KEYWORDS: bird animal clergy clothes
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose 232, p. 151, "(When I was a little girl)"
Montgomerie/Montgomerie-ScottishNurseryRhymes 139, "(When I was a wee thing)" (1 text)
File: BGMG222

When I Was A Young Man
DESCRIPTION: As a young man the singer "was drinking and a-smoking, boys, from morning unto night." When he had spent all his money he worked for more. He was enraged when he "walked into the public house and I called for a pint of the best" but got "the slop"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1995 (recording, Wiggy Smith)
KEYWORDS: drink lie
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
Roud #1165
RECORDINGS:
Wiggy Smith, "When I Was A Young Man" (on Voice13)
File: RcWIWAYM

When I Was a Young Man (I)
DESCRIPTION: The singer proposes to his long-time sweetheart but she rejects him as an idler. "In the spring had you cropped my wing" he would have won her. He says he'll "sail the ocean o'er, For the loss of one is a gain of two And a choice of twenty more"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (Creighton-NovaScotia)
KEYWORDS: courting rejection farewell
When I Was a Young Thing

DESCRIPTION: "When I was a young thing I lived with my granny, my mama was dead and my pa gone to sea." The singer always wanted to be a sailor "and follow my dada," but he finds that a sailor's life is filled with hard work.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Peacock)
KEYWORDS: work sailor ship father mother orphan
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peacock, pp. 893-894, "When I Was a Young Thing" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9939
RECORDINGS:
Everett Bennett, "When I Was a Young Thing" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
File: Pea893

When I Was Little Jeanikie

DESCRIPTION: "When I wis little Jeanikie" the singer loved Johnny, "servant to my daddy" When everyone was asleep she "did dry his gray breeks." Now they live together with their "bairnies weel an happy"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan7)
KEYWORDS: love clothes baby servant
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1280, "When I Was Little Jeanikie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7192
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Johnnie's Grey Breaks
File: GrD71280

When I Was Lost in the Wilderness

DESCRIPTION: "King Jesus handed the candle down, An' I hope dat trumpet goin' to blow me home Yer de new Jerusalem." "When Moses smote de water wid his shepherd's rod, De waters rared back...." "When Joshua ordered dat de sun stand still...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: religious Jesus Bible nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 652, "When I Was Lost in the Wilderness" (1 text)
Roud #11943
NOTES [36 words]: Don't ask me where Brown's title came from; there is no mention of wilderness in the song.
Moses's parting of the Red Sea is described in Exodus 14; Joshua's request that the sun stand still is in Joshua 10:12-13. - RBW
When I Was Noo But Sweet Sixteen (The Bothy Lads, The Plooboy Lads)

DESCRIPTION: Singer complains that the ploughboys are "false and deceiving-o They say all and the gang awa." At sixteen she was "just in blooming." At nineteen she's home with her baby with no idea where the father may be.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (recording, Jeannie Robertson)

KEYWORDS: seduction sex nonballad baby abandonment loneliness courtship infidelity love accusation warning beauty

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #66, p. 233-234, "When I Was Noo But Sweet Sixteen" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, PLOOLAD*

Roud #5138

RECORDINGS:
Jeannie Robertson, "When I Was Noo But Sweet Sixteen" (on Voice10)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Peggy on the Banks o' Spey" (tune, some text)

NOTES [33 words]: The tradition seems strongest amongst Scottish Travellers, especially the Robertson and Stewarts of Aberdeen. There is some occasional "contamination" with "Peggy on the Banks o' Spey" (GrD61131). - DGE

Last updated in version 5.3

File: RcwIWNBS

When I Was Single (II)

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls the gay nights he lived when single. Now married, his wife leaves him to watch the cradle and run errands. He laments that "the poor man's labor is never done."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio)

KEYWORDS: marriage nonballad

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 71, "When I Was Single" (1 text)

ST E071 (Full)

Roud #5357

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I Wish I Were Single Again (I - Male)"
cf. "Rocking the Cradle (and the Child Not His Own)" (plot)
cf. "Married and Single Life" (subject)

NOTES [25 words]: This may be a version of "Rocking the Cradle (and the Child Not His Own)";
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio's fragment is too short for me to be sure. - RBW

File: E071

When I Was Young (Don't Never Trust a Sailor)

DESCRIPTION: A girl laments the loss of her virginity to a sailor, (who gives her half a dollar for "the damage I have done," and advises if she has a son to send him off to sea). She is found to be pregnant. Her parents throw her out. She warns girls against sailors

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)

KEYWORDS: bawdy sailor seduction sex warning

FOUND IN: US(MW,So,SW) Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (8 citations):
Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 75-78, "When I Was Young" (2 texts, 1 tune)
When I Was Young (II)

DESCRIPTION: Singer laments married life, saying when she was young she lived well and happily, but now she lives in poverty and misery. The chorus warns, "Ye'd better be a maiden as a poor man's wife."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1850

KEYWORDS: poverty marriage warning

FOUND IN: Britain(North, West, South) Ireland

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, p. 102, "When I Was Young" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 156-157, "When I Was a Maid" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, BTTRSNGL*

ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 27, #1 (1978), p. 15, "It's Better to be Single Than a Poor Man's Wife" (1 text, 1 tune, the Margaret Barry version)

Roud #894

RECORDINGS:
- Margaret Barry & Michael Gorman, "It's Better to be Single Than a Poor Man's Wife" (on Barry-Gorman1)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Single Girl, Married Girl"
- cf. "Sorry the Day I Was Married"
- cf. "I Wish I Were a Single Girl Again" (theme)
- cf. "I Wish I Were Single Again (II - Female)" (theme)
- cf. "Do You Love an Apple?" (theme, floating lyrics)
- cf. "For Seven Long Years I've Been Married" (theme)

NOTES [46 words]: Obviously, this is extremely close to the songs listed as cross-references, and they have either cross-fertilized or share a common ancestor, but it has a distinctly different chorus, emphasizing being a poor man's wife, and as such I think it deserves a separate listing. -PJS

Last updated in version 3.0
File: VwL102

When I Was Young and in My Prime (I)
DESCRIPTION: The singer boasts that when he was young, he could "fetch" a kid every time, but now that he is old, he can't get a "bit to save my soul."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE:
KEYWORDS: bawdy age sex
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph/Legman-RollMeInYourArms I, pp. 159-161, "When I Was Young and in My Prime" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I Am Growing Old and Gray" (theme)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
I Ain't So Young
When I Was in My Prime
File: RL159

When I Was Young I Was Beloved
DESCRIPTION: The singer complains that she was once "beloved in all the young men's companie." Old now, "nae bonnie laddie will fancy me"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast)
KEYWORDS: age courting nonballad oldmaid
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #20, p. 2, ("When I was young I was beloved") (1 fragment)
File: Grg020b

When I Went for to Take My Leave
DESCRIPTION: Singer, leaving to fight for the Union in the Civil War, weeps to leave his child and wife, and vows that "if the Davis boys don't bind me" he will return as quickly as possible when it's over
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (recording, Loman D. Cansler)
KEYWORDS: grief Civilwar war farewell parting return separation baby family wife husband
FOUND IN: US(So)
RECORDINGS:
Loman D. Cansler, "When I Went for to Take My Leave" (on Cansler1)
File: RcWIWFTT

When I'm Gone (I)
DESCRIPTION: "It'll be Lawd, Lawd, Lawd, when I'm gone." "I'm gonna fly from mansion to mansion, when I'm gone." "I'll be done with troubles and trials." "I'm gonna walk and talk with Jesus." "I'm gonna set at the welcome table."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1960
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 243, "When I'm Gone" (1 text, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Welcome Table (Streets of Glory, God's Going to Set This World on Fire)" (floating verses) NOTES [24 words]: Alan Lomax claims -- on the basis of a few words in the chorus -- that this is the same as "Don't You Grieve After Me (I)." I don't buy it. - RBW
File: LoF243

When I'm Gone (II)
DESCRIPTION: "When I'm gone, gone gone, When I'm gone to come no more, Church, I know you goin' to miss me when I'm gone." "You goin' to miss me for my walk (x2). Church, you goin' to miss me...." "You goin' to miss me for my talk."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Killion/Waller-ATreasuryOfGeorgiaFolklore)
KEYWORDS: separation nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Killion/Waller-ATreasuryOfGeorgiaFolklore, p. 252, "When I'm Gone" (1 text)
Roud #18171
File: KiWa252W

When Irish Eyes Are Smiling
DESCRIPTION: Known mostly by the chorus: "When Irish eyes are smiling, Sure, 'tis like the morn in Spring; In the lilt of Irish laughter, You can hear the angels sing...." The lyric concerns the singer's love's smile, and urges smiling at every opportunity AUTHOR: Words: Chauncey Olcott and George Graff Jr. / Music: Ernest R. Ball EARLIEST DATE: 1913 ("The Isle o' Dreams," according to Hischak)
KEYWORDS: nonballad beauty
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
DT, IRSHEYES*
Roud #25290
RECORDINGS:
Bradley Kincaid, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" (Decca 12053)
Riley Puckett, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" (Bluebird 8144)
NOTES [441 words]: Hischak, p. 379: "[This] is the perennial favorite that was beloved by Irish immigrants (and everyone else) in the years before World War One, and it remains a standard today.... [Co-writer Chauncey] Olcott sang the number in the minstrel melodrama The Isle o' Dreams (1913), recorded the song and performed it throughout his career." Williams, p. 213, says that "Neither [Olcott's] stage name nor his real name, John Chancellor, suggests the genuine Irish background of the man who would become the leading Irish-American performer of his day." His mother had come to America from County Kilkenny as an infant. Olcott himself was born in Buffalo, New York, in 1860. He got his big break when another famous Irish performer, William J. Scanlon, developed alcoholism and syphilitic memory loss so severe that an immediate replacement was needed, and Olcott, a lyric Irish tenor, got his part. "Olcott's vehicles, built upon earlier Irish melodrama, gave Irish Americans a kind of 'usable,' if not very accurate, sense of the past" (Williams, pp. 214).
"Olcott wrote or at least collaborated on a number of the songs used in his musicals. According to his wife, while Olcott did write some songs, he also came up with bits of melody and verse that were put in shape by the regular lyricists an composers whom [manager Augustus] Pitou had under contract. He collaborated with some of the best Tin Pan Alley professionals of the day. The lyricists included George Graaff Jr. and Rida Johnson Young, who also wrote the books for several of his musicals. Among the composers was Ernest Ball, one of the Alley's most successful tunesmiths. It was Ball who wrote the music for 'When Irish Eyes Are Smiling' (1912), 'A Little Bit of Heaven (Sure, They Call It Ireland)' (1914), and with Olcott, "Mother Machree' (1910). When we add Olcott's 'My Wild Irish Rose' (1897) and J. R. Shannon's 'Too-re-loo-ra-loo-ra (That's an Irish Lullaby)' from Shameen Dhu (1912), we have much of the sentimental core of twentieth-century Irish-American song" (Williams, pp. 214-215).
Olcott apparently became the prototypical Irish tenor, but he was anything but authentic. He apparently eventually travelled to Ireland, and tried to listen to the locals singing -- and found it so unpleasant to listen to that he had to distract the person he was listening to by asking about the name of a flower. It was "a wild Irish rose." Hence Olcott's song of that name (Williams, pp. 215-216).
Olcott managed the symbolic feat of dying just hours after the end of Saint Patrick's Day, 1932
(Williams, p. 233), but the stage Irish craze had died down a decade or so earlier. - RBW

Bibliography

- Hischak: Thomas S. Hischak, The American Musical Theatre Song Encyclopedia (with a Foreword by Gerald Bordman), Greenwood Press, 1995
- Williams: William H. A. Williams, 'Twas Only an Irishman's Dream, University of Illinois Press, 1996

Last updated in version 5.2
File: RBD25290

When Jesus Christ Was Here Below

DESCRIPTION: "When Jesus Christ was here below, He taught his people what to do, And if we would his precepts keep We must descend to washing feet." The song details the footwashing at the Last Supper
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)
KEYWORDS: Jesus Bible religious
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 93-94, "When Jesus Christ Was Here
Below" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, pp. 198-199, "When Jesus Christ Was Here Below" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7132
NOTES [27 words]: This song closely follows the account of the footwashing in John 13:1-11; the incident is not mentioned in the other three gospels or elsewhere in the Bible. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.1
File: ThBa198

When Jesus Christ Was Here On Earth

DESCRIPTION: Jesus, on earth, is called a spy. He walks past a sinful crowd, hears a woman say,
"I'd go prophesy." He tells Peter, James, and John, "It's written I must die/Shed my blood on Calvary/And never more to die"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (recording, I. D. Beck & congregation)
KEYWORDS: death prophecy religious Jesus
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
Roud #7386
RECORDINGS:
I. D. Beck & congregation: "When Jesus Christ Was Here On Earth" (on LomaxCD1704)
NOTES [12 words]: This is fragmentary, but still clearly a narrative, so I include it. - PJS
File: RcWJCWHE

When Jesus Wept

DESCRIPTION: "When Jesus wept, a falling tear In mercy flowed beyond all bound. When Jesus groaned, a trembling fear Seized all the guilty world around," AUTHOR: William Billings EARLIEST DATE: 1770 (New England Psalm Singer, according to LindaJo H. McKim, KEYWORDS: religious nonballad Jesus
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
DT, JESUSWPT*

NOTES [121 words]: Not traditional as far as I know, but well enough known in folk circles to perhaps deserve an entry. It was written as a canon, and is often done as a round, and serves well in that role. It is not exactly Biblical, but it is based on Biblical themes. The famous verse "Jesus wept" (sometimes "Jesus shed tears") is John 11:35, but the tears themselves are not treated as being significant in that gospel. There are various accounts of Jesus sighing or groaning, but for the most part the groans have no obvious effect.
It is interesting to observe that the presence or absence of a comma after "guilty" significantly affects the meaning of the piece.
For more about composer William Billings, see the notes to "Chester." - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: DTWHNWEP

When John and I Were Married

DESCRIPTION: When the singer married John her cranky old mother gave them nothing. They saved their money and slept in a bed of straw. Now they are happy: "love will live in cottage low as weel's in lofty ha"' so marry whom you love.
AUTHOR: Robert Tannahill (1774-1810) (source: Ramsay)
EARLIEST DATE: 1838 (Ramsay)
KEYWORDS: love marriage nonballad mother
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig/Duncan7 1278, "Clean Pease Strae" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, p. 450, "When John and Me" (1 text)
Roud #7140
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 c.14(42), "Clean Pea Strae" ("When John an' me were married"), J. Harkness (Preston), 1840-1866; also 2806 c.15(310)[some words illegible], "When John and Me Were Married"

NOTES [71 words]: Both Greig/Duncan7 versions add a first verse along the line of 'Let's go to the mill [barn] and thrash [take another round] at the straw. Greig/Duncan7 1278B is only that verse; if 1278A, which adds Tannahill's verses to that first, [didn't exist,] I would have considered this a separate song. Perhaps this verse is what's left of the older "Clean Pease-Strae" which Ramsay has as the tune of "When John and I Were Married." - BS
Last updated in version 3.2
File: GrD71278

When Johnny Comes Marching Home

DESCRIPTION: The singer promises that Johnny will receive a hearty welcome when he returns home from the war. Everyone will turn out; all will be gay; the old church bell will ring; there will be shouting and flowers; they will wreathe his brow with laurel
AUTHOR: Words: "Louis Lambert" (Patrick S. Gilmore)
EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (sheet music published by Henry Tolman & Co, Boston)
KEYWORDS: home war return reunion nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (17 citations):
Jackson-PopularSongsOfNineteenthCenturyAmerica, pp. 233-236, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 327-329, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 211-213, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber-SoldierSongsAndHomeFrontBalladsOfCivilWar, p. 94, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 397, "When Johnny Come Marching Home" (1 text, a copy of a Johnson broadside)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 51, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text, 1 tune)
"When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (14 references)

Heart-Songs, p. 484, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text, 1 tune)
Arnett-IHearAmericaSinging, p. 130, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hill-PoemsAndSongsOfTheCivilWar, p. 204, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text)
Colonial-Dames-AmericanWarSongs, pp. 119-120, When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 282, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text)
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, p. 54, (no title) (1 text, mostly "Johnny Fill Up the Bowl (In Eighteen Hundred and Sixty-One)" but with this chorus)
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 196, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text, 1 tune)
Messerli-ListenToTheMockingbird, pp. 142-143, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 639-641, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home"

RECORDINGS:
Harry Evans, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (Emerson 7373, 1918)
Pete Seeger & Bill McDoo, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" (on PeteSeeger28)
Frank C. Stanley, "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home" (CYL: Edison 5003, c. 1898)

BROADSIDES:
NLScotland, R.B.m169(220), "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," unknown, n.d.

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Johnny, I Hardly Knew Ye" (tune)
cf. "Johnny Fill Up the Bowl (In Eighteen Hundred and Sixty-One)" (tune)
cf. "Snapoo" (tune)
cf. "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" (approximate tune)

SAME TUNE:
Johnny, I Hardly Knew Ye (File: PBB094)
Johnny Fill Up the Bowl (In Eighteen Hundred and Sixty-One) (File: R227)
Snapoo (File: EM379)
The Donkey's Song (File: Wels061)
The Ants Go Marching (File: NCF211AG)
The Widow-Maker Soon Must Cave [Anti-Lincoln campaign song of 1864] (James M. McPherson, Battle Cry of Freedom, p. 790)
Their Trophies ("The veteran troops at old Yorktown") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 156)
When Abe Comes Marching Home ("When 'Abe' comes marching home again") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 174)
When the Boys Come Marching Home ("The veteran troops are coming home," by A. Anderson) (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 175)
White Stars! ("Of the Second Division my rhymes do sing"); the reference is to the 2nd Division, XII Corps, and the 109th Pennsylvania, commanded by Capt. F. Louis Gimber at Gettysburg and after it transferred to the west) (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 177; Bodleian, Harding B 31(100))
Out of the Freshman Year ("Examination's passed once more, Hurrah! Hurrah!") (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 119)
When Labor Has Come to Its Own ("When labor has come to its own again, Hurrah! Hurrah!, We'll live in a real Republic then, Hurrah! Hurrah!") (by Philipps Thompson) (Foner, p. 272)

Garfield and Arthur, The People's Choice ("Garfield is the peopel's choice, Hurrah! hurrah! They all proclaim it with one voice") (Garfield and Arthur Campaign Song Book 1880, p. 4)
With Garfield Leading, We Are Marching On ("Through all the land a cry is heard, Hurrah! Hurrah! The nation's heart once more is stirred") (Garfield and Arthur Campaign Song Book 1880, p. 15)

NOTES [309 words]: Scholars continue to argue whether "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" or the doleful "Johnny, I Hardly Knew Ye" is the original. "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" can be firmly dated to the beginning of the Civil War, while "Johnny, I Hardly Knew Ye" does not appear until slightly later (1869) -- but as a traditional song. The earliest known printing is, in fact, that of "Johnny Fill Up the Bowl" (early 1863).

If I were to make a guess, I think I would put "Johnny Fill Up the Bowl" first; it's a logical tune for Gillmore to steal (and some anonymous Irishman to turn into an anti-war song). But what do I know?

Jonathan Lighter seems to concur. His study of the song supports the 1868/1869 date for "Johnny, I Hardly Knew Ye," which he credits to Geoghegan. And he notes a songster, New and Popular Songs: A Collection of the Most Popular Songs of the Day.... (Philadelphia: Simpson & Co., 1864), which has an expanded version of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," which includes the following stanza among others: "Johnny, he got shot in the leg, Hurrah! Hurrah! Now he goes on a wooden peg, Hurrah! Hurrah! He lost his eyes, he lost his nose, He [sic] bit off his ears, and lost all his toes." He observes that this could easily inspire "Johnny, I Hardly Knew Ye."

What is certain is that the song became very popular quickly. Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 174, lists 14 Civil War-era broadsides, and several other songs adopt the tune, implying that it was widely known. (Although one parody, "When the Boys Come Marching Home," lists the tune as "Johnny Fill Up the Bowl").

This is, without question, Patrick Gilmore's "hit," although in 1854 he published a mildly popular piece, "Sad News from Home for Me" (Jon W. Finson, The Voices That Are Gone: Themes in Nineteenth-Century American Popular Song, Oxford University Press, 1994, p. 100). - RBW

When Johnny Went Plowing for Kearon

DESCRIPTION: Kearon, too old to plow, hires Johnny. But Kearon had an "enjyne" with the team which Johnny did not understand. Kearon tries it himself but cannot do it. Kearon gives him some instruction. "Johnny took heed to what Kearon had said" and finishes the job.

AUTHOR: Lawrence Doyle

EARLIEST DATE: 1968 (Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland)

KEYWORDS: age farming technology humorous

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 19-20, "When Johnny Went Plowing for Kearon" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 191-193,256, "When Johnny Went Plowing for Kearon" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #12480

NOTES [29 words]: Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland: "A story of a greenhorn's plowing mishap and how his boss decided to show him how it's done, only to wind up worse off than his pupil."

File: Dib019

When Jones's Ale Was New

DESCRIPTION: Stories from Jones's Bar. Various drinkers come in, each with his tale or his unruly behavior or his demand. Most are hard workers whose burdens are relieved by the ale.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: apparently 1594 (stationer's register)

KEYWORDS: drink nonballad landlord ritual

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA) Britain(England(All),Scotland) Australia

REFERENCES (18 citations):
- Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 168-169, "When Johnson's Ale Was New" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 273-277, "When John's Ale Was New" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Greig/Duncan3 561, "When Jones' Ale Was New" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 276-278, "When Joan's Ale Was New" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 507)
- Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 243, "When Joan's Ale Was New" (1 text)
- Copper-SongsAndSouthernBreezes, pp. 284-285, "Four Jolly Fellows" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hamer-GreenGroves, pp. 14-15, "When Jones' Ale Was New" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Copper-ASongForEverySeason, pp. 286-287, "When Jones's Ale Was New" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 287, "When John's Ale Was New" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople 50, "Joan's Ale Was New" (1 text)
- Palmer-EnglishCountrySongbook, #117, "When Jone's Ale Was New" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Song #22, pp. 206-208,249, "Joan's Ale was New" (1 text)
When Me Baby Born, O

DESCRIPTION: The singer has been sent by her parents to "Hasty Hill" until her baby is born. She wonders who the father will turn out to be: that will determine whether the baby's clothes will be expensive or cheap.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (WITrinidadVillage01)

KEYWORDS: sex home separation childbirth pregnancy baby father lover mother nonballad

FOUND IN: West Indies(Trinidad)

RECORDINGS:

Martha Saunders, Lovey Gilman and Venice Talbott, "When Me Baby Born, O" (on WITrinidadVillage01)

File: RcWMBBO

When Moggy By the Fire Sat

DESCRIPTION: Moggy sits by the fire "a-spinning of her linsey yarn" and Jocky "came along to
When Mursheen Went to Bunnan

DESCRIPTION: The singer's "spirits has completely left" since Mursheen went to Bunnan. She left because he drinks. He drank with her father, who turned against her when she left. He had been "bound for the west" but now he "gave up all my palaver with Yankees"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1974 (recording, Micho Russell)
KEYWORDS: love separation drink father
FOUND IN: Ireland
Roud #8146
RECORDINGS:
Micho Russell, "When Mursheen Went to Bunnan" (on Voice13)

When My Blood Runs Chilly and Cold

DESCRIPTION: "When my blood runs chilly and cold, I've got to go... Way beyond the moon. Do lord, do, Lord, do remember me.... If you can't bear no crosses, you can't wear no crown.... I've got a mother in Beulah land, she's calling me...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad death
FOUND IN: :
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 123, "I've Got a Mother in de Heaven" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 137 in the 1901 edition)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 610-611, "When My Blood Runs Chilly an' Col'" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Howard W. Odum and Guy B. Johnson, The Negro and his Songs (Chapel Hill: University of North Carolina Press, 1925 ("Digitized by Internet Archive")), p. 110, ("Well, my mother's goin' to heaven") (1 text)

Roud #15548
RECORDINGS:
Mississippi John Hurt, "Beulah Land" (on MJHurt05)
NOTES [51 words]: The pattern in Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute's verses is: verse-line, "Outshines the sun" (3x), repeat verse-line, "Outshines the sun, Way beyond the moon." Odum and Johnson's pattern is: verse line, "Going to outshine the sun" (3x) "Way beyond the moon." - BS

Last updated in version 4.0
File: LxU104
When O'Connor Drew His Pay

DESCRIPTION: O'Connor (a logger), after drawing his pay, goes on a spree, starts a fire, and is arrested. Taken to "limbo" (jail), he pays his fine and they ship him (as freight) back to the woods. He swears he's "never spent his savings quite so pleasurably before"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)
KEYWORDS: lumbering drink prison fire money humorous
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 35, "When O'Connor Drew His Pay" (1 text)
Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan, "When O'Connor Drew His Pay" (1 text)
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 36, "When O'Connor Drew His Pay" (1 text)
Roud #4065
NOTES [29 words]: The text is incomplete, but gives the flavor of the song. I used "prison" as a keyword only because we don't have "jail." - PJS
This song is item dC44 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.2
File: Be035

When Our Boys Gave Up Squiddin'

DESCRIPTION: "Our boys give up squiddin', they all joined the Navy To fight for old England, her King and her Crown." The boys get their parents consent, go "up to the court-house to join up that day," leave their women and family and go to "Keep Hitler Down"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports)
KEYWORDS: moniker war navy patriotic family derivative England separation parting nonballad father husband lover
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 295-296, "Our Boys Gave Up Squiddin' " (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, SQUIDJI2*
Roud #7317
RECORDINGS:
Ned Rice, "Our Boys Gave Up Squiddin'" (on NFAGuigné01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Squid-Jiggin' Ground" (tune)
File: Doyl3083

When Paddy McGinty Plays the Harp

DESCRIPTION: "When Paddy McGinty plays the harp you've got to get up and dance ... It's wonderful Irish music that is neither flat nor sharp When Paddy McGinty plays the harp"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1964 (NFOBlondahl04, NFOBlondahl05)
KEYWORDS: dancing harp music nonballad
FOUND IN:
RECORDINGS:
Omar Blondahl, "When Paddy McGinty Plays the Harp" (on NFOBlondahl04)
NOTES [142 words]: Is this even a music hall song? There is a 1940 recording on OKEH 5849 by the McFarland Twins and their Orchestra [sources: Steven Abrams site as The Online Discographical Project; Northwest Internet Technologies copyright owner of World of Gramaphones site]; "the McFarland twins, Arthur and George, were handsome blonds who played reeds and had own corny band late '30s, suddenly became more modern c'42 but never hit the big time" [Source: MusicWeb site Encyclopedia of Popular Music re Fred Waring]. Blondahl04 and NFOBlondahl05 have no liner notes confirming that this song was collected in Newfoundland. Barring another report for Newfoundland I do not assume it has been found there. There is no entry for "When Paddy McGinty Plays the Harp" in Newfoundland Songs and Ballads in Print 1842-1974 A Title and First-Line Index by Paul Mercer. - BS

File: RcwPMPTH

When Rocks and Hills Divide Us
DESCRIPTION: "When rocks and hills divide us, And you no more I see, Remember it was (Dennis), That wrote these lines for thee." "When the hills and plains depart (?) us, And my face you cannot see... Will you not stop to think of me."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore)
KEYWORDS: separation nonballad
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, p. 134, "(When rocks and hills divide us)" (1 short text, probably related to the following item, "When hills and plains depart us")
Roud #4392?
NOTES [103 words]: This appeared in the autograph book of Laura Day in 1891. This might hint that it is not traditional. But the Day version appears to have been corrupted by oral tradition; it gives the last line as "That wrote these words for you" rather than "...for thee." That's obviously more typical of modern English, but it ruins the rhyme.
The "Will you not stop to think of me" lyric may have inspired quite a few other items, e.g. "Darling, I Have Come to Tell You (Farewell Nellie, Little Bunch of Roses, Many Miles Apart, Don't This Road Look Rough and Rocky)" and the Hank Williams "Won't You Sometimes Think of Me." - RBW
Last updated in version 4.5
File: SaKo134A

When Saint Peter's Day Was A-Dawning
DESCRIPTION: Singer describes "the deeds of the sons of Saint Patrick" at a secret society meeting. "The Harp of old Ireland played Orange Lie Down" and woke the Brunswickers. "Banish this crew that our land did pollute" and let them go to some other island.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Tunney-StoneFiddle)
KEYWORDS: Ireland political
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tunney-StoneFiddle, pp. 127-128, "When Saint Peter's Day Was A-Dawning" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [78 words]: "Brunswickers" is a synonym here for "Orangemen." There is another apparent reference to Orangemen: "the Black Hare of Luther"; Luther is clear enough but I don't understand "the Black Hare" in this context [there is a reference to "these Luthers black" in Tunney-StoneFiddle: "The Defender's Song"]. "Orange Lie Down" may not be a real song; in any case, that title is a reference to "Croppies Lie Down," one of the Orange songs most resented by the nationalists. - BS
File: TSF127

When Shall We Meet Again?
DESCRIPTION: The singer hears, through his window, a sailor and his wife and child parting in the rain. "Perhaps," he says, "we'll part for years, perhaps for evermore." Later the boy dies saying "When shall we meet again"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan6)
KEYWORDS: love parting death children wife sailor
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan6 1250, "When Shall We Meet Again?," Greig/Duncan8 Addenda, "When Shall We Meet Again?" (2 texts, 1 tune)
When She Got There

DESCRIPTION: "My mother shall crave it, My daddy shall have it, If you will go with me To younder green tree, But when she got there, She was highly mounted. She looked him scornfully... saying... 'You're highly mistaken,' And away she went galloping...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin)
KEYWORDS: love elopement rejection separation horse
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 145, "When She Got There" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #9069
NOTES [37 words]: This looks like a conflation of at least two songs, at least one of them a rejected-lover type. But with only twelve short lines, some of which probably float, I can't see any way to identify what the original songs are. - RBW

When Sorrows Encompass Me 'Round

DESCRIPTION: "When sorrows encompass me 'round, And many distresses I see, Astonished, I cry, 'Can a poor mortal be found Surrounded with troubles like me?'" The weary singer hopes for peace, and expects at last to find it with Jesus

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands)
KEYWORDS: religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 94, "When Sorrows Encompass Me 'Round" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 217-218, "Death-Bed Song" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 22, #1 (1973), p, 19, "When Sorrows Encompass Me 'Round" (1 text, 1 tune, from the singing of Tommy Jarrell)

When Spring Comes In

DESCRIPTION: "When spring comes in the birds will sing, The lambs will play and bells will ring." "Young men and maidens" court on mountains and in meadows; "the dairymaid ... can milk and she can sing ... her master's trust and care And all a ploughman's joy."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames)
KEYWORDS: courting farming nonballad bird sheep
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 222, "When Spring Comes In" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 475)
Copper-ASongForEverySeason, pp. 238-239, "When Spring Comes In" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #439

File: WT222
When Susie Was a Baby
DESCRIPTION: As a baby Susie went "goo" or "ooh ahh." As an infant she went "A, B, C." As a teenager she went "kiss, kiss" or "take off my bra." She becomes pregnant, married, mother, granny, dying, skeleton, angel or devil, and finally, nothing.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame)
KEYWORDS: marriage sex death pregnancy playparty
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 140, "When Susie Was a Baby" (4 texts, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: N.G.N. Kelsey, "When They Were Young Girls" in Folklore, Vol. XCII, No. 1 (1981 (available online by JSTOR)), pp. 106-107 ("When Susie was a baby") (2 texts)
NOTES [14 words]: Kelsey: "My earliest version of 1964 went as follows: When Mary was a baby ...." - BS
Last updated in version 2.6
File: 0pGa140

When That General Roll Is Called
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "I'll be there in the morning" (3x), "When that general roll is called I'll be there" (2x). Verse: "Going to see my father (mother, sister...), I'll be there"(2x)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns); 1893 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute) (see notes)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious family
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 29, "When That General Roll Is Called" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 121, "I'll Be There in the Morning" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 104 in the 1901 edition) [for 1893 edition, see notes]
Roud #10985
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I'll Be Rested When the Roll Is Called" (theme)
cf. "No Rain Gonna Wet Me" (roll call theme in hymns)
NOTES [212 words]: Barton-OldPlantationHymns has one feature of army life impressing the hymn singers and makers: "the calling of the roll and the lining up of the men to answer to their names. It has its echoes in several hymns, some of which have been published; but the most striking one which I have ever heard" is the hymn he prints as "When That General Roll Is Called." Barton is collecting in the 1870s and doesn't say here whether he believes this army reference came from service during, or after, the Civil War.
For a much later (1890s) hymn with a "roll call" see J.M. Black's "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder" (for example, Ira D. Sankey, Sacred Songs and Solos Twelve Hundred Hymns (London: Collins, n.d.), #983, "(When the trumpet of the Lord shall sound, and time shall be no more").
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute adds verses "Going to sing (pray, wear) around the throne" and "Going to wear a starry crown (live for evermore)."
The index to the 1893 edition [of Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute] has "I'll Be There in the Morning" on page 104 (Thomas P. Fenner and Frederic G. Rathbun, Cabin and Plantation Songs (New York: G.P. Putnam's Sons, 1893)). I have not seen page 104. - BS
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Bart029A

When the Battle it was Won (Young Jimmy and the Officer) [Laws J23]
DESCRIPTION: Jimmy deserts (in the face of the enemy!) when he hears his mother is dying. An officer arrives, hauls him from his mother's bedside, and orders him to face a firing squad. The officer may have wanted Jimmy's sweetheart (but she shoots him)
AUTHOR: unknown
When the Boys Go A-Courting (Over the Mountain, Poll and Sal)

DESCRIPTION: The young man goes out courting; the girl thinks him too poor. He borrows his master's horse to impress her. Later, he and his (cousin) go courting together. The girls' mother kicks them out. His mistress punishes him. He keeps chasing girls

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1817 (Journal from the Herald)
KEYWORDS: love courting disguise trick sex mother apprentice
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 312-314, "Poll and Sal" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, POLLSAL*
Roud #385
NOTES [48 words]: The final verses of this seem to be from "The Keyhole in the Door" or something similar, but the whole song is rather disjointed. What's clear is the motivation: The singer devotes his whole attention to courting and watching girls -- and pays for it, until at last he gets married. - RBW
File: SwMS312

When the Breaker Starts Up on Full Time

DESCRIPTION: "Me troubles are o'er, Mrs. Murphy, For the Dutchman next door told me straight, That the breaker starts full time on Monday." Once the mines are at work again, the singer vows he will pay the shop bill, then start buying good things for the family

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)
KEYWORDS: mining money nonballad
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 383-385, "When the Breaker Starts Up on Full Time" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7722
NOTES [28 words]: This seems to be the basis of a song sung by the pop group The Irish Rovers, "When the Shipyards Go Back On Full Time." I do not know how they encountered the song. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.2
File: KPL383

When the Caplin Come In

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, now is the time when the men are all ready ... And live on the beach while the caplin is in." The crowd nets caplin from the beach; row boats and motor boats and horses "full breeds and ponies" haul the netted fish away

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland, 3rd edition)
KEYWORDS: moniker fishing commerce
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland, "When the Caplin Come In" (1 text, 1 tune): pp. 85-86 in the 3rd edition
Roud #7318
RECORDINGS:
Omar Blondahl, "When the Caplin Come In" (on NFOBlondahl02)
NOTES [118 words]: Caplin are small deep water fish that come to shore in June and July to spawn. They are netted for bait, food or manure [per GEST Songs of Newfoundland and Labrador site]. - BS
Newfoundland's main commodity, for both local and domestic consumption, is cod -- but catching cod requires bait, and caplin was the single most common bait. G. M. Story, W. J. Kirwin, and J. D. A. Widdowson, editors, Dictionary of Newfoundland English, second edition with supplement, Breakwater Press, 1990, pp. 82-84, have two pages of common phrases pertaining to caplin (e.g. "caplin baiing," "caplin bunting," "caplin cart," "caplin trip"). People didn't eat caplin as much as cod, but they used it in many, many ways. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: Doyl3085

When the Chariot Comes

DESCRIPTION: "Who will drive the chariot when she comes?"(2x) "Who will drive the chariot?"(2x) "Who will drive the chariot when she comes?" Jesus will be the driver. She'll be loaded with angels. She won't rock or totter. She'll run level and steady....

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 44, "When the Chariot Comes" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [25 words]: The pattern and tune of "I'm Going To Walk With Jesus By Myself" and "When the Chariot Comes" are close to "She'll Be Coming Around the Mountain." - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: Bart044B

When the Circus Comes to Town

DESCRIPTION: "Cy Perkins was the village scamp of Jayville-on-the-Pike," always telling jokes. In the summer, Perkins devotes his talents to promoting the circus, listing all the things he wants to see and do with his gal Samantha Brown

AUTHOR: Words: James O'Dea / Music: Robert Adams
EARLIEST DATE: 1977 (Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin)
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, pp. 276-277, "When the Circus Comes to Town" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [41 words]: Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin includes three songs from the Circus World Museum in Baraboo, Wisconsin. He does not offer a reason for including them in a book of folk songs; all are composed and give no evidence of having existed in tradition. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.6
File: Pet276
When the Corn Is Waving

DESCRIPTION: "When the corn is waving, Annie dear, Oh meet me by the stile, To hear thy gentle voice again, And greet thy winning smile." He begs his "Queen of Night" to come meet him by the stream; they will tell tales of love to each other.

AUTHOR: C. Blamphin (source: Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd)

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd)

KEYWORDS: love nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #149, "When the Corn Is Waving" (1 text)
Roud #19534
File: JoMS149

When the Curtains of Night Are Pinned Back

DESCRIPTION: "When the curtains of night are pinned back by the stars And the beautiful moon sweeps the sky, I'll remember you, love, in my prayers." "When the curtains of night are pinned back by the stars And the dew drops of heav'n kiss the rose, I'll remember...."

AUTHOR: Will S. Hays

EARLIEST DATE: 1869 (sheet music published by J. L. Peters of New York)

KEYWORDS: love nonballad

FOUND IN: US(MW,So)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 259, "When the Curtains of Night Are Pinned Back" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 90, "Curtains of Night" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 196, "I'll Remember You, Love, In My Prayers" (1 text)
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 101, "I'll Remember You, Love, In My Prayers" (1 text plus an excerpt and mention of 6 more, 2 tunes)
ArkansasWoodchopper, pp. 37-38, "When the Curtains Of Night Are Pinned Back" (1 text, 1 tune, with an added yodel!)
Emerson-StephenFosterAndCo, pp. 64-65, "I'll Remember You, Love, in My Prayers" (1 text)
Roud #4367

RECORDINGS:
Loren H. Abram, "I'll Remember You Love In My Prayers" (Champion S-16394/Supertone 2792, c. 1932; rec. 1931)
Emry Arthur, "I'll Remember You Love In My Prayers" (Vocalion 5206, 1928)
Blue Ridge Mountain Singers, "I'll Remember You in My Prayers" (Columbia 15550-D, 1930)
Cleve Chaffin & the McClung Bros., "Curtains of Night" (Paramount 3179, 1929)
J. E. Mainer's Mountaineers, "I'll Remember You Love" (King 550, 1946)
Mrs. L. O'Driscoll, "I'll Remember You Love In My Prayers" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Betsy Lane Shepherd, "I'll Remember You, Love, In My Prayers" (Edison 80484, n.d.)
Floyd Skillern, "I'll Remember You Love In My Prayers" (Melotone 7-07-60, 1937)
Walter Smith, "I'll Remember You Love In My Prayers" (Champion 15730, 1929)
Tenneva Ramblers, "The Curtains of Night" (Victor 21289, 1928)

NOTES [67 words]: Hazel Felleman's 1936 book The Best Loved Poems of the American People, p. 32, has a long version of this with the title "I'll Remember You, Love, in My Prayers." That version looks very composed, but she lists no author. It appears, however, that the original was by the well-known composer Will S. Hays. The first sheet music printing was apparently titled "I'll Remember You [Love] in my prayers. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2

File: San259

When the Day's on the Turn

DESCRIPTION: "Though the house be couth and warm, And aye a blazing fire, The lang nichts o' winter Maks everybody tire." They look forward to the time when "the day be on the turn." Then "the fair maid in the evening gaes lichtly...," "the cotter sits contented," etc.
When the End of the Month Rolls Around

DESCRIPTION: A coarse description of women's monthly troubles

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1963
KEYWORDS: bawdy nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 346-348, "When the End of the Month Rolls Around" (2 texts, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "As the Caissons Go Rolling Along (Field Artillery Song)" (tune)
File: EM346

When the Flagship Victoria Went Down

DESCRIPTION: "He was a loving companion, He was a faithful friend"; Jack could always be counted on. But "I lost the best friend I ever had When the flagship Victoria went down." They had been shipmates from the first. His old mother had no other son

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy)
KEYWORDS: navy death sailor mother
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jun 22, 1893 - HMS Victoria sunk by HMS Camperdown
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Tawney-GreyFunnelLines-RoyalNavy, pp. 143-144, "When the Flagship 'Victoria' Went Down" (1 text)
NOTES [1950 words]: The fullest account of this remains that of Hough, cited in the Bibliography, although it is now very dated. There is also the Life of Vice-Admiral Sir George Tryon, K.C.B., by Penrose Fitzgerald, available in a lot of cheap reprints, but these are usually so badly printed as to be illegible. There is an unusually good Wikipedia article, but most of it consists mostly of citations of Hough and Fitzgerald. It's worth it for the photos, though.
This tragedy in a sense arises out of the ossification that set in in the Royal Navy. Officers who never had to make decisions became more and more rule-bound and insistent upon spit and polish and fancy formations at the expense of real naval skill. In the years since Trafalgar, nd especially since the Crimean War, the Royal Navy had become so conscious of its naval dominance that independent thinking was all but stomped out; you obeyed orders or else. "Follow senior officer's motions' had become a fetish instruction, which juniors violated at the peril of ruining their careers" (Keegan, p. 122). Similarly Steel/Hard, pp. 19-20, "It was the low point of the Victorian navy and demonstrated the inherent inflexibility of mind of many, if not most, of its senior officers. They had been brought up and drilled to believe that their admiral was second only to God, with near papal infallibility. The consequences of such mental atrophy would bedevil the fleet for many long years."
Many officers of course knew better. George Tryon was probably the most important of them. Unfortunately, while he knew things had to change, to a large extent he changed things by exerting extremely detailed control over his subordinates, making the whole machinery of command dependent upon him -- a real problem if he ever made a mistake or were unavailable!
Making it especially hard to dispute Tryon's orders was the fact that he "was a colourful figure, large and bluff and dynamic, with a dashing, rugged personality that perfectly fitted the public's conception of a bold and aristocratic old salt. Not for eighty years had the British been so eager to love an admiral" (Hough, pp. 11-12).

"[E]ven his service contemporaries said of George Tryon that he never took a false step until the one that destroyed him" (Hough, p. 29). He may not have been at his best at the time of this mistake; he was slowly recovering from an ulcerated leg (Hough, pp. 52-53).

And his second-in-command, rear admiral Albert Hastings Markham, certainly wasn't the brightest bulb in the light fixture, and was not Tryon's choice, nor had he had much time to learn Tryon's ways (Hough, pp. 48-50). In Tryon's view, Markham "seemed to lack the ability to concentrate, to make quick decisions, and to anticipate situations in the rapidly changing circumstances of fleet evolutions. Tryon found him an exasperating pupil" (Hough, p. 51). It clearly was not a good working relationship.

Tryon's ship was also new and shiny, being just three years old; she was the fastest and best- armored ship in the British fleet. But she was so over-gunned that it was not clear that her weapons could even be safely used, and they had to sit very low on the hull (Hough, pp. 43-44). She had grounded in Greece when only a few months old (Hough, p. 56). Her known flaws were bad enough that I can't help but wonder if unknown flaws might not have contributed to her rapid demise. The Victoria was a pre-dreadnought battleship of about 11,000 tons displacement, built in 1890, and from the time of her commissioning, she served in the Mediterranean Fleet (Paine, pp. 548-549).

From the moment the final trip started, Tryon was putting his fleet though its paces, demanding a complex and dangerous weaving-together of lines as the ships left port (Hough, p. 53). He did it again as they approached Tripoli; Tryon's own division, and Markham's, were steaming in parallel, six cables (i.e. six tenths of a nautical mile) apart. The goal was to have the two lines pass the harbor entrance, then both turn in 180 degree circles toward each other*, merge the lines, then take a turn to port and enter the harbor in five or so parallel lines. It appears that several officers knew that Tryon's order was a mistake, but no one dared day anything. It being peacetime, her watertight doors were open, and no attempt was made to close them until it was too late. (The investigation following her sinking made this the official cause of her loss; Hough, p. 98.) And so the Camperdown drove straight into the Victoria's side. Camperdown's speed at the time was estimated at six knots; Victoria, which had started to slow down but only slightly, is thought to have been moving at five and a half (Hough, p. 66).

After the collision, the Camperdown reversed engines and pulled itself free (Hough, p. 68), which can only have done more damage to Victoria. And the flagship surely was not yet in full watertight condition. The Victoria capsized and sank within minutes (when the wreck was found in 2004, the ship was found to be almost exactly vertical, with the prow stuck in the mud of the bottom like a spear); the Camperdown took so much damage to her bow that it was feared for a time that she might also sink (Hough, pp. 85-86).

Of the 600 or so men on the Victoria, slightly more than 250 survived, including her captain Maurice Bourke (who of course faced a court-martial for the loss of his ship). Many of course died inside the ship, including most of those involved with the engines and boilers, but many who were on the upper decks died as well -- probably because they could not swim well and were overwhelmed or sucked under by the wash of the propellers or the suction from the ship (Hough, pp. 109-110). One who did not survive was Admiral Tryon.

The court which investigated was officially directed at Captain Bourke. but during its ten days, it called several of Admiral Tryon's staff -- and Admiral Markham and several of his officers. I would summarize the court's conclusions (as given on pp. 128-129 of Hough) as follows: (1) that Victoria was lost by collision, and that the collision was Tryon's fault and no one else's, (2) that the attempts to save the ship afterward were appropriate, (3) that Bourke was innocent, and his men did well, (4) that it was "to be regretted" that Markham didn't try harder to avoid the collision (but Markham wasn't on trial), and (5) the court was not in a position to rule on why the Victoria sank so quickly.

Other sources have this to say about what happened:

"On June 22, 1893, en route from Beirut to Tripoli, the fleet was steaming north-northeast in parallel columns six cables (1,200 yards) apart. For reasons never adequately explained, [fleet commander] Vice Admiral Sir George Tryon ordered the two divisions to turn 16 points toward each other.... Camperdown's ram struck Victoria just abaft the anchors 12 feet below the waterline, making a breach nearly 28 feet long.... [T]he inrush of water was so great that she quickly went down by the bows, taking with her 22 officers and 336 men" (Paine, p. 549).

Compare Herman, p. 475n: "The sense that the navy was running out of control was reinforced on June 22, 1893, when the battleship Camperdown collided with Admiral Sir George Tryon's flagship Victoria because of Tryon's faulty signal, which no one had the courage to countermand -- although the collision cost Tryon his life and those of 358 officers and men."
Bruce/Cogar, p. 60, sum up as follows: "A collision between the British warships Camperdown and Victoria in the Mediterranean resulted in the Royal Navy's most costly peacetime disaster. The Camperdown, a twin-screw battleship of 10,600 tons, which was launched in 1885, rammed and sank the fleet flagship Victoria, a battleship of 10,470 tons, during the Mediterranean fleet's maneuvers off Tripoli in 1893. "These ships headed the two divisions of the fleet that had been moving ahead in parallel until they were ordered to turn inward in a practice maneuver.... [T]he order to turn, which had been issued by Vice Admiral Sir George Tryon, commander in chief of the Mediterranean Fleet, was clearly incorrect. It was impossible for the leading ships to compete the maneuver without colliding, but corrective action was not taken. "The Victoria sank after the Camperdown hit her and 360 officers and men, including the unfortunate commander in chief, were lost. An inquiry was held into the disaster, but no satisfactory explanation has been found for Admiral Tryon's bizarre conduct in issuing an order that he must have known would result in a collision."

Massie, p. 393: "Vice Admiral Sir George Tyron (sic. -- Massie uses this spelling throughout), Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean Fleet, was regarded as a man who one day would be First Sea Lord. A brilliant officer and an outstanding seaman, Tyron also possessed a mathematical mind which he applied in devising ever more intricate and daring maneuvers for his ships to perform. He delighted in changing formations from column in line to column abreast and back again, setting his ships on seemingly irretrievable courses, then saving them from collision with a signal from his flagship at the last possible minute. If these novel and spectacular maneuvers, intricate as a quadrille, astonished and frightened his captains, so much the better. It was Tyron's worry that Royal Navy captains would lose their edge in peacetime; his complicated naval ballets were designed to keep them on their mettle. Nor did Tyron's officers dare to question his orders. The Admiral was an overbearing man and an iron disciplinarian; besides, he had always been right."

Massie adds that Tryon's fleet consisted of eight battleships and five cruisers, and that his second-in-command was Rear Admiral Markham, who flew his flag in Camperdown. "At two-twenty P.M. Tyron hoisted a signal for the next maneuver: the vessels were to change formation, passing through each other's columns by turning inward toward each other." Page 394: "At three thirty-seven P.M., Tyron signalled that his command was to be executed: 'Second division alter course in succession 16 points to starboard' and 'First division alter course in succession 16 points to port.' The when the executive officer of the Victoria suggested the captain speak to Tryon, "[Captain Maurice] Bourke angrily told him to be silent. To question Tyron, one needed a braver man than Bourke." At one time or another, Markham and some junior captains questioned the maneuver, or asked for the order to be repeated. Tryon's signal to Markham was "What are you waiting for?" This was a public rebuke, witnessed by the entire fleet, which Markham could not ignore." So the Camperdown made its turn, and the Victoria made its.

"Twenty-two of the ship"s fifty-one officers were drowned along with the admiral. The other twenty-nine were court-martialed, along with Rear Admiral Markham. All were acquitted, although Markham's career ceased to prosper. The grounds of his acquittal were that 'it would be fatal to the best interests of the service to say that he was to blame for carrying out the orders of the commander-in-chief present in person'" (Massie, p. 395). The British do seem to have drawn at least one proper conclusion. Normally a front-line battleship would be expected to last at least a quarter century. But as best I can tell, not one of Tryon's ships was still in service, even in a secondary role, once World War I began. They were all gone. As they should have been. The Victoria's sister Sans Pareill, for instance, was sold for scrap in 1907 when only about seventeen years old (Hough, pp. 97-98). - RBW

Bibliography

- Hough: Richard Hough, Admirals in Collision, 1959 (I use the 1961 Ballantine paperback)
- Steel/Hart: Nigel Steel and Peter Hart, Jutland 1916: Death in the Grey Wastes, Cassell,
When the Flippers Strike the Town

DESCRIPTION: "You may talk about the pancakes That your mother used to fry... But this I got to tell you... The pancakes won't be 'in it' When the flippers 'strike the town.'" The song describes the enjoyable times when the flippers come back to home and family

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Newfoundland Ballads and Stories)
KEYWORDS: sea hunting reunion food

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff, p. 70, "When the Flippers Strike the Town" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [87 words]: The reference is to eating seals, and to the sealers coming back from the ice with their carcasses. According to Bob Bartlett (who should know; see his biography under "Captain Bob Bartlett"), "The flesh [of the seal] is by no means disagreeable, though it has a general flavor of fish, which constitutes the seal's chief food" (see p. 54 of Bartlett's The Last Voyage of the Karluk, as told to Ralph T. Hale; published 1916; now available with a new introduction by Edward E. Leslie as The Karluk's Last Voyage). - RBW

When the Frost Is on the Pumpkin

DESCRIPTION: "When all your apples been all garnered, And your mangol harvest's due... It sets my heart a-ticking, like the ticking of a clock, When the frost is on the pumpkin, And the fodder's in the shock. The singer recalls the happy sights of harvest time

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Hamer-GreenGroves)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hamer-GreenGroves, pp. 49-50, "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #1149

When the Golden Sun Is Setting

DESCRIPTION: "When the golden sun is setting And your face I cannot see, Will you step before the looking-glass And kiss yourself for me?" Or, "When the golden sun is setting, And your mind from care is free... Won't you sometimes think of me."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1884 (J. S. Ogilvie, "One Thousand Popular Quotations... Suitable for Writing in Autograph Albums")

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 231, (third of several "Fragments from Tennessee") (1 fragment)
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, p. 134, "(When the golden sun is setting And your mind from care is free)"; "(When the golden sun is setting And your mind from care is free)"; "(When the golden sun is setting And your heart from all care is free)" (4 short texts)

ADDITIONAL: J. S. Ogilvie, _One Thousand Popular Quotations Comprising the Choicest Thoughts and Sayings of Eminent Writers of All Ages, Together With Nearly Three Hundred
When the Ice Worms Nest Again

DESCRIPTION: "There's a dusky husky maiden in the Arctic, And she waits for me but it is not in vain, For some day I'll put my mukluks on and ask her If she'll wed me when the ice-worms nest again." There follows a description of a wedding feast in an igloo

AUTHOR: unknown (various copyright claims)

EARLIEST DATE: 1938

KEYWORDS: Eskimo marriage humorous

FOUND IN: US(Alaska) Canada(NW,West)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Fowke/Johnston-FolkSongsOfCanada, pp. 186-188, "When the Ice Worms Nest Again" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fowke/Mills/Blume-CanadasStoryInSong, pp. 189-191, "When the Ice Worms Nest Again" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 169, "When the Iceworms Nest Again" (1 text)
DT, ICEWRM

Roud #4537

RECORDINGS:
Wilf Carter, "When the Ice Worms Nest Again" (Bluebird [Canada] 58-0129, c. 1950)
Loewen Orchestra, "When the Iceworms Nest Again" (on SaskMan1)

NOTES [240 words]: Often associated with Robert W. Service (who did publish the song), Fowke thinks this piece "may date back to the Klondike gold rush of 1898." It was apparently first published in 1938, by the "Yellowknife Prospector" (which credited it to four men working along the Yukon River around 1919) and by Service in "Bath-Tub Ballads." Service reported that he wrote it in Dawson in 1911 -- but Fowke reports his version shows significant differences from the "common" text and tune.

"Ice worms" seemingly first appeared in "ice worm cocktails" (a term which may go back to Service, whose "Ballad of the Ice-Worm Cocktail" ends "For that ice-worm (so they told him) of such formidable size / Was -- a stick of stained spaghetti with two red ink spots for eyes"). They were simply strands of pasta with eyes drawn on -- but the legend goes that they were used to intimidate inexperienced travellers who visited the Yukon, and who thought they were actual living things. To be sure, there are actual creatures called "ice worms" (creatures that live on glaciers, coming out mostly at night, and somehow are able to increase their metabolism as temperatures go down. It is feared that global warming will render them extinct). But, based on a National Public Radio report at the end of 2005, even now, no one knows how these creatures reproduce, or how long they live; the author of this poem probably didn't know the real creatures even existed. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.5

File: FJ186

When the King Comes O'er the Water (Lady Keith's Lament)

DESCRIPTION: "I may sit in my wee croo hoose, Wi' my rock and my reel tae toil, fu' dreary," but the singer is certain things will be better "The day our king comes o'er the water." Though old, she will rant and dance when he comes -- and she again becomes Lady Keith

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1819 (Hogg)

KEYWORDS: Jacobites return exile hardtimes work nobility age
When the King Enjoy His Own Again

DESCRIPTION: The singer scorns the prognostications of prophets and the like; "all will be well When the King enjoys his own again." He points out the age and quality of the Stuart monarchy. He says he will "never rejoyces" until the king (Charles I) returns to power

AUTHOR: Words: Probably Martin Parker
EARLIEST DATE: 1671 ("The Loyal Garland")
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

1603 - James I (James VI of Scotland), the first of the Stuart monarchs, succeeds Elizabeth I as monarch of England
1625 - Charles I succeeds James I
1628 - Charles I comes in conflict with Parliament. He is forced to grant Civil Rights (the "Petition of Rights") in return for money.
1629 - Charles I dissolves Parliament and attempts to rule England directly 1640 - Charles I is forced to summon a Parliament (the "Short Parliament") to raise money. When it refuses to grant subsidies, he dissolves it and summons what would become the "Long Parliament"
1642 - Charles attempts to arrest five members of parliament. Eventually Parliament goes to war against Charles 1645 - Battle of Naseby. Charles decisively defeated.
1646 - Charles surrenders to the Scots. They eventually give him to the English, but Charles twists and turns and escapes before the English finally get him firmly in custody.
1649 - Trial and execution of Charles I. England formally a commonwealth.
1660 - Commonwealth dissolved. Accession of Charles II

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (7 citations):
- Hales/Furnival-BishopPercysFolioManuscript, volume II, pp. 24-25, "The kinge enjoyes his righ[ts again]" (1 text)
- Chappell/Wooldridge-OldEnglishPopularMusic I, pp. 210-214, "When the King Enjoys His Own Again" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Ritson-AncientSongsBalladsFromHenrySecondToTheRevolution, pp. 367-369, "When the King Enjoys His Own Again" (1 text)
- DT, KINGNJOY*

ADDITIONAL: John Ashton, _A Century of Ballads_, Elliot Stock, London, 1887; reprinted 1968 by Singing Tree Press, pp. 134-136, "The King enjoys his own again" (1 text)
Reginald Nettel, _Seven Centuries of Popular Song_, Phoenix House, 1956, pp. 79-80, "(no title)" (1 text, interspersed with commentary)

Roud #V19168
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. The King Shall Enjoy His Own Again (tune) and notes there
SAME TUNE:
- Come brave England, be of good cheare/England's Joyful Holiday, Or, St. Georges Day (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN559)
- The Whigs are small, and of no good race/.. The Unfortunate Whigs (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2905)
- Cheer up your hearts, and be not afraid/The Cavaliers Comfort (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN481)
- All you that do desire to know/The last Newes from France (BBU ZN126)
- Good people all sing and rejoice/The Christian Conquest [over Turks at Vienna, 1683] (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN1040)
- What Booker can Prognosticate/Englands Great Prognosticator (Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex ZN2787)

NOTES [332 words]: An obviously political piece, evidently written in the early 1640s. (This is proved both by the politics of the piece and by the "forty years" the house of Stuart is said to have reigned.) The oldest broadside copies do not indicate a printer; no doubt they were printed secretly. After the Restoration (1660), of course, the song was openly circulated.
It's hard to say which side in the Civil War was worse. Charles I tried to be an absolute monarch, claiming powers no English king had exercised since Edward I (died 1307) -- indeed, he demanded some powers no king had ever had.
Even after the Roundheads had defeated Charles's Cavaliers, he could have salvaged most of his power by simply working with Parliament. But he continued to oppose them at every step of the way. Even when on trial for his life, he refused to recognize the validity of the court.
On the other hand, the members of the Long Parliament were no great bunch either. More or less forced into rebellion, they eventually turned into an unrepresentative group of bigots (by the end of the Parliament, over half those originally elected were retired, dead, imprisoned) who sought to enforce their Puritan opinions almost as aggressively as Charles had pursued his royalist agenda.
The Martin Parker who wrote this was also responsible for "A True Tale of Robin Hood" [Child 154]. That piece, apart from being a compilation of the worst of the Robin Hood legends, is almost breathtakingly bad. Apparently Parker learned something about poetry in the eight or so years between the compositions. This is merely simplistic, not openly dreadful. The original broadside apparently has not survived, or was published anonymously; at least, it is not listed among Parker's publications in A. W. Pollard, G. R. Redgrave, et al, A Short-Title Catalogue of Books Printed in England, Scotland & Ireland And of English Books Printed Abroad 1475-1640, The Bibliographical Society [of London], 1963; it should have been on p. 441. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: ChWI214

When the Kye Come Hame

DESCRIPTION: The singer says "the greatest bliss" for shepherds when "his ewes are in the fold and his lambs are lying still", "'tis to woo a bonnie lassie when the kye comes hame ... beneath the spreading birch in the dell"

AUTHOR: James Hogg (1770-1835) (Bodleian notes to broadside Firth b.26(194) and others; NLScotland commentary to L.C.Fol.70(5a))

EARLIEST DATE: 1822 (Hogg's novel _The Three Perils of Man_ and revised with music in 1823 in _Blackwood's Magazine_, according to NLScotland commentary to L.C.Fol.70(5a))

KEYWORDS: sex nonballad animal sheep shepherd

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Charles W. Eliot, editor, English Poetry Vol II From Collins to Fitzgerald (New York, 1910), #448, pp. 765-767, "When the Kye Comes Hame" (by James Hogg)
- McMorland/Scott-HerdLaddieOTheGlen, pp. 37-38, 149, "When the Kye Cames Hame" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #12919

RECORDINGS:
- Willie Scott, "When the Kye Comes Hame" (on Voice20)

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Firth b.26(194), "When the Kye Come Hame" ("Come all ye jolly shepherds"), John Ross (Newcastle), 1847-1852; also 2806 d.31(51), Harding B 11(4129), Harding B 11(4131), Harding B 11(3410), 2806 c.14(123), Harding B 11(4132), Harding B 26(670), Harding B 26(672), "When the Kye Come Hame"

LOCSheet, sm1846 410220, "When the Kye Come Hame," G. P. Reed (Boston), 1846; also sm1876 11358, "When the Kye Come Hame" (tune)

Murray, Mu23-y4:028, "When The Kye Come Hame," unknown, 19C

NLScotland, L.C.Fol.70(5a), "When the Kye Come Hame," unknown, c.1875

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Blathrie O't" (tune, per broadside Bodleian 2806 c.14(123))

NOTES [19 words]: The cover to broadside LOCSheet sm1846 410220 states "Written by Hogg, the Etrick Shepherd Music by Wm Rogers." - BS

Last updated in version 3.2

File: RcWTKCHa

When the Logs Come Down in the Spring

DESCRIPTION: Singer is lonesome for her lover, a logger who is off in the woods. She prays for his safety, and vows that she will rush to embrace him "when the logs come down in the spring."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)

KEYWORDS: loneliness lumbering lover logger separation work love

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 47, "When the Logs Come Down in the Spring" (1 text)

Roud #8875

File: Be047
When the Old Dun Cow Caught Fire

DESCRIPTION: Friends are in a pub "playing dominoes" when it is declared that the pub is on fire. Several serious imbibers, rather than flee, head for the cellar to drink the unprotected spirits. Eventually the firemen break into the cellar -- and join the fun

AUTHOR: Harry Wincott
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (sheet music)
KEYWORDS: drink humorous fire
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
- DT, OLDUNCOW
- _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 31, #2 (1985), pp, 40-42, "When the Old Dun Cow Caught Fire" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #5323
NOTES [181 words]: Mostly a popular song, of course -- but the Copper Family sang it, and what more could anyone want? Also, the idea was quite popular; there is a New Zealand song, "The Day the Pub Burned Down" (DT DAYPBBRN) on the same idea -- only more extreme, because in it, the fire brigade uses the booze to fight the fire, and are attacked by the townsfolk for doing so. "Pub Burned Down" is clearly a composed song (inspired, I suspect, by the "Dun Cow"), but it has perhaps taken on a life of its own, since the DT version has substantial variants from the version I've heard.

I do not know if it is significant that the pub is named the "Dun Cow," but it is interesting to note that one of the monsters fought by Guy of Warwick was said to be a dun cow of enormous size (see Roy Palmer, _The Folklore of Warwickshire_, Rowman and Littlefield, 1976, p. 133). Palmer also notes a Dun Cow Inn in Dunchurch, first referred to in 1655 and still in business at the time he wrote. There is also a famous Irish miscellany, "The Book of the Dun Cow," but I doubt that that would be known in England. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.5
File: DTolddun

When the Outport Member's Family Comes to Town

DESCRIPTION: A family from a remote outport had a successful season fishing, so they have moved to the town that is busily waiting for them and their money. They exchange outport ways for city habits.

AUTHOR: M. A. Devine (1857-1915)
EARLIEST DATE: 1940
KEYWORDS: recitation money vanity
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland, "When the Outport Member's Family Comes to Town" (1 text): p. 76 in the 2nd edition, p. 67 in the 4th, p. 64 in the 5th
- James Murphy, compiler, _Songs & Ballads of Terra Nova_, Evening Telegram publishing, 1903 (available from the Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. 17, "When the Outport Member's Family Comes to Town" (1 text)

Roud #7319
NOTES [97 words]: The social satire in this song seems to be directed more at the vanities of urban life than outport life. Outports are small fishing villages outside of the cities and there have always been marked social distinctions between the inhabitants of the two. - SH

See, for instance, the discussion of "Baymen" and "Townies" under "Mussels in the Corner." But note that the person coming to town is a Member, i.e. a Member of the Legislative Assembly. He's here to represent the people at home -- but, now that he's in town and a Power in the Land, he takes on the ways of the town. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0
File: Doy76

When the Parley Dew is Faded

DESCRIPTION: "When the parley dew is faded And the skies in beauty smile, Came a whisper like an echo From a pale and dying child." The child asks if (s)he will be an angel, and asks forgiveness for being in the way. The child says not to be angry with baby sister

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama)
KEYWORDS: death mother children
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 59, "When the Parley Dew is Faded" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5115
NOTES [17 words]: This sure sounds like a nineteenth century tear-jerker (and not a good one).
But I can't find it. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Arno059

When the Rebels Come A-Marchin' (The Turncoat Piece)

DESCRIPTION: "When the rebels come a-marchin' I'm a Southern man, And I feed their horses my best. When the Yankees come a-marchin' I'm a Northern man, And I feed their horses what the rebels left." The singer describes how he cooperates with both sides

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)
KEYWORDS: Civilwar humorous horse betrayal
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, p. 68, (no title) (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Vicar of Bray" (theme)
NOTES [24 words]: Collected in Kentucky, where sentiments of course were split at the time of the Civil War and where both sides occasionally were in control. - RBW
File: ThBa068

When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "When the roll is called up yonder (4x), I'll be there." Verses: On judgment day, "the trumpet of the Lord shall sound" and the singer will be with the saved. Meanwhile, "let us labor for the Master from the dawn till setting sun"

AUTHOR: James M. Black 1856-1938
EARLIEST DATE: 1898 (Date)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Huntington-TheGrad-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, p. 360, "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, ROLLYOND
ADDITIONAL: Henry Date, Pentecostal Hymns Nos. 1 and 2 Combined (Chicago: Hope Publishing Company, 1898 ("Digitized by Internet Archive")), #59 p. 56, "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder"
Roud #10985
RECORDINGS:
Mississippi John Hurt, "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder" (on MJHurt04; MJHurt05)
SAME TUNE:
When the Stew Is on the Table (File: BrPa057B)
NOTES [252 words]: William Reynolds, Companion to Baptist Hymnal, Broadman Press, 1976, p. 242, says that James M. Black was a member of the 1905 edition of the Methodist Hymnal, and supposedly was the sort to organize youth organizations where everyone called out scripture verses. One day, when he included a poor girl whose father was a drunkard, she failed to respond when he called her name from the roll. Black responded by writing this song (I’d have thought giving the girl a meal would have been more help!). Other comments by Reynolds make Black seem rather stuck up. He does not seem to have written anything else of any note. - RBW
Richard M. Raichelson, Black Religious Folksong: A Study in Genericand Social Change (Ph.D. Dissertation, University of Pennsylvania, 1975), p. 276 fn. 121, "This is not the same song as the spiritual titled, When that General Roll Is Called (Barton, 'Hymns of the slave', p. 621) or I'll be There (Work, American Negro, p. 57)." - BS
In a rather silly footnote, Barry Mazor, Ralph Peer and the Making of Popular Roots Music, Chicago Review Press, 2015, p. 21, notes the Peer, the man who was responsible for the "Bristol Sessions" that gave us both the Carter Family and Jimmie Rodgers, was so precise and punctual in high school that his school's publication wrote (on the basis of the fact that he hadn't missed a day in five years), "Judging by his past record we can afely say that he will be on hand promptly when the roll is called up yonder." This was in 1909/1910. - RBW

When the Roses Bloom Again for the Bootlegger

DESCRIPTION: "I was going up the river to my little cottage home, And the revenue men were waiting there for me. As I was coming up the hill, There they caught me with the still." When they are gone, "Then my heart will fill with cheer, for I know I'll get the beer"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (recording, Shirkey & Harper)
KEYWORDS: drink prison love reunion humorous
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #45, "When the Roses Bloom Again for the Bootlegger" (1 text, tune referenced)
Roud #5009

When the Roses Were in Bloom

DESCRIPTION: "When the roses were in bloom And the leaves were green, I would join you if I could, As my queen, as my queen." He begs her to meet him by the river, and she does. Then when the roses faded and the leaves blew away, "Love had fled"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1879 (Journal of the Andrew Hicks)
KEYWORDS: love river courting flowers death
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 298-299, "When the Roses Were in Bloom" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #27549

When the Saints Go Marching In

DESCRIPTION: "O when the saints go marching in (x2), Lord I want to be in that number, When the saints...." Similarly "When the sun refuse to shine"; "When the moon goes down in blood"; "We are traveling in the footsteps of those who've gone before"; etc.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1896 (copyright)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US West Indies(Bahamas) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 236, "When the Saints Go Marching In" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 6-7, "When the Saints Come Marching In" (1 text, 1 tune)
When the Snow Was Deep (Feeding the Birds)

DESCRIPTION: "When the snow was deep, I sprinkled crumbs for the birds to eat. They would chirp for food -- The bluebirds and sparrows were in pleasant mood. They would go and come back, but not all would go, Some would stay... and eat the crumbs...."

AUTHOR: George Mefford Bell?

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)

KEYWORDS: bird food nonballad

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, p. 255, "When the Snow Was Deep (Feeding the Birds)" (1 text)

NOTES [10 words]: Reportedly written when Bell was only seven years old. - RBW

File: ThBa255

When the Stars Above Are Shining

DESCRIPTION: "'The stars above are shining, And the moon is sinking low, I will call to see my darling, Who will welcome me, I know." "We'll be merry, we'll be happy, Floating down the stream of time." "We'll be merry, we'll be happy, Floating onward with the tide."
When the Stars Begin to Fall

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "My Lord, what a morning (x3) When the stars begin to fall." Verses: "You'll hear the sinner moan...." "You'll hear the gambler groan...." "You'll hear the sinner pray...." "You'll hear the Christians sing...." "You'll see my Jesus come...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)
KEYWORDS: religious Jesus nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, pp. 25-26, "Stars Begin to Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 237, "When the Stars Begin to Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)
Joyner-FolkSongInSouthCarolina, p. 91, "Stars Begin to Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warren-EveryTimeIFeelTheSpirit, pp. 66-67, "My Lord, What a Morning" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 314, "My Lord, What a Morning" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 360, "My Lord, What A Mourning" (1 text)

DT, STARFALL
Roud #3408
RECORDINGS:
Blue Sky Boys, "When The Stars Begin to Fall" (Bluebird B-7472/Montgomery Ward M-7471, 1938)
Campbell College Quartet, "My Lord What a Morning" (OKeh 8900, 1931; rec. 1930)
Pace Jubilee Singers, "My Lord What a Morning" (Victor 20225, 1926)
Frank Proffitt, "Oh, Lord, What a Morning" (on FProffitt01)
Rambling Kid and the Professor, "When the Stars Begin to Fall" (Melotone 7-08-71, 1937)
Preston & Hobart Smith, "When the Stars Begin to Fall" (on LomaxCD1704)
Sunset Jubilee Quartet, "Oh Lord What a Morning" (Paramount 12285, 1925; as Down Home Jubilee Quartette, Herwin 92008, n.d.)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Sinners Will Call for the Rocks and the Mountains" (words)

NOTES [178 words]: This is loosely based on the "little apocalypse" Jesus offered before his arrest and trial. Matthew 24:29-30 in the King James Bible state, "[29] Immediately after the tribulation of those days shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken: {30} And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory." The ultimate source for Matthew's text is Mark 13:24ff.

The theme was very popular in the Middle Ages; a work called "The Fifteen Signs Before Judgment" (in which the falling of the stars is often the first sign) exists in at least six different Latin and English forms -- with the Middle English versions existing in at least nine manuscripts; see John Edwin Wells, A Manual of the Writings in Middle English 1050-1400, 1916 (references are to the 1930 fifth printing with three supplements), pp. 328-329. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: LoF237

When the Stew Is on the Table

DESCRIPTION: "When the stew is on the table (x3), When the stew is on the table, I'll be there." "When the beer is in the tankard (x3), When the beer is in the tankard, I'll be there."
When the Swallows Homeward Fly

DESCRIPTION: "When the swallows homeward fly, When the roses scattered lie... When I thus your image lose, Can I, ah, can I e'er know repose?" "Hush, my heart! Why thus complain? I shall see thy form again, Though today we part in pain."

AUTHOR: Franz Abt (source: Heart-Songs)
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1860 (Bodleian, Harding B 18(562)); 1909 (Heart-Songs)
KEYWORDS: bird love separation

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Heart-Songs, p. 85, "When the Swallows" (1 text, 1 tune)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #110, "When the Swallows Homeward Fly" (1 text); #186, "Wenn Die Scwalben Heimwartz Ziehen" (1 German text)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, pp. 128-129, "When the Swallows Homeward Fly" (1 text)

Roud #15358

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 18(562), "When the Swallows Homeward Fly," C. Magnus (New York), c. 1860

NOTES [54 words]: This is known mostly from broadsides (a good demonstration of just how awful broadsides could be), but apparently there are a few hints of it in tradition, so I've indexed it. I just hope I don't have to read it again.... Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd implies that the German version is older, but I have no proof of that. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: HeSo085

When the Taters Are All Dug

DESCRIPTION: "Way up in Aroostook County, Where in winter falls the snows... There's a smile all o'er the County Till then taters are all dug." The residents discuss the size of the potatoes. Pickets come from all around. Couples court and men drink during the season

AUTHOR: Words: E. J. Sullivan
EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, from a broadside)
KEYWORDS: food courting drink money nonballad

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, pp. 172-175, "When the Taters Are All Dug" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Mother's Appel to Her Boy" (tune)

File: Gray172

When the Train Comes Along

DESCRIPTION: "I may be blind and cannot see, But I'll meet you at the station when the train comes along. "When the train comes along (x2), I'll meet you at the station when the train comes along." The singer looks forward to meeting Jesus and a happy life

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (recording, Odette Jacson and Ethel Grainger)
When the Wagon Was New

DESCRIPTION: "There's an old rusty wagon that's left to rot away." The family all rode it together in "the good old days" when everyone was friendly and the family was happy. Now, with planes and cars everywhere, "good neighbors are so few" and people need more money

AUTHOR: Sam McGee?

EARLIEST DATE: 1981 (Burton-TennesseeTraditionalSingers); probably in circulation before 1940

KEYWORDS: travel family money

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Burton-TennesseeTraditionalSingers, pp. 139-140, "When the Wagon Was New" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [68 words]: Sam McGee seems to have been the first to record this song, and apparently claimed at one time to have learned it from an unnamed informant in Illinois. But McGee later claimed to have written it himself (a Mudcat thread claims he copyrighted it in 1971). Given the reference to airplanes, the song almost certainly dates from the 1920s or later, which somewhat bolsters but does not prove McGee's claim. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.8

File: BTN139

When the Work's All Done This Fall [Laws B3]

DESCRIPTION: A cowboy tells of his plans to at last go home and see his mother "when the work's all done this fall." Soon after, the cattle stampede. The cowboy controls the herd but is fatally injured in the process. He will not see his mother; he sends tokens home

AUTHOR: unknown (see note)

EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (published by D. J. O'Malley in the Miles Clty _Stock Grower's Journal_)

KEYWORDS: cowboy work death mother

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So,Ro) Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (16 citations):
Laws B3, "When the Work's All Done This Fall"

Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 260-262, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 264, "When the Work is Done This Fall" (1 text)

Abrahams/Riddle-ASingerAndHerSongs, pp. 78-79, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)

Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 143, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)

Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp. 147-148, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)

Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 81, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)

Tinsley-HeWasSinginThisSong, pp. 96-101, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)

Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 20-21, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text)

Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, pp. 282-283, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)

Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 97, "The Cowboy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Guigné-Forgotten Songs Of The Newfoundland Outports, pp. 95-97, "The Cow Puncher's Lament (When the Work's All Done This Fall)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Arkansas Woodchopper, pp. 40-42, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-Folksingers Wordbook, p. 263, "When The Work's All Done This Fall" (1 text)
DT 371, WORKDONE*
ADDITIONAL: John I. White, _Git Along, Little Dogies: Songs and Songmakers of the American West_, 1975 (page references are to the 1989 University of Illinois Press edition), pp. 189-195, "Carl T. Sprague, Singing Cowboy" (1 text, 1 tune, the Sprague version)
Roud #450
RECORDINGS:
Jules Allen, "When The Work's All Done This Fall" (Victor V-40263, 1930; rec. 1929)
Fiddlin' John Carson, "The Dixie Cowboy" (OKeh 7004, 1924)
The Cartwright Brothers, "When The Work's All Done This Fall" (Columbia 15346-D, 1929; rec. 1928)
Bill Childers, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (OKeh 45203, 1928)
Al Cramer [possible pseud. Vernon Dalhart], "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (Broadway 8060, n.d.)
Vernon Dalhart, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (Banner 6086/Domino 0192, 1927; Challenge 688/Challenge 688, 1928; Conqueror 7737, 1931)
J. D. Farley, "I'm a Lone Star Cowboy" (Victor V-40269, 1930; Montgomery Ward M-4300, 1933; rec. 1929: on WhenIWas2)
Four Pickled Peppers, "Jolly Group of Cowboys" (Bluebird B-8016/Montgomery Ward M-7654, 1939; rec. 1938)
Gentry Bros., "When the Work's Done This Fall" (Paramount 3042 [as Collins Bros.], 1928; Broadway 8060 [as Al Cramer], n.d.; rec. 1927)
Harry Jackson, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (HJackson1)
Bradley Kincaid, "When The Work's All Done This Fall" (Gennett 6989, 1929) (Brunswick 403/Supertone S-2017, 1930)
Frank Luther, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (Grey Gull 4264 [as Jeff Calhoun]/Van Dyke 74264 [as Jeff Calhoun]/Radiex 4264 [as Carlton Boxill], 1929; Madison 5013 [as Tom Cook], c. 1930) (Melotone M-12143 [as Phil & Frank Luther]/Vocalion 5483 [as Luther Bros.], 1931)
Claude Moyn, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (Champion 15688 [as Asparagus Joe]/Supertone 9351 [as Pie Plant Pete], 1929; Champion 45064 [as Asparagus Joe], c. 1935)
Joshua Osborne, "The Cow Puncher's Lament" (on NFAGuigné01)
Aulton Ray, "The Dixie Cowboy" (Challenge 335 [as Charlie Prescott]/Champion 15277/Sivertone 5084, 1927; Supertone 9250, 1927; Champion 15277/Sivertone 5084, 1927; Supertone 9250, 1927) (Herwin 75552, c. 1927)
George Reneau, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (Vocalion 15150/Vocalion 5079, 1925)
Rodeo Twins, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (Victor V-40186, 1930; rec. 1929)
Carl T. Sprague, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (Vocality 40186, 1930; rec. 1929)
Ernest V. Stoneman, "When The Work's All Done This Fall" (Edison 51788, 1926) (CYL: Edison [BA] 5188, 1926)
Taylor's Kentucky Boys "The Dixie Cowboy" (Challenge 335 [as Charlie Prescott]/Champion 15277/Sivertone 5084, 1927; Supertone 9250, 1927) (Herwin 75552, c. 1927)
Frankie Wallace, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (Romeo 913, 1929)
Marc Williams, "When the Work's All Done This Fall" (Brunswick 244, 1928; Supertone S-2054, 1930)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "The Virginia Strike of '23" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
The Virginia Strike of '23 (File: LSRA591)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
After the Roundup (published by D. J. O'Malley under that title)
NOTES [137 words]: The most likely author of this is D. J. O'Malley, who seems to have been responsible for the earliest printed version. But Laws does not mention the attribution to O'Malley, and notes that J. Frank Dobie attributes it to Marshall Johnson of Texas. I know of no verifiable
When the World Is on Fire

DESCRIPTION: "The world is on fire. What are you going to do? What are you going to do When the world is on fire?" "I am going to fly... I am going home... I am going to shout." "Sinners want to pray... I am going to fly." A "very fluid" song.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad floatingverses

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 653, "When the World is On Fire" (1 text)

Roud #11789

File: Br3653

When Things Go Wrong with You

DESCRIPTION: "I love you, baby, I ain't gonna lie, Without you, honey, I just can't be satisfied. Cause when things go wrong, so wrong with you, Well, it hurts me too." The singer hopes to be the girl's man, and wants to make her happy. He promises to treat her well.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (recording, Tampa Red)

KEYWORDS: love nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 78, "When Things Go Wrong With You" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Bob Dylan, "It Hurts Me Too" (on Self-Portrait, 1970)
Tampa Red, "It Hurts Me Too" (Bluebird B-8635, 1941; rec. 1940) "When Things Go Wrong With You" (RCA Victor 22-0035, 1949)

NOTES [26 words]: This comes from the singing of Big Bill Broonzy, and he probably had at least some hand in the text, but it is generally not listed as his composition. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: FSWB078

When This Bloody War Is Over

DESCRIPTION: "When this (bloody/blasted/ruddy) war is over, No more soldiering for me. When I get my civvy clothes on, Oh how happy I will be." There will be no more Sunday parades, no need to request leave; the singer will be able to eat, drink, sleep when he wants.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang)

KEYWORDS: soldier hardtimes

FOUND IN: Britain(England) Canada

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs, pp. 182-183, "When This Bloody War Is Over" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang, p. 57, "When this Blasted War is Over" (1 text)
Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead, p. 103, "When This Bloody War is Over" (1 text, 1 tune)
When This Cruel War is Over (Weeping Sad and Lonely)

DESCRIPTION: The girl asks her soldier, "Dearest love, do you remember, when we last did meet, How you told me that you loved me...." She fears for him, but urges him to fight. She is "weeping sad and lonely... When this cruel war is over, pray that we meet again."

AUTHOR: Words: Charles C. Sawyer / Music: Henry Tucker

EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (sheet music published by Sawyer & Thompson, Brooklyn)

KEYWORDS: Civilwar soldier separation injury battle

FOUND IN: US(So) Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (16 citations):
- Greig/Duncan1 103, "Weeping Sad and Lonely" (1 text)
- Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 4, "When This Cruel War is Over" (1 text)
- Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 271-274, "The Cruel War" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, p. 381, "When This Cruel War is Over" (1 text)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 390, "When This Cruel War is Over" (1 text plus 1 excerpt, 1 fragment, and mention of 2 more; the one full text is the Southern adaption of the song)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 390, "When This Cruel War Is Over" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
- Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, pp. 402-403, "When This Cruel War is Over" (1 text, partial tune, from early sheet music and broadside copies; also a text of Septimus Winner's answer "Yes, I Would the War Were Over")
- Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2586, pp. 175-176, "When This Cruel War Is Over" (17 references)
- Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 124-126, "Weeping Sad and Lonely (When This Cruel War Is Over)" (1 text, 1 tune); also p. 127, "Down in Charleston Jail" (1 text, a parody of the preceding)
- Silber-SoldierSongsAndHomeFrontBalladsOfCivilWar, pp. 42-43, "Weeping Sad and Lonely" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hill-PoemsAndSongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 232-233, "When This Cruel War Is Over" (1 text)
- Heart-Songs, pp. 284-285, "When This Cruel War Is Over" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Arnett-IHearAmericaSinging, pp. 88-89, "When This Cruel War is Over" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 276, "Weeping Sad And Lonely (When This Cruel War Is Over)" (1 text)
- Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2586, pp. 175-176, "When This Cruel War is Over"

DT, WHENEVER*

ST SCW42 (Full)

Roud #3446

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Harding B 18(735), "When This Cruel War is Over" ("Dearest love, do you remember," H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864; also Harding B 26(673), "A new song call'd When This Cruel War is Over" [P. Breton (Dublin)]; 2806 c.8(225), "A much-admired American song called Cruel War Is Over", [Haly (Cork)]
- LOC-Singing, sb40571b, "When This Cruel War Is Over," H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864; also cw106550, cw106560, cw106570, cw106580, hc00032c, "When This Cruel War Is Over"

SAME TUNE:
- Down in Charleston Jail (Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, p. 127)
- If This Cruel Ware Were Over ("Dearest Ella, I Remember") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 68)
- Parody on When This Cruel War is Over ("Och, Biddy dear, do you remember") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 124)
- When this Cruel Draft Is Over ("Dearest William, they will draft you") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 175)
- When This Cruel War Is Over, No. 3 ("Dearest Sal, do you remember?") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 176)

NOTES [399 words]: This is widely believed to be the most popular of the war songs (at least among Union troops). Note the fact that Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, pp. 175-176, lists an amazing 17 broadside editions. After the war, however, its rather maudlin sentiments caused it to lose its place to songs such as "Tenting Tonight." (For details, as well as a sample stanza, see Bruce Catton, _Mr. Lincoln's Army_, p. 171).

According to E. Lawrence Abel, _Singing the New Nation: How Music Shaped the Confederacy, 1861-1865_, Stackpole, 2000, p. 98, Charles Carroll Sawyer, who was from Connecticut, "was popular on both sides of the Potomac because of the universal themes of his lyrics.... [He] took deliberate pains not to inject any partisanship into his songs. They contained no insults, no rancor, no celebration of military battle." But none of his songs save this seems to have left any real folk memory. His other song in the Index (as of this writing) is "Who Will Care for Mother Now?" - RBW

Note the Irish broadsides.

There is a cover sheet, at Historic American Sheet Music, "Weeping, Sad and Lonely; When This Cruel War Is Over," Music A-4826, Duke University Rare Book, Manuscript, and Special Collections Library, published by Sawyer & Thompson (Brooklyn), 1863.

See the parody broadsides: Bodleian, Harding B 31(96), "When This Cruel Draft Is Over!"

("Dearest William, they will draft you"), H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864; Bodleian, Harding B 31(116), "Parody on When This Cruel War Is Over ("Och, Biddy dear, do you remember"), H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864; also Harding B 31(130), Harding B 18(394)"

As written and sung by Joseph Murphy, in San Francisco]. "Parody on 'When This Cruel War is Over"

See the parody broadside LOCSinging, cw104560, "Parody on When This Cruel War Is Over," Johnson (Philadelphia), no date

"See also broadside, Bodleian, Harding B 18(564), "Yes, I Would the War Were Over. Answer to 'When this cruel war is over"""

("Yes, I would the war were over"), C. Magnus (New York), 1863, attributed to Alice Hawthorne.

Broadsides LOCSinging sb40571b, Bodleian Harding B 18(735), Harding B 31(96) and Harding B 31(116): H. De Marsan dating per _Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song_ by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at FindArticles site.

Broadsides LOCSinging sb40571b and Bodleian Harding B 18(735) are duplicates. - BS

_Last updated in version 6.0_

File: SCW42

---

When This Old Hat Was New

DESCRIPTION: A litany of complaints about the days "When this old hat was new." Subject can seemingly vary as long as it talks about long ago. At least one version talks about the evolution of American politics (used during the 1840 campaign)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1912 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety), but seemingly in existence much earlier

KEYWORDS: political

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Dec 2, 1840 - William Henry Harrison defeats Martin Van Buren

Mar 4, 1841 - Harrison (the first Whig to be elected President) is inaugurated. He gives a rambling inaugural address in a rainstorm and catches cold

April 4, 1841 - Harrison dies of pneumonia, making him the first president to fail to complete his term. After some hesitation, Vice President John Tyler is allowed to succeed as President

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (4 citations):

_Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety_, p. 336, "When This Old Hat Was New" (1 text)

_Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee_ 50, pp. 86-87, "When This Old Hat Was New" (1 short text, 1 tune)

_Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents_, pp. 272-273, "When This Old Hat Was New" (4 texts, most of them parodies; 1 tune, from early sheet music)

ADDITIONAL: A. B. Norton, _Songs of the People in the Log Cabin Days of Old Tippecanoe_, A. B. Norton & Co., 1888 (available on Google Books), p. 85, "When This Old Had Was New" (1 text. N.B. the Google Books copy, at least, has disordered pages in this part of the book.)

Roud #7841

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Mullnabeeny (Mill of Boyndie)" (the concept of "When this old hat was new")

SAME TUNE:
(Political parodies of) When This Old Hat Was New (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 272)

NOTES [334 words]: Although the only version of this I can pin down is Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissouriFolkloreSociety's the catch phrase is much more common, being used in a a campaign piece from the 1840 Harrison/Van Buren election (see Roud #1693). It seems as if the idea was too good to let alone.

The "locos" are the "loco-foco" faction of the Democratic party, a radical group which emerged 1835. (They were so-called for the matches, or "loco-focos," they used to light candles after the Tammany Hall group tried to suppress them by turning out the gas lights at a convention.) They didn't have a clear platform so much as a desire to clean up government, monopolies, and banking. The statement that "Van Buren was a Fed" is a reference to the Federalist party -- hardly a fair criticism, since the Democratic party did not exist in his youth.

Wolfe, in his notes to the Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee version, considers it to be from the 1840 election, it in fact appears to be a composite. There are no references to the candidates of 1840 (Harrison and Van Buren). The first verse refers to Sam Cushman (possibly referring to Representative Samuel Cushman of New Hampshire, 1783-1851, although this is by no means clear).

The second verse, referring to Bob Ingersoll, is much clearer. Robert Ingersoll (1833-1899) was known mostly as a professional agnostic. Since the general attitude has always been that non-Christians, especially vocal non-Christians, were damnable, he is an obvious target for this particular piece of religious intolerance. The joke seems to be that even Ingersoll, too dense to understand the (alleged) truth of Christianity, would still have been able to see the truth of "Tory-ism." But Ingersoll wasn't known in 1840, so the verse must have been written later.

Bob Ingersoll's non-Christianity was so infamous that he apparently is mentioned in three different songs: "Bob Ingersoll and the Devil," "The Donkey Song," and some versions of "When This Old Hat Was New." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4

File: Beld336

When This Old Hat Was New (II)

DESCRIPTION: "When my auld hat was new" at harvest the master provided drink and set a feast; his wife "gie every one their due." Now the master's wife wears fine silk. Instead of a feast harvest workers are treated like beggars and "near their hoose ye dauna gang."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1725 (Phillips)

KEYWORDS: farming nonballad poverty vanity commerce clothes

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord))

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #101, pp. 1-2, "When My Auld Hat Was New"; p. 1, ("When this old cap was new") (1 text plus a fragment)
Greig/Duncan3 540, "The Auld Hat" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 52, "When My Old Hat Was New" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: John Ashton, _A Century of Ballads_, Elliot Stock, London, 1887; reprinted 1968 by Singing Tree Press, pp. 5-7, "Time's Alteration, or, The Old Man's Rehearsal, what brave days he knew, A grand white agone, when his old Cap was new" (1 text)
Roud #1693

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "I'll Never Be Drunk Again" (tune, per Phillips)

NOTES [42 words]: Re A Collection of Old Ballads Vol II/III: Ambrose Philips, whose name does not appear in the Google Books copy is, according to Google Books, the editor. The New York Public Library catalog says "Compilation usually attributed to Ambrose Philips" - BS

Last updated in version 3.1

File: GrD3540

When This Old Hat Was New (III)

DESCRIPTION: "When this old hat was new": "provisions now are twice as dear"; "men could take
When This Old Hat Was New (IV)

DESCRIPTION: "This old hat was new once" "The rich then gave out food and coals to keep the poor ... the poor did never want." "Our tars were never press'd For they did boldly volunteer."
"Husbandmen ... did work both soon and late But now ... are forced to emigrate."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 2006 (Bodleian broadside indexed)
KEYWORDS: poverty emigration commerce hardtimes pressgang
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
Roud #1693
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(4138), "When This Old Hat Was New" ("This old hat was new once, but I cannot tell you when"), unknown, no date
NOTES [109 words]: I have to think this particular "Old Hat" the work of a propagandistic poet. There was "never" a time when tars "were never pressed"; conditions in the Royal Navy were consistently worse than those in the merchant service. It is true that sailors were unusually likely to desert in the period between the American Revolution and the Napoleonic Wars (which seems the most likely date for the song). This is because inflation was eating away at the always-inadequate pay of the sailors, and dishonest contractors were feeding them garbage. These conditions improved, at least somewhat, after the Spithead and Nore mutinies, for which see "Poor Parker." - RBW

File: GrD354A

When Uncle Sam's Doughboy Roped a Wild Irish Rose

DESCRIPTION: An "Uncle Sam's Doughboy" goes to Ireland and pursues a "wild Irish rose" who "ran through the trees like a wild mountain deer." But now she "gets tamer each day" and is becoming willing to return to the West with him

AUTHOR: Rusty Holman (?)
EARLIEST DATE: 1973
KEYWORDS: courting cowboy
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 79, "When Uncle Sam's Doughboy Roped a Wild Irish Rose" (1 text)
File: Ohr079

When We Do Meet Again

DESCRIPTION: "When we do meet again (x3), 'Twill be no more to part." "Brother Billy, fare you well (c2), We'll sing hallelujah, When we do meet again."

AUTHOR: unknown
When We Get Our Tuppence Back

DESCRIPTION: The bosses at Lithgow lower the pay rate for coal by a tuppence. The miners go on strike: "We will never work for you Till you give that tuppence back, Charlie dear." The strike is bitter, with many scabs brought in. But the miners hold firm

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973
KEYWORDS: mining scab strike work Australia
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1911 - Strike at the Hoskin Mine near Lithgow, New South Wales. The miners asked for a raise of tuppence per load; mine boss Charles Hoskin responded by lowering pay rates the same amount. Hoskin brought in scabs and resorted to intimidation, but eventually the miners won.

FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 208-209, "When We Get Our Tuppence Back" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: FaE208

When We Were Sweet Sixteen (Now I'm Sixty-Four)

DESCRIPTION: The singer wanders through hills and by streams as he had years before and finds them unchanged. He hopes to meet (his sweetheart?) "upon that far-off shore" where they "both shall reign; we'll talk about those happy days"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports; MUNFLA/Leach)
KEYWORDS: age reunion nonballad
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 365-366, "When We Were Sweet Sixteen (Now I'm Sixty-Four)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #18247
RECORDINGS:
Jim Rice, "When We Were Sweet Sixteen" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
NOTES [21 words]: The chorus is "And I long for those bright days to come again once more, But come again they never will for I am sixty-four." - BS
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Guig365

When We Were Two Little Boys

DESCRIPTION: Two boys are playing; one's hobby-horse breaks; his brother says "I couldn't bear to see you crying/When there's room on my horse for two." They become soldiers; one is wounded, the other rescues him, saying "I couldn't bear to see you dying...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1903 (recording, Billy Murray)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Two boys are playing; one's hobby-horse breaks; his brother comforts him, saying "I couldn't bear to see you crying/When there's room on my horse for two." They grow up and become soldiers; one is wounded, the other rescues him, saying "I couldn't bear to see you dying/When there's room on my horse for two." They remember when they were two little boys
KEYWORDS: love army battle fight war reunion rescue injury brother family soldier
FOUND IN: US(SE)
RECORDINGS:
Dixon Brothers, "Two Little Boys" (Montgomery Ward M-7336, c. 1937)
Billy Murray, "When We Were Two Little Boys" (Monarch [Victor] 2468, 1903)

NOTES [28 words]: Although the text doesn't say so, this song is almost certainly set in the Civil War. - PJS
And it has the sickeningly saccharine sound of songs of that era, too. - RBW
File: RcwW2LB

When Wild War's Deadly Blast Was Blawn (The Sodger's Return)

DESCRIPTION: "When wild war's deadly blast was blawn, And gentle peace returning," the soldier returns home. He reaches the "bonnie glen" "Where Nancy aft I courted." He meets her and asks for lodging. She says she loved a soldier -- then recognizes him.

AUTHOR: Words: Robert Burns
EARLIEST DATE: 1793 (source: Kinsley)
KEYWORDS: soldier love separation reunion hardtimes
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Winstock-SongsAndMusicOfTheRedcoats, pp. 114-116, "The sodger's return" (1 text, 1 tune)
James Kinsley, editor, Burns: Complete Poems and Songs (shorter edition, Oxford, 1969) #406, pp. 543-545, "[When wild War's deadly Blast was blawn]" (1 text, 1 tune, from 1793)
DT, DEIDL2*

When Will Ye Gang Awa'? (Huntingtower) [Laws O23]

DESCRIPTION: Janie asks what Jamie will bring her when he crosses the sea. He promises a new gown, then a "gallant gay." She wants only him. He submits that he has a wife and children. She is distressed; he promises to marry her

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan5); related text from 1827 (Kinloch)
KEYWORDS: courting clothes trick marriage
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber)) Canada(Mar) US(MA,MW,NE)
REFERENCES (11 citations):
Child 232, "Richie Story" (9 texts; the text in the Appendix is this song)
Bronson 232, "Richie Story" (9 versions, but #9 is "When Will Ye Gang Awa'? (Huntingtower)" [Laws O23], and #7 and #8 may be as well)
Laws O23, "When Will Ye Gang Awa'? (Huntingtower)"
Greig/Duncan5 1052, "Huntingtower" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, p. 556, "The Duke of Athol" (1 text)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 217-218,"When Will Ye Gan Awa'"? (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #9}
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 42-43, "When Ye Gang Away, Jamie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland3, pp. 273-277, "Huntingtower" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Neely/Spargo-TalesAndSongsOfSouthernIllinois, p. 156, "What Will Ye Bring Tae Me?" (1 fragment which may be this)
DT 482, DATHOL

ADDITIONAL: George R Kinloch, Ancient Scottish Ballads (London: Longman, Rees, Orme, Browne, & Green, 1827 ("Digitized by Google")), pp. 170-173, "The Duke of Athol" (1 text)
Roud #345
BROADSIDES:
NLScotland, RB.m.143(127), "Hunting Tower, Or when ye Gang Awa' Jamie," Poet's Box (Dundee), unknown
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Richie Story" [Child 232]
SAME TUNE:
The Laird of Dalziel's Leman (File: AdLaDaLe)
NOTES [56 words]: For the relationship of this song to "Richie Story" [Child 232], see the notes on that song. - RBW
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads has 8 stanzas as compared to Child's and Kinloch's 15; both Whitelaw and Child claim Kinloch as source. Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads skips the promised gifts and goes directly to the question of marriage. - BS

Last updated in version 3.2
File: L023

When Ye Gang Awa Johnnie

DESCRIPTION: Jennie wants Johnnie to give up drinking. He is unconvinced until she cries because the children will learn to drink from him. He resolves "that never mair I'll touch the barley bree." She is happy.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan3)

KEYWORDS: drink dialog husband wife

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan3 589, "Fin Ye Gang Awa Johnnie" (2 texts)
Roud #6042
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Farewell to Whisky (Johnny My Man)" (theme)

File: GrD3589

When You and I Were Young, Maggie

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls the days when he and Maggie were young -- the creek and the mill they wandered by, the meadows they wandered, the birds they heard. Now the mill is still, and the flowers are gone, but she is still just as beautiful in his eyes.

AUTHOR: Words: George W. Johnson / Music: J. A. Butterfield

EARLIEST DATE: 1866 (sheet music published by J. A. Butterfield of Chicago)

KEYWORDS: love courting age nonballad

FOUND IN: US(MW,SE) Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (11 citations):

Jackson-PopularSongsOfNineteenthCenturyAmerica, pp. 237-240, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, p. 159, "When You And I Were Young" (1 text)
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 93-94, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 137, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (1 text plus mention of 1 more)
Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp. 133-134, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 189-190, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Heart-Songs, pp. 478-479, "When You and I Were Young" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 248, "When You And I Were Young, Maggie" (1 text)
Gilbert-LostChords, p. 22, "When You and I Were Young Maggie" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, p. 643, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" DT, YOUNGMAG*
ST R19237 (Full)
Roud #3782

RECORDINGS:
Archie Anderson, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (Columbia A-1447, 1913)
Fiddlin' John Carson, "When You And I Were Young, Maggie" (Okeh 40020, 1924; rec. 1923)
The Collier Trio, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (Brunswick 307, 1928)
Frank & James McCravy, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (Brunswick 197, 1928; rec. 1927)
McMichen's Melody Men, "When You and I Were Young" (Columbia 15247-D, 1928; rec. 1927)
[?] Morgan & [Frank] Stanley, "When You and I Were Young Maggie" (Victor 4428, 1905)
Roy Newman's Boys, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (Vocalion 03598, 1937)
Will Oakland, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" (CYL: Edison 9980, 1908) (CYL: Edison [BA] 1873 [as Will Oakland & chorus], n.d.)
Riley Puckett, "When You And I Were Young, Maggie" (Columbia 15005-D, c. 1924)
When You and I Were Young, Maggie (Mining Parody)

DESCRIPTION: "I wandered today up The Hill, Maggie, I applied for a rustling card... But the job it was too damned hard." The singer works in a mine full of gas; he is hit by rock, his hair is turning green; he suspects "you'll soon want your maiden name back."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Western Folklore 9)

KEYWORDS: mining hardtimes marriage derivative

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 564, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie (Parody)" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "When You And I Were Young, Maggie"

When You are Old and Cannot See

DESCRIPTION: "When you are old and cannot see, Put on your specs and think of me."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (autograph album of George Washington Franklin, according to Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore)

KEYWORDS: age disability humorous

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, p. 123, "(When you are old)"; p. 135, "(When you are old and cannot see)" (2 texts)

NOTES [104 words]: The first of these is one of many items Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore extracted from the autograph album of George Washington Franklin, which he maintained 1882 to 1895 or after; the second is from Anna Duncan's autograph album, from 1897-1899. Web searches for this quote turned up at least three other versions, one in the autograph book of Ida Deming (Bowles) of South Dakota, in 1898 and one from 1901 in the "Keville-Flanagan Autograph Book," apparently from Chicago. (The third quote I found was unsourced.) Since this is clearly a parody, it must have been in oral tradition, though I cannot prove that it is a song. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.5

When You Call To An Irishman's Door

DESCRIPTION: The singer comes to Ireland from Scotland and knocks on Pat's door seeking shelter. Pat is poor and about to be evicted but offers what he has. "You can always depend on meeting a friend when you call to an Irishman's door."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)

KEYWORDS: poverty travel food hardtimes Ireland Scotland
When You Feel Like Moaning

DESCRIPTION: "When you feel like moanin', it ain't nothin' but love... It must be the Holy Ghost comin' down from above.... When you hear me prayin', that ain't nothin' but love.... When you love everybody... Do you love your preacher...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (recording, Rich Amerson)
KEYWORDS: religious clergy nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Courlander-NegroFolkMusic, pp. 238-240, "When You Feel Like Moaning" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #10963
RECORDINGS:
Rich Amerson, "When You Feel Like Moaning" (on NFMAla4)
File: CNFM238

When You Go to Get Your Shears

DESCRIPTION: "When you go to get your shears You're not allowed to pick. The first pair that you collar, Then it's to that pair you stick. It is the boss's orders; If you do not like the trick, You can go somewhere else to look for shearing."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1968
KEYWORDS: sheep work Australia boss
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 281-282, "When You Go to Get Your Shears" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: MA281

When You Go, Tell Julia (I Am Bound Away)

DESCRIPTION: Alternate lines are a chorus, "I am bound away." The shantyman sings "When you go, tell Julia... I'm bound away to see the light... I'm bound away to see my docky... I'm bound for North Carolina."

AUTHOR: unknown
KEYWORDS: parting separation travel sea ship shanty lover sailor
FOUND IN: West Indies(Nevis)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Abrahams-DeepTheWaterShallowTheShore, pp. 59-60, "When You Go, Tell Julia (I Am Bound Away)" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [36 words]: See "I'm Bound Away" for what may be the source for this shanty; the tunes are different but the structure and chorus text is the same. If there were more to the texts I might have considered them the same song. - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: AWIS059

When You're In Love

DESCRIPTION: "Kissing's a nice celebration," "squeezing's a funny sensation," "it's better to have loved once and lost," "So haste and get married and no longer tarry, When you're in love"

AUTHOR: unknown
Whene'er I Take My Walks Abroad

DESCRIPTION: "Whene'er I take my walks abroad How many poor I see; What shall I render to my God For all his gifts to me?" "No more than others I deserve, Yet God has given me more, For I have food while others starve Or beg from door to door."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: religious poverty
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 652, "Whene'er I Take My Walks Abroad" (1 short text plus an excerpt from a parody) Roud #7573
NOTES [17 words]: Although Randolph collected this piece in 1936, it is obviously older, as a parody was reported in 1904.
File: R652

Where am I to go, M' Johnnies?

DESCRIPTION: Shanty. "Where am I to go me Johnnies, where am I to go? To me way hey, hey, high, roll an' go. For I'm a young sailor boy, and where am I to go?" subsequent verses answer "way up the t'gallant yard," "around Cape Horn," "through the ice and snow," etc...

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas)
KEYWORDS: shanty sailor travel
FOUND IN: Britain US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 169-170, "Where am I to go, M' Johnnies?" (1 text, 1 tune) [AbEd, p. 137]
Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, p. 53, "Where Am I to Go, Me Johnnies?" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [47 words]: Gordon Bok's book Time and the Flying Snow seems to imply that he learned this song from Hugill -- but his tune is slightly different, and his text also differs. Hugill's seems to be the only field collection; I don't know if Bok modified the song or if others did it before him. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: Hugi169

Where Derry Meets Tyrone

DESCRIPTION: "Have you ever been to Ireland where Derry meets Tyrone?" The singer describes the beauty of the country, the "queen of nature," the kindly welcome a visitor may expect.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: home nonballad
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H601, pp. 174-175, "Where Derry Meets Tyrone" (1 text, 1 tune) Roud #13535
File: HHH601
Where Did You Get That Hat?

DESCRIPTION: The singer, to inherit his grandfather's property, is required to wear grandfather's hat. Now, wherever he goes, people cry out to him, "Where did you get that hat?... Isn't it a nobby one, and just the proper style...."

AUTHOR: Joseph J. Sullivan

EARLIEST DATE: 1888 (sheet music published by F. Harding)

KEYWORDS: clothes humorous marriage

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 105, pp. 133-134, "Where Did You Get That Hat?" (1 text plus a fragment)
Geller-FamousSongsAndTheirStories, pp. 42-44, "Where Did You Get That Hat?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, pp. 137-138, "Where Did You Get That Hat?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gilbert-LostChords, p. 151, "Where Did You Get That Hat?" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Robert A. Fremont, editor, _Favorite Songs of the Nineties_, Dover Publications, 1973, pp. 351-354, "Where Did You Get That Hat?" (1 text, 1 tune, the 1888 sheet music)
Margaret Bradford Boni, editor, _Songs of the Gilded Age_, with piano arrangements by Norman Lloyd and illustrations by Lucille Corcos, Golden Press, 1960, pp. 120-121, "Where Did You Get that Hat?" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST SRW137 (Full)

Roud #4877

RECORDINGS:
Sam Bond, "Where Did You Get That Hat" (on Voice16)

NOTES [142 words]: According to Gilbert-LostChords, Sullivan, a blackface minstrel, found a very tall hat one day while rummaging through his parents' attic. He being short, he thought the tall hat would make a humorous addition to his act. To test this, he went out one day wearing the hat. A gang of urchins harassed him, asking "Where did you get that hat?" Hence this song.

We should note, however, that there are variations on this legend: All agree that Sullivan found a hat and tried it in his act -- but according to James J. Geller, the humor lay in the fact that the hat was small and Sullivan quite hefty; the hat didn't fit him.

The fact that there is a story associated with this song causes me to accept the attribution to Sullivan, but I should note that Peter Davidson, _Songs of The British Music Hall_, Oak, 1971, p. 211, credits it to J. C. Heffron.

Last updated in version 3.4

File: SRW137

Where Does Father Christmas Go To?

DESCRIPTION: We know about Mary and her lamb, servant girl Maria blown through the roof, Burglar Bill of Pentonville on the scaffold, the rich man on the Continent and the poor man on the dole. But [chorus] "where does Father Christmas go to in the summertime?"

AUTHOR: Fred Schuff (source: Yates, Musical Traditions site _Voice of the People suite_ "Notes - Volume 16" - 13.9.02)

EARLIEST DATE: 1978 (recording, Sam Bond)

KEYWORDS: Christmas humorous nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

Roud #12927

RECORDINGS:
Sam Bond, "Where Does Father Christmas Go To?" (on Voice16)

NOTES [9 words]: Musical Traditions note has this song written in 1926. - BS

File: RcwDFCG

Where Ha'e Ye Been A' the Day?

DESCRIPTION: "... Saw ye him [Charlie] that's far away ... he gave his royal word ... wi' his friend would live or dee. Weary fa' the Lawland loon ... Wha took frae him the British crown ... But blessings on the kilted clans ... That fought for him at Prestonpans."
AUTHOR: George Thomson?
EARLIEST DATE: 1790s (Thomson, according to Fowke)
KEYWORDS: nonballad political Jacobites derivative
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sept 21, 1745 - Battle of Prestonpans. Bonnie Prince Charlie's Highland army routs the first real Hannoverian force it encounters
FOUND IN: Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 25, "Bonny Laddie, Hielan' Laddie" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: George Farquhar Graham, The Popular Songs of Scotland With Their Appropriate Melodies (Edinburgh, 1887 (J Muir Wood revision ("Digitized by Google")), pp. 166-167, "Where Ha'e Ye Been A' the Day?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2330
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Geordie Sits In Charlie's Chair" (source, per Graham)
NOTES [107 words]: The second, fourth, sixth and eighth line of each eight-line verse is "Bonnie laddie, Highland laddie."
For more information on the Battle of Prestonpans see "Tranent Muir" and references there. Graham: "[Hogg's "Geordie Sits in Charlie's Chair"] is horribly ludicrous, but we cannot give it entire, on account of the extreme coarseness of some of the stanzas. A modification of it is published in Mr. George Thomson's Collection, with two introductory stanzas not in Hogg's edition. The stanza beginning, "Weary fa' the Lawland loon," is the second in Hogg's copy." Except for changes in spelling, the Fowke and Graham/Thomson texts agree. - BS
Last updated in version 2.6
File: FowOn025

Where Is My Darling Tonight?
DESCRIPTION: "Sitting alone by the door, Looking far out on the sea, Thinking of one that I love, Dearer than life is to me. All alone, all alone, Tell me why don't he write? ... Where is my darling tonight?" He is far at sea; she asks the waves to bring him home
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)
KEYWORDS: love separation sailor
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 111, "Where Is My Darling Tonight?" (2 texts plus mention of 2 more, 1 tune)
Roud #11402
File: Brne111

Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?
DESCRIPTION: Singer (presumably the mother, although it's not stated) weeps for her wandering boy, saying he was once "my joy and light". She begs the listener to find her boy and "tell him I love him still"
AUTHOR: Robert Lowry
EARLIEST DATE: 1877 ("Fountain of Song," according to John Julian, Dictionary of Hymnology)
KEYWORDS: grief loneliness rambling separation mother children
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 270, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" (1 text)
RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight" (Columbia 15072-D, 1926; Harmony 767-H, 1928)
Edison Mixed Quartet, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" (CYL: Edison Blue Amberol 2125, n.d.)
Giddens Sisters, "Where Is My Wandering Boy?" (OKeh 45143, 1927)
Hall & Ryan, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight" (Globe 4066, c. 1924)
Sid Harkreader, "Where Is My Boy Tonight" (Vocalion 15075, 1925)
Harry Macdonough, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight" (CYL: Edison 1559, c. 1898)
J. W. Myers, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" (CYL: Columbia 31357, c. 1900) (Berliner 0918, rec. 1896)
Peerless Quartet, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight" (Paramount 33010, 1919)
Riley Puckett, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight" (Columbia 15004-D, rec. 1924)
Unidentified baritone "Where Is My Wandering Boy To-Night" (Busy Bee 1120, c. 1906)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Blue Ridge Mountain Blues" (quotes this song)
SAME TUNE:
Where Is My Wandering Boy (IWW) (Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, p. 176)
NOTES [41 words]: This should not be confused with "The Wandering Boy," a different song from the looks of it. - PJS
They are indeed different, though the concept is similar. For background on composer Robert Lowry, see the notes to "How Can I Keep from Singing." - RBW

Last updated in version 3.7
File: FSWB270

Where Is Old Elijah? (The Hebrew Children, The Promised Land)

DESCRIPTION: "Where oh where is old Elijah? (x3) 'Way over in the Promised Land. He went up in a fiery chariot (x3) 'Way over in the promised land. By and by we will go and see him...."
Unrelated verses on Biblical themes, e.g. "Where are the Hebrew children"
AUTHOR: Peter Cartwright?
EARLIEST DATE: 1832 (Sacred Harp)
KEYWORDS: Bible religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,SE,So) West Indies(Tobago)
REFERENCES (11 citations):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 73, "Wonder Where is Good Ole Daniel" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 107 in the 1901 edition)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 646, "Way Over in the Promised Land" (1 text)
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 457-459, "The Promised Land" (2 texts, 1 tune, the second text purporting to be a translation into an Indian language though neither Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety nor I can say which one)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, p. 163, "The Hebrew Children" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 205-206, "Safe at Home in the Promised Land" (1 text)
Richardson/Spaeth-AmericanMountainSongs, p. 67, "Safe in the Promised Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Arnold-FolkSongofAlabama, p. 164, "Wonder Whar Is Good Old Daniel" (1 text, 1 tune)
Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlottesville, p. 49, "Saved in the Promised Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 92-93, "Where O Where Is Old Elijah?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, pp. 84-85, "Way Over in the Promised Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), p. 160, "(Where, Oh, where is Elijah?" (1 short text)
ST San092 (Partial)
Roud #4213
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Paw-Paw Patch" (tune & meter)
SAME TUNE:
Where O Where ("Where, o where, are the verdant freshmen (x3), Safe in the sophomore class") (_Songs that Never Grow Old_, 1913, p. 78) (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 59)
NOTES [103 words]: Elijah's transportation to heaven in a fiery chariot is described in 2 Kings 2:11.

NOTES [103 words]: Elijah's transportation to heaven in a fiery chariot is described in 2 Kings 2:11.
Absalom's rebellion against his father David occupies 2 Samuel 15-18 (Absalom's death occurs in 18:9-18); the extended story of David's sin and its consequences, including the rebellion, occupies 2 Samuel 11-19. According to the Sacred Harp, the tune is by Peter Cartwright (1785-1872), and is known as "Hebrew Children." No author is listed for the words, however, and the versions show strong variations. Fred W. Allsopp, in Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II, p. 160, says that it has been sung by "professional minstrels." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: San092

Where Moyola Waters Flow

DESCRIPTION: The singer describes the "little cot I've never seen" (!) at home by the Moyola. Living in America, he misses Ireland, "Where a dear old mother's mourning As she keeps the home fires burning For the emigrants returning."

AUTHOR: James O'Kane
EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: emigration separation homesickness
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
*Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H787, p. 215, "Where Moyola Waters Flow" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: HHH787

Where My Lord Went to Pray

DESCRIPTION: "Way over yonder beyond the mountain, Where my Lord went to pray, They dressed my Lord in a long white robe.... "He hewed him out a cross..." "Come and help me bear this old cross along...." The singer tells of Jesus's death and salvation

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: religious Bible Jesus
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
*Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 654, "Where My Lord Went to Pray" (1 text)
*Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 654, "Where My Lord Went to Pray" (1 incomplete tune plus a text excerpt)
Roud #11944
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Never Said a Mumbling Word" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [44 words]: According to Mark 15:21, etc., Jesus needed help to carry his cross, though John (19:17) says he carried his own cross. The size of the cross is not specified, and when the soldiers dressed Jesus in fine clothes, they put him in a purple cloak (Mark 15:20). - RBW

Last updated in version 4.1
File: Br3654

Where Now is the Prophet Brigham

DESCRIPTION: "Now where's the Prophet Brigham? (x2) Down in Kanab, down in Kanab. By and by we'll go and fetch him, Down in Kanab, Down in Kanab.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)
KEYWORDS: nonballad
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1801-1877 - Life of Brigham Young
1832 - Young becomes a Mormon
1844 - Young becomes leader of the Mormons
1847 - Mormon migration to Utah
1850 - Young made Governor of Utah territory. From 1857, however, the U.S. Government enforced various restrictions on the Mormons and their governor, mostly in response to polygamy.

REFERENCES (1 citation): Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #219, "The Prophet Brigham" (1 short text)
Roud #10899
CROSS-REFERENCES: cf. "Brigham Young (I)" (character of Brigham Young) and references there
File: Hubb219

Where Shall I Go?
DESCRIPTION: "As I walked out one moon shiny night, As I met a big dog, he offered to bite... Now, don't you bite me. Ah, or, where shall I go?...Oh, I want to go home." The singer slips in a well and thinks he'll die. On his deathbed, they shake a brandy keg over him
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)
KEYWORDS: humorous injury death drink dog
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation): Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 170, "Where Shall I Go?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11362
File: Brne170

Where Shall Our Goodman Lie?
DESCRIPTION: Where shall our Goodman [or Bonnie Annie] lie until summer [or the cold winter night] is over? Up in the hen loft among the rotten timber.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1817 (Cromek)
KEYWORDS: nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))
REFERENCES (2 citations): Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 130, "Whar Sall Bonnie Annie Lye" (1 text)
Roud #15104
NOTES [249 words]: Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 is the Bonnie Annie version. Cromek: "'Where wad bonie Annie lie.' The old name of this tune is -- 'Whare'll our Gudeman lie.' A silly old stanza of it runs thus -- ...." Cromek, p. 188, explains that of the following pages - including the "bonie Annie" note -- "The chief part of the following Remarks on Scottish Songs and Ballads exist in the hand-writing of Robert Burns, in an interleaved Copy, in 4 Volumes, Octavo, of 'Johnson's Scots Musical Museum.'"
There is at least one other song connecting "bonnie Annie" and "our goodman." "The Cordial" begins "Where wad bonny Annie ly?" and is sung to "Where shall our goodman ly?" It's a dialog. The man asks, "Where wad bonny Annie ly? Alane nae mair ye maun lie; Wad ye a goodman try? Is that the thing your lacking?" She's afraid he would keep her awake. He assures her he'll let her sleep. And if waking the marching oboes frighten her will he protect her? He assures her again and a "healthy cordial standing by shall presently revive thee." She asks for a priest to join them: "let me try How I'll wi' a goodman lie, Wha can a cordial give me" (sources: Allan Ramsay, The Tea-Table Miscellany: or, A Collection of Choice Songs, Scots and English (London, 1876 (reprint of the 1850 fourteenth edition) ("Digitized by Google")), p. 83, "The Cordial" ("Where wad bonny Annie lie?") (1 text); Broadside Bodleian, Harding B 11(2279), "The Cordial" ("Where wad bonny Annie ly?")), Barlow, no date). - BS
Last updated in version 2.6
File: LyCr2130
Where the Bravest Cowboys Lie

DESCRIPTION: The singer, a mountain resident, courts a girl; she agrees to marry him if he becomes a cowboy. Despite his parents' advice, he takes to the trail -- and suffers cold, snow, and Indian attacks. The singer wishes to "fly to where the bravest cowboys lie."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1966

KEYWORDS: love courting travel cowboy fight death Indians(Am.)

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 55, "Where the Bravest Cowboys Lie" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11086

NOTES [59 words]: I have to suspect that the Fife version of this piece is a fusion of two pieces, one in which an Indian attack was foiled and another in which it succeeded. (The introduction, about loving the girl, might even be a third piece). As the song stands, it doesn't really make sense. But since I can't identify the earlier pieces, I have to list it as one. - RBW

File: FCW055

Where the Gadie Rins (I)

DESCRIPTION: The singer wishes she were "Where the Gadie rins." She recalls her (ane/twa) richt love(s). "The ane he was killed at the Lowrin fair, and t'ither wis drowned in Dee." She has twice been a bride but never a wife. She recalls her mourning

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast)

KEYWORDS: love marriage death wife mourning

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #10, pp. 1-2, "Where Gadie Rins" (3 texts plus 2 fragments)

Greig/Duncan6 1223, "Gin I Were Where the Gadie Rins" (6 texts, 1 tune)

Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 347-348, "Oh! Gin I Were Where Gaudie Rins" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: Kenneth Norman MacDonald, "The Gesto Collection of Highland Music," 1895 (reprinted 1997 by Llanerch Publishers), p. 125, "The Back of Bennachie" (1 tune, presumably this since it is footnoted as "Where Gaudie runs")

ST Ord347 (Full)

Roud #5404

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Where the Gadie Rins" (II), etc. (tune, chorus)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Where the Gadie Rins

NOTES [507 words]: The melody "Where (the) Gadie Rins" is said to be a common pipe tune in Scotland. (MacColl and Seeger date it to 1815; Ord suspects the eighteenth century.) Like some other pipe tunes (e.g. "The Flowers of the Forest), it seems to have picked up various texts. One may suspect that, like some fiddle tunes, it had a mnemonic verse or two. All the texts seem to have a lyric similar to:

Oh, gin I were whaur the Gadie rins,
The Gadie rins, the Gadie rins,
Oh, gin I were whaur the Gadie rins
At the back o Bennachie

or

But there's meal and there's ale whaur the Gadie rins,
The Gadie rins, the Gadie rins,
But there's meal and there's ale whaur the Gadie rins
At the back o Bennachie.

Ord calls the air "one of the best-known songs in the North of Scotland," but says that most people know only fragments of verses. This text gets pride of place as the only one I've heard recorded. The "Lowrin fair" or "Lowren'-fair" is described by Kinloch as "a market held at Lawrence-kirk, in Mearnshire."

This has one of the saddest themes I can think of for a woman prior to the twentieth century, when it was hard to accomplish anything when unmarried:
Noo it's twice I hae been a bride,
Hae been a bride, hae been a bride,
Noo it's twice I hae been a bride,
But a wife I'll never be.

I cannot help but note the similarity of this to a couplet composed by Margaret of Austria to lament her fate:
Ci gist Margot la gentille demoiselle
Mariee deux fois, et si mourut pucelle.
("Here lies Margot, the willing bride, Twice married, but a virgin when she died." See Garrett Mattingly, Catherine of Aragon, 1941 [I use the 1990 Book-of-the-Month club edition], p. 17).

Of the five Greig #10 texts he considers only a fragment and one long text known to the traditional singer, "perhaps assigned to about the middle of the eighteenth century ... may be earlier." The others are literary texts. An attribution of one to Dr Arthur Johnston in the earlier part of the seventeenth century "must surely be a mistake." Another "was written by Dr John Park about 1826...." "John Imlah, a song-writer of considerable repute who was born in Aberdeen in 1799 and died in 1846 ... wrote two versions, " the second of which Greig reprints. As for the origin of the fragment -- the usual first verse -- "our theory is this. Some native of the Garioch serving in some of the continental wars -- say under Marlborough, had heard the regimental march, and ever thinking of his far-off home, had shaped its phrases into -- Oh gin I were where Gadie rins... At the back of Benachie."

Imlah, writing in 1827, in a note to his own "O! Gin I Were Whare Gadie Rowes!," has the usual chorus and says it is the chorus of "a jacobite ditty, but of which I am in no further possession than the chorus" (source: John Imlah, May Flowers (London, 1827 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 230).

Greig/Duncan6 1223C shares a key verse with "My Mither Built a Wee, Wee House": "I canna keep my maidenhead Amo' sae mony men." That's in line with Ord's "twice I've been a bride..." verse.

Where the Gadie Rins (II)
DESCRIPTION: Singer finds that his girl's "kilt (is) short and I could see." She tells his he's being unfair; she's going home to her mother. He muses that when her mother finds out what he's done, he'll have to fly. He laments that he can't go and see her.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (collected from Maggie McPhee)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer takes his girl on his knee; "her kilt was short and I could see." She tells his he's being unfair; they've slept together, but he doesn't care, so she's going home to her mother. If her baby's a boy, she'll call him Jock. He tells her to go home, and muses that when her mother finds out what he's done, he'll have to fly. He laments that he can't go and see her, and says he'll live with his mother until he dies "at the back o' Bennachie." Chorus: "There's meal and there's ale whaur the Gadie rins/At the back o' Bennachie."

KEYWORDS: sex rejection parting pregnancy baby lover mother
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 46, "Where Gadie Rins" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5404

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Back o' Bennachie
I Wish I Were Where Gadie Rins

NOTES [163 words]: The melody "Where (the) Gadie Rins" is said to be a common pipe tune in Scotland. (MacColl and Seeger date it to 1815; Ord suspects the eighteenth century.) Like some other pipe tunes (e.g. "The Flowers of the Forest), it seems to have picked up various texts. One may suspect that, like some fiddle tunes, it had a mnemonic verse or two. All the texts seem to have a lyric similar to:
Oh, gin I were whaur the Gadie rins,
The Gadie rins, the Gadie rins,
Oh, gin I were whaur the Gadie rins
At the back o Bennachie
or
But there's meal and there's ale whaur the Gadie rins,
The Gadie rins, the Gadie rins,
But there's meal and there's ale whaur the Gadie rins
At the back o Bennachie. - RBW

I was tempted to use "The Back o' Bennachie" as the title for the main entry; however, there seem to be several songs under that name (including versions of "Locks and Bolts") whose plots are quite different from this one, and from each other. So I stuck with Maggie McPhee's title. - PJS

Where the Grass Grows Green

DESCRIPTION: "I'm Denny Blake, from County Clare" to sing in praise of Erin. The Irishman is painted poor but "his heart and hospitality Has much to do with that." He's foolish but not vicious and has a weakness for drink. Wish for "better days to Erin"

AUTHOR: Harry Clifton (1824-1872)

EARLIEST DATE: before 1867 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(4145))

KEYWORDS: Ireland nonballad patriotic poverty

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 144, "Where the Grass Grows Green" (1 text)
- Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 106, "Where the Grass Grows Green" (1 text)
- Finger-FrontierBallads, p. 10, "(no title)" (1 excerpt)
- Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, pp. 207-208, "Where the Grass Grows Green" (1 text)

Roud #8213

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Harding B 11(4145), "Where the Grass Grows Green", Hopwood and Crew (London), 1840-1866; also Firth b.25(186), Harding B 26(674), "Where the Grass Grows Green"; 2806 c.8(246), 2806 c.8(308), "The Grass Grows Green"

LOC Singing, as105770, "I Can't Forget Old Erin Where the Grass Grows Green", unknown, 19C

NOTES [68 words]: Broadside Bodleian Harding B 11(4145) notes "written and sung by Harry Clifton, Words and Music published by Hopwood & Crew 42, New Broad Street, London"

For information about Harry Clifton, early music hall singer and song writer, see Mudcat Cafe and Frederick Denny's World of the Music Hall sites entries for Harry Clifton - BS

See also the notes to "The Good Ship Kangaroo" for information on Clifton. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: OCon144

Where the Moorcocks Grow (The Mountain Stream; With My Dog and Gun)

DESCRIPTION: The singer sets out "with my dog and gun o'er the blooming heather." He meets a girl, and begs her to marry him, offering to give up roving if she does. She decides to wait "another season," both to test his love and to gain her parent's consent

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1924 (Sam Henry collection)

KEYWORDS: rambling courting love marriage

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber)) Ireland

REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 136, "The Mountain Stream" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H32, pp. 269-270, "Where the Moorcocks Grow" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Tunney-StoneFiddle, pp. 20-21, "The Mountain Streams Where the Moorcocks Crow" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Tunney-WhereSongsDoThunder, p. 181, "The Mountain Streams" (1 text)
- OBoyle-TheIrishSongTradition 18, "The Mountain Streams" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, DOGNGUN
- Roud #2124

RECORDINGS:
- Eddie Butcher, "The Mountain Streams Where the Moorcock Crows" (on IREButcher01)
Where the Old Allegheny and Monongahela Flow

DESCRIPTION: "I want to go back once more To those hills I roamed before... Where those mighty rivers flow." "I live in that city that is built among the hills, Where smoke is always pouring from the big rolling mills... Where the old Allegheny and Monongahela flow."

AUTHOR: unknown (one verse perhaps by J. J. Manners)

EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends); supposedly in circulation by 1910

KEYWORDS: river return technology

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 434-435, "Where the Old Allegheny and Monongahela Flow" (1 short text, 1 tune)

Roud #7750

File: KPL434

Where the River Shannon Flows

DESCRIPTION: "There's a pretty spot in Ireland, I always claim for my land, Where the fairies and the blarney Will never, never die." The singer recalls the land and the girl by the Shannon. He will not send a letter; he will sail home himself with news of his return

AUTHOR: James I. Russell

EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (from Russell's production "The Irish Serving Girls"; sheet music by M. Witmark & Sons published 1905)

KEYWORDS: love home reunion Ireland

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 112-113, "Where the River Shannon Flows" (1 text)
DT, RSHANNON

ADDITIONAL: Robert A. Fremont, editor, _Favorite Songs of the Nineties_, Dover Publications, 1973, pp. 355-358, "Where the River Shannon Flows" (1 text, 1 tune, the 1905 sheet music)

Roud #9579

SAME TUNE:

NOTES [21 words]: Another of Dean-FlyingCloud's pop songs; the Digital Tradition says that it was recorded by none other than Bing Crosby! - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2

File: Dean112
Where the Soul Never Dies (Canaan's Land)

DESCRIPTION: "Kind friends there'll be no sad farewell There'll be no tear-dimmed eyes Where all is peace and joy and love And the soul of man never dies." Singer is bound to Canaan's land. A love-light guides his way; a rose blooms there, etc.

AUTHOR: William M. Golden

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (songbook, publ. by R. E. Winsett, Dayton, TN)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer says s/he is on the way to Canaan's land, where the soul never dies. A love-light guides his way; a rose blooms there for him/her, and there s/he will spend eternity. His/her life will end in deathless sleep, and s/he'll reap eternal joys. Ch.: "Kind friends there'll be no sad farewell/There'll be no tear-dimmed eyes/Where all is peace and joy and love/And the soul of man never dies"

KEYWORDS: farewell death dying nonballad religious

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
DT, CNAANLND
Roud #5722

RECORDINGS:
Anglin Bros., "Where the Soul of Man Never Dies" (Vocalion 04692/Conqueror 9243, 1939, rec. 1938)
Blue Ridge Sacred Singers, "Where the Soul Never Dies" (Gennett 6916/Champion 15793/Supertone 9501, 1929)
Blue Sky Boys, "Where The Soul Never Dies" (Bluebird B-6457/Montgomery Ward M-5029, 1936)
Burchfield Brothers, "Where the Soul Never Dies" (Capitol 40011, 1947)
Jim & Sarah Garland, "Canaan Land Where The Soul of Man Never Dies" (AFS 2022 B, 1938)
Jack & Leslie "Where The Soul of Man Never Dies" (Decca 5589, 1938)
Oak Ridge Sacred Singers, "Where The Soul Never Dies" (Supertone 9501, 1929)
Renfro Family, "Where The Soul Never Dies" (Kentucky 600, n.d.)
Rev. M. L. Thrasher & his Gospel Singers, "Where The Soul Never Dies" (Columbia 15271-D, 1928)

NOTES [93 words]: The song is typically sung in parts, with one part singing a simplified chorus under the main words: "No sad....farewells/No tear.....dimmed eyes/Where all.....is love/And the soul.....never dies." In that form it's become popular in bluegrass, folk-revival and C & W circles (following Hank Williams' recording). - PJS

According to Morgan, author Golden called this "To Canaan's Land I'm on My Way," but it was Hank Williams who recorded it as "Where the Soul of Man Never Dies," and the recording was popular enough that that became the common title. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.6

File: DTcnaanl

Where the Sun Don't Never Go Down

DESCRIPTION: "I want to see my mother sometime (x2), where the flowers will bloom forever, and the sun don't never go down... Don't you feel like shouting sometimes, sometimes?" Repeat with father, brother, sister, Savior

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (recording, Dock Reed)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad family

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 88, "Where the Sun Don't Never Go Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Courlander-NegroFolkMusic, p. 72, "(The Sun Will Never Go Down)" (1 text); p. 238, "The Sun Will Never Go Down" (1 tune, partial text)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, pp. 96-97, "Where the Sun Will Never Go Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Killion/Waller-ATreasuryOfGeorgiaFolklore, pp. 242-243, "Where De Sun Don't Neber Go Down" (1 text, with no mention of family members; it's about how hard the singer works, prays, mourns so hard)
Where the Wattles Are Blooming (Holiday Song)

DESCRIPTION: "Sunshine is over the meadow, Sunshine is over the hill..." "Come with me, merry and free, Gay as a bird on the spray, Grief and care, come if you dare, We will be happy today." "Come where the wattles are blooming, Down in the flowery glade"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1987

KEYWORDS: lyric nonballad

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (1 citation):

-Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, pp. 182-183, "Where the Wattles are Blooming"; "Holiday Song" (2 texts, 1 tune)

NOTES [86 words]: Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2 compares this to the William Blake poem "The Echoing Green."

Gwenda Beed Davey and Graham Seal, A Guide to Australian Folklore, Kangaroo Press, 2003, p. 266, say of the Wattle "Folk name of the native [Australian] plant species Acacia. Wattle is a popular Australian icon, and is also favoured in folksong and popular verse for romantic and sentimental death scenes. Possibly due to this association, some people believe it is unluck to have wattle in the house." - RBW

_Last updated in version 4.1_

File: MCB182

Where Was Peter

DESCRIPTION: "Where was Peter when the church fell down In some lonesome valley with his head hung down," "Jesus locked the lion's jaw"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeasIslands)

KEYWORDS: Bible nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

-Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeasIslands 8, pp. 64-66, "Where Was Peter" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [50 words]: The current description is based on the Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeasIslands text. Daniel 6:22 has Daniel say, "My God hath sent his angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me" (King James). I have seen the "angel" identified with Jesus so that may be the connection here. - BS

_Last updated in version 4.1_

File: Parr008

Where Was You Last Night?

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, where was you last night (x3), Under them bilers sleeping." "I wend in the valley, Lord, I didn't go to stay, Under them bilers sleepin, My soul got happy... Under them boilers..." "The head mate hollered and the captain squalled..."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (Wheeler)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad floatingverses

FOUND IN: US
Where's Your License?

DESCRIPTION: "The inspector of traps said, 'Now, my fine chaps, We'll go license-hunting today.'"

The inspectors set out to find illegal traps and diggers. But they find few traps, and the illegal diggers all make their escape

AUTHOR: Charles R. Thatcher (1831-1878)

EARLIEST DATE: 1854

KEYWORDS: hunting escape technology law

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (10 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 102-103, "Where's Your License?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Anderson-StoryOfAustralianFolksong, pp. 75-77, "Where's Your License" (1 text, 1 tune)
Anderson-GoldrushSongster, pp. 36-37, "Where's Your Licence?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, pp. 14-15, ""Where's Your Licence?" (1 text, tune referenced)
Anderson-FarewellToOldEngland, pp. 196-197, "Where's Your Licence?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hoskins-GoldfieldBalladeer-LifeAndTimes-Charles-R-Thatcher, pp. 142-143, "Where's Your License?" (1 text)
Hoskins/Thatcher-LifeOnTheGoldfields, pp. 49-50, "(no title)" (1 text); p. 151, "License Hunting" (1 tune, partial text)
Anderson/Thatcher-LifeOnTheGoldfields, pp. 23-24, "Where's Your License?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ward-PenguinBookOfAustralianBallads, pp. 63-64, "Licence-hunting" (1 text)

Roud #27775

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Gay Cavalier" (tune)

NOTES [2633 words]: According to Wannan, this is a sort of Australian Music Hall song: "From ""Where's Your Licence?" a celebrated parody on "The Gay Cavalier." and sung by Mr. Thatcher, on the Gold Fields, with great applause."

Davey/Seal, p.247, give this micro-biography of Charles Thatcher: "Popularly known as 'The Goldfields Minstrel' and 'The Colonial Minstrel,' Charles Thatcher (1831-1878) migrated from England in 1853. He was well known on both the Australian and New Zealand goldfields, specializing in humorous parodies of popular songs, his new lyrics reflecting the lifestyles and attitudes of the gold diggers."

Clark, p. 151, says, "During the years 1858 to 1861 a colonial minstrel, Charles Thatcher, wandered from town to town in the colony of Victoria singing to audiences who clapped, catcalled, whistled, and cheered him to the echo as he boasted of the power of the people to:
"Upset squatterdom's domination,
Give every poor man a home."

Clark argues that Thatcher's lyrics were emblematic of the changes in the land laws in the period 1861-1883 that gave an economic opening to "the Bourgeoisie."

Ell, p. 122, gives an entry (under the letter "l"!) titled "The Inimitable Thatcher or the Goldfields Balladeer": "Charles Thatcher was a famous entertainer on the goldfields both of New Zealand and Australia. His forte was popular songs, many of which reflected on the lives of miners and their attitudes.... Some said he was vulgar, but the audiences loved him. Thatcher wrote his own ballads, often on events of the day, and frequently targeting politicians and officials. He is thus credited with originating the expression 'old identity' in a song [in the index as "The Old Identity"] about Otago provincial elections."

Hoskins says that his father, also Charles Robert, had an import/export business in Brighton; Charles Jr. was one of nine children. At the age of sixteen, Charles left home, "equipped only with his flute and an idea to seek work amongst London theatre orchestras" (Hoskins, p. 2). He must have had some talent, because he managed to get jobs in the theatres (Hoskins, pp. 3-4), although it sounds as if the financial arrangements were irregular at best. But it gained him exposure to some of the popular performers of the time and their sort of music.

In 1853, he decided that that wasn't a good enough life (Anderson-GoldrushSongster, p. 7); as he recorded, "Left Plymouth one day in July, And soon was on the ocean," heading for the gold-fields of Australia (Bendigo had had a gold rush starting in 1851; Anderson-GoldrushSongster, p. 28). "But deuce a nugget I could find... A deluded green new chum" (Hoskins, pp. 7-8).

Apparently Thatcher had gone to the goldfields with a group of honest men, and they actually made enough to cover their expenses, but he didn't like all the dirt and the tasks of maintaining the claim (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 9). And he chanced to meet one of his old musical acquaintances from London, who was now running an entertainment tent (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, pp. 9-10). So he went back to being a musician in the theatres of Bendigo, initially mostly as an instrumentalist, but also singing a few of his own songs. The latter were so successful that he soon started touring.

To make it easier for others to sing his songs, he usually set them to popular melodies, making it possible to sell them as broadsides. A lawyer by the name of McDonogh had some of them printed (Anderson-GoldrushSongster, p. 8). By 1855, his songs had become widely known, and he was engaged as the chief attraction at the new "Shamrock Concert Hall" (Hoskins, p. 9). The theatre owners hired other performers as well, and one of them, a widow named Annie Vitelli, a soprano, became Thatcher's wife (Hoskins, pp. 10-11).

Vitelli (maiden name: Day) was the wife of a former choir master from Windsor in England, who expected to find gold in the streets of Australia but instead was reduced to teaching singing (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 108). He and his wife apparently were separated; she came to Bendigo to make a living, and it sounds as if she and Thatcher became friendly very quickly; Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 107, says that Thatcher introduced her to the stage on her first arrival in Bendigo. Apparently they were performing together within days. Hoskins, p. 28, says that she sang sentimental ballads during their tours to balance off his topical songs. When her husband lay dying, he went with her to the deathbed (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 109) -- which of course opened the door for them to marry. The ceremony took place on February 8, 1861 in Newtown, Geelong (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 115). Their first child would be born in New Zealand in 1862 (Hoskins, p. 133).

The fact that Thatcher had become a popular performer doesn't mean that he was entirely out of the gold-hunting business; he and a friend found a nugget on a vacation trip, and this apparently led to a small rush to Bryant's Ranges (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, pp. 38-39), now Maldon, which resulted in at least two Thatcher songs, "Bryant's Ranges O" (in the Index) and "Bryant's Ranges" (not indexed, but see under "Bow Wow Wow"). And he wasn't just a lowbrow; in addition to borrowing popular tunes, he would sometimes riff on mid- and highbrow works such as Gray's famous "Elegy," Byron, Dickens, Thomas Moore, and Shakespeare (Hoskins/Thatcher-LifeOnTheGoldfields, pp. 10-12).

Apparently Thatcher's shows had something of a dramatic air about them; he would sometimes appear in costume, as when he sang a piece "The Fire Brigade Dinner" (about the local brigade's foibles) in a fireman's costume (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, pp. 94-95). His ordinary costume seems to have been a fancy suit (Hoskins/Thatcher-LifeOnTheGoldfields, p. 8, says he dressed in black, and p. 3 has a very poor sketch which appears to show him singing in a multi-piece suit with tails).

At least once, one of Thatcher's songs was so topical that the theatre owner physically attacked him -- but Thatcher, who was quick with his fists, beat him off (Hoskins, p. 12; he also ended up facing occasional court proceedings, but the libel charges generally didn't stick). On another occasion, he was attacked by an actor with a whip (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 70), and also got into a conflict with a policeman, Captain Robertson, resulting in his imprisonment (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 71, 74). And Thatcher seems to have been restless. When the Australian gold fever died down and there was a strike in Otago, New Zealand in 1861, Thatcher was ready to move again; in 1862, he headed for Otago (Hoskins, p. 13). He went on to several more stops in New Zealand, including Wellington and finally Auckland; the appearances were generally successful except that he sometimes had trouble finding a pianist (Hoskins, p. 38).

He and his wife briefly settled down in Queenstown, opening a public house but still performing in other places (Hoskins, p. 66). But a dreadfully cold, wet winter in 1863 caused him to sell out and leave (Hoskins, pp. 75-76), setting out on an even bigger, longer tour that lasted until 1865 (Hoskins, p. 78). Toward the end, he suffered a shipwreck (Hoskins, p. 89). It's perhaps little wonder he was getting a bit tired of New Zealand.... At least he was able to settle down long enough for his wife to bear their second daughter in New Zealand in 1864 (Anderson-
I have yet to see a photo of Thatcher (it sounds as if there are none), but Hoskins, p. 73, says that he was "a big man, good looking, always smiling, and quick in wit, temper, and ideas"; he reproduces a woodcut of Thatcher facing p. 36. Anderson-ColonialMinstrel has the same drawing as a frontispiece, and says it comes from the cover of a songbook. Anderson-GoldrushSongster has a different but clearly related woodcut on p. 6 and on p. 7 says Thatcher "has been described as a physically big man, good-looking in a slightly effeminate way. The one drawing of the songster that we know of shows him with long hair and a rather drooping mustache. Although born in Bristol (1831), Thatcher always referred to Brighton as his home. It was to Brighton that his parents moved to begin a 'Foreign Warehouse' in King's Road.... [A]s far as we know, [he] did not return to Brighton until some time after 1870.

Once he arrived back, he built an import/export business, and began visiting other countries to buy merchandise. He seems to have been restless -- he even visited China and Japan, and in a letter to his fans printed in the Wellington Independent, reported that he had even learned Chinese and Japanese (Hoskins, p. 135). His last trip was to China; he arrived during a cholera outbreak, and died there (although it's not clear that he died of cholera) in November 1878 (Hoskins, p. 137). Fortunately, he had built up enough of a fortune to allow his widow and children a decent living.

In addition to flute, he was able to play the harmonium; strongly attracted to evangelical preaching, he at times played harmonium for services and revival meetings (Hoskins, p. 98). At least once, he played his flute with a sort of chamber ensemble -- piano, violin, cornet, and flute (Hoskins, p. 104). And he was handy with firearms, winning at least one sport shooting trophy (Hoskins, p. 101).

Hoskins/Thatcher-LifeOnTheGoldfields, p. 1, declares that "Thatcher was a reformer, but always impatient with the realities of politics. His topical song champion working people with cutting attacks on official incompetence."

Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, pp. 151-153, lists no fewer than twelve Thatcher songsters, some of them published in multiple editions but most of them now extremely rare; Anderson was unable to locate any copies at all of the Wakatipu Songster, and the only copy of the Auckland Vocalist he located is damaged. It appears, based on the bibliography in Hoskins, that Anderson may have missed some New Zealand editions, but there is no question but that Thatcher's output was high and its survival low. The one modern publication, which I have indexed as "Thatcher," contains reprints of only a third of the total, having only the "Colonial Minstrel" (1859), the "Colonial Songster [#1]" (1857?), the "Colonial Songster [#2]" (1865?), and the "Victoria Songster" (not listed by Anderson). He also published a number of broadsides. Clearly there is more work to be done on his bibliography.

Ward-PenguinBookOfAustralianBallads, pp. 58-59, says that this particular song refers to a riot which took place on December 3, 1854, when soldiers assisted policemen in violently controlling a protest by gold diggers. "Thatcher's License-Hunting describes the provocative police practices which did a good deal to cause the revolt. Captain Bumble's Letter [also by Thatcher] jeers satirically at the victorious, but unpopular, soldiers." It's not hard to understand why the miners were upset; as early as November 1851, two months after the discovery of gold at Bendigo, the government had declared that it owned the gold, and made prospectors pay for a license -- at first, thirty shillings a month, raised to three pounds in 1852. And the government hired informants to search for un-licensed prospectors -- and paid them out of the fines levied against those they caught. Even when licenses were lowered to one pound a month, that was more than many prospectors could spare, given the cost of living and the relatively small amount of gold available (Anderson-GoldrushSongster, p. 18). Those who were caught without a license and were unable to pay a fine were imprisoned for ten days (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 13). So licenses were a very hot topic.

The song refers to "The little word 'Joe.'" According to Anderson-GoldrushSongster, p. 20, "Joe" was a code word meaning that someone had showed up to check licenses. Similarly Morris, p. 222: "Joe, Joe-Joe, Jokey, interjection, then a verb, now obsolete." His first citation is from 1855, W. Howitt, "Two Years in Victoria," vol. i. p. 400: "The well-known cry of 'Joe! Joe!' -- a cry which means one of the myrmidons of Charley Joe, as they familiarly style Mr. [Charles Joseph] La Trobe [the Lt.-Governor of Victoria 1851-1854; Learmonth, p. 304], -- a cry which on all the diggings resounds on all sides on the appearance of any of the hated officials."

Thatcher himself described the license enforcement process in his "Life on the Goldfields" presentation (Hoskins/Thatcher-LifeOnTheGoldfields, p. 47): "In the early days no one was permitted to dig except on payment of a license fee.... [T]he Commissioner... was usually a swell with fierce mustachios who for the moderate stipend of £800 or £1000 a year idled away his time on the gold fields. He was also entitled to sit on the bench and settle all mining disputes. He usually carried an eye glass[,] was fond of the bottle and not insensible to the charms of the female sex. The high living and monotony of Camp life produced ennui.... and to stimulate the system the sport of license hunting was instituted. So the diggers were hunted instead and the foot police acted as hounds....

"[It] was a hard matter to run the game down. The diggers knowing the penalty of £5 or imprisonment would be inflicted if they were captured were slightly interested in eluding the live traps.... A rigid watch in every flat and gully was kept and on the appearance of the police a warning cry of Joe resounded far and wide and work was suspended instantly -- Then like rabbits when pursued thy popped into some friendly hole to lie there until the storm below over." [The police rarely went down in the dirty holes, because often they would get dirty and find that the person in the hole had a licence.] Another reason against going down a hole was a fear of a trial of strength between their heads and a pick and although many of the police were possessed of good substantial skulls they declined.

Thatcher would then sing this song.
According to Hoskins, p. 13, this is one of two Thatcher songs that have unquestionably survived in oral tradition, "Look Out Below" being the other. The (I hope) full list of Thatcher songs in the Index, with tunes where I know them, is as follows:
The Bazaar
Bryant's Ranges O
Buying Land
Castlemaine
The Chinaman (II) [tune: The Englishman]
Colonial Courtship [tune: Drops of Brandy]
Coming Down the Flat [tune: Coming Through the Rye]
The Escaped Prisoners [tune: Darling Nelly Gray]
The Fine Fat Saucy Chinaman [tune: Old English Gentleman]
The Flash Colonial Barman
Gold's a Wonderful Thing (Thatcher's title: Olden Days of Lake Wakitipu)
The Green New Chum
The Jolly Puddlers [tune: Jolly Waggoner]
The Lady and the Bullock Driver [tune: Drops of Brandy]
Laying Information [tune: Standard Bearer]
Look Out Below [tune: Smuggler King]
New Chums at the Diggings (probably only partially by Thatcher)
The Old Identity [tune: Duck Leg Dick]
Poll the Grog seller [tune: Philip the Falconer]
Presented at Court
The Rowdy Mob [tune: Green Grow the Rushes]
The Rush to Coromandel
Shepherd ing [tune: Days we went Gipsying]
The Shipping Agents [tune: Oh! Susanna]
The Song of the Trap [multiple tunes: I'm Afloat, Rosin the Beau, Norah Creina]
The Southland Gold Escort
The Surrender of the Natives [tune: Courting in the Kitchen]
The Unsuccessful Swell
The Voyage to Australia
The Wakamarina [tune: The Twig of Shannon]
Weston and His Clerk

Bibliography

- Davey/Seal: Gwenda Beed Davey and Graham Seal, A Guide to Australian Folklore, Kangaroo Press, 2003
- Ell: Gordon Ell, Kiwiosities: An A-Z of New Zealand traditions & Folklore, New Holland Which Side Are You On?

DESCRIPTION: The Union comes to town to protect the miners from boss J.H. Blair. The workers are told "In Harlan County, there are no neutrals there," and asked, "Which side are you on (x4)." They are reminded "Us poor folks haven't got a chance unless we organize."

AUTHOR: Words: Florence Reece (1900-1986) / Music: Traditional

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (recording, Almanac Singers) (reportedly composed 1931)

KEYWORDS: mining labor-movement nonballad boss

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 342-343, "Which Side Are You On?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 94, "Which Side Are You On?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, pp. 170-171, "Which Side Are You On?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsAREgionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 263-264, "Which Side Are You On?" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 134, "Which Side Are You On?" (1 text)

DT, WHCHSIDE*

Roud #15159

RECORDINGS:
Almanac Singers, "Which Side Are You On?" (on Almanac04, PeteSeeger1, PeteSeeger48) (on Selma)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I Am a Union Woman" (tune)

SAME TUNE:
I Am a Union Woman (by Aunt Molly Jackson) (File: Arn174)

NOTES [330 words]: The radical National Miners' Union (N.M.U.) attempted to organize miners in the 1930s, but were defeated by the mine owners after bitter and bloody conflicts. The United Mine Workers of America (U.M.W.), part of the Congress of Industrial Organizations (C.I.O.) succeeded a few years later, again after terrible struggle. - PJS

Robert E. Weir and James P. Hanlan, editors, Historical Encyclopedia of American Labor, 2 volumes, Greenwood Press, 2004, pp. 421-422, offers a brief biography of author Florence Reece. She was born in Sharps Chapel, Tennessee, on April 12, 1900. Her father was a coal miner (who loaded a ton and a half of coal for thirty cents), and she grew up in a coal camp at Fort Ridge, Tennessee. Her father was killed in a slate fall when she was fourteen. At fifteen, she married Sam Reece, who had been mining since he was eleven. They moved to Kentucky because her mother opposed the marriage. They had ten children, many of whom also became miners. They lived in Harlan, Kentucky at the time of the U.M.W. unionization attempt. Apparently the owners really did have agents looking for people who wanted to join the Union. Sam Reece was one of the U.M.W. organizers. J. H. Blair was the Harlan County sheriff, and his troops beat and murdered Union leaders at the so-called "Battle of Evarts." One night, Blair and deputies broke into the Reece home looking for Sam; fortunately, he wasn't there, and though they waited for him, Florence was able to get word out that he should not come home.

A few days later, she wrote the words for this on "an old wall calendar"; she gave the tune as "Lay the Lily Low," which was described as an old Baptist hymn. It was made famous by the Almanac Singers.

Florence and Sam Reece remained activists all their lives, and lived together for 64 years. He died in 1978 of black lung disease; she died of a heart attack in Knoxville on August 3, 1986. Some of her works are collected in a book, Against the Current. - RBW

Which Way Did My Baby Go?

DESCRIPTION: "Which way did my baby go? Did she stop by here Or did she keep on down the road?" "I'm going to find her... somewhere... some old lonesome day." "Why ... treat me this way?"

AUTHOR: Moses Williams

EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (USFlorida01)

KEYWORDS: grief love separation travel floatingverses nonballad lover

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:

Moses Williams, "Which Way Did My Baby Go?" (on USFlorida01)

NOTES [55 words]: Floating lines include "That's all right mama, that's all right for you... Just any way you do" (see Arthur "Big Boy" Crudup, "That's All Right" (Victor 20-2205, 1947)) and "The sun will shine in my back door some day" (see indexed "Sun Gonna Shine in My Door Some Day"; also Ma Rainey, "Runaway Blues" (Paramount 12902, 1928)). - BS

Whigs Are A'Rinnin', The

DESCRIPTION: "Saw ye Holyrood? Saw ye him there? Saw ye him there? Saw ye him sittin' In his muckle chair? For the Whigs are a' rinnin' Rin, rin, rinnin', For the Whigs are a' rinnin' Fast awa' hame"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan1)

KEYWORDS: nonballad political Jacobites

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

*Greig/Duncan1 137, "The Whigs Are A'Rinnin'" (1 fragment)

Roud #5818

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "We're a' Noddin'" [i. e. presumably "We're All Nodding"] (tune according to Greig/Duncan1)

NOTES [102 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan1 fragment. Greig/Duncan1: "Holyrood is the royal palace in Edinburgh." - BS

While Gamekeepers Were Sleeping

DESCRIPTION: Singer has a dog. "She'd run a hare of a moonlit night, While gamekeepers were sleeping." A policeman catches him poaching but he gets off with a trick. The policeman retires. Poacher gives him broth for his sick wife and a pup. Now he is also a poacher.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1977 (recording, Bob Roberts)

KEYWORDS: poaching hunting healing trick dog animal police wife

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):

DT, GAMESLEP

Roud #363

RECORDINGS:

Bob Roberts, "While Gamekeepers Were Sleeping" (on Voice18)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Gamekeepers Lie Sleeping" (lyrics)

NOTES [65 words]: The first verse is "Dogs and Ferrets" [indexed as "Gamekeepers Lie Sleeping" - RBW] but the plot is entirely different. - BS

Many versions share more than the first verse; many scholars lump them, and I did so also until Ben pointed out the differences. But that song is entirely about poaching and success in that venture. The characteristic of this is the subversion of the gamekeeper. - RBW

File: TcWGaLS1

While Hanging Around Town

DESCRIPTION: The singer (a G.I.) gives a woman ten dollars for sex, then nine days later suffers the wages of sin.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947

KEYWORDS: bawdy disease soldier whore

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SW)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 194-195, "While Hanging Around Town" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, HANGARND

Roud #27848

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Fire Ship" (plot) and references there

cf. "The Strawberry Roan" (tune & meter)

File: EM194

While I Was Still of Tender Years

DESCRIPTION: "When I was still of tender years, Satan did entice me, He said that I might live till I got old And serve God at my leisure. At length the spirit came one day, It strove with mighty power, It caused me to weep and moan And tremble every hour."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Western Harmony)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad Devil

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

High-OldOldFolkSongs, p. 43, "When I Was Young" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Wicked Polly" [Laws H6] (theme) and references there

NOTES [48 words]: The only traditional collection of this song I know is High's. It is clearly a composed hymn, since I managed to find a copy in the 1867 "Western Harmony," but that book lists no composer -- not even a title. It is #104 in the collection. hymnary.org lists no other versions of the song. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.3

File: High043A

While I'm at the Wheel

DESCRIPTION: Poem, apparently based on Harlow's experiences aboard the Akbar when she encountered 30 days of heavy weather while carrying coal from Australia. Written as if addressing the ship, each verse begins "Ship of the seas..." and ends with "I'm at the wheel."

AUTHOR: Frederick Pease Harlow

EARLIEST DATE: 1946 ( _American Neptune_, v.1)

KEYWORDS: nonballad sailor ship storm
While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks

DESCRIPTION: "While shepherds watched their flocks by night, All seated on the ground, The angel of the Lord came down" to announce the birth of Jesus. They are directed to find the child in the manger in Bethlehem

AUTHOR: Words: Nahum Tate (1652-1715)
EARLIEST DATE: 1702 (Tate and Brady)
KEYWORDS: Bible Jesus religious FOUND IN: Britain(England) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Dearmer/VaughnWilliams/Shaw-OxfordBookOfCarols 33, "While Shepherds Watched" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 611, "Mary Bowed" (1 short text, with a verse "I wonder where Sister Mary's gone... She's gone to some new buryin' ground For to lay her feeble body down" and a second verse from "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks")
Cox-FolkMusicInANewfoundlandOutport, pp. 101-102, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks" (1 text, 1 tune); pp. 195-196 (1 tune)
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #210, "While Shepherds Watched" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), p. 322, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night" (1 text)
Donagh MacDonagh and Lennox Robinson, _The Oxford Book of Irish Verse_ (Oxford, 1958, 1979), pp. 1-2, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night" (1 text)
Ian Bradley, _The Penguin Book of Carols_ (1999), #99, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night" (1 text)
Roud #936
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 7(4), "While Shepherds Watch'd", J. Catnach (London), 1813-1838; also Harding B 7(38), Harding B 7(17), Harding B 7(35), "While Shepherds Watched"; Harding B 45(3) View 3 of 3, "While Shepherds Watch'd Their Flocks by Night"; Harding B 7(37), "Watched Their Flocks"; Douce adds. 137(51), "Christmas Hymn" ("While shepherds watch'd their flocks by night"); Douce adds. 137(45), "While Shepherds"; Firth b.26(538), [None] ("While shepherds watch'd their flocks by night"); Harding B 7(79), "While Shepherds Watch"
LOCSheet, sm1843 390300, "While Shepherds Watch'd Their Flocks by Night", A. Fiot (Philadelphia), 1843; also sm1880 18274, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night!"; sm1879 16295, sm1883 22668, "While Shepherds Watched" (tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "On Ilkla Moor Bah T'at" (tune "Cranbrook")
SAME TUNE:
While Shepherds Washed Their Socks (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, pp. 38, 158)
NOTES [942 words]: An unusual nativity hymn, in that every word of it comes from Luke, without reference to the conflicting account in Matthew. The song is essentially a paraphrase of Luke 2:8-14. It successfully nuances its way around a major variant in the text in 2:14 (the original text, as found in the five earliest copies of Luke, reads "and on earth peace among those whom [God] favors; almost all later copies read "and on earth peace, goodwill among men/people" -- a difference of just one letter in the Greek, versus the late reading ; the avoidance of the issue is probably luck, as the inaccuracy of the Received Text and the King James Bible in this passage would not have been recognized in the seventeenth century.
Reynolds, p. 246, says, "In the early eighteenth century, besides the canticles and psalms, only six hymns, of which this was one, were permitted to be used in the Church of England." According to Julian, p. 919, Tate and Brady's "New Version" of the psalter (which included some material not from the psalms) was published in 1696 (with a partial sample having been offered in 1695) and dedicated to King William III. A revised edition came out in 1698. A supplement came out in 1703. All of these had royal approval. This didn't force churches to use it, but it certainly gave the rendering a boost. For the most part it is not known what is by Tate and what is by Brady.
Julian characterizes the work as marked by "1. Psalms of an ornate character, with occasional vigour of rhythm, written mostly in L.M. and P.M. The best is 139th, 'Thou, Lord, by strictest search has known.' 2. A large quantity of very spiritless C.M., as poor in language as the literal versions. 3. A few examples of sweet and simple verse, such as the 34th, 'Through all the changing senes of life'; 42nd, 'As pants the hart'; 51st, 'Have mercy, Lord, on me'; and 84th, 'Oh, God of hosts, the mighty Lord....' The artificial style of that period is applied to the psalms.... And yet one condemned to tread the waste of metrical Psalters will consider it an advance on its predecessors." Julian also regards Tate and Brady as having established the principle (for all that they fell short of meeting it) that metrical psalters should be good poetry, even if this requires some change in meaning. According to Julian, p. 1275, this first appeared in the Supplement to the so-called New Version of the Psalms by Tate and Brady, "in 1702, in 6 stanzas of 4 lines, and in all later versions the same," Julian goes on to note a 1745 Scottish revision beginning "While humble Shepherds watched their flocks, In Bethleh'ms plains by night, An angel sent from Heav'n appear'd And filled the plains with light"; there were no other changes. There was also a revision "On Judah's plains as shepherds kept"; this is rare.

It is amusing to note no fewer than four translations of this piece into Latin, even though there are Latin versions of the original Latin texts.

I must admit to finding Hoagland's claim that this song is Irish rather funny. Yes, Nahum Tate was born in Dublin (NewCentury, p. 1055) -- but he spent his entire working career in England, and became Poet Laureate in 1692 (Benet, p. 1102). Apart from this song, he was most noteworthy for abusing Shakespeare, primarily by grafting happy endings onto the Tragedies. Kunitz/Haycraft, pp. 508-509, offer a capsule biography, noting that he was "dramatist, poet, poet laureate." Born in Dublin, the son of one Faithful Teate (the spelling Tait himself used until he went to England), he studied in Dublin and earned his B.A. in 1672.

Almost all of his plays were revisions; Kunitz/Haycraft credit him with only one or two original dramas. They declare that "his best poem is 'Panacea, a Poem on Tea' (1700), and that is none too good." Dryden did solicit his help on "Absalom and Achitophel," but the final form is Dryden's. Kunitz/Haycraft declare that the general level of Tate's and Nicolas Brady's New Version of the Psalms "very low, and it is unbearably dull, but the less intolerable portions in it are believed to be Tate's."

They also add that Tate was "not an engaging personality; he was taciturn, grumpy, and given to heavy drinking." Similarly, Julian, p. 920, records that "He was said to be a man of intemperate and improvident life." He was also an "active adherent" of William III, which no doubt helped his career. So little do Kunitz/Haycraft think of him that "There has been some question whether he was the worst or only nearly the worst of the poets laureate."

Brady and Tate's "New Version" of the Psalter did eventually become popular in the United States (Fisher, p. 8), but a large part of the reason is that its main competition was the rather stiff version found in the Bay Psalm Book. The bottom line is, this is his only piece to have survived with any popularity at all. It is perhaps unfair to blame him for being a poor poet (although he could have avoided afflicting the poetry on the world). But what does one say about a man who cuts the Fool out of King Lear and gives that play a happy ending? I'd have to say his place in Pope's Dunciad was deserved.

Various tunes have been used for this particular piece; one, "Cranbrook," is best known as the melody for "On Ilkla Moor Bah T'at." According to McKim, pp. 58-59, the two tunes used by Presbyterians are "Winchester Old, from Thomas Este's 1592 Whole Book of Psalms, and "Christmas," which is from Handel's 1728 opera "Siroe Re de Persia."

In the Sacred Harp, this is set to the tune "Sherburne," credited to Daniel Read; the Missouri Harmony also uses this tune, though without credit. - RBW

Bibliography

- Fisher: William Arms Fisher, One Hundred and Fifty Years of Music Publishing in the United States: 1783-1933, Oliver Ditson Company, 1933
- Julian: John Julian, editor, A Dictionary of Hymnology, 1892; second edition 1907 (I use the 1957 Dover edition in two volumes)
- Kunitz/Haycraft: Stanley J. Kunitz and Howard Haycraft, Editors, British Authors Before 1800: A Biographical Dictionary, H. W. Wilson, 1952 (I use the fourth printing of 1965)
While Shepherds Were Watching Their Flocks By the Night

DESCRIPTION: "While shepherds were watching" angels shouted "Cheer up, faithful shepherds, and be not afraid ... The saviour is born." "I went to behold him. I asked them his name. His name it was Jesus; from Bethlehem came"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (recording, George Dunn)

KEYWORDS: carol Christmas religious shepherd Jesus

FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))

Roud #16898

RECORDINGS:

George Dunn, "While Shepherds Were Watching Their Flocks By the Night" (on Voice16)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks" (subject)

NOTES [47 words]: Like "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks," this is clearly based on Luke 2:8-14. I can't help but suspect there is some sort of relationship between the two. A rewrite for a different sect? A retranslation of a version translated into Welsh or some such? To this I have no clue. - RBW

File: RcWSWWTF

While The Band Is Playing Dixie

DESCRIPTION: "It was on the day when soldiers wrote a line to those they love" that a "fair-haired boy" writes to his girl, "While the band is playing 'Dixie,' I'm humming 'Home Sweet Home'" as he thinks of her in Georgia. He is killed; the note is found in his pocket

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (recording, Russell and Louis Burton, according to Wolfe)

KEYWORDS: death soldier separation love

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 77, pp. 124-125, "While the Band is Playing Dixie" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11038

File: BoWo077

Whip and the Spurs, The

DESCRIPTION: "'One hundred pounds,' the master said, 'To you, my boy. I'll pay if you win this race for me in which you ride today.'" Horse and rider are eager for the task. In the race, the horse does fairly well; at last the rider spurs her, and she wins

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1968

KEYWORDS: horse racing

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 93-94, "The Whip and the Spurs" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: MA093A

Whip Jamboree (Whup Jamboree)

DESCRIPTION: Stanzas on the life of a sailor, characterized by the line "(whip/whup) jamboree."
The lash is likely to be prominently mentioned, as is the sailors' happiness upon seeing the girls (whores?) of home.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Sharp)
KEYWORDS: sailor ship hardtimes punishment home whore
FOUND IN: US(SE) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 230, "Whip Jamboree" (1 short text, linked to this song only by the chorus line)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 230, "Whip Jamboree" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Smith/Hatt/Fowke-SeaSongsBalladFromNineteenthCenturyNovaScotia, p. 13, "Arriving Back at Liverpool" (1 fragment)
Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips, pp. 106-108, "Johnny Get Your Oatcake Done (Jamboree)," "Early in the Morning" (2 texts, 1 tune - second text "Early in the Morning" has different words though a similar theme, Harlow says it was sung to the same tune but when bound for London)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 382-384, "Jamboree" (4 texts, 2 tunes) [AbEd, pp. 290-292]
Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys, IX, pp. 10-11, "Whip Jamboree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 111, "Whip Jamboree" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WHIPJAMB* WHIPJAM2*
Roud #488
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Jinny, Keep Yer Ringtail Warm
Jinny Git Yer Oatcake Done
Bristol Channel Jamboree
NOTES [44 words]: "Jinny" is alternately spelled "Jenny" in the choruses. The versions that Hugill give have a bit more coherent storyline (just a bit) involving coming home (or at least to port), meeting up with Jinny and briefly deciding to stay, then taking off to sea again. - SL

Whip-poor-will

DESCRIPTION: "Whip-poor-will (x4), I know what I say but I can't be still. Whip-poor-will and you came to the woods one day and stole my nestlings away. Don't I know, can't I see, can't I feel...." "Look, look, there's a fly, I swallowed him down."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle)
KEYWORDS: bird bug food
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, p. 115, "Whip-poor-will" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #7445
NOTES [25 words]: Roud lumps this with Randolph's "Whippoorwill," which is also based on the Whip-poor-will's call, but the plot seems different, so I split them. - RBW

Whippoorwill

DESCRIPTION: "In the starry night so soft, Listen to the whippoorwill, Forest shades repeat his song... Sadness fills and thrills his lay, Singing all the summer away... Whippoorwill, sad whippoorwill." A description of the sad times evoked by the bird's sad call

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942
KEYWORDS: bird nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Whirly Whorl, The

DESCRIPTION: Bridesmaid describes a bride's problems with an elderly groom. The bride modestly turns her back, then her front, but he gives no comfort. She berates her mother for marrying her to an old fool, and vows to find a young man "to play at the whirly whorl!"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Buchan)

KEYWORDS: age disability marriage sex wedding bawdy

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

Roud #12573

RECORDINGS:

Anne Briggs, "The Whirly Whorl" (on BirdBush1, BirdBush2, Briggs3)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Maids When You're Young Never Wed an Old Man" (theme) and references there

File: RcTWW

Whiskey Is My Name (Donald Blue)

DESCRIPTION: A smith has a drinking wife, often found drunk in the street. One day, as his wife is asleep, he is called out to rescue her. He finds a drunken woman who looks so like his wife he cannot tell them apart. His wife quits drinking as a result

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Ford)

KEYWORDS: drink husband wife

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland) Ireland

REFERENCES (5 citations):

Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 47-49, "Donald Blue" (1 text)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #77, p. 2, "Donal' Blue" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 581, "Donald Blue" (10 texts, 10 tunes)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H835a, p. 512, "Whiskey Is My Name";
H835b, pp. 512-513, "Whiskey Is My Name/The Blacksmith" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 52-53, "My Name is Donald Blue" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST HHH835 (Full)

Roud #3799

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, 2806 c.14(117), "Donald Blue" ("My names Donald Blue, you ken me fu' we'll"), unknown, no date
Murray, Mu23-y3:014, "Donald Blue," unknown, 19C
NLScotland, RB.m.168(145), "Donald Blue," unknown, c. 1870

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Wee Wifikie"

cf. "Peggy in the Mornin'" (tune, per Greig/Duncan3)

ALTERNATE TITLES:

The Smith's Drunken Wife

NOTES [179 words]: What does "Donald Blue" have to do with this song? The singer is Donald Blue, who makes it clear that he is whiskey but that drunken mothers vex him. He says, "I'll tell you a trick I played" on the smith's wife who "liked me so well she put so muckle in her mouth, She was often carried home in the morning." He then goes on to spin the tale summarized above. - BS Greig: "Like other lays with an 'in the mornin'" owreword, it sings to a variant of 'Johnnie Cope.'" - BS Ford too lists this as being sung to "Johnnie Cope," but his text will not fit that tune without drastic violence, and Ord-BothySongsAndBallads uses another tune. John Baynes with John Laffin, Soldiers of Scotland, Brassey's, 1988 (I use the 1997 Barnes & Noble edition), p.105, lists "Donald Blue" as a lights-out tune for several Scottish regiments, including the famous Black Watch; it's not clear which melody is meant. For another song about Donald Blue, see "Did You Never Hear of Donald Blue?" - RBW Broadsides Murray , NLScotland RB.m.168(145) and Bodleian 2806 c.14(117) are triplicates. - BS Last updated in version 2.5

File: HHH835

Whiskey Johnny

DESCRIPTION: Shanty. Characteristic line: "Whiskey, Johnny, / Whiskey for me Johnny." The song details the sailor's love affair with whiskey: "Whiskey is the life of man / It always was since the world began..." "Whiskey killed my dear old dad..."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1894 (Alfred M. Williams, _Studies in Folk-Song and Popular Poetry_, pp. 7-8); mentioned in 1867

KEYWORDS: shanty drink nonballad

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,NE,SE,SW) Canada(Mar,Ont)

REFERENCES (26 citations):
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 15-16, "Whiskey Johnny" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 64-65, "Whiskey, Johnny" (1 composite text, 1 tune)
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 304, "Whiskey Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bone-CapstanBars, p. 82-83, "Whis-key John-nie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, pp. 49-50, "Whiskey Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips, pp. 21, 63-66 "Whiskey" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 274-280, "Whisky Johnny" (4 texts & several fragments, 1 tune) [AbEd, pp. 202-206]
Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, p. 178, "Whiskey Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys, XLVIII, p. 53, "Whiskey For My Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea, p. 104, Whisky Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Linscott-FolkSongsOfOldNewEngland, pp. 151-152, "Whisky Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Beck-FolkloreOfMaine, p. 198, "Whiskey Johnny" (1 short text)
Shay-AmericanSeaSongsAndChanteys, p. 55, "Whiskey For My Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 403, "Whiskey Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Smith/Hatt/Fowke-SeaSongsBalladFromNineteenthCenturyNovaScotia, p. 30, "Whiskey For My Johnnie" (1 text)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 106, "Whisky Johnny" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, p. 83, "Whiskey Johnnie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Terry-TheShantyBook-Part1, #25, "Whisky Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 311-312, "Whiskey Johnny" (1 text)
Lomax-Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 486-487, "Whisky Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore6 785, "Whiskey Johnny" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Shay-BarroomBards/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, p. 70, "Whickey for My Johnny" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 231, "Whiskey Johnny" (1 text)
DT, WHSKJHN* WHISKJON*

Frederick Pease Harlow, _The Making of a Sailor, or Sea Life Aboard a Yankee Square-Rigger_, 1928; republished by Dover, 1988, p. 113, "Whiskey" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #651

RECORDINGS:
Whiskey in the Jar (The Irish Robber A) [Laws L13A]/The Irish Robber B (McCullister) [Laws L13B]

DESCRIPTION: The robber finds a victim on the road, whom he relieves of his valuables. He returns to his sweetheart's home and goes to sleep. He is awakened by the law. He reaches for his pistol, but the girl has rendered it useless. He is taken (and hanged/escapes)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1855 (broadside, Murray Mu23-y1:137)

KEYWORDS: robbery prison love trial punishment execution death gallows-confession outlaw

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland) US(Ap,MW,NE,SE) Canada(Mar,Newf) Ireland Australia

REFERENCES (19 citations):
Laws L13, "Whisky in the Jar (The Irish Robber A) [Laws L13A]/The Irish Robber B (McCullister) [Laws L13B]
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, p. 51, "Whiskey in the Jar" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 51, "Gilgarrah Mountain" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-FolkSongsAndBalladsOfTheEasternSeaboard, pp. 26-27, "Gilgarrah Mountain" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 139-140, "McCullister" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 245-247, "Lovel, the Robber" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 117, "There's Whiskey in the Jar" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 88, "Whiskey in the Jar" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 6, "Whisky in the Jar" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H792, p. 122, "Whiskey in the Jar" (1 text, 1 tune)
OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 12, "There's Whiskey in the Jar" (1 text, 1 tune)
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 194, "Whisky in the Jar" (2 texts)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 368-369, "There's Whiskey in the Jar" (1 text)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 90, "Whiskey in the Jar" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2320, p. 156, "There's Whiskey in the Jar" (2 references)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 107-108, "Captain Devin" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 201, "Whiskey In The Jar" (1 text)
DT 326, GILGARRY KILGARMT*
Roud #533 and 534
RECORDINGS:
Seamus Ennis, "Whiskey in the Jar" (on Lomax42, LomaxCD1742)
Lena Bourne Fish, "Gilgarrah Mountain" [excerpt] (on USWarnerColl01)
Warde Ford, "McAllister" (AFS 4196 B2, 4196 B3; in AMMEM/Cowell)
BROADSIDES:
Harding B 11(980), "Sporting Hero" or "Whiskey in the Bar," J. Cadman (Manchester), 1850-1855; also Firth c.17(314)[some words illegible], "The Sporting Hero", Harding B 15(372a), Harding B 11(4152), 2806 b.10(109), "Whiskey in the Jar" LOC Singing, as113620, "There's Whiskey in the Jar," J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859; also sb40503b, "There's Whiskey in the Jar"
Murray, Mu23-y1:137, "Whiskey in the Jar," Poet's Box (Glasgow), 1855
NLScotland, L.C.Fol.70(123b), "There's Whiskey in the Jar," Poet's Box (Glasgow), 1871
SAME TUNE:
We'll Fight for Uncle Sam ("I am a modern ha'iro: my name is Paddy Kearney") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 172)
NOTES [350 words]: In the Australian version, Colonel Pepper or his equivalent becomes Sir Frederick Pottinger, a local policeman laughed at for his inability to capture Ben Hall. For background on Pottinger, see the notes to "Ben Hall." - RBW Paul Stalmer comments on the "McCollister" texts of this song, "I think this deserves splitting, as although it's related to 'Whisky in the Jar,' it is missing the betrayal theme -- at least in this version.
"Paul goes on to provide this description of the Warde Ford version: "McCollister [McCAllister] sees two merchants and robs them. As he's walking up to the gallows, he says, "I have robbed many but I never killed any/And I think it is a shame to be hanged for stealing money."
However, the versions cited by Laws do include the betrayal; it appears that the characteristic of the "B" texts is rather the hanging, plus perhaps the robber's name. But it is almost impossible to distinguish short versions of the songs, so we continue to lump them. - PJS, RBW
In addition, Murray, Mu23-y1:131, "The Sporting Hero," Poet's Box (Glasgow), 1852, states "Along with this song, and in the same style, the Poet[...]'s Box] has that splendid song, called 'Whiskey in the Jar.' Generally those who buy the one, buys the other, you see." "The Sporting Hero" is another version of "Whiskey in the Jar" with a new ending: [The singer meets] Molly and shoot[s] her dead, forgive[s] her because "though Molly has deceived me, yet I thought it not her intention, Though she has proved faithless to me, a sporting hero, I have left her far sleeping far behind, and I have nothing more to fear, O." He ends by recommending himself to girls who "want a fancy man.
In broadside Bodleian, Firth c.17(314), "The Sporting Hero" ("I am a sporting hero, that never yet was daunted"), J. Bentley (Bradford), n.d. Molly is not murdered and the self-advertisement at the end goes on for more verses.
Broadside LOC Singing as113620: J. Andrews dating per Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at FindArticles site. - BS
Last updated in version 6.1
File: LL13
Whisky You're the Devil

DESCRIPTION: Whiskey leads the singer astray. "We're on the march and off to Portugal and Spain" "The French are fighting boldly, men dying hot and coldly ... love fare thee well" A mother threatens to haunt the singer if he takes her daughter from her.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Edward Harrigan, _The Mulligans_)

KEYWORDS: courting war separation drink Spain nonballad mother soldier ghost

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 180, "Whiskey You're the Devil" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, p. 454, "Whisky, You're My Darling" (1 fragment, 1 tune - taken from the Journal of the Folk Song Society, 1924. He only gives one verse, which deals with emigration to America, and which is filed here only tentatively)
Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs, pp. 14-15, "Whiskey You're the Devil" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Edward Harrigan, _The Mulligans_, G. W. Dillingham, 1901, pp. 303, 310, "(no title)" (2 excerpts)

RECORDINGS:
The Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem, "Whisky You're the Devil" (on IRClancyMakem01)

NOTES [252 words]: The references "now, brave boys, we're on the march and off to Portugal and Spain" and "the French are fighting boldly, men dying hot and coldly" seem to be a reference to the Peninsular campaign of the Napoleonic wars. On the other hand, it's a stretch to imagine a consistent story line: the chorus has whiskey leading the singer "O'er the hills and mountains and to Amerikay" - BS

The above is actually barely possible; soldiers in the Peninsula might have been sent to fight the United States in the War of 1812. But it's much easier to believe that it would happen in a songwriter's head than to an actual soldier. - RBW

Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 attributes this to 1809 on the basis of something found in Winstock Songs and Music of the Redcoats (indexed as Winstock-SongsAndMusicOfTheRedcoats). I have searched that book at length and cannot identify the basis for this attribution, so I have not changed the Earliest Date.

The lines about whiskey sending the singer to America do, however, appear in Edward Harrigan's book _The Mulligan Guard_, and the song does not seem to be by Harrigan and Braham, so I've used 1901 as the earliest date, with a high likelihood that Harrigan knew it well before that. - RBW, (BS)

The ballad is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentenial of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See:
Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "Whiskey in the Jar" (on Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "My Name is Napoleon Bonaparte," Hummingbird Records HBCD0027 (2001)) - BS

Last updated in version 5.3

File: RcWYTD

Whisper Your Mother's Name

DESCRIPTION: The singer is "seated one day in a beautiful cafe" when he sees his sister in the street. His mother's words, "If you should see your sister, do not reproach her, Dwayne," cause him to invite her back to her still-faithful love and her mother's grave

AUTHOR: Lottie Gilson?

EARLIEST DATE: 1896

KEYWORDS: reunion sister brother mother family separation

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 69-60, "Seated One Day in a Beautiful Cafe" (1 text, 1 tune)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol1, pp. 98-100, "Seated One Day in a Beautiful Cafe" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [50 words]: Popularized by Lottie Gilson (1869-1912), a tragicomic singer of the 1890s. This piece entered her repertoire in 1896. McNeil speculates that this may be the only traditional song to have a person named "Dwayne" as a hero; given the piece's overblown sentimentality, one is inclined to hope so. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1
Whispering Hope

DESCRIPTION: "Soft as the voice of an angel... Hope with a gentle persuasion, Whispers her comforting word." "Hope for the sunshine tomorrow After the shower is gone." "Whispering hope, how welcome thy voice, Making my heart in its sorrow rejoice."

AUTHOR: "Alice Hawthorne" (Septimus Winner)

EARLIEST DATE: 1868 (sheet music published by Sep. Winner of Philadelphia)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Jackson-Popular Songs Of Nineteenth Century America, pp. 241-245, "Whispering Hope" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
The Blue Sky Boys, "Whispering Hope" (Bluebird 8401, 1940)

NOTES [140 words]: Alice Hawthorne was a leading pseudonym of Septimus Winner; he also listed her as the author of "Listen to the Mockingbird." (The name was a tribute to his mother.) For some reason, Winner published such trivia as "Oh Where Oh Where Is My Little Dog Gone" under his own name. - RBW

Is there any indication that this entered tradition, as we use the term? Or, to put it bluntly, are you sure this belongs in the Index? - PJS

If the question is, can it be proved that this song was popular in oral tradition, the answer is no. However, the material in Jackson claims to be bestsellers in popular music, and so presumably widely played in parlors. That strikes me as sufficient reason for inclusion. A lot of kids must have suffered through this song in their lives.

For more on Septimus Winner, see the notes to "Listen to the Mockingbird." - RBW

Last updated in version 2.6

Whist! The Bogie Man

DESCRIPTION: "Oh gather round me, little ones, So full of fun and glee, Your father's going to be a fool To plase the family." "Oh, whist, whist, whist, Here comes the bogie man! Now go to bed, you baby." Mother and father both use the bogie man to hurry the children

AUTHOR: Words: Edward Harrigan / Music: David Braham

EARLIEST DATE: 1880 (sheet music published by Wm. A. Pond & Co)

KEYWORDS: ghost lullaby

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Finson-Edward Harrigan-David Braham, vol. I, #37, pp. 137-139, "Whist! The Bogie Man" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST HaBrWtBM (Partial)

Roud #V18643

RECORDINGS:
Ada Jones, "Whist! The Bogie Man" (Zon-o-phone [US] 5789. n.d., but rec. before 1911)

BROADSIDES:
LOC Sheet, M 3500 M2.3.U6A44., "Whist! the bogey man," Firth, Pond & Co. (New York), 1880

NOTES [449 words]: For background on Harrigan and Braham, see the notes to "The Babies on Our Block."

This is from "The Mulligan Guards Surprise," the fifth of eight Mulligan Guard musicals by Harrigan and Braham., which opened February 16, 1880 (Franceschina, p. 126). Dan Mulligan, having been convinced by his wife to move to a fancier home, only to find himself trying to understand French and high society, rebels and returns to his old home, where there is a surprise party (hence the title). There was also a wedding with a poisoned liverworst and a problem with the wedding documents, plus the usual arguing and fighting (Franceschina, pp. 115-116; Moody, p. 100).

"This ghost-evoking piece is filled with traditional 'scary music' devices: string tremolos, minor and diminished chords, a melody filled with short rests that imply breathlessness, and virtuosic runs evocated of the 'storm music' composed by serious composers. Ten years later, the number was interpolated into the British burlesque of Bizet's Carmen, Carmen Up-To-Data (sic.) and quickly became even more in London than it had been in New York. Not only did 'Whist! The Bogie Man' guarantee the success of the British show, the song itself turned into an international hit as well" (Franceschina, p. 127).

(Those breathless rests are interesting: they aren't at the end of measures but typically in the middle: the time signature is 6/8, and typically the first, third, fourth, and sixth beats of the measure are sung, the second and fifth are rests.)

"The 'Bogie Man' lullaby, sung as an accompaniment to a game of blindman's buff, later achieved extraordinary popularity with English nannies and now would be declared too terrifying for bedtime: 'Oh, whist, whist, whist, / Here comes the bogie man! / Oh, which, whist, / He'll catch ye, if he can'" (Moody, p. 101).

Franceschina, p. 232, lists this as one of the three Braham songs most heard around the world, the others being "Maggie Murphy's Home" and "The Mulligan Guard." It was popular enough to be parodied in Punch in 1892 (Volume 102, March 19, 1892, p. 138, available on Google Books: "Oh, huddle near us, cherished ones, Hushed is our civic glee. The Voters, they have played the fool About the L. C. C. Oh, Turtle, dear -- at table -- Oh, Griffin, spic and span, I hear the Civic Fathers say Here comes the Bogie Man!").

Despite its reported popularity as a lullaby, documented traditional collections seem to have been few, but Helen Creighton found a version for Mrs. W. J. Johns of Nova Scotia, which she called "Bogey Man." Sue Allan of Wigtion reports having learned the chorus from family tradition. Good enough reason to include the song in the Index for me! - RBW

Bibliography

Last updated in version 5.2

File: HaBrWtBM

Whistle Owre the Lave O't

DESCRIPTION: Verses begin "my mother sent me" and end "so whistle for the rest of it": sent to the well the singer fell in; to the stack with a basket her bones crack; to the sea a sailor fell in; to the moss to gather clods "a thing sprang up atween my legs"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1776 (Herd)

KEYWORDS: bawdy humorous nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord))

REFERENCES (6 citations):

- Greig/Duncan7 1414, "Whistle Owre the Lave O't" (5 texts plus a single verse on p. 522, 2 tunes)
- Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 152, "Peggy Picken" (1 text)
- Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 184, "Maggy She Has Daughters Twa" (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: David Herd, editor, Ancient and Modern Scottish Songs, Heroic Ballads, etc. (Edinburgh, 1870 (reprint of 1776)), Vol II, p. 208, "Whistle O'er the Lave O't"

ADDITIONAL: Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham,_, Broadside, 1977, pp. 137-138, "Collier Lass - Love Song" (1 short text)

Roud #506

NOTES [218 words]: The Herd text is brief enough not to include verses unfit to print. The Greig/Duncan7 texts begin with Herd's and some mildly suggestive verses beside. See also Robert Burns, The Complete Poems and Songs of Robert Burns (New Lanark,2005), p. 260, "Whistle O'er the Lave O't" and Robert Chambers, The Scottish Songs (Edinburgh, 1829), Vol II, p. 456. "Whistle Owre the Lave O't." Chambers: "Burns wrote this song for a very old and very popular Scottish air, which was formerly unprovided with verses that were fit for print." The description for Burns's song would be "The singer recalls being beguiled by Maggie when they met and they still love -- 'I carena by how few may see' -- now that they are married." [Also a version in Whistle, Daughter, Whistle

DESCRIPTION: The mother offers her daughter a (cow) if she will whistle. The daughter says she cannot. The request is repeated with (sheep, etc.); each time the daughter refuses. Finally the mother offers a man; the daughter engages to whistle with all her might

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1868 (Notes & Queries); a manuscript copy said to be from 1740 was cited in _Folklore_ in 1901

KEYWORDS: dialog mother bargaining children

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,SE,So) Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber)) Ireland

REFERENCES (21 citations):
Randolph 109, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 text plus 2 fragments, 2 tunes)
Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 59, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 131, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan7 1334, "Oh, Whistle, Whistle, Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 186, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 text plus mention of 2 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 186, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 excerpt, 1 tune)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 99-100, "Whistle, Daugther, Whistle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #221, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 text)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 98, "Whistle Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 107, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 134, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople 111, "Whistle Daughter Whistle" (1 text)
Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs, pp. 138-139, "Lolly Too Dum" (2 texts, 1 tune, with the first actually being this song)
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 85-87, "Schpinn, schpinn (Spin, Spin)" (1 German text plus non-poetic English translation, 1 tune)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 128, "Whistle, daughter, whistle" (3 texts)
Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #34, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #255, p. 158, "(Whistle, daughter, whistle)"
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 219-220, "Spin, Meine Liebe Tochter" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 343, "Whistle, Daughter, Whistle" (1 text)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN1781, "Mother let me Marry, I long to be a Bride"
ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers, _The Popular Rhymes of Scotland_ (Edinburgh, 1870 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 25, "(Whistle, whistle, auld wife)"

ST R109 (Partial)

Roud #1570

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Lazy Mary (She Won't Get Up)" (theme)
cf. "La Jeune Fille Sans Amant (The Young Girl Without a Lover)" (theme)
cf. "Sixteen Years, Mama" (subject)
cf. "The Maid's Complaint to her Mother" (theme)

NOTES [95 words]: This song has a close German parallel known, e.g., as "Spinn Spinn"; note that this was actually collected in Pennsylvania and printed in Henry. Newell-
GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren also claims Flemish and French parallels. - RBW

In Chambers's text the conversation is not between a mother and daughter, though the outcome is Whistling at the Ploo

DESCRIPTION: "It's to the girls of Peterhead that these few lines I write": Ploughing the ocean is what brave sailors do; "lazy lubber landsmen go whistling at the ploo"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan4)

KEYWORDS: farming work nonballad sailor

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 922, "Whistling at the Ploo" (1 text)

Roud #6240

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Hearts of Gold" (theme)
cf. "I Love My Sailor Boy" (theme)

File: GrD4922

Whistling Rufus

DESCRIPTION: Whistling Rufus goes to parties whatever the weather. After devouring the chicken and wine, he settles down to whistling, producing a sound that makes the spectators think "the angels' harps were a-playing."

AUTHOR: Words: W. Murdock Lind/Music: Kerry Mills

EARLIEST DATE: (tune composed 1899; words are later)

KEYWORDS: Black(s) music

FOUND IN: US(SE,So,SW)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Randolph 285, "Whistling Rufus" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 241-243, "Whistling Rufus" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 285)
Burton-TennesseeTraditionalSingers, pp. 137-138, "Whistling Rufus or Rufus Blossom" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WHSTRFUS*

Roud #5065

RECORDINGS:
McGee Brothers (Sam & Kirk McGee), "Rufus Blossom" (Vocalion 5170, rec. 1927)

SAME TUNE:
My Mother Told Me that She Would Buy Me a Rubber Dolly If I'd Be Good (cf. Spaeth, _A History of Popular Music in America, p. 299)

NOTES [14 words]: For more on composer Kerry Mills, see the notes on "Meet Me in St. Louis, Louis." - RBW

Last updated in version 2.8

File: R285

Whistling Thief, The

DESCRIPTION: Pat visits Mary and whistles to announce his arrival. Mary's mother hears, and rejects Mary's explanations (the dog is howling at the moon, pigs can see the wind, etc.). The mother forces Mary off to bed, pointing out that she hasn't lost her ears

AUTHOR: Samuel Lover (source: Sparling)

EARLIEST DATE: 1839 (Songs and Ballads)

KEYWORDS: love courting mother

FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenryssSongsOfThePeople H710, pp. 264-265, "The Whistling Thief" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 154, "The Whistling Thief" (1 text)
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 179, "The Whistling Thief" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2603, p. 176, "The Whistling Thief"
New-Comic-Songster, p. 48, "The Whistling Thief" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p.69, "The Whistling Thief" (1 text)
DT, PATHILL*
Roud #2738
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 b.11(210), "The Whistling Thief," The Poet's box (Glasgow), 1864; also Harding B 11(1366), Firth b.25(430), Harding B 11(4156), Harding B 11(4157), Firth c.20(106), Firth c.26(241), "The Whistling Thief"
LOCsinging, sb40586a, "The Whistling Thief," H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864
ALTERNATE TITLES:
When Pat Came Over the Hill
NOTES [33 words]: Broadside LOCsinging sb40586a: H. De Marsan dating per Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at FindArticles site. - BS
Last updated in version 6.1
File: HHH710

White Cafe, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer takes "a stroll down to the White Cafe," where he meets and buys drinks for a pretty girl. He is convinced to take her with him. They register as a married couple at the Farmer's Hotel. She steals his luggage and money and disappears
AUTHOR: probably Joe Scott
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (collected from Thomas MacLeod)
KEYWORDS: love beauty theft money
FOUND IN: US(NE) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ives-Joe-Scott-TheWoodsmanSongmaker, pp. 341-342, "The Maid with Golden Hair" (1 text)
Roud #25132
File: ISco341

White Cockade, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer describes her handsome young love. He has taken the white cockade and joined Prince Charlie's armies. She promises to sell her possessions to equip him well. Some versions describe how Prince Charles was displaced
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1803 (_Scots Musical Museum_ #272)
KEYWORDS: love Jacobites separation
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1745-1746 - Jacobite rebellion of 1745
FOUND IN: US(Ap,NE,So) Australia Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (14 citations):
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, p. 41, "The White Cockade" (1 text)
Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2 18, "The White Cockade" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan1 124, "The White Cockade" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Randolph 120, "Prince Charles He Is King James's Son" (1 text)
Combs/Wilgus-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernUnitedStates 144, p. 149, "Ranting Roving Lad" (1 text -- from West Virginia, but still with clear traces of Scots dialect)
Linscott-FolkSongsOfOldNewEngland, pp. 115-118, "Virginia Reel" [medley of "The Irish Washerwoman," "The White Cockade," and "Yankee Doodle"] (1 tune for each of the three melodies, plus dance instructions); p. 120, "The White Cockade" (1 tune)
White Coral Bells

DESCRIPTION: "White coral bells upon a slender stalk, Lilies of the valley (line/grace) my garden walk. Oh don't you wish that you could hear them ring? That will only happen when the (angels/fairies) sing."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (as "May Bells," in the "Fourth Year" volume of the "Hollis Dann Music Course")

KEYWORDS: nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 268, "White Coral Bells" (1 text)

NOTES [91 words]: One of the tiny handful of songs in my mother's singing tradition. Seems to be a genuine folk song, even if no one knows what it's supposed to be about.

Jack Manischewitz, who did the research leading to the 1916 date for the May Bells variant, has found a number of people who also know the song from early life. He notes that the 1916 publication listed no author, although authors were listed for most of the other pieces. This would
White Fisher, The [Child 264]

DESCRIPTION: Willie learns that a "popish priest" fathered his wife's baby. She tells Willie to cast the babe in the sea; he instead gives the child to his mother. Willie's wife weeps for the babe and reviles him; Willie tells her the babe is alive; both are happy.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1878
KEYWORDS: pregnancy bastard death drowning return adultery abandonment disguise clergy infidelity
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
- Child 264, "The White Fisher" (1 text)
- Bronson 264, comments only
- Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 60, "The White Fisher" (1 text)
- Greig/Duncan2 197, Greig/Duncan8 Addenda, "The White Fisher" (3 texts, 1 tune)
- DT 264, WHITFISH

Roud #3888

NOTES [85 words]: Bronson notes that Child's view of this ballad is distorted by his single text, and believes that it should be modified in view of the collections by Grieg. - RBW

In the Greig-Duncan2 197 texts the seducing "popish priest" is replaced by a rapist: either a foot-page who had worked without pay for her father for seven years "and he made me pay the fee," or her "father's butler boy." The foot-page partially repeats the Jacob-Rachel-Laban (Genesis 29.16-20) theme; see the discussion for "The Flanders Shore." - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: C264

White Folks in the Parlor

DESCRIPTION: "White folks in the parlor, Talking 'bout jelly and jam... Didn't say a word about ham." "Ham, ham, ham is good and sweet... Nothing better'n old ham meat." "Possum in the corn fields... Rabbit say, 'You dirty dog,' Possum blew the horn."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: animal food
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 476, "White Folks in the Parlor" (1 short text)
- Roud #11864

File: Br3476

White Hare, The

DESCRIPTION: Near Oldham town lived an old white hare that has escaped beagles and greyhounds. Jim Smith or Jemmy the huntsman and Tom the whipper-in take out horsemen and beagles to hunt this hare. "There was twenty good beagles that caused this hare to die"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (Kidson-TraditionalTunes)
KEYWORDS: death hunting animal dog horse
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,North))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 139-140, "The White Hare" (1 text, 1 tune)
- OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart2 57, "The White Hare" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #1110

RECORDINGS:
Joseph Taylor, "The White Hare" (on Voice18)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 16(306a), "White Hare," unknown, n.d.; also Harding B 11(3425), Firth c.19(105), Harding B 11(1725), "White Hare"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Creggan White Hare" (subject)
- cf. "The Innocent Hare" (theme: fatal hare hunt)
- cf. "The Hare of Kilgrain" (theme: fatal hare hunt)
- cf. "The Granemore Hare" (theme: fatal hare hunt)
- cf. "The White Hare" (theme: fatal hare hunt)

NOTES [23 words]: The town in the Bodleian broadsides is Maxfield or Maxwell. Oldham is in Lancashire, England. I don't know about Maxwell or Maxfield. - BS

Last updated in version 3.0
File: RcTWhiHa

White House Blues (II)

DESCRIPTION: Singer says Hoover let the country go to ruin; now Roosevelt's "doing his best," but times are still hard -- long hours for poor wages (if they're working at all), bad clothes, poor food. The refrain says of Hoover, "Now he's gone, I'm glad he's gone."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE:

KEYWORDS: poverty hardtimes political

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1929-1933: Presidency of Herbert Hoover
1933-1945: Presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 228, "White House Blues" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 382-383, "White House Blues" (1 text)
DT, WHITHOU2*

RECORDINGS:
New Lost City Ramblers, "White House Blues" (on NLCR09) (on NLCR12)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Mister McKinley (White House Blues)" (tune, structure, words)

NOTES [178 words]: The Great Depression is generally considered to have extended from the stock market crash of 1929 to the beginning of World War II in 1939. However, it is worth noting that conditions for farmers had already been depressed for several years before this. - PJS (This was due in part to the revival of European agriculture after World War I. In Minnesota, the political side effects are still felt to some extent today, in the relative strength of third party politics. Minnesota voted for Roosevelt in all four of his elections -- the first time the state had ever voted for a Democrat. Quite a sea change. - RBW)

This song is obviously a topical adaptation of "Mister McKinley (White House Blues)." -PJS

In one sense this song is unfair; Herbert Hoover was not the cause of the Depression (which began very shortly after he came into office; if any President is to be blamed, it is his predecessor, Calvin Coolidge). On the other hand, Hoover (a conservative Republican) took only the most hesitant steps to help the poor, so he arguably does deserve their scorn. - RBW

File: CSW228

White Lad A-Grieving, A

DESCRIPTION: "I was all alone in my my cabin, The Indians surrounded me." They tie him to his horse. The Indians take him to camp and prepare to burn him, but the chief's daughter declares she will burn with him. He lives with them for five years and becomes a lawyer

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (High-OldOldFolkSongs)

KEYWORDS: Indians(Am.) death love fire rescue

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
White Man, Let Me Go

DESCRIPTION: The Indian begs to be allowed to return to his land: "Let me go to my home in the far distant west... Let me go to my father... Let me go to the hills... Let me go to... my dark-eyed maid... And there let my body in ashes lie low"

AUTHOR: unknown (see NOTES)

EARLIEST DATE: 1844 (Journal from the Marcus)

KEYWORDS: Indians(Am.) lament homesickness

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,SE) Canada(Mar,Newf) Australia

REFERENCES (8 citations):

Thompson-APioneerSongster 76, "The Indian Hunter" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 270, "The Indian Hunter" (1 text)
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 180-181, "The Indian Hunter" (1 text)
Fowke/Johnston-FolkSongsOfCanada, pp. 32-34, "White Man, Let Me Go" (1 text, 1 tune)
Peacock, pp. 164-165, "White Man, Let Me Go" (1 text, 1 tune)
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 228-229, "White Man, Let Me Go" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #1043, p. 71, "The Indian Hunter" (2 references)

DDITIONAL: Harold Nestler, "Songs from the Hudson Valley" (article in _New York Folklore Quarterly_, Volume V, #2, Summer 1949), pp. 99-100, "The Indian Hunter" (1 text)

ST FJ032 (Partial)

Roud #2055

RECORDINGS:

Vince Ledwell, "White Man Let Me Go" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Richard Pennell, "To My Home In the Forest Let Me Go" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Lone Indian" (theme)

NOTES [280 words]: The notes in Brown cite Kittredge to the effect that this was printed in 1835. The source involved, however, is not listed. I wonder if this might not in fact be a reference to the 1835 song "The American Indian Girl" by J. M. Smith and Charles Edward Horn, a small portion of which is printed on pp. 242-243 of Jon W. Finson, _The Voices That Are Gone: Themes in Nineteenth-Century American Popular Song_, Oxford University Press, 1994. The themes of the two are similar, but based on the partial text in Finson, I would not call them the same song.

It IS, however, clearly the same song as one cited on p. 243 of Finson, "The Indian's Prayer," which is said to be by Isaac B. Woodbury and to have been published in 1846. Since the song was copied aboard the Marcus in 1844, this was not the original. It appears that, in fact, Woodbury set a tune to an existing poem. Based on the Wikipedia entry for "The Indian's Prayer," the original version "The Indian's Entreaty" was published in 1833 by John Perry of Pennsylvania. But while Perry's version is identical thematically, it is not the same metrically. There must have been a rewrite somewhere, to convert the 11-syllable lines of the Perry version to the 12-syllable lines of the song. I have not found any reference to who did the rewriting, but since both the Marcus version and Woodbury's use the 12-syllable version, it must have been very early. Indeed, I wonder if just possibly the 12-syllable version is the original and Perry's the adaption. I also wonder if, perhaps, there might not have been a folk version of this song, with tune, independent of the Woodbury version. But I have not researched the point. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0

File: FJ032

White Marble Stone, The

DESCRIPTION: "Sister Dolly light the lamp, and the lamp light the road, And I wish I been there for to yedde Jordan roll." "O the city light the lamp, the white man he will sold, And I wish...." "O the white marble stone, and the white marble stone...."
NOTES [300 words]: My guess (only a guess) is that this refers to the "white stone" given to the believers in Pergamum who "conquer" in Revelation 2:17. The King James Version does not use the word "marble" to describe this stone, but interestingly the word "stone" used in this verse is unusual (, psephos, used elsewhere only in Acts 26:10 of casting a vote. It also refers to small round stones that might be used on an abacus -- as opposed to some random rock you find in the ground, which is , lithos, stone, or π , petros, rock).

The use of the word in this context is significant: when voting for or against conviction, a Greek juryman would drop a white stone to acquit, a black one to convict. Thus to give someone a white stone (psephos) was to declare not guilty.

J. Massyngberde Ford, Revelation (being volume 38 of the Anchor Bible), Doubleday, 1975, p. 399, says of the white stone, "The stone mentioned here is probably the tessera of ancient times, which was used variously as a voting ballot or a ticket to public functions. It was also used when drawing lots in a criminal case; the white stone was a favorable verdict, i.e. life.... Another interpretation may be that this stone is an entrance ticket into the promised land or paradise."

There is no reason to think that the stones mentioned in the Apocalypse were marble. It may just be a sort of logic: "If God is giving out a stone, it must be a high-quality one."

Don't ask me if slaves would know about the use of the word psephos, and if so, how they would have found out. In addition to Ford, I needed three Biblical concordances (Young's, for the KJV, Kohlenberger's, for the NRSV, and Moulton & Geden for Greek) and two dictionaries (Bauer and Liddell & Scott), plus some knowledge for Greek history, to write this note. - RBW

White Pilgrim, The

DESCRIPTION: "I came to the tomb where the white pilgrim lay And pensively stood by his tomb, And in a low whisper I heard someone say How peaceful he sleeps there alone." The pilgrim's farewell to his family after his call, and his courage in death, are recalled

AUTHOR: Rev. Jonathan Ellis (1838) (Source: Thompson-APioneerSongster citing Wilgus)

EARLIEST DATE: 1850 (Sacred Harp)

REFERENCES (13 citations):
Thompson-APioneerSongster 74, "The White Pilgrim" (1 text)
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 187-189, "The White Pilgrim" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 542, "The Lone Pilgrim" (1 text plus a fragment)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 542, "The Lone Pilgrim" (2 tunes plus a text excerpts)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 81, p. 209, "The White Pilgrim" (1 text)
Randolph 619, "The White Pilgrim" (2 short texts plus 2 excerpts, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 433-434, "The White Pilgrim" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 619)
Abrahams/Riddle-ASingerAndHerSongs, pp. 92-93, "The Lone Pilgrim" (1 text, 1 tune)
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, pp. 68-69, "The White Pilgrim" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Bush-FSOfCentralWestVirginiaVol5, pp. 43-44, "The White Pilgrim" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 104, pp. 158-159, "The White Pilgrim" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 97, "The White Pilgrim" (1 text in two parts, the second tells the sorrows of the widow)

ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), p. 205, "(The White Pilgrim"
(1 fragment)

Roud #2841

RECORDINGS:
Aunt Molly Jackson, "The Lone Pilgrim" (AAFS 2580 B, 1939)
Buell Kazee, "The White Pilgrim" [fragment] (on Kazee01)
Bascom Lamar Lunsford, "The Lone Pilgrim" (AAFS 1826 A3, 1935)
Doc Watson & Gaither Carlton, "The Lone Pilgrim" (on Watson01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Braes of Balquidder" (most common tune)
cf. "Lily Dale" (alternate tune)

NOTES [246 words]: It's not absolutely clear whether this was originally called "The White Pilgrim" or "The Lone Pilgrim"; Randolph's notes imply the latter, but the notes in Brown and Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi seem to imply the reverse. The best argument is perhaps the text in Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana, which is exremely full (seemingly a basic text and a sequel), which was learned probably around 1870 by O. F. Kirk; in that, it's called the "White Pilgrim."

At least two authors are listed: The Reverend Ellis (elsewhere called Elder John Ellis), mentioned above, fl. 1789; he is said to have set it to the tune Lily Dale; he's also listed as writing it in 1838.
But the Sacred Harp (in which it's listed as "The Lone Pilgrim") credits it to B. F. White in 1850.
A reasonable supposition is that Ellis wrote the words and White set a new tune, but that's not proof of anything.

Randolph also mentions a clergyman called "The White Pilgrim" (after his clothing, not his skin color) who lived before the Civil War. Paul Stamler found a reference to a "White Pilgrim" named Joseph Thomas who lived around 1835. He is also mentioned in Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee.

For complete arguments, see D. K. Wilgus's article "The White Pilgrim: Song, Fact, and Legend" -- an item I, unfortunately, have not seen. - RBW

It's clear that "The White Pilgrim" and "The Lone Pilgrim" are essentially the same song, although one is told in third person while the other is in first. - PJS

Last updated in version 6.0

File: R619

White Slave, The

DESCRIPTION: A pretty girl, who works in a laundry and sleeps in the street because she is so poor, is recruited to be a prostitute with promises of wealth. Five years later, she has lost her looks and is diseased. Who is to blame? "The boss who pays starvation wages"

AUTHOR: Words: Joe Hill (Music by Leo Friedman?)

EARLIEST DATE: 1913 (_The Industrial Worker_, April 10, 1913, according to William M. Adler, 206)

KEYWORDS: IWW whore money disease

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):
DT, WHITSLAV

ADDITIONAL: (Barrie Stavis and Frank Harmon, editors), _The Songs of Joe Hill_, 1960, now reprinted in the Oak Archives series, pp. 30-31, "The White Slave" (1 text, 1 tune -- not the tune Hill used, which was copyrighted)

White Slave" (1 text)
Roud #7990

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland" (tune)

NOTES [497 words]: For the life of Joe Hill, see "Joe Hill."
32-33, this was one of two songs (the other being "The Girl Question") which Hill wrote to encourage women's participation in the I.W.W. At a time when the union was still largely masculine, it appears Hill felt that it needed to reach out and include all people.
Although not the best-known of Hill's songs, I'd have to say that I regard it as the best of those I know. It is also quite true-life.
I thought of this piece while reading Steve Oney's _And the Dead Shall Rise: The Murder of Mary_ Phagan and the Lynching of Leo Frank (2003; use the 2004 Vintage Books edition), especially pp. 56-60, describing conditions in Atlanta in the years leading up to 1913 (when Mary Phagan was murdered and this song was written). Child labor was the standard in the town -- the factory in which 13-year-old Mary worked employed primarily teenage girls, paying them no more than ten to fifteen cents an hour and working them 56 hours a week -- and there was a vast prostitution industry. Had Mary not been murdered, this might have been her story: She was very pretty, and the only choices life held for her (unless she managed to find a rich man to marry her) were life in the factory or prostitution.

At the time she died, the Atlanta papers were carrying advertisements calling for the ending of the White Slave trade (Oney, p. 57). I gather that, for a while after Mary was murdered, there was speculation that she had been attacked because she refused to join the prostitution industry. I don't know what Joe Hill knew about this -- but I wonder if it didn't somehow inspire his song.

Hill's description also fits what we know about how women fell into prostitution in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. David Cordingly, Women Sailors and Sailors' Women, Random House, 2001 (I use the undated, but later, paperback edition), pp. 19-20, cites the work of Dr. William Sanger, whose work was published in 1858, Sanger took case histories of some 2000 prostitutes. And "of the 2,000 women... 933 had been servants before becoming prostitutes, 499 had lived with parents or friends, and most of the rest were dressmakers, tailoresses, or seamstresses," The single most common reason for becoming a whore was, of course, poverty. Cordingly on pp. 20-22 cites a London chaplain, G. P. Merrick, who interviewed many imprisoned women and compiled similar statistics about British prostitutes. Again, the picture is one of women driven to ruin by poverty.

It appears that the five year working life cited in this song is if anything high, since "the great majority of adult prostitutes were between the ages of eighteen and 23" (Cordingly, p. 20, quoting Sanger). Sanger found that the typical prostitute lasted only four years; Merrick computed the average time in the profession as just barely more than three years (Cordingly, p. 21). - RBW

---

White Squall, The

DESCRIPTION: "The sea was bright and the bark rose well, And the breeze bore the tone of the vesper bell"; the ship is a good one, and is approaching land. All are thinking of home when a white squall blows up and overwhelms the ship

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1870 (Journal of the Pacific)

KEYWORDS: ship storm

FOUND IN: Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, p. 120, "The White Squall" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #13623

NOTES [30 words]: Not to be confused with the Stan Rogers song of the same name. This seems to have been widely published in broadside form, but very rarely encountered in actual oral tradition. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2

File: HGam120

---

White Steed of the Prairies, The

DESCRIPTION: "Mount, mount for the chase! Let your lassoes be strong... For the quarry you seek has oft baffled, I wee, Steeds swift as your own." Many men have tried the White Steed, but still it runs free

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Finger-FrontierBallads)

KEYWORDS: horse freedom

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation): Finger-FrontierBallads, pp. 99-100, "The White Steed of the Prairies" (1 text)

Roud #8827

File: Fig099
White Wings

DESCRIPTION: "White wings, they never grow weary, They carry me cheerily over the sea, Night comes, I long for my dearie, I'll spread out my white wings and fly home to thee." The singer longs for his Maggie Darrow, and hopes the winds will carry him to her.

AUTHOR: Banks Winter

EARLIEST DATE: 1884 (sheet music published by Willis Woodward & Co. of New York)

KEYWORDS: love bird reunion

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Randolph 779, "White Wings" (1 short text, 1 tune)
- Geller-FamousSongsAndTheirStories, pp. 48-52, "White Wings" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Gilbert-LostChords, pp. 144-145, "White Wings" (1 text)
- Finger-FrontierBallads, p. 7, "White Wings" (1 excerpt)

ST R779 (Full)

Roud #1753

SAME TUNE:
- Black Socks (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, pp. 34-35)

NOTES [109 words]: Randolph quoted Jay House to the effect that this song was written by Banks Winter in 1884. Gilbert-LostChords offers the story that Winter bought it from another singer for $20. James J. Geller lists this other singer as Joseph Gullick, and dates the composition to 1882. Little supporting evidence is offered for either story.

The title is reported to derive from the novel White Wings by William Black. (The final wife of the great Shawnee leader Tecumseh was also named, in translation, "White Wing," but I doubt many people in the late nineteenth century knew that.) - RBW

So "this" is what "Black socks, they never grow dirty" is a parody of! - PJS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: R779

Whitehills Harbour

DESCRIPTION: Tonight we gather to help "the good folks" for "their harbour is nane o' the best." When the singer looked "it nearly upset me To ken whare a place ca'd a harbour could be." At night the sweethearts "are toddlin'" along with the rabbits and hares.

AUTHOR: William Park (source: Greig/Duncan8)

EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan8)

KEYWORDS: fishing disaster nonballad animal

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Greig/Duncan8 1891, "Whitehills Harbour" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #13235

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Lass o' Glenshee" (tune, per Greig/Duncan8)

NOTES [354 words]: "Whitehills [Banff on Moray Firth], a village on the west side of Knock head ... has a small harbour ... defended by short piers facing northward, but it is rendered unsafe by the rage that is thrown in during northwesterly gales. It has 83 herring-boats, employing 170 men and boys. Population, 920 in 1881" (source: North Sea Pilot Part II. North and East Coasts of Scotland (London, 1885 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 144).

"Wrecks between the Firths of Forth and Moray are more frequent than on any other part of the coast of Scotland. This may possibly be accounted for by the great number of vessels passing and repassing along that coast. In the month of December 1799, a strong gale from the south-east occasioned serious disasters on these shores, when upwards of seventy sail were wrecked on the eastern coast of Scotland, and many of their crews perished" (source: David Stevenson, Life of Robert Stevenson Civil Engineer, (London, 1878 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 260).

Greig #153, p. 2: "There are not many traditional songs dealing with fisher folk; and as for fisher folk themselves they do not seem to have any old minstrelsy dealing with their special calling and interests." (See only "The Thurso Fishing Boat Disaster" and "The Bonnie Fisher Lass.")

Greig/Duncan8: "Made up for Mr Quirrie by William Park blacksmith and sung by John Quirie at concert in aid of Whitehills Harbour."

The last line of Greig/Duncan8 is "But toddlin' aboot was the rabbits and bawds [hares]." The Dictionary of the Scots Language site quotes, as an illustration of the word "bawds," "And toddlin' about were the rabbits and bauds." The citation is "A. Cumming, Tales of the North (1896) 96." That site's bibliography dates the book publication as 1847.

Steve Roud sends the following information, if anyone can follow up on Tales of the North: "I have at last tracked down Cumming -- it's published by the Banffshire Journal (1896) so it's probably one of those newspapers articles-published-as-books numbers. The only copy I can find is in Aberdeen Univ Lib, see this link [http://tinyurl.com/tbdx-CummingNorth]." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD81891

Whitney's Camp

DESCRIPTION: "It's of a brave young shantyboy, brave-hearted, true, He left his home near Ottawa and to Whitney's camp did go." He will return home when winter ends. "He worked until that fatal day When a hanging limb fell down on him and squashed him to the clay."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1964 (Fowke)

KEYWORDS: logger death lumbering work derivative

FOUND IN: Canada(Ont)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Fowke-LumberingSongsFromTheNorthernWoods #35, "Whitney's Camp" (1 fragment, tune referenced)

Roud #4468

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Harry Dunn (The Hanging Limb)" [Laws C14] (plot; also tune) and references there

NOTES [42 words]: Fowke notes the obvious similarity of this song to "Harry Dunn." The similarity extends to the tune; it is clear that the one is modeled on the other. And, since this song is known only from Nelson Lewis's one fragment, this is probably the parody. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.6

File: FowL35

Who Am Dat a-Walkin' in de Corn?

DESCRIPTION: "Who am dat a-walkin' in de co'n?.... How long O Lawd, nobody knows, I pray I'll rise on judgment day...." The singer mentions several who might be among the corn: "Joshua de son ob Nun Er King David come to fight Goliar," Petuh, Gabriel, God

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1924

KEYWORDS: religious Bible nonballad

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Combs/Wilgus-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernUnitedStates 325, p. 192, "Who Am Dat a-Walkin' in de Corn?" (1 text)

Roud #4304

File: CW192

Who Are the Greatest?

DESCRIPTION: "Who are the greatest? We are the greatest. Are you sure?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1970 (JohnsIsland1)

KEYWORDS: playparty nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:

Mabel Hillery, Janie Hunter and her grandchildren, "Who Are the Greatest?" (on JohnsIsland1)

File: RcWhoAtG

Who Built the Ark?

DESCRIPTION: Amalgamation of floating verses about Noah, the ark, the animals, etc.. Noah builds the ark from hickory (hemlock, gopherwood), leads the animals two-by-two. Chorus: "Who built the ark? Noah, Noah," sometimes "The old ark's a movin', a-movin', a movin"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories)
KEYWORDS: travel sea ship flood Bible religious floating verses humorous gods
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE) West Indies(Bahamas)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 222-223, "Norah" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 158, "No-e in the Ark" (1 text, 1 tune)
Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories 6, "Who Built De Ark?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang, pp. 240-243, "Norah" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Roud #5355
RECORDINGS:
The Four Wanderers, "Animals Coming In" (Victor 23370, 1932; rec. 1929; on CrowTold01)
A. A. Gray & Seven Foot Dilly, "The Old Ark's a-Moving" (Vocalion 5458, 1930; on CrowTold02, Babylon)
Norfolk Jubilee Four [or Quartet] "Who Built the Ark?" (OKeh 4400, 1921; Parlophone [Australia] A2062, n.d.)
Governor Alf Taylor & his Old Limber Quartet, "Brother Noah Built an Ark" (Victor 19451, 1924)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "Old Uncle Noah" (subject)
  cf. "One More River to Cross" (floating lyrics)
  cf. "The Old Ark's A-Moverin'" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [72 words]: This shares verses and choruses with so many other Noah songs that it's hard to parse it out, but the distinguishing mark of the "Who built the ark?" chorus is a useful delineator.
The Gray-Dilly version, despite the title, is not "The Old Ark's A-Moverin"; the verses are quite different, and so is the overall tone. As a final note, it's only appropriate that a song about Noah should be composed entirely of floating verses. - PJS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: RcWBTA

Who Dat?
DESCRIPTION: "Who dat tappin' at de window? Who dat knockin' at de do' Mammy tappin' at de window, Pappy knockin' at de do'."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: lullaby nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 154, "Who Dat?" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #11597
File: ScNF154A

Who Did Swallow Jonah?
DESCRIPTION: "Who did (x4), Who did swallow Jo-Jo-Jonah?... Who did swallow Jonah down?"
"Whale did... swallow Jonah whole." "Noah in the arky... bailed." "Daniel... in the lion's den."
"David... killed Goliath."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns); 1893 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute) (see notes)
KEYWORDS: Bible religious humorous
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 40, "Peter on the Sea" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, pp. 68-69,
"Peter on the Sea" (1 text, 1 tune; pp. 88-89 in the 1901 edition) [for 1893 edition, see notes]
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 196, "Jonah and the Whale" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 346, "Jonah and the Whale" (6 texts and/or fragments, but only the "D" and "E" texts and the "F" fragment are this piece; "A" and "B" are "Jonah and the Whale (Living Humble)" and "C" is "Hide Away")
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 346 "Jonah and the Whale" (3 tunes plus text excerpts, of which "f" is this piece)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 386, "Who Did Swallow Jonah" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Fisk University Jubilee Quartette, "Peter on the Sea" (Edison Amberol 978, 1912)
Mustard and Gravy, "The Whale Did, I Know He Did" (Bluebird B-7905, 1938)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Daniel in the Den of Lions" (on NLCR16)
North Carolina Cooper Boys, "Daniel in the Den of Lions" (OKeeh 45174, 1927; on CrowTold02)
Utica Institute Jubilee Singers, "Peter on the Sea" (Victor 21925, 1929)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Hide Away (Jonah and the Whale)" (subject) and references there
cf. "Fisherman Peter" ("Peter on the sea" theme)
cf. "We Are Almost Down to the Shore" ("Peter on the sea" theme)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Daniel in the Den of Lions
The Whale Did, I Know He Did

NOTES [235 words]: This may actually be two songs; I have a recording by the Brandy Snifters claiming to derive their piece from two 78s, "Daniel in the Den of Lions" by the North Carolina Cooper Boys and "The Whale Did, I Know He Did" by Mustard and Gravy. The verses of this collated version, however, are almost all found in the Folksinger's Wordbook text, though with differences in order. Pending more examples, I'm treating the piece as a unity.
The story of the fish (NOT a whale!) which swallowed Jonah is related in Jonah 2 (for more about this, see the notes to "God's Radiophone"). The Hebrews in the fiery furnace ("Shadrack, Meshak, Abindigo" -- all misspelled, be it noted) are a reference to Daniel 3. The story of Noah and the Ark (actually two stories collated) is in Genesis 6-8. David and Goliath (again, two stories collated) occupy 1 Samuel 17. - RBW

Listening to "Daniel in the Den of Lions," it's clearly the same song as, "Who Did Swallow Jonah?" - PJS

But that still leaves the mystery of "The Whale Did, I Know He Did." - RBW
I'd guess that "The Whale Did" is essentially the same song, with the title changed. - PJS

Last updated in version 5.1
File: FSWB386B

Who Goes Round My Stone Wall

DESCRIPTION: "'Who's going round my stone wall?' 'It's only (Bobby Bingo/Jackie Lingo/Old Tom). 'Don't you steal my (fat sheep/chickens). 'None but (one/two/etc.)."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1890 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: playparty chickens animal theft

FOUND IN: Britain New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 52, "(Who's going round my house tonight?)" (1 text)

Roud #12771
File: SuSm052

Who Goes Round? (Granny Hatchett)

DESCRIPTION: "Who's that going round my house this dark and stormy night?" "Raw head and boody bones." "What do you want?" "Fire...." "Ain't got no fire." "I see smoke." "That's just the young ones...." "Give me one...." "Take the least and leave the best"
Who Has Managed

DESCRIPTION: "I've traveled through the state, dear Tom, we long have loved so well. And what's the matter with things here.... The working class are very poor...." The singer recalls the good days when Nebraska was settled, and wonders who has mismanaged it since
AUTHOR: Words: Luna E. (Mrs. J. T.) Kellie (1857-1940)
EARLIEST DATE: 1890 (Farmer's Alliance, September 6, 1890 edition, according to Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore)
KEYWORDS: home travel Indians(Am.) hardtimes money
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Welsch-NebraskaPioneerLore, pp. 61-62, "Who Has Managed" (1 text, tune referenced)
ADDITIONAL: Nebraska Folklore, Pamphlet Eighteen, "Farmers' Alliance Songs of the 1890's," Federal Writers' Project, 1938, p. 8, "Who Has Managed" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "Twenty Years Ago (Forty Years Ago)" (tune)
NOTES [12 words]: For background on Luna Kellie, see the notes to "Marching for Freedom." - RBW
Last updated in version 3.6
File: Wels063

Who Have You Got In Heaven

DESCRIPTION: "(Who've you got in Heaven?) (x2) Lord I can't stand still, (Stand still Jordan) (x3) Lord I can't stand still." Later verses start "I've got a (mother/sister/brother/...) in Heaven"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang)
KEYWORDS: death nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang, pp. 326-327, "Who Yuh Got Een Heben" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [18 words]: The description follows Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang but I do not repeat the dialect. - BS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: HPR326W

Who Is My Neighbor?

DESCRIPTION: "'Who is my neighbor?' Hear the poor Jew cry. 'Who will a-escort me? Help me ere I die.'"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: religious Jew
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 60, "Who is my Neighbor?" (1 text)
  Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 60, "Who Is My Neighbor?" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Roud #7845
Who Is on the Lord's Side

DESCRIPTION: "Let me tell you what is nat'rally the fact. Who is on the Lord's side, None o' God's children nebber look back, Who is on the Lord's side." "Way in the valley, who is... Way in the valley...." "Weeping Mary...." "Mourning Martha." "Risen Jesus."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, p. 56, "Who Is on the Lord's Side" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #12015

NOTES [160 words]: The phrase "Who is on the Lord's side" comes from Exodus 32:26, though I'm not sure it's a context I'd like to quote -- Moses is encouraging the Levites to consecrate themselves by killing their relatives!

There is another hymn entitled "Who Is on the Lord's Side," with words by Frances Ridley Havergal and music by C. Luise Reichardt. It is not the same song. It begins, "Who is on the Lord's side? Who will serve the King? Who will be his helpers?" According to John Julian, editor, A Dictionary of Hymnology, 1892; second edition 1907 (I use the 1957 Dover edition in two volumes), p. 498 (which lists more than fifty hymns by Havergal, most of which I've never heard of, although she did write the relatively well-known text "Take My Life and Let It Be"), it was originally published in Home Missions 1877. A text can be found in Robert J. Morgan, Then Sings My Soul, Book 2: 150 of the World's Greatest Hymn Stories, Nelson, 2004, pp. 172-173. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.7

File: AWG056

Who is the Lady?

DESCRIPTION: Dan'l Mooney's father died and left him money if, the will said, he would marry. He sees a lady and thinks "if she would only wed me I'd be happy." He'd give her diamonds, they'd go to Ireland, they'd have a baby boy who'd become "just like his old Papa"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan)

KEYWORDS: marriage lastwill money Ireland

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan 7, "Who is the Lady?" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #5227

RECORDINGS:
Tom Lenihan, "Who is the Lady?" (on IRTLenihan01)

File: RcWITLad

Who Killed Cock Robin?

DESCRIPTION: "Who killed Cock Robin? I, said the sparrow, with my little bow and arrow." "Who saw him die? I, said the fly, with my little streaky eye." Various creatures, mostly birds, describe their parts in the death and burial of Cock Robin

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1744 (Tom Thumb's Pretty Song Book volume II)

KEYWORDS: bird death burial

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,SE) Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (18 citations):
Greig/Duncan8 1679, "Cock Robin" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 213, "Cocky Robin" (4 texts, 4 tunes)
Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 74, "Tommy Robin (Cock Robin)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 315, "Cock Robin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #226, "Who Killed Cock Robin?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Carey-MarylandFolkLegendsAndFolkSongs, pp. 116-117, "Cock Robin" (1 text)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 56-57, "Who Killed the Robin?" (1 text)
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 66, "The Death of Cock Robin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 88, pp. 140-141, "Cock Robin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #92, "Cock Robin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolksongsOfNorthAmerica 87, "Cock Robin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Abrahams/Foss-AngloAmericanFolksongStyle, pp. 69-70, "Who Killed Cock Robin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 110, "Who killed Cock Robin?" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #22, pp. 36-37, "(Who did kill Cock Robbin?)"
Dolby-OrangesAndLemons, p. 233, "Who Killed Cock Robin?" (1 text)
CHASE-AMERICAN DT, COCKROBIN*
Roud #494
RECORDINGS:
Edith Harmon, "Who Killed Poor Robin?" (LC AAFS 2907 A2, 1939)
Buell Kazee, "Cock Robin" (on Kazee01)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Who Killed Poor Robin?" (on NLCR17, NLCRCD2)
SAME TUNE:
Poor Jude, or the Death of the Judiciary (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 173)
NOTES [412 words]: Wild theories swirl about this piece -- e.g. that it is linked with political ministry of Robert Walpole (which ended in 1742), or describes the English King William II Rufus (reigned 1087-1100, which I would consider sufficient reason to reject that idea), or that it is a retelling of the Norse Balder legend (!). A legend of St. Kentigern says that, after others at his monastery decapitated a robin, he restored it to life. However, there are European analogues to the piece, and earlier illustrations which may belong with the story, so any theory must be considered speculative at best. Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs reports that it is a Shoshone night chant.

The Baring-Goulds argue that the piece must go back to Middle English times, because it rhymes "owl" and "shovel." This, however, appears to be in error on two counts: First, the ancient spelling "shouel" was not pronounced "showel" (in Old English, it's "scofl"). And there are English dialects which confuse "v" and "w." The Opies note that there are still people who pronounce the word "showel."

Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes #109, "Cock Robin got up early, at the break of day," describes the courtship of Cock Robin and Jenny Wren (who are traditionally linked as husband and wife although this is of course physiologically impossible). The Opies mention a speculation that this was published as a prequel to "Who Killed Cock Robin?" It is certain that the folk tale of their marriage is ancient; see "The Marriage of Robin Redbreast and Jenny Wren" on p. 542-543 of volume A.2 of Katherine Briggs, A Dictionary of British Folk-Tales in the English Language, Part A: Folk Narratives, 1970 (I use the 1971 Routledge paperback that combines volumes A.1 and A.2).

Williams/Maden/Green/Crutch: Sidney Herbert Williams and Falconer Madan, revised and augmented by Roger Lancelyn Green, further revised by Denis Crutch, The Lewis Carroll Handbook (earlier editions titled A Handbook of the Literature of the Rev. C. L. Dodgson, 1932, 1961, 1970); Dawson Books, 1979 , pp. 112-113, lists "A MS political parody in eleven 4-line stanzas, beginning "Who caused the Boer Rebellion" and referring to Gladstone as "the people's Willy" as being sent by Charles Dodgson to Edith (Hutchinson) Shute in 1887. A shorter text was found in the papers of H. Rider Haggard. It is likely that one or the other wrote it, and certain that both knew it, so this odd piece certainly made its way around. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: SKE74
Who Killed Cock Robin? (II)

AUTHOR: "Ierne" (R.R. Madden) (source: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

EARLIEST DATE: 1887 (Madden's _Literary Remains of the United Irishmen of 1798_, according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

KEYWORDS: rebellion violence Ireland nonballad patriotic questions

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 168, "Who Killed Cock Robin?" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [200 words]: There are thirty-eight verses. The form follows "Who Killed Cock Robin?" Each verse has a question and an answer about eighteenth and nineteenth century Irish history. More villains than heroes of that period are among the answers.

Here is an example of the form (Dublin Town Major Sirr [for whom see "The Major"] is the villain again):

Who shot Lord Edward?
The Major said demurely,
I took my aim securely,
I shot Lord Edward!

[The references to "82" is to] April 16, 1782 [when] Henry Grattan moved a declaration of the independence of the Irish parliament. Grattan: "Ireland is now a nation!" (source: "Henry Grattan" at the Ireland Information Guide site). [See also the notes to "Ireland's Glory." - RBW]

Pitt and Union are discussed, among other places in this index, in the notes to "The Game of Cards" (II).

Captain Swayne appears briefly in "The Song of Prosperous," in which he dies in the fire. He is one of the people accused of "pitch capping": filling a cap with boiling pitch and putting it on a peasant's head. (source: "The Search for Weapons" in 1798 Rebellion at Rathregan National School site). - BS

Madden's pen-name of "Ierne" is one of the sundry ancient names for Ireland. - RBW

File: Moyl168

Who No Been Out, Don't Come a Bay

DESCRIPTION: Alternate lines are a chorus, "Bear away Yankee bear away." The shantyman sings: "Who no been off no come a bay... If you want, deliver your harpoon... De gun on the blank so len' us a hand... Yankee doodle dandy boy... bear away to Baltimore."

AUTHOR: unknown

KEYWORDS: work sea shanty whale whaler

FOUND IN: West Indies(St Vincent)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Abrahams-DeepTheWaterShallowTheShore, pp. 105-107, "Who No Been Out, Don't Come a Bay" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [45 words]: Abrahams quotes a blackfish whaler who says that when one of the crew doesn't show up for a day's whaling, "an' when we take fish and come back home, usually sing this shanty 'Who no been out, don't come a bay.' Who hasn't been out don't come now and look for meat." - BS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: AWIS105

Who Said I Was a Bum?

DESCRIPTION: Singer, called a bum, takes exception to the name. He tells of life as a hobo, says "I never work, I never have, and I never will by gum/I know I'm a hobo, but who said I was a bum?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1927 (recording, Carson Robison)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer is called a bum, but takes exception to the name. He tells of life as a hobo, says "I never work, I never have, and I never will by gum/I know I'm a hobo, but who said I was a bum?" "Whenever I see a stack of wood, I go the other way" He also notes that "My shoes are worn, my pants are torn, there's holes in both my knees" and that the wind blows through his BVDs
KEYWORDS: poverty pride work nonballad hobo
FOUND IN: US
RECORDINGS:
Frank Luther, "Who Said I Was A Bum?" (Victor 21686 [as Bud Billings], 1928) (Broadway 1226, 1929)
Carson Robison, "Who Said I Was a Bum?" (Herschel Gold Seal 2021, c. 1927)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "You Wonder Why I'm a Hobo" (subject, attitude)
File: RcWSIWAB

Who Were You With Last Night?
DESCRIPTION: As a man wanders in to his workplace, his colleagues ask, "Who were you with last night, Out in the pale moonlight? It wasn't your sister, And it wasn't your ma... Are you going to tell your missus?" He claims it was Uncle Fred, but it was another girl
AUTHOR: Fred Godfrey and Mark Sheridan (source: sheet music)
EARLIEST DATE: 1912 (recorded by Mark Sheridan)
KEYWORDS: love infidelity humorous
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang, p. 214, "(no title)" (1 text, which includes only a portion of the chorus)
RECORDINGS:
Mark Sheridan, "Who Were You Wish Last Night?" (Regal G-6506, 1912; Columbia-Rena 2066, 1913)
File: BrPa214B

Who Will Care for Mother Now?
DESCRIPTION: "Why am I so weak and weary? See how faint my heated breath.... Tell me, comrades, is this death?" The dying soldier asks "Who will care for mother now?" He hopes someone will care for her, and hopes to die as a soldier should AUTHOR: Charles Carroll Sawyer
EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (sheet music published by Sawyer & Thompson, NY)
KEYWORDS: soldier death mother Civilwar
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 157-159, "Who Will Care for Mother Now?" (1 text, 1 tune); also p. 160, "Who Will Care for Micky Now" (1 text, a parody of the preceding)
Silber-SoldierSongsAndHomeFrontBalladsOfCivilWar, pp. 76-77, "Who Will Care for Mother Now?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2616, pp. 177-178, "Who Will Care for Mother Now?" (13 references)
DT, WHOCARE*
Roud #18948
SAME TUNE:
Who Will Care for Micky Now ("Arrah! Molly darlin', I am drafted," by Eugene T. Johnston) (Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, p. 160; Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 177)
Who Will Care for Conscript Now! ("Oh, I am afraid and weary," by the "Dock St. Bard") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 177)
Who Will Care for Niggers Now? A Parody on: Who Will Care for Mother Now ("List to me, plantation niggers") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 178)
Who Will Care for Old Abe Now? A Parody ("Why's old Abe so sad and weary") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 178)
The Young Conscription and His Lady ("I have come, my dearest Rosa") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 184)
NOTES [118 words]: The fact that this song achieved some success probably tells us more about the nineteenth century than about the quality of the song. Charles Carroll Sawyer is best known for writing the lyrics to "When This Cruel War Is Over." - RBW

Although seemingly unknown in tradition, it was popular enough to inspire a widely-printed response. According to Edwin Wolf 2nd, American Song Sheets, Slip Ballads, and Political Broadsides 1850-1870, Library Company of Philadelphia, 1963, p. 5, there were at least eleven broadside prints of "Answer to Who Will Care for Mother Now," beginning "Quell, oh! quell your fears my darling." It had three stanzas and a chorus, and the words were said to be by C. G. Streval. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: SCW76

---

Who Will Hold My Stovepipe Hat

DESCRIPTION: "Who will hold my (stovepipe hat (3x)), Oh who will hold my stovepipe hat When I am dead and gone?" Who will ("smoke my corncob pipe," "hold my sweetheart's hand")...

Nonsense refrain ending "I'm a son-of-a-gun American man"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed)

KEYWORDS: death nonballad nonsense

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 234-235, "Who Will Hold My Stovepipe Hat" (1 text, 1 tune)

Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, p. 127, "Who Will Hold My Stovepipe Hat" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11567

NOTES [32 words]: Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed: "This is a parody of the 'Who Will Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot' stanzas in 'The Lass of Loch Royal.'" It seems like a parody of something, but I don't know of what. - BS

Last updated in version 3.5

File: Ow1E234

---

Who Will Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot

DESCRIPTION: Floating verses found in sundry other songs: "Oh who will shoe your pretty little foot, And who will glove your hand...." "(Papa) will shoe my pretty little foot, (Mama) will glove my hand...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: (undatable as the key lyrics probably predate the song as an independent entity)

KEYWORDS: floatingverses clothes nonballad

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (31 citations):

Bronson 76, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (23 versions, of which #6, #7, #9, #10, #14, and #15 must be placed here)

Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 149-150, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (2 fragments)

Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland2, pp. 174-177, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (2 fragments, one of which is probably "The Lass of Roch Royal" but the second being "Pretty Little Foot"; 1 tune)

Randolph 18, "Oh Who Will Shoe My Foot?" (8 texts, 5 tunes; the "B" and "H" versions are of this sort) {H=Bronson's #7}

Arnold-FolkSongsAlabama, pp. 14-15, "Winter's Night" (1 text, 1 tune, very heavily composite, starting with "As I rode out last winter's night," then two "Pretty little foot" verses, then "Lonesome dove" verses and ending with "I wish to the Lord I'd never been born") {Bronson's #22}

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 259, "I'll Hang My Harp on a Willow Tree" (2 fragments, named for that key line from "Tavern in the Town" which occurs in both fragments, but the "A" text is mostly "Pretty Little Foot"); also 301, "High-Topped Shoes" (2 texts, both mixed; "A" is mostly "Pretty Little Foot" with verses from "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down" while "B" is a hash of "Don't Let Your Deal Go Down," "More Pretty Girls Than One," "In the Pines," and others); also 306, "By By, My Honey" (1 text, mostly this though with several floating verses, e.g. from "Lonesome Road")

Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 22, "The Lass of Roch Royal (1 excerpt, 1
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 301, "High-Topped Shoes" (2 tunes plus text excerpts, of which "A" has verses of this song)

Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 13, pp. 91-93, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (1 fragments, of which "A" is the "Pretty Little Foot" with a chorus from "Careless Love" and "B" is two "Pretty Little Foot" stanzas artificially and wrongly extracted from "Wild Bill Jones")

Hudson-FolkTunesFromMississippi 2, "Careless Love" (1 text, 1 tune, the "Pretty Little Foot"/"Careless Love" combination from Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 13)

McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksong, p. 26, "(no title)" (1 generic text)

Davis-TraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 21, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (21 texts, every one of which is this piece rather than the longer ballad; additional texts appear in the Appendices, though some of these file with other songs; 4 tunes, of which the first 3, "Lass of Roch Royal," "Love Gregory," and "Lass of Roch Royal," are among the pieces which belong here; 22 more versions mentioned in Appendix A) {#21A=Bronson's #9, #21U=Bronson's #10}

Scarborough-A SongCatcherInSouthernMountains, p. 124, (no title) (1 fragment, filed under Child #76 along with a text of "New River Train/Honey Babe" and a version of "I Truly Undertand That You Love Some Other Man")

Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 21B, "Who Will Shoe Your Feet?" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 58-59, "Who Will Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #15}

Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 20-21, "Who Will Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection, pp. 28-29, "Lass of Roch Royal" (1 text, 1 tune, listed as Child #76 but appearing to be a fragment of "Young Hunting" [Child #68] with the "Pretty Little Foot" verses attached)

Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 13, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (1 text plus 8 fragments; the "A" text is "Fare You Well, My Own True Love"; "B"-"I" are "pretty little foot" fragments of one to three stanzas)

Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 131, "The Gambling Man" (1 text, built around "The Roving Gambler (The Gambling Man)" [Laws H4] but also with these verses)

Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, p. 108, "He's Going Away for to Stay a Little While" (1 text, 1 tune)

Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 78, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (3 texts, 1 tune, with the "B" text belonging here)

Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 31, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (2 texts, 2 tunes, the second clearly "The Lass of Roch Royal" but the first goes here)

Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, 98-99, "Who Will Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot" (3 texts, 1 tune; the "A" text goes here) {Bronson's #14}

Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 109, "Who's Gonna Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot" (1 text, 1 tune, with some additional stanzas which might be from "Fare You Well, My Own True Love" but which one has to suspect of being Lomax additions)

Cox-FolkSongsSouth 13, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (2 texts, with the "B" text being a short fragment of this song)

Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 269-270, "Who Will Shoe" (assorted sample stanzas)

Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 65, "Who's Gonna Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot?" (1 text, 1 tune)

Rorrer-RamblingBlues-LifeAndSongsOfCharliePoole, p. 92, "When I'm Far Away" (1 text, with an altered form: "Who will shoe your little foot (x3) When I am far away?")

Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 191, "Who's Gonna Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot?" (1 text)

Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs, p. 32, "The Conscript's Farewell" (1 text, 1 tune, with some of the words added by Dallas)

ADDITIONAL: Walter de la Mare, _Come Hither_, revised edition, 1928; note to #50, (no title) (1 text)

Roud #49

RECORDINGS:

Frank Bode, "Who's Gonna Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot?" (on FBode1)

Carolina Tar Heels, "Who's Gonna Kiss Your Lips, Dear Darling" (Victor 40100, 1929)

Charlie Poole and the North Carolina Ramblers, "When I'm Far Away" (No known Columbia release; recorded 1930)

Pete Seeger, "Poor Boy" (on PeteSeeger18)

Arthur Smith, "Green Valley Waltz" (on McGeeSmith1)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Lass of Roch Royal" [Child 76]
cf. "Fare You Well, My Own True Love (The Storms Are on the Ocean, The False True Lover, The True Lover's Farewell, Red Rosy Bush, Turtle Dove)"
cf. "Mary Anne"
cf. "My Dearest Dear" (floating lyrics)
cf. "The Lover's Lament" (floating lyrics)
cf. "Who's Gonna Love You, Honey?" (theme)
cf. "Six Months in Jail Ain't So Long" (theme)
cf. "Must I Go to Mississippit?" (floating lyrics)
cf. "The New-Slain Knight" [Child 263] (floating lyrics)

NOTES [224 words]: It is common to classify any song containing the "pretty little foot" stanzas as part of "The Lass of Roch Royal" [Child 76]. However, they have been widely associated with at least two other songs (designated in the Ballad Index as "Fare You Well, My Own True Love (The Storms Are on the Ocean, The False True Lover, The True Lover's Farewell, Red Rosy Bush, Turtle Dove)" and "Mary Anne"). In addition, the stanzas can simply float. For that matter, the verses are not an required part of "Roch Royal"; many versions (e.g. of the "Lord Gregory" group) omit them, and they are not an integral part of the plot of that ballad. For this reason we have decided to classify these verses separately. If these verses stand in isolation, they will be listed here; if they are part of a longer ballad, they will be listed with that ballad. Note, however, that any particular fragment containing these verses could be part of one of the longer ballads.

Note also that some of the ballads listed under the other titles could have been misclassified by the authors and belong here. - RBW
I classify [the Seeger recording "Poor Boy"] here for want of a better place. - PJS
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest has only the first verse which seems likely to be "The False Young Man" (Roud #419) but the singer's title makes me assume it goes here. - BS

Last updated in version 5.1
File: C076A

Who Would Have Tho't Harmon

DESCRIPTION: "Who would have tho't Harmon, that hum drum old fox, Who looks so bemeaning with his tousled locks, Would have had resolution to stand to the tack?" The speakers (Ned [Fanning] and Frank [Nash] ?) lament the troubles the regulators cause

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: political nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 280, "Who Would Have Tho't Harmon" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "From Hillsborough Town the First of May" (subject)
cf. "When Fanning First to Orange Came" (subject)
cf. "Said Frohock to Fanning" (subject)

NOTES [86 words]: One of four "regulator" songs in Brown. The regulators were a group of protesters against high taxes and fees, found mostly in North Carolina though some also were active in South Carolina. For more on the Regulators, see the notes to "When Fanning First to Orange Came."
The "Ned" of this song is probably Edmund Fanning; again, see the notes to "When Fanning First to Orange Came" for background.
The editors of Brown think "Frank" is probably Francis Nash, the county clerk; I have no reason to think otherwise. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.5
File: BrII280

Who Would True Valour See (He Who Would Valiant Be)

DESCRIPTION: "Who would true valour see, Let him come hither; One here will constant be, Come wind, come weather, There's no discouragement Shall make him once relent His first avowed intent To be a pilgrim."
Nothing will stop the Pilgrim from his journey

AUTHOR: Words: John Bunyan
EARLIEST DATE: 1684 (Pilgrim's Progress, according to Reynolds)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
ADDITIONAL: John Bunyan, _The Pilgrim's Progress_ 1684, "(no title)" (1 text) (it's about 95% of the way through the book; in the 1987 Penguin edition with introduction and Notes by Roger Sharrock, it's on p. 263)
[Percy Dearmer, Ralph Vaughan Williams, and Martin Shaw, editors], _Songs of Praise_, first edition 1926; revised edition, Geoffrey Cumberlege, 1932, #515, p. 619, "(He Who Would Valiant Be)"
William Reynolds, _Companion to Baptist Hymnal_, Broadman Press, 1976, pp. 86-87, "He who would valiant be" (1 text, the Bunyan original, not the Baptist version)
NOTES [138 words]: This is unquestionably not a folk song. But it has a long and complicated history as a poem, and was once recorded by Maddy Prior (on the album "Sing Lustyly and With Good Courage"), which means that folkies may have questions about it. Although considered Bunyan's most popular lyric, Reynolds, p. 87, says it was not "used as a hymn" until Percy Dearmer produced a modified version in 1906. The Baptist version uses the tune St. Dunstan's, written by C. Winifred Douglas in 1917. Prior, however, sings it to the tune "Monk's Gate," which is the tune used by Dearmer et al. It is not clear whether Vaughn Williams or Shaw fitted the tune, or if perhaps Dearmer suggested it. This is also the tune used in the 1958 Lutheran Service Book and Hymnal, which is the only one of the dozen or so hymnals in my library to contain it. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.1
File: AddHWWVB

Who You Goin' to Married To
DESCRIPTION: "Bubbo come and tell me, Who you goin' to marry to" "Marry to the girl that I love." Bubbo doesn't love Mary or Carrie: "nobody but me bent-foot Stacy." "Go give her one gold ring ... velvet clothes"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1954 (Elder-FolksongsFromTobago)
KEYWORDS: love marriage ring clothes dialog nonballad
FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Elder-FolksongsFromTobago 24, "Who You Goin' To Married To" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: ElTo024

Who'll Join the Union?
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Oh Hallelujah (x3), who'll join the Union? (x2)." Verses: The singer wants to see "God's work go on." "Pray to the Lord to turn you around." "Christ has bought my liberty." "If you belong to the Union band ... I love you all both bond and free"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, pp. 142-143, "Who'll Jine de Union?" (1 text, 1 tune; pp. 220-221 in the 1874 edition)
Roud #15245
NOTES [23 words]: In Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute's verses, every alternate line is "Who'll join the Union?" - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: Dett142
Who's Been Fooling You

DESCRIPTION: See notes for the chorus. Dunbar's verses include: mama and papa tell him, "Don't let nobody make a fool out of you"; "I'm going away this morning, Coming here no more" and he won't change hs mind; he tells "baby," "I'm tired of fooling around with you"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (USDunbarS01)

KEYWORDS: sex parting travel nonballad lover

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:

Scott Dunbar, "Who Been Foolin' You" (on USDunbarS01)

NOTES [124 words]: The idea for Dunbar's song seems to come from L. J. Waiters with Cliff Driver's Band "Baby Who's Been Foolin' You" (Unity 2709, 1969). Omitting Waiters's spoken interjections, he begins his song, "Baby, who been foolin' you, Baby, who been foolin' you, It's three times seven and you should know what you want to do." Waiters does not sing the "three times seven" line again in his recording.

Dunbar begins his song, "Tell me who been foolin' you, Well you three times seven and you do know what you want to do." Dunbar adds those lines to his chorus of "Tell me who baby, Tell me who been foolin' you." I assume "baby" is over twenty-one and old enough, the singer thinks, to know what she wants to do.

Dunbar's verses are not like Waiters's. - BS

Last updated in version 5.1

File: RcWhoBFY

---

Who's Gonna Love You, Honey?

DESCRIPTION: "Who's gonna love you, honey, when I'm away? Who's gonna stay and say sweet things every day? Who's gonna look into your eyes divine? Who's gonna kiss those lips that I call mine?... Who's gonna love you when I'm gone?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1922 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: love separation questions

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 302, "Who's Gonna Love You, Honey?" (1 short text)

Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 302, "Who's Gonna Love You, Honey?" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)

Roud #16862

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Who Will Shoe Your Pretty Little Foot" (theme)

File: Br3302

---

Who's Knocking at the Door (Colors)

DESCRIPTION: "Who's knocking at the door? The Angel with the Golden Star. What do you want? [Blue/Green/any color]" Used to pick teams for a game.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1903 (Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren)

KEYWORDS: nonballad playparty colors

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #153, "Colors" (1 text)

File: Newe153

---

Who's That Yonder

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Who's that yonder? (3x) Looks like my Lord coming in the sky." Sample verse: "Little did I think He was so nigh, He spoke and He made me laugh and cry, Looks like my Lord...."

Whoa Back, Buck

DESCRIPTION: The experiences of a poor farmer. He describes his fieldwork methods ("Sometimes I plow my old grey horse..."), the crops, his gal's big feet, the dances they went to together, etc. Possible chorus: "Whoa back, buck! And gee! by the lamb!"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: work horse farming poverty floating verses
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Randolph 281, "Couldn't Raise No Sugar Corn" (1 text, 1 tune, which might be separate since it lacks the chorus)
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 187, "Last Year Was a Fine Crap Year" (1 text)
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 67, "Whoa Buck" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FSNA 282, "Whoa Back, Buck" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cray-AshGrove, p. 18, "Whoa Back, Buck" (1 text, 1 tune)
Arnett-IHearAmericaSinging, pp. 168-169, "Whoa, Back, Buck!" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, p 72-73, "Oh, My God, Them 'Taters" (1 short text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Moses Asch and Alan Lomax, Editors, _The Leadbelly Songbook_, Oak, 1962, p. 46, "Whoa Buck" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #10060
RECORDINGS:
Anne, Judy, & Zeke Canova, "Whoa Back Buck" (Banner 32126/Oriole 8043/Perfect 12684/Romeo 5043. 1931; rec. 1930) (Columbia 15630-D [as Three Georgia Cracker, "Whoa Buck Whoa"], 1931; rec. 1930)
Lulu Belle & Scotty, "Whoa Back Buck" (Conqueror 9587, 1940)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Song of the Pinewoods" (floating lyrics)
cf. "I'm a Rowdy Soul" (floating lyrics)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Tighten on the Backband
NOTES [77 words]: The Lomaxes credit this to Lead Belly, with some new material of their own. (What else is new?) However, the fragment in Randolph strongly implies that Lead Belly did no more than reshape traditional materials -- and then the Lomaxes reshaped THAT. It is on this basis that I include Greenway's song "Oh, My God, Them 'Taters" here. Greenway's song is just a fragment; it is possible that it is part of a longer song -- or that the Lomaxes borrowed its lyrics. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.3
File: LxU067
Whoa Mule (The Kickin' Mule)

DESCRIPTION: The singer describes courting and the dangers of a kicking mule which "kicked the feathers off a goose," etc. The stubborn mule Simon Slick is often mentioned. The chorus will generally contain the instruction "Whoa, mule."

AUTHOR: Copyrighted in 1918 by Henry Creamer & Turner Layton, but they may have adapted a traditional African-American piece

EARLIEST DATE: 1918 (copyrighted by Creamer & Layton)

KEYWORDS: animal courting talltale humorous

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,Ro,SE,So)

REFERENCES (14 citations):
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 513, "The Kicking Mule" (1 text)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 513, "The Kicking Mule" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
- Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #106, "Whoa, Mule" (1 text)
- Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 180, "Simon Slick" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
- Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 186, "Whoa, Mule!" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 84, "Simon Slick" (2 texts, longer than most, 1 tune)
- Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #183, "The Kicking Mule" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Warner-FolksongsAndBalladsOfTheEasternSeaboard, p. 20, "Go 'Long Mule" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 231, "The Kickin' Mule" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Pankake-Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, pp. 62-63, "Whoa, Mule, Whoa" (1 text, tune referenced)
- Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains, pp. 76-77, "The Kicking Mule" (1 text, 1 tune)
- McNeil-SouthernMountainFolksong, pp. 172-173, "Ol' Coon Dog" (1 text, 1 tune, with many floating verses and the chorus of "Whoa Mule (The Kickin' Mule)" but the largest share of the lyrics from "Way Down in Rackensack (Old Coon Dog)"); pp. 180-185, "The Kicking Mule" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp. 25-26, "Johnson's Old Grey Mule" (1 apparently composite text, 1 tune, with material from "Whoa Mule (The Kickin' Mule)" and "The Old Grey Mule (Johnson's Mule)" -- which easily mix anyway -- apparently deliberately mixed)

DT, SIMONSLK*

Roud #3774

RECORDINGS:
- Roy Acuff, "Whoa Mule" (Capitol 2738, 1954)
- Clarence Ashley & Tex Isley, "Whoa Mule" (on Ashley01)
- Buckeye Boys, "Thompson's Old Gray Mule" (Champion 16168, 1931; Champion 45200, c. 1935; Minerva M-14046, 1936; rec. 1930)
- Loman D. Cansler, "Kickin' Maud [or Kickin' Maude]" (on Cansler1)
- Bill Chitwood & Bud Landress, "Whoa Mule" (Brunswick 2811/Silvertone 3050, c. 1925; rec. 1924)
- Al Clauser & his Oklahoma Outlaws, "Whoa, Mule, Whoa" (ARC 7-08-63/Conqueror 8840/MacGregor 993, 1937)
- Elisha Cox, "Whoa Mule" (AAFS 547 A2)
- Vernon Dalhart, "Go Long Mule" (Banner 1416 [as Bob White], 1924; Banner 32130 [as Sid Turner], 1931) (Pathe 32068/Perfect 12147 [both as Sid Turner], 1924)
- J. D. Dillingham & O. J. Light, "Whoa, Maude, Whoa" (AAFS 899 B2)
- John B. Evans, "The Kicking Mule" (Brunswick 237, 1928)
- Carl Fenton & his Orch. "Go Long Mule" (Brunswick 2683, 1924)
- Leonard C. Fulwinder, "Whoa Mule, Whoa" (Victor V-40270, 1930; Aurora [Canadian] 238, c. 1932)
- Georgia Yellow Hammers, "Jonnson's Old Grey Mule" (Victor 20550, 1927); "The Sale of Simon Slick - Pts. 1 & 2" (Victor V-40069, 1929)
- Happiness Boys (Billy Jones & Ernest Hare, "Go Long Mule" (Columbia 194-D, 1924)
- The Hillbillies, "Whoa! Mule" (OKeh 40376, 1925)
- Hinson, Pitts & Coley, "Whoa Mule Whoa" (Bluebird B-7438, 1938)
- Paul Holland, "Whoa, Mule, Whoa" (AAFS 3217 A1)
- Al Hopkins & his Buckle Busters [or John Hopkins], "Whoa, Mule" (Brunswick 179, 1927)
- International Novelty Orch. "Go Long Mule" (Victor 19442, 1924)
- Matilda Keene, "Whoa, Larry, Whoa" (AAFS 979 B1)
- Louisiana Lou, "Go Long Mule" (Victor 23858, c. 1934; Bluebird 5749, 1935; rec. 1933)
- Uncle Dave Macon & his Fruit Jar Drinkers "Go Along Mule" (Vocalion 5165, 1927; on Whoa Mule Whoa

DESCRIPTION: "Mister Gradlock owned a pretty mule, the prettiest mule in town." It is blind and can't stand still. The mule throws the owner's girl and spoils her frock; she hits it and it flattens her; her only words are "Whoa mule whoa."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle)

KEYWORDS: animal humorous courting clothes injury

FOUND IN: US(Ap,Ro)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #184, "Whoa Mule Whoa" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, p. 143, "Whoa, Mulie, Whoa" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7509

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Whoa Mule (The Kickin' Mule)" (subject: mule behavior)

File: Hubb184

Whoa, Larry, Whoa

DESCRIPTION: "Larry went out to plow in his corn, Wishing to his soul he'd never been born." The woods are too thick to pass. His breakfast is spoiled. Bugs are everywhere. "All the... Irishmen ought to have been hung." "Ha, ha, Paddy, this will never do."
Whoa! Ha! Buck and Jerry Boy

DESCRIPTION: "With a merry little jog and a gay little song, (Spoken: Whoa! Ha! Buck and Jerry Boy!), We trudge our way the whole day long... We'll reach Salt Lake some day or bust." The singer thinks of the girl up ahead and the dances along his journey

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (recording, L. M. Hilton)
KEYWORDS: travel courting dancing nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 172, "Whoa! Ha! Buck and Jerry Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
File/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 21, "Whoa! Ha! Buck and Jerry Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WHOAHAW
Roud #6692
RECORDINGS:
L. M. Hilton, "Whoa! Ha! Buck and Jerry Boy" (on Hilton01)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Turkey in the Straw" (portions of tune)
File: LoF172

Whole Hog or None, The

DESCRIPTION: Vignettes of people who go "the whole hog or none," e.g. boxer Heenan, who never gave Sayers any peace, and Brigham Young, who had sixty wives

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1919 (Randolph); there are nineteenth century broadsides and parodies
KEYWORDS: fight marriage humorous
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
April 17, 1860 - Boxing match between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers, stopped by spectators after 42 rounds. The bout was the last official bare-knuckle fight
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Randolph 513, "The Whole Hog or None" (1 text, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2619 (2620?), p. 178, "Whole Hog or None" (1 reference)
Roud #7596
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Rory of the Hill" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
Rory of the Hill (File: Zimm075) per broadsides Bodleian 2806 b.10(137), 2806 c.8(278)
The Hale Rick-Ma-Tick (broadside NLScotland, L.C.Fol.70(93a), Poet's Box (Glasgow), 1879; apparently first published 1872)
Whole Hog or None No. 2 (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 178)
File: R513

Whoop 'Em Up, Cindy

DESCRIPTION: Floating verses, often praising Cindy: "Went up on the mountain top, give my horn a blow...; "Higher up the mountain top, greener grow the cherries..." Chorus: "Whoop 'em up, Cindy, Lord/I love Cindy, Lord/Whoop 'em up, Cindy, Lord, Lord/Gone forevermore"
Whoopee Blues

DESCRIPTION: Singer's lover has "been gone all day ... make whoopee all night." His razor will "cut" her "late hours." He gave the undertaker her height and size: "Next time you go out carry your black suit along" (so you're ready to be buried)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (StuffDreams1)

KEYWORDS: infidelity warning death nonballad lover

FOUND IN:

RECORDINGS:
- King Solomon Hill, "Whoopee Blues (alternate take)" (on StuffDreams1)

NOTES [18 words]: Three line blues: the first line is repeated -- more or less -- and the last line completes the thought. - BS

Last updated in version 5.2

File: RcWhooBl

Whorehouse Bells Were Ringing, The

DESCRIPTION: A customer and a prostitute engage in oral sex, "each trying to get their guns off first into the other's heads," until he offers to give it "the boar-hog grind."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1976 (recorded by Logsdon from Riley Neal)

KEYWORDS: bawdy whore sex

FOUND IN: US(So,SW)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Randolph/Legman-RollMeInYourArms II, pp. 601-603, "The Whorehouse Bells Were Ringing" (3 texts)
- Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 23, pp. 145-148, "The Whorehouse Bells Were Ringing" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, WHBELLS*
- Roud #10093

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Fatal Wedding" (tune)

SAME TUNE:
- Carolina Twins, "The Boarding House Bells Are Ringing" (Victor 21575, 1928)
NOTES [120 words]: Either the Carolina Twins' recording is a cleaned-up version of "The Whorehouse Bells Were Ringing" or, more likely, the original of which this is a parody. There is also song called "The Convent Bells Are Ringing," of unknown relationship. - PJS

Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging thinks "Whorehouse" is a direct parody of "The Fatal Wedding," with which it shares a tune, but I incline to think there was an intermediate version. "The Boarding House Bells Are Ringing" strikes me as a reasonable candidate. Logsdon's informant Riley Neal confesses that this song is "just plumb nasty." I incline to agree; most bawdy songs theoretically have a humorous element, but this one strikes me as existing only to disgust. - RBW

File: RL601

Whose Old Cow

DESCRIPTION: "Twas the end of roundup the last day of June, Or maybe July I just don't remember...." The signer describes the gathering for the roundup. When the herds gathered, "Nig" Add separates the herds. An unknown brand puzzles him; he claims the cow

AUTHOR: H. Howard Thorp
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Thorp)
KEYWORDS: cowboy work
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thorp/Fife-SongsOfTheCowboys XXI, pp. 247-250 (42-44), "Who's Old Cow" (2 texts, though they look at best marginally related); Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 166-168, "Whose Old Cow" (1 tex)
Roud #8045
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Brands
NOTES [48 words]: This is another Thorp poem that does not seem to have made any mark in oral tradition. Its racist tone ("White folks [are] smarter'n Add," "Add" being a black man), as well as its somewhat forced diction and the obscure use of branding terms, probably guarantee continued obscurity. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3
File: TF21

Whummil Bore, The [Child 27]

DESCRIPTION: A servant has waited on the king for seven years without ever seeing the princess. One day, peering through a hole in the wall (the whummil bore), he sees her being dressed. He greatly enjoys the sight, but can't stay long.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1825
KEYWORDS: clothes servant
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord)) US(SE)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Child 27, "The Whummil Bore" (1 text)
Bronson 27, "The Whummil Bore" (1 version)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 437-438, "The Whummil Bore" (notes plus the "With my glimpy" chorus)
Davis-MoreTraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 14, pp. 89-91, "The Whummil Bore" (1 text)
DT 27, WHMLBORE
ADDITIONAL: Walter de la Mare, _Come Hither_, revised edition, 1928; #354, "The Whummil Bore" (1 text)
Roud #3722
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Keyhole in the Door" (plot)
NOTES [167 words]: Bertrand Bronson discusses origin of this piece in "The Interdependence of Ballad Tunes and Texts" (first printed in the California Folklore Quarterly, II, 1944; see now MacEdward Leach and Tristram P. Coffin, eds, _The Critics and the Ballad_ or Bertrand Harris _The Ballad as Song_ (essays on ballads), University of California Press, 1969. The relevant discussion is on pages 89-91 of Leach/Coffin and pp. 50-51 of the Bronson book.
Bronson states that "The Whummil Bore' appears to me a by-blow of a serious romantic ballad." He then notes a melodic similarity to "Hind Horn" (Child 17), as well as a similar subplot, and proposes that "Hind Horn" is the source for "The Whummil Bore." The existence of the Virginia text found in Davis seems very suspicious, and I considered the possibility that it is actually some other song (either "Hind Horn" or "The Keyhole in the Door"). But it's much too clean for the latter, and -- though fragmentary -- too full for the former. Call it a curiosity. - RBW

Why and the Wherefore, The

DESCRIPTION: "Where, where, where, and where, And where are you bound, young man? I'm off to the war with the good men and true, And hadn't you better come along too?" The questioner asks why, which, who, when, what about the war; the soldier answers

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1963 (F. J. Child, War Songs for Freemen, according to Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar)

KEYWORDS: questions soldier Civilwar nonballad

FOUND IN: Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 41-42, "The Why and the Wherefore" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: SCWF041

Why Art Thou Not Here?

DESCRIPTION: "The summer stars look brightly down Upon the tranquil sea And evening's breath is hushed and gone From mountain stream and tree." Three springs have gone since the sailor has seen his love. He laments and wonders, "Why art thou not here?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1851 (Journal of the Three Brothers)

KEYWORDS: love sailor separation

FOUND IN: Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, p. 284, "Why Art Thou Not Here?" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #27547

File: HGam284

Why Can't I Catch a Beau?

DESCRIPTION: "I think it is awful cruel, For a girl to be just fourteen, And never has had a fellow, A beau, of course, I men. Why can't I catch a beau (x2), I know it is long to wait so long." Her parents mistrust her; her mother follows her; at last she finds a beau

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida)

KEYWORDS: courting mother father loneliness

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #72, "Why Can't I Catch a Beau?" (1 text)

Roud #5006

File: Morr072

Why Can't Paddy Be a Gentleman?

DESCRIPTION: "Being told Pat couldn't be a gentleman" I'll ask why not? "Hasn't Ireland got her colleges" and won't he "greet you with a smile?" "You cannot give the reason why, I see it in your face ...actions make a gentleman, no matter what the birth"

AUTHOR: unknown
Why Can't We Wed?
DESCRIPTION: "You know I've loved you many long years. Vain thoughts have struck me, caused me tears. Then did my heart ache, oh, how it bled. Why can't we wed?" The singer doesn't care about wealth or fame. He wonders why he has to plead
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)
KEYWORDS: courting rejection questions
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 24, "Why Can't We Wed?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11335
File: Brne024

Why Did She Leave Him? Because He Was Poor
DESCRIPTION: "Why did she leave him? They grew up together, Near to the old church on the bright village green." He was mild, young, gay; now his smiles are gone. She too is unhappy without him. But "Why did she leave him? -- because he was poor."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (Henderson-VictorianStreetBallads)
KEYWORDS: love separation abandonment poverty
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henderson-VictorianStreetBallads, p. 89, "Why did she leave him? -- Because he was poor" (1 text)
Roud #13831
File: HenV089

Why Did They Dig Ma's Grave So Deep?
DESCRIPTION: "Poor little Nellie is weeping tonight, Thinking of days that were filled with delight." She misses her dead mother, for "sleeps that fond mother away from life's woe."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Stout-FolkloreFromIowa)
KEYWORDS: mother children death separation
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 71, p. 94, "Why Did They Dig Ma's Grave So Deep?" (1 fragment)
Roud #4867
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Poor Little Nellie
File: Stou071
Why Did You Go? or Blue Days

DESCRIPTION: "You make me sad, you make me glad, You make me feel so blue.; You make the blue sky gray. You drove the sunshine away. "You are the only one today Can drive the blue days away." "You have broken all of your vows, BUT still I love you somehow."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Neely/Spargo-TalesAndSongsOfSouthernIllinois)
KEYWORDS: love rejection
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Neely/Spargo-TalesAndSongsOfSouthernIllinois, p. 236, "Why Did You Go? or Blue Days" (1 text)
Roud #4331
File: Neel236

Why Do You Bob Your Hair, Girls?

DESCRIPTION: "Why do you bob you hair, girls, It is an awful shame To rob the head God gave you To bear the flapper's name." The singer proclaims that "short hair belongs to me," and maintains that women with long hair will be commended by God

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: hair
FOUND IN: US(SE,So)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
[Randolph 644, "Why Do You Bob Your Hair, Girls" -- deleted in the second printing]
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 442-443, "Why Do You Bob Your Hair, Girls?" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 644)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 56, "Why Do You Bob Your Hair, Girls" (1 text)
DT, WHYBOBHR*
Roud #7842
RECORDINGS:
J. E. Mainer's Mountaneers, "Why Do You Bob Your Hair Girls?" (Bluebird B-6792/Montgomery Ward 7131, 1937)
Blind Alfred Reed, "Why Do You Bob Your Hair Girls?" (Victor 21360, 1928); compare "Why Don't You Bob Your Hair Girls-No. 2" (Victor V-40196, 1930)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Good Old Days of Adam and Eve" (theme) and references there

cf. "The Bobbed Hair" (theme)
NOTES [103 words]: Needless to say, there is no scriptural rule mandating long hair -- Paul (1 Cor. 11:15) calls long hair a woman's pride, but nowhere requires it; indeed, in 11:6, he offers shaving the head as an alternative to wearing a veil!
It's hard to imagine how such a heavy-handed piece came to be traditional -- but I suppose anyone stupid enough to believe the arguments it contains could also think them persuasive.
According to the Digital Tradition, this is by Blind Alfred Reed. Norm Cohen reaffirms this, and credits Reed also with the sequel. I can't prove this false -- but why would a blind man produce such a piece? - RBW
File: Br3056

Why Don't You Love the Old Love?

DESCRIPTION: The singer is a stranger to this country. When an old love's back is turned she can love whom she pleases. "To me she gives nothing, Who loved her so dear" "I'll dress you my darling And take you away. Into New York we'll be sailing"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1974 (Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan)
KEYWORDS: love courting rejection floatingverses emigration
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan 33, "Why Don't You Love the Old Love?"
Why Don't You Try?

DESCRIPTION: "Did you ever see a maiden in a little rolling chair? Room for two, me and you." They only met yesterday, but she whispers "Don't be quite so distant," and asks "Do you think you'd like me better if you thought that I like you." "Why don't you try?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)

KEYWORDS: love courting

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 4, "Why Don't You Try?" (1 text)

Roud #11378

File: Brne004

Why Should We Quarrel for Riches

DESCRIPTION: "How pleasant a sailor's life passes, Who roams o'er the watery main!" Although he never becomes right, he has "a light hearth, and a thin pair of breeches." The world is beautiful, "So why should we quarrel for riches?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1750 (Ramsey, _The Tea-Table Miscellany_)

KEYWORDS: sailor money nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 458-459, "Why Should We Quarrel for Riches" (1 text)
ST BeCo458 (Partial)

File: BeCo458

Wi a Hundred Pipers

DESCRIPTION: "Wi' a hundred pipers an a', an' a' (x2), We'll up an' gie them a blaw, a blaw,,, O it's owre the border awa', awa'." The soldiers look fine. Bonnie Prince Charlie leads. The song recalls an incident while crossing the Esk. The English are "Dumfounded"

AUTHOR: probably Carolina Oliphant, Lady Nairne

EARLIEST DATE: 1894 (Williams)

KEYWORDS: Jacobites soldier music

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
DT, HUNDPIPE*
ADDITIONAL: Alfred M. Williams, _Studies in Folk-Song and Popular Poetry_, Houghton Mifflin, Wi' His Apron On

DESCRIPTION: "Come all ye young lovers, I pray give attention... I'll sing ye a sang concerning twa lovers, A bonnie mason laddie comin' fra Lochee." The girl often meets her mason "wi' his apron on." They marry and live happily.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Ord-BothySongsAndBallads)

KEYWORDS: love courting marriage ritual clothes

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Greig-Duncan4 866, "The Mason Lad o' Lochee" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
- Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, p. 105, "Wi' His Apron On" (1 text)
- Roud #5969

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Adam in the Garden" ("And he kissed his lass wi' his apron on") and references there
- NOTES [236 words]: The pattern of ending most verses "wi' his/her/your apron on" reminds me of "Jacky Tar With His Trousers On" where every verse ends "wi' his/my trousers on" (for example, "... the sailor kissed his bride wi' his trousers on") and "The Courting Coat" where every verse ends "with my kettle smock/navvy shoes on." - BS

Both "Wi' His Apron On" and "Adam in the Garden" have the "Wi' his apron on" line, and for a time I lumped them on this basis. But Ben Schwartz pointed out the large constellation of "Adam in the Garden" type lyrics which differ substantially in plot from "Wi' His Apron On," so they are now split, although the possibility of cross-influence must be allowed.

The mention of an apron in this context is interesting. The story of the Fall of Man is in Genesis 3, and in it, after they eat of the Tree of Knowledge, they use fig leaves to sew themselves some sort of clothing. The clothing is mentioned in Genesis 3:7. "Aprons" is the rendering of the King James Bible, but elsewhere it tends to use "girdle" to translate this root (four of the five other uses; the fifth uses "armor"). The Geneva Bible rendered it "breeches," a reaching also given by Wycliff ("brechis"). The New Revised Standard and Revised English Bibles read "loincloths." Thus it seems quite likely that this is a deliberate reference to Genesis. (Not that you would likely have doubted it if I hadn't written this long note.) - RBW
Wicked Polly [Laws H6]

DESCRIPTION: Polly lives a frolicsome life, saying, "I'll turn to God when I grow old." Suddenly taken ill, she realizes "'Alas, alas! my days are spent; It is too late for to repent.'" She dies in agony and is presumably sent to hell; young people are advised to heed

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1924 (Beckwith)

KEYWORDS: disease death Hell warning

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,SE,So) West Indies(Jamaica)

REFERENCES (24 citations):
Laws H6, "Wicked Polly"
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 460-464, "The Wicked Girl" (3 texts plus a fragment possibly of this ballad)
Randolph 596, "Wicked Polly" (5 texts, 2 tunes)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 416-417, "Wicked Polly" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 596A)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 140, "Wicked Polly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 21-23, "Wicked Polly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 136, "Wicked Polly" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 62, "The Wicked Girl" (3 texts plus mention of 1 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 62, "The Wicked Girl" (2 tunes plus text excerpts)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 112, "Wicked Polly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 110-111, "The Wicked Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, p. 167, "The Wicked Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 115, "Sold In Hell" (1 text)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #91, "Wicked Polly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shellans-FolksongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains, p. 95, "Wicked Polly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 66, "Wicked Polly" (1 text)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 569-570, "Wicked Polly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolksongsOfNorthAmerica 35, "Wicked Polly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 86, "I'll Tell You What I Saw Last Night" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 47, pp. 111-112, "Wicked Polly"; pp. 113-114, "Wicked Polly" (2 texts)
DT 646, WICKDPOL * WICKDPL2*

ADDITIONAL: Fred W. Allsopp, Folklore of Romantic Arkansas, Volume II (1931), p. 160 (1 fragment, no title)

Martha W Beckwith, "The English Ballad in Jamaica: a Note Upon the Origin of the Ballad Form" in _Publications of the Modern Language Association_ [PMLA], Vol. XXXIX, No. 2 (Jun 1924 (available online by JSTOR)), #7 pp. 477-478, "The Wurlean Woman" (1 text)

Richard M. Dorson, _Buying the Wind: Regional Folklore in the United States_, University of Chicago Press, 1964, pp. 407-408, "Young People Who Delight in Sin" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #505

RECORDINGS:

New Lost City Ramblers, "I'll Tell You What I Saw Last Night" (on NLCR05)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "The Dying Boy" (plot)

cf. "A Poor Sinner" (plot)

cf. "Death is a Melancholy Call" [Laws H5] (theme)

cf. "The Lost Soul" (theme)

cf. "While I Was Still of Tender Years" (theme)

ALTERNATE TITLES:

The Unfortunate Girl

Awful, Oh, How Awful

Young People Hark

A Sad Parting

NOTES [97 words]: The girl's name in this version [Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook] is not Polly but Mary. -PJS

In Songs the Whalesmen Sang, pp. 306-308, Huntington prints a piece called "Terrible Polly."
Neither he nor I can decide if it's an adaption of this song or not, so I decided to list it here in these notes.
Barry wrote a study of this piece and "Death is a Melancholy Call," treating them as variants (male and female, presumably) of the same piece. The moral is of course the same, and they use the same metrical form -- but I can't see any actual dependence in the lyrics. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.1
File: LH06

Wicked Wife o' Fife, The
DESCRIPTION: The singer's wife refused to feed him, even after he bought her a new gown. He beat her with a hazel stick. She ran home to her mother who convinced the singer to take her back. He would beat her again if she were not good. He has no more trouble.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan7)
KEYWORDS: abuse husband mother wife
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #13, p. 2, "The Hazel Rung" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan7 1283, "The Wicked Wife o' Fife" (8 texts, 5 tunes)
Roud #6284
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" [Child 277] (theme) and references there
NOTES [25 words]: This looks to me like a modified version of "The Wee Cooper of Fife." But Ben splits them, presumably because of the family negotiations involved. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.6
File: GrD71283

Wicked Wife, The
DESCRIPTION: "There is a wicked wife" who cried to "make her quit o' an auld man." She spoke "sourly and dourly," he "sweetly and meekly." Finally "she gat 'im deid" and quickly married a young man who beat her. She cried "Ochone for my silly aul' man"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan7)
KEYWORDS: shrewishness marriage death dialog husband wife age
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1293, "The Wicked Wife" (1 text)
Roud #7194
File: GrD71293

Wicklow Rangers, The
DESCRIPTION: A 14 year old boy from Carlow meets a colonel, who enlists him in the Wicklow Rangers. He leaves his girl. Her friends tell her not to worry. He and a comrade are shunned by two milk-maids. If he survives his enlistment he will return to his girl.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1840? (Bunting); before 1884 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 17(336a))
KEYWORDS: love soldier separation youth
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 18, "The Girl I Left Behind Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #689
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 17(336a), "The Wicklow Rangers" or "The Girl I Left Behind Me" ("Come all you handsome comely maids"), H. Disley (London), 1860-1883; also Harding B 11(795), "The Wicklow Rangers" or "The Girl I Left Behind Me"; 2806 c.7(25), "The Girl I Left Behind Me"; Harding B 26(217), "The New Girl I Left Behind Me"
Widdicombe Fair (II)

DESCRIPTION: Singer goes to a fair at Widdicombe (or Coldingham, Ratcliffe or Monaghan). There he meets with a jolly beggar and his wife. The singer then lists all the pairs of beggars he's met at the fair.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1826 (Tait's Magazine)

KEYWORDS: commerce begging moniker wife husband nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South,West)) Ireland

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 289, "A-Going to the Fair" (1 text plus assorted fragments in appendices, 1 tune)
Hayward-UlsterSongsAndBalladsOfTheTownAndCountry, pp. 28-29, "Craigbilly Fair" (1 text)
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 50, "Widdecombe Fair" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, COUDFAIR DONNYBRK*

ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers, The Popular Rhymes of Scotland (Edinburgh, 1870 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 40, "The Beggars of Coldingham Fair"

Roud #666

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Tom Pearce (Widdicombe Fair I)" (lyrics)
cf. "Under the Greenwood Tree" (form) and references there

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Beggars of Coldingham Fair
The Beggars of Ratcliffe Fair
Beggars of Coudingham Fair
Monaghan Fair
Widdlicombe Fair

NOTES [121 words]: Variants of this song are used as the chorus for "Tom Pearce (Widdicombe Fair I)." It lacks, however, the plot about the horse, so I've separated them. - PJS

Looking at this, I can't help but think there is a cumulative version somewhere in its ancestry. But I haven't found it. Some of the versions, such as that of the McPeake family, also feel a bit like "Dame Durden."

Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 265-267, prints a piece, "The Humours of Donneybrook Fair" (listed as by Charles O'Flaherty), which looks as if it might be a recomposed version of this -- but it's much too wordy to be traditional. - RBW

Chambers's source is "Tait's Magazine, [vol] x. [p] 121." - BS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: K289
pleasure I have roamed." The singer recalls her family, and thinks how they would mourn if they saw her now. Now her love is dead, and she is "a widow in the cottage by the sea."

AUTHOR: C. A. White

EARLIEST DATE: 1868 (sheet music published by Oliver Ditson & Co. of Boston)

KEYWORDS: death family home poverty

FOUND IN: US(MW,SE,So) Canada(Newf) Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (8 citations):
- Greig/Duncan6 1259, "A Lone Widow" (1 text)
- Randolph 702, "The Widow in the Cottage by the Sea" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
- Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 95, "Widow in The Cottage by the Sea" (2 texts plus 2 excerpts and mention of 1 more, 2 tunes)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 114, "In a Cottage by the Sea" (1 text plus mention of 4 more)
- Neely/Spargo-TalesAndSongsOfSouthernIllinois, pp. 225-226, "The Widow by the Sea" (1 text)
- Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 123, "Widow by the Sea" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, p. 167, "My Cottage by the Sea" (1 fragment, probably this)
- Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2633, p. 178, "Widow in a Cottage by the Sea" (1 reference)

RECORDINGS:
- [Walter "Kid" Smith & the] Carolina Buddies, "In a Cottage By the Sea" (Columbia 15537-D, 1930)
- Fred Stanley, "The Cottage by the Sea" (Columbia 15559-D, 1930)

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Firth b.28(33d), "All Alone. Cottage by the Sea," J. West (Brighton), n.d.; also Harding B 11(3565), "The Cottage by the Sea" ("Just one year ago to day love")

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Dear Companion (The Broken Heart; Go and Leave Me If You Wish To, Fond Affection)" (floating lyrics)

NOTES [172 words]: In a curious twist, the key final lines of this song ("All this time I'm left a widow At the cottage near the sea") wind up in a British lost-love song, "Blue-Eyed Lover" (MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 59), which in desperation I filed with the "Dear Companion" family. Which probably says more about lost-love songs than about this piece.

Note also that Roud has two pieces frequently known by this name, and while they appear distinct, I don't always agree with the way he files the pieces. - RBW

In the Bodleian broadside we have a few more details. In the first verse the widow explains that the marriage was "just one year ago to day love ... I changed a mansion for a cottage" and another verse "He lost his life upon the ocean."

Of Roud's broadside entries for #4327 the ones starting "Childhood days now pass before me" are for a different song, which can also be found at Bodleian and American Memory; those starting "Just one year ago to day love" are probably the Bodleian version of this song. - BS

Last updated in version 4.3

File: R702

Widow Machree (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Widow Machree, pray then open your door ... And show me the easiest plank in your floor." "Didn't old Adam loan From his rib" to "manufacture ... the first female" "As you owe man a rib, I lay claim to that same." A marriage proposal.

AUTHOR: Charles Lever (1806-1872)

EARLIEST DATE: before 1860 (broadside, LOCSinging as114990)

KEYWORDS: courting nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 53, "Widow Machree" (1 text)
- Roud #29023

BROADSIDES:
- LOCSinging, as114990, "Widow Machree" ("Widow Machree, pray then open your door"), J Andrews (New York), 1853-1859

NOTES [79 words]: The Samuel Lover and Charles Lever "Widow Machree" ["Widow Machree (II)" are not the same song: they share rhyme scheme, verse structure, and theme, but no verses.
Which is derived from the other? - BS
Or are they both, perhaps, derived from a common literary source? - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1
File: OCon053A

Widow Machree (II)
DESCRIPTION: "Widow Machree, it's no wonder you frown," your black gown is unbecoming.
Summer is coming and birds and rabbits all go in pairs. In winter it would be a sin to be cold and alone.
"Take my advice ... take me"
AUTHOR: probably Samuel Lover (1797-1868)
EARLIEST DATE: before 1842 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(4195)); 1842 (Samuel Lover's novel "Handy Andy")
KEYWORDS: courting nonballad clothes
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2634, p. 178, "Widow Machree" (1 reference)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, pp. 108-109, "Widow Machree" (1 text)
Roud #29023
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(4195), "Widow Machre" ("Widow Mackree it's no wonder you frown ..."),
Birt (London), 1833-1841; also 2806 b.11(125), Harding B 11(4194), Harding B 11(4196), "Widow Machree"
LOC Singing, cw106740, "Widow Machree" ("Widow Machree, it's no wonder you frown"), George S. Harris (Philadelphia), 19C; also as115000, "Widow Machree"
NOTES [192 words]: This "Widow Machree" is attributed to Samuel Lover at the Bartleby.com site. The Samuel Lover and Charles Lever "Widow Machree" ["Widow Machree (I)""] are not the same song: they share rhyme scheme, verse structure and theme, but no verses. Which is derived from the other?

Handy Andy is a novel Samuel Lover published in 1842. Lover's novel has ballads and poems scattered throughout. The context for "Widow Machree" in the novel is that it is a supposedly well known song called for by a company of listeners. Lover does not claim authorship for a character in the novel as he does for some other Handy Andy poems. Is Lover including a ballad already in circulation? He seems to be doing just that with his fragment of "Ma Colleen Dhas Crutheen na Mbho" ("The Pretty Girl Milking Her Cow") in the 1836 novel Rory O'More. - BS
We note the existence of at least one broadside which appears to be older than Handy Andy; is it possible that Lever and Lover both worked from some earlier piece? Alternately, did Lover publish the song before writing Handy Andy, and then incorporate it into his own work to promote/celebrate its popularity? - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: Bdsdwdmc

Widow Malone
DESCRIPTION: "Did ye hear of the widow Malone, Ohone? Who lived in the town of Athlone alone?"
All the rich men courted her but she was modest and none could see her alone. Lucius O'Brien from Clare boldly kisses her and she agrees to marry.
AUTHOR: Charles Lever (1806-1872)
EARLIEST DATE: 1841 (Lever, _Charles O'Malley, the Irish Dragoon_)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage humorous
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (4 citations):
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 62, "Widow Malone" (1 text)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2635, p. 178, "Widow Malone" (1 reference)
New-Comic-Songster, p. 6, "Widow Malone" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, pp. 107-108, "Widow Malone" (1 text)
Widow Nolan's Goat, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, I'm a lone widdy, myself and my daughter; We live in a house where there's welcome galore" with "My buck Billy Goat," which has been a very good goat but is now missing. "Oh, oh, oh, oh, ohone, Come back to my bosom, my own darling billy."

AUTHOR: Words: Edward Harrigan / Music: David Braham

EARLIEST DATE: 1882 ("Squatter Sovereignty")

KEYWORDS: humorous wife home animal

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, pp. 116-118, "'The Widow Nolan's Goat" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Stanley Appelbaum, editor, _Show Songs: from The Black Crook to The Red Mill_, Dover Publications, 1974, pp. 24-27, "The Widow Nolan's Goat" (1 text, 1 tune, a copy of the original sheet music)

Roud #27601

NOTES [437 words]: For background on Harrigan and Braham, see the notes to "The Babies on Our Block."
The play "Squatter Sovereignty" was one of Edward Harrigan's biggest hits, running 168 performances (Moody, p. 125) -- a very high number at the time. Moody, p. 126, calls it a "documentary" of the Shantytown of New York, where in the 1880s "squatters" had transformed old boxes, barrels, and the like into shanties by Central Park. In a typical Harrigan twist, one of the major characters was a goat, Billy, the subject of "The Widow Nolan's Goat." The widow's daughter Nellie (played by Gertie Granville, Tony Hart's soon-to-be wife) is supposed to marry Terrence McIntyre, son of the "royal astronomer to the Duchess of Connaught" (Harrigan) who can show you "Uranus, Venus, Mars, and Jew Peter" for ten cents (Moody, p. 126). As is typical of Harrigan, the show involves misplaced love (Nellie loves Fred Kline, the son of a glue maker, not McIntyre), conflict between ethnic groups -- and live animals.

Franceschina, p. 144, says, "A contract is drawn up between the Widow [Nolan] and Felix [McIntyre, the astronomer, father of Terrens] in which she bestows her daughter with a dowry of bedding and a billy goat, while he gives his son a pig and a goose, with the understanding that if either child should refuse the marriage, the parent would forfeit the dowry.... When the widow learns of her daughter's marriage to Fred Kline, she refuses to give up her goat to McIntyre, igniting a feud.... Before the curtain falls... both families find themselves in another characteristic Comique melee in which the widow's shanty is torn down and all the animals are let loose from their cages."

David Braham gave up his usual pattern of marches and schottisches (Franceschina, p. 144): "There were no songs and dances, walk-around, or military parades. Instead, Braham borrowed from European operetta and Irish jig patterns to create, arguably, his most original score to date. "The runaway song hit from Squatter Sovereignty" was "Paddy Duffy's Cart," an ensemble number used at the beginning of the third act to announce the arrival of Paddy Duffy (Eugene Rourke), a character of tangential importance to the plot. Particularly notable is the antiphonal choral writing in the second chorus, the melody and lyric of Harrigan and Hart's earliest theatrical success: 'Little Fraud,/ Little Fraud,/ She's the daintiest darling of all. As the widow Nolan, Hart [who often played transvestite roles] was provided with 'The Widow Nolan's Goat, an attractive Irish jig with a chorus in the minor mode and a rather conservative melodic compass." - RBW
Widow of McCarty, The
DESCRIPTION: Reilly marries McCarty's widow. She always talks about McCarty and says she wishes Reilly were sober and more like McCarty. He beats her to show her "now she's got a man" who won't put up with her broomstick beatings and other demands.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed)
KEYWORDS: shrewishness marriage violence abuse drink nonballad husband wife
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 104-105, "The Widow of McCarty" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: Ow2E104

Widow of Westmoreland's Daughter, The DESCRIPTION: The widow's daughter reports losing her maidenhead to a grenadier guard. The mother wants it back; the guard invites the girl to his wedding. The bride asks about her; she proves to have slept with another man. The guard marries the daughter instead
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1827 (Kinloch)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Widow prays her daughter might keep her maidenhead, but the daughter comes back having lost it to a Grenadier guard. The mother scolds; the daughter returns to the Grenadier, demanding her maidenhead back. The Grenadier obliges her by "put[ting] her head where her feet was before," then invites her to his wedding; the girl runs back to her mother and tells the story, saying she's a maiden again. The mother, not pleased, goes to the wedding with the daughter; the bride asks who it might be. The Grenadier replies that it must be the widow's daughter who ran home and told; the bride says she'd never do that; she lay with a man for 11 nights and never told anyone. The Grenadier at this point dumps the bride in favor of the widow's daughter "who ran home and told her mummy"
KEYWORDS: sex wedding humorous bawdy mother trick virginity wife FOUND IN: Britain(England,Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Kinloch-TheBalladBook I, pp. 1-3, "The Widow o' Westmoreland" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan7 1439, "A Lady Lived on the Muirland Hills" (1 text)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 76, "The Widow's Dochter" (1 text)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 105, "The Widow's Dochter" (1 text)
DT, WIDWSTMO
Roud #228
RECORDINGS:
A. L. Lloyd, "The Widow of Westmoreland's Daughter" (on Lloyd01); "Widow of Westmorland's Daughter (on BirdBush1, BirdBush2) (Lloyd3)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Country Girl (The Fair Maid of the West" (theme of regaining maidenhead)
NOTES [31 words]: Lloyd notes that the song, never printed as of the time of recording [not quite true; Kinloch printed it in 1827 - RBW, had been offered to F. J. Child but was rejected for indecency. - PJS
Last updated in version 2.6
File: DTwidwst
Widow's Cruisie, The
DESCRIPTION: His hearers knew he was a fool but he "tried the Psalms." "He tell't the story aff wi glee ... Aye the wifie wi her vessle." Then he'd wish them all into glory, assuring them of plenty and "meal an' eelie [oil] to be yer dainty"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: humorous nonballad religious clergy
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 683, "The Widow's Cruisie" (1 text)
Roud #6108
NOTES [209 words]: Greig/Duncan3 quoting William Walker: "About a minister who preached always when in a strange pulpit the same sermon on the text - "the widow's cruisie."" See 1 Kings 17.8-16." In that passage Elijah, hiding from Ahab during a drought, is told by God to go to a widow He has commanded "to sustain thee." When Elijah asks her for "a morsel of bread" she says she has only a handful of meal in a barrel and a little oil in a cruse which is insufficient for her and her son; she plans to use the oil to bake the meal into a cake for their last meal before they die. Elijah asks her to make the cake for him and then make it for herself and her son; if she would do that the barrel and cruise would be filled until the drought breaks. She does and the three survive the drought. - BS
[With the slight complication that the boy "died" -- or at least slipped into a coma -- in the aftermath of the famine, and was revived by Elijah via what sounds like artificial respiration. There is also the curiosity that the widow lived in Zarephath in Sidonian Phoenicia rather than Israel -- a curious place for an Israeli prophet to go.]
[The nitpicker in me also has to note that, on that diet, Elijah, the widow, and her son would all have ended up with scurvy. - RBW]
Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD3683

Widow's Lament, The
DESCRIPTION: "My sister, hear and I will relate The troubles I have seen, What sorrows I have seen of late Which are the fruit of sin." "My father" has beaten her brutally; her baby daughter and husband died of disease. She looks forward to meeting and praising God
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands)
KEYWORDS: disease death family religious
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 138-139, "The Widow's Lament" (1 text)
ST Fus138 (Partial)
Roud #4287
NOTES [127 words]: Sort of a modern paraphrase of the first two chapters of the Book of Job. No sign of what happened to the next forty.
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands's orthography (which may come from the manuscript) is rather deceptive. The second stanza is given as My father laid his chastening rod,
The stroke has not been light;
But sure he has been a faithful God,
A judge that will do right.
However, it is clear that it is her oh-so-faithful God who has been abusing her; meaning that the first line should probably be understood as "My Father laid his chastening rod." Not that the Bible observes such distinctions (neither Biblical Greek nor Biblical Hebrew had upper- and lower-case letters), but it's the way the people who write pieces like this usually write. - RBW
File: Fus138

Widow's Plea, The
DESCRIPTION: The singer enters a court where a youth is on trial. There is no question of his guilt, but his mother rises to beg for mercy. The prosecutor asks the judge to silence her, but he refuses. The judge grants the boy clemency based on the mother's plea.

Wie kumm ich an des Grossvadder's Haus? (How Do I Get to Grandfather's House)

DESCRIPTION: German. "Wie kumm ich an des Grossvadder's Haus? Mein geliebdes Maedlein?" "How do I get to grandfather's house, My beloved maiden?" She tells him to follow the road. He asks other directions; she answers. The ending is only hinted at.

Wife and a Biggin o' Yer Ain, A

DESCRIPTION: "It's gran' to hae a wifie and a biggin [building] o' yer ain." The singer enjoys "to see my wifie wi' the bairnie on her knee" and his hearth at evening. He has been in wealthy lodgings but "it wisna half sae cosy as this biggin' o' my ain"

Wife Bereaved of her Husband, A

DESCRIPTION: "My head and stay is loof (sic.) away And I am left alone. My husband dear, who was so near, Is took away and gone." The wife confesses her grief, admits she cannot rest, and says she will turn to Jesus.
Wife Is the Main Thing, A

DESCRIPTION: Jack complains that there's no one to look after his house, make him a good meal, or mend his clothes. An old man says to stop complaining: "a wife's the main thing." Jack marries a farmer's daughter "and never did he rue the day"

AUTHOR: N. Stone (source: Greig/Duncan5)
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan5)
KEYWORDS: marriage
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 1068, "A Wife Is the Main Thing" (1 text)
Roud #6761
File: GrD1068

Wife o' Denside, The

DESCRIPTION: "Ye'll hae heard o' the Wife o' Denside... Wha pushioned [poisoned] her maid to keep up her pride, And the devil is sure o' the Wife o' Denside," She poisons a mother and her illegitimate child. She buys her way out of trouble. The gallows has been robbed

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (A. H. Miller, Haunted Dundee, according to Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
KEYWORDS: bastard children mother death homicide poison
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sep 8, 1826 - Margaret Walden, servant to the Smith family, dies of poison. Mrs. Smith is accused of murder, but at trial, the verdict "not proven" is found. The people of Dundee still think her a murderer (source: Gatherere)
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 9, "The Wife o' Denside" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #22215
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Laird o Cockpen" (tune)
File: Gath009

Wife o' Gateside, The

DESCRIPTION: "Ye've a' heard tell o' the wife o' Gateside (or Denside) ... poisoned her maid (or guid-dother [daughter-in-law]) to keep up her pride, And the Deil he is sure o' the wife o' ...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Greig/Duncan2)
KEYWORDS: homicide poison mother
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #129, p. 3, ("Ye've a' heard tell o' the wife o' Gateside") (1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan2 207, "The Wife o' Gateside" (2 fragments)
Roud #5837
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Laird o' Cockpen" (tune, according to Greig)
NOTES [153 words]: The current description is based on the Greig/Duncan2 fragments.
Greig/Duncan2 cites A.H. Miller, Haunted Dundee (Dundee, 1923) for an account of the trial. Margaret Warden, died September 8, 1826. Mrs. Smith, whose son George may have been the father of Warden's unborn baby, was tried for murder and a "Not Proven" verdict returned. - BS
Emily Lyle, Fairies and Folk: Approaches to the Scottish Ballad Tradition, Wissenschaftlicher Verlag Trier, 2007, p. 106, comments briefly on two "arsenic ballads" in the Greig/Duncan collection, "John Lovie" and "The Wife o' Gateside." She points out that Scots juries were allowed three verdicts, Guilty, Not Guilty, and Not Proven -- the latter of these allowing the accused to go free but saying that there was a significant probability of guilt. In both cases, apparently, the use of arsenic was demonstrated but it could not be shown who poisoned the dead person. - RBW
Wife o' My Ain, A

DESCRIPTION: The singer is going home after rambling to marry Ailie. Her mother favors wealthy Geordie Steele. "But if that my Ailee prove faithless, and marry before I return ... Awa' straight to some other beauty, without loss o' time I will hie"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Greig/Duncan4)

KEYWORDS: courting return separation humorous mother

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Greig/Duncan4 709, "A Wife o' My Ain" (1 text)
- Roud #6149

File: GrD4709

---

Wife of Usher's Well, The [Child 79]

DESCRIPTION: A mother sends her sons away to school, where they die. She swears not to believe in God until they return to her. Later, they do return, but as ghosts. At last they convince her (perhaps by means of the roasted cock crowing) to let them rest

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1802 (Scott)

KEYWORDS: ghost death mourning magic

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,NE,SE,So,SW) Britain(England(West,South),Scotland)

REFERENCES (55 citations):
- Child 79, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (3 texts)
- Bronson 79, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (58 versions)
- Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 79, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (8 versions: #1, #3, #5, #20, #30, #43, #48, #54)
- Leather-FolkLoreOfHerefordshire, pp. 198-199, "There Was a Lady in Merry Scotland" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #3}
- Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 22 "The Wife of Usher's Well" (8 texts plus 9 fragments, 18 tunes) {Bronson's #23, #18, #49, #20, #47, #4, #9, #50, #31, #5, #32, #43, #39, #40, #13, #14, #51, #7}
- Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 17, "The Three Little Babes (The Wife of Usher's Well)" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #18}
- Reeves/Sharp-TheldiomOfThePeople 112, "Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text)
- Wells-TheBalleradTree, pp. 155-156, "The Lady Gay" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #40}
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 55-57, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (2 texts)
- Randolph 19, "The Three Little Babes" (2 texts, 2 tunes) {Bronson's #10, #8}
- Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 39, "The Three Little Babes" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 19B) {Bronson's #8}
- High-OldFolkSongs, pp. 48-49, "The Ladie Who Lived in the West" (1 text)
- Abrahams/Riddle-ASingerAndHerSongs, pp. 114-116, "Lady Gay" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Arnold-FolkSongsOfAlabama, #56, "Three Babes" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #6}
- Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 14, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #24}
- Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland2, pp. 187-194, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (2 texts, 2 tunes; the first version has textual but not melodic variants; the tunes are effectively the same, but the "B" text, while it starts with "Usher's Well" lyrics, is clearly a rewrite; the boys go off to sea, return, and one marries a servant girl) {A=Bronson's #58}
- Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 64-66, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #58}
- Davis-TraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 22, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (11 texts plus 1 fragment, 2 tunes entitled "The Three Little Babes," "Lady Gay"; 1 more version mentioned in Appendix A) {Bronson's #48, #33}
Davis-MoreTraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 23, pp. 161-169, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (5 texts, 4 tunes)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 25, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (4 text plus 3 excerpts and mention of 2 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 25, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (7 excerpts, 7 tunes; Schinhan notes that most of the tunes are very like "Barbara Allen")
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #160, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (3 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #16}
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 14, pp. 93-95, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (2 texts)
Hudson-FolkTunesFromMississippi 17, "The Three Little Babes" (1 fragment, 1 tune) {Bronson's #15}
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 22A, "The Three Little Babes"; 22B, "A Knight and a Lady Bride" (1 text plus 1 fragment, 2 tunes)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs 1ed, pp. 33-34, "The Three Little Babes" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #16}
Owens-TexasFolkSongs 2ed, pp. 21-23, "The Three Little Babes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart1 13, "Three Little Babes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Boswell/Wife 4, pp. 9-11, "Lady Gay (The Wife of Usher's Well)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 167-169, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text, locally titled "There Was a Lady, and a Lady Was She"); tune on p. 402) {Bronson's #57}
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 69, "The Miracle of Usher's Well" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 14, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 263-265, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (2 texts)
Leach-HeritageBookOfBallads, pp. 52-53, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol2, pp. 134-135, "Mary Hebrew" (1 text, 1 tune)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 32, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 34, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (3 texts)
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 24, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text)
Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 33, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (4 texts, 4 tunes)
Gummere-OldEnglishBallads, pp. 195-196+346-347, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text)
Fusion-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 59-60, "The Cruel Mother (Or Three Children)" (1 text)
Lomax-FolksongsOfNorthAmerica 91, "Lady Gay" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #30, though in 4/4 where Bronson marks 3/2!}
Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs, pp. 116-118, "Lady Gay" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 58, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 14, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (5 texts plus mention of 2 more)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol5, pp. 92-93, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 51-52, "The Three Little Babes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 7, pp. 18-19, "Children's Song"; pp. 20-21, "Three Little Babes" (2 texts)
Whitehall-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 177-178, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 32-33, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (2 texts)
HarvardClassics-EnglishPoetryChaucerToGray, pp. 80-81, "The Wife of Usher's Well" (1 text)
NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, Ben Gray Lumpkin, "Two Child Ballads from Stanly County," Vol. XVII, No. 2 (Nov 1969), pp. 56-58, "Mary Hebrew" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 79, LADYGAY* USHERWEL USHRWEL2* ADDITIONAL: Walter de la Mare, _Come Hither_, revised edition, 1928; #429, "The Wif of Usher's Well" (1 text)
Roud #196 RECORDINGS:
Texas Gladden, "Three Little Babes" (on LomaxCD1702); "The Three Babes" (AFS 5231 B1, 1941; on LC58, USTGladden01)
Seena Helms, "Lady Bride and Three Babes" (on HandMeDown1)
Buell Kazee, "Lady Gay" (Brunswick 212, 1928) {Bronson's #30}
Eunice Yeatts McAlexander, "The Three Little Babes" (on Oldrad1, FarMtns1)
Jean Ritchie, "The Wife of Usher's Wells" (on J Ritchie 02)
Pete Seeger, "Lady Gay" (on PeteSeeger25)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "Saint Stephen and Herod" [Child 22] (plot)
cf. "The Carnal and the Crane" [Child 55] (plot)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Dead Little Boys
The Wife of the Free
The Fine Lady Gay
The Cartin Wife
A Moravian Song
The Lady and the Children Three
The Three Pore Little Children
The Lone Widow

NOTES [204 words]: Bronson makes the interesting observation that there is one Scottish tune for this song, unrelated to any other; two English tunes, related only to each other, and dozens of American collections, most of which (43 of them) have tunes related to each other but not to the Scottish or English forms.
It's hard to know what to do with Lena Bourne Fish's version (the "B" version in Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland2). The first lines are clearly part of this song; the ending is not. It belongs to the romances about a noble marrying a commoner. The tune is shared with Phyllis Burditt's version of "The Wife of Usher's Well," but Bronson finds that tune to be unique.
I'm lumping the two because there is still kinship, and I don't recognize the second half of Fish's song -- but I wouldn't be surprised if she has combined two songs.
The notion that excessive mourning (usually meaning mourning for more than a year and a day) results in the ghost being unable to rest is at least hinted at in several other songs, the most noteworthy being "The Unquiet Grave" [Child 78].
For the vexed question of the origin of the legend of the roasted cock, see the notes to "The Carnal and the Crane" [Child 55].
- RBW

Last updated in version 6.1
File: C079

Wife Who Wouldn't Spin Tow, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls the days before his wife was married, when she worked so hard on her father's farm. But now she is married, she does nothing except dress up and leave home.
He would happily be rid of her if he could.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: marriage courting work
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 398, "The Wife Who Wouldn't Spin Tow" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7615
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" [Child 277] (theme)
File: R398

Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin, The [Child 277]

DESCRIPTION: A craftsman has married a wife above his station. She, being of good birth, refuses to do housework. Since she is gentle, he cannot beat her -- but he covers her in a sheepskin, thrashes THAT, and causes her to start working

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1803
KEYWORDS: humorous wife abuse husband nobility
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South,West),Scotland(Aber,Bord)) Canada(Mar,Newf) Ireland
US(Ap,MA,MW,NE,NW,Ro,SE,So)
REFERENCES (61 citations):
Child 277, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (5 texts)
Bronson 277, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (63 versions)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 277, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (7 versions: #1, #2, #5, #15, #29, #37, #49)
Lyle/McAlpine/McLucas-SongRepertoireOfAmeliaAndJaneHarris, p. 116-119, "Robin/Robin He's Gane to the Wude" (2 texts)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 322-325, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #33}
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 92-94, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #21}
Randolph 35, "Dan-Doo" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #51}
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, pp. 110-111, "The Old Man in the West" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #48}
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 222-225, "Cooper of Fife," "The Wife Wrapped in Wether's Skin" (2 texts, 2 tunes) {Bronson's #17, #9}
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 221-222, "Wife Wrapped in Wether's Skin" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #45}
Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland4, pp. 76-98, "The Wife Wrapped in Wether's Skin" (9 texts plus 5 fragments, 9 tunes) {D=Bronson's #17, J=#45, M=#9}
Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 79, "Jenny Go Gentle" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #21}
Davis-TraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 45, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (12 texts, several quite fragmentary, 2 tunes entitled "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin," "The Wife Wrapped in Wether's Skin or Dandoo") {Bronson's #38, #50}
Davis-MoreTraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 39, pp. 305-315, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (5 texts, 2 tunes)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 44, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (2 texts plus 2 excerpts)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 44, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (4 excerpts, 4 tunes)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #172, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (1 text, 1 tune, which breaks off before the actual beating but which appears to be this rather than "Risselty, Rosselty, Now, Now, Now") {Bronson's #40}
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 23, p. 123, "The Wife Wrapped in Wether's Skin" (1 text)
Hudson-FolkTunesFromMississippi 12, "The Old Man Who Lives in the West" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #37}
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 52, "Dandoo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 23, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (3 texts, though two are short)
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, pp. 170-171, "Dan Doo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection, p. 83, "Dandoo (The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin)" (1 text)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, p. 56, "Lazy Woman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 94-95, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #24}
Bennett/Downey-JeromeJustOneMoreSong 26, pp. 150-151, "Wee Cooper o' Fife" (1 fragment)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 658-660, "The Wife Wrapped in Wether's Skin" (3 texts)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol2, pp. 58-63, "The Wife in Wether's Skin -- Dandoo!"; "Geely Don Mac Kling Go" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 192-194, "The Wee Cooper o' Fife" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #5}
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #122, pp. 1-2, "The Wife in the Wether's Skin" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan7 1282, "The Wife in the Wether's Skin" (5 texts plus a single verse on p. 501, 4 tunes) {A=Bronson's #5, C=#13, D=#16, E=#3}
MacColl-PersonalChoice, p. 55, "The Wee Cooper of Fife" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #6}
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 449, "The Wife Wrapped in Wether's Skin" (2 texts)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 44, "The Old Wether's Skin" {Bronson's #29}; 103, "Dan Doo" (2 texts, 2 tunes) {cf. Bronson's 42a/b, from the same informant (Frank Proffitt) but not quite the same in text or tune}
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 136, "Tinna Clinnama Clinchama Clingo" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Korson-PennLegend, pp. 41-42, "The Wee Cooper of Fife" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #10}
Sharp-EnglishFolksongsFromSouthernAppalachians 39, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (5 texts, 5 tunes) {Bronson's #38, #43, #25, #31, #44}
Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 70, "Ruggleton's Daughter of Iero" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's}
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 16, "Ruggleton's Daughter of Iero" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #36}
Wells-TheBalladTree, p. 121, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's#25} Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 70, "Gentle Fair Jenny" (1 text, 1 tune, with a chorus perhaps from "Riddles Wisely Expounded," and a text which may well mix this with "The Holly Twig" [Laws Q6]; I thought seriously about filing it there) {Bronson's #32}
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol1, pp. 80-81, "Dandoo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 85, "Gentle Fair Jenny" (1 text, 1 tune, claiming to be from Jean Ritchie, but Lomax does not cite a recording and the song bears very little resemblance in text or tune to Ritchie's recorded version)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #16, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (2 texts, 1 tune) Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 59, "The Unwilling Bride" (1 text, 1 tune, possibly of this ballad but, in my opinion, more likely a form of "The Holly Twig" [Laws Q6])
Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 23, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (1 text, 1 tune)
{Bronson's #43}
Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs, pp. 122-123, "Nickety Nackety" (1 text, 1 tune)
Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 63, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 29, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (5 texts) Skin," "Dandoo" (3 texts, 1 tune, but the "B" text omits the beating and has the husband run away;
it may well be a version of "Risselty, Rossetly, Now, Now, Now" although it might alternately have mixed with "Devilish Mary" [Laws Q4] or something like it) {Bronson's #26}
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 90-91, "Dandoo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, pp. 19-20, "The Wife Wrapt in Wether's Skin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Abrahams/Foss-AngloAmericanFolksongStyle, pp. 167-169, "The Wife in Wether's Skin -- Dandoo!" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #46}
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 6, pp. 16-17, "The Wife Wrapped in a Wether's Skin"; pp. 17-18,
"Dandoo" (2 texts)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 174, "The Wee Cooper Of Fife" (2 texts)
NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, Frank L. Warner [nephew of Frank M. Warner], "Songs My Uncle Taught Me" Vol. XI, No. 1 (Jul 1963), pp. 26-27, "Dan Doo" (1 text)
No. 2 (Nov. 1966), p. 16, "Dandoo" (1 text)
DT 277, COOPFIFE DANDOO*
ADDITIONAL: Suzi Jones, _Oregon Folklore_, University of Oregon/Oregon Arts Commission, 1977, pp. 32-33, "Billy's Wife": "The Wee Cooper of Fife" (2 texts, 2 tunes, the first native to Oregon, the second imported from Scotland)
Roud #117
RECORDINGS:
Jerome Downey, "Wee Cooper o' Fife" (on NFJDowney01)
Warde Ford, "As the Dew Flies Over the Green Valley" (AFS 4197 B1, 1938; tr.; in AMMEM/Cowell) {Bronson's #19a; cf. 18, 19b}
Frank Proffitt, "Dan Doo" (on Proffitt03) {Bronson's #42a/b}
Jean Ritchie, "Gentle Fair Jenny" (on JRFitchie02) {Bronson's #32}
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Risselty, Rossetly, Now, Now, Now" (theme, plot, lyrics)
cf. "The Wicked Wife o' Fife" (theme)
cf. "The Daughter of Peggy-O" (plot)
cf. "The Wife Who Wouldn't Spin Tow" (theme)
cf. "Upside Down" (theme)
cf. "Come All You Young Ladies and Gentlemen" (theme)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Cooper of Fife
The Wee Cooper of Fife
Bandoo
Gentle Virginia
Kitty Lorn
Kitty Alone
Dan-you
The Old Man Who Lived in the West
NOTES [669 words]: Child mentioned the likelihood that this was inspired by a chapbook piece, "A Merry leste of a Shrewde and curst Wyfe lapped in Morrelles skin" ("Morell" being the name of the horse in whose salted skin she was wrapped). This seems likely, but it's not much help for the song's history. A scan of the booklet is now available on the British Library web site (search for "merry jest shrewd curst wife" at explore.bl.uk or its replacement), but it's hard to date. It says only that it was printed in Fleet Street by "H. Jackson." The printer's name doesn't help us; I've seen estimates for the date as early as c. 1550 and as late as c. 1580. The typeface is no help; it is very similar to faces in use as early as 1500. There is a mention in the text of the "Masse," so it may have been written pre-Reformation, but we can't treat that as certain. So the link between the song and the printed item, while very probable, must remain a matter of speculations.
It has been speculated (see, e.g., Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl) that this ballad inspired Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew." Evidence is, of course, completely lacking, though some Shakespeare authorities also mention the connection. Others would link the Shakespeare play to the "Morrelles Skin" piece. The piece probably does go back to Elizabethan times; according to J. C. Holt, Robin Hood, revised edition, Thames & Hudson, 1989, p. 140, one Robert Langham heard an entertainment in July 1575 at the Earl of Leicester's palace of Kenilworth which featured the "Wife Wrapped in Wether's Skin."
Barry et al have an even stranger theory, that this song, which occasionally has the sort of "plant refrain" we know best from "Riddles Wisely Expounded" and "The Elfin Knight," is actually a description of an exorcism, in which the herbs and the beating both play a part!
American forms of this ballad are often much simplified, omitting, e.g., the mention of the wife's noble origin and/or the sheepskin. Ritchie's version is typical of this; such texts are hard to distinguish from degenerate forms of "The Holly Twig" [Laws Q6]. (Pound's "I Bought Me a Wife" seems almost to be mixed with "The Swapping Song.") Typical of these degenerate forms is "Risselty, Rosselty, Now, Now, Now," which we originally jumped with this song, but which we have now split off. For full details on how to separate them, see the notes to "Risselty, Rosselty." The basic distinction is that, in "The Wife Wran," he beats her; in "Risselty, Rosselty," he merely complains. But there are other indications which can be used for fragments. - RBW, (PJS)
To add to the confusion, there is a nursery song, apparently from Halliwell, beginning "I married a wife by the light of the moon. A tidy housewife, a tidy one." This is not either "The Wife Wran" or "Risselty-Roset," but it details the wife's strange and "slovenly" habits. And several lines of it, including the first, are found in various versions of Child 277, including e.g. the "B" version in Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland. - RBW
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong pp. 333-334 is Child's source for text 277C.
Bennett/Downey-JeromeJustOneMoreSong: "There can be few field-working folklorists who have not run out of tape or suddenly found that the batteries failed, putting an abrupt end to a recording session.... It is included in this collection partly because it is the only Classic Ballad recorded from Jerome's repertoire.... Without the complete recording of Jerome's singing it is not now possible to know which verses he sang.... It is not so much for the text as for the tune that it is included here, however, as Jerome sings a catchy and unusual variant, a little gem, which I had not come across elsewhere." Downey's fragment on the CD is "... not bake and she would not brew/ Nickety, nackety, now, now, now, / For spoiling of her comely hue/ Hey Willie Wallacky, ho John Dugall/
Alane quo' Rushety, row, row, row [rhymes with 'now']" - BS
Last updated in version 6.1
File: C277

Wild and Wicked Youth, The [Laws L12]
DESCRIPTION: The singer recounts his (boyhood and) life, telling of his many daring robberies.
Now, alas, he is condemned to die, and must leave his family. He concludes with directions for his funeral
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1830 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 25(2054))
KEYWORDS: outlaw farewell execution robbery trial funeral youth
FOUND IN: US(Ap,NE,Ro,SE,So,SW) Britain(England(Lond, South, West), Scotland) Ireland
Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (38 citations):
Laws L12, "The Rambling Boy (Wild and Wicked Youth)"
OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart2 46, "The Sheffield Highwayman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan 260, "The Roving Blade" (3 texts)
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 136-137, "The Rambling Boy" (1 text)
Randolph 148, "The Rambling Boy" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart1 12, "Roving Rambling Boy"; "The Roving Blade" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 314-315, "The Reek and the Rambling Blade" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 101, "The Rambling Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 83, "The Robber" (1 text, 1 tune)
Reeves/Sharp-TheldiomOfThePeople 78, "The Rambling Boy" (2 texts)
Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 65, "The Highwayman" (2 texts)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 352, "Down in Covent Garden" (1 text)
Purslow-TheConstantLovers, pp. 107-108, "The Wild and Wicked Youth" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall, p. 30, "The Highwayman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #146, "The Wild and Wicked Youth" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #79, "Wild and Wicked Youth" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 63-64, "The Rich Rambler" (1 text)
Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, pp. 43-44, "The Wretched Rambling Boy" (1 text)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaMountainBallads, pp. 56-57, "Rich and Rambling Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ritchie-FolksongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 91-92, "The Reckless and Rambling Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #13, "Rich and Rambling Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Combs/Wilgus-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernUnitedStates 90, pp. 184-185, "The Rich and Rambling Boy" (1 text)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #140, "In Steven's Green" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden-Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 121, "The Rambling Boy" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 120, "The Rambling Boy" (4 excerpts, 4 tunes)
Sulzer-TwentyFiveKentuckyFolkBallads, p. 19, "Rich and Rambling Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 96, "The Ramblin' Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Huntington-FolksongsFromMarthasVineyard, pp. 23-24, "Scarlet Town" (1 text, 1 tune, with a first line perhaps from a "Barbara Allen" version)
Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 16, "A Bold and Undaunted Youth" (1 text, 1 tune)
Vikár/Panagapka-SongsNorthWoodsSungByOJAbbott 2, "The Bold and Undaunted Youth" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 326, "Newlyn Town" (1 text, 1 tune)
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 35, "The Newry Highwayman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion p. 96, "The Bold and Undaunted Youth" (1 fragment)
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 225-226, "The Highwayman" (1 text, 2 tunes)
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, pp. 130-131, "The Rambling Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thorp/Fife-SongsOfTheCowboys XIII, pp. 148-190 (29-30), "Cow Boy's Lament" (22 texts, 7 tunes, the "L" text being in fact a version of this piece)
DT 423, (RAKERAMB*)
Roud #490
RECORDINGS:
O. J. Abbott, "The Bold and Undaunted Youth (The Rambling Boy)" (on Abbott1)
Clarence Ashley & Tex Isley, "Rude and Rambling Man" (on Ashley01)
Justus Begley, "The Roving Boy" (AFS, 1937; on KMM)
Jumbo Brightwell, "Newry Town" (on Voice03)
Carolina Tar Heels, "Rude and Rambling Man" (Victor V-40077, 1929; on Ashley04)
Carter Family, "The Rambling Boy" (Bluebird B-8990, 1941/Bluebird 33-0512, 1944)
Wade Mainer, "Ramblin' Boy" (Bluebird 33-0512, 1944)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Rambling Boy" (on NLCR05)
Riley Puckett, "Ramblin' Boy" (Columbia 15605-D, 1930)
Bob Scarch, "Newlyn Town" (on FSB7)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 25(2054), "The Wild and Wicked Youth," T. Birt (London), 1828-1829; also Firth c.17(208), Harding B 11(576), Harding B 15(376a), Harding B 11(939), Firth c.17(6), Harding
B 16(307a), Harding B 11(4212), Harding B 11(4212), Firth b.34(314), Harding B 11(3519A), Firth c.17(7), 2806 c.16(325), Harding B 17(338a), Harding B 20(117),
Harding B 17(337b), "The Wild and Wicked Youth"; Harding B 28(235), "The Highway Man's Fate";
Harding B 26(67), "The Bold and Undaunted Youth" ("In Stephen's green I was bred and born"), J.
Moore (Belfast), 1852-1868

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Salisbury Plain" (theme)
cf. "It's Down in Old Ireland" (theme)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Rake and Rambling Boy
Adieu Adieu
The Flash Lad

NOTES [816 words]: The Bodleian "The Wild and Wicked Youth" broadsides, and OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 35, include a version of the lines
"I robbed Lord Mansfield I do declare, ...
Lord Fielding's gang they did me pursue And taken I was, by that cursed crew."
The Bodleian notes to 2806 c.16(325) include references to the cast of characters: "Fielding, John, Sir, d. 1780; Mansfield, W.R., Baron Sandhurst, 1819-1876"

Broadside Bodleian Harding B 26(67) is another example of the "I robbed Lord Mansfield I do declare" group. Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion's fragment seems to be from this version. In this case he falls in with "Fieldskin gang." - BS

Given the date of the song, I would think the Mansfield involved more likely to be William Murray, first Earl of Mansfield (1706-1793), who was Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench from 1756.
This has at least sometimes been corrupted to Lord Melbourne, presumably William Lamb, second Viscount Melbourne (1779-1848), the Prime Minister (on and off) from 1834 to 1841. But Mansfield is closer to the Era of the Highwaymen -- and, as Chief Justice, someone they would doubtless enjoy taking.
Fielding in fact might refer to John Fielding or his brother Henry, the well-known author (died 1755).
Henry Fielding was driven by poverty to take a post as Commissioner of the Peace for Middlesex in 1748. John Fielding, despite being blind, succeeded him in 1754 -- and dramatically improved law enforcement, though he didn't have the funding to carry out all his reforms. Still, he did enough that life became much harder for the highwaymen.
"Fielding's Gang" is presumably the Bow Street Patrol, founded by the Fieldings as the first almost-national police force in England.
Renwick, pp. 27-28, notes that he has seen 24 broadsides from twelve different printers, from throughout the British Isles and even New England, and all nineteenth century, but suggests that they must be much like the eighteenth century versions of the song because they are all so alike.
The obvious problem with this hypothesis is that it ignores the possibility of the printers all borrowing from each other.
Renwick, p. 31, suggests further that someone, probably in the late nineteenth century under the influence of "blues ballads," reworked the song to become the type known as "The Rambling Boy," although the result is still close enough to the original to be considered one song. Renwick, p. 54, also suggests a gender difference in how singers felt about the two recensions; 24 of 28 "Wild and Wicked Youth" versions came from men, compared to "just" 10 of 19 "Rambling Boy" versions.
In both cases, however, the majority of versions came from men; in the absence of data about the general population of sources used by collectors, I doubt this is a statistically significant difference.
Renwick, p. 56, also notes the curious fact that in the versions found in America, the so-called land of liberty, the word "liberty" is rarely used; that is characteristic of the original British version. - RBW

Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople ends "Get six pretty maidens to bear up my pall Give them white gloves and white ribbons all That they may say when they speak the truth There's gone a wild and wicked youth," which Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople compares to "The Streets of Laredo" and a Sharp ms version of "Tarpaulin Jacket": "...Let six jolly fellows all carry me And let them be very drunk." The Bodleian broadside Harding B 25(2054) funeral instructions include "Six highwaymen to carry me, Give them broad swords and liberty. Six blooming girls to bear my Pall ...." As for "Wrap Me Up in My Tarpaulin Jacket," the Bodleian broadside Harding B 25(1594) has "Let six bold sailors to carry me And let them be all very drunk ...." The parallel with the "Streets of Laredo" -- "Let sixteen gamblers come handle my coffin Let sixteen cowboys come sing me a song" -- and others in that family ("x Cut Down in His/Her Prime"), sets the outline for floating funeral instructions. Are they found in other songs?

In answer to a Ballad-L query Norm Cohen pointed me to an article that discusses the "x Cut Down ..." family and its funeral instructions in particular. The article cites a number of songs already in the index, including Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs "The Robber" in REFERENCES here, and a number of songs not yet in the index: "My Jewel, My Joy" from P.W. Joyce's Old Irish Folk Music and Songs, "I Once Was a Carman in the Big Mountain Con" from a Wayland D Hand Western Folklore article, and "The Wild Lumberjack" from George Korson's Pennsylvania Songs and Legends (source: Kenneth Lodewick, "The Unfortunate Rake' and His Descendants" in Western Folklore, Vol. XIV, No. 2 (Apr 1955 (available online by JSTOR)), pp. 98-109). - BS

The 'Ramblin' Boy' versions of this song shouldn't be confused with the Tom Paxton song, 'My Ramblin' Boy.' - PJS

Last updated in version 6.0

File: LL12

Wild Bill Jones [Laws E10]

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets his sweetheart, (Lula), walking with Wild Bill Jones. Since Bill will not leave Lula alone (or vice versa), the singer shoots him. Lula will not bail him out of prison, so the singer spends his last days wildly

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1916 (Cecil Sharp collection)

KEYWORDS: courting revenge homicide prison death jealousy

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (17 citations):

- Laws E10, "Wild Bill Jones"
- Randolph 151, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 139, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 114, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text)
- Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 102, pp. 239-240, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text); cf. #13, pp. 91-93, "The Lass of Roch Royal" (1 fragments, of which "A" is the "Pretty Little Foot" with a chorus from "Careless Love" and "B" is two "Pretty Little Foot" stanzas artificially and wrongly extracted from the text of "Wild Bill Jones" cited above)
- Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, p. 19, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text)
- Sharp-EnglishFolksongsFromSouthernAppalachians 99, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol2, pp. 49-50, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #18, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 140, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lunsford/Stringfield-30And1FolkSongsFromSouthernMountains, pp. 6-7, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 146, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Richardson/Speth-AmericanMountainSongs, pp. 36-37, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, pp. 34-35, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune); pp. 100-101, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Speth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, pp. 134-135, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT 622, WILDBILL*

ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 23, #6 (1975), p. 5, "Wild Bill Jones" (1 text, 1 tune, apparently the Ralph Stanley version)

Roud #2246

RECORDINGS:

- Clarence Ashley & Tex Isley, "Wild Bill Jones" (on Ashley01)
- Frank Bode, "Wild Bill Jones" (on FBode1)
Dock Boggs, "Wild Bill Jones" (on Boggs1, BoggsCD1)
Granville Bowlin, "Wild Bill Jones" (on MMOKCD)
Eva Davis, "Wild Bill Jones" (Columbia 129-D, 1924; on RoughWays2)
Logan English, "Wild Bill Jones" (on LEnglish01)
Kelly Harrell, "Wild Bill Jones" (OKeh 40486, 1925; on KHarrell01)
Wade Mainer & his Little Smilin' Rangers, "Wild Bill Jones" (Bluebird B-7249, 1937)
George Reneau, "Wild Bill Jones" (Vocalion 14998, 1925)
Ernest V. Stoneman "Wild Bill Jones" (Edison 51869, 1926) (CYL: Edison [BA] 5196, 1926)
Tobacco Tags, "Wild Bill Jones" (Bluebird B-8365, 1940)
Welby Toomey, "Wild Bill Jones" (Gennett 3228, 1926; Challenge 158 [as Bob Ferguson]/Challenge 324 [as John Ferguson], 1927; rec. 1925)

File: LE10

Wild Boy, The [Laws B20]

DESCRIPTION: The singer, guilty of murder and robbery, is arrested and jailed. His family deserts him, but a rich uncle bails him out. He vows to give up his wild ways.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Craddock)
KEYWORDS: family reprieve
FOUND IN: US(SW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Laws B20, "The Wild Boy"
DT 842, WILDBOY
Roud #3241
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Limbo" (theme)
NOTES [94 words]: The first stanza begins "My parents raised me ten-der-lee, They had no child but me, But I was bent on rambling-- With them I couldn't agree" and the story continues with bad company and jail. The composer seems familiar with "Limbo" and its rescue and conversion by a rich uncle of a rake to an honest man who has learned to shun the girls that "gurgle" over his money; here the "Wild Boy" is rescued and converted by a rich uncle to an honest man and we are led to believe "Agnes and ... Mabel, ... Mary likewise" will not get the better of him in the future. - BS

File: LB20

Wild Buckaroo, The

DESCRIPTION: "I've been ridin' cattle for most of my life, I ain't got no family and I ain't got no wife." The cowboy boasts of his exploits, tells of the places he has worked, describes what he likes, and concludes "I'm a high-loping cowboy and a wild buckaroo."

AUTHOR: Curley Fletcher ?
EARLIEST DATE: 1966
KEYWORDS: cowboy bragging work bawdy
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 35, "Cowboy Boasters" (5 texts, 2 tunes; this is the "C" text)
Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 15, pp. 102-107, "Wild Buckaroo" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #10091
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Strawberry Roan" (tune)
NOTES [107 words]: Glenn Ohrlin credits this to Curley Fletcher. These days this song is probably known best in its parody version, which Ohrlin also credits to Fletcher; in the parody, a succession of increasingly bawdy verses follows the clean ones. - PJS Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging also credits a verison to Fletcher. The interesting question is whether all the songs listed e.g. by the Fifes as "Cowboy Boasters" can be lumped, and if not, how to split them -- the format of this, in two-line independent couplets, makes almost infinite rearrangement possible. It is noteworthy, for instance, how different are Logsdon's clean and dirty versions. - RBW

File: FCS35C
Wild Cat Back on the Pipe Line, The

DESCRIPTION: A wildcat shows up on the pipe line. Norman Matchett said "twas a monkey." Freeman Hare swears "twas a monstrous bear." Leclair, from Australia, said "twas a big kangaroo." The singer, a hunter, says the others must have had too much wine at Willie's.

AUTHOR: probably Jared MacLean

EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi)

KEYWORDS: humorous animal wine nonsense

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 47, "The Wild Cat Back on the Pipe Line" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST MaWi047 (Partial)

Roud #9181

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Three Jolly Huntsmen" (theme)

File: MaWi047

---

Wild Colonial Boy, The [Laws L20]

DESCRIPTION: Transported from Ireland to Australia, (Jack Doolan) turns bushranger but robs only the rich. At last intercepted by troopers Kelly, Davis, and Fitzroy, he chooses to fight rather than surrender. He kills Kelly but is in turn shot by the other two.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Old Bush Songs); Shepard's broadside claims to be the "original version first printed 1880"; Paterson's version is very close to that which Jack Bradshaw (according to Manifold) must have learned by 1800 although it wasn't published until later.

KEYWORDS: transportation outlaw death

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,NE,RO) Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont) Australia Ireland Britain(Scotland(Bord))

REFERENCES (37 citations):
Laws L20, "The Wild Colonial Boy"
Mcorland/Scott-HerdLaddieOTheGlen, pp. 68-69, 151, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 72, 124, 148-149, 255, "The Wild Colonial Boy"; p. 152, "Jack Dowling"; pp. 185-186, "John Doolan" (5 texts, 6 tunes)
Anderson-StoryOfAustralianFolksong, pp. 122-125, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ward-PenguinBookOfAustralianBallads, pp. 74-75, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, one of the versions in which Jack Donohue is the hero)
Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads, pp. 12-13, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 374, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 113, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 133, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 130-131, "Jack Dolden" (1 text, 1 tune)
Beck-FolkloreOfMaine, pp. 98-99, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-BalladsOfLowerLabradorCoast 54, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Mackenzie-BalladsOfLowerLabradorCoast 54, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 77-78,257, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 99, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hodgert-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 229, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 90, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan, pp. 241-243, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 94, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 320-321, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H750, pp. 120-121, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manifold-PenguinAustralianSongbook, pp. 52-54, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, pp. 134-135, 299-300, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 97, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 80-81, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fahey-PintPotAndBilly, pp. 44-45, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scott-ACollectorsNotebook-31TraditionalSongs, p. 29, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 562-563, "The Wild Montana Boy" (1 text, minimally adapted to a Montana setting)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 110-111, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 201, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
DT 427, COLONBOY* COLONBY2*
Bill Beatty, _A Treasury of Australian Folk Tales & Traditions_, 1960 (I use the 1969 Walkabout Paperbacks edition), pp. 265-266, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (1 text)
Roud #677
RECORDINGS:
Margaret Barry and Michael Gorman, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (on Voice08)
John Greenway, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (on JGreenway01)
A. L. Lloyd, "The Wild Colonial Boy" (on Lloyd4, Lloyd10)
Ernest Poole, "Wild Colonial Boy" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Jack Donahue" [Laws L22]
NOTES [986 words]: Philips Barry connects this song to the career of a Jack Dowling who was a bushranger in the 1870s. John Greenway, however, believes that Jack Doolan/Dolan/Duggan was an improved version of the historical Jack Donahue. He based this on the fact that two share initials, they were credited with many of the same feats in popular imagination, they shared similar fates, and the two ballads sometimes exchange tunes and choruses. Compare, however, Cazden et al. - RBW
Another candidate from Yates, Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Notes - Volume 8" - 1.3.03: "It has been suggested that the story is based on the life of one John Donaghue, a Dublin man who was transported for life in 1825, and who was killed by troopers in 1830." - BS Nunn, p. 76, in fact reports that the song "Bold John Donoghue sung in the early 1830s glamorised his fictional deeds an heroic death. It was banned only to re-emerge, with minor variations, as [The Wild Colonial Boy]."
On the other hand, Wannan, p. 13, declares firmly that "Jack Doolan, or Dowling, is not... one and the same person as Bold Jack Donahoe," offering as evidence the fact that "Donahue was a convict who escaped... and became a bushranger in the eighteen-twenties. Doolan was native-born and his bushranging activities belong to the period of the sixties, ten years or so after the main gold rushes had taken place. It would certainly not have been possible for the Wild Colonial Boy to have stuck up the Beechwood mail coach at the time... [of] Donahoe.... There was no such coach in existence then."
To which one can only say, "Folk process!" Even Wannan admits that "history has left us no facts about [Doolan]."
Given that this song is so widespread, though, I almost suspect that this song PRECEDES "Jack Donahue," and that the Australian song of that name is a conflation of this with the native Australian ballad referred to herein as "Bold Jack Donahoe." This is similar to the opinion of John Manifold; he notes John Meredith’s classification of five different Jack Donahue ballad-types, of which #2 (represented by four texts and a fragment, making it the best-known) has Donahue be the wild colonial boy. Manifold, p. 35, says, "Meredith beleives that all these are interconnected; that they are in fact all about the one man. I don't."
In addition, though Laws does not list a broadside publication, one suspects that this piece began life in print, as the names of the troopers who killed Doolan almost never show variants.
In my personal library, as of this writing, I find twelve substantial texts of this song from verified sources. Seven of these do not give an internal date for the song; of the five that do, three list (18)61, one 1862, and one (18)65. I suspect that this is, however, an error for the convict's age of "sixteen years" (based on "sixty" for "sixteen" -- an easy error of hearing).

Manifold, p. 36, makes a similar observation; he counts ten different points of fact about Donahue which might be found in ballad -- and which most of the Donahue ballads get right. But in three of his four "Colonial Donahue" ballads, the text gets none of them right.

There is one thing in the ballad which is somewhat historical when it refers to "Judge McEvoy" or similar: "Mr Justice Macoboy, while making the Bendigo Circuit, was bailed up near Beechworth by a bushranger who took no booty from the coach but read the judge a sever lecture against oppressiveness and harsh judgment. At the end of this the bushranger made off, and disappeared from history but not from legend" (Manifold, p. 45). This, however, was in 1861, so the bushranger cannot have been Donohue.

Manifold, pp. 36-40, attempts to reconstruct the archetype of the "other" Donohue ballads; the result is interesting but perhaps not entirely convincing. His suggestion that "The Wild Colonial Boy" started as a local ballad about the robbing of Judge Macoboy, to the tune of one of the Jack Donohue songs (p. 46), which would explain why the two got mixed up -- but I'm not sure it explains how this song became so internationally popular; it seems to me that any explanation about "The Wild Colonial Boy" must explain both its relationship to "Jack Donohue" and how the song managed to spread to the entire English-speaking world -- a feat no other native Australian song except "Waltzing Matilda" has managed.

Manifold thinks that the versions of the song in which the Boy is born in Ireland are a corruption, because someone born in Ireland would not be called a "Colonial" (Manifold, p. 47) -- but while an Australian might be alert to that point, I doubt anyone else would. So I don't consider that strong evidence about the source of the ballad.

One small point regarding the date: The troopers are said to have been mounted, and Australia didn't get a mounted police force until 1825. Even then, it was only 13 troopers; it didn't grow to as many as 150 men until 1839 -- by which time transportation to New South Wales was effectively ended. Thus Wannan's point has some truth: the song as usually found seems based on Australia in the period around 1850-1870.

Robert Hughes, who prints a version he took down in 1958 (p. 242) says that "there used to be as may ways of singing 'The Wild Colonial Boy' as there were pianos in Australian parlors" -- which, in context, strikes me as an underestimate.

There is a clear allusion to this song in Steele Rudd's (Arthur Hoey Davis's) book Our New Selection (1903), Chapter VII, "A Surprise Party," in which the brother, Dave, when drunk, sings "Poorsh honish parensh, born in Cashl-ic-maine... No stransher he-hic-didsh fear." It's interesting that both Jack Doolan and the troopers who shot him have Irish names.

OxfordCompanion, p. 31, notes that the Irish represented about a quarter of the migrants to Australia -- and that they were over-represented among both the convicts and the police. - RBW

Bibliography

Last updated in version 5.2
File: LL20

Wild Gazelle, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, come with me and we will go To the land where the mango apples grow, Oh, do not tarry another day, for storms may come and love deday (sic.). We'll chase the antelope over the plain..." and hunt, and have a gazelle for a playmate

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle)

KEYWORDS: courting travel animal

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, p. 70, "The Wild Gazelle" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Wild Goose Nest, The

DESCRIPTION: Congregational song, in which the leader will ask a member to tell a story, the member will do so, and the congregation sings, "Wild goose nest (x3)." There is no plot, but there may be other verses, such as "And all the eggs were white but one...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (Smith-SouthCarolinaBallads)
KEYWORDS: nonballad bird religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Smith-SouthCarolinaBallads, pp. 21-23, "The Wild Goose Nest" (1 text)

Wild Horse Charlie

DESCRIPTION: Wild Horse Charlie tells the poet that he prefers his work to women. He explains that he had once been engaged to one. Later it turns out she had become engaged to a number of cowboys, taking money from each and then skipping town.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973
KEYWORDS: courting marriage trick cowboy recitation
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 78, "Wild Horse Charlie" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Glenn Ohrlin, "Wild Horse Charlie" (on Ohrlin01)

Wild Irish Boy, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer reports on his arrival in the new world. Despite his poor clothes, history of gambling, and criminal record, the girls like him for his looks. But now he is punished for his crime with poverty, prison, and loneliness.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1875 (Barney & Rickey's Songster)
KEYWORDS: transportation gambling exile separation loneliness prison punishment emigration homesickness clothes father mother
FOUND IN: US(MA,MW)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 112, "The Wild Irish Boy" (2 texts, 1 tune)
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 26, "The Wild Irish Boy" (1 text)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2643, p. 179, "The Wild Irish Boy" ( reference)
ST FSC112 (Partial)
Roud #V5475
RECORDINGS:
Warde Ford, "The Wild Irish boy" [fragment] (AFS A 4210 B1, 1939; in AMMEM/Cowell)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 18(490), "Wild Irish Boy", H. De Marsan (New York), 1864-1878
NOTES [77 words]: The handful of traditional collections of this song have, at first glance, little resemblance to most of the broadsides. But Cazden et al managed to assemble enough versions that they are convinced of the identity of the pieces, and I think they're right.

Last updated in version 5.1

File: FSC112
Wild Irishman in London, The

DESCRIPTION: "I am a wild Irishman just come to town, To view the fine city of fame and renown." The English attack him, He fights off butcher and police and crowd with his shillelegh, and has a drink to rejoice. He wishes "Long life and success to Erin go Bragh."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (Shephard); the other song on the sheet is probably from the period of the American Civil War

KEYWORDS: drink fight

FOUND IN: Britain(England)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Roud #5085

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Duncan Campbell (Erin-Go-Bragh)" [Laws Q20] (theme of Irishman being abused and fighting back) and references there

File: BdTWIrL

---

Wild Lumberjack, The

DESCRIPTION: "One day I was out walking on the mountain... I happened to spy... A handsome young lumberjack... All dressed in white linen." The man recalls life in the woods. But he is "shot in the breast." He bids farewell to family and love, asks for water, and dies

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1949 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)

KEYWORDS: lumbering death lament burial dying funeral disease violence

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 424, "The Cowboy's Lament (The Streets of Laredo)" (2 texts, the second one being this)
- Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 352-353, "The Wild Lumberjack" (1 text)
- Roud #7736

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Streets of Laredo" [Laws B1] (subject, meter) and references there

NOTES [27 words]: Clearly a version of "The Streets of Laredo" adapted to a logging situation. It is still so close to the original that earlier versions of the Index lumped them. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

File: KPL352

---

Wild Man of Borneo, The

DESCRIPTION: Cumulative song: "The wild man of (Borneo/Poplar) has just come to town (4x)" building to "The left whisker of the flea in the hair in the tail of the dog of the daughter of the wife of the wild man of Borneo has just come to town"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (collected from Charles Neville)

KEYWORDS: cumulative nonballad animal bug

FOUND IN: Britain(Wales,England(South)) Canada(Mar) Australia

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 311, "The Wild Man of Borneo" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 258, "The Wild Man of Borneo" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT, KINGCARA*
- Roud #2145

RECORDINGS:
- Carl Jones, "Wild Man of Borneo" (OKeh 45516, 1931; rec. 1930)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- The Court of King Caractacus
- The Wild Man from Poplar
NOTES [167 words]: [A variant version:] The fascinating witches who put the scintillating stitches in the britches of the boys who put the powder on the noses of the faces of the ladies of the harem of the court of King Caractacus were just passing by." - (PJS)
The Digital Tradition credits the above tentatively to Rolf Harris. I can't prove that, but I suspect it is composed.

Caractacus was a proto-British king (son of Cunobelinus, who through the muddle of Holinshed became Shakespeare's Cymbeline). His exact date of accession is uncertain, but it was probably around 40 C. E.
At first he split power with his brother Togodumnus, but the latter died shortly after Claudius's Romans invaded Britain in 43. Caratactus continued to resist for years, mostly from Wales, but was eventually captured around 51 and spent the rest of his life in Rome.
It will presumably be evident that Caractacus didn't have much of a harem (or much time for one). I've no idea why he was picked on, rather than, say, a Persian monarch. - RBW

Wild Mustard River, The (Johnny Stile) [Laws C5]
DESCRIPTION: Johnny catches his foot among the logs while breaking up a jam; he is swept away as the jam breaks up. His badly torn body is recovered and buried by his fellow workers
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Detroit News, reprinted in Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan)
KEYWORDS: logger death drowning
FOUND IN: US(MA,MW) Canada(Mar,Ont)
REFERENCES (12 citations):
Laws C5, "The Wild Mustard River (Johnny Stile)"
Fowke/Mills/Blume-CanadasStoryInSong, pp. 177-179, "Johnny Doyle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bethke-AdirondackVoices, pp. 84-86, "The Wild Mustard River" (1 text, 1 tune)
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 56, "Wild Mustard River" (4 texts, one called "The Old Tamarack Dam"; 1 tune)
Beck-TheyKnewPaulBunyan, pp. 145-148, "Down by the Wild Mustard River" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 71, "Wild Mustard River" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 111, "The Wild Mustard River" (1 text)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 228-230, "Johnny Stiles, or The Wild Mustard River" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fowke-LumberSongsFromTheNorthernWoods #30, "Johnny Stiles" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 100, "The Wild Mustard River" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 415, "Down by the Wild Mustard River" (1 text)
DT 714, WILDMUST*
Roud #637
RECORDINGS:
Tom Brandon, "Johnny Stiles" (on Lumber01)
Joe Kelly, "Johnny Doyle" (on Lumber01)
Carl Lathrop, "The Wild Mustard River" (AFS, 1938; on LC56)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Old Tamarack Dam
NOTES [78 words]: Fowke believes, on the basis of the distribution of variants, that this song originated in Ontario, but cannot cite an incident on which it is based.
Patrick Doyle of Halifax may have the solution. His great uncle Johnny Doyle died July 6, 1906 on a log drive in Ontario. He tells me that the river was the Moose River.
Based on his family's history (http://tinyurl.com/tbdx-JohnnyDoyle), it appears that Doyle would have been between 29 and 31 years old at the time. - RBW

Wild Oats (Turn, Young Man; Joggle Along)
DESCRIPTION: "Turn, young men, from your evil ways; (Go/Don't) sow your wild oats in the early days -- that you may be happy when you grow old."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1884 (Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren)

KEYWORDS: playparty warning

FOUND IN: US(NE,SE)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 65, "Wild Oats" (2 fragments)
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 76, "Joggle Along" (1 text, 1 tune)
Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #38, "The Baptist Game" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: G.F. Northall, English Folk-Rhymes (London, 1892 ("Digitized by Google")), p. 361, "Joggle Along" (1 text)
Roud #7869
File: Br3065

Wild Rover (II), The

DESCRIPTION: "I will rover from the land where my forefathers lie, From the land of my birth with my own love I'll fly." "Al I'll give up... To be with my first love the wild Rover's bride." The singer will sail with her love wherever he goes and in all weather

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1840 (Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs)

KEYWORDS: love sailor home exile

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs 45, "The Wild Rover" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: Fran045

Wild Rover No More

DESCRIPTION: The singer "has been a wild rover for many a year; I've spent all my money on whisky and beer." After years of carousing, he has gone broke and/or struck it rich; he vows that "never no more, It's never, never, never, never I'll play The wild rover no more."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1829 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 25(2055))

KEYWORDS: rambling poverty money travel hardtimes drink landlord floating verses

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,South),Scotland) Australia Ireland Canada(Mar,Newf) US(Ro,So)

REFERENCES (19 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 69-70, "Wild Rover" (a fragment); pp. 87-88, 127-128, "Wild Rover No More"; pp. 176-177, "I've Been a Wild Boy" (4 texts, 4 tunes)
Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads, p. 45, "Wild Rover No More" (1 text)
Randolph 166, "The Horse-Thief" (1 text, 1 tune, which appears to be associated with this song although the text is so short that it might be part of a different piece)
High-OldOldFolkSongs, pp. 35-36, "Ile B A Good Boy & Do So Nomore" (1 text)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #147, "The Wild Rover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 196-197, "The Wild Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMoreMyLady, pp. 190-191, "Wild Rover" (1 text)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 113, "The Wild Rover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 288, "Wild Rover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Williams-Witshire-WSRO Wt 476, "Wild Rover" (1 text)
Purslow-TheConstantLovers, p. 109, "The Wild Rover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #88, "The Wild Rover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan7 1480, Greig/Duncan8 Addenda, "The Wild Rover" (7 texts, 5 tunes)
Manifold-PenguinAustralianSongbook, pp. 146-147, "Wild Rover No More" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 65, "Wild Rover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Forget-Me-Not-Songster, p. 54, "The Wild Rover" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 57, "Wild Rover" (1 text)
DT, WLDROVER*
RECORDINGS:
John Greenway, "Wild Rover No More" (on JGreenway01)
Sam Larner, "The Wild Rover" (on SLarner02)
Mrs. K. McCarthy, "Wild Rover" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 25(2055), "Wild Rover" ("I have been a wild rover these dozen years"), T. Batchelor (London), 1817-1828; Harding B 16(307d), Johnson Ballads 613, Firth c.18(239), Firth c.18(244), Harding B 25(2055), "[The] Wild Rover"; Harding B 11(4217), "Wild Rover!"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Johnny the Sailor (Green Beds)" [Laws K36] (plot)
cf. "Tambaroora Gold" (theme)
cf. "Moonshiner" (floating lyrics)
cf. "All My Trials" (lyrics)
cf. "Take Me Back to Tulsa" (lyrics)
cf. "Limbo" (theme)
cf. "I'll Be a Good Boy" (lyrics, theme)
cf. "Tuapeka Gold" (plot)
SAME TUNE:
Wild Driver (by Duke Tritton: "I've been a wild driver this many a year, And always made sure I had plenty of beer") (Meredith/Tritton-DukeOfTheOutback, p. 72)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
No, No, Never

NOTES [305 words]: Meredith and Anderson claim that their fourth version, "I've Been a Wild Boy," has "no connection with the well-known 'Wild Rover No More.'" The same could be argued for Fahey's "The Wild Boy," since it lacks the "Wild Rover No More" chorus. Both songs also share an initial verse not found in the standard version:

My father died and left me his estate,
I married a lady whose fortune was great
And through keeping bad company I've spent all my store;
I've been a wild boy, but I'll be so no more.

There is something similar in High-OldOldFolkSongs
When I was a young boy my fortune was not great,
I married me a rich widow with a very large estate,
With drinking and gambling I soon spent all her store,
But now I'll be a good bo and so no no more.

It will, however, be observed that the basic plot of all these songs is that of the "Wild Rover." The also share extensive floating lyrics. It may well be that this mixed "Wild Rover" is a fusion of earlier pieces. At this time, however, I am unable to distinguish the two.

Interestingly, although the song predates "The Strawberry Roan" by a century or so, Greenway's version is sung to a variant of that tune. - RBW
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland and MacColl/Seeger both lump this song with "Moonshiner." I don't think so -- although they share a few lines -- but they do deserve a cross-reference.

No, I'm not making up the "All My Trials" and "Take Me Back to Tulsa" cross-references; Sam Larner included the "If living was a thing was money could buy/The rich would live and the poor would die" and "Little bee sucks the blossom, big bee gets the honey" floaters in his version. - PJS
John Greenway's "Wild Rover," which seems to be pretty well mixed, refers to the prisoner being sent to "Nugget." This is surely an error for "Newgate," the famous English prison. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.0

File: MA069

Wild Rovers, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you wild rovers and listen for a while... For love has been the ruin of many a man." The singer warns against love: "When you are married you are not your own man." He describes some of his miseries, and wishes luck to single and married alike

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Randolph)

KEYWORDS: love marriage wife warning drink
Wild Slieve Gallon Brae
DESCRIPTION: The singer is in love with a false-hearted girl. He sets out to view her home, but somehow goes astray and ends on Slieve Gallon Brae. There he meets a girl whose love has also been untrue. They marry and live happily on Slieve Gallon Brae
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Sam Henry Collection)
KEYWORDS: love betrayal abandonment rambling marriage
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H540, pp. 468-469, "Wild Slieve Gallon Brae" (1 text, 1 tune)
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 9A, "Wild Sliav Gallen Brae" (1 text)
Roud #3577
NOTES [11 words]: Not to be confused with several other songs with similar titles. - RBW
File: HHH540

Wild Stormy Deep
DESCRIPTION: "On the wild stormy deep With Jesus I'll sleep And hold to his loving hand. In a home above I'll be there with God, and rejoice in a happy land." The singer prays, and God frees the singer from burden and sin
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl)
KEYWORDS: religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 95, "Wild Stormy Deep" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST Wa095 (Partial)
File: Wa095

Wild Waves Roar, The
DESCRIPTION: "The wild waves roar, And my ship's a wreck On a foreign shore"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: sea ship shore wreck
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1757, "The Wild Waves Roar" (1 fragment)
Roud #13518
NOTES [11 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan8 fragment. - BS
File: GrD81757

Wild West Show, The
DESCRIPTION: "We're off to see the Wild West Show, Elephants and the kangaroos, Never mind the weather, As long as we're together, We're off to see the Wild West Show," Verses may be recited, and are often obscene, regarding the various unlikely animals in the show
AUTHOR: unknown (but with connections to Ben Jonson; see NOTES)
EARLIEST DATE: 1968 (Morgan, More Rugby Songs -- but see NOTES)
KEYWORDS: animal humorous scatological recitation
FOUND IN: Britain(England) US Australia Netherlands
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: Ed Cray, Richard Reuss, and John Patrick, _The Wild West Show: A Tangle of Tales and Titles_, Occasional Papers in Folklore No. 4, Loomis House Press, 2014 (4 tunes, plus numerous texts; see the NOTES)
Roud #4831
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Van Amburgh's Menagerie
The Hamburg Show
The Hamburg Zoo
The Royal Wild Beast Show
NOTES [93 words]: Ed Cray's _The Wild West Show_, surely one of the most extensive examinations ever compiled of the history of a particular song, finds a continuous thematic chain between this song and an item in Ben Jonson's 1614 play "The Humours of Bartholomew Fair." I would not consider them the same song (which makes dating "The Wild West Show" rather problematic), but the idea very likely does go back to Jonson. This idea was first suggested by Gershon Legman. The song is considered a rugby standard. For full details, obviously, one must refer to Cray's book. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.4
File: ECray04

Wilderness Lady, The

DESCRIPTION: At dinner in a London lord's house an English lady toasts King William "and to all his strong forces." The next day the "Wilderness lady" challenges her to a duel. Wounded, the English lady cries for mercy. An English lord interrupts the duel.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: fight rescue royalty nobility
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 34, "The Wilderness Lady" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2295
ALTERNATE TITLES:
A Health to the King
NOTES [86 words]: The "King William" of this song is presumably William III (reigned 1688-1694 with Mary II; sole reign 1694-1702). William I the Conqueror/Bastard (reigned 1066-1087) and William II Rufus (1087-1100) are certainly too early. William IV (1830-1837) is chronologically possible, but his claim to the throne was unchallenged. If the song were set in Ireland, I would consider that interpretation certain. But William III was also controversial in England, as he overthrew James II in the Glorious Revolution of 1688. - RBW
File: KaNew034

Wildwood Flower

DESCRIPTION: The singer prepares to deck herself out with flowers in her hair, in response to her former lover who now has abandoned her. She promises to behave joyfully and forget she knew him, and make him regret that he "neglected his pale wildwood flower"

AUTHOR: Words: Maud Irving / Music: Joseph Philbrick Webster (?) (see NOTES)
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (recording, Carter Family); probably composed 1860
KEYWORDS: love abandonment beauty flowers
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)
REFERENCES (11 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 263, "The Pale Wildwood Flower" (3 texts plus a fragment)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 263, "The Pale Wildwood Flower" (3 tunes
Ritchie-SingingFamilyOfTheCumberlands, pp. 248-249, "[Pale Wildwood Flower]" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, pp. 50-51, "Wildwood Flower" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph 798, "The Wildwood Flower" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 500-501, "The Wildwood Flower" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 798A)
Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp. 48-49, "Wildwood Flower" (1 text, 1 tune)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 102-103, "Wildwood Flower" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cray-AshGrove, p. 27, "Wildwood Flower" (1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 166, "Wildwood Flower" (1 text)
DT, WILDWFLR*
Roud #757
RECORDINGS:
The Carter Family, "Wildwood Flower" (Victor V-40000, 1929; Bluebird B-5356/Montgomery Ward M-4432/Sunrise S-3437, 1934; rec. 1928) (ARC 5-11-65/Conqueror 8542, 1935); [as The A. P. Carter Family] "Wildwood Flower" (Acme 996, early 1950s)
Carter Sisters & Mother Maybelle, "Wildwood Flower" (Columbia 21138, 1953)
John D. Mounce et al, "Wildwood Flower" (on MusOzarks01)
James Roberts, "Frail Wildwood Flower" (Gennett 6566 [as Wikel Miller]/Conqueror 7254 [as Joe Reeves], 1929; rec. 1928)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Reuben James" (tune)
NOTES [242 words]: The list of flowers in this song is curious. The original sheet music refers to a "pale aronatus," which is no flower at all, in the fourth line. Many others have been suggested. The closest fit verbally is probably "amanita," which is interesting because, although not a flower (it's a fungus), it is indeed pale -- and a deadly poison (Stevens & Klarner, p. 82). Another flower mentioned, the oleander, is also deadly (Stevens & Klarner, p. 48). It's almost as if people who heard the song and could not understand it were plugging in poisonous blossoms.
There seems to be agreement that Maud Irving wrote the words to this (so blame her for the aronatus), but no agreement on the author of the music. The first sources I saw said Joseph Philbrick Webster, a fairly well-known composer who wrote "Sweet By and By" and "Lorena," so he is a fair bet for such a popular tune. But Zwonitzer/Hirschberg, p. 43, apparently citing Charles K. Wolfe, credits J. P. Welch, who has not written anything else of significance. My guess is that there was an edition somewhere with the words credited to J. P. W., and this was variously interpreted. The date of the original would probably settle things, since Webster died in 1875. All that said, I'm fairly sure the attribution to Webster is correct, since his catalog of songs includes a text by Irving titled "I'll Twine 'Mid the Ringlets." That, presumably, is this song; the site pdmusic.org dates it 1860. - RBW
Bibliography

Last updated in version 5.1
File: JRSF248

Wilfrid White and John Murphy
DESCRIPTION: "Come all you loyal shanty boys" to hear of the death of two lumbermen. Oct. 6, 1901, Wilfrid and John set out for Carl Wright's camp. They disappear before they can cross the ferry. Their drowned bodies are eventually found; why they swam is unknown
AUTHOR: Joe Scott?
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Ives-Joe-Scott-TheWoodsmanSongmaker)
KEYWORDS: death drowning river lumbering
FOUND IN: Canada (Ont) US(NE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Wilkes Lovell [Laws E9]

DESCRIPTION: Two convicts escape from prison. Sheriff Wilkes Lovell, informed of this by his wife, pursues and recaptures them. The singer, who is one of the escapees, warns his listeners not to imitate him

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster)

KEYWORDS: prison escape police wife

FOUND IN: US(NE)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Laws E9, "Wilkes Lovell"
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 217-219, "Wilkes Lovell" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, p. 36, "Wilkes Lovell" (1 text)
DT 759, WILKLOVL

Roud #2247

File: LE09

Will Fox

DESCRIPTION: Engineer Will Fox has his fireman shovel on a little more coal to set "this Moore girl" and bring him a little more gin. He says they will stop in a bar at the end of the line

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (USWMcTell01)

KEYWORDS: railroading drink parody

FOUND IN: US(SE)

Roud #17670

RECORDINGS:
Blind Willie McTell, "Will Fox" (on USWMcTell01)

NOTES [72 words]: A non-disaster song parodying all the railroad wreck songs in which the fatal move is made when the engineer tells his fireman to "shovel a little more coal."

Allan Balfour's liner notes to USWMcTell01: "Moore" girl probably referred to "the locomotive which ran on the Moore Central Railroad in North Carolina. Fellow Georgians Andrew and Jim Baxter recorded 'The Moore Girl' for Victor in 1927 referring to the same train." - BS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: RcWilFox

Will My Mother Know Me There?

DESCRIPTION: "When I reach my home eternal, Reach that city bright and fair, When I stand among the angels, Will my mother know me there?" The singer is old and worn and fears not being recognized. Finally he concludes that she will know him

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Sulzer-TwentyFiveKentuckyFolkBallads)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad mother

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sulzer-TwentyFiveKentuckyFolkBallads, p. 17, "Will My Mother Know Me There?" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #11702
Will Ray

DESCRIPTION: "Oh Papa, dear Papa, please tell to me Just what you think of Will Ray." The father tells the girl to marry banker John Burns instead of poor Will. The daughter points out that Burns has just gone bankrupt and Ray become rich; the father relents

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi, Neely/Spargo-TalesAndSongsOfSouthernIllinois)

KEYWORDS: love courting marriage money father lover children

FOUND IN: US(MW,So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 135, pp. 281-282, "Will Ray" (1 text)
- Neely/Spargo-TalesAndSongsOfSouthernIllinois, pp. 176-178, "Will Ray" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #4317

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Billy Grimes the Rover" (plot)
- cf. "Peggy in the Morning" (plot)

NOTES [29 words]: This looks to me very much like an elaboration of "Billy Grimes the Rover." But the plot about John Burns is not normal to that piece, so I have tentatively separated them. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

Will Stewart and John [Child 107]

DESCRIPTION: Will loves the Earl of Mar's daughter. His brother John successfully woos her for him. She sets requirements which he meets, but her father is against the match despite learning they are of high degree. They elope, gaining acceptance after a child is born

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1750 (Percy Folio)

KEYWORDS: love courting nobility father elopement childbirth

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Child 107, "Will Stewart and John" (2 texts)
- Hales/Furnival-BishopPercysFolioManuscript, volume III, pp. 215-229, "Will Stewart & John" (1 text)

Roud #3973

File: C107

Will the Circle Be Unbroken

DESCRIPTION: The singer witnesses his/her mother being carried off for burial. Her example is praised. The singer wonders if they will meet again: "Will the circle be unbroken, By and by, Lord, by and by? There's a better home a-waiting In the sky, Lord, in the sky."

AUTHOR: Words: Ada R. Habershon?

EARLIEST DATE: Original text and tune copyright 1908; later tune: 1927 (recording, Metropolitan Quartet)

KEYWORDS: religious death funeral burial mother

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
- Randolph 635, "Can the Circle Be Unbroken?" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 440-442, "Can the Circle Be Unbroken?" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 635)
- Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #47, "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" (1 text, 1 tune)
Will the Lord Remember Me

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Will the Lord remember me When I am called to go? ... From bonds he set me free When I reach the pearly gates He will remember me?" Verses: Thief on the cross asks Jesus to remember him. His blood set captives free and "I am included"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (recording, Golden Gate Quartet)

KEYWORDS: death nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:
Will the Weaver [Laws Q9]

DESCRIPTION: The newly married man regrets his hasty marriage. He is told that his wife is seeing Will the Weaver. He surprises them at his home. Will hides up the chimney. The husband smokes him out, beats him, and sends him away.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1793 (broadside)

KEYWORDS: marriage infidelity humorous

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber)) US(Ap,MA,MW,NE,Ro,SE) Canada(Mar) Ireland

REFERENCES (27 citations):
- Laws Q9, "Will the Weaver"
- Greig "Folk-Song in Buchan," p. 20, "Will the Weaver" (1 fragment)
- Greig/Duncan7 1461, "Will the Weaver" (11 texts, 7 tunes)
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 106-108, "Will the Weaver" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Bk 27)
- McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol2, pp. 64-65, "Willy Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 47, "Bill the Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 199, "Father, Father, I Am Married" (1 fragment, so short that it could be a form of "Devilish Mary" but seeming by its form to belong here)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 199, "Father, Father, I Am Married" (1 excerpt, 1 tune)
- Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 53, "Will the Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 237-238, "Will the Weaver" ("Will de Weaver") (1 text; tune on p. 418)
- Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 98, "Will the Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 140, "Will, the Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 146-147, "Will the Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 154, "Will the Weaver" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
- Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol3, pp. 69-70, "Bill Weever" (1 short text, 1 tune)
- Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains, p. 22, "Johnny and Old Mr. Henly" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #124, "Will the Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 133, "Bill the Weaver" (1 text)
- Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, pp. 152-154, "Everyday Dirt" (1 text, 1 tune, rewritten by Dave McCarr)
- Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs, pp. 184-185, "Will the Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H682, p. 505, "Will the Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, Dan Patterson, "23-244-5, "Willy Weaver" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 146-147, "Will the Weaver" (1 text)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 170, "Everyday Dirt" (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: Leslie Shepard, _The Broadside Ballad_, Legacy Books, 1962, 1978, p. 130, "Will the Weaver" (reproduction of a broadsheet designed to be folded into a booklet with four songs; this is the only song with its title and initial stanzas on the visible side)

Archie Green, "Will the Weaver's Hillbilly Kinfolk," article published 1959 in _Caravan_; republished on pp. 111-120 of Norm Cohen, editor, _All This for a Song_, Southern Folklife Collection, 2009

Roud #432
RECORDINGS:
Bill Carlisle, "Jumpin' and Jerkin' Blues" (Vocalion 02984, 1935; Conqueror 8789, 1937; Romeo 70264, prob. 1937, and issues on Banner, Melotone, Oriole and Perfect)
Dave McCarn, "Everyday Dirt" (Victor V-40274, 1930)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Everyday Dirt" (on NLCR02)
Charlie Parker & Mack Woolbright, "Will the Weaver" (Columbia 15694-D, 1931; rec. 1927; on ConstSor1)
Mike Seeger, "Will the Weaver" (on MSeeger01)
Doc Watson, "Every Day Dirt" (on Watson01)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 25(2078), "Will the Weaver" [almost entirely illegible], J. Evans (London), 1780-1812; also Harding B 28(151), "Will, the Weaver," W. Armstrong (Liverpool), 1820-1824; Harding B 11(4247), "Will, the Weaver"; Firth c.18(255), Firth c.18(254), "Will the Weaver"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Boatsman and the Chest" [Laws Q8] (plot) and references there

NOTES [43 words]: This and similar songs are sometimes traced back to a story in Boccaccio (seventh day, second story: Gianella, Peronella, and her husband). But the story is really one of the basic themes of folktales, and doubtless predates Boccaccio as well as these songs. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1
File: LQ09

Will Watch, The Bold Smuggler
DESCRIPTION: "'Twas one morn when the wind from the nothward blew keenly... a famed smuggler, Will Watch, kis'd his Sue then serenely." He promises he will give up smuggling if this trip succeeds. But he is killed as he approaches home
AUTHOR: Words: Thomas Cory / Music: John Davy (source: Frank)
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1806 (according to Frank)
KEYWORDS: love courting separation death return burial
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs 18, "Will Watch, the Bold Smuggler" (1 text, 1 tune; #18 in the first edition)
Roud #1617
File: Fran018

Will Ye Go to Sheriffmuir?
DESCRIPTION: "Will ye go to Sheriffmuir, Bauld John o' Innisture, There to see the noble Mar, And his Highland laddies." The singer catalogs the contingents of the Highland army and predicts victory
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1819 (Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol1)
KEYWORDS: battle political Jacobites
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Nov 13, 1715 - Battle of Sheriffmuir
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol1 89, "Will Ye Go to Sheriffmuir" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #V44081
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Battle of Sheriffmuir" (subject of Sheriffmuir)
cf. "Up and Waur Them A', Willie (II)" (subject of Sheriffmuir)
NOTES [891 words]: The "Glorious Revolution" of 1689 left Britain with a real problem: Finding a successor to the last of the Stuarts. William III and Mary II left no children (Mary died young, and William seems to have been primarily homosexual). Mary's younger sister Anne was constantly pregnant, but only one child survived infancy, and even he died before reaching adulthood. If a Catholic could be accepted, there was Anne's younger half brother James ("VIII and III") -- but he had been branded illegitimate. And the next Protestant heir was the family of Sophia of Hanover, whose lineage went all the way back to Mary's and Anne's great-grandfather James I, and had two links in female line (Elizabeth "the Winter Queen," daughter of James I, and Sophia herself). It caused much discontent. But "in England the descendants of the old Cavaliers had become, for the most part, law-abiding and home-staying Tories, who occasionally drank the health of 'the King over the water' with a sigh and a shrug" (Trevelyan, p.42). In other words, they might think about supporting a Stuart, but they would never actually do it! That might have happened in Scotland, too -- except for the 1707 Act of Union which turned the Union of the Crowns into a single nation, with one parliament as well as one monarch. (This came about in part because the Scots were threatening to choose a monarch other than the Hanoverian leader the English Whigs were supporting; Fry/Fry, p. 186)

This, like so much else about English/Scottish relations, had been pursued with a mixture of force and corruption; the Scots were threatened with seizure of land and property in England, and their parliamentary leaders bribed (Fry/Fry, pp. 187-189). The Union passed -- and Scots sang "Such a Parcel of Rogues in a Nation" to signify their feelings about the matter.

What's more, the Union proved a failure from the Scottish standpoint, in that the economic benefits, highly touted at the time, were nearly non-existent. Scotland remained poor.

So when Anne died, there was a real movement to bring back the Stuarts. One of the (eventual) backers of this movement was the Earl of Mar.

That John Erskine, Earl of Mar (1675-1732) could mess up even something this elementary is easy to imagine for the man who was known as "Bobbing John" because of his inability to stick with one side (Keay/Keay, p. 865). He had signed the Act of Union joining England and Scotland, then tried to have it repealed (Fry/Fry, p. 191). The accession of George I caused him to send what Magnusson, p. 562, calls a "grovelling letter of loyalty," but George snubbed him (Mitchison, p. 322) and Mar decided to rebel and join the Jacobites. He had to leave London in disguise aboard a collier, He raised the Jacobite standard -- but he hadn't told his alleged King James VIII and III! (Magnusson, p. 563). Naturally it took the Old Pretender some time to arrive.

And Mar was 'vacillating and incompetent. The rebellion moved slowly, and Perth did not fall to Mar's troops until September 14" (Sinclair-Stevenson, p. 50).

Mar meanwhile managed to raise a mixed force of Highlanders and Lowlanders, against "The government forces, based at Stirling and... commanded by the Duke of Argyll, the chief of the hated Campbells. He was not optimistic. He wrote to Townsend, the Secretary of State for Scotland: 'I must end with insisting on considerable reinforcements, for without it, or a miracle, not only this country will be utterly destroyed byt the rest of his Majesty's dominions put in the extremest danger" (Sinclair-Stevenson, p. 51).

But Argyll stuck to his task. Although most of Scotland fell into Jacobite hands, the government still held the Campbell country, the Sunderland estates in the north, and the region around Glasgow and south of Edinburgh). Mar, despite his growing army, seemed unable to move, even as his men were becoming rebellious for lack of pay (Sinclair-Stevenson, p. 51).

Finally, on a cold day in the fall, Mar put his army into action, but at Sherifmuir (near Dunblane in Perthshire), on November 13, 1715, he could not beat an army he outnumbered at least two to one (Magnusson, pp. 564-565; Keay/Keay, p. 865, for instance, credit him with 10,000 men to Argyll's 4,000, but others would give Mar 8,000 men to Argyll's 3500 or so). The battle took a form that went back to the days of Alexander the Great: both sides attacked with their right and routed their opponents' left. Despite the fact that neither side was defeated, neither wanted to continue the fight (Keay/Keay, p. 865). Both sides drew back, although Argyll eventually came back to strip the field of battle (Sinclair-Stevenson, p. 53).

Mar could perhaps argue that he had won, or at least not lost, but he could not hold together his army after that (Magnusson, p. 566). The only other significant Jacobite field force had surrendered at Preston at almost the same time (Fry/Fry, p. 192. This was the force led by Lord Derwentwater, hero of the ballad of the same name). Combine the incompetent Mar with the unenthusiastic Old Pretender, who still hadn't arrived in Scotland, and you had a disaster. The Jacobites were not entirely defeated -- but they had lost.

Hogg in his notes admits to having no idea who Bauld John o' Innisture is. I suspect it's just a name made up to fit the need to rhyme with "Sherifmuir." - RBW

Bibliography

- Fry/Fry: Peter and Fiona Somerset Fry, The History of Scotland, 1982 (I use the 1995 Barnes & Noble edition)
Will Ye Go To the Indies, My Mary?

DESCRIPTION: The singer must leave Scotland for India. He asks Mary to go with him. She won't or can't go. "We hae plighted our troth ... In mutual affection to join"

AUTHOR: Robert Burns

EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast)

KEYWORDS: love separation India nonballad

FOUND IN: Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #76, p. 1, ("Will ye go to the Indies, my Mary") (1 text)
- ADDITIONAL: James Kinsley, editor, Burns: Complete Poems and Songs (shorter edition, Oxford, 1969) #387, pp. 524-525, "Song ('Will ye go to the Indies, my Mary" (1 text, 1 tune, from 1792)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Will Ye Go to the Ewe-bughts, Marion?" (tune, per Burns)

File: Grg076b

Will Ye Go, Lassie, Go

DESCRIPTION: As the summer comes in, the singer goes courting (seducing): "Will ye go, lassie, go, And we'll all go together To pull wild mountain thyme All among the blooming heather." He offers her a bower, etc., but will find another girl if she refuses AUTHOR: Jimmy McPeake?

EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (sung by Frank McPeake, according to Hammond-SongsOfBelfast)

KEYWORDS: courting seduction sex

FOUND IN: Britain Ireland

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Hammond-SongsOfBelfast, p. 57, "Will Ye Go, Lassie, Go?" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 141, "Will You Go, Lassie, Go" (1 text)
- DT, WILDMTHY*
- Roud #541

NOTES [177 words]: Sometimes credited to Jimmy McPeake, and this is not improbable (particularly since the text seems fairly fixed), though I have no firm evidence either way. It's the sort of thing that wouldn't show up in the more staid collections....

Even if it isn't traditional, its popularity with revival singers probably means it should be included here.

Roud lumps this with "The Braes o' Balquither." - RBW

Hammond-SongsOfBelfast: "Frank McPeake said at the time of recording [for the BBC series 'As I Roved Out']: 'There is a song that I heard an old uncle of mine singing years and years ago. It's 'Will ye go, lassie, go?'" - BS

Also sung by David Hammond, "Will Yo Go Lassie, Go?" (on David Hammond, "I Am the Wee Falorie Man: Folk Songs of Ireland," Tradition TCD1052 CD (1997) reissue of Tradition LP TLP 1028 (1959)) Sean O Boyle, notes to David Hammond, "I Am the Wee Falorie Man: Folk Songs of Ireland": "This is one of the numerous Scots songs that have become localized in Ulster as a result of migratory labor between the North of Ireland and Scotland." - BS

File: FSWB141A

Will Ye No Come Back Again?

DESCRIPTION: "Bonnie Charlie's noo awa, Safely o'er the friendly main, Mony a hairt will brak' in twa, Should he no come back again. Will ye no come back again (x2), Better lo'ed ye cannae be...."
The singer recalls Prince Charlie's escape and hopes he'll return
AUTHOR: Words: probably Carolina Oliphaut, Lady Nairne (1766-1845)
EARLIEST DATE:
KEYWORDS: Jacobite exile return
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1720-1788 - Life of Charles Edward Stuart, "Bonnie Prince Charlie"
1722-1790 - Life of Flora MacDonald
1745-1746 - '45 Jacobite rebellion led by Bonnie Prince Charlie
Apr 16, 1746 - Battle of Culloden. The Jacobite rebellion is crushed, most of the Highlanders slain, and Charlie forced to flee for his life.
Jun 28-29, 1746 - Aided by Flora MacDonald, and dressed as her maidservant, Charles flees from North Uist to Skye in the Hebrides.
Sep 20, 1746 - Charles finally escapes to France
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
DT. WILLYENO*
NOTES [44 words]: Although this is now one of Scotland's most beloved songs of farewell, its hold on tradition seems surprisingly weak. I can locate only two traditional collections, neither from Scotland and neither firm enough to put in either the "Earliest Date" or "Found In" field.
Last updated in version 3.2

Will You Be Found Among the Wheat?

DESCRIPTION: "If death should take you unawares, Would you be found among the tares, Or would your happy joyous feet Be standing there among the wheat?" "The tares will all be burned with fire." "Hasten, sinner, delay no more."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 2014 (Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad warning
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 362-363, "Will You Be Found Among the Wheat" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #27558
NOTES [123 words]: A reference to the Parable of the Wheat and the Tares, Matthew 13:24-30: A farmer sows good seed, but "an enemy" throws in seeds of weeds (Greek , zizanion, a word found in the New Testament only in this chapter of Matthew. It is sometimes understood a "darnel," but translated "tares" in the King James Version) as well. The farmer's servants ask whether to pull out the weeds, but the farmer says to wait (I read somewhere that tares were a particular sort of weed that closely resembled young wheat, so it would be hard to pull just the tares, but I suspect this was just another of those interpretations by a preacher trying to make a point). At harvest-time, the wheat goes into the farmer's barn but the weeds are burned. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: HGam362

Will You Be True, My Darling

DESCRIPTION: "I am going to fight for fortune in a land beyond the sea." His sweetheart vows to be true until he returns. Five years later, waiting on the shore, she sees his body washed up on the shore. "With a sob she fell on his lifeless form"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: grief courting love parting separation corpse death lover youth
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #30146
RECORDINGS:
Will You Go Out West?

DESCRIPTION: The singer is looking for a girl to "go out west with me." He promises happy home -- a log cabin with a dirt floor and a blanket for the door. The girl will help with the farming while the husband goes hunting.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE:
KEYWORDS: courting exploration home
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 88, "Will You Go Out West?" (1 text+2 fragments, 1 tune)
ST FSC088 (Partial)
Roud #4604
File: FSC088

Will You Love Me In December As You Do In May?

DESCRIPTION: "Now, in the summer of life, sweetheart You say you love but me," but the singer had a dream of when they are old and gray. So he asks, "Will You Love Me In December As You Do In May?" When they are old, will they still be in love.

AUTHOR: Words: James J. Walker / Music: Ernest Ball
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (written, according to Spaeth)
KEYWORDS: love age questions nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Geller-FamousSongsAndTheirStories, pp. 222-224, "Will You Love Me In December As You Do In May?" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: John Burke, _Burke's Christmas Songster 1918_, Herald Print, 1918 (PDF available on the Memorial University of Newfoundland site), p. 23, "Will You Love Me In December As You Do In May??" (1 text)
Roud #24853
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Will You Love Me When I'm Old?" (theme)

NOTES [42 words]: According to Sigmund Spaeth, A History of Popular Music in America, p. 350, James J. Walker, who wrote the words to this song, was a future mayor of New York City. Spaeth adds that E. B. Marks had produced a similar song in 1893, "December and May." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4
File: JBC18023

Will You Love Me When I Am Bald?

DESCRIPTION: "Will you love me when I am bald? When my hair is smooth and bare? For I must tell you now, sweet love, That I am surely getting there." The singer talks about how lack of hair will affect his behavior, but concludes that his love will still care for him.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Henry, collected from Ray Bohanan)
KEYWORDS: hair questions
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 30-31, "Will You Love Me When I Am Bald?" (1 text)
File: MHAp030
Will You Love Me When I'm Old?

DESCRIPTION: The singer repeatedly asks his true love if she will love him when he is old, tired, gray, etc.: "Life's morn will soon be waning And its evening bells be told, And my heart will know no sadness If you'll love me when I'm old."

AUTHOR: Words: P. Gilsey Cook / Music: Ralph Roland

EARLIEST DATE: 1876 (sheet music, LOCSheet, sm1877 03501)

KEYWORDS: age love

FOUND IN: US(MW,SE,So)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Neely/Spargo-TalesAndSongsOfSouthernIllinois, pp. 241-242, "Will You Love Me When I Am Old?" (1 text)
- Randolph 824, "Will You Love Me When I'm Old?" (1 text)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 273, "Will You Love Me When I'm Old?" (1 text plus mention of 5 more)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 273, "Will You Love Me When I'm Old?" (4 tunes plus text excerpts)

DT, ARUTRDME

ADDITIONAL: _Sing Out_ magazine, Volume 38, #4 (1994), p. 49, "Are You Tired of Me, My Darling?" (1 text, 1 tune, the Carter Family version)

Roud #4334

RECORDINGS:
- Charles Brook & Charlie Turner, "Will You Love Me When I'm Old" (Columbia 15756-D, 1932; rec. 1931)
- Carter Family, "Are You Tired of Me Darling?" (Bluebird B-5956/Montgomery Ward M-4546, 1935)
- Bill Cox, "Are You Tired of Me Darling?" (Champion S-16317 [as Luke Baldwin]/Superior 2751 [as Clyde Ashley], 1931; Melotone [Canada] 45092/Champion 45092, 1935; Decca 5497, 1938)
- Jimmie Davis, "Are You Tired of Me Darling?" (Decca 5155, 1935)
- Earl McCoy & Jessie Brock, "Are You Tired of Me Darling?" (Columbia 15499-D, 1930; rec. 1929)
- Lester McFarland & Robert Gardner, "Are You Tired of Me Darling" (Brunswick 432, 1930; rec. 1927)
- Blind Jack Mathis, "Are You Tired of Me Darling?" (Bluebird B-4956, c. 1933)
- Aulton Ray, "Will You Love Me When I'm Old" (Gennett 6129, 1927)
- L. K. Reeder, "Will You Love Me When I'm Old" (OKeh 45026, c. 1926; rec. 1925)

BROADSIDES:
- LOCsheet, sm1877 03501, "Are you tired of me, darling?" Louis Meyer (Philadelphia), 1877 (tune); also sm1878 05722, "Are you tired of me, darling?" White, Smith & Co (Boston), 1878
CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Will You Love Me In December As You Do In May?" (theme)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- Are You Tired of Me, My Darling?

NOTES [102 words]: The White Smith & Co sheet music lists the tune as by Fred Kenyon Jones; the Meyer music offers Ralph Roland. The tunes are different, and neither is the one I know (from Ed Trickett, I think), though the Roland tune looks closer.

Jon W. Finson, The Voices That Are Gone: Themes in Nineteenth-Century American Popular Song, Oxford University Press, 1994, p. 51, lists as song "Will You Love Me When I'm Old" as by J. Ford and says it was published in 1872. A song entitled "Will You Love Me, Sweetheart, When I'm Old?" was published by A. J. Lamb and H. W. Petrie in 1895; I do not know if they are the same. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4

File: R824

Will You Wed with a Tarry Sailor? [Laws K37]

DESCRIPTION: The singer comes back from sea to meet his love Nancy. He asks her if she will marry him. She refuses him. He brings out his money; she changes her mind. With the shoe on the other foot, he refuses her

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1820 (broadside, Bodleian Firth c.13(198))

KEYWORDS: love courting money

FOUND IN: US(SE) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Laws K37, "Will You Wed with a Tarry Sailor?"
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 109, "Poor Jack" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 109, "Poor Jack" (1 excerpt, 1 tune)
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 65, "Jolly Jack" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 56, "Jack the Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ashton-RealSailorSongs, #49, "The Tarry Sailor" (1 text)
DT 723, POORJACK
Roud #530
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth c.13(198), "Tarry Sailor," J. Pitts (London), 1802-1819; also Harding B 11(3735), Harding B 25(1884), Harding B 17(307a), Harding B 11(778), "Tarry Sailor"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Saucy Sailor (Jack and Jolly Tar II)" [Laws K38] (plot)
File: LK37

William (Willie) Riley (Riley's Trial) [Laws M10]

DESCRIPTION: Riley and his sweetheart flee from her father, but are overtaken. Riley is jailed; the father asks that he be executed or transported. Colleen pleads for and wins his freedom instead.
(Riley leaves the country, wearing the girl's ring for remembrance)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1829 (broadside, Bodleian 2806 b.11(51))
KEYWORDS: courting prison reprieve emigration elopement
FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,SE,So) Canada(Mar,Newf) Britain(England,Scotland(Aber)) Ireland West Indies(Jamaica) Australia
REFERENCES (33 citations):
Laws M10, "William (Willie) Riley (Riley's Trial)"
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #143, p. 1, "Willie Reilly" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan6 1097, "Willie Reilly" (4 texts, 2 tunes)
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 289-290, "William Riley" (1 text)
Randolph 115, "Willie Riley" (1 short text plus an excerpt, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 128, "William Riley" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 128, "William Riley" (2 excerpts, 2 tunes)
Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 50, "William Reilly" (1 text)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 166-168, "Willy Reilly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 91, "Willy Reilly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 137, "Willie Riley" (1 text, 1 tune) Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 74, "Courtship of Willie Riley" (1 very long text, 1 tune)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 741-743, "Willie Riley" (2 texts) Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 53, "Fair Julian Bond" (1 text, 1 tune. The opening of this ballad clearly resembles Laws M9, but the conclusion is closer to M10. The fragmentary state of the text may indicate a conflated version) Carey-MarylandFolkLegendsAndFolkSongs, pp. 105-109, "William Riley" (1 text, very long, which appears to combine "William Riley's Courtship" [Laws M9] and William (Willie) Riley (Riley's Trial)" [Laws M10]) Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan 8, "Willie Reilly and his Cailin Ban" (1 text,
1 tune)
Tunney-StoneFiddle, pp. 40-42, "Willie Reilly and His Dear Colleen Ban" (1 text, 1 tune) Hayward-UlsterSongsAndBalladsOfTheTownAndCountry, pp. 99-102, "The Trial of Willy Reilly" (1 text)
O'Connor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 86, "Willy Reilly" (1 text)
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 31-32, "Willy Riley" (1 text, tune referenced) Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H234, pp. 436-437, "Willy Reilly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 101, "William Reilly" (1 text) Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 224-225, "Reily's Jailed" (1 text, 1 tune, s very short version placed here on the basis of its first stanza) Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #1989, p. 134, "Reily's Releasement and Marriage with Cooleen
Forget-Me-Not-Songster, pp. 181-190, "William Reilly's Courtship" + "Reilly's Trial" + "Reilly's Answer, Releasement and Marriage with Coolen Bawn" (sic). (1 continuous text, divided into sections for the three song)

Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, pp. 123-124, "Willy Reilly" (1 text)

Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, pp. 482-483, "William Reilly's Courtship," "Reilly's Trial," "Reilly's Answer, Releasement, and Marriage with Coolen Bawn" (sic.) (source notes only)

DT 577, RILTRIAL

ADDITIONAL: Mary O Eddy, "William Reilly's Courtship: A Nineteenth Century Broadside" in Midwest Folklore, Vol. II, No. 2 (Summer 1952 (available online by JSTOR)), pp. 113-118, "William Reilly's Courtship, Trial, Answer, Releasement, and Marriage With His Fair Coolen Bawn" (1 text)

Charles Gavan Duffy, editor, The Ballad Poetry of Ireland (1845), pp. 244-247, "Willy Reilly"

Kathleen Haogland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 302-304, "Willy Reilly" (1 text)

Martha W Beckwith, "The English Ballad in Jamaica: a Note Upon the Origin of the Ballad Form" in Publications of the Modern Language Association [PMLA], Vol. XXXIXI, No. 2 (Jun 1924 (available online by JSTOR)), #6 pp. 476-477, "Sweet Riley" (1 text)

Roud #538

RECORDINGS:
Pat Critch, "Galway Town" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
Tom Lenihan, "Willy Reilly and his Callin Ban" (on IRTLenihan01)
Raymond Noseworthy, "Willie Riley" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Will Sutton, "Willie Riley" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 b.11(51), "Riley and Colinband," T. Batchelar (London), 1817-1828; also Firth b.27(138), Harding B 16(228b), Harding B 25(1626)[many words illegible], "Riley and Colinband"; 2806 b.11(52), Johnson Ballads 2976, "William Riley and Colinband"; Harding B 11(1852), "Riley and Colinban"; Harding B 28(190)[some words illegible or lost]. "Riley and Collinband"
LOCSinging, sb40465a, "Reily's Courtship", H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864 [This is part 1]; sb40465b, "Reily's Releasement and Marriage with Cooleen Bawn", H. De Marsan (New York), 1861-1864 [This is part 2]

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Lady Elspat" [Child 247] (plot)
cf. "William Reilly's Courtship" [Laws M9]
cf. "Mary Acklin (The Squire's Young Daughter)" [Laws M16] (plot)
cf. "Mary Neal" [Laws M17] (tune)
cf. "Nancy's Complaint in Bedlam" (theme of a maid in Bedlam)
cf. "Locks and Bolts" [Laws M13] (theme: girl locked away by father) and references there

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Jamie Reilley
The Colleen Bawn

NOTES [465 words]: Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia states that this song is based on an incident which took place in Donegal around 1745. Reilly, a Catholic, eloped with the protestant daughter of Squire Folliard -- an illegal match at the time. See Laws, who quotes the relevant details from Joyce.

Laws, following Cox, considers the three William Riley ballads (William Riley's Courtship [Laws M9], this one, and "Reilly's Answer, Releasement, and Marriage with Coleen Bawn" -- the last not found in tradition, but published by Will Carleton in 1855) to be a set of songs about the same character. The songs overlap, however, and may be the result of separate composition, with either M9 or M10 inspiring the other two.

All of the Bodleian broadsides corrupt what O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, at least, has as "Colleen Bawn." O'Connor does not explain his sources.

Charles Gavan Duffy, The Ballad Poetry of Ireland, 1845, pp. 244-247, has this as "Willy Reilly" and translates "Coolen Bawn" as "fair young girl." - BS Laws considers Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 74 to be both M9 and M10. This 78 verse version is divided by Creighton into "Riley's Courtship" (26 verses: meets Laws' description of M9), "Trial" (20 verses: meets Laws' description of M10), "Marriage" (32 verses: meets Laws' description "which has not, so far as I know," says Laws, "been recorded from tradition, Riley is sentenced to be transported and is freed through his own petition to the Lord Lieutenant in time to rescue the girl from Bedlam and marry her." What am I missing? As I've noted, Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 74, is one of Laws' sources for M9 and M10: why didn't he consider it for the "not ... recorded" Mx?). Sparling, 1888: "The story on which this ballad is founded happened some eighty years ago; and as the lover was a Catholic farmer, and the lady's family of high Orange principles, it got a part character, which, no doubt, contributed to its great popularity." "Carleton has made it the foundation of a novel of the same name."

Munnelly/Deasy-TheMountCallanGarland-Tom-Lenihan: "William Carlton's novel on Willie Reilly and his Caillin Ban first appeared in 1855 and was a best seller for years." [Though the Barnhart/Halsey New Century Handbook of English Literature (revised edition, Appleton.Century/Crofts, 1967) does not list it among the major works of Carleton (1794-1869). Neither is it mentioned in Patrick C. Power's A Literary History of Ireland, which (p. 149) instead regards his most important work as the 1830-1833 collection Traits and Stories of the Irish Peasantry.] - RBW

H. De Marsan dating per Studying Nineteenth-Century Popular Song by Paul Charosh in American Music, Winter 1997, Vol 15.4, Table 1, available at FindArticles site. - BS

Last updated in version 6.0

File: LM10

William a Trimbletoe

DESCRIPTION: "William a Trimbletoe, He's a good waterman, Catches his (hens) and puts them in pens. Some lay eggs, and some lay none.... (Some/one) fly east, some fly west, Some fly over the cuckoo's nest. Trip and be gone... O-U-T spells OUT."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1903 (Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren)

KEYWORDS: playparty bird travel

FOUND IN: US(Ap,Ne,So)

REFERENCES (6 citations):

Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, p. 203, "William a Trombletoe" (1 text, #30 in the section on singing games)
Skean-CircleLeft-FolkPlayOfKentuckyMountains, p. 18, "William-E-Tremitoe" (1 text)
Killion/Waller-ATreasuryOfGeorgiaFolklore, p. 218, "William-a" (1 text) NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, John Foster West, "Folklore of a Mountain Childhood," Vol. XVI, No. 3 (Nov 1968), p. 168, "(William a Trimmietoe" (1 text); article reprinted (with text reset) in Vol. LII, No. 3 (Nov 1968), p. 10

Roud #16350

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "One Two Three Four, Mary at the Cottage Door" ("O-U-T spells out" lyric) and references there

ALTERNATE TITLES:

William Tremble-Toe

File: Skea018

William and Eliza (Lough Erin's Shore)

DESCRIPTION: Willie is a servant to an English lady on Lough Erin's shore. She falls in love with him. He says her peers will scorn her if they marry, and prepares to leave her service. She begs him to stay; they marry. She comforts him when they leave Lough Erin

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Sam Henry collection); 19C (broadside, Bodleian 2806 b.9(227))

KEYWORDS: love courting servant nobility money marriage

FOUND IN: Ireland Britain

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H597, pp. 476-477, "Lough Erne's Shore" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9057
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 b.9(227), "William and Eliza" or "Lough Erne Shore" ("You tender young lovers, draw near"), W. Birmingham (Dublin), c.1867 ; also 2806 c.15(162), Harding B 19(3), "William and Eliza" or "Lough Erne Shore"
NOTES: In reading this, I couldn't help but wonder what happened to the angry father who exiled the boy. Chances are, if you know a song entitled "Lough Erin's Shore," then this isn't it. - RBW

William and Harriet [Laws M7]
DESCRIPTION: Lovers William and Harriet find their marriage plans thwarted by her father. They escape to sea, only to have their ship sink en route. They land upon a desert island, where they die of starvation and/or exposure.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1839 (broadside, Bodleian Firth b.25(77))
KEYWORDS: courting ship wreck disaster death father
FOUND IN: US(Ap,Ro,So) Britain(England(Lond,South))
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Laws M7, "William and Harriet"
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 477, "William and Harriet" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 104, "The Rich Merchant" (text)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #27, "The Merchant's Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart1 18, "Gentleman Near London" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 741, RCHMRCHT
Roud #536
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth b.25(77), "William and Harriet," J. Catnach (London), 1813-1838; also Firth c.12(285), Harding B 15(380a), Harding B 15(379b), Harding B 15(380b), Harding B 16(308c), Johnson Ballads 1557, 2806 c.16(47), 2806 c.14(26), Firth b.26(248) [some lines truncated on the right], Firth c.26(65) [some words illegible], Harding B 16(308b), Harding B 11(3767), "William and Harriet"; 2806 c.14(136), Harding B 11(4221), Harding B 11(3764), "William and Harriet"
Murray, Mu23-y:3:010, "William and Herriet" (sic.), unknown, 19C
NLScotland, L.C.Fol.178.A.2(90), "William and Herriet" (sic.), unknown, c. 1860-1890
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "William and Phillis" (theme, tune)
cf. "The Island Unknown" (plot elements)
cf. "Riley's Farewell (Riley to America; John Riley)" [Laws M8]
SAME TUNE:
William and Phillis (File: CrSNB033)
File: LM07

William and Jonathan
DESCRIPTION: "William and Jonathon came to town together; William brought learning, and Jonathon some leather." William wrote poetry, plays, etc. After twenty years "Will was very poor, but Jonathon had plenty ... prov'd that learning wasn't half so good as leather"
AUTHOR: John Till Allingham (source: _The Cabinet_ [see notes] and broadside, Bodleian Harding B 10(71))
EARLIEST DATE: 1808 (_The Cabinet_ [see notes]; broadside, Bodleian Harding B 10(71))
KEYWORDS: poverty commerce money
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, p. 299, "Jonathan and William" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 331)
William and Margaret (I)

DESCRIPTION: Margaret's ghost visits William at midnight. "How could you promise love to me And not that promise keep?" She leaves at daybreak: "Come see, false man, how low she lies, Who died for love of you" He falls on her grave "and word spoke never more"

AUTHOR: unknown (see notes for discussion of David Mallet's claim)

EARLIEST DATE: before 1715 (probably 1711, according to Chappell; but see Simpson's comment below); 1724 (Hill's modification); 1724 (Ramsay's publication of Mallet's early text)

KEYWORDS: love seduction virginity accusation questions beauty death ghost

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber)) US(MW)

REFERENCES (8 citations):

Greig/Duncan2 337, "William and Margaret" (1 text, 2 tunes) {A=Bronson's #65, B=#66}
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 78-79, "William and Margaret" (1 text)
JournalOfAmericanFolklore, Charles Neely, "Four British Ballads in Southern Illinois," Vol. LII, No. 203 (Jan-Mar 1939), #4 pp. 80-81, "William and Margaret" (1 text)

David Mallet, Frederick Dinsdale, editor, Ballads and Songs (London, 1857 ("Digitized by Google")), pp. 79-83, "William and Margaret" (1 text: Mallet's final text, pp. 79-83).

Allan Ramsay, The Tea-Table Miscellany: or, A Collection of Scots Sangs (in three vols) (London, 1733 (ninth edition) ("Digitized by Google")), Vol I pp. 218-220, "William and Margaret, an Old Ballad" (1 text: Mallet's early text; apparently the same as in 1725 first edition)

Roud #253

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Harding B 5(58), "A lamentable ballad, or the tragical end of William and Margaret" ("When all was wrap'd in dark midnight"), D. Wrighton (Birmingham), 1812-1830; also Harding B 5(57), "William and Margaret"

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Fair Margaret and Sweet William [Child 74]" (one verse and theme: jilted lover's ghost visits ex-lover)
cf. "Once They Said My Lips Were Red" (one verse)

ALTERNATE TITLES:

Lady Marrit

NOTES [1717 words]: Percy calls "William and Margaret" or "Margaret's Ghost", "one of the most beautiful ballads in our own or any language" and "the elegant production of David Mallet" (Percy, pp. 121, 310). Wheatley quotes Ritson: "It may be questioned whether any English writer has produced so fine a ballad as 'William and Margaret.'" (Percy/Wheatley-ReliquesOfAncientEnglishPoetry, p. 309). So, at least in the 18th Century, "William and Margaret" was taken seriously.

There are at least six issues to be discussed in connection with "William and Margaret":

1) How well can we establish authorship for the 18th Century versions?
Dinsdale makes the case for authorship by David Mallet; Chappell makes the case that Mallet made minor changes to an existing ballad.

Mallet's editor: "David Mallet was born about the beginning of the present century, but neither the place of his nativity, nor the situation of his parents can be precisely ascertained" (Mallet, p. vi). If Chappell's dating of a broadside version to 1711 is correct -- though that is in question -- then Mallet's priority as author would immediately be in question. Simpson notes that a British Museum copy of Mallet's version "states that Mallet wrote his ballad 'while he was Janitor of the High School of Edinb.'" (Simpson, p. 786, fn 4). In a letter to his first publisher, Aaron Hill, at the time ignorant of the author's identity, Mallet claimed that "[William and Margaret] was founded on the real History of an unhappy Woman...," and he tells the tale which ends, "And, in a few Days after, I saw her and her Child laid in one Grave together"; then, inspired some time after this, by Merry-Thought's 'When it was grown to dark midnight ...' in "The Knight of the Burning Pestle", he wrote the poem (KBP II.1, p. 191; Mallet/Dinsdale, pp. 85-86 [II.viii, I in Wine, p. 333 - RBW]).

By 1723 Allan Ramsay had seen and commented on Mallet's poem, and he published it as Mallet wrote it in the 1724 edition of The Tea-Table Miscellany (Brewster, p. 173; Chappell, p. 668; from evidence in Chappell, the version printed by Ramsay in 1724 seems the same as Ramsay, pp. 218-220). Before it was printed by Ramsay a copy had been found by Aaron Hill who did not know the author, assumed the work to be an old ballad, and, as Brewster says, "he took the liberty of altering 'an obsolete low phrase here and there,'" and printed it in his The Plain Dealer of July 24, 1724 (Brewster, pp. 174-176; Mallet/Dinsdale, pp 72-73). You can see Hill's modified version in Hive, pp. 148-150. None of Hill's major changes appear in subsequent texts; Hill, for example, ends the poem as William "dy'd and lov'd, too late." Mallet continued to make minor changes and either the Percy version or Mallet/Dinsdale version -- which have minor differences -- is probably the final version (Percy, pp. 310-313; Mallet/Dinsdale, pp. 79-83; the differences I see are in lines 27 [Percy "Now yawning graves" vs Mallet/Dinsdale "When yawning graves"], 35 ["mine eyes" vs "my eyes"], 46 ["these lips" vs "those lips"], 54 ["last adieu" vs "late adieu"] and 59 ["William shook" vs "William quak'd"]).

Chappell's Appendix to Vol. Ill of The Roxburghe Ballads is a brief announcement that the remaining volumes will be undertaken by Ebsworth and a long analysis of "William and Margaret": "not only is it one of the best of our old ballads, but also there is literary interest attached to it, the authorship having been claimed by David Mallet in 1723, and this edition refuting that claim" (Chappell, p. 667). Chappell begins with a broadside that he dates to about 1711 and certainly no later than 1714: the broadside has a stamp required by an Act of Parliament passed in 1711 requiring stamps; however, "the Act was not intended to apply to ballads, and they were speedily exempted from its operation." He has a 1714 example of a stamp-free ballad (Chappell, p. 668). Considering Mallet's story and age, it would be unlikely that a 1711-1714 broadside could have been copied from Mallet's text. Simpson throws a problem at Chappell's analysis: "It is true that stamps are seldom found on ballads, but in the very portfolio containing the 'William and Margaret' under discussion ... is a broadside dated 1735 on which is an identical tax stamp" (Simpson, p. 786, fn 3). Nevertheless, Simpson says, "Scholars are now generally agreed in giving precedence to the black-letter text and crediting Mallet only with the merest touching up" (Simpson, p. 786).

2) Should "William and Margaret" be lumped with Child 74?

Roud assigns #253 to both. Child, in his head notes to Child 74, "Fair Margaret and Sweet William," says "William and Margaret is simply 'Fair Margaret and Sweet William' rewritten in what used to be called an elegant style." Nevertheless, of the 68 lines in each of the 18th and 19th Century texts of "William and Margaret," the only lines shared with any of the Child 74 texts are four of the six "Knight of the Burning Pestle" lines. In Child 74 Margaret's ghost either wishes "William and his bride joy," or asks William whether he prefers herself to his bride. After the "William and Margaret" ghost is described in 16 lines, she spends 36 lines blaming William for her death. In Child 74 William sees the dead Margaret in her bower and dies; in "William and Margaret" he visits and falls on her grave, "and words spoke never more." I would not consider these the same ballad.

3) Is the "Knight of the Burning Pestle" fragment a reference to "William and Margaret" or Child 74?

Child, Percy (p. 121) and Chappell (p. 675) point out that there are six lines of "The Knight of the Burning Pestle" close to lines in Child 74. Specifically, "When it was grown to dark midnight, And all were fast asleep, In came Margaret's grimy Ghost, And stood at William's feet" (KBP Act II Sc. 1 p. 191; cf., Child 74A II. 17-21, Child 74B II. 25-29, Child 74C II. 9-12 [II.vii.3-4 in Wine, p. 333 - RBW]) and "You are no love for me Marget, I am no love for you" (KBP Act III Sc. 1 p. 208; cf. Child 74A II. 5-6, Child 74B II. 11-14 [III.v.96-97 in Wine, p. 354 - RBW]). Chappell would have Child 74A/Percy p. 122 follow KBP, and considers its "I see no harm by you, Margaret, Nor you see none by me" lines a "foolish alteration [of the KBP lines that] deprives the ballad of the very subject of its story"
4) What is the likely source for each of the two 19th Century Bodleian broadside versions recovered so far?
All of the Mallet texts, as well as the Chappell text, are seventeen verses of four lines each. Excluding Hill's changes, the differences, line by line, are minor. However, verses nine and ten of Chappell are verses ten and nine of all the Mallet texts. Both Bodleian broadsides are seventeen verses of four lines each, but the sequence of verses follows Chappell. The broadsides are not identical but their differences are like the differences listed between Percy and Mallet/Dinsdale.

5) What is the likely source for each of the two 20th Century versions recovered so far from oral sources (Greig/Duncan2 and Neely)?
Greig/Duncan2 has no comment about the relationship of the text to versions of "William and Margaret." The Greig/Duncan2 text has twelve verses and one of the missing verses is one of the sequence test verses. In other words, based on sequence alone, Greig/Duncan2 could follow either Chappell or Mallet. Most lines are very close to both Chappell and Mallet and a few do not match either. However, Greig/Duncan2's
-- l. 1, "When a' was wrapt in dark midnight," follows Chappell and the broadsides, rather than Mallet "Twas at the fearful midnight hour" or "'Twas at the silent solemn hour"
-- l. 2, "And a' was fast asleep," follows Chappell and the broadsides (Chappell versions) and Ramsay (a Mallet version) but not Percy and Mallet/Dinsdale, "When night and morning meet."
-- l. 43, "And stretch'd him on the green grass turf" is close to line 63 of Chappell and the broadsides and Ramsay but not Percy and Mallet/Dinsdale "And stretch'd him on the grass-green turf."
-- l. 47, "Then laid his cheek to the cold earth," agrees with l. 67 of Chappell and the broadsides, but not with Ramsay, Percy or Mallet/Dinsdale, "Then laid his cheek to her cold grave."
Greig/Duncan2 seems not to be a Mallet version.
Neely says his text, "must have been learned originally from Percy's Reliques or from some volume which reprinted Mallet's ballad. Although less than half of 'Margaret's Ghost' [an alternate title for 'William and Margaret'] remains, one is forced to the conclusion that the ballad was transmitted by people with remarkable memories, or that it has not long been a part of oral tradition" (Neely, pp. 80-81). Of Neely's eight verses, four and five are the sequence test verses and follow the Mallet structure. Of Neely's 32 lines, few are clearly Ramsay, Percy, or Mallet/Dinsdale lines. Specifically, -- l. 2, "When all were fast asleep" is Ramsay's line, not Percy's and Mallet/Dinsdale's "When night and morning meet."
This seems to me to be too close to call, but the Ramsay text is closest to Neely's text.
6) What is the connection with the Morris "Once They Said My Lips Were Red"?
--A Morris dance begins, "Once they said my lips were red. Now they're scarlet pale, When I, like a silly girl, Believed his flattering tale." Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames p. 302 notes the similarity to Mallet's "William and Margaret"; of the texts listed above the closest is Bodleian Harding B 5(58) ll. 41-44, "How could you say my lips were red And make their scarlet dale [sic]? And why did I, young witless maid, Believe thy flattering tale?" If that were all we had of "Once They Said My Lips Were Red" I would have thought it was a "William and Margaret" fragment. However, "Once They Said My Lips Were Red" continues, "But he vow'd he'd never deceive me, And so fondly I believ'd he, While the stars and the moon So sweetly shown Over the willow tree." Williams speculates that the Morris lines may predate Mallet. - BS

Bibliography

• Brewster: Dorothy Brewster,Aaron Hill: Poet, Dramatist, Projector, Columbia University Press, 1913 ("Digitized by Google")
• Chappell: W. Chappell,The Roxburghe Ballads Vol. III Part 3 [Part 9], The Ballad Society, 1880 ("Digitized by Google")
• Mallet: David Mallet, (unknown editor),The Poetical Works of David Mallet with the Life of the Author ,C. Cooke, n.d. (after 1764; 1798?) ("Digitized by Google")
• (The) KBP: Francis Beaumont and John Fletcher, "The Knight of the Burning Pestle" in A.R. Waller, editor,Beaumont and Fletcher, Cambridge University Press, 1908 ("Digitized by Google")
• Mallet/Dinsdale: David Mallet, Frederick Dinsdale, editor, Ballads and Songs, Bell and Daldy, William and Mary, George and Anne

DESCRIPTION: "William and Mary, George and Anne, Four such children had never a man; They put their father to flight and shame, And called their brother a shocking bad name."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1842 (Halliwell)

KEYWORDS: royalty brother sister children father

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1688-1689 - The "Glorious Revolution" overthrows the Catholic James II and VII and replaces him with his son-in-law William III and daughter Mary II

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 529, "William and Mary, George and Anne" (1 text)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #218, p. 147, "(William and Mary, George and Anne)" Dolby-OrangesAndLemons, p. 61, "William and Mary, George and Anne" (1 text)

Roud #20091

NOTES [184 words]: For once, there is absolutely no question about the references in this item. Mary is Mary II, the elder daughter of King James II and VII of England and Scotland, who was Protestant. William is her husband, William of Orange, James II's nephew, who became William III; they were joint monarchs from the time they overthrew James II in 1689 until Mary died in 1694. Then William was sole king until he in turn died in 1702. He was succeeded by Queen Anne, James II's second daughter. Her husband was George of Denmark, who was not a member of the British royal family; unlike William, he never became King. The song's "father" is of course James II. The "brother" is James the Old Pretender, who would have been James III had he succeeded. He was the half-brother of Mary and Anne, born after James II turned Catholic, and many in England were afraid of a Catholic king. So James the Old Pretender, although there is no real doubt about his legitimacy, was formally declared illegitimate and passed over in the succession. Hence the line about a "shocking bad name." The "bad name" was "bastard." - RBW

Last updated in version 3.3
File: 002529

William and Mary's Farewell to Ireland

DESCRIPTION: Willy is leaving Ireland and Mary for America. If he would wait a season, she says, she would go with him. He refuses, saying he'll return with gold and take her to America. She says she'll elope with him now. He agrees, they marry and go to America.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday); c.1850 (broadside, Bodleian 2806 c.16(129))

KEYWORDS: courting elopement marriage emigration America Ireland dialog

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday 19, pp. 44-45,110,164, "My Charming Mary" (1
William and Nancy (I) (Lisbon; Men's Clothing I'll Put On I) [Laws N8]

DESCRIPTION: (William) has been ordered to war. His sweetheart (Nancy) offers to dress in men's clothes and accompany him. William says that Nancy is not strong enough; she assures him she will be. At last he agrees; they are married and go off together

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (Journal of the John Dawson)
KEYWORDS: separation cross-dressing marriage war
FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,MW,SE,So) Britain(England(Lond,South,West),Scotland(Aber)) Canada(Mar,Newf) Ireland

REFERENCES (23 citations):
Laws N8, "William and Nancy (I) (Lisbon; Men's Clothing I'll Put On I)"
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 177-180, "Lisbon" (3 texts, but the third is "The Girl Volunteer")
Randolph 42, "Men's Clothing I'll Put On" (Of Randolph's six texts, Laws puts only "B," "D," and "E" -- the last with melody -- with this song. In fact any of these versions -- especially "B" and "E" -- might be part of "The Banks of the Nile." "A" definitely goes with that piece, and "C" and "F" go with "Jack Monroe")
Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 67, "Johnnie and Nancy" (1 text)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 29, "It Was Early One Monday Morning" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 61, "Williams and Nancy" (1 text plus mention of 1 more, though the second text has the title "The Banks of the Nile")
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 32, p. 47, "William and Nancy" (1 fragment, possibly of this since it mentions Lisbon)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 156-158, "William and Nancy" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 66, "It Was On One Monday Morning" (1 text, 1 tune)
Peacock, pp. 202-205, "Jimmy and Nancy on the Sea" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 72, "Banks of the Nile" (1 text, 1 tune, considered by Fowke to be an abbreviated, localized version of "William and Nancy (I)" [Laws N8], but it could just as easily be a version of "The Banks of the Nile" [Laws N9])
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 35A, "William and Nancy" (1 text)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 121, "William and Polly" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 34, "William and Polly (Lisbon)" (1 text, 1 tune, "slightly shortened")
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 67-68, "Sweet William" (1 text, a compound of the cross-dressing lover songs but more like this than any of the others)
Greig/Duncan1 63, "The Sailor and Nancy" (1 text)
VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, pp. 58-59, "Lisbon" (1 text, 1 tune)
OShaughnessy/Grainger-TwentyOneLincolnshireFolkSongs 13, "Lisbon" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cologne/Morrison-WiltshireFolkSongs, pp. 42-44, "42-43, "Lisbon" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H561, p. 458, "Lovely Annie (I)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 181-182, "Sweet William (William and Nancy)" (1 text, 2 tunes)
Olson-BroadsideBalladIndex, ZN1749, "Margaret my sweetest, Margaret I must go" (listed as Laws N4 though the description sounds more like this piece)
DT 442, BANKNIL4 (BANKNIL2*?) BANKNIL3*

Roud #551

RECORDINGS:
Jim Dalton, "Jimmy and Nancy on the Sea" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
Jim Molloy, "Lovely Nancy" (on NFMLLeach)
Cyril O’Brien, "Nancy Lovely Nancy" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
Lee Monroe Presnell, "I Went to See My Molly" (on USWarnerColl01 -- a short text, probably this although it has an American Civil War setting)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth c.12(165), "William and Margaret" ("'Twas on a Monday, all in the month of May"), unknown, n.d.
Murray, Mu23-y1:039, "William and Margaret," James Lindsay Jr. (Glasgow), 19C

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "The Banks of the Nile (Men's Clothing I'll Put On II)" [Laws N9]
- cf. "High Germany (I)"

NOTES [450 words]: The Sacred Harp has a tune "Lisbon" which, like many versions of this song, is in triple time. But based on the versions I've checked, they do not appear to be the same melody.

- RBW

In at least some versions Nancy must assure William that she will accept his affairs with other women.

In OShaughnessy/Grainger-TwentyOneLincolnshireFolkSongs, "If I should meet with a lady that's proper tall and gay / If I should fancy her, love, what would you have to say? / Would you not be offended thuyen? O no my lover true / I'd stand aside sweet William whenever she pleasur'd you."

Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia has "But if I was to meet some other in sweeter charms than thee / And she was to please my fancy what would my Nancy say? / What would I say dear Willie and I would love her too / And I would gently step aside while she would be talking to you." Here, but not in OShaunessy-Grainger, Willie says, "Dear Nancy all these words are enough to break my heart / Pray let us then be married before that we depart."

Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians A is equivocal: "O if I was to meet some pretty girl / All on the highway / And was to take a like unto her / What would my Polly say / My Polly she'd be angry / Although I love her too / I'd step aside Sweet William / That she might comfort you."

Peacock A has a stronger rejection: "Besides there are pretty girls over there both bonny brisk and gay / If I should go a-courting what would my Nancy say? / Sure I would say dear Jimmy I am in love with you / So stay at home dear Jimmy when they are pressing you."

Versions with no such complication include Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs, Randolph, Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians B and C, Sharp-Karpeles-80E and the broadsides Bodleian Firth c.12(65) and Murray Mu23-y1:039. - BS

Cologne/Morrison-WiltshireFolkSongs are "99% certain that this song dates from the reign of Queen Anne," pointing in particular to Admiral Rook's 1704 expedition which took 12,000 troops from Lisbon to Spain. But I would point out that not every version refers to Lisbon, that there British troops in Portugal in the Napoleonic Wars, and that in any case not every song that sounds historical is actually historical. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4

File: LN08
William and Nancy (II) (Courting Too Slow) [Laws P5]

DESCRIPTION: William loves Nancy, but sails away before he has married her. Eventually he learns that she has married another. He sickens with grief. Nancy comes to comfort him. Both eventually die of grief.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1869 (Logan-APedlarsPack)

KEYWORDS: courting, sailor, disease, marriage, infidelity, death

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,So) Britain Canada(Newf) Ireland

REFERENCES (9 citations):
- Laws P5, "William and Nancy II (Courting Too Slow)"
- Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 6, "Bonny Brown Jane" (1 text plus some extra verses, 1 tune)
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 196-197 "Courting Too Slow" (1 text)
- Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection, pp. 66-67, "Pretty Nancy" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 81, "William and Nancy" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
- Thomas-DevilsDitties, pp. 96-97, "Sweet William and Lovely Nancy" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 317-318, "William and Nancy" (1 text, with local title "Come All Ye Unmarried Men"; tune on p. 441)
- Logan-APedlarsPack, pp. 364-365, "Courting Too Slow" (perhaps a comic rewrite of the original version?)

DT 493, WMNANCY

Roud #1918

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "My Bonny Brown Jane" (lyrics)
- cf. "Courtin' Oware Slow" (theme: lover lost by courting too slowly)
- cf. "On Top of Old Smokey" (theme: lover lost by courting too slowly)

File: LP05

---

William and Phillis

DESCRIPTION: Phyllis tells William that her father will not have her wed a sailor. She dresses as a sailor and they sail for America. They escape a storm in a longboat and land in America, marry, and live happily.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1839 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(1174))

KEYWORDS: elopement, cross-dressing, emigration, sea, ship, shore, storm, America, father, sailor

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 33, "Phyllis and Young William" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #1429

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Harding B 11(1174), "William and Phillis," J. Catnach (London), 1813-1838; also Harding B 11(1173), 2806 c.16(159), Harding B 11(4228), Harding B 16(308d), Harding B 11(4227), Harding B 11(4229), Harding B 11(929), "William and Phillis"; Firth c.12(250), 2806 c.16(159), Harding B 11(4226), "William and Phillis"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "William and Harriet" (theme; tune per broadsides Bodleian Harding B 11(1174), Bodleian Harding B 11(1173), Bodleian 2806 c.16(159), Bodleian Harding B 11(4226), Bodleian Firth c.12(250), Bodleian 2806 c.16(159), Bodleian Harding B 11(4228))
- cf. "The Great Elopement to America" (plot)

NOTES [67 words]: The Bodleian broadsides are more complete than Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick and are the source for the description; for example, Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick omits the cross-dressing. "William and Phillis" is "William and Harriet" with a happy ending. Instead of dying together on a desert island, the lovers land in America, are helped back to health and live happily. - BS

File: CrSNB033
William Atrimatoe Catches Hens

DESCRIPTION: "William Atrimatoe catches hens -- Puts them in pens. Some lay eggs; some lay none. White foot, speckled foot, trip and be gone Your way through the wood."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Henry, from Mrs. Henry C. Gray, or her maid)
KEYWORDS: bird nonballad
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 237, (no title) (1 short text)
File: MHAp237A

William Baker

DESCRIPTION: "William Baker's now in prison, And shortly hanged be, For the killing of one Prewitt, The world may plainly see." Baker invites Prewitt to join him, then ambushes him. He tells Prewitt's wife that he had abandoned her. But his crimes finally come out

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1967
KEYWORDS: prison execution crime lie homicide
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Combs/Wilgus-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernUnitedStates 71, pp. 169-170, "William Baker" (1 text)
Roud #4120
NOTES [8 words]: This song is item dF48 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW
File: CW169

William Beadle

DESCRIPTION: "A bloody scene I'll now relate Which lately happen'd in a neib'ring state, A murder of the deepest dye, I say...." Beadle "slew Himself, his consort, and his offspring too." The singer laments that such things can happen and hopes for a better day

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Burt-AmericanMurderBallads)
KEYWORDS: homicide family father mother children
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Dec. 11, 1782 - William Beadle kills his wife, his children, and himself
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Burt-AmericanMurderBallads, pp. 6-7, "(William Beadle)" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [53 words]: This appears to be simply a broadside, with no hold on tradition (it's lousy poetry), and it doesn't really include enough specific data to identify it with certainty with the case of William Beadle -- but Burt-AmericanMurderBallads's notes imply that this was clear from the overall presentation of the broadsheet. - RBW
File: Burt006

William Bluet (Blewitt)

DESCRIPTION: "There was a woman lived in Hampshire, She had one only son, and him she loved most dear." The young man spends his estate, then turns to crime. Taken and condemned, he bids a sad farewell to his mother and is executed. A dove hovers by his dying head

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1967
KEYWORDS: death crime punishment mother money bird
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Apr 12, 1726 - Execution of William Blewitt, a convicted housebreaker, pickpocket, and accomplice to murder, in Surrey
William Cook

DESCRIPTION: "Hark, hark, my young friends, it's a melancholy call, The hour of death flying swiftly along." The dying young man (William Cook) reveals that he will miss his family, and describes how he will be buried. He asks to be remembered despite his misdeeds

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: death burial funeral family

William Goebel

DESCRIPTION: "Our grand old state is left in shame Since the death of William Goebel." Goebel's wisdom is praised, but the candidate he was running against, "Taylor saw his plan had failed." Someone, perhaps Taylor, arranges Goebel's death

AUTHOR: James W. Day ("Jilson Setters")
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)
KEYWORDS: homicide political

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 30, 1900 (so DAB; Thomas says Feb. 3) - Assassination of William Goebel (1856-1900), formerly a reforming state senator; he was a candidate for governor of Kentucky in 1899, though he used some electioneering maneuvers to gain the nomination. The election outcome was disputed, though the legislature not surprisingly held that he was the winner of the election after his death

William Hall (The Brisk Young Farmer) [Laws N30]

DESCRIPTION: William's parents send him to sea to get him away from his sweetheart, whom they dislike. After a long journey he returns to find his love does not recognize him. He says William is dead. She grieves; he reveals himself and they are married

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)
KEYWORDS: ship separation marriage reunion
William Hill

DESCRIPTION: William Hill worked land owned by the singer's uncle, who orders Hill to leave the land. Hill refuses and the uncle liquors the singer up to have him kill Hill. He shoots Hill, is convicted and sentenced to hang. His uncle is not punished.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland)

KEYWORDS: execution, homicide, drink, trial, gallows, confession

FOUND IN: Canada (Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 63-64, "William Hill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #12466

NOTES [23 words]: Dibblee/Dibblee-FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland: "[The singer] said William Hill was killed here in Prince Edward Island by his nephew." - BS

File: Dib063

William Johnston of Ballykilbeg

DESCRIPTION: The singer loves Ireland and "Fenians and traitors I'll ever disown," but cannot "set Erin's old harp above the crown." The Protestant boys wave Purple and Orange flags, hold King William's memory in esteem and toast William Johnston of Ballykilbeg.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1987 (Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark)

KEYWORDS: Ireland, nonballad, patriotic, political

FOUND IN:
Smyth/Bush/Long-OrangeLark 37, "William Johnston of Ballykilbeg" (1 text)

NOTES [779 words]: "The redoubtable William Johnston [1829-1902] of Ballykilbeg [near Downpatrick, Co Down] was a legend in his own lifetime ... an Orange and Protestant folk hero second only to that other William of 'glorious, pious and immortal memory.'" He led the campaign against the Party Processions Act. "It was his opposition to this legislation which was to make William Johnston of Ballykilbeg a folk-hero" [see "Bangor and No Surrender" and references there]. Johnston was elected M.P. in 1868. The law was repealed in 1872. After some time away from Commons he was reelected in 1885 and remained until his death. He opposed Gladstone's Home Rule bills. (source: Ian McShane, "William Johnston of Ballykilbeg" on OrangeNet site) - BS

Bardon, pp. 354-355, describes Johnston's rise to prominence as follows: "Against the advice of the Irish Grand Lodge of the Orange Order, William Johnston announced that he would lead a great parade from Newtownards to Bangor on 12 July 1867 in open defiance of the Party Processions Act. Johnston, owner of a small Co. Down estate and publisher of loyalist ballads, novels, and tracts, believed that if Catholics could turn funerals and unveilings into political demonstrations, Orangemen should be able to march unmolested by the law." (Which sounds reasonable until one realizes how often such marches ended in violence.) Reportedly the crowd occupied eight acres, which means it probably numbered in the tens of thousands.

Bardon, p. 355: "Johnston defiantly refused an apology to the authorities and in February 1868 he was sentenced to serve a short spell in prison.... Seen now as a martyr, 'fearless' and 'indomitable', on his release he was given a rapturous reception." He went on to call for the formation of an Orange Party.

Kee, pp. 101-102, writes, "The radical streak in the Orange Society's activity was represented by William Johnston of Ballykilbeg House, the Grand Master of County Down, who, in March 1868, was sentenced to a month's imprisonment for marching, in defiance of the Party Proessions Act, from Newtownards to Bangor at the head of a crowd of twenty to thirty thousand with beating drums, orange flags and a band playing the 'Protestant Boys' and other provocative tunes. "Though educated opinion in Ulster disliked the Act under which Johnston was sentenced, it did not condemn the sentence itself. And the Protestant Defence Association... was to go out of its way to dissociate itself from the Orange Society altogether.... "Nonetheless, it was with the radical Orangemen that the real vitality of the movement lay, and when Johnston was released from prison in April[,] special trains were run to Belfast for the celebrations."

Bardon, pp. 355-356: "A general election was called soon afterward, and when the Conservatives failed to nominate Johnston for Belfast, he put himself forward in any case" (and of course won).

Bardon, p. 358: "To the delight of his adherents, Johnston of Ballykilbeg got the Party Processions Act repealed by a private member's bill in 1870. The act had become completely unenforceable and was in danger of bringing the law into contempt owing to ludicrous [court] decisions... it seemed barely reasonable to impose fines of forty shillings each on John Kerr, for cursing the Pope, and on George Murray, for cursing the Pope and the Pope's granny; but it was plainly silly to levy the same fine on Teresa Brown for the even-handed naming of her two cats, 'Orange Bill' and 'Papist Kate'."

Johnston would later declare in the Commons that if the Home Rule Bill passed that Ulster would resist "at the point of the bayonet" (Bardon, p. 383), and warned that if the Union between Britain and Ireland were dissolved, "there would at once be a civil war in Ulster" (Kee, p. 104).

Interestingly, in all areas except religions tolerance, Johnston seems to have been well ahead of his time. According to Foster, pp. 389-390, he was born at Ballykilbeg, educated at Dublin's Trinity College, joined the Orange Order in 1848, was MP for Belfast1868-1878, then became inspector of fisheries, but was "dismissed for violent speeches against the Land League and Home Rule party"; returned to parliament in 1885, he remained a member until his death in 1902. He was an "advocate of security of tenure, temperance reform and women's sufferage." Foster lists two novels he wrote: Nightshade (1870) and Under Which King (1873); they are said to be strongly political. As literature, all his writings seem to have been complete failures; while a few things are (of course) found on the Internet, my library reveals nothing at all -- though his poem "Bangor and No Surrender" is in this Index. - RBW

Bibliography

- Kee: Robert Kee, The Bold Fenian Men, being volume II of The Green Flag (covering the period from around 1848 to the Easter Rising), Penguin, 1972

Last updated in version 2.5
File: OrLa037

William McGibbeny

DESCRIPTION: "Within a cheerless cot, In a lone and desolate spot, Lay a dying man just ere the close of day." He looks out on the birds and sunlight. He recalls his dead daughter, then his unfaithful wife and other daughter. He dies.

AUTHOR: probably Joe Scott

EARLIEST DATE: 1978 (Ives-Joe-Scott-TheWoodsmanSongmaker)

KEYWORDS: death wife infidelity children

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
William of Orange, or The Battle of Boyne

DESCRIPTION: William leads on like a Protestant" while James shrinks away, frightened. If the Catholics rise again "do what was done in July with Orange flags flying and on God relying" AUTHOR: William Johnstons (source: Shannon) EARLIEST DATE: William Johnstons (source: Shannon) KEYWORDS: battle Ireland royalty rebellion HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1685-1688 - Reign of James II (James VII of Scotland), the last Catholic king of Britain 1688 - Glorious Revolution overthrows James II in favour of his Protestant daughter Mary II and her husband and first cousin William III of Orange Mar 12, 1689 - James arrives in Ireland and begins, very hesitantly, to organize its defense. August, 1689 - Marshal Schomberg brings the first of William's troops to Ireland. James continues to be passive, allowing more troops to reinforce them March, 1690 - James receives reinforcements from France but still does nothing June 14, 1690 - William lands in Ireland July 1, 1690 - Battle of the Boyne. William III crushes the Irish army of James, at once securing his throne and the rule of Ireland. Irish resistance continues for about another year, but Ireland east of the Shannon is his, and the opposition is doomed. FOUND IN: US(So) REFERENCES (2 citations):
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 64A, "William of Orange, or The Battle of Boyne" (1 text, 1 tune) ADDITIONAL: William Shannon, _The Dominion Orange Harmonist_, (Toronto: MaClear and Co, 1876), pp. 212-213, "William of Orange" ("Proudly march on, to the edge of the river") (1 text) Roud #795 CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "The Boyne Water (I)" (story and references there) NOTES [42 words]: Roud's Folk Song Index classify this song as what we have indexed as "The Boyne Water" (I), Roud #795. Though Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest is only one verse it is clear that it is not that song, but an unrelated Orange support song. - BS Last updated in version 3.5 File: MooSw064

William of the Ferry

DESCRIPTION: "Near Clyde's gay stream there dwelt a maid Whose mind was chaste and pure," who loved William of the Ferry. Their parents agree that they should marry. A press gang takes him away. But the boat carrying him away sinks, and he swims to shore. They marry AUTHOR: unknown EARLIEST DATE: c. 1847 (Forget-Me-Not-Songster) KEYWORDS: love courting pressgang escape marriage FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Forget-Me-Not-Songster, p. 239, "William of the Ferry" (1 text) Henderson-VictorianStreetBallads, p. 78, William of the Ferry"" (1 text) Roud #12858 File: HenV078

William of the Waggon Train

DESCRIPTION: "One lovely morning as I was walking," the singer hears a girl an a Sergeant in the waggon train talking. He says he must leave her; he hopes for promotion. She offers to go with him. He agrees and hopes heaven will protect her AUTHOR: unknown
William Owen

DESCRIPTION: "Come, all you men who have come here... To see my body put to death and buried in the clay." The singer warns against bad company. Lewis Collins lured the singer astray; he shot General Hyder and will be executed. He regrets leaving his family.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Boswell)

KEYWORDS: warning death gallows-confession

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee 47, pp. 81-82, "William Owen" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11035

NOTES [437 words]: Although this song is called "William Owen," that name never occurs in the text; the only names it contains are "Lewis Collins" and "General Hyder."

Wolfe was unable to identify either one, and I grant Collins is probably beyond identification unless we can identify Hyder.

Searching for a general under the name "Hyder" produces nothing. Neither does "Haider" or "Heyder." Phisterer's comprehensive list of Union generals shows that there was no Union officer with that name, and Boatner reveals no Confederate officer so named.

There was a War of 1812 general named Adair: John Adair, 1757-1840 (Heidler/Heidler, p. 1). But he was not murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.

I can think of two faint possibilities, though, both based on distortions of the victim's first name rather than surname. One is Union General Adelbert Ames (1835-1933), who after the war became reconstruction governor of Mississippi (Boatner, p. 12). He obviously wasn't murdered and obviously lived to a ripe old age.

The higher likelihood, however, is that it is a Civil War general. At least one high-profile general was murdered during the war: William "Bull" Nelson was killed by one of his junior officers, Jefferson C. Davis, who amazingly was not punished for the crime (Boatner, pp. 226, 586). I don't think Nelson can be considered the inspiration of the song.
Modoc Indians in California in January 1873 while negotiating with them (HTIECivilWar, p. 111). Bunting, p. 121, says that he was unarmed, and that a local Indian agent was murdered with him (and notes that, ironically, this was done during the presidency of Ulysses S. Grant, who -- almost alone among nineteenth century presidents -- wanted to treat the Indians relatively well; Bunting, p. 117)

What's more, during his Civil War service Canby was injured by guerillas while commanding in Mississippi. He survived, but was severely wounded. Perhaps confused memories of these two incidents might have inspired this song.

Or, of course, "General Hyder" could be a distortion of something completely different. That is probably the most likely explanation. - RBW

Bibliography

- Boatner: Mark M. Boatner III, The Civil War Dictionary, 1959 (there are many editions of this very popular work; mine is a Knopf hardcover)
- Phisterer: Frederick Phisterer, Campaigns of the Civil War: Statistical Record of the Armies of the United States, 1883 (I use the 2002 Castle Books reprint)

Last updated in version 2.6
File: BosWo47

William Riley's Courtship [Laws M9]

DESCRIPTION: William falls in love with Colleen at sight. Although warned about her harsh father, he seeks employment from the old man to be near Colleen. At last he asks to marry her. He is fired. The two try to elope. They are captured; the father has Riley jailed

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (collected by Olive Dame Campbell; in Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians); +1881 (Christie, _Traditional Ballad Airs II_)
KEYWORDS: love courting father elopement prison servant
FOUND IN: US(MA,So) Canada(Mar) Ireland
REFERENCES (12 citations):
- Laws M9, "William Riley's Courtship"
- Hayward-UlsterSongsAndBalladsOfTheTownAndCountry, pp. 96-98, "Willy Reilly's Courtship" (1 text)
- Randolph 114, "Coleen Bawn" (1 text, with the name spelled "Coleen" in the title but "Colleen" in the text; 1 tune)
- Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 53, "Fair Julian Bond" (1 text, 1 tune. The opening of this ballad clearly resembles Laws M9, but the conclusion is closer to M10. The fragmentary state of the text may indicate a conflate version)
- Carey-MarylandFolkLegendsAndFolkSongs, pp. 105-109, "William Riley" (1 text, very long, which appears to combine "William Riley's Courtship" [Laws M9] and William (Willie) Riley (Riley's Trial)" [Laws M10])
- Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 38, pp.86-89, "William Riley's Courtship" (1 text)
- Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 74, "Courtship of Willie Riley" (1 very long text, 1 tune)
- Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 104, "Loving Reilly" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
- Forget-Me-Not-Songster, pp. 181-190, "William Reilly's Courtship"+"Reilly's Trial"+"Reilly's Answer, Releasement and Marriage with Coolen Bawn" (sic). (1 continuous text, divided into sections for the three songs)
- Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, pp. 118-119, "William Reilly's Courtship" (1 text)
- Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #1987, p. 137, "Reiley's Courtship" (3 references)
- cf. Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan, pp. 482-483, "William Reiley's Courtship," "Reily's Trial," "Reiley's Answer, Releasement, and Marriage with Coolen Bawn" (source notes only)
William S. Shackleford

DESCRIPTION: "Though I am doomed to be hanged, in March, on the twenty-eighth day, I fear not the dreadful pang." Shackleford claims he did no wrong in murdering (Davis); it was self-defense. He laments that his account was not believed AUTHOR: William S. Shackleford?

EARLIEST DATE: 1890 (Chatham Record)

KEYWORDS: homicide punishment execution

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Nov. 15/16, 1889 - Disappearance of John D. Horton
Nov. 23, 1889 - Discovery of Horton's body, bearing clear evidence of murder
Feb. 1890 - Trial of J. P. Davis (true name: William S. Shackleford) for the murder of Horton
March 28, 1890 - Execution of Davis/Shackleford

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolkllore2 293, "Last Words of William Shackleford, Executed in Pittsboro, Chatham Co, March 28, 1890" (1 text; the reputed original text is found in the general introduction to items 293 and 294)

Roud #6649

File: BrII293

William Sullivan

DESCRIPTION: William Sullivan is determined to leave home to earn his money so he can marry his money. His desperate parents say he shouldn't marry a girl who wants money, but he goes -- and dies after three years when hit by a pine. Final stanzas describe his burial

AUTHOR: Joe Scott

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (partial version collected from Roy Lohnes)

KEYWORDS: mother father children death love work lumbering

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ives-Joe-Scott-TheWoodsmanSongmaker, pp. 178-190, "William Sullivan" (1 conflate text, 1 tune, with mentions of 2 versions)

Roud #25141

File: J Sco178
DESCRIPTION: Willie is about to be married when he is impressed. His love dresses like a man and seeks him. She is revealed as a woman. The captain tells her that William is about to marry another. She shoots him. The captain gives her a command or marries her.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1769 (Journal from the Nellie)

KEYWORDS: homicide, betrayal, pressgang, disguise, cross-dressing, sailor

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,NE,Ro,SE,So) Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont) Britain(England,Scotland) Ireland

REFERENCES (37 citations):
- Laws N11, "William Taylor" (Laws gives a broadside texts on pp. 93-94 of ABFBB)
- Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 308, "William Taylor" (1 text)
- O'Shaughnessy/Grainger-TwentyOneLincolnshireFolkSongs 2, "Bold William Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- O'Shaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart1 7, "Bold William Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #75, "William Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 1, "William Tailer" (1 text)
- Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #101, p. 1, "Billy Taylor" (1 text)
- Greig/Duncan 169, "Billy Taylor" (6 texts, 3 tunes)
- Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 19, "Willie Taylor" (1 fragment)
- Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 182-183, "William Taylor" (1 text)
- Randolph 67, "Willie Tailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 106, "William Taylor" (1 text)
- Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 106, "William Taylor" (1 excerpt, 1 tune)
- Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 74, "The False Lover" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #25, "William Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol2, p. 80, "William Taylor" (1 short text, 1 tune)
- Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 61, "William Taylor" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
- Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 71, "William Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Reeves/Sharp-TheTliodemOfThePeople 113, "William Taylor" (2 texts)
- Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 48, "William Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Butterworth/Dawney-PloughboysGlory, p. 45, "William Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H213, p. 334, "Willie Taylor (a)"; H757, pp. 334-335, "Willie Taylor (b)" (2 texts, 2 tunes, both composite)
- Cox-FolkSongsSouth 120, "William Taylor" (1 text)
- Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 152-154, "William Taylor" (1 text)
- Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 315-316, "Billy Taylor" (1 text)
- Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 22, "Willie Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 131, "Willy Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 49, "William Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 32, "Billy Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 46, "Willie Taylor" (2 texts)
- Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 61, "Brisk Young Seaman (Willie Taylor)" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 60, "Willie Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 94-95, "William Taylor" (1 text, with the ending lost, 1 tune)
- Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 153-158, "William Taylor" ; "Bold William Taylor" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
- Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 53, "William Taylor" (1 text, 1 tune)
- DT 443, BLYLYTLR*

ADDITIONAL: C. H. Firth, _Publications of the Navy Records Society_ , 1907, p. 326, "The Female Lieutenant; or, Faithless Lover Rewarded"; p. 327, "Billy Taylor" (2 texts)

Roud #158

RECORDINGS:
- Joseph Taylor, "Bold William Taylor" (on Voice06)

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Firth c.12(233), "Bold William Taylor", " H. Such (London), 1863-1885; also Firth c.12(231), Firth c.12(234), Harding B 11(391), Harding B 11(3010)[some words illegible], "Bold William Taylor"; Harding B 25(2069), "William Taylor"; Firth c.12(232)[some words illegible], "The Female Lieutenant" or "Faithless Lover Rewarded"

LOCSinging, as113210, "William Taylor," Leonard Deming (Boston), 19C
CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Une Belle Recompense (A Beautiful Reward)" (plot)

ALTERNATE TITLES:

Bold William Taylor

NOTES [632 words]: Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety's version of this song ends with the girl drowning herself in grief. Laws mentions this only in connection with the Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety text, but it appears that Randolph's version also ends this way (it says only that the girl drowned, but Randolph marks a missing verse). I initially thought this an Ozark attempt to moralize the song. But it occurs also in Brown. Cox has a similar, slightly less heavy-handed attempt; the girl is arrested but her fate not listed. Perhaps it's a general American urge to punish the "crime." - RBW

She likewise drowns herself in all three of Sharp's texts. - PJS

The "Bold William Taylor" broadsides end in marriage; "William Taylor" and "The Female Lieutenant" end in command.

Reeves/Sharp-TheIdiomOfThePeople is a composite of four texts: "this is a composite of all elements of Sharp's ms. versions, none of which is complete by itself." - BS

C. H. Firth treats his "Billy Taylor" as "A Burlesque Ballad" of his other text (in which the sailor is called "William Taylor"); he describes it as Sung by Mr. Emery, at the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden. Still, they are clearly the same song, and both end with the girl as "lieutenant of the Thunder Bomb". The mention of bomb ships (mortar vessels) strongly dates those versions, at least, to the eighteenth or early nineteenth century.

Amazingly, this isn't the only theatrical version of the song. According to Stanley Appelbaum, editor, Show Songs: from The Black Crook to The Red Mill, Dover Publications, 1974, p. xx, a musical play called "Billee Taylor" "was an English comic opera [by Edward Solomon], written in the wake of the phenomenal success of Gilbert and Sullivan's Pinafore and Pirates.... The story is based loosely on a popular English ballad (poem) about a lass who masquerades as a tar to follow her lover Billee, and shoots him when he proves unfaithful. There is no fatal shooting in the show, but Phoebe does finally give her hand to Captain Flapper instead of to Billee. The hit song was a humorous one, 'All on Account of Eliza,' sung by the sailor Ben Barnacle, who is in love with the recalcitrant widow Eiza Dabby. The original London Ben Barnacle was J. D. Stoyle. A W. F. McCollin had the role in the 1881 New York production."

Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario, p. 195, comments "No other heroine [of songs of women following their lovers to sea] turns her pistol on her sweetheart when he proves unfaithful. However, she has an older sister in the girl who stabbed 'Young Hunting' to death for deserting her."

For notes on legitimate historical examples of women serving in the military in disguise, see the notes to "The Soldier Maid."

It is probably just coincidence, but in 1804, shortly before the earliest attested date of this ballad, a book by Robert Kirby described the exploits of a disguised female sailor. Her real name, supposedly, was Mary Anne Talbot, and she took the name John Taylor -- and she served for several years at sea, aboard both merchant and naval vessels, and was wounded before finally claiming discharge on the grounds of her sex. (see David Cordingly, Women Sailors and Sailors' Women, Random House, 2001 [I use the undated, but later, paperback edition], pp. 76-77). Cordingly says that Talbot's tale is fictional, but that would not have been known at the time. Could Talbot's alternate name have supplied the name of the character in this song? Probably not, but it's an interesting coincidence. - RBW

Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin: After shooting William "Polly threw herself away All the crew they ran for to save her And alas it would not do. Willy got shot and Polly got drownded This put an end to thare strife" [sic]. - BS

Last updated in version 6.0

File: LN11

William's Return to the Banks of Sweet Dundee (Answer to Undaunted Mary)

DESCRIPTION: William, impressed to keep him from Mary, is wounded in a sea battle and discharged. He returns. Unrecognized, he tells Mary that William has fallen (died, she assumes). She weeps. He reveals himself. They marry with his pension and her inheritance.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1856 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(91))

KEYWORDS: love marriage war return reunion money injury sailor
Found in: Britain (Scotland(Aber)) Canada (Newf)

References (4 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #80, p. 2, "The Banks of Sweet Dundee" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan 5 1046, "William's Return to the Banks of Sweet Dundee" (2 texts)
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 42-46, "The Banks of Sweet Tralee (An Answer to Undaunted Mary)" (3 texts, 3 tunes)
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 7, "The Banks of Sweet Dundee (I)" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #5649

Recordings:
Alphonse O'Driscoll, "Banks of Sweet Trawlee" (on MUNFLA/Leach)

Broad sides:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(91), "Answer to Undaunted Mary" or "The Banks of Sweet Dundee" ("It's of a pretty ploughboy young William was his name"), W. Jackson and Son (Birmingham), 1842-1855; also Firth c.12(258), Harding B 11(92), Firth c.18(252), "Answer to Undaunted Mary" or "The Banks of Sweet Dundee" ("It's of a pretty ploughboy young William was his name"); 2806 c.16(53), Harding B 11(1429), "Answer to Undaunted Mary" or "The banks of Sweet Dundee" ("Young William was a ploughboy, the truth I will unfold"); Harding B 11(93), Harding B 17(10b), "Answer to Undaunted Mary" ("Young William was a ploughboy the truth I'll unfold")

Cross-references:
cf. "The Banks of the Inverness" (another Laws M25 sequel)

File: GrD1046

Willie (I)

Description: Johnson tells Willie that if he comes to his father's house, he'll shoot him. He goes; Johnson kills him, then falls on his knees with grief. He turns to drink; when he returns, Officer O'Daniel arrests him. The hearse takes Willie to the cemetery

Author: Elizabeth Cotten

Earliest date: 1979 (copyright, recording)

Keywords: grief jealousy warning fight violence crime homicide prison death burial police

Found in: US (SE)

Recordings:
Elizabeth Cotten, "Willie" (on Cotten03)

Notes: According to Cotten, Willie was a person, a "kind of tease. He found Johnson couldn't take it. And he'd tease him about his girlfriends...just say anything. And Johnson would believe it, and they said he got so mad he jumped on him then, said 'The next time you come to my father's house I'm going to kill you..' ..He just shot that boy, he shot him dead...I'll never forget that." The song, not traditional, is by a traditional performer and created in traditional style, so I index it. - PJ

File: RcECWill

Willie and Earl Richard's Daughter [Child 102]

Description: Willie serves Earl Richard, loves and impregnates his daughter. Fearing Richard's wrath, they escape to the woods where the babe is born. Richard seeks his vanished daughter, finds her (alive/dead), accepts the child, and names him Robin Hood.

Author: unknown

Earliest date: 1806 (Jameson, Riewerts-BalladRepertoireOfAnnaGordon-MrsBrownOfFalkland)

Keywords: love pregnancy nobility escape reunion childbirth Robin hood

Found in: Britain (Scotland(Aber)) US (AP)

References (5 citations):
Child 102, "Willie and Earl Richard's Daughter" (2 texts)
Bronson 102, "The Birth of Robin Hood (Willie and Earl Richard's Daughter)" (2 versions+1 in addenda)
Riewerts-BalladRepertoireOfAnnaGordon-MrsBrownOfFalkland, pp. 259-260, "The Birth of Robin Hood" (1 text)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 113, "The Birth of Robin Hood" (1 text)
Bronson is of the opinion that this is "a mere rifacimento of [Child] No. 101," "Willie o Douglas Dale," and it is difficult to argue the point -- although the link to Robin Hood is a rather startling twist. But this idea can hardly be traditional; it is probably the result of one of those attempts to make Robin a nobleman. This would seem to imply that the Richard involved is Earl of Huntington. Of course, during the period when Robin Hood might have been born, the Earls of Huntington were Scots (eventually the Bruce family held the earldom -- and it's thought that one reason they were slow to defend Scottish independence was that they didn't want to risk the Huntington earldom), and none of them were named Richard.

Bronson also notes that Aunt Molly Jackson, responsible for the American version (Bronson's #2), had seen Buchan's text. Dobson/Taylor make the interesting observation on p. 195 that "it remains suspicious that for the missing story of [Robin Hood's] birth we have to wait until the recitation of a remarkable Scottish woman delivered five years after the first (1795) edition" of Ritson's Robin Hood collections. They point out in addition that this piece has no connection to the standard Robin Hood traditions of England.

David C. Fowler, A Literary History of the Popular Ballad, Duke University Press, 1968, pp. 303-304, also suggests that this is the composition of Anna Gordon Brown, but still thinks Child should have filed it among the Robin Hood ballads. - RBW

---

Willie and Lady Maisry [Child 70]

DESCRIPTION: (The lady invites Willie to her bower.) On his way he kills all her father's guards (including her brother). She welcomes him but worries about the blood. Her father discovers them together and kills Willie. The lady (dies of a broken heart/runs mad).

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1826 (Motherwell)

KEYWORDS: courting battle death family brother father homicide madness

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (6 citations):

- Child 70, "Willie and Lady Maisry" (2 texts)
- Bronson 70, brief comments only
- Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 34, "Willie and Lady Margerie" (1 text)
- Gummere-OldEnglishBallads, pp. 228-230+352-353, "Willie and Lady Maisry" (1 text)
- Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, p. 74, "Sweet Willie and Lady Margerie" (1 text)
- DT 70, WILMAISY*

Roud #198

File: C070

---

Willie and Mary (Mary and Willie; Little Mary; The Sailor's Bride) [Laws N28]

DESCRIPTION: A beggar comes to Mary's door three years after Willie went to sea. He tells a fortune: Willie is shipwrecked and poor, and will never return to Mary. She says she will take him in any state. The beggar reveals himself as Willie, rich and ready to marry

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1845 (Journal from the Elizabeth)

KEYWORDS: love courting separation marriage disguise prophecy

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,NE,SE,So) Britain(England(South,West),Scotland(Aber)) Ireland Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (18 citations):

- Laws N28, "Willie and Mary (Mary and Willie; Little Mary; The Sailor's Bride)"
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 100, "William and Mary" (1 text)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #74, "William and Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan5 1035, "Willie and Mary Stood by the Seaside" (1 text)
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 152-153, "Mary and Willie" (1 text plus reference to 1 more)
Randolph 57, "Mary and Willie" (2 text plus a fragment, 1 tune)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 39, pp. 153-164, "Mary and Willie" (1 text)
Belden-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 95, "Willie and Mary" (1 fragment, likely this though it could be any of several disguised-lover songs)
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, pp. 141-142, "Willie and Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 150-151, "The Single Sailor" (1 text)
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 15-27, "Mary and Willie" (1 text)
Burton-TennesseeTraditionalSingers, pp. 138-139, "As Willie and Mary Strolled by the Seashore" (1 text, 1 tune)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol1, pp. 78-79, "Little Willie and Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H118, pp. 315-316, "Mary and Willie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs, 93, pp. 200-202, "Mary and Willie" (1 text)
Peacock, pp. 348-349, "William and Mary" (1 text, 1 tune)
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 116-117, "The Beggarman" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 457, WILLMARY*
Roud #348
RECORDINGS:
Mrs. McCarthy, "The Beggar" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Sam McGee, "As Willie and Mary Strolled by the Seashore" (Vocalion 5310, rec. July 25 1928)
Marc Williams, "William and Mary" (Brunswick 274, 1928)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Howes o' Glenorchy" (tune, per Greig/Duncan5)
File: GrD5943

Willie and Me

DESCRIPTION: The singer sees two birds on a tree and "thinks I noo that unco like Willie and me."
The birds sing, cuddle, court, and "there [sic] herts were as happy as happy could be,"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan5)
KEYWORDS: love nonballad bird
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 943, "Willie and Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6758
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Howes o' Glenorchy" (tune, per Greig/Duncan5)
File: GrD5943

Willie Archer (The Banks of the Bann)

DESCRIPTION: Willie (Archer/Angler/Ingram) wanders by the Bann, meets a young girl, and seduces her. Afterward, he tells her that he cannot marry her because he is an apprentice. She asks his name; he gives it. She (?) warns young girls against men like him
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1825 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 17(258a))
KEYWORDS: courting seduction apprentice abandonment sex
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H614, p. 384, "Willie Angler/The Banks of the Bann" (1 text, 1 tune)
OBoyle-TheIrishSongTradition 3, "The Banks of the Bann" (1 text, 1 tune)
Forget-Me-Not-Songster, pp. 127-128, "The Banks of the Ban" (1 text)
DT, BNKSBANN
Roud #3473
RECORDINGS:
Robert Cinnamond, "The Banks of the Bann" (on IRRCinnamond01)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 17(258a), "The River Ban" ("In yonder noisy harbour called the sweet Hilltown"), Angus (Newcastle), 1774-1825; also Harding B 16(13b), Harding B 11(140), 2806 b.11(263), "The Banks of [the] Band"; 2806 b.11(209), Harding B 25(108), "[The] Banks of the Ban"
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Tripping Over the Lea" [Laws P19] (plot)
NOTES [246 words]: Traditional singers tend to call this "The Banks of the Bann." But I use the title "Willie Archer" to prevent confusion with all the other songs of that title. - RBW
OBoyle-TheIrishSongTradition: "The ... reference to Willie's apprenticeship in Raithfriland [Riverhead town in Harding B 17(258a)] would date the song sometime in the nineteenth century when the home-weaving of linen in eastern Ulster was superseded by the introduction of the power loom." - BS
Sam Henry's notes say this was written by "Johnny Spence, 'a kind of gentleman' (Castleroe), c. 1865." The Bodleian broadside would seem to dispose of this hypothesis. But that it was written by someone with literary training seems likely, because the form is not very "folky." The tune I've heard, from Silly Wizard, is a standard long-stanza ballad tune -- four lines, each of seven stresses and fourteen syllables. But the broadsides indicate no tune, and most of the lines in those versions (and indeed many of the lines in the Silly Wizard version) have six stresses and twelve syllables -- a very un-folk-like form. And then there is the fact that every stanza ends with the word "Bann" (or "Band"), with the next-to-last line rhyming with that and the two lines before rhyming with each other (i.e. the rhyme scheme for every stanza is a/a/-an(d)/Ban(d)) -- a quite artificial format. This strongly hints at someone striving for literary effect, with the song making its way into tradition only in Ireland. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: HHH614

Willie Broon
DESCRIPTION: "It was by a false young man, Willie Broon, That I was led astray He took me frae my parents and my happy, happy home, And has left me in the wild wilds to roam, to roam, to roam, And has left me in the wild woods to roam"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan6)
KEYWORDS: courting infidelity nonballad rambling
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan6 1150, "Willie Broon" (1 text, 2 tunes)
Roud #6821
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Jeemsey Brine
NOTES [10 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan6 text. - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD61150

Willie Dear
DESCRIPTION: "I wisht I could see my Willie dear (x2), I used to think that I'd be the one To marry my lovin' Willie dear." The singer offers to write to Willie, and wishes she were a wild rose or a bee that she might see him
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: love separation
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 817, "Willie Dear" (1 text)
Roud #7432
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Free Little Bird" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [29 words]: This song either derives from "Free Little Bird" or borrows heavily from it. But with no tune, no chorus, and hardly any plot, it's hard to prove the matter either way. - RBW
File: R817

Willie Down by the Pond (Sinful to Flirt) [Laws G19]

DESCRIPTION: A girl has been advised against flirting, but does it anyway. When her love Willie comes to her, she teasingly says she will not marry him. He drowns himself in the millpond. He is found with a rose from her hair at his lips
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: courting suicide drowning flowers
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)
REFERENCES (12 citations):
Laws G19, "Willie Down by the Pond (Sinful to Flirt") Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, pp. 49-50, "Willie Down by the Pond" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 275, "They Say It is Sinful to Flirt" (1 text plus mention of six more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 275, "Servant Man" (3 excerpts, 3 tunes) Wolfe/Boswell-FolkSongsOfMiddleTennessee, 36, pp. 64-66, "Sinful to Flirt" (1 text, 1 tune, given its title by the editor although the informant called it "The Flirt" and the first line is "They say I am simply a flirt")
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, pp. 87-88, "Sinful to Flirt" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains, p. 41, "Sinful to Flirt" (1 text, 1 tune)
Richardson/Spaeth-AmericanMountainSongs, p. 57, "Sinful to Flirt" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart2 56, "Willie My Darling" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 155-157, "They Say It Is Sinful to Flirt" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, p. 94, "They Say It Is Sinful to Flirt" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 772, SINFLIRT
Roud #421
RECORDINGS:
Blue Ridge Mountain Singers, "Sinful to Flirt" (Columbia 15678-D, 1931; rec. 1930)
Delmore Brothers, "They Say It's Sinful to Flirt" (Bluebird B-7192/Montgomery Ward M-7321, 1937)
Sim Harris, "Sinful to Flirt" (Homestead 16500, late 1920s)
Louisiana Lou, "Sinful to Flirt" (Bluebird B-5424, 1934)
Lester McFarland & Robert Gardner, "Simple to Flirt" (Brunswick 578, 1931; rec. 1930)
Riley Puckett, "It's Simple To Flirt" (Columbia 15036-D, 1925)
Ernest V. Stoneman "Sinful to Flirt" (OKeh 40384, 1925) (Pathe 32271/Perfect 12350/Challenge
666/Conqueror 7064/Cameo 8220/Romeo 600/Lincoln 2825/Banner 2158/Domino 3985/Regal
8346/Homestead 16500/Oriole 947, 1927); "It's Sinful to Flirt" (Edison 52388, 1928) (CYL: Edison
[BA] 5547, 1928)
Tom Watson, "It's Simple to Flirt" (Silvertone 3263, 1926)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "She Said She Was Only Flirting"
cf. "The Little White Rose" (plot)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Sinful Flirting
Poor Willie Dead and Gone
File: LG19

Willie Drowned in Yarrow

DESCRIPTION: Willie's sweetheart waits for him to come and marry her. She asks if the singer had seen Willie. She searches for him. In a crack in a rock she finds him drowned in Yarrow.
Willie Grahame

DESCRIPTION: Willy loves and murders his neighbor's/master's daughter. Following her dying advice he flees to sea. The ship won't sail. The captain says there must be a murderer on board. The lot falls on Willy. He confesses, is imprisoned and sentenced to die.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan2)
KEYWORDS: love execution homicide prison sea ship ritual
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig/Duncan2 190, "Willie Grahame" (5 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #953

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Captain Glen/The New York Trader (The Guilty Sea Captain A/B) [Laws K22]" (Jonah theme) and references there
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Wullie Gray

NOTES [71 words]: The theme from Jonah 1:4-15: a man on board hiding guilt is the cause of "such a great tempest ... upon the sea that the ship was in danger of breaking up" [Jonah 1:4]. The confusion between this ballad and "Captain Glen"/"The New York Trader" (The Guilt Sea Captain A/B) [Laws K22] is illustrated not only by the Greig/Duncan2 notes but by Greig/Duncan2 191A of "Captain Glen" in which the captain's name is William Graham. - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: GrD2190

---

Willie Gray

DESCRIPTION: "My schoolmates now I leave you I bid you a fond farewell." The boy departs his home "For a sailor boy to be." He bids farewell to his family and asks those around him to remember him.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1846 (Journal from the Coral)
KEYWORDS: sailor family farewell youth
FOUND IN: US
Willie Lamb and Jean Beith

DESCRIPTION: A laddie "swore he would make her [Jean] his wife" but thought "to prefer a single life." Thinking she is pregnant they send for a doctor who prescribes a cure for an illness. She recovers. They marry.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1904 (Greig/Duncan5)

KEYWORDS: love marriage medicine disease doctor

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 986, "Willie Lamb and Jean Beith" (1 text)
Roud #6735

NOTES [17 words]: Greig/Duncan5 speculates that "Moses Hunter and Johnnie Smith ... were involved in its composition." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD5986

Willie Macintosh [Child 183]

DESCRIPTION: Willie Macintosh (probably in revenge for the slaying of the Earl of Murray; see Child 181) swears he will burn Auchindown, even if Huntly murders him. Macintosh succeeds in his efforts

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1808 (Finlay)

KEYWORDS: feud revenge fire

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1592 - Vendetta between the Earl of Huntly and Clan Macintosh

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland) US(NE,So)

REFERENCES (9 citations):
Child 183, "Willie Macintosh" (2 texts)
Bronson 183, "Willie Macintosh" (1 version)
Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbuchatBallads, p. 188, "[Willie Macintosh]" (1 fragment)
MacColl-PersonalChoice, p. 8, "The Burning o' Auchendoun" (1 short text, 1 tune) {Bronson's (#1)}
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 264-266, "Bonny Willie Macintosh" (1 text, learned in Scotland)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 266, "Willie Macintosh" (1 text)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 36, "Willie Macintosh" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 248-249, "Burning of Auchindoun" (2 texts)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 134, "Willie Macintosh"
Roud #4010

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Burning of Auchindown

NOTES [132 words]: The Willie Macintosh of this ballad was an ally of the Earl of Murray; [to avenge] Murray's death, he and his followers harried the Earl of Huntly, whose followers eventually caught up with Macintosh's men and defeated them. Contrary to the ballad, this Willie didn't burn Auchindown castle; that had been burned by another Willie Macintosh forty years before. - PJS
The only [known] tune [for this song] was miraculously preserved by either [Ewan] MacColl's father or else his mother. Yeah, sure! - AS
And Barry et al argue that the piece wasn't really meant to be sung. But even Bronson admits the effectiveness of the tune supplied by MacColl. MacColl-PersonalChoice, p. 68, says it is from his father William Miller. - RBW

Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads is one Child's sources for text A. - BS

Last updated in version 6.1

File: C183
Willie Man, He Leads the Van

DESCRIPTION: Willie leads the vanguard, Florence follows, Sawney "goes on wi' speed, Wi' legs as lang's a swallow"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: army nonballad racing horse
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1772, "Willie Man, He Leads the Van" (1 text)
Roud #13019
NOTES [22 words]: Is this about soldiers (as Ben Schwartz seems to think) or about horseracing? I've used keywords for both to allow for ambiguity. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD1772

Willie Moore

DESCRIPTION: Handsome young Willie Moore has courted and won the heart of fair Annie. Her parents do not approve of him. When Annie realizes her parents will not relent, she runs away and dies (kills herself?). Willie takes to wandering (and dies of a broken heart?)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Burnett & Rutherford)
KEYWORDS: courting love death separation hardheartedness father mother suicide burial
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Randolph 795, "Willie Moore" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 90-92, "Willie Moore" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 795)
Dunson/Raim/Asch-AnthologyOfAmericanFolkMusic, p. 36, "Willie Moore" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblerSSongbook, p. 140, "Willie Moore" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WILLMOOR*
ST R796 (Full)
Roud #4816
RECORDINGS:
[Richard] Burnett & [Leonard] Rutherford, "Willie Moore" (Columbia 15314-D, 1927; on AAFM1, BurnRuth01, ConstSor1, KMM)
Doc Watson & Gaither Carlton, "Willie Moore" (on WatsonAshley01)
Doc Watson, "Willie Moore" (on RitchieWatson1, RitchieWatsonCD1)
NOTES [32 words]: Randolph's informant, Paul Wilson, reported meeting a Rev. William Moore in 1936 who claimed this song was about him. This is one of those instances where one would prefer documentation. - RBW
File: R796

Willie o Douglas Dale [Child 101]

DESCRIPTION: Willie goes to serve at the English court. He loves and impregnates the king's daughter, Dame Oliphant. They leave the court; the child is born in the woods, They recruit a shepherdess and sail to Douglas Dale where he is lord and she now lady.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1783/1799 (Riewerts-BalladRepertoireOfAnnaGordon-MrsBrownOfFalkland)
KEYWORDS: love royalty nobility pregnancy escape childbirth home
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (10 citations):
Child 101, "Willie o Douglas Dale" (4 texts)
Bronson 101, "Willie o Douglas Dale" (2 versions)
Riewerts-BalladRepertoireOfAnnaGordon-MrsBrownOfFalkland, pp. 98-105, "Willy o Douglass Dale" (2 parallel texts plus a photo of the badly-transcribed tune; also two reconstructed tunes on p. 265)
Willie o Winsbury [Child 100]

DESCRIPTION: The king has been a prisoner; he returns to find his daughter looking ill. She proves to be pregnant; her lover was (Willie o Winsbury). The king orders Winsbury hanged, but upon seeing him, understands his daughter's action and allows the two to wed

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1776 (Percy MS.)

KEYWORDS: pregnancy punishment pardon royalty

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord),England(West,South)) US(Ap,NE) Canada(Newf) Ireland

REFERENCES (24 citations):
Child 100, "Willie o Winsbury" (9 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #22}
Bronson 100, "Willie o Winsbury" (22 versions+1 in addenda, of which #2 is a Manx fragment which may not be related)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 100, "Willie o Winsbury" (5 versions: #1, #3, #4, #10, #22)
Greig/Duncan5 999, "Lord Thomas of Winchbury" (10 texts [including one fragment on pp. 610-611; see NOTES], 7 tunes)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 11, "The King's Dochter Jean" (1 text)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 224-225, "Willie o Winsbury" (notes only, claiming a verse in one of their versions of "Johnny Scot" is actually a "Willie" fragment)
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 233-235, "Johnny Barbour" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #21}
Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland3, pp. 57-66, "Willie o Winsbury" (3 texts plus a fragment, 3 tunes) {A=Bronson's #21, B=#20}
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 13, "Young Barbour" (3 texts, 3 tunes) {Bronson's #16, #13, #12}
Peacock, pp. 534-536, "John Barbour" (1 text, 2 tunes)
Karpeles-FolksSongsFromNewfoundland 14, "Willie o Winsbury" (2 texts, 4 tunes) {Bronson's #17}
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 308-309, "Willie o Winsbury" (1 text)
Leach-HeritageBookOfBallads, pp. 57-58, "Willie o Winsbury" (1 text)
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 7, "Willie O Winsbury" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 62, "John Barbour" (1 text, 1 tune)
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 45, "Willie o Winsbury" (1 text)
Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 15, "Lord Thomas of Winesberry" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #11}
Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 8, "Willie o Wlnsby" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #11}
Reeves/Sharp-TheThelidiomOfThePeople 59, "Lord Thomas of Winesberry" (1 text)
Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 139, "Willie O' Winsbury" (1 text)
Combs/Wilgus-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernUnitedStatés 29, pp. 123-124, "Willie o Winsbury" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 71-73, "Willie O Winsbury" (1 text)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H221, pp. 490-491, "The Rich Ship Owner's Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT WILLIWIN* WILLIWI2* WILLIWI3*
Roud #64

RECORDINGS:
Everett Bennett, "John Barbour" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
Anita Best and Pamela Morgan, "Johnny Barbour" (on NFABestPMorgan01)
Robert Cinnamond, "There Was a Lady Lived in the West" (on Voice17); "John Barlow" (on IRRCinnamond03)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Lady Diamond" [Child 269] (plot)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Seven Sailor Boys
The Rich Shipowner's Daughter
The Prood King of France
What Aileth Thee?

NOTES [730 words]: Only one king of England since the Norman Conquest has been taken captive by a foreign power: Richard I ("the Lion-Hearted"; "Richard Yes-and-No") was imprisoned by the Duke of Austria. All told, Richard spent only six months of his ten year reign (1189-1199) in England. Unfortunately for the truth of this song, Richard (who may have been homosexual) had no children (at least, none that were legitimate; there was supposedly an illegitimate son. But he was a boy anyway, so he couldn't have been the girl in this song anyway). Few other English kings have been absent from England long enough for the events here to take place.

If we transfer the story to Scotland, we find that David Bruce (reigned 1329-1370) spent much of his life in English captivity, but again had no children. The earlier William the Lion (reigned 1165-1214) also spent time in English hands, and did have children (including two daughters, Margaret and Isabella) -- but also had no feelings, and would never have been guilty of such a crime as forgiving someone. King James I spent eighteen years in English custody, starting in 1406 (meaning that he was in prison for half the reign of Henry IV, all the reign of Henry V, and a little of the reign of Henry VI), but he didn't marry (Joan Beaufort) until about the time he was freed; he had no children at the time. And although one of his daughters was named Joan, which isn't too far from Janet, James was assassinated in 1437, which surely means his children were all too young to get pregnant!

This leaves king John of France (reigned 1350-1364), who was taken prisoner by the Black Prince at Poitiers (1355), as the closest thing we have to an equivalent to the king in this ballad.

In some versions of the song, the hero Willie is himself a king in disguise; there is no evidence of this ever having happened in truth, though it is common in folktale (associated especially with James V of Scotland).

There was once a Winsbury in Somerset; the name, according to Ekwall, p. 524, is a shortening of "Wineces burug" or "Winuc's Burg"; the name is twice attested from the 960s. Google Maps does not allow its existence, but it seems to have been near Bath.

"Winsbury" is also an attested medieval surname; there were two knights named Thomas Wynnesbury, father and son, who were active in the west country starting in the 1320s -- the elder served as deputy justice of North Wales. They were associated with the FitzAlan Earls of Arundel (Fein, pp. 89-90). They weren't particularly noteworthy, but what is interesting is that the height of the younger Wynnesbury's career was about the time King John of France was captured at Poitiers. If Thomas Junior had had a son, the ages would likely have been about right. The flip side is, they can't have been as rich as implied in this song.

The idea of giving someone as much land as he can traverse in a day is by no means unique to this ballad, although all the land one could ride in a day is an incredibly large property. A version one could walk in a day is more reasonable, or even what one could hop. Kellett, p. 79, mentions the case of one Haverah, a "legendary one legged man to whom John of Gaunt... is supposed to have granted as much land as he could hop round on the longest day -- the result of which was Haverah Park, near Harrowgate, in which are the ruins of a hunting lodge called John of Gaunt's Castle."

In both of the Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast texts, as well as the Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland Newfoundland texts, the suitor is "Young Barbour," and he "ploughs the raging sea." This is a fascinating and intriguing change, because the Barbour family produced many famous Newfoundland captains -- people with no high political office but much respect in the community, and often rather well-to-do by Newfoundland standards. Several of them are mentioned in Newfoundland songs; for Alpheus Barbour, see "Sealer's Song (II)"; for Baxter, "The Nimrod's Song"; for George, "The Greenland Disaster (I)"; and for Wilf Barbour, "A Noble Fleet of Sealers." - RBW

A fragment, Bodleian, 2806 c.11(90), "Lord Thomas of Winsborough" ("It happen'd on a time when the proud king of France"), unknown, n.d. may be this ballad but I could not download it to verify that.
Greig/Duncan5 text count includes one fragment on pp. 610-611 corrected by 999J. - BS

Bibliography

  University Press, 1960
- Susanna Fein, editor, Studies in the Harley Manuscript: The Scribes, Contents, and Social Contexts of British Library MS Harley 2253, TEAMS/Western Michigan University, 2000
- Arnold Kellett, The Yorkshire Dictionary of Dialect, Tradition, and Folklore, revised edition, Smith Settle, 2002
- FeinEtAl:

Last updated in version 5.1
File: C100

Willie Rambler

DESCRIPTION: Willie Rambler leaves Lough Erne for Scotland and meets Mary "the pride of Glasgow Town." He asks that she "show to me the way." She offers him five hundred pounds to stay with her. "How could I leave Lough Erne's banks where my young Molly dwells?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1980 (IRHardySons)

KEYWORDS: courting request rejection rambling money Ireland Scotland

FOUND IN: Ireland

Roud #3576

RECORDINGS:

James Halpin, "Willie Rambler" (on IRHardySons)

NOTES [73 words]: Notes to IRHardySons quote the sleevenotes to another album which present a different picture than mine: "Willie Rambler ... is quite a businessman and, when asked his price to stay with her, immediately demands five hundred pounds. After the price is agreed he then proceeds to praise the beauties of Ballyshannon and Lough Erne...." (reference is to Dermot McLaughlin notes to Gabriel McArdle, "Dog Big Dog Little," Claddagh CC51CD). - BS

File: RcWilRa

Willie the Weeper

DESCRIPTION: Willie the Weeper, a chimney sweep, is a hop addict. One night he has a particularly wild dream, with the (Queen of somewhere) making him promises. The further course of the ballad varies, but usually describes a crash.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908

KEYWORDS: drugs dream

FOUND IN: US(MA,MW,SE,So)

REFERENCES (12 citations):

Randolph 507, "Willie the Weeper" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 115, "Willy the Weeper" (1 text)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 204-205, "Willy the Weeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 184-185, "Willie the Weeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 223, "Willie the Weeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, pp. 103-106, "Willie the Weeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, pp. 123-125, "Willie the Weeper" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks, pp. 114-115, "Willie the Weeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 156-157, "Willie the Weeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 54, "Willy, the Weeper" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 26, "Willy the Weeper" (1 text)

DT, WILLWEP1 WILLWEP2

Roud #977
RECORDINGS:
Louis Armstrong, "Willie the Weeper" (Vocalion 3381, 1937)
Roy Evans, "Willie the Weeper" (Columbia 15687-D, 1931; rec. 1928)
Ernest Rogers, "Willie the Chimney Sweeper" (Columbia 15012-D, 1925) (Victor 20502, 1927)
Marc Williams, "Willie the Weeper" (Brunswick 240, 1928)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Cocaine Lil" (tune)

NOTES [100 words]: This is said to be the inspiration for the pop song "Minnie the Moocher." Coleman/Bregman-SongsOfAmericanFolks think the story originated in San Francisco.
David A. Jasen, Tin Pan Alley: The Composers, the Songs, the Performers and their Times: The Golden Age of American Popular Music from 1886 to 1956, Primus, 1988, p. 116, says that this song was first published in 1927, the year when it was recorded by three major jazz bands (King Oliver's, Louis Armstrong's, and Doc Cook's). The song itself seems to be older, as the earliest date shows (although I don't know where that date comes from). - RBW

Last updated in version 4.3
File: R507

Willie Warfield [Laws I20]

DESCRIPTION: Willie Warfield, a heavy gambler who does not know when to quit, plays cards with the singer. The singer grows angry and shoots Warfield. He is imprisoned and his family will not help him, but his girlfriend pawns her jewels to raise his bail

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE:

KEYWORDS: gambling cards homicide prison

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Laws I20, "Willie Warfield"
DT 844, WILWARF
Roud #6382
File: LI20

Willie Was As Fine a Sailor

DESCRIPTION: Willie and Mary plan marriage but his ship must "sail for a foreign land." If he proves false he prays her spirit haunt him until he dies. He is false. His captain writes Mary. She drowns herself and haunts him until a wave sweeps him overboard.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Hayward-UlsterSongsAndBalladsOfTheTownAndCountry)

KEYWORDS: courting infidelity curse suicide death sailor ghost

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar) Ireland US(MA)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 101, "Willie Was As Fine a Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hayward-UlsterSongsAndBalladsOfTheTownAndCountry, pp. 82-84, "Now, Wullie was as Nice a Lad" (1 text)
Bethke-AdirondackVoices, pp. 103-104, "Willie Was As Fina a Sailor" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST MaWi101 (Partial)
Roud #2972

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Captain Glen/The New York Trader (The Guilty Sea Captain A/B) [Laws K22]" (Jonah theme) and references there

NOTES [41 words]: Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi ends with the Jonah motif: "When an unknown wave swept o'er the deck, And swept him o'er the side ... The night grew calm and clear."
cf. Jonah 1:15 "And they heaved Jonah overboard, and the sea stopped raging." - BS

Last updated in version 5.1
File: MaWi101
Willie's Courtship

DESCRIPTION: Willie's sweetheart would go home "for the clouds do gather." He can't dissuade her until he threatens to kill himself "his love thus proving." She says "I will be your bride But ... to frighten me so It was vastly foolish, vastly foolish."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Reeves/Sharp-TheldiomOfThePeople)
KEYWORDS: love marriage bargaining suicide dialog
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Reeves/Sharp-TheldiomOfThePeople 114, "Willie's Courtship" (1 text)
Roud #4740
File: ReSh114

Willie's Drowned in Gamerie

DESCRIPTION: Annie mourns Willie, drowned in a storm on the way to buy their marriage ring. Her aunt and mother tell her "some ither lad will marry me." Annie says, "My bridal robe's my winding sheet, The auld kirkyard my bed'll be," and dies.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Greig/Duncan6)
KEYWORDS: grief love ring death drowning storm mother clothes
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #87, p. 1, "Willie's Drowned in Gamerie" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan6 1228, "Willie's Drowned in Gamerie" (1 text)
Roud #6853
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Rare Willie Drowned in Yarrow, or, The Water o Gamrie [Child 215]" (story) and references there
File: GrD61228

Willie's Fatal Visit [Child 255]

DESCRIPTION: Willie, having spent the night with Margaret, leaves before dawn because the cock crowed too soon. On the road he meets a ghost. Since he is a sinner and has not said a prayer for the road, the ghost tears him to shreds

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE:
KEYWORDS: sex separation ghost death bird nightvisit
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Child 255, "Willie's Fatal Visit" (1 text)
Bronson 255, "Willie's Fatal Visit" (2 versions)
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #75, p. 251-252, "Willie's Fate (Willie's Fatal Visit (Child 255))" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #2}
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 623-625, "Willie's Fatal Visit" (1 text)
Roud #244
RECORDINGS:
Jeannie Robertson, "Willie's Fatal Visit (Willie's Fate)" (on FSB5, FSBBAL2) {Bronson's #2}
CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [74 words]: This sounds almost like an "alternate ending" for "The Grey Cock, or, Saw You My Father" [Child 248]. Hugh Shields conjectured that that was an "alba song" (see the entry on Child 248 for explanation). This, however, seems to me almost closer to the form Shields describes. - RBW
Also collected and sung by Ellen Mitchell, "Willy's Fatal Visit" (on Kevin and Ellen Mitchell, "Have a Drop Mair," Musical Tradition Records MTC315-6 CD (2001)) - BS
Willie's Lady [Child 6]

DESCRIPTION: Willie travels to woo and wed a wife. His mother, not approving of the bride, casts spells to ensure that she will never bear a child. Willie tricks his mother into believing the baby has been born, and the mother blurts out the way to lift the spell

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1783/1799 (Riewerts-BalladRepertoireOfAnnaGordon-MrsBrownOfFalkland)

KEYWORDS: magic mother wife pregnancy childbirth

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES: 11 citations:
- Child 6, "Willie's Lady" (1 text)
- Bronson 6, "Willie's Lady" (1 text)
- Riewerts-BalladRepertoireOfAnnaGordon-MrsBrownOfFalkland, pp. 180-185, "Sweet Willy/Willie's Lady" (2 parallel texts plus a photo of the badly-transcribed tune; also a reconstructed tune on p. 283)
- Greig/Duncan2 346, "Simon's Lady" (1 text)
- Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland1, pp. 124-127, "Willie’s Lady" (1 text, from print rather than tradition)
- Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 64-66, "Willie's Lady" (1 text)
- Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 6, "Willy’s Lady" (1 text)
- Friedman-Viking/OxfordBookOfFolkBallads, p. 18, "Willie's Lady" (1 text)
- Gummere-OldEnglishBallads, pp. 252-255+356, "Willie’s Lady" (1 text)
- Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 2, "Willie's Lady" (1 text, 1 tune in appendix) {Bronson's [#1]}

REFERENCES:
- DT 6, WILILADY
- Roud #220

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Gil Brenton" [Child 5] (lyrics)

NOTES: At least one of the magic tricks described in this song is widespread in folklore: Pregnant women were supposed to remove all knots from their clothing to ease childbirth.

- RBW

The Swedish ballad "Den Förtrollade Barnaföderskan (The Bewitched Mother-to-Be)" is essentially the same story, with variations in detail. - PJS

Bertrand Harris Bronson, The Ballad as Song (essays on ballads), University of California Press, 1969, p. 43, studying the text and tune of this, suggests that the tune collected from Mrs. Brown must have had an internal refrain, the text of which was not taken down. This apparently was a habit of the transcriber; he omitted the internal refrains of "Clerk Colvill," "Gil Brenton," and "Willie’s Lady." Since Brown’s is the only collected tune for this, particular attention should probably be paid to the idea. Alternately, perhaps, the internal refrain was sometimes but not always replaced by additional lyrics; this would explain the fact that some verses seem to be of two lines, some of three. - RBW

Willie’s Lyke-Wake [Child 25]

DESCRIPTION: Willie wants to know if his sweetheart loves him. On the advice of his (mother), he feigns death and has his lover come to his wake. She despairs. Coming to the wake, she kisses the "corpse," which comes to life to accept her love

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1827 (Kinloch)

KEYWORDS: love funeral trick

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord))

REFERENCES: 8 citations:
- Child 25, "Willie’s Lyke-Wake" (5 texts)
- Bronson 25, "Willie’s Lyke-Wake" (4 versions)
- Greig/Duncan4 843, "Among the Blue Flowers and the Yellow" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 16, "The Merry Lykewake"; 55, "The Sun Shines Over Willie's on the Dark Blue Sea

DESCRIPTION: "My Willie's on the dark blue sea, He's gone far o'er the main." She prays that the winds will soon blow him home. A storm blows up; she prays more earnestly. At that moment Willie shows up and takes her in his arms

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1849 (Journal from the Euphrasia)
KEYWORDS: sailor separation reunion
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 234-236, "Willie's on the Dark Blue Sea" (1 text, 1 tune)
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 173-174, "My Willie's on the Dark Blue Sea" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan1 65, "Willie's On the Dark Blue Sea" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2655, p. 180, "Willie's on the Dark Blue Sea" (2 references)

BROADSIDES:
LOCSheet, sm1849 451530, "Willie's on the Dark Blue Sea," Oliver Ditson (Boston), 1849 (tune)
LOCSinging, as115070, "Willie's on the Dark Blue Sea," J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859; also sb40576b, "Willie's on the Dark Blue Sea"

NOTES [54 words]: Broadside LOCsheet sm1849 451530 claims it is "Written and Composed by H.G. Thompson" but that may just refer to the arrangement.

Last updated in version 4.2

Willow Tree (I), The

DESCRIPTION: Four farmers discover a man weeping by a grave. He tells that he had married Fanny just before he went to sea. She was told he had died, and married another. When he came home to see her, she died. He sits by her grave, and soon dies himself.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: love separation marriage reunion death burial sailor
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H789, pp. 419-420, "The Willow Tree" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7965
File: HHH789

Willow Tree (IV), The

DESCRIPTION: "As I passed by a willow tree, willow tree, That willow leaf flew down on me. I picks up. It would not break. I passed my love, he would not speak." The singer recalls meetings, wishes she were understood, and says she would be happy if he came back

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Hamer)
KEYWORDS: love courting abandonment floating verses
FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hamer-Green-Groves, p. 46, "The Willow Tree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #18831
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "My Blue-Eyed Boy" (theme, lyrics) and references there

NOTES [65 words]: Roud links this with "My Blue-Eyed Boy," which in turn links with "The Butcher Boy," I see his point; a lot of this is free-floating material. But the "willow leaf" motif is unusual, and the tune, which uses both a sharped and a flatted fifth (transcribed by Hamer as a sharped fourth) looks very unusual. So I've split them, while freely admitting the close similarity and likely kinship. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0

File: HaGr046

---

Willow Tree (V), The

DESCRIPTION: Singer is a woman. Her love won't speak to her. She wishes his bosom were glass so she could "view those secrets of your heart." Her love is a sailor: "when he gets so far away, He hardly thinks no more of me" She would be happy to have him back.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (recording, May Bradley)
KEYWORDS: love separation nonballad sailor floating verses
FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))
Roud #60
RECORDINGS:
May Bradley, "The Willow Tree" (on Voice12)

NOTES [128 words]: The Willow reference is not exactly the expected one. As I pass by a willow tree, willow tree, That willow leaf blew down on me.
I picked it up, it would not break.
I've passed my love; he would not speak. The break is usually for an oak tree ("I leaned my back against an oak ... First it bent and then it broke") rather than a willow leaf. Maybe the travelled lines have been so corrupted here that it is a new song.

Yates, Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Notes - Volume 10" - 4.9.02 considers this a version of "Tavern in the Town." I don't find enough of "Tavern"s identifying lines to make that connection. - BS

There is some floating material here, though, e.g. the "heart made of glass" shows up in some versions of "My Dearest Dear." - RBW

File: RcTwillTr

---

Willow Tree (VI), The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, take me in your arms, my love, for keen the wind doth blow... for bitter is my woe. She hears me not, she cares me not.... While here I lie, alone to die, beneath the willow tree. She is rich; he once was; but his gold is lost and she no longer cares

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1813 (Bodleian broadsides Firth b.25(210), Firth c.18(97), Harding B 25(2076))
KEYWORDS: love money rejection death
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Forget-Me-Not-Songster, p. 137, "The Willow" (1 text)
Roud #3294
BROADSIDES:
The Willow Tree

DESCRIPTION: "O now we willowbee, O willowbee, O willowbee, O now we willowbee All night long." "O come through the silence." "O dancin' down the alley. "O skipping down the alley, All night long." "O singing down the alley."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (Trent-Johns-PlaySongsOfTheDeepSouth)

KEYWORDS: playparty nonballad

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Trent-Johns-PlaySongsOfTheDeepSouth, pp. 14-17, "Willowbee" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

NOTES [58 words]: Trent-Johns-PlaySongsOfTheDeepSouth treats this as two separate songs, with different words and music. But the tunes are almost identical, the idea of the songs is the same, and they're both playparties. I would consider them the same. Sadly, Trent-Johns-PlaySongsOfTheDeepSouth does not indicate a source, and I know no other "Willowbee" songs. - RBW

File: TrJo014

Willy Coombe (Crantock Games)

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas in the month of May, when flowers do spring" that the young men gather for the Crantock Games. In a fight between Crantock and Newlyn men, William Coomb is shot. He bids farewell to father, etc. and tells the coroner he was "wilfully" shot

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall)

KEYWORDS: death homicide sports farewell

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 16, 1721 - Crantock Games at which William Coomb is shot; he is buried the next day
(source: Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall)

FOUND IN: Britain(England(West))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gundry-CanowKernow-SongsDancesFromCornwall, p. 48, "Crantock Games (William Coomb)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3318

File: Gund048

Willy March

DESCRIPTION: Willy is stranded on the ice and can walk no further. He sends his companion, who is the only other survivor of their group, to the Cape St. Francis lighthouse for assistance but Willy dies before help can return.

AUTHOR: unknown
Willy O!

DESCRIPTION: Willy sails to the Bay of Biscay. Seven years later, he came to the girl's door. He says he is a ghost. The cock crows. He says his ghost will guard her. As he disappears he tells her "Weep no more for your Willy O"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan2); c.1867 (broadside, Bodleian 2806 c.15(136))

LONG DESCRIPTION: Seven years ago Willy went "on board the tender" and sailed to the Bay of Biscay. He does not answer Mary's letters. One night he comes to her bed-chamber door. She asks why he is so pale. He says the clay has changed his blushes. They discuss their old courtship. The cock crows. He says his ghost will guard her though his body lies in the West Indies. As he disappears he tells her "Weep no more for your Willy O"

KEYWORDS: ghost separation death nightvisit love bird

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber)) Canada(Mar) Ireland

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig/Duncan2 338, "Willie O" (1 text)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, pp. 113-114, "Willie O" (2 texts, 1 tune)
McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen 6, "The Bay of Biscay O" (1 text, 1 tune)
Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday 3, pp. 5,100,155-156, "Willie's Ghost" (2 texts, 1 tune)

Roud #22567

RECORDINGS:
Bill Cassidy, "Biscao" (on IRTravellers01)
Robert Cinnamond, "Ghost of Willie-O" (on IRRCinnamond02)
Nora Cleary, "Willie-O" (on Voice03)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, 2806 c.15(136), "Willy O!" ("Come all you young maids that's fair handsome"), W. Birmingham (Dublin), c.1867; also Harding B 19(86), Firth c.12(293), "Willy O!"

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Rise Up Quickly and Let Me In (The Ghostly Lover)" (theme)

NOTES [257 words]: Broadside Bodleian 2806 c.15(136) is the basis for the description. Jim Carroll's notes to Bill Cassidy's "Biscao" on "From Puck to Appleby: Songs of Irish Travellers in England," Musical Traditions Records MTCD325-6 (2003) say that Hugh Shields believes the main source of the "Willy O" broadside is "Sweet William's Ghost" (Child 77). I wonder if Shields meant that; except for the night-visiting ghost and the bird singing in Child 77.F or the moorcock announcing day in Paddy Tunney's "Lady Margaret" ("The Voice of the People, Vol 3: O'er His Grave the Grass Grew Green," Topic TSCD 653 (1998)), I don't find a connection. The broadside version of "Willy O!" has distinguishing lines that include As Mary lay sleeping, her true love came creeping.... They spent that night in deep discoursing, Concerning their courtship sometime ago....
O Willy dear where is the blushes,
That you had some time ago,
Mary dear the clay has changed them,
For I am the ghost of your Willy O.
Ewan MacColl's version of Cecilia Costello's "The Grey Cock" on Ewan MacColl and Peggy Seeger, "The Grey Cock" (on ENMacCollSeeger02) adds this verse from the broadside:
When she saw him disappearing,
Down her cheeks the tears did flow
Mary dear, sweetheart and darling
Weep no more for your Willy O. - BS

Willy Vare

DESCRIPTION: Ellen Vare's sailor husband dies at sea. She has one son who becomes a sailor. His ship is wrecked in a storm. Willy survives alone on an island for three years. He is rescued by a ship seeking gold. He returns to his poor mother with gold and jewels
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: parting return reunion rescue sea ship disaster storm wreck mother sailor
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 65, "Willy Vare" (1 text)

Willy, Poor Boy

DESCRIPTION: Floating verses, utterly unconnected. "The train was almost started/The conductor come by with his lamp...." "I asked her if she loved me/She said she loved me some...."
"Sometimes I live in the country, sometimes I live in town...."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (recording, Roy Harvey & Jess Johnston)
KEYWORDS: railroading love hardheartedness loneliness poverty courting floatingverses lover train death drowning suicide gambling hobo
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen/Seeger/Wood-NewLostCityRamblersSongbook, p. 112, "Willy, Poor Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
RECORDINGS:
Roy Harvey & Jess Johnston (or Roy Harvey & the North Carolina Ramblers) "No Room for a Tramp" (Champion 16187, 1931; on TimesAint05)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Willy, Poor Boy" (on NLCR03)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Goodnight, Irene" (words)
cf. "Sometimes I'm in This Country" (floating lyrics)
cf. "Don't Get Trouble in Your Mind" (floating verses)
cf. "Little Maud" (floating verses, some similarity in the tune)
NOTES [89 words]: This song is almost impossible to describe; it is so disjointed as to be meaningless. - PJS
In fact it seems to consist entirely of lines borrowed from other songs. But it borrows from so MANY other songs that it has to file under its own name.... - RBW
Note that the "Sometimes I live in the country/Sometimes I live in town/Sometimes I take a fool notion/To jump in the river and drown" verse in this song predates the first recording of Lead Belly's "Goodnight Irene," with which the verse is usually associated, by two years. - PJS
Willy, Willy

DESCRIPTION: "Where is my little one hiding tonight, Willy, Willy, Come from your hiding-place, little eyes bright, Willy, Willy, loving and true." "Ah, but my heart is forgetting its pain, Willy, Willy, Never on earth shall I see thee again, Willy, Willy...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: death separation hiding
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 713, "Willy, Willy" (1 text)
Roud #7378
NOTES [36 words]: Randolph's source claims it came from the Civil War era, and there is certainly a hint of a song for a lost soldier boy. But it seems to me that there's also a bit of lullaby in there. I wish we knew more verses. - RBW
File: R713

Wilson Patent Stove, The

DESCRIPTION: "I remember very well, Jim, That Wilson Patent stove, That father bought and paid for, Jim, In the cloth that the girls wove. The people all wondered, Jim, When we got the thing to go. They swore it'd bust and kill us all Just fifty years ago."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Henry)
KEYWORDS: technology commerce
FOUND IN: US(SE,So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 486, "The Wilson Patent Stove" (2 short texts, 2 tunes)
Roud #765
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Buy a Charter Oak" (theme)
NOTES [81 words]: Randolph reports, "Many old settlers in Arkansas tell me that 'Wilson Patent' was the trade name of the first cookstoves sold here -- previously everybody cooked on the fireplace. Agents came through the county in wagons, trading stoves for handwoven counterpanes and carpets."
Roud lumps this with "Twenty Years Ago (Forty Years Ago)." It certainly has that look. But while it may be a loose fragment of that piece, given its current state, I think it better to separate the two. - RBW
File: R486

Wilt Thou Be Made Whole?

DESCRIPTION: "Hear the footsteps of Jesus, he is now passing by, Bearing balm for the wounded, healing all who apply...." "Wilt thou be made whole (x2)? O come, weary suff'erer, O come, sin-sick soul... Step into the current and thou shalt be whole."

AUTHOR: William J. Kirkpatrick
EARLIEST DATE: 1882 copyright
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(MA)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 82, "Wilt Thou Be Made Whole?" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: FSC082

Winchester Gaol

DESCRIPTION: "There's a new county gaol in Winchester, Hants, Where the young prosecutor is going to provanace." The prisoners are cold, their meals of bread and water are too small, and there is no liquor. "If you don't believe me... just you go a-poaching...."
Wind and the Snow, The

DESCRIPTION: "The wind and snow o'er the cold world blow From the wild raging east to the west But noo I'm sitting snug at my warm chimney lug And I carena a fig for the blast"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: home nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan3 544, "The Wind and the Snow" (1 fragment)
Roud #6020
NOTES [10 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan3 entry. - BS
Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD3544

Wind Blew the Bonnie Lass's Plaidie Awa', The

DESCRIPTION: Young woman goes to the butcher to buy beef, but he takes her in his arms, down they fall, and the wind blows her plaidie away. Three months later, her waist swells. The neighbors are upset; she blames the beef. (He marries her.)

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Greig/Duncan7)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Young woman goes to the butcher to buy beef, but he takes her in his arms, down they fall, and the wind blows her plaidie away, not to be found. (He promises to pay for it.) Three months later, her waist swells; she says his beef is tough to chew. The neighbors are upset; she blames the beef. (He marries her, saying, "We shall hae the middle cut, it's tenderest of a'.")

KEYWORDS: sex clothes commerce lover food marriage
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 75-76, "The Plaidie Away" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan7 1413, "The Wind Blew the Bonnie Lassie's Plaidie Awa" (3 texts)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 96-97, "The Wind Blew the Bonnie Lassie's Plaidie Awa'" (1 text)
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #47, pp. 199-200, "The Bonnie Lassie's Pleydie's Awa'" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2574
RECORDINGS:
Jimmy McBeath, Duncan Burke [instrumental], Jeannie Robertson [composite] "The Wind Blew the Bonny Lassie's Plaidie Awa" (on FSB02, FSB2CD)
Jimmy McBeath, "The Wind Blew the Lassie's Plaidie Awa" (on Voice10)
BROADSIDES:
Murray, Mu23-y4:029, "The Wind Blew the Plaidie Awa'," John Ross (Newcastle), 19C NLScotland, RB.m.143(126), "The Bonnie Lassie's Plaidie," Poet's Box (Dundee), n.d.
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The White Cockade" (tune)
NOTES [19 words]: It appears that several versions of this have been bowdlerized. The extent of the damage is not entirely clear. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: RcWBTBLP
Wind Blow East, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, the wind blow east, the wind blow west, The wind blow the Sunshine Right down in town." Similarly for other boat, e.g. the China, the Settin' Star.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry)
KEYWORDS: disaster storm
FOUND IN: West Indies(Bahamas)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 80-81, "The Wind Blow East" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11601
File: LxSi080

Wind Is in the West, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, the wind is in the west, And the guinea's on her nest, And I can't get any rest For my baby! I'll tell pap when he comes home Somebody beat my little baby!"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: lullaby abuse baby
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 157 (partly repeated on p. 160), (no title) (1 short text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Bookerman" (theme)
File: ScNF157A

Wind of the Winter Night

DESCRIPTION: "Wind of the winter night, whence comest thou? And whither, oh whither, art wand'ring now? Sad, sad is thy voice on the desolate moor." The wind tells the various places it has been, including the wreck of a sailing ship; the wind laments destroying it

AUTHOR: Words: Charles Mackay / Music: Henry Russell
EARLIEST DATE: 1836 (sheet music published by Firth & Hall, New York)
KEYWORDS: ship disaster death dialog
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 286-287, "Wind of the Winter's Night" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #27548
File: HGam286

Wind That Ball

DESCRIPTION: "We're goin' to wind this ball, Oh Gean, oh Gean, We're going to wind this ball oh Gean."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5)
KEYWORDS: playparty
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5, p. 550, "Wind That Ball" (1 short text, 1 tune)
NOTES [17 words]: The current description is based on the Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 fragment. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.1
File: BrS5550B
Wind That Shakes the Barley
DESCRIPTION: "I sat within the valley green, I sat me with my true love." The singer tries to decide between love of a girl and love of country. He is saying goodbye when an English bullet kills the girl. Now, filled with sad memories, he goes to fight the English.
AUTHOR: Robert Dwyer Joyce (1830-1883) (source: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)
EARLIEST DATE: 1861 (Joyce's _Ballads, Romances and Songs_, according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)
KEYWORDS: Ireland rebellion soldier death separation
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Galvin-IrishSongsOfResistance, pp. 98-99, "The Wind That Shakes the Barley" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 63, "The Wind that Shakes the Barley" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WINDBARL WINDCORN
Roud #2994
RECORDINGS:
The Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem, "The Wind That Shakes the Barley" (on IRClancyMakem03)
Sarah Makem, "The Wind that Shakes the Barley" (on Voice08)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Rolling Neuse" (theme)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Wind That Shakes the Corn
NOTES [67 words]: The ballad is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentenial of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See:
Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "Wind That Shakes the Barley" (on Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "1798 the First Year of Liberty," Hummingbird Records HBCD0014 (1998)) - BS
"The Wind That Shakes the Corn" appears to be a modern adaption of this rebel song, though I can't prove this. - RBW
File: PGa098

Wind the Bobbin
DESCRIPTION: "Wind the bobbin up..." Pull and tug.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1975 (Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame)
KEYWORDS: playparty
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 133, "Wind the Bobbin" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: OpGa133

Wind, The (Rain, Rain, the Wind Does Blow)
DESCRIPTION: "The wind, the wind, the wind blows high, The rain comes pouring from the sky." The girl says she will die if she doesn't get the boy she wants. The boys are fighting for her, but there is only one she will accept
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1898 (Gomme)
KEYWORDS: courting playparty love
FOUND IN: Britain(England(All),Scotland(Aber)) Ireland US(MW)
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Greig/Duncan8 1578, "The Wind Blows High" (4 texts, 2 tunes)
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 22, "The Wind Blows High" (3 texts, 1 tune)
cf. Kinloch-TheBalladBook XIX, pp. 67-68, (no title) (1 text, a mishmash with some lines reminiscent of this) Montgomerie/Montgomerie-ScottishNurseryRhymes 56, "Skipping" ("The wind and the wind and the wind blows high") (1 text)
Hammond-SongsOfBelfast, p. 18, "I'll Tell My Ma" (1 text, 1 tune)
Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #12, "Down She Comes as White as Milk" (2 texts, 1 tune plus excerpts; the text with tune is "Wallflowers"; the other text might be "The Wind (Rain, Rain, the Wind Does Blow)")
Cray-AshGrove, p. 16, "Golden City" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST RcRRtWDB (Full)
Roud #2649
RECORDINGS:
Mrs Grant Covey, "Rain Rain the Wind Does Blow" (on NovaScotia1)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I'll Tell My Ma" (lyrics)
NOTES [254 words]: This item has a complicated story. The Clancy Brothers conflate this song with the "I'll Tell My Ma" stanza. Roud lumps the two, and initial versions of the Index did as well. This is the more so as the versions are very unstable and localized -- e.g. Ben Schwartz describes the Nova Scotia version as follows: "'Rain rain the wind does blow ... Marie Richardson says she'll die if she don't get a fellow with a rolling eye.' She's from Halifax. 'All the boys are fighting for her ... Gordie Isnor will have her still.'"
Still, I've now seen enough versions which separate the two parts that I've split them. Best to check both, of course. - RBW
Hammond-SongsOfBelfast and the Clancy Brothers version are almost the same song: one "I'll Tell My Ma" verse with the girl from Belfast City, and the rest of "The Wind (Rain, Rain, the Wind Does Blow).
Also collected and sung by David Hammond, "I'll Tell My Ma" (on David Hammond, "I Am the Wee Falorie Man: Folk Songs of Ireland," Tradition TCD1052 CD (1997) reissue of Tradition LP TLP 1028 (1959)) Sean O Boyle, notes to David Hammond, "I Am the Wee Falorie Man: Folk Songs of Ireland": "... the polka rhythm is the basis of the tune which indicates that the song originated in the mid-nineteenth century."
NovaScotia1 notes: "Singing game ... the players formed up in couples and went around in a ring. A boy chose a girl, then the girl chose a boy and so on until they were all taken" - BS
Similarly the Scottish version in Montgomerie appears to be a skipping game. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.3
File: RcRRtWDB

Wind'ard Car'line
DESCRIPTION: "Wind'ard Car'line come down oh." "Come jump on 'pon Nine-Toe Astor." The white doctor asks if the patient has brought any money "No dacta Are jumbie wha' make me poorly"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1954 (Elder-FolksongsFromTobago)
KEYWORDS: help magic music ritual nonballad religious doctor ghost Caribbean
FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Elder-FolksongsFromTobago 34, "Wind'ard Car'line" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [67 words]: Elder-FolksongsFromTobago: "Here women beseech the ancestor spirit, Caroline [from 'Windard' (East Tobago)], to come down and 'jump on 'pon [the local tambourine player] Nine-Toe Astor' to possess him. Once Astor is possessed, the spirit would tell the people what medicines will cure the patient. The chorus mocks the White doctor; he is useless since 'it is jumbie that makes the victim poorly.'" - BS
Last updated in version 4.0
File: ElTo034

Winding Sheet Coffin, The
DESCRIPTION: "How swiftly the years of our pilgrimage fly, As weeks, months, and seasons roll silently by...." We are reminded that "The good rise to Heaven, but the bad sink to Hell." The singers wash their hands of sinners' blood and happily meet Christians
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad Hell
Winding Up the Clock
DESCRIPTION: "Winding up the clock," "tick-tock"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c.1910 (Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame)
KEYWORDS: playparty technology
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Opie/Opie-TheSingingGame 5, "Winding Up the Clock" (1 text)
File: OpGa005

Windsor
DESCRIPTION: Shape note hymn: "My God, how many are my fears, How fast my foes increase! Their number how it multiplies! How fatal to my peace."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1808 (Missouri Harmony)
KEYWORDS: religious Bible nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 153, "Windsor" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: San153

Windstorm and Rain
DESCRIPTION: "In the last day of September, in the year nineteen nine, God almighty rose in the weather And that troubles everybody's mind." The song the storm, concluding, "God, he is in the windstorm and rain And everybody ought to mind."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1963
KEYWORDS: storm religious
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Courlander-NegroFolkMusic, p. 76, (no title) (1 text)
NOTES [14 words]: Reportedly based on a storm which struck Terrebonne Parish in Louisiana in 1909. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.5
File: CNFM076A

Windy Bill (I)
DESCRIPTION: "When Joshua camped at pore Jericho's town, He blew his horn till the walls tumbled down... I blow my own horn... That's why they call me Windy Bill." Assorted tall tales, many Biblical, and often offered as explanations for the name "Windy Bill"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: talltale humorous religious Bible
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 430, "Windy Bill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7611
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Walkin' in the Parlor" (theme)

NOTES [174 words]: Among the Biblical incidents related in this story are:
* Jericho destroyed by Joshua: Josh. 6:15-21 (the preliminaries occupy Josh. 2 and the rest of Josh. 6)
* "David went round with a stone and a sling, And he beaned old Goliath and later was king, He ran with the wild bunch while Saul was alive" (David and Goliath: 1 Samuel 17; David's anointing: 1 Samuel 16; David flees into the Wilderness: 1 Sam. 19:10 to the end of the book, with preliminaries beginning in 18:9)
* "Esau was a farmer of the wild wooly kind, That could not stand work and being confined, He did not think titles to his land was quite clear, So he traded his farm for a sandwich and beer" (Esau the"hairy man": Gen. 27:11f.; Esau sells his birthright for a meal of bread and lentil stew: Gen. 25:29f.)
* "Sampson, that big boy, wore his hair long, Till he met with a jane and she got him in wrong, He slung a wicked jawbone, I do the same, That's how I got Windy Bill for a name" (Samson, his hair, and Delilah: Judges 16:4f.; Samson and the jawbone: Judges 15:14f.) - RBW

File: R430

Windy Bill (II)

DESCRIPTION: Windy Bill is convinced he can handle any steer. He and his mates place a wager on the matter, and they give him the worst bull available. Bill's rope technique is imperfect; he is thrown onto a rock pile. He pays up. Listeners are warned against bragging

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Thorp)

KEYWORDS: cowboy gambling contest

FOUND IN: US(MA,So,SW)

REFERENCES (7 citations):
Thorp/Fife-SongsOfTheCowboys II, pp. 38-43 (11-12), "Windy Bill" (3 texts, 2 tunes);
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 168-170, "Windy Bill" (1 text)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 75, "Windy Bill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Larkin-SingingCowboy, pp. 68-71, "Windy Bill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 5, "Windy Bill" (1 text, 1 tune)
Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 18, pp. 123-126, "The Old Black Steer" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, WINDYBILL*

Roud #4044

RECORDINGS:
J. D. Farley, "Bill Was a Texas Lad" (Victor V-40269, 1930; Montgomery Ward M-4300, 1933; rec. 1929; on AuthCowboys, WhenIWas1)
Harry Jackson, "Windy Bill" (on HJackson1)
Powder River Jack Lee, "The Old Black Steer" (probably Bluebird B-5298, 1934; on MakeMe)

NOTES [110 words]: This song is item dB41 in Laws's Appendix II. It has been claimed by Ray Reed, and credited to George B. German. I know of no supporting evidence for the former claim, and the latter appears to refer instead to "Windy Bill's Famous Ride." Thorp claimed in 1921 to have heard the song in 1899, but the claim is not found in his 1908 edition. Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging notes that there are distinct roping styles in Texas and California, and the difference accounts for the Windy Bill's result in the song. Logsdon quotes, seemingly with some approval, Ohrlin's suggestion that the song originated in Arizona where the two roping styles overlapped. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: TF02

Windy Bill's Famous Ride

DESCRIPTION: A stranger comes up to Windy Bill. Bill boasts of his riding skill, and the stranger challenges him to come ride a difficult horse. They take a long, wild ride in a car. When Bill asks where the horse is, the stranger tells him they just won a car contest

AUTHOR: George B. German
Windy Hills o' Wellington, The
DESCRIPTION: "The windy hills o' Wellington were black and cold that night," wet enough to put out even electric lights. Author is called to a dying man "who's drawn New Zealand blank." Cured, he grows rich and ignores the writer who also has "drawn New Zealand blank"
AUTHOR: "The Exile" (Henry Lawson?)
EARLIEST DATE: 1894 (Wellington "New Zealand Times," according to Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)
KEYWORDS: New Zealand hardtimes money doctor disease rescue abandonment
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, p. 125, "The Windy Hills o' Wellington" (1 text)
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, pp. 197-198, "(The Windy Hills of Wellington)" (1 text)
File: BaRo125

Windy Old Weather
DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "In this windy old weather, Stormy Old weather, When the wind blows We'll all pull together." Various fish jump from the sea and exhort the crew, e.g. "Up jumps the herring, the king of the sea, He laps on the foredeck and says, Helm's-allee"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950s (recording, Bob Roberts)
KEYWORDS: ship fishing nonballad storm shanty
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South, West)) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Copper-SongsAndSouthernBreezes, pp. 204-205, "Stormy Ol' Weather" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 232-233,"Stormy Weather Boys" (1 text plus 1 fragment, 1 tune)
Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 112, "Stormy Weather" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 50-51, "Stormy Weather Boys" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hugill-SongsOfTheSea, p. 130, "Fish of the Sea" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 70, "The Fish's Lamentation" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WINDYWEA* (with a first verse from "Yea Ho, Little Fish" or the like) WINDYWE2*
Roud #472
RECORDINGS:
Tom Brown, "Windy Old Weather" (on Voice12)
Sam Larner, "Haisboro Light Song" (on SLarner01); "Windy Old Weather" (on SLarner02)
Bob Roberts, "Windy Old Weather" (on LastDays, FieldTrip1)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 25(1029), "The King of the Sea," unknown (n.d.); also Harding B 28(102), "The King of the Sea," unknown (n.d.);
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Stormy Weather Boys" (tune & metre)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Boston Come-All-Ye
NOTES [37 words]: I do not know that the two Larner recordings are in fact different -- these two compilations drew from the same collection of field tapes -- but as the titles are given as different I thought it prudent to separate them. - PJS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: CoSB204
Wine in the Cup

DESCRIPTION: "Dark is the night and the eyes of the father Sadly peer though the fast-falling gloom," looking out as "his darling Staggers home from the cursed saloon." Drink draws men "to a winebibber's grave." Mother is dying in poverty with her ragged child

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore)
KEYWORDS: drink father mother children death
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, pp. 129-130, "Wine in the Cup" (1 text)

NOTES [48 words]: This has so many cliches in it that it's hard to believe it hasn't been indexed somewhere else, but I can't find it. I rather suspect it is a composite. It does have one unusual feature: In this piece, the father is "clean" and the mother is the drunk rather than the other way around. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.5
File: SaKo129A

Wings in the Morning

DESCRIPTION: At life's end "Nevermore pain in them old aching bones Wings in the morning to carry us home." "...on that gettin' up day... we'll fly away"

AUTHOR: Johnny Burnette
EARLIEST DATE: before 1965 (Johnny Burnette)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
RECORDINGS:
Hector MacIsaac and Jerome Downey, ("Wings in the morning and license to fly") (on NFHMaclsaac01)

NOTES [37 words]: Hector Maclsaac and Jerome Downey only sing the chorus.
The attribution to Johnny Burnette is from the Batlyrics site http://batlyrics.net/wingsinthemorninglyrics-johnnyburnette.html, accessed February 17, 2015. - BS

Last updated in version 3.6
File: RecWiItM

Wings of a Goney, The

DESCRIPTION: "If I had the wings of a goney I would fly to my native home." "Whaling has charms for the young and green hands," but they soon wish to be elsewhere. After four years whaling in Greenland the agent says the singer has "not earned a single red cent"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1859 (Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang)
KEYWORDS: money ordeal shanty sailor sea ship whale whaler
FOUND IN: US(NE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 40-41, "The Wings of a Goney" (1 text)
Roud #2011
RECORDINGS:
A.L. Lloyd, "Weary Whaling Grounds" (on Lloyd9)
NOTES [84 words]: Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang: "The goney is a bird of the albatross family. Today American sailors in the Pacific call it the "gooney bird."
Huntington's source is from the log of the Ocean Rover out of New Bedford (p. 325). - BS Round lumps this with "Calm," found on p. 55 of Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, p. 55. But the only line they have in common is the very first, and even that is not identical. I'm splitting them until and unless a third version shows up that links them. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: HunW0401
Winnie MacNeil

DESCRIPTION: George O'Quinn courts Winnie MacNeil. He is at a loss for what to do when she is not around. Finally he goes to see her and he can't stop kissing her. He says let's appoint "our wedding day" in "John Dan's hay"

AUTHOR: Paul E. Hall (according to Szwed and Bennett/Downey-JeromeJustOneMoreSong)

EARLIEST DATE: 1971 (Szwed)

KEYWORDS: courting love sex humorous youth

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Bennett/Downey-JeromeJustOneMoreSong 22, pp. 136-139, "Winnie MacNeil" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: John F. Szwed, "Paul E. Hall: A Newfoundland Song-Maker And His Community of Song" in Folksongs and Their Makers (Bowling Green: Bowling Green University Popular Press, n.d.[Bennett has the date as 1971; I've seen 1970 through 1972 as a publication date mentioned in reviews of the book]), p. 156, "Winnie McNeil" (1 text)

Roud #24330

RECORDINGS:
Jerome Downey, "Winnie MacNeil" (on NFJDowney01)

NOTES [50 words]: Szwed: "The clandestine meeting in a nearby farmer's barn was dropped in later versions of the song. Although the song was Paulie's, the community remade it to their taste -- not a surprising occurrence from what we know of folksong transmission." In 1980 the verse was still in Downey's version. - BS

Last updated in version 3.6

Winning' o' the Goon, The DESCRIPTION: A man bargains with a woman to spend the night with him to win a new gown. After winning the gown she weeps for losing her other sweethearts as the cost. He gives her a ring, they marry, and she blesses the day she made her bargain.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan4)

KEYWORDS: marriage sex bargaining clothes

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 772, "The Winnin' o' the Goon" (3 texts)

Roud #6188

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The New Goon

File: GrD4722

Winning of Cales, The

DESCRIPTION: "Long the proud Spaniards had vaunted to conquer us, Threatening our country with fire and sword," but now the Earl of Essex has taken the war to them. From Plymouth the English sail to Cales (Cadiz) and do great damage to the Spanish fleet

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1750 (Percy Folio)

KEYWORDS: war navy Spain nobility

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jun 21, 1596 - Essex's raid on Cadiz ("Cales")

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Hales/Furnival-BishopPercysFolioManuscript, volume III, pp. 453-456, "Winninge of Cales" (1 text)
Percy/Wheatley-ReliquesOfAncientEnglishPoetry II, pp. 243-246, "The Winning of Cales" (1 text)
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 9, "The Winning of Cales" (1 text)

Roud #V22429

NOTES [42 words]: There is another piece in the Percy Folio, "Cales Voyage" (Hales/Furnival-Winnipeg Whore, The

DESCRIPTION: On the narrator's first trip to Canada, he visits the eponymous lady, and while having sex with her, has his watch and wallet stolen. (When he objects, he is thrown out.)

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (collected from Norman MacIvor by Walton)
KEYWORDS: bawdy humorous sex theft whore
FOUND IN: Australia US(Ap,SW) Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 202-204, "The Winnipeg Whore" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Randolph/Legman-RollMeInYourArms I, pp. 278-279, "The Winnipeg Whore" (3 texts, 1 tune)
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 114-115, "The Buffalo Whore" (1 text)
Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea, pp. 181-182, "Winnipeg Whore" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT, WINNIPG*

Roud #8348
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Gold Watch" [Laws K41] (plot) and references there
cf. "Reuben and Rachel" (tune) and references there
NOTES [137 words]: The Walton text "The Buffalo Whore" is probably a deliberate rewrite, and could perhaps be considered a separate song -- but with only one text apparently known, it is probably not worth splitting off.

The change from a "Winnipeg Whore" to a "Buffalo Whore" is interesting, because Buffalo in sailing days had a rather wild reputation. It was the last possible port of call for Great Lakes boats too large to pass through the Welland Canal, so more sailors stopped there than any other port on the Lakes -- with predictable effect on the population of prostitutes and others who catered to sailors away from home.

I do note with interest that the American versions talk about a Winnipeg whore, while the Buffalo Whore version comes from Canada. It's almost as if if the most interesting prostitutes lie over the border. - RBW

Winnsboro Cotton Mill Blues

DESCRIPTION: "Old Man Sargent, sitting at the desk, The damned old fool won't give us no rest. He'd take the nickels off a dead man's eyes...." The singer describes the bad conditions in the mills, and instructs listeners not to bury his body when he dies

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (collected by William Wolff at the School for Southern Women Workers, according to Doug deNatale and Glenn Hinson, in their article, "The Southern Textile Song Tradition Reconsidered," published in Archie Green, editor, _Songs about Work: Essays in Occupational Culture for Richard A. Reuss_, Folklore Institute, Indiana University, 1993, p. 88)
KEYWORDS: weaving factory technology work hardtimes death burial
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greenway-AmericanFolksongsOfProtest, p. 144, "Winnsboro Cotton Mill Blues" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, p. 371, "Winnsboro Cotton Mill Blues" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 126, "Winnsboro Cotton Mill Blues" (1 text)

DT, WINNSBORO*

RECORDINGS:
Pete Seeger, "Winnsboro Cotton Mill Blues" (on PeteSeeger13)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Hard Times in the Mill (I)" (floating verses)
Winter Desires

DESCRIPTION: Singer tells of the desires of loggers after the winter camp is broken up. They want good food (and lambast the camp cook), liquor, and new clothes. When they've run out of cash and the parties are over, they'll head back to the woods

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)

KEYWORDS: lumbering work logger food drink cook

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 34, "Winter Desires" (1 text)

Roud #8853

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Lumber Camp Song" (theme) and references there

NOTES [21 words]: From Beck: "Though all of the songs about the logger's desires are not accepted by the mails, this one...is respectable." - PJS

File: Be034

Winter of '73, The (McCullam Camp)

DESCRIPTION: In 1873, the singer takes a job at Snowball's mill in Miramichi. A few weeks later, the mill closes, and he sets out for Indiantown. He meets some portagers, who bring him to McCullam's camp, where he has many adventures too complex to describe here

AUTHOR: Larry Gorman (1846-1917)

EARLIEST DATE: 1949

KEYWORDS: logger work unemployment

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1873 - Larry Gorman left home for Miramichi

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 214-215, "The Winter of '73 (McCullam Camp)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ives-FolksongsOfNewBrunswick, pp. 36-39, "The Winter of Seventy-Three" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 49, "The Winter of '73 (McCullam Camp)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ives-LarryGorman, pp. 54-56, 202, "The Winter of Seventy-Three" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WINTER73

Roud #1942

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Lumber Camp Song" and references there

File: Doe214

Winter on Renous, A

DESCRIPTION: October 9, 1904, "rovin' Joe" leaves Indiantown for lumbering with the sons of Morgan Hayes. "They had no mercy on a man But to work him day and night." He tries other crews but returns to Hayes. "I spent a winter on Renous And now I love their ways"

AUTHOR: Joe Smith, "a Miramichi man who liked to call himself 'the rovin' Joe'" (Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi)

EARLIEST DATE: 1961 (Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi)

KEYWORDS: lumbering ordeal humorous moniker horse

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 48, "A Winter on Renous" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST MaWi048 (Partial)

Roud #9180

File: MaWi048
Winter, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh the winter, oh the winter, oh the winter'll soon be over, children (x3), Yes my Lord." "'Tis Paul and Silas bound in chains." "You bend your knee on holy ground and ask the Lord to turn you around." "I has my trials here below."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad floatingverses

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, p. 78, "The Winter" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 14, "The Winter Soon Be Over" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, pp. 82-83, "De Winter'll Soon Be Ober" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 244 in the 1874 edition)
- Roud #12039

File: AWG078

Wir Kommen Nicht Hergeritten (Invitation to a Wedding)

DESCRIPTION: German. "Wir kommen nicht hergeritten. Wir kommen nicht geschitten." The singer was invited by bride and bridegroom. There will be much fine food, cooked by (Kathrin Wöes). Those who come to the wedding will find a place for them

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore)

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage nonballad wedding food

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Sackett/Koch-KansasFolklore, pp. 132-133, "Invitation to a Wedding" (1 text)

File: SaKo132

Wir reisen noch Amerika (We Are Travelling to America)

DESCRIPTION: German. "Jetzt ist die Zeit und Schtunde da, Wir reisen noch Amerika." The time has come for the family to depart for America. They bid farewell to friends. The ship sets out to sea, but God will protect them. They will rejoice when they reach Baltimore

AUTHOR: Samuel Friedrich Sautter

EARLIEST DATE: 1845 (source: Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends); reportedly written 1830

KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage emigration separation

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 66-68, "Wir reisen noch Amerika (We Are Travelling to America)" (1 German text plus English translation, 1 tune)

File: KPL066

Wish I'd Stayed in the Wagon Yard

DESCRIPTION: Singer comes to town with his cotton. Carousers take him drinking but leave him the bill. He sees them by the missionary hall singing "Jesus Paid it All." He warns against such men -- "don't monkey with them city ducks, you'll find them slick as lard"

AUTHOR: Probably Arthur Hugh Tanner

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (recording, Peg Moreland)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer, a country man, comes to town with a wagon-load of cotton, falls in with some carousers who take him drinking but leave him with the bill. As he walks down the street, he sees them by the missionary hall singing "Jesus Paid it All." He wishes he'd bought half a pint and stayed in the wagon yard, and warns others to do the same -- "don't monkey with them city ducks, you'll find them slick as lard"

KEYWORDS: warning betrayal drink humorous

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
With a Little Bit of Sugar

DESCRIPTION: "With a little bit of sugar and a little bit of tea, A little bit of flour that you can hardly see, With hardly any meat between you and me, it's a bugger of a life, by Jesus."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 2009 (Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ)

KEYWORDS: food hardtimes

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 272, "(With a little bit of sugar and a little bit of tea)" (2 fragments)

File: Galr272

Witness

DESCRIPTION: Worksong: "Can I get a witness? Come and be a witness. Be a sanctified witness. Be a Holy Ghost witness. Jack o'Diamonds was a witness. Daniel was a witness" etc. The refrain "for my lord" can be added after each line; other Bible stories may be mentioned

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Paul Robeson)

KEYWORDS: Bible nonballad religious worksong

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Jackson-WakeUpDeadMan, pp. 176-184, "I Need Another Witness" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

RECORDINGS:
Paul Robeson, "Witness" (Victor 21109, 1927)
Texas state farm prisoners, "We Need Another Witness" (on NPCWork)

File: RcWtnss1
Witness for My Lord

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Soul is a witness for my Lord, Who'll be a witness for my Lord?" Moses receives the commandments. Samson kills three thousand but is betrayed by his wife. Christ's disciples watch him die. Methusaleh and Daniel are also among the witnesses.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (LomaxCD1708)

KEYWORDS: Bible nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (3 citations):

Roud #12131

RECORDINGS:

Silver Leaf Quartett, "Witness for My Lord" (on LomaxCD1708)

NOTES [63 words]: Samson's unlikely exploits are detailed in Judges 13-16, but nowhere are we told how many he killed. Given that the Philistines were a very great threat after the period of the Judges, it's unlikely that he did them much actual damage. If he accomplished anything, it might have been to cause the Philistines some overconfidence: "Amazing how stupid those Israelites can be." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2

File: AdWitfML

Wizard Oil (I)

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, I love to travel far and near throughout my native land, I love to sell as I go 'long, and take the cash in hand...." The singer describes how in each town he visits they come up to him and declare "I'll take another bottle of Wizard Oil"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)

KEYWORDS: commerce lie money

FOUND IN: US(So,SW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 52-54, "Wizard Oil" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7592

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Wizard Oil (II)"

NOTES [63 words]: Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag's notes imply this piece may be by Harry E. Randall, but the matter is not clarified.

It probably was true that, in every town the salesman visited, he received testimonials to his product. Chances are, however, that he hired people to offer them.

Unlike Wizard Oil (II), this does not appear to be entirely a sales pitch. But it's close enough.... - RBW

File: San052

Wizard Oil (II)

DESCRIPTION: "I have written a song, so give me your attention, And I'll tell you what Wizard's Oil will and won't cure." The product proves capable of dealing with almost anything painful, "And a dollar a bottle is all it does cost."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Randolph)

KEYWORDS: medicine disease trick commerce

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 506, "Wizard Oil" (1 text)
Roud #7592
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Wizard Oil (I)"
NOTES [51 words]: In the Hamlin's Wizard Oil Songbook (1890s?), this is credited to "J. D Laurens, Comic Vocalist, expressly for Hamlin's Wizard Oil Company No. 7."
Based on the list of illnesses "cured," one suspects that Wizard's Oil was probably almost-pure alcohol, and that it worked simply by dulling the pain. - RBW
File: R506

Woad

DESCRIPTION: "What's the use of wearing braces, Vests and pants and boots with laces... What's the use of shirts of cotton, Studs that always get forgotten? These affairs are simply rotten; Better far is woad." One needs no clothes when one can wear woad

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1979 (Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead)
KEYWORDS: clothes humorous derivative
FOUND IN: Canada
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Hopkins-SongsFromTheFrontAndRead, pp. 24-25, "The Woad Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WOADWEAR*
Roud #24978

NOTES [919 words]: Woad/Indigo is of course a dark blue color.
Woad, the plant, is Isatis tinctoria, which produces woad, the dye. Chemically, it is the same dye as indigo (Field, p. 121); indigo replaced woad as a dye source because the indigo plant produced more of it and it was easier to extract. Also, woad depleted the soil rapidly and so could not be intensively cultivated; dyers used up their sources very rapidly, whereas indigo was a nitrogen fixer and had benefits for the soil (St. Clair, p. 189). The Romans knew it, but from indigo plants, not woad; Pliny's Natural History refers to "the slime of India's rivers," which is believed to be indigo (Mayer, p. 18); there is also a record of the use of indigo from the Chaldean Empire of Babylon in the sixth century B.C.E. (St. Clair, p. 189), and there is a Viking site with woad seeds at Coppergate in northern England (St. Clair, p. 199).
The story behind this song is that, when Julius Caesar invaded Britain, the British inhabitants fought the Romans naked and coated in woad, expecting that their opponents would be frightened by the sight of blue men. There is no evidence that it worked -- and no one seems to cite the source of the legend, or at least evidence that the blue color was woad (Finaly, p. 321, says that Caesar's word was "vitrum," and there is argument about whether it was woad or some other color. "Vitrum" in Latin usually means "glass," although Pliny used it for a blue dye-plant, FreundtAl, p. 2000. At least one edition considers the passage spurious anyway).
Whether Caesar's opponents, or Caratacus's and Boadicea's soldiers who fought against Claudius a century later, covered themselves with it or not, we know that woad was used as a dye for a very long time; the famous "Lincoln Green" was a mix of woad and a yellow dye. And Chaucer's short poem "The Former Age" (line 17) mentions woad:
No mader, welde or wood no listere
Ne knew...
(Chaucer/Benson, p. 651; the two manuscripts of the poem spell "lister(e)" differently ("litestere" or "lister"), but there is no doubt which word was meant. In any case, all editions seem to prefer the reading "listere," because the manuscript it is in is considered far the more authoritative; Chaucer/Pace/David, pp. 93-95).
Modernizing the spelling, this says that:
No madder, weld, or woad no lister
ne knew
Which we would amplify as "No red madder, yellow weld, or blue woad no dyer ever knew."
So knowledge of woad clearly predates this song, no matter what the pre-Roman Britons wore. The Romans first encountered indigo from India, but "Even in classic times, however, a substitute for the imported Indian indigo was known in the native European weed called in Latin glastum or isatis, and in English, woad. The dark blue appearance of the British warriors whom the Romans met on these shores was probably not strictly a pigment effect, but merely a staining produced by the fresh juice of the woad plant. Woad is a shrubby herb with broad green leaves which contain the raw material of a blue dyestuff. To develop the blue colour special treatment is necessary; but simply gathering the leaves is enough to produce a deep and long-lasting blue-black stain upon the hands, and we may suppose that the early Britons simply carried the process farther" (Thompson,
p. 135).

"The woad plant, Isatis tinctoria, grows native in many parts of Europe, and may easily be cultivated in any reasonably temperate climate. It was grown commercially in England until [c.
1930]. The Isatis is what gardeners call a 'gross feeder,' and it exhausts the land that it grows on unless the salts [i.e. potash] that it extracts for its growth are constantly replenished" (Thompson, p.
136).

"The medieval farmer did not know very much about fertilizing his lands to restore the heavy losses which such a plant as woad induced, and the result was that woad plantations had to move about, shifting their location every few year to fresh soil as the old soil became exhausted. Woad growing left a trail of agricultural desolation behind it, and the large profits that it yielded for a time in each new site tempted many landowners to their ruin; for these returns were actually not income but capital" (Thompson, p. 137). On p. 138 Thompson reports that laws were eventually passed about woad-growing -- but that they were widely evaded.

"Woad... [was] cultivated since the tenth century in Europe, notably in Thuringia, Alsace, and Normandy. It is the base of blues. But woad is a cruciferous plant [related to mustard, according to St. Clair, p. 198], whose cultivation dramatically impoverishes the soil; the popularity of blue dyes thus threatened to starve entire populations. The process for making woad dye was fairly elaborate: the leaves and stems were washed, dried, and stored in balls or compacted lumps, then mill-ground. The resulting powder was made into a paste and fermented, which liberated the precursor of the dye. This substance, concentrated woad extract, was black and granular, and was called pastel. But it could only produce a washed-out blue, and was used for work clothes. At the close of the 12th century, however, a technique was found for making brighter blues from woad" (Delamere/Guineau, pp. 44-45); it was only then that woad really became a commercial dye and pigment. But even the new technique "was difficult, expensive, and uncertain" (Thompson, p. 138).
The result was often mixed with other materials, such as ground eggshells, to produce lighter blues. - RBW

Bibliography

- Chaucer/Benson: Larry D. Benson, general editor,The Riverside Chaucer, third edition, Houghton Mifflin, 1987 (based on F. N. Robinson,The Works of Geoffrey Chaucer, which is considered to be the first and second editions of this work)
- Chaucer/Pace/David: George B. Pace and Alfred David, editors,A Variorum Edition of the Works of Geoffrey Chaucer, Volume V, Part 1,The Minor Poems, University of Oklahoma Press, 1982
- Delamere/Guineau: François Delamere and Bernard Guineau,Colour: Making and Using Dyes and Pigments, Thames and Hudson, no date (but after 1990)
- Field: Simon Quellen Field,Why There's Antifreeze in Your Toothpaste, Chicago Review Books, 2008
- Finlay: Victoria Finlay,Color: A Natural History of the Palette, 2002 (I use the 2004 Random House paperback)
- FreundEtAl:A New Latin Dictionary, "Founded on the Translation of Freund's Latin-German Lexicon Edited by E. A. Andrews... Revised, enlarged, and in great part rewritten by Charlton T. Lewis and Charles Short," Harper & Brothers, 1886 edition,The Viking Press, 1970
- Thompson: Daniel V. Thompson (with a foreword by Bernard Berenson),The Materials and Techniques of Medieval Painting, 1936 (I use the 1956 Dover paperback)

Last updated in version 5.2
File: Hopk024

Woe Be Unto You

DESCRIPTION: "Woe be unto you (x2), You may throw yo' rocks an' hide yo' hands.... " "Well, it's woe be unto you (x2), You may dip yo' snuff an' hide yo' box..." "...You may dig yo' grave an' hide yo' spade, but it's woe be unto you."
Woe to You, Women

DESCRIPTION: The noble singer complains that a servant he made his wife "hae lien wi your footman an' [so] you'll never lie with me." "You disgraced the name of my high majesty."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan6)

KEYWORDS: infidelity marriage husband lover wife royalty servant

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Greig/Duncan6 1206, "Woe to You, Women" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

Roud #5522

NOTES [785 words]: Roud lumps this with ("Good morrow, fair mistress") (David Herd, editor, Ancient and Modern Scottish Songs, Heroic Ballads, etc. (Edinburgh, 1870 (reprint of 1776)), Vol II, pp. 5-6). That song shares parts of lines and theme with Greig/Duncan6, but does not mention the footman and adds different details. - BS

I doubt that this is intended to be history, but if it is, we note that it is a poor fit for most kings of Scotland. If we look at the Stewart/Stuart dynasty, the kings and their wives are as follows:

Robert II (reigned 1371-1390) had two wives, Elizabeth Mure and Euphemia Ross; he had ten children by the former and four by the latter, and married both before becoming king. Both were noble although not royal (Ashley, p. 552).

Robert III (reigned 1390-1406) married Anabella Drummond. Although her father was a mere knight, she was the niece of the former queen Margaret Drummond (Oram, p. 198) -- but at the time of their marriage in 1366, there was no reason to believe that Robert III would ever be king. And in any case they had seven children (Ashley, p. 553.)

James I (reigned 1406-1427) married Joan Beaufort, who was a descendent (in an illegitimate-but- legitimized line) of Edward III or England and a cousin of Henry V, the king when they married. They had eight children (Ashley, p. 555).

James II (reigned 1437-1460) married Mary the daughter of the Duke of Gueldres -- the first Stuart to marry a princess from outside the British Isles. They had seven children.

James III (reigned 1460-1488) married Margaret, the daughter of the King of Denmark; they had three children (Ashley, p. 561).

James IV (reigned 1488-1513) married Margaret Tudor, the daughter of Henry VII of England (the lineage from which the Stuarts eventually claimed the English throne), by whom he had six children (Ashley, pp. 564-565). There were apparently rumors that he had secretly married one of his mistresses, Margaret Drummond (Ashley, p. 565), but such a marriage, if it existed, was bigamous; we find a churchman lamenting James's refusal to give up mistresses such as Margaret (Oram, p. 235).

James V (reigned 1513-1542) married Madeleine daughter of Francois I of France and them Mary daughter of the duke of Guise-Lorraine (Ashley, p. 468). His only surviving daughter was Mary Queen of Scots, but his wives were both noble.

Mary (reigned 1542-1567, when she was deposed) did marry as her second husband Henry, Lord Darnley, who probably slept around -- but she was female and obviously didn't have a wife.

James VI, the last King of Scotland who was not also King of England (reigned 1567-1625 in Scotland, 1603-1625 in England) may have been homosexual; in any case, he does not seem to have strayed from his marriage to Anne, daughter of the King of Denmark (Ashley, p. 575).

Thus none of the Stewards fits the conditions of this song; none married servants, and most of the marriages endured.

There is an interesting analogy to the time of King David II (reigned 1329-1371), the son of Robert I Bruce. David first married Joanna of England; she died in 1262, having borne him no children.
David then (in 1364) married Margaret Drummond; he was her second husband, and he divorced her in 1370. She wasn't exactly a servant, but she was well below his station. There were, to be sure, some earlier kings with amazingly complicated love lives, but what are the odds that a song about someone who reigned before 1300 would have survived? The closest genuine analogy I can think of to this is to Henry VIII and Katherine Howard, his fifth wife. She was fairly high-born, too, since her uncle was Duke of Norfolk (Scarisbrick, p. 378). But she "was" a servant of Anne of Cleves (Scarisbrick, p. 429), who was supposed to be Henry's fourth wife until Henry blew her off. Katherine proved a "high-spirited minx" (Scarisbrick, p. 375), and "she had been unchaste before her marriage; she took to adultery soon after it" (Scarisbrick, p. 431). It's hard to blame her -- she was a teenager, and apparently quite pretty; he was fat and worn-out and imperious (Scarisbrick, p. 431, by this time calls Henry "physically probably repugnant"). The details of the breakdown of the marriage seem rather obscure, but it ended with Henry executing her (Scarisbrick, p. 432).

Interestingly, Henry's second wife, Anne Boleyn, had also been a lady-in-waiting to wife #1, and ended up being executed on a charge of adultery (but one for which genuine proof is completely lacking) and wife #3, Jane Seymour, had been a lady-in-waiting to Anne. Thus Henry VIII was a far better candidate for the singer in this song than is any Scottish king. But why, then, is the song found primarily if not exclusively in Scotland? - RBW

Bibliography

- Ashley: Mike Ashley, British Kings and Queens, Barnes & Noble, 2000 (originally published as The Mammoth Book of British Kings and Queens, 1998)

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD61206

Woke Up This Morning With My Mind on Freedom

DESCRIPTION: "Woke up this morning with my mind stayed on freedom (x3), Hallelu (x4), Hallelujah." "Ain't no harm to keep your mind stayed on freedom." "Walkin' and talkin' with my mind stayed on freedom." The singer does all things with a mind to freedom

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1962 (recording, Albany mass meeting)

KEYWORDS: freedom nonballad

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 300, "Woke Up This Morning With My Mind on Freedom" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Albany mass meeting, "Woke Up This Morning With My Mind on Freedom" (on SingFreeCD)
SNCC Freedom Singers, "Woke Up This Morning With My Mind on Freedom" (on VoicesCiv

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Woke Up This Morning With My Mind on Jesus" (tune, lyrics, structure)

NOTES [16 words]: This song is clearly derived from the spiritual "Woke Up This Morning With My Mind on Jesus." - PJS

Last updated in version 3.5

File: FSWB300A

Woke Up This Morning With My Mind on Jesus

DESCRIPTION: "I woke up this morning with my mind standing on Jesus (x3)/Hallelu, hallelu, hallelujah" "I'm walkin' and talkin' with my mind..." "I woke up singing..." "I'm sayin' my prayers..."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (recording, Roosevelt Graves & brother)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE) Canada(Mar)
Wolle Ye Iheren of Twelte Day

DESCRIPTION: "Wolle ye iheren of twelte day, Wou the present was ibroust In to Betlem ther Iesus lay?" Three kings sought him. A star led them. Herod heard them. They came far. Jesus does wonderful deeds and is to be thanked "for alle deis that tou doest"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARIEST DATE: c. 1300 (ms. Cambridge Trinity College B 14.39, also sometimes called ms. Trinity Cambridge 323)

KEYWORDS: religious Jesus travel gift MiddleEnglish

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Brown/Robbins-IndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse, #4170
DigitalIndexOfMiddleEnglishVerse #6686

MANUSCRIPT: {MSCambridgeTrinity323}, Cambridge University, Trinity College MS. 323, folio 35 (second copy apparently scribbled on folio 33 and after)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Judas" [Child 23] (subject: The Earliest English Ballad) and references there

NOTES [559 words]: This text is old enough to use archaic Middle English letters; the first lines actually read
Wolle ye iheren of twelte day,
Wou e present was ibroust
In to Betlem er Iesus lay er re kinges him habbet isoustt, a sterre wiset hem e way.
suc nas neuer non wroust,
ne werde he nou er fou ne grey,
e louerd at us alle hauet iwroust.

The piece is very old; it is in the same thirteenth/fourteenth century manuscript as "Judas" [Child 23]; see that piece for information about the manuscript source. "Judas" is followed by a sermon, "Bele Aliz" (in a different hand); "Wolle Ye Iheren" follows "Bele Aliz" (Brown, p. 184), and is is the same hand as "Judas" (Brown, p. 186). On the basis of that manuscript dating, Albert B. Friedman, The Ballad Revival, University of Chicago Press, 1961, p. 15, classes this among ballads older than 1500 -- making it only the sixth such piece by his count. On pp. 72-73, he cites W. W. Greg to the effect that it is, "if not a true ballad, then a thirteenth-century literary imitation of one, and all the more important therefore." In which case it becomes yet another candidate for the "Oldest English Ballad."

In this case, there is one ink copy and another copy of the final verses, seemingly a draft, in much faded lead pencil, only partly legible, both in the same manuscript; it appears the one was practice for the other. Furthermore, Brown, p. 186, thinks that the pencil copy was actually "the original draft of the poem", which the scribe was composing as he went, with the ink copy being his final draft. So why hasn't it gotten more attention? Part of the reason is probably the obscurity of the manuscript; it should be recalled that Trinity College MS. B 14.39 was lost for some decades, so scholars, including Child, had to rely on inaccurate transcripts).

And it doesn't look like a ballad; Brown prints it in ten eight-line stanzas-line stanzas. The rhyme scheme isn't much help, The first stanza is rhymed abababab, the second abcbabab, the third...
ab(a)bade, and so forth with additional irregularity. The meter looks imperfect to me, but I think the poet was trying for four foot lines throughout, not 4343. Brown, p. 186, seems to agree, but thinks the scribe was accustomed to 4343, which is the reason for the metrical irregularities: he wasn't used to writing in that meter. To put it another way: The author messed up (rather badly) because he wanted to be writing in ballad meter.

Am I convinced by that argument? Not really. And even if true, does that make it a ballad? No. I think it's just another religious poem. But I'm filing it here because we try to cover every candidate for "The Earliest English Ballad."

The basis for this song is Matthew 2:1-12. The story has been expanded and modified heavily, however. We note the following:
1. There is no reason to believe that there were three visitors. All we know is that they gave three gifts. Their names are completely unknown, and we certainly don't know if they were old or young. They may not even have been from the east (the orient).
2. The visitors were not kings and were not wise men. They were "magi" -- Babylonian mystics and perhaps astrologers. Jews would generally consider magi to be evil sorcerers.

For more on the common misconceptions about the visitors, see the notes to "The Golden Carol (The Three Kings)." - RBW

Bibliography

- Brown: Carleton Brown, editor, English Lyrics of the XIIIth Century, Oxford University Press, 1932 (I use the 1962 reprint)

Last updated in version 5.3
File: Bro13039

Woman at the Well, The

DESCRIPTION: "See the woman at the well, Disputing her with her Savior, Soon she found that he could tell Her of all her past behavior." She asks for a drink and runs to the town "proclaiming, Oh you every one that thirst, Come ye to the water."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (High-OldOldFolkSongs)
KEYWORDS: religious Jesus travel
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
High-OldOldFolkSongs, p. 9, "The Woman at the Well" (1 text)
ST High009B (Partial)
Roud #17426
NOTES [14 words]: A short summary of the story of Jesus and the Woman of Samaria in John chapter 4. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.3
File: High009B

Woman Belly Full o' Hair

DESCRIPTION: Alternate lines are a chorus: "See me daddy-o." "A woman belly full o' hair I see it when I went in there ... hurrah for de golden." "If you want to see a monkey dance ... broke a pepper in 'e ass ... monkey trick ... Broke a pepper 'pon the prick."

AUTHOR: unknown
KEYWORDS: sex bawdy shanty animal
FOUND IN: West Indies(Nevis)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Abrahams-DeepTheWaterShallowTheShore, pp. 51-52, "Woman Belly Full o' Hair" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [62 words]: Abrahams writes about women's reaction to obscenity in men's shanties: "Once, while collecting in Newcastle, the men began singing a song that began 'Castle girls have dirty bloomers,' and the women within hearing wouldn't allow the singing to proceed. However, the next song that came along was the following ['Woman Belly Full o' Hair'], which they enjoyed"
Woman Charming Woman, O!

DESCRIPTION: The singer cites the good ("what's the chief of man's delight") and bad ("who can clean his pockets out"), mostly good, about marriage. "Whose a match for any man? Charming little woman O: They'll wear the breeches if they can"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1865 (broadside, Bodleian Firth c.26(104))
KEYWORDS: marriage nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 1069, "Woman, Charming Woman" (1 fragment)
Roud #6760
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth c.26(104)[a few illegible words], "Woman Charming Woman, O!" ("What's the chief of man's delight"), J.O. Bebbington (Manchester), 1858-1864; also Harding B 11(4015), "Woman Charming Woman, O!"

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Charming Woman

NOTES [17 words]: Greig/Duncan5 is a fragment; broadside Bodleian Firth c.26(104) is the basis for the description. - BS

Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD1069

Woman of Three Cows, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer is poor. He tells the "Woman of Three Cows" that she is too proud and scornful of those less wealthy than herself. He recounts the Irish heroes who have met misfortune or death. She cannot measure up to them.

AUTHOR: English version by James Clarence Mangan (1803-1849)
EARLIEST DATE: 1845 (Duffy)
KEYWORDS: pride vanity nonballad animal poverty
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (8 citations):
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 64, "The Woman of Three Cows" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 120, "The Woman of Three Cows" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Charles Gavan Duffy, editor, The Ballad Poetry of Ireland (1845), pp. 56-59, "The Woman of Three Cows"
Edward Hayes, The Ballads of Ireland (Boston, 1859), Vol II, pp. 277-278, "The Woman of Three Cows"
Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 163-164, "The Woman of Three Cows" (1 text)

NOTES [207 words]: OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads: "In this translation [James Clarence] Mangan [1803-1849] has bettered the original anonymous Gaelic verses 'Go reidh, a bhean na dtri mbo.'"

Duffy and Sparling quote Mangan: "This ballad, which is of a homely cast, was intended as a rebuke to the saucy pride of a woman in humble life, who assumed airs of consequence from being the possessor of three cows. Its author's name is unknown, but its age can be determined, from the language, as belonging in the early part of the seventeenth century. That it was formerly very popular in Munster, may be concluded from the fact that the phrase, Easy, oh, woman of the three cows! has become a saying in that province, on any occasion upon which it is desirable to lower the pretensions of a boastful or consequential person." - BS

The Gaelic original is said to be in Middle Irish, so it is fairly old. It will be seen that the translation is quite popular -- one of the most popular translated poems I've seen. Translator James Clarence Mangan, ironically, knew no Irish, according to Henry Boylan, A Dictionary of Irish Biography, second edition, St. Martin's Press, 1988, pp. 240-241; he took others' literal translations of poetry and versified them. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3
File: OLcM064

Woman the Joy and the Pride of the Land

DESCRIPTION: "Come married and single, together pray mingle, And listen awhile to these lines I relate; You that single have tarried, make haste and get married... For woman's the joy and the pride of the land." The theme is repeated in every verse

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan5); 19C (broadside, Murray Mu23-y1:011)

KEYWORDS: marriage

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber)) Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
- Greig/Duncan5 1067, "Woman's the Joy and Pride of the Land" (1 text)
- Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 185, "Women's the Joy and the Pride of the Land" (1 text)
- Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 367-3695, "Woman's the Joy and Pride of the Land" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #4393

BROADSIDES:
- Murray, Mu23-y1:011, "Woman the Joy and Pride of the Land," J.Bristow (Glasgow), 19C; also Mu23-y1:045, "Woman the Pride of the Land," James Lindsay (Glasgow), 19C

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "There's Nothing Can Equal A Good Woman Still" (theme, some words)

File: GrMa185

Woman Trouble

DESCRIPTION: "She left me this morning, never said a word." The singer tells of hard work, comes close to despair, describes his venereal disease, is told he can't be cured, talks of those who tried to escape,

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (recorded from J. B. Smith by Jackson)

KEYWORDS: prison hardtimes work disease floatingverses

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Jackson-WakeUpDeadMan, pp. 160-162, "Woman Trouble" (1 text)

NOTES [68 words]: Like so may of J. B. Smith's songs, this one is extremely problematic. Some of it appears to float, but some appears to be his own composition. But a stanza refers to a venereal disease, which Jackson believes to be gonorrhea (and the symptoms fit) -- yet the song says there is no cure. In 1965? Is this an old fragment? But what about the context? Nor is the tune any help, since it was not transcribed. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.4
File: JDM160

Woman Woman Blues

DESCRIPTION: Singer complains that his "good little woman" breaks his heart. "She's a married woman," "ain't anything but a stavin' chain." He wants her to "love me down there."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (StuffDreams2)

KEYWORDS: sex bawdy floatingverses nonballad lover

FOUND IN:
RECORDINGS:
Ishman Bracey, "Woman Woman Blues" (on StuffDreams2)
NOTES [132 words]: Ishman Bracey modifies a couple of floating verses: "I went to the depot ... read up on the board Says your baby ain't here She's a long ways up the road" and "I got to settin' down studyin' 'Bout my old time used to be ... I studied so hard 'Til the blues crept up on me." This "Stavin' Chain" reference calls to mind Lil Johnsdon's recording, "Got your horse out my stable, back in my bed, I got another guy. Can get yourself another mare. Now you can't ride, honey, you can't ride my train. I'm the chief engineer, Going to run it like Stavin' Chain." ("Stavin' Chain (That Rockin' Swing") (Vocalion unissued, 1937); on Document DOCD 5309). [See also the song "Stavin Chain." - RBW] Whatever the "Stavin' Chain" reference originally meant, in this context it is someone who is in charge. - BS
Last updated in version 5.2
File: RcWoWoBl

Woman's Rights
DESCRIPTION: The singer tells of how her husband is agitated about the issue of women's rights, spending hours discussing it. He is afraid that, if women vote, men will never hold office again. He claims voting is not part of her nature. She intends to enjoy the right
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: husband wife political humorous
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Randolph 503, "Woman's Rights" (1 text plus an excerpt, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 376-378, "Woman's Rights" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 503A)
DT, WOMENRTS
Roud #7589
File: R503

Woman's Rights (I)
DESCRIPTION: "The rights of woman, what are they? The right to labor and to pray, The right to watch while others sleep...." The singer lists the good works of women, and concludes, "Such are women's rights and God will bless And crown their champions with success."
AUTHOR: Words: Lord Houghton / Music: Marianne Mathews (source: Huntington) EARLIEST DATE: 1861 (Journal of the Midas)
KEYWORDS: political nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 320-321, "Woman's Rights I" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #27552
File: HGam320

Woman's Rights (II)
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, we've heard of women's rights and of woman's wrongs... She's a right to be loved by the whole of mankind.... She's a right to disport in spangles and tights.' "But the marriage rites are her greatest delights"; her right is to be a wife, not free
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1879 (Journal of the Andrew Hicks)
KEYWORDS: political nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 321-322, "Woman's Rights II" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #27553
File: HGam321
Woman's Work is Never Done, A

DESCRIPTION: The singer "heard a married woman say" that her life had been hard "ever since the time she was made a wife" because "a woman's work is never done." She rises early, prepares breakfast, cares for the children, etc. She warns against marriage

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1887 (Ashton)
KEYWORDS: warning hardtimes husband wife
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: John Ashton, _A Century of Ballads_, Elliot Stock, London, 1887; reprinted 1968 by Singing Tree Press, pp. 20-23, "A Woman's Work is Never Done" (1 text)
ST AsCB020 (Partial)
Roud #1717
File: AsCB020

Women of Leigh, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you young lover and listen to me, A warning I'm giving as clearly you'll see." The singer's woman has left him for another. He seeks her at her home; she is gone. He warns against the women of Leigh, "Singing Damn, damn, rigmarole damn."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (English Dance & Song; reportedly collected 1962)
KEYWORDS: love abandonment warning
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-FolkSongsOfOldHampshire, pp. 117-119, "The Women of Leigh" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3192
File: BrHa117

Women Outlaws

DESCRIPTION: "'There's a touch of human pathos, A glamour of the West" around the female outlaws of the past such as Bronco Sue, Belle Star, Calamity Jane. They left home to turn outlaw; "They fought, and often won." The singer praises their independent spirits

AUTHOR: N. Howard Thorp
EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys)
KEYWORDS: cowboy rebellion outlaw
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 170-171, "Women Outlaws" (1 text)
File: ThLo170

Women's Nae That Easy to Please

DESCRIPTION: The singer "went to the chamber door, where my love lay." She leaves him out in the cold and "bade me go home, keep my mind quite at ease." You can see that women are not so easily pleased.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: courting rejection nightvisit nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1847, "Women's Nae That Easy to Please" (1 text)
Roud #13596
File: GrD81847
Won't You Buy My Pretty Flowers

DESCRIPTION: "Underneath the gaslight glitter Stands a fragile little girl" who cries out to the crowds in winter, "Won't you buy my pretty flowers?" No one listens to her, or buys; all are hurrying to their home. She has no friends; no one pities her.

AUTHOR: unknown (see NOTES)

EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (sheet music by French & Persley)

KEYWORDS: flowers commerce

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 244-245, "The Flower Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Reginald Nettel, _Seven Centuries of Popular Song_, Phoenix House, 1956, pp. 170-171, "(no title)" (1 text)
Roud #12906
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Poor Little Joe (The Dying Newsboy)" (theme of a young person trying to sell something no one bothers to buy)

NOTES [236 words]: This sounds as if it's supposed to end with the girl dying in the cold, or of starvation, or both. But neither element is found in Huntington's text, or Nettel's, or in the sheet music copies I've seen.

I found an Internet source which claimed that this has words by Jennie Calef and music by H. P. Danks, but it also dates it to 1887, which is after the song was found in the Eliza Adams journal! On a mudcat thread, one source claimed that it has words by Arthur W. French, music by George W. Persley, and was from 1874. Nettel also attributes the music to Persley (without listing a source of the words). I've seen sheet music to the same effect, and the French/Persley piece the sheet music contains is certainly this song, Another Internet source, https://martynjolly.com/2016/03/17/wont-you-buy-my-pretty-flowers/, shows a series of magic lantern slides of the song and says that Calef and Danks stole the song to use it in their play "Little Muffets" and then copyrighted it. On the other hand, Henry P. Danks did write some pretty good tunes ("Silver Threads among the Gold" and "Amber Tresses Tied in Blue"), whereas French and Persley are pretty obscure, so I can't prove that the theft didn't go the other way. And Danks was born in 1834, so he was certainly old enough to have written the song before 1874. I am inclined toward the French and Persley claim, but not enough to state it as certain. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: HGam244

Won't You Go My Way

DESCRIPTION: Hauling shanty. Refrain: "Won't you/ye/yiz go my way?" Verses describe either consorting with a prostitute and now being glad to be married, or describe courting in general.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys)

KEYWORDS: shanty sailor whore courting

FOUND IN: West Indies Britain

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, p. 505, "Won't Ye Go My Way" (1 text, 1 tune) [AbEd, p. 373]
Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys, LVI, p. 61 "Won't You Go My Way" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #8289
File: Hugi505

Won't You Leave Us a Lock of Your Hair

DESCRIPTION: Dermot speaks to Nora from the window at night. She will not marry him because her parents oppose him. She would be ruined if he's found at her window. A hand clutches his head and a voice says, as he runs, "Won't you leave us a lock of your hair?"

AUTHOR: J.J. Waller (? John Francis Waller 1809-?)

EARLIEST DATE: 1865 (broadside, Murray Mu23-y1:139)

KEYWORDS: courting humorous nightvisit father

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Wonder Where Is My Brother Gone?

DESCRIPTION: "Wonder where is my brother gone? Wonder where is my brother John? He is gone to the wilderness, Ain't comin' no more. Wonder where will I lie down? (x2) In some lonesome place, Lord, down on the ground."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands)

KEYWORDS: religious

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Courlander-NegroFolkMusic, p. 61, (no title) (partial text); p. 228, "Wonder Where Is My Brother Gone?"; (1 tune, partial text)
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, p. 150, "I Wonder Where My Father Be" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Harold Courlander, _A Treasury of Afro-American Folklore_, Crown Publishers, 1976, p. 349, "Wonder Where Is My Brother Gone" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #10969

RECORDINGS:
Annie Grace Horn Dodson, "Wonder Where My Brother Gone" (on NFMAla2)

NOTES [112 words]: Courlander's text (which is the basis for the description above) clearly refers to John the Baptist: "John the baptizer appeared in the wilderness, preaching a baptism of repentance..." (Mark 1:4; compare Matt. 3:1, Luke 3:2).
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands's text is much more secular: "I wonder where my father be, That he hain't been here with me. He's buried in some distant land And he won't be here with me. To sleep, to sleep, that lonesome sweet sleep, He is laid in his grave to sleep," and similarly with mother, brother, sisters, etc.
It may be that these are two separate songs, but neither seems sufficiently attested to make it worth splitting them. - RBW

Wonder, The (Ships in the Ocean)

DESCRIPTION: "I wonder who first invented The ships in the ocean for to swim, For to cross the ocean to and fro, How happy was him." The singer lists all the troubles seamen face -- storms, etc. -- and all the tasks they perform, such as carrying wine

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1769 (Journal of the Nellie)

KEYWORDS: ship hardtimes commerce nonballad technology

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 115-116, "Ships in the Ocean" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #27520

File: HGam115

Wonderful Crocodile, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer, shipwrecked at (La Perouse), encounters the crocodile. He describes its immensity: Five hundred miles long, etc. Blown into its mouth, he lives well on the other things lost inside. At last the beast dies; the singer spends six months escaping

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1845 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(4288))
KEYWORDS: animal talltale monster sailor
FOUND IN: Australia Ireland US(MW,NE) Britain(England(South,Lond),Scotland(Aber)) Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont)
REFERENCES (15 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 134-135, "The Wonderful Crocodile" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fahey-PintPotAndBilly, pp. 18-19, "The Crocodile" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fowke/Mills/Blume-CanadasStoryInSong, pp. 157-159, "The Crocodile" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 196, "The Wonderful Crocodile" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan8 1700, "The Crocodile" (1 text)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #14, p. 1, "The Crocodile" (1 text)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H231a, p. 28, "The Crocodile" (1 text, 2 tunes)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 292, "The Crocodile" (1 text, 1 tune)
Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, pp. 184-185, "The Crocodile" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 168-170, "The Rummy Crocodile" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 230-232, "Crocodile Song" (1 text, probably this, 1 tune)
Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 60, "Crocodile Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pottie/Ellis-FolksongsOfTheMaritimes, pp. 142-143, "Crocodile Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 498-500, "The Wonderful Crocodile" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WONDCROC
Roud #886
RECORDINGS:
Mike Molloy, "Crocodile Song" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
BROADSIDES:
NLScotland, RB.m.143(134), "The Crocodile," Poet's Box (unknown), c.1890
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Derby Ram" (theme)
cf. "The Grey Goose" (theme)
SAME TUNE:
End for End Jack (per broadside NLScotland RB.m.143(134))
A Tough Yarn ("Ladies and gents' if you will listen a little while to me") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 158)
NOTES [68 words]: The similarity to "The Derby Ram" should be obvious. It is also noteworthy that most versions show very little variation; one must suspect a broadside ancestor somewhere. Folklore sometimes claimed the flesh of the crocodile as an aphrodisiac (don't ask me why). I don't seem much connection between that idea and this song, but perhaps it suggested that the crocodile was "wonderful" and, well, big.... - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: MA134

Wonderful Grey Horse, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer's horse "was rode in the Garden by Adam the day that he fell"; that turned him grey. The horse has been with Noah, ..., Brien the brave, Sarsfield at Limerick, and Daniel O'Connell. He is ready to run for a rider that will shake off Erin's yoke.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: first half 19C (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)
KEYWORDS: Ireland patriotic talltale horse
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1014 - Battle of Clontarf and death of Brian Boru
July 12, 1691 - Battle of Aughrim
1775-1847 - Life of Daniel O'Connell

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 44A, "The Grey Horse" (1 text)
Tunney-StoneFiddle, p. 158, "The White Steed" (1 text)

Roud #13451

BROADSIDES:
NLScotland, RB.m.169(243), "The Wonderful Grey Horse," unknown, c.1840

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Old Gray Mare (I) (The Old Gray Horse; The Little Black Bull)" (theme)
cf. "Bean an Fhir Rua" (tune, according to Tunney-StoneFiddle)

NOTES [97 words]: "Brien the Brave" is of course Brian Boru, winner of the Battle of Clontarf in 1814, for whom see "Remember the Glories of Brian the Brave."
Sarsfield is Patrick Sarsfield, Earl of Lucan (died 1693), the last of the great commanders who fought for James II; for his history, see "After Aughrim's Great Disaster."
Daniel O'Connell was the Irish hero who fought for emancipation, Repeal (of the Union between Britain and Ireland), and the place of the Irish in parliament; he is mentioned in dozens of songs; for more on him, see the cross-references under "Daniel O'Connell (I)." - RBW

File: Zimm044A

---

Wonderful Watford

DESCRIPTION: "Wonderful, wonderful Watford, Where the Little Missouri flows, We're proud of all our Norwegians And all that makes it so. You can ride o'er the plains and the coulees... And still be in wonderful Watford, The most wonderful place that I know."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965
KEYWORDS: home nonballad
FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 11, "Wonderful Watford" (1 text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Beautiful Texas" (tune)

NOTES [32 words]: I strongly suspect that the author of this piece never set foot outside North Dakota!
The Little Missouri is a tributary of the Missouri River, which is by no means little in North Dakota. - RBW

File: Ohr011

---

Wonderful Whalers, The

DESCRIPTION: "Fathers of the oratory, Listen to my surprising tale." The Ann Alexander, under Captain Deblois, goes whaling. A whale destroys one of the boats but at last is taken. The ship itself survives, although with difficulty

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1851 (London Punch, according to Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang)
KEYWORDS: whaler battle
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 72-75, "The Wonderful Whalers" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #27541

NOTES [35 words]: As a poem, this is almost unreadable; as history, it is wrong, because the Ann Alexander was so badly damaged in her fight with a whale that she eventually sank. One wonders why anyone bothered to print it. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2

File: HGam072
Wondrous Love

DESCRIPTION: "What wondrous love is this... that caused the lord of bliss To bear the dreadful curse for my soul." The singer has been saved from the burden of sin by Christ's sacrifice; therefore he/she praises God and the Lamb

AUTHOR: unknown

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad reprieve

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)

REFERENCES (13 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongUSA 98, "Wondrous Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ritchie-SingingFamilyOfTheCumberlands, pp. 153-154, "[Wondrous Love]" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, p. 198, "What Wondrous Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Joyner-FolkSongInSouthCarolina, p. 80, "Wondrous Love" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 773, "Wondrous Love" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp. 113-114, "Wondrous Love" (1 text, 1 tune, a copy of a shape note version)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 38-39, "Wondrous Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cray-AshGrove, pp. 42-43, "Wondrous Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Chase-AmericanFolkTalesAndSongs, pp. 160-161, "Wondrous Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, p. 261, "Wondrous Love" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 350, "Wondrous Love" (1 text)
DT, WONDLOVE

Roud #5089

RECORDINGS:
Horton Barker, "Wondrous Love" (on Barker01)
Fisk Jubilee Singers, "When I Was Singin' Down" (on Fisk01)
Ganus Brothers Quartet, "Wondrous Love" (Columbia 15331-D, 1928)
Georgia Sacred Harp Quartette, "Wondrous Love" (OKeh 40195, 1924)
Old Harp Singers of Eastern Tennessee, "Wondrous Love" (on OldHarp01)
Pete Seeger, "Wondrous Love" (on PeteSeeger07, PeteSeeger07b)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Through All the World Below" (tune & meter)
cf. "Dear Companion (The Broken Heart; Go and Leave Me If You Wish To, Fond Affection)" (tune)
NOTES [16 words]: This is that oddest of oddities: A song that files under "its own name" in the Sacred Harp! - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: LxU098

Woo'd and Married and A' (I)

DESCRIPTION: The bride cries because she is to be married and has "neither blankets nor sheets, Nor scarce a coverlet." Her family members tell her not to complain because she has plenty else. Willy says "though we be scant o' claes We'll creep the closer thegither"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1776 (Herd)

KEYWORDS: dowry wedding nonballad brother father mother sister

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast "Folk-Song in Buchan," p. 20, "Woo'd and Married and A'" (1 fragment)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, pp. 65-66, "The Bride Cam' Out o' the Byre" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers, The Scottish Songs (Edinburgh, 1829), Vol II, pp. 358-360, "Woo'd and Married and A'"
David Herd, editor, Ancient and Modern Scottish Songs, Heroic Ballads, etc. (Edinburgh, 1870
Woodchopper's Song
DESCRIPTION: "Ole Mister Oak, yo' day done come, Zim-zam-zip-zoo, Gwine chop you down an cahy you home! Bim-bam-biff-boom!" "Buhds in de branches fin' anodder nes'!... Ole Mister Oak Tree, He gwine to his res'!" Woodsmen and axe go about their job
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: worksong nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, pp. 214-215, "Woodchopper's Song" (1 text, 1 tune)

Woodman, Spare That Tree
DESCRIPTION: "Woodman, spare that tree, Touch not a single bough, In youth it sheltered me, And I'll protect it now." The singer relates how his grandfather planted it and how his family delighted in it. "While I've a hand to save, Thy axe shall harm it not."
AUTHOR: Words: George Perkins Morris (1802-1864) / Music: Henry Russell (1812-1900)
EARLIEST DATE: 1837 (sheet music published by Firth & Hall of New York)
KEYWORDS: family home request reprieve
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (7 citations):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 669, "Woodman, Spare That Tree" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Jackson-PopularSongsOfNineteenthCenturyAmerica, pp. 246-252, "Woodman, Spare That Tree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, pp. 23-26, "Woodman, Spare That Tree" (1 text, 1 tune, plus the parody "Barber, Spare Those Hairs")
Scott-EnglishSongBook, pp. 88-89, "Woodman, Spare That Tree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Emerson-StephenFosterAndCo, pp. 58-59, "Woodman! Spare That Tree!" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 253, "Woodman, Spare That Tree" (1 text)
Roud #13833
RECORDINGS:
Jack Mahoney, "Woodman Spare That Tree" (Columbia 15712-D, 1932; rec. 1931)

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth b.26(503), "Woodman Spare That Tree," G. Walker (Durham), 1797-1834; also Harding B 11(186), Firth b.25(540), Harding B 11(4316), Harding B 11(4315), Harding B 11(4314), Harding B 45(23) View 2 of 3, Harding B 15(392a), Firth b.25(68), Harding B 11(64), Firth b.26(361), Firth b.28(36) View 2 of 2, Johnson Ballads 342, Harding B 11(4313), Harding B 15(391b), "Woodman Spare That Tree"; Firth b.25(600/601) View 1 of 2, "Woodman Spare The Tree"
LOCSheet, sm1840 371290, "Woodman! Spare That Tree!," Firth and Hall (New York), 1840 (tune)
LOCSinging, as115220, "Woodman, Spare That Tree," J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859; also as204080, "Woodman, Spare That Tree"
SAME TUNE:
Nigger, Put Down Dat Jug (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 109)
Rebel Spare that Flag (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets pp. 132-133); probably the same as one or the other version of "Traitor, Spare that Flag" (Wolf, pp. 158-159 and p. 159, these two songs having Barber, Spare Those Hairs (by Jno. Love, Jr., [class of 1868]) (Henry Randall Waite, Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges, first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 69)

NOTES [258 words]: The original sheet music of this piece contains a letter from Morris to Russell describing how the words came to be written. Apparently the piece is biographical; Morris was with a friend when said friend saw a tree on his childhood home being threatened. A payment of $10 ensured the tree's continued existence.

In later years Russell claimed that he was the friend and that the tree grew on Morris's home. However, Russell was rather given to exaggeration; if we are to believe anyone, we should probably believe Morris.

Irving Berlin around 1911 wrote a song "Woodman, Woodman, Spare That Tree," which was sung by Bert Williams; the gimmick is that the singer needs to maintain the local forest so he can hide there from his wife. (Thomas S. Hischak, The American Musical Theatre Song Encyclopedia (with a Foreword by Gerald Bordman), Greenwood Press, 1995, p. 393.) Obviously it is not related to this song in terms of content, but presumably the title gave Berlin his inspiration. - RBW

The dating for broadside Bodleian Firth b.26(503), before 1835, is at best questionable. Here is a quote from the Lesley Nelson-Burns site Folk Music of England Scotland Ireland, Wales & America collection: "The words to this song are a poem written by George Pope Morris in 1830. The music was published in 1837.... " - BS

Last updated in version 4.2

File: RJ19246

Woodpecker, The (I Knew by the Smoke)

DESCRIPTION: "I knew by the smoke that so gracefully curled Above the green elms that a cottage was near," even though the only sound was a woodpecker's tap. He praises the place, and the girl he hopes will be there

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1813 (various Bodleian broadsides)

KEYWORDS: home nonballad bird

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, pp. 167-168, "The Woodpecker" (1 text)

Roud #12680

BROADSIDES:

File: HMHS167D
Woodpecker's Hole, The
DESCRIPTION: The narrator sticks his finger in the woodpecker's hole in this quatrain ballad that hints of a story otherwise left untold.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1919
KEYWORDS: bawdy scatological bird humorous
FOUND IN: Australia Britain(England) US(MW,NE,So,SW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 226-228, "The Woodpecker's Hole" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #10134
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Dixie" (tune) and references there
cf. "Little Brown Jug" (tune)
File: EM226

Woods o' Tillery, The
DESCRIPTION: A mason lad leaves the singer before daylight but says he'll come again and she will rise and let him in.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan4)
KEYWORDS: dialog nightvisit
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 774, "The Woods o' Tillery" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #6190
NOTES [21 words]: Greig/Duncan4: "Tillery is northeast of Newmachar." "Tillery" is not in Greig/Duncan's text and no note explains the title. - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD4774

Woods of Mountsandel, The
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, there's no play so sweet, you may search where you can, As the dear little town on the banks of the Bann." The singer recalls the happy times he courted Kathleen around Mountsandel. Summer is gone, and they are old, but they still love each other
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: love courting age
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H6=H567, p. 275, "'The Woods of Mountsandel (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7970
File: HHH006

Woods of Rickarton, The
DESCRIPTION: "Come all ye jolly ploughmen lads... The praises of your bonnie glen I would be fain to sing." The singer praises the woods of Rickarton, the streams, the men -- and especially the girls (while having harsh words for a wealthy but vicious woman)
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1889 (Greig/Duncan3 417C)
KEYWORDS: farming work courting money rejection
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #95, p. 2, "The Woods of Rickarton" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan3 417, "The Woods of Rickarton" (2 texts, 4 tunes)
Wooed and Married an' A' (II)

DESCRIPTION: A pampered "toast o' the parish" marries. She has no skill. When she asks her husband for ribbons he sits her at the wheel to spin. She runs to her mother who sides with the husband and sends her back, admonished to work.

AUTHOR: Mrs Scott of Dumbartonshire (source: Chambers, probably copied from Cromek)

EARLIEST DATE: 1810 (Cromek's _Select Scottish Songs_, according to Chambers)

LONG DESCRIPTION: The spoiled "toast o' the parish Is wooed and married and a'." She has no skill but to dress herself in finery. When she asks for fine ribbons her husband sets her by the spinning wheel. She runs to mother. Her mother says her husband's idea is good "for now ye should work like a tiger ... and debt keep awa" and sends her "swift away hame" with advice not to spend time at gossip ("or else ye deserve to be knockit"). She decides to go home "and e'en tak a chance o' the landin', However that matters might fa'"

KEYWORDS: marriage husband mother wife clothes

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Greig/Duncan7 1370, "Wooed and Married an' A'" (2 texts, 1 tune)
- Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 80, "The Wooer Came to the Widow's Door" (1 text)

ADDITIONAL: Robert Chambers, The Scottish Songs (Edinburgh, 1829), Vol II, pp. 360-361, "Wooed, and Married, and A'"

Roud #7159

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Harding B 22(350)[many lines illegible], "Wooed and Married and A' ("Woo'd and marry'd and a'")", J. Evans (London), 1780-1812

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Woo'd and Married and A' (I)" (theme: whining bride, tune)

NOTES [34 words]: The two "Woo'd and Married and A'" are lumped by Roud and have the theme of the spoiled and complaining bride, and tune, in common. The details are entirely different as you can tell by their description. - BS

Last updated in version 2.5

File: GrD71370

Wooer Came to the Widow's Door, The

DESCRIPTION: The widow welcomes a wooer, gives him a seat, feeds him bread and cheese, and puts him to bed, all of which he happily accepts. She frightens him by jumping into bed with him. He runs out the door and falls in a hole.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1)

KEYWORDS: courting sex escape food humorous

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 80, "The Wooer Came to the Widow's Door" (1 text)

Roud #3867

File: LyCr180

Wool Commandeer, The

DESCRIPTION: "The commandeer is underway, and blimey, what a fuss, The blinking din and clatter sure would make a parson cuss." they're desperately trying to set up a site to receive the commandeered wool. Wool comes from everywhere and is overloading the site

AUTHOR: Words: George Meek / Music: Frank Fyfe (source: Graham Wilson, "Billy on the Boil")

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (text written, according to Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ; the tune came later)

KEYWORDS: work sheep humorous New Zealand

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 40, "(The Wool Commandeer)" (1 text)

NOTES [45 words]: During World War II, the New Zealand government apparently commandeered the entire New Zealand wool clip for war purposes. This song mocks the government's lack of preparedness for dealing with the situation when all the wool arrived at the warehouses at the same time. - RBW

_Last updated in version 4.3_

File: Garl040

---

Wool, Wether and WIne

DESCRIPTION: "An old shearer stood at the cookshop door, Weary and bleary and stiff" after a long drinking bout. He swears off drink and says he will shear no more after this season, shears brilliantly, takes his pay, heads out -- and gets dead drunk again

AUTHOR: Words: George Meek

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Meek, "Station Days in Maoriland and Other Verses," according to Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook)

KEYWORDS: sheep worker drink humorous

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cleveland-NZ-GreatNewZealandSongbook, p. 77, "Wool, Wether and Wine" (1 text, 1 tune) Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 151, "(Wool, Wether and Wine" (1 text)

File: Clev077

---

Woolloomooloo

DESCRIPTION: The singer describes his shady life since his birth in Woolloomooloo. His father is a drunkard, and his parents fight so often that "Half the time they used to spend in jail." The singer eventually turns to robbery, and ends up in prison himself.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1973

KEYWORDS: family children crime prison Australia

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 194-195, "Woolloomooloo" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scott-ACollectorsNotebook-31TraditionalSongs, p. 27, "Woolloomooloo" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, WOOLOO

Roud #22609

ALTERNATE TITLES:

Woolloomooloo Lair
My Name is McCarty
My Name is McCarthy

NOTES [15 words]: Woolloomooloo is an inner suburb of Sydney; at one time it had a rather bad reputation. - RBW

_Last updated in version 4.5_

File: FaE194

---

Woolston Ferry, The

DESCRIPTION: "I looked over Woolston and what did I see, Coming for to carry me home? The old Woolston Ferry coming toward me...." The Woolston Ferry "doesn't travel very fast... it was built to last." The floating bridge is being replaced by a regular bridge
Wop She 'Ad It-io (Rumpsy Addity, Ram She Add-a-dee, Once I Courted a Fine Young Lass)

DESCRIPTION: "Oh once I courted a pretty maid, I courted her right well." Her father says he'll "tickle [the singer's] bot-tum" if he visits. He falls off a ladder and hurts his "bot-tum." The doctor turpentines it. He marries Kitty despite the injured "bot-tum"

Work for Jesus

DESCRIPTION: "Go work in my field, Christian, now sayeth the Lord, Your labor with blessings he'll quickly reward." "Work, work, work, Christian, work, Go labor for Jesus while yet it is day." Be patient. Warn those dying in sin. Care for children. You'll be rewarded

Work of the Weavers, The

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "If it wasna for the weavers, what wad ye do?... Ye wadna hae a coat o the black or the blue Gin it wasna for the work o the weavers." The verses describe those who insult weavers, and how -- despite this -- they depend on the weavers
Work Song (Utah work song)

DESCRIPTION: "There's Ehler and Heber and Joseph Taylor, Will Brunso from Huntsville and another feller, Hurrah! hurrah! we'll shout and we'll sing. 'Taint good to be sad if you don't get a thing." Hearers are urged to work; eventually they will go to the co-op store

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah)

KEYWORDS: work hardtimes

FOUND IN: US(Ro)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #249, "Work Song" (1 short text)

Roud #10912

File: Hubb249

Workers of the World

DESCRIPTION: Anthem of the I.W.W.: "Fellow workers, pay attention To what I'm going to mention, For it is the fixed intention Of the workers of the world. And I hope you will be ready, True-hearted, brave, and steady, To gather 'round the standard..."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1968

KEYWORDS: labor-movement nonballad

FOUND IN: US Australia

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, p. 104, "Workers of the World" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: MA104

Working on the Building

DESCRIPTION: "Lord, I'm working on that sure foundation, Holding up the blood-stained banner for the Lord. Just as soon as I get there, working on the building. Going up to heaven, get my reward." The singer is singing/shouting/praying/crying on that sure foundation

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama)

KEYWORDS: religious nonballad

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 162, "Workin' on the Building" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #4276

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "For My Lord" (some lines, "working on a building" theme)
cf. "I'm Working On a Building" ("working on a building" theme)

NOTES [24 words]: Despite the title, and the fact that Roud lumps them,, this pretty definitely is not "I'm Working On a Building"; the form is very different. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
Workman, The

DESCRIPTION: "Comrades, sit down and brush off your frown, Till we talk of our sad situation." Labor is brought low by the "trust combination." Workers must satisfy their demanding wives. Food, doctors are expensive. It's no wonder the lumbermen can't save their wages

AUTHOR: Larry Gorman (1846-1917)
EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (Ives-LarryGorman)
KEYWORDS: lumbering hardtimes wife money

Worms Crawl In, The

DESCRIPTION: "Did you ever think when the hearse goes by That you might be the next to die? The worms crawl in, the worms crawl out, The worms play pinochle on your snout."

A detailed description of how corruption attacks a body in a grave

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1923

KEYWORDS: death burial humorous nonballad

REFERENCES: US(MA,MW,SE,So,SW)

NOTES: The Pankakes report that this has been attributed to the Crimean War. They do not cite a source for this information.

The key line, "The worms crawl out, the worms crawl in" appears as part of "Skin and Bones (The Skin and Bones Lady)" in the revised 1810 edition of Gammer Gurton's Garland, but it may have been an editorial insertion.

A similar lyric is found in the ballad of "Alonzo the Brave and Fair Imogene," but I don't know if that's a case of cross-dependence (let alone which way the dependence goes) or an independent evolution.
Charles Clay Doyle published a study of this, "'As the Hearse Goes By': The Modern Child's Memento Mori,' in Francis Edward Abernathy, ed., What's Going On? (In Modern Texas Folklore)
(1976; the Doyle essay begins on p. 175). This documents the widespread nature of the song (without giving really detailed statistics about its distribution). It also compares it with a Middle English tradition of songs about bodily decay -- a comparison I find rather a stretch. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: San444

Worried Man Blues
DESCRIPTION: "It takes a worried man to sing a worried song (x2), I'm worried now, but I won't be worried long." The singer describes how he was imprisoned and shackled. He is sentenced to (21) years. His girl takes a train and leaves him
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1920 (recording, Carter Family)
KEYWORDS: work prison train abandonment punishment
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Bush-FSoCentralWestVirginiaVol2, p. 28, "The Worry Song" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, p. 890, "Worried Man Blues" (1 text, 1 tune) Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 240, (no title) (1 fragment, mentioning the train that is sixteen coaches long, which might be part of this or the song it inspired) Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 74, "Worried Man Blues" (1 text)
DT, WORRDMAN
Roud #4753
RECORDINGS:
[Clarence] Ashley & [Gwen] Foster, "Haunted Road Blues" (Bdy. 4076, rec. 1931; on Ashley04)
Steve Ledford & Daniel Nicholson w. Carolina Ramblers String Band, "Worried Man Blues"
(Banner 32371/Oriole 8118/Perfect 12787/Romeo 5118/Melotone [Canada] 91283, 1932)
Carter Family, "Worried Man Blues" (Victor V-40317, 1930; Montgomery Ward M-4742, 1935)
(ARC 07-05-55/Conqueror 8846, 1937)
J. E. Mainer's Mountaineers, "Won't Be Worried Long" (Bluebird B-6738, 1937)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Worried Man Blues" (on NLCR16)
Pete Seeger, "Worried Man Blues" (on PeteSeeger26)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Two Dollar Bill (Long Journey Home)" (tune)
cf. "Dink's Blues" (floating lyrics)
cf. "I'm a Stranger Here" (floating lyrics)
cf. "I'm Worried Now But I Won't Be Worried Long" (floating lyrics) NOTES [64 words]: While this song was copyrighted by A. P. Carter, he probably didn't write it; he may have picked it up from an African-American prison song. - PJS Or, perhaps, a blues; Charley Patton's "Down the Dirt Road Blues" isn't really the same song, but it has a lot of similar phrases. Patton recorded his piece (not in the Index, since I don't think it's traditional in his form) in 1929. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: BAF890

Worthies of Dundee (I)
DESCRIPTION: "It's noo, my lads, I'll sing a song, An' sure I am it's new, Although the characters I'll name Hae lang been kent by you. There's first Pie Jock...." The singer lists interesting people, then those he dislikes, Auld Horny being welcome to the latter
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Martin, Dundee Worthies, according to Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
KEYWORDS: nonballad moniker Devil
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 48, "Worthies of Dundee I" (1 text)
Worthies of Dundee (II)
DESCRIPTION: "At nicht feelin drowsy I had a bit stroll... We went intae the Stag on oor road comin back." There he sees many famous Dundee characters, who play and sing for a dance. But now all those characters are dead and gone
AUTHOR: unknown; adapted by Jim Reid
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Martin, Dundee Worthies, according to Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee)
KEYWORDS: music party nonballad moniker
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Gatherer-SongsAndBalladsOfDundee 54, "Worthies of Dundee II" (1 text, tune referenced)

Worthington
DESCRIPTION: Shape note hymn: "Thou we adore, eternal name, And humbly own to thee. How feeble is our mortal frame, What dying worms are we."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1808 (Missouri Harmony)
KEYWORDS: religious Bible nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 154, "Worthington" (1 text, 1 tune)

Worthy Boys of Clone, The
DESCRIPTION: Four "worthy boys of Clone" put to sea at night on December 3. They drown: "A monstrous wave capsized the boat as o'er the Back she sailed." The boys' names are given.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast)
KEYWORDS: drowning sea ship storm wreck fishing
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast, pp. 92-93, "The Worthy Boys of Clone" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #20533
NOTES [24 words]: Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast: "The disaster took place about 1850.... [The singer] believed the author of the song was a man named Rogers." - BS
Last updated in version 5.0

Wot Cheer! (Knocked 'Em in the Old Kent Road)
DESCRIPTION: "Last week down our alley came a toff, Nice old geezer with a nasty cough." He tells "my missus" that her Uncle Tom has left her his donkey shay. Despite the donkey's problems, they regularly ride in Old Kent Road as the neighbors cry "Wot cheer!"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1917 (Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd)
KEYWORDS: death horse travel
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Jolly-Miller-Songster-5thEd, #160, "Wot Cheer! (Knock'd 'Em in the Old Kent Road" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Aline Waites & Robin Hunter, _The Illustrated Victorian Songbook_, Michael Joseph Ltd., 1984, pp. 145-148, "Wot Cheer! Knocked 'Em in the Old Kent Road" (1 text, 1 tune, plus a reproduction of an early sheet music cover)
Roud #25941
Would You Lend My Mother a Saucepan?
DESCRIPTION: "Would you lend my mother a saucepan? Would you lend my mother a spoon? Because she's going to have Some friends to tea this afternoon." "Would you lend my mother half a crown," to be repaid after her husband gets work. Also, "A-hunting we will go"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1885 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty money food
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 41, "(Would you lend my mother a saucepan?)" (1 text, which seems to combine the "Saucepan" verses with "A-Hunting We Will Go")

Would You Like to Know How Bread is Made?
DESCRIPTION: "Would you like to know how bread is made... Come here and I'll tell you all about the trade." The part of the farmer, miller, and baker is described.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart2)
KEYWORDS: farming work nonballad miller food
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart2 58, "Would You Like to Know How Bread is Made" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #13650
File: 0SY258

Wouldn't Drive So Hard
DESCRIPTION: A song of cotton workers. "Wouldn't drive so hard but I need de arns (x2). Snatchin' an' a-crammin' it in my sack, Gotter have some cotton if it breaks my back, Wouldn't drive so hard but I need de arns (x2)."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: worksong harvest
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 210, (no title) (1 short text)
File: ScaNF210

Wounded Hussar, The
DESCRIPTION: When the battle ends Adelaide, "alone on the banks of the dark rolling Danube," finds Henry, her "wounded Hussar." He thanks her for coming "To cheer the lone heart of thy wounded Hussar." She says "thou shalt live" but he dies in her arms.
AUTHOR: Thomas Campbell
EARLIEST DATE: 1799 (written 1797, according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)
KEYWORDS: war death lover soldier
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar) Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 159, "The Wounded Hussar" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 175, "The Wounded Hussar" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2699
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Johnson Ballads 402, "The Wounded Hussar," J. Evans (London), 1780-1812; also
SAME TUNE:

Sweet Maiden I Admire Thee (per broadside Bodleian Firth c.14(235))

NOTES [158 words]: South Riding Folk Network site: "The tune Captain O'Kane (spelled in various ways) is generally attributed to the harper Turlough O'Carolan (1670-1738), though this seems to rest solely on an unsubstantiated assertion by James Hardiman (Irish Minstrelsy, or, Bardic Remains of Ireland, 1831). During the first quarter of the 19th century, Thomas Campbell's verses, The Wounded Hussar, were set to it, and under this new name it spread throughout Britain."
The ballad is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentenial of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See:
Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "The Wounded Hussar" (on Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "My Name is Napoleon Bonaparte," Hummingbird Records HBCD0027 (2001))
Harte quoting J Cuthbert Hadden: "This ballad, now entirely forgotten, attained an extraordinary popularity [in Glasgow and London]." - BS
For background on author Campbell, see the notes to "Lord Ullin's Daughter." - RBW
File: CrMa159

Wounded in Love

DESCRIPTION: The singer is seventeen and in love with "a very pretty man." She would go to her father's house, or her pretty man's mothers house. Lines about a gardner warning about primroses on "yon roddy bush." "Farewell all fading flowers"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan6)
KEYWORDS: love flowers gardening nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan6 1181, "Wounded in Love" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #6805
NOTES [38 words]: The description follows Greig/Duncan6 1181a; Greig/Duncan6 1181b changes the sex of the singer and the "very pretty man" becomes bonny Jean, "a very pretty girl." The song seems inspired by a poorly remembered "Seeds of Love." - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD61181

Wounded Spirit

DESCRIPTION: "It is true when I first read your letter That I blotted your name with a tear, I was young then, but now I know better." The other lover apparently has changed her(?) mind and remembered her promises, but "now I love another, not you."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1911 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)
KEYWORDS: love abandonment
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, p. 196, "Wounded Spirit" (1 text)
Roud #7945
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Farewell He" (subject)
NOTES [27 words]: Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety has only a fragment of this piece, and I can find no more. The general plot seems pretty clear, though. - RBW
File: Beld196

Wounded Whale, The

DESCRIPTION: As the sun rises "from her ocean bed," the whaling crew spots a whale and sets out in pursuit. They wound the beast; it struggles and dives but at last must come to the surface, where the crew finishes the kill

Wrap Me Up in My Tarpaulin Jacket

DESCRIPTION: A dying sailor [lumberjack, stockman] bids his comrades farewell, asking them to "wrap me up" in his work clothing and make other arrangements for his funeral. (He recalls his early life and hopes to sleep undisturbed)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1826 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 25(1594))

KEYWORDS: dying death funeral burial sailor logger shepherd

FOUND IN: Britain Canada(Newf) US(NE) Australia New Zealand

REFERENCES (20 citations):
- Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 439, "The Dying Stockman" (1 text)
- Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 90-91, 226, "The Dying Stockman"; pp. 118-119, "The Dying Bagman" (3 texts, 3 tunes); also probably pp. 264-265, "Cant-Hook and Wedges" (2 texts)
- Fahey-Eureka-SongsThatMadeAustralia, pp. 170-171, "The Dying Stockman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Fahey-PintPotAndBilly, p. 39, "The Dying Stockman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Paterson/Fahey/Seal-OldBushSongs-CentenaryEdition, pp. 221-223, "The Dying Stockman" (1 text)
- Anderson-StoryOfAustralianFolksong, pp. 232-233, "The Dying Stockman" (1 text, 1 tune, plus another "Dying Stockman" poem from about the same time)
- Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads, pp. 38-39, "The Dying Stockman" (1 text)
- Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 436-437, "Wrap Me Up in My Tarpaulin Jacket and The Handsome Young Airman" (2 short texts, 1 tune, with the "A" text going here and the "B" text being "The Dying Aviator")
- Thorp/Fife-SongsOfTheCowboys XIII, pp. 148-190 (29-30), "Cow Boy's Lament" (22 texts, 7 tunes, the "K" text being in fact a version of "The Old Stable Jacket")
- Manifold-PenguinAustralianSongbook, pp. 82-83, "The Dying Stockman" (1 text, 2 tunes)
- Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, pp. 281-282, "The Dying Stockman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 47, "Tarpaulin Jacket" (2 texts)
- Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 98, "Jolly Best Lad" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Peacock, pp. 880-881, "A Rambling Young Fellow" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 148-149, "Tarpaulin Jacket" (1 text, 2 tunes, not very much like the usual versions)
- Huntington-FolksongsFromMarthasVineyard, pp. 57-58, "Tarpaulin Jacket" (1 text plus a broadside excerpt, 1 tune)
- Garland-FacesInTheFirelight-NZ, p. 271, "(The Old Stable Jacket/The Dying Stockman)" (1 short New Zealand text, reconstructed, plus an excerpt of an Australian version); pp. 271-272, "(Musterer's Lament/"A High Country Musterer Lay Dying") (1 text, also adapted to New Zealand)
- DT TARPCJKT

ADDITIONAL:
- Kenneth Lodewick, "'The Unfortunate Rake" and His Descendants,'" article published 1955 in _Western Folklore_; republished on pp. 87-98 of Norm Cohen, editor, _All This for a Song_, Southern Folklife Collection, 2009
Wrap the Green Flag Round Me, Boys

DESCRIPTION: The dying soldier requestes, "Wrap the green flag 'round me, boys To die were far more sweet With Ireland's noble emblem, boys, to be my winding sheet." He wishes he had lived to see Irish victory, but promises his spirit will be near the flag

AUTHOR: J. K. O'Reilly

EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (Galvin)

KEYWORDS: Ireland death soldier

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
            Galvin-IrishSongsOfResistance, pp. 75-76, "Wrap the Green Flag Round Me, Boys" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [58 words]: Connected by Galvin with the Irish Civil War of 1922-1923 (for which see "The Irish Free State") -- though in fact the song could apply as well to the 1916 rebellion, or even to earlier revolts. Indeed, in some ways, earlier revolts would make more sense; by the time of the Civil War, Ireland was turning to the tricolor green/white/orange flag. - RBW

File: PGa075
Wreck at Kankakee, The
DESCRIPTION: About a (nineteenth century) train wreck on the Kankakee River. The train crew includes engineer Barker and fireman Hosler
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1981 (Cohen); apparently first printed 1891
KEYWORDS: train wreck
FOUND IN: REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-LongSteelRail, p. 272, "The Wreck at Kankakee" (notes only)
File: LSRa272E

Wreck at Maud, The (Al Bowen)
DESCRIPTION: "Christmas had come, and the morning was dark, The moon had hidden her face" when engineer Al Bowan started for work. He bids his mother goodbye. A switching error puts another train on his track; he is killed in the wreck
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks)
KEYWORDS: train wreck mother
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Dec 23, 1904 - the Maud wreck (so Cohen; McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks says Dec. 24, 1905)
FOUND IN: US(MW,So)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, pp. 14-16, "The Wreck at Maud" (3 partial texts which together constitute a fairly complete version; 1 tune)
Abrahams/Riddle-ASingerAndHerSongs, pp. 81-82, "Al Bowen" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 452-453, "The Maud Wreck" (1 text)
Cohen-LongSteelRail, p. 272, "Maud Wreck" (notes only)
Roud #3518
File: LSRa272H

Wreck between New Hope and Gethsemane
DESCRIPTION: "Once two trains with mighty power running sixty miles an hour, 'Twas a fearful speed between midnight and day." The train of engineer Stergin is involved in a head-on collision on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.
AUTHOR: Doc Hopkins, Karl Davis, Harty Taylor
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Hopkins/Davis/Taylor, _Mountain Ballads and Home Songs_)
KEYWORDS: train wreck
FOUND IN: REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 6-8, "The Wreck Between New Hope and Gethsemane" (1 text, 1 tune, a very poor reproduction of a printed edition); pp. 190-191 (1 text, 1 tune, a clearer reproduction)
Cohen-LongSteelRail, p. 274, "Wreck between New Hope and Gethsemane" (notes only)
Roud #14028
File: LSRa2740

Wreck of No. 3, The (Daddy Bryson's Last Ride)
DESCRIPTION: "On the thirtieth day of June, in the year nineteen hundred nine, Daddy Bryson climbed in his engine." "Down the hill on Jake's Creek, This wicked train did run." The crew know they must stop, but the sand in the airbrake fails. Daddy Bryson dies
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1981 (Cohen)
KEYWORDS: train wreck death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
June 30, 1909 - The Townsend wreck. Engineer Gordon A. "Daddy" Bryson and brakeman Charles Marion Jenkins are killed by logs falling from the train. Three other men survived by jumping (source: Lyle)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, p. 195, "The Wreck of No. 3" (1 text, tune referenced) Cohen-LongSteelRail, p. 274, "The Wreck of No. 3" (notes only)

Roud #14030
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Red Wing (I)" (tune)
File: LSRa274I

Wreck of No. 52, The

DESCRIPTION: "On a bright and sunny day, in the merry month of may," No. 52 pulls out with a load of freight. Engineer George Allen bid his wife goodbye, thinking to be home soon, but a boy had put a spike on the rail. Allen is burned and dies

AUTHOR: Cliff Carlisle
EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (recording, Cliff Carlisle)
KEYWORDS: train death railroading work
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 3, 1933 - Wreck of No. 52 near Ruffin, North Carolina. Engineer George Allen was fatally injured by steam, and fireman L. O. Woodman and others were injured. Most of the other casualties were livestock

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, p. 180, "The Wreck of No. 52" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #14016

File: LySc180

Wreck of Number Four, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come railroad men and listen to me, A story you will hear, Of a wreck on the line of the old L and E...." The Number Four leaves the track. Engineer John Dailey is killed in the wreck. Listeners are reminded that death is always near

AUTHOR: Green Bailey
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (recording, Green Bailey)
KEYWORDS: train wreck death warning
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Dec 31, 1928 - L & N train number four leaves the track near Torrent, Kentucky. 50-year-old engineer John Dailey (correct spelling) dies as he leaps from the cab; he is the only person killed

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 254-256, "The Wreck of Number Four" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsAREgionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 262-263, "The Wreck of Number Four and the Death of John Daily" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Green Bailey, "The Wreck of Number Four" (Challenge 425 [as by Dick Bell], 1930; recorded 1929)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Wreck of Number Four and the Death of John Daily

File: LSRai254

Wreck of Number Nine, The [Laws G26]

DESCRIPTION: A railroad engineer, whose wedding is set for the next day, leaves his sweetheart and sets out on his train. Rounding a curve, he sees another train coming. He is mortally wounded in the crash. He leaves his fiancee the cottage that would have been theirs

AUTHOR: Carson J. Robison
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Vernon Dalhart)
KEYWORDS: train wreck marriage death last will crash
FOUND IN: US(Ap, SE, So, SW) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (12 citations):
Laws G26, "The Wreck of Number Nine"
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 267-271, "The Wreck of Number Nine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph 684, "The Wreck of Old Number Nine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 451-453, "The Wreck of Old Number Nine" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 684)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 340, "The Wreck of Old Number Nine" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 162, "The Wreck of Number Nine" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, pp. 88-89, "Number Nine" (1 text)
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 77-78, "The Wreck of Number Nine" (1 text)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol4, pp. 74-75, "Engine No. 9" (1 text, 1 tune)
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 76-78, "The Brave Engineer (The Wreck of Number Nine)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, "Th Wreck of Number Nine" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 668, COLDWIN
Roud #3229
RECORDINGS:
Jim Bennett, "The Brave Engineer" (on NFAGuigné01)
Bud Billings [pseud. for Frank Luther], "The Wreck of Number Nine" (Montgomery Ward M-8054, 1939)
Vernon Dalhart, "Wreck of The Number 9" (Lincoln 2712, 1927) (Gennett 6051/Silvertone 5005, 1927) (Brunswick 101, 1927) (Okeeh 45086, 1927) (Cameo 1247, 1927) (Columbia 15121-D [as Al Craver], 1927); "Wreck of the Number Nine" (Radiex 4172 [as Jeff Calhoun], 1928)
J. E. Mainer's Mountaineer's "On a Cold Winter's Night" (Victor 27496, 1941)
Ernest Stoneman, "The Wreck of the Number Nine" (Broadway 8054, c. 1930); "Wreck of Number Nine" (on Autoharp01)
Stanley G. Triggs, "The Wreck of the Number Nine" (on Triggs1)
NOTES [135 words]: This, like "Zeb Tourney's Girl" [Laws E18], appears to be a Robison song that became traditional as a result of the Vernon Dalhart recording, though this seems to have had a stronger grip on tradition.
Indeed, Cohen states that, of the train wreck ballads he printed, only "Old 97" and "Engine 143" ("The Wreck on the C & O" [Laws G3]) were more popular. Both of the former are anonymous, and both based on real events; this is therefore the most popular fictional train wreck song, and also the most popular train song with a single known author.
It entered tradition very quickly; Henry collected his version from Mary E. King in 1929.
In recent years, a part of this tune has found some additional success (at least in bluegrass circles) as the basis for the chorus in the Goble/Drumm song "Coleen Malone." - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: LG26

Wreck of Old 85, The

DESCRIPTION: "Old Eight-five Had a brave engineer, To make up twenty minutes He had no fear"; he reaches a speed of 95 as he reaches the tunnel by Bluestone River. The engineer tries his brake; it fails. He bids his fireman goodbye; they will meet in the promised land
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c. 1937 (copy received by James Taylor Adams)
KEYWORDS: train wreck death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jun 30, 1937 - N & W Train 85 goes off a bridge at Maybeury, West Virginia. The train burns for two days; four people are killed (source: Lyle)
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 182-197, "The Wreck of Old 85" (1 text)
Roud #14025
NOTES [19 words]: Lyle states that the tune of this song is unknown, but it seems quite clear that it
Wreck of Old 97, The [Laws G2]

DESCRIPTION: "Steve" Broady is told that, due to a mix-up in numbering, his train is "way behind time." He is driving as fast as he can to make up the time when, on a long downgrade, his brakes fail. The train goes off the track; Broady dies at the controls

AUTHOR: disputed (tune by Henry Clay Work)

EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (recording, Henry Whitter); a 1922 variant form appears in Brown

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sept 27, 1903 - "Old 97" goes off the track near Danville, killing engineer Joseph A. "Steve" Broady and at least ten others

REFERENCES (22 citations):
Laws G2, "The Wreck of Old 97"
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 197-226, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (6 texts plus excerpts, 1 tune, plus a sheet music cover and sundry excerpts from related songs including a text of "The Ship That Never Returned")
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 201-203 "The Wreck of the Old 97" (1 text plus a copy of the sheet music cover)
Carey-MarylandFolkloreAndFolkLife, p. 57, "The Wreck of Old 97" (1 text)
Randolph 683, "The Wreck of the Southern Old 97" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 449-451, "The Wreck of the Southern Old 97" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 683)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 217, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (6 field texts plus 3 more in the headnotes)
Cox/Hercog/Boswell-WVirginia-B, #2A-B, pp. 118-121, "The Wreck of the Southern Ninety-Seven," "The Wreck of the Old 97" (2 texts, 2 tunes; both appear from their texts to have been learned from the Dalhart recording)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol4, pp. 68-69, "The Old 97" (1 text, 1 tune)
Robert, #28, "Wreck of the Old Ninety-Seven" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cambiare-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, p. 97, "The Wreck of Old Ninety-Seven" (1 text, another version probably derived from Dalhart)
Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 79-80, "Old Ninety-Seven" (1 text, with a little bit of "The Train That Never Returned" at the end)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 71-72, "Wreck of Old 97" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 14-33, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (2 texts, 1 tune, plus several other texts more or less related)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 318, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (1 text)
Botkin/Harlow-TreasuryOfRailroadFolklore, p. 449, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, p. 131, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (1 text)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 214-215, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (1 text plus "The Rarden Wreck of 1893")
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 104 "The Wreck Of The Old 97" (1 text)
DT 634, WRECK97*

ADDITIONAL: Wanda T. Wallace & David C. Rubin, ""The Wreck of the Old 97": A real Event Remembered in Song," article published 1998 in _Remembering Reconsidered: Ecological and Traditional Approaches to the Study of Memory_; republished on pp. 281-308 of Norm Cohen, editor, _All This for a Song_, Southern Folklife Collection, 2009
Roud #777

RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "The Wreck of the Southern Old 97" (Edison 51361-R, 1924) (CYL: Edison [BA] 4898, prob. 1924) ; "Wreck of the Old 97" (Victor 19427-A, 1924) (Radiex 4131 [as Jeff Calhoun],...
"Wreck of the 97" (Bell 340, 1925) (Regal 8929, 1925/Apex [Can.] 8428, 1926); "Wreck of the Southern Old 97" (Champion 15121, 1926/Supertone 9241, 1926); "The Wreck of the Old 97" (Bluebird B-5335, 1934); "Wreck of the Southern No. 97" (Pathe 032068 [as Sid Turner], 1924) [this is a partial list; Dalhart is thought to have recorded "Wreck" several dozen times]

Arthur Fields & Fred Hall, "Wreck of the Old 97", (Grey Gull-Radiex 4131/Globe 4131/Supreme 4131/Madison 5085, all c. 1929; rec. 1927)

Texas Gladden and Hobart Smith, "The Wreck of the Old '97" (on USTGladden01)

Kelly Harrell, "The Wreck on the Southern Old 97" (OKeh 7010, 1925; on KHarrell01)

Clayton McMichen & his Georgia Wildcats, "Wreck of the 97" (Varsity 5029, 1942)

John D. Mounce et al, "Wreck of Old 97" (on MusOzarks01)

George Reneau, "Wreck of The Southern Old 97" (Vocalion 5029, c. 1926)

Pete Seeger, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (on PeteSeeger17)

Hank Snow, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (RCA Victor 20-4095, 1951)

Ernest V. Stoneman Trio, "The Wreck of the Old 97" (OKeh unissued, 1927)

Ernest Stoneman & Kahle Brewer, "Wreck of the Old 97" (OKeh unissued mx. 80344-A, rec. 1927; on ConstSor1)

Stoneman Family, "The Wreck of the Old Ninety-Seven" (on Stonemans01, ClassRR [as Pop Stoneman])

Gid Tanner & His Skillet Lickers, "The Wreck on the Southern Old 97" (Columbia 15142-D, 1927)

Ernest Thompson, "Wreck of the Southern Old 97" (Columbia 130-D, 1924)

Sid Turner, "Wreck of the Southern No. 97" (Perfect 12147, 1924)

Virginia Ramblers, "Wreck of Old 97" (OKeh unissued, 1929)

Henry Whitter, "Wreck of the Southern Old 97" (OKeh 40015, 1924; rec. 1923)

CROSS-REFERENCES:

"The Ship That Never Returned" [Laws D27] (tune & meter) and references there

"The Train that Never Returned" (tune & meter)

"The Rarden Wreck of 1893" (tune & metre, theme)

"The Wreck on the Somerset Road" (partial tune, metre, theme)

"The Flying Colonel" (tune)

"The Ballad of Fireman Dodge" (subject: The Wreck of Old 97)

SAME TUNE:

NOTES [552 words]: Authorship claimed by, among others, David Graves George; the legal battles over the song were extended. Brown has extensive notes which summarize the situation well. If anyone deserves credit for the pop version, it is probably Henry Whitter, who took a seemingly-traditional version and worked it into the form of the Dalhart recording. Cohen has even more extensive documentation on this process (summarizing several full-length monographs on the subject); he is surprisingly sympathetic to George (not claiming that he wrote the song but that he did make original contributions).

The song is, in any case, derivative. The tune is taken from Henry Clay Work's "The Ship that Never Returned," and "The Ship" gave rise to at least two train wreck songs: "The Train that Never Returned" and "The Rarden Wreck of 1893." I've seen both listed as the source for "Old 97" -- though neither looks much like the latter song in the Whitter rendition (which, to be sure, is much worn down from texts Cohen regards as earlier sources).

I would note, though, that several of Brown's texts (including "D" from 1922) fall between "Train" and "Old 97." Lyle notes that the song contains a number of accurate details of the wreck. The Old 97 mail run had been inaugurated in November 1902, and it ran on a mountain route. It ran from Washington to Danville, The train could sometimes make ninety miles an hour on parts of the route, but on the 167 mile stretch from Monroe, Virginia to Spencer, North Carolina, the typical average speed was 37.5 miles per hour; Franklin M. Garrett, _Atlanta and Environs: A Chronicle of Its People and Events_, volume II (1880s-1930s), 1954 (I use the 1988 printing of the 1969 facsimile reprint), p. 446, says that the top safe speed was considered to be 30 miles per hour. There were few stops on the route (even the mail was picked up without stopping the train); after leaving Monroe, the next stop was at Lynchburg, then Danville, 64 miles away. On the fateful day, Old 97 was due at Danville at 1:40, and pulled out after 1:00. So she was indeed "way behind time."

And engineer Joseph Broady, who was 33 years old, had only run the route once before. He had little experience with the Stillhouse Trestle, built in 1874 before the fast mail trains ran. And we know that the engine he drove was somewhat erratic. We don't know if that mattered, because there were no survivors from the cab. But it is clear that the train took the trestle too fast. It seems a wheel broke and the train went off the curve. Broady and his fireman were indeed scalded to death. All these details imply that the author of the song had studied accurate accounts of the wreck, or even that he had been in the vicinity when it happened.

(Garrett, p. 446, says that nine people were killed, including the engine crew, Conductor Blair, and Flagman Broady; three of four cars were completely destroyed.) Despite the wreck, Number 97 continued to run until January 1907, when changes were made to the schedule of mail trains.

That most traditional versions derive from the Dalhart recording is shown by the fact that they have five verses, corresponding to Dalhart's, and especially by the fact that most contain Dalhart's error "lost his average" in the third verse rather than the correct "lost his airbrakes." - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1
File: LG02

Wreck of the 'Mary Summers', The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, the Mary Summers as you will see, Loaded in St. Andrews for the old countrie." An ocean-going freighter encounters heavy weather and begins leaking. The crew pumps for a week to no avail, but are rescued by the William Bradley.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs)
KEYWORDS: wreck rescue sea ship
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 14, "The Wreck of the 'Mary Summers'" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4473
NOTES [50 words]: From Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs: "Collected from Charles Cates in Vancouver, 1960. Cates said he had the song from his father, an East Coast seaman, who said the Mary Summers was a Nova Scotia ship, though there is no record of her in Canadian or British shipping registers." - SL
File: FowM014

Wreck of the 1256, The

DESCRIPTION: "On that cold and dark cloudy evenin', Just before the close of day, There came Harry Lyle and Dillard." An accident causes their train to fall into the James River. Lyle, with a head wound, dies in the cabin. Railroad men are warned of their danger

AUTHOR: Carson J. Robison (writing as Carlos B. McAfee)
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (copyright)
KEYWORDS: train wreck death warning
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 3, 1925 - On a cold night, the 1256 hits a rockslide and is pitched into the James River. Engineer Harry Lyle is killed; crewman Sydney Dillard is saved by hoboos
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 240-242, "The Wreck of the 1256" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 102-109, "The Wreck of the 1256" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11528
RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "The Wreck of the 1256" (Columbia 15034-D [as by Al Craver], 1925)
NOTES [47 words]: It is somewhat ironic to note that, although this song was about a real incident, and the recording of it sold well, it does not seem to have gone into tradition, whereas such fictional Robison songs as "The Wreck of Number Nine" [Laws G26] and "Zeb Tourney's Girl" [Laws E18]
Wreck of the 1262, The (The Freight Wreck at Altoona)

DESCRIPTION: Freight train 1262 is heading down the mountain when the air brakes fail. The brakeman tightens the brakes by hand, but the train still crashes; engineer and fireman are killed. Listeners are urged to be prepared, for "you cannot tell when He'll call"

AUTHOR: Words: Fred Tait-Douglas/Music: Carson J. Robison

EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (recordings, Vernon Dalhart)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Freight train 1262 is heading down the mountain when the engineer sounds the whistle; the air brakes have failed. The brakeman climbs out on the car tops and tightens the brakes by hand, but the train continues to accelerate. It crashes; the engineer and fireman are killed. Listeners are urged to always be prepared, for "you cannot tell when He'll call"

KEYWORDS: warning train death railroading work crash disaster wreck worker

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Nov 29, 1925 - Freight #1262 crashes near Altoona, PA, apparently due to defective air brakes

REFERENCES (6 citations):
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 243-246, "The Freight Wreck at Altoone/The Wreck of the 1262" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 158-159, "Altoona Freight Wreck" (1 text)
Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, pp. 64-65, "The Wreck at Latona" (1 text)
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 125-131, "The Freight Wreck at Altoona" (1 text, 1 tune)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, p. 84, "The Freight Wreck at Altoona" (1 text)
DT, WRCK1262
Roud #7128

RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "Freight Wreck at Altoona" (Victor 19999, 1926) (Columbia 15065-D [as Al Craver], 1926) (Radiex 4172 [as Jeff Calhoun], 1928; Sunrise 33056, 1929) (Herwin 75524, late 1920s) (CYL: Edison [BA] 5122, c. 1926)
Red River Dave, "Altoona Freight Wreck" (Musicraft 288, 1944)
Riley Puckett, "Altoona Freight Wreck" (Decca 5455, 1937)

NOTES [184 words]: This comes pretty close to live journalism: The accident took place in late November 1925, and Dalhart was in the studio recording the result on January 15, 1926. The REALLY strange part is, Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads's head notes report of it, "Source: Edison Brown, who found it in old papers at his home in East Tennessee. This ballad has been sung for many years in the Cumberland Mountains." Sure, he calls the wreck site "Latona," but it's engine 1262, as in the commercial versions of the song. It looks as if either Cambiaire or Brown was tricked.

Altoona is a very interesting place for trains and train enthusiasts. The "Horseshoe Curve," built in the 1850s, was considered a major engineering feat at the time and is now an historical monument -- and it's steep (2375 feet/724 meters long, with a slope of 91 feet to the mile/17 meters to the kilometer). It's enough of a landmark to show up, e.g., in Webster's Geographical Dictionary. It looks almost like a hairpin, with a lake in the middle of the pin. It must be a really interesting region to drive a train.... - RBW

Wreck of the 444, The

DESCRIPTION: "On a June morning at 5:35, The crew of two engines were all glad and alive." But the Norfolk and Western train is late, takes a curve too fast and derails, killing two in a cottage by the track. But there should be no more accidents

AUTHOR: Bess McReynolds

EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (copyright, according to Lyle)

KEYWORDS: train wreck death love

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jun 8, 1913 - The wreck of engine 444 after it went off the rails near Cleveland, Virginia. Two women were killed in a house the train hit, and two members of the crew also died

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 198-199, "The Wreck of the 444" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-LongSteelRail, p. 274, "The Wreck of 444" (notes only)
Roud #14031
File: LSRa274R

Wreck of the Annie Roberts, The DESCRIPTION: Annie Roberts leaves Sydney, Nova Scotia for Lamaline, Newfoundland in a gale with a cargo of coal. The steamer Risenor crashes into the Annie and can only rescue one man.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1977 (Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou)
KEYWORDS: death sea ship storm wreck
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 1, "The Wreck of the Annie Roberts" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #26052
NOTES [130 words]: [Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou date this wreck to] October 22, 1913.
Northern Shipwrecks Database places the collision in Sydney Harbour, makes the collision with SS Wabana, and estimates five lost.
I find no other reference to "a steamer Risenor" anywhere. - BS
Frank Galgay and Michael McCarthy, Shipwrecks of Newfoundland and Labrador, [Volume I], Harry Cuff Publishing, 1987, p. 77, says that the Annie Roberts was a schooner sailing out of Lamaline, and confirms the October 22, 1913 date. It too says that five men were lost, but has no other details. Their later book, Frank Galgay and Michael McCarthy, Shipwrecks of Newfoundland and Labrador, Volume III, Creative Publishers, 1995, p. 166, however, gives the date as October 27. The rest of the data is the same. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: LeBe001

Wreck of the Asia, The DESCRIPTION: The paddlewheel steamer Asia leaves Owen Sound to cross Georgian Bay, but runs into a storm. The deaths of crew and passengers are described, including a newlywed couple; two cling to a lifeboat and survive
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (a portion provided to Walton by Mrs. Robert Reed)
KEYWORDS: travel death drowning ship disaster storm wreck moniker sailor
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sep 14, 1882 - Paddlewheel steamer Asia sinks in Georgian Bay
FOUND IN: Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 208-209, "The Foundering of the Asia" (1 composite text)
Roud #3839
RECORDINGS:
C. H. J. Snider, "The Wreck of the 'Asia'" (on GreatLakes1)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [523 words]: The Asia left Owen Sound topheavy and overloaded with freight, intended for merchants in northern towns preparing for winter. When the storm struck, the captain made a fatal mistake; instead of keeping the ship faced to the wind, he turned and attempted to head for French River, allowing the force of the gale to strike the ship broadside. When the ship sprang a leak, lifeboats were lowered, but, overloaded, they foundered, and all drowned except two, Dunk Tinkles (called "Tinkus" in the Snider recording) and a Miss Morrison, 19. They clung to an overturned lifeboat and drifted to shore, where they were found by an old Indian who took them to Parry Sound. Mr. Snider recalls learning the song in 1891, and later collected several other versions from residents of the Georgian Bay area. - PJS
Earlier editions of this Index said that over 200 were killed when the Asia was wrecked, but this appears to be an exaggeration. Ratigan, p. 103, gives the number of people on the boat as 125 -- while noting that "Every cabin on the Asia was filled with passengers, and there were others sleeping on every corner of the boat where a carpetbag or grain sack could cushion a head." Berman, p. 235, also says that 125 were lost. Looker, p. 13, says that there were 122 aboard (97 of them being passengers) and that all but two were lost.

The ship was reportedly top-heavy; the cargo had been placed on deck rather than going to the effort of securing it in the hold. And the weather was rough, but Captain John Savage hated wasting time in port. He set out on September 13, 1882, even though the "boisterous wind" was causing "mountainous seas."

By the next day, when the boat reached the open lake, it was evident that she would not survive. Savage tried to head for an island to beach her, and ordered the cargo thrown overboard (Ratigan, p. 104).

The ship was within sight of Lonely Island when "about 11:30, she pitched up at the head and went down stern first, the cabins breaking off and the boats floating off as she did so."

The two survivors were Duncan A. Tinkiss (Ratigan's and Walton's spelling; Looker has "Dunkan Tinkiss"), who was 17, and Christina Ann Morrison, listed as "under twenty" (Looker, which has a picture of her, calls her "Christy Anne Morrison" and has a picture of her) Several lifeboats were launched, but they all disappeared -- and the boat with Tinkiss and Morrison aboard repeatedly turned over; it initially held more than 20 people, but only seven, including the captain, managed to stay aboard -- and all but the two teenagers were dead by the end of the day (Ratigan, p. 105-107).

Unable to control the boat due to the loss of the oars, they were finally rescued by a sailing craft. Looker says that the disaster finally forced "the government" (presumably Canada's) to finally make good charts of Georgian bay.

Ratigan, p. 108, says that Tinkiss died in 1910, but Miss Morrison lived another 55 years -- i.e. until around 1938.

Walton's version is based in part on "clippings," raising the possibility that the song was first published in a newspaper, but I do not know of any proof of this. - RBW

Bibliography

- Looker: Janet Looker, Disaster Canada, Lynx Images, 2000

Last updated in version 4.3

File: RcWreAsi

Wreck of the Avondale, The DESCRIPTION: The lighter Avondale, bound from Carrick to the Gasworks, hits a bridge and is wrecked with 13 tons of coal. The crew -- Captain Britt, his little son, and dog -- survive.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: Nov 1903 (_Clonmel Chronicle,_ according to OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads)

KEYWORDS: river ship wreck dog children humorous

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):

OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 20A, "The Wreck of the Avondale" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #9777

NOTES [10 words]: A river boat wreck on the Suir river in South Tipperary. - BS

File: OLcM020A

Wreck of the Belle Sheridan, The

DESCRIPTION: "In the year of 1880, On a cold November day, With coal bound for Toronto, They left the Charlotte Bay." The mates are named. The captain sees a storm coming. The ship goes aground off Weller's Bay. A few are rescued, but several related crewmen die

AUTHOR: Mike Ryan?
Wreck of the C & O Number Five, The

DESCRIPTION: "From Washington to Charlottesveile, then Staunton on the line Came the old Midwestern Limited...." The train hits a broken rail. It does not overturn, but veteran engineer Dolly Womack is killed by steam. He will pull a train in heaven

AUTHOR: Words: Cleburne C. Meeks / Music: Carson J. Robison

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Vernon Dalhart)

KEYWORDS: train wreck death

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Oct 6, 1920 - The westbound "Sportsman" train, redirected onto the eastbound track because of a derailment, hits a broken rail and crashes into a bank. Engineer Dolly Womack is partly buried in coal and scalded to death by steam

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 236-239, "The Wreck of the C & O Number Five" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 92-101, "The Wreck of C & O No. 5" (1 text, 1 tune, with the music labelled "The Wreck of the C& O No. 5" but the chapter heading being "The Wreck of C & O No. 5")

Roud #14023

RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "The Wreck of the C & O Number Five" (Brunswick 117 [as by Al Craver], 1927); (Columbia 15135-D)
Cyril O'Brien, "The Wreck of the C&O No. 5" (on MUNFLA-Leach)

NOTES [62 words]: Inspired by his success with "Billy Richardson's Last Ride," which was also set to music by Carson J. Robison and recorded by Vernon Dalhart, Cleburne C. Meeks wrote his second poem about a train wreck which had occurred some years earlier. In this case, I rather suspect he intended it to use the tune of "Wabash Cannonball," but Robison again supplied Dalhart's tune.

Last updated in version 4.4

File: LSrai236

Wreck of the C & O Sportsman

DESCRIPTION: "Far away on the banks of New River, While the deep shades of twilight hunglow," engineer Haskell and fireman Anderson drive the trail. It goes off the train on a curve. The two are killed. The singer recalls the loved ones at home

AUTHOR: Bernice "Si" Coleman (1898-?) with Kyle Roop

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (recording, Si Coleman and his Railroad Ramblers)

KEYWORDS: train wreck death

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
June 21, 1930 - The Sportsman wreck. Engineer Homer E. Haskell (who had been with the line 35 years) and fireman Henry G. Anderson are killed and three others injured

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 163-170, "The Wreck of the Sportsman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 264-266, "The Wreck of the C & O Sportsman" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
Roy Harvey and the North Carolina Ramblers (=Si Coleman and his Railroad Ramblers), "The Wreck of the C & O Sportsman" (Superior 2701, 1931)

NOTES [38 words]: Cohen notes that this wreck "was possibly the last to be memorialized in song" -- but hardly a popular one; fewer than 500 copies of the original disc were sold, and the odds that
The song became traditional are very poor. - RBW

Wreck of the Christabel, The DESCRIPTION: Sunday, Christabel is anchored in Bonavista harbour. It is wrecked by a gale with a crew of nine on board. One jumps in a rowboat "to try what he could do" but is lost. Monday the remaining crew are rescued by rowboats.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1985 (Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou)

KEYWORDS: rescue death sea ship storm wreck

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Jun 7, 1885 - Christable/Christabel wreck in Bonavista Harbour (Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou, Northern Shipwrecks Database)

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 22, "The Wreck of the Christabel" (1 text)

Roud #30704

NOTES [64 words]: Northern Shipwrecks Database shows as the cause "Stranded fin anchor" and notes that a monument was erected(?). - BS

Frank Galgay and Michael McCarthy, Shipwrecks of Newfoundland and Labrador, [Volume I], Harry Cuff Publishing, 1987, p. 79, reports that the Christabel was a "Barque, wrecked off Bonavista 7 June 1885. Crew rescued through the bravery of three Bonavista men." - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: Lebe022

Wreck of the City of Columbus (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas the wreck of the fatal Columbus, On the Devil's Bridge rocks near Gay Head." A hundred people perish on the rocks. Captain Wright tries to comfort the victims. Harden officially gets the blame, but the singer thinks the Glaucus ignored the wreck

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (collected by Huntington from "Harris the cook")

KEYWORDS: wreck ship disaster death

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Jan 18, 1884 - The steamer City of Columbus, which is off course, strikes the Devil's Bridge rocks near Gay Head (the westernmost point on Martha's Vineyard). After the ship hit the rocks, Captain Shuler E. Wright gave orders which caused the ship to hit again. Captain Wright tried to tell the people aboard what to do; while he was doing so, many were swept into the sea. Of 45 crew and 87 passengers, only 29 survived (17 crew; 12 passengers. Summary based on Wikipedia and Huntington's notes)

FOUND IN: US(SW)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 96-97, "The Wreck of the City of Columbus I" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #27538

NOTES [279 words]: According to Dennis M. Powers, Taking the Sea: Perilous Waters, Sunken Ships, and the True Story of the Legendary Wrecker Captains, American Management Association, 2009, pp. 163-164, "In 1884, the City of Columbus had sailed south from Boston around Cape Cod and through Nantucket Sound. The 2,200-ton ship was a typical early iron steamer with auxiliary sails.... On the early morning of January 19, the 275-foot ship was off the western shore of Martha's Vinyard. The lookout suddenly yelled out that the vessel was close to the Devil's Ridge buoy.... "The ship struck the double ledge of submerged rocks at Devil's Ridge. When the captain's attempts to move the ship off the rocks by steam and sail didn't work, he gathered the eighty-seven passengers and forty-five crew members together. While he tried to explain their precarious situation... a giant wave rose over the gunnels, struck down the boat with a thunderous roar, and swept overboard nearly all of the men, women, and children on deck." The rough seas also smashed two lowered lifeboats.
Locals, including members of the Gay Head Indian tribe, tried to rescue people. A Lieutenant Rhodes was particularly heroic, swimming through the storm and pulling people off the wreck. Powers, p. 164, reports that 29 people survived an about a hundred died. (By his numbers, if 29 survived, then 103 would have been lost.) The Wikipedia article on the wreck said that the survivors included 17 of the crew and 12 passengers. Although Huntington lists a tune which he apparently collected, it really feels to me as if this was meant to be sung to "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean." That's just a feeling, though. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2
File: HGam096

Wreck of the City of Columbus (II), The DESCRIPTION: "As the City of Columbus On that lovely winter's day Bade her last farewell to Boston," the passengers are happy. They settle down for a quiet night. But, as the captain slept, they strike a rock; the passengers suffer and pray in the wreck.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 2014 (Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang)
KEYWORDS: wreck ship disaster death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 18, 1884 - The steamer City of Columbus, which is off course, strikes the Devil's Bridge rocks near Gay Head (the westernmost point on Martha's Vineyard). After the ship hit the rocks, Captain Shuler E. Wright gave orders which caused the ship to hit again. Captain Wright tried to tell the people aboard what to do; while he was doing so, many were swept into the sea. Of 45 crew and 87 passengers, only 29 survived (17 crew; 12 passengers. Summary based on Wikipedia and Huntington's notes)

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 97-98, "The Wreck of the City of Columbus II (The Ill-Fated Steamer)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #27539
NOTES [15 words]: For background on this wreck, see the notes to "The Wreck of the City of Columbus (I)." - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2
File: HGam097

Wreck of the City of Columbus (III), The DESCRIPTION: "Many were clinging to the rigging, Many perished there and died, Some were saved to tell the story, Not a woman or a child." The singer talks of the sights as the steamer was wrecked, and wonders if the captain should be blamed.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 2014 (Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang)
KEYWORDS: wreck ship disaster death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 18, 1884 - The steamer City of Columbus, which is off course, strikes the Devil's Bridge rocks near Gay Head (the westernmost point on Martha's Vineyard). After the ship hit the rocks, Captain Shuler E. Wright gave orders which caused the ship to hit again. Captain Wright tried to tell the people aboard what to do; while he was doing so, many were swept into the sea. Of 45 crew and 87 passengers, only 29 survived (17 crew; 12 passengers. Summary based on Wikipedia and Huntington's notes)

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-TheGam-MoreSongsWhalemenSang, pp. 98-100, "The Wreck of the City of Columbus III (The City of Columbus)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #27540
NOTES [15 words]: For background on this wreck, see the notes to "The Wreck of the City of Columbus (I)." - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: HGam098
Wreck of the Dandenong, The

DESCRIPTION: The Dandenong sets sail from Melbourne with 83 people on board. In a storm of Jervis Bay, her propeller shaft breaks and she begins to sink. A barque saves as many as possible, but many go down with the ship

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1954
KEYWORDS: wreck ship disaster death
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 48-49, "The Wreck of the Dandenong" (1 text, 1 tune)
Meredith/Covell/Brown-FolkSongsOfAustraliaVol2, pp. 164-165, "The Wreck of the Dandenong" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: MA048

Wreck of the Eliza, The DESCRIPTION: Barquentine Eliza is wrecked "at the fatal sand of Cahore Point" by hurricane winds. Rescue attempts by rocket line and life-boat fail though the life-boat itself returns safely.

AUTHOR: Pat Ennis of Cahore
EARLIEST DATE: 1945 (Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast)
KEYWORDS: drowning sea ship storm wreck sailor
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Dec 24, 1895 - "The Eliza was lost at Cahore point"; three of the crew were rescued. (source: Bourke in _Shipwrecks of the Irish Coast_ v1, p. 52)
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast, pp. 56-57, "The Wreck of the Eliza" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #20519
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Bold Jack Donahoe" (tune) and references there
NOTES [21 words]: Cahore Point is south of the town of Gorey in northeast Wexford. According to the ballad it is "some leagues away" from home. - BS
Last updated in version 5.0
File: Ran056

Wreck of the Enterprise (Machrihanish Bay)

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls the storm of March 4, [18?]37. The Enterprise sails out from Peru and approaches Britain. The captain's wife calculates the position, but the ship runs aground. The crew drowns, while the folk on shore gather riches

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: death ship wreck
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H558, pp. 106-107, "The Wreck of the Enterprise" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9041
File: HHH558

Wreck of the Fanad Boat, The

DESCRIPTION: The boat sets out from Fanad with nineteen aboard "bound for the English harvest." A storm blows up and sinks the boat; fifteen of the nineteen are drowned. The singer lists their names and prays for them

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1935 (Sam Henry collection)
Wreck of the Flyer, Duquesne, The DESCRIPTION: "The heart of a maiden was beating with pleasure As the day of her wedding drew near"; she is waiting for her love on the "limited flyer, Duquesne." Newsboys bring word that it has crashed. She reaches her love just as he is dying near the wreck

AUTHOR: Ernest B. Lyddick

EARLIEST DATE: 1903 (copyright, according to Lyle)

KEYWORDS: train wreck death love reunion

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Dec. 23, 1903 - Wreck of the "Flyer Duquesne," reportedly killing more than sixty people (source: Lyle)

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 192-193, "The Wreck of the Flyer, Duquesne" (1 text, 1 tune, plus a copy of the sheet music cover)
Roud #14029
File: LySc192

Wreck of the G & SI

DESCRIPTION: On Christmas Day, engineer Van Martin's Train 64 is wrecked on the Gulf and Ship Island Railroad.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1929 (recording by Happy Bud Harrison)

KEYWORDS: train wreck

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-LongSteelRail, p. 274, "Wreck of G & SI" (notes only)

RECORDINGS:
Happy Bud Harrison, "Wreck of The G.& S.I." (Vocalion 5350)
File: LSRa274P

Wreck of the Glenaloon, The DESCRIPTION: A June night. A ship is in a dead wind and fog three leagues from land. The charts show no rocks or reefs but the captain thinks he sees a rock or wreck and sends a crew to investigate. It's the wreck of Glenaloon. They find and bury the dead crew.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia)

KEYWORDS: burial death sea ship wreck

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 162, "The Wreck of the Glenaloon" (1 text)
Ives-FolksongsOfNewBrunswick, pp. 172-176, "The Wreck of the Glenna Loon" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3288
File: Mack162

Wreck of the Green Rocks, The

DESCRIPTION: The Green Rocks is struck by the Thomas D. and sinks. The earlier history of Green Rocks and Captain Mills is summarized.
Wreck of the Gwendoline, The DESCRIPTION: The singer is cabin-boy on the Clonmel river boat Gwendoline. A storm comes up and they run aground. They walk ashore and go home by "ass an' car" Twenty horses pull her out of the weeds "but never more, by sea or shore, Will sail the Gwendoline"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads)
KEYWORDS: river commerce ship storm humorous wreck sailor
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads, pp. 257-258, "The Wreck of the Gwendoline" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Star of the County Down" (tune) and references there
cf. "The E-ri-e" (theme) and references there
NOTES [8 words]: Clonmel, South Tipperary, is on the river Suir. - BS
File: OLcM257

Wreck of the Hunnicut Curve, The

DESCRIPTION: "They called for a train crew at Paintsville, On a night that was rainy and drear." The train sets out, but goes off the tracks "only eight miles out of Paintsville On the Honnicut Curve so 'tis said." The brakeman lives, but the others die

AUTHOR: Buddy Preston?
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)
KEYWORDS: train wreck death
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, pp. 114-115, "The Wreck of the Hunnicut Curve" (1 text)
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, p. 161, "The Wreck of the Hunnicut Curve" (1 text)
Cohen-LongSteelRail, p. 274, "The Wreck of the Hunnicut Curve" (notes only)
ST ThBa114 (Partial)
Roud #14026
File: ThBa114

Wreck of the Huron, The [Laws D21]

DESCRIPTION: On a stormy night, the Huron receives orders to sail. The crew, despite the bad weather, obeys orders. The Huron runs aground on the North Carolina coast and is destroyed. A hundred crewmen's lives are lost

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: sea wreck disaster
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Nov 24, 1877 - The U.S.S. Huron is wrecked near Oregon Inlet, North Carolina. The number of dead was estimated as between 98 and 106
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Laws D21, "The Wreck of the Huron"
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCollectionNCFolklore2 288, "The Wreck of the Huron" (2 texts plus mention of 1 more)
DT 727, WRKHURON
Roud #2239
File: LD21

Wreck of the Jane Hunter

DESCRIPTION: The Jane Hunter is driven against the rocks by a gale. The captain "was not well, for the deck was not inclined." The mate has a boat launched but only one man survives. The "government [is] to blame"; "a lighthouse... would prevent the same"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: death drowning sea ship storm wreck sailor
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Oct 30, 1883 - Schooner Jane Hunter bound to St John's from Brazil stranded at Sheep's Cove in a gale with 6 dead (per Northern Shipwrecks Database)
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #30132
RECORDINGS:
Mr. Fitzgerald, "Wreck of the Jane Hunter" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
Bert Fitzgerald, "Jane Hunter" (on MUNFLA-Leach)

NOTES [366 words]: The two MUNFLA-Leach recordings are by two different singers, last name notwithstanding.

One version has the departure for Newfoundland as from "Corner Brook," which is like saying she sailed for Florida from Miami. "Sheeps Cove", the site of the stranding, may be Ship Cove in Placentia Bay. - BS

Newfoundland, which throughout its history has had a lot of storms, a lot of shoals, and not a lot of money, so there were never enough lighthouses in the nineteenth century. (Indeed, the problem continued well into the twentieth century; the 1918 Florizel wreck, for which see "The Wreck of the Steamship Florizel," was largely due to lack of lighthouses.)

The Jane Hunter was real, but it appears this song distorts some of the details. According to Robert C. Parsons, Cape Race: Stories from the Coast that Sank the Titanic, Flanker Press, 2011, p. 72, the Jane Hunter was owned by Walter Grieve and Company of St. John's, and on her final voyage had carried a load of fish to Pernambuco, Brazil. Her crew consisted of Captain Henry Bowden, an experienced skipper; mate Moses Roberts; William Seymour; Angus McDonald; Angus Wallace; William Tobin; David Taylor; Angus Rowe; and Alexander Downey.

It is believed that the ship was headed for Trepassy, near Cape Race, a good harbour to shelter from the storm. But the weather had been so bad that, for six days, the ship had not been able to take a sighting of either sun or stars. Captain Bowden thought they were twenty or more miles east of Cape Race -- i.e. safely out to sea. When the crew saw the lighthouse at Cape Pine (which was not especially bright), they didn't recognize it, and assumed it was a steamer's light. They kept sailing at a speed of seven knots or so -- and ran hard aground a few dozen yards from shore near Cape Race. Downey, who was in the bow, jumped into the sea, but it took him an estimated quarter of an hour to cross those few dozen yards (Parsons, p. 73). Angus Rowe was also washed ashore. They eventually found shelter at Trepassy/Sheep's Cove (Parsons, p. 74). The other seven men did not survive; apparently only five bodies were ever found. Only in 1902 did the Trepassy area get its own light. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4

File: FM3WotJH

Wreck of the Julia Dean, The

DESCRIPTION: "Nigh forty years have passed away... since the wreck of the Julia Dean." A heavy storm in the Straits [of Mackinac] drives her onto an island. The songs of birds and the sound of the waves are heard by the wreck, "meet requiem for the Julia Dean."
AUTHOR: Daniel Webster Whittle (1840-1901)?
EARLIEST DATE: 1887 (published by Whittle, according to Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors)
KEYWORDS: wreck
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 219-220, "The Wreck of the Julia Dean" (1 text)
Roud #19868
NOTES [224 words]: The notes in Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors connect this with an 1855 wreck. This is a bit problematic, since Whittle published the poem in 1887, which is hardly "nigh forty years" after 1855. (And I have verified the 1887 publication date from pp. 83-84 of Marion Harland's 1901 book With the Best of Intentions: A Midsummer Episode, available on Google Books.) Adding to the confusion, at least two other boats named Julia Dean were wrecked in the 1850s in the Upper Midwest, though both of these were apparently on the Mississippi, not the Great Lakes. I suspect there has been some confusion of details.
I must confess to some concern about the validity of Walton's "collection," too -- did the informant, Mrs. Bonner, actually have this from tradition? Whittle's poem, as published in Harland, has a line of asterisks just where Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors prints a line of dots, as if to imply an omission.
Daniel Webster Whittle was a Civil War veteran who became a modestly successful publisher of hymns, many of them offered under the name "El Nathan." I must confess that the only one of his compositions I've ever heard of is "Neither Do I Condemn Thee," and even that was much more staid than the Black Evangelical version I've heard. He did edit the memoirs of Philip Paul Bliss.

Wreck of the Julie Plante, The

DESCRIPTION: "On wan dark night on de (Lak St. Clair)... de crew of de wood scow Julie Plante got scar' an' run below." The captain ties Rosie the cook to the mast, then jumps overboard. Both are drowned. The moral: "You can't get drown... so long you stay on shore"

AUTHOR: probably William Henry Drummond
EARLIEST DATE: 1897 (Drummond, _The Habitant_)
LONG DESCRIPTION: French-Canadian dialect song. On Lak St. Pierre, the wood-scow "Julie Plante" encounters a fierce storm. They've lost their skiff, and the anchor won't hold; the captain ties the cook (Rosie) to the mast, takes the life-preserver, and jumps overboard, saying he'll drown for her sake. (?) Next morning the boat is wrecked and all are found dead. The singer warns listeners to marry and live on a farm; "You can't get drown on Lak St. Pierre/So long as you stay on shore.

KEYWORDS: ship disaster humorous death warning work storm wreck
FOUND IN: Canada(Ont) US(MW)
REFERENCES (9 citations):
Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy 22, "On Lac San Pierre" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 22, "On Lac San Pierre" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 76, "The Wreck of the Julie Plante" (1 text plus 2 fragments of another)
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 66, "The Wreck of the 'Julie Plante'" (1 text plus 2 fragments)
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 155-158, "The Wood Scow Julie Plante" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lewis-FavoriteMichiganFolkSongs, p. 24, "The Wreck of the Julie Plante" (1 text, 1 tune, "abridged for elementary students")
Fowke/Johnston-FolkSongsOfCanada, pp. 174-175, "The Wreck of the Julie Plante" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 62, "The Julie Plante" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: William Henry Drummond, M.D., _The Habitant and other French Canadian Poems_, Putnam, 1897, pp. 8-10, "The Wreck of the 'Julie Plante'" (1 text)
ST FJ174 (Full)
Wreck of the Kinsale, The DESCRIPTION: Kinsale leaves the Clyde for France November 18. In heavy winds and seas "'The engine's broke,' our captain said" and she drifts into the cliffs. A wealthy lady offers 500 pounds "to be secure" but drowns. From shore two Hook ladies rescue four.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast)

KEYWORDS: drowning sea ship storm wreck sailor

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Nov 21, 1872: Kinsale's engine shaft snaps and ship is driven against a cliff; three of crew of nineteen and one passenger are saved (source: Bourke in _Shipwrecks of the Irish Coast_ v1, p. 75)

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast, pp. 36-37, "The Wreck of the Kinsale" (1 text)

Roud #20524

NOTES [39 words]: Ranson-SongsOfTheWexfordCoast: The singer said "the ballad was composed by a man named Carroll, a schoolmaster, in Templetown, at the time of the wreck. The bell of the 'Kinsale' hangs above the entrance to Duncannon school yard." - BS

Last updated in version 5.0

File: Ran036

Wreck of the Lady Shearbrooke, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls sailing on the Lady Shearbrooke, and describes how the ship was wrecked on the rocks, with only 33 surviving. Upon returning to the banks of the Foyle, he sees Mary Doyle lamenting her lost love. He steps up and reveals himself

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1883 (Smith/Hatt/Fowke-SeaSongsBalladFromNineteenthCenturyNovaScotia)

KEYWORDS: love separation ship wreck disaster reunion

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Jul 19, 1831 - Lady Sherbrooke stranded at Mouse Island near Port aux Basques Newfoundland en route from Londonderry, Ireland to Quebec. See NOTES. (Source: Northern Shipwrecks Wreck of the Maggie, The

DESCRIPTION: Maggie leaves Brooklyn in Bonavista Bay and arrives in St John's harbour "when Captain Blunden cried, 'My boys, there's a steamer bearing down.'" Maggie and the steamer Tiber crash. Many from the Maggie are drowned

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1902 (Murphy, Songs and Ballads of Newfoundland, Ancient and Modern)

KEYWORDS: death ship crash wreck

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Nov 7, 1896 - The Maggie sinks after collision with the Tiber in St John's Harbour (source: Northern Shipwrecks DataBase)

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Leach-FolkBalladsSongsOfLowerLabradorCoast 80, "The Wreck of the Maggie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 70, "The Maggie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff, p. 41, "The Loss of the Maggie" (1 text); pp. 42-43, "The Wreck of the Maggie" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL : Rosalind Power, _A Narrow Passage: Shipwrecks and Tragedies in the St. John's Narrows_, Jeff Blackwood & Associates, 2000, p. 100, "The Loss of the Maggie" (1 text)

ST LLab080 (Partial)

Roud #4413

NOTES [565 words]: The St. John's Narrows were just that: Narrow, and with a sharp turn at the end. And the Narrows were the only way to enter the busiest harbor in Newfoundland. So there were a lot of ships, not much room, and not much visibility. The Narrows are only about 400 feet wide at their narrowest, and there are a lot of rocks and shallows in the passage (Power, pp. 2-3). Collisions such as this were regrettably common -- although this one took place outside the Narrows themselves.

According to Galgay/McCarthyShipwrecks, p. 86, the Maggie was a schooner which "sank after a collision with the steamer Tiber off the Narrows 7 Nov. 1896. Drowned were thirteen crewmen," loosely confirming the data in Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou and the Northern Shipwrecks Database.

A more detailed account is in Power, pp. 96-102. The Maggie, under Captain William Blunden, was a schooner bound from Bonavista Bay to St. John's with a thousand quintals of fish and fourteen passengers as well as a crew of thirteen (Power, pp. 96-97; Galgay/McCarthyOlde, p. 92, says she had also been to Goose Bay). The Tiber, under Captain J. Delisle, was bound from St. John's to Montreal; she was leaving the harbor, and had dropped off the pilot (Power, p. 96).

If Power's reconstruction is accurate, the Maggie had her lights on (confirmed by Galgay/McCarthyOlde, p. 92), but her crew expected the Tiber to head out toward the Atlantic. Instead, the Tiber stayed to the south of the Narrows, heading south toward Cape Spear, since she was headed for Canada. The steamer sliced right through the starboard side of the Maggie, cutting the schooner in half and causing her to sink in moments (Power, p. 97). Several passengers, including most of the women, were probably trapped inside the wreck; Galgay/McCarthyOlde, pp. 94-95, believe some others made it into the water but were killed by debris as the ship fell apart.
Power, p. 99, has a photo of nine of the ten survivors of the Maggie and a list of all ten (nine men, one woman); so also Galgay/McCarthyOlde, p. 94. Power p. 98, and Galgay/McCarthyOlde, pp. 94-195, list the thirteen dead; they ranged in age from 18 to 73, and included the wife of Captain Blundon and apparently one of his sons, although the Captain himself and three other sons survived. Nine of the dead were men, four were women; two of them were husband and wife James and Rhoda Power. None of their bodies were ever recovered. Several of the survivors were taken aboard by the Tiber, others by a schooner from Brigus (Power, p. 98).

To add insult to injury, some locals managed to collect to boxes from the wreck -- and robbed them. They were eventually caught and forced to return what they had taken (Galgay/McCarthyOlde, p. 95).

The Tiber was allowed to continue on her way after the collision, and supposedly almost collided with another ship soon after (Power, p. 99). Warrants were eventually put out for Captain Delisle plus his mate and the lookout (Power, p. 98). Delisle and Co. were arrested when they arrived in North Sydney, and gave their own, very different, account of the tragedy (Power, p. 101). In the end, no one was held formally responsible. It seems clear that Power, at least, thinks the Tiber was at fault, but she doesn't offer much real evidence.

It's not obvious why Ryan/Small-HaulinRopeAndGaff included this among their sealing songs. - RBW

Bibliography

- Galgay/McCarthyOlde: Frank Galgay & Michael McCarthy, Olde St. John's: Stories from a Seaport City, Flanker Press, 2001
- Galgay/McCarthyShipwrecks: Frank Galgay and Michael McCarthy, Shipwrecks of Newfoundland and Labrador, [Volume I], Harry Cuff Publishing, 1987

_Last updated in version 5.0_

File: LLab080

Wreck of the Mary Jane, The

DESCRIPTION: A song to "dryland sailors" about the Mary Jane, bound from Taghmon with a crew of 200 and a cargo of dung. When the cargo shifts in a storm the captain gives up hope. Short of tobacco they plan to put in at a pub. They run ashore at a doctor's door.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads)

KEYWORDS: ship storm wreck Africa Ireland humorous sailor

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (1 citation):

[OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 20, "The Wreck of the Mary Jane" (1 text, 1 tune)]

Roud #3026

CROSS-REFERENCES:

- cf. "The E-ri-e" (theme) and references there
- cf. "The Calabar" (theme and first line)

NOTES [66 words]: Taghmon is in south central County Wexford (not on the coast). When the storm hits they steer for Timbuctoo, Mali, hardly a coastal port of call. The term "dryland sailor" -- to judge by broadside Bodleian, Firth c.12(409), "The Dryland Sailor!" ("I never was on board a ship ") -- refers to a panhandler who pretends to be an old sailor with faked injuries because "that's the thing that pays." - BS

File: Oloc020

Wreck of the Morning Mail, The

DESCRIPTION: George Minnick's Number 23 train is wrecked on the Pennsylvania Railroad in Illinois.

AUTHOR: Words: Jake Taylor

EARLIEST DATE: 1939? (Jake Taylor an His Rail Splitters Log Book)

KEYWORDS: train wreck
Wreck of the Morrissey, The DESCRIPTION: Captain Charles Bailey takes the Morrissey from St Mary's Bay to Cape Breton. He picks up a load of fish at Bonne Bay and heads out to the Gulf of St Lawrence in spite of a hurricane.

AUTHOR: Nick Kane
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Peacock)
KEYWORDS: sea ship storm wreck
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peacock, pp. 981-982, "The Wreck of the Morrissey" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9815
RECORDINGS:
Everett Bennett, "The Wreck of the Morrissey" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
NOTES [74 words]: The wreck and captain's name are reported in Northern Shipwrecks Database as occurring at Lat 46N Long 060W but with no date or further details. Those coordinates are on the east coast of Cape Breton Island near Mira Bay. - BS
Which fact fits with the song, since it says that the Morrissey sailed to Cape Breton, although the crew seems to have been mostly Newfoundlanders. But the song as preserved offers very little useful information. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: Pea981

Wreck of the N & W Cannonball

DESCRIPTION: "The Cannonball was westbound on the Norfolk-Richmond run, The brave man at the throttle was Harry Covington." Two trains, one on the Norfolk and Western, the other on the Atlantic Coast line, collide in Virginia; two Covingtons die

AUTHOR: Words: Cleburne C. Meeks / Music: Carson J. Robison
EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (communication between Vernon Dalhart & Cleburne C. Meeks; see Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, p. 53)
KEYWORDS: train wreck
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
June 27, 1903 - The Cannonball wreck
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 50-56, "The N & W Cannonball Wreck" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-LongSteelRail, p. 272, "Wreck of the N & W Cannonball" (notes only)
Roud #14014
RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "Wreck of the N & W Cannonball" (Columbia 15378-D)
File: LSRa272G

Wreck of the Nimrod, The

DESCRIPTION: The steamship Nimrod sets out from Moreton Bay for Liverpool. When a storm blows up, not even the skilled crew can keep the ship from running aground. At last a bark picks up the survivors

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: ship storm wreck disaster rescue
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H717, p. 108, "The Wreck of the Nimrod" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #13369
NOTES [53 words]: Not related to "The Nimrod's Song," which is about seal hunters. I doubt the song refers to Ernest Shackleton's famous Nimrod (which IS the subject of "The Nimrod's Song"), which Shackleton sold to buy the ill-fated Endurance; that Nimrod was wrecked near Yarmouth in 1919, but the details sound different, - RBW
Last updated in version 4.3
File: HHH717

Wreck of the Northfleet, The DESCRIPTION: "Come all ye feeling people while this sad story I relate" as the singer tells of the wreck of the Northfleet, destroyed at Dungeness. 500 died when another ship hit the Northfleet at anchor. The captain tries to rescue those he can; he and his wife die
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1866 (Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs)
KEYWORDS: ship wreck disaster death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 22, 1873 - The _Northfleet_, bound for Australia, is hit at anchor by the steamer _Murillo_, resulting in the deaths of 320 people
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 126, "The Wreck of the Northfleet" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1174
NOTES [51 words]: There is at least one other song on this theme, in broadside Bodleian, Firth c.12(113), "Wreck of the Northfleet, or, Father, Put Me in the Boat!" (unknown, n.d.). Although the Bodleian web site uses the same Roud number for that broadside as for the song in Palmer, they are clearly not the same song. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.4
File: PsSe126

Wreck of the Rebecca, The (The Mary Cochrane)
DESCRIPTION: The singer emigrates to America. He takes ship. Part way through the voyage, the ship springs a leak. Eventually it overwhemls the pumps. Another vessel comes by and takes off the passengers shortly before she sinks
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: ship disaster emigration
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Roud #13370
NOTES [31 words]: The two versions in the Henry collection are clearly derived from the same original lyrics (though the tunes are distinct); I've no idea how the ship ended with such different names. - RBW
File: HHH565

Wreck of the Royal Charter, The DESCRIPTION: "Good people all attend I pray; Now I'll relate a sad calamity, Of a dreadful shipwreck near Beaumaris town." The Royal Charter is returning home from Australia when a storm strikes. The ship breaks in two. 455 people are lost
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1915 (Moeran, according to Palmer)
KEYWORDS: ship storm wreck disaster death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Oct 1859 - Wreck of the Royal Charter off Anglesey (on her way from Liverpool to Australia); 454 of those aboard were lost and only 39 saved (source: Palmer)
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Palmer-OxfordBookOfSeaSongs 117, "The Wreck of the Royal Charter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3327
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Loss of the Royal Charter" (subject)
NOTES [177 words]: Although I assume the ship described in this song is the same as that in "The Wreck of the Royal Charter," the lyrics are so different that I think they are separate songs. Roud also splits them. I'm not confident about it, though, and indeed Roud seems to confuse them, filing Bodleian Firth c 12(95) with the "Wreck" even though it appears to me to be a version of the "Loss." According to Lincoln P. Paine, Ships of the World: An Historical Encyclopedia, Houghton Mifflin, 1997, pp. 438-439, the Royal Charter was built in 1855, and was "One of the finest passenger ships of the day... [and was] the first English ship to carry double topsails." On her last trip she left Melbourne with 511 passengers and crew, which was effectively equal to her capacity. She arrived safely at Queenstown, Ireland, 58 days later, and let off 17 passengers. The next night, as the passed Moelfre, Anglesey, she ran into a severe storm. Captain T. Taylor dropped anchor at 10:45 p.m., but the cables broke at 3:30 a.m., and she was driven ashore. 455 people were lost. - RBW

Wreck of the Royal Palm

DESCRIPTION: On the Royal Palm and Ponce de Leon trains, heading home for Christmas, all is cheerful despite a storm. The trains collide; many are killed or hurt. The singer warns hearers to keep their orders straight; if they get their orders mixed it'll be too late
AUTHOR: Andrew Jenkins
EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (copyright)
KEYWORDS: grief warning train death railroading crash disaster storm wreck
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Dec. 23, 1926 - Crash of Royal Palm & Ponce de Leon, on the Southern Railway
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 247-249, "The Wreck of the Royal Palm" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, p. 316, "The Wreck of the Royal Palm" (1 text)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 218, "The Wreck of the Royal Palm" (1 text)
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 132-140, "The Wreck of the Royal Palm" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, ROYALPLM*
Roud #4149
RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "Wreck of the Royal Palm" (Brunswick 101/Romeo 350, 1927; Pathe 32380, 1928) (Gennett 6051/Silvertone 5005, 1927) (OKeh 45086, 1927) (Victor 20528) (Columbia 15121-D [as Al Craver], 1927)
Frank Luther, "Wreck of the Royal Palm" (Grey Gull 4200, 1928)
Clarence H. Wyatt, "The Wreck of the Royal Palm" (AFS 10,892 A5, 1954; on LC61)
NOTES [159 words]: This song seems to have moved into tradition directly from Dalhart's recordings. - PJS
The song is item dG51 in Laws's Appendix II. Brown, who is unaware of the authorship, gives details on the wreck, which was the result of bad weather and a failure to obey orders. 19 people were reported dead and 123 injured.
Cohen and Lyle note the curiosity that the song talks mostly about the Royal Palm though the deaths all occurred on the Ponce de Leon. It also appears that the crew of the latter train was primarily responsible for the accident. Lyle suggests that Andrew Jenkins didn't really know what happened, and tried to imagine the wreck -- something perhaps made even more complicated by the fact that Jenkins was blind.
This is another case of Vernon Dalhart putting out a song as soon as possible after the accident; Dalhart recorded it on January 14, 1927, three weeks after the event. One wonders how Jenkins had time to get the song to him. - RBW Wreck of the Semmity (Yosemite), The DESCRIPTION: The Yankee vessel Yosemite ("Semmity") crosses the Gulf in a storm with "a load of frozen herring" and crashes on a reef. All but one of the crew are rescued.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Peacock)
KEYWORDS: death sea ship storm wreck
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 21, 1897 - wreck of the Yosemite "on Ram Island ... off the Nova Scotian coast" (Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou)
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Peacock, pp. 983-984, "The Wreck of the Semmity" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 375-377, "The Wreck of the Old Spike (The Wreck of the Semmity)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 85, "The Old Smite" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9818
RECORDINGS:
Everett Bennett, "The Wreck of the Semmity" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]

Wreck of the Shenandoah

DESCRIPTION: "At four o'clock one evening On a warm September day A great and mighty airship From Lakehurst flew away." The dirigible encounters a storm and is wrecked. Fourteen people die. The mother of one of the crew watches in vain for the vessel

AUTHOR: Maggie Andrews (pseudonym of Carson J. Robison)
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (recordings, Vernon Dalhart, Guy Massey)
KEYWORDS: technology disaster death wreck mother
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Sep 3, 1925 - Wreck of the naval dirigible Shenandoah, commanded by Lt. Commander Zachary Landsdowne
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 219, "The Wreck of the Shenandoah" (1 text)
ST BrII219 (Full)
Roud #4150
RECORDINGS:
Vernon Dalhart, "Wreck of the Shenandoah" (Columbia 15041-D, 1925) (Edison 51620, 1925) (Cameo 809, 1925) (OKeh 40460 [as Tobe Little], 1925) (Vocalion 15125 [as Jep Fuller], 1925) Guy Massey, "Wreck of the Shenandoah" (Perfect 12218, 1925)

NOTES [200 words]: This is item dG52 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW
I would've placed bets on "Maggie Andrews" being a pseudonym for Andrew Jenkins, but a website on the Shenandoah wreck (http://tinyurl.com/tbdx-Shenandoah) states that it was actually a pseudonym for the team of Dalhart and Carson Robison. - PJS
According to Norm Cohen, "Maggie Andrews" was the maiden name of Robison's mother, and he copyrighted a lot of material under it. Of course, Robison also worked with Andrew Jenkins, so there could have been at least a little cross-influence. In fact, the 1925 sheet music for "Floyd Collins," one of Jenkins's songs, was published with the first page of "The Wreck of the Shenandoah" on the back cover to try to sell the song. It's an interesting item -- the earliest instance I can recall of a piano arrangement with chord diagrams (although the chords are for ukulele in GCEA tuning). That same first page is included in the sheet music of Jenkins's "The Dream of the Miner's Child" (even though, in that case, they had to add two pages to the sheet music to include the plug). Evidently the publishers thought the had a potential major hit on their hands. The evidence does not support their belief. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.5
Wreck of the Steamship Ethie, The

DESCRIPTION: On December 10, 1919, the "Ethie"-- despite the skilled work of her crew -- encounters a terrible storm and runs aground around one o'clock in the morning. She "lay wrecked on the shore" but all are saved, "taken in by kind people and treated with care"

AUTHOR: Maude Roberts Simmonds?

EARLIEST DATE: 1920 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)

KEYWORDS: travel sea ship shore storm wreck rescue

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Dec 11, 1919 - Wreck of the Ethie (in the early morning)

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (8 citations):
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 138, "The Wreck of the Steamship Ethie" (1 text, 1 tune)

Doyle-OldTimeSongsAndPoetryOfNewfoundland, "The Wreck of the Steamship Ethie" (1 text, 1 tune)

Blondahl-NewfoundlandersSing, pp. 86-87, "The Wreck of the Steamship Ethie" (1 text, 1 tune)

Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 370-372, "The Wreck of the Ethie" (1 text, 1 tune)

England-HistoricNewfoundlandAndLabrador, p. 59, "Wreck of the Steamship Ethie" (1 text, 1 tune)

ADDITIONAL: Maura Hanrahan, _The Alphabet Fleet_, Flankers Press Ltd., 2007, pp. 189-190, "The Wreck of the Steamship Ethie" (1 text, followed by a 2004 piece on the same event which looks pretty awful)

Bruce Ricketts, _The SS Ethie and the Hero Dog: The Mystery is Solved_, Baico Publishing, 2005, (no page number but in the preface), "Wreck of the Steamship Ethie" (1 text)

Roud #24242

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Come All ye Jolly Ice-Hunters" (theme)

NOTES [4618 words]: Elisabeth Bristol Greenleaf went to Sally's Cove as a volunteer teacher for Sir Wilfred Genfell's mission in the spring of 1920. Sally's Cove, near Bonne Bay on the west coast, is only two miles south from the wreck which occurred at Martin's Point.

For the account of her experiences with the song, consult R.D. Madison ed, _Newfoundland Summers: the Ballad Collecting of Elisabeth Bristol Greenleaf_ (Westerly, RI: The Utter Co., 1982), pp. 11-14. Some of the words are included with paraphrases inserted. - SH

Greenleaf's account is included in Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland['s entry] for this song.

Northern Shipwrecks Database says "NF. Dog 'Hero' swam ashore w. line to begin rescue." Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports writes, "In the days following this dramatic event, tales circulated that a heroic Newfoundland dog named Wisher assisted with the rescue by towing the line to the vessel. Hanrahan gives an account dispelling this legend." - BS

This event apparently has become a part of Newfoundland folklore, with the site of the wreck being a minor tourist attraction; the locals sometimes stage a play about the wreck.

The Ethie was part of the "Alphabet Fleet" of the Reid-Newfoundland Railway, so-called because the ships were given names in alphabetical order, all associated with Scotland (O'Neill, p. 976. Ethie Castle is on the east coast northeast of Dundee). The initial order was for eight ships, Argyle, Bruce, Clyde, Dundee, Ethie, Fife, Glencoe, and Home (Penney, p. 67). Not all the ships were the same size, but the Argyle, Clyde, Dundee, Ethie, Fife, and Home were all said to be 155 foot sister ships (Bruce, p. 19). Although designed to be utility ferries, they were also intended to be comfortable passenger ships, although (because they mostly traveled relatively short distances) not very fast.

The Alphabet Fleet came out of one of the most elaborate and risky deals any government had ever undertaken -- the Newfoundland Railway. The first attempt at a railroad in Newfoundland had been authorized by the government in 1880 (Hiller/Neary, p. 128) and started in 1881; it was supposed to go from St. John's to Hall's Bay on the north coast, with a side line to Harbour Grace. It flopped, with only a tiny amount of line built in the Avalon Peninsula (Cadigan, pp. 141-142; Hanrahan, p. 9), and even that poorly built in an effort to control costs (Penney, p. 27; O'Flaherty,
It seems to be agreed that, even after renegotiations, Newfoundland had granted out control over Newfoundland was able to renegotiate. A little. (Harding, p. 83).

were the only shareholders, it meant that the organization building the railroad had changed, and made a mistake -- when he went to seek loans, the bankers demanded that he convert his business into a limited liability corporation. So Reid incorporated -- and although he and his sons nothing the new government could have done about the deal, since it had been finalized, but Reid had to involve himself deeply in government, finding financing to keep Newfoundland afloat so that the project could continue; Harding, p. 73. (Things might have been even worse if Reid hadn't imposed an incredibly strict moral code on himself; Harding, p. 74.)

I won't even try to explain how this was supposed to work, or make money, since it failed to do so (in the twenty years from 1901-1921, the Reid Newfoundland Company is said to have lost six million dollars on the business; Harding, p. 96), and Prime Minister Whiteway, who proposed it, said, "We do not regard [the railway]... as an enterprise that will pay." Reid and the government would have many disputes over the years about how Reid would get his money back (DictNewLabrador, pp. 286-287; Chadwick, p. 96f., etc.) -- though the fault is perhaps to be shared equally; Reid had proposed an absurd deal (it would have given him control of one-sixth of the land in Newfoundland! -- Kearley, p. 58; as Harding, p. 77, says, the government was "giving one man title to a parcel of land equivalent to half the size of Belgium") and the government, desperate not to look bad, had hastened to accept (Hiller/Neary, p. 138).

A colonial office minute said that "The Railway... will not for years pay for the grease of the wheels"; Britain's Joseph Chamberlain commented that "Practically it seems that the ministry are going to sell the Colony to a contractor" (Chadwick, p. 83) -- which is about right. Because Newfoundland's population was so scattered, there were almost no destinations which would carry enough freight or passengers to make it worth maintaining the rails. Yet the government wanted not only a track from Harbour Grace to St. John's and from there down the Avalon Peninsula (the only run that was even faintly economically viable) but also the line across the island, plus side branches (the desire to hit as many outports as possible nearly doubled the length of the line, from about 300 miles for a direct route to about 600; Harding, p. 12; for some background on the branch lines, see the notes to "The Bonavist Line"). And it wanted to maintain steamboat service to other outports. The deal was so bad that Britain's colonial office, although they could not stop it because Newfoundland was self-governing, took the unusual step of publicly warning against the deal (Harding, p. 80) -- but Newfoundland's history of closed-door government meant that the deal went through.

It was a fantastically visionary idea, but economically ridiculous -- it gave Reid almost as much control over the island and the government had -- and it committed Newfoundland for fifty years! It also gave Reid a bunch of land that hadn't even been properly surveyed and which the government did not have title to, leading to many disputes over ownership (Penney, p. 69).

It perhaps should come as no surprise that the government official who brokered all this, A. B. Morine, was also an employee of Reid's (Hiller/Neary, p. 140; Harding, p. 81. For more on Morine, see also "The Sealer's Strike of 1902 (The Sealers Gained the Strike)"). His misdeeds would cause the government to collapse (Major, p. 288). There were actually two phases to Reid's offer, before and after a government fiscal/electoral crisis. The railroad, and Reid's role in it, became such a major issue that Newfoundland's political parties actually broke up and realigned over it (Noel, p. 27; Hiller/Neary, pp. 132-134). Chadwick's chapter on this is labeled "The (Almost) Great Train Robbery," which pretty well sums it up. Harding, pp. 82-83, says that Reid went all-in to support the government that had made the deal with him -- but if that had any effect at all, it was to turn the population even more against the conservatives; they suffered the worst electoral loss in Newfoundland history (32 of 36 seats went to the opposition). Ordinarily there would have been nothing the new government could have done about the deal, since it had been finalized, but Reid made a mistake -- when he went to seek loans, the bankers demanded that he convert his business into a limited liability corporation. So Reid incorporated -- and although he and his sons were the only shareholders, it meant that the organization building the railroad had changed, and Newfoundland was able to renegotiate. A little. (Harding, p. 83).

It seems to be agreed that, even after renegotiations, Newfoundland had granted out control over its economic destiny (Hanrahan, p. 11; Major, p. 287, says that the deal made Reid "an economic overlord, with all the potential for a government at the mercy of at (sic.) his wishes."). It was a constant source of political controversy and was a leading cause both of friction with Canada and of the eventual bankruptcy of the Newfoundland government during the Great Depression (Noel, pp. 154-155, etc.); their ineptness in deal-making simply astounds me.

When Newfoundland went bankrupt in 1933, it was estimated that 35% of the debt was due to the railroad (Hiller/Neary, p. 35; p. 197 implies that even that figure may be a little low), and indeed, Newfoundland had taken out its first foreign debt in the 1880s to pay for the project (Hiller/Neary, p. 135). The basic problem was that too much of Newfoundland was empty to generate revenue, and the hilly country meant high fuel demands, plus there was a constant need to clear snow from the tracks (made worse by the foolish initial decision to build a narrow gauge rail; Kearley, p. 56; and to route the rail through very high hills; Lingard, p. 2; according to Harding, p. 11, it was the longest narrow gauge rail in the western hemisphere. P. 40 adds that one contractor had told the government that a narrow-gauge line would never be reliable, which was true, but the only result of the warning was that they didn’t get the bid).

It is perhaps symbolically appropriate that the first engine ordered for the line sank on its way to Newfoundland (Harding, p. 43). All those problems in construction meant that the overall cost of moving a ton of freight was estimated at seven times that in most of North America (Penney, p. 72).

For more on the Newfoundland Railroad in general, see the notes to "The Bonavist Line," "Downey's Our Member," "The Loss of the Bruce," and "Drill, Ye Heroes, Drill!"
None of which has anything to do with the Ethie, except that it explains how she came to be where she was. Although most of the controversy was about the rail lines and how to manage and pay for them, the Reid company was also given a subsidy for the coastal steamers, with each trip having a specified subsidy (Harding, p. 139).

Having won the contract, dubious for Newfoundland as it was, the Reid company at least did its part of the job fairly well, building the railroad efficiently, making improvements in St. John's (including paving some streets), and setting up group of steamers to connect the outports to each other and to the railroads, replacing an older government steamer service (Hanrahan, p. 8). These were the aforementioned Alphabet Fleet -- a set of vessels which could not pay for themselves that were paid for with the subsidy plus land that Reid would use for the railroad then partially hand back (Hanrahan, p. 10. Are you lost yet? I am....)

The Ethie’s captain, Edward English, had served as a merchant officer in World War I, although he was relatively new to the Ethie. Still, he was said to be respected by both his men and the ship’s owners (Ricketts, p. 2, which also has a photo of him).

The Ethie had been built in 1900 (Hanrahan, p. 4; Galgay/McCarthy imply she was a few years older; Ricketts, p. 2, says she went into service in 1901); she was a coal-powered steamer of 440 tons (Galgay/McCarthy, p. 71), and was considered a reliable boat. (Reliable enough that the owners apparently didn’t even insure her! -- Hanrahan, p. 50.) Nonetheless, there were apparently some who said her propeller was too small (Ricketts, p. 2, who adds that she was not expected to serve much longer). At the time of her wreck, she was on a trip along the western coast of Newfoundland -- earlier in her career, she had sailed in Trinity Bay (Penney/Kennedy, p. 94), but much of her career had been spent running between the island’s western outports, which mostly had few or no other connections with the outside world. The last trip of her career was entirely typical: she was sailing south down the coast.

Her exact itinerary on the last trip is a little uncertain. Galgay/McCarthy, p. 71, say she left Parson’s Pond around 4:00 p.m. then headed for Cow Head. But she may have skipped one or the other stop. Cow Head’s harbor was too small for the Ethie, so her habit was to stop outside while the residents ran out to her in dories (Hanrahan, p. 152), which means that on this particular run, given the storm, she may not have stopped. Ricketts, p. 7, says she definitely did not stop. In any case, she was on her way south from Cow Head by about 7:45.

Fans of the Stan Rogers song "The Mary Ellen Carter“ may be interested in knowing that there is a Three Mile Rock between Parson’s Pond and Cow Head. Her next destination was supposed to be Bonne Bay, a few dozen miles to the south. Even if her crew had wanted to stop somewhere else, they didn’t have much choice; there was no safe harbor in which to weather a storm between Parson’s Pond and Bonne Bay (Ricketts, p. 11). Captain English and First Officer John Gullage were aware, before they left Cow Head, that the weather was worsening -- Gullage reported the barometer falling fast, and said later that it was the worst storm he had ever seen on Newfoundland’s west coast (Hanrahan, p. 153, although Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland, who talked to him, quote him on p. 279 as saying the weather was fine when they started down the coast from Port Saunders). But both officers thought they could reach Bonne Bay before the storm became too bad, and with Christmas approaching, everyone wanted to get to their destination with their Christmas merchandise (Galgay/McCarthy, p. 72). In any case, what else could they do? So they set out on the evening of December 10, 1919.

The storm proved worse than anyone anticipated, covering the ship with so much ice that she became badly top-heavy (Ricketts, pp. 12-13; the newspaper account on p. 15 of Connors says "the deck [was] iced almost to the level of the rails"; the ship was "practically submerged the greater portion of the time" and everything on the deck destroyed); the ice even lined the interior of the ship, and the heat was out. At the same time, a northwest wind came up which was stronger than the ship's engines could fight (Galgay/McCarthy, p. 73; Ricketts, p. 3, says that, on this particular trip, she had a load of cheap Newfoundland coal that didn't burn very well. Also, there were just two stokers, according to Ricketts, p. 17; the list on p. 180 of Hanrahan lists three firemen but only two trimmers, who put the coal in position. This was probably the result of attempts at cost-cutting -- the Reid company found Newfoundland a very bad bargain; they let their railroads run down in the World War I era and by 1920 was telling the government that they could no longer afford to run the system; Penney, p. 102. Losses in this period exceeded a million dollars a year -- which was a lot in 1920).

It was clear that the ship was going to be wrecked before it could reach Bonne Bay. When morning broke on December 11, they were only about a mile from the west coast of Newfoundland, and being blown steadily toward it (Galgay/McCarthy, p. 74). The only option the crew had was to decide where they would go ashore. Purser Walter Young, who was a local and probably knew the coast better than the officers from elsewhere (Hanrahan, p. 153), suggested that they make for Martin's Point, where there might be enough shelter to get the passengers ashore safely. Captain English agreed, and they managed to keep the ship off the rocks long enough for her to be wrecked near their chosen point. Captain English left Young and Gullage to put the boat on the rocks while he told the passengers what was happening (Galgay/McCarthy, p. 75). The idea was apparently to head for the shore at maximum speed, timing everything so that they would ride a high wave over the reefs and come to rest on the beach (Ricketts, p. 14).

Unfortunately, the Ethie hit a submerged rock before she could reach the shore. It tore her sides open, and ruined most of her bridge; clearly it was the end of the ship (Hanrahan, p. 155). And although she was firmly lodged, the seas hitting the port side were so heavy that there was fear that she would capsize and those aboard her be killed (Ricketts, p. 21). The storm was too strong for the ship's boat, which was smashed when they put it in the water (Galgay/McCarthy, pp. 75-76; the account on p. 15 of Connors implies it was smashed even before they let it down). But the people on shore -- just two families lived in the vicinity, according to Hanrahan, p. 154 -- could see what was happening. (One of them briefly thought the ship was an iceberg, it was so covered with ice! -- Hanrahan, p. 155.) Reuben Decker was out hauling firewood with his dog Wisher as the Ethie headed for shore, but he didn't see much of what happened (Ricketts, p. 15. Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland, p. 278, say that Decker was the only man who lived in the area, but the correct statement seems to be that he was the only man who was actually outside at the time).

Somehow, though, they established a line to shore. There seems to be disagreement about this; Hanrahan, p. 156, say the men on the shore tied a rope to a buoy and threw it out to sea, where the crew eventually snagged it, but Galgay/McCarthy, p. 76, and Ricketts, pp. 22-23, claim Captain English was able to float a rope to shore on a buoy. It didn't work very well, but it came close enough to shore that the locals could reach it and pull it ashore. The dog Wisher is said to have bitten the rope a few times; Wisher did not haul it to land (Ricketts, p. 37). Walter Young, the man who had suggested beaching at Martin's Point, was the first to come ashore, so that he could help handle the tricky bosun's chair (Ricketts, p. 23).

However the rope was sent, using that rope, all 92 people on the Ethie (that's the number in Ricketts, p. 33 etc., and others; Hanrahan says 96; Ricketts, p. 59, says that others claimed 72 or 54) were able to reach shore in a bo'sun's chair. (There was also a dory somewhere along the way, according to witnesses cited in Hanrahan, p. 156; it's not clear what it was doing, but I'm guessing it held up the rope.)

First Officer Gullage and Captain English were the last to leave, around mid-afternoon. It's probably fortunate that there weren't many more people aboard, the rope was starting to fray, and Gullage and English had worried somewhat about whether it would carry their weight (Ricketts, pp. 28-29). That left the problem of accommodating ninety-odd people in a settlement with just two homes. As Ricketts says on p. 33, "On December 11, 1919, the population of Martin's Point, Newfoundland grew from 8 to 100." The locals had put in food for the winter, but suddenly they had to share that out. And no one outside Martin's Cove even knew where the Ethie was -- the storm had cut the local telegraph (Hanrahan, p. 157), and in Newfoundland, the sea is the way you get around, not roads! Bonne Bay was 18 miles away; it took two days to get word out and three for transportation to arrive (Ricketts, p. 33). Apparently people actually went back to the Ethie to pick up some cargo (Hanrahan, p. 158). When the storm ended, a local named Roberts was able to take the passengers to another town, Woody Point, in groups of fifteen or so. It was a tough few days, but everyone made it through -- and became famous.

The best known bit of folklore about the wreck is that there was a dog that was the key to getting the rope to shore and the passengers to land. Eventually the tale became that it was a Newfoundland named Wisher, but it took a while for all these details to become well-known -- e.g. O'Neill, p. 976, repeats the story, while declaring that the dog was a mongrel, not a Newfoundland. Andrieux, p. 91, is even less critical; it not only accepts that the dog was a Newfoundland but that it "immortalized the breed." But another version of the story says that the hero dog was not Wisher but Captain English's own dog, carried with the captain on the Ethie. This story came from the English family (Ricketts, pp. 62-63), but not until long after English must have been dead. There is a photo of English with a dog, but the fact that English had a dog doesn't make it the hero dog.

The dog Wisher did exist (Ricketts, p. 15, says that Wisher was a Collie-and-who-knows-what mix, not a Newfoundland), and it was at the beach -- and it did nothing but get in the way. There is no mention of it in the December 17, 1919 Evening Herald account reprinted on p. 15 of Connors. Clarke, p. 429, says only that the story is now "discounted." Cassie Brown attributes the story about the dog to one of the Ethie's coalmen (Ricketts, p. 61). The first officer of the Ethie John Gullage, was adamant for his entire life that there was no dog (Ricketts, p. 65). Even the play that the locals sometimes stage about the wreck includes the line "There was no dog!" (Ricketts, p. 36).

So how did the story spread? Hanrahan, pp. 159-160, believes the story started as a practical joke, and the dog's owner took advantage of it to make some money. A medical missionary named Sir Willard Grenfell (the one who sent Greenleaf on her travels, and a famous name in Newfoundland) -- was responsible for propagating the tale, perhaps in order to raise money -- and of course breeders of Newfoundland dogs also were happy to cash in, even though Wisher wasn't a member of that breed! (Hanrahan, pp. 160-161).

Ricketts, pp. 37-39, has a different spin. The first newsman to produce a story was an AP stringer named A. L. Bartlett, who put in all the human interest details he could -- a baby in a mail bag (genuine) and a dog (bogus). As Ricketts comments on p. 38, the reason the story was picked up from the AP wire by various newspapers was "Dogs, babies, shipwrecks and heroes." The Philadelphia Human Society got all excited and, instead of doing something useful like neutering stray dogs, raised money to get a jeweled collar for the useless mutt Wisher. It officially declared the mutt to be a "HERO." The collar still exists, and looks absolutely ridiculous (Ricketts has photos on pp. 40-41).

All this even though no one in Philadelphia knew how big a Newfoundland dog was, and Wisher wasn't a Newfoundland anyway. The associated medal also got the date of the wreck wrong (Ricketts, p. 40). In 1920, some nut case traveled to Martin's Point and bought Wisher from Decker -- who had no idea this silliness was going on -- for the exorbitant price of $30, which Decker happily accepted; "After all, Decker had never understood why his dog was being treated like a hero and if someone wanted to pay him hard cold cash for that dog there would be no argument from him!" (Ricketts, pp. 43-44). Ricketts speculates further that the buyer, William Orum, didn't even know what a Newfoundland was, so he didn't realize the Wisher was not a Newfie dog but a part-collie mutt.

Orum -- who apparently had a hard time convincing people that Wisher was a HERO -- later went back to Decker and bought the HERO collar also. Later, Orum dumped Wisher and got an actual Newfoundland; as Ricketts sarcastically notes, "At least the collar now fit" (Ricketts, p. 44). In 1922, Orum gave up and sold the whole show to another nut willing to try to make a living off a dog that wasn't even the dog that hadn't actually done anything. (You think that's bad? A poet named E. J. Pratt later wrote a poem "Carlo" that retold the tale that hadn't actually happened that wasn't actually about the dog that wasn't even the dog that didn't do it anyway. Oy. If you want to suffer even more than you have in reading this entry, you can find "Carlo" on pp. 141-143 of Harding).

The sale of the dog was effectively the end of the Ethie's part in the story, although Ricketts devotes pp. 49-57 to the further tale of the fake dog, the ridiculous collar, and the life of Dinty Kane, the drunk who tried to take advantage of both.

Bruce, pp. 22-23, sums up "An apocryphal story about a Newfoundland dog who swam out to the wreck to help rescue the Ethie's passengers and crew soon did wonders for the breed's reputation for spontaneous heroism in the service of mankind."

There is one bit of folklore that about the wreck is true, though. It was widely reported that one baby girl had to be transferred to shore in a mail bag (Hanrahan, pp. 156-157). This is true, and, happily, he kid made it; Ricketts, p. 24, says that the baby and her mother were the first passengers sent ashore. And the girl eventually donated the mailbag to a museum (Hanrahan, p. 159) -- indeed, the baby, Hilda Batten, later Hilda Menchions, was still alive in 2005 (Ricketts, p. 60). Clarke, p. 430, says that she eventually gave the bag to Gros Morne National Park, site of some Ethie artifacts. Although the dog story is declared "all lies" by those who were there (Hanrahan, p. 159), most of the rest of the tale in the song is right.

The captain and first officer, despite their mistake in setting out on that night, were commended for their valor and skill getting all ashore.

Galgay and McCarthy conclude their account by saying that the wreck of the Ethie is the best-known of all the disasters on the west coast of Newfoundland (p. 78). I would guess that this is due in part to the fact that all were saved and in part to the fact that it happened so close to Christmas. Until recently, Roud lumped this song with "Come All ye Jolly Ice-Hunters" (Roud #6345) -- a song with which it shares some elements, but this song is based on an incident almost a century more recent. Spencer, pp. 130-131, notes a story in one of Elisabeth Bristol Greenleaf's writings in which she recalled taking her turn singing during a collecting session -- and discovered that several survivors of the Ethie were present at the time. The account in Spencer (written by I. Sheldon Posen) also includes a substantial portion of her text.

In addition to Ricketts, there is another book about this event, "The Wreck of the Ethie" by Hilary Hyland, but it's fiction and appears to be aimed at children. The purpose seems to be to glorify the dog rather than describe what actually happened. I haven't read it; it sounds deadly. The cover drawing shows a Newfoundland dog. Oy.

Portions of the Ethie wreck can still be seen in the waters around Martin's Point; Ricketts, p. 2, and Clarke, p. 430, show her as she looked when intact, and on pp. 29-31 shows photos of her as the wreck decayed: she very early last everything above the main except the funnel (the upper works was apparently lost within a day of her wreck; Ricketts, p. 34), but as late as 1930 funnel and hull were still there and looking mostly intact. By 1956 the hull was smashed and resting on the shore. By 2000, parts of the boiler were still visible in the sea, but she was mostly gone.

Galgay/McCarthy, p. 73, O'Neill, p. 941, Andrieux, p. 92, and Hanrahan, p. 98, also have photos of the Ethie in her better days; Connors, p. 16, has one of her in dry dock.

A full list of the Ethie's crew can be found on p. 180 of Hanrahan.

The Ethie wreck wasn't the last to hit the Alphabet Fleet in December 1919. On December 25, the Dundee went aground on Noggin Island. Happily, there were no deaths as a result of that wreck, either (Harding, p. 141). See also "The Loss of the Bruce," for the wreck of the latter ship. For a song about another ship in the fleet, see "The Smokeroom on the Kyle." - RBW

Bibliography

• Andrieux: J. P. Andrieux, Marine Disasters of Newfoundland and Labrador, O.T.C. Press, 1986
• Bruce: Harry Bruce, Lifeline: The Story of the Atlantic Ferries and Coastal Boats, Macmillan of Canada, 1977
• Cadigan: Sean T. Cadigan, Newfoundland and Labrador: A History, University of Toronto Press, 2009
• Chadwick: St John Chadwick, Newfoundland: Island Into Province, Cambridge University Press, 1967
• Connors: William Connors, By the Next Boat: A Photo History of Newfoundland Coastal Boats, Johnson Family Foundation, 2002
• Hanrahan: Maura Hanrahan, The Alphabet Fleet, Flanker Press Ltd., 2007
• Hiller/Neary: James Hiller and Peter Neary, editors, Newfoundland in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries: Essays in Interpretation, University of Toronto Press, 1980
• Lingard: Mont Lingard (with photos by Mike Shufelt), Next Stop: Wreckhouse; More Chats, Wreck of the Steamship Florizel, The DESCRIPTION: A chronicle of the tragic wreck of the S.S. Florizel off Renews Rocks where 40 were saved out of 106.

AUTHOR: Words: Joan Endacott; Music: Harvey Freeman (these may have been the informants, not the authors)

EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)

KEYWORDS: wreck sea ship disaster

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:

Feb 23/24, 1918 - Wreck of the Florizel

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (4 citations):

Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 140, "The Wreck of the Steamship Florizel" (1 text, 1 tune)

Lehr/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 38, "The Florizel" (1 text, 1 tune)

Blondahl-NewfoundlandersSing, pp. 84-85, "The Wreck of the Steamship Florizel" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #4417

RECORDINGS:

Omar Blondahl, "The Wreck of the Steamship Florizel" (on NFOBlondahl04)

NOTES [5449 words]: An extensive account of this wreck is found in Cassie Brown's A Winter's Tale. Toronto: Doubleday Canada Ltd., 1992. The boat was taking passengers from St. John's to Halifax then on to New York. The authors of the song are from nowhere near the [site of] the incident and the words were written three years after the wreck while the tune was written eleven years after. - SH

This song is item dD35 in Laws's Appendix II.

All the following notes and page citations are based on Cassie Brown's book except as noted. (This is not Brown's only writing on the Florizel; she also had two essays on it in BrownWinter. But these add nothing to the story; one is a brief overview and one is "Kitty Cantwell's Story" of the wreck.) Pp. 4-5, describes the Florizel as a ship of some 3000 tonnes (Ryan/Drake, p. 37, lists her as 1980.22 net tons, which refers to her carrying capacity as opposed to overall capacity), 305 feet long and having a beam of 42 feet. She was built in 1909 by Charles Connell & Co. of Glasgow; she had the distinction of being the first sealing steamer fitted with wireless equipment (Ryan/Drake, p. 37).

She was named for the character in Shakespeare's A Winter's Tale; Bowring's, the line which owned her, usually named their ships after Shakespearean characters (e.g. Cordelia, Desdemona, Hamlet, Juliet, Ophelia, Othello, Prospero, Romeo, Stephano; O'Neill, p. 961). Although only about a decade old at the time of her loss, her design had been conservative; she used the old triple expansion engines rather than the newer turbines. Brown says that she was designed as a passenger liner, with room for about 180 passengers in addition to her crew, but in the spring she went off passenger duties to become a sealer -- see the accounting of her sealing work at the end of this entry. Her work as a sealer is briefly mentioned in the song "Captains and Ships"; O'Neil, p. 961, says that she "broke records at the seal fishery under command of the legendary Captain Abram Kean"; on one trip, the Florizel under Kean took 43,000 seal hides. For Kean, see "Captain Abram Kean." The rest of the year, she usually sailed between New York, Halifax, and St. John's. Her top speed was apparently between eleven and twelve knots (p. 34).

Her final trip, from St. John's, came after a very difficult voyage north in which there had been a smallpox epidemic on board. (Yes, people knew about smallpox vaccination in 1918, but there were apparently anti-vaxxer imbeciles in 1918 just as there are a century later.) This caused a delay in her final voyage; it also caused a number of passengers to cancel (pp. 6-7). Nine crew members (mostly waiters and stewards) were left behind on her final voyage because of the epidemic; one of them was Harvey Freeman (called "Harry Freeman" in the note on page 6 of Brown), who supplied the tune collected by Greenleaf and Mansfield.

It is unlikely that many veteran sailors were afraid, however; John Shannon Munn, the Managing Director of the Red Cross Line that owned the ship (as well as a senior director of Bowring's, the shipping/insurance family business that owned the Red Cross Line; Keir, p. 241), was one of those who sailed on the Florizel (p. 16). And her captain, William Martin, was regarded as a careful man and a good navigator (p. 7).

The ship itself had been given a deck gun to try to protect her from German submarines (the Florizel never encountered a U-boat, but her much larger sister the Stephano had been sunk in 1916; p. 35). The addition of the gun cost her a lifeboat (p. 36), which just possibly might have mattered.

The crew had sufficient warning that a storm was coming. It had been working its way up the Atlantic coast for several days. It hadn't been particularly severe, as winter gales go, but it was already bringing heavy swells to Newfoundland when the Florizel started her voyage (pp. 14-15). She ended up delaying her departure three and a half hours, but that was all (p. 17).

Unfortunately, the east coast of Newfoundland was not easy to navigate. There were three lighthouses between Cape Spear near St. John's and Cape Race in the south, plus the two at the capes themselves, but the three lighthouses on the coast were not very bright or easily spotted (p. 22); at no time did the crew of the Florizel get a clear sighting. And her final voyage was made in icy seas (so-called "sish ice," putting a few inches of ice fragments atop the sea), making it impossible to use the log to measure her speed (p. 35). And, for some reason, the ship didn't seem able to make her full speed on that night -- both the captain and the watch officer thought she was going about eight knots, eventually falling to perhaps six. But they didn't know! (p. 41). When they tried to fix their course by taking bearings on a lighthouse, they couldn't see it (pp. 48-49).

Most skippers, in this situation, would have headed away from the shore lest the ocean currents -- which ran toward shore at a fairly high speed and could drive the ship in the same direction -- affect her course. Instead, Captain Martin chose to steam less than two miles off-shore (p. 40). If I understand the numbers in Brown, if the currents were high, they could take the ship toward shore at about a half a mile per hour faster than if the current was at normal speed. In other words, if Captain Martin's dead reckoning were wrong, he might hit the shore as soon as four hours after he set his course based on "normal" currents.

To his credit, Captain Martin took soundings about once an hour from about 10:00 p.m. to midnight (pp. 50ff.) But the ship was still moving slowly, and he doesn't seem to have tried to find out why (pp. 56, 63, 66). The soundings seemed to indicate that he was on course (p. 56) -- but, because the depth in that area was nearly constant, they didn't really mean much. By midnight, the wind was up to 33 miles per hour at St. John's, and increasing (p. 62); by 2:00, it was a major storm (p. 63). But Captain Martin was so sure she was safely away from shore that he stopped taking soundings after midnight, and apparently made little attempt to watch for land (p. 67).

Well before dawn, the ship started taking on water as portholes started to leak and some glass started to break (pp. 70, 74-75). Books and furnishings were breaking loose and making life very uncomfortable aboard. This by itself did not endanger the ship, but it probably made everyone more irritable and less able to react to conditions. At 4:30, there was a major problem with the cargo in one hold (p. 77, although Brown isn't really clear about whether it shifted or the hold flooded); in any case, this didn't affect Captain Martin's actions.

After hours of rough weather, Captain Martin apparently estimated his position and gave the order that, at 4:00 a.m., the ship should start to steer more to the west (p. 71) -- i.e. toward land. Around 4:40, a sounding which Martin did not order (and which was done in a way that made the reading unofficial) made the sea depth 45 fathoms -- shallower than expected on his course; meanwhile, the ship seemed to be moving faster. Martin thought he knew where he was: by the Ballard Bank, almost due east of Cape Race. That meant it was possible to turn west to head south of Newfoundland -- a move which, if nothing else, would reduce the rolling of the ship. Captain Martin so ordered (pp. 78-79).

Martin's navigation was way off. He was somewhat west and far to the north of where he thought he was -- about twelve miles north of Cape Race rather than level with it. Having finally gotten speed up to nine knots, Captain Martin drove his ship aground on Horn Head Reef. And, not realizing what he had done, he quickly ordered full speed astern (p. 83). It didn't get her off the rocks. But if by some chance he hadn't broken the ship's back already, the attempt to break free did so. The Florizel was wrecked. Probably the only thing that kept her from sinking on the spot was the fact that she was on the rocks; she had a bad list to starboard (p. 95) and the water was coming in fast. With one end fixed, the waves were flexing the other end (p. 102).

The map on p. x of Brown shows the Florizel starting out from St. John's to sail south of Newfoundland. But somewhere around Cape Broyle, she turned in closer to shore to avoid Bantam Bank (an undersea rise that could not sink the ship but could produce unpleasant swells; p. 57) -- and, somewhere south of the Ferryland lighthouse, went turned even more to the west and crashed into Renews Rocks between Renews on the north and Cappahayden on the south.

With the ship flooding, the passengers had no choice but to make for the boat deck. Some were washed away (often the moment they reached the deck); some made it -- but were not dressed for the bitter cold and the icy water (pp. 102-103). Nor could much be done about rigging lifelines or the like; they too had been washed away (pp. 106-107).

Captain Martin ordered everyone into the lifeboats (p. 84) -- but, of course, they were in the middle of a storm. Although not far from land, the boats might well be lost if they tried to leave the ship (p. 94). But the ship wasn't safe either; there was water rising in the engine room (p. 89). She had a radio, and could send an S.O.S. (indeed, the radio operator started sending it almost at once; p. 88) -- but where was she? When the radiomen started calling, Captain Martin claimed they were near Cape Race (p. 116); he still hadn't figured out his error. It probably wouldn't have helped if he'd had it right; with only battery power for an auxiliary radio set, the radio went dead after a few minutes, probably because the aerial failed.

The ship's whistle began to sound soon after her wreck, and the people of Cappahayden apparently became aware of the wreck almost instantly. But they had no boats able to brave the weather (pp. 108-109); people brought their dories to the coast, but when one tried to put out, the weather overturned it at once (p. 201). Meanwhile, the Florizel was filling fast; some of those aboard apparently could not make it to the boat deck.

The Florizel's own boats were quickly washed away or destroyed; as those aboard were trying to get them down, a wave crashed some of the portside boats off their davits and into the starboard boats. Several people were washed overboard in the process (p. 113). Then the power went out, silencing the whistle and extinguishing the lights (p. 114).

There was little those on the Florizel could do but huddle on the upper levels and hope for rescue. There wasn't much space; the stern was going under (p. 128). Even the bow was only about eight feet above the water's surface (Keir, p. 242), leaving everything vulnerable to the waves. The boilers later fell out, too (p. 138), leaving even more holes in the hull and destroying the stokehold that had been one of the last refuges. For a while, some took shelter in or near the wheelhouse (p. 145), but then that was washed away (p. 148), taking with it among others the famous Newfoundland captain Joe Kean (Abram Kean's oldest son, who had captained the Florizel on some of her sealing trips) and the line's director John Munn. The only large place left where anyone could take shelter was the tiny wireless room. It was soon full to capacity (p. 144).

It is ironic to note that this fragile contraption, which was added to the ship after it was built (p. 153), stood up to the tempest; it is thought that the shelter of the smokestack saved it. But even the shack was slowly going to pieces in the storm (p. 175). Some time during the day after the wreck, the door was wrenched off, threatening to wash away those inside, but a few men managed to take the room's carpet and nail it across the door. It didn't keep all the water out, but it broke its force (p. 200).

There were a few other survivors in odd nooks and crannies, but not many. One of them was First Officer William James, who, along with passenger Michael S. Sullivan, periodically came out on deck to wave to those on shore so that they knew there were still living people on the wreck (pp. 200-201) -- a risky task, since if a wave hit while the waving man was on deck, he would almost certainly be washed away. But both survived.

Eventually the stern of the ship broke off (p. 177), but the bow was still on the rocks, so it made little difference to the survivors there. Captain Martin was talking about swimming ashore with a line; it was surely impossible, but he evidently wasn't thinking clearly. He was saved by the fact that no lines could be found (pp. 174-175).

Captain Abram Kean, patriarch of the famous Kean family of Newfoundland sailors, the father of Joe Kean, quickly volunteered to take a ship out (pp. 168-169). Only after plans were already being made did they hear that the Florizel was near Cappahayden, not Cape Race (p. 169), which caused some confusion -- few could believe that, if the SOS had come in after 4:30 a.m., the ship was so far north. But the people of Cappahayden could clearly see the Florizel on the rocks; they just couldn't rescue the survivors because of the storm. They were watching from the beach 200 yards away, helpless (p. 174). There was no question about what they were seeing, though -- bodies were washing ashore as dawn came.

Abram Kean was impatient, and wanted to board a rescue train rather than wait for a ship (p. 189) -- only to receive word that his son was dead, then further word that the body wasn't his son's; the result was that he missed the train (pp. 190-191).

It was hard to organize a rescue; the wreck happened early on a Sunday morning, in wartime, in winter. After a four to five inch snowstorm (p. 177), which made it harder to gather crews. As soon as the radio call was heard, people started trying to plan a response (p. 164f.), although they didn't know where the wreck was because of Captain Martin's navigation mistake. There were few ships available, however, plus it took time to gather sailors -- the Terra Nova and the Home didn't have crews available; the Cape Breton didn't have enough cargo aboard as ballast to sail in the conditions (pp. 184-185). The Hawk could have sailed, and her Captain wanted to head out, but there were problems with her owners (p. 184) -- and when those were cleared up, it was realized that she was too heavily loaded; she had to offload coal (p. 191).

The first ship, the Gordon C, set out from St. John's at 11:30 -- two hours after she had been ready to sail, and almost seven hours after the wreck. The Hawk and the Terra Nova, both of which had managed to find sailors who were not part of their regular crews, prepared to set out soon after (p. 192). Then came another incorrect message, saying that the sea was washing over the Florizel and all lives were lost. The first part was perhaps true, the second obviously false. The Hawk was delayed again, until a question could be sent and an answer received to say that, yes, live survivors could be seen on the Florizel (p. 193). So, once again, the Hawk prepared to go -- only to find a pair of stowaways aboard. Some dimwit decided that it was more important that they be put off than to get going, so it wasn't until 3:44 -- eleven hours after the wreck -- that the Hawk set out (p. 194). And the seas were still rough and icy enough to slow the rescuers down. The Terra Nova in particular was slow in any case (p. 205).

At 4:00, p.m. a telegraph line was run to the shore at Cappahayden (pp 202-203), which at least meant there would be few incorrect messages after that -- but still there were no rescue boats. Even if the survivors on the Florizel were safe from the storm, how long could the wet survivors, most of whom had lost most of their clothing in the wreck, survive the bitter conditions? Shortly before dusk, those on shore tried to use a rocket gun to fire lines to the ship. The first two lines, those of the Prospero (which had been at sea rather than in port) arrived, and she was big enough to actually start shining lights, plus she too used her whistle (p. 215). Unfortunately, one of the Prospero's boats capsized repeatedly in the waves, so the other boats found themselves having to rescue the rescuers! (pp. 216-217). But one of the Florizel's radio operators, using a passenger's flashlight, was able to signal that there were still people aboard before the battery died (pp. 218-219). The seas were too rough to rescue anyone at the time -- but, at last, the survivors knew there was help coming, and the ships knew there were people to rescue. And the sea began to quiet during the night, making it safer to move around the wreck. The rescue would begin shortly before dawn; in the meantime, some of the crew started to pull survivors out of the crannies where they had taken refuge (pp. 220-222).

All five rescue ships came back at that time -- but the rocks meant they couldn't get too close; rescue had to be done by boat -- and conditions were still bad enough that they had to keep boats in the water to be prepared to rescue the crews of the other boats! (p. 222). The people on shore also started launching their dories around dawn (p. 223). And a lifeline was finally rigged to the Florizel. But the conditions were such that only one boat could take off survivors at a time, making the process quite slow. Passengers were taken to the Hawk, usually two at a time (p. 224). Eventually an ambitious dory managed to come alongside also, and it rescued about half the people who survived. But three rescuers went into the water in the process, and two of them ended up injured (pp. 225-226); other rescuers also had some trouble, although all survived. The rescue finally ended around 8:00 a.m., or a bit more than 27 hours after the wreck (p. 228).

In all, 44 survivors made it off the Florizel -- 17 passengers and 27 crew (p. 228). The latter included Captain Martin, First Officer William James, and Third Officer Philip Jackman. A total of 94 people -- 61 passengers and 33 crew -- were lost. The relatively high survival rate for the crew does not imply that they shirked their duty after the wreck -- the last seven men off were all crew, and they included Martin and James, who were on the very last boat (pp. 227-228). Several, including Jackman, bore permanent injuries (p. 230). The post-mortem found no fault with the crew. It's just that the crew knew how to get around the ship, and most of them were young and healthy. Many passengers got lost or were swept away because they didn't know how to deal with a wreck at sea, or were too young or too old to survive the conditions -- it appears, from the list on pp. 269-270, that every survivor was between the ages of 21 and 45, and only two of the survivors were women.

Joe Kean's father Abram Kean claimed that Joe's funeral was "beyond all doubt the largest ever seen in Newfoundland" (Kean, p. 39); Abram Kean can be shown to have had a very selective memory, so I wouldn't bet on this being true, but no doubt many of those who turned out were honoring all the Florizel’s dead, not just Joe Kean. Kean, pp. 44-45, has photos of the mourners marching down the streets of St. John's, and there were indeed many of them -- but the sealing fleet was supposed to sail the next day, so what else were the sealers supposed to do? Protest, and have Abram Kean kick them off his ship?

Naturally there was an inquiry -- and a very high-powered one, with a future Newfoundland Prime Minister, Chief Justice, Speaker of Parliament, and Attorney General involved, as well as several naval officers (p. 237). (The sarcastic part of me, thinking of the way other inquiries into wrecks went, can't help but think that it was typical of the British style in these things: High-powered, thorough, and unwilling or unable to deal with the actual issues.) It began less than two weeks after the wreck, on March 5. Captain Martin was questioned for six days. All of the other crew members were questioned as well, and twelve of the seventeen surviving passengers (pp. 237-238). It was quickly established that the Germans were not at fault; the ship had simply not been where she expected to be (p. 238). Martin was eventually forced to admit that he had felt the ship was slow, but he had not asked the engineers why (p. 239), and he turned out not to know much about how the motors worked (p. 240).

There was some inconsistency in the officers' testimony about exactly what happened (Brown, p. 243, thinks one of them lied, based on things that came out later, but in this case it could just be bad memory). None of the three (Martin, James, and Jackman) could explain why the ship was so slow (though, as we shall see, Jackman had a clue). The surviving engineers testified that the engine had been working well, but they couldn't explain the slow speed either (pp. 243-244). A narrative started to emerge of Chief Engineer John Reader for some reason slowing the engine (pp. 244-247), but no one knew why. Martin was asked why he hadn't asked Reader what was going on. His only real answer was that he trusted Reader (p. 247). That ended that line of questioning, with no real answer.

On the other hand, slow speed alone didn't explain Martin's navigation failure. He hadn't known his ship's speed, but he had suspected the ship was running slow. He couldn't see the lighthouses. Yet he put out no extra lookouts and didn't slow down or take regular soundings after midnight. The court determined what he should have found if he had taken more soundings (pp. 247-248), and concluded that it would have given him at least some warning that he was approaching land. The court also looked at the rescue. Why did it take so long for rescuers to set out? (p. 248). Given that there was a war on, surely someone should have been on call for rescue! But this was a side issue. The court did say that Newfoundland needed better lighthouses, and lifesaving stations, but the new lights were not installed until 1953 and 1964, and the stations still weren't in place when Brown wrote her book in 1976 (p. 256).

Having heard all the testimony, the court's navigation expert concluded that Captain Martin had no reason to be so confident about his location or his course, and that he had at least some warning (from the way the ship rolled) that he was approaching land. Although the court admitted that the exact details of what went wrong would likely never be known, and that the crew had done their duty in the wreck (p. 256), Captain Martin had failed. Once he made his course change, he should have slowed down and taken more soundings. "For this lack of caution, I submit he may be held to blame," the expert concluded (p. 252). "I am of the opinion that the master [Martin] was in default in not verifying his position by sounding before changing his course from south-southwest at 4:00 a.m.; or if he could not have done so before changing course, in not reducing his speed and verifying his position by constantly sounding after changing. In this case, if no other means of fixing his position were available, he could have waited until daylight, if necessary, to ascertain his position.... The casualty is attributable to the master's default in not taking these precautions" (p. 255).

Brown claims they "threw the book" at Martin, but given that his errors had killed 94 people and permanently injured several others, I'd say he got off remarkably lightly: his Master's certificate was taken away for 21 months -- but he was allowed an interim Chief Mate's certificate (p. 255). In other words, he was demoted one notch, for 21 months. He left Newfoundland for New York, but was allowed to return to sea. He was reticent about his history, on at least one occasion saying he knew what happened but never telling his sons that he had even been wrecked (p. 259).

It is possible that the mystery of the slow engine was eventually resolved; this slightly reduces Captain Martin's guilt in one regard -- but increases it in another. Third Officer Jackman, on that fatal night, had been told by Chief Engineer Reader that Reader had deliberately slowed the engine slightly so that he could visit his family in Halifax (p. 260). Jackman did not tell Captain Martin, and did not tell the court; only much later did his guilt induce him to reveal the story.

But why hadn't he told Captain Martin? Admittedly Jackman was in an uncomfortable situation, because Reader hadn't wanted Martin to know. But Jackman could have told Martin that Reader had slowed the engine without telling him WHY. Jackman did not do so. The reason is that he was was -- to be blunt -- afraid of Martin (p. 261). A captain whose officers are afraid of him is not a good master, so if Martin wasn't to blame for the slow engines, he was to blame for not hearing about it!

The loss of the Florizel, following the loss of her bigger sister Stephano to a German torpedo, all but ruined the Red Cross Line (Keir, p. 243; 330-331). Bowring's, the owners, lost nineteen ships in World War I; they were able to bear the loss and buy new ships, and reconstitute the line, but much of the rest of their fleet had to be reorganized and they dropped some of their services (Keir, p. 343). Bowring Park in St. John's, although founded in 1911 in honor of the centenary of Bowring Brothers (Keir, p. 398), was promptly modified to include a memorial to Betsy Munn, the daughter of John Munn who died in the disaster (O'Neill, p. 962; there is a picture of her, and of a statue of Peter Pan erected in her honor, facing p. 133 of Brown), although by the looks of the park, it's mostly an amusement part now (it was turned over to the city of St. John's in 1921; Kier, p. 399) and its sad back story (which also memorializes Newfoundlanders lost in the Great War, some of whom went to Britain on the Florizel largely forgotten (O'Neill, pp. 961-962).

There is a photo of the Florizel working as a sealer on p. 37 of Ryan/Drake. Kean, p. 60, has a photo of her on the rocks with another ship in the background, and Andrieux, p. 86, has a photo from the same set, as well as one of the Florizel in service. Andrieux says the other ship is the Neptune, but the ship in the photo has three masts, and the Neptune had only two at this time, based on the photos I have seen. Based on her rig, I suspect that the other ship is the Terra Nova.

Brown, facing p. 132, has a photo of the Florizel transporting troops in 1914, and below it a photo of her on the rocks. On the following pages are two photos apparently of her being stripped, plus many of those who were aboard her (including Captain Martin). BrownWinter, p. 71, has a different picture of Martin; p. 72 shows the Florizel in the ice; p. 76 shows the wreck. It should be noted that Brown's account is now rather dated and sometimes needs to be updated. For example, she describes the child "Clarence B. Moulton" as a "deaf mute" (p. 15). Based on her description of his behavior, I think it significantly more likely that he was a non-verbal autistic boy.

It appears all versions of this song ultimately go back to the Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland edition. Doyle got it from them, and Lehr found the text in one or another edition of Doyle and set her own tune. The accuracy of the Greenfield/Mansfield text is not perfect, but it's not bad by folk music standards. The song contains the details: The Florizel was "Harmed up by Renews": The wreck was on Renews Rock "A blinding snowstorm": The snow was primarily on the land, not the water, but there was snow, and of course the storm was very real indeed "Saturday night at eight o'clock the steamer left the pier": It was indeed a Saturday night, and only a little before 8:00 p.m. "With every indication a storm was drawing near": Forecasts, news from the south, and the barometer all implied a storm "With Captain Martin on the bridge": Correct "Woth one hundred and thirty passengers": The Florizel didn't have that many passengers on this trip, but it could carry more than that. She had had a large number of passengers cancel at the last minute; had they sailed with her, the number would not be far wrong. And if you count crew as well as passengers, the total on board was 140 -- not far from 130.
"Some rushed the deck, being scarcely clad... The sea soon washed them off her deck": Both true; most of the passengers rushed to the deck in their pajamas or whatever they were wearing, and a very large number were swept away by waves.
"And only forty lives were saved out of one hundred six"... "And ninety-four their precious lives that evening left on shore": This is the one real error (it should be 44 were saved out of 140), but it's not far off by folk music standards. - RBW

APPENDIX:
This has nothing to do with the wreck of the Florizel, but it does have to do with her history. In 2019, I chanced upon an eBay listing of a 1909 (purple) carbon copy of a Newfoundland sealing voyage cost estimate. It's in pretty bad shape; it was folded over and the ink burned through on top of itself, making much of it hard to read. All the seller realized was that it was for a 1909 sealing voyage. The text of the item never mentions the Florizel. But it is from 1909, the first year of the Florizel’s creer. The speed of the ship is correct. It's a big ship -- bigger than any sealer to that time. It is clearly an estimate of costs for a sealing trip by the Florizel. I offer the text for whatever use it may have for future scholars. Note that this expense list does not include expenses for the sealers; they received no wages, so all their costs came out of the profit of the trip.

Text of the note follows (underlining necessarily omitted; the words "12 knots,", "40,000," and "10 Knots" are underlined; there are single underlines below "3.10.0" and "100. 0. 0." and a double underline below "1230.09.06" which I have delineated with underscores):

St.John's, November 30/1909

ESTIMATE COST of a Steamer to carry 3000 tons D.W. with reserve steam power for 12 knots . Hull and Machinery to be suitable for the Sealing Voyage - say £ 40,000.

and estimated working expenses per month say steaming 10 Knots .

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Master's wages per month</th>
<th>£20. 0. 0.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1st Mate</td>
<td>12. 0. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2nd</td>
<td>9. 0. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boatswain</td>
<td>6.10. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6 A.B. @ £ 4.12</td>
<td>17.12. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chief Engineers</td>
<td>18. 0. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2nd.</td>
<td>12. 0. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1 3rd.</td>
<td>9. 0. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Donkeyman</td>
<td>6.10. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 Trimmers ea £ 6.5.</td>
<td>12.10. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6 Firemen ea £ 6.5.</td>
<td>37.10. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steward</td>
<td>7. 0. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cook.</td>
<td>6.10. 0.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mess Room Boy</td>
<td>3.10. 0.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Total wages per month £ 187.12. 0.

25 Mens Provisions @ 1/3 per day 46.17. 6

Steaming time 20 days per month and 26 tons of Coal pr day @ 16/- pr ton 520 t 416. 0. 0.

10 days loading and discharging Cargo , and 10 days Extra loading and discharging Cargo , and 20 tons of Coal for Donkey Baile @ 16/ 16. 0. 0.

Oil Waste and extra 14. 0. 0.

Lights and port dues - say 120. 0. 0.

Insurance - say 330. 0. 0.

Depreciators - say 100. 0. 0.

Total expenses per month £1230.09.06.

Bibliography

• BrownWinter: Cassie Brown, Writing the Sea (an expanded edition of the earlier volume The Caribou Disaster and Other Short Stories, with more material about Brown but nothing new Wreck of the Tennessee Gravy Train

DESCRIPTION: The people of Tennessee want to know who wrecked their "gravy train"; bonds were issued to build highways, now the money's tied up, the people have nothing to show for it, and the banks have gone bust.

AUTHOR: Uncle Dave Macon

EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (recording, Uncle Dave Macon)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer says the people of Tennessee want to know who wrecked their "gravy train"; in a major scandal, bonds were issued for $5 million to build highways, now the money's tied up, the people have nothing to show for it, and the banks have gone bust. A Dave Macon chorus: "And now we're up against it, and no use to raise a row/Of all the times I've ever seen, we're sure up against it now/The only thing that we can do is to do the best we can/Follow me, good people, I'm bound for the promised land"

KEYWORDS: crime, theft, political, money

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, p. 280, "Wreck of the Tennessee Gravy Train" (1 text)

RECORDINGS:
Uncle Dave Macon, "We Are Up Against It Now" (Vocalion 5009, 1926)
Uncle Dave Macon & Sam McGee, "Wreck of the Tennessee Gravy Train" (Okeh 45507, 1931; rec. 1930; on HardTimes2)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Wreck of the Tennessee Gravy Train" (on NLCR09)

NOTES [16 words]: This is the only old-time song I know about embezzlement, making it hard to assign keywords. - PJS

Last updated in version 2.7

File: RcWOTTGT

Wreck of the Tolesby, The

DESCRIPTION: "You daring sons of Newfoundland, come listen unto me" as the singer tells how the Tolesby was lost in Trepassey Bay. Sailing from Galveston, she ran into a snowstorm near Cape Race. Her survivors are rescued when a fisherman takes a line down a cliff

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Murphy, Songs Their Fathers Sung)

KEYWORDS: storm, ship wreck, disaster, rescue

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1907 - the Tolesby wreck

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: James Murphy, _Songs Their Fathers Sung: For Fishermen: Old Time Ditties_, James Murphy Publishing, 1923 (PDF available from the Memorial University of Newfoundland web site), p. 13, "The Loss of the Tolesby" (1 text)

Roud #26746

RECORDINGS:
John Bulger, "The Wreck of the Tolesby" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
Wreck of the Torhamvan, The (The Wreck of the Toravan)

DESCRIPTION: The singer, lying in bed, hears a steamer blowing, gets up, and sees the Torhamvan wrecked. The next morning, the crowd from all around "tried to fight and grab it all, whatever there they found" They'll be able to live for a year off the salvage.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA-Leach)

KEYWORDS: sea ship shore storm wreck

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Oct 29, 1926 - Steamship freighter Torhamvan bound to Halifax, Nova Scotia from St. John's stranded in fog at Ferryland, Newfoundland (per Northern Shipwrecks Database)
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #30147

RECORDINGS:
John Power, "Wreck of the Toravan" (on MUNFLA-Leach)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Kelligrews Soiree" (tune)
cf. "The Old Mayflower" (theme of wreckers)

NOTES [354 words]: The name Torhamvan is derived from TORonto-HAMilton-VANcouver, according to Northern Shipwrecks Database.

As for routine wreckage salvage by the Newfoundlanders on shore see the notes to "The Old Mayflower." - BS

According to J. P. Andrieux, Marine Disasters of Newfoundland and Labrador, O.T.C. Press, 1986, pp. 99-100,
"On October 29, 1926, the S. S. Torhamvan, en route to Montreal, ran aground in dense fog on a point on the north side of Ferryland.
"For some time the residents of the community could hear her horn blowing, but were unable to see the doomed vessel as she attempted to manoeuvre between Goose Island and the reefs which were menacing her. Then the inhabitants heard the unmistakable sound of wrenching metal. They ran to the beach, but were unable to see anything through the fog. At one point they became very concerned as an empty lifeboat drifted in on the beach.... Later, however, it was found to be an empty lifeboat that had accidentally fallen off....
"Some residents braved the rough seas and made it to the Torhamven where they rescued the crew, who had no idea of their close proximity to a settlement. Area residents took the crew and passengers to their homes until they were able to leave on the train for St. John's....
"...there is no doubt that the residents did benefit from the grounding of the Torhamvan; for although the Wreck Commissioners were soon on the scene and quickly impounded the cargo, it was not before a good supply of paint, soap, jam, lard, and macaroni had found its way ashore to ease the hardship of the forthcoming winter.
"Fortunately there had been no loss of life in this particular incident."

The account in B. D. Fardy, Ferryland: The Colony of Avalonia, Flanker Press, 2005, pp. 211-212, is similar. Supposedly the loot even included a pair of bronze statues that went outside Ferryland's Catholic church. Fardy adds that the Torhamvan usually operated from Montreal to Vancouver, but in this case was going from St. John's to Quebec. The crew stayed in Ferryland for a day or so, then went back to St. John's, presumably to go home from there. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2

File: ML3Tormh

Wreck of the Vartry, The

DESCRIPTION: The Vartry sailed the Liffee overloaded with a cargo of Double X casks. A storm sinks her "ere they reached the Customs House" "All ye who drink of James's Gate (No matter what your sex), Take warning by the Vartry's fate, Thro' too much Double X!"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads)

KEYWORDS: river ship drink storm wreck humorous

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1907 - wreck of the Guinness barge Vartry (OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads)
Wreck of the Virginian No. 3, The DESCRIPTION: "On one Thursday morning, in the latter part of May, Old Number three left Roanoke station, it was on their fatal day." Engineer "Dad" Aldrich recalls his twenty years on this train. Another train missed an order; the trains collide. Hearers are warned

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Roy Harvey & the North Carolina Ramblers)

KEYWORDS: train wreck death warning

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 24, 1927- A freight train and Virginia Rail passenger train #3 collide near Ingleside, West Virginia. The fault was apparently that of the crew of the passenger train. Engineer "Dad" Aldrich, fireman Frank O'Neal, and one other are scalded to death; 22 are injured

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 250-253, "The Weck of the Virginian Number Three" (1 text plus texts of two other songs about the same incident)
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, pp. 148-149, "The Wreck of the Virginian No. 3, by Roy Harvey" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
Roy Harvey and the North Carolina Ramblers, "The Wreck of the Virginian No. 3" (Columbia 15174-D, 1927)

NOTES [74 words]: Cohen observes three recorded songs about this accident (recorded and probably composed by Blind Alfred Reed, Roy Harvey and the North Carolina Ramblers, and John McGhee). There is, at best, limited evidence that any of them went into tradition. This one can be distinguished from the other two "Virginian" songs by the "On one Thursday morning" first line and the detailed description of the missed order for the other train to take a siding. - RBW

File: LySc148

Wreck of the Virginian Number Three, The

DESCRIPTION: "Come all you brave, bold railroad men and listen while I tell The fate of E. G. Aldrich...." He was "the oldest on the road," but still loved his work and would not retire. He and his fireman die in a crash. Railroad couples are told to be faithful

AUTHOR: probably Blind Alfred Reed

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, Blind Alfred Reed)

KEYWORDS: train wreck death warning

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 24, 1927- A freight train and Virginia Rail passenger train #3 collide near Ingleside, West Virginia. The fault was apparently that of the crew of the passenger train. Engineer "Dad" Aldrich, fireman Frank O'Neal, and one other are scalded to death; 22 are injured
Wreck of the Virginian Train No. 3, The

DESCRIPTION: "Just after the dawn of the morning, in the beautiful month of May, a farewell kiss had been planted On the cheeks of one who was brave." "Dad" Aldrich and his fireman are proud of their train, but die, because rail staff must make their runs when called

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (recording, John McGhee)

KEYWORDS: train wreck death

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
May 24, 1927- A freight train and Virginia Rail passenger train #3 collide near Ingleiside, West Virginia. The fault was apparently that of the crew of the passenger train. Engineer "Dad" Aldrich, fireman Frank O'Neal, and one other are scalded to death; 22 are injured

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 250-253, "The Weck of the Virginian Number Three" (1 text plus texts of two other songs about the same incident)
Lyle-ScaldedToDeathByTheSteam, p. 146, "The Wreck of the Virginian No. 3, by John McGhee" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
John McGhee, "The Wreck of the Virginian Train No. 3" (Challenger 389, 1927)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Wreck of the Virginian No. 3" (subject)
cf. "The Wreck of the Virginian Number Three" (subject)

NOTES [69 words]: Cohen observes three recorded songs about this accident (recorded and probably composed by Blind Alfred Reed, Roy Harvey and the North Carolina Ramblers, and John McGhee). There is, at best, limited evidence that any of them went into tradition.

This one can be distinguished from the other two "Virginian" songs by the "Just after the dawn of morning" first line and the description of the beautiful weather. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.6

File: LySc146

Wreck of Thirty-Six, The

DESCRIPTION: "It was on one July morning About eight o'clock they say, When Thirty-Six left Ashland And thundered on her way." The train makes good time, but starts to shake and derails, scalding fireman Buddy Cheap to death though engineer McDonney is saved.
Wreck on Covel's, The

DESCRIPTION: "We read of frightful fires, of death 'midst raging flames... but I never yet have heard Of an accident more terrible than on Covel's occurred." The loggers were on a train which hits a log that had fallen on the track. Seven men are killed.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps)
KEYWORDS: train wreck disaster death logger
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 80, "The Wreck on Covel's" (1 text)
Roud #18184
File: BeLo080

Wreck on the C & O, The [Laws G3]

DESCRIPTION: George Alley, a railroad engineer, is warned by his mother not to drive too fast. But George wants to set a speed record. As his train speeds, it runs into a rock from a landslide and is wrecked. George is killed; his mother gets to say "I told you so!"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1913 (Railroad Man's Magazine, according to Cohen)
KEYWORDS: wreck train death mother railroading worker warning crash
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Oct 23, 1890 - Death of engineer George Alley when the FFV train on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad was wrecked by a landslide near Hinton, West Virginia

FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE,So)
REFERENCES (23 citations):
Laws G3, "The Wreck on the C & O"
Cohen-LongSteelRail, pp. 183-196, "The Wreck on the C & O/Engine 143" (3 texts plus a reproduction of a broadside, 2 tunes; also an item, "There's Many a Man Been Murdered in Luzon," which appears related and may influence the date of this song)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 200-201, "The Wreck on the C & O" (1 text)
Carey-MarylandFolkloreAndFolklife, pp. 58-59, "The Wreck of the C. and O." (1 text)
Randolph 682, "The Wreck on the C. & O." (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 339, "The F. F. V. The Wreck of No. 4" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #54, "The Wreck of the C and O" (1 text)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 160, "Georgie Allen" (1 text, 1 tune)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 179, "The Wreck on the C & O" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains, pp. 60-61, "The F. F. V." (1 text, 1 tune)
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, pp. 115-116, (no title) (1 fragmented text)
Dunson/Raim/Asch-AnthologyOfAmericanFolkMusic, p. 62 "Engine 143" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-AFSB, pp. 31-34, "The Wreck on the C. & O. (The Death of Jack Hinton)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 47, "The Wreck on the C. & O." (6 texts plus mention of 5 more; 2 tunes)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol4, pp. 70-73, "F. F. and V. V." (1 text, 1 tune)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 116-117, "The Wreck on the C. & O." (1 text, 1 tune)
The FFV
NOTES [299 words]: Of the two songs about wrecks on the C & O (the other is "The C. & O. Wreck"), this one is the better known and probably older. Many versions have a chorus (not found in the Digital Tradition version), "Many's a man's been murdered by the railroad / And laid in his lonesome grave" (e.g. this chorus occurs in five of Cox's six texts). - RBW
Oh dear, this gets confusing. "Many a man's been murdered by the railroad" is an ending bridge from "The Fate of Talmadge Osborne." And it shows up here too.... - PJS
Just to add to the fun, Roy Harvey recorded a song, "The Brave Engineer," probably about the same accident. Roud lumps them, probably because Lyle lists them in the same entry. But I would say that they are clearly different songs.
Cox supplies many further details about this song. According to his report, George Alley was thirty when he died, and already had four children. He lived for five hours after the wreck. Reportedly the fireman did jump from the engine, and survived.
Cohen has an extensive discussion of the song, noting that it has many errors in the text (e.g. he shows a photo of Alley, who had straight dark hair, not golden and not curly). He theorizes that the song was composed some years after the event, when memories were fading. It strikes me as at least as likely that the song is a modification of an older item, with the errors being holdovers from that piece.
In many versions of the song, the engineer is not George Alley but George Allen. I would suspect this is simply an error of hearing, "Allen" being a more common name than "Alley," but Lyle (who, like Cohen, has extensive notes about the song, including a photo of Alley and several of the wreck) thinks it may have floated in from a 1933 wreck in which an engineer named George Allen was killed. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: LG03

Wreck on the Grand Trunk Railway
DESCRIPTION: "You bold sons of freedom, Your attention I command." On January 18, between Bethel Station and Locke's Mills, two freights collide, resulting in explosions. The sun rises on a terrible scene. Some of those on the wreck are described.

AUTHOR: Joe Scott

EARLIEST DATE: 1964 (Ives-Joe-Scott-TheWoodsmanSongmaker)

KEYWORDS: train disaster death

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Jan 18, 1901 - The Grand Trunk Wreck. Two train workers and probably two hobos are killed

FOUND IN: Can(Mar)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ives-Joe-Scott-TheWoodsmanSongmaker, pp. 267-281, "Wreck on the Grand Trunk Railway" (2 texts, 1 tune)

File: ISco267

---

Wreck on the Highway

DESCRIPTION: Singer sees automobile wreck with passengers killed, "where whiskey and blood run together...I heard the wreck on the highway/But I didn't hear nobody pray"

AUTHOR: Dorsey Dixon

EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (recording, Dixon Bros., "I Didn't Hear Anybody Pray")

KEYWORDS: grief death crash disaster wreck

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
DT, WRCKHWAY

RECORDINGS:
Roy Acuff & his Smoky Mountain Boys, "Wreck on the Highway" (Okeh 06685, 1942; Columbia 37028, 1946; Columbia 37596/Columbia 20195, 1947; Columbia 52026, 1956)
Dixon Bros. "I Didn't Hear Anybody Pray" (Bluebird BB-7449?Montgomery Ward M-7489, 1938)
New Lost City Ramblers, "Wreck on the Highway" (on NLCR08)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray" (words)

File: DTwreckh

---

Wreck on the Somerset Road, The

DESCRIPTION: "On a dark stormy morning when the snow was falling" a train sets out for St. Louis. A sleepy brakeman and conductor both think this will be their last trip. But five men had broken the railing; the train is wrecked and the men never arrive

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (collected from Justis Begley)

KEYWORDS: train wreck disaster humorous derivative

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 254-256, "The Wreck on the Somerset Road" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, SOMRSTRD*

Roud #4141

NOTES [66 words]: This is item dG41 in Laws's Appendix II. It is probably derived from "The Wreck of Old 97" [Laws G2] or something like it, although the tune has drifted a bit. Note the parodic elements; the conductor is not noble; rather, he has STOLEN enough from the railroad to be able to live for the rest of his life. If it is based on a real incident, that incident does not seem to have been identified.

- RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

File: LoSi253

---

Wrecker's Song, The

DESCRIPTION: "When sinks the sun in the distant sea, And night steals o'er the sky, And heavy gulls all sluggishly To rocky caverns hie. Then I with my staff walk the ocean's side, To look for prey in the rolling tide." The singer will seek prey and "cheat the crew"
Wren, The (The King)

DESCRIPTION: A tale of the hunting of the wren on Saint Stephen's Day. Boys go out, hunt the wren, and bring it home for a reward: "The wren, the wren, the king of all birds / St. Stephen's Day was caught in the forest / Although he be little, his honor is great..."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1879 (Henderson)
KEYWORDS: carol hunting wren
FOUND IN: US(NE) Britain(England(Lond)) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 58-59, "The Wran" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 186, "The Wren-Boy's Song" (1 text)
DT, WRENSONG WRENSNG2*
ADDITIONAL: Ron Young, _Dictionary of Newfoundland and Labrador_, Downhome Publishing Inc., 2006, p. 246, "(De wran, de wran, de king of all birds)" (1 text, said to be performed by mummers)
Roud #4683
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Cutty Wren" (subject)
cf. "Hunt the Wren" (subject)
NOTES [1173 words]: The English legend that the wren is the king of birds has a parallel in German. A tale from the Brothers Grimm ("The Wren","Dier Zaunkönig," 1840, from Johann Jakob Nikolas Musaus) explains that, when the birds concluded they needed a king, they decided to hold a contest to find the king. First they said that the bird that could fly highest would be king. The eagle would have flown highest, but the wren rode on its back and so managed to climb higher still. Then the birds decided to try a digging contest. The wren slipped down a convenient mouse hole, and won that round also. So the wren became the king.
There is a similar Danish legend (Jones-Larousse, p. 462; Pickering, p. 320). Indeed, the plot is found as far away as China, although the animals differ: In Chinese legend, the ox wanted to be the first animal in the Zodiac, and arrived before all the others -- but the rat cleverly rode on its back, and jumped off at the appropriate time, and so took first place (Eberhard, p. 246).
We find references to discord between wren and eagle as long ago as the time of Pliny's _Natural History:_ "There are antipathies between... the eagle and the... [golden-crested wren] because the latter received the title of 'the king of the birds'" (Opie/Tatem, p. 451).
In English, we find references to the Wren as King going back at least to the early thirteenth century; in the long poem "The Owl and the Nightingale" (thought to have been written around 1220 and existing in two thirteenth century manuscripts) there is a scene where the wren enters as king of the birds (OwlNightingaleEtc, p. 169).
Curiously, in that poem, the wren is said to have been reared among humans, and to have learned its clever ways from them, rather than being raised in the forest (OwlNightingale, p. 170).
Palmer, p. 60, quotes an interesting couplet:
He that hurts a robin or wren
Will never prosper on sea or land.
Shakespeare seems to refer to the wren's many offspring in "Twelfth Knight" (act III, scene ii), although the significance of this is not clear (Phipson, p. 181).
Pickering, p. 320, says that the wren was identified as the wife of the robin. This explains the name "Jenny Wren": the wren was always female (Simpson/Roud, p. 397; for a tale, "The Marriage of Robin Redbreast and Jenny Wren," see pp. 542-543 of volume A.2 of Briggs).
It's possible that the equation of wrens with kings goes back to the Greeks; the Greek word, "basiliskos," "little king," is listed in Liddell/Scott, p. 230, as meaning, among other things, the golden-crested wren -- but they cite only one instance (Plutarch, citing Aesop); the usual meaning of the word is "royal" or "official" (so, e.g., in the New Testament -- or, rather, in variant readings; "basiliskos" is used only in variant readings in John 4:46, 49, of the "official" of Capernaum who had a sick child; the best manuscripts use the closely related, "basilikos," which is not diminutive. In the LXX Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible, the occurs in Psalm 90:13 [91:13 English]), where it refers to a venomous snake, and in some manuscripts of Isaiah 59:5, where again it seems to mean "adder" or "viper"; English "basilik" of course derives from this meaning.

The identical equation seems to occur in Latin: "regulus" means "petty king" (compare rex, king), but the word is also, in the Vulgate of the Hebrew Bible, used for a poisonous snake and (in secular writings) for a small bird (FreundEtAl, p. 1553). The latter two uses are rare; my two shorter Latin dictionaries do not mention them (although Hazlitt, pp. 665-666, declares that the word refers specifically to all types of wrens. Hazlitt also notes that some Romance languages use kingly names for the wren, presumably from the Latin). A good analogy might be to refer to a king cobra as a "king" rather than a "cobra."

The German name of the wren, interestingly, is zaunkönig, fence-king, as in the Grimm tale above. In Danish, this becomes elle-king, alder-king (Hazlitt, p. 666); compare German erlkönig (which, however, is used for a malevolent tree-spirit which steals souls, not for the wren; Jones-Larousse, p. 164; Pickering, p. 98).

Stewart, p. 20, claims that the wren was the totem of the Celtic god Bran. O hOgain, p. 37, however, reports that it was considered an unlucky bird in Ireland.

Elsewhere, killing a wren was said to invite bad luck (Pickering, p. 320) -- except, perhaps, when it came time to Hunt the Wren:

The legend in Ireland (O hOgain, p. 37) is that the wren betrayed Stephen to death, and hence was hunted on St. Stephen's Day. There is, of course, no Biblical warrant for this; the account in Acts 6 makes it sound as if Stephen was arrested in public circumstances, and he certainly was publicly tried and executed.

In many parts of the British Isles, it became the custom to capture a wren (Hazlitt, p. 666) on St. Stephen's Day (December 26), perhaps kill it (Frazier, p. 621), and parade it about (perhaps at the end of a pole or in a trap; Frazier, p. 622), perhaps while asking for alms or food.

The custom also persisted in Newfoundland, where the cold winters meant that there would be no wrens in winter; they made an artificial wren to take part in the ceremony. A wrenning song is attested as early as 1842. It also became customary to home-brew "wren beer" on St. Stephen's Day (StoryKirwinWiddowson, p. 620).

Explanations of this custom vary. Kennedy quotes an account in which a wren's song aroused a sleeping sentry and saved English and Manx soldiers from an attack in Ireland. GArnett-IHearAmericaSinging/Gosse, volume I, p. 298, claim that the "report of Brian Boru's great victory over the Danes on St. Stephen's Day survives in Ireland in a carol about a wren." (Uh-huh. For this story, see "Remember the Glories of Brian the Brave" -- and note that most sources place the battle of Clontarf on Good Friday 1014; see, e.g., Fry/Fry, p. 57. In any case, this would hardly explain the existence of the custom in Wales, the Isle of Man, and even parts of England; Simpson/Roud, p. 320). There is even a partial analogy in France, where boys beat the bushes for wrens, with the first one to kill one is the king; the parading of the wren follows (Frazier, p. 623). Frazier, p. 623, compares it to "the Gilyak procession with the bear, and the Indian one with the snake."

(Interesting indeed, that last, given the Greek and Latin use of one word for wrens and snakes). Vallancey claims that the wren was used in augury by the Druids, and so Christian missionaries hunted it to prevent this use (Hazlitt, p. 666). Flanders and Olney also date it back to druidism. Another story says that it will precede a future hero (e.g. King Arthur). Frazer compares the whole business to various coronation quests and hunts for sacred animals. Greenway offers perhaps the greatest stretch of all, considering the wren to represent the "indomitable peasant." - RBW

Bibliography

- Briggs: Katherine Briggs,British Folktales (originally published in 1970 as A Dictionary of British Folk-Tales), revised 1977 (I use the 1977 Pantheon paperback edition)
Wrestle On, Jacob

DESCRIPTION: "I hold my brother with a trembling hand, The Lord will bless my soul, Wrestle on, Jacob, Jacob, day is a-breaking." "I will not let you go, My Lord. "Fisherman Peter out to sea" "He cast all night...." "He catch no fish, but catch some soul."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)

KEYWORDS: religious fishing fight

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, p. 4, "Wrestle On, Jacob" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11836

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Wrestlin' Jacob" (lyrics, theme)
cf. "Wrestling Jacob" (lyrics, subject)

NOTES [119 words]: This bears a great deal of similarity to "Wrestlin' Jacob," in the Brown collection. Both refer to Jacob's wrestling with God, described in Genesis 32:22-32 (thought by many to be a converted folktale, since it sounds as if Jacob is wrestling with a night-demon, and it ends with a "just so" story about why the Israelites don't eat a certain muscle of the body).
The two, however, have somewhat different forms, and Brown lacks a tune to link them. Plus this song has a second incident, Peter's miraculous catch, derived from John 21:3-6 or Luke 5:3-6 or some combination of the two. On this basis, I am very tentatively splitting the song, while admitting that they could easily be lumped. (Roud lumps them). - RBW

Last updated in version 2.4
File: AWG004B
Wrestlin' Jacob

DESCRIPTION: "Wrestlin' Jacob seek de Lawd. I will not let thee go. And wrestle all night till the break ob day.' "Wrestle Jacob; day is a-breakin'." "(Brethren/Elders/etc., don't get weary (x4) For de work is almost done. Keep your lamps trimmed and burnin'...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)

KEYWORDS: religious fight Bible nonballad

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, p. 70, "Raslin' Jacob" (1 text, 1 tune; p. 131 in the 1901 edition)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 656, "Wrestlin' Jacob" (1 text)
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 167, "Oh Rastle Jacob" (1 short text, 1 tune)

Roud #11836

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Wrestle On, Jacob" (lyrics, subject)
cf. "Wrestling Jacob" (lyrics, subject)

NOTES [146 words]: The wrestling match between God and Jacob at Peniel/Penuel, which ended as day broke, is told in Genesis 32:22-32. There is, incidentally, a strong folkloric element to the story; it appears that Jacob may originally have been wrestling with some sort of minor demon, and the story was cleaned up. Imperfectly, since the place is called both Peniel/Penuel (and what was The Ineffable God doing in a wrestling match anyway?). It even has a "just so" moral: The Israelites did not eat a particular part of an animal, because the demon injured Jacob there. This may well be the same as "Wrestle On, Jacob," since they have many common lyrics. The form is a little different, though, and "Wrestle On" has New Testament references not found here. If Brown had had a tune, that might have decided me in favor of lumping. But Brown doesn't have a tune, and when in doubt, we split. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2

File: Br3656

Wrestling Jacob

DESCRIPTION: "(Wrestling Jacob dawn is a breaking) (3x) (I'll wrestle till the break of day Never to let thee go) (2x)"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious

FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville, p. 57, "Wrestling Jacob" (1 short text, 1 tune)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Wrestle On, Jacob" (lyrics, subject)
cf. "Wrestling Jacob" (lyrics, subject)

NOTES [409 words]: The current description is all of the Elder-Charlottville text. Elder-Charlottville p. 57, during a Tobago Wake: "Just before day-break the singers chant this spiritual - only the near relatives and close friends of the bereaved family stay on till break of day ('wrestling with the Lord'), all others having taken part, leave for home early in the morning." The reference is to Genesis 32.24-30: King James 32.24, 26 is "And Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day .... And he said, I will not let thee go, except thou bless me." This clear source presents this problem: are all songs with just this set of elements the same song? For example, Arnold's "Oh Rastle Jacob" (Byron Arnold, Folksongs of Alabama (Birmingham :University of Alabama Press, 1950),p. 167): "Oh, rastle Jacob, day's a breakin', Rastle Jacob, Day's a breakin', Oh, rastle Jacob, and he would not let me go, I rastled till the break of day, And he would not let me go." The chorus of Brown's "Wrestlin' Jacob" (Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 656 p. 684): "Wrestle Jacob; day is a breakin'; Wrestle Jacob! Lord, I will not let thee go, An' I will not let thee go, An' I will not let thee go; Till Jesus bless my soul
I will not let thee go. Wrestle Jacob; day is a-breakin'; wrestle Jacob! Lord, I will not let thee go" - indexed here as "Wrestlin' Jacob."

Fenner's "Raslin' Jacob" (Thomas P. Fenner, Religious Folk Songs of the Negro (Hampton: The [Hampton Normal and Agricultural] Institute Press, 1909 (fourth revision of the 1874 edition) "Digitized by the Internet Archive"). p. 131): Chorus - ((Raslin' Jacob let me go)(3x) I will not let you go) Verses - ((Day is breakin Jacob, let me go)(3x) I will not let you go) (If you'll bless my soul, I'll let you go ....) (When I'm sinking down, pity me ....)

The chorus and first two verses of Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates's "Wrestle On, Jacob" (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, #6 p. 4): (Wrestl' on Jacob, day is a-breakin, Wrestl' on Jacob, Oh he would not let him go), (I hold my brudder wid a tremblin' han, De Lord will bless my soul) (2x), (I will not let you go, my Lord) (2x). - indexed here as "Wrestle On, Jacob."

While the elements of the King James text are common, and stated almost the same way, the structure of the songs is different. I think these are all different songs bound together by a well known source. - BS

Last updated in version 4.0
File: ElCh057

Wright and Ketchen Line

DESCRIPTION: Singer describes working on the Wright and Ketchen narrow-gauge lumber railroad, and the characters with whom he works. At the end of the season, he plans to go to Saginaw and spend his money.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks)
KEYWORDS: lumbering work railroading moniker
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Beck-SongsOfTheMichiganLumberjacks 16, "Wright and Ketchen Line" (1 text)
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 27, "Wright and Ketchum Line" (1 text)
Roud #8865
NOTES [31 words]: This comes close to being a nonballad, since very little happens in it; after being turned out in the woods, everyone works -- after which the song deviates into character descriptions. - PJS
Last updated in version 5.2
File: Be016

Wright Is Left

DESCRIPTION: "An essay now I mean to write, Though blotted it may look, 'Tis all about the foreman Wright And of the shanty cook." The cook and Wright argue about the cook's sister, and then about pay and other things. Finally Wright leaves, and there is peace

AUTHOR: "Phebe" (source: Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps)
EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps)
KEYWORDS: cook sister work logger separation
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Beck-LoreOfTheLumberCamps 60, "Wright Is Left" (1 text, with corrected orthography)
Roud #18185
File: BeLo60

Write My Mother I'll Be Home

DESCRIPTION: "There is somewhere the sun is shining, There is somewhere a little rain." The singer asks that a letter tell his mother he'll be home someday. The white folks have him on a chain gang. He asks Stella if he can be her fellow; she has another beau

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: prison home mother courting rejection Wrong Road, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer takes the "wrong road"; he gets drunk with a man, they quarrel; the singer shoots him. He warns hearers; he is "hanging from a scaffold/Between the earth and sky." He is going home, telling us "You might forget the singer/But don't forget the song"

AUTHOR: probably one of the Hall Brothers

EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (recording, Hall Brothers)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer takes the "wrong road" in Alabama; he gets drunk with a man, they quarrel, and the singer shoots him. He warns listeners not to drink or keep bad company, for now he is "hanging from a scaffold/Between the earth and sky." He is going home to glory, having repented, but tells us "You might forget the singer/But don't forget the song"

KEYWORDS: warning fight violence crime homicide punishment death drink

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:
Hall Brothers [Ron & Jay Hugh], "The Wrong Road" (Bluebird 7728, 1938; on RoughWays2)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Young Companions" [Laws E15] (plot)

File: RCTWrRo

Wu danze dann de Weiwer? (Where Do Women Dance?)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends)

KEYWORDS: dancing foreignlanguage nonballad

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Korson-PennsylvaniaSongsAndLegends, pp. 111-112, "Wu danze dann de Weiwer? (Where Do Women Dance?)" (1 German text plus non-poetic translation, 1 tune)

File: KPL111

Wyandotte's Farewell Song, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer sadly bids farewell to his ancestral home and prepares to head west. Various familiar scenes -- trees, streams, roads, church -- are fondly recalled

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1845 (newspaper in Sandusky, Ohio)

KEYWORDS: nonballad parting travel Indians(Am.)

FOUND IN: US(MW)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 117, "The Wyandotte's Farewell Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Salt-BuckeyeHeritage-Ohio'sHistory, pp. 74-75, "The Wyandotte Farewell Song" (1 text, 1 tune)

ST E117 (Full)
Roud #4342

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Fare Ye Well, Enniskillen (The Inniskillen Dragoon)" (tune)

NOTES [110 words]: This reminds me strongly of "A Prisoner for Life (I - Farewell to Green Fields and Meadows)" -- while there are no common stanzas, the feeling is quite similar and they can be fit to the same tune. But "A Prisoner for Life" is in triple time, while Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio transcribes this song in four. So I suppose they're separate.
Particularly as this appears to be the song of an American Indian forced to leave home and go across the Mississippi (presumably to a reservation, perhaps in Indian Territory?). In the song, the singer expresses gratitude to the "white friends, who first taught me to pray." This strikes me as laying it on a bit thick. - RBW

Wylie Wife of the Hie Toun Hie, The [Child 290]

DESCRIPTION: A gentleman will give a reward to lie with the lass of the hie toun hie. The hostler’s wife lures the girl in and locks the door behind her. The gentleman sleeps with her. Eventually he sees her and her baby, and marries her

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1821

KEYWORDS: seduction sex marriage trick pregnancy children separation reunion love

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Child 290, "The Wylie Wife of the Hie Toun Hie" (4 texts)
Greig/Duncan7 1499, "The Sly Wife" (1 text)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 102, "The Bonnie Lass o Hietoun Hie" (1 text)

Roud #125

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Dainty Doonby" (plot)
cf. "The Broom of Cowdenknows" [Child 217] (plot)
cf. "The Sleepy Merchant" (plot)
cf. "The Bonnie Parks o’ Kitty" (plot)

Wyoming Massacre, The

DESCRIPTION: "Kind heaven assist the trembling muse While she attempts to tell Of poor Wyoming's overthrow By savage sons of hell." "One hundred whites in painted hue, Whom Butler there did lead..." offer terms of surrender to the defenders, then slaughter them

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Burt-AmericanMurderBallads)

KEYWORDS: Indians(Am.) war homicide trick lie

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
July 1, 1778 - The Wyoming Massacre

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Burt-AmericanMurderBallads, pp. 129-131, "(A TRAGICAL ACCOUNT of the battle between the People of Wyoming and the Indians of Westmoreland in the year 1778, in which two hundred of the Americans were unhappily sacrificed to the savage barbarity of some treacherous Americans and cruel savages, in a Poem by a Person then resident near the field of battle)" (1 excerpted text)

NOTES [343 words]: J. Franklin Jameson, Dictionary of United States History 1492-1895, Puritan Press, 1894, p. 728, describes the Wyoming atrocity this way:
Wyoming Massacre, Pa. In 1776 to Continental companies had been placed in the Wyoming Valley for the protection of the settlers, chiefly Connecticut emigrants. Two years later Major John Butler, commanding a force 800 strong, of Indians, British and Tories, descended upon the valley. July 3, 230 Americans, in six companies, led by Colonel Zebulon Butler, attempted to oppose the British raids. Their unorganized lines fell upon the enemy about four o'clock in the afternoon. The continentals were utterly routed and a brutal massacre followed. Butler could not restrain his indians, who took 227 scalps. Women and children were, however, spared.
The Wyoming Massacre was perhaps the worst incident of savagery in the Revolutionary War, but was not really atypical. The British, trying to fight a war at the end of a very long supply line, naturally tried to rely on locals as much as possible, and that meant Indians.
And the Indians weren't interested in anything in particular except loot, and the easiest way for the British to provide loot was to allow massacres. On the whole, the Indians probably did the British more harm than good -- they were unreliable and often deserted, and frequently proved ineffective in battle, as e.g. in the Saratoga campaign. And they blackened the British reputation among wavering colonials.
The Wyoming massacre goes far to demonstrate why the British suffered in the battle for public opinion. John Butler (?-1794), a loyalist commissioned major, brought a force believed to have numbered in excess of 1000 to the Wyoming Valley in Pennsylvania. The only defense was a small, undermanned fort, and Butler induced it to surrender by offering honorable surrender and safety.
Once the gates were opened, Butler ordered a massacre. Accounts of what happened next vary (as they always do in tales of atrocities), but at least two hundred people, and probably many more, died. - RBW

Last updated in version 2.5
File: Burt130

Wyoming Song
DESCRIPTION: "Oh, dear Wyoming, clear and bright, Thy breezes are a treasure; They give us health, they give us wealth." "Much gold comes from thy mountains." "We love thy sunny weather. Thy people stand for all that's right."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1915? (Pound)
KEYWORDS: home patriotic nonballad
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp 573-574, "Wyoming Song (1 text)
Roud #4979
File: CAFS2573

X Y Z
DESCRIPTION: "Smash! Jemmy, let us buss, we'll off An' see Newcassel Races." They will watch "X Y Z that bonny steed... He's sure to win the Cup, man." Along the way, they encounter many improbable adventures
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1900 (Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland)
KEYWORDS: horse racing travel
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Stokoe/Reay-SongsAndBalladsOfNorthernEngland, pp. 164-166, "X Y Z" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #8085
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Cameronian Rant" (tune)
File: StoR164

Yaller Gal, The
DESCRIPTION: In praise of the power of the yaller gal: "It takes a long, tall yaller gal To make a preacher lay his Bible down. It takes a long, tall yaller gal To make a bulldog break his chain." "I got a long, tall yaller gal On do road somewhere."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1919 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: seduction clergy nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 450, "The Yaller Gal" (2 fragments plus a brief World War I (?) parody about making Germans surrender)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 450, "The Yaller Gal" (2 tunes plus text excerpts, one for the song and the other for the parody)
Roud #11784
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "My Yallow Gal" (theme)
Yallow Ribbons, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer will dye his ribbons blue because "the lassie I love she's constant and true," which is why he won't dye them yellow.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan4)

KEYWORDS: love colors nonballad clothes

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 923, "The Yallow Ribbons" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6237

Yankee Boy, A

DESCRIPTION: "A Yankee boy is trimmed and tall And never over-fat, sir. At dance ad frolic and hop and ball, As nimble as a rabbit, sir. Yankee Doodle, guard your coast." The Yankee guards his land. A Yankee girl keeps her cow "Without the king or his orderly, sir."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1949 (Nestler)

KEYWORDS: patriotic farming home

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: Harold Nestler, "Songs from the Hudson Valley" (article in _New York Folklore Quarterly_, Volume V, #2, Summer 1949), p. 110, "A Yankee Boy" (1 text)

NOTES [22 words]: This looks as if it was originally supposed to be sung to "Yankee Doodle," but as recorded by Nestler, it doesn't fit very well. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4

Yankee Doodle

DESCRIPTION: Concerning the exploits of a New England backwoodsman who joins Washington's colonial army. He sees many wonders his mind cannot comprehend. He is steadily teased: "Yankee Doodle keep it up, Yankee Doodle dandy...."

AUTHOR: sometimes credited to Dr. Richard Shuckburgh

EARLIEST DATE: 1794

KEYWORDS: war rebellion humorous America

FOUND IN: US(All)

REFERENCES (26 citations):
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 521-525, "Yankee Doodle" (4 texts, 1 tune, although 1 text is the Confederate version)
Linscott-FolkSongsOfOldNewEngland, pp. 115-118, "Virginia Reel" [medley of "The Irish Washerwoman," "The White Cockade," and "Yankee Doodle"] (1 tune for each of the three melodies, plus dance instructions)
Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 61, "(The Farmer and his Son's return from a visit to the CAMP" (1 broadside text, thought to be the earliest print of the "common" version)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 77-78, "The Yankees return from Camp" (1 text plus a broadside print)
McIntosh-FolkSongsAndSingingGamesofIllinoisOzarks, pp. 92-93, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text, 1 tune, the first verse and chorus being the standard one, the rest being a playparty)
Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 548, "Yankee Doodle came to town" (6 texts)
Baring-Gould-AnnotatedMotherGoose #109, p. 92, "(Yankee Doodle)
Jack-PopGoesTheWeasel, p. 270. "Yanke Doodle Dandy" (1 short text)
Dolby-OrangesAndLemons, p. 152, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 104, p. 133, "Nursery Rhyme" (1 text of two verses, the first being "Yankee Doodle" and the second "Lucy Locket/Hunt the Squirrel")
Arnett-IHearAmericaSinging, pp. 18-19, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, pp. 3-8, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text plus fragments)
Rabson-SongbookOfTheAmericanRevolution, p. 56, "The Yankees Return from Camp" (1 text)
Krythe-SamplerOfAmericanSongs 1, pp. 3-14, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Heart-Songs, pp. 382-383, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 338-340, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text)
Seeger-AmericanFavoriteBallads, p. 71, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 292, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text)
Colonial-Dames-AmericanWarSongs, pp. 21-23, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, pp. 659-660+, "Yankee Doodle"
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2684, p. 182, "Yankee Doodle" (5 references); #2685, p. 182,
"Yankee Doodle" (5 references)
DT, YANKDOOD*

ADDITIONAL: Harry Dichter and Elliott Shapiro, _Early American Sheet Music: Its Lure and Its
Lore, 1768-1889_, R. R. Bowker, 1941, pp. 7-18, prints parts of six early versions of the text; pp. 17-19 describes nine printed copies from before 1810 and on plate #2 shows a test and tune which appear to predate the Revolutionary War version Gregory Walker, Mary Clapinson, Lesley Forbes, Editors, _The Bodleian Library: A Subject Guide to the Collections_, Bodleian Press, 2004, plate XIX (following p. 128), "Yankee Doodle, or (as now Christened by the Saints of New England) The Lexington March" (a reproduction of what is said to be the earliest print of the music, broadside Harding G 70(3), reportedly one of only three copies of this edition to survive)
William E. Studwell and Bruce R. Schueneman, _State Songs of the United States: An Annotated
Anthology_, The Haworth Press, 1997, p. 26, "(Yankee Doodle)" (1 short text; tune on p. 93)
ADDITIONAL: William L. Stone, _Ballads and Poems Relating to the Burgoyne Campaign_, 1893
(I use the 1970 Kennikat Press reissue), p. 71, "(Two Burgoyne Ditties)" (1 short text, which does not mention John Burgoyne)
Roud #4501
RECORDINGS:
Piper's Gap Ramblers, "Yankee Doodle" (OKeh 45185, 1928; rec. 1927)
Pete Seeger, "Yankee Doodle" (on PeteSeeger17) (on PeteSeeger33, PeteSeegerCD03)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 31(146), "Yankee Doodle ("Father and I went down to camp, along with captain Goodwin"), A.W. Auner (Philadelphia), c.1860; also Harding B 31(128), "Yankee Doodle, or (as now Christened by the Saints of New England) The Lexington March" (a reproduction of what is said to be the earliest print of the music, broadside Harding G 70(3), reportedly one of only three copies of this edition to survive)
LOCSinging, sb40592b, "Yankee Doodle," H. De Marsan (New York), 1864-1878; also hc00037b,
"Yankee Doodle" (not misspelled in the text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Confederate 'Yankee Doodle'"
cf. "Yanke Doodle (Lord Howe Put On His Fine Red Coat)"
cf. "The Presidents (The Presidents in Rhyme)" (tune)
cf. "The Battle of the Kegs" (tune)
cf. "Devilish Mary" [Laws Q4] (tune)
cf. "Fair and Free Elections" (tune)
cf. "Uncle John is Sick Abed" (tune)
cf. "Mrs. Brown Went to Town" (structure and some words)
cf. "Monitor and Merrimac" (tune)
cf. "Multiplication Table Song" (tune)
cf. "The Valiant Conscript" (tune)
cf. "Spinsters Gay" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
Confederate "Yankee Doodle" (File: R249)
Yankee Doodle (Tea Tax version) (File: Morr002)
The Presidents (The Presidents in Rhyme) (File: R877)
The Battle of the Kegs (File: SBoA077)
Fair and Free Elections (File: FSWB284)
Uncle John Is Sick Abed (File: LIWUJISA)
Monitor and Merrimac (File: CAFS1195)
Multiplication Table Song (File: Stou103H)
The Valiant Conscript (File: SCWF201)
Spinsters Gay (File: Brne055)
Bump Me into Parliament (File: Clev087)
Plutocracy (File: Clev106)
Mary Was a Three-badge Wren (File: Tawn090)
The Lexington March ("Brother Ephraim sold his Cow and bought him a Commision" [sic.]) (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 52)
The Times (Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 144-146)
The Embargo (Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 342-344)
The Preposition Song (Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 203)
James K. Polk campaign song: "The Democrats will be triumphant" (see John Siegenthaler, _James K. Polk_, Times Books, 2003, p. 91)
The Chain Masters came along (Jon Raven, _The Urban and Industrial Songs of the Black Country and Birmingham_, Broadside, 1977, pp. 246-247)
Yankee Song ("There is a man in our town, I'll tell you his condition") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, pp. 34-35, and cf. p. 33)
The Procession, with the Standard of Faction ("Good neighbours, if you're not afraid, Be not in Trepidation") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 41)
Adam's Fall: The Trip to Cambridge ("When Congress sent great Washington") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 60)
As Jack the King's Commander [referring to John Burgoyne] (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 71)
Yankee Doodle Expedition to Rhode-Island ("From Lewis, Monsieur Gerard came") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 79; Rabson-SongbookOfTheAmericanRevolution, pp. 60-61)
The Recess ("And now our Senators are gone To take their leave of London") (Rabson-SongbookOfTheAmericanRevolution, p. 61)
Original Union Song! ("The Southern rooster loudly crows") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 118)
On the Affair Between the Rebel Generals HOWE and GADDESEN ("It was on Mr. Peroy's land") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 80)
The Dance ("Cornwallis led a country dance, The like was never seen, sir") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 93)
Yankee Song ("The 'Vention did in Boston meet, But State-Houses could not hold 'em") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 107)
("Brother Jon'than, what are you 'bout, What the nation ails you?") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 132)
Trip to Launching ("Says Bob to Dick, come let us go To Boston Town, to launching") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 137)
New Verses ("Sing Yankee Doodle, that fine tune, Americans delight in") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 141)
Columbians all the present hour as Brothers should Unite us (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, pp. 146-147)
Federalists, Be On Your Guard (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 162)
Republicans, Be On Your Guard (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 162)
A Song Supposed to have been written by The Sage of Monticello ("Of all the damsels on the green... A lass so luscious ne'er was seen As Monticellean Sally") (An attack on Thomas Jefferson's relationship with Sally Hemings) (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 175)
A Song -- Composed by a Sailor ("Bad news is come from Washington, So saiors land your cargo," referring to the Jeffersonian embargo on British products) (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 185)
Yankee Doodle ("A Yankee boy is trim and tall") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 199)
Corn Cobs Twist Your Hair (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, pp. 258-259)
Harrison Song ("On seventy six, our minds we'll fix," a campaign song for William Henry Harrison) (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 282)
The Times Are Growing Hot (Harrison campaign song) (A. B. Norton, _Songs of the People in the Log Cabin Days of Old Tippecanoe_, p. 6)
The Hero Plowman ("The hero plowman of North Behd") (Harrison campaign song) (A. B. Norton, _Songs of the People in the Log Cabin Days of Old Tippecanoe_, A. B. Norton & Co., 1888
Song for the Working Men ("That Matty [Martin Van Buren] loves the Working man, No working man can doubt, sirs") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 286) We're the Boys For Mexico ("The Mexican's [sic.] are doomed to fall, God has in his wrath forsook 'em") (Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents, p. 316) The Song for All Parties ("Our fathers fought, our fathers died," by Francis F. Eastlack, 1857) (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 146) The Yankee Boy ("A Yankee Boy is trim and tall," by Isadore Leopold) (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 181) Yankee Doodle [No. 2] ("Ye gallant sons of liberty") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 182) Yankee Doodle No. 3 ("Yankee Doodle! long ago") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 182) General Butler ("Butler and I went out from camp") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 189) Southern Yankee Doodle ("The Gallant Major Anderson") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, pp. 194-195) Southern Yankee Doodle ("Yankee Doodle was the boy") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 195) (James A. Garfield campaign song against Winfield Scott Hancock, 1880) ("My brigadiers, let us forget Which side it was we fought on") (Paul F. Boller, Jr., _Presidential Campaigns_, second revised edition, Oxford University Press, p. 145) Gratulandum Est ("In Doodle Yankee Cantandum, "Qui alicujus gradus lau") (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 22) Ancient Mariner ("There was an ancient mariner -- In Coleridge is his 'Rime,' sir") (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 77) A Student's Life ("Oh, we're a jolly set of boys, As ever went to college") (Henry Randall Waite, _Carmina Collegensia: A Complete Collection of the Songs of the American Colleges_ first edition 1868, expanded edition, Oliver Ditson, 1876, p. 121) Origin of the Grange ("From sixty-one to sixty-five the Union was disrupted") (by A. P. Knapp) (Albert P. Knapp, _Grange Songster_, 1915, p. 22) Independence Day ("Again we hail the day's return That gave us independence") (Foner, p. 62) The Shoemaker's Song ("Written for the strikers by Allen Peabody, Wenham, Massachusetts") ("Ye jours and snobs throughout the land, 'Tis time to be astir") (Foner, p. 73) Labor's Yankee Doodle ("We, toilers, have made up our minds To have a revolution") (Foner, p. 265) Yankee Doodle (song against Grover Cleveland) ("Once on a time old Grover C. Sent forth a great big bellow") (by C. A. Sheffield) (Foner, p. 280) [Socialist parody by W. B. Creech] ("Workingmen assembled here, No matter what your nation, Raise your voices now against Old Bismarck's cowardly action") (Foner, p. 297) The Fire Brigade Dinner, Part I ("Just listen, I'm about to sing About the Fire Brigade dinner, The facts that I shall now advance As true as I'm a sinner") (by Charles R. Thatcher) (Anderson-ColonialMinstrel, p. 95) The Garfield Yankee Doodle ("James A. Garfield is the man Our party nominated") (Garfield and Arthur Campaign Song Book 1880, p. 6) Hancock to His Southern Brigadiers ("My Brigadiers, let us forget, Which side it was we fought on, --") (Garfield and Arthur Campaign Song Book 1880, p.21) Yankee Dewey (by O. H. Cole, about Thomas Dewey's 1898 victory at the Battle of Manila Bay) Get Prohibition ("Prohibition's sure to come In our beloved state, sir") (by Anna A. Gordon) (Anna Adams Gordon, _Popular Campaign Songs_, National W.C.T.U. Publishing House, 1915, p. 26) NOTES [492 words]: There is a reference to "Yankee Doodle" in a comic opera of 1767 ("The Disappointment, or The Force of Credulity" by Andrew Barton; see Dichter/Shapiro, p. 17 and the sheet music reproduced in plate #2), but given the references in the common version to the continental army and "Captain Washington," the piece as commonly sung can hardly predate the Revolutionary War. Krythe-SamplerOfAmericanSongs gives an extensive summary of the stories told about the song's origins, including a similar piece of doggerel allegedly dating to the time of Cromwell (died 1658). Most of them must be regarded as folkloric. Similarly Spaeth, in his _A History of Popular Music in America_, devotes thousands of words (pp.15-21) to the known history and alleged antecedents of the song. The sum, as Spaeth makes abundantly clear, tells us very little. We must confess that we really don't know the history of the song. The Opies mention the attribution to Shuckburgh -- and say it is "now discredited." There are certainly antecedents of the song, though; see the SAME TUNE entries from Lawrence-MusicForPatriotsPoliticiansAndPresidents.
Laura Ingalls Wilder had a curious version (Little House in the Big Woods, chapter 2) with a chorus I have not seen elsewhere: "And I'll sing Yankee Doodle-de-do, and I'll sing Yankee Doodle" (x2). This portion of the Little House books is fictional (Laura did not live in Wisconsin at the age described), and so we cannot date the song, but it is presumably traditional. This "Yankee Doodle" is obviously not to be confused with the 1812 song "The Constitution and the Guerriere," sometimes titled "Yankee Doodle Dandy-O."

According to William E. Studwell and Bruce R. Schueneman, State Songs of the United States: An Annotated Anthology, The Haworth Press, 1997, p. 26, "Yankee Doodle" (the short "Macaroni" version) became Connecticut's state song in 1978, Sam Cowell in the nineteenth century sang a song known as "Corn Cobs, or Yankee Notions" (Forget-Me-Not-Songster, pp. 14-16; broadside Bodleian, Harding B 11(695), unknown, no date). There is no tune listed in either source, but it fits "Yankee Doodle," and it has several "Yankee Doodle" verses. I strongly suspect it is sung to this tune. The chorus is "Corn cobs twist your hair, Cart wheels surround you, Fiery dragons carry you off, And mortar pestal pound you." It refers to an invasion of Canada, although there was no such event in Cowell's lifetime. A strange song. - RBW

I have not listed all the [broadside] variants ("Yankee Doodle No.2," "Yankee Doodle No.3," and others including an "Original Yankee Doodle"). You can find them among the Bodleian and LOCSinging collections.

Broadsides LOCSinging hc00037b and Bodleian Harding B 31(128) are duplicates. - BS

Yankee Doodle (Columbia's Sons are Handy)

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "With Yankee Doodle, doodle, doo, Yankee Doodle dandy, Our tars will show the haughty foe Columbia's sons are handy." We are free of King George and his descendants. We can whip the British tars and "care no more for France than Britain"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1839 (Erskine-TwentyYearsBeforeTheMast)
KEYWORDS: war navy patriotic
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Erskine-TwentyYearsBeforeTheMast, pp. 95-96, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Yankee Doodle" (tune) and references there

NOTES [54 words]: In 1839 Erskine was part of an American crew that dropped into the Jolly Sailor's Inn in Sydney, Australia. "It was a large square room. On either side were a number of tables, over which hung various national flags." Crews at the tables sang their own Russian, English, French or U.S. songs. The Americans sang this song. - BS

Last updated in version 4.1
File: Ersk095

Yankee Doodle (Lord Howe Put On His Fine Red Coat)

DESCRIPTION: "Lord Howe put on his fine red coat And called or all his cronies... A-riding on their ponies." "Georgie Porgie, pumpkin pie, Georgie, he's a dandy... He's so spic and spandy." Humorous comments on the British forces in America

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1969 (Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol1)
KEYWORDS: political humorous clothes royalty animal
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol1, p. 29, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text, tune referenced)
Roud #4501
CROSS-REFERENCES:
NOTES [161 words]: This is a bit of a conundrum. Bush's informant "Mr. Sprinston" declared that the common version of "Yankee Doodle" is British (a semi-truth; the first printing was apparently by Halliwell in a British book) and that this is the colonial version. Certainly it is an American song referring to the Revolutionary War. Lord Howe is presumably General William Howe, who succeeded Thomas Gage as commander of British forces in America (unless the reference is to his brother, Admiral Richard). "Georgie Porgie" is surely George III. But Sprinston's text never mentions "Yankee Doodle," is sung to the tune of "Weevily Wheat" (although it fits "Yankee Doodle," and the two melodies have similarities), and doesn't appear to be part of the standard original Yankee Doodle ("Father and I went down to camp Along with Captain Gooding..."). Combining those three facts, I'm not dead sure this is truly part of "Yankee Doodle." So I'm filing it separately, albeit hesitantly. - RBW

Yankee Doodle (Tea Tax version)
DESCRIPTION: "Once on a time old Johnny Bull Flew in a raging fury. "'And now," said he, 'I'll tax the tea Of all your sons and daughters.'" "John sent the tea from o'er the sea." But Americans won't drink it. They win the war, and now everyone sings "Yankee Doodle."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida)
KEYWORDS: food political derivative
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #2, "Yankee Doodle" (1 text, tune referenced)
Roud #5023
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Yankee Doodle" (tune) and references there
cf. "Old Granny Wales (Granny O'Whale, Granua Weal)" (subject: The Tea Tax)
NOTES [33 words]: Although this talks of events before the American Revolution, the song must be dated after 1789 -- probably well after -- since it refers to "Hail Columbia," and that was not written until 1789. - RBW

Yankee Doodle Dandy
DESCRIPTION: "I have a daughter and you'd think she was a lady.... She has a sweetheart comes to see her nights... And the only tune he whistles right is "Yankee Doodle Dandy."" The young man causes so much trouble that the fathers vows to drive him off
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1922 (Dean-FlyingCloud)
KEYWORDS: music courting humorous father
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dean-FlyingCloud, p. 76, "Yankee Doodle Dandy" (1 text)
Roud #21717
NOTES [101 words]: I haven't been able to locate a source for this song, but it certainly sounds as if it originated on stage. Reading this song, I couldn't help but think of Ulysses S. Grant, who was tone-deaf. He once commented that he knew only two tunes: One was "Yankee Doodle" and the other wasn't. What's more, according to William A. DeGregorio, The Complete Book of U. S. Presidents 1993 edition, Barricade Books, p. 263, the former Julia Dent's parents disapproved of her marriage to Grant. Not quite the same situation as in this song, but you wonder if it didn't kick around in the author's mind a little. - RBW

File: Dean076A
Yankee John, Stormalong (Liza Lee)

DESCRIPTION: Pulling shanty. Singer says that Liza Lee promised to marry him. He shipped out but promised her a ring, etc. Now she's jilted him. Remaining verses on general sailing themes. Chorus: "Yan-kee John, Storm-along." Colcord says this is of Negro origin.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys)
KEYWORDS: shanty sailor courting separation floating verses
FOUND IN: Britain US West Indies (Nevis)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, p. 60, "Liza Lee" (1 fragment, 1 tune-quoted from Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 80, "Yankee John, Stormalong" (1 text, 1 tune) [AbEd, p. 74]
Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys, XXXVI, p. 41, "Liza Lee" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea, pp. 95-96, "Liz Lee" (1 text, 1 tune)
Abrahams-DeepTheWaterShallowTheShore, pp. 61-62, "Yankee John, Stormalong" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, LIZALEE*
Roud #4698
CROSS-REFERENCES:
 cf. "A Hundred Years Ago" (lyrics)
NOTES [25 words]: Recognized mostly by its choruses. The lyrics mostly float, with Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas's version being about half "A Hundred Years Ago." - RBW

Yankee Land

DESCRIPTION: A Belfast woman is seduced by "a sailor from a distant port" and said "he'd take me far away to his happy home in Yankee Land." We are left believing he reneges.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1929 (Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: seduction America sailor betrayal
FOUND IN: Canada (Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 96, "Yankee Land" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #31093
File: GrMa096

Yankee Man-of-War (III), The

DESCRIPTION: Describes a battle between an unnamed ship captained by John Paul Jones and an (also unnamed) English man-of-war. Jones chases down the man-of-war, catches up at 11 a.m., they fight "yardarm to yardarm" for five hours till the English flag comes down

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1945 (Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips)
KEYWORDS: navy ship battle foc's'le
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips, pp. 180-181, "The Yankee Man-of-War II" (1 text)
Roud #625
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Paul Jones, the Privateer" [Laws A3] (subject of John Paul Jones)
cf. "Paul Jones's Victory" [Laws A4] (subject of John Paul Jones)
NOTES [210 words]: Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips listed this along with another "Yankee Man-of-War" (aka "Paul Jones the Privateer" [Laws A3]) though the words and meter is different, and the text clearly describes a different battle. [Roud nonetheless lumps them, probably taking Harlow's word for it. - RBW]
The only battle I could find that might fit what's described here is one that took place on April 24,
1778 when Jones, captaining the \textit{Ranger}, the captured the HMS \textit{Drake} off the coast of Ireland. However, that battle actually lasted only an hour or so, not five as this song describes. - SL

Some of this may be due to inaccurate reporting of what Jones said and did. Samuel Eliot Morison's biography \textit{John Paul Jones} (1959; Time-Life edition printed 1981) repeatedly laments the miserable state of Jones biographies, at one point he accuses a writer of "complete fabrication," adding that this author "found it easier to write Jones's letters himself than use the genuine ones in the Library of Congress." This does not, of course, prove that Morison's biography is accurate (though his reputation is high) -- but it proves that our sources as a whole are unreliable.

For a (largely Morison-derived) biography of Jones, see "Paul Jones's Victory" [Laws A4]. - RBW

\textbf{Yankee Manufactures}

\textbf{DESCRIPTION:} "I wish I was in Yankee lad, And was a boy again, sirs... I'd never wander from my home... But stay at home, eat pumpkin pie Of Yankee manufacture." The singer boasts of things "of Yankee manufacture:" Pretty girls, George Washington, British defeats

\textbf{AUTHOR:} unknown
\textbf{EARLIEST DATE:} 1941 (Songs of Yesterday)
\textbf{KEYWORDS:} bragging patriotic nonballad food
\textbf{HISTORICAL REFERENCES:}
June 17, 1775 - American defeat at the Battle of Bunker Hill. The Americans are pushed from their positions, but inflict heavy casualties on the British, and so feel they have earned some bragging rights.
Jan 8, 1815 - Battle of New Orleans. Although a peace had already been signed, word had not yet reached Louisiana, which Pakenham sought to invade. Andrew Jackson's backwoodsmen easily repulse Pakenham

\textbf{FOUND IN:} US
\textbf{REFERENCES (1 citation):}
\textit{Botkin-TreasuryOfNewEnglandFolklore}, pp. 535-536, "Yankee Manufactures" (1 text, 1 tune)
\textbf{SAME TUNE:}
The Rising Generation ("Go where you will, you'll get your fill") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets p. 135)

\textbf{File:} BNEF535

\textbf{Yankee Retreat, The}

\textbf{DESCRIPTION:} "The very next morning we marched very slow" and attacked the Yankees through brush and thorn. "General Averil" tries to encourage the troops, but "Jackson" pushes on

\textbf{AUTHOR:} unknown
\textbf{EARLIEST DATE:} 1917 (Cox)
\textbf{KEYWORDS:} Civilwar battle
\textbf{HISTORICAL REFERENCES:}
May 1-4, 1863 - Battle of Chancellorsville

\textbf{FOUND IN:} US(Ap)
\textbf{REFERENCES (1 citation):}
\textit{Cox-FolkSongsSouth} 67, "The Yankee Retreat" (1 text)
Roud #5458

\textbf{NOTES [211 words]:} With only two stanzas to work with, and no actual plot surviving, it's hard to tell what this song is about. Its connection with the Battle of Chancellorsville seems certain, however. In the first stanza, the singer reports "Fighting through briers, fighting through thorn, Such fighting I never saw since I was born."

The above description largely restricts the context to the "Wilderness" battles of Chancellorsville and the Wilderness. (The western battle of Chickamauga was also fought in a forest, but it doesn't fit the generals.) "Stonewall"Jackson was killed at the former (where he led the grand outflanking march which gave the Confederates victory), so it must be the battle involved.

"General Averil" is presumably William Woods Averell (1832-1900), who led a Union cavalry division. His troops had been expected to go on a raid before Chancellorsville, but bad weather held him up. As a result, he was placed in charge of scouting the Union right wing. Averell reported to Union commander Joseph Hooker that the Federal right flank was impassable. Jackson proved Averell wrong, and Hooker relieved him (though, in the grand Union tradition, Averell was reinstated and promoted -- only to be relieved by Sheridan in 1864 for lack of aggressiveness). - RBW
File: JHcox067

Yankee Shore

DESCRIPTION: "As I roved out one morning, being in the lovely month of May," the singer meets a girl. If she'd marry, he would take her to America. Though her father agrees, her parents grieve "when I took her from her parents and land her safe on the Yankee shore"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Peacock)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage emigration beauty sea America Ireland father mother sailor
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peacock, pp. 233-234, "Yankee Shore" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6462
RECORDINGS:
Freeman Bennett, "Yankee Shore" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
File: Pea233

Yankee Song

DESCRIPTION: "Well, the Yanks are comin' all around; Drop your work, drop your play, Run away, don't delay, Drop your gun, on the run, there's a task to be done. Where they teach you how to salute, and they teach you how to shoot." "The Blue and Gray are one" in Dixie

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (Roberts-SangBranchSettlers)
KEYWORDS: soldier travel
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #50, "Yankee Song" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3412
NOTES [12 words]: This sounds like a pop song to me, but I can't find any hint of it. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Robe050

Yankee Tars

DESCRIPTION: Nature has bestowed the U.S. with every possible blessing, including "true Yankee hearts." A Navy is needed to "protect from each insolent foe." Examples of how "Yankee tars shall their country protect." Verses end with Dreadnaught's "derry down" line.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1902 (S. B. Luce's _Naval Songs_)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Nature has bestowed the U.S. with every possible blessing, including "true Yankee hearts." A Navy is needed to "protect from each insolent foe." Examples of how "Yankee tars shall their country protect." Verses end with Dreadnaught's "derry down" line. Two verses cite the battle between the Constitution and the Guerriere.
KEYWORDS: navy sailor America
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Harlow-ChantyingAboardAmericanShips, pp. 189-190, "Yankee Tars" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9167
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Constitution and the Guerriere" [Laws A6] (partial story) and references there
File: Har1189
Yankees Are Coming, The

DESCRIPTION: "The Yankees are coming! Away! Which way? Who saw them? Do tell us. And what did they?... Fifteen hundred, they say, and they are at Lamar." The people's fear is mentioned, as well as the unionists' entry into the town and their determination

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi)

KEYWORDS: Civilwar soldier derivative

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 124, pp. 264-265, "The Yankees Are Coming" (1 text)

Roud #4503

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Campbells Are Coming" (tune)

SAME TUNE: The Campbells Are Coming (File: FSWB281B)

NOTES [223 words]: The references in this song make the historical situation hard to determine. The only specific names are:

Lamar (place name; there is a Lamar, Mississippi, but also one in Missouri). Both were the sites of small skirmishes: The one in Missouri on August 24 and November 5, 1862, both very small; the one in Mississippi on November 12, 1862 and only slightly larger (it involved the equivalent of a single brigade).

Mitchell (presumably a Confederate soldier, but the Confederacy never had a general of that name; the Union had a General Ormsby M. Mitchel who fought in the west but died 1862)

Grant (Ulysses S. Grant, who commanded at Shiloh and in the Vicksburg campaign)

Jayhawkers (usually refers to soldiers in Kansas or Missouri)

Vicksburg (the key to Confederate control of the Mississippi)

Pemberton (John C. Pemberton, the commander of the Vicksburg garrison).

My best guess is that this refers to Benjamin H. Grierson's Mississippi raid of April 17-May 2, 1863, in which some 1700 soldiers raced from Tennessee to New Orleans, cutting railroads and spreading confusion. This helped Grant get his forces in position for the final attack on Vicksburg.

But other possibilities cannot be discounted, especially if (as seems possible, since the song seems to shift between Union and Confederate perspectives) two songs have mixed. - RBW

File: Hud124

Yard-O 'Yaddo (Bella in the Yard) (Bellaring ina Yaddo)

DESCRIPTION: Trinidadian patois. Chorus: "Wey, Bella in de yard-o, rad-o, rad-o, Bella in de yard-o eee." Nonsense verses: "Monkey play de fiddle And the baboon play de banjo." "Want to see de monkey dance Bust a pepper in he tail"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Jekyll-JamaicanSongAndStory)

KEYWORDS: fiddle dancing nonballad worksong animal

FOUND IN: West Indies(Jamaica,Trinidad) Belize

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Jekyll-JamaicanSongAndStory 57, ("Bell, oh, Bell oh, Bell a ring a yard oh!") (1 text) (1 tune)
Abrahams-DeepTheWaterShallowTheShore, pp. 84-86, "Yard Away, Yard Away" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Ervin Beck, "Belizean Creole Folk Songs" in Caribbean Quarterly Vol. 29, No. 1 (March 1983 (made available online by JSTOR)), pp. 45-46, "Run Johnny run, boy, caulkin [?] on your block today" (1 text, 1 tune) (recorded 1956-57+)

RECORDINGS:
Emil Paul, Carl Monsegu and Allan Lovelace, "Yard-O 'Yaddo" (on WITrinidadVillage01)

NOTES [106 words]: The description is based on WITrinidadVillage01. Jekyll-JamaicanSongAndStory's patois is Jamaican.

Jekyll's text has "Baboon roll de drum oh, Monkey rub de fiddle, oh." Beck's text: "Run, Johnny, run, boy, caulkin [?] on your block today / Hey, yey! Bur-ah-yin da yagga [?]. Monkey play de fiddle and the baboon dance the tune. Hey, yey! Bur-ah-yin da yagga." Beck has this as a call-and-response loggers' work song. The liner notes for Herskovits say "versions of this song are known from Jamaica, ..., Carriacou ... [and] Tobago" (Donald R. Hill,
Yarmouth Fishermen's Song, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer tells of a tough voyage, with high winds and seas, and few fish. Another ship comes close and cuts their anchor cable; their ropes catch fire. They limp into harbor, but proudly return to sea the next day. Singer toasts the master and crew

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1953 (recorded from Harry Cox)

KEYWORDS: fishing sea ship drink sailor worker

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

Roud #2434

RECORDINGS:
Harry Cox, "The Yarmouth Fishermen's Song" (on LastDays)

NOTES [45 words]: According to the notes to the Harry Cox recording "What Will Become of England," Cox learned this song, "composed by one of his father's shipmates... from his father. Harry couldn't remember all the verses, however, and complete the song to the best of his ability." - RBW

File: RcTYFS

Yarmouth is a Pretty Town

DESCRIPTION: Pretty Nancy lived in Yarmouth "at the sign of the 'Angel.'" The singer, a soldier, must march away. "Many hearts were rejoicing But my heart was sad." He asked her to go with him but her answer was No! He grieves to think of Yarmouth

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Stone)

KEYWORDS: grief courting rejection war parting separation soldier

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Broadwood-EnglishTraditionalSongsAndCarols, pp. 102-107, "Oh, Yarmouth is a pretty Town" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #32, p. 2, ("Oh, Yarmouth is a pretty town and shines where it stands") (1 fragment)
Christopher Stone, Sea Songs and Ballads (Oxford, 1906 ("Digitized by Google")), #79 pp. 157-158, "Oh Yarmouth is a Pretty Town" (1 text)

Roud #1068

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Bonny Portmore" ("shines where it stands") and references there

NOTES [21 words]: See "The Manchester Angel" for references to some of the many counter-examples [of a girl rejecting a soldier who is leaving]. - BS

Last updated in version 5.0

File: Grg032

Yarrow Streams

DESCRIPTION: The singer grieves; her lover is dead. He had promised to marry her. After their last parting, she saw his ghost. She counsels his mother and sister to stop searching for him because he is dead. She finds him in the stream and drowns herself there.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1781 (Logan, according to Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2)

LONG DESCRIPTION: The singer recalls first meeting her lover on Yarrow's braes but she'll not see him again by that "stream of sorrow" He had promised a white steed and page (and a wedding ring for tomorrow's wedding). (After they parted last she saw his "water wraith." ) His mother and sister sought him in vain east, west and in the forest. ((The singer tells her own sister that she dreamt her lover drowned in Yarrow; her sister interprets the dream and says it is true. [From Child 214 we know that he is murdered, not drowned.])) The singer tells his mother and sister to stop their search (because he is dead). (She will have no other lover.) She finds his body in the stream
"and now with him she sleeps in Yarrow" [Note: the parenthesized parts of the long description are from Logan and are not in Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2; the double parenthesized item is only in Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 and Child 214.]
KEYWORDS: grief love wedding death drowning river dream borderballad derivative mother sister ghost
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 118, "Yarrow Streams" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: David Herd, editor, Ancient and Modern Scottish Songs, Heroic Ballads, etc.
(facsimile of (Edinburgh,1776) with an "Appendix ... containing the pieces substituted in the 1791 reprint for those omitted of the 1776 edition, &c.") ("Digitized by Google"), Vol II, Appendix pp. 22-
23 [1-116], "The Braes of Yarrow" (1 text)
Roud #5839
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Dowie Dens o Yarrow [Child 214]" (story and some lines)
NOTES [299 words]: Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 p. xxxvii: "Most of 'Yarrow Streams' is related, sometimes loosely, to 'The Braes of Yarrow' by John Logan first printed in Poems by the Rev Mr Logan, one of the ministers of Leith (London 1781), pp. 4-7, but stanzas 5, 6 and 8 are unrelated to this and correspond to verses in Child 214 'The Braes o Yarrow.'" The ADDITIONAL Herd reference is Logan's poem.
Logan's poem complements Child 214, especially Child 214L, told as the story from the Rose of Yarrow's viewpoint rather than that of her lover, "the flower of Yarrow" [or husband in other versions].
Most of the lines of Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 118 are from Logan -- allowing for dialect -- with a word changed here and there. Stanza 5 is the "I dreamed a dream" verse and stanza 6 the dream interpretation from Child 214D,I,J,K,L,O [A,B,E,F,M,N only have the dream].
Stanza 8 has four lines: the first two -- "She socht him east she socht him west She socht him aw the greenwood through" -- are from Logan, and are shared with Child 214L (the first two lines of stanza 13); the last two lines -- "An in the cleaving o a craig She fand his bodie drownit in Yarrow"
-- are from Child 214L (the last two lines of stanza 13) and are not in Logan. Child points out that the last two lines of Child 214L stanza 12 -- "But only saw the clud o night, Or heard the roar o Yarrow" -- and the first two lines of stanza 13 are the last four lines of Logan stanza 4; in fact he says the lines from stanza 12 are "manifestly taken from Logan's Braes of Yarrow." Those are the only lines shared by Logan and Child 214. Summing up: the only lines shared only by Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume2 118 and Child 214 are "An in the cleaving o a craig She fand his bodie drownit in Yarrow." - BS
Last updated in version 2.6
File: LcCr2118

Yavipai Pete (Old Iron Pants Pete)

DESCRIPTION: Cowboy Yavipai (Iron Pants) Pete is refused a job because he's not tough enough for the job. Pete lassos a bear with barbed wire, rides it back to the ranch (with a rattlesnake for a quirt) and asks whether he can have the job now. The rancher hires him
AUTHOR: Curley Fletcher
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Curley Fletcher, "Songs of the Sage") LONG DESCRIPTION: Yavipai (Iron Pants) Pete is described, a rough and rowdy but skilled cowboy. Refused a job by a rancher, who says he's not tough enough for the job, he lassos a bear with barbed wire, rides it back to the ranch (with a rattlesnake for a quirt) and asks whether he can have the job now. The rancher hires him, noting that the bear had eaten the range boss the previous night.
KEYWORDS: travel clothes death farming work talltale animal boss cowboy
FOUND IN: US(Ro,SW)
RECORDINGS:
Harry Jackson, "Old Iron Pants Pete" (on HJackson1)
NOTES [32 words]: Jackson reports that this was originally an Arizona song, "Yavipi Pete," but that he and his fellow Wyoming ranch-hands renamed it, "Old Iron Pants Pete" and substituted local place names. - PJS
File: RcOIPP
Ye Cannae Shove Yer Granny Aff a Bus

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, ye cannae shove yer granny aff a bus (x2), Oh ye cannae shove yer granny, For she's yer mammie's mammie, Oh ye cannae...." Song continues with those you can shove off, e.g. "Ye can shove your Auntie Maggie aff a bus... she's naethin but a twister"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1964 (RItchie, Singing Street)
KEYWORDS: humorous family injury
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
DT, GRANYBUS*
Roud #20188
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "She'll Be Coming Round the Mountain" (tune) and references there
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Your Grannie and Your Other Grannie
NOTES [88 words]: This does not seem to appear in many collections -- perhaps collectors didn't want to print it, or informants didn't want to sing it. But it's well enough known that, in 2012, someone put out a game, "You Cannae Push Yer Granny Off The Bus" (so spelled). There is also a book by Allan Morrison, Ye Cannae Shove Yer Granny Aff a Bus: Scots Grandchildren on Their Grannies. It quotes two verses of this song, but it's mostly a collection of quotes from children. I mention it only because it shows how well-known this song is. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.0
File: DTgranbu

Ye Gae But to Your Beef-Stan'

DESCRIPTION: Cut a slice of meat -- but don't cut your hand -- for Besuthian. "Hogmanay!"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1911 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: request food begging ritual nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast 161, p. 2, ("Ye gae but to your beef stan") (1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan3 643, "Ye Gae But to Your Beef-Stan" (1 text)
Roud #6076
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Besuthian" (subject) and information there
cf. "Get Up Gudewife" (subject) and references there
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Besuthan
NOTES [46 words]: Greig: "Miss Bell Robertson ... says [the rhyme] was sung by a man who came through Rosehearty begging when her grandmother was a girl, circ. 1775.... After singing the rhyme the man cried "Hogmanay!" - BS
For what little is known of the word "Besuthian," see "Besuthian." - RBW

Last updated in version 2.4
File: GrD3643

Ye Gentlemen of England (I) [Laws K2]

DESCRIPTION: The singer wishes to remind the nobility of the dangers faced by seamen. He cites his own example. A storm off Ram's Head runs nine English ships aground. The largest ship (the Coronation?) loses almost all her crew, and the others are hardly better off

AUTHOR: unknown (see NOTES)
EARLIEST DATE: 1686
KEYWORDS: ship storm sailor
FOUND IN: US(NE) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (9 citations):
Laws K2, "Ye Gentlemen of England I"
Ye Guardian Powers (Nancy Wilson)

DESCRIPTION: "Ye guardian powers that rule above, And know how fondly I do love, God grant to ease my tottering pain...." The girl's love has been banished by his father's command. She grieves and laments his absence at length

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: love separation father

NOTES [122 words]: Randolph quotes Ozark folklore to the effect that this piece was written by a girl named Nancy Wilson "who committed suicide near Frankfort, Ky., in the early years of the nineteenth century."

One informant gave the story in even more detail: Nancy Wilson, an orphan, was hired by a wealthy family as a servant. The son of the household fell in love with her; the parents disapproved of the match. When he slept with her, they sent him away. She wrote this poem, then hanged herself. He came home for her, and hanged himself when he learned she was dead. Naturally, disasters followed for the family.

One can only suspect that this story is derived from a few dozen other similar ballads, e.g. "The Silver Dagger (I)" [Laws G21] - RBW

Last updated in version 5.3

File: R753
Ye Jacobites by Name
DESCRIPTION: "Ye Jacobites by name, Give an ear, give an ear, Ye Jacobites by name, Give an ear... Your faults I will proclaim, Your doctrines I maun blame." Jacobites are told to stop their schemes, to fight, to support the cause
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1800 (Scots Musical Museum)
KEYWORDS: Jacobite warning
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol1 34, "Ye Jacobites By Name" (1 text, 1 tune)
MacColl-PersonalChoice, p. 44, "Ye Jacobites by Name" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, JACBITE*
Roud #5517
File: MPCYJBN

Ye Ken Pretty Well What I Mean, O
DESCRIPTION: In an woman's house "you get your fill" with a "bonny servant lassie for to carry it all." A soldier asks for ale and takes the lass to bed. They name their genitals. His plump stallion falls in her well and comes out like "a half-drowned rat"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1707 (_Pills to Purge Melancholy_, v.iii p. 55, according to Farmer)
KEYWORDS: sex bawdy servant soldier mother
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig/Duncan1 50, "Green Leaves So Green" (3 fragments, 2 tunes)
ADDITIONAL: John Stephen Farmer, editor, Merry Songs and Ballads, Prior to the Year 1800 (1897), Vol I, pp. 192-193, "The Trooper Watering His Nagg"
Roud #3807
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Trooper Watering His Nag" (lyrics, style)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Steggie
NOTES [159 words]: Greig/Duncan1 fragments have none of the bawdy verses. John Mehlberg's immortalia.com site has a text as "Ye Ken Pretty Well What I Mean, O" that - Hamish Henderson reports - Arthur Argo got "from an elderly relative." That text is the basis of the description.
In the Farmer text the old woman "had a Daughter her name was Siss ... She kept her at Home, for to welcome her Guests." "And when Night came unto Bed they went ... It was with the Mother's own consent."
Perhaps Opie/Opie-OxfordDictionaryOfNurseryRhymes 541, "There Was an Old Woman Lived Under a Hill" is just a fragment of this ballad, censored, like the Greig/Duncan1 fragments. - BS
I'm tempted to lump this with "The Trooper Watering His Nag" -- the lyric and sly tone are obviously quite close. But Roud and Ben Schwartz both leave them separate, so I am very tentatively doing the same. Editors, however, show enough confusion between the two that you had better check both entries. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD1050

Ye Lan's and Banks o' Bonny Montrose
DESCRIPTION: This is the singer's departing night and "the morn's the day I'm gaun awa'" from Montrose. There's "a silly auld man" he'll be glad to leave. Nevertheless he grieves "for the sake o' my kin commeade, And the bonnie lass that I am leavin"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1908 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: love emigration parting Scotland
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1529, "Ye Lan's and Banks o' Bonny Montrose" (4 texts, 4 tunes)
Ye Landlords of Ireland

DESCRIPTION: The singer goes to America, then returns to Ireland -- to find that his mother had died in poverty. He kills the landlord to avenge her. Once again he flees, but sends a warning to the landlords that revenge is coming.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1968
KEYWORDS: poverty rambling homicide death poverty revenge landlord
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 224-225, "Ye Landlords of Ireland" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #20408
File: MA224

Ye Loyal Lovers

DESCRIPTION: A rich farmer's daughter loves Pat Molloy. When her father wouldn't agree to the marriage he enlists. He promises to marry her when he returns. She proves true but he returns married from "India's burning shore." Young maid: Never trust "a rovin' blade"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads)
KEYWORDS: courting infidelity marriage promise war separation India father return
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads 19, "Ye Loyal Lovers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9232
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Brave Irish Lad" (tune) (OLochlainn-MoreIrishStreetBallads)
File: 0LcM019

Ye Maidens Fair and Gay

DESCRIPTION: "Never let a young man Lead you astray." The singer "believed man's flattering tongue ... He has ruined me ... Nowhere to go ... Now not a straw"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan6)
KEYWORDS: courting nonballad poverty
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan6 1185, "Ye Maidens Fair and Gay" (1 text)
Roud #6808
NOTES [20 words]: Greig/Duncan6: "Mrs Willox, Peterhead, from her mother -- eighty-six who heard it some seventy years ago." [c.1914] - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD61185
Ye Mariners All
DESCRIPTION: Singer, a sailor, describes the joys of booze and urges all to share them.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1838
KEYWORDS: drink nonballad sailor
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,South))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
VaughanWilliams/Lloyd-PenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs, p. 103, "Ye Mar'ners All" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, MARNERSA*
Roud #1191
RECORDINGS:
A. L. Lloyd, "A Jug of This" (on Lloyd12)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Butcher Boy" (tune)
File: VWL103

Ye Needna Ban at Me, Guidman
DESCRIPTION: "Ye needna ban [curse] at me, guidman," she says, come in and rock the cradle and take your meal ("kail and brose" yourself) because, you know, I'm not able. I'll sell pots, pans and wooden ladles if you won't buy a side saddle for me.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: shrewishness children wife food
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #149, p. 2, ("Ye needna ban at me, guidman") (1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan8 1912, "Ye Needna Ban at Me, Guidman" (1 fragment)
Roud #13558
File: GrD81912

Ye Needna Come an' Flatter's
DESCRIPTION: "For ye needna come and flatter's For ye shan't come again"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1984
KEYWORDS: courting rejection
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 809, "Ye Needna Come an' Flatter's" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #5652
NOTES [19 words]: Greig/Duncan4 quoting Duncan: "A fragment, the chorus. It is a woman that is speaking, but the drift forgotten" - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD4808

Ye Noble Big Pine Tree
DESCRIPTION: A conversation between a singer and a majestic pine. The singer admits the tree's ancient dignity, but tells it of how the loggers will attack it and take it down, then goes on to the fate of the wood
AUTHOR: William T. Allen (Shan T. Boy)
EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy)
KEYWORDS: work logger
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy 12, "Ye Noble Big Pine Tree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ye Parliament of England (I)

DESCRIPTION: The Americans present their claims against England: First limiting trade, then impressing American sailors, then insulting American captains. The Americans of course have gone to war, and mention their naval victories

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1836 (American Songster, according to Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks)

KEYWORDS: navy patriotic war

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1812-1815 - War of 1812
Aug 19, 1812 - the 44-gun U.S.S. _Constitution_ defeats and captures the 38-gun H.M.S. _Guerriere_ in the north Atlantic
Oct 18, 1812 - sloop U.S.S. _Wasp_ engaged with sloop H.M.S. _Frolic_ off North America; _Frolic_ is rescued by the arrival of the British ship of the line _Poictiers_, which captures the _Wasp_
Oct 25, 1812 - the 44-gun U. S. S. _United States_, commanded by Stephen Decatur, defeats the 38-gun H. M. S. _Macedonian_ in the mid-Atlantic
Dec 29, 1812 - U. S. S. _Constitution_ defeats the 38-gun H. M. S. _Java_ off Bahia, Brazil
Feb 24, 1813 - U. S. S. _Hornet_ defeats H. M. S. _Peacock_
Sep 5, 1813 - U. S. S. _Enterprise_, defeats H. M. S. _Boxer_

FOUND IN: US(NE)

REFERENCES (9 citations):
Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, pp. 151-166, "You Parliament of England" (1 text)
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 278-279, "Ye Parliaments of England" (1 text, 1 tune)
Shay-AmericanSeaSongsAndChanteys, pp. 158-160, "Ye Parliament of England" (1 text, 1 tune)
Colcord-SongsOfAmericanSailormen, pp. 128-130, "Ye Parliament of England" (1 text, 1 tune)
Erskine-TwentyYearsBeforeTheMast, pp. 36-37, "The Parliaments of England" (1 text)

DT, PARLENG*

Roud #2078

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Charge the Can Cheerily" (theme, ships)
cf. "Wasp Stinging Frolic" (theme)

SAME TUNE:
Jeff. Davis in the White House ("Ye northern men in Washington") (Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, p. 190)

NOTES [342 words]: This ballad correctly identifies the American complaints that led to the War of 1812: restrictions on trade and the pressing of American seamen. It also highlights several small victories of the American navy (but ignores assorted American defeats, as well as the fact that many American ships, including the United States, were forced to stay in port for most of the war due to British blockade. The American fleet, composed of nothing larger than a frigate, in fact had no ability to challenge the British fleet of ships of the line).

Based on the events recounted, it would appear that this piece began life as a broadside in late 1812 or early 1813 (this based on the fact that it mentions the Essex positively; the Essex beat the Albert in 1812 but was defeated by Phoebe and Cherub in 1814; see Donald R. Hickey, The War of 1812, pp. 156-157); it is possible that later versions added additional battles.

Many of the battles mentioned have their own songs. See "The Constitution and the Guerriere" [Laws A6] and "The Constitution and the Guerriere (II)" for the battle between those ships. "The Hornet and the Peacock" gives details on that battle. "Enterprise and Boxer" describes the battle of those two vessels. For the Battle of Lake Erie, see "James Bird" [Laws A5]. And for the whole rather pointless naval war, see "Charge the Can Cheerily."

Lest it be thought the Americans had it all their own way, see, e.g. "The Chesapeake and the Shannon (I)" [Laws J20], "The Chesapeake and the Shannon (II)" [Laws J21], "The Chesapeake and the Shannon (III)" [Laws J22]. The honest truth is, the British won the War of 1812 at sea, in much the same way they would win the Battle of Jutland a century later: They took more losses in the naval campaigns of 1812-1815, but by the end of the war, they had the American navy completely bottled up in port, unable to inflict any more damage.

The version printed by Duncan in Coastal Maine is apparently from the same source as the Shay text, and includes a half stanza which Shay omitted. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.1

File: F0195

Ye Sons of Australia

DESCRIPTION: "Ye sons of Australia, forget not the brave, And gather wildflowers to place on their graves. They were four daring outlaws..." In praise of the Kelly gang. It mentions the hunt for them, and how Kelly's sister Kate warned them. The ending is implied

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (recording, Phil Shirley)

KEYWORDS: Australia outlaw death burial

FOUND IN: Australia

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 99-100, "Ye Sons of Australia" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manifold-PenguinAustralianSongbook, pp. 68-69, "Ye Sons of Australia" (1 text, 1 tune)
Stewart/Keesing-FavoriteAustralianBallads, pp. 49-50, "The Kellys" (1 text)

Roud #5475

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Kelly Gang" (subject)
cf. "Kelly Song (Farewell Dan and Edward Kelly)" (subject)
cf. "Kelly Was Their Captain" (subject)
cf. "My Name is Edward Kelly" (subject)
cf. "Ballad of the Kelly Gang" (subject)
cf. "Stringybark Creek" (subject)
cf. "The Kelly Gang Were Strong" (subject)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Kate Kelly's Song

File: MA099

Ye Sons of Old Ireland

DESCRIPTION: "Ye sons of old Ireland, I'm sorry to hear, There is no money stirring this present new year." The gentry no longer eat "turtle and wine ... Their bellies that swelled with Napoleon's renown Will grow flat like old air-bags since Boney is down"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Joyce's _Old Irish Folk Music and Songs_, according to Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815)

KEYWORDS: war commerce nonballad political Napoleon hardtimes food

FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815 198, "Ye Sons of Old Ireland" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2357

NOTES [183 words]: Moylan-TheAgeOfRevolution-1776-1815: "Times were good during the Napoleonic era as the war effort generated massive demand for goods and services in Ireland. An economic slump ensued after Napoleon's defeat as the war machine was wound down and armies were demobilized." [An interesting contrast to the situation presented in songs such as "The Troubles." From what I've read, Irish industry didn't benefit all that much, but the army did help soak up some of the vast surplus population -- for a while. - RBW] This is like the lines from "The Grand Conversation on Napoleon": "Napoleon he was a friend to heroes, both young and old, He caus'd the money for to fly wherever he did go." Here also is the main theme of "The Grand Conversation Under the Rose": "Come stir up the wars, and our trade will be flourishing." The ballad is recorded on one of the CD's issued around the time of the bicentenial of the 1798 Irish Rebellion. See: Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "You Sons of Old Ireland" (on Franke Harte and Donal Lunny, "My Name is Napoleon Bonaparte," Hummingbird Records HBCD0027 (2001)) - BS

File: Moyl198

Ye Wanton Young Women

DESCRIPTION: Young men "chase about at woman's heels." After twenty weeks the singer "grew pale and wan." After 40 weeks she "brought home a son" to be named after the father; "I'll gang nae mair a rovin among the merry maids." The baby dies. "I'll go again a rovin'"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan7)
KEYWORDS: sex childbirth death rake
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan7 1478, "Ye Wanton Young Women" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
Roud #7180
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "A-Rovin'" (theme, chorus lines)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
I'll Gang Nae Mair a Rovin

File: GrD71478

Ye'll Fa' Bonnie Geordie

DESCRIPTION: She says "ye'll fa' [fall] bonnie Geordie." He turned around, kissed her and says "Na bonnie Annie"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: courting dialog
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1865, "Ye'll Fa' Bonnie Geordie" (1 short text)
Roud #13586
File: GrD81865

Ye're Noo on Bogieside

DESCRIPTION: "Assist me, all ye muses, For to compose a song, 'Tis of a tyrant farmer Near Gartly did belong." The farmer continually demands more effort for small reward, reminding the staff "Ye're noo on Bogieside." The singer looks forward to the day he is free

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Greig/Duncan3)
KEYWORDS: work hardtimes farming
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
Ye's Lie Neist the Wa'

DESCRIPTION: "The day o' Duncan's marriage it was a day o' rain, I took 'er on ahin me, and vow but I was fain, I took the leem [loom] rod in my han' a scabbit beast to ca, And we's baith lie in ae bed, and ye's lie neist the wa'"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan4)
KEYWORDS: wedding sex abduction
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan4 913, "Ye's Lie Neist the Wa" (1 fragment)
Roud #6243
NOTES [23 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan4 fragment. - BS
A first person variant of "Captain Wedderburn's Courtship" [Child 46]? - RBW
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD4913

Yea Ho, Little Fish

DESCRIPTION: From the sailor to the fish: "Yea ho, little fish, don't cry, don't cry; Yea ho, little fish, you'll be a whale by and by." The singer talks of the voyage, of how the fish try to avoid capture, and of the love whose picture is "tattooed all over my chest"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1953
KEYWORDS: fishing sea
FOUND IN: Australia Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 119-120, 133, "The Little Fish" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Manifold-PenguinAustralianSongbook, p. 5, "The Little Fish" (1 text, 1 tune)
Fahey-PintPotAndBilly, p. 38, "Little Fish" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, YEAFISH
Roud #5477
RECORDINGS:
Pete Seeger, "Farewell, Little Fishes" (on PeteSeeger30)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Song of the Fishes (Blow Ye Winds Westerly)" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [26 words]: Meredith and Anderson claim that this song is probably Portugese; their only basis for this, however, is the vague recollection of one of their informants. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: MA119

Year of Seventy One, The

DESCRIPTION: New Years 1971. Bob Mack and Mickey ride Bob's tractor to Mass but it will not pass "Maggie's" where Bob always stops for a drink. Then, drunk, he drives into a ditch, losing Mickey to the road. Mickey swears he'll not ride in the tractor for a while.

AUTHOR: Jim McGonigle (source: McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen)
EARLIEST DATE: 1988 (McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen)
KEYWORDS: drink humorous
Yellow Gals (Doodle Let Me Go)

DESCRIPTION: Shanty. Refrain: "Doodle let me go girls, doodle let me go, Hooraw my yaller girls, doodle let me go." Verses have dancing/drinking themes.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys)
KEYWORDS: shanty drink dancing
FOUND IN: Britain
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 380-381, "Doodle Let Me Go" (1 text, 1 tune) [AbEd, pp. 288-289]
Sharp-EnglishFolkChanteys, VIII, p. 9, "Do Let Me Go" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, DOODLEG0
Roud #3221
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Yellow Meal (Heave Away; Yellow Gals; Tapscott; Bound to Go)" (lyrics)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Do Let Me Go, Gels
NOTES [47 words]: I've heard these lyrics sung, almost verbatim, as part of the "Yellow Meal (Heave Away; Yellow Gals; Tapscott; Bound to Go)" family. But as that is an immigration song, and this is about sailing conditions, I am separating them while noting that they do seem to cross-fertilize. - RBW
File: Hugi380

Yellow Handkerchief, The (Flash Company)

DESCRIPTION: Singer once loved a young girl who wore a yellow handkerchief. Unfortunately, he kept "flash company", and he is now ruined and destitute; "Like a flower in the garden all my color has gone."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Gardiner coll.)
KEYWORDS: disease love clothes lover floatingverses
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,South,West))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 360, "The Yellow Handkerchief" (1 text, 1 tune)
MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 32, "The Yellow Handkerchief" (1 text, 1 tune); also 58, "The False-Hearted Lover" (1 text, 1 tune)
Palmer-FolkSongsCollectedBy-Ralph-VaughanWilliams, #47, "The Myrtle Tree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #80, "Flash Company" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, FLASHCMP* (FALSHART*)
Roud #954
RECORDINGS:
Phoebe Smith, "Yellow Handkerchief" (on Voice11)
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(4190), "Flash Company" ("First I loved William, and then I loved John"), Thomas Smith (?), n.d
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Oh, No, Not I" (floating lyrics)
cf. "Green Grows the Laurel (Green Grow the Lilacs)" (floating lyrics)
NOTES [100 words]: MacColl and Seeger, for some inexplicable reason, identify their fragment-of-a-fragment with Laws O 37 ("Mary on the Silvery Tide"). Their version is clearly not a unity, but since it has the chorus and form of this song (and the other bits and pieces are too small to identify), here it files.
Including their text "The False-Hearted Lover" is even more of a stretch, but it consists of one verse certainly from this song, one that seems unique, and four floaters; where else do you file it? This point is discussed in some detail in the notes to Roud/Bishop-
NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.2
File: K360

Yellow Meal (Heave Away; Yellow Gals; Tapscott; Bound to Go)

DESCRIPTION: The Irish adventurer comes to Mr. Tapscott, seeking passage to America. Tapscott arranges for (his) voyage, (charging an exorbitant price and) leaving the young Irishman to be plundered on the voyage. The youth vows to stay on the American shore

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1870

KEYWORDS: sailor emigration robbery

FOUND IN: US(MA,NE) Ireland Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (14 citations):
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 61-64, "Heave Away" (3 texts, 1 tune, but the last is "Heave Away, Me Johnnies")
Shay-AmericanSeaSongsAndChanteys, pp. 73-74, "We're All Bound to Go" (1 text)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 298-301, "Lay Me Down," "Across the Western Ocean," "The Irish Emigrant!", "Heave Away" (4 texts, 2 tunes) [AbEd, pp. 222-224]
Beck-FolkloreOfMaine, pp. 182-183, "Tab Scott" (1 text)
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 56, "Yellow Meal" (1 text)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 407, "Heave Away" (1 text, 1 tune -- a fragment of a shanty which could go here, or with "Heave Away, Me Johnnies," or perhaps somewhere else)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H827, pp. 100-101, "Yellow Meal" (1 text, 1 tune)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 98, "We're All Away to Sea" (1 text)
Terry-TheShantyBook-Part1, #13, "We're All Bound to Go" (1 text, 1 tune)
Kinsey-SongsOfTheSea, pp. 75-76, "We're All Bound to Go" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-AmericanBalladsAndFolkSongs, pp. 485-486, "Heave Away" (1 fragmentary text, recognized by the chorus line and perhaps only slightly related, 1 tune) Darling-NewAmericanSongster, p. 325, "Heave Away" (1 text -- a fragment of a shanty which could go here, or with "Heave Away, Me Johnnies," or perhaps somewhere else)

DT, YEELLMEAL*

ADDITIONAL: Frederick Pease Harlow, _The Making of a Sailor, or Sea Life Aboard a Yankee Square-Rigger_, 1928; republished by Dover, 1988, p. 104, "Heave Away Me Johnnies" (1 text)
Roud #15778

RECORDINGS:
Richard Maitland, "Heave Away" (AFS, 1939; on LC26)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Heave Away, Me Johnnies" (tune, meter, chorus)
cf. "Down in the Coal Mine" (part of tune)
cf. "Yellow Gals (Doodle Let Me Go)" (lyrics)

NOTES [232 words]: The brothers William and James Tapscott (the former based in Britain and the latter in New York) ran a business arranging passage from Britain to America. (Often this involved shipping a girl from Ireland to meet her love, who had already gone to America.) As their clients were often completely ignorant, they frequently were able to make a very tidy profit indeed. The "Yellow Meal" (pronounced "Yellow Male") versions of the text seem to have been adapted from a stage version.

Sam Henry has circumstantial details of the voyage of the Joshua A. Walker, mentioned in his text. Many versions, however, omit references to this ship. In Harlow's text, the ship is the Josie Walker, and he reports on p. 105 of _The Making of a Sailor_ that "Tapscott, in the foregoing chantey, in the early fifties was one of the wealthy shipowners of Liverpool. His vesels were noted for strict discipline, as well as cruelty to the crew. His Josie Walker was an emigrant ship trading between Liverpool and New York and her voyages, to and from the Continent, were marked by unheard-of cruelties, the stories of which spread along the water front and the ship was known to all sailors as 'Tapscott's Josie Walker.' The mention of this 'hell ship' stopped many a good sailor from shipping in her and being unable to secure a good crew was the cause no doubt of the many perversities to a green crew." - RBW
Yellow Rose of Taegu, The

DESCRIPTION: A reluctant soldier meets the Yellow Rose of Taegu, a good two-dollar whore, who makes him forget the perils of war.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE:

KEYWORDS: bawdy sex soldier whore derivative

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 410-412, "The Yellow Rose of Taegu" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, YLOWOTX4*
Roud #10405

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Yellow Rose of Texas" (tune)

File: EM410

Yellow Rose of Texas, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer is going to see his "Yellow Rose" -- "The sweetest rose of color this (darkey) ever knew; Her eyes are bright as diamonds; They sparkle like the dew." He promises that "if I ever find her, we never more will part."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1858 (sheet music published by Firth, Pond & Co of New York)

KEYWORDS: love courting separation reunion

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (17 citations):
Jackson-PopularSongsOfNineteenthCenturyAmerica, pp. 253-257, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 76-68, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber-SoldierSongsAndHomeFrontBalladsOfCivilWar, pp. 28-29, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gilbert-LostChords, pp. 20-21, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text)
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, p. 561, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text, 1 tune)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 272, "The Yellow Rose Of Texas" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth, pp. 128, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 516-517, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text plus a copy of one page of the sheet music)
Abernethy-SinginTexas, pp. 165-166, "Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text, 1 tune)
Tinsley-HeWasSinginThisSong, pp. 190-195, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text, 1 tune)
Emerson-StephenFosterAndCo, pp. 37-38, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text)
Messerli-ListenToTheMockingbird, pp. 97-99, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text)
Fuld-BookOfWorldFamousMusic, p. 661+, "The Yellow Rose of Texas"
Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #2702, p. 183, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 reference)

DT, YELLOWTX*

ADDITIONAL: Richard Hayward, Ireland Calling (Glasgow, n.d.), p. 4, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (text, music and reference to Decca F-2872 recorded Feb 24, 1932)
William E. Studwell and Bruce R. Schueneman, _State Songs of the Unites States: An Annotated Anthology_, The Haworth Press, 1997, p. 66, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (1 text, a somewhat cleaned up version of a nineteenth century text, tune on pp. 189-192)

ST RJ19253 (Full)
Roud #2800

RECORDINGS:

Gene Autry, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (Victor 23792, 1933) (Banner 32771/Melotone M12700/Oriole 8233/Romeo 5233/Perfect 12912/Conqueror 8096, 1933; OKeh 04998/Vocalion 04998, 1938; Vocalion 5498, n.d.)
Lee Boswell, "The Yellow Rose of Texas" (Decca 5057, 1934)
Bill Boyd & his Cowboy Ramblers, "Yellow Rose of Texas" (Bluebird B-7088/Montgomery Ward M-Yellow-Haired Laddie (I), The

DESCRIPTION: "The maidens are smiling" because the clans will fight "and the yella haired laddie is first in the van." "He heeds not the danger and fear is unknown." "The maidens are crying in rocky Glencoe... for the yellow-haired laddie lies cauld in the clay"

AUTHOR: Thomas C Latto (b.1818) (source: McMorland/Scott-HerdLaddieOTheGlen, Whitelaw)

EARLIEST DATE: 1843 (Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong)

KEYWORDS: battle death Scotland youth

HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Feb 13, 1692 - The Massacre of Glencoe (although that may not be the subject of the song)

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
McMorland/Scott-HerdLaddieOTheGlen, pp. 98-99, 153, "The Yella Haired Laddie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, p. 489, "The Yellow-Haired Laddie" (1 text)
Yeo Heave Ho!

DESCRIPTION: Capstan shanty. "Yeo heave ho! Round th' capstan go. Heave, men, with a will. Tramp an' tramp it still. The Anchor must be weighed (x2). Yeo heave ho! Yeo heave ho!" Similarly, "Yeo heave ho, cheerily we go." "...Raise her from below"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1888 (L.A. Smith, _Music of the Waters_)
KEYWORDS: shanty ship
FOUND IN: Britain US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, pp. 318-319, "Yeo Heave Ho!" (1 text plus a fragment, 1 tune)
[AbEd, p. 240]
Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 134, "Yeo, Heave Ho!" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #13269
NOTES [43 words]: Given its inclusion in "Music of the Waters" and, according to Hugill-ShantiesFromTheSevenSeas, its form and tune, this may be one of the earliest examples of a capstan shanty, and may also be the sing-out referred to in Dana's _Two Years Before the Mast._ - SL
Last updated in version 4.0
File: Hugi318

Yeo's Party

DESCRIPTION: "'Twas on the fifth of November That little Jimmy Yeo he gave a party." The singer lists those who attend. All are full. The singer warns, "If ever you make a spree and don't invite me, As sure as the devil, I will make a song!"

AUTHOR: Larry Gorman (1846-1917)
EARLIEST DATE: 1957 (Ives-LarryGorman)
KEYWORDS: party warning
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Ives-LarryGorman, pp. 18-19, 202, "Yeo's Party" (1 text)
Roud #25140
File: LaGoYePa

Yes Ma'am

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama)
KEYWORDS: dialog food animal
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 95, "Little Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #15294
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Good Old Egg-Head" (form)
cf. "Shout Josephine Shout" (form)
File: Arno095
Yes, Yes, Yes

DESCRIPTION: Mother buys a rooster, thinks it's a duck, roasts it, sis gets gravy from its "yas, yas, yas." A rooster taken for a hen, does not lay eggs from his.... Sister should stop waving her.... Dance: if you can't shake your shoulders shake your....

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1928 (recording, Stump Johnson)

KEYWORDS: dancing bawdy scatological chickens animal nonballad

FOUND IN: US West Indies(Bahamas)

RECORDINGS:
- Blind Blake Higgs, "Yes, Yes, Yes" (on WIHIGGS01)
- (James) Stump Johnson, "Duck's Yas Yas" (Paramount 12842, 1928); on "James 'Stump' Johnson 1929-1964," Document Records DOCD-5250 CD (1994) as "The Duck's Yas-Yas-Yas"
- Tampa Red and Georgia Tom (Thomas A Dorsey), "That Duck's Yas Yas Yas" (Vocalion 1277, 1929); on "Tampa Red, Volume 2" Document Records DOCD-5074 CD (1991)) as "The Duck Yas-Yas-Yas"
- Dave Van Ronk, "Yas, Yas, Yas" (1991, on "Dave Van Ronk The Folkways Years 1959-1961," Smithsonian Folkways SF 40041)

NOTES [217 words]: In the liner notes to the Smithsonian-Folkways CD Van Ronk says, "I think I learned this from a record by the Spirits of Rhythm. In any case, various versions of it were kicking around the jazz scene when I was. Some of the raunchier verses were omitted in deference to the tender sensibilities of the folk audience."

Of Stump Johnson's 8 verses only three used "yas yas yas." Other verses were just good rhyming double couplets. A fair question is, "What did Johnson sing when he wasn't bound by recording standards?" For example, here is one of Johnson's (and Tampa Red's) verses: "Down on Morgan there's a good location, Right there next to the gasoline station That's where you get your car's oil and grease All the women crying honey won't you come in please." Here's Dave Van Ronk's (and Blind Blake's): "Mr Dillinger rode up to a gasoline station, He says this looks like a pretty good location. The attendant says do you want some gas? Well it's either your gas or your yas yas yas."

As it turns out, the Tampa Red and Georgia Tom track is a cover of Stump Johnson's track, verse for verse, down to the humming introduction. All of the six Van Ronk verses are included in Blind Blake's eleven, though the words vary. They cover two of Johnson's verses, not counting the verse cited above. - BS

Last updated in version 5.2

File: RcYeYeYe

---

Yes! And We Can Do It!

DESCRIPTION: "Breaking out of barracks (x3), As you have done before." "Parading all unbuttoned (x3), As you have done before." "Take his name and number." "Up before the C.O.!

"Fourteen days' detention." "Pack-drill, bread and water." "Yes, and we can do it!"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang)

KEYWORDS: soldier clothes punishment

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Brophy/Partridge-TommiesSongsAndSlang, pp. 35-36, "Yes! And We Can Do It!" (1 text)
- Roud #10563

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Go In and Out the Window" (tune) and references there

File: BrPa035

---

Yesterday at Three O'Clock in the Morning (Nonsense)

DESCRIPTION: "Yesterday at three o'clock in the morning, An empty house full of furniture caught light. The fire brigade came and put it out before it started, Ran over a dead cat and half killed it. Two naked men came running ... With their hand in their pockets..."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: nonsense wordplay
Yim Yonson

DESCRIPTION: "Yim Yonson ship from lumberyard Upon the scow Sam Patch." He knows nothing of boats, but pretends to be a sailor. In a storm, the captain orders him to reef a sail. Yonson answers, "Der ben ten tousand tops'ls, yes, But only one Yim Yonson." He is fired

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1932 (collected from S. C. Jacobson by Walton)
KEYWORDS: sailor ship storm humorous
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, p. 166, "Yim Yonson (The Scow Sam Patch)" (1 text)
Roud #19439
CROSS-REFERENCES:
File: WGM166

Yli Kymmenen Vuotta Korpilnissa Oli Jo Asuttu (10 Years We Have Already Lived Here in Corbin)

DESCRIPTION: Finnish: "Kymmenen vuotta Korpinissa oli jo assuttu." "Then years we've lived in Corbin" without any stores being opened. The residents have to travel to Eveleth to buy anything, because Corbin doesn't have a store. They complain about conditions

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1938 (collected from Kusti Simila by Lomax, according to Cohen)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage commerce home
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, pp. 460-461, "Yli Kymmenen Vuotta Korpilnissa Oli Jo Asuttu (10 Years We Have Already Lived Here in Corbin)" (1 text plus a rather stiff English translation)
File: CAFS2461

Yo Ho Ho and a Bottle of Rum

DESCRIPTION: "Fifteen men on the Dead Man's Chest, Yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum." Captain, mate, bos'n, cook are all killed in a fight between the sailors. The survivors wrap up the body, "heaved 'em over," and left them "ten fathoms deep on the road to hell."

AUTHOR: first lines by Robert Louis Stephenson; rest by Young Ewing Allison (1853-1932) (source: Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs)
EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (Allison's original version, according to Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs)
KEYWORDS: pirate fight death ship burial
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Frank-NewBookOfPirateSongs 84, "Yo Ho Ho and a Bottle of Rum" (1 text, 1 tune; #62 in the first edition)
Roud #V31917
File: FrPi084

Yo Ho, Yo Ho

DESCRIPTION: In this formula song, the singer tells of placing his hand successively on a woman's toe, knee, thigh, etc., and the results of his quest.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: The type appears in 1661, in Merry Drollery, as "There Were Three Birds"; then in the 1838 chapbook The Fancy! A Fanciful Collection of Fancy, Flash, and Amatory Songs as "Billy Go Leary"
KEYWORDS: bawdy seduction sex
FOUND IN: Australia Canada Britain(England) US(Ap,So,SW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Cray-EroticMuse, pp. 318-323, "Yo Ho, Yo Ho" (1 text, 1 tune plus 1 text for "Billy Go Leary")
- Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, p. 31, (no title) (1 short text, which might or might not be this, but it is suggestive that it breaks off just as the sailor promises to tell a tale)
Roud #5586
CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "There Were Three Birds"
- cf. "Drive It On"
- cf. "Gently, Johnny, My Jingalo" (Cecil Sharp's rewrite)
- cf. "He Kept A-Kissin' On"
- cf. "He Gave Her Kisses One"
- cf. "How Ashamed I Was"
- cf. "A-Rovin'"
- cf. "The Girl in Portland Street" (plot, theme)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
- I Laid My Hand upon Her Knee
NOTES [49 words]: This song, as old as any in the English-language canon, survives in multiple variants sung to a variety of melodies. - EC
It appears Roud lumps this with "Gentry Johnny My Jingalo." That song has been so heavily redacted by Sharp that I can't lump them despite their, um, points of contact. - RBW
File: EM318

---

Yo Soy de la Tierra
DESCRIPTION: Spanish: "Yo so de la tierra, Y de donde por alla, Donde por alla, Que ni el sol se mir' al salir. Jovencita, pidale a Dios, Que no me vaya a morir...." The driver says he is from far away, and is leaving again. He hopes for success on the road
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1934 (collected from Refugio Castillo)
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage love separation
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 234-235, "Yo Soy de la Tierra" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: LoSi234

---

Yon Ball, Bonnie Lassie's Been the Ruin o' Me
DESCRIPTION: "Kissin a' the bonnie lads, and makin' fun sae free, Yon ball, bonnie lassie's been the ruin o' me"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1907 (Greig/Duncan7)
KEYWORDS: courting dancing
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Greig/Duncan7 1406, "Yon Ball, Bonnie Lassie's Been the Ruin o' Me" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #7258
NOTES [23 words]: The current description is based on the Greig/Duncan7 fragment. Greig/Duncan7: "December 1907. As sung by an old man at Kemnay in 1859." - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD71406
Yon Bonnie Lad

DESCRIPTION: The singer would not have a minister (has many books), lawyer (many crooks), tailor (though he is neat) or miller (dusty clothes), but "I'll hae yon bonnie, yon bonnie, yon bonnie lad"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan5)
KEYWORDS: courting love rejection nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 996, "Yon Bonnie Lad" (1 text)
Roud #6736
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I'll Not Marry at All" (theme)
cf. "Soldier Boy for Me (A Railroader for Me)" (theme: professional comparison) and references there
cf. "The Tailor He's Been Seekin' Me" (theme)
File: GrD5996

Yon Green Valley

DESCRIPTION: Singer tells of a young man who courted her and swore he'd be true; for 11 months he was, but then left. She reminds him of his promise, but he must obey his "father's counsel." She recommends the single life, for "a contented mind bears no slavery."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1909 (Greig/Duncan6)
KEYWORDS: loneliness courting love sex marriage promise warning farewell abandonment baby lover oldmaid floating verses
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Hebr)) Canada(Mar,Newf)
REFERENCES (6 citations):
Greig/Duncan6 1183, "Yon Green Valley" (1 text)
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 168, "Yon Green Valley" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, pp. 86-87, "Yon Green Valley" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 51, "Yon Green Vallee" (1 text, 1 tune)
Manny/Wilson-SongsOfMiramichi 72, "Green Valley (The First Young Man Came A-Courting Me)"
(1 text, 1 tune)
DT, GOBOUND
Roud #2125
RECORDINGS:
Marie Hare, "Green Valley" (on MRMHare01)
Bruce Laurensen, "Yon Green Valley" (on FSBFTX15)
Mrs. Leonard Molloy, "Green Valley" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Rambleaway" (plot)
cf. "Must I Go Bound" (lyrics)
cf. "John (George) Riley (I)" [Laws N36] (lyrics)
File: K168

Yon Town, Bonnie Lassie

DESCRIPTION: The singer says if he had the bonnie lass he likes he'd have no reason to return to that town. If he had her on the bridal seat in church there he'd have no reason to return. Once his "errand" were finished he'd never return.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan5)
KEYWORDS: love wedding nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan5 941, "Yon Town, Bonnie Lassie" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #6757
Yonder Come Day

DESCRIPTION: Short phrases punctuated by the phrase "Yonder come day," with chorus "Yonder come day, day done broke, now, in my soul." Examples: "Yonder come day, I heard him say (x3); "It's a dying day"; "It's a burying day" ; "I was on my knees"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations): Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 321-323, "Yonder Come Day" (1 text, 1 tune)
Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands 6, pp. 56-61, "Ha'k 'E Angels" (1 text, 1 tune)
RECORDINGS:
Bessie Jones and the Georgia Sea Island Singers, "O Day" (on LomaxCD1712, recorded 1959)
NOTES [61 words]: Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands's hymn is, to modify the description above, "short phrases punctuated by the phrase "Ha'k 'e angels," with chorus "Oh Lord, Ha'k 'e angels." Parrish writes "in the vicinity of Albany, Georgia, there is a similar version that uses 'Yonder Come Day' instead of 'Ha'k 'e Angels'' (p. 56, fn. 3) -- as in the LomaxCD1712 version. - BS

Last updated in version 4.1

File: SBoA321

Yonder Comes a Georgia Girl

DESCRIPTION: "Yonder comes a (Georgia girl/young man), Don't he look funny? She's got on (a/her father's) roundabout Without a cent of money." Once I could have married you, Once I could my honey, When you wore your roundabout With a pocket full of money."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida)
KEYWORDS: clothes money courting humorous
FOUND IN: US(Ap,SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations): Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 83, "Yonder Comes a Georgia Girl" (1 text)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #70, "Yonder Comes a Young Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #5007 and 7884
CROSS-REFERENCES:
ct. "Fly Around, My Pretty Little Miss" (floating lyrics) and references there
cf. "Yonder Comes My Love" (theme)

File: Br3083

Yonder Comes a Yellow Gal

DESCRIPTION: "Yonder comes a (yellow/yaller) gal, All dressed up in red, Well, I wish my wife was dead, Well, I wish my wife was dead!"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1922 (Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5)
KEYWORDS: clothes wife death
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 754, "Yonder Come a Yaller Gal" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 312-313. "The Roving Gambler" (3 texts, 1 tune. The "A" and "C" texts are "The Roving Gambler (The Gambling Man)" [Laws H4]; the "B" text is mostly floating verses, including this one)
Yonder Comes My Dearest Billie

DESCRIPTION: "Yonder comes my dearest Billie I know him by his coat of blue," his coal black hair and good behavior. The singer loves father and mother but loves Billie better: "if you turn him out I'll take him in." In a meadow she fills her apron with flowers

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart2)
KEYWORDS: love flowers floating verses nonballad
FOUND IN: US(SW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart2 57, "Yonder Comes My Dearest Billie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7009
NOTES [60 words]: Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart2 may be a collection of floating verses and parts of verses. The apron-filling is also in "Died for Love," Christie's "The Prickly Rose," and Henry's "The Apron of Flowers." Her lover's coal black hair is reminiscent of the blue-jacketed "The Dark-Eyed Sailor." Loving father and mother is in, among others, "Careless Love." - BS
Last updated in version 3.5

Yonder Comes My Love

DESCRIPTION: "Yonder comes my purty little love, How do you reckon I know? Know her by her old cotton dress...." "Yonder comes...all dressed in yaller...Her shoes all greased with taller...." "...dressed in red...she wished my wife was dead." "Went up on the mountain"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1954 (Roberts-SangBranchSettlers)
KEYWORDS: clothes love beauty wife humorous courting
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #77, "Yonder Comes My Love" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3431
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Diamond Joe (II)" (lyrics)
cf. "Yonder Comes a Georgia Girl" (theme)
NOTES [33 words]: An ambitious lumper could probably find something to lump this with, e.g. "Diamond Joe (II)" or "Cindy (I)." But it has minor similarities to so many songs that I decided it had to file on its own. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2

Yonder Comes the Devil

DESCRIPTION: The Devil, with his pitchfork and shovel, tries to dig up potatoes in the turnpike road. "And the road was so hard and he couldn't get 'em up. So yonder run the Devil with his tail cocked up" The Devil may call in his family, who also struggle

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: c.1973 (recording, Joe Jones)
KEYWORDS: humorous nonballad nonsense talltale Devil food
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
ADDITIONAL: Roy Palmer, _The Folklore of Warwickshire_, Rowman and Littlefield, 1976, p. 72 (an untitled 8-line fragment)
RECORDINGS:
Joe Jones, "Yonder Comes the Devil" (on Voice14)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Oh, Mister Revel (Did You Ever See the Devil?)" (theme, lyrics)
File: RcYCtDev
Yonder Comes the High Sheriff

DESCRIPTION: "Yonder comes the high sheriff ridin' after me, Ridin' after me, yes, ridin' after me. Yonder comes... O it's captain, I don't want to go." "Been down to Frankfort servin' out my time...."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag; recording, Ollis Martin)

KEYWORDS: prison police

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, p. 213, "Yonder Comes the High Sheriff" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #21065

RECORDINGS:
Ollis Martin, "Police and High Sheriff Come Ridin' Down" (Gennett 6306, 1928; rec. 1927; on StuffDreams1)
Poplin Family, "Goin' Back to Sumter" (on Poplin01)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Gotta Travel On" (tune, words, structure)

NOTES [53 words]: "Gotta Travel On" became enormously popular in the 1950s-1960s folk revival, to the point where it was a parodied cliche; the song was always credited to Paul Clayton. This song, though, is clearly its source. Ollis Martin's recording seems to have been made only a few weeks before Sandburg's book was published. - PJS

Last updated in version 5.0

File: San213

Yonder Goes My Nora

DESCRIPTION: "Yon'er goes my Nora, gittin' drunk ergin (x2), Oh, Miss Sudie! She's got good booty, Di'mon' rings and fine clo'es too, But dat Nigger ain't gonna get Nothin' from me. Oh, dat woman can't friss me. Yon'er goes my Nora, gittin' drunk ergin."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)

KEYWORDS: drink love clothes

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 214, (no title, but filed with the "Shine Reel") (1 short text)

File: ScNF214A

Yonder She Comes

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, yonder she comes, and it's howdy, howdy do." "Oh, rise you up, my lady, Present to me your hand, I know you are a pretty girl, But Lord, such a man." "We two will travel on Until we have to part." Now that peace has come, they will travel and marry

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1937 (McDowell & McDowell, Folk Dances of Tennessee, according to Spurgeon-WaltzTheHall-AmericanPlayParty)

KEYWORDS: playparty love courting travel war

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Spurgeon-WaltzTheHall-AmericanPlayParty, pp. 211-212, "Yonder She Comes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11614

File: Spurg211

Yorkshire Horse-Dealer, The

DESCRIPTION: "Bane ta Claapam town-gate live an oud Yorkshire tike," a horse-dealer named Tommy Towers. He and Abey Muggins set out to cheat each other, trying to get the better deal on a horse-trade by passing off dead animals as alive. They swap dead horses

AUTHOR: unknown
Yorkshire Sword Dance Song

DESCRIPTION: "Samson" introduces "the six lords that first ruined me": King William Raw and his brother, another milder man, one that fettered his feet and hands, one that had him blinded and "the sixt' is no better at all than the rest." He pulls down the house.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs)
KEYWORDS: dancing Bible Christmas nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, pp. 16-17, "Sword Dance Song" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #610
NOTES [56 words]: The story of Samson occupies chapters 13-16 of Judges; his blinding is in 16:21, and his pulling down of the building where he is being exhibited is in 16:28-30. The "six lords that first ruined me" is curious; there were five Lords of the Philistines, and those of Samson's period are not named (and certainly not named William!). - RBW
Last updated in version 2.6
File: BrMa016

Yorkshire Volunteers, The (Touch the Thing)

DESCRIPTION: "You Stockton lads and lasses too, Come listen to my story, A dismal tale... I've now to lay before ye...." The singer and his comrades march away to the sound of the drum. They will miss their wives and sweethearts, drink, and "push about the jorum"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1859 (Chappell); Chappell dates the tune to 1773 or earlier
KEYWORDS: soldier travel drink separation
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dallas-TheCruelWars-100SoldiersSongs, pp. 26-27, "The Yorkshire Volunteers" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: DalC026

Yorkshireman in London, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer arrives in London and offers to see a girl home. When they arrive at a whorehouse he tries to leave. She picks his pocket but he had put fish-hooks there and they strip her finger of her ring. He sells the ring.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1813 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(3202))
KEYWORDS: ring theft trick humorous whore
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South),Scotland(Aber)) US(Ro)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig/Duncan 298, "The Yorkshireman in London" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
Lyle-Andrew-CrawfurdsCollectionVolume1 26, "The Yorkshire Rambler" (1 fragment)
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Gl 95, "I'm Yorkshire Though in London" (1 text)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #55, "A Yorkshire in London" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1640
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 11(3202), "Quite Politely" ("When first in Lunnun I arriv'd"), J. Evans (London), 1780-1812; also Harding B 28(69), "When First in Lunnun I Arriv'd"; 2806 c.16(290), Harding B 25(2123), "Yorkshireman in Lunnun"; Harding B 28(280), "The Yorkshire man in Lunnun"; Johnson Ballads 963, Douce Ballads 4(57), Harding B 16(216c), Harding B 16(284c), Harding B 36(10) View 2 of 2, Harding B 11(62), Harding B 11(63), Harding B 11(1237), Harding B 11(3033), Harding B 11(3034), Harding B 11(3035), Harding B 11(3274), "Quite Politely"

ALTERNATE TITLES:
When First in Lunnun
The Rigs of London

NOTES [147 words]: The major theme here is of the not-so-simple country bumpkin. The listener, like the whore, is fooled. The singer, we think, is taken in, "midst heavy rain and thunder," by the whore by "a dismal tale, how she was scar'd wi' thunder." When they arrive at her door "twenty lasses, aye, or more, Came out to have a better gloat, at bumpkin, as they call'd me" while other "folks cried poor lad he's undone." There must be other songs with this theme but none come to mind. - BS

There are quite a few on the general theme. "The Zebra Dun" [Laws B16] is about a cowboy who knows more than he appears to. The "Biter Bit" theme is common, found e.g. in "The Baffled Knight" [Child #112]. Australia and New Zealand have several songs about immigrants who refuse to be fooled by the locals. I can't think of anything involving this trick with a ring, or indeed outwitting a prostitute. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.8
File: GrD2298

You and I, Lovie

DESCRIPTION: "You and I, lovie, you and I, You and I to sinder, There couldna be a greater cross Than you and I to sinder"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan6)

KEYWORDS: love nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan6 1146, "You and I, Lovie" (1 fragment, 1 tune plus a variant on p. 556)

Roud #6822

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Lass o' Benachie" (tune, per Greig/Duncan6)

NOTES [10 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan6 text. - BS

Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD61146

You Are My Sunshine

DESCRIPTION: The singer dreams his "sunshine" is in his arms but wakes to find she is not. He pleads, "don't take my sunshine away." In later verses he says she has broken her promise and left him but she'll "regret it all some day"

AUTHOR: Jimmie Davis (see NOTES)

EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Davis)

KEYWORDS: courting love promise rejection warning nonballad lover

FOUND IN: US

REFERENCES (1 citation):
DT, YOUMYSUN

Roud #18130

RECORDINGS:
Jimmie Davis, "You Are My Sunshine" (Decca 5813, 1940)
Mississippi John Hurt, "You Are My Sunshine" (on MJHurt05)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
My Only Woodbine (File: Hopk084A)

NOTES [73 words]: Hurt sings only the first verse and the chorus.
Jimmie Davis was not to be outdone as a singing and yodeling governor by W. Lee O'Daniel:
"Contrary to expectations, Louisiana singing governor, Jimmie Davis, author of You Are My Sunshine, did not open the Louisiana State Legislature with a song. He was dignified and decorous" (Drew Pearson, "Washington Merry-Go-Round" in Buffalo Courier Express (Buffalo, October 11, 1944), p. 12). - BS

You Bad and You Bad

DESCRIPTION: The singer accuses Clementina of deserting her sister and Gran when her mother died: "she gone Moruga Road" Chorus: "you bad an you bad / O you bad Clementina"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (WITrinidadVillage01)
KEYWORDS: hardheartedness accusation rambling death mother sister nonballad
FOUND IN: West Indies(Trinidad)
RECORDINGS:
  Dixon [Ebenezer] Philip, "You Bad and You Bad" (on WITrinidadVillage01)

You Better Love the Methodist

DESCRIPTION: "You better love the Methodist -- You go'n to die; You better love the Methodist -- You go'n to die; You don't know the day nor the hour. You better love the Methodist -- You go'n to die." Repeat with other denominations

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (Henry, from "a group of Negro singers at Montreat, North Carolina)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad death
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
  Henry-SongsSungInTheSouthernAppalachians, p. 194, "You Better Love the Methodist" (1 text)
NOTES [57 words]: Henry's notes say "This is an endless song in which any word may be substitutes for Methodist...." However, the only other word he cites is "Baptist." An interesting point, as these were probably the two strongest denominations in the south in the period when this song was sung. I wonder if they would have mentioned, say, Catholics.... - RBW

You Boys O' Callieburn

DESCRIPTION: America has "wiled" the boys of Callieburn to leave adored Machrihanish and their parents behind. Rab MacKinlay has already gone. The boys know their parents will grieve but won't disown them. The boys are named.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1976 (recording, Willie Scot)
KEYWORDS: emigration parting America moniker nonballad
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Bord))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  McMorland/Scott-HerdLaddieOTheGlen, pp. 134, 155, "Callieburn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6932
RECORDINGS:
  Willie Scot, "You Boys O' Callieburn" (on Voice04)
NOTES [14 words]: Callieburn and Machrihanish are on the Kintyre peninsula, Argyllshire, Scotland. - BS

_Last updated in version 3.2_
You Brought Me From a Mighty Long Way

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: ("Thank you Jesus" (4x) "You brought me from a mighty long way").
Verse: "You've been my mother ... father ... sister ... brother, You've brought me from a mighty long way"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1968 (USMississippi01)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus
FOUND IN: US(SE)
RECORDINGS:
Walter Lee Hood and Parchman inmates, "Thank You Jesus" (on USMississippi01)
File: RcYBMMLW

You Cain't Lose-A Me, Cholly

DESCRIPTION: Mild nonsense. The singer visits Willie Winston's to court. He reports "rowin' and my gal went through" and they break the bottom of the boat. He cannot afford the girl, "She use up a bale of money ev'y week." Ends with a hog and sheep talking

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1936
KEYWORDS: animal courting nonballad nonsense
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 264, "You Cain't Lose-A Me, Cholly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 214, (no title) (1 fragment, ending "You can't lose me, Charlie")
Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains, pp. 50-51, "Charlie You Can't Lose-a Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
ADDITIONAL: Moses Asch and Alan Lomax, Editors, _The Leadbelly Songbook_, Oak, 1962, p 51, "You Can't Losa-A Me, Cholly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11658
NOTES [113 words]: This is one of those pieces that can drive a folklorist crazy. The chorus is distinctive enough (despite the variant of Charlie/Cholly) as to be characteristic, but it's less clear what the song is about. The description is from Lomax, who of course could have fiddled with the piece -- or Lead Belly could have done so. The version in Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains is different, about a man who goes to town and can't rid himself of a "yaller gal," but the Shellans-FolkSongsOfTheBlueRidgeMountains text is from John Daniel Vass, who was happy to fiddle with texts. The song probably needs a detailed study to determine its actual origins and original content. - RBW
Last updated in version 3.1
File: LoF264

You Call Me Dog, I Don't Care

DESCRIPTION: "You call me dog, I don' ker, Oh, my Lord! You call me dog, I don' ker, Oh, rockum jubalee!" "You call me cat, I don' ker...." "You call me mule...." "You call me snake...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: animal accusation
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 190, "You Call Me Dog, I Don' Ker" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: ScNF190A

You Can Be a Defaulter (Bugle Call Lyric)

DESCRIPTION: "You can be a defaulter [soldier confined to barracks] As long as you like As long
You Can Run a Long Time

DESCRIPTION: The singer warns against disobeying God "You can run a long time... But your sins are going to find you out." He condemns the people around him, warns of various sins, accuses the listener of insufficient zeal, and otherwise makes an ass of himself

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: religious warning
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 66, "You Can Run a Long Time" (1 text)
Roud #7868
File: Br3066

You Can't Cross Here

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "You must have that true religion (x3), Or you can't cross here." Verses are three lines, from among "I'm so glad my soul's converted (I've got religion, that Jesus loves me)" and "I'm going down to Jordan," followed by "You can't cross here"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Barton-OldPlantationHymns)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Jesus
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Barton-OldPlantationHymns, p. 32, "You Can't Cross Here" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #16449
File: Bart032

You Can't Hide

DESCRIPTION: "Tell the (lawyer/preacher/liar): "(You can't hide)(3x) When the world's on fire, (You can't hide)(3x) on that day"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang)
KEYWORDS: nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang, pp. 252-253, "You Cyan' Hide" (1 text, 1 tune)
NOTES [18 words]: The description follows Hutson/Pinckney/Rutledge-SomeSongsTheNegroSang but I do not repeat the dialect. - BS
Last updated in version 5.1
File: HPR252A

You Can't Hurry God

DESCRIPTION: The singer advises prayer, hope, and patience in times of trouble: "You can't hurry God, why don't you wait, my brother? Just obey the word you have heard. Keep on calling him, for
You Can't Keep a Shantyboy Down

DESCRIPTION: "Kind friends, your attention I'll ask for a while, A few facts I endeavor to show...."
The singer notes that the workers are what prop up the building of society; the wealthy have money, but aren't really needed, but "You can't keep a shantyboy down."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1865 (Fowke)
KEYWORDS: logger work drink money
FOUND IN: Canada(Ont) US(MW)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Fowke-LumberingSongsFromTheNorthernWoods #62, "You Can't Keep a Shantyboy Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
  Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, p. 84, "Keep the Working Man Down" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4464
NOTES [31 words]: From the description, you might think this political. I don't think it is. It's just a sneer on the rich: They have money, but we don't need them, and where would they be without us?
- RBW
Last updated in version 2.6
File: FowL62

You Canna Put It on to Sandy

DESCRIPTION: Sandy knows he's taken to be simple but in every case he is shown to be more clever than "anither fella." "I'm not sae green as you may seem, Did you think I'm soft as candy? ... you canna put it on to Sandy"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (recorded by Willie Kemp, according to Hall, notes to Voice07) LONG DESCRIPTION: A chap comments on Sandy's red hair; Sandy offers him some to seed his own bald scalp. Sandy is watching ducks at a farm; a hunter offers him a pound for a shot at one of the ducks; Sandy takes the money; the hunter's shotgun kills 21 ducks and he apologizes; Sandy says he can shoot again because the ducks aren't his. Sandy leaves a play after act one because the programme says act two is a year later. Sandy gets along well with his wife; he takes no offense when he finds a man in bed with his wife; he says he plays the same game with that man's wife.
KEYWORDS: adultery hair farming hunting humorous nonballad bird wife
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
Roud #5143
RECORDINGS:
  Jimmy McBeath, "You Canna Put It on to Sandy" (on Voice07)
NOTES [41 words]: Hall, notes to Voice07: "'You Canna Put It on to Sandy' has the series of episodal verses associated with songs from the variety theatre, but was probably put together by Willie Kemp, the entertainer from Oldmeldrum, who recorded it in 1930." - BS
File: RcYCPI0S

You Don't Know How the Dear Girl Is Made

DESCRIPTION: "Be careful my boys... When the time comes to pick out a wife." These days, with painted cheeks and other deceits "you don't know how the dear girl is made." I'll say more when we're safely alone: "I have said too much here I'm afraid"

Author: unknown
Earliest date: 1951 (MUNFLA/Leach)
Keywords: courting marriage warning beauty clothes hair humorous nonballad wife
Found in: Canada(Newf)
Roud #18248
Recordings:
Jim Rice, "You Don't Know How the Dear Girl Is Made" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
File: RcYDKHDG

You Drove a Buick

Description: Bill and the singer court Suzy Brown in their various cars: "You drove a Buick, a big yellow Buick, and I drove a little tin Ford," but when Bill and Suzy drive by and guy him, the land in a mudhole, and need the singer to pull them out with his Ford

Author: unknown
Earliest date: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)
Keywords: technology courting derivative humorous
Found in: US(Se)
References (2 citations):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 151, "You Drove a Buick" (1 short text)
Pankake/Pankake-PrairieHomeCompanionFolkSongBook, p. 157, "You Drove Your Buick" (1 text, tune referenced)
Roud #11350
Cross-references:
cf. "When You Wore a Tulip" (tune, source of parody)
File: Brne151

You Feeling-Hearted Christians

Description: Farmer Robert Brown's wife died and left him with two children. Robert remarries and his new wife kills both children with poison. She cuts her own throat with a razor. Her ghost appears to Robert saying "my case it is now wretched" because of her crime.

Author: unknown
Earliest date: 1956 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)
Keywords: crime homicide death suicide poison punishment children stepmother ghost
Found in: Ireland
References (1 citation):
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 195, "You Feeling-Hearted Christians" (1 text)
Roud #16244
File: OCC195

You Fight On

Description: "If your brother done you wrong, Take him to yourself alone; Tell him brother you done treated me wrong. You fight on, you fight on, with your sword in your hand, You fight on, yes, you fight on, Lawdy you fight on...."

Author: unknown
Earliest date: 1927 (Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag)
Keywords: brother religious
Found in: US(SE)
References (1 citation):
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 248-249, "You Fight On" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #18162
Cross-references:
cf. "Christian, Fight On, Your Time Ain't Long" ("fight on" lyric)
Notes [61 words]: This appears to me to be based -- very loosely -- on Matt. 18:15: "If a brother sins [against you], bring it to his attention when the two of you are alone."
You Gentlemen of England

DESCRIPTION: English gentlemen, living at ease, don't think of the dangers faced by seamen in war and trade. If there is no war the merchants will always have work for us where "the stormy winds do blow"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames)

KEYWORDS: pride war commerce death storm nonballad patriotic sailor

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (4 citations):
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 201-202, "You Gentlemen of England" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 192)
- Ashton-RealSailorSongs, #76, "Neptune's Raging Fury; or, the Gallant Seaman's Sufferings" (1 text)
- Foner-AmericanLaborSongsOfTheNineteenthCentury, p. 2, "A Sea Song" (1 text)

Roud #18526

CROSS-REFERENCES:

File: WT201

You Girls of Equal Station

DESCRIPTION: The singer asks "all you girls of equal station" for comfort for her sorrow "because I loved a lad." Though he promised to be true "to another girl he roved ... he has married for gold" Warning: "do not your mind reveal So that you can bid them farewell"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1906 (Greig/Duncan6)

KEYWORDS: infidelity love promise money nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #97, pp. 1-2, "Ye Girls of Equal Station" (1 text)
- Greig/Duncan6 1184, "Ye Girls of Equal Station" (4 texts, 4 tunes)

Roud #5410

File: GrD61184

You Got to Move

DESCRIPTION: "You got to move (x2)... When God gets ready, you've got to move." In one form, "That preacher's got to move!" "That drunkard's got..." "I got..." Whether high or low, policeman or prostitute, when the Lord gets ready, "you got to move"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1946 (recording, Two Gospel Keys)

KEYWORDS: warning nonballad religious whore clergy police gods

FOUND IN: US(MA,SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Carawan/Carawan-AintYouGotARight, p. 147, "You Got To Move" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #16194

RECORDINGS:
You Got To Reap In the Harvest What You Sow

DESCRIPTION: "John say you got to reap in the harvest what you sow (x2), If you sow it in the rain, you got to reap it just the same You got to reap in the harvest what you sow"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1942 (Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands)
KEYWORDS: farming harvest Bible nonballad religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands, p. 225, "You Got To Reap In the Harvest What You Sow" (1 text)
NOTES [100 words]: The current description is based on the Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands text. Parrish-SlaveSongsOfTheGeorgiaSeaIslands writes that this was one of "the songs that were used for planting rice, and getting it ready to eat."
John 4:35-37 is a metaphor on sowing and reaping the harvest: "And he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal: that both he that soweth and he that reapeth may rejoice together" (King James). - BS
Compare also Hosea 8:7, about sowing the wind and reaping the whirlwind, and in Hosea 10:12, a reference to sowing and harvesting good things. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.1
File: Parrp225

You Gotta Clear de Line

DESCRIPTION: "You gotta clear de line before you call (x2), If you ever 'spects to get an answer, You gotta clear de line before you call." "If you have aught against your sister/brother/preacher, Well go to her and her alone, And car' yo' gift before the altar."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1950 (Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, p. 166, "You Gotta Clear de Line" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #16123
NOTES [39 words]: This appears to be an allusion to Matthew 5:23-24: If one has a quarrel with another, and is making an offering, "leave your gift before the altar and go; first be reconciled with your comrade, and then come and offer your gift." - RBW
Last updated in version 4.2
File: Arno166

You Jolly Young Fellows

DESCRIPTION: Buailey takes up distilling whiskey at home in Glenlee. At the opening there was a grand party with food, tobacco, dancing, and lots to drink. Noll Buailey fell drunk while dancing having had 24 glasses.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)
KEYWORDS: dancing drink food music party moniker
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 196, "You Jolly Young Fellows" (1 text)
Roud #16243
You Kicked and Stomped and Beat Me

DESCRIPTION: "Do you 'member way last summer (x3), Kind captain, on the jelly roll?" "You kicked and stomped and beat me... and you call that fun." "If I catch you in my home town, Goin' to make you run, sir."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (collected from "Bowlegs")
KEYWORDS: hardtimes abuse revenge
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 391-392, "You Kicked and Stomped and Beat Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #15584

You Know One Joseph Keeba

DESCRIPTION: The singer says her husband has heavy shoes, a bad foot, and wears a "cap with the ears turn down." He caught and cooked a possum. She cooked chicken backside and added it to his meal. She says, "I live with the man so long, the man no know me way"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (WITrinidadVillage01)
KEYWORDS: shrewishness marriage clothes magic food animal chickens husband wife
FOUND IN: West Indies(Trinidad)
RECORDINGS:
Margaret Wright, "You Know One Joseph Keeba" (on WITrinidadVillage01)
NOTES [212 words]: Liner notes: "Herskovits's original notes state that this song 'ridicules husband as cuckold'; the woman may be putting obeah 'magic' in the man's food." (Donald R. Hill, Maureen Warner-Lewis, John Cowley, Lise Winer, liner notes on WITrinidadVillage01). Given that the recording may be a fragment and that I don't understand the subtleties of the language, I see the ridicule and even the likelihood that the woman is rigging her husband's food, likely by magic, but I don't see evidence of cuckholding.
Liverpool on women tampering with a man's food: "... many African women were believed to be using concoctions, some of which were tinged with some of the body's juices, to trap, conquer and dominate men.... [O]ur social history shows that it was a west African tradition brought to the Caribbean during the age of enslavement...." (Holllis Liverpool, "Preface," liner notes on "West Indian Rhythm", p. 10, Bear Family Records 10CD BCD 16623 JM, 2006). So, for example, in a Lord Beginner calypso, the doctor explains Beginner's growing confusion and baldness: "your Dorothy know a thing or two / And she give the cocoa to you" (Lord Beginner, "Cocoa Tea Puzzle to Me," and liner notes on "West Indian Rhythm", #227 p. 247, Bear Family Records 10CD BCD 16623 JM, 2006).- BS
Last updated in version 5.2

You Lovers All

DESCRIPTION: The girl recalls how her father's anger "drove my love away" to North America. She steals 500 pounds from her father to buy passage across the seas. She does not know where to look, but by chance finds her love quickly; they are married

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (Sam Henry collection)
KEYWORDS: love separation father emigration marriage reunion
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H525, p. 483, "You Lovers All" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #1910
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Mullinabrone" (plot)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Flowers of Enniskillen
NOTES [128 words]: This song is very similar to "My Father's Servant Boy," the only substantial difference between the two being that, in this song, the girl and boy sail for America separately. Even the first few words are the same. "Lumpers" would undoubtedly list them as the same song (so, e.g., Roud).
The Index, however, follows a "splitting" policy. My personal suspicion, in any case, is that "My Father's Servant Boy" is the older song, and was rewritten as a broadside to produce this. (Note the presence of a broadside version in Wright.) The kinship could, of course, be the other way -- both look like broadsides, without much softening by tradition. But "My Father's Servant Boy" seems to be slightly more widespread, giving it a slightly greater chance of being original. - RBW

File: HHH525

You Lovers All, to You I Call

DESCRIPTION: "You lovers all, to you I call. A story I will tell; How I, a swain, courted in vain A maid none could excel." "I fell in love so hard to move... But to my grief found no relief, for she was pitiless." The singer praises his love's great beauty

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: love beauty rejection
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 293, "You Lovers All, to You I Call" (1 text)
Roud #12200
File: Br3293

You May Bury Me in the East

DESCRIPTION: "You may bury me in the East, You may bury me in the West, But I'll her the trumpet sound In-a that morning." "In-a that morning, How I long to go, For to hear the trumpet sound..." "In-a that dreadful judgement day, We'll take wings and fly away...."

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1915 (Work-FolkSongOfTheAmericanNegro)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad death burial
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Work-FolkSongOfTheAmericanNegro, pp. 60-61, "You May Bury Me in the East" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11958
File: WFAN060

You Might Easy Know a Doffer

DESCRIPTION: "You might easy know a doffer" by her yellow hair and tools. Besides, "she'll always get a man." "You might easy know a weaver" by her greasy hair and tools. Besides, "she'll never get a man"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1978 (Hammond-SongsOfBelfast)
KEYWORDS: sex bragging hair weaving humorous nonballad
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong 13, "You Might Easy Know a Doffer" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hammond-SongsOfBelfast, p. 23, "You Might Easy Know a Doffer" (1 text, 1 tune) DT, EASYDOFF*
Roud #20420
NOTES [125 words]: Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong: "Machines were used in the spinning room to spin linen yarn onto empty bobbins on a frame. When they were full the doffers had to "doff" or remove the bobbins and replace them with empty ones."(p. 62) "The song reflects the animosity which existed between doffers and weavers and expresses the doffers' point of view. The tools of the doffer were pickers, a scraper, hackle pins and whistle; these were tied around here waist on a piece of string."(p. 59, p. 175 for more details) - BS
In this case, the doffers probably had a point; theirs was the newer, faster, cheaper technology; the old methods of wearing were dying out. And a weaver would thus be more likely to lose her job, making her a less desirable prospect. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.0
File: Leyd013

You Must Be Pure and Holy
DESCRIPTION: "When I was wicked and a-prone to sin, My Lord, brethren, ah my Lord, I thought I couldn't be born again." "You must be pure and holy (x3) To see God feed his lambs." "I'll run all 'round the cross and cry... Give me Jesus or I die."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1867 (Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad floatingverses
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Allen/Ware/Garrison-SlaveSongsUnitedStates, p. 107, "You Must Be Pure and Holy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #12063
NOTES [82 words]: The number of theologically questionable statements in the first few verses of this song is rather astounding. As Paul says in Romans 5:8, Christ died "while we were still sinners," and the apostle confesses to having been the chief of sinners. As for the King James mistranslation "born again," which should have been rendered "born from above," see the notes to "Reborn Again."
Apart from those not-so-trivial details, of course, the advice to live as well as one can is certainly good. - RBW
Last updated in version 2.4
File: AwG107

You Must Live Holy
DESCRIPTION: "There's fathers and mothers all over the land, They're chewing and dipping as fast as they can... You must live holy and free from sin If you aim to get to glory and enter in...." Listeners are told how to live and told to read the Bible
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1941 (Randolph)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 643, "You Must Live Holy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7566
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Good Old Days of Adam and Eve" (theme) and references there
NOTES [48 words]: Almost half of Randolph's text is devoted to the way women dress -- "with their hair bobbed off and their dresses to their knees." It seems clear that this version, at least, originated in the 1920s.
One wonders what the author would think of the styles of the late twentieth century. - RBW
File: R643

You Never Miss the Water till the Well Runs Dry DESCRIPTION: The singer remembers mother's lessons about economy: "Waste not, want not is the maxim I would teach... Do not let your chances like sunbeams pass you by, For you never miss the water...." Now married, he teaches his children the same lesson
AUTHOR: Harry Linn and Rowland Howard (sources: Spaeth; Heart-Songs)
EARLIEST DATE: 1872 (broadside, LOCSheet sm1872 12956)
KEYWORDS: youth money
FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
  Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Mi 753, "You'll Never Miss the Water Till the Well Runs Dry" (1 text)
  Spaeth-ReadEmAndWeep, pp. 125-126, "You Never Miss the Water till the Well Runs Dry" (1 text,
    1 tune)
  Heart-Songs, pp. 258-259, "You Never Miss the Water" (1 text, 1 tune)
  DT, WASTENOT
ADDITIONAL: H. S. Perkins, H. J. Danforth, and E. V. DeGraff, _The Song Wave_, American Book Company, 1882, pp. 140-141, "You Never Miss the Water" (1 text, 1 tune)
  Roud #5457
RECORDINGS:
  Claude Sweet & Roy Davidson, "You'll Never Miss the Water" (Acme 1165, n.d.)
BROADSIDES:
  Bodleian, Firth c.26(176), "You'll Never Miss the Water 'till the Well Runs Dry!" ("When a child I lived at Lincoln, with my parents at the farm"), unknown, no date; also Firth c.21(161), Firth
    c.26(309), "You'll Never Miss the Water 'till the Well Runs Dry" LOCSheet, sm1872 12956, "You Never Miss the Water Till the Well Runs Dry" ("When a child I lived at Lincoln with my parents at the farm"), Balmer & Weber (Saint Louis), 1872; also sm1874 14898, "You'll Never Miss the Water, Till the Well Runs Dry"; sm1874 14312, sm1874 15614, "You Never Miss the Water Till the Well Runs Dry" (tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
  cf. "A Motto for Every Man" (theme of hard work and frugality)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
  Waste Not, Want Not
File: SRW125

You Pass Me By
DESCRIPTION: The singer dreams about his old sweetheart who won't "even stop to say hello." "O heart of stone, you pass me by."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (recording Hank Snow; MUNFLA-Leach)
KEYWORDS: love rejection nonballad lover
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
Roud #30148
RECORDINGS:
  Mrs. Betty Deveraux, "You Pass Me By" (on MUNFLA-Leach)
  Hank Snow (The Singing Ranger) and his Rainbow Ranch Boys, "You Pass Me By" (RCA Victor
    21-0431-B , 1951)
NOTES [24 words]: The MUNFLA-Leach text and tune is very close to the Hank Snow recording.
    That is not surprising since they were both recorded the same year. - BS
Last updated in version 4.4
File: ML3YPaMB

You Pretty Girls of Michigan
DESCRIPTION: "You pretty girls of Michigan, give ear to what I write, Of sailing on the stormy Lakes, in which we take delight." The sailors work while "Irishmen and the landlubbers" stay home.
The singer urges girls to attend to sailors, who live such hard lives
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1933 (collected by Walton from Pat Banner and A. E. Baker)
KEYWORDS: sailor courting
FOUND IN: US(MA,MW) Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
  Walton/Grimm-Windjammers-SongsOfTheGreatLakesSailors, pp. 101-103, "You Pretty Girls of
You Rambling Boys of Pleasure (Down by Sally's Garden)

DESCRIPTION: "You rambling boys of pleasure, give ear to those few lines I write. Although I'm a rover, and in roving I take great delight." Singer recounts finding and losing his love, and laments that his roving ways are incompatible with love and home.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1784 (OBoyle-TheIrishSongTradition)

KEYWORDS: rambling love homesickness

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont) Ireland

REFERENCES (9 citations):
- Tunney-WhereSongsDoThunder, pp. 79-81, "The Rambling Boys of Pleasure" (1 text)
- OBoyle-TheIrishSongTradition 22, "Rambling Boys of Pleasure" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Graham-Joe-Holmes-SongsMusicTraditionsOfAnUlsterman 62, "The Rambling Boys of Pleasure" (1 text, 1 tune); p. 279, "The Rambling Boys of Pleasure" (a reprint of a G. Jacques broadside)
- Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 59, "Down by Sally's Garden" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 47, "Rambling Rover" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 52, "You Rambling Boys of Pleasure" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 146-148, "Gold Is the Root of Evil (You Rambling Boys of Pleasure)" (3 texts, 1 tune)
- Wolf-AmericanSongSheets, #1963, p. 132, "Rambling Boys of Pleasure" (1 reference)
- Forget-Me-Not-Songster, p. 96, "Rambling Boys of Pleasure" (1 text)
- Roud #386

BROADSIDES:
- Bodleian, Harding B 17(250b), "Rambling Boys of Pleasure," J. Evans (London), 1780-1812; also Harding B 11(3222), Harding B 25(1596), Firth b.25(189), Harding B 16(219c), Harding B 15(250a), Firth c.18(237), Firth c.18(238), 2806 c.16(193), Firth c.18(235), Harding B 11(34), Harding B 16(220b), Harding B 20(22), Firth c.26(259), Harding B 28(144), "[The] Rambling Boys of Pleasure"; Johnson Ballads 614, Firth b.25(315), "You Rambling Boys of Pleasure"
- LOCSinging, sb40467b, "Rambling Boys of Pleasure," J. Andrews (New York), 1853-1859

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Down by the Sally Gardens" (lyrics)

NOTES [273 words]: There are several examples of this in the Bodleian Library Broadsides Collection, dating from 1802 to 1892. Beginning around 1850 an additional verse began appearing going more or less like," "It was down by the salley gardens...." It is very likely this is the "half-remembered" verse that Yeats used to write "Down by the Sally Gardens." - SL

O'Boyle says that the "down in Sally's Garden" lines are in the first verse of the 1784 American manuscript in the Baker Memorial Library at Hanover, New Hampshire. Of the Bodleian broadsides, "The Rambling Lover," Harding B 11(3222) c.1850, 2806 c.16(193) c.1850: include the line "Down by youn valley gardens."

Firth c.18(237) n.d., Firth c.18(238) 1850-1899: include the line "Down by yon sally garden."

Harding B 15(250a) 1858-1861, Firth c.18(238) 1850-1899, Harding B 11(34) n.d., Firth c.26(259) n.d. include the line "It was down by Sally's gardens."

A closely related broadside, Bodleian, Firth c.18(234), "The Rambling Lover" ("Come all you gay and merry friends and stay with me while I do write"), unknown, n.d. includes the line "It was down by a flowery garden."

The one to compare to Yeats' is an unrelated broadside, Bodleian, Harding B 22(262), "Sally's Garden" ("It was down in Sally's garden"), unknown, n.d. It may be the same ballad as the illegible
You Ribbonmen of Ireland

DESCRIPTION: Ribbonmen: "Long may you reign May you roll in joy and splendour Till you raise your flag again." The singer recalls taking the Orange drum at Segimore. The Protestant "hates our religion and our ways" and curses any man that goes to church.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1955 (IRRCinnamond01)

KEYWORDS: Ireland political religious

FOUND IN: Ireland

ST RcYRiMoI (Full)

Roud #3081

RECORDINGS:

Robert Cinnamond, "You Ribbonmen of Ireland" (on IRRCinnamond01)

NOTES [56 words]: Supporting the Orange position is "beating the Orange drum"; taking the Orange drum then has figurative as well as literal meaning.

I was helped through Cinnamond's text by Lew Becker and John Moulden. The description is based on John Moulden's transcription from IRRCinnamond02 included in the Traditional Ballad Index Supplement. - BS

File: RcYRiMoI

You Say Dat You Love Me

DESCRIPTION: "You say that you love me, I say that I love you. Then if yo' love is true, darling, we will be happy... you'll never regret it. What did the jaybird say to the crow? You send snow and I send rain and we will live happy... It ain't gonna rain mo more"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1968 (NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal)

KEYWORDS: bird courting love floatingverses

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

File: NCF162YS

You Say You Are of Noble Race

DESCRIPTION: "You say you are of noble race And I of low degree. We are all of Adam's race; Pray, what more can we be?" Reportedly, the girl turns down the boy because her status is higher than his

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1915 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: courting rejection

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 59, "You Say You Are of Noble Race" (1 fragment)

Roud #7844

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Oh, No, Not I" (theme)

File: Br3059
You Say You Love Me
DESCRIPTION: "Ev'ry time... It seems there's only a doubt that you are fooling me, yes sirree. And that feeling come a-stealing, says you're not true." "I'm afraid you'll sing this song to somebody else." When he goes out, "I always find a strange hat in the hall"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)
KEYWORDS: jealousy clothes love
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 88, "You Say You Love Me" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11320
File: Brne088

You Talk About Your Greenbacks
DESCRIPTION: "You talk about your greenbacks being dollar bills, But you ought to see the Natchez when she passes Louisville." (Someone) talks about girls and how they make a living; the singer prepares to jump ship and his girl
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1944 (Wheeler)
KEYWORDS: river abandonment
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Wheeler-SteamboatinDays, p. 119, "You Talk About Yo' Greenbacks" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #10051
File: MWhee119

You Went and Courted Nancy
DESCRIPTION: "John, you told me a story, You told me so before... you haven't come no more. You went and courted Nancy With the black and roving eye." The girl wishes he had been true, "But if I am forsaken, I know I'm not forsworn"; she will rove her life away
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)
KEYWORDS: love courting betrayal rambling
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 45, "You Went and Courted Nancy" (1 text)
Roud #11333
File: Brne045

You Will Marry
DESCRIPTION: "You will marry... (one of three boys). You will marry in... silk/satin/rags. You will live in... brick house/log house/block house. You will have [some number of] children. The will have black/blond/red hair."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1948 (NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal)
KEYWORDS: playparty courting marriage clothes children hair
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal, (Joan McCaskill, collector), "Rope-Skipping Games", Vol. 1, No. 1 (Jun 1948), p. 11, "(You will marry)" (1 text)
File: NCF1YWM

You Won't Go to Heaven When You Die, Mary Ann (Retreat) (Bugle Call Lyric) DESCRIPTION: "You won't to to Heaven when you die, Mary Ann, No you won't, no you won't, No you won't, Mary Ann."

You Wonder Why I'm a Hobo (Naw, I Don't Want to Be Rich)

DESCRIPTION: A list of reasons why the hobo doesn't want to be a conductor, a banker, a broker, a doctor, adding up to this: "I just don't want to be rich" (or to have to work).

AUTHOR: Carson J. Robison

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (recordings, Carson Robison)

KEYWORDS: hobo money work questions

FOUND IN: US(MA)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brokin/Harlow-TreasuryOfRailroadFolklore, p. 461, "You Wonder Why I'm a Hobo" (1 text, 1 tune)

RECORDINGS:
Carson J. Robison, "You Wonder Why I'm a Hobo" (Columbia 15547-D [issued under the pseudonym, "Travelin' Jim Smith" as well as perhaps under Robison's own name], 1930) (Champion 3084 [both as Carson Robison Trio], 1931). (Victor V-40226, 1930) (Brunswick 442, 1930) (OKeh 45537 [as, "Naw! I Don't Wanna Be Rich"], 1931; rec. 1930)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
"Who Said I Was a Bum?" (subject, attitude)

NOTES [66 words]: I've also seen this credited to Mac McClintock. The attribution to Robison seems more likely, though; I suspect "Haywire Mac" merely recorded the piece and someone assumed he wrote it. - RBW

A reasonable assumption -- except that McClintock doesn't seem to have recorded the song. He did cut "Hobo's Spring Song" twice for Victor, and I haven't heard that, so it could possibly be this song. - PJS

Last updated in version 4.2

You, You, You (Somewhere Somebody's Waiting)

DESCRIPTION: "Somewhere somebody's waiting for you, Somewhere somebody's heart is true, Sometime you'll love somebody who'll love you true, Somewhere somebody's waiting for you, you, you."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Brown)

KEYWORDS: love

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 276, "You, You, You" (1 fragment)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 276, "You, You, You" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)

Roud #16176

You'll Miss Me When I'm Gone

DESCRIPTION: Singer, now feeble, tells his sweetheart she'll miss him when he's gone. He asks who will care for her. He tells her to fence their garden; the children are married. Ch.: "You'll miss me when I'm gone...There's one kind heart will miss me when I'm gone"
You'll Miss Me When I'm Gone

DESCRIPTION: Singer, aging and becoming feeble, tells his sweetheart she'll miss him when he's gone. He asks what she will do in wintertime, who will put their arms about her, who will share her sadness and gladness. He tells her to fence their little garden and tend the flowers; the children are all married. Ch.: "You'll miss me when I'm gone...There's one kind heart will miss me when I'm gone"

KEYWORDS: grief loneliness love marriage death family husband wife age

NOTES [21 words]: In 1878 Hart Pease Danks and Arthur W. French published a song called, "You'll Miss Me When I'm Gone." This is not that song. - PJS

File: RcYMMWIG

You'll Never Know What Time Will Bring

DESCRIPTION: A poor old man of seventy and his wife of sixty three are on their way to the workhouse in the snow. They meet their rich son who has no time for them. They warn him that "you never know what time will bring you"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (MUNFLA/Leach)

KEYWORDS: age hardheartedness poverty warning ordeal father mother

REFERENCES (1 citation):
cf. "Over the Hills at the Poorhouse" (theme of old people abandoned in poverty)

File: RcYNKWTW

You're a Little Too Small

DESCRIPTION: Even very small girls won't consider the singer, saying "you're young I know, perhaps you may grow, At present you're a little too small." When he inherits a million and the girls call him he refuses because "at present I'm a little too small"

AUTHOR: Al Haynes (source: Meade, Spottswood and Meade)

EARLIEST DATE: 1887 (publication date, according to Meade, Spottswood and Meade)

KEYWORDS: courting bequest money humorous

REFERENCES (1 citation):
McBride-FlowerOfDunaffHillAndMoreTradSongsInnishowen 48, "A Little Too Small" (1 text, 1 tune)

File: RcYNKWTW
You're from the Nation

DESCRIPTION: "You're from the Nation, an I'm from Arkansas, But I got the Battle Axe, an' I know you want a chaw." "It sure is good terbacker, we chaw it all the time, I'm goin' to buy some Battle Axe if I ever get a dime."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1921 (Randolph)

KEYWORDS: travel drugs nonballad hardtimes

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Randolph 585, "You're from the Nation" (1 text)
Roud #7671

NOTES [11 words]: Randolph explains that Battle Axe is a brand of chewing tobacco. - RBW

You're Going to Leave the Old Home, Jim (Old Home Jim, Ragged Jim)

DESCRIPTION: "You're going to leave your old home, Jim, today you're going away." Mother speaks as her boy prepares to go to the city; she says "the old home will be lonely" but he will always be welcome back. When city life fails, he comes back to mother

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (Burton/Manning)

KEYWORDS: mother separation home return

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 20-21, "Old Home Jim" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #7121

File: BuMa1020

You're Going To Reap Just What You Sow

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "You're going to reap just what you sow (2x), Up on the mountain, Down in the valley, You're going to reap just what you sow." Verse: "Let the sinner sin (mourner mourn, deacon plead, preacher preach, liar lie) right on"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1927 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious Bible

FOUND IN: US(SE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, pp. 28-29, "You Goin' to Reap Jus' What You Sow" (1 text) (1 tune)
Roud #15222

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Sowing on the Mountain" (theme, some chorus lines)

NOTES [145 words]: Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute's verses the first line is repeated and followed by "Up on the mountain, Down in the valley, You're going to reap just what you sow."
The Biblical reference may be to Eliphaz's unjustified accusation of Job, Job 4:7-9: "Remember, I pray thee, who ever perished, being innocent? or where were the righteous cut off? Even as I have seen, they that plow iniquity, and sow wickedness, reap the same. By the blast of God they perish, and by the breath of his nostrils are they consumed" (King James): that is, if you are in trouble, it must be trouble of your own doing. - BS
Although the idea of sowing trouble and reaping it, with interest, is very common, e.g. Hosea 8:7, about sowing the wind and reaping the whirlwind, and in Hosea 10:12, a reference to sowing and harvesting good things. - RBW
You're Mad, You're Barmy
DESCRIPTION: "You're mad, you're barmy, Your mother's in the army. She wears black britches, With pink and white stitches." Or, "She ears brown britches, With a hundred and twenty stitches."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty mother clothes
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 133, "(You're mad, you're barmy)" (1 text)
File: SuSm133A

You're the Biggest Drip
DESCRIPTION: "You're the biggest drip, If ever there was a drop."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)
KEYWORDS: playparty
FOUND IN: New Zealand
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 131, "(You're the biggest drip)" (1 text)
File: SuSm131F

You're the Man That Stole My Wife
DESCRIPTION: Fragment: "You're the man that stole my wife (x3), You shouldn't have 'er for to save your life."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Brown)
KEYWORDS: husband wife nonballad betrayal
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 172, "You're the Man That Stole My Wife" (1 text)
Roud #6582
File: BrII172

You're Welcome as the Flowers in May
DESCRIPTION: The singer accuses Katie of calling him a rogue to her mother. He demonstrates this by stealing a kiss and trying to steal her heart. She calls that no theft; he is "welcome as the flowers in May." She says that they will marry if her mother consents
AUTHOR: J. É. Carpenter (per O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland)
EARLIEST DATE: 1901 (O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland)
KEYWORDS: love courting flowers marriage
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H804, pp. 262-263, "You're Welcome as the Flowers in May" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 152, "You're Welcome as Flowers in May" (1 text)
Roud #6917
NOTES [59 words]: Despite the similarity in titles (perhaps inspired by a common saying), this appears to have no relationship at all with the Randolph song "As Welcome as the Flowers in May."
Dan J. Sullivan in 1902 published a song "You're As Welcome As the Flowers In May"; I don't know which of the two traditional songs of that title, if either, it represents. - RBW
File: HHH804

You've Been a Friend to Me

DESCRIPTION: "My bark of life was tossing down The troubled stream of time When first I saw your smiling face And youth was in its prime... If ever I have had a friend, you've been a friend to me." The singer complains about hard time but is grateful for friendship
AUTHOR: Original by Will S. Hays, adapted by A. P. Carter (source: Mark Zwonitzer with Charles Hirschberg, _Will You Miss Me When I'm Gone: The Carter Family & Their Legacy in American Music_, p. 131)
EARLIEST DATE: 1936 (recording, The Carter Family)
KEYWORDS: hardtimes separation travel
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 687, "Faithful Friend" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #17260
RECORDINGS:
The Carter Familly, "You've Been a Friend To Me" (Decca 5283, 1936; Montgomery Ward 8009, 1939)
File: BrS5687

You've Got to Be a Lover of the Lord

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, you've got to be a lover of the Lord (x3) Or you won't get to heaven when you die."
"Come humble sinners... make this last resolve, Oh, you must be a lover of the Lord, Or you can't go to heaven when you die."
AUTHOR: Charles Wesley [and William Cowper]/ music: R. H. Reeves
EARLIEST DATE: 1869 (Sacred Harp hymnal)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad clothes humorous playparty
FOUND IN: US(SE,So) New Zealand
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Randolph 654, "You've Got to Be a Lover of the Lord" (1 fragment)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, p. 166, "Come Humble Sinners" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Roud #7577
RECORDINGS:
Huggins & Phillips Sacred Harp Singers, "Lover of the Lord" (Vocalion 5273, rec. 1928; on Babylon)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "You Won't Go to Heaven When You Die, Mary Ann (Retreat) (Bugle Call Lyric)" (lyrics)
NOTES [103 words]: The Huggins & Phillips Sacred Harp Singers recording adds a verse of Cowper's "Oh, For a Closer Walk with God" to the song, probably to fill out the time on the record. - PJS
For background on Cowper, see the notes to "God Moves in a Mysterious Way."
Most of the field collections of this have wandered far from the source, but none perhaps as much as Sutton-Smith's New Zealand version, which has become a singing game:
Oh, you must be a lover of the Lord, of the Lord,
Or you won't go to heaven when you ie, when you die.
Oh, you must wear a collar and a tie, and a tie,
Or you won't go to heaven when you die. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.4
File: R654

You've Got Your Big Gun, and I've Got Mine

DESCRIPTION: "You've got your big gun, and I've got mine. Just rap on the cartridge if you don't mind dying."
Youghall Harbour

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets a beautiful girl as he walks toward Youghall. He asks a kiss; she refuses, explaining that her former lover has driven her from Youghall. She will have no more to do with men. He says his intentions are honorable

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1825 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 28(20))
KEYWORDS: courting beauty rejection
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (3 citations):
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H503, p. 273, "Youghall Harbour" (1 text, 1 tune)
O'Conor-OldTimeSongsAndBalladOfIreland, p. 95, "Yougall Harbor" (1 text)
ADDITIONAL: Kathleen Hoagland, editor, One Thousand Years of Irish Poetry (New York, 1947), pp. 198-199, "Youghall Harbour" (1 text, listed as a translation by Samuel Ferguson)
Roud #2734
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Answer to Youghal Harbour"
cf. "Foot and Mouth Disease" (tune)
SAME TUNE:
Moreton Bay (I) (File: FaE038)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Youghal Harbour
Yougal Harbour
NOTES [205 words]: The versions of Youghall Harbour are so varied that I think they should be considered at least two ballads. [Though Roud lumps them. - RBW] Examples of "the other Youghall Harbors":
OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 8 and Bodleian, Harding B 28(20), "Answer to Youghall Harbour," W. Armstrong (Liverpool), 1820-1824; also Harding B 11(2180), 2806 b.9(227), 2806 b.11(205), Harding B 25(2128), Firth b.27(11/12) View 1 of 2 [partly illegible], 2806 c.15(163), 2806 c.15(17), 2806 b.11(204), Harding B 19(3), "Youghal Harbour" ("As I roved out on a summer's morning") in which Nancy/Mary of Cappoquin has the singer's baby ["A darling baby for you I am rearing"] and is deserted by him twice. [This is in the Index as "Answer to Youghal Harbour."]
Bodleian, Harding B 25(2126), "Answer to Youghall Harbour," Angus (Newcastle), 1774-1825 in which the singer considers leaving "the fair maid of Capperquin" at the altar;
Bodleian, Harding B 28(20), "Youghall Harbour" ("In Youghall harbour, on a summer's morning"), W. Armstrong (Liverpool), 1820-1824; also Harding B 11(4287), "Youghall Harbour" in which the singer is led to the altar and is sometimes exposed as a rake. This may just be an extension of "Answer to Youghal Harbour." - BS
Last updated in version 5.2
File: HHH503

Youghall Harbour (II)

DESCRIPTION: The singer meets a girl like "the Queen of May." He seduces her after going "to a director" when she insists on "performance." But he values "neither Priest nor Deacon nor yet yon fair maid of Capperquin" and gains "the maiden flower of this silly female"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1825 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 28(20))
Young Airly

DESCRIPTION: Lochiel and Airly ride away with Charlie. Argyle then rides to "glent to heav'n I' the dwelling o' young Airly." Lochiel mistakes the glow for sunrise but Ogilvie realizes Airly is burning. He mourns "mither and twa sweet babies" lost and curses Argyle.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1810 (Cromek)

KEYWORDS: feud homicide fire

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

- Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2 75, "Young Airly" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2 76, "Young Airly"

ADDITIONAL: R. H. Cromek, Remains of Nithsdale and Galloway Song, (London, 1810), pp. 195-197, "Young Airly"

CROSS-REFERENCES:

- cf. "The Bonnie House o Airlie" [Child 199] (subject and tune)

NOTES [388 words]: "Lochiel" may refer to Alan Cameron (c. 1567-c. 1647) or Ewen Cameron (1629-1719), the 15th and 16th clan chiefs respectively (see "Cameron2" at Stirnet Genealogy site).

Hogg-JacobiteRelicsOfScotlandVol2 of both "Young Airly" texts: "Trustung to a note in Cromek's Collection [Remains of Nithsdale and Galloway Song], I never doubted that this was a song of 1745, and reserved it for this volume, and even for this latter division of it. I find, however, in searching for the event to which it relates, that it is the very oldest Scots song in the collection, being one of 1640."

"Cromek died [1812] shortly after the issue [1810] of Remains of Nithsdale and Galloway Song, which was mostly written by Cunningham, though palmed upon Cromek as recovered antiques." (source: J. Ross, The Book of Scottish Poems: Ancient and Modern, (Edinburgh, Edinburgh Publishing Co, 1878), "Allan Cunningham 1784-1842," p. 738; other sources agree)

Cromek: "'Young Airlie' was eldest son to Ogilvie, Earl of Airlie, and with his father's vassals joined Prince Charles. He married a daughter of Johnstone of Westerhall in Annandale -- a lady of characteristic courage who followed her lord through all the dangers and troubles of war. In the hasty march through Dumfries a confidential friend wished Lady Ogilvie to return to her father's from the uncertain tumult of rebellion. 'O! Mary (said she) Charlie's the righteous heir! Wha wadna gang wi' Charlie! Young Lord Airlie escaped to France after the battle of Culloden." This is apparently the note Hogg referred to. Compare Cromek's comments with the references for "The Bonnie House o Airlie [Child 199]." - BS

My instinct, and Cromek's, and evidently Hogg's, was to refer this to the time of Bonnie Prince Charlie, due to the reference to Charles and the fact that Lochiel was Charlie's most important supporter. But we should note that, in 1640, the king was Charles I, who was fighting (and would eventually lose) the English Civil War. And his son was Charles II, who would not be restored until 1660. - RBW
Young Allan [Child 245]

DESCRIPTION: In a drunken gathering, Allan boasts of the speed of his ship. Challenged, he takes part in a race and is caught in a storm. Allan calls on a "bonny boy" to steer the ship (with offers of reward), then begs the ship to rescue him. Somehow, all survive.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1803 (Skene ms.)

KEYWORDS: ship storm gambling escape

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (9 citations):
- Child 245, "Young Allan" (5 texts)
- Bronson 245, "Young Allan" (16 versions)
- Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 245, "Young Allan" (2 versions: #1, #2)
- Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #63, p. 1, "Young Allan" (1 text)
- Greig/Duncan2 326, "Young Allan" (17 texts, 16 tunes) \{A=Bronson's #13, B=#12, C=#11, D=#5, G=#10, H=#3, I=#8, J=#7, K=#4, L=#6, M=#14, N=#16, O=#15, for R cf. #2\}
- Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 320-322, "Young Allan" (1 text)
- Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 608-611, "Young Allan" (1 text)
- Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 58, "Young Allan" (1 text)
- DT 245, YNGALAN* YNGALAN2*
- Roud #242

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Sir Patrick Spens" [Child 58] (lyrics)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- The Sailors o' Merrily Den
- Miraladen
- The Sailors and the Merry-go-round
- The Sea Captains

NOTES [53 words]: Child sees analogies between this ballad and mythical vessels which sailed at the will of their masters (e.g. the Phæacian ships in Odyssey viii.557 or the Scandinavian Elli a).

Given, however, the sorry state of the versions in Child, one may doubt how much of this is tradition and how much simply confusion. - RBW

Young Alvin

DESCRIPTION: Alvin loves Melanie. He takes two horses to her father's house in Earl's Court. The chambermaid tells him that Melanie will be married the next day to Lord Farthington to satisfy her father's debt. They duel. Alvin wins and elopes with Melanie.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1974 (recording, Packie Manus Byrne)

KEYWORDS: courting elopement death fight father nobility

FOUND IN: Ireland

Roud #2988

RECORDINGS:
- Packie Manus Byrne, "Young Alvin" (on Voice17)

NOTES [157 words]: Yates, Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Notes - Volume 17" - 15.9.02: "According to both R S Thomson and Frank Purslow (personal correspondence) versions of 'Young Alvin' appeared in late 18th-century chapbooks, although I [Mike Yates?] have not, so far, come across one."

Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Reviews - Volume 17" by Rod Stradling - 7.11.98: "Packie Byrne sings 'Young Alvin,' which I've never been entirely certain isn't a fake -- it certainly doesn't sound as if it's passed through many hands in the aural transmission process." - BS

I think I agree. "Alvin and Melanie?" Sounds like a sixties sitcom. And they'd have to elope a long way to avoid punishment for killing a lord. Some google searching seems to reveal that there is a literary original back there somewhere, though all the allusions were too oblique to actually cite (so
Young Andrew [Child 48]

DESCRIPTION: Andrew woos a lady. He bids her to steal her father's money for their wedding. She brings the money; he takes her clothes and sends her home naked. Her father refuses to let her in without the gold; she dies. (Her brothers hunt Andrew down.)

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1750 (Percy folio)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Andrew woos a lady. They have sex. He bids her to steal her father's money for their wedding. She brings the money; he takes her clothes for his own lady and sends her home naked. Her father refuses to let her in without the gold; she dies. (Her brothers hunt Andrew down, break his bones, and leave him to be eaten alive by a wolf.)

KEYWORDS: courting theft family abandonment infidelity greed hardheartedness sex betrayal manhunt revenge death

FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Child 48, "Young Andrew" (1 text)
Hales/Furnival-BishopPercysFolioManuscript, volume II, pp. 327-333, "Younge Andrew" (1 text)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 59, "Young Andrew" (1 text)

Roud #6740

CROSS-REFERENCES:

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Death of Young Andrew

NOTES [43 words]: According to David C. Fowler, A Literary History of the Popular Ballad, Duke University Press, 1968, p. 158 n. 25, this is one of eighteen ballads in the Child collection found only in the Percy Folio. - RBW

Child refers to similar ballads in Poland. - PJS

Last updated in version 5.3

File: C048

Young Astronomer's Gaze, A

DESCRIPTION: "As I gaze in the starry heaven of blue, I see Orion and his neighbors two; And of all the fixed stars... I see only a few, And none are very new, But as old as time is old." Saturn and its rings are mentioned, as well as the animals in the constellations

AUTHOR: George Mefford Bell?

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Thomas)

KEYWORDS: nonballad

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Thomas-BalladMakingInMountainsOfKentucky, p. 256, "A Young Astronomer's Gaze" (1 text)

NOTES [47 words]: The observations in this song are genuinely suitable to a young astronomer, since Orion is (along with the Big Dipper) perhaps easiest to recognize of all the northern constellations. I'm not sure which constellations are thought to be Orion's neighbors; perhaps Gemini and Auriga? - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

File: ThBa256A

Young Bearwell [Child 302]

DESCRIPTION: Young Bearwell and the mayor's daughter are in love. She learns that false rumors are spread about him, and gives him a ship to flee in. He comes to a foreign court. She grows lonely, and sends for him; her messenger learns of his success abroad

AUTHOR: unknown
Young Beichan [Child 53]

DESCRIPTION: A young lord is taken prisoner by a foreign king. The king's daughter frees him after receiving a promise that he will wed her in seven years. Seven years later she comes to England to see him being married. When he sees her, he marries her instead

AUTHOR: unknown

DESCRIPTION: A young lord is taken prisoner by a foreign king. The king's daughter frees him after receiving a promise that he will wed her in seven years. Seven years later she comes to England to see him being married. When he sees her, he marries her instead

REFERENCES (85 citations):
- Child 53, "Young Beichan" (14 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #94}
- Bronson 53, "Young Beichan" (113 versions plus 9 in addenda)
- Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 53, "Young Beichan" (16 versions: #1, #6, #9, #12, #23, #30.2, #34, #37, #45, #74, #92, #94, #100, #101, #105, #112)
- Chambers-ScottishBallads, pp. 91-98, "Young Bekeie" (1 text)
- Lyle/McAlpine/McLucas-SongRepertoireOfAmeliaAndJaneHarris, p. 174, "Young Becon" (1 fragment, 1 tune) {Bronson's #94}
- Riewerts-BalladRepertoireOfAnnaGordon-MrsBrownOfFalkland, pp. 106-113, "Young Bekeie" (2 parallel texts plus a photo of the badly-transcribed tune plus a reconstruction on p. 267); pp. 114-118, "Young Bicham" (1 text)
- Dixon-ScottishTraditionalVersionsOfAncientBallads I, pp. 1-10, "Young Bondwell" (1 text)
- Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Ballad #8, pp. 85-95, "Lord Beichan";
- Ballad #9, pp. 95-98, "Lord Bateman" (2 texts)
- Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 144-151, "Lord Beichan";
- pp. 268-290, "Lord Bateman" (2 texts)
- Broadwood/Maitland-EnglishCountySongs, pp. 62-63, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Williams-FolkSongsOfTheUpperThames, pp. 147-149, "Lord Bateman" (1 text) (also Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Wt 362)
- Kidsen-TraditionalTunes, pp. 33-36, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- OShaughnessy-YellowbellyBalladsPart2 31, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Hamer-GreenGroves, pp. 68-69, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Gardham-EastRidingSongster 22, pp. 28-29, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roud/Bishop-NewPenguinBookOfEnglishFolkSongs #33, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbuchatBallads, pp. 136-140, "Young Bonwell" (1 text)
- Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #78, pp. 1-2, "Young Beichan" (2 texts)
- Greig/Duncan5 1023, "Lord Brechin" (13 texts, 14 tunes)
- Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 106-122, "Lord Bateman" (5 texts, all very full, 2 tunes) {Bronson's #8, #87}
- Randolph 11, "Lord Bateman" (4 texts plus a fragment, 3 tunes) {A=Bronson's #3, C=#44, E=#7}
- Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 25-28, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 11E) {Bronson's #7}
- High-OldOldFolkSongs, pp. 14-15, "Lord Batsman" (1 text)
- Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 10, "Young Beichan" (1 text)
- Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 49, "Lord Bateman's Castle" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #80}
- Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 204-208, "Lord Bakeman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- {Bronson's #11}
- Flanders/Olney-BalladsMigrantInNewEngland, pp. 54-57, "Lord Bakeman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bronson's #1}

Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland2, pp. 9-69, "Young Beichan" (19 texts plus 6 fragments, 8 tunes; a few of the versions combine multiple collections from family members or have other complex histories) {F=Bronson's #1, H=#11}

Davis-TraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 12, "Young Beichan" (7 texts plus 2 fragments; the fragments, especially "I", might perhaps be "The Turkish Lady"; 2 tunes entitled "Lord Bateman and the Turkish Lady, or The Turkish Lady", "The Turkish Lady"; 3 more versions mentioned in Appendix A) {Bronson's #55, #47}

Davis-MoreTraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 16, pp. 102-110, "Young Beichan" (3 texts, 2 tunes)

Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 14, "Young Beichan" (5 texts plus mention of 1 more)

Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 14, "Young Beichan" (2 excerpts, 2 tunes)

Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 7, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #35}

Smith-SouthCarolinaBallads, III, pp. 104-106, "Young Beichan" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #111}

Joyner-FolkSongInSouthCarolina, pp. 28-30, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)

Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #154, "Young Beichan" (1 text)

Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 8, pp. 75-76, "Young Beichan" (1 text)

Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 15, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)

Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 210-213, "Young Beichan" (1 text, with local title "The Jailer's Daughter"; 1 tune on pp. 410-411) {Bronson's #39}

Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 26-34, "Young Beichan" (4 texts plus 1 fragment, 3 tunes) {Bronson's #64, #3, #13}

Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, pp. 7-8, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)

Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 7, "Lord Bateman" (1 text)

Peacock, pp. 210-213, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 2 tunes)

Karpeles-FolksongsFromNewfoundland 7, "Lord Bateman" (2 texts, 3 tunes) {Bronson's #101}

Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 5, "Lord Bakeman" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #22); "Lord Bateman" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

Lear/Best-ComeAndIWillSingYou 68, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)

Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 169-174, "Young Beichan" (2 texts)

Leach-HeritageBookOfBallads, pp. 81-86, "Young Beichan" (1 text)

Wyman/Brockway-LonesomeSongs-KentuckyMountains-Vol1, p. 58, "Lord Batesman, or the Turkish Lady" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #98}

Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 81-82, "Lord Baker" (1 text, 1 tune)

Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol2, pp. 47-48, "Young Beham" (1 text, 1 tune)

Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 128, "Young Beichan (Lord Bateman)" (1 text)

Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 44, "Young Bekie"; 45, "Young Beichan"; 164, "The Loving Ballad of Lord Bateman" (3 texts)

Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 43, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #2, "Lord Batesman" (1 text, 1 tune)

Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 13 "Young Beichan" (7 texts plus 5 fragments, of which "D" and "L" in particular may be "The Turkish Lady"; 12 tunes) {Bronson's #36, #99, #10, #107, #106, #110, #14, #57, #42, #41, #102, #68}

Sharp-OneHundredEnglishFolksongs 6, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)

Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 22, "Young Beichan" (1 text, 1 tune)

Gummere-OldEnglishBallads, pp. 256-259+356-357, "Young Beichan" (1 text)

Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolksongs 10, "Lord Bateman (Young Beichan)" (1 text, 1 tune, slightly edited) {Bronson's #14}

Karpeles-TheCrystalSpring 10, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #92}

Copper-SongsAndSouthernBreezes, pp. 276-277, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)

Ritchie-SingingFamilyOfTheCumberlands, pp. 100-102, "[Turkish Lady]" (1 text, 1 tune)

Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 22-23, "The Turkish Lady" (1 text, 1 tune)

Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 41, "Young Beichan (Lord Bateman)" (1 text)

Buchan-ABookOfScottishBallads 7, "Young Bicham"; 8, "Young Bokie" (2 texts, 1 tune in appendix) {Bronson's #112}

MacColl/Seeger-TravellersSongsFromEnglandAndScotland 8, "Young Beichan" (2 texts, 2 tunes)

Whiting-TraditionalBritishBallads 2, "Young Beichan" (1 text)

HarvardClassics-EnglishPoetryChaucerToGray, pp. 84-86, "Young Bicham" (1 text)

Abrahams/Foss-AngloAmericanFolksongStyle, pp. 101-103, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenry's Songs of the People H470, p. 491, "Lord Beichan" (1 text, 1 tune)
Pound-American Ballads and Songs, 14, pp. 33-36, "Lord Bayham" (1 text)
Cox-Folk Songs South 8, "Young Beichan" (3 text plus mention of 1 more)
"Lord Wtem" (3 texts, 3 tunes) {Bronson's #54, #53, #93}
Thomas-Devils Ditties, pp. 86-87, "The Turkish Lady" (1 text, 1 tune, which, despite the title, is this piece; the hero is "Lord Bakeman") {Braonan's #51}
Gainer-Folk Songs From The West Virginia Hills, pp. 32-33, "Lord Bateman" (1 text, 1 tune)
Whitelaw-Book Of Scottish Ballads, pp. 23-25, "Lord Beichan"; pp. 25-27, "Young Bekie" (2 texts)
Forget-Me-Not-Songster, pp. 171-174, "Lord Bakeman" (1 text)
Morgan-Medieval Ballads-Chivalry Romance And Everyday Life, pp. 78-81, "Young Beicham" (1 text)
Darling-New American Songster, pp. 67-69, "Lord Bakeman" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-Folksingers Wordbook, p. 212, "Lord Bateman" (1 text)
DT 53, LORDBATE* LRDBEICH* (The DT editors also list TURKLADY* as Child 53, but it belongs with Laws O26)
ADDITIONAL: Leslie Shepard, _The Broadside Ballad_, Legacy Books, 1962, 1978, p. 147, "Lord Bateman" (reproduction of a broadside page containing this and "I'll Dream of Thee No More")
Julie Henigan, "Ozark Ballads as Song and Story," article in _Missouri Folklore Society Journal_, Volume 27-28 (cover date 2005-2006, but published 2015), pp. 159-185; pp. 160-161, "Lord Batesman" (1 text, as sung by Ollie Gilbert)
Roud #40
RECORDINGS:
Anita Best, "Lord Bateman" (on NFABest01)
M. Curran, "Lord Bateman" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
Ollie Gilbert, "Lord Bateman" (on LomaxCD1707)
Roby Monroe Hick, "Young Beham" [excerpt] (on USWarnerColl01)
Aunt Molly Jackson, "Lord Bateman" (AFS; on LC57)
RECORDINGS: Eunice Yeatts MacAlexander, "Lord Bateman" (on FarMtns1)
Willie Mathieson, "The King's Daughter" (on FSBBAL1)
Pleaz Mobley, "Lord Bateman" (AFS L 12, 1937; on LC12) {Bronson's #97}
Thomas Moran, "Lord Bateman" (on FSB4, FSBBAL1)
Howard Morry, "Lord Bateman" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
New Lost City Ramblers, "Lord Bateman" (on NLCR14)
Raymond Noseworthy, "Lord Bateman" (on MUNFLA/Leach)
John Reilly, "Lord Baker" (on Voice17)
Balis Ritchie, "Lord Bateman and the Turkish Lady" (on Ritchie03)
Jean Ritchie, "Lord Bateman" (on JRitchie01)
Jeannie Robertson, "Lord Bateman" (on FSB4, FSBBAL1)
David Slaunwhite, "Lord Bateman" (on MRHCreighton)
Mary Sullivan, "Lloyd Bateman" (AFS; on LC57)
Joseph Taylor, "Lord Bateman" (cylinder, on HiddenE) {Bronson's #34}
BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 28(174), "Lord Bateman," W. Armstrong (Liverpool), 1820-1824; also 2806 c. 16(213), Harding B 11(2196), Firth c. 21(10), Johnson Ballads 1687, Firth c. 21(28), Firth b. 25(164), Harding B 11(2198), Harding B 25(1140), Johnson Ballads 549 [some words illegible], Harding B 11(2199), Harding B 11(2200), Firth b. 25(93), "Lord Bateman"; Harding B 17(170b), Harding B 26(379), "Lord Beigam"
LOC Singing, as100980 [incomplete], "Lord Bakeman," unknown, 19C
Murray, Mu23-y1:030, "Lord Beigam," James Lindsay Jr. (Glasgow), 19C
NL Scotland, L.C.Fol.70(136a), "Lord Beigam," unknown, c. 1820
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Turkish Lady" [Laws O26]
cf. "The Araby Maid" (subject)
cf. "Mustang Gray (The Maid of Monterey)" (plot)
cf. "Thomas o Yonderdale" [Child 253] (plot)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Lord Beham
Susan Price
NOTES [556 words]: This song is commonly connected with the story of Gilbert Becket, the father of Thomas (the clerical adversary of England's Henry II); for citations on this, see the story "Young Bekie" on pp. 579-580 of volume A.1 of Briggs. But, although the song's widespread currency implies that it is old, it is unlikely that it is that old.

Child believed that it may have been affected by the Becket legend, but was probably independent. The plot very much resembles "The Turkish Lady" [Laws O26], and some scholars lump them, but the latter emphasizes the conversion of the princess rather than, as in this song, her pursuit and reunion.

It is interesting to note that, according to the Rosenberg/Kreuzer translation of Sir Gawain and the Green Knight, p. LII, the "love interests [in the crusading romances] were frequently unintentionally humorous: the Saracen princesses in literature were almost as aggressive in their behavior as the knights they aided."

Baugh,p. 125, commenting on the romance "Bevis of Hampton": "[The Saracen Emperor] Ermin's daughter Josian, after the manner of Saracen princesses in romance, falls in love with the hero, especially after he has successfully defended her against a king named Brademond who has come to marry her, by force if necessary."

CHEL1, p. 305, sums up "Bevis" as follows: "Beves of Hamtoun... presents almost entirely crusading tendencies, but few traces remain of the earlier form. Beves, who has been despatched as a slave to heathen parts by a treacherous mother, ultimately arrives at the court of the Saracen king Ermyn. Here he is the recipient of handsome favours, and is offered the hand of the princess Josian, on condition that he forsakes the Christian faith. This he refuses to do, but the valour he displays in staggering exploits still keeps him in favour, and Josian, for his love, is prepared to renounce her native gods [sic.]. The king hears of this, and Beves is committed to a neighbouring potentate, by whom he is kept in a horrible dungeon for some seven years. After a marvelous escape from his terrible surroundings, Beves seeks out Josian, and both flee to Cologne, where they are duly wedded. The hero's career continues to be as eventful as ever; but he is finally induced to turn toward home, where he succeeds in regaining his inheritance, and is recognised as a worthy knight by the reigning king Edgar."

Thus, in "Bevis," the girl and the guy are reunited after seven years, just as in this ballad -- although, in the romance, it is she, not he, who is married to another -- involuntarily, in this case, but she maintains her virginity magically while he spends seven years in Brademond's custody. Beves and Josian finally die in each others' arms.

A minor footnote: In the Scottish "Young Beichan" texts, the Turkish girl is typically called "Susan (Susie) Pye," with no obvious derivation that I can see. In the more numerous "Lord Bateman" texts, however, she is usually "Sophia." But "Sophia" (, Greek for "wisdom") is not a Turkish name. Perhaps the girl had more reasons than love for wanting to escape. One might even speculate that she had (or that some singer intended her to have) a Christian mother. Or that she would rather marry an infidel than live in a harem.

And, yes, that's an awfully long chain of inference to hang on one name.... - RBW

Bibliography

- Baugh: Albert C. Baugh, "Convention and Individuality in Middle English Romance," in Jerome Mandel and Bruce A. Rosenberg, editors, Medieval Literature and Folklore Studies, Rutgers, 1970
- Briggs: Katherine Briggs, A Dictionary of British Folk-Tales in the English Language, Part A: Folk Narratives, 1970 (I use the 1971 Routledge paperback that combines volumes A.1 and A.2)

Last updated in version 6.0
File: C053
Young Benjie [Child 86]

DESCRIPTION: Benjie quarrels with his lover, who vows to seek another. He drowns her. During the night watch over the corpse [lykewake] she reveals to her three brothers who killed her. They ask whether they should behead or hang him. She bids them put out his eyes.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1803 (Scott)
KEYWORDS: lover corpse funeral brother injury revenge ghost
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Child 86, "Young Benjie" (2 texts)
Bronson 86, "Young Benjie" (1 version)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 86, "Young Benjie" (1 version)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine p. 453, "Young Benjie" (notes only)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 280-283, "Young Benjie" (1 text)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 91, "Young Benjie" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 169-170, "Bondsey and Maisry"; pp. 199-201, "Young Benjie" (2 texts)
DT 81, YNGBENJI*
Roud #3911
File: C086

Young Billy Crane

DESCRIPTION: The singer, "Nellie Harrison," is betrayed by "Cubit's" arrow and a handsome young man named Billy Crane. She describes how he courted her then went to sea. She declares she will dress in men's clothes and follow her love

AUTHOR: Larry Gorman (1846-1917)
EARLIEST DATE: 1940 (Doerflinger)
KEYWORDS: courting betrayal separation lament cross-dressing travel
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 259-260, "Young Billy Crane" (1 text, 1 tune)
Ives-LarryGorman, pp. 67-68, 202, "Young Billy Crane" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4164
NOTES [34 words]: Said to have been inspired by real people, though the names have been changed. The original Nellie Harrison is said to have remained single her whole life.
This song is item dH46 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: Doe259

Young Caroline

DESCRIPTION: Highlander MacDonald courts Caroline. Her father is opposed: he "swore Macdonnels blood should stain the earth." Caroline, scorned for their relationship, is unhappy. Her heart breaks to leave her parents, but they elope and marry happily.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1866 (Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin)
KEYWORDS: courting elopement marriage father mother
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin 19, "Young Caroline" (1 text)
Roud #4279
NOTES [156 words]: Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin: "I believe this is an Americanized version of 'Caroline of Edinborough Town' ... although the ending is happy in Mr Larkins's [sic] version, and the girl lives on 'Dry Crick.' Nevertheless, her lover wins her 'with flattering tongue,' the father bitterly objects, and they run away." I don't see any links between Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin text and "Caroline of Edinborough Town" other than Caroline's name and that her lover was from the highlands. Then Musick looks to Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 33, "Caroline and Her Young Sailor Bold" for a Caroline story with a happy ending, but there are no other links between the Musick-JAF-TheOldAlbumOf-William-A-Larkin text and that song. It does seem to be an American version about some woman and a Highlander named MacDonald, but I find no connection with, say, "MacDonald of the Isles" or "The Pride of Glencoe." - BS
Last updated in version 3.0
File: MuLa019

Young Chambers

DESCRIPTION: Chambers's boat, smuggling liquor from St Pierre, is attacked and boarded by the crew of the Lady Clover. The crew are taken to Harbour Breton, tried, and thrown in jail. After four months of bad and meager rations they are released to run grog again.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1959 (Peacock)
KEYWORDS: crime trial prison drink sea ship outlaw punishment
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Peacock, pp. 897-898, "Young Chambers" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #9939
RECORDINGS:
Arthur Nicolle, "Young Chambers" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only]
NOTES [124 words]: Peacock says "smuggling liquor from the French island of St Pierre off Newfoundland's south coast has been a lucrative business for decades, especially during the days of American prohibition." Harbour Breton is on the south coast of Newfoundland. - BS
Peacock defines "switchel tea" as "very weak tea unsweetened" or water mixed with molasses. G. M. Story, W. J. Kirwin, and J. D. A. Widdowson, editors, Dictionary of Newfoundland English, second edition with supplement, Breakwater Press, 1990, p. 552, offer "a drink of molasses and water often seasoned with vinegar and ginger" (1790-), a term derived from OED "swizzle"; the secondary meaning is simply "Tea, esp. that once drunk by fishermen and sealers at sea"; it cites this song. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.5
File: Pea897

Young Charlotte (Fair Charlotte) [Laws G17]

DESCRIPTION: Pretty Charlotte, going to a dance on a cold night, refuses to dress properly; warm clothes would hide her charms. First she complains of the cold, but then says "I'm growing warmer now." When they arrive at the ball, her escort finds her frozen to death.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1883 (Smith/Hatt/Fowke-SeaSongsBalladFromNineteenthCenturyNovaScotia)
KEYWORDS: courting death beauty
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
Feb 8, 1840 - The New York Observer publishes a story, "A Corpse Going to a Ball," describing a tragedy like this one which took place on Jan 1, 1840
FOUND IN: US(All) Canada(Mar,Newf,Ont)
REFERENCES (56 citations):
Laws G17, "Young Charlotte (Fair Charlotte)"
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 308-317, "Young Charlotte" (4 texts plus excerpts from 9 more and references to 2 more, 4 tunes)
Randolph 667, "Young Charlotte" (3 texts plus 5 excerpts, 2 tunes)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 528-532, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 667A)
High-OldOldFolkSongs, pp. 32-33, "A Song... Young-Shelottie" (1 text)
Morris-FolksongsOfFlorida, #56, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 209, "Young Charlotte" (1 text plus mention of 3 more)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 209, "Young Charlotte" (6 excerpts, 6 tunes)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 60, pp. 182-184, "Young Charlotte" (1 text plus mention of 2 more)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 52-53, "Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 157, "Fair Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 98-100, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 66-68, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart1 23, "Fair Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sulzer-TwentyFiveKentuckyFolkBallads, pp. 10-11, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 123, "Fair Charlotte" (3 texts, 2 tunes)
Gardner/Chickering-BalladsAndSongsOfSouthernMichigan 41, "Frozen Charlotte" (1 text plus an excerpt and mention of 1 more, 2 tunes)
Dean-FlyingCloud, pp. 56-57, "Young Charlotte" (1 text)
Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, pp. 219.220, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 37, pp. 51-53, "Young Charlotte" (1 text plus 2 fragments)
Brewer-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 30, "Fair Charlotte" (2 texts plus a fragment and mention of 2 more, 2 tunes)
List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 315-324, "Young Charlotte" (2 texts, 2 tunes, plus a broadside pring)
Rickaby-BalladsAndSongsOfTheShantyBoy 37, "Fair Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 37, "Fair Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 35-38, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Berry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 111-115, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 2 tunes)
Linscott-FolkSongsOfOldNewEngland, pp. 305-309, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, pp. 94-97, "Fair Charlotte" (1 text)
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 723-725, "Young Charlotte" (1 text)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol2, pp. 98-100, "Schaladi" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 58-59, "The Frozen Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hubbard-BalladsAndSongsFromUtah, #33, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax-FolkSongsOfNorthAmerica 48, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 374-377, "(The Frozen Girl/Fair Charlotte)" (1 text plus a few stray lines)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 825-828, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Spaeth-WeepSomeMoreMyLady, pp. 142-143, "Young Charlotte" (1 text)
Pound-AmericanBalladsAndSongs 44, pp. 103-107, "Young Charlotte" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 80, "Fair Charlotte" (2 texts plus mention of 5 more; 1 tune)
Cox/Hercog/Halpert/Boswell-WVirginia-B, #4A-B, pp. 126-129, "Fair Charlotte," "Young Charlotte" (1 text plus a fragment, 1 tune)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol2, pp. 41-45, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 137-139, "Fair Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, p. 47, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, pp. 110-110, "The Frozen Girl"; pp. 112-114, "Charlotte, the Frozen Girl" (2 texts)
Greenleaf/Mansfield-BalladsAndSeaSongsOfNewfoundland 172, "Young Charlotte" (1 text)
Peacock, pp. 735-737, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Smith/Hatt/Fowke-SeaSongsBalladFromNineteenthCenturyNovaScotia, pp. 51-55, "The Frozen Girl" (1 text)
Crichton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia 150, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Crichton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 64, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 60, "Young Charlotte" (1 text)
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 136-138, "Frozen Charlotte (Young Charlotte)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Finger-FrontierBallads, pp. 119-123, "Young Charlotte, or The Frozen Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 104-106, "Young Carlotta" (1 text)
Shay-BarroomBallads/PiousFriendsDrunkenCompanions, pp. 66-69, "Young Charlotte" (1 text, 1 tune)
Darling-NewAmericanSongster, pp. 220-221, "Young Charlotte" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 210, "Young Charlotte" (1 text)
DT 637, YNGCHARL*
Roud #260

RECORDINGS:
Charlotte Decker, "Young Charlotte" (on PeacockCDROM) [one verse only] Delmore Brothers, "The Frozen Girl" (Bluebird B-5338/Montgomery Ward M-4458/Sunrise S-3419, 1934; rec. 1933)
Warde Ford, "Fair Charlotte" (AFS 4203 A1, 1938; tr.; in AMMEM/Cowell)
I. G. Greer w. Mrs. I. G. Greer, "Young Charlotte" (AFS; on LC14)
Red Ingle and the Natural Seven, "Git Up Off'n the Floor, Hannah" (Capitol 15123, 1947)
Eugene Jemison, "Fair Charlotte" (on Jem01)
Pete Seeger, "Young Charlotte" (on PeteSeeger29)
Vern Smelser, "Young Charlotte" (on FineTimes)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Shepherd on the Hill" (theme)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
The Fair Sharlot

NOTES [242 words]: This ballad is widely considered to be based on an incident which took place on Jan. 1, 1840, when a girl froze on her way to a ball (the story was reported in the Feb. 8 New York Observer). In 1843 (probably) the poem "A Corpse Going to a Ball" was published by Seba Smith in "The Rover"; the ballad is frequently linked to that lyric (Botkin places the poem in 1884, but Smith died before that).
The matter remains controversial, though; others have linked it to the death of Charlotte Dills, frozen to death in Auburn, Indiana in 1862. And Barry credited the song to a William Lorenzo Carter of Virginia and dated it before 1833 -- though he later accepted the attribution to Smith.
For what it is worth, Laws accepts the attribution to Smith.
Smith almost certainly should be credited with a similar piece, "Stratton Mountain Tragedy" [Laws G18], which also involves a young woman dying in a blizzard (only, there, she dies while saving her child from freezing); one wonders how much Smith's ideas cross-fertilized. For more on him, see that song.
A Washington Post story dated December 8, 2019 claims that, when porcelain dolls began to be marketed in the nineteenth century, they were called "Frozen Charlottes" because they were white and stiff. If the article is right that the term goes back to the 1850s, and is connected to this song (and I have no reason to doubt either claim), then the connection to Charlotte Dills seems impossible. - RBW
Last updated in version 6.0
File: LG17

Young Collins (I)
DESCRIPTION: "Young Collins early in the morning Went whistling through the fields of corn, He spied a milkmaid neat and trim...." He asks, "Will you go along with me now go?" She refuses. He says he has a farm, ewes, lambs, poultry. She marries him
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Butterworth Collection)
KEYWORDS: love courting beauty marriage
FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Butterworth/Dawney-PloughboysGlory, p. 49, "Young Collins" (1 text plus some alternate lyrics, 1 tune)
Roud #1720
File: BuDa049

Young Companions [Laws E15]
DESCRIPTION: The singer, born in Philadelphia, abandons his family to go to Chicago where he "sinned both night and day." At last he murders a girl and is condemned to die
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1910 (Lomax, Cowboy Songs)
KEYWORDS: family homicide execution
FOUND IN: US(MW,So,SE,SW) Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (12 citations):
Laws E15, "Young Companions"
Randolph 161, "Taney County" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 153-155, "Taney County" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 161A)
Young Conway

DESCRIPTION: The singer tells how Conway and two others go to Renfrew and embark on a "Poland Spree." They find themselves in a fight, and eventually everyone turns on Conway. He dies of his injuries late the next day. Many grieve for him.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1965 (Fowke)
KEYWORDS: homicide death party
FOUND IN: Canada(Que)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fowke-LumberingSongsFromTheNorthernWoods #42, "Young Conway" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #3678

NOTES [81 words]: Apparently based on an incident of 1886, in Renfrew, in which Conway and his companions crashed a Polish wedding party. Their gift (a baby carriage) was not appreciated, and a fight broke out in which Conway was killed. Conway was stabbed some twenty times, but no one was charged because it was impossible to determine who struck the fatal blow. According to Fowke's informant, Michael Cuddihey, singing this song in mixed (Irish and Polish) company was guaranteed to cause fights. - RBW

File: FowL42

Young Earl of Essex's Victory over the Emperor of Germany, The [Child 288]

DESCRIPTION: The Queen appoints Essex to command the fleet against Germany. The Emperor, learning who opposes him, would avoid battle, but his son begs for the command. Essex is victorious, and the German prince must be exhibited in London before he is sent home.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: before 1764 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 2(5))
KEYWORDS: royalty sea navy battle prisoner patriotic
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (5 citations):
Child 288, "The Young Earl of Essex's Victory over the Emperor of Germany" (2 texts)
Bronson 288, "The Young Earl of Essex's Victory over the Emperor of Germany" (2 versions)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 288, "The Young Earl of Essex's Victory over the Emperor of Germany" (2 tunes: #1, #2)
Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbuchatBallads, pp. 131-132, "Young Essex" (1 text)
Greig/Duncan1 36, "Young Essex" (1 fragment, 1 tune) {Bronson's #2}
Roud #123

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Harding B 2(5), "Queen Elizabeth's Champion" or "A Famous Sea-Fight Between the Emperor of Germany, and the Earl of Essex" ("Come sound up your trumpets, and beat up your drums"), W. and C. Dicey (London), 1736-1763; also Douce Ballads 3(80b), "Queen Elizabeth's Champion" or "Great-Britain's Glory"

NOTES [283 words]: Bodleian note to Harding B 2(5) and Douce Ballads 3(80b): "Subject: Naval battles; Essex, Robert Devereux, Earl of, 1566-1601" - BS
Needless to say, there is no history in this song. By the time Britain developed a respectable Navy, the "emperorship" of Germany (i.e. the Holy Roman Empire) was little more than a token office. As the Habsburg Empire, it would rise again (until destroyed by Napoleon), but by then, an Earldom wasn't enough to give a man command.
The broadside copy (Child's A) may be from the publishing house of John White, meaning that it was likely issued in the years before White's death in 1769. It is reasonable to assume that the Hannoverian Succession of 1714 had made the British more aware of Germany, and some anonymous (Jacobite?) balladeer decided to grant the English a victory over them.
Internal evidence, to be sure, points to the reign of Queen Elizabeth, who of course was the first great Queen of England, and who was friendly with an Earl of Essex. Her reign also saw the voyage of the Spanish Armada, resulting in the first real battle of seagoing gunships. But the Germany of Elizabeth's time was in no sense a country; feuds between Catholics and Protestants were constant, and Protestants at that time generally did not go to war with Protestants.
This song should not be confused with the broadside "The Earl of Essex," printed e.g. by Logan. There is also a manuscript poem, possibly intended to be sung, called "A Prayer of the Earle of Essex Deathe." It is in a number of manuscripts and Tudor-era books; for a recent edition, see Peter J. Seng, Tudor Songs and Ballads from MS Cotton Vespasian A-25, Harvard University Press, 1978, #25, p. 49. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4
File: C288

Young Ellen Loraine

DESCRIPTION: "When I parted from Erin, heart-broken to leave thee, I dreamed not of falsehood, you Ellen Loraine, I thought, though but woman, thou wouldst not deceive me." But she is "faithless." He tells her, Go, false one, and laugh at the heart thou hast broken."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1839 (Bodleian broadside Harding B 11(3108), etc.)

KEYWORDS: love betrayal emigration

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Hylands-Mammoth-Hibernian-Songster, p. 200, "Young Ellen Loraine" (1 text)

Roud #13854

BROADSIDES:
Bodleian, Firth b.25(112), "Young Ellen Lorraine," J. Catnach (London), 1813-1838; also Harding B 11(3108) (Catnach)

NOTES [13 words]: The dimwit might have had better luck if he'd bothered to learn real English. - RBW

Last updated in version 6.1

File: HMHS200A

Young Ellender

DESCRIPTION: A father sees Ellender with a man. Father would send the man "across the salt sea Where the loud cannons they roar" and confine Ellender on "bread and no water Once a day" She would go with him. A gold ring breaks in two and each takes half. He leaves.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO)

KEYWORDS: courting ring brokentoken father

FOUND IN: Britain(England(Lond,South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Williams-Wiltshire-WSRO Ox 206, "Chain of Gold" (1 text)

Roud #1417

RECORDINGS:
Phoebe Smith, "Young Ellender" (on Voice06)

NOTES [189 words]: The notes to Phoebe Smith's version on Voice06 describe "the rather garbled text of 'Young Ellender.'" The elements of the fragmentary story are all familiar as are the images projected by the lines. It reminds me of parts of "Charming Beauty Bright" [Laws M3], "The Iron Door"[Laws M15], "The Jolly Plowboy"[Laws M24], "Pleasant and Delightful" and countless other token ballads. Nevertheless, so far I cannot make this a version of a ballad I know. I would add one or more of the keywords "captivity," "separation," "pressgang," "war" and "cross-dressing," if any of those attributes were more than hinted at or threatened.

Yates, Musical Traditions site Voice of the People suite "Notes - Volume 6" - 25.8.02: "This appears to be a much fragmented version of Roud 539/Laws M15 'The Iron Door'...." The themes are right but I can't make the words fit. Line-by-line comparison with Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople, Peacock, Creighton-SongsAndBalladsFromNovaScotia and Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs shows that those texts are all closely related to each other and have no lines in common with "Young Ellender." - BS

Last updated in version 5.2
File: RcYoEll

Young Ettie

DESCRIPTION: Singer meets Ettie, declares his love, and promises to come back to her when fishing season ends. He returns and she swears she will be his true sweetheart. "A few short weeks after this girl changed her mind." Warning: "don't depend on those fair ones"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports)

KEYWORDS: courting love promise rejection warning parting return reunion separation fishing

FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Guigné-ForgottenSongsOfTheNewfoundlandOutports, pp. 379-381, "Young Ettie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #25334
File: Guig379

Young Farmer's Offer, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer notes that, at twenty-one, he has come into his father's estate and become a farmer. He has a good bank balance and a cozy home; he asks, "And where's the lass to take my hand And be young Mrs. Armour?"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan4)

KEYWORDS: courting bequest farming money humorous nonballad home

FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #19, p. 1, ("Now friends, my heart is fu' o' glee") (1 fragment)
Greig/Duncan4 822, "The Jolly Farmer's Son" (2 texts, 2 tunes)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H776, p. 261, "The Young Farmer's Offer" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #6216

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Wha'll Be Mrs Armour

NOTES [85 words]: In the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries in Ireland, the shortage of land was so severe that children had to stay on their parents' properties until the parents died; they could not marry until they had a plot of land on which to live. This often meant that marriages didn't take place until the man, at least, was well into his thirties. There may be a hint of that in this song: The singer is a landowner at twenty-one, making him a prime catch. - RBW

Roud has the Greig/Duncan4 texts as Roud #6216. - BS

Last updated in version 4.3
File: HHH776
Young Forbest

DESCRIPTION: Elmer Forbest, described as a good Christian man, works five years for John McBean. One day, as the crew is cutting the trees, the wagon holding the logs fails and Forbest is crushed. His comrades bury him and his family mourns

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951
KEYWORDS: logger death work
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Doerflinger-SongsOfTheSailorAndLumberman, pp. 224-225, "Young Forbest" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4073
NOTES [8 words]: This song is item dC52 in Laws's Appendix II. - RBW
File: Doe224

Young Freda Bolt

DESCRIPTION: "Amid the Blue Ridge Mountains, there lives a maiden fair," but Freda Bolt becomes pregnant by Buren Harmon. He promises to take her away; instead, he murders her. The singer expects she is in heaven

AUTHOR: D. M. Shank
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (recording, Floyd County Ramblers)
KEYWORDS: love pregnancy homicide abandonment
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia1, pp. 209-210, "Freeda Bolt" (1 text)
Roud #12196
RECORDINGS:
Carter Family, "Young Freda Bolt" (Decca 5612/Montgomery Ward MW 8071, 1938)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Frieda Bolt
The Story of Freeda Bolt
File: CAFS1209

Young Gal Go Round the Corner

DESCRIPTION: Leader: "Young gal go round the corner." Group: "My true love gone down the lane." Group: "Wet on the grass where the dew been poured." Group: "Hay, my lady, go down the road, go down the road, go down the road, My true love gone down the lane"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1971 (NorthCarolinaFolkloreJournal)
KEYWORDS: courting
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
NOTES [13 words]: Walser calls this a John Kunnering song. For other such songs, see "Juba!". - RBW
Last updated in version 6.1
File: NCF194YG

Young Gal, Swing Your Tail

DESCRIPTION: Chantey/worksong: "Young gal, go swing your tail/Swing your tail to the South West gale." "Everybody gather round..." "Boys and children get troubled in mind..." "Everybody get converted..." Refrain: "Young gal, go swing your tail"

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1958 (recording, John Roberts)
KEYWORDS: nonballad shanty worksong storm
FOUND IN: West Indies (Bahamas)

RECORDINGS:
John Roberts, "Young Gal, Swing Your Tail" (on MuBahamas2)

NOTES [31 words]: The annotation for LomaxCD1822-2 says that this song is related to the "Swing Your Tail" appearing on that CD, collected in 1935. I don't see it myself, other than the catchphrase. - PJS

File: RcYGSYT

Young Hunting [Child 68]

DESCRIPTION: (Young Hunting) goes riding, and meets his love. She bids him come in; he says he cannot, for he must meet another love. She kills him. She is then told (by a bird?) that "he had no love but thee." But all she cares about is hiding the body

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1776 (Herd)

KEYWORDS: love betrayal homicide death burial bird

FOUND IN: Britain (Scotland (Bord)) US (Ap, MA, MW, NE, SE, So, SW) Canada (Mar) Ireland West Indies (Jamaica)

REFERENCES (56 citations):
Child 68, "Young Hunting" (11 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #34}
Bronson 68, "Young Hunting" (43 versions, though a few are fragments which may belong with some other song)
Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildsPopularBallads 68, "Young Hunting" (8 versions: #2, #4, #6, #13, #27, #34, #37, #41)
Chambers-ScottishBallads, pp. 224-230, "Young Huntin" (1 text)
Lyle/McAlpine/McLucas-SongRepertoireOfAmeliaAndJaneHarris, pp. 38-47, "Young Reedin/Young Riedan" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #34}
Lyle-Andrew-Crawfurd'sCollectionVolume1 37, "Earl Richard" (1 text, 1 tune)
Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbuchatBallads, pp. 147-151, "Young Huntley" (1 text)
Barry/Eckstorm/Smyth-BritishBalladsFromMaine pp. 122-128, "Young Hunting" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #36}
Wells-TheBalladTree, pp. 152-154, "Young Hunting" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #36}
Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland2, pp. 87-88, "Young Hunting" (1 tune, with no text at all but reported to be this) {Bronson's #7}
Grimes-StoriesFromTheAnneGrimesCollection, pp. 28-29, "Lass of Roch Royal" (1 text, 1 tune, listed as Child #76 but appearing to be a fragment of "Young Hunting" [Child #68] with the "Pretty Little Foot" verses attached)

Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, pp. 34-37, "Young Hunting" (1 text)
Randolph 14, "Lord Henry and Lady Margaret" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #18}
Randolph/Cohen-OzarkFolksongs-Abridged, pp. 28-31, "Lord Henry and Lady Margaret" (1 text, 1 tune -- Randolph's 14A) {Bronson's #18}
Arnold-FolkSongsofAlabama, pp. 60-61, "Love Henry" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson #19}
Davis-TraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 17, "Young Hunting" (5 texts plus a fragment; all the texts seem somewhat mixed, and "E" clearly has verses from "Lady Isabel and the Elf Knight"; 4 tunes entitled "Sir Henry and Lady Margaret," "Young Hunting," "Lord Henry"; 1 more version mentioned in Appendix A) {Bronson's #20, #22, #16, #28}
Davis-MoreTraditionalBalladsOfVirginia 17, pp. 111-122, "Young Hunting" (6 texts, 5 tunes)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore2 18, "Young Hunting" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore4 18, "Young Hunting" (2 excerpts, 2 tunes)
Chappell-FolkSongsOfRoanokeAndTheAlbermarle 8, "Young Hunting" (2 texts, one short; 1 tune) {Bronson's #42}
Smith-SouthCarolinaBallads, #IV, pp. 107-108, "Young Hunting" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #38}
Joyner-FolkSongInSouthCarolina, pp. 43-44, "Lowe Bonnie" (1 text, 1 tune) {same source as Bronson's #43, although the two transcriptions differ at several points}
Morris-FolksongsOfflorida, #156, "Young Hunting" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #29}
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 9, pp. 77-78, "Young Hunting" (1 text plus a fragment, from the same informant)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 17A, "Love Henry"; 17B, "Young Hunting"; 17C, "Henry" (1 text plus 2 fragments, 2 tunes)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 44-45, "Loving Henry" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #3}
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 16-17, "Loving Henry" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cambiaire-EastTennesseeWestVirginiaMountainBallads, pp. 28-29, "Loving Henry" (1 text)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 18 "Young Hunting" (12 texts plus 2 fragments, 14 tunes) {Bronson's #35, #32, #33, #22, #40, #2, #12, #11, #25, #27, #13, #37, #31, #30}
Ritchie-FolkSongsOfTheSouthernAppalachians, pp. 88-89, "Young Hunting" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bush-FSoCentralWestVirginiaBallad, Vol. 1, pp. 75-76, "Lord Barney" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gainer-FolkSongsFromTheWestVirginiaHills, pp. 37-38, "Young Heneree" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scarborough-ASongCatcherInSouthernMountains, pp. 134-136, collectively titled "Young Hunting," individually "Loving Henery," "Come In, Loving Henery," "Loving Henry" (2 texts plus a fragment; the "A" text has a moralizing ending in which the girl dies; tune on p. 398) {Bronson's #10}
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 36-39, "Young Hunting" (2 texts, 1 tune) {Bronson's #5}
Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 229-234, "Young Hunting" (2 texts)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol2, pp. 76-78, "Lord Barnie" (1 text, 1 tune)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 30, "Young Hunting" (1 text)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 190, "Young Hunting" (1 text)
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 65, "The Lord of Scotland" (1 text, 1 tune. Cazden et al are not sure this song should be identified with "Young Hunting," since the "bird scene" is more extended than in other versions of that ballad. However, all the classic elements of "Young Hunting" are present)
Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 109, "A Song of a Lost Hunter (or, My Love Heneree)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 44, "Young Hunting" (1 text)
Niles-BalladBookOfJohnJacobNiles 27, "Young Hunting" (1 text, 1 tune)
Gummere-OldEnglishBallads, pp. 209-212+350-351, "Young Hunting" (1 text)
Sharp/Karpeles-EightyEnglishFolkSongs 13, "Love Henry (Young Hunting)" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #31}
Sandburg-TheAmericanSongbag, pp. 64-65, "Little Scotch-ee" (1 text, 1 tune) {Bronson's #38}
Lunsford/Stringfield-30And1FolkSongsFromSouthernMountains, "Young Hunting" (1 short text, 1 tune)
Dunson/Raim/Asch-AnthologyOfAmericanFolkMusic, p. 22 "Henry Lee" (1 text, 1 tune)
Hodgart-FaberBookOfBallads, p. 54, "Young Hunting" (1 text)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 9, "Young Hunting" (2 texts)
Abrahams/Foss-AngloAmericanFolksongStyle, pp. 97-99, "Love Henry" (1 text, 1 tune)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 142-143, "Earl Richard"; pp. 143-144, "Lord William" (2 texts)
Jekyll-JamaicanSongAndStory 31, "Pretty Poll" (1 text, 1 tune)
JournalOfAmericanFolklore, Helen H Roberts, "A Study of Folk Song Variants Based on Field Work in Jamaica," Vol. XXXVIII, No. 148 (Apr-Jun 1925), #2, pp. 154-155 "Fine Waitin' Bwa" (3 fragments, 3 tunes)
DT 68, FALSLADY* YNGHUNT * YNGHUNT2* YNGHUNT3* YNGHUNT5
Roud #47
RECORDINGS:
Jimmie Tarlton (Darby & Tarlton), "Lowe Bonnie" (Columbia 15763-D, 1930; on TimesAint04, ConstSor1) {Bronson's #43}
Logan English, "Love Henry" (on LEnglish1 -- several verses filled in from Cecil Sharp's Kentucky version)
Dick Justice, "Henry Lee" (Brunswick 367, 1929; on AAfm1)
George Landers, "Scotland Man" (on DarkHoll)
Ella Parker, "Lord Barnett-IHearAmericaSinging" (on FineTimes)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The False Young Man (The False True Lover)" (lyrics)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Lady Margot and Love Henry
Earl Richard
Lord Land
NOTES [1239 words]: Bronson notes that the musical tradition of this ballad "is perplexed and hard to make out," the tunes having diverse metres and forms. Bronson divides them into six major groups (the largest of which has two subgroups), but notes connections to many other melodies. Given the complexity of establishing tune families, we make no attempt to list them all in the cross-references; you'll have to see Bronson.

It strikes me as possible that this is related to the song's complex textual history. The description given here is pretty typical -- but there is a full Scottish version (from the Herd manuscript) in which the victim's father hunts for him, sends divers into the river, and is guided to the corpse by a bird. The father confronts the girl with the corpse, which bleeds upon seeing her. She blames her maid, but the fire kindled to burn the innocent girl will not harm her, so the murderess is destroyed instead. Many commentators think this ending was lost in most American and many British texts -- but it's so involved that I rather suspect it was grafted on.

Although American versions of this song are often known as "Loving Henry," not every song known by this title is a version of Young Hunting. Norm Cohen points out to me that at least two 78s known by this title [Kyle Wooten, "Loving Henry" (OKeh 45539, 1931; rec. 1930) and Jess Young's Tennessee Band, "Loving Henry" (Columbia 15431-D, 1929)] are not Child 68.

On the basis of all this, Fowler, pp. 286-287, suggests the song is composite, very tentatively arguing that it is based on a real incident about which little was known, so the compiler padded it out with ballad commonplaces. - RBW

Child #68 and Jamaican Anansi Stories

The three Jamaican texts are "Anansi" cante fables following the Ashanti (West African) tradition. Jekyll's "Pretty Poll": A Duke's girl servant courts a young man. Another man sees the girl and asks the Duke for her, but the Duke says, "No, she is courting already." But the girl tells this new suitor, "if you going to marry me I will lef' my lover an' come." The new suitor asks how that can be: "The Duke not going to allow it." The girl says she will manage it. She takes her old lover for a walk, distracts him, and throws him in a well. A parrot in a nearby tree sees everything and sings that it will take the news of the murder to the Duke. The girl sings, "Come, Pretty Poll, come! There is a house of gold an' silver before you sit 'pon tree." The parrot rejects the bribe: "Tree I barn, Tree I must stay till my time come to die." The parrot "fly from tree to tree... from house to house," reaches the Duke, and tells the tale. "[T]hem hear what Poll said, an' them catch the gal' an' chop off her head. An' Poll get good care." [fn.1]

Broadwood writes about Jekyll's "Pretty Poll," "This is ... the story of 'May Colvin' or 'The Outlandish Knight'. The tune 'Come, pretty Poll' here given is rather reminiscent of one traditional air to the ballad still sung in different parts of England... See 'The Outlandish Knight' in Songs of Northern England (Stokoe and Reay) for the type of tune referred to.... " Elsewhere, Broadwood refers to Child 68 for a similar story. [fn.2]

I hear no resemblance between Jekyll's and the Stokoe-Reay tune for "The Outlandish Knight" [fn.3]

Beckwith-Roberts has a similar song not directly connected to a story, "The Golden Cage": The bird sings "I brought a news to tell you ... Miss Chee Chee take you one dear love an' cast her into a well" Miss Chee Chee says, "Be quiet, I will make a golden cage and put you into it." The bird's reply is from Child 68, but with a different meaning: "No, no, no, no. Same me will do it to dear love too, you will do me the same." [fn.4]

Beckwith/Roberts and Roberts have a different Anansi cante fable and song, "Fine Waiting Boy": A gentleman and his servant, Collin, go for a horse and buggy drive. When they come to a well the master would have Collin get him some water. "Collin pitch him master in de well" and drives home. He tells the master's wife that the master has gone visiting and he will get the master in the buggy the next day. But a little bird sings "Fine waitin' boy. Throw him master into a well.... Collin no ben see da little bird up on tree so lóng." The master's wife sends for someone who could understand the bird, and says "go search de well, fin' de master body, an' go tak Collin hang him. [fn.5]

See "The Twa Sisters" [Child 10] discussion of Jekyll's "King Daniel," and "Little Musgrave and Lady Barnard" [Child 81] discussion of "Matty Gru," for Caribbean examples of the parrot introduced as messenger in other Child ballads. Child 81 also has Caribbean texts with parrot as messenger in three versions for Abrahams [fn.6] (though none for three of Beckwith's [fn.7]). The Jamaican texts I am classifying here as Child 68 raise more questions, for me, about Anansi story as Child ballad than those others.

For one thing, the inclusion of song in Anansi is does not mean that there is an original sung text.
For example, Jekyll's #26 "The Three Pigs" is very close to Halliwell's "The Story of the Three Little Pigs" [fn.8]; there is no singing in Halliwell, but in Jekyll the third pig sings a challenge to the wolf. You can also see the notes to "The Derby Ram" which illustrates how casually song is added to or lost from English song as Anansi cante fable.

How do the texts compare to Child 68?

Rationale for murder:- Child 68: infidelity of the victim; Jekyll: infidelity of the murderer; "The Golden Cage": murderer's jealousy of the victim; "Fine Waiting Boy": servant's resentfulness of master.

Sex of murderer and victim, respectively:-: Child 68: woman and man; Jekyll: woman and man; "The Golden Cage": woman and woman; "Fine Waiting Boy": man and man.

Bribery:- Child 68: golden cage is rejected because murderer is not to be trusted; Jekyll: golden cage is rejected because a free-born bird won't accept even a luxurious cage [but, at the end of the story, "Poll get good care"]; "The Golden Cage": golden cage is rejected because murderer is not to be trusted. "Fine Waiting Boy": no bribery attempt.

Penalty:- Child 68: A-C-H-J-K burning at the stake; Jekyll: beheading; "The Golden Cage": not stated; "Fine Waiting Boy": hanging

The common elements are murder by throwing in a well, and an unobserved bird observer reporting the murder. - BS

FOOTNOTES
[2] Broadwood, #31, p. 287, "Pretty Poll." In discussing another Jekyll cante fable Broadwood writes "Cf. the old ballads 'May Colvin' and 'Young Hunting.' In the latter the parrot reveals a murder. In both ballads the lady makes the same promises to the bird" (Broadwood, #3, p. 286, "King Daniel).

[3] I don't have Stoke and Reay so I am going by the tune in Bruce and Stokoe, which I take to be the same. See Bruce/Stokoe, pp. 48-50, "The Outlandish Knight"
[7] Beckwith, #1-#3 pp. 470-473, 480, "Little Musgrove"
[8] Halliwell, #55 pp. 37-41, "The Story of the Three Little Pigs"). As an example of the closeness to Halliwell, Jekyll has, "Pig say:- 'No, no, no! by the hair of my chinnychinchin.' Wolf say:- 'I will haff an' cuff an' will blow you house down.'"

Bibliography

• Abrahams: Roger D Abrahams, "Child Ballads in the West Indies: Familiar Fabulations, Creole Performances" inJournal of Folklore Research, Vol. XXIV, No. 2 (May-Aug 1987 (available online by JSTOR))
• Beckwith/Roberts: Martha Warren Beckwith and Helen Roberts,Jamaica Anansi Stories (New York: American Folklore Society, 1924 ("Digitized by Internet Archive"))
• Beckwith: Martha W Beckwith, "The English Ballad in Jamaica: a Note Upon the Origin of the Ballad Form" inPublications of the Modern Language Association [PMLA], Vol. XXXIXI, No. 2 (Jun 1924 (available online by JSTOR))
• Bruce/Stokoe: J. Collingwood Bruce and John Stokoe,Northumbrian Minstrelsy (Harboro: Folklore Associates, 1965 reprint of Society of Antiquities, 1882 ("Digitized by Internet Archive"))
• Fowler: David C. Fowler,A Literary History of the Popular Ballad, Duke University Press, 1968
• Jekyll: Walter Jekyll,Jamaican Song and Story (New York: Dover Publications, 1966 (Reprint of David Nutt, 1907))
• Roberts: Helen H Roberts, "A Study of Folk Song Variants Based on Field Work in Jamaica" inThe Journal of American Folklore, Vol. XXXVIII, No. 148 (Apr-Jun 1925 (available online by JSTOR))
• ===
Young Jean Lies Over the Ocean

DESCRIPTION: "Young Jean lies over the ocean, Young Jean lies over the sea, Young Ann lies just round the corner, Oh what liars these women can be."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1972 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: play party lie derivative

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 134, "(Young Jean lies over the ocean)" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "My Bonnie Lies over the Ocean" (presumed tune) and references there

File: SuSm134D

Young Jimmie Drummond

DESCRIPTION: The singer is Jimmie Drummond, well known, and quickly handcuffed and led off to jail. After a year he quickly changes his colors. But he will no longer betray his fellows. Whenever police snatch someone for stealing, they will have snatched him alone.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (recording, Jeannie Robertson)

KEYWORDS: captivity prison tinker

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice #24, pp. 153-154, "Jimmie Drummond" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2506 and 2157

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Choring Song" (theme)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Jimmie Drummond
Big Jimmie Drummond

NOTES [114 words]: While this song has references to plot, in the main it would seem to be a dance tune. Porter/Gower-Jeannie-Robertson-EmergentSingerTransformativeVoice report that the "Rev. John Skinner adapted words to the old strathspey tune, 'The Reel of Tullochgorum.'" Jeannie Robertson's version is not in Cant (Travellers' dialect). Porter and Gower also point out that in spite of several references in common (Jimmie Drummond's "going choring" and being in jail), Jeannie's "Young Jimmie Drummond" is distinct from versions of the "Choring Song" (McCST097) and carries a different melody. Roud lists variants by Jeannie in two places, lumping them with other songs: Roud #2157 and #2506. - DGE

File: RPG024

Young Johnson

DESCRIPTION: Johnson is accused of forging a bill, or his uncle's will. He is tried, convicted, and sentenced to be hanged. The ladies offer five or ten thousand pounds for his life but the jury cannot free him. At his death he bows and bids his companions farewell.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1845 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 11(1435))

KEYWORDS: crime execution trial death gallows-confession

FOUND IN: Britain(England(South))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Reeves-TheEverlastingCircle 142, "Young Johnson" (1 text)
Roud #12718
Young Johnstone [Child 88]

DESCRIPTION: Johnstone kills his love's brother, then seeks shelter with (successively his mother, his sister, and) his love. She hides him from his pursuers, whom she feeds while he rests. They leave and she goes to him. He kills her, probably in confusion. He dies.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1769 (Herd)

KEYWORDS: homicide love brother reunion family hiding

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord)) Ireland Canada(Mar)

REFERENCES (13 citations):
- Child 88, "Young Johnstone" (6 texts)
- Bronson 88, "Young Johnstone" (4 versions+2 in addenda)
- Bronson-SingingTraditionOfChildrensPopularBallads 88, "Young Johnstone" (3 versions: #2, #4, #6)
- Chambers-ScottishBallads, pp. 261-264, "Young Johnston" (1 text)
- Greig/Duncan8 1929, "Oh Did Ye See a Bloody Knight" (1 fragment)
- Lyle-Andrew-Crawfurd'sCollectionVolume1 5, "William and the Young Colonel" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Flanders-AncientBalladsTraditionallySungInNewEngland2, pp. 293, "Young Johnstone" (1 text, from "The Charms of Melody" rather than tradition)
- Mackenzie-BalladsAndSeaSongsFromNovaScotia 10, "Johnson and the Colonel" (1 text, 1 tune); "Johnson and Coldwell" (1 text) {Bronson's #4}
- Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 283-284, "Young Johnstone" (1 text)
- Grigson-PenguinBookOfBallads 60 "Young Johnstone" (1 text)
- DT 88, JOHNSTON*

Roud #56

NOTES [205 words]: Also collected and sung by Ellen Mitchell, "Johnston and the Young Colonel" (on Kevin and Ellen Mitchell, "Have a Drop Mair," Musical Tradition Records MTCD315-6 CD (2001)).

Greig/Duncan8 is a fragment of Child 88A verses 6 and 7.

The source for Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads is Finlay, who writes that "the present edition has been completed from two recited copies" with a couple of changes. - BS

David C. Fowler, A Literary History of the Popular Ballad, Duke University Press, 1968, pp. 290-291, noting several inconsistencies in this ballad, suggests that it was an "eighteenth century ballad composite," a gothic drama inspired by the Percy version of "Edward" [Child 13] -- which was itself a Percy rewrite; additional material came from "Lord Thomas and Fair Annet" [Child 73] and "Captain Car, or, Edom o Gordon" [Child 178]. And Fowler sees a relationship to 'George Paton's version of 'Sir Hugh,' and sent to Percy in 1768 or 1769....If we knew the identity of Paton's 'friend,' we might well know the composer of 'Young Johnstone.' Whatever his name, I am reasonably confident that he was a member of that remarkable social club in Edinburgh to which David Herd belonged, the 'Knights Companions of the Cape.'" - RBW

Last updated in version 5.2

File: CO88

---

Young Kate of Kilcummer

DESCRIPTION: The singer loves Kate of Kilcummer. He is sure he'd find none other like her. "As the rose to the bee, As the sunshine to summer, So welcome to me Is young Kate of Kilcummer.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1839 (Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland)
KEYWORDS: love lyric nonballad
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland, pp. 195-196, "Young Kate of Kilcummer" (1 text)
NOTES [84 words]: Croker-PopularSongsOfIreland: "Young Kate of Kilcummer is copied from a tale entitled 'The Rapparee,' printed in Bolster's 'Quarterly Magazine, No. IX.,' a Cork periodical publication, August 1828, where this ballad is said to be 'a favourite Irish song, which we have endeavoured to translate, preserving as much as possible the simplicity of the original." The Editor [Croker], however, does not recognize anything to induce him to credit this statement. He believes it to be an original composition." - BS

File: CrPS195

Young Kitty Lee (Letty Lee)

DESCRIPTION: A man sees "Young Kate." He is "shivering and shaking" and tells Kitty her kiss will cure him. She is eventually won over by his glib tongue. She says a husband may beat her, destroy all his earnings, or leave her but she agrees to marry anyway.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Peacock)
KEYWORDS: courting marriage dialog disease
FOUND IN: Canada(Mar,Newf)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Peacock, pp. 605-606, "Young Kitty Lee" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton-FolksongsFromSouthernNewBrunswick 28, "Letty Lee" (1 text, 1 tune)
ST Pea605 (Partial)
Roud #2282
File: Pea605

Young Ladies in Town

DESCRIPTION: "Young ladies in town, and those that live 'round, Wear none but your own country linen." Homemade clothes may not be as grand, but it avoids sending money to Britain. The ladies are advised that the young men will love them all the same

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1769 (in the "Boston Newsletter")
KEYWORDS: clothes patriotic commerce
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1767 - Passage of the Townshend Acts. Britain attempts to raise money from the colonies by imposing taxes on various products (lead, paint, glass, tea). The Americans responded by boycotting British goods (the taxes, except for that on tea, were removed in 1770).
FOUND IN: US
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 57-58, "Young Ladies in Town" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, YNGLADIE*
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Homespun Dress" (theme)
NOTES [279 words]: After the end of the Seven Years' War, the British government had been determined to make the American colonies pay for the troops stationed there. The first attempt had been Grenville's Stamp Act -- which was so hated and so unjust that it had to be repealed almost instantly. But England still needed the money. George III had tried to form a more reasonable government by bringing in William Pitt the Elder (1708-1778). But Pitt almost immediately was incapacitated, leaving the government in the hands of the inexperienced Duke of Grafton (1735-1811; he became Prime Minister in 1766) and Charles Townshend (1725-1767), Chancellor of the Exchequer and the government's primary representative in the House of Commons. Assessments of Townshend vary; Don Cook, in The Long Fuse, for instance, calls him a "loose cannon" and accuses him of setting his own interests ahead of the state's (p. 115) an says he...
"figured out nearly every way he could incite troubles with the Americans." On the flip side, he made major improvements in the administration of Ireland; a balanced assessment would say that he did both harm and good.

But, with respect to colonial relations, the Townshend Acts were a disaster. They were not as onerous as the Stamp Act, but they were definitely burdensome. Had the Stamp Act not come first, the colonists might have grumbled but complained. But the Stamp Act had precipitated opposition, and the Townshend Acts caused more grumbling -- the more so since, as with the Stamp Act, the colonies had not been consulted.

Townshend did not live to see the effects of his unfortunate measure, dying almost at once. The duties would be repealed in 1770. - RBW

File: SBoA057

Young Lady in the Bloom of Youth

DESCRIPTION: "There was a young lady in the bloom of youth, Her age was about sixteen, She's called by death...." Her mother and her friends and her older brother gather to mourn. They take her to her tomb. Hearers are reminded that they too must die.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Roberts-SangBranchSettlers)

KEYWORDS: death family burial

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Roberts-SangBranchSettlers, #34, "Young Lady in the Bloom of Youth" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #3398

File: Robe034

Young Lady Sat Down to Sleep, A

DESCRIPTION: "Here we go round the strawberry bush This cold and frosty morning." A girl sits down to sleep. She wants a boy to wake her. He writes his name and is called to wake her. She will marry him.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: c. 1830 (Newell Massachusetts fragment); 1883 (Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren)

KEYWORDS: courting nonballad playparty

FOUND IN: US(NE,So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):

Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 138, ("Here we go round the strawberry bush") (1 text; Scarborough is reprinting Newell's Texas text)

Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren, #160, "The Sleeping Beauty" (2 texts)

Roud #7889

NOTES [153 words]: I find it hard to imagine how Scarborough's version about a "strawberry bush" arose; strawberries don't grow on bushes. Nonetheless Newell-GamesAndSongsOfAmericanChildren also has a "strawberry bush" version. Of course, mulberries don't grow on bushes either, but a mulberry tree is a lot more bushy than a strawberry plant! Dolby-OrangesAndLemons, commenting about "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush" rather than this piece, suggests that the original may have been a blackberry bush. - RBW

Newell: "It would appear, from the character of the round, that various names are proposed to the sleeping girl, which she rejects until a satisfactory one is presented. At all events, this is the case in a Provençal game which we take to be of the same origin as ours.... We infer, ..., that the game, apparently so natural an invention, originally represented some form of the world-wide story of the 'Sleeping Beauty.'" - BS

Last updated in version 6.0

File: Newe160

Young Les Darcy

DESCRIPTION: The singer notes that everyone wants to roam. One who falls victim to this is boxer Les Darcy, who wants "to fight at the Golden Gate." (He goes to the U.S. and died), leaving his family to mourn.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1957
KEYWORDS: fight Australia death
HISTORICAL REFERENCES:
1895 - Birth of Les Darcy
May 24, 1917 - Death of Les Darcy in Memphis, Tennessee
FOUND IN: Australia
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Meredith/Anderson-FolkSongsOfAustralia, pp. 75-76, "Young Les Darcy" (1 text, 1 tune)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Les Darcy" (plot, subject)
NOTES [112 words]: Les Darcy was an Australian boxer of whom great things were expected. He did not live long, and so his major bouts were few, but the Australians made him one of their great heroes. When he died in 1917, the Americans gave the cause of death as pneumonia; Australians claim he was poisoned.

Two songs about Darcy are found in the tradition; this one, more literary, has eight lines per stanza and begins "We all get a craving to roam, Far from home, o'er the foam...." The other, based on "Way Down in Tennessee," begins, "In Maitland cemet'ry (or "Way down in Tennessee") lies poor Les Darcy...." For more on Darcy, see the notes to that song, indexed as "Les Darcy." - RBW

File: MA075

Young M'Tyre

DESCRIPTION: Nancy loves M'Tyre, her father's servant. Her father plans to transport M'Tyre. She gives him money and he escapes. She tells her father she will only marry M'Tyre. Father says she can call M'Tyre back. They marry and M'Tyre is made a lord.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: courting love marriage parting reunion father servant
FOUND IN: Canada(Newf)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 71, "Young M'Tyre" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2299
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Matt Hyland" (plot)
NOTES [29 words]: This is so close in plot to "Matt Hyland" (itself a piece of mysterious origin) that
I wonder if they mightn't be derived at several removes from the same lost original. - RBW

File: KaNew071

Young MacDonald

DESCRIPTION: "He is young and fair and handsome, he's my fancy late and early..." Chorus in Gaelic. Love song to the young MacDonald who was brought up in Glengarry, fought battles, and is now off to Colorado.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs)
KEYWORDS: love battle travel
FOUND IN: Canada(Ont)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs 54, "Young MacDonald" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #4536
NOTES [71 words]: [The version in Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs is from]
Mrs. A. Fraser of Lancaster, Ontario, who said she learned it from her brother-in-law, Mr. John A.
MacDonald. MacDonald is one of the commonest names in Ontario's Glengarry county.
The [version in Fowke/MacMillan-PenguinBookOfCanadianFolkSongs] has a mix of English and Gaelic lyrics, though the Gaelic has become too garbled to be correctly translated. - SL

File: FowM054
Young Maid's Love, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer loves a rich merchant's daughter, but her father arranges for him to be inducted into the navy. His ship wins a great victory at sea, and the prize money makes him rich. He returns home and is allowed to marry the girl.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1924 (Sam Henry collection)

KEYWORDS: love separation sailor navy reunion money marriage

FOUND IN: Ireland

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H58, p. 446, "Eliza/When I Landed in Glasgow" (1 text, 1 tune)
- OLochlainn-IrishStreetBallads 45, "The Young Maid's Love" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #3019

BROADSIDES:

NOTES [55 words]: Sam Henry theorizes that this song dates to the period of the Spanish Armada, because in his text the ship fights "twenty-two sail of Spaniards." The internal evidence opposes this; in the same text, the singer meets the girl outside Glasgow -- but at the time of the Armada, Scotland and England were still separate countries. - RBW

File: HHH058

Young Man Badly Walked, The

DESCRIPTION: The singer comes to Belfast and meets a girl. They stop for drinks. She takes him "home." He pays the landlady, planning to marry next day. He wakes alone, with no watch, chain, money, coat, or boots. A man throws him out. "Simple country lads," beware.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1989 (Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong)

KEYWORDS: love sex violence beauty drink theft whore

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong 30, "The Young Man Badly Walked" (1 text)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Gold Watch [Laws K41]" (plot) and references there
- cf. "The Reason Why" (plot)

NOTES [17 words]: Leyden-BelfastCityOfSong: "A song set in High Street and York Street [Belfast] in the late 1870s." - BS

File: Leyd030

Young Man Who Travelled Up and Down, The

DESCRIPTION: "Once there was a young man who travelled up and down... And they told me there that the wars were o'er." Various workers enter, are described, and declare what they will or won't do "till the wars are o'er."

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1915 (Cox)

KEYWORDS: drink worker war

FOUND IN: US(Ap)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Cox-FolkSongsSouth 172, "The Young Man Who Travelled Up and Down" (1 text)

Roud #139

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "When Jones's Ale Was New"

NOTES [43 words]: Cox speculates that this is an "imitation" of "Jones's Ale," in that both involve various people wandering in. As the chorus, form, setting, and characters are all different, however, I've agreed with Cox in listing this as a separate song. Roud lumps them. - RBW

File: JHCox172
Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn, The [Laws H13]

DESCRIPTION: A lazy young farmer will not hoe his corn, with the result that the corn is choked by weeds and destroyed by frost. When he goes courting, his suit is rejected because he wouldn't hoe his corn.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety)

KEYWORDS: farming courting rejection work

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MA,MW,NE,SE,So)

REFERENCES (33 citations):

Laws H13, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn"
Belden-BalladsSongsCollectedByMissourFolkloreSociety, p. 440, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text)
Randolph 441, "The Lazy Young Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
Eddy-BalladsAndSongsFromOhio 106, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text)
Stout-FolkloreFromIowa 68, pp. 91-92, "The Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text)
List-SingingAboutIt-FolkSongsInSouthernIndiana, pp. 170-172, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Brown/Belden/Hudson-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore3 216, "The Man Who Wouldn't Hoe His Corn" (1 text)
Brown/Schinhan-FrankCBrownCollectionNCFolklore5 216, "The Man Who Wouldn't Hoe His Corn" (1 tune plus a text excerpt)
Burton/Manning-EastTennesseeStateCollectionVol1, pp. 44-45, "Lazy Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
Moore/Moore-BalladsAndFolkSongsOfTheSouthwest 191, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Plow Corn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-1ed, pp. 219-221, "The Lazy Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, pp. 128-129, "The Lazy Man" (1 text, 1 tune)
Bronner/Eskin-FolksongAlivePart1 35, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Flanders/Brown-VermontFolkSongsAndBallads, pp. 74, "The Young Man Who Couldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text)
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, pp. 409-410, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text)
Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 73, pp. 200-201, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text)
Brewster-BalladsAndSongsOfIndiana 68, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe His Corn" (1 text)
McNeil-SouthernFolkBalladsVol1, pp. 164-165, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Sharp-EnglishFolkSongsFromSouthernAppalachians 182, "Harm Link" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cox-FolkSongsSouth 173, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text)
Boette-SingaHipsyDoodle, pp. 73-74, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Bush-FSofCentralWestVirginiaVol2, pp. 24-25, "Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Scott-TheBalladOfAmerica, pp. 46-47, "The Young Man Who Couldn't Hoe Corn (The Lazy Man)" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-FolkSongsUSA 66, "The Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (1 text, 1 tune)
Lomax/Lomax-OurSingingCountry, pp. 286-187, "Georgia Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Dunson/Raim/Asch-AnthologyOfAmericanFolkMusic, p. 38 "A Lazy Farmer Boy" (1 text, 1 tune)
Botkin-TreasuryOfAmericanFolklore, pp. 874, "Young Man Who Wouldn't How Corn" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 636, HOECORN
Roud #438

RECORDINGS:
Buster Carter & Preston Young, "A Lazy Farmer Boy" (Columbia 15702-D, 1931; on AAFM1, BefBlues3)
Edna & Jean Ritchie, "The Young Man That Wouldn't Raise Corn" (on Ritchie03)
Pete Seeger, "Young Man Who Wouldn't Hoe Corn" (on GrowOn3) (on PeteSeeger07, Young Man's Dream, The

DESCRIPTION: Singer dreams of Granu who says "Relate most true what you did view when you fought for liberty." She shows him "the heroes that have bled for the sake of liberty." St Patrick addresses the crowd: "Your Cross maintain ... It will lead you to paradise"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1862 (broadside, Bodleian Harding B 13(10)); first half 19C (Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion)

KEYWORDS: Ireland dream nonballad patriotic religious

FOUND IN:

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Zimmerman-SongsOfIrishRebellion 28, "The Young Man's Dream" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #V15728

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Harding B 13(10), "Young Man's Dream" ("It happened one night as I lay on my bed"), J.O. Bebbington (Manchester), 1858-1861; also Harding B 11(3610), 2806 c.17(378)[some words illegible], "Young Man's Dream"

NOTES [56 words]: From National Library of Scotland commentary on broadside NLScotland RB.m.143(013), "Shiel's Rights of Man": "Granua (also spelt Grainne). The daughter of the mythical Irish warrior and folk hero, Finn McCool, Granua is also used as a symbol for Ireland - much like the figure of Britannia is employed as a symbol for Great Britain." - BS

Last updated in version 5.1

File: Zimm028

---

Young Man's Lamentation, The

DESCRIPTION: An unconstant lover is worse than a thief." The singer would have married her but "she's not constant to any." "Like a ship on the ocean I am tost too and fro." He hopes wine will make him jolly. "She is mistaken if she think that I'll mourn"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: before 1697 (broadside, Bodleian Douce Ballads 2(261b))

KEYWORDS: courting infidelity nonballad

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan6 1697, "Now My Love's Forsaken Me" (1 fragment, 1 tune)

Roud #6823

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Douce Ballads 2(261b)[a few verses are barely legible; see notes for legible copy], "The Young-Mans Lamentation" ("Meeting's a pleasure, but parting's a grief"), P. Brooksby (London), 1683-1696

CROSS-REFERENCES:

cf. "Farewell He" (theme) and references there

NOTES [957 words]: Greig/Duncan6 is a fragment; broadside Bodleian Douce Ballads 2(261b) is the basis for the description.

The Greig/Duncan6 fragment is "Now my love's forsaken me, for him he thinks I'll mourn. But he is quite mistaken, for I'll do my own turn. I'll go as saucy by him as he's fit to do by me, And I'll get another sweetheart, and that he soon shall see." In the few places I have found that, or similar verses, in the US it always goes with "The cuckoo she's a pretty bird ...." See, for example, Sharp, English Folk Songs from the Southern Appalachians, Vol II, p. 177 [confirmed by Steve Gardham], both Hudson and Belden [confirmed by RBW and indexed here with "On Top of Old Smoky"], Ritchie-SingingFamilyOfTheCumberlands [indexed here with "The Cuckoo"] and Thomas and Leeder, The Singin' Gatherin'(1939), p. 25. Most US versions of "The Cuckoo" do not have the Greig/Duncan6 verse. I posted a question to the Ballad List asking whether anyone had seen the pair of verses linked outside the US and where else the "Now my love's forsaken me" verse occurred. I have the following answer from Steve Gardham:

"The verse occurs in no British versions of the Cuckoo. British versions are pretty much based on the broadside 'The Forsaken Nymph'.

Oscar Brand's version in Reprints from Sing Out vol4 p42 has the stanza. Cox p425 has a whisper of it. Hudson has a Mississippi full stanza tagged onto the end of the standard 4-stantzas of the Cuckoo. As mentioned Sharp in EFSSA vol2 has the stanza only in the first version of the 13 given.

"Just checked and this stanza dates back to the 17th century. It is the last stanza in 'The Young-Man's Lamentation', the first stanza being the 'Meeting is a Pleasure' stanza. It obviously is related to the early versions of 'Farewell He/She'. See Bodleian website Douce Ballads 2 (261b) although the image is very poor. (I have a full transcription courtesy of Mike Heaney of the Bodl)

Tho' I am forsaken yet she is forsworn,
Yet she is mistaken if she think that I'll mourn,
I'll set as slightly by her as e'er she did me,
And for ever will deny her, let her go, farewell she.

"Note the change of gender which is common in these lover's laments.

"Several possibilities present themselves as to the evolutions of American variants.

1) Some American variants must be based on variants older than the late 18th century standard broadside version.

2) The stanza has become attached to other songs like 'Farewell He' and become attached to 'The Cuckoo' in America.

"As I'm sure you are all aware, the numerous 'Lover's Laments' borrow stanzas from each other frequently and have done so from the earliest times, probably pre 17thc. Martin Parker occasionally uses them in his ballads of the 17thc."

Steve's Cox reference, Cox 143, "A Forsaken Lover," is a perfect US -- West Virginia, in this case -- example. The final two verses are "The cuckoo is a pretty bird ...." and "Forsaken, forsaken ....," respectively.

For another example see Arthur Palmer Hudson, "Ballads and Songs from Mississippi" in The Journal of American Folklore, Vol. XXXIX, No. 152 (Apr 1926 (available online by JSTOR)), #37 p. 149, "Jimmy."

For a counter-example see G.L. Kittredge, editor, "Ballads and Songs" in The Journal of American Folklore, Vol. XXX, No. 117 (Jul 1917 (available online by JSTOR)), pp. 349-351, "An Inconstant Lover" which includes some American texts, including one without the cuckoo. My impression, though, is that in the case where the cuckoo is absent it has just been forgotten.

For a discussion of "The Young-man's Lamentation," including the complete text of broadside Bodleian Douce Ballads 2(261b), see Steve Gardham, "The Young-Man's Lamentation," article 17 in the collection "A Veritable Dungheap" at the Musical Traditions site. The article includes comments on the travels of verses, and parts of verses, to other songs [like "The Cuckoo].

The first verse is "Meeting's a pleasure But parting's a grief, An Unconstant Lover Is worse than a Thief; A Thief he can Rob me, And take what I have, But an Unconstant Lover Will bring me to the grave." Nevertheless, the remaining ten verses are not associated with "On Top of Old Smoky," unless you include Greig/Duncan6, "Lamentation"'s last verse. I could not see my way clear to lumping the Greig/Duncan6 verse with "The Cuckoo" since it has not been found that way outside the US, nor with "On Top of Old Smoky," since it seems almost always to have been found attached to "The cuckoo she's a pretty bird ...." as an add-on.

"The Fair Damsel" - from Ruth Ann Musick, "The Old Album of William A. Larkin" in The Journal of American Folklore, Vol. LX, No. 237 (Jul 1947 (available online by JSTOR)), #25 pp. 229-230 - floats "never place your affections on a green willow tree" and "if I am forsaken oh he is foresworn" onto the end of a ballad having nothing to do with either "The Cuckoo" or "Old Smokey": a young man abandons his sweetheart in favor of a rich widow and is turned away by his old sweetheart when he calls on her, saying "all though I am married I will visit you still."

Similarly, "Forsaken" - from E.C. Perrow, "Songs and Rhymes from the South" in The Journal of American Folklore, Vol. XXVIII, No. 108 (Apr 1915 (available online by JSTOR)), #25 pp. 169-170 - floats "never place your affections on a green willow tree" and "if I am forsaken oh he is foresworn" after a verse in which the singer's sweetheart is "out on the water, he'll sink or he'll swim" and she says "if he can live without me, I can live without him." That is similar to "Forsaken" from G.L. Kittredge (cited above), pp. 351-352 - but without either "never place your affections on a green willow tree" and "if I am forsaken oh he is foresworn." - BS

Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD61144
Young Man's Wish, The
DESCRIPTION: "If I could but attain my wish," the singer would be content with simple joys. "I'll from each folly strive to fly Each virtue to attain I'll try, And live as I would die"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1846 (Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland)
KEYWORDS: virtue nonballad recitation
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Dixon-AncientPoemsBalladsSongsOfThePeasantryOfEngland, Poem #3, pp. 10-12, "The Young Man's Wish" (1 text)
Bell-Combined-EarlyBallads-CustomsBalladsSongsPeasantryEngland, pp. 242-244, "The Young Man's Wish" (1 text)
Roud #V40675
File: DixP003

Young Mary from Kilmore
DESCRIPTION: John's father promises him houses and land, and approves of his proposal to Mary. She refuses him: her parents are opposed, or she would rather ramble. He hears that three men from Rosslea would "banish" him from Rosslea. He says "she has deceived me"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday)
KEYWORDS: courting rejection home
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday 18, pp. 42,109,164, "Young Mary from Kilmore" (2 texts, 1 tune)
Roud #2918
NOTES [34 words]: Morton/Maguire-ComeDayGoDayGodSendSunday: The singer's name may be John O'Brien or John Smith. The three "heroes" that might banish him -- apparently on Mary's behalf -- are Gunn, McIlroy and Maguire.
- BS
File: MoMa018

Young Men They'll Dress Up, The
DESCRIPTION: Young men court till midnight and "sleep in the barn" when the girls would have them go home. The singer would stay single: "no woman for to bawl and no children to squall, How happy is the young man that's got none at all"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed)
KEYWORDS: courting nonballad baby bachelor rake
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Owens-TexasFolkSongs-2ed, p. 115, "The Young Men They'll Dress Up" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: Ow2E115

Young Men's Song, The
DESCRIPTION: "And now, young man, I s'pose you're mad, But I'm not sorry, I am glad." The singer tells of how hard men work for poor reward -- and "off to meeting they do go On purpose for to make a show." The purpose is to be seen by the girls
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Barry collection MS, according to Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster)
KEYWORDS: work nonballad clothes
FOUND IN: US(NE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 178-180, "The Young Men's Young Munro

DESCRIPTION: A girl sings about Charlie Munro of the Forty-Second Highlanders, whom she loves. She describes his clothes, his appearance ("everything so neat about him," "that handsome fellow") If she had an Indian treasure she would give it to the 42nd for his sake.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig/Duncan7)

KEYWORDS: love clothes nonballad soldier

FOUND IN: Canada(Ont) Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Greig/D Duncan7 1339, "Young Munro" (2 fragments, 1 tune)
- Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario 29, "Young Munro" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #2316

CROSS-REFERENCES:
- cf. "Wha Saw the Forty-Second" (subject: 42nd Highlanders or Black Watch) and references there

NOTES [57 words]: Fowke-TraditionalSingersAndSongsFromOntario, p. 177: "This unusual song does not seem to have been reported before in anything like this form, although two Nova Scotia songs have the same melody and refrain."

Greig/Duncan7: "Mrs Gillespie, learnt from her father forty-five years ago; learnt by him about the thirties or forties. Noted 1905." - BS

Last updated in version 2.6

File: GrD71339

---

Young Oysterman, The (The Tall Young Oysterman)

DESCRIPTION: "It was a tall young oysterman lived by the river-side, His shop was just upon the bank, his boat was on the tide." He sees a girl across the river and swims to join her. Her father chases him off. She faints, he cramps, they die and become mermaids

AUTHOR: Words: Oliver Wendell Holmes

EARLIEST DATE: 1845? (Forget-Me-Not Songster)

KEYWORDS: love beauty courting death mermaid/man

FOUND IN: US(So)

REFERENCES (2 citations):
- Hudson-FolkTunesFromMississippi 23, "The Young Oysterman" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Forget-Me-Not-Songster, pp. 207-208, "Tall Young Oysterman" (1 text)

Roud #5768

File: HuMT023

---

Young Peggy [Child 298]

DESCRIPTION: Young Peggy and Jamie have been seen together. When her parents call him rogue and loon, she vows to rest in his arms forever. The lovers agree to run off in the middle of the night. Her father awakes in the night and pursues, but they are already married

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1827 (Kinloch)

KEYWORDS: courting father mother marriage elopement love

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (5 citations):
- Child 298, "Young Peggy" (1 text)
- Bronson 298, "Young Peggy" (1 version)
- Leach-TheBalladBook, pp. 683-684, "Young Peggy" (1 text)
- Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, p. 63, "Young Peggy" (1 text)
- DT 298, YNGPEGGY

Roud #3875

NOTES [93 words]: There are several curious notes about the history of this ballad. Bronson's sole tune is from Christie, and he thinks it fiddled with. Plus Emily Lyle says on p. 225 of Fairies and Folk: Approaches to the Scottish Ballad Tradition, (Wissenschaftlicher Verlag Trier, 2007) that Child had access to a second text, from the Murison collection, but did not print it. Perhaps this is simply because he was so close to the end of his project that he did not bother, but it makes me wonder if he had additional thoughts on this ballad which he did not record. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2

File: C298

Young People, Take Warning

DESCRIPTION: "Young People all, attention give And hear what I shall say, I wish your soul with Christ to live In everlasting day." The singer warns against the pleasures of the flesh and tells of the dangers of Hell. He reminds them that death is coming

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1920

KEYWORDS: religious warning

FOUND IN: US(S0)

REFERENCES (1 citation):

Randolph 653, "Young People, Take Warning" (1 text, 1 tune)

Roud #7574

CROSS-REFERENCES:

ct. "The Blind Man's Regret" (lyrics)

NOTES [49 words]: Although this shares stanzas with "The Blind Man's Regret," they don't really seem to be the same song. The latter describes how the blind man went blind; this song seems a pure warning. It seems more likely that the verses floated. At the very least, it's uncertain enough that we split. - RBW

File: R653

Young Roger of the Mill

DESCRIPTION: Roger, a ploughman, courts Nell. She says she prefers to marry a farmer's son. He prepares to leave, saying he has "other fish to fry": Joan loves him. Nell says she has 50 shillings; Joan has none. Roger has 40. They agree to marry and buy a cow.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1749 (The Robin, according to Kidson-TraditionalTunes); 1750 (Ramsay)

KEYWORDS: courting marriage rejection farming money

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North))

REFERENCES (5 citations):

Logan-APedlarsPack, pp. 343-344, "Young Roger of the Mill" (1 text)

Kidson-TraditionalTunes, pp. 66-68, "Young Roger of the Valley" (1 text, 1 tune)

Frank Kidson, Traditional Tunes, (Oxford, 1891), pp. 66-68, "Young Roger of the Valley" (1 text, 1 tune) [Not yet indexed as Kidson-TraditionalTunes pp. 66-68]

Charles Read Beckwith, "Mummers' Wooing Plays in England" in Modern Philology, Vol. XXI, No. 3 (Feb 1924 (available online by JSTOR)), pp. 262-268, especially ll. 105-119, "Swinderby 12/31/1842" ("Madam if thoug [sic] will consent to marry") (1 text)

ST Log343 (Partial)

Roud #590

BROADSIDES:

Bodleian, Harding B 28(194), "Young Roger of the Mill" ("Young Roger of the mill, one morning very soon"), W. Armstrong (Liverpool), 1820-1824

NOTES [69 words]: Logan-APedlarsPack: "This also bears the imprint of W. Armstrong, Liverpool.

The Logan text is almost identical to broadside Bodleian Harding B 28(194). The Beckwith text is an example of a song of courting and rejection inserted into a mummers' "wooing" or "plough" play. In the Beckwith text the song ends with Roger's rejection and decision to leave. For other examples and some discussion see "Sweet Moll." - BS

Last updated in version 3.0

File: Log343
Young Ronald [Child 304]
DESCRIPTION: Young Ronald loves the king's daughter. She says she can only obey her father's will. The king offers his daughter and great wealth to anyone who can slay a six-headed giant. Ronald slays the giant "wi ae sweep o his hand" and wins the princess
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1828 (Buchan)
KEYWORDS: royalty monster love courting death marriage
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Child 304, "Young Ronald" (1 text)
Roud #3914
NOTES [41 words]: Child's comments on this ballad amount to little more than an extended snort of disgust. He certainly has his point, but there may be folk elements in the tale; at least, it reminds me (rather loosely) of the Welsh tale of Culhwch and Olwen. - RBW
File: C304

Young Sailor Bold (I), The (The Rich Merchant's Daughter) [Laws M19]
DESCRIPTION: The merchant threatens his daughter's lover with death. She dresses as a sailor to warn him of the danger, and promises to go away with him. Her father meets her and kills her by mistake. He discovers the mistake and kills himself; the lover dies of grief
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1930 (Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland)
KEYWORDS: love death exile suicide disguise homicide cross-dressing
FOUND IN: US(MA,MW) Canada(Mar,Newf) Britain(England(South))
REFERENCES (8 citations):
Laws M19, "The Young Sailor Bold I (The Rich Merchant's Daughter)"
Cazden/Haufrecht/Studer-FolkSongsOfTheCatskills 59, "The Rich Merchant" (1 text, 1 tune)
Thompson-BodyBootsAndBritches-NewYorkStateFolktales, p. 392, "The London Maid and Boy" (1 text)
Copper-SongsAndSouthernBreezes, pp. 194-195, "Rich Merchant and his Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
Creighton/Senior-TraditionalSongsOfNovaScotia, pp. 218-220, "Willie" (1 text plus 2 fragments, 3 tunes)
Karpeles-FolkSongsFromNewfoundland 72, "The Rich Merchant's Daughter" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT 432, RCHMRCH*
Roud #548
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Reuben Wright and Phoebe Brown" (plot)
File: LM19

Young Sea Prentice, The
DESCRIPTION: "I was a young sea-prentice bound, Bound by indenture, And fain I would go seek my love, If I only dared to venture"
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan8)
KEYWORDS: love apprentice sailor
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Greig/Duncan8 1758, "The Young Sea Prentice" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Roud #13135
NOTES [11 words]: The current description is all of the Greig/Duncan8 fragment. - BS
Last updated in version 2.5
File: GrD81758
Young Shepherd (I), The

DESCRIPTION: A shepherd courts "a rich merchant's daughter." Her father shoots the shepherd. She finds him dying. She puts on his hat and plaid and keeps his sheep; "her father shall die For the loss of his daughter and the murder besides"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1954 (Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs)

KEYWORDS: love homicide cross-dressing dying sheep father shepherd

FOUND IN: Canada(Mar) Britain(England(North),Scotland)

REFERENCES (6 citations):
- Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 108, "The Young Shepherd" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 104-105,255, "The Shepherd" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Ives-21FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland, pp. 31-32,83, "The Shepherd" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #103, p. 1, "The Squire's Daughter" (1 text)
- Greig/Duncan2 223, "The Unfortunate Shepherdess" (3 texts, 1 tune)
- Hamer-GreenGroves, pp. 64-65, "The Wandering Shepherdess" (1 text, 1 tune)
- Roud #1151

BROADSIDES:
- Murray, Mu23-y1:046, "The Unfortunate Shepherdess," James Lindsay Jr. (Glasgow), 19C

ALTERNATE TITLES:
- In the County of Exeter

NOTES [42 words]: Greig: "This pastoral ditty seems to hail originally from England, and has likely found its way north per some broadside."

Ives-DriveDullCareAway-PrinceEdwardIsland and Ives-21FolksongsFromPrinceEdwardIsland are the same July 14, 1963 performance. - BS

Last updated in version 5.0

File: CrMa108

Young Strongbow

DESCRIPTION: "To Dartmouth Scientific Halls In olden times there came" a man known as Strongbow, who wishes to learn the "white man's" wisdom. He learns well, but then comes a conflict between Indians and Whites. The pronouns in the final verses are confusing

AUTHOR: Nathaniel Waugh (source: Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster)

EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster)

KEYWORDS: Indians(Am.) battle war

FOUND IN: US(NE)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
- Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster, pp. 210-212, "Young Strongbow" (1 reconstructed text plus parts of the traditional version, 1 tune)
- ST FING210 (Partial)
- Roud #4669

NOTES [66 words]: I strongly suspect this is based on some historical event, but the notes in Flanders/Ballard/Brown/Barry-NewGreenMountainSongster are no help. The text in the book is so unclear in its pronouns that I'm not ever sure, at the end, which side Strongbow fights on or who takes whom captive. So I'm not going to try to guess what lies behind the song. This even though the author is allegedly known. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.0

File: FING210

Young Susan (I)

DESCRIPTION: Susan joins the Royal Navy to follow Willie "where he was called And face his mortal enemies on board of a man o' war." She is slightly wounded by cannon fire. He goes to help and she reveals herself. They are married when they reach England.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1891 (Kidson-TraditionalTunes)

KEYWORDS: war love marriage cross-dressing sea ship injury sailor

FOUND IN: Britain(England(North),Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (3 citations):
Young Teetotaller, The

DESCRIPTION: "I am a young teetotaller, And though but six year old, Within my heart there beats A heart as true as gold." The child's mother, father, siblings "All to their pledge keep true." Even their pets reject liquor. Rejecting liquor brings happiness
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ)
KEYWORDS: drink political nonballad New Zealand
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Bailey/Roth-ShantiesByTheWay-NZ, p. 97, "The Young Teetotaller" (1 text)
File: BaRo097

Young Virgin, A

DESCRIPTION: "I am a young virgin just come on board...." The prosperous, available girl is courted by various suitors. Merchant, doctor, apothecary, etc. offer their skills to gain her hand; she rejects each. She gives her love to a sailor.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1817 (Journal from the Herald)
KEYWORDS: love courting sailor worker humorous
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Huntington-SongsTheWhalemenSang, pp. 100-102, "A Young Virgin" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #2034
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "My Thing Is My Own" (theme)
cf. "I'll Not Marry at All" (theme)
NOTES [21 words]: This really, really reminds me of "My Thing Is My Own." I don't think there is kinship, but I suspect a common inspiration. - RBW
File: SWMS100

Young Volunteer, The

DESCRIPTION: "Our flag is unfurled and our arms flash bright, As the sun wades up the sky." The new soldier bids his sweetheart goodbye. He offers "three cheers for that flag and our country too, And the girls we leave behind."
AUTHOR: John Hill Hewitt (source: Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar)
EARLIEST DATE: 1863 (sheet music published by J. C. Schreiner & Son, according to Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar)
KEYWORDS: soldier Civilwar love separation
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Silber-SongsOfTheCivilWar, pp. 84-86, "The Young Volunteer" (1 text, 1 tune)
File: SCWF084
Young Voyageur, The

DESCRIPTION: "From the wilds of the North comes the young voyageur." His canoe is laden with furs, and there's a song on his lips. Ch.: "Gladsome and free, little cares he, For there's joy in the heart of the young voyageur." That's it.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1947 (Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs)

KEYWORDS: worker nonballad clothes travel

FOUND IN: Fireside-Book-of-Folk-Songs, p. 36, "The Young Voyageur" (1 short text, 1 tune)

NOTES [54 words]: This barely qualifies as a fragment. There are hints in online discussions that it is either derived from a children's book or the inspiration for one. - PJS

To this compare "Where the Wattles Are Blooming (Holiday Song)." Perhaps there is a common source for both? This is nagging at me, but I can't place the source. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.0

File: Fire036

Young Waters [Child 94]

DESCRIPTION: Because the queen has admitted that Young Waters has the fairest face of all the lords and lairds and knights she's seen, the king has him beheaded.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1765 (Percy)

KEYWORDS: beauty death execution

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland)

REFERENCES (8 citations):

Child 94, "Young Waters" (2 texts)
Bronson 94, "Young Waters" (1 version)
Percy/Wheatley-ReliquesOfAncientEnglishPoetry II, pp. 228-231, "Young Waters" (1 text)
Chambers-ScottishBallads, pp. 26-30, "Young Waters" (1 text)
Buchan/Moreira-TheGlenbuchatBallads, pp. 95-96, "Young Waters" (1 text)
Quiller-Couch-OxfordBookOfBallads 82, "Young Waters" (1 text)
Gummere-OldEnglishBallads, pp. 156-158+334, "Young Waters" (1 text)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishBallads, pp. 17-18, "Young Waters" (1 text)

ST C094 (Full)

Roud #2860

NOTES [181 words]: Various suggestions have been offered for the identity of Young Waters. Percy suggested none other than the Bonny Earl of Murray, while Buchan offered one David Graham of Fintray (executed 1592). These and all other suggestions must be labelled simply, "Possible, but not really likely."

Although Bronson reports a tune, he notes, "It cannot be proved that this ballad was ever traditionally sung in Scots or English." The source of the tune is dubious, and Bronson has some cutting remarks about the stanzas of the English-language texts (though there is little doubt that the story exists in traditional forms in other languages -- indeed, the idea is not far from the traditional notion that Eleanor of Aquitaine had Rosamund Clifford poisoned).

Child was also suspicious of the Buchan version, printing it "for much the same reason that thieves are photographed." David C. Fowler, A Literary History of the Popular Ballad, Duke University Press, 1968, pp. 242-243, also considers it a modern fix-up, suggesting "The Bonny Earl of Murray" [Child 181] as a possible inspiration. - RBW

Last updated in version 5.1

File: C094

Youpe! Youpe! Sur la Rivière!

DESCRIPTION: French: "Youpe! Youpe! sur la riviere, Vous ne m'entendez guere." The singer and Francois call upon Gauthier; they visit his girlfriend Delima. She rejects him as untrue; "You tell your little Jeremie the same things." The friends leave uproariously

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1865
Your Dog Love My Dog

DESCRIPTION: Allegory about racial conflict: dogs of different colors get along and love one another. "I'm talkin' 'bout a coon dog, and I'm talkin' 'bout a rabbit dog." "All them dogs, all them dogs." "You and me, gonna be so happy, sit under the apple tree."

AUTHOR: James Bevel

EARLIEST DATE: 1964 (recording, Nashville Quartet)

LONG DESCRIPTION: Song, in an allegory about racial conflict, points out that dogs of different colors get along and love one another. "I'm talkin' 'bout a coon dog, and I'm talkin' 'bout a rabbit dog." "All them dogs, all them dogs." "You and me, gonna be so happy, sit under the apple tree."

KEYWORDS: hate love colors animal dog Black(s) nonballad discrimination

FOUND IN: US(SE)

RECORDINGS:
Nashville Quartet "Your Dog Loves My Dog" (on SingFreeCD)
SNCC Freedom Singers, "Dogs" (on VoicesCiv)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Dog Dog

NOTES [56 words]: In order to raise funds for the movement, civil rights groups like SNCC and CORE took a leaf from traditionally black colleges, and formed singing groups which toured the country, giving concerts that raised money for their organizations.

James Bevel was an influential leader in the African-American civil rights movement in the South. - PJS

Last updated in version 3.5

File: RcYrDogM

Your Feet Strike Zion

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Love is the way (x2), Is the way to get to Heaven, By faith and humble prayer." Verse: "Dear sister (brother, father, ...), Your feet strike Zion, The lamps are lighted on you, I bid old hell a long farewell"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1893 (Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious

FOUND IN: West Indies(Bahamas)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories 9, "Dear Sister, Yi Feet Strike Zion" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [12 words]: The description is based on the Edwards-BahamaSongsAndStories text. - BS

Last updated in version 4.2

File: Edwa009

Your Fingers Are Nimble

DESCRIPTION: Jack says to Jeannie: the ewes are not free so you'd better milk me. Jeannie: I never milked a ram; I won't "for fear of a lamb" until we are married when I'd milk you dry. When they marry he pleases her so well but she can't milk him dry.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1914 (Greig/Duncan7)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Jack says to Jeannie: the ewes are not free so you'd better milk me.
Jeannie: I never milked a ram; I won't "for fear of a lamb" until we are married when I'd milk you dry. When they marry he pleases her so well but she can't milk him dry. Afterwards she sends him to the Highlands amongst the "dry cattle."
KEYWORDS: courting marriage sex husband wife shepherd love seduction farming sex
FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Greig/Duncan7 1417, "Your Fingers Are Nimble" (1 text)
Roud #7157
NOTES [18 words]: Porter and Gower note that the tune is much older, but even then associated with a bawdy song (p. 216). - DGE
Last updated in version 5.3
File: GrD71417

Your Long Journey

DESCRIPTION: Singer tells loved one that they must now part; the singer is torn with grief, but they will eventually "walk hand in hand/As one in heaven in the family of God." Cho: "Oh my darling, my darling/My heart breaks as you take your long journey"

AUTHOR: Doc & Rosa Lee Watson
EARLIEST DATE: 1962 (recorded by authors)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer tells loved one that although God has given them years of happiness together, they must now part; as the angels come, the singer is torn with grief, anticipating the coming years without him/her, but they will eventually "walk hand in hand/As one in heaven in the family of God". Chorus: "Oh my darling, my darling/My heart breaks as you take your long journey"

KEYWORDS: grief loneliness farewell parting death dying nonballad religious family husband wife
FOUND IN: US
RECORDINGS:
Doc & Rosa Lee Watson, "Your Long Journey" (on Watson01)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Long Journey
NOTES [34 words]: Although this song is not traditional, and not -- quite -- a ballad, I include it here because of its enduring popularity in the folk revival, which may indicate that it is entering a new oral tradition. - PJS
File: RcDWLoJo

Youth That Belonged to Milltown, The

DESCRIPTION: Pat meets John Bull in London and mentions Robert Emmet. John Bull reminds Pat of English victories over Russians, Zulus, and Napoleon. Rather than challenging English control of, or leaving, Ireland, says John Bull, Pat should stay home and be contented.

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1956 (OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin)
LONG DESCRIPTION: Pat from Milltown, Kerry meets John Bull in London. John Bull asks if Pat is one of "those Fenians we had in the year '64" Pat says "don't speak about Fenians... but remember the last words of [Robert] Emmet" John Bull recites how the British defeated the Russians, Zulus, and Napoleon." Pat asks "who is the right owner Of the land where the shamrock do grow... William O'Brien is our leader" John Bull says Pat has strayed from his country "like wild geese you do go away to America, New York and New Zealand." You should stay home and "be contented"

KEYWORDS: war home rambling travel England Ireland dialog patriotic
FOUND IN: Ireland
REFERENCES (1 citation):
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 181, "The Youth That Belonged to Milltown" (2 texts)
Roud #16257
NOTES [89 words]: The Zulu War (1879) and William O'Brien (1852-1928, and political agitator beginning 1883, per Wikipedia "William O'Brien") would put an early date for this song in the 1880s.
There are other songs in which Pat meets John Bull and they discuss politics. See, for example, Wehmans's [Universal Songster] Collection of 93 Songs No. 13 (New York, 1886, digitized by Internet Archive), p. 26, "John Bull" and Bodleian, Harding B 25(978), "John Bull and Paddy Bull" ("Says John Bull to Paddy what's all this hub-bub"), unknown, no date. - BS

Last updated in version 3.2
File: OCC181

Yowe Lamb, The (Ca' the Yowes; Lovely Molly)

DESCRIPTION: Molly agrees to marry Willie if her father consents. Willie asks the father for a "yowe lamb" to start a flock. Her father consents and tells Willie to "choose a yowe lamb." Willie chooses Molly. Her father is upset by the trick, but allows the match
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (Ford); the Burns version is #264 in the _Scots Musical Museum_
KEYWORDS: love marriage father trick
FOUND IN: Ireland Britain(Scotland(Aber,Bord)) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (10 citations):
Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland 124, "Ca the Yowes to the Knowes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, p. 466, "Ca' the Yowes" (1 text)
Ford-VagabondSongsAndBalladsOfScotland, pp. 187-188, "Lovely Molly" (1 text, 1 tune)
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #50, pp. 1-2, "Lovely Mallie" (2 texts)
Greig/Duncan5 1014, "Ca' the Yowes to the Knowes" (7 texts, 4 tunes)
Henry/Huntingdon/Herrmann-SamHenrysSongsOfThePeople H175, p. 470, "The Yowe Lamb" (1 text, 1 tune)
OCroinin/Cronin-TheSongsOfElizabethCronin 85, "Lovely Molly" (1 fragment, 1 tune)
Creighton-MaritimeFolkSongs, p. 46, "Ca' the Ewes Unto the Knowes" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, CALEWE3 *
ADDITIONAL: James Johnson, Editor, _The Scots Musical Museum_ [1853 edition], volume III, #264, p. 273, "Ca the eves to the knowes" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #857
RECORDINGS:
Togo Crawford, "Ca the Yowes" (on FSBFTX13)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "The Waukin' o' the Claes" (tune, per Greig/Duncan5)
ALTERNATE TITLES:
Lovely Mollie
NOTES [374 words]: This is apparently the original of the Burns song "Ca' the Ewes to the Knowes," but he changed it so substantially that they must be considered separate songs, and the reader must be careful to distinguish. - RBW
And despite the title, Kennedy-FolksongsOfBritainAndIreland's version really is "The Yowe Lamb."
-PJS
Greig comments on the degree to which his versions differ. "Variation in fact is inevitable; but when it proceeds very far the operation of ordinary and recognized principles will hardly account for it, and we are driven to surmise that there are in such cases special circumstances connected with the origin and history of the song or ballad which if known would greatly help to account for the situation." The versions share two verses and a few other lines so the versions do not seem so different to me:
Mallie, on the way to meeting her shepherd father, meets Jackie. He comments that they would not be able to talk if her father were present. They go to her father. Jackie asks her father for "a ewe lamb to raise a new stock, o' the best may she be." Father says Jackie is "Freely as welcome as any other man" to choose the best. He takes Mallie's hand. Father, commenting on his foolishness "to sell my only daughter in place of a lamb; But since I have said it, then so let it be."
Johnny meets Jeannie and offers her ribbons, rings, a silk mantle, and other fine things, if she'd go away with him. She answers that he can keep his presents; she'd go with him but he should ask her father's goodwishes and tell her what her father says. He asks her father to "grant me a ewe lamb for to raise a new stock." Her father agrees. Johnny goes to Jeannie's chamber "and in spite of a father he's ta'en her away." "Pox be on you, Johnnie, for ye hae me beguiled, Ye sought but ae ewe-lamb, and ye've taken my child; But since I once said it, e'en so let it be."
Greig: "It may be pointed out in passing how persistently editors of Scottish Song treat 'ca' in this and similar phrases as if it were simply the vernacular form of 'call.' It is, however, a quite different word, and means, as every Scotchman knows, 'drive.'"

Whitlaw-Song also has the Burns version (Whitelaw-BookOfScottishSong, pp. 466-467, "Ca' the Yowes"). - BS

Last updated in version 4.3

File: K124

Ythanside

DESCRIPTION: "As I cam in by Ythanside, Where swiftly flows the rolling tide, A fair young maid passed by my side." They go to her home, and talk till very late. Man and girl kiss; he promises to return, at which time she will give him her hand. They marry

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1905 (Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast)

KEYWORDS: love courting marriage

FOUND IN: Britain(Scotland(Aber))

REFERENCES (4 citations):
Greig-FolkSongInBuchan-FolkSongOfTheNorthEast #16, pp. 1-2, "Ythanside"; "Folk-Song in Buchan," pp. 67-68, "Ythanside" (2 texts plus 2 fragments, 1 tune)
Greig/Duncan5 951, "Ythanside" (11 texts plus 3 fragments on p. 596, two of which are from Greig #16; 12 tunes)
Ord-BothySongsAndBallads, pp. 32-34, "Ythanside" (1 text, 1 tune)
DT, BONYTHAN*
Roud #3783

RECORDINGS:
Daisy Chapman, "Ythanside" (on SCDChapman01)

ALTERNATE TITLES:
Bonnie Ythanside

File: 0rd032

Yuba Dam

DESCRIPTION: Conductor asks the singer where he wants to go; he replies "Yuba Dam." Conductor beats him up. His wife scolds him, asks, "Where'd you get that load?" "Yuba Dam!" After more such troubles, he opines that "the town of Yuba Dam has no right on the map"

AUTHOR: William D. Hall (according to Spaeth, _A History of Popular Music in America_, p. 611)

EARLIEST DATE: 1899 (recording, S. H. Dudley); Spaeth lists it as a major composition of 1898

LONG DESCRIPTION: Singer is asked by train conductor where he wants to go, and replies "Yuba Dam." Conductor is upset, and beats him up. When he gets home, his wife scolds him, asks, "Where'd you get that load?" "Yuba Dam!" She slugs him; he flees. He returns the next day, not realizing he has a long blonde hair on his coat; she finds it and he leaves home. She sues for divorce; judge asks him, "What brought this all about?" "Yuba Dam!" he replies, and is jailed for contempt. He opines that "the town of Yuba Dam has no right on the map"

KEYWORDS: jealousy infidelity marriage accusation questions humorous wife judge wordplay

FOUND IN: US(MW)

RECORDINGS:
S. H. Dudley, "Yuba Dam" (Berliner 0466-J, rec. 1899)

CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. I Want to Go to Morrow (subject, such as it is, and general atmosphere)

NOTES [177 words]: I assign the location thanks to Bob Bovee, whose father [uncle, according to the liner notes to Bob's album "The Roundup"] learned the song in Nebraska in the 1920s. After assiduous searching, I had been unable to locate a Yuba Dam, but a more recent Google search suggests that the congressional representative for the South Yuba River area is proposing that one be built.

From the website of Yuba State Park, Utah: "Yuba State Park got its name from the individuals who built the dam [between 1902 and 1917]. Local farmers and ranchers had to build the dam themselves or risk losing their water rights. The men working on the structure called it the U.B. Dam. As they worked they sang a song that stated they were damned if they worked and damned if they didn't. The phonetic sound of the reservoirs name was eventually spelled Yuba." - PJS
Bob recorded this long enough ago that I have it on LP, but after many years of attending Bovee/Heil concerts, I can't recall ever hearing him sing it. (I won't swear to that.) Maybe Yuba Dam is still causing trouble. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.0
File: RcYubaDa

Zaccheus Climbed the Sycamore Tree
DESCRIPTION: "Zaccheus climbed the sycamo' tree, Few days, few days! Zaccheus climbed the sycamo' tree, Few days, get along home. Oh, he's way up yondeh...." "Zaccheus climbed his lord fo' to see."
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1925 (Scarborough)
KEYWORDS: Jesus religious
FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Scarborough-OnTheTrailOfNegroFolkSongs, p. 200, "Zaccheus Climbed the Sycamo' Tree" (1 text); cf. p. 286, "(Zaccheus)" (1 short text)
Finger-FrontierBallads, p. 165, "(no title)" (1 short text)
Roud #8871
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Few Days" (lyrics)
NOTES [80 words]: Zaccheus (more properly transliterated Zakchais; in most modern translations, Zacchaeus) is mentioned in Luke 19:1-10; he was a short tax collector who climbed a sycamore tree to see Jesus. Jesus went on to have dinner with him and declare him saved due to his charity -- a particularly noteworthy statement, given how reviled tax collectors were at the time. This is doubtless inspired at least in part by "Few Days," but it has been adapted enough to list as a separate song. - RBW
Last updated in version 4.0
File: ScNF200A

Zack, the Mormon Engineer
DESCRIPTION: Zack, the Mormon engineer, has a wife in every town along the D&RG, and so refuses to change lines.
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1951 (recording, L. M. Hilton; published 1952)
KEYWORDS: marriage railroading humorous train
FOUND IN: US(Ro)
REFERENCES (4 citations):
Botkin/Harlow-TreasuryOfRailroadFolklore, p. 444, "Zack, the Mormon Engineer" (1 text, 1 tune)
Cohen-AmericanFolkSongsARegionalEncyclopedia2, p. 604, "Bishop Zack, the Mormon Engineer" (1 text)
DT, ZACKMORM*
ADDITIONAL: Tristram P. Coffin and Hennig Cohen, _Folklore in America: Tales, Songs, Superstitions, Proverbs, Riddles, Games, Folk Drama and Folk Festivals_, Doubleday, 1966, p. 88, "Bishop Zack" (1 text)
Roud #4761
RECORDINGS:
L. M. Hilton, "Zack, The Mormon Engineer" (on Hilton01, ClassRR)
Art Thieme, "Zack, The Mormon Engineer" (on Thieme03)
NOTES [26 words]: Said to be based, loosely, on the life of one Zack Black who worked on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad. The tune is loosely based on "Oh, Susanna." - RBW
Last updated in version 3.5
File: BRaF444

Zeb Tourney's Girl [Laws E18]
DESCRIPTION: Dan Kelly thinks often of Zeb Tourney's daughter, even though his family is feuding with hers. Kelly keeps a promise made to his father by killing all the male Tourneys, but then brings home Zeb's daughter, whom he loves.

AUTHOR: Carson J. Robison?

EARLIEST DATE: 1926 (recording, Vernon Dalhart)

KEYWORDS: feud love homicide

FOUND IN: US(Ap,MW,SE,So,SW)

REFERENCES (9 citations):

Laws E18, "Zeb Tourney's Girl"

Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi 108, pp. 247-248, "Zeb Tunney's Girl" (1 text)

Peters-FolkSongsOutOfWisconsin, pp. 197-198, "Shots Echoing 'Round the Mountain" (1 text, 1 tune)

Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl 112, "Don Kelly's Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)

Burt-AmericanMurderBallads, pp. 251-252, "(Zeb Turney's Girl)" (1 text)

Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 31, "Dan Kelly" (1 text, 1 tune)

Botkin-TreasuryOfSouthernFolklore, p. 735, "Zeb Tourney's [Turner's] Girl" (1 text, 1 tune)

DT 681, ZEBTURNY

ST LE18 (Full)

Roud #2249

RECORDINGS:

Arkansas Woodchopper [pseud. for Luther Ossenbrink], "Zeb Turney's Gal" (Champion 16053 [as West Virginia Railsplitter]/Supertone 9570, 1929; Gennett 7095, 1930; Superior 2590 [as James Burke], 1931)

James Burke, "Zeb Turney's Gal" (Superior 2590, 1931)

Vernon Dalhart, "Zeb Turney's Gal" (Domino 5643, 1925; Banner 1671, 1926; Conqueror 7074, 1928) (Broadway 8050, 1925) (Columbia 15049-D [as Al Craver], c. 1926; rec. 1925) (Edison 51656 [as Vernon Dalhart & Co.], 1925) (OKeh 40505, 1926; rec. 1925) (Victor 19867, 1925) (Vocalion 5087/Vocalion 15280, 1926) (Challenge 157/Challenge 316, 1927; rec. 1926)

Bradley Kincaid, "Zeb Turney's Gal" (Bluebird 8410, 1940)

NOTES [277 words]: Warner-TraditionalAmericanFolkSongsFromAnneAndFrankWarnerColl notes that a song of this name was copyrighted in 1925 by Marjorie Lamkin and Maggie Andrews, of which the latter at least is a pseudonym of Carson J. Robison (it was his mother's maiden name). And Laws points out that it sounds "suspiciously unlike a mountaineer's conception of a feud." We note also that no one seems able to list the event upon which it is based. But wait, there's more. Vernon Dalhart recorded this in 1926, and at that time, the name "Dalhart" was worth hundreds of thousands of sales. And at least one of the traditional versions -- Hudson-FolksongsOfMississippi's -- is functionally identical to the Dalhart recording, with the only differences minor verbal variants easily explained as errors of hearing or memory. The other versions are also very similar to each other, implying a recent common source. The almost inevitable conclusion is that this is a song "gone folk": Written by Robison, recorded by Dalhart -- and then picked up by folklorists who didn't bother checking its pedigree.

The one small bit of counter-evidence for this theory is the report of the song in Peters-FolksongsOutOfWisconsin. This was collected from 28-year-old Luther Rice in 1941, who said he had it from his grandmother's manuscript collection. Given that the Dalhart recording was still fairly new in 1941, there isn't much time for the origin of the song to have been forgotten. But the Peters text is almost word-for-word identical with the Dalhart recording, except that "Zeb Tourney" has become "Seth Terney." Despite the story told by Rice, I think it's derived from Dalhart's version.

RBW

Last updated in version 4.3

File: LE18

Zebra Dun, The [Laws B16]

DESCRIPTION: A new man joins the cowboys, and proves expert on many things. The cowboys think he must be a greenhorn, and allow him to take on the wild Zebra Dun. To their surprise, he controls the horse and receives a job. Not all educated people are greenhorns...

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1908
KEYWORDS: cowboy
FOUND IN: US(MA,So,SW) Canada(Mar)
REFERENCES (15 citations):
Laws B16, "The Zebra Dun"
Gray-SongsAndBalladsOfTheMaineLumberjacks, pp. 98-101, "The Zebra Dunn" (1 text)
Larkin-SingingCowboy, pp. 49-52, "Zebra Dun" (1 text, 1 tune)
Randolph 208, "Zebra Dun" (1 text)
Friedman-Viking/PenguinBookOfFolkBallads, p. 427, "Zebra Dun" (1 text)
Thorp/Fife-SongsOfTheCowboys XII, pp.135-147 (27-29), "Educated Feller" (4 texts, 1 tune -- one of which, "Bow-Legged Ike," may be independent or an ancestor); Thorp/Logsdon-SongsOfTheCowboys, pp. 171-174, "The Zebra Dun" (1 text)
Fife/Fife-CowboyAndWesternSongs 71, "The Educated Feller (Zebra Dun)" (2 text, 1 tune plus a tune reference)
Ohrlin-HellBoundTrain 22, "Zebra Dun" (1 text, 1 tune)
Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging 12, pp. 77-85, "Old Zebra Dun" (1 text, 1 tune)
Tinsley-HeWasSinginThisSong, pp. 134-138, "The Zebra Dun" (1 text, 1 tune)
Leach-HeritageBookOfBallads, pp. 166-168, "Zebra Dun" (1 text)
Silber/Silber-FolksingersWordbook, p. 107, "The Zebra Dun" (1 text)
DT 383, ZEBRADUN*
ADDITIONAL: John I. White, _Git Along, Little Dogies: Songs and Songmakers of the American West_, 1975 (page references are to the 1989 University of Illinois Press edition), pp. 148-152, "The Zebra Dun" (1 text, 1 tune, plus various excerpts and a history of the song)
Hal Cannon, editor, _Cowboy Poetry: A Gathering_, Giles M. Smith, 1985, pp. 8-10, "The Zebra Dun" (1 text)
Roud #3237
RECORDINGS:
Jules [Verne] Allen, "Zebra Dun" (Victor V-40022, c. 1928; Montgomery Ward M-4464, 1934; on AuthCowboys)
Tex Fletcher, "The Zebra Dun" (Decca 5302, 1936)
Harry Jackson, "Zebra Dun" (on HJackson1)
Glenn Ohrlin, "Zebra Dun" (on Ohrlin01)
J. M. Waddell, "The Zebra Dun" (AFS, 1940s; on LC28)
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "I've Busted Broncs" (theme: the un-ridable horse)
cf. "Preacher Dunn" (theme: the un-ridable horse)
cf. "Cowboys Victimized" (theme: the un-ridable horse)
cf. "Buckskin Joe" (theme of a tenderfoot who knows what he is doing)
NOTES [184 words]: Larkin-SingingCowboy states, without evidence though it's a reasonable conjecture, that the horse in this piece was a dun with the Z bar brand, with the "Z bar dun" wearing down to the "Zebra dun." Her other conjecture, that the singer may have been an Englishman who learned to ride while hunting fox, seems much less likely.
Logsdon-WhorehouseBellsWereRinging (who mentions Larkin's suggestion) notes that her explanation arises because, while "dun" is a recognized description of a horse's hide, "zebra" isn't. But he observes that a "zebra dun" would be a dun with stripes.
White, however, spoke with many cattle hands, and reports that there were genuine "zebra dun" horses. Some reported that the animals were so ornery that they were suspected of having mule blood. (Don't ask me to explain that part...) But they were also reported to be tough and long-lived.
One of Logsdon's texts, interestingly, was sung to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic"/"John Brown's Body," though there is no chorus and some of his lines must have taken some quick tongue-work to sing to the Battle Hymn. - RBW
Last updated in version 5.3
File: LB16

Zek'l Weep

DESCRIPTION: "Zek'l weep, Zek'l moan, Flesh come a-creepin' off o' Zek'l bones... I know you goin' to miss me when I'm gone." "Star in the east, star in the west, Wish that star was on my breast" "Hush little baby don't you cry, Know that your mother was born to die"
AUTHOR: unknown
Zintie Tintie Tetherie Metherrie

DESCRIPTION: "Zintie tintie tethere meterie, Bamferie oorie over dover Dicky dell on tan toosh"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1875 (Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren)

KEYWORDS: playparty

FOUND IN: New Zealand

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Sutton-Smith-NZ-GamesOfNewZealandChildren/FolkgamesOfChildren, p. 91, "(Zintie tintie tethere metherie)"

Roud #20694

NOTES [27 words]: I have tentatively assigned this New Zealand game the same Roud number as "Tootie tinty henery memory," but since they're both fragments, it's only a guess. - RBW

Last updated in version 4.4

File: SuSm091B

---

Zion Road Too Long

DESCRIPTION: "Zion Road too long." (2x) "Too long, too long, Zion Road too long"

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1960 (Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville)

KEYWORDS: nonballad religious

FOUND IN: West Indies(Tobago)

REFERENCES (1 citation):
Elder-FolkSongAndFolkLifeInCharlotteville, p. 50, "Zion Road Too Long" (1 short text, 1 tune)

NOTES [11 words]: The current description is all of the Elder-Charlottville text. - BS

Last updated in version 4.0

File: ElCh050B

---

Zion Weep Low

DESCRIPTION: Chorus: "Zion weep low (x3), Then Hallelujah to the Lamb." Verses: An angel gives the singer victory palms and a golden crown. Zion weeps for sinners hunted by Satan. The singer tells "what a dolesome road" you go to reach heaven.

AUTHOR: unknown

EARLIEST DATE: 1874 (Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute)

KEYWORDS: Bible nonballad religious Jesus

FOUND IN: US(SE)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute, pp. 196-197, "Zion, Weep a-Low" (1 text, 1 tune; pp. 232-233 in the 1874 edition)
Roud #15233

NOTES [51 words]: The Biblical reference is John 1:29: John the Baptist sees Jesus coming and says, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world" (King James). In Dett/Fenner/Rathbun/Cleveland-ReligiousFolkSongsOfTheNegro-HamptonInstitute's verses every alternate line is "Then Hallelujah to the Lamb." - BS

File: Dett196

Zion's Sons and Daughters

DESCRIPTION: "See the fountain opened wide That from sinning frees us, Flowing from the wounded side Of our Immanuel Jesus." Those who thirst are called; Jesus gives freely to the dying; the woman at the well is given a warming drink; the thief forgiven

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1931 (Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands)
KEYWORDS: religious nonballad
FOUND IN: US(Ap)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands, pp. 214-215, "Zion's Sons and Daughters" (1 text)
ST Fus214 (Partial)
Roud #16373
CROSS-REFERENCES:
cf. "Boundless Mercy (Drooping Souls, No Longer Grieve)"

NOTES [76 words]: I strongly suspect that this is a version of "Boundless Mercy (Drooping Souls, No Longer Grieve)," but the key lines are missing, and Fuson-BalladsOfTheKentuckyHighlands doesn't give tunes, so I have to classify it separately.
The story of the woman of Samaria and the well, in which Jesus promises "living water," is in John 4, though there are hints of the theme elsewhere.
The "thief... [who] fled to glory" is, I think, an allusion to Luke 23:39-43. - RBW

File: Fus214

Zoological Gardens, The

DESCRIPTION: "Oh, thunder and lightning it's no lark When Dublin city is in the dark. If you've any money go up to the Park and view the Zoological gardens." The singer describes the odd behavior of the animals, often with a sexual subtext

AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1973 (Behan-IrelandSings)
KEYWORDS: wordplay animal travel sex
FOUND IN:
REFERENCES (2 citations):
Behan-IrelandSings, #100, "The Zoological Gardens" (1 text, 1 tune, modified)
ADDITIONAL: Frank Harte _Songs of Dublin_, second edition, Ossian, 1993, pp. 66-67, "Zoological Gardens" (1 text, 1 tune)

NOTES [171 words]: According to Soodlum's Irish Ballad Book, the Dublin Zoological Gardens are in Phoenix Park, and the song dates back to the nineteenth century. I rather doubt this; the reference in the first verse to Dublin being in the dark, which occurs in the Behan-IrelandSings, Soodlum's Irish Ballad Book [1982], and Harte texts, sounds like it refers to a World War I blackout. Robert Gogan, 130 Great Irish Ballads (third edition, Music Ireland, 2004), p. 84, has a version almost identical to Soodlum's but with a few minor variations. He explains the word "mot," which is frequent in his version, as being Dublin slang for "girlfriend." He also notes that the zoo dates back to 1830.

Is the song traditional? I know of no field collections -- but the Soodlum's and Harte texts differ significantly, and Harte says there are other variants he didn't record. This might just be Dominic Behan's tendency to fiddle, but it is possible the song does have some traditional life, though perhaps only on college campuses or such. - RBW

Last updated in version 3.2
Zula
DESCRIPTION: "Thou lov'st another, Zula, Thou lovest him alone. Thine eyes confess it, Zula...."
The singer asks if the other man will love Zula as well as he himself does. He bids her farewell, asks her to remember him, and hints she will regret her choice
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1952 (Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric)
KEYWORDS: love rejection separation travel
FOUND IN: US(So)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Browne-AlabamaFolkLyric 49, "Zula" (1 text, 1 tune)
Roud #11330
File: Brne049

Zutula Dead
DESCRIPTION: A nice girl gave Zutula bitter casava to eat and he died
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1939 (WITrinidadVillage01)
KEYWORDS: death poison food
FOUND IN: West Indies(Trinidad)
RECORDINGS:
Allan Lovelace, Henry Williams and George Roberts, "Zutula Dead" (on WITrinidadVillage01)
NOTES [41 words]: Liner notes: "Bitter casava, unlike the virtually identical sweet casava tuber ...., must have the poisonous juice removed before being eaten" (Donald R. Hill, Maureeen Warner-Lewis, John Cowley, Lise Winer, liner notes on WITrinidadVillage01). - BS
Last updated in version 5.2
File: RcALZuDe

Zwei Soldaten, Die
DESCRIPTION: German. "Es war einmal zwei Bauersohn, Die hatten lust in feld zu ziehn." Two brothers go to war, then come home with money. They ask to stay at the inn. The wife suggests they kill one of them. They learn it is their son. The inkeepers commit suicide
AUTHOR: unknown
EARLIEST DATE: 1923 (Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra); reportedly from the seventeenth century
KEYWORDS: foreignlanguage soldier food homicide suicide husband wife children
FOUND IN: US(MW)
REFERENCES (1 citation):
Rickaby/Dykstra/Leary-PineryBoys-SongsSongcatchingInLumberjackEra 56, "Die Zwei Soldaten" (1 text plus literal English translation, 1 tune)
File: RDL056